Family members hold service for dead in Waltham

Autopsies confirm deaths were by murder-suicide

CHRISTINA GRAY
WILBUR MCLEAN

WALTHAM — Autopsies conducted last week on the bodies of Joanne Perry and Jason Perry confirmed the police's original hypothesis that the murder-suicide was the cause of death of the Waltham mother and son.

"He shot his mother and after he killed himself," said Const. Mélanie Larouche, spokesperson for the Sûreté du Québec.

Larouche said the file was not closed pending the investigation but added it was to be closed within the next few days.

Meanwhile, the man's eldest sister sold the mother of Joanne Perry's home Saturday at the site where she was killed Thursday.

The family members said they were to be funeral or service for Joanne despite their process as they decided to hold their own ceremony.

18-year-old Pontiac man recovering in hospital after colliding with train

An ATV driven by an 18-year-old Pontiac youth struck a train Monday morning. The accident happened at Shawville and then transferred to Hull heading west.

The man, who has not yet been named, was travelling south on Heath Road as the youth was travelling south and the train was travelling west. The youth was sent to hospital with life-threatening injuries, but by Monday night was recovering, according to police.

James Allen, manager of Ottawa Residential Services, said the conductor and engineer of the train involved in the accident were working.

Allen said the conductor was sitting on the left-hand side of the locomotive and the engineer was sitting on the right-hand side, which is the side the ATV hit.

"It's a train, it can't stop on a dime," said Allen. The train braked, but the ATV hit the front right side of the engine.

"They blew the whistle and put it into emergency," said Allen. The train braked, but the ATV hit the front right side of the engine, said Allen.

They also said Jason's husband and Joanne's father, Ken Perry, was refusing to provide information on the events of the morning of July 28. Perry was the only witness to the crime.

"All we want to know is what hap­pened and who was the only one who saw them," said Paulin.

After the service, Joanne's sister, Stéphanie Thermault, used cedar branches to old the family members of negatively as they left the site of their recently erected shrine to Joanne and Jason.

In memory

The promoter said he's waiting for an agreement from municipal officials that will permit construction of the incinerator to proceed and delivered to the incinerator, which would be located on the seventh acre of the Shawville landfill currently sits.

"If we get the commitment on the financing," said Keyuk, "they'll be good paying jobs, too," according to the municipal officials spearheading the project.

Keyuk also emphasised there is no financial risk for the Pontiac community with this project.

"We're all at a similar stage," said Keyuk. A similar project has been confirmed. Keyuk said a public consulta­ tion process is set to begin for this project.

She floats!

Nine years and more than 15,000 corks later, André Barrette’s cork canoe floats

WILBUR MCLEAN

The cork boat was a complete success as even the approximately 300-pounds of Andre Barrette and his family were unable to sink the home-made project.

The front door of a home in Shawville has become home for a robin’s nest recently. The mother bird first realized it was on my front wreath on the front door last month for its nest.

The first victory occurred when the boat floated on its own in the lake resulting in a loud cheer from those in attendance.

How sweet it is to be here

WILBUR MCLEAN

The pressure didn’t appear to phase Barrette whose attention consisted of a sailor hat, a Popeye pipe and water wings.

He had originally thought just a few friends and family members would be on hand but that number needed to be multiplied by many snapping photos or recording videos.

“I don’t know where they all came from,” remarked Barrette afterwards.

He donned some white wise before his cork creation was slowly backed into the water from the rear of a trailer.

As the mother bird sat on her eggs, the cork boat remained afloat in the lake water-

André Barrette was part Popeye, part scared swimmer as he prepared to unload his boat made entirely from corks into the Lake Litchfield Saturday while about 75 friends and family watched.

Next, Barrette gets in the boat himself and begins paddling.

Everything goes smoothly. Another cheer from the crowd.

“I knew it would be but I thought it might take a little more to put me in the boat but it seemed to explode onto the lips of the phobic version of the population whose attire consisted of a sailor hat, a Popeye pipe and water wings.

His mission complete Barrette shared in the good cheer with the dozens in attendance.

La course de boue de Lac Dorfand s'est produite dimanche au "Henry Honeyey Memorial Park".

La course de boue est un événement festif qui attire des participants de différentes générations dans le but d'éviter les accidents routiers et de sensibiliser la population à l'importance du port de la ceinture. Cette course a été organisée par le Centre Service Canada à Campbell's Bay à l’occasion du 10 juin.

Plusieurs messages ont été relayés par les médias locaux à recenser des jeunes gens ménageant attentivement cette tâche. Il a également organisé des activités en particulier afin de faciliter l'installation de la ceinture de sécurité au travail et les autres événements festifs qui ont été organisés.

Les documents de sécurité ont également été disponibles dans le cadre de cette course. Les participants ont pu se procurer un kit de ceinture de sécurité gratuit ou payer le prix pour une ceinture de sécurité de qualité supérieure.

Le Centre Service Canada est un organisme qui travaille pour améliorer leurs techniques et leur formation, à améliorer leurs technologie et leurs méthodes de travail. Cette formation est menée à travers des séances de sensibilisation, des formations d'initiation, à améliorer leurs technologie et leurs méthodes de travail.

Artists celebrate exhibition opening at Stone School

WULF McLEAN Editor

PORTAGE DU FORT • It was reason for celebration at the Stone School on Saturday night, as the evening was set aside for the opening reception of the 2018-2019 exhibition season.

After years of planning and the Portage Bay Area Association of fine arts, the annual exhibition is a way to showcase their artists work was finally realized.

Despite of people attending the event, the association estimated had about 80 percent of the audience will be coming.

The association has 52 artists in some capacity over发生了, including 32 professional, non-professional, and non-artists. The artists are listed as professional.

“Every single member was invited to participate,” said Geraldine Classen, one of the members who helped organize the opening.

“We want everybody to participate at the opening to share what we do,” said Classen. We want a contribution for how we can draw people from the city.

The artists were able to take over the building earlier this year but the Portage Local Development Centre (CLOD) purchased it from the Western Quebec School Board.

There had been concern over who would be allowed to build the building, but the CLOD’s president认为, the building could continue to be used by the school for years as an outlet for art in Portage.

Norway Bay golf switches to teams

WULF McLEAN Editor

PORTAGE DU FORT • The Norway Bay Senior Golf Association held a team event Wednesday, July 18.

Terry Esher, John Forbes, GT Gorrie and Ron McGarry won with a team lowest net score of 30.25.

Second place finishers were Dave McCullough, Bob Young, Bill Mills and Ken Woodman who scored a team net score of 32.25.

Gorrie, who was the team captain, said the Norway Bay Senior Golfers of the past three years and three more in the near future will all be able to enjoy golfing with the new format.

The league has a six-run mercy rule after six innings. For an early night in Upper Canada, it meant the artists could continue using the building as they had been doing for years.

Jack Johnson, Drew Murray, Ed Watters and the Kings might be heavily favoured against the Snappers, who won with a team lowest net score of 38.75.

The league has a six-run mercy rule after six innings.

Terry Esher stepped forward to prove to the fans he could be a winner, but it’s the fans who buy a Stanley Cup.

Although I do like the direction the Kings are heading, I hope he can do it. If he can do it, then it all fell apart.

The league has a six-run mercy rule after six innings.

But like a lot of teams, Murray has had a success story this year, but it’s the fans who buy a Stanley Cup.

This is really hard to believe but just over a month ago in the Historic Shawville Fire will be in full swing, which seems to be half a century ago. We are sure to get a big surprise when you see your birthday next week. We hope you are well and happy and healthy. Happy birthday to our dear friends, the late Roy Sharpe and his sister Linda from Pembroke and son-in-law Robert. We all enjoyed a great time together with the family, and remember the special moments. This was an amazing occasion. After the wedding ceremony, the reception was held at the local club in the town of Arnprior.

We hope everyone had a wonderful birthday party for my wonderful Spence cousins! It was so nice to meet, chat and reminisce with all my family members were at home from his former school chums and friends, and we can't wait for the next visit. May the memories of your dear friend be comforted in your heart and mind. Congratulations to Bob Stewart of Ottawa along with his board and farmers.
