DIPLOMAT SHOT BY ANGRY COOK

LATTER REFUSED TO SERVE OFFICIAL DINNER AT TANGIERS LEGATION.

Tangiers, Morocco, Jan. 23.—Paul Chevandier de Valdrome, the French diplomatic agent here, was shot and killed tonight by his cook, a man named Sure, in the presence of guests who had been invited to attend an official dinner in the legation.

The guests had assembled but the cook refused to serve the dinner and M. de Valdrome, after vainly expostulating with him, ordered him out of the house. As M. de Valdrome was returning to his guests the cook followed him and drawing a revolver shot the diplomatic agent twice, one bullet lodging in the back and the other in the neck. M. de Valdrome staggered into the saloon and fell dying into the arms of a high official. The murderer was arrested.

The tragedy has created a painful impression as M. de Valdrome was popular here. As soon as his death became known, all the diplomats and notabilities in Tangier called at the legation and left cards expressing their condolence.

THOUGHT THOUSAND WAS TOO MUCH FOR BERARD, SAYS MAIL

According to Montreal Paper's Story, the Legislature Was the "Real Thing."

FIVE HUNDRED MORE Generosity of Burns Detective Said to Have Been Much Appreciated—Fine Points.

Montreal, Jan. 23.—Today's story in the Daily Mail says that Mr. Mousseau accepted another five hundred dollars with the remark: "This is good of you, I will have to play clean with you."

According to the story, when Mr. Hyland suggested a thousand for Mr. Berard, Mr. Mousseau objected that it was too much and five hundred would be enough. He explained that Berard was in the Upper House, that the Lower House was the real power house, the representatives of the people, and should get the heavy end of the swag.

Mr. Mousseau, says The Mail, also showed that he is a philosopher in the game of graft for he gave Mr. Hyland instructions in the fine points of the game. "Let Berard think he is to get more than he has got." That was one point in the game he impressed on Mr. Hyland, to quote The Mail.

Montreal papers today comment on the need for a strict and searching investigation.

OTTAWA EX-MAYOR IS NOW ALDERMAN

MR. ELLIS, RECENTLY DEFEATED FOR MAYOR, GETS BIG MAJORITY.

Ottawa, Jan. 23.—Ex-Mayor J. A. Ellis, M.L.A., for West Ottawa, was today elected alderman for Central Ward, by a majority of 967 over ex-Controller E. H. Hinchey. Mr. Ellis was defeated at the regular municipal elections on January 5th, by Taylor McVeity, former city solicitor. A vacancy was created for him in the ward by one of the aldermen-elect refusing to serve. The municipal situation in Ottawa is acute just now, the problem of a pure water supply facing the people. Ellis favors spending $8,000,000 in going to the Gatineau hills for water.

CAMPBELL MUST PAY THE PENALTY

WILL STEP ON SCAFFOLD THIS MORNING—NO STAY OF EXECUTION.

Montreal, Jan. 23.—"I do not find grounds in this evidence that would justify me in granting an order for a stay of execution with a view to ordering a new trial for William Campbell, neither do I find grounds for referring the matter to the Minister of Justice for advisement in the matter of a commutation of the sentence of death."

Such was the substance of a decision by Mr. Justice Cross tonight when His Lordship had listened for half an hour to the story of Annie Jackson, one of the two women whom Campbell has maintained for weeks past could save him from the gallows. The last act in the grim tragedy of which Campbell has been the central figure will therefore be carried out at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning when the negro will step upon the scaffold at Bordeaux jail and pay the penalty for the murder of George Muir in August last.

PREPARING FOR PUBLIC RECEPTION

MAYOR DROUIN, ALDERMAN CANNON AND MR. BAILLAIRGE WILL ARRANGE DETAILS.

There was a largely attended meeting of the Civic Finance Committee held at the City Hall last evening to discuss the preparations for the Civic Reception to His Royal Highness, the Duke of Connaught at the City Hall on Tuesday evening next.

As the Duke's Aide-De-Camp has not yet arrived in the City, it was left to His Worship Mayor Drouin, Ald. L. A. Cannon, chairman of the Finance Committee and City Engineer Baillaire to arrange the details of the reception with the Aide-De-Camp who reaches town today.

The hour of the reception has been changed from 9 p.m. to 9:30 p.m., and in consequence, the doors of the City Hall will be opened at 9 o'clock instead of 8:30.

The interior of the City Hall, which has all been freshly repainted looks very bright and inviting. The decorating of the Council Chamber is being duly carried out.

SIR HUGH GRAHAM DENIES THE RUMOR

DOES NOT OWN OR CONTROL EITHER THE MONTREAL HERALD OR TELEGRAPH.

Montreal, Jan. 23.—Rumors that Sir Hugh Graham, proprietor of the Montreal Star controls also the Montreal Herald and the Daily Telegraph were met today by a flat denial from Sir Hugh himself.

"I assure you absolutely," he said in the course of an interview, "that I do not own and control either the Telegraph or the Herald."

Asked if he meant to say that he held no interest in either paper, Sir Hugh answered "I did not say that." He added, in reply to further questioning, that he understood Lorne McGibbon had sold his controlling interest in the Herald to certain parties, but he could not say who these parties were or what were their plans. "I assure you," he said again, "that I own only this paper"—meaning the Star.

Nevertheless, the proprietors of the Star seemed to know, or to have heard a good deal about the plans of the proprietor, or proprietors, of the other two evening papers. But he was careful to say that he was only expressing his own opinions.

C. Gordonsmith, manager of the Telegraph Company, announced today that he was not ready to make a definite statement upon the contemplated changes.

The name of J. Norton Griffiths, head of the big contracting firm, has been connected with newspaper developments in Montreal, but Mr. Griffiths stated this evening that he had not the slightest idea or conception of what was going on in that way. He said, however, that he had been offered large interests in newspapers both in Canada and in England, including the control of the London Globe, but he had not accepted any of these offers.

BRANTFORD SLAYER GOES TO GALLOWES

JAMES TAYLOR, "THE SPANIARD," EXPIATES THE MURDER OF LITTLE CHARLIE DAWSON

Brantford, Ont., Jan. 23.—In a narrow hallway in the County Jail this morning, James Taylor, the half-breed who, last September murdered Charles Dawson, a 13 year old boy, and then horribly mutilated his body, leaving it on the roadside, where it was found the next morning, was executed.

Taylor, always of a sullen demeanor, bore up well until the end. Last night he showed signs of weakening, being quite sick until midnight, and beef tea and other non-intoxicating stimulants were administered. After midnight he slept fairly well, until about 4 o'clock this morning, when, without being aroused he got up and dressed in his ordinary street clothes.

All that he asked for breakfast was an egg, but when this, some toast, and beef tea were secured for him, he did not touch them. He had not a word to say before going to his death.

When the executioner came to his cell he quietly rose and submitted to his hands being fastened behind his back, walking with firm step and bowed head, he then followed the hangman, a young fellow, who goes by the name of Jack Holmes, and who has officiated at 28 previous hangings, into the death cell.

He was accompanied by Adjutant Hargrove, of the Salvation Army, his spiritual advisor, who had been with him all night. As the black cap and noose were being adjusted Adjutant Hargrove repeated the Twenty-third Psalm, and when he reached the phrase, "Yea even though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death," the trap was sprung and the condemned man went to his doom.

A slight struggle was perceptible as the rope tightened, but there was no twitching or struggling, Taylor having an easy death. The trap was sprung at 8:07 and nine minutes later the jail surgeon pronounced the man dead. It was some time later, however, before the body was cut down and the inquest held. The usual verdict was returned, and by previous arrangement the body was then handed over to relatives to be interred in one of the local cemeteries instead of in the jail yard, as is the custom.

HOLD UP TRAIN AND GET NOTHING

WOULD-BE ROBBERS GET A SMALL RETURN FOR THEIR RISKY WORK.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Jan. 23.—Three men tonight boarded a Southern Railway passenger train, No. 41, Chattanooga to Tuscumbia, Ala., at Facklers, Ala., and held up mail clerks and express messengers, emptied mail pouches and the express safe and obtained no reward for their trouble.

The robbers found only second-class mail matter, trunks and packages of food in the cars.

When the train stopped at Facklers, two of the robbers climbed aboard the mail and express cars, while the third swung aboard the locomotive, forced the engineer to stop his train and mail and express cars were uncoupled from the passenger coaches.

The engineer was made to run 12 miles towards Larkinsville, Ala., where the robbers took their time about looting the cars.

Reports late last night from Huntsville, Ala., were contradictory as to whether the express car safe was blown or found open, but express company officials here said that it contained nothing of value.

Deputies and detectives left at midnight for the scene of the hold-up. Up to a late hour nothing had been heard from them.

CANADIAN PRESS ASS'N SEEKS FED. INCORPORATION

Ottawa, Jan. 23.—The following companies have been incorporated by the State Department during the week:

The Canadian North West Development Company, capital $3,000,000; Villeneuve Limited, capital $90,000; California Perfume Company, capital $10,000, all of Montreal.

The Canadian Press Association will seek incorporation by act of Parliament this session. In the notice of application the objects are set forth as follows:

"To elevate the standard of newspaper writing and publishing in Canada, to foster the business interests of its members, to promote a more enlarged and friendly intercourse between its members."

RADIUM IN COLORADO.

Washington, Jan. 23.—Charges that Dr. Howard Kelly, of Baltimore, had inspired the effort to withdraw radium lands "to divert attention from himself," were made by O. Barlow Willmarth, head of two radium mining companies of Colorado, before the House Mines Committee today. Fears of monopolization of radium ores, Willmarth said, were groundless.

Thomas Curran, who said his family owned and operated about seventy radium claims in Colorado, told the committee that doubt as to Dr. Kelly's humane motives was not possible.

Chairman Foster announced that the contract with Dr. Kelly for experiments to discover a process for reducing radium would be put in evidence later.

EXCITED HOCKEY FAN ASSAULTS POLICEMAN.

Woodstock, Ont., Jan. 23.—A fine of $5 and costs, amounting in all to about $25, was imposed by Judge Finkle this morning upon Henry Bears, of Ingersoll, charged with assault upon Constable Bickley, of the city force. The assault occurred following an Ingersoll-Woodstock game of hockey, some days ago, Bears having been placed under arrest by Bickley on a charge of assaulting a spectator. Bears resisted arrest and 'put up quite a scrap' with the officer,

No Blacker Crime.

The Star says: "Public opinion will loudly demand the most searching and fearless scrutiny of all the evidence adduced. The members of the Legislature will get little sympathy by complaining that they have been the victims of detective espionage. Detectives are the instruments who unearth most crimes and there can be no blacker crime against the public weal than the selling for sordid cash-in-hand of the representative powers entrusted to our legislators by the electorate. Such a sale is not the bartering of a man's personal property. It is equivalent to 'selling the pass' by a sentinel—it is making-market of the fabric of representative institutions, of the honor of a nation and of the supreme power of making the laws which are to govern the people."

No Party Question.

The Herald says: "The gravity of the charges against certain members of the Quebec Legislature can scarcely be exaggerated. The scandal created by these charges must take rank as one of the worst in the unfortunately long series of scandals with which the political history of Canada has been smirched."

"Only one course is possible under the circumstances, one which, we have no doubt, the Government will follow. There must be an immediate and searching investigation into the charges conducted not by one party but by the whole House. There can be no question of party under the present serious circumstances—the honor of the Legislature itself is involved and must be cleared no matter at what cost."

"The methods by which evidence against Members of the Legislature was secured cannot, for the moment, enter into consideration. That will be for later. What we are all concerned in at present is whether or not the very grave accusations brought against those members is true. If so their punishment will follow, speedily and surely, at the hands of outraged public opinion. On the other hand, those who have brought the charges are equally bound to make them good or to take the consequences which will be very serious."

COMPULSORY VACCINATION FOR SCHOOL CHILDREN.

New York, Jan. 23.—Compulsory vaccination for school children was upheld by the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court today in a decision affirming the conviction of Hagbard Ekerold for violation of the compulsory education law. Ekerold's son was sent home from school because he was not vaccinated and the parent brought into court by an attendance officer two weeks later and fined because the child had not been vaccinated and returned to school in the meantime, as the rules required. Ekerold maintained that he could not be compelled to have the boy vaccinated, but the Appellate Division disagreed with him.

EARTHQUAKE IN GREECE.

Athens, Jan. 23.—A severe earthquake occurred today at Lepanto. Almost every house in the town was more or less damaged and fortress partially wrecked, but nobody was injured.

Lepanto, or Naupaktos, is a seaport on the Gulf of Corinth, with a population of about three thousand.

The Weather

Toronto, Jan. 23.—The western disturbance is now passing across the Great Lakes, accompanied by mild weather and rain, while an area of high pressure with fairly low temperature covers the western provinces and northwest states. It has turned a little milder in Quebec and the Maritime provinces.

ANTI-TRUST BILLS IN THE STATES

LEGISLATIVE PROGRAM OUTLINED; SO FAR IS NOT THE LAST WORD.

Washington, Jan. 23.—The anti-trust legislative program as outlined in bills made public yesterday is not the last word in proposed remedial legislation to regulate big business. That the tentative measures submitted may be altered or extended was emphasized today in both branches of congress, and the President let it be known that he did not consider the form of the bills drafted closed.

Pursuant to the purpose of administration leaders to exhaust the subject, it was determined by the House Judiciary and Senate Inter-State Commerce committees not to introduce at this time the measures relating to interlocking directorate prohibition, definition of restraints of trade and specification of "cut throat" competition. Hearings on the question are to be held before the bills go to congress.

The Inter-State Trade Commission bill introduced yesterday will be taken up next week by the House Inter-State and Foreign Commerce Committee, which may see fit to alter the provisions suggested by the Judiciary sub-committee and Senator Newlands, chairman of the Senate Inter-State Commerce Committee. The fifth of the proposed bills, that to authorize federal regulation of railroad securities, probably will not be drawn for several weeks.

THE SCHMIDT CASE.

Jurors are in Receipt of Anonymous Letters.

New York, Jan. 23.—Because some one has been writing anonymously to jurors in the case, Justice Vernon M. Davis, of the Supreme Court, before whom Hans Schmidt, a former priest charged with the murder of Anna Amumler, is on re-trial, today earnestly cautioned the jurors against discussing the case with anyone and requested them to refrain from reading newspaper articles or communications relative to the crime.

Justice Davis took this action after one of the jurors had handed him a letter postmarked Brooklyn, signed "A Citizen," in which what the Justice characterized as an able medical argument, dealing with the Schmidt case was made. Whether it was for or against the defendant, the Justice would not say. The jurymen have been asked by him to turn over any other communications they may receive.

Witnesses who were heard today repeated testimony given in the first trial. Because of the fact that the defence has permitted the State to introduce all testimony of the first trial, the case will be in the hands of the jury within a week, it is said.

QUEBEC, JANUARY 24, 1914.

THE FIVE O'CLOCK TRAIN.

The news that the C. P. R. intends to discontinue its five o'clock service from here to Montreal and vice versa has caused quite a commotion in Quebec, especially among the business men, many of whom find this train the most convenient of all, as it cuts out the tedious and annoying night journey and sometimes even saves them a day.

We are not aware as yet what are the considerations which have induced the C. P. R. to think of cutting out this popular service, but we should hardly think that it was lack of patriotism. We hope that the Board of Trade and other bodies of the city, besides individual firms and business men, will use their influence in the hope of inducing the C. P. R. to reconsider their decision and continue the service.

WHAT PARCEL POST WILL DO.

We have frequently referred to the advantages to be expressed from the parcel post in the bringing together of producer and consumer in agricultural products capable of easy division, such as poultry, eggs and fruit. A writer in the Quebec Journal of Agriculture goes into some particulars as to the effect of the new convenience in the poultry industry. "Eggs," he says, "may be laid on a farm a hundred miles from the city one day, and the next morning for breakfast the city man enjoys eggs which are not twenty-four hours old. The introduction of the parcel post system will mean much for the poultry men and farmers near the large cities. The yearly income from the average farms will be greatly increased. Furthermore, it will mean much better satisfaction for the consumer, because he can get a superior quality of goods which do not cost him any more and are delivered immediately. It will certainly mean a decided improvement in the private trade. Eggs may be shipped in packages holding from one to five dozen. Poultry may be shipped in packages holding two and five broilers, each weighing two pounds, boxes for one and two roasting chickens, and boxes for two squabs. These sizes will accommodate the requirements of almost all classes of customers." When this system is once in full operation, people will wonder how they ever got along without it.

A RED HERRING.

Is it impossible for the Liberal party in this Province to discuss any question without using their rotten race-cry? Instead of facing the charges which are made against certain of their members as fearless and honorable men should and seeking to provide every facility for a complete investigation they endeavor to nip the thing in the bud by trying to get the investigation over before the full text of the accusations is given by the editors of the Mail.

The honor of the Provincial administration is at stake and the government cannot content the public with a partial and partisan investigation which will try to close up the affair with the minimum of publicity. The committee which has been appointed to inquire into the charges against Mr. Mousseau is not competent to do so until Messrs. Macnab and Nicholls have appeared before the Bar of the Assembly and either withdrawn their charges or furnished full proof to corroborate them. The onus of proof is upon the editors of the Mail rather than upon Mr. Mousseau.

It was the duty of the Government to wait until the Mail had brought forward all its charges before naming the members of the committee of investigation. According to the Mail there are at least seven other members implicated in this particular case and the Mail also indicates that it has still further exposures to make. The argument of the government supporters that they can be certain of picking ten members who are sure not to be attacked by the Mail is cheap and futile. They might have said the same thing about Messrs. Mousseau and the other two a week or two ago.

It is the duty of the Government to facilitate the inquiry, not to block it; to make it complete, not partial. If it fails to do its duty in this instance it will assuredly lose the confidence of all elements of society.

The Government and the accused members may as well realize that they owe it to themselves to clear themselves of these serious assaults upon their honor and not to attempt to draw a red herring across the trail by appealing through their organs to the passions of the people. The rabid appeals to hatred and fanaticism of such gutter-squirts as Le Soleil may have some weight with a few isolated individuals but it should be remembered that the opinion of such individuals is not worth much and the level-headed are not likely to be much influenced by them. The talk of an Anglo-Saxon and Tory plot is ridiculous.

NOTHING TO OFFER.

It must be a very optimistic Grit indeed who can manage to extract much comfort from present conditions as indicated by the speeches in Parliament so far. There never was a time in the history of Canada when a political party found themselves so absolutely without hope, as is the case with followers of Sir Wilfrid Laurier today. From the leader himself, down to the humblest back-bencher, there is not a man but who can realize full well that it is vain and futile to attempt to wean the country from its approval of the policies of the present Government unless they have something worth while to offer as a counter attraction. Take, for instance, Sir Wilfrid Laurier's amendment to the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne. "We regret that whilst it is admitted that the business of the country is in a depressed condition, yet there is no indication of any intention on the part of your advisers to take any steps toward relieving such a situation."

Not one word, not a suggestion, of a policy to meet these conditions; nothing but the bare complaint. Each speaker of the Opposition side has done his share of grumbling, and left it at that; they have nothing better to offer, and appearances demand that they should make a show of something, however trivial. The conditions which Sir Wilfrid now so loudly laments existed just the same during the latter years of his regime, but there was never any indication on his part of an intention to take any steps to deal with them.

The dismal picture painted by the Laurier orators would be enough to cast a gloom over the whole country did it in any sense truthfully portray actual conditions, but it fortunately does not. A more correct representation of facts was shown by Hon. Mr. White in a speech which will well repay perusal. As an offset to the story of the blue ruin which the opposition declared is overtaking the country, the Finance Minister pointed out that the public debt was $18,000,000 less than it was when the Liberals left office. If there is any "blue ruin" overtaking the country, which fortunately there is not, it would be largely caused by conditions brought about by the Laurier Government itself, in that provision had to be made for expenditures authorized by that agglomeration. Moreover, the revenues for the present year is $170,000,000, as against $136,000,000 in the last year of the Laurier administration. Trade has increased and the customs returns likewise.

Comparing these conditions with those that prevailed up to two years ago, is it any wonder that Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his followers have little to say? They cannot help but realize that the country is better off today under the Borden Government than it ever was; and they cannot help, but realize, even more fully, that nothing they could offer could improve present conditions.

PRESS COMMENT.

When the truth about the persecution of Dreyfus was first spread to the world the common comment was that it was only in a degenerate country that anything of the kind could happen. When the affair was ended, however, a contrary opinion prevailed. It was recognized, then, that no degenerate country could produce such men as Labori, Zola and Picquart—men of whom it is not mere rhetoric to say that they were willing to sacrifice their lives, their fortunes and their sacred honor in behalf of an abstract principle of justice. Dreyfus had no personal claims upon any of them. The conspiracy against him had been engineered so adroitly that to defend him seemed an unpatriotic thing to do. And so profound and general was the sentiment against him, so powerful his enemies, that it seemed foolish as well as dangerous for any man to say a word in his defense. The hardest thing in the world for any man to do is to stand up for a principle against the unanimous sentiment of those around him. Picquart did this. He defied the narrowness and the prejudice of his friends and associates, the narrowness and prejudice plus the niceness and pleasantness of these associates, and he did it though he felt that it meant his ruin. He, too, became the victim of the conspirators. He was disgraced, dismissed from the army and sent to prison. But his fate and his example stirred the fighting blood of Zola and started the famous campaign which proved the innocence of Dreyfus, the guilt of Esterhazy and the latent nobility of the French people. In the end Picquart was restored to the army and later held the high office of Minister of War. He dies rich in friends, and honors and his example of splendid heroism will not soon be forgotten.—Baltimore Sun.

ANOTHER SUCCESS AT THE AUDITORIUM

CRESPI-FERRABINI JOINT CONCERT IS REAL PLEASURE TO THE AUDIENCE.

One of the most enjoyable high-class concerts that has been held in Quebec for years, took place last night at the Auditorium, when the management of Signor A. Bassi, of the New York Metropolitan Opera House, who presented Signorina Valentine Crespi, the gifted young violinist; Madame Ester Ferrabini, the well-known opera star, soprano; Signor Attilio di Crescenzo, tenor, and Miss Ethel Gilmore, the prima ballerina.

A large and fashionable audience was present to assist at the rare musical treat, and the program very generously covered with gems of art, was greatly appreciated by the music-loving public of Quebec, who manifested their enthusiastic appreciation of true merit, by repeated spontaneous applause, and frequent demands for encores, which were responded to with pleasing grace by the artists.

The first number on the program was a violin recitation by Mendelssohn, (a) allegro appassionato; (b) andante (c) allegro vivacissimo, given by Signorina Valentini Crespi, a violin prodigy, and young lady genius, who has already appeared before a Quebec audience, and who simply thrilled her listeners with the sublime beauty of her sympathetic playing.

Though young in years, she is exceptionally self-possessed, and seems to put her whole soul into her instrument, which resounds in sweetest of bird-like music that so effectually vibrates in soft melodious cadence, that produces an emotion that takes possession of her audience. Her bowing is faultless, and her touching of the strings marvellous in command, in keeping with perfect execution. Her technique is masterly, with brilliancy of execution, and sympathy of expression, and this talented performer cannot be too highly praised. Later in turn she gave Sarasate's recital "Zigennerweisen" (Gypsy airs), and in the second part of the program, Schubert's (a) "Ave Maria" and Wieniawski (b) "Mazurka" with brilliancy of execution and sympathetic sweetness, that is rarely heard. No passages are too difficult in the mastery of her instrument, in the embodiment of delicate harmony.

Madame Ester Ferrabini, the gifted soprano of opera fame, and a lady of prepossessing appearance, was a pleasing surprise. She sang Mascagni's "Voi lo Sappete o Mamma" from Cavalleria Rusticana, with exquisite taste, and sympathetic effect. She is the possessor of a rich quality voice the cadence of which is flute-like in beauty of expression. All her notes are well focussed and clear, with a distinct feature in mellowness of melody. She sings with ease, and her graceful poise further enhanced by beauty of facial expression, is irresistible in charm that captures the hearts of her listeners, as the diversion of her song enters and thrills the hearts of the audience. Later she sang Verdi's "Ritorna Vincitor," (from Aida) in which she so excelled, that a storm of applause followed, and the demand for an encore was so persistent, that she responded twice, and even then the audience were so unbounded in their appreciation, they called her out before the footlights to manifest their approval. Her duet with Signor di Crescenzo, from Faust, was a perfect gem, and so appreciated.

Signor Attilio di Crescenzo, a noted opera tenor, who formed one of the concert principals, delighted the audience with his rich and sweet clear and well focussed voice. He sang with splendid effect Flutow's "M'Appari" aria (from Martha) also "La Donna e Mobile" (from Rigoletto), and Donizetti's "Una Furtiva Lagrima," (from Elisir d'Amore) and was simply showered with applause.

One of the features of the program was the classic dances by Mlle. Ethel Gilmore, who gave Chopin's waltz, and Leo Delibes' pizzicati. She is a beautiful, graceful ballet dancer, and also received her share of applause and demands for encores, which she indulgently responded to.

The concert on the whole, was a rich musical treat, and those who attended were delighted with their experience.

DEFINITE IMPROVEMENT IN WHITNEY'S CONDITION.

But It Is Slow—Patient Passes Fairly Satisfactory Day.

Toronto, Jan. 23.—For the first time in many days the doctors in attendance on Sir James Whitney today reported a "definite improvement" in their distinguished patient. Day by day the physicians have spoken with great reservation of the future. They even now counsel against too great optimism. Their carefully worded bulletin at 9.30 o'clock was as follows: "Sir James Whitney has had a fairly satisfactory day; definite improvement, but it is slow."

(Signed) "ALEX. McPHERDAN, "C. K. CLARK."

Bulletins issued throughout the day were of a more hopeful character, the physicians reporting shortly before noon that the distinguished patient had passed a good night, and that his condition, while still critical, was slightly better.

JAPAN TO SPEND $150,000,000 IN ADDITIONS TO NAVY

Tokio, Jan. 23.—An appropriation of $150,000,000 for Naval increase was demanded by the Japanese Government today at a secret meeting of the Imperial Diet.

The Naval Ministry proposed that Japan build twelve great Dreadnoughts.

After a prolonged debate, the Diet cut the Naval appropriation to $80,000,000 tentatively agreeing to an additional appropriation when the financial condition of Japan is more propitious.

DEBATE ON ADDRESS NOT FINISHED YET

MR. LEWIS HAS SCHEME FOR NAVAL RESERVE — BANK INTEREST RATES.

Ottawa, Jan. 23.—The debate on the address goes over into next week but may be expected to come to an end about Tuesday, when a Liberal caucus will be held to consider the next move. The speakers today were E. W. Nesbitt (North Oxford), J. H. Sinclair (Guysboro), E. N. Lewis (West Huron), and Hon. Arthur Meighen. Mr. Meighen dealt particularly with the good roads question.

Mr. Nesbitt held that the farmers of Western Ontario were in favor of free wheat for the West and that the Government might just as well give it to them. Perhaps the Government thought the millers would be injured. In his opinion there was no reason why the millers should be injured. They make their flour from western wheat, which is the best in the world. That being the case they should mark their flour so that they would get an advantage all over the world. Mr. Nesbitt then suggested that a possible reason of the failure of the Government so far to accede to the request of the farmers was the fear that free wheat would hurt the three transcontinental railways. If that was the reason, the Government should say so. Personally he believed that the railways would be quite capable of looking after themselves.

The member for North Oxford gave a little further definition of the Laurier "free food" policy by stating that the idea was to take the duty off all foods because there were some classes on which this was unnecessary. He thought there were very few manufacturing establishments which would be affected by a free food policy and said that in his own part of the country the dairy interests were quite prepared to see the duty taken off cheese. He predicted that with the American market open for milk and cream there would be less cheese factories in Canada and particularly in Ontario next year.

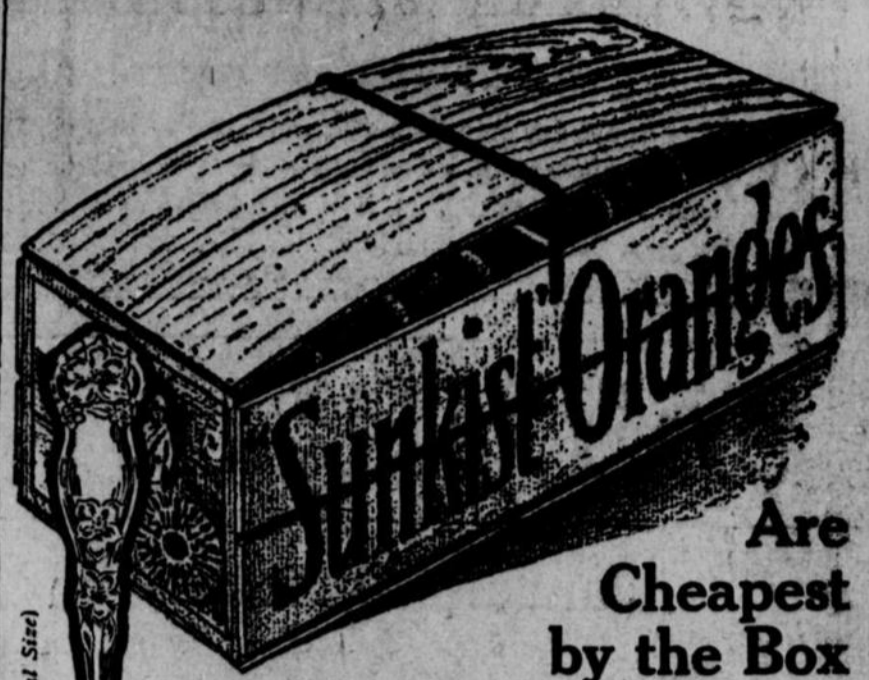

Lakes Disaster Echo.

E. N. Lewis devoted almost all his time to urging improvement to Goderich harbor on Lake Huron so as to provide a safe refuge and prevent recurrence of such disasters as those of last November.

Mr. Lewis also took up the question of bank interest. Banks, especially in Ontario had raised their rates of interest; from six to seven per cent and sometimes eight. Where banks raised the rate of interest beyond six per cent which they received, they should be obliged to raise the rate of interest which they pay.

Compensating the Innocent.

Mr. Lewis made a plea for compensation to men who had been imprisoned and later found innocent of the crime of which they had been found guilty. He referred especially to the Suggests Naval Reserve.

In conclusion he suggested enrolling the 80,000 Canadian sailors and fishermen who are idle in the winter as a naval reserve, placing them on small British cruisers and sending them for a cruise to the West Indies, during which they would receive training. He believed a valuable reserve would thus be developed.

Mr. L'Esperance's Bill.

D. O. L'Esperance of Montmagny, who has given notice of a bill to abolish the Laurier naval act, today disclaimed all intention of embarrassing a Quebec minister, as an Ottawa paper intimated was at the bottom of the move. He further denied the rumor that he had had negotiations with Liberal members to secure their support for his bill.

"In presenting this bill I am actuated by a sense of personal honor and public duty which this house will be in a position to appreciate when I move its second reading," he said.

SCHMIDT DEFENCE GETS $10,000 MORE

New York, Jan. 23.—It is stated that another fund of $10,000 has been raised for the defence of Hans Schmidt, now on trial before Justice Davis for the murder of Anna Amuller. The name of the donor is kept secret, but it is believed the money comes from the same source which subscribed the $15,000 for the first trial. The anonymous subscriber has stipulated that $2,000 of the amount shall be set aside for the alienists, while the remaining $8,000 is to be paid the lawyers defending Schmidt. It has been arranged that only two alienists each shall be called by the defence and the State. The defence's experts will be Drs. Gregory and Jelliffe, while for the State, Drs. Mabon and Macdonald will act.

WE HAVE DECIDED to hold a second week's sale and to even offer more astounding reductions than ever. We have reassorted and increased the lots on our counters and have reduced them to fixed prices, that is to say that the reductions will be stronger than 25 per cent.

Special prices upon goods which we absolutely have to get rid of, represent a discount of 50 per cent. Pay special attention to our lingerie department where the biggest reduction is offered. The sale will again take place on the same conditions as last week.

Thread, tissue cotton and ribbons will be the only things not sold at a discount. Take advantage of this reduction sale, the most important we ever made.

IN AND ABOUT TOWN

FOUR FAMILIES ARE RENDERED HOMELESS

TWO-STORY WOODEN BUILDING IN ST. SAUVEUR BADLY DAMAGED BY FIRE.
As the result of a fire which broke out shortly after seven o'clock last night in a two-story wooden building covered with asbestos paper, at Nos. 200 and 202 Montcalm street, St. Sauveur, four families were rendered homeless for the night as the damage by smoke and water makes the house uninhabitable until the necessary repairs are made.
The families occupying the building are Joseph Pelletier, sr., Joseph Pelletier, jr., Mathias Pelletier, and Octave Pichette.
The fire which broke out in the upper storey was caused by a little girl letting a lamp fall in a wardrobe. An alarm from box 144 at 7.29 o'clock, summoned the firemen from three stations, and despite the headway which the flames had gained, they managed to extinguish the blaze within half an hour.
There is considerable damage to the upper storey by fire, but the most damage was caused by smoke and water.
The four families found shelter for the night in the homes of relatives and friends.

C.P.R. WILL CANCEL 5 O'CLOCK TRAIN

THE LOCAL OFFICE IS UNAWARE OF REASONS FOR THIS DECISION.
The C. P. R. has decided to cancel, after the 31st inst. the 5 p.m. train service between Quebec and Montreal.
The trains which leave Quebec daily at 5 p.m. and also leave Montreal for Quebec at 5 p.m. will be cancelled.
On inquiry at the office of the company here as to the reason of cancelling this train, which is a popular one, no cause could be assigned, as no particulars had been received from headquarters in Montreal. The train has generally been well patronized.

PROGRESS MADE ON DORCHESTER BRIDGE

CONTRACTOR SAYS IT WILL BE READY FOR TRAFFIC NEXT YEAR.
Workmen in the employ of Mr. J. H. Gignac, contractor for the building of the new Dorchester bridge, are now busy on the construction, and expect to have the bridge completed and open for traffic in the month of March, 1915.
The towers that carried the wiring of the Q. R., L. H. & P. Co. across the River St. Charles, parallel with the old bridge, that was the cause of all the trouble and one year's delay on the work, have at last been demolished, together with the piers supporting same, under protest by the contractor, who claims that the City should have done this work.
The new No. 3 pier is nearly finished, and workmen are now engaged on the masonry work of nos. 1 and 4 piers, leaving only one pier No. 2 not commenced, that is left for the spring.
Mr. Gignac, who was seen yesterday by a Chronicle representative, said the structural work would be sufficiently advanced, by June 15th next for the beginning of the super-structural work, and he expected the bridge would be completed and ready for traffic in March, 1915, one year later than the prescribed time of contract, due to circumstances of delay, over which the contractor will not shoulder the blame.

SERGEANT-AT-ARMS OFF FOR MONTREAL

WILL SERVE THE ORDER OF THE HOUSE ON THE DAILY MAIL PROPRIETORS.
Sergeant-at-Arms Delisle, of the Legislative Assembly left yesterday evening for Montreal, where he will today serve the order of the House on Messrs. N. E. Nichols and Brenton A. Macnab, of the Montreal Daily Mail, summoning them to appear before the Bar of the Legislative Assembly on Tuesday, January 27th, at four o'clock in the afternoon, in accordance with the resolution passed by the House on Friday afternoon.
This is the first time that Sergeant-at-Arms Delisle has been called upon to perform such a duty.
Speaker Delage when asked last night what would happen should the newspaper men in question fail to respond the order of the House.
Hon. Mr. Delage said that in such an event the House would decide what would be the next step taken.

KENT HOUSE FINED FOR SELLING LIQUOR

MANAGER OF PROPERTY OWNED BY Q. R. L. & P. CO. BEFORE COURTS AGAIN.
The Kent House again figured in the Police Court on Wednesday, for selling liquor on the Sabbath day. The management was confronted with two violations of the license act in this regard, one for selling liquor on Sunday, the 11th, and the other Sunday, the 18th instant. In both cases the Kent House pleaded guilty and was fined $30 and costs for each offence.

EXHIBITION OF PAINTING.

Mr. J. B. Hand, will open his exhibition of Oil Paintings and Water Color Drawings at the Lecture Hall, Morrin College, this morning, from 10.00 a.m. to 6.00 p.m. This exhibition will be continued all next week.

ACTION FOR DAMAGES.

Madame Eugene Vezina of Chateau Richer, widow of the late Mr. J. O. Mathieu, has taken an action for $15,000 against Mr. J. H. Boivin contractor, for the death of her husband.
Mr. Mathieu, who was a foreman over the work, was killed last July by the fall of a derrick, while working at the extension to the general post office.

MEMORIAL SERVICE AT PORTNEUF.

A Memorial Service will be held on Sunday evening next in St. John's Church in memory of Lord Strathcona, who for many years while an officer of the Hudson Bay Company acted as Lay Reader for the Church of England at North West River, North Labrador.
In the sixties the only spiritual instruction given was by the Chief Factors of the Hudson Bay Company at the inland posts.

REMARKABLE FIGURES.

It will no doubt be interesting to many people to know that by actual computation the output of SALADA from the Montreal Branch alone, for the year 1913, was equivalent to 30,000 one-hundred pound chests of Tea, which, if placed on top of the other would reach a distance of about 60,000 feet, or nearly 12 miles high. This may convey some slight idea of the enormous sale of the famous "Salada" Tea.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

On the re-organization of the Ladies' Auxiliary, Division No. 1, A. O. H. County of Quebec, the following officers were installed by the Provincial delegate, Mrs. George Palmer, of Montreal:

THE ALSATIAN HAS BEEN DELAYED.

The new Allan Line steamer Alsatian, which was expected at Halifax yesterday afternoon, from Liverpool, must have been considerably delayed by the weather yesterday. A despatch received this morning from Halifax, states that he was 112 miles east of Sable Island last midnight. She, therefore, could not reach Halifax until this morning.

RECORDER'S COURT.

Four prisoners appeared before the Recorder yesterday. One for causing a row in the street, was fined $10 and costs or fifteen days' jail. One for drunkenness, who had been in court on a previous occasion, was also fined $10 and costs or one month, while one who was paying his first visit, was let down with $5 and costs or fifteen days. A man in ill health, charged with loitering, was sent to jail for fifteen days for shelter.

QUEBEC PLAY IN TORONTO TONIGHT

CHAMPIONS WILL MEET ONTARIOS IN QUEEN CITY AND EXPECT VICTORY.

The Quebec Hockey team left for Toronto yesterday afternoon and will meet Ontarios in Queen City tonight. The players, as well as the fans here, expect a Quebec victory, although there are some who believe that the locals will not have it all their own way.

Should Quebec win this event, as seems likely, and win again here against Ottawa next Wednesday, they will be coming back towards their own and prospects of retaining the Stanley Cup in Quebec for another season will be considerably brighter. Contrary to report, Tommy Moore, the promising young goaler of the Silvery team, did not go to Toronto with Quebec.

ST. PATRICK'S VS. THE LAURENTIDES

TWO LOCAL INTERPROVINCIAL TEAMS CLASH TONIGHT AT THE ARENA.

St. Patrick's and Laurentides, the two local teams of the Interprovincial League will clash at the Arena tonight, and interest is keen among the followers of both teams.

At the last meeting of these teams, Laurentides won out after a close game, and now St. Patrick's are determined to turn the tables, while the Laurentides are equally determined that they shall not.

Both teams have been practicing hard and a most exciting contest is anticipated.

Laurentides will start out with the following team, while St. Patrick's, who will have a number of changes in their line-up, are keeping quiet as to who will compose tonight's aggregation:

Goal, Demers; Point, Haddon; cover, Walsh; rover, J. Roy; centre, Ahlers; left-wing, Simard; right-wing, Gignac; W. Rooney, of the St. Patrick's, who was suspended on charges of professionalism, has, it is known, been reinstated and will play tonight. It was proved to the satisfaction of the League that he never received money for playing hockey.

SEND IN GUESSES TO CHRONICLE TODAY

ATTENTION CALLED TO TYPOGRAPHICAL ERROR IN COUPON NO. 2.

The Chronicle and Arena Guessing Competitions for this week close today.

Each set contains three coupons. Each set sent in must be complete and enclosed in separate envelope.

You can guess on as many sets as you wish.

All entries must be in the Chronicle Office or Chronicle letter box by seven o'clock tonight.

All envelopes must be addressed "Contest Editor, Chronicle." In order to facilitate the work of judging, ladies are requested to write "Arena Competition" on the left hand top corner of the envelope and the gentlemen to write "Men's Contest" on the left hand top corner of their envelopes.

A Correction.

There was a typographical error in Coupon No. 2 of the Men's Contest which was published yesterday. In this coupon which deals with the Quebec-Ontario match, the word "Toronto" should read "Quebec." Competitors are therefore requested to scratch out "Toronto" and substitute "Quebec" instead.

MEDAL SHOTS AT THE QUEBEC RINK

MR. ARCH. MILLER LEADS IN COMPETITION FOR PRESIDENT'S PRIZE.

The result of the medal shots with granites for the President's Prize, at the Quebec Curling Club yesterday afternoon, and evening, are as follows:

Table with 2 columns: Name, Score. A. Miller 38, S. J. Grogan 36, E. Levers 33, J. Patry 29, W. Lambton 29, H. Genereux 28, U. Genereux 28, W. W. Johnston 28, E. B. Lafleche 28, W. J. B. Fraser 26.

EUGENE TREMBLAY MAKES GOOD FIGHT

WALTER MILLER TAKES 1HR., 35 MINUTES TO SECURE THE FIRST FALL.

Fort William, Ont., Jan. 23—Walter Miller, of St. Paul, welter-weight wrestling champion of the world, beat Eugene Tremblay of Montreal after nearly two hours fast wrestling tonight. Miller got the first fall in one hour and 35 minutes with a scissors and ankle hold. The second fall came in 20 minutes by the same hold. Miller weighed a shade under 146 at 2 o'clock, while Tremblay weighed 136.

FINAL RACQUET MATCHES WILL BE PLAYED TODAY.

New York, Jan. 23—As a result of today's play in the National Amateur doubles racquets championship, J. W. Weir and Dwight F. Davis, of St. Louis, will meet the present champions, George R. Fearing and H. D. Scott, of Boston, in the final match tomorrow.

Weir and Davis played a surprisingly clever game against L. M. Waterbury and Payne Whitney of the local club, the match going the full limit of seven games.

The scores: 14-17; 15-6; 15-9; 14-17; 15-12; 6-15; 15-9.

Fearing and Scott won by default from F. C. Clark, Jr., and G. Courtney of the local club.

RULES ARE CHANGED FOR BODY CHECKING

CHARGING A PLAYER INTO A FENCE WILL DRAW A MAJOR PENALTY.

Montreal, Jan. 23—At a special meeting of the National Hockey Association tonight, the matter of body-checking was thoroughly discussed. It was decided to allow fair body-checking at any time during the game and at any place, although the rule which went into force last Wednesday night, preventing players from charging one another into the fence still holds good. In future matches the charging of a player into the fence will be dealt with as a major penalty.

Hereafter no change will be allowed during a match except during a stop in the play. This will prevent seven men from one team being on the ice at the same time.

U. S. Clubs After Franchise.

Applications were received from clubs in Boston and New York for a franchise in the league, which would give it an international interest. This matter was given over to a committee to deal with and report.

Arrangements for the world's series between the winners of the Pacific Coast Hockey League and the National Hockey Association were discussed and President Quinn authorized to proceed to arrange meetings of the title-holders. The matches this season will be played on the ice of the club winning N. H. A. honors.

President T. Emmett Quinn announced the officials for Saturday's matches after the meeting, as follows: Ottawa-Toronto at Ottawa—Riley Hern referee and Harvey Pulford judge of play.

Ontarios-Quebec at Toronto—Ernie Butterworth referee and Lawson Whitehead judge of play.

Wanderers-Canadiens at Montreal—Lou Marsh referee and Johnny Brennan judge of play.

WOOLGAST BEATS RIVERS AGAIN

MEN FOUGHT EACH OTHER ALL OVER RING RIGHT THROUGH.

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 23—Ad Wolgast, of Cadillac, Mich., former lightweight champion, had the better of Joe Rivers, of Los Angeles, Cal., in a fast ten round bout here tonight.

From the tap of the gong to the end, the men fought each other all over the ring, with the Michigan boxer doing most of the leading. It was this continual boring in and clever infighting which gave Wolgast his second victory over the Californian.

Wolgast gained a clear lead early, and Joe was never able to overcome it, although he fought at top speed. Ad had the better of the second, third, ninth and tenth rounds, while Rivers gained shades in the fourth and eighth. The other rounds were even but each man had to keep busy at all times to hold his own.

Rivers bled profusely throughout the match. Ad split his opponent's nose and mouth in the second round and kept peppering away at the cuts during the bout.

Twice during the fight, Wolgast went to the floor by missing swings, and each time Joe fell on top of him. Once they wrestled with Referee Stout in the middle of the ring and Wolgast almost went through the ropes.

Wolgast's ability to block and use both hands when at close range was excellent. Rivers showed to an advantage at long range, but he could not land hard enough to defeat the Michigan boy.

Both were hissed at times for rough tactics.

FRANKIE FLEMING RETAINS TITLE

KNOCKS OUT YOUNG JOSEPHS IN THE THIRD ROUND AT MONTREAL.

Montreal, Jan. 23—Frankie Fleming retained his title of Canadian feather-weight champion tonight when he knocked out Young Josephs in the third round. In winning this bout Fleming established his claim to meet Kilbane for the American title and will now challenge. Fleming forced the fighting from start to finish and Young Josephs was saved on two occasions by the gong. Young Josephs is an open fighter, while Fleming depends on his left jab and infighting to gain him the decision.

In the first round Fleming played for an opening and in doing so allowed Josephs to land several lefts and rights to the neck and head. Fleming then whipped over one that staggered his man and sent him to the ropes for the count. Josephs came back, only to walk into a series of left jabs which made him groggy and he clinched to save himself as the gong sounded.

In the second round Josephs started rushing in. He was met with a right hook and down chops. Josephs

LAVAL OF MONTREAL VERSUS LAURENTIDES. Exhibition Match at the Arena on Sunday Afternoon. A very interesting hockey game will be witnessed at the Arena on Sunday afternoon, when Laval of Montreal, who defeated Sherbrooke in Sherbrooke by a score of 13 to 7, will meet the Laurentides, the local interprovincial league team. The game promises to be a very exciting contest.

REGIMENTAL PETS. Nearly every regiment in the British army has its regimental pet, varying from the famous goat of the Royal Welsh Fusiliers to the tame blackbirds and thrushes of the Coldstream Guards. Only a few army pets are dogs, however. One of the most famous of these dogs was Drummer, which belonged to the Northumberland Fusiliers. Drummer went through three campaigns. He was present at the Battle of Omdurman in the Egyptian campaigns, when he snapped at the bullets, thinking they were flies! During the South African War, he was wounded in the shoulder at Wynberg, but recovered, and was awarded the South African medals and clasps by Queen Victoria. Drummer by the way, was the only dog which Lord Methuen allowed to accompany his column from Orange River.

Making One Dollar Do the Work of Two

YOUR dollars vary in value according as they vary in purchasing power.

The man or woman who studies advertising is able frequently, to make one dollar do the usual work of two.

The experienced reader of advertisements will always make a dollar command a premium, that is, make it buy more than the dollar of a non-reader of advertisements.

How much "above par" are the dollars in your pocket worth?

It will depend on how closely you study the buying opportunities out-lined in the store ads.

HUERTA REGIME NEARING COLLAPSE

SUCH IS CONDITION IN THE ADMINISTRATION CIRCLES AT WASHINGTON.

Washington, Jan. 23—Conviction in administration circles that the Huerta regime in Mexico is rapidly approaching the collapse which has been persistently predicted has led to much discussion here of the nature of John Lind's frequent conferences with Mexican leaders.

Mr. Lind's latest conferences with Jesus Flores Magon and other Mexican statesmen have interested members of the diplomatic corps who pointed out tonight that in view of President Wilson's reiterated statements that he would not recognize Huerta nor any of the things he stands for, the American envoy might very naturally be induced to throw out hints as to what type of man would meet with approval at the White House.

De La Barra's Standing.

So far as officials here are advised, the vicissitudes which preceded the Madero revolt and followed the downfall of that leader's stormy incumbency of the Presidency, have not detracted from the high standing which Francisco De La Barra, at present Minister to France, attained as the man of the hour when General Diaz was forced to abdicate.

Some uneasiness was felt at the War Department today by the appearance of smallpox among the Federal soldiers and refugees near El Paso, Tex., and instructions went forward to Brigadier-General Bliss to proceed at once with the vaccination of the several thousand soldiers as well as the women and children who crossed over into Texas after the fall of Ojinaga.

The general conditions of financial affairs in Mexico was summarized in this statement from the State Department today:

"Americans are finding the forced loans levied upon them a great burden."

The Ebano oil district, in San Luis Potosi, is reported to be fully controlled by the Mexican Federal Government, so that oil has been furnished to the railroads with very little interruption.

Cut This Out

Famous Specialist's Recipe for Catarrhal Deafness and Head Noises.

If you know someone who is troubled with head noises, or catarrhal deafness, cut out this formula and hand to them, and you will have been the means of saving some poor sufferers perhaps from total deafness. Recent experiments have proved conclusively that catarrhal deafness, head noises, etc., were the direct cause of constitutional disease, and that salves, sprays, inhalers, etc., merely temporize with the complaint, and seldom, if ever, effect a permanent cure.

Secure from your druggist 1 oz. Parment (double strength) about 75c worth. Take this home and add to it 1-4 pint of hot water and 4 oz. of moist or granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day.

The first dose promptly ends the most distressing head noises, headache dullness, cloudy thinking, etc., while the hearing rapidly returns as the system is invigorated. Loss of smell and mucus dropping in the back of the throat are other symptoms that show the presence of catarrhal poison and which are quickly overcome by this efficacious treatment.

OLDEST REGISTRAR.

The record public service of Mr. John Smith, of Shotteswell, Banbury, Eng., has added lustre to a well-known name by establishing a record. He is resigning his position as registrar of births, marriages, and deaths paid more than a guinea a column. From this it follows that Sir Edward Russell turned out some three columns a day, or about thirty thousand words a week.

A RECORD IN WRITING.

One of the oldest and certainly the most distinguished of journalists still in harness is Sir Edward Russell. He has witnessed many strange revolutions in the newspaper world. He began his career when the telegraph was regarded as of little use for the transmission of news, when the journalist was compelled to work under more laborious conditions than he does today.

The amount of work Sir Edward was accustomed to turn out will astound any person who has any acquaintance with the writing profession. "For four years," he asserts, "while I was on The Morning Star, I made $5,500 a year, and I was rarely paid more than a guinea a column." From this it follows that Sir Edward Russell turned out some three columns a day, or about thirty thousand words a week.

ROSS CALLS SENATE NON-PARTISAN BODY

LIBERAL LEADER MAKES HIMSELF RIDICULOUS—ATTACK ON PROTECTION.

Ottawa, Jan. 23—The contents of the Speech from the Throne and the Naval Question were again debated by the Senate today, Senator Daniel, of St. John, N.B., Sir MacKenzie Bowell, of Belleville, Ont., and Domville of Rothesay, N.B., being the speakers.

Senator Daniel took issue with Sir George Ross, who, on Thursday, described the Senate as a non-partisan body.

"How can that be when there is an opposition in the Senate and Sir George himself is the leader?" asked Senator Daniel, "to whom is the opposition? It is opposition to the Government. The Senate should be an independent body and I favor making it independent of both parties."

Senator Daniel urged that the political parties should come together on the question of defence.

Sir MacKenzie Bowell referred to the cost of living problem. High wages went with the high prices and the only ones affected by the higher prices of necessities were those on stated wages.

Redistribution Question.

With regard to re-distribution, Sir MacKenzie took issue with Sir George Ross who said the Senate had thrown out three distribution bills. He had looked up the record and had found that none of the bills thrown out had been general redistribution bills introduced constitutionally after a census.

Sir MacKenzie held that the reasons given by the Government for not introducing the naval bill this session were satisfactory.

Senator Domville urged that the Maritime Province ports be given justice by the Government and be treated as generously as were western cities. He predicted that the people would demand satisfaction at the next election of the Protectionists, who were now clasping Canada like an octopus.

The debate will continue Monday.

RICHERS OF WEST AFRICA.

Officer's Dramatic Discoveries—Where No White Has Ever Been.

Some interesting particulars of the new trunk railway, the construction of which will form one of the most important features of Sir Frederick Lugard's administration of Federated Nigeria are given by Reuter's Agency.

The chance discovery of Port Harcourt, the coast terminus of the line, by Lieut. Hughes, R.N.R. the commander of the Government yacht Ivy, was made under dramatic circumstances, and the fact that the projected railway will cut through the very heart of the mysterious and almost unknown centres of the strongest forms of juju and fetish worship should provide incidents which, as construction advances, will prove not less exciting than those which attended the building of the Uganda Railway.

The whole line, which will be 550 miles in length, of the standard African gauge, is estimated to cost £3,000,000, and to occupy four or five years in construction.

For years past attention has been directed to the necessity for opening up a part of Africa which is not only the most thickly populated region on the continent, but also includes the richest palm oil belt in the world, and after the discovery of a coal-field at Udi extending for over a thousand square miles and yielding coal showing 75 per cent. of the value of the best Welsh coal, the question of a railway became more pressing.

Recently Lieut. Hughes found a hitherto uncharted creek which to the surprise of all showed a depth of 50 feet of water alongside a precipitous cliff 45 feet high, a condition of things unknown anywhere between Sierra Leone and the Congo.

On this discovery being reported, the governor, in March last, commissioned the Director of Railways and the Director of Marine to investigate the matter, and as a result it was established that the newly-discovered creek, though not shown on any map, is really the main channel of the Bonny River.

A remarkable series of cliffs extending for three-quarters of a mile and averaging 45 feet above high water was discovered among the swamps. Opposite these cliffs soundings showed a depth of 70 feet of water. Armed with machetes, the Director of Railways, the Director of Marine and the commander of the Ivy landed, and by means of a rope ascended the cliffs and cut through a section of almost impenetrable growth twelve feet in height.

Lieut. Hughes then ascended a tree to view the country. A few people were met, and it was discovered that no white man had been there before. Further investigation showed that the general conditions of the place were such as had never been hoped for on the West African coast, and the spot has been called Port Harcourt, and selected as the terminus of the railway.

A CHINA EGG HEN

may even fool the HEN but it makes a mighty poor OMELET

WHEN you go to buy butter, you're a little suspicious of "extra-gains, are you not?"

WHY should you not be just as particular in purchasing Aerated Waters, a very important thing for your health?

Ours Are Standard

You can always rely on them. Aerated Waters is our sole business, all our time and energy is given to that special line. We don't dabble in any other business.

Our DRY GINGER ALE is perfection, we challenge the best imported brands. We are the only bottlers of Soda Water in the city, all others is carbonated water only. Our Ginger Beer is made from Jamaica Root and Cream of Tartar.

All our drinks are made with our celebrated Clair Fontaine artesian spring water, bored 271 feet deep through solid rock.

Order a supply for the Holidays from your dealer or grocer, BUT look out for the faker that sends you another make, simply because he pays 5c cheaper, but he charges you the same price as for ours.

A MOTHER'S SACRIFICE.

Legends in India run that if a woman stricken with leprosy suffers herself to be buried alive the disease will not descend to her children. There was in the northwest provinces of India the wife of a gardener on whom the loathsome malady had fallen. Children were born to her. The disease grew worse. She importuned her husband to bury her alive. He at last, yielding to her prayer, summoned his son, the two dug the grave and four negroes assisted at the sepulchre. So the woman died. These remarkable facts were investigated in a magistrate's court and were fully proved.—London Mail.

CUTTING IRON UNDER WATER

A German inventor has made an oxyhydrogen burner that cuts metals under water. Hitherto this has been a difficult thing to accomplish. Most iron cutting tools work very slowly and unsatisfactorily under water, and the oxyhydrogen flame in the ordinary burner is immediately extinguished when immersed. In the new apparatus the burner is protected by a bell-shaped metal hood. A powerful jet of compressed air keeps water out and effectually protects the gas orifice. Sixteen feet below the surface of the water the burner has cut through a bar or iron two and one-half inches square in thirty seconds. It can cut a twelve-inch slot in a three quarter inch plate in one and a half minutes. The burner should be useful to divers for cutting iron and steel in wrecks, for removing rivets, boring holes and other submarine work.

A CO-OPERATIVE STORE.

C. P. R. employees in Moose Jaw will form a co-operative grocery store to secure credit, which they cannot get from local retail grocers, who insist on a cash basis, an enormous requirement from men whose monthly salary is paid anywhere from the 15th to the 25th of the succeeding month.

Ten dozen eggs a year is the average estimate given as the production of the hen.

RUSSIAN SPIES AND POST OFFICE

LETTERS TO OTHER COUNTRIES ARE DELAYED BY BEING OPENED.

It has leaked out that Italy has protested to Russia that letters addressed to Italians are unnecessarily delayed. It is understood, moreover, that letters from Japan to England, and which travel via Siberia, are some times more than a week late. Russia has promised to look into the matter. At first sight it might appear that a mere matter of making railroad connections was involved, but the fact is that the huge Russian spy system is thus dragged near the surface. In a word, the letters that have been delayed are letters that have been opened by order of the Russian government, and some recent confessions by former secret service agents explain to us why some letters are late, why other letters are marked "damaged in transit," and why other letters have, obviously, been opened en route. The fact is, that Russia will not trust the people who write letters from Japan to England, and from Russia to Italy. Consequently, she takes the slight liberty of opening these letters. Usually they are re-sealed and forwarded. Sometimes they are not forwarded at all. Subsequent letters show that something is wrong, and eventually there are such protests as that which has forced the Italian government to address a note of protest.

Dark Age Methods.

Though Russia is a modern civilized country in many respects, in some other respects she belongs to the dark ages. Her government still countenances and sometimes instructs the opening of letters in the post office. After the semi-revolution that led to the establishing of the Douma, a proposal was made which would have made it impossible for government officials to open letters. This reform, however, was one of the many which were shelved. While the government does not admit that its agents interfere with private correspondence, it would make this interference a crime. England adopted such a law in the year that Queen Victoria came to the throne. France had formally denounced the scheme, and Germany is also in line. In fact, among so-called civilized countries Russia alone takes the position that the correspondence of Russian subjects is a matter that ought to be supervised by the government. In certain cases, such as the correspondence of known criminals and persons guilty of treason, the governments of other countries will interfere with the mail. In Russia, however, any citizen's letters are likely to be opened at the whim of the so-called "Black Cabinet," and their contents filed with the police.

Thousands of Letter Stealers.

The so-called "Black Cabinet" is said to have several thousand men in its employ, and their specialty is called "perustration." In Russia there is a force of some four or five thousand constantly employed in supervising the correspondence of suspected Russians. Quite as many more are said to be busy in foreign capitals, the largest force being in Rome, although there are many in London, Paris and other European capitals. In England and in other countries where it is impossible to make arrangements with clerks in the Post Office department, the agents of the "Black Cabinet" are little more than sneak thieves. They are watching the postmen delivering letters to Russians who are suspected, and either steal the letters after he has dropped them in the box, or bribed the postman or a housemaid. Of course, should one of them be caught in the act he goes to jail, unless the Foreign Office is influential enough to save him.

Millions Opened Each Year.

In some other capitals, where Russian influence is powerful, it is possible for these agents to work with the postal authorities, often upon the pretence that the man whose mail is opened, is a dangerous criminal. In Russia, there is no pretence whatever. Instructions are often sent out that such and such a postmaster is to send all the letters addressed to such and such a person, or supposed to be from him, direct to the general post-office at St. Petersburg, which is the home of the "Black Cabinet." The postmaster, of course, has no option but to obey. The letters of all persons suspected of treason are thus treated, and, of course, the letters addressed to or from all persons who have been convicted of sedition. It is estimated by a man who was once high in the "Black Cabinet" that some two million letters each year, are thus opened. For the most part they are forwarded after they have been read, and a note filed of their contents.

Opening One Letter in a Hundred.

This iniquitous system was begun under Nicholas I. His first order to officials was that all letters were to be opened. Consequently, all letters were delayed several days, and an enormous expense entailed, and under Nicholas I. there was a modification of the rule. A system described by the Russian equivalent of "fishing," was adopted, under which one of a certain number of letters was opened haphazard. This did not prove successful, though it lowered expense. In 1904-6 one out of every hundred letters was opened and read. At present one out of every thousand is tampered with. When an effort was made to stop this abominable practice, and a prominent citizen waited upon Stolypin with the complaint that the process delayed his letters for several days, the Premier responded: "Why, they often delay mine for weeks." The system being known, conspirators rarely, if ever, address each other directly by letter. They are mailed to somebody else, and the practice breaks down as regards the real traitors. It is the business man and the innocent revolutionist who are caught in the net.

CHAUFFEUR ARRESTED.

Toronto, Jan. 22.—Walter Reynolds, the chauffeur of the car which on Sept 24th was wrecked on the Dundas Road a few miles from Cooksville, resulting in the death of three men, was arrested this evening charged with manslaughter and criminal negligence. He will be taken to Cooksville early tomorrow for preliminary trial. Two inquests on the tragedy have been held, a Cooksville jury returning an open verdict and a Toronto jury finding Reynolds guilty of negligence.

OPPOSED TO CONSTRUCTION OF GEORGIAN BAY CANAL.

Berlin, Ont., Jan. 22.—At a meeting of the executive of the Great Waterways Union, held here today, the demand by the Montreal Chamber of Commerce on the Dominion government for immediate construction of the Georgian Bay canal was regarded as unwarranted, inasmuch as the work would entail an expenditure of two to three hundred million dollars. A resolution was passed expressing appreciation of the action of the government in undertaking construction of the new Welland canal as a link in the ocean to Great Lakes waterway and urging on the Dominion government that Western Ontario, and the prairie provinces be granted full representation on the proposed Royal Commission to investigate the commercial feasibility of the Georgian Bay canal, connecting the Great Lakes with deep navigation at Montreal.

WHAT DYSPEPTICS SHOULD EAT

A PHYSICIAN'S ADVICE

"Indigestion and practically all forms of stomach trouble are, nine times out of ten, due to acidity; therefore stomach sufferers should, whenever possible, avoid eating food that is acid in its nature, or which by chemical action in the stomach develops acidity. Unfortunately, such a rule eliminates most foods which are pleasant to the taste as well as those which are rich in blood, flesh and nerve building properties. This is the reason why dyspeptics and stomach sufferers are usually so thin, emaciated and lacking in that vital energy which can only come from a well fed body. For the benefit of those sufferers who have been obliged to exclude from their diet all starchy, sweet or fatty food, and are trying to keep up a miserable existence on gluten products, I would suggest that you should try a meal of any food or foods which you may like, in moderate amount, taking immediately afterwards a teaspoonful of bisurated magnesia in a little hot or cold water. This will neutralize any acid which may be present, or which may be formed, and instead of the usual feeling of uneasiness and fullness, you will find that your food agrees with you perfectly. Bisurated magnesia is doubtless the best food corrective and antacid known. It has no direct action on the stomach; but by neutralizing the acidity of the food contents, and thus removing the source of the acid irritation which inflames the delicate stomach lining, it does more than could possibly be done by any drug or medicine. As a physician, I believe in the use of medicine whenever necessary, but I must admit that I cannot see the sense of dosing an inflamed and irritated stomach with drugs instead of getting rid of the acid—the cause of all the trouble. Get a little bisurated magnesia from your druggist, eat what you want at your next meal, take some of the bisurated magnesia as directed above, and see if I'm not right."

AVIATORS SURE THEY WILL FLY ACROSS THE ATLANTIC NEXT YEAR

CLAUDE GRAHAME-WHITE

ADOLPHE PEGOUD

THAT the day when aircraft will cross the Atlantic is not far distant is the conviction of many prominent aviators. A regular service between New York and London, Paris and St. Petersburg is a very remote possibility; but air pilots declare it is a possibility. The aviators of at least three nations are earnestly at work preparing for an attempt to fly across the Atlantic Ocean, and those most interested are hard at work plotting the best courses and the safest routes.

It seems certain that the next great event in aviation will be a flight across the Atlantic. Almost every week brings forth fresh evidence of progress made in the evolution of machines and the education of pilots capable of attempting such an enterprise. Mr. Alan R. Hawley, president of the Aero Club of America, recently passed in review the elements of the problem and remarked that many of those interested in aircraft are firmly convinced that the Atlantic will be crossed by aeroplane within "their day and generation."

Perhaps that prediction is too conservative and guarded in form. The rapid development of flying machines, their constantly extending radius of flight, their increasing stability under the most difficult and varied atmospheric conditions, the technical mastery of present day airmen—everything encourages the belief that the moment is close at hand when the epoch-making flight will be attempted.

Broadly speaking, the difficulty is threefold, the machine, the man and the route being of equal importance to make the enterprise a success.

The aeroplane capable of crossing the Atlantic should be able to keep up a speed of 100 miles an hour under normal conditions. Such a long sustained flight will necessitate at least three engines and propellers, each capable of maintaining alone a speed that would insure the aeroplane remaining in the air, with a large margin of safety, even with the other two engines entirely out of action. For the aviator to be compelled to alight on the Atlantic, except in circumstances rarely found on that wide stretch of water, would mean disaster. But precisely on account of this one chance in a thousand—fairly smooth water, with little or no wind—the aeroplane should be capable of coming to rest on water as well as on land. In the long run it probably will be found expedient to start from and finish on water, as expanses of practically smooth water for starting and stopping purposes would be found more easily than flat stretches of ground.

Three men, if not four—two pilots and one assistant—probably would be necessary. The strain of a continuous flight of sixteen hours, even in the most favorable conditions, would be too great for one man. Then, besides steering the machine, there would be the necessity of finding the position by sun or star, or of getting it by wireless from liners in the vicinity. But by whatever method the position were found, the operation would have to be done by some one whose time and attention were not being taken up with steering. The assistant would have plenty to do in attending to the purely routine work of watching the oiling of the engines and in preparing warm food.

Which course will be adopted on the first transatlantic flight—from east to west or from west to east? This is still an open question. On general principles the flight from west to east appears to have the advantage on account of the prevalence of westerly winds on the North Atlantic. Mr. Roland Garros when speaking of his desire to cross the Atlantic appeared to consider an east to west flight, passing from some point in the British Isles to Iceland and thence to Newfoundland. Claude Grahame-White and Adolphe Pegoud, two noted aviators, are sure the feat of crossing the Atlantic next year will be accomplished.

Lower Deck Promotion Scheme in British Navy Advanced a Stage

A Prominent Naval Expert in London Discusses the Idea of Commissions for the Bluejackets—First Officers Under New Arrangement Are Now Afloat.

(Special Dispatch.)
LONDON, January 3.

THE scheme of the British Admiralty for advancing a number of promising young warrant and petty officers to commissioned rank has now been advanced a further stage. This month the first group of selected candidates have been confirmed in the new grade of mate, and they are being appointed to ships afloat for a period of service before receiving their commissions as lieutenants.

With their entry into the service afloat the bridge between lower deck and quarter deck may be said to have been completed for traffic, and henceforth there will always be a continuous stream of men passing over it.

This bold experiment, for such it must be considered, cannot fail to prove interesting, not only to the seaman but to the general public of a nation so noted for its democratic institutions as is the United States. If the scheme succeeds it may very likely be copied by other navies, and especially by one manned by voluntary enlistment, because of the stimulus to recruiting afforded by the knowledge that every boy who joins as a bluejacket is a potential naval commander.

It was in March, 1912, that Mr. Winston Churchill made the first official announcement of the decision of the Admiralty on this matter. He indicated that it had its real genesis in the need for more junior officers. In past times, when there has been a temporary shortage of this kind, owing to a sudden expansion of the active fleet, officers have been obtained from the mercantile marine. On this occasion a more popular and democratic arrangement has been tried in addition.

The First Lord said that a hundred or more commissions were to be offered to the lower deck, in yearly instalments of from twenty-five to thirty, so that the navy should be opened more broadly to the nation as a whole. Those who received these commissions were to be eligible for promotion to the higher ranks, but as they would start as commissioned officers some years after those who enter the navy through the colleges it was probable, he added, that the great bulk of them would retire content with a career which had

THE MAN WHO WILL RULE OVER ALBANIA

FIRST SOVEREIGN RULER OF ALBANIA PRINCE WILHELM OF WIED AND HIS FAMILY.

THE selection of Prince Wilhelm of Wied to ascend the throne of Albania as its first sovereign ruler was from the first a foregone conclusion. Apart from his personal qualities, he possesses one great advantage over his numerous rival candidates in that he is an Evangelical Protestant, and as such can be relied upon to preserve an even balance among the three religions—Moslem, Greek Orthodox and Roman Catholic—which claim the allegiance of the Albanians. The Wieds are of an ancient stock which early abandoned feudal habits and prejudices and acquired a "modern" view of the world and its needs, an essential factor in the realization of efficiency and reform in Albania.

British Antarctic Pictures To Be at the Alpine Club's Gallery

Some Very Interesting Pictures of the Journeys of 1910-13 To Be Shown—They Are the Work of Dr. Edward Adrian Wilson—Other Notable Art Exhibitions Are Now on View.

(Special Dispatch.)
LONDON, January 3.

AN exhibition of more than ordinary interest is that of sketches and water colors made on the British Antarctic expedition, 1910-13, by Dr. Edward A. Wilson at the Alpine Club Gallery, Mill street.

Dr. Edward Adrian Wilson was born in 1872. Educated at Cheltenham and Corpus College, Cambridge, he had no special training in drawing beyond the ordinary lessons given at school, but ever as a boy he was in the habit of making careful studies of birds, animals, flowers, landscapes and architecture, and, indeed, of everything he saw.

One has only to glance round the exhibition to see that this early training in accuracy made him an ideal artist to record the new and strange facts and phenomena of nature in the Antarctic. Captain Scott, with whom he perished, wrote of him: "Wilson is the most indefatigable person—when it is fine and clear at the end of our fatiguing days he will spend two or three hours seated in the door of the tent, sketching each detail of the splendid mountainous coast scene to the west. His sketches are most astonishingly accurate; I have tested his proportions by actual measurement and found them correct."

To this industry and accuracy the exhibition bears ample testimony. There is throughout an obvious sacrifice of any tampering with the record in order to secure an artistic effect; and the facts are all the more striking for the painstaking modesty with which they are stated. Everything is interesting, but it is natural that one should turn first to the records of the strange meteoric and atmospheric phenomena peculiar to the region—the signs and portents in the sky, that must have seemed like warnings of nature against the intrusion of man, such as a gray study of aurora Australis, the black, purple and crimson "Sunrise, August 4, 1910," the moon moons and suns of "Parselene, Cape Evans," and "Parhelion" and such unusual effects of color or reflection as "Shadow of Mount Erebus and its Smoke Cloud," and "Iridescent Clouds."

One effect of these drawings—and it indicates the feeling of terror conveyed by the simple statement of the facts—is wonderfully to revive the association of Cole-ridge's "Ancient Mariner." Two studies of the same subject, "Berg off Cape Evans, Last Day of the Sun," show Dr. Wilson's power of recording delicate differences in the play of light, and there are many drawings that bring home the fantastic shapes of ice in bergs and barriers.

Mrs. Vera Willoughby, who shows humorous and other drawings at the Dowdeswell Galleries, New Bond street, has real originality, a good sense of de-

Industrial Census of England and Wales

Striking Analysis Covers Working Life of Every Man, Woman and Child, and Shows Women of Great Britain Are the Rivals of Men in Many Occupations—Child Labor Still Employed Despite Law.

(Special Dispatch.)
LONDON, January 3.

THE analysis of the great industrial army of England and Wales is provided in a volume of census statistics which has just been issued. It covers the working life of every man, woman, and child who has to earn his or her living, and shows in a remarkable manner the keen competition which now exists between the two sexes in many industries.

First, we have a set of figures indicating who does the work and the number of the workless. Above ten years of age there are 12,682,290 males and 14,857,115 females, of these 2,308,835 males and 10,628,379 females are unemployed. Subtracting from these the boys and girls under eighteen years of age, we get the following totals:—

MEN.
Under 15 years of age	1,465,597
15 to 25 years of age	55,963
25 to 65 years of age	113,350
65 and over	356,082
WOMEN.
Married	5,560,522
Widowed	353,726
Unmarried	2,944,762

These constitute what the statisticians are pleased to call the "idle rich," and as they include all the insane, the old-age pensioners, the inmates of workhouses, and military, naval and civil service pensioners, the number, especially of men, does not appear to be inordinately large.

Every one else in the country engaged in some occupation. The workers include individuals as young as ten years of age and as old as sixty-five and upward. Here is a glimpse of the great amount of child labor still employed in England and Wales despite legislative restrictions:—

10 to 14	15 to 17	Years.
Boy workers	319,995	180,157
Girl workers	132,493	160,550

Taking the children of ten, eleven and twelve years alone, we have a total of 2,323 earning their living, some of the occupations being:—

Domestic service	318	Messengers	5,927
Navy	25	On farms	544
Actors	16	Newspapers	4,227
Vanboys	18	Toolmaking	65
GIRLS.
Textile manu- facturers	5,823	Dressmaking	53
Domestic service	425	Accessories	109
Shirtmaking	108	Farm work	71
Tailoring	42

The total number of women workers, including the girls noted above, is 4,850,734, of whom 2,835,439 are unmarried women over seventeen years of age. The workers also include 689,181 married women and 411,611 widows. The classification includes several hundred separate industries, and it is noteworthy that in only twenty-eight classes are the occupations followed exclusively by men.

So far as women are concerned they have only two occupations exclusively to themselves. These are daywomen, 24,001, and charwomen, 126,161. There are occupations in which they possess a preponderance, however, while in many others they are keen competitors with the male army. Here are some illustrations:—

Men.		Women.
National government	119,814	21,328
Local government	197,310	19,437
Physicians, surgeons	22,222	477
Painters, sculptors, artists	7,444	4,262
Literary, scientific and political	25,599	5,680
Teaching	16,425	157,252
Photographers	11,899	5,016
Musicians, music masters, singers	22,541	24,272
Actors	9,076	9,171
Commercial or business	54,209	1,335,258
Domestic service (indoor)	390,478	117,067
Commercial or business	54,209	1,335,258
Farmers and farm workers	971,708	90,128
Cabinetmakers, French polishers, upholsterers	84,667	14,431

Several artists are now exhibiting at the Modern Gallery, New Bond street. Miss T. F. Green has the entrance gallery with water colors of sunshine and shade in England, France and Italy. The best are two garden scenes, "Campanula Pyramidalis" and "Delphiniums."

Lady Cohen's water colors of London and elsewhere are strong in color and largely and loosely handled. "Westminster, from Waterloo Bridge," has considerable power, and "Bluebells" and "The Purple Border, Highfield, Kent," are two excellent flower studies.

Miss Rita M. C. MacLachlan shows water colors and etchings, "Olive Trees, Hesperes," and "Springvale, Isle of Wight," being the best respectively.

Of Miss Adeline Webster's portraits in water colors and pastel the most admired are "Commander Geoffrey Webster, R. N.," and "Portrait Sketch."

At the Victoria Galleries, Victoria street, there is an exhibition of very popular mezzotints in color by well known engravers after such painters as Reynolds, Gainsborough, Hopper and Raeburn. Even those who do not care for this form of art cannot fail to admire the mechanical skill and often the good taste in color displayed. "Hadden's Castle," by Mr. Alfred J. Skrimshire, after Constable, suggests a good opening for the art in landscape. Among the best of the portraits are "Mrs. Sheridan," by Mr. Skrimshire, after Gainsborough; "Sisters Frankland," by Mr. John Cother Webb, after Hopper, and "Mr. Home Drummond," by Mr. H. Norman, after Raeburn.

A Remarkable Ghost Story from London Involving Vanishing Lady and Disturbed Soul.

(Special Dispatch.)
LONDON, Saturday.

A WONDERFUL ghost story is agitating high society, according to the London Express. The principals are people of the highest social position.

The vicar of a Kensington church was leaving the church after choir practice when a lady stepped out of the aisle and asked him in agitated tones to come with her at once to an address near by.

"A gentleman is dying there," she said. "He is extremely concerned about the state of his soul and is anxious to see you before he dies."

The clergyman followed her to a waiting taxicab, and a short drive round the corner brought them to a mansion. The lady, who seemed to be extremely agitated, urged the vicar to hurry. He sprang out of the cab, rang the bell, and a butler appeared.

"Does Mr. — live here?"

"Yes, sir."

"I hear he is seriously ill and has sent for me."

The butler seemed astonished almost beyond words. He expostulated that his master was not ill, that as a matter of fact he was in the best of health.

"But this lady"—exclaimed the vicar, as he turned round, and then an expression of blank astonishment came over him.

The taxicab and the lady had completely disappeared.

The butler looked on the clergyman as either a madman or a practical joker, and was about to slam the door when his master came along the passage and inquired what it was all about.

"Are you Mr. —?" asked the clergyman. "I heard that you were seriously ill, and that you had sent for me."

He described the lady who had brought him, and the "dying" man said he could not identify her, that he had no such friend or acquaintance. They discussed this matter on the doorstep for a few moments, and then the clergyman was invited to come inside.

"It is very strange," said Mr. —, "that you should have been sent on such an errand in such a mysterious way. As a matter of fact, though I am perfectly well, I have been troubled lately about the state of my soul, and I have been seriously contemplating calling upon you to discuss the matter with you. Now that you are here let us brush aside this strange incident, and if you will give me the time we will discuss what has been on my conscience."

The clergyman stayed for an hour or so, and it was then arranged that his new acquaintance should come to the church the next morning and they would continue their discussion after service. He did not appear at the church, and the vicar, very much interested, called to see what was the matter. He was met at the door by the butler, who told him that his master had died ten minutes after he left the house on the previous evening.

They went up stairs to the bedroom where the dead man lay, and on a table in the middle of the room stood a portrait of the lady who had brought the clergyman in the cab from the church.

"Who is that?" asked the astonished clergyman.

"That, sir," replied the butler, "is my master's wife, who died fifteen years ago."

Mr. Mallaby-Deeley, M. P., Purchases Huge Property for Price Said To Be $25,000,000.

(Special Dispatch.)
LONDON, Saturday.

THE largest property deal ever carried out in connection with London has just been concluded by the purchase by Mr. Mallaby-Deeley, Unionist Member of Parliament for Harrow, from the Duke of Bedford of the whole of the Covent Garden estate.

No details are available regarding the exact price paid for the estate. It is understood, however, that it amounts to many millions, exceeding by millions any price previously given for a single property.

Unofficially, says the Daily Express, the price is stated to be at least £5,000,000.

The official announcement of the sale was made by Mr. Maurice F. Beadel, of the firm of Beadel, Wood & Co., surveyors and land agents, of Gresham street, E. C., in the following terms:—

"Mr. Mallaby-Deeley, M. P., for the Harrow division of Middlesex, has purchased the whole of the Duke of Bedford's Covent Garden estate, which includes such well known premises as Drury Lane Theatre, the Royal Opera House, the Waldorf Hotel, the Aldwych and Strand theatres, Bow Street Police Court, several well known printing offices, the National Sporting Club and Covent Garden Market. There is a box with a retiring room at the Royal Opera House, and also at Drury Lane Theatre and the Strand and Aldwych theatres.

"The property is situated in Aldwych, Bedford court, Bedford street, Bow street, Broad street, Burleigh street, Catherine street, Chandos street, Cross and Crown courts, Drury lane, Exeter street, Floral street, Gerrick street, Henrietta street, James street, King street, Long Acre, Maiden lane, Martlett court, New street, Russell street, Southampton street, Tavistock street, Wellington street, York street.

"The estate, which is freehold, extends to about nineteen acres, and although the price is not stated, it represents the largest private purchase on record.

"Mr. Maurice F. Beadel, of the firm of Beadel, Wood & Co., acted as agent for the vendor, and Mr. P. Stanley May, of May & Rowden, acted as agent for Mr. Mallaby-Deeley.

"Messrs. Beadel, Wood & Co. stated that no further particulars of the sale were available. "We cannot say anything about the price," said a member of the firm, "but you may take it that the sum represents millions of pounds. It must naturally do so, it is the biggest deal in property on record."

The stupendous nature of the sale may be gauged from the fact that, taking the purchase price at £5,000,000, the conveyance duty to be represented by stamps on the deeds will amount to £50,000.

The Covent Garden estate, once the possession of the monks of Westminster, was granted by Henry VIII. to John Kingston Russell, the founder of the fortunes of the family of the Duke of Bedford. At that time it is stated to have had a yearly value of £5 10s. 6d. In the current reference books the Duke is credited with possessing in all 41,615 acres of land.

Mr. Mallaby-Deeley, M. P., who is just verging on his fiftieth year, is a director of the Norwich Union Life Assurance Company.

Frenchman's Speed Bicycle

Cycle Freak Looks Like a Codfish, but It's a Marvel of Speed Riding.

(Special Dispatch.)
PARIS, January 3.

A FRENCH engineer has created revolution in push bicycle speed riding by the invention of a curious contrivance that overcomes the resistance of the air and permits of a bicyclist attaining wonderful pace.

It was used for the first time by Marcel Berthet at the Palais des Sports in Paris, and with its aid the bicyclist was able to create a world's record for an unpaced five kilometre ride. A kilometre is 1,093 yards, and five kilometres is, roughly, equal to three and one-half miles. The speed works out, roughly, at thirty-two miles an hour.

The times were as follow:—

First kilometre	1m. 16.5s.
Second	1m. 24.6s.
Third	1m. 34.5s.
Fourth	1m. 38.5s.
Fifth	1m. 46.5s.

In an unpaced speed test Berthet also covered one kilometre, from a standing start, in 1m. 16.5s., equalling the unpaced record made by the Dutch rider, Jaap Eden, at Bordeaux seventeen years ago. Berthet's best time for the same distance, from a flying start, was 1m. 15s., beating Perichot's unconfirmed record by 2.5s. and Dupre's recognized record, made at the Buffalo track two years ago, by 3.5s. Berthet's fastest lap of 250 metres (275 yards) occupied 15.2s., a speed of about thirty-six and one-half miles per hour.

At the end of the ride Berthet descended from his machine without showing the slightest distress.

The contrivance surrounding the bicycle is called the cycle-torpedo, and its inventor is M. Etienne Brenau-Vartilla, who thought it out and constructed it while he was serving his time in the French army. In an interview he said he had to be as wily as an Indian to preserve his secret, and suffered many punishments for unlawful absences from his military duties due to his devotion to his "air-cutter."

There is nothing intricate about the "torpedo," which is in shape something like an elongated codfish, the front being of a blunt wedge shape.

The front part is made of sheets of thin celluloid, which is so transparent that the rider is enabled to see to the front and sides of him. The "torpedo" is constructed on a very rigid curved wooden frame, which in its turn is fixed to the bicycle by iron braces which make it practically part of the machine.

Price of Petrol Need Not Alarm

Article in the London Motor Says That Increase Predicted Is Not in Sight.

(Special Dispatch.)
LONDON, January 3.

WHY discourage prospective buyers of automobiles immediately after the shows by unwarranted speculation about increase in the price of petrol?

In a leading article in the Motor this attitude is pointedly brought out to controvert the effect of a recent article in the Daily Mail which referred to another increase as a likely New Year's gift for automobilists.

Inquiry by your correspondent here shows that nothing interests automobilists more than substantiated facts relative to the price of petrol, but that nothing is more annoying than mere speculation.

None of the leading dealers of garages have definite information of a coming increase, and the Anglo-American Oil Company denies any knowledge of it. The best summary of the situation is contained in the Motor, which in its issue published yesterday, states:—

"The daily press has been indulging in disquieting statements during the week respecting a problematic increase in the price of petrol, based upon the fact that certain contract prices are being increased."

"It should be shown that, while the large majority of the trade has been paying the increased prices, a number of old contracts at lower prices have recently expired, and naturally these have been renewed at the rate which has been current for some time. We have the authority of the two leading petrol importing concerns for stating that, although increases have been made in these new contract prices, this fact does not necessarily imply that an increase to the ordinary consumer is contemplated. Of course, there can be no absolute certainty in a matter of this kind, and we can only repeat the assurances that have been given to us, admittedly in guarded terms, for what they are worth. Apart from whether there will or will not be a rise all round here is a distinct case where, as soon as the shows are over, and while many people may still be hesitating as to purchasing, the daily press steps in with its hasty conclusions and unsettling methods."

"At the present stage of motoring a rise of 3d. per gallon will be a very serious matter for the motor industry, and we hope and believe we are right in saying that, although certain new contract prices have been increased, there is no intention to interfere with the ruling prices of petrol to ordinary consumers."

MINE WORKERS OF AMERICA

EXPULSION OF A VIRGINIAN UNION FROM THE CONVENTION — DISCUSS A NUMBER OF OTHER MATTERS.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 23.—On charges that it was an organization maintained by a detective agency solely for the purpose of getting a spy into the convention, Local Union, No. 979, of Pocahontas, W. Va., was expelled by the convention of the United Mine Workers of America here today. M. D. Whitesell, the delegate accredited to the union, was not in the convention hall when the action was taken.

The attack on the union was started by A. R. Watkins, of Yorkville, O., an international board member, who declared that it was dangerous for a union miner to appear in the neighborhood of Pocahontas.

The convention voted to further a campaign for federal old age and mother's pension laws, and for liability and compensation laws. Carpenters, employed in and about the mines, must give up their membership in the Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, and affiliate with the miners, according to a resolution adopted this afternoon. William O. Green, international secretary-treasurer, announced that steps, looking to this action, were taken at the convention of the American Federation of Labor in Seattle. It was pointed out that since the miners had taken a stand for industrial unionism, it was the duty of the miners to include every workman employed about the mines in their organization.

The question of the consolidation of the United Mine Workers of America with the Western Federation of Miners was brought up, but was postponed until the fraternal delegates from the metal miners could be heard on the subject. Charles H. Moyer, president of the Western Federation is expected to attend the convention later.

The proposition for the formation of a national labor party, as proposed at the recent convention of the American Federation of Labor, was voted down without debate. The convention has adopted a resolution stating that the laboring people should unite on the political field.

The convention went on record as favoring the bill presented to the Lower House of the National Congress, by Representative Charles E. Bartlett, of Georgia, which would legalize agreements between employers and employees, and would limit the issuance of injunctions in certain cases. The question of restricting immigration came up, but it was put over until a copy of the bill introduced in the United States Senate by Senator Dillingham of Washington, had been received and investigated.

NATIONAL CITY BANK TO ENTER FEDERAL SYSTEM

New York, Jan. 23.—That the National City Bank, the largest institution of its kind in the country, will in all probability, enter the federal reserve system to be created by the new currency law, was learned from officials of the bank today. This put at rest numerous rumors recently current to the effect that the National City Bank contemplated surrendering its Federal charter and merging with the Corn Exchange Bank, the largest state institution. Such an institution would create a state bank whose combined resources would probably overshadow any regional reserve bank which might be established at this centre.

It is probable that no official statement will be made until the return of Frank A. Vanderlip.

INDIGESTION, GAS OR BAD STOMACH

TIME IT! PAPER'S DIAPEPSIN ENDS ALL STOMACH MISERY IN FIVE MINUTES.

Do some foods you eat hit back—taste good, but work badly; ferment into stubborn lumps and cause a sick sour, gassy stomach? Now, Mr. or Mrs. Dyspeptic, see this down: Paper's Diapepsin digests everything, leaving nothing to sour and upset you. There never was anything so safely quick, so certainly effective. No difference how badly your stomach is disordered you will get happy relief in five minutes, but what pleases you most is that it strengthens and regulates your stomach so you can eat your favorite foods without fear.

Most remedies give you relief sometimes—they are slow, but not sure. "Paper's Diapepsin" is quick, positive and puts your stomach in a healthy condition so the misery won't come back.

You feel different as soon as "Paper's Diapepsin" comes in contact with the stomach—distress just vanishes—your stomach gets sweet, no gases, no belching, no eructations of undigested food, your head clears and you feel fine.

Go now, make the best investment you ever made, by getting a large 50-cent case of Paper's Diapepsin from any drug store. You realize in five minutes how needless it is to suffer from indigestion, dyspepsia or any stomach disorder.

PENALTY FOR THROWING CONFETTI

To discourage the practice of throwing confetti as newly-married couples are leaving the church, the rector of Liss states in the parish magazine that whereas it has hitherto been the custom to give certificates at the time of marriage without charge, in future the certificates will have to be paid for at the legal rates in cases where confetti has been thrown in the churchyard. The fee for a marriage certificate with stamp is 64 cents.

THE STREAM THAT IS NEVER CROSSED.

There's many a sorrow and pain, I know,
As we tread the path of life,
There's many a grief and lasting woe,
And the way is toil and strife.
But the hardest load we have to bear
Is the labor and strength that's lost
In building the bridge with toilsome care
O'er the stream that is never crossed.

We had fretting and worry from morn till night
And anguish we felt on the heart.
The thorny way seems hard to right
And life is a bitter part.
But there is a burden greater yet,
Much peace of soul it has cost,
It is building a bridge with toil and sweat
O'er the stream that is never crossed.

There's looking for crossings all the day,
And searching along the shore,
For a bridge or ford along the way
We shall never travel o'er.
There's sighing for useless toys in vain,
And dreaming of chances lost.
But 'tis hardest to bridge with might and main
The stream that is never crossed.

Then gather the roses along the way
And treasure the fragrance rare,
Rejoice in the bright and joyous days
Refusing to borrow care.
For sorrow and pain will surely come
And your soul be tried and tossed
But don't be bridging to reach your home
O'er the stream that is never crossed.

FAKE AGENTS FOR CHARITY EXPOSED

LONDON SOCIETY ISSUES WARNING AND NAMES 169 BOGUS COLLECTORS.

London, Jan. 23.—The latest cautionary card of the Charity Organization Society which has been revised to date, is a remarkable document. It contains the names of 169 persons, who appeal to strangers for assistance. Most of these are very diligent at this season, and for this reason an additional warning to the public not to send money without inquiry is made.

Of these 169, of whom a fair proportion are women employing female collectors, nine have appeared before the public for twenty years, nineteen for fifteen years and forty-nine for ten years.

Collects $250 A Week. One woman, who has been known to the society for ten years, has been known to have cashed checks amounting to £50 in a single week, and there is evidence to show that she has received £100 from one donor in three months.

Another advertiser and "collector for charity," employs street collectors, to whom he pays 10s per week. In the case of another individual who asks for funds for a "mission" collectors are employed at 10c a week with commission on tickets which are sold for 3d to 1s and are said to provide a free meal or a day's outing. There is an office belonging to this organization, but rarely is any one found there.

"Even the collectors," says the cautionary card of the Charity Organization Society, "have complained of this absenteeism."

CONFIDENT HOME RULE BILL WILL BE PASSED.

Dublin, Jan. 23.—The trustees of the Irish "Home Rule" fund are so confident of the "Home Rule" bill passing the House of Commons within the next few months, that they issued a formal notification today asking that no appeal for funds would be made this year either in the United States or elsewhere.

Just One More Woman Rises

TO TELL HER SISTERS THEY CAN FIND RELIEF IN DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

Mrs. John Cabot, After Six Years' Suffering, Tried Dodd's Kidney Pills and Found New Life and Energy.

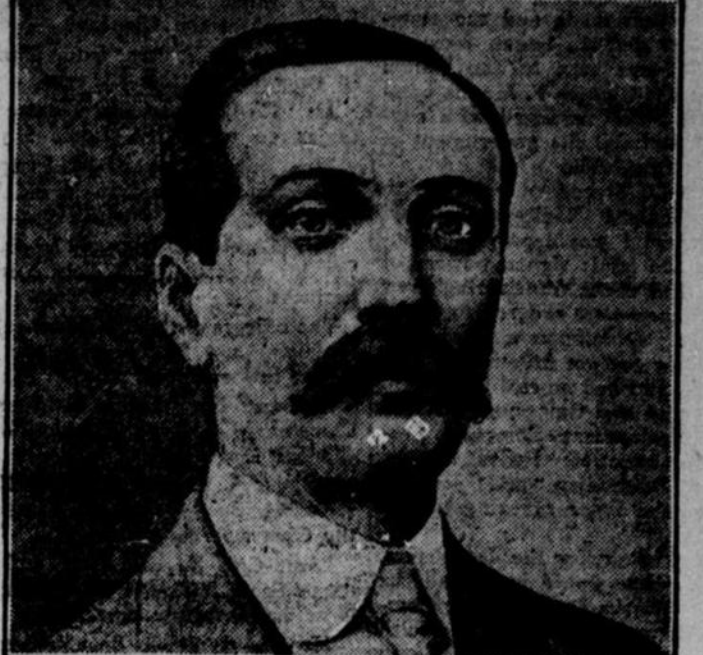

White Head Perce, Que., Jan. 23, (Special)—One more woman has risen to tell her suffering sisters they can find relief in Dodd's Kidney Pills. That woman is Mrs. John Cabot well known and highly respected here, and she expresses her enthusiasm in these words: "I certainly recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills. There is nothing better."

Asked to give her experience, Mrs. Cabot continued: "My trouble started in a cold, and I suffered for six years. Rheumatism, neuralgia, stiffness of the joints, cramps in the muscles and heart flutterings were among my symptoms, and finally Bright's Disease developed. It was then I started to use Dodd's Kidney Pills and they helped me almost from the start. After taking four boxes I feel like a new woman."

Dodd's Kidney Pills cure the kidneys. Healthy kidneys strain all the impurities and poisons—all the seeds of disease—out of the blood. Dodd's Kidney Pills not only cure the disease but by ensuring good blood give new life and energy to every part of the body.

KIDNEYS CURED AND VITALITY REGAINED

Prominent Ontario Merchants Says He Is Enjoying "The Best Health I Ever Had" Thanks to Fruit-a-tives.

B. A. KELLY, Esq. Hagerville, Ont., Aug. 26th, 1913.

"About two years ago, I found my health in a very bad state. My kidneys were not doing their work, and I was all run down in condition. I felt the need of some good remedy, and having seen "Fruit-a-tives" advertised, I decided to try them. Their effect I found more than satisfactory. Their action was mild and the result all that could be expected.

My kidneys resumed their normal action after I had taken upwards of a dozen boxes and I regained my old time vitality. Today I am as well as ever, the best health I ever had, and I unhesitatingly give you this letter and my photo for publication if you wish"

B. A. KELLY.

"The greatest kidney remedy in the world," is what thousands of people say about "Fruit-a-tives." And it is true. "Fruit-a-tives" heal the kidneys, strengthen the kidneys, cures the kidneys, as nothing else will. All over Canada today, hundreds of people who were sick and suffering, are curing themselves of kidney and bladder troubles, Rheumatism, and Lumbago by taking "Fruit-a-tives," the famous medicine made from fruit juice.

"Fruit-a-tives" is sold by dealers everywhere at 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c—or will be sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

CHARGE CONSPIRACY TO DEFAUD STATES

THREE ACCUSED OF COAL LAND GRAB IN ALASKA NOW ON TRIAL

Seattle, Washn., Jan. 23.—The jury was sworn, the opening statement of the prosecution made and the statement of the defence begun today in the trial of the case of the United States against Charles F. Munday, and Archie W. Shields, charged with conspiracy to defraud the government of coal lands in Alaska.

Burdette D. Townsend, assistant to Attorney-General McReynolds, said the government would prove that locators of the lands signed powers of attorney, and deeds transferring their claims, as they were ordered to do by the Alaska Development Company; that each locator got $100 for signing the papers, and had no real interest in the claims at any time, and that the Alaska Development Company proceeded to negotiate leases of the claims to Canadian and English capitalists, the latter agreeing to pay royalties.

Wilmot Tucker, for the defendants, said the defence would justify all the acts of the Alaska Development Company which was formed in good faith at a time when it was impossible to acquire title to land in Alaska except a placer claim. Mr. Tucker had not concluded when court adjourned.

The indictments against the defendants say the coal lands in question are valued at more than ten million dollars.

ROSTAND LECTURE

IN COLUMBUS HALL.

M. Andre Rostand, who will lecture in Columbus Hall this evening, arrived in town last night.

It is well known with what success M. Rostand met in Montreal last autumn when he lectured at the Ritz Carlton. The large audience who heard him in the Metropolitan were charmed with the eloquence and erudition of this masterly speaker. There is no doubt that M. Rostand, who is the nephew of the author of "Chantecler" and of "Cyrano" will meet with the same sympathetic reception here which he received in Montreal and which attracted a large audience as those which applauded him in the Metropolitan.

M. Rostand will speak on the life and the works of three of the greatest French poets of the last century, namely, Victor Hugo, Francois Coppee and Alfred de Musset. The attendance at Columbus Hall tonight should be exceptionally large and any who are interested in literature should not fail to hear this distinguished lecturer.

Tickets are on sale at the store of C. W. Lindsay, St. John street. Orchestra, 75 cents and $1.00. Balcony, 50 cents.

MONTREAL ACTORS HAVE CHURCH UNION NOW.

Montreal, Jan. 23.—The Actors' Church Union of Montreal, was formally organized today and the new body begins its career under exceptionally favorable auspices. The occasion was honored by the presence of Mr. Martin Harvey, one of the vice-presidents of the Actors' Church Union of England, who, in a brief address outlined the general plan of work undertaken by the union. The Montreal Union, while maintaining affiliation with the parent body in England, will be entirely independent so far as the management of its officers is concerned. The local union will doubtless be the nucleus for organizing similar bodies in all the large cities of Canada. The officers elected were: President, His Lordship Bishop Farthing; vice-president, Rev. Dr. Symonds; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Norman Smith; committee, Mrs. Wanklyn, Mr. W. A. Tremayne and Mr. Lansing Lewis, who have power to add to their numbers.

UPROAR IN THE HUNGARIAN HOUSE

MEMBERS OF OPPOSITION THROWN OUT BY GUARDS—BUSINESS STOPPED.

Budapest, Hungary, Jan. 23.—Armed guards were called into the Lower House of the Hungarian Parliament today to eject unruly members of the Opposition during a debate on the Press Reform Law. Ex-Premier Count Julius Andrássy, Count Adalárd Zichy, and a dozen other deputies were thrown out of the building when they defied a ruling of the President.

The uproar was so great that it was impossible to conduct business until the wearied members of the Opposition quit the House in a body.

As a result of the insults hurled across the floor of the House, Deputy Dezy challenged Count Stephen Tisza the Hungarian Premier, to fight a duel.

The Press Reform Law was carried after the tumult had subsided. The bill is designed to protect the Government against the attacks of the press, and the Opposition claims that it imperils the freedom of the Hungarian people.

WRECK AT NIAGARA.

PREDICTS EXTINCTION OF FUR-BEARING ANIMALS

Chatham, Ont., Jan. 23.—In less than ten years practically all the fur-bearing animals in the county will be extinct, if the prediction made by W. P. Conway, a hunter and trapper from Rondeau, is correct. Conway brought over 150 skins, consisting of 43 coon, 80 muskrat and 40 skunk. In three days he caught 23 coon on the government park at Rondeau, to hunt and trap on which preserve he has a permit.

VANCOUVER WANTS BOARD OF CONTROL.

Vancouver, Jan. 23.—Principle of a Board of Control was unanimously ratified by the committee of the City Council and it is anticipated that legislation will be introduced in this session of the Provincial Legislature to amend the charter so as to include this. If this legislation passes, the first election for controllers will take place next January.

SHOT IN STOMACH.

Montreal, Jan. 23.—C. M. Heig, of Toronto, who has been stopping at the Queens Hotel since Christmas, was shot in the stomach in the corridor of the Bellevue Cafe, Melcalfe and St. Catherine streets tonight. The shooting is alleged to have been done by Leon Lyons, 22 years old, a telegraph operator.

The bullet penetrated the clothing and made a deep flesh wound across the stomach. His condition is not regarded as serious. H. F. Eathorn, a clerk in the Queen's Hotel, who was with Mr. Heig, grabbed the revolver from Lyons' hand and striking him on the head, knocked him unconscious.

SAFE AND SURE FOR LITTLE ONES

Baby's Own Tablets are a safe and sure medicine for little ones. They never fail to regulate the bowels, sweeten the stomach and cure all the minor ills of babyhood and childhood. Concerning them Mrs. Duncan Joy, Vancouver, B.C., writes: "I always keep Baby's Own Tablets in the house and give them to my little one whenever needed, as I think them the safest and surest remedy a mother can give her children. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont."

WIGS AND THEIR COST.

Lawyers Pay Handsomely For Their Remarkable Head-Dresses.

The Long Vacation over, barristers and other officials at the Law Courts of England will again don their wigs, of different sizes and shapes, according to the position held by the wearer. The higher the office the bigger the wig. Doubtless it is from this fact that the slang term "big-wig," so often applied to those in authority, is derived.

The shape and construction of a wig, the number of curls on it, or the lack of them, are prescribed by unwritten law. From the "full-bottom" dress-wig of the High Court judge, down to the much less imposing headgear of the "junior," the shape and size of every one of them, and they vary considerably, show to what position in the law the wearer has attained.

The wig of the High Court judge, with the side flaps, falling over the shoulders in front, and adorned with rows of curls in plenty, is made of fine bleached horsehair, and costs from $75 to $100.

Judges presiding over lower courts wear correspondingly shorter wigs—called in the legal profession "bob-wigs." They reach only to the tops of the ears, have no side-flaps, and only two little curls on either side. These curls are placed vertically. The cost of a "bob-wig" is from $25 to $50, and they are much more comfortable to wear than the more imposing sort of wig.

The wig worn by a criminal judge is distinguished from that of the judge of a civil court by a small patch of black hair set in the top.

The wigs worn by barristers contain less horsehair and are decidedly neater-looking than those donned by judges. When a barrister attains to the dignity of putting the letters K. C. after his name, he is entitled to wear two additional curls on his wig to distinguish him from his brother barristers.

The wig of an ordinary barrister has two little longitudinal curls over each ear. It is but seldom that a barrister is allowed to speak unless he is wearing his wig and his gown.

The gowns worn by legal dignitaries vary as much as do their wigs. A high court judge wears gorgeous robes made of silk, trimmed with ermine, costing anything from $150 to $500. On state occasions the high court judge carries a three-cornered hat, but this is never worn by him.

A K. C.'s gown is of black silk, but an ordinary barrister is not permitted to wear a silk gown. His is made of alpaca, or some such material known in the legal profession as "stuff." When a barrister has been made a King's Counsel he is called a "silk."

NEW YORK BOXING BOUTS.

New York, Jan. 23.—Johnny Dundee of New York and Young Shugrue of Jersey City fought a fast ten-round bout here tonight with honors even. Dundee, weighing 127½ pounds to Shugrue's 135, equalled his heavier opponent's efforts.

Joe Mandot of New Orleans outfought and out-boxed Johnny Lore of New York in every round of their ten-round contest except the second, in which the local boy did the better work. Mandot weighed 136 pounds, three pounds lighter than Lore.

IS KILLED BY CAR.

Toronto, Jan. 23.—George James, of Bedford Park was instantly killed just before 7 o'clock tonight when hit by a rapidly moving southbound Metropolitan car opposite Birrell's Hotel, York Mills.

James was entering Yonge street from one of the side roads when his cutter "dragged" on the snowless sleepers, thus preventing him from clearing himself in time. The car struck the cutter with great force, completely smashing it, knocking the horse a distance of ninety feet, and killing it instantly. The body of James was thrown 125 feet away from the location of the collision. It is understood that an inquest will be held.

WANTS TO GET SHARE OF STRATHCONA ESTATE

Boston, Jan. 23.—Asserting that he is the son of Baron Strathcona and Mount Royal, late High Commissioner for Canada, James H. Smith, of Brookline, will take steps, it is said, to obtain recognition of his interests in the vast estate. Mr. Smith refused tonight to talk about it, but his wife said counsel had been engaged to represent him in presenting his claim to the executors of Lord Strathcona. Mrs. Smith added that no court action would be instituted unless friendly overtures were without avail.

She declared there was no doubt that her husband was the legal son of Lord Strathcona. "He is full brother to Mrs. Margaret Charlotte Howard, of London, who is recorded as Lord Strathcona's daughter and heir," she said. "Mr. Smith was in constant communication with his father."

The Smiths and their three children live in a comfortable but unpretentious home on Strathmore Road. Two of the daughters were in England last year.

NOVA SCOTIA SCHOONER REPORTED ABANDONED

London, Nov. 23.—The Nova Scotia schooner Toboatic, which left Alicant Dec. 23 for Santa Pola, is reported to have been abandoned at sea, according to a message received by wireless telegraph at Flores from the German steamer Leda, from Shields Jan. 13 for Baton Rouge, which reports that she has saved the schooner's crew. The Toboatic was built in 1908 at Liverpool, N. S., her port of registry.

MAY LIFT EMBARGO ON IMPORTING ARMS.

Washington, January 23.—President Wilson is reconsidering the lifting of the embargo on Mexican rebels obtaining arms and ammunition in this country.

The President has been moved to a reconsideration of the proposal because of the progress of the revolutionary movement and because of the tenacity of General Huerta in hanging on in spite of financial stress and dissension in the Federal army.

The President and Mr. Bryan conferred for an hour at the White House a plan to lift the embargo was freely discussed, as were recent reports made to the State Department by its representatives in Mexico, including John Lind, the President's personal adviser, and Nelson O'Shaughnessy, the American Charge at Mexico City.

VETERINARY ASSOCIATION.

Contagious Abortion Bacillus Is Found in Cow's Milk.

Ottawa, Jan. 23.—At the annual meeting of the Central Canada Veterinary Association held here tonight a paper was read by Dr. T. C. Evans of the Veterinary Director General's Department, upon the finding of the bacillus of contagious abortion in the milk of cows of an infected herd. The disease is causing numerous losses to dairymen and the fact that it may be spread to young cattle through the milk was considered an important one to consider in devising means for the control of the malady. The veterinarians present commended highly,

The Firm of EPHREM L'HEUREUX

The firm of L'Heureux & Gauvin, of which I have been a member for 10 years, was definitively dissolved this week. Wishing to devote all my time exclusively to the fur trade, which has always been my specialty, I will next Spring erect a most modern store at the corner of St. Joseph street & Boulevard Langelier. I intend to pay special attention to the preparation of furs and will always keep in stock a considerable assortment of furs and a complete display of hats. I take advantage of this occasion to solicit your distinguished patronage to my new establishment. You knew me when I was in partnership with Mr. Gauvin, and the encouragement you always tendered our firm, leads me to believe that I will always deserve the esteem and the confidence which you placed in me until now. I have opened a temporary store at No. 401, Richardson street, and I invite you to call and see my assortment, which is most complete. For additional information apply to No. 391, St. Joseph street; telephone 2683. Relying upon the encouragement of my former customers and soliciting the patronage of all, I am, Your most devoted servant,

GLASS EYE AND A WOODEN LEG USED

NOT IN PEACEFUL SHOWING, BUT IN FIGHT OVER POLITICAL JOKE.

Charleston, W. Va., Jan. 23—A unique fight, in which a glass eye and a wooden leg, were the chief weapons used, was fought in Charleston recently.

Alexander James, of Paint Creek, and James Edwards, who came here a few days ago from Kentucky, were the principals.

It all happened over a wooden leg. Edwards, who is a peg-leg man, loaded up with liquor and lay down for a nap. A practical joker applied a coat of paint to the wooden leg and then sprinkled a handful of horse hair over it, making it appear hair had grown on the artificial leg.

When Edwards awoke, somebody told him James was responsible for the trick. A few minutes later Edwards met James, who has a glass eye, and calmly unstrapping the wooden leg, struck James over the head, inflicting a severe gash.

James, knowing that he had done nothing to provoke the assault, took out his glass eye and hurled it at Edwards, cutting a deep gash in his temple.

THEY CALLED HIM VANUS.

It is curious how inconsistent are the prejudices of people in regard to the use of heathen names. Mr. Payne, in his "Gleams of Memory," tells an amusing story of Dean Burgen, who objected to the name of the goddess of beauty, but found no fault with that of the god of the woods.

The infant was brought to the church for christening, and the name proposed for it was Vanus. "Vanus?" repeated the dean. "I suppose you mean Venus. Do you imagine I am going to call a Christian child by that name, and least of all a male child?"

The father of the child urged that he only wished to name it after his grandfather. "Your grandfather!" cried the dean. "I don't believe it. Where is your grandfather?" He was produced—a poor old soul of eighty or so, bent double and certainly not looking in the least like the goddess in question. "Do you mean to tell me, sir, that any clergyman ever christened you 'Vanus,' as you call it?"

"Well, no, sir. I was christened Sylvanus, but they always call me 'Vanus.'"

ENGLISH AS IT IS SPOKEN.

It's like trying to learn a new language to pronounce certain names as they are pronounced in England. Thus Clogher is pronounced as if written Klore; St. Eger becomes Sillinger; Wrensfordsley is called Rensley; Ruthven is Riven; Wemyss is Weems; Colcough is Cokley and Monzie becomes Munie. The same is true of many other terms and an American in England must always be on the lookout as to his pronunciation lest he fall into error.

A MOTHER'S DUTY TO HER DAUGHTER

Is to Guard Her Health by Keeping Her Blood Supply Pure.

Anxious mothers who see their daughters fail in strength, become pale and languid, can be certain that the cause of their anxiety is the condition of the growing girl's blood. At no time in her life does a girl stand in greater need of pure, red blood and the strength which it alone can give her, than when she is developing into womanhood. It is then that anaemia rapidly develops and the growing girl finds herself in declining health. If your daughter complains of feeling constantly tired, if her appetite is fickle, if she is breathless from slight exertion, or if her heart palpitates violently on going upstairs, it is a certain sign that her blood is failing to meet the demands upon it, because it is thin and watery. It is at such times that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are worth their weight in gold to tired anaemic girls. They actually make the new, red blood, that brings brightness to the eye, the bloom of health to the cheeks, and strength and activity to the whole body. The following is an instance of their value to young girls: Miss Hilda Pearl Snowe, Barrington, N.S., gradually drooped under an attack of anaemia. At first she was pale and listless, suffering from occasional headaches, but as the trouble progressed, a severe cough also attacked her and her friends feared she was in the grip of consumption. Almost from the outset she was being treated medically, but with no apparent benefit. At a critical stage in her illness Miss Snowe wisely decided that she would give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial. After taking them for some time there was a noticeable improvement in her case and the Pills were gladly continued until she was fully restored to health. Miss Snowe is today as healthy and rugged as any girl could wish to be, and her friends believe that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills saved her life.

These Pills not only cure anaemia but all troubles due to poor blood and weak nerves. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockton, Mass.

U.S. TO FORTIFY HAWAIIAN ISLANDS

WAR DEPARTMENT WANT TO ESTABLISH STRONG MILITARY POST THERE.

Washington, Jan. 23—An extensive system of land fortifications for the Hawaiian Islands is proposed in the annual fortifications appropriation bill, reported to the House today. The bill would provide $457,000 to build fortifications as a part of the War Department's plan to establish a strong military post supplemental to the Hawaiian naval base.

At the request of the department, the measure would give congressional approval of the transfer of 45 field artillery pieces to the insular possession. The guns have been sent to the Philippines and the Hawaiian Islands during the past year by the department without waiting for authority from congress.

Major-General Wood, chief of staff told the appropriations sub-committee that fortifications of the islands was an urgent necessity in order that the naval base might be defended and maintained as a protection to the Pacific Coast and the Panama Canal. He and Secretary Garrison outlined the War Department's plan to the committee.

In Pacific Trade Routes.

"The Hawaiian Islands," said General Wood, "are really in the centre of all the Pacific trade routes, and whoever holds them will exercise very great influence; if not control in time of war, on the Pacific trade."

The importance of holding these Islands securely fortified, as a naval base, is of the greatest, in considering the question of the defence of our own coast and the Panama Canal, because any enemy from the west of us desiring to attack either the Pacific coast or the Panama Canal has got to leave these islands in his rear in order to do so, and I doubt if any well-considered hostile expedition would venture to assume such a risk as it would necessitate the movement of troops and supplies of all kinds through waters in which we would hold a strongly fortified base, giving adequate protection to our ships, and so situated as to give an opportunity to make sudden and unexpected attacks upon the enemy's line of communication, jeopardizing his transport of men and supplies. It would also mean that in case of any disaster on our coast, he would have between him and his own port, a strongly defended rendezvous for our fleet, from which he would be liable to attack. In other words, the holding of this strong place as a fortified naval base, would necessitate in all probability, operations looking to its reduction and occupation prior to extensive operations against the American coast or the Panama Canal region."

General Wood presented a statement of the garrison which the department plans to place in the works on the Island of Oahu, near the city of Honolulu. It called for 15,665 men and 505 officers.

When representative Shirley asked if the Panama Canal defence prompted these plans, the General said:

Panama Canal a Reason.

"The Panama Canal has been a strong additional reason for doing this, but the defence of the Pacific Coast is also a reason. I think the fundamental reason. Also we do not hold securely these islands, capable of sustaining a population of 500,000 people, and if they should fall into the hands of a strong naval power, thereby placing that power in a position where it would have practically undisputed control of most of the trade routes, he would be so near as to greatly jeopardize our trade, and would virtually put him in a position of potency right off our coast on islands sufficiently fertile and large to maintain his force, and to give him a splendid harbor as a place for supply and refuge for his fleet."

THE RACTIME MUSE.

Friends by the way! They come and go,
They drift about the world and then,
Victims of various kinds of woe
They come and call on me again,
They like me very much, and so
They borrow five, or maybe ten.

They frankly scorn my mean estate,
And of my "shameful bondage" speak;
They call me slave and mourn my fate,
Say I should roam and fortune seek,
And then they borrow six or eight
And promise to repay next week.

Friends by the way, a lordly crew!
You think I love my job too much,
And say that I should dare, like you,
And try my hand at such and such.
And then you ask a bone or two—
Merely a temporary "ouch!"

Oh, casual friends, forget to pay;
Ignore me coldly when we meet;
But let me keep my job, I pray,
For if I should with you compete
We all might hunger many a day—
For I must work that you may eat!

LONG DISTANCE POWER.

The greatest long-distance power transmission in Southern Asia is in the native State of Mysore, power being transmitted from the Cauvery Falls to the Kolar gold fields, ninety-two miles away, and to the cities of Mysore and Bangalore, about forty and eighty-six miles away, respectively, for electric lighting and power purposes.

TO EXCLUDE HINDUS FROM THE STATES

NO NECESSITY FOR ANY LEGISLATION TO KEEP OUT THE JAPANESE.

Washington, Jan. 23—Secretary Wilson made a statement late today, explaining that his recommendations contained in a letter made public by the House Immigration Committee did not contemplate disturbing existing immigration arrangements with Japan, in any way, but were designed primarily to exclude Hindus, who were coming in great numbers to the Pacific Coast. He said that in view of the restrictions against Hindus made by various British colonies, no protest from Great Britain against the proposed discrimination was anticipated.

The Burnett bill, virtually identical with the measure voted by President Taft, does not embody Asiatic exclusion as proposed in the Raker resolution, but is featured by the literary test.

"There is no necessity for any legislation so far as the Japanese are concerned," said Mr. Burnett tonight. "A gentlemen's agreement was made with Japan in 1907, under which Japanese coolies were to be kept out. During the fiscal year 1912, only 5,358 Japanese entered this country against 5,437 that were deported or otherwise left the country. The Hindu problem is a great deal more serious than that of the Japanese."

HAMBURG AMERICAN OUTLAWED BY POOL

C. P. R. WILL BE CONTENT TO STAND BY AND WATCH STRUGGLE.

London, Jan. 23—The British steamship owners today announced that they are not in any way interested in the struggle between Herr Ballin, of the Hamburg-American line, and the newly formed Atlantic steamship pool, now consisting of the Red Star, North German Lloyd and Holland-American lines.

These companies, angered by what they term the dictatorial attitude of Herr Ballin and his alleged attempts to carry things with a high hand regarding the re-arrangement of the proportions under the pooling agreement, yesterday announced that the Hamburg-American was outlawed as a member of the pool.

Official announcement of the attitude of the British lines was contained in an official statement handed out this morning by the Cunard line and says that the British lines are not members of the new Atlantic combine and will take no part, whatever in the impending war, beyond protecting their own interests if they are attacked.

Dispatches from Paris predict that a struggle to the death between Herr Ballin and his former associates in the pool will be begun almost immediately. Steerage rates will be the first to feel the effects of this war, and heavy cuts in the westbound fares may be expected.

In shipping circles it is felt that a costly campaign must inevitably result, and it is expected that this will not be confined to steerage rates, but that saloon passengers will also benefit by the fight.

It is said that the Canadian Pacific Railway, with the other British lines, will be content to stand by and watch the German owners struggle for the mastery, carrying out their own program as arranged months ago.

FRUIT LAXATIVE FOR SICK CHILD

"CALIFORNIA SYRUP OF FIGS" CAN'T HARM TENDER STOMACH, LIVER, BOWELS.

Every mother realizes, after giving her children "California Syrup of Figs" that this is their ideal laxative and it thoroughly cleanses the tender little stomach, liver and bowels without griping.

When cross, irritable, feverish or breath is bad, stomach sour, look at the tongue, mother! If coated, give a teaspoonful of this harmless "fruit laxative," and in a few hours, all the foul, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. When its little system is full of cold, throat sore, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, indigestion, colic—remember, a good "inside cleansing" should always be the first treatment given.

Millions of mothers keep "California Syrup of Figs" handy; they know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs" which has directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeiters sold here, so don't be fooled. Get the genuine made by "California Fig Syrup Co."

A Natural Remedy
Time was when disease was thought to be due to the direct influence of evil spirits, and exorcism and magic were invoked to cast it out.
Science has taught us wisdom. The evil spirits exist still. We call them "Disease Germs," and they also must be cast out. Once lodged in the stomach or intestines, fever with its hallucinations, or biliousness with its aches and pains, is the result.
ENO'S 'FRUIT SALT'
is the approved remedy for driving out disease germs. Its action is quick and thorough. It clears the intestines, rouses the torpid liver to new life, stimulates the mucous membrane to a healthy action, and cleanses and invigorates the whole digestive tract.
Be prepared for emergencies by always keeping a bottle in the house.

Received over the private wire of McDougall & Cowan, Stock Brokers, 61 St. Peter St., Quebec. Tel. 446

New York, Jan. 23.—Market opened active with some irregularity. Heavy profit taking again developed and continued during the most of the day but this profit taking was entirely absorbed and the tone remained strong throughout, and at no time during the day did reactions extend to more than fractions. During most of the session prices ruled but little changed from last night's close except in the case of Canadian, which showed weakness, being sold both for foreign and domestic account. In the late afternoon the entire market became active and strong with most of the active issues making new high records on this movement. Cons. Gas advanced over 3/8, Southern Pacific, B. & O., Atchafalaya, all showed marked strength, while Erie advanced on large transactions. Once more the movement remained very uniform, specialties cutting but a small figure in the transactions and the rise in the last hour was participated in by practically everything on the list. The highest of the day was made in the last half hour and the tone at the close was buoyant. Reading has for several days been under steady and persistent pressure. The selling is not sufficient to force any decline, but prevents the stock from advancing.

SMOKING NUISANCE AT QUEBEC ARENA

SPECTATOR COMPLAINS THAT MANAGEMENT DOES NOT CARRY OUT ITS ORDERS.

Quebec, Jan. 22, 1914.
To Editor of the Chronicle.

Dear sir,—I believe a few words regarding the smoking at the Quebec Arena during the N.H.A. games would not be at all out of place. During the match Wednesday night, the Management of the Arena distribute circulars, in both French and English, which though not very grammatical, requested the spectators plainly enough, to refrain from smoking.

The Management also solicited the co-operation of the spectators in the endeavor to stop the smoking during the games. Nevertheless, when the attention of one of the ushers was drawn to a couple of men who were smoking within ten feet of the usher, he refused to act. The manager of the Arena being then notified, he just made one of the offenders stop smoking. Now, it seems to me that it would be only fair to eject any offender after notice has been given, both in English and French that this rule would have to be general, and there should be no privileged friends or officials, otherwise everyone will smoke. Towards the end of the second period, when Mr. Derome was again notified that there were several people smoking, he replied very shortly: "I'm not a policeman." Of course I understand that it would have been a kind of hard for him to eject one of the high officials of the Quebec team, who was giving a bad example by smoking a cigarette in the cage. But it seems that the Management after all, are not so very grateful for the assistance some spectators are trying to give them, in abolishing the smoke nuisance. I may add that when Mr. Derome was asked where the policemen who had authority to stop the smoking were, he mumbled something under his breath and walked away, giving very little satisfaction.

Yours for the enforcement of just rules.

A WOULD-BE CO-OPERATOR.

WHOLE CLASS SICK.

The late Prof. Copeland was professor of astronomy in Edinburgh University, but the duties of this office were not very arduous. "How is your astronomy-class getting on?" a friend asked him once. "Oh, very well, very well indeed," replied Prof. Copeland, with a gratified air. "But at present he is laid up with influenza."

HON. THOS. CHAPAIS IS IN FAVOR OF ROYAL COMMISSION

However He Agrees to Be One of Investigation Committee
Named by the Council.

BILL 158 IS DISCUSSED

Leader of Opposition in the Upper House Recalls C. P.
R. Scandal of Year 1873.

The charges of corruption made by the Montreal Daily Mail were again taken up in the Legislative Council yesterday afternoon, of which body Hon. Messrs. Berard and Bergevin are mentioned in the accusations. Following a brief discussion it was decided to appoint a committee composed of Hon. Messrs. Turgeon, Speaker of the Council, Thos. Chapais, Leader of the Opposition in the Council, and Mr. Champagne, to investigate the charges.

The committee will hold its first meeting on Tuesday afternoon next, the same day that has been fixed for the meeting of a similar committee of the Lower House to investigate the charges made against Mr. J. O. Mousseau, member for Soulanges.

Possible Difficulties. As the charges are identically the same against the members of the Upper House as against the member of the Assembly, it would seem that some difficulties may arise at both committees sitting separately and simultaneously. Certainly Mr. Chapais' opinion that the charges should be investigated by a Royal Commission seems to be the most logical way to proceed. Mr. Chapais, however, remarked that under the circumstances he accepted the decision of the Government Leader, Hon. Mr. Perodeau, who proposed the motion, and he agreed to act as a member of the committee.

The Council on meeting first disposed of routine business, passing the Kelly bill amending article 85 of the Civil Code concerning the election of domicile, with the amendments which had been made at the previous sitting. The private bill concerning the estate of Walter Kavanagh, was also read a third time.

Hon. Mr. Perodeau in presenting his motion for the appointing of the committee, which, in substance, is the same as that presented in the Lower House by Sir Lomer Gouin, said that the proposition spoke for itself, and was introduced as a Government measure. The charges were unfortunate, he said, as they were calculated to injure the good name of the Legislature.

Question of Procedure.

Hon. Mr. Chapais, in discussing the motion touched on the question of procedure to be followed. He did not, he said, intend to go into the merits of the charges, for when he had first heard the rumors of scandal, he had resolved not to give his opinion until the House had been fully acquainted with all the facts. While he was prepared to accept the Government's proposal, he was of the opinion that a Royal Commission would have been a more proper tribunal. Custom might favor a committee of the House as being more logical, but there was a precedent in Canadian History. In the year 1873 in the Upper House of Canada, the late Hon. Mr. Huntingdon laid grave charges against the late Sir John A. MacDonald in connection with the Canadian Pacific Company, and the Upper House on hearing the accusations appointed a Royal Commission to investigate the charges. The House then adjourned and reopened a few weeks later to hear the report of the commission, and as it was well known the cabinet of Sir John MacDonold was forced to resign.

Hon. Mr. Chapais said that he did not insist on his colleagues adopting his opinion, but thought it his duty to express his views though at the same time he was prepared to accept the suggestion of the Government; and to perform the duties which were assigned him by the motion before the House.

Cites Teller's Action.

Hon. Mr. Chapais remarked that while it was a rule not to allude to proceedings of the Lower House, he would ask permission to draw attention to the declarations of Mr. Teller, Leader of the Opposition, who in his opinion, followed the best parliamentary practice in urging the Government to bring the accusers before the Bar of the House so that complete declarations would be made before a special investigation committee was appointed. It was only then that the House would be officially informed of the charges, unless a member of the House made the charges himself. After the accusers appeared, he said, the Government would be in a position to know how to act. If the accusers, for example, admitted they were wrong, there would be no need of an investigation, and the only thing then left to decide would be what punishment would be meted out to the detractors. He repeated that in his opinion the Leader of the Opposition in the Lower House had taken the right stand, but as the Upper House, was so to speak, a Court of Review, that was the reason why he did not take the same stand as Mr. Teller.

Were he to consult his own pleasure, Mr. Chapais said, he would have nothing to do with the investigation, but setting aside such considerations, he was willing to act on the committee and perform his duties to the best of his ability and without fear in the sole interest of safeguarding the honor of the Legislature of this Province.

Discusses Bill 158.

Hon. Mr. Chapais then discussed Bill 158, which had been the cause of all the trouble. Certain newspapers had said that the bill was of so extraordinary a nature that it should have been rejected at once by any legislative body that had any self-respect among its members. Such an opinion he held as extreme. He was not an admirer of all legislation that passed the Legislature, as he thought some of the bills should have been amended more radically, but at the same time he did not consider that bill 158 was deserving of all the unhappy events that had been associated with it. As to the license clause, which had been so much talked about, it existed in the bill, but was surrounded by such conditions as to render the clause harmless, provisions having been inserted obliging the promoters to first secure the consent of the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council. He considered it only just to declare that the legislation passed was not objectionable, and he added that in accepting the membership on the committee he did so only in the hope of rendering justice to his colleagues and to the honor of the Legislature.

There was no further debate and Hon. Mr. Perodeau's motion appointing the committee of investigation was carried.

THE FUNERAL OF GUNNER OUELETTE.

The funeral of the late Gunner Napoleon Ouelette, No. 4 Company, R.C.G.A., took place yesterday morning from the Citadel to Mount Hermon Cemetery.

After an impressive service by Rev. T. P. Perry, M.A., pastor of the Methodist Church, the funeral procession left the Citadel in the following order: Firing party with arms reversed; band with muffled drums; casket containing body, wrapped in the Union Jack, borne on a gun carriage drawn by six horses. On the casket, besides the helmet and side arms of the deceased, were numerous floral offerings, including wreaths from Albion Lodge, I.O.O.F., the Sergeants, 3 and 4 Companies, R.C.G.A., C.P.A.S.C., and many others. Following the remains were detachments from the permanent force with their officers, including Lieut.-Colonel H. E. Burstall, A.D.C., commanding, besides the members of Albion Lodge, I.O.O.F., to which deceased belonged. On reaching St. Louis toll-gate, three volleys were fired over the body and "Last Post" sounded. The procession then proceeded to Mount Hermon Cemetery, where the committal prayers were said by Rev. T. P. Perry.

IDEAL LENGTH FOR SERMON.

What is the ideal length for a sermon? The question is raised by Dean Hole in his "Memories." By the way of illustration, he tells a story of a sheriff's chaplain who had once asked the judge what was the proper length of a sermon. "Well, twenty minutes," was the answer, "with a leaning to the side of mercy." That is good advice—and, by the way, it is advice which Queen Victoria would have heartily approved. In 1867 the Queen presented a pulpit glass to the Chapel Royal, Savoy, and it was timed for exactly eighteen minutes. There was no mistaking the hint. If you wanted to please the Queen you stopped preaching at eighteen minutes.
