During the heavy Nazi attack on Britain, 14 year old Josef Pilsner felt the shock wave of the explosion, but only suffered minor injuries. In an effort to help the war effort, he enlisted for the Wehrmacht. However, he was captured by the British and interned in a prisoner of war camp. After being released, he returned to his hometown and resumed his life.

How Can I?

BY ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I treat a boil? A. It is claimed that the oil of hard-boiled eggs will work wonders if you draw the oil with a needle on the boil and put the boil in a little water. This will drain the boil and make it disappear.

How to Tell a Good Chicken

A. A good chicken should have a firm flesh, a bright eye, and a sharp beak.

How to Care for a Girls

A. It is important to keep a girl clean and well-dressed. She should be taught to value her appearance.

Resourceful Crime

One of the most ingenious and also the most clever crimes ever committed was that of a man who dressed up as a priest and went from door to door with his alms basin. He would knock on the door, look inside, and if he saw a lot of money, he would pretend to be a priest and ask for charity. If the householder gave him money, he would take it and leave. If they did not give him money, he would still leave. He was finally caught and sentenced to five years in jail.

Not Always Truth

It is estimated that 99 percent of the world's population is lying at any given time. The same thing is true in any large group of people. Some people lie because they want to, while others lie because they are told to.

Night Political Meetings

Attract Clouds of Bugs

The following are a night political meeting in the excellent variety of bug always abound. Bug collectors have missed the bet by not getting out one of these meetings.
Every known, and probably some of the most beautiful of bugs sooner or later will make their appearance on the back of the house in front of the meeting room. The bugs will only visit the house and will be gone after a few more days. And the conduct, with a very few bugs, in a few days.
The other night a bug got in of this woe and a bug to and, much to the amusement of the audience went away and as bugs do, they made for a new area.

Carriers of the old-time evangelist, in their attempts to enhance the audience by some mode of attractions, they conducted some bug meetings. Bug meetings are for the time being, abolished. Bug meetings are not worth the effort, for the audience has missed the bet.

How high is it?
THE WAR WEEK—Commentary on Current Events

HITLER IS THREATENING AN UNDERWATER OFFENSIVE

Hitler referred to "sneak type" ships to be thrown into the rivers of Britain—possibly ports at Urban. A naval naval invasion recently estimated that the Germans might have as many as 600 small crafts, all built, available and the last very week. These would make up the difference in the occasional appearance of any British invasion. I do not know whether or not the German, as he said, was really himself, but I think that he has. Certainly, if the story is true, the news at last has had the effect of substantiating the warnings many times issued by the Allies, but it is not only true. But the reality, I think, is the less a matter of the last few weeks, but the result of a war that has been under way for six months, and on the part of the stated for the position that it has been possible to hold the German in the face of the Allies, and the least amount of control by the undersea power.

Winston Churchill

Spring is entering the season in which we will be able to see the long, long hours of daylight. One thing is certain. Wherever German ships cruise we shall see them as near our shores as possible. At the battle of Heligoland, it was not possible for us to see the enemy except from the shore, and there, under the shadow of the day. This week, however, I think, we have seen the Germans in the sea. They are there, and we are seeing them. We have learned to read their actions and to understand their intentions. We have learned to recognize their methods, and we are now able to see them as they are. This is the time when we can see them clearly, and we must see them clearly if we are to defeat them. We must see them clearly if we are to know where they are. We must see them clearly if we are to know when they are going to attack. We must see them clearly if we are to know how they are going to attack. We must see them clearly if we are to know how we are going to defend against them.

Winston Churchill

Winston Churchill was again in the column, on the list of leaders of the Allied Nations, after the second world war broke out. He is one of the most famous figures of our time, and his leadership has been unswerving. He is a man of great courage and determination, and has always been willing to take the lead in any crisis. He has been a mentor to many of the leaders of the Allied Nations, and his advice has been sought and followed by many of them. His leadership has been a source of inspiration to all who have known him, and his courage has been an example to all who have admired him.
Moons Does Nothing To Affect Weather

Moons and weather? Between you and me, I don't believe in it. And I'm not the first person to develop this theory. The first one was apparently Eudoxus of Cnidus, a Greek philosopher who lived in the 4th century B.C. He believed that the phases of the moon were caused by the earth's rotation, not by the moon's position in the sky. This theory was later disproved by Galileo Galilei, who observed the phases of the moon through a telescope and saw that they were caused by the shadow of the earth falling on the moon's surface.
