J. Hughes this week. The claim amounted to $644.94.

The explosion occurred at 6.22 p.m., Saturday January 25. Seven manhole covers were sent spiralling through the air by the force of the blast.

The leak was not serious and was repaired in two hours, however it took two days to find it. During this time, strict precautionary measures were taken and crews of the various departments concerned were on constant duty in the area.

Report on Rotary meet

At the weekly lunch meeting of the Rotary Club of Westmount, Wednesday, Dr. John Lochead reported on the visit he had made to Dallas, Texas, representing the club at the annual Rotary International Convention, from 1st to 5th of June.

Thirty-eight Rotarians travelled down in two special coaches from Brockville, Ont.

Dr. Lochead

On arrival about half the party, which came from Ontario and Quebec, stayed on board the coaches which were kept in a siding and the other half stayed at hotels in Dallas.

The convention opened unofficially on Saturday with a barbecue dinner which was attended by some 5700 people.

The official opening took place on Sunday night with preliminary speeches of welcome and a "Pageant of American Song" performed by a 250-member choir.

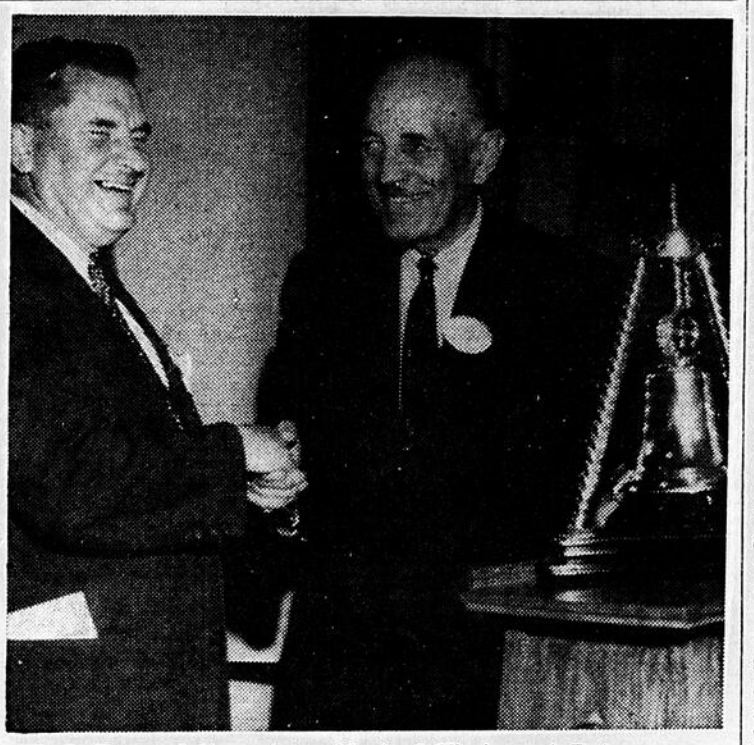
On Monday morning official speeches were made by Governor Daniels of Texas and by the Mayor of Dallas. In the afternoon craft assemblies were held in various parts of the city featuring the many Rotarian vocations. In the evening, members were entertained by local Rotarians, following which they attended the Governor's Bal.

Tuesday saw the reading of the Secretary and Treasurer's report and the committee of legislation held a four-hour meet- at which the laws of the Club were brought up to date and questions of membership and membership standing were discussed.

On Wednesday morning, a doctor from Johns Hopkins Hospital read a speech discussing science and service in modern times and in the evening a Commonwealth dinner was held which was attended by members from Australia, South Africa and Rhodesia, among other countries.

On the final day, the president for 1958-59 gave his address in which he outlined the future of the club throughout the world. It was also decided to hold next year's convention in New York City and that of 1960 at Miami Beach.

Concluding his report, Dr. Lochead declared that it had been a wonderful experience for him and he was grateful for having had the opportunity of meeting so many people from different parts of the world.



W. J. Tawse, left, past president of Westmount Rotary, congratulates J. Philip Page, new president of the club. Page was invested at the luncheon meeting held Wednesday.

Reconstruction program to cost $340,000

Capital works commitments to the tune of some $345,000.00 were passed by Council this week and work has already started on some of the projects.

All but $5,000.00 of the amount had already been approved in principle by the Council on April 21 as part of the Capital Works to be carried out during the 1958 construction season. By-law 625, however, from which the commitments must be made, did not come legally into effect until this week.

Reconstruction and widening of roadways is scheduled for three sections at a total cost of $275,650. Due for the face lifting are: Clarke Ave. between Sherbrooke and The Boulevard; Sunnyside Ave. between Victoria Ave. and Lexington Ave.; and Sunnyside Ave. between Lexington and Upper Bellevue. This latter project was started Wednesday.

Sunnyside will also be favored with three inch sheet asphalt repaving from Upper Bellevue avenue to Bellevue avenue at a cost of $4,400. Cedar avenue will get the same treatment from The Boulevard to the eastern city limits for $8,100.

Nearly $50,000.00 has been allotted to cover cost "of rebuilding ramps and selected portions of sidewalk and independent curb where necessary."

A total of $1,350.00 was voted for the construction of concrete steps from Edgehill road to points on The Boulevard and Upper Lansdowne.

Special and standard catch basins to improve surface drainage will be installed at a cost of $5,000.00 in a number of locations throughout the city.

Next week's weather

By ERIC NEAL

June 28 to July 5

Mainly sunny and very warm, with widely scattered afternoon showers. Generally fair, hot and humid into midweek, followed by heavy thunderstorms with hail and cool winds.

Masses of warm, moist air often sweep up from the Gulf of Mexico at this season and fan out over the northern States and eastern Canada. Southern county temperatures only some five degrees lower than those for New York. Wet mists in the mountains (brouillasses) often last all morning at this time, with sunny, hot afternoons.

Blue skies and sunny, worm days to end of the week, with some morning fogs or mists.

This is the time that British Columbia's prime attractions Ogopogo and Caddy are seen, and the Loch Ness Monster is reported in Scotland. Maybe Moby Dick will visit our eastern coasts, who knows ?

William D. Harper wins U.S. degree

William Douglas Harper of 55 Aberdeen avenue, Westmount, received his degree as Master of City Planning at commencement exercises, University of Michigan, June 14.

Mr. Harper was the only graduate from Westmount in a list of degrees conferred on 5,813 graduates embracing students from all over the world including Alaska, Belgium, Brazil and Burma.

Tawse presents final report

Making his final speech of the year Wednesday, Westmount Rotary Club's retiring president, W. J. Tawse, revealed that the club had spent a total of $15,552 on charitable work during the past year.

In the course of his speech, Mr. Tawse praised the work done by the various committees and their chairmen. The Unity Boys' Club, their major project as in previous years, was going ahead strongly under the guidance of Jim Lawson and his committee. The Youth Service, under Ron Mackay; the choir at the St. Vincent de Paul Federal Training Service; and the Public Speaking contest for students had all been outstandingly successful, as was the film service supplied every Tuesday evening at the Montreal Children's Hospital.

Aid to the Shawbridge Boy Scouts and the Girl Guides at their Morin Heights Camp had proved to be invaluable in furthering the progress of youth. Under Dent Harrison courses in Safe Driving had helped this rewarding work reach many homes in the community.

Dr. Bud Staples, chairman of the Crippled Children's Committee and the members had done a splendid piece of work and had financed two more classes for the School for Retarded Children on Cote St. Luc road.

Chairman of the Scholarship Committee, Archie Collard and his committee members awarded two University scholarships and two bursaries, thus enabling students to continue with their studies instead of having to give up and go to work.

Don Ross and his Golden Age Committee had brought some of the old folks their happiest moments and deserved the thanks of all members for this work.

Mr. Tawse made special mention of the program chairman, John Sparling and Bev Baily, bulletin chairman. A wide program of events had been arranged and members were kept fully informed of club activities.

Finally, he thanked Treasurer, Stan Cayford and Honorary-Secretary, Harry Houston, for their able and invaluable help in keeping the club functioning in the way members expected.

Mr. Tawse then introduced the new president, Phil Page, who directed last year's Club Service activities.

In his speech of thanks, Mr. Page said: "Any man who takes time away from his family and job must do so for an important reason and Rotary, to me, is important. I thank the members for their confidence and look forward to the coming year with a mixture of pride and humility, confidence and apprehension, because there is a tremendous amount of talent and experience available from past years. Eighteen of the thirty past presidents are still active and it is this tradition and experience that makes our club so successful. We have an enviable record in community and international affairs and I hope that this will continue. With the co-operation of members our club will be able to carry on in service and we shall be in for another wonderful year."

At the conclusion of the meeting a presentation of a clock was made to retiring president, W. J. Tawse, on behalf of all members of the club.

STAMPS GALORE

by

Wayne L. Bungay

Early last December Postmaster-General William Hamilton anonunced that Plate Blocks would no longer appear. The decision to stop the inscription was made because it was felt that philatelists were bothering post office employees by asking for the special corners.

It is reputed that the Ottawa Philatelic Society and our local Westmount Stamp Club had much to do with the change of decision that PMG Hamilton announced in January in the House of Commons.

The final change shows that Hamilton has an interest in philatelists and not only for Uncle Sam's — rather — Uncle Donald's pocketbook.

The Free Press stamp which appeared on January 22 did not have any plate block positions nor did the March 5 issue for IGY.The reason for this was that the press stamp had already been prepared while the IGY stamp was well in the planning stage.

On May 8, 1958, a stamp appeared to commemorate British Columbia's centennial. The design was by Jack Harman of Vancouver. It was the first Canadian postage stamp by Harman and is certainly an excellent showing of his ability. Listed as a green stamp it is more like an ultramarine tint.

As this is the first stamp with plate block positions I have made the following observations:

To my knowledge all sheets (not to be misunderstood for panes) are being printed with the usual inscriptions, consisting of one inscription per pane. The only difference is that the inscription is being placed further to the edge of the pane, leaving a wider space between the bottom of the inscription and the stamps' perforations. From this the sheets for the Post Offices will be cut so as to remove the inscriptions. Therefore it would not be too unlikely if due to a slight movement in the sheet(s) while they were being sliced that a part or perhaps all of inscription on a sheet would remain to be sold over the PO counter. As for value, they would be worth the same or perhaps less (depending on condition) than the other plate blocks sold at the Philatelic Dept.

To commemorate LaVerendrye, the explorer, Canada issued a five cent blue stamp by Gerald Trottier of Ottawa. The stamp was released on June 4, 1958.

MAYOR FOURNIER tenders the official gratitude of the city for work of Westmount poetess Christine Lighthall Henderson, 90. In centre is Mrs. Alex Keiller, another Westmount resident, past president of the Canadian Authors Association.

90 year old Westmount poetess ranks among top in Canada

Christine Lighthall Henderson, well known Canadian poetess and author, is a member of one of Montreal's oldest families. She is a great admirer of Canada's largest city and recently sent Sun Life's President Mr. G. Bourke this sonnet, her own composition, written as a tribute to the Sun Life Head Office Building, largest office building in the British Commonwealth.

WITH CROWN OF LIFE

The mighty panorama of the night
Rises before me as I reach my room;
From this high eminence throughout the gloom
Montreal unfolds the pageant of her night!
Thankful am I that I may see this sight
This splendid structure soaring to the moon;
Not massive masonry as seen at noon,
But darkling silhouette with crown of light.
And every pane ashine with radiance bright,
Built on bedrock, it towers before the eye,
Concrete as earth, ethereal as the sky,
And chanting to the evening hours in flight.
Praise to the genius who has planned and wrought
This solid substance from the realms of thought!

Mr. Bourke sent Mrs. Henderson a letter of thanks and appreciation and had the sonnet printed in the Sun Life Staff Magazine "The Back Page".

Recently at a civic reception in the Hall of Honor, Mrs. Henderson presented Mayor Sarto Fournier with three poems, in English, French and Italian. They appear in the photo, as the Mayor congratulated and thanked Mrs. Henderson. Mrs. Alex S. Keiller, resident of Westmount, is also present.

"I have written 3 books, "England Remembered", "Ship's Wake" and "Thoughtful Petie's Adventures", and I have two more ready for publication. Poetry is very difficult to sell in Canada" Mrs. Henderson told the Examiner recently, "People seem to prefer other reading material, but I hope that they are becoming more aware of our

Tourists find it 'the garden city'

WITH the advent of the summer season, busloads of tourists, as well as a great number in their own cars, pause at certain spots in this city to admire.

They find this "the garden city".

Most popular spots, of course, are the Lookout on the mountain, and the floral clock in Westmount Park, in front of Victoria Hall.

This is a beautiful city. Clean, neat, tidy, well-run, it is in sharp contrast to many municipalities — particularly some of the bigger cities from whence the tourists come.

Local residents, if they would take the time to be at the Lookout or near the clock when some of the tourists are exclaiming over the flowers and the trees and the lack of clutter — would find their civic pride meter rising rapidly.

This is a beautiful city. to keep it that way — — every one of us can do our share.

Good work judge, hit drunks hard

MUNICIPAL JUDGE Bernard Rose is to be congratulated for his recent decision to suspect the driving license of a man found guilty of operating a motor vehicle in the city while his senses were impaired through alcohol.

We say: "Good work, judge".

In making his point, Judge Rose declared that a man in the position of the accused was as dangerous to the public as one with a loaded revolver.

How right he is.

And, as a matter of fact, the drunken car driver is even more dangerous. At times the man with the loaded gun will give some thought before he pulls the trigger — but the drunken driver has killed or maimed a person or persons before he realizes he is in an accident.

This disease is pandemic

A DISEASE which is pandemic is one that is widely epidemic. Canada has one which for nearly half a century has continued unabated, rather increasing as the months pass. It isn't exactly contagious, and yet one person can infect another. It is frequently fatal; it is even more frequently crippling or maiming. To date, no one has come up with a sure cure that can prevent its incidence. Or, rather, many people have a theory for its prevention, but the susceptible victims are averse to carrying out the prescription.

On every weekend, on every holiday, press and radio have the melancholy job of announcing a shocking number of deaths on highways, on city streets, or at railway crossings. If the number is a fraction smaller than that of the previous year at the same date, there is a lilt in the announcer's voice, or the newspaper reporter points out the glad news. But if this were a story of some illness that had stricken the country for years, there would be a constant outcry from the public. Large sums of money would probably be forthcoming for research into the cause, cure and immunization of the subject.

But there's only one way of wiping out this pandemic. And only you, the individual, and each of your friends and neighbours can do the necessary effective job. Just drive with the assurance that an accident could never happen to you — you're a good careful driver. You may be. But just around the next corner may be the chap who just thinks he's so good that he can step on the gas and make that cut-in or beat that train. With all your care, you could be his victim, unless you are driving at a speed that will allow you to stop or swing out or turn, in emergency.

Don't take a drink of anything that will make you sleepy, or jumpy, or that will impair your sight, hearing or other faculty. It's a good idea, if you are driving alone, to take a thermos of hot tea or coffee along. This will refresh you if you are a long way from any coffee stand. Even in winter, keep a window open a few inches for ventilation. Don't have your radio loud enough to drown out a distant train whistle or the horn of a car trying to pass you.

Try not to do your worrying while you drive — save that for when you reach your destination. A temper hang-over may cause you to drive with lack of caution, so calm down before you start the engine. Watch the fellow ahead — he may be the

Goodridge Roberts is versatile

By VALENTINA RAHR

"One of the most difficult things to do is to reproduce a picture from a smaller original painting, and to do it accurately" Goodridge Roberts told the Examiner yesterday, at his home at 460 Grosvenor Ave., in Westmount. "Some artists can paint a landscape, then return to their studio and reproduce it in a larger size. Sometimes they reproduce it in several different sizes. This is very hard to do. The reproduction usually loses in freshness, or in composition, and is never so good as the original one."

Goodridge Roberts is a Canadian painter with a long list of distinguished accomplishments behind him. Born in the British West Indies, while his father Theodore Goodridge was there writing a book, he later became resident artist at Queen's University; taught at the Art Association at the Museum of Fine Arts in Montreal; spent one year overseas with the RC AF; returned to Montreal and taught at the Art Association again until 1949. His fine work is represented at all the Canadian Museums, and most of the Canadian Embassies. While in the RCAF. his painting "Port au Perce" was chosen for the purpose of being used as a gift for Queen Elizabeth.

During 1954 Goodridge Roberts was chosen to wire the Canadian Government Overseas Fellowship, given by the Royal Society of Canada. The money which was used for this fellowship was from Canadian funds that had been frozen in France during World War II. At that time the Canadian Government decided to us it for scholarships and fellowships.

"The toughest time I had, I think, was shortly after graduating from Ecole des Beaux Arts in Montreal. During, that summer I lived outside of Ottawa, near Kingsmere, and painted landscapes of the surrounding country. I slept in a tent, and made all my own meals." Mr. Roberts did this for three summers.

It is of Goodridge Roberts that Alan Jarvis of the National Gallary of Canada said: "The whole range of Goodridge Roberts' work whether in oil or water color, whether it is of landscape, still life or figure composition, reflects a deeply contemplative, sensitive personality. He paints with a simplicity which is the product to the art that conceals art. His work shows the mark of the mature philosophical mind."

Mr. Jarvis has sent six of Mr. Roberts' paintings to the Exhibition at Brussels, to represent Canadian art. One of the pictures is call "Marion" and was painted in 1939. Another one of his paintings which is well known, hangs in the Faculty Club at McGill University and is called "Boy with Dog." He paints young people with a tenderness and sympathy which has won him wide appreciation.

Another one of his pictures which was sent to the Brussels Exhibition is called "Self Portrait in my Studio." Mrs. Goodridge Roberts, his wife, is a social worker at the Allan Memorial Institute. Sir Charles G. D. Roberts is his uncle; and Bliss Carman, the Canadian poetess, is a relative.

Mr. Roberts used two rooms at the top of his house, for his work. One is used as a studio, where he paints. The other room is used for storing his materials and paintings.

At the present time, Mr. Roberts has a painting of a nude on exhibition at the Museum of Fine Arts. This is the 75th Annual Spring Exhibition, and was formally opened by the Honorable Brooke Claxton on March 28th, 1958.

Suggests public talks for traffic safety

Sir:

Hundreds of police officials and civilians and members of the judiciary attended the meeting called by Director Hilaire Beauregard to listen to an address by the Hon. Antoine Rivard on the need for additional precautions and strict enforcement of the traffic laws to reduce the appalling number of accidents and fatalities. Mr. Rivard spoke for almost an hour and was listened to with rapt attention by the large and representative audience.

He called upon the judges to deal with offenders against the regulations and the special laws enacted by the federal, provincial and municipal governments. His department was doing and will do its utmost to protect the public. It was evident, judging by the applause he received when he concluded his highly instructive discourse, that those present were in full accord with what he expressed.

Westmount was represented at the meeting by Chief Edmonstone and Inspectors Arsenault and Lowson. A signal honor was paid Westmount when Director Beauregard called upon the Chief to lead in singing: "God Save the Queen". Chief Judge of the sessions Archambault said that a special traffic court was being organized to deal with contraventions of the motor vehicle acts.

If I could make a suggestion it would be that the Criminal code be amended giving magistrates the mandatory authority within their discretion to commit impaired drivers to prison without the option of a fine. As Director Beauregard emphasized when recently commenting upon the number of accidents and fatalities, where a driver is impaired the car becomes a murderous instrument. He and his efficient staff are doing their utmost to compel obedience to the law but apparently there are still motorists who ignore the regulations.

One means to deal with the situation and make motorists be sober and drive prudently at all times would be to have judges of the sessions and the municipal courts as well as other qualified persons to deliver addresses before an audience of employees in offices and factories citing the several laws dealing with violations of the federal, provincial, and municipal statutes. This would make prospective offenders aware of what the consequences are in cases of impairment, dangerous or negligent driving. These laws were passed to protect human lives and must be respected and enforced. As the minister emphasized, it is largely a matter of education coupled with that cooperation which the public should gladly give the police authorities of the three jurisdictions. Westmount school children have already had the benefit of listening to Mr. Dallaird who has been delivering addresses before school audiences. The procedure should be followed with adults.

Mark anniversary resident agrees

Sir:—

I do want to compliment you upon your excellently effective and timely editorial (The Examiner: June 6th, 1958), favoring the 50th anniversary celebration of the City of Westmount. Should the idea catch on, and I feel sure it will, then this civic affair ought to take on a real friendly, bilingual and brotherly atmosphere. On the spiritual side, Protestants, Roman Catholics and Jews ought to co-operate. Likewise, educational authorities, public or private ought to take a big share. On the industrial, financial, commercial and professional angles, there ought to be lots of togetherness. Our military, sporting, recreational and cultural groups ought also to participate.

This, too, would be an opportune time to say that the CPR ought to be in the picture. We are only five minutes from Windsor Station, you know! Perhaps President Dr. N. R. Crump of the CPR will grace us with a new CPR Station building in 1958. We need it badly! I hope this comes true. As for the city, some appropriate plaque with a sculptured bas-relief of our Mayor A. Sydney Bruneau might be placed in the city hall lobby or council chamber.

Then again, it would be good cricket for The Examiner to issue a special civic supplement dealing with our "historic fiftieth". How about getting our Westmount's historic artist of renown, Adam Sherriff Scott to paint one or two historical commemorative murals, in honor of our "50", in our new Westmount Library building? I feel sure

Building inspection plan increases fire protection

Westmount fire department personnel are busy this week with the first stage of a new program designed to provide more efficient and more direct fire protection for the city. The "in service inspections" as they are called, commenced Monday and will run continuously through the summer.

Arranged to allow every member of the department maximum knowledge of a given building, it is felt that the inspections will greatly cut down on time spent getting to the heart of a fire and will also afford the protection of pre-knowledge of the premises.

Each building inspected will occupy about two weeks of the firefighter's time. Coming in groups of four or five when they are available, they will go through the premises locating exits, stairways, windows, fire doors etc. then back to the station for a lecture session where convenient water mains will be plotted and the danger to neighboring buildings pointed out.

IN CASE OF FIRE

While involved in an inspection, to which two trucks are taken, the men are in constant contact with the fire station. They are just as much "in service" as when at the station and, in the event of a call, would discontinue their inspection immediately and head for the danger area.

"The basic advantage of the inspection is that it provides the basis of a definite plan of attack in case of a quick call," said Chief E. Harper.

"If you arrive at a building in the dead of night, with smoke and lames filling the rooms and have no knowledge of the layout of the building, you are going to find yourself groping along walls, missing doorways and walking into objects. Your efficiency is bound to be impaired."

"A prior inspection will provide definite knowledge of where to go and what to do in case of a fire."

Inspections started Monday with a tour of the Westmount Moving Company building on Victoria and Somerville avenues. Five buildings throughout the city have been chosen to initiate the scheme. It is hoped to eventually inspect all commercial establishments, warehouses, churches and large homes throughout the city.

Work on Sunnyside started Wednesday

Reconstruction of Sunnyside Avenue started Wednesday. The project includes replacing the sidewalks and reconstructing and widening the roadway from Lexington Ave. to Upper Bellevue.

Council has authorized $77,750 for the project.

Residents of the area received a letter from the office of the General Manager dated June 23 advising them of the plans for the operation.

The first stage of construction, the replacing of sidewalks, will be a continuous operation commencing at Lexington and progressing eastwards.

The reconstruction of the roadway will be undertaken in three sections: from Lexington to mid way between civic numbers 72 and 68; from mid way between civic numbers 72 and 68 to mid way between civic numbers 56 and 52; and from mid way between civic numbers 56 and 52 to the intersection of Upper Bellevue.

The letter to the proprietors was concerned mainly with the parking problem during construction and outlined suitable alternate parking spaces as the work progressed.

She was born in Ormstown, Que. and attended the Feller Institute at Grande Ligne, Que., and Huntingdon Academy, where she later taught as a French Specialist. She took advanced French studies at Harvard, and other subjects for six summer semesters, and taught until her marriage to Francis H. Henderson. Widowed early, Mrs. Henderson spent some time living in Westmount with her cousin Miss Lighthall. Then she became active in various cultural groups, and has given lectures on Bird Protection. Major Canadian Poets, Rambles about Rome, English Cathedrals in War Times, Poetry through the Ages, Artistic and Economical Value of Birds (in English and French) etc.

Mrs. Henderson is a life member of the Canadian Authors Association, and vice president of the Poetry Society of London, England. She is a member of the Women's Art Society since the turn of the century, and was three times its president. Past President of the Province of Quebec's Society for the Protection of Birds; past president of Italiano Canadese; she is still active in the Poetry Group of the Canadian Authors Association; and the Montreal's Women's Club. Sin in the church basement

A feature on Trinity's Summer School of Drama

A passer-by innocent of the intricacies of theatrical practice who happened to glance in Trinity Church basement windows Thursday nights, might well imagine strange and nefarious arts being practiced on the gymnasium floor.

Under his amazed eyes, ten or fifteen casually-clad people would wander around in various stages of activity with non-existent objects. One might be pouring imaginary coffee into an imaginary cup, while another carries on a heated argument with a companion who isn't there.

Our observer might have doubts, this is not, as some have called amateur theatrics—"sin in the church basement."

It is a group of hard-working and serious-minded people trying to bring some semblance of art to spare-time activities, learning techniques and control that make the difference between careless though enthusiastic attempts at self-expression, and genuine artistic form.

Summer School

Trinity Summer School of Drama, designed especially for amateur actors in amateur productions, has classes for both raw recruits and those with some theatrical training or experience.

Novices study elementary rules of stagecraft . . . nomenclature, simple rules of stage business, and the more essential requirements of reading lines.

A chance visit to one of the beginner's classes might find them discussing the importance of such things as progression, tempo, rhythm and pace, or trying different positions on stage to test for themselves the relative effectiveness of each. All of this work is meant to help them conquer that tremendous panic which usually strikes an amateur actor when he first steps on the boards and feels hundreds of eyes staring at him.

"What do I do with my hands?", "where can I look, so I don't see all those people?", "Am I supposed to just stand here?" are some of the questions answered in this first stage.

STANISLAVSKY

The famous Stanislavsky method is introduced in the second class, where students delve more deeply into the psychological approach to acting. Emphasis here is one sense memory, emotional recall, imagination, concentration, and characterization.

The basic theory behind "the method" is that there should be an intrinsic reason; real or imaginary, for every action performed by every character on stage. This means that the actor should be able to feel the emotion or desire forcing his character into action.

Since student actors obviously have not been through every experience which comes up in the plays, they must be able to draw on analogous events in their own lives to be capable of recreating the emotions required.

So, in the Trinity classes, they try to recall exactly, experiences of love, hate, anger, fear, pity, etc.

Further hours are given to develop the ability to concentrate during a play on the imaginary circumstances that make up the plot. If the actor can make surrounding events real to himself, he finds it easier to recall and experience the emotions necessary for his stage character.

CONCENTRATION

IRISH EDITOR HEADS PRESBYTERIANS

Unanimous choice as new moderator of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, Rev. John McNab, 71, is congratulated by his daughter before the assembly of 1,000 Presbyterians in Toronto. The "fighting Irish" editor of the Presbyterian Record for the last 12 years, the new moderator will now resign from this post. Born in Northern Ireland, Rev. McNab is former principal Protestant chaplain of the RCAF.

Young Citizens

The Venerable
R. Kenneth Naylor, D.D.,
Rector, Trinity Memorial Church

School is out. Our children are free for ten weeks. What will they do with their time? Some will go to the country for the full time but not so many as usual, for there is less money. Some will get jobs but not so many as last year, because there are not so many jobs. A great many will go to the camp or country places for two weeks, because we make very considerable sacrifices to send them. But even then they will be in the City for seven or eight weeks.

The younger ones will play in the streets, and we seniors must learn to drive carefully, with due regard to the needs of children who have no near-by playground.

Others will make use of the facilities provided by the City and the Parks and Playgrounds Association. Those playgrounds are well supervised and are not only for games but for a very real development in the understanding of Citizenship. But there are not enough of these facilities and it is very interesting to find that the police are recognizing the problem and trying to deal with it. They are forming Juvenile Clubs under Police supervision, and from what I have seen they are doing it well.

I attended the new Police Juvenile Club in the City of Cote St. Luc last week and I was very much impressed by the seriousness with which the task is approached. It began with the concern of one policeman. He was called to chase small boys out of back gardens so frequently that he thought there must be a better way of dealing with them. He enlisted a group of responsible citizens and a few young men and the organization is well advanced. The citizens see the value of it and contribute very sizeable sums to support it. The young men involved are wild-eyed enthusiasts, but at the same time they have their feet solidly on the ground. And now that something is in being the City of Cote St. Luc has contributed a very adequate building as Headquarters. And, lastly, the Club is for the whole community, French and English, Roman Catholic, Protestant and Jewish.

As we come to our 91st national birthday it is good to feel that Citizenship is being built on such a foundation of mutual understanding.

Dominion-Douglas and Stanley church join for Summer

Some years ago Dominion-Douglas United and Stanley Presbyterian Churches set an example to the Community of Greater Montreal of that unity which exists in the Christian church by joining together in common worship during the summer months.

This custom will be repeated this summer when the two Congregations will worship in Dominion-Douglas Church on June 29th and throughout the month of July; and then in Stanley Church throughout the month of August. In Dominion-Douglas Church the worship will be conducted by the Minister of Stanley Church, the Rev. J. D. Wilkie, assisted by the organist and choir of Dominion-Douglas Church. When worship is being held in Stanley Church, the Rev. Dr. A. Lloyd Smith and the Rev. Eric A. McIlwain will conduct the services, assisted by the organist and choir of Stanley Church.

Westmount Baptist Church

The defence of one's country is requisite of citizenship in any nation, but countries can be threatened from within as well as from without. The most serious threats to national safety are occasioned by moral failures rather than by enemies at the gates. Rev. E. J. Bailey of Westmount Baptist Church will preach on "Moral Invasions" in the morning, and at night on "Old Roads to God."

APPENDICITIS

A small and apparently useless organ called appendix, attached to the large intestine, is capable of causing trouble if it becomes inflamed. In such case, the patient is said to have appendicitis. Symptoms of this condition are usually cramplike pain or dull ache in the abdomen accompanied by nausea, with a rise in temperature. If this occurs, the doctor should be called immediately. Meanwhile, the patient should lie down and rest. No food or drink should be taken and no laxative. Heat or ice should not be applied to the painful area.

It's been a rough winter, all right. So far not one TV cowboy has made it back to the old ranch without being ambushed by a commercial.

SOUND LIKE SUMMER

The salad is an enticing dish during a heat wave but it is just as important when the thermometer dips, since the same nutrients are present. It is a good idea to vary the salad with vegetables other than the usual well known ingredients. Thin strips of raw spinach, tiny cubes of raw turnip and others, should be tried. Diced apple and small pieces of grapefruit section are also tasty, included with the rest of the salad mixture.

EFFICIENT DISH

Vitamins, minerals, proteins and calories are supplied by the whole grain cereals, plus the value of the milk or cream and sugar that is added. These cereals should be a daily breakfast dish, both in summer and winter. Many people find that they make a good snack before retiring at night since they are easily digested and satisfying.

COLOR ADDS PLEASURE

Life outdoors can be especially pleasant when you have aids like the lovely rainbowheud enamels that are now available to brighten things up. When you transform your garden furniture with them, you'll find that the whole family will take new interest in outdoor projects. Meals eaten under the sky will seem more appetizing. Minor household chores performed under the branches of a tree seem less troublesome.

Victorian Order nurse true 'angel of mercy'

By FRIMSIE SPINDEL

Today public health nurses play an important part in the maintenance of Canada's high standards of good health. In the City of Montreal the Victorian Order of Nurses, a visiting nurse organization, is one of the public health agencies who contribute towards the total health program. Their work in conjunction with the education of public health nurses was forcibly brought to focus when a nurse taking post-graduate work at the School for Graduate Nurses, McGill University, first came to my home on Dornal avenue.

The nurse, Miss Judith Davis, has visited me weekly for the past three weeks as part of her field experience with the VON. The Victorian Order of Nurses, one of our national public health organizations, has assumed responsibility for assisting with the preparation of public health nurses since its Royal Charter was granted in 1897. Dr. R. Chittick, Director of the School for Graduate Nurses at McGill University, explained that the students do field work (about 9 weeks plus one-half day each week) in those fields of service employing public health nurses. During the past year Judy Davis and the other nurses have worked in city health clinics, in the out-patient clinic at the Royal Edward Hospital with follow-up visits to the patients at home. They have joined forces with doctor and nurse in industrial plants such as Bell Telephone. They have worked at the Children's Service Centre and with the Child Health Organization. These nurses have met many different people, helped them and taught them. A large part of the program of all public health agencies is aimed at teaching the patient to help himself as much as possible, and at teaching some member of the family to take over many of the responsibilities of home nursing.

This is especially true of the Victorian Order of Nurses. Although I've been ill with multiple sclerosis for more than 12 years, it is only since last June that I've had regular help from the VON and I am forever grateful to these charming nurses in blue for the wonderful help they give so efficiently and cheerfully.

ADMIRABLE TRAITS

What do I find most admirable about the VON nurses? Coupled with complete efficiency these nurses possess a remarkable elasticity that enables them to be incomplete control of any situation that may arise and quite capable of handling it superbly. Not long ago the nurse asked for the absorbent cotton that I usually have on hand. In dismay I remembered that the last bit had been used the day before. "Don't worry about it," Miss S. assured me, "I have some in my bag."

And this little black bag, the symbol of public health nursing, is a constant source of amazement to me! Granted that each household usually has clean towels, soap, a basin for the bed-bath and countless other necessities, these tools of home nursing are not always in perfect order or right at hand. Does the nurse become awkward and confused? Never. The equipment in her black bag together with whatever the home provides enables her to give whatever care is needed.

TYPES OF NURSING

When I spoke to Miss Kathleen Brady, Supervisor of the West District of the Victorian Order of Nurses, Greater Montreal Branch, I asked her to tell me a little about the different types of nursing care given by the VON. Miss Brady told me that at the last count in the West District, of the 2,000 visits made to 500 patients during a month, 48% were for the administration of injections. The other 52% included maternity calls, medical and surgical treatments, health instruction with regular checks and general nursing care. She told me about Mary G. "Young Mrs. G. is a typical example," she said. "After attending a prenatal class for expectant mothers, where she was able to receive scientific information, ask questions and share in the discussion of mutual problems, she gave birth to a baby boy. This was her first child and she was a bit bewildered by the thought of infant care. The VON nurse visited Mary as soon as she returned home from the hospital, demonstrated the baby's bath and let May do most of it herself because 'learning by doing' underlies all the public health nurse's teaching. She explained baby care techniques to her and checked in about once a week for six weeks."

CHRONICALLY ILL

As Miss Lowten said recently, "Many of our patients are elderly people; many are chronically ill. There are all sorts of problems that must be handled." She told me that the VON works closely with all social service agencies in the City and with the Mental Hygiene Institute in Montreal. "As a matter of fact," she said, "for the past two years our nurses have taken part in a series of group discussions under the leadership of two prominent psychiatrists."

Realizing that chronic and disabling illness, such as MS and other diseases of the nervous system, arthritis, heart conditions, etc. carry a heavy load of physical, social and psychological problems for both patient and family, the VON nurse learns to recognize the needs of each of her patients and to see how she can help best in teaching the patient to live as happily and independently as possible, even when complete recovery is not possible. This newer knowledge is resulting in less crippling and less dependency on others than was ever possible before.

CONTACTING VON

How do patients usually contact VON? Miss Brady told me that calls come from doctors, from social service, from the minister, priest or rabbi, from the family and from the patient himself. The Victorian Order of Nurses never refuse a call but will not under any circumstances administer medical treatment unless so directed by the patient's doctor.

Many people wonder about the cost of VON nursing care. Although the Victorian Order of Nurses is supported by the Red Feather and other community welfare agencies, this does not mean that it's service is only for the indigent patient. On the contrary, the community, as a whole, is urged to ask for help when necessary. The VON nurse is everyone's nurse! Those able to pay the full cost of the nurse's visits do so — others pay what they can. To those who can pay nothing, free service is given.

Everyone needs help of one kind or another—and more than anything else each person needs to feel needed. The VON nurse does her best to assure her patients that they can fill certain definite needs, no matter how sick or disabled they may be. The patient, on the other hand, helps the VON nurse too, often without realizing it, by giving her the pleasure and satisfaction of knowing that she has once again brightened a few lonely hours with her light, sure step and gay, easy manner.

Judy Davis is a good nurse and she will be a good public health nurse too! Will she join forces with the VON after graduation? I hope so. I'd like to add her cheery 'Good Morning' to the others that ring through our house every week, ushering in another hour or so of help and pleasant company.

The Drama of Canada

The curtain rises, on a new regime,
A country's drama, which draws eager eyes,
As old traditions, now give place to new,
New Leaders, that we trust, are strong and wise.

New Senators, new Members in the "House"
A Queen, once more, upon the British Throne,
A new PM, to work our problems out,
We all must help, — the task not his alone.

The Past, — a blaze of progress, is well known,
Our Nation is a World Power in the Plan,
Her Star, supreme, still glows with brighter gleam,
And Rideau Hall enshrines a noble man.

DOROTHY SPROULE

PUTTING UP A GOOD FRONT

It's possible to improve the appearance of a house greatly by repainting the ceiling, railing, pillars and floor of the porch — even though the rest of the house is not done at the same time. Hollow pillars and the spindles on railings are troublesome moisture-traps if not adequately protected with paint.

In 1958 tax payments of all governments in Canada will be about $500 per capita.

FAVOUR

WHEN the housewife calls at the grocery store and orders a supply of provisions, she is not asking a favour . . . she is buying goods for which she will pay cash . . . purely a matter of business.

So with your bank. It is a business proposition just as much as the grocery store.

The grocer deals in groceries . . . the banker deals in credit. And, as the making of loans is the principal way by which his bank derives its revenue, he is as anxious to sell his credit as the grocer is to sell his groceries. And, like the grocer, the banker naturally wants to know that he is going to be paid for his goods . . . that his loans will be met when they fall due. That, too, is only good business.

When you have occasion to ask for a loan, look at it this way. Come to the Bank, not feeling that you have to ask a favour, but to offer the manager a sound business proposition which will be of profit to you and to his institution.

Ascorbic acid helps preserve summer fruits

With summer well on the way, it's time to make the most of early fruits. Strawberries, raspberries and cherries all make delicious desserts and can easily be frozen to provide summer fare during the winter months.

One of the obstacles to preparing appetizing fruit cocktails and desserts from fresh fruits is the tendency for fruits to discolour and lose their flavor. An excellent way to overcome this difficulty is to sprinkle the fruit with an ascorbic acid — sucrose mixture. Ascorbic acid stops the oxygen in the air from discoloring fruit and keeps it tasting fresh. Sucrose is a form of sugar

LONELINESS IN OLD AGE

Loneliness in old age is one of the most serious problems of the senior citizen and contributes to unhappiness and ill health. In many parts of Canada, churches, service clubs and interested groups have provided centres so that older people may form clubs and meet socially, and to carry on habby activities, bringing improved health and relaxation. It is always a good idea for those who plan to retire within ten years, to prepare hobbies and to meet with their contemporaries, with a view to the time when their leisure will be happier if there is a substitute occupation.

TROUBLE MAKER

Prolonged fatigue lowers resistance to disease. When mentally or physically tired, it is less easy to resist infection. Overwork or over activity in sports or study should be compensated for by extra rest and sleep. Most adults find that eight hours sleep gives them ideal nightly rest. Children and teenagers need more than eight hours.

people and things come in. When instructor Verniks gives the order and students spread themselves over the gymnasium floor to act out their private pantomimes, they are developing concentration.

It can be disconcerting when a student inadvertently crosses his imaginary street to find himself in someone else's imaginary living room, but if the catastrophe can be survived without his "falling out of character" the actor can be sure his ability to concentrate is strengthening.

Simple physical exercises are a part of both the beginners' and advanced class. Through muscle-stretching exercises which develop the body from the top of the head to the tips of the toes, students gain greater muscular control. Then when an actor wants to make himself look and act like a disillusioned old man or a stiff-walking prude, he knows from observation what muscles are effected and how to reproduce this appearance.

Trinity is the only amateur acting school of this type in English-speaking Montreal. Founded two years ago under the leadership of Trinity's Latvian director, Bob Verniks, it purports to train a solid reservoir of acting talent, on which the group draws for its productions. Students are all Trinity members, though some are admitted to membership and the school simultaneously, after passing a "basic" talent audition.

Engineering, secretarial work and housekeeping are among the day-time occupations of these stage-enthusiasts, who certainly do not fit the ordinary conception of the stomach-scratching Greenwich Village method actor.

Asked why she takes time and spends energy necessary to follow the course, school superintendent Rosalie Briggs, Trinity's president, says, "In this business of acting, there's always so much to learn that even after years of acting experience — I want to go on improving."

Dow leads Snowdon pack with new entry Prosper holding down second

HEAVY HITTING Dow Brewers in the Snowdon Major Fastball League are counting heavily on these three sluggers to lead them to the championship. Left to right: Pete Constable, first base; Leo Peloquin, third base and Dave Barnard, centre field.

JAMMING in some of their games that were rained out in their first five weeks of play, Snowdon Major Fastball league teams are in for plenty of action next week. Nine games are on tap. Four of them are set for Sunday and three for Tuesday.

The league leading Dow team, who have taken a commanding lead may have their point gap cut down for they only see action in one game on Sunday and one on Monday.

The rest of the clubs have a harder road to travel. Steinberg's and Pepsi battle it out in a Sunday night game at Trenholme but in the afternoon, Steinberg's takes on Prosper. Pepsi, battling to stay out of the cellar takes on Verdun. These games are set for afternoon play.

Prosper have a Sunday night game which will be against Dow. The teams rest on Monday for a single game is slated, Pepsi at Dow, Trenholme Park.

Come Tuesday, Verdun will take on Steinberg's at their Willibrord Park diamond in two-seven inning games starting at 7.00 p.m. A game will be played at Trenholme, Pepsi at Prosper.

Since Pepsi and Verdun have the larger part of the nine games, it will be interesting to see by this time next week, how far either club is ahead or behind.

Prosper picked up two wins and four important points when they turned back Verdun twice 3-0 and 5-2 on Tuesday night at Willibrord Park.

Prosper are now in second place with six wins and four losses, two points better than third place Steinberg's. Pepsi hold down fourth place, and Verdun in the cellar with six points, two points and two games behind Pepsi. Tuesday games were seven innings each.

Pat Paterson's Dowers are well away in the league race. They picked up four wins and one over their nearest rivals, Steinberg's in a Monday night game by the count of 9-3.

Verdun in their fight to hold onto last place playoff position, fourth spot lost two games, one to Pepsi 2-0 and the other to Dow 5-4.

Dow beat Prosper 4-0 for their third win of the weekend. Last Thursday the Brewers picked up another two points when they stopped Prosper 4-0. That gave the team eight points.

The Grocer boys stopped Pepsi 5-4 in a Sunday clash. For the Brewers it was their 11th win in 13 starts and were 12 points ahead after they beat Steinberg's.

Dave Pearce would win the pitcher's award of the week. He lost both games for Verdun but turned in two good efforts. His teammates let him down by not hitting.

He gave up six hits in Pepsi's 2-0 win and against Dow he had 10 hits against him. Dow gave up four errors in this 5-4 win, but Verdun did not take advantage of the situation.

Scoring sprees in LL contests

White Sox and Athletics went on a combined scoring spree in Kiwanis Little League action and as a result the two squals racked up 24 runs between them.

The Sox laced Oriole pitcher John Capozzi smashing 12 hits to score a nifty 13-5 victory while Athletics defeated Senators 11-1. In other games, Phillies nipped Reds 4-2 and the Cubs beat the Giants 3-1.

V. Sabatta twirled a hree-hitter for the Phillies in scoring his triumph over the Reds who committed three errors.

Losing hurler A. Vezina allowed five-hits in the six inning stint.

The White Sox wasted no time in accumulating their runs scoring all 13 in the first four innings.

Don Bryton was credited with the victory tossing a four-hitter.

D. Lafleur scored the Athletes victory on the mound yielding four hits while loser Vince Roti-Roti gave up six safeties.

The Senators went scoreless until fifth inning when they came through with their sole run.

However, the Athletics were already away and running boasting a 9-0 lead.

THE FIRST GOLF tourney sponsored by the O'Keefe Brewery was a good show to say the least. It ended in a tie with Jim Swarbrick and Rodolphe Huet tied with 72's, which is par for the Three Rivers K1-8-Eb course. You pronounce the name Kee-Weet-Ebb. This is a tough course, lots of holes that will bring trouble to the average player as it did to the pros on Sunday. We took up an invitation from Stu Lunan of Foster Advertising and Ed. Berminghom, the pic taker and saw a little of this wonderful course. They have two elevators which move the golfers and their carts up a 70 foot hill which goes straight up and another short hill that is on an angle.

The cars are pulled up by cable and although it is only a short ride one of them is quite steep. You are either shooting up or shooting down. Through narrow fairways with lots of rough on the right and left. You can well imagine how the lancers felt in the Charge of the Life Brigade when you tackle some of the holes on this Three Rivers course. They have dog legs. For the amateur or the average golfer he or she must find this course one of the hardest. After 18 holes or climbing hills and walking the so few flat pieces of ground, you are ready for a cold one on the 19th hole, a hot shower and soft bed.

The paddlers opened their season last Saturday at Chateauguay, but you have to be at your best in figures for with the new scoring 8-4-3-2-2-1, there are many doubles to credit each winning club. Cartierville scored 117 points. The possible is 12 points per event with two entries coming first and second. There are 17 events, with the junior war canoe as the added race. It is Lachine and Carts in first division and Otterburn, Chats and Grand Trunk in the second division. The new scoring helps the smaller clubs to get on the score sheet, which in the past has been very little. It will also help at the Dominion.

Platt, convener new grid league

The amateur farm club setup announced by the Big Four will have a Westmount resident as its convener.

He's Harold Platt, a long time worker in Canadian football, who has been associated with the game as a player and official since 1923.

Platt, born in London, Ont., and educated in Winnipeg and at St. Leo's Academy in Montreal, played his first football, as a youth in St. Lambert.

He also was a member of the CNR intermediate teams in 1927 and 1928, and was on the club that won the Canadian intermediate title in '28.

Platt was for many years a member of the Big Four refereeing staff, and since 1940 has been referee-in-chief of the Quebec Rugby Football Union.

He's also on the staff of the senior inter-collegiate league. He expects to continue with both groups in addition to handling his duties with the farm club setup.

Current plans are to have each team in the league play home and home games, which amounts to a six-game schedule for the four-team league.

Each of the Big Four teams will have a representative in the league.

Baird forecasts younger pros could win tourney

Odds are Quebec's 1958 professional golf champion will come from the ranks of the province's younger pros.

That's the opinion of veteran pro Stan Baird whose LaSalle Golf and Country Club will be the site of Dow's $3,500 CPGA championship July 6.

Baird thinks that Pinegrove's Jack Kay, whom he qualifies as the leader of the "youth brigade", stands an excellent chance of retaining his title in the biggest medal play tourney being held in Eastern Canada this year. Kay won the Dow Trophy, emblematic of the Quebec professional golf championship, at Wentworth last year.

And while reckoning with Quebec's more veteran pros — Jules Huot, Bill Kerr and Pat Fletcher — Baird points out there are several younger pros who have been coming into their own in recent years and are now ready to offer Quebec's older favorites a stout challenge.

Johnny Henrick of Gatineau is one. "He took a month's turn on the U.S. winter circuit and since his return this year has been playing a sound game," Baird said. "He's a definite threat."

Baird's choices as dark horses in the race for the $700 top prize in the 36-hole event are also relative youngsters to the Quebec golfing scene — Alan Johnson, Kanswaki, and Johnny Thompson, Elmridge.

"Alan a couple of years ago spent a year in California and his game last year showed he benefited from his stay. He should be even better this year. As for Thompson, he's just come back after a year in California and could definitely surprise," Baird said.

He also tossed in the names of Ken Clark, Royal Ottawa; Periard, Three Rivers, as contenders.

Though he didn't mention it, he himself spent the winter in Florida and, on his home club, should be ready to give the field a tussle.

that the money thus expended would be a sound cultural and civic investment of the most significant kind. Besides, Sir, we have the Westmount Municipal Association. They also can help. They really have so much valuable civic and creative talent. Let's put some enthusiasm, loyalty, and courage into the idea. In doing this job, we will all gain in civic solidarity, civic happiness, civic fellowship and, above all, in civic confidence.

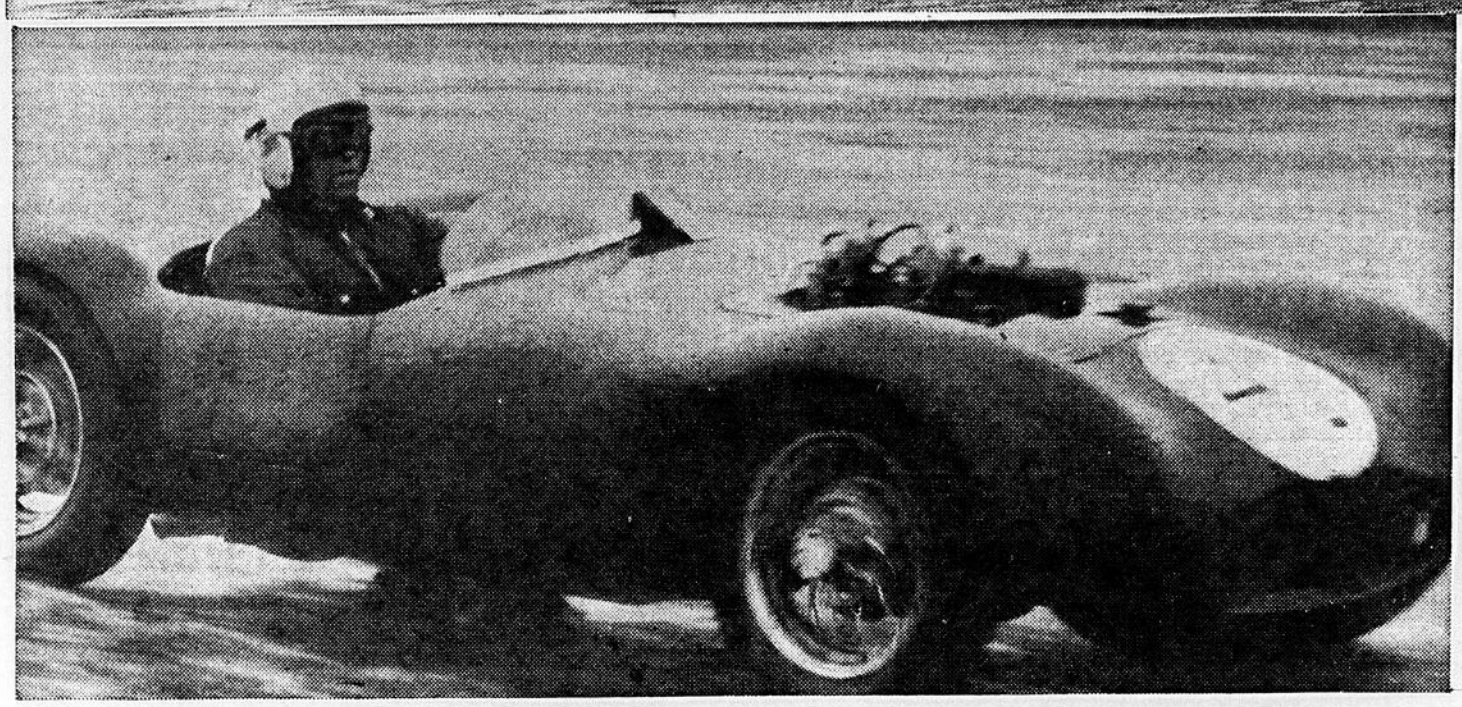
Sports cars compete Sunday at St. Eugene



WARMING UP: On the starting grid at St. Eugene Sunday spectators will see these sleek sports-cars set for the drop of the starter's flag. This is one of the exciting moments. A good start can often win a race. Quick reflexes, good judgement and a well-tuned motor are the prime requisites. Race drivers believe they should confine their speed to the track and are seldom among the traffic offenders. Some say they feel safer at 100 m.p.h. on the track than at 50 on the crowded highways.

MOMENT OF DECISION: Driver and car combine to take a corner at the best possible speed. This is Norm 'Tubs' Namerow in his Mark I Elva, who previously raced Triumphs and Jaguars. With the Elva he has won two races, and placed second in the Vermont Keene Mountain Hill Climb. Specially-constructed sports competition car, this Elva has a tubular chassis, fibre-glass body, and highly-tuned 1500 CC. MG motor. Due to the horsepower developed for the light chassis this car is more than a handful when cornering at high speeds. Namerow will be a hot contender Sunday at St. Eugene.

Constable's crew in win and draw

Pete Constable's Sportsmen ball club in the N.D.G. Intermediate league scored one win and a draw during the past week. They dumped Olympians 8-4 and played a nine inning scoreless draw with Steinberg's

The Grocer team are in first place with six wins. Constable's lads have a 5-2-1 record. Cliff Bowles pitched the scoreless draw game which was called by the curfew and allowed seven hits, striking out 14 batters. Phil Martin and Bud Selby picked up two hits each from the team they got against Steinberg's.

In their victory, Al Turner pitched and batted his team to their win. He allowed the opposition six hits and picked up two of his team's eight hits.

Huot edges out Jimmy Swarbrick

THREE RIVERS: Rodolphe Huot of Royal Quebec won a sudden-death playoff with Jim Swarbrick of Marlborough to capture the $1,100 O'Keefe Three Rivers professional golf championship.

Second low net was Fern Pesant with a 74, and Leo Gosselin followed with a 75.

The two season tickets for Alouettes home games were won by J. G. Ireland of 404 McGill street.

EXCUSE MY SPRAY says P. G. Mackley as he storms along in a battle against competition and the elements. Neither wind nor driving rain stops the sports car enthusiasts in what they consider the 'King of Sports'. Mackley is another who will be out Sunday at St. Eugene, as the sports cars, in many makes and models, will compete for trophies and regional driving championships. Open and closed models, long and short jobs, high-powered all, the cars provide plenty of thrills for drivers and spectators alike as they whirl round the course.
