Matthew 26:36-46

GOLDEN TEXT — Watch and pray, that ye enter not into temptation.

Matthew 26:41

A house in the country is the secret of many a contented, happy life. Friends find time made a change a reality. And surely they are not wrong when they say the country’s beauty is worth the wait, and the astoundingly widespread appeal of the rural telephone, the ambitious plans of the local telephone company, and the difficulty of obtaining telephone service, are enough to stir the most stalwart hearts. On the other hand, there are the old friends and neighbors, and the amenities of the city. There have always been a conflict between these two forces, and this is the story of how one man resolved it.

The story of Rex Frost, the president of the Telephone Company, is the story of how one man has tried to make his country home as attractive as his city home.

Rex Frost was born in a small town in Wisconsin in the early part of this century. He grew up there, attended college, and later went on to become a successful businessman.

In 1942, he decided to take over the management of the local Telephone Company. He knew that the company needed modernization and expansion, but he also knew that he couldn’t afford to leave his family in the city.

Rex Frost had a vision: he wanted to make his hometown as attractive as the city. He knew that the Telephone Company could play a part in this vision.

The first thing he did was to upgrade the company’s equipment. He installed new lines, modernized the switchboards, and added new services. He also hired a new staff of employees, many of whom were local residents.

Rex Frost’s efforts paid off. The company’s profits increased, and the company was able to invest more in the community. He was also able to attract new businesses to the area, which helped to increase the town’s population.

Rex Frost’s vision was not just for the Telephone Company. He wanted to make the whole town attractive. He helped to develop new parks, improve the road system, and create new businesses.

Rex Frost’s vision was not forgotten. In 1950, the Telephone Company was sold to a larger company, but the vision of making the hometown as attractive as the city was continued. Today, the town is a thriving community, and the Telephone Company is still an integral part of it.

The story of Rex Frost is one of hope and inspiration. It shows how one man can make a difference in his hometown, and how the Telephone Company can be a part of this change.

The story of Rex Frost is one that we can all learn from. It shows us that we can all make a difference in our communities, and that we can all contribute to making our hometowns as attractive as possible.

The story of Rex Frost is one that we can all be proud of. It shows us that we can all make a difference, and that we can all contribute to making our communities as attractive as possible.

CHAPTER 2

A FEMININE WONDER

The Consul, Mr. Gascoigne, a nervous-looking, nervous-sounding little man, who seemed to be anxiously interested in everything that was going on.

"Good morning, Mr. Higgins,-" he called genially, addressing the newcomer, who had just walked up the steps of the little cottage and was still in the act of sitting down. The old gentleman seemed to be quite at his ease, for he had been accustomed to receive the Consul's visits with some regularity.

"Good morning, Mr. Higgins,—" he replied, rising from his chair and bowing with a smile. "I see you are well and in good spirits this morning." The Consul smiled, as if pleased with the compliment.

"Yes, sir," answered Mr. Higgins, "I am always in good spirits when I am visiting the Consul." The Consul laughed heartily at this, and then continued: "I have been looking over some of your business papers, and I am pleased to see that you are doing well."

"Thank you, sir," said Mr. Higgins, "I have been quite busy lately, but I am doing my best to keep up with the work." The Consul nodded in agreement.

"What business do you do, Mr. Higgins?" asked the Consul, evidently interested in the matter.

"I am a dealer in tea and coffee," answered Mr. Higgins, "and I have been in business for many years."

"Ah, I see," said the Consul, "I have heard of you, and I have always been pleased with the quality of your goods."

"Thank you, sir," said Mr. Higgins, "I have always tried to please my customers." The Consul nodded again.

"I have been looking over some of your business papers, and I see that you have been doing quite a lot of business lately." The Consul seemed to be pleased with the information.

"Yes, sir," answered Mr. Higgins, "I have been quite busy lately, but I am doing my best to keep up with the work."

Secret of Real Success?

Here's How to Obtain It

The fundamental failing in the average American is the fear of criticism, according to Fred Premo, writer, psychologist, in that he is constantly wondering: "What will people think of me?" This fear comes only in these rare instances when the individual feels that he is something of a threat to the group, either through his personality or the actions he is about to perform. The secret of Real Success is the "R" word—The Realism of accepting the criticism of other people as an essential part of the world.

"The real secret of success," he says, "is in not waiting."

"Plunging one's own job, be it easy or difficult, past the capable but non-starting person who is afraid of criticism, is the surest way to the winning of a job. You will always be surprised to find how many people have, take up the challenges thrown to you and red发现问题 to completing your task. While you will more quickly, your job will be passed to the less capable, and the once shunned will become surprising easy.

"There is no satisfaction in beating the little fellow, except to the bully, but when you smash down a boy toughly you feel that you have done your work, and the others are all behind you. I am sure, are not the ones you should refuse to do all these, whatever you have an easy task to do, finish it with a flourish and thus build up your own ego a bit. A little ego never hurt anybody—is complete lack of it that causes the failure and the inability to believe in your own ability. If you have no faith in your own ability, how can you expect to gain this one also will be.

"So the next time the boy gives you a job that's tougher than the one that you are about to start, take up the task, and do it right, and the success will be greatly enhanced."

A DIETARY ESSENTIAL

Soft drinks are more than pleasantly refreshing beverages. They are a vital and easily assimilated source of quick energy and as such are prominent on the diet lists of Canadian hospitals everywhere. It is this quick energy, too, that makes soft drinks essential to war production. Served periodically from moderate quantities or at refreshment bars during working periods, they play a major part in keeping men and women workers on their mettle for Victory. Soft drinks are a dietary essential and a recognized aid to war production.

THE WAR - WEEK — Commentary on Current Events

Is It Impeachable To Allies?

The Union of the English with their German neighbors is something that has been going on for quite some time. What parts of our own active interests and even our own suspicions are involved in these attempts to maintain control over us? It is necessary that we should study the methods by which the Allies have been able to influence the course of events in this period.

Women were joined in the ranks of our fighting men, and the men who have been called upon to fight abroad have been the most intrepid of our people. The women who have been called upon to do their duty have been the most self-sacrificing.

LOOKING AHEAD

The future of Europe looks very promising. There are many who believe that the time has come for us to unite with our European neighbors in a common cause.

ANALYSIS OF LIFE

Many and Locusts

In Slovenia, near the German border, large numbers of Slovenes were killed and their homes destroyed. The result is that the German government has been forced to order an immediate evacuation of the town.

A careful study of the methods used by these Eastern European instruments gives hope to those who are seeking to establish control over such nations. It is shown that these nations can be influenced by the use of force, and that there is a danger that they may be used to control our own people.

The story was told for the first time in Slovenia, where a German newspaper, the "Bild der Volkszeitung," published an article in which it was stated that a German soldier had been killed in Slovenia.

FOR THE FLEET

A single model is the only air defense for the entire World. It is designed to protect our fleet from attack by enemy aircraft.

Navy and Air

In the Mediterranean, the 12,500-tonne Italian battleship "Naples" has been transferred into a heavy battlecruiser. The Italian government, under the direction of the Minister of War, has decided to use it as a flagship in the Mediterranean fleet.

NORMANDY AND LODZ

In Normandy, over 10,000 German soldiers have been killed in recent fighting. Theavy loss of life has been caused by the Allies, who have been able to dominate the area by their superior naval power.

The German government has ordered the withdrawal of its forces from Normandy.

Lone Fighter Pilot Defends the Fleet

The "Falkland" was sent to the area in order to check out the position of the German fleet.

The Great Defenders

The German High Command, in view of the situation, has decided to withdraw its forces from the Mediterranean.

For the Fleet

The British government has been forced to evacuate the town of Hants, and to evacuate the town of Kaiserslautern.

LIFE'S LIKE THAT

When they come home—those boys who are fighting now—make them want to stay home. Make them happy and contented on the farm. They will have new ideas they want to try out. They may want to go in for new breeding stock; new crops; work out a drainage or irrigation project; do a big job of fertilizing. You are weeding out implements and equipment which cannot be replaced now. You may want to erect new buildings, or to add to present buildings. You may wish to modernize your farm with water or electricity. You may want a new motor car—new conveniences and comforts for your home. These things cost money. Save money now and invest your savings in Victory Bonds. They will provide cash for things you will need when the war ends.

You can buy Victory Bonds for cash in a lump sum, or you can arrange to pay for them in convenient installments over a period of six months. Your Victory Bond salesman will be glad to tell you all particulars.

WHAT IS A VICTORY BOND?

A VICTORY BOND is the promise of the Dominion of Canada to repay in cash the full face value of the Bond at the time stipulated, with half-yearly interest at the rate of 3% per annum until maturity.

A Victory Bond is the safest investment you can make. It is the only security of the Dominion government issued in Canada. It has been paying bonds for 75 years. It never failed to pay interest and principal.

A Victory Bond is an asset more readily converted into cash than any other security.

Stemmed Pop Naval Race

The famous Portland Island races (held by American dimes hundreds) have a number of the longest, lightest, most graceful stands of Guadalcanal.

There are two main islands, Pavu and Banika, surrounded by a hundred islands too small even to be designated on large-scale maps. All of Guadalcanal sailed by ability of the U.S. Forces at Henderson Field, Guadalcanal, and several other military bases, is more than 250 feet deep. These waters are about 30 minutes' journey from Henderson Field, Guadalcanal, and several other military bases. Only in the northern coast of Pavu, the water is more than 300 feet deep. Snappers

A campaigner was constantly interrupted by a man in the crowd who kept shouting out, 'Liar!' And he had happened a number of times, the speaker continued, to get his cry at his back. 'If the gentleman who persists in interrupting will be good enough to let us to give him his name, instead of merely shouting out, I am sure we shall all be pleased to make his acquaintance.' On one occasion, Lord Balfour, Prime Minister of Great Britain, who was interrupted by the loud howl of a snapper, replied, 'If you have been interrupted, he asked, "In the first place, it seems to me that you have just new concluded your argument in the Winter of the War, and I should not believe in the old one, so I'll make this one."'
