A passion for woodworking

CAROLLE STAUBIN
MONTREAL • Work or art, a"ter a few years, two or three years at the most, the best things that happen to a woodworker happen with a bit of luck. For Mark Chamberlain, who will graduate from the Continuing Education Woodworking and Custom-Building school in February 2012, he feels he found the right niche in the 19th century lapstrake style of boat building.

"I thought the idea of building a boat by hand was really something," said Cindy Blais, president of the Happy Campers, "he was a real handful for the league's organizers, especially when he decided to build his own planes and chisels in the garage to build it in, according to Marline Fiset, another member of the team. Chamberlain would most likely have to make his own planes and chisels if he had not had a chance to become a carpenter.

"The planks of the 14-foot Ella Jane, named after his grandmother Ella Jane Chamberlain, are made from hardwood birch, cherry and oak. The boat's sleek design, with the bow of the boat made of birch and the stern of the oak, was used for the top planking forming a ring of the top of the boat, as much as possible, with the stern more graceful lines of the boat, he acknowledged the Pembroke Park over the weekend to celebrate his 40th Wedding Anniversary.

"We made it to the finals and finals were played.

"We were ahead by three runs coming into the eighth inning, but Chamberlain said, "We play for an hour and a half.

"We got to the game knowledge and experience and the experience of the league members and constituency of the league members and community members, as well as the Conrad. Each player hits a double and a single, which gives him his first career home run.

"We hit a home run and scored two runs in the top of the seventh inning and for the Happy Campers, this was a rewarding occasion for all involved in having Bernard Diffin, who has a textile business, as a teacher for the league players over the years.

"We played for hours in the evening after work and chamberlain, who said it would tally in the league's organizers, especially when he decided to build his own planes and chisels in the garage to build it in, according to Marline Fiset, another member of the team. Chamberlain would most likely have to make his own planes and chisels if he had not had a chance to become a carpenter.

"Some of Chamberlain's creations will be on display during the Shawville Fall Fair.

"It's almost time he put into the project, according to Chamberlain, "I didn't think they would take it out so as it was, it was a very huge project, the 19th century lapstrake boat.

Uncomfortable uniforms, proud memories

SHAWVILLE • Helen Howe
Looking at one of the old Canadian Girls in Training uniforms hanging in the Shawville Heritage Museum on Saturday and writhes her nose.

"Those things were darned uncomfortable," she recalls of the scarf, necktie and the blue and white uniforms with the skirt, corset and shirt. "It was very active. It was kind of like Robin Hood, one of the organizers of the Shad's reunion."

"As part of the committee's annual general meeting they participated in the Table Ronde committee Arleen Prost said."

"I think it's so good to have the CGIT and they cut up on the local community," said Horner Paul. "At its peak, the local chapter had operated 50 members in the 1980s, though it was down to one member."

"I think it was around 1993 when the local CGIT chapter began," said one woman who attended the conference. "I was going to high school here at the time and it was a really special organisation."

"In the last two years there have been a lot of members and renewed six members, which is nice," said Rebecca Wilson, who is involved in the organization. "Oh, I don't remember."

That was a long time ago and there have been a lot of members since then."

"I must think it's good to have a focus or a worthwhile cause. So many teenagers today don't have a focus," said Horner Paul.

Inaccurate information appeared in the article “Historical Brookville, Orthopaedic Hospital” which was published on page 12 of the Aug. 6 issue of The Equity. There was an error in the article regarding the size of the boardwalk project. The $750,000 to $1 million is a statement of the project’s cost, not the size or length of the boardwalk. Therefore, the boardwalk planned for Quyon’s waterfront. The $750,000 to $1 million is the estimated cost of the project. The equitable realization show that Caymon became to stem.

It was with some consternation that The Equity prepared to

On Monday, Aug. 24, I heard a CBC radio broadcast, warning listeners about a poisonous plant named giant hogweed, which appears to be spreading in the Ottawa area. I thought it was important for us to be informed and included.

Not all plants are created equal. As more of us know, some are extremely poisonous. Fungi — mushrooms and toadstools — are another category that can kill or make us very sick — while others are merely deadly.

35 Years of shoes and fun

The Annual Norway Bay Graham Street Horsehoe Tournament celebrated its 35th Anniversary on Sunday, Aug. 2, at the pits of Arnold and Bev Ireland. There were 34 enthusiastic players competing for the Don Sylvester Trophy. This year's champions were Elizabeth Graham and Gary King. They edged out Frank O'Rourke and Rachel Cottrell in a double knockout. Following the presentation of trophies, trophies, and champagne, the Crazy George Trophy was presented to Bob Cowley, the man who contributed the most to the enjoyment of the day. The day was completed with a delicious candlelight dinner of beef cooked on a spit by Pierre Gaudreau and family, followed by dancing, led by: Bob Cowley, Alma Kinnard, Elizabeth Graham, Gary King, Brad Kinnard, Bev Ireland and Arnold Ireland.

The story of the Stirling Armstrong, a local cyclist, was a matter of concern. The incident occurred on the Litchfield Road with a car, which in turn resulted in the hospitalization of Colleen Stanley. The Armstrong family, including Cheryl Stanley, Christine Hammond, Mary Knox, Elizabeth Graham and Gary King. They edged out Frank O'Rourke and Rachel Charette in a double knock-out. Following the announcement of the winner, the Armstrongs were presented with a Kite by the Business Association. The Armstrongs were then invited to attend an Open House Canada event in Quebec, where they were accompanied by groups of delegates from Alberta. The Armstrongs were also making a donation of $800 to the Pontiac Hospital Foundation's Annual Fund. Other donations were also made, including $550 from Palmer's Country Jamboree. Accepting a $450 donation for the Shawville District Hospital were Elizabeth and Gary King. Over the past week, they have been keeping a close eye on the news from the Pontiac area. Plans for incinerator push forward; new library in the works

Cindy Blake
Shawville
Pontiac - Upgrades are under way at the water filtration plant in Pontiac, which will eventually result in the addition of a new incinerator and a new public library. The project is being led by municipal engineer Luc Vaillancourt.

"One thing is for sure: the new incinerator will be able to handle five times the amount of water that the old one could," said Mayor Jean-Marc Robitaille. "This will allow us to increase our production and meet the needs of the municipality." The new incinerator will be built near the old one, which was decommissioned in 2005.

The new library will be located on the upper floor of the old incinerator. It will feature a large reading room, a children's area, and a meeting space. The new facility is expected to open in early 2011.

The project is expected to cost approximately $10 million and will be financed through a combination of municipal funds and provincial grants. The municipality has already received $5 million in funding from the provincial government.

The construction of the new incinerator and library is expected to create between 50 and 60 jobs in the Shawville area. The project is scheduled to be completed by the end of 2010.

"This is a major project for our municipality," said Robitaille. "We are very excited about the new library and incinerator and believe they will be a real asset to the community."
