Shawville considering Chamber of Commerce

Keith Deacon
Publisher

"We need an association that will promote the entire Pontiac, and not just a small area," said Shawville carpenter and townspeople to meet regularly to try to revitalize the business community.

The Canadian Tire chain was de- cided by company executives. Appar- ently, the Corporation is moving to wards bigger stores that provide more products, and the Shawville store, al- though profitable, does not meet the company's criteria.

An active horizontal committee met twice last week to pool ideas and move forward in the creation of a Pontiac-wide Chamber of Commerce.

The committee plans to launch an advertising campaign and hold special events to promote local businesses.

Municipal involvement

It was proposed at the July 21 meeting that Shawville Municipalities assign one of its municipal secretaries to act as the newly-formed committee in establishing a Chamber of Com- mence branch in Shawville.

The secretary would act as the re- porting secretary at all meetings, mo- tivate and encourage local businesses to become members.

The Shawville store will play, if sufficient time is available for preparation, over the long weekend, Aug. 1 and 2.

"The entire production was put on by the younger fiddlers," said Musician Joe Teevens of Bethel, "and tickets were sold out to the point that I had to increase the price."

"The audience would not at full occupancy because of dams and rapids."

The MRC has two regular work­ days per week and does not work for each of the five sites. Two of the three workers are on call all the time. It is hoped the Waterway will, in the long run, create economic spon­ sorship to communities along the system."

"Nobody is trying to be a profit maker right off the bat," said Bar­ franeau says.

wish to invite family and friends to help them celebrate their 25th Wedding Anniversary

Saturday, July 26, 1997

9:00 pm

Wilson presented Rock with a limited print drawing of the horse.

The painting was a gift for the Wilsons' 50th Wedding Anniversary, presented to Wilson by the city of London, Ontario.

Wall says the length of his walk represents his measurable goal. His unmeasurable goal was to touch people with the message of diabetes awareness.

"I don't know how many people I met, but I hope the message got out to a few of them."

Nancy walked beside her husband on a couple of the legs of the trip. They hope their marathon can alert Canadians to the dangers of undiagnosed diabetes and the importance of early detection.

Wilson is due to begin his trek on Saturday, July 26, 1997 - Planning lodge, Bristol, Que.

"If I'm fit, I'll be there," he promised.

The whole idea was to get people to take notice. Wall says.

"You look at work after using his holidays for this trick. Wilson is considering another event for next year to spread the message even further."

GATEWAY TO PONTIAC: The MRC has installed 60 of these gates on the Pontiac Trail (old CPR right-of-way) to block cars and trucks from gaining access to Pontiac's Regional Park. At a total cost of $30,000, the gates allow smaller vehicles, like bicycles and ATVs, to pass unhindered, while restricting larger vehicles that may pose a danger to Trail users.
Eighth Pride better than ever

The Pontiac Line

Move It on over: George Lafleur (left) and Scott Gauthier (with Yvon Mafjfs Church to perform. All of these facilities are still a big overhead in running a show of this scale. "I'd like to see it continue, and well-run. The facilities could have easily accommodated an extra 500 people," MacKechme adds.

SHOW-STOPPER: Christianne Thibault's singing more than made up for the lack of a band.

In Fine Voice: Denny Welbum (left), along with Leo Ladouceur (bass) and Robbie Beaudoin (drums), backed up singer Sharon Presley Saturday night at the Pontiac Pride.

Police briefs

Police investigations for Tuesday, July 15 - one accident with injuries in Masten. One accident with material damages in Fort-Coulonge.

Wednesday, July 16 - one theft in Fort-Coulonge, one accident with material damages in Calumet Island.

Thursday, July 17 - one theft in Rapidie-des-Joachims.

In recent years attendance has fallen off a bit, making the Pride fewer of a money-maker, even if it continues to be an excellent showcase for local talent and a good time for all who attend.

MacKechme says the weekend was very orderly and well-run. The facility could have easily accommodated an extra 500 people, he figures. "The Pride has the greatest local content of any long-running show in the area. MacKechme points out.

"I'd like to see it continue in its main benefactor be the community."

The committee opened the Pride less of a money-maker. The Lions can be mailed to Box 50, Shawville, 1997, include the following: Friday, July 18 - one accident with material damages in Fort-Coulonge and one in Camp-des-Joachims.

After the weekend was over, the Dondyliners, a seniors' dance group from Orillia entertained the crowd on Saturday afternoon.
Shell out for separation

If you think Quebecers have suffered enough from the never-ending squabble over separation, think again. In the coming months - long before the next referendum - Quebecers will pay dearly to subsidize the Quebecois in its efforts to prove that Canada does not work. In the bargain, the PQ will also have proven that it is unable to govern a province in a fair and efficient manner.

In an effort to streamline its operations and eliminate its deficit by the next millennium, the PQ government intends to hand over many of its duties to municipalities. Municipalities will be asked to raise an additional $500 million in taxes. While this measure is expected to create several new responsibilities like school transport, it will also require a new budget, leaving Quebec's municipalities additional duties.

A key to its sustainable development and its ability to function is the mobilization of its residents. From its early days, Quebec has been a land of pioneers and leaders. The PQ government intends to transform Quebec into a model of management by encouraging its citizens to work together.

Many of the PQ's initiatives will focus on the development of its economy. While the province has traditionally relied on its forestry industry, the PQ government plans to diversify the economy. This effort will include the development of new industries and the promotion of existing ones, such as tourism and high-tech.

Kuehl Memorial Tournament raises $1,500 for Heart Institute

The Golf Course, with the 9th participants gathering at the Kuehl’s Bar in Shawville after the tournament.

Heart Institute.

The donation of $1,500 was made at the sixth annual July Kuehl Tournament.

The annual event has been noted in honor of Kuehl, a well-known and beloved member and past president of the Shawville community who died from a heart attack seven years ago while engaged in his favorite pastime playing golf.

Dr. Ken drew down from his cottage near his home in the township of Shawville to acknowledge the donation to the Heart Institute.

One of the Doctor’s success stories – a living breathing example of his handwork – was also on hand to chat with the man who saved his life. Royal Richardson of Shawville received a boat named in April of this year. He now reports he is feeling great, and is within five pounds of his original weight.

This is the second year since his operation that Richardson has participated in the Kuehl Memorial Tournament.

Six sisters celebrate half-century

Les sœurs de St-Joseph célèbrent leur jubilé de cinquante ans. À l'occasion des célébrations, une journée spéciale a été organisée pour souligner l'anniversaire de la fondation de l'ordre à Québec.

Le dimanche 27 juillet, une messe a été célébrée à l'église du Parc. Les sœurs ont été accueillies par un orchestre et une chorale. Une foule importante a participé à la célébration, y compris des invités spécialisés dans les domaines de la santé et de l'éducation.

Le répit émotion de la messe a été suivi d'un déjeuner où les sœurs ont partagé des souvenirs et des récits de leur vie depuis leur installation à Québec.

La journée a été un événement mémorable pour les sœurs de St-Joseph et pour leurs proches et amis qui les ont soutenues tout au long de leur carrière.
