JAP BOMBS KILLED MANY CIVILIANS

Japanese Fail To Respect Ultimatum Issued At Nanking

Japanese Planes Bombarded Nanking Today, Twenty Hours Before Ultimatum Warning Foreigners to Quit City Had Expired—Forty Civilians Killed—British, United States and French Naval Commanders Refused Japanese Demand That They Move Their Warships Up Yangtze and Out of Range of Fire.

Shanghai, September 20.—Japanese aircraft bombed Nanking for three hours this morning, killing forty civilians and demolishing as many homes, but British, United States and French naval commanders refused a Japanese demand that they move their warships up the Yangtze and out of the range of fire. The Japanese did not wait for the expiration of their ultimatum to foreigners to evacuate Nanking, which set a limit of Tuesday noon, to carry out their bombardment.

The United States embassy staff fled Nanking, however, Ambassador Nelson Johnson and his aides boarding the patrol boat Luzon, which sailed for Wuhu, thirty miles up stream from Nanking.

British and French warships would remain, Admirals representing the two countries asserted, so long as the British and French embassies and their citizens remain in the Chinese capital.

Furthermore, the British and French warned, Japan would be held strictly responsible for any loss of life or damage to property of either nation.

The Japanese had demanded the withdrawal of foreigners so that the city could be bombed with danger only to the Chinese.

The Japanese planes, in continuous relays of six to a squadron, subjected Nanking to its worst bombardment since hostilities began. Flying to the centre of the city, they directed their bombs at the Nanking Government headquarters.

The projectiles missed Government offices, however, and instead demolished homes and killed civilians. One resulting fire was extinguished.

Business representatives of major foreign powers met during the attack to discuss evacuation but they were unable to reach a decision.

It was the third air raid on the seat of the Chinese Government in two days and the twelfth bombardment of Nanking since the Japanese advance against Shanghai was slowed by Chinese resistance.

Chinese used a fleet of fast pursuit planes to fight the heavy Japanese bombers and the city of more than one million from destruction the Japanese Command is believed to have determined on.

Diplomats Reject Ultimatum

The British authorities adopted a firm attitude toward the Japanese warning and instructed British authorities in Shanghai to inform the Japanese the British embassy would remain in Nanking.

Ambassador Johnson decided, however, to establish the United States embassy office aboard the United States river patrol, boat Luzon.

It was learned authoritatively the embassy staff would be transferred to the Luzon Wednesday morning. The craft then would move up the Yangtze River eleven miles in accordance with the warning of Vice-

WESTERN CANADA WHEAT CROP VALUED AT $171,232,000

Winnipeg, Sept. 20.—Value of the 1937 Western Canada wheat crop to farmers is estimated tentatively at $171,232,000 by the Sanford Evans Statistical Service.

Although the yield of 164,000,000 bushels is the lowest since 1914, the value is the highest since 1929 with the exception of the 212,000,000-bushel crop in 1936 when the value was estimated by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics at $186,170,356.

BRITAIN'S RELIANCE IN "PIRATE" CRISIS

New significance is read into recent stories about the fortification of the Spanish coast opposite Gibraltar, seen above under the shadow of a British warship's guns, in view of the Mediterranean patrol France and Great Britain intend to establish to curb the depredations of "pirate" submarines. Through the straits of Gibraltar and under the guns on each side, must pass all ships en route to or from the Atlantic.

DREAD DISEASE CONTINUES TO CLAIM VICTIMS

Thirty Additional Cases of Infantile Paralysis Reported Over Week-End—Another

Infantile paralysis sent thirty more people to hospital during the week-end and caused another death. More than two thousand persons in Canada have been stricken since the epidemic started early in June and deaths have reached seventy-one.

The week-end death occurred in Toronto, where fifteen new cases made their appearance, to send the case list to 576. Toronto's death toll stood at twenty-nine. In Ontario since the epidemic struck 1,830 cases were recorded with forty-nine persons dying.

The Hospital for Sick Children in Toronto at the request of the Saskatchewan Health Department sent two iron lungs to Regina. The Saskatchewan authorities wished to be prepared if any infantile paralysis cases requiring the machine broke out in the province.

Death overtook six-year-old Josephine Carroll as she spent in an ambulance from her grandparents' home in Sarnia to Hamilton General Hospital. Seriously ill with the disease, Josephine was tossed from the ambulance to the pavement when the machine struck a car at an intersection a couple of blocks from the hospital. She died three hours later.

Hamilton General Hospital received three new cases during the week-end. They were an eight-year-old girl and two boys, twelve and seventeen. The hospital now has thirty infantile paralysis patients, one of them, in an iron lung.

Two persons fell ill in Galt where the case list stood at six. Three were stricken at Windsor where total cases since the epidemic started are now seventeen. Midland and Nanapanee recorded one case each.

CREW RESCUED AS FREIGHTER IS ABANDONED

Expert Seamanship of Two Lake Captains Responsible for Rescue of Gilly's Crew in Lake Huron Disaster.

Goderich, Ont., Sept. 20.—Her back broken and settling deeper into Lake Huron off this port with every smashing wave against her wooden sides, the package freighter Gilly lay abandoned today, her crew saved by the expert seamanship of two lake captains.

Loss of the ship, her engine and cargo was placed at $23,000. Those rescued were: Capt. Harold Ebel; Mate Jerry Masales; Parry Sound; two wheelmen, Oscar Hayward; Prince Edward Island, (town unavailable) and Edard Cambridge, London, Ont.; Engineer Charles Waves, Toronto; and the cook, Jack Charrington, Sarnia.

The Gilly cleared Southampton, Ont., Friday with 3,500 eight-foot cedar posts loaded at Manitoulin Island and ran into a severe storm. She was battered about for sixteen hours before being taken in tow by the freighter Superior, commanded by Capt. Dalton Hudson, early Saturday.

Collegiate, has decided to overcome loss of teaching time at schools, closing because of the disease, by sending lessons by mail. He said he hoped the students would co-operate.

Churches, theatres, and five stores were closed at Kentville, N.S., when one case was discovered. Dr. D. S. Bishop said the situation was not serious and the places would likely re-open in ten days. Montreal reported one new sufferer and two doubtful cases to bring the total since January 1 to 65.

Six new week-end cases in New Brunswick brought the Province's case list to seventy-four. Two of the cases were in Saint John, and one each at Chipman, Millidgeville, Hampton and Norton.

TWO PRISONERS AND GUARD DIE IN PRISON RIOT

Warden of California Institution and Two Guards Also Stabbed When Prisoners Staged Break for Freedom During Sunday Morning Interview Period.

Folsom, Calif., Sept. 20.—Warden Clarence Larkin, two Folsom State prison guards and five convicts lay wounded in the prison hospital today, victims of an escape attempt in which a guard and two convicts were killed.

One of the wounded convicts, Ed Davis, reputed instigator of the break, was believed near death. Larkin suffered twelve stab wounds. The twenty-minute battle began when prisoners rushed the warden during his usual Sunday morning interview with prisoners in the office of the captain of the guard.

The seven m, armed with crude knives and two dummy pistols, stepped from line, seized Larkin and Guard Captain W. J. Ryan. They demanded Larkin order guards on the prison wall to hold their fire. Larkin refused.

In the meantime, the warden's secretary heard the argument over an open telephone. He phoned the guards to shoot as they saw Larkin and his captors were in the open.

Larkin and the guards, armed only with clubs, came out fighting, and ten or a dozen bullets were shot into the struggling mass from the watch tower.

Easing Of United States Policy Of Isolation May Result From Hull Speech

Double Significance Attached to Speech Condemning Complete Isolation Which Followed Attack by President Roosevelt on Dictatorships—Reported Italy Plans to Establish Rival Anti-Piracy Patrols.

London, September 20.—The declaration of Cordell Hull, United States Secretary of State, that complete isolation is no longer possible for the United States received a warm welcome in Great Britain today as perhaps presaging partial relaxation of Washington's policy of aloofness in international affairs.

At the same time the Associated Press said new uneasiness had been aroused by press reports that Italy, angry at not being offered a more important role in the Mediterranean anti-pirate hunt, might set up a rival patrol with the aid of Germany, Portugal and Albania.

Informed Rome quarters declared, the Associated Press added, that although no such patrol was planned at present Italy does not intend to permit Mediterranean trade routes, which carry thousands of tons of Italian shipping, to be patrolled entirely by non-Italian vessels.

It was understood Italian naval units were being held ready with steam up to furnish escort if necessary for Italian shipping in the Mediterranean.

The British press saw aid to Britain's cause in Hull's "courageous speech" made in an international broadcast sponsored by the National Peace Conference last night.

Hull declared that though the United States is determined neither to thrust herself nor to be drawn into armed conflict between other nations "this policy must be supplemented."

"We must make our contribution towards the realization of conditions upon which peace everywhere can be maintained, or ultimately we shall have to maintain and protect ourselves amidst an outside world ridden by war and force," he said. "A policy of complete isolation from the outside world in its ultimate effects would be as ineffective as the opposite extreme."

Double Significance Seen In Speech.

Some sections of the press saw double significance in the speech, since it followed closely President Roosevelt's criticism of dictators.

"If those words are taken as Mr. Roosevelt's administration does not usually speak unless action is intended—they are the most hopeful that have come across the Atlantic in many a year," commented the News-Chronicle, adding, the speech suggested that "the United States may be preparing to range itself with other democracies in determination to withstand Fascist aggression."

The Conservative Morning Post called Hull a brave man because "he dared to tell his audience some home truths that generally are ignored by pacifists and always are unpalatable to them."

Diplomats in London, Paris and Geneva meanwhile were busy seeking a formula that would bring Italy into the Nyon anti-piracy agreement without ceding an inch of the ground French and British statesmen have won in the past six weeks by forging a joint naval patrol to keep the Mediterranean open to international shipping.

Italy's Foreign Minister, Count Galeazzo Ciano, informed Great Britain and France that Italy had more than the relatively unimportant Tyrrhenian Sea as a patrol area before it would co-operate with the Franco-British fleet.

The occasion was a programme arranged by the National Peace Conference which, composed of forty delegates in sufficient numbers to sign "Blue Pledges" promising to support the Social Credit Government it may be "compulsory" to call an election, Premier Aberhart asserted last night before an audience of 1,100 at the Edmonton Prophetic Bible Conference.

The Premier said the Provincial Government did not want "nationalization of banks and loan councils to control credit but state issue of credit" and challenged "the banks or the Federal Government to show the present method of monetizing our credit."

Declaring political opponents contended "only thirty per cent. of the people" are favorable for an immediate cessation of our attempts to deliver the people," Mr. Aberhart added: "The only way that this can be settled is by turning in the blue pledges or, if you prefer it and will not sign the blue pledges, it might be compulsory to have an election. You understand there is an on edge of an election. But we must know what you think."

The Premier charged "money is being spent freely" by the "financial

Great Britain Offers Wider Colonial Trade Concessions

Ready to Contribute to Economic Betterment by Opening Discussions Toward Modification of Preferential Duties in Colonial Territories—Eden Declares Anglo-United States Agreement "of Capital Interest to Entire World."

Geneva, Sept. 20.—Great Britain is ready to contribute to world economic betterment by opening discussions with all governments looking toward a modification of preferential custom duties in British Colonial territories, Foreign Secretary Eden told the League of Nations Assembly today.

He also stated that a most-favored-nation agreement between Great Britain and the United States "would be of capital interest to the entire world."

Eden spoke after the Assembly had refused to grant Spain a seat in the League Council for the next three years. The Valencia Government failed by nine votes to obtain the two-thirds majority necessary for a new term of the Council. Her previous three-year term expires this year.

The British Foreign Secretary, in dwelling upon the international political situation, made an indirect appeal to Italy to join in the Mediterranean anti-pirate patrol by stressing that the Nyon powers did not want to eliminate any Mediterranean states from their collective moves.

He declared the Nyon accord—

GRIM SCENE OF TERROR BEHIND JAPANESE LINE

Large Number of Chinese Non-Combatants Reported Slain by Japanese Firing Squads for Failure to Obey Commands of Conquerors.

With the Japanese Army below Peiping, Sept. 20.—Arrest as a spy behind the Japanese lines some forty miles south of Peiping today brought to an end my long bicycle tour of the battlefields of the Japanese army's recent offensive along the Peiping-Hankow Railway, writes Halldore Hanson, Associated Press correspondent at Peiping.

Blindfolded, I was brought back in an ambulance filled with Japanese wounded to Huangtun, railway point ten miles from Peiping, where I was subjected to three hours of intensive questioning.

Finally I was released. My treatment by the Japanese military throughout was most courteous. On my ambulance ride to the rear I passed truck after truck loaded with Japanese dead. They could be identified by the odor and the marks of my wounded Japanese companions.

Before my arrest I had bicycled southeast from the railway over twenty-four miles of muddy roads to reach Kunhsien, which fell before the first rush of the Japanese army's great drive. This lies just below the Yungting River some thirty miles from Peiping.

Spain Is Refused Right To Succeed Itself On Council Of World League

Turkey's Bid To Succeed Itself on Council Also Rejected by a 25-22 Vote in League of Nations Assembly—Rebels Reply to Loyalists' Charges.

Geneva, Sept. 20.—The League of Nations Assembly today ruled that Spain was not eligible to succeed itself on the League Council.

Twenty-three nations, nine less than the required two-thirds majority, voted in favor of Spain retaining its Council seat. A total of forty-two powers took part in the voting.

Turkey's bid to succeed itself on the Council also was rejected by a 25-22 vote in the Assembly.

The vote against Spain and Turkey was taken by secret ballot. Three Council seats, those of Spain, Turkey and Chile fall vacant this year. South American states agreed to support the candidacy of Peru to succeed Chile. Voting was to take place later.

BELIEVED MISSING MEN ARE ALL SAFE IN ARCTIC

Aklavik, N.W.T., September 20.—Somewhere in the Arctic are Sigismund Levaneffsky, the "Lindbergh of Russia," and five other airmen. Belief the six are alive and awaiting rescue buoyed aerial searches today as they prepared for winter-long flights, if necessary, over desolate Beaufort Sea.

The fliers, missing since August 13 on a trans-Polar flight, are thought to be downed at a point some 1,500 miles north of here, between latitudes 81 and 82 and longitudes 130 and 150, west. Pilots of three nations were represented in the searching patrols, among them Joe Casson, famed Alaskan "mercy flier," and Air Commodore Herbert Hollick-Kenyon, one of Canada's foremost airmen.

If records mean anything, the search may well be successful. Some two-score rescues are registered in aviation's log book of the north.

There have been less than one-third pledges given to Spain.

Aberhart Demands Albertans Sign "Blue Pledges" To Avoid Election

In Renewing Attack on Right of Federal Government to Control Credit, Alberta Premier Threatens Election if Citizens Do Not Pledge Support to Government.

Edmonton, Sept. 20.—If Albertans in sufficient numbers fail to sign "Blue Pledges" promising to support the Social Credit Government it may be "compulsory" to call an election, Premier Aberhart asserted last night before an audience of 1,100 at the Edmonton Prophetic Bible Conference.

Reich Carrying Out Most Extensive Military Practice Since Great War

Premier Mussolini of Italy to Witness Close of War Nazi Games Next Week in Which Twelve Divisions Operate Through Large Section of Germany.

Berlin, Sept. 20.—Under the watchful eye of Chancellor Hitler, the German army today began a week of the most extensive manoeuvres since the Great War.

Twelve army corps were deployed secretly through the northern provinces of Mecklenburg and Pomerania. The war games were launched with the army, navy and air force co-operating in the defence of the Baltic coast.

The presence of Hitler, together with the fact that Marshal Werner von Blomberg, Reich Minister of War, personally took over supreme command, indicated the importance of the manoeuvres. The general staff was believed located at Rostock-Krokanen.

All phases of the games—the first warlike test of the new German army after two years of existence—were cloaked in deep secrecy. Foreign correspondents were barred, traffic was routed around the area and citizens were cautioned to be on guard against spies.

The large territory covered by the war games, extending from the Baltic coast as far south as Central

HORSE MEAT IS DELICACY FOR MODERN SPAIN

Nurse on Leave from Spanish Front Tells of Life with Fighters and Diets Enjoyed by Combatants and Supporters.

Barcelona, Sept. 20.—Horse meat is quite acceptable to nurses caring for Government soldiers on the Aragon front. Nurse Agnes Hodson, of Melbourne, Australia, on her way to England for a holiday, told about a nurse's life near the front line as she passed through Barcelona.

"The boys in the trenches appear to be content with the food rationed, but for us it was sometimes a bit trying," she said.

"Horse is very good and we were always glad when it was served. Mule, on the other hand, is decidedly tough and the horse legs are not to be desired. Donkey? Well, it is much the same as mule."

Apart from horse, goatflesh was the chief staple in some of the villages where the unit worked. Goatflesh, she explained, is strong unless the goat is caught very young.

A couple of times they had killed which is rather good.

Much of the time dried beans and tomatoes in season were the principal diet. "Dried beans are very sustaining, but you really need to be brought up on them to appreciate them," the nurse said.

In the early days of the war the Spanish militiamen had scorned the idea of digging trenches. Miss Hodson said. They said they had come to fight, not to dig graves for themselves.

When a detachment from the International Brigade came up and started to dig in the Spanish troops sat about and laughed at the "silly" foreigners.

Then the insurgent guns opened up and the Spaniards scurried for shelter in a concrete irrigation canal which was dry. A couple of shells landed in the trench and the Spaniards and concrete shovels were there. After that pickaxes and shovels were at a premium. The militiamen had paid dearly for their lesson.

The busiest time Nurse Hodson's unit experienced was after the fighting near Huesca, when five hundred casualties were admitted to the hospital in three days. The hospital was much better off for medical supplies and equipment than was the case in the fighting around Madrid in the early days of the siege.

A Scottish surgeon visited a clearing station where he found four attendants holding down a man, while a surgeon sawed off his leg. There was no ether, no tourniquet, and lack of other appliances. Horrified, the doctor demanded something should be done. He was told they had tried but failed.

He commended an ambulance and dashed into Madrid in search of the supplies but was unable to find them.

Conditions today, however, are different, Nurse Hodson said. The hospitals have plenty of everything except castor oil. That comes from Italy.

MONTREAL LIVE STOCK MARKET

Montreal, Sept. 20.—A firm tone prevailed on Montreal cattle markets during today's early trading. Cows and bulls moved up about twenty-five cents, with calves and hogs up the same amount. Sheep and lamb prices held steady.

Receipts were: Cattle 859; calves 1,216; sheep and lambs 3,173, and hogs 2,078.

Cows advanced about twenty-five cents with good butchers at $4.75 and medium $3.50 to $4. Common cows were $3 and canners $2 to $2.50. Bulls improved a little at $2.75 to $3.25 for common and a few feeder steers brought $5.50 to $7 for export. Common light steers sold at $3.50 and good butchers at $8. Heifers were traded at $3.50 to $4 for commons and $5.50 to $6.75 for good butchers.

Prices were steady to twenty-five cents higher in light offerings on the calf division. Good quality veals drew $9, with medium good and good veals at $8.50 in mixed lots. Fair to mediums were from $7 to $8 and common light veals $6. Drinkers ranged from $7 to $8 and grassers $8.25 to $4.25.

Good ewes and wethers were firm at $8.50. Culls and bucks were discounted $2 per hundredweight, while sheep continued firm at $2.50 to $4.50, with the bulk $3.75 to $4.

A gain of twenty-five cents showed for hogs, with hogs $10.50, fed and watered. Selects drew the usual one dollar premium, while butchers and heavies were $10 and extra heavies $9.50. Light hogs sold at $9 to $9.50 and sows $8.50 to $9, with odd tops at $8.25 to $8.50.

More than 10,000,000 Bibles, in 678 languages, were distributed throughout the world during 1933.

They informed the Japanese admiral that the noon Tuesday ultimatum did not give the British sufficient time to evacuate or to warn their nations. And added, pointedly, that the maps had been supplied the Japanese showing the location of the British embassy and there was therefore no need for them to leave Nanking.

The Soviet embassy also indicated that it would remain at the capital despite the Japanese warning. Diplomats of other nations were awaiting instructions from their home governments. Construction of heavy bombproof walls of concrete, a yard thick, was being rushed at the Russian embassy.

Forty Planes in Raid

Two squadrons of Japanese raiders—Japanese here claimed there were forty planes—roared over the city, widely deployed, and launched their attack simultaneously on widely distant areas.

Seven distinct areas were known to have been hit, including the government aerodrome. The damage, however, was believed slight.

Fleet Chinese fighting planes took to the air and were reported to have brought down three Japanese bombers. Two of them were said to have been shot down east of the city, where a lengthy battle was fought.

Japanese claimed that there were only seven Chinese planes opposing them and that four of these were shot down.

Japanese officials declared that Japan would not be responsible for any foreign lives lost when her air force bombs Nanking as the "base of Chinese resistance to Japan."

Commanders of foreign warships were told by Vice-Admiral Kiyoshi Hasegawa, commanding the combined Japanese fleet at Shanghai, to move "at least eleven miles upstream" from their anchorage off Nanking's Bund in the Yangtze River.

Admiral Hasegawa, in a note to foreign diplomats, through United States Consul General Clarence E. Gauss, warned that the evacuation should be completed by noon tomorrow when Japan's air fleet "will take whatever measures are necessary against Nanking."

Japanese Amplify Ultimatum

Japanese officials amplified the Hasegawa ultimatum with the statement that Japan would not be responsible for lives lost in bombardments of Nanking if the warning is not heeded.

Japanese claimed to have shot down thirty-two Chinese planes Sunday and destroyed important military objectives. Foreign reports did not bear out these claims and Chinese labelled them "pure fabrications."

Japanese officials said that twenty-six planes were shot down in the morning attack and six more in the afternoon raid and termed the victory "the greatest single feat in the history of aerial combat." Reliable foreign observers in Nanking said the claims were not true, that the raid was aimed primarily at the air base and arsenal and was ineffective in the main.

A Chinese communiqué said that forty-three Japanese planes took part in the morning raid and twenty-three in the afternoon. Chinese reports also claimed that eight Japanese and lost three of their own planes.

Revived International Trade Urged For Preserving Peace

measure to prosperity. He said Canada now employed no quotas, exchange restrictions or embargoes except on the arms traffic and for controlling disease.

Hull said the forces demanding peace had grown tremendously in recent decades but they faced a testing time. Declaring it was a temptation for some countries, including the United States, to attempt a policy of complete isolation, Hull said this would be as ineffective in its ultimate results as the opposite extreme of constant intervention in the affairs of other nations.

Premier Chamberlains declared from his French country home that economic considerations were not the only causes of war, but that questions of religion, of prestige and other factors also entered into the problem.

The problem was complicated "nowadays by dictatorial regimes that aggravate differences in national characteristics and all too frequently set countries against one another," he said.

Only a universal combination of the nations could absolutely assure peace, Chamberlains added, but he said greater freedom of trade would be helpful toward its maintenance and France would be glad to enter into foreign trade agreements with any peace-loving nations.

Mackenzie King called attention to the relations among members of the British Commonwealth of Nations in which "force and compulsion play no part." The same "fortunate relation" existed between the two countries which make up the greater part of North America.

"It will be recognized that in these instances good relations are greatly facilitated by the existence of common standards of international policy and social ideals," he said. "It is a more difficult task to insure peace where this common basis has not been established. That is all the more reason for beginning with such interests as are common to all countries. None can be more so than the interest all nations share in economic prosperity and in an expansion of international trade as contributing to that end."

Other speakers were Premier Van Zeeland, of Belgium, President Alfonso Lopez, of Colombia, Prime Minister Mylan Hodza, of Czechoslovakia and Chancellor von Schuniger, of Austria. The Chancellor's speech was read for him by an Austrian official.

tailed clauses providing for consideration of new proposals at any time, with the door left open to other participants. However, he stressed the record had to be pushed through rapidly since the removal of this "new type of piracy" was an urgent matter.

Making satisfactory note of a recent improvement in economic conditions, Eden declared Great Britain's protectionist policy had been unjustly criticized. An important part of the British market remains largely open, aiding world economic recovery and proving Britain's policy is elastic, he said.

The Foreign Secretary expressed regret that certain countries in a "disadvantageous colonial position" had not collaborated with the League's Raw Materials Commission.

The raw materials problem is not essentially a colonial problem since colonial regions furnish barely three per cent of the world's raw materials supplies, he stated.

"We are convinced that no modification in the preferential customs system can resolve the difficulties besetting various countries who have established currency control and who find themselves in a disadvantageous position," he added.

"These countries do not have difficulty in obtaining raw materials, but in paying for them."

"These payment difficulties are linked with a problem greater than that of raw materials. They hinge on freedom of commercial exchanges. Their solution demands concerted action by the various governments aimed at abolition of trade quotas and currency restrictions."

"Great Britain is ready to collaborate in moves designed to improve trade exchanges, but efforts in this direction will only prove effective if the countries laboring under difficulties are ready to modify their policies with a view toward re-establishing normal commercial relations and renewing confidence."

"Regardless of what ideologies they favor, governments have one aim—to improve the living conditions of their people. We can gain much through collaboration and can lose everything through conflict."

He declared the United States, second largest import market of the world, had adopted a vigorous customs-lowering policy.

In discussing the Spanish problem, Eden stressed that London had backed all attempts to localize the civil strife in the Iberian peninsula.

"We have passed through a year of feverish anxiety—but the conflict has not spread beyond the Spanish borders," he declared. "This is of the utmost importance to us. It is useless to deny that violations of the non-intervention system occurred. However, if non-intervention were scrapped Europe would march along a still more dangerous path."

Turning toward the Sino-Japanese hostilities, Eden went on:

The Chinese delegate, in a speech which deeply moved the whole Assembly, gave us details of the appalling consequences of the warfare, and more particularly the aerial hostilities, in the Far East—details which must have shocked everyone of us.

"He has in no respect exaggerated the horror felt by us at home at this appalling loss of life. It must, unhappily, be admitted that not one of the several efforts made by third parties to end this conflict has been of any avail."

"It is especially tragic that these hostilities on a vast scale should have broken out in the Far East at a time when the onus seemed more auspicious than for some time past for co-operation between the nations in the part of the world."

"Can anyone doubt that if this co-operation had been pursued benefits must have accrued where now there is untold suffering among millions—to say nothing of the blow to trade and prosperity throughout the Far East."

He emphasized that Great Britain, despite its rearmament, was more attached than ever to the ideal of peace.

Rearmament necessitated by the world unrest, will be pushed through in agreement with all classes of the British public, the Foreign Secretary told the assembly, adding:

"Great Britain does not want war but wants to combat doctrines which maintain that war pays, doctrines which are the basis of present insecurity."

that number of fatalities. Establishment of search bases and swift forwarding of supplies, methods now being employed in the search for the Russians, effected rescues.

Canada's most recent aerial epic of the north was the hunt for two Royal Canadian Air Force fliers, Flight-Lieut. Sheldon Coleman and Aircraftsman Joseph Fortey. Forced down August 17, 1936, by lack of fuel after delivering engine parts to other stranded pilots, Coleman and Fortey were found September 16 on the shores of a lake 250 miles northwest of Fort Reliance, N.W.T.

The greatest aerial search in the history of Canadian aviation ended when Col. C. D. MacAlpine and seven others, let for two months, 150 miles north of the Arctic circle, were brought out to civilization early in December, 1929. The men had trekked seventy-five miles from Dease Point, where their planes were forced down, to Cambridge Bay on Victoria Island, 2,000 miles north of Regina and about 800 miles east of here.

Although Japanese headquarter announced capture of Kuanhsien last Wednesday morning, the walled city was held two days longer by a Chinese regiment belonging to the 81st army and commanded by a Colonel Wang. Two thousand survivors of this regiment retired from Kuanhsien Friday.

The heavily bombed gate tower of the city was shattered and collapsed. More than twenty Chinese soldiers had been buried, and many arms and legs still projected from the ruins. Temporary Chinese officials told me they counted seventy-five bodies of Chinese civilians killed in heavy Japanese bombardments of the city. The Chinese of the ruins remained to be explored.

I found the Japanese were smashing open all closed doors and threatening to shoot townspeople who did not wear armbands welcoming the conquerors. I was told two frightened Chinese had been shot in the back while attempting to flee.

Peasants encountered on the road told me there had been several executions in the villages, where the Japanese cried the impress coolies for labor. The Chinese, frightened and unable to understand orders in the Japanese tongue, balked. Executions followed.

Forty-six were reported killed in this manner at the town of Hsiyuan. I saw two groups of corpses of Chinese farmers with their hands tied behind their backs.

Nothing To Lose.

The two reasons most prominently advanced in the United States for not invoking the American Neutrality Act against China and Japan are that American trade interests would suffer heavily, and that it would work a hardship on China, where the official sympathies presumably lie.

Those two excuses seem to have been already invalidated.

Virtually all shipments to Shanghai have been halted or diverted and imports from China have been seriously curtailed, according to exporters, importers and bankers.

That being the case, shippers obviously cannot benefit by a foreign trade which has already been figuratively blockaded. Neither can China be helped by supplies it does not get.

Ontario's Political History.

Now that another general election is drawing near in the sister province and the people of Ontario are called upon to decide what Government will be put into power, it is interesting in Quebec to sit back and to cast an eye over Ontario's past record and see how the parties lined up in the different Legislatures. Here is the list up to date:

1874—Reformers, 41; Unionist, 32; Independents, 7.

1875—Liberals, 51; Conservatives, 33; Independents, 4.

1879—Liberals, 58; Conservatives, 29; Independents, 1.

1883—Liberals, 48; Conservatives, 36; Independents, 2.

1886—Liberals, 64; Conservatives, 26.

1890—Liberals, 54; Conservatives, 36.

1894—Liberals, 49; Conservatives, 27; Patrons of Industry, 14; P.P.A., 2.

1898—Liberals, 49; Conservatives, 43; Patrons, 4.

1902—Liberals, 51; Conservatives, 46.

1905—Conservatives, 69; Liberals, 29.

1908—Conservatives, 86; Liberals, 19; Labor, 1.

1911—Conservatives, 83; Liberals, 21; Labor, 1.

1914—Conservatives, 84; Liberals, 23; Independent Liberals, 1; Labor, 1.

1919—United Farmers of Ontario, 44; Liberals, 29; Conservatives, 25; Labor, 11; Soldier, 1; Independents, 2.

1923—Conservatives, 77; Liberals, 14; U.F.O., 17; Labor, 3; Total, 111.

1926—Conservatives, 74; Liberals, 17; Independent Liberals, 4; Progressives, 13; U.F.O., 3; Labor, 1; Total, 112.

1929—Conservatives, 91; Liberals, 14; Progressives, 5; U.F.O., 1; Labor, 1; Total, 112.

1934—Liberals, 66; Conservatives, 47; Liberal-Progressives, 4; C.C.F., 1; Independent, 1; U.F.O., 1; Total, 90.

What October 6th will bring forth is on the knees of the gods. But it is safe to say that the old parties will have the big representation in the new House. Third parties have not done well except in 1919, when the U.F.O. preponderated and with the help of Labor and the Independents was able to carry on, and there is no indication, so far, of more than a scattering of Independents or candidates of "fancy" parties.

How To Win Friends.

Grenville Kleiser.

To win and keep friends, cultivate a friendly disposition. Do not insist upon always having your own way. Kindness, gentleness and sympathy are forces of attraction. Cheerfulness wins where coercion fails. A wise optimism placates enemies and invites true friendship.

It is a good rule not to contradict another. There are polite ways of dissenting. You may use such ingratiating phrases as, "Have you thought of this view?" "What do you think of so-and-so's opinion?" "Some one has suggested this idea," or "It might be well to consider this aspect of the question." Conversation should not antagonize by contradiction or the use of injudicious expressions. Guard yourself assiduously against everything in word or manner which might cause friction between you and the listener. Observe the methods of popular speakers and profit by their example. Conversation should be used chiefly for the mutual interchange of pleasant and helpful ideas.

Talkativeness is a pernicious habit. The talkative person makes many mistakes which a little judicious silence would obviate. Talkativeness exposes a speaker to the danger of blundering, exaggeration and offensiveness. It is a form of selfishness, tending to monopolize other people's time, and to tax their patience. The remedy for talkativeness is to put a strict seal upon one's lips, coupled with a firm resolution to cultivate a listening and receptive attitude of mind. Eagerness expressing itself in talkativeness is a lack of self-control. The habit of talking too much is a common failing, and a prolific cause of error and disagreement. There should be right balance between speech and silence.

You attract to yourself the kind of friends you deserve. Your home environment is an externalized expression of your mind. Your outward appearance is a testimony of your personal taste and judgment. Your face reveals the evidence of your daily thought habits. The tones of your voice reflect your disposition and qualities of heart. The words you use tell of the kind of books you feed your mind upon. Your choice of friends, amusements, hobbies and pastimes indicates your power of discrimination. Your personality is constantly expressing itself to the discerning world about you.

You are largely what you deserve to be. To secure your rightful place in the world you must earn it through developed ability and hard work. Honor and fortune come by right attraction. Men who have attained things worth having in the world have worked while others idled, persevered when others gave up in despair, and practised early in life the valuable habits of self-denial, industry and singleness of purpose. As a result they enjoyed in later life the ease, comfort and success so often erroneously attributed to good luck. There is no royal road to great achievement and distinction. To be great you must use great means. Life's best prizes are awarded to the resolute, unselfish, valiant and indomitable. These, too, are the qualities that win and keep friends.

YOU FIND YOUR OWN.

Once where a prophet in a palm shade lay, A traveller stopped at noon one dusty day, And asked, "What sort of people in this land?" The prophet answered, lifting a happy hand: "Well, friend, what were the people whence you came?" "What sort?" the traveller snorted—"Knaves and fools!" "Well," said the prophet, "When your fervor cools, You'll find the people here the very same."

Another stranger at the dusk drew near, And paused to ask, "What sort of people here?" "Well friend, what were the people whence you came?" "Ah," smiled the stranger, "they were good and wise." "Then," cried the prophet, laughing in his eyes, "You'll find the people here the very same."

PRESS COMMENTS

WHEN NIPPON WOULD A-WOOING GO.

(New York Herald-Tribune)

The special session of the Japanese Diet which Emperor Hirohito opened was not called to discuss the Army's or the Navy's current adventures in China but to vote them the nation's unanimous approval and financial support. It will be very surprising, indeed, if a single voice is raised against either the extraordinary appropriation of $592,000,000 for campaign expenses or against such an eventual chastisement of China as Mr. Hirota outlined. Though both the prospective cost and the purposes of this campaign would have been bitterly debated just a few months ago, if they could then have been foreseen, the policy of the Japanese Army in action has, as ever before, become the policy of the nation as a whole—all the more readily in this case because the Emperor departed from precedent and gave it his specific approval.

Since Japan's aims in China are not likely to be altered by anything short of military exhaustion in the field or economic collapse at home, the one paragraph in which he sums them up is worth quoting. It runs as follows:

The basic policy of the Japanese Government aims at the stabilization of East Asia, through conciliation and co-operation among Japan, Manchoukuo and China for their common prosperity and well-being.

The urgent need of this moment is that we take a resolute attitude and compel China to mend her ways. Japan has no other objective than to see a happy and tranquil North China and all of China freed from the danger of such calamitous hostilities as at present; and Sino-Japanese relations so adjusted as to enable us to put into practice our above-mentioned policy.

All this, being interpreted, means that the antics of the Japanese Army in Hopei, which precipitated this war, was designed to force North China into a political and economic league with Japan, under the terms of which a big section of territory would have been alienated from China in all but name; and also to force from Manchoukuo an implacable attitude toward such an outrage against China's integrity. Since China has forfeited an opportunity to conciliate gracefully and "sincerely," in such a rape of as many provinces as the Japanese Army chose to take over in North China, and since she has instead dared to raise her hand in defence of her family solidarity and honor, she must be taught "to mend her ways."

All of Japan's military might, backed by all her resources and credit, must be exhausted at need to bring North China into a "happy and tranquil" place in Japan's colonial harem. The rest of the Chinese nation, not yet definitely under sentence of concubinage to Japan, must be hammered into such a state of complacency that it will never again dare to resent a Japanese outrage upon any branch of the Chinese family.

The distinction in the paragraph quoted, between North China and China at large is of particular interest. It clearly suggests that it is only that portion of the nation with which the Japanese Army has been flirting so brazenly but so little success these several years past that is to be forced into truly loving relations with Nippon. The rest of China is to be dealt with as any Bluebeard might deal with the importunate kindred of a stolen bride.

HOW WINNIEPEG DOES IT.

(The Argonaut)

Two men named Hurtig own a fur store in Winnipeg, employing about forty workers, on the "open shop" basis. An organizer from New York called one day, saying he represented the employees, and made the usual demands, which, had the Hurtigs been honest, would have meant that they could not have employed or dismissed a worker without the approval of a union official. Upon a vote being taken, thirty-two employees voted against the calling of a strike, and only three were favorable, but a strike was called none the less, and the owners sued these picketing, charging that they were a common law nuisance. Justice Adamson of the King's bench, before whom the suit was heard, said, after a recital of the facts, that "Acts which injure a man's business, which have a tendency to injure a number of his employees into absenting themselves, and make it necessary for him to convey his employees to and from work under police protection, are a nuisance at common law. . . . Why public officials charged with the duty of keeping the peace and protecting property have not intervened is difficult to understand." Justice Adamson allowed a permanent injunction against the picketers and $3,000 in damages.

A POIGNANT TALE

(New York Daily News)

Most poignant among the tales of newspaper men is the story of the fatal accident that befell a member of one of the local staffs. Good-natured, able and a regular guy, he was one of the most popular men of the crew. Were he in trouble the gang would have gone the limit to help him.

When trouble did come nothing much could be done about it—for he slipped on a flight of stairs, fell no time with the biggest crime of the century breaking, to give thought to the man who had fallen downstairs.

In a day or so the family arrived to identify and claim the body. Looped to a button on the dead reporter's clothing they saw and read the tag which must be attached to

IRRIGATION IN CANADIAN WEST

(La Presse, Montreal)

The territories of the West which suffered the most from drought this year and in preceding years have yielded more than $8,000,000,000 in agricultural produce since they were colonized. It was pointed out recently by Sir Edward Beatty at a Vancouver conference.

What to do? Seemingly the resources within reach of the people and the public authorities have not as yet been exhausted, for these resources were worked for in other countries, and results were undeniably obtained.

Many are convinced that work, and especially irrigation, would serve to allay a great deal of the recent agricultural disaster.

That the expense would be great cannot be denied. But the investment would be a wise one if an intelligent programme of work were begun to restore the fertility which these territories had for many years—fertility which even the current drought cannot have radically destroyed.

THE WHITE PLAGUE

(La Patrie, Montreal)

The Government at Ottawa is undertaking the organization of a campaign against tuberculosis among the Indians of the Canadian North-West, particularly among tribes of British Columbia where the white plague is causing terrible havoc. There is in the province on the Pacific a population of 25,000 Indians. Last year, 180 of them died, victims of the disease. These are terrible figures which triple the mortality of the disease among white people.

The day when all our population groups understand these teachings (of elementary principles of hygiene), the number of persons admitted into the sanatoria will not fail to diminish. We must hope that the example given by British Columbia will be followed in our own province.

REMOVAL OF ABERHART

(La Presse, Montreal)

Common sense appears to want the restoration of its rights in Alberta. According to Wellington Jeffers, of Toronto, a large proportion of the Alberta population has intentions of starting a crusade to force a retirement of the Aberhart Government and get started on the work of restoring the province's economic status.

The leading minds of the Dominion are in favour of the movement, and are hoping that it will bring about the end of a situation which is detrimental not only to Alberta itself, but to the entire country.

An eminent American jurist, at the last congress of the Canadian Bar, said that the Aberhart experiment surpassed the most chaotic social and monetary experiences of the United States in recent years.

In serving the interests of their province, the Aberhart party would also be serving the interests of the country. The adventure has been detrimental to Canada; it should be ended soon.

It is hoped that the great popular assembly without political distinction, which is to be held in Calgary will provide the first blow in doing away with the present administration. The sooner Mr. Aberhart and his councillors leave the better.

all corpses, detailing all known circumstances. In formal phrases the tag related the how, where and when of the accident, who found the body, who searched it, and concluded with the notation.

"No friends."

"POOR" GERMANY.

(London Daily Mail)

Where is the poverty of Germany so freely proclaimed in this country? Germany's remarkable trade figures for last month show that her exports are now nearly 92 per cent. of our own—an overwhelming answer to those Left Wing newspapers which are repeating the old taradiddle about "German poverty." The July returns for Germany reveal that she has increased her exports over the preceding month by ten per cent.

The paramount fact is that her rapidly increasing exports look like overtaking our own. Being a nation almost entirely self-supporting in essential foodstuffs, it is obvious that Germany holds a very powerful economic position. The financial critics of Germany are those very same experts who emphatically alleged that Italy could not win the war with Abyssinia because she had no money, who now declare that Japan could not win a war with China because Japan's pockets are empty. These foolish theories about other nations' finances are said to be supported by some high treasury officials who appear unable to detect in trade figures the clear story they tell.

SLAM BANG UP AND DOWN THE LAKES.

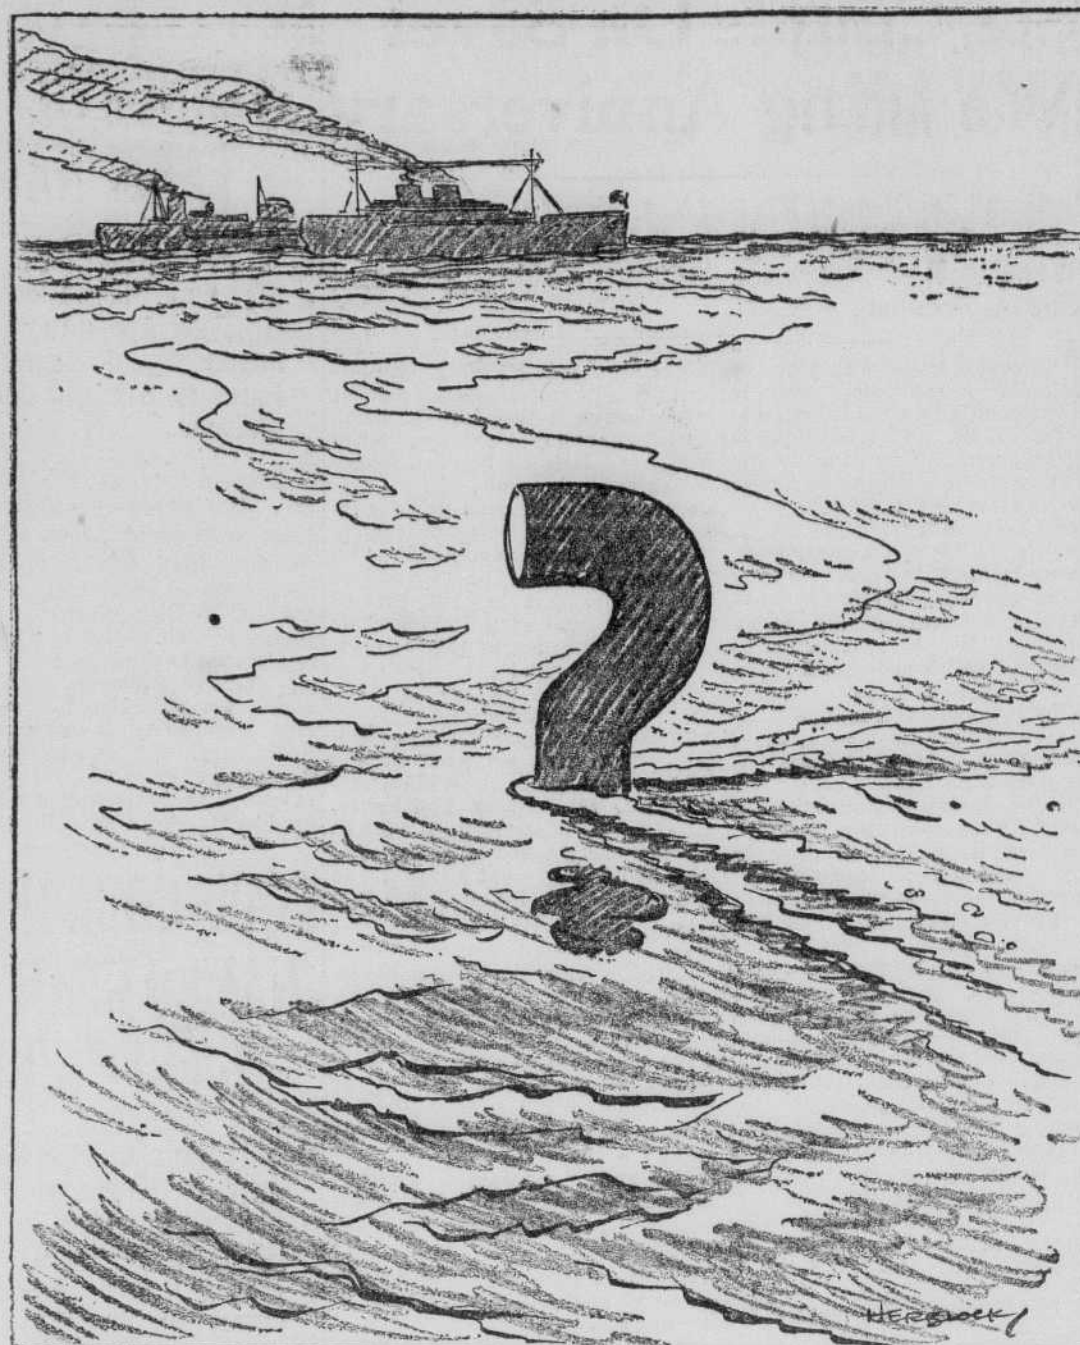

(Cleveland Plain Dealer)

More iron and ore came down the lakes this August than in any previous month of the whole history of the busy trade which links the iron and the coal, and the life blood of the Cleveland-Pittsburgh industrial empire. For the season so far the ore movement breaks another all-time high.

These cheerful facts, noted in the news columns, are hard to realize by those not connected with the industry. Figures like 10,811,381 tons of ore in a month or 45,438,131 for the season so far, may mean little to a layman. But they tell an indisputable story of recovery which has a direct bearing upon the happiness of every citizen of the steel zone.

Fully to appreciate their significance it is necessary to look back two or three years. At that time half the lake fleet was idle. Shipping men recalled wistfully the high marks of 1929. There were plenty of Jeremiahs around to tell them that such a pace of business could never be repeated. It was a foreboding hour for it. Well, the 1929 pace is not only back but it is bettered. Which proves, perhaps, that while the Jeremiahs are delightful and interesting fellows, if you enjoy the creeps, it is usually unwise to take them too seriously.

WORDS OF WISDOM

Let us lay hold of the happiness of today. Do we not go through life blindly, thinking that some fair tomorrow will bring us the gifts we miss today? . . . Know thou, my heart, if thou art not happy today, thou shalt never be happy.—Anna Robertson Brown.

Our knowledge is no blessing to us unless we have learnt to use it well and wisely, and learnt, too, that with it only, life is not complete. If, dealing with the things we see, we walk hand-in-hand with faith in the unseen, these two shall make life beautiful and blessed.—Clodd.

To live for others, to suffer for others, is the inevitable condition of our being. To accept the condition gladly, is to find it crowned with its own joys.—Westcott.

True glory is the unanimous approbation of good men, for their praise is not bought with money, and they alone are able to estimate real merit at its proper value.—Cicero.

Learning makes the young temperate, is the comfort of age; standing for wealth with poverty, and serving as an ornament to riches.—Cicero.

To bear adversity with an equal mind is both the sign and glory of a brave spirit.—Quarles.

The world is upheld by the veracity of goodness; they make the earth wholesome.—R. W. Emerson.

Live by method it will make life twice as long.—Thorold.

How The Blind Of Canada Are Being Aided

The annual report of The Canadian National Institute for the Blind is an encyclopaedia of information concerning the blind people of Canada and their activities. Although since its formation nineteen years ago, The Canadian National Institute for the Blind has become known to almost every Canadian able to read, the lives led by the blind people—who they are, what they do, how they make a living and what is being done to help them—constitute an unsuspected mystery to most of those who have no direct contact with blind people.

The two words, "blind man," still convey to the mind of the average person a picture of a pitiable figure on some street corner, a supreme example of the last word in human misery. To those who have the privilege of looking over the annual report of the C.N.I.B. an entirely different picture is presented. There is still plenty of misery and suffering connected with the lives of many of those who must go through life without their sight, but the long years of patient effort that have been expended in endeavoring to alleviate the lot of those who are handicapped by the loss of the most precious of the senses is, apparently, bearing fruit.

The 1936-1937 report of the C.N.I.B. carries a score or more of illustrations. It is not pictures of men and women in acute distress, but show blind men at work, blind men at play, blind children at school and blind girls and women learning and working. Scattered across Canada from British Columbia to Newfoundland, there are hundreds of blind men and women today who, through the opportunities provided for them by the C.N.I.B. are taking their places in the economic world side by side with their sighted associates. The point has by no means been reached where it can be said with truth that every blind person capable of working and willing to make use of that capability is equipped with a job or a business, but this latest report of the Institute does clearly indicate that progress towards that desirable end is being surely made.

The illustrations in the annual report are not startling. They simply show a man standing behind a counter of a little stand, or a girl performing some simple manual job in a factory or a man in front of a machine, or a group of children in a classroom, but behind everyone of these pictures is a story of intense human interest. The subjects of these photographs have triumphed, through the help of the C.N.I.B., over a handicap which, to the mind of the average citizen, is overwhelming.

Naturally the spectacular achievements of the Institute in finding positions and arranging business opportunities for its blind friends are what attract most public attention, but there are other phases of the work of the Institute which are of equal value to blind people who are unable, for reasons of health or age, to share in the industrial or commercial life of the community. There is practically no blind person, no matter where he lives or what his condition, to whom the Institute is not able to render some service. All services, such as the loaning of Braille books, home-teaching, the administration of theatre passes and street-railway passes, special concessions in regard to fare on railway, steamship and bus lines, the handling of radio licenses, the sale of radios and radio parts at very substantial discounts and the maintenance of a social service department, are all provided without any charge whatever to those taking advantage of them.

It requires a booklet of eighty-six pages to tell the year's story of The Canadian National Institute for the Blind. A quarter of the book is devoted to a list of members of boards and committees. They indicate that everywhere throughout the Dominion, the Institute is supported and encouraged by an army of volunteer workers who are contributing their share toward making the C.N.I.B. what it evidently aspires to be, the most efficiently-functioning agency for the blind in the English-speaking world.

There are in Canada 8,684 blind persons. Of these 657 are in British Columbia, 387 in Alberta, 539 in Saskatchewan, 527 in Manitoba, 2,926 in Ontario, 2,330 in Quebec, 444 in New Brunswick, 757 in Nova Scotia, and 97 in Prince Edward Island. There are 220 in Newfoundland. The figures given are from the register of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind. Although every effort has been made to register every blind person in the Dominion, there are some who undoubtedly have not been reported and the exact number of blind in Canada may be two or three hundred in excess of the figure given.

WEDDING GOWN DONNED AGAIN IN ICY ARCTIC

Mission Bride Greets Governor General in Bridal Attire of Six Years Ago.

Fort Norman, N.W.T., Sept. 20.—A six-year-old romance this summer brought an Ontario girl to this wild-ness post near the Arctic Circle, and a governor-general brought her the chance to wear once more the wedding dress she wore as the bride of a young Anglican missionary.

In June the stern-wheel steamship Distributor, grunting with its barges down the great Mackenzie Waterway, had as passenger Ivy May Lawrence, of Gorrie, Ont., near London. Down the gangplank came also Rt. Rev. H. A. Sovereign, Anglican Bishop of Athabasca and shoreside stood Rev. Henry L. Jennings, graduate of Huron Theological College, University of Western Ontario.

It was almost a year since Jennings, a graduate in 1935, moved into the decrepit mission house with sagging floors and crumbling wall paper to keep house for himself until he and his fiancée could complete their wedding plans. June 23 they stood before the bishop and were married.

In 1931 they had met at Ripley, in Bruce County, Ont., where Jennings was working as student-in-charge of the parish. They became engaged and began saving for the day when they could establish a home somewhere. Jennings graduated, was ordained the next year, volunteered for the mission at Norman, a little post 150 miles from the Arctic Circle, and sent for Ivy May.

She spent eight days in Toronto selecting her wardrobe, and was married here in a white ankle-length dress and a white off-the-face straw hat with a small veil. In that outfit, too, she appeared on shore when the Distributor, making the season's second voyage, tied up, carrying Lord Tweedsmuir and his party and flying the vice-regal standard.

The governor-general was touched by the appearance of the girl, just recovering from an illness, shook hands with her and inquired after her health.

Mrs. Jennings said she was about to pack the dress away expecting never to wear it again, when she heard the vice-regal party was on its way down the river to wear it once more in honor of the visit.

MARRIAGES

BEATTIE-MASON

Milby, Sept. 20.—The marriage of Gertrude Edna, daughter of Mrs. W. J. Mason, to Mr. Everett G. Beattie, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Beattie, of Milby, was quietly solemnized on September 1st, in the United Church, parsonage at Waterville, Rev. P. G. Fulcher officiating. The bride wore a becoming gown of navy printed chiffon with hat and other accessories of dark green.

Miss Wanda Orr, the bride's only attendant, was dressed in dark green with black accessories. Mr. Alex Savage, of Lennoxville, acted as best man.

After the ceremony the bridal party motored to the home of the groom's parents in Milby, where the wedding supper was served, covers being laid for ten. Later the bride and groom left amidst showers of confetti for Toronto and Niagara.

Upon their return a largely attended reception was given in their honor at the Milby Hall, where friends and relatives assembled to extend congratulations and best wishes for happiness to Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Beattie, who were also the recipients of many beautiful and useful gifts.

Fall Is Season Of Diversity; Any Style Of Hat Is Modish

Amusing, young and provocative is this tiny "accordion" hat of black felt. Trimmed with a thin, pert feather, it collapses and thus is wonderful for the traveller.

New York, Sept. 20.—The outstanding hat designers have been positively bighearted with their ideas for fall. It's to be a season of greatest variety from which to pick and choose. Whether you look like a Spanish beauty, a dresden china doll, or just a plain healthy American, there's the right hat to set off your clothes and flatter your face.

The very smartest bonnets seem to be marching forward and up. Berets (sure they're here again), especially the exaggerated types, slant forward and up, and quantities of little toques reflect the forward movement.

Off-the-face creations include up-turned brims, which are narrow at the back, wide at the front and turned up and away from the face. These give an illusion of height, and are especially good for the very young.

Turbans for Height

High turbans, too, add height to the silhouette. Paris cables report high turbans in all kinds of fabrics, including metallics and paisleys, for afternoon and dinner as well as those in velvet and faille for afternoon.

Pillboxes and toques, with deep backs and bonnet brims, are new. Formalized toques often are developed in metal and rich brocades. College girls are buying calots in gabardine, plaid woollens and felts for campus and in velvet for tea.

In the wide-brimmed category, there are veritable sombreros, complete with wide satin ribbons to tie under the chin and made of the kind of soft, inky black felt, which reminds you of the hat the villain in the play always wears. Also dashing Lilly Langtry models, swooping up on one side—down on the other.

If you're proud of your profile, look at profile hats which come down on one side and sweep upward on the other, thereby framing your face prettily.

Veils in Profusion

In the sports and casual daytime collections, fairly high-crowned models, with intricate stitching, find favor.

There are veils galore. One smart house puts a narrow fringe of black veiling around the hairline of a black

With the revival of early century fashions, plumes and bonnets become important. This little hat, of mahogany suede-like fabric, is trimmed with plumes in a subdued shade of chartreuse.

New for fall is the charming Florida-doraleike bonnet with upturned brim, and ties streamers of matching velvet under the chin in a bow. This is extreme, of course—but fetching. Another model in the collection is finished with a pert ostrich feather fancy.

Here's the perfect hat for a perfect profile. Of black felt, it has definite up and down lines—a gracefully flattering chapaneau that drapes saucily on one side.

BUSINESS GIRL'S JOB INCLUDES BEING NEAT

A neat little makeup kit, containing a cleanser, foundation lotion, cream rouge, powder, a few cotton pads and perhaps a bit of mascara, is something every smart young business woman should have in her desk. Large enough to hold the essentials, but not so large that she is embarrassed to carry it to the wash-room, such a kit means the difference between being perfectly groomed and haphazardly groomed during a working day.

Add to the kit a box of cleansing tissues (there are a dozen uses), tiny bottles of polish remover and nail lacquer, an emery board, a good mirror, a full size comb and a nail white pencil and beauty problems in the office become infinitely simpler.

Executive wants to see you looking on makeup at your desk, but neither does he like grayish cheeks, faded lips and straggling hair. He wants you to be attractive, but he doesn't want to know how you got that way.

One efficient young secretary keeps all of her beauty items in a medium size box in a top drawer of her desk. In the middle of the morning, and once during the afternoon, she combs her hair, applies a fresh coat of lipstick and a speck or two of face powder.

Before she goes to lunch, she really does a complete makeup job. Cleansing lotion removes all stale makeup, dust and dirt. On goes new foundation, cream rouge, powder and lipstick. If she is going straight from work to a tea or dinner, she does a second makeup job after five.

Otherwise, she touches up her lips, powders her nose and goes home to bathe and freshen up before dinner.

One night a week she stays at home, presses her dresses, washes undergarments, stockings, gloves, gives herself a fine facial, from special cleansing to mask and tonic, and goes to bed early.

You And Your Child

SHELTERED TOT MADE A MOLLYCODDLE

Stephen burst into tears when father reprimanded him, and mother, who saw the youngster's feelings were hurt, whispered to father, "You shouldn't speak to him so roughly. You know how sensitive he is!" Then she dried Stephen's eyes and fondled him lovingly, "Go give him back his cradle," she believed.

Another time Stephen could not put on his rubbers and started crying. "That's nothing to cry for," mother consoled, and pulled them off for him instead of showing him how to do it himself.

Yesterday little John snatched a toy out of Stephen's hand, John is three and Stephen five. The elder boy could have overtaken the youngster without any effort and recovered the toy if he wanted to. But why exert himself when a little crying would bring about the same result?

When anything goes wrong Stephen bursts into tears. Because he cries easily, his mother thinks he is extremely sensitive and strives in every possible way to protect him.

But even if it were true that Stephen was sensitive into tears, it is his mother's duty to teach him to face the facts of life. The sheltered child is made helpless, cowardly, dependent. If he cries at the slight provocation, it is not his fault. It is his parents' fault for tolerating such behavior.

To discourage this habit, insist, "You must stop crying first if you want me to listen and help you." In time this will teach him the futility of tears. He will see that there are other ways to meet his problems and may even try to help himself without being told how by mother.

When cleaning fish, remember to rinse the knife in water occasionally. Also wet the hands before touching fish, and the odor will come off more easily.

RUNNING AN ENGINE ON WATER

A London, Ont., machinist, Fred Dicy, has invented a machine he declares will run on water, and is shown, above, pouring fuel fresh from the well into the tank while Phil Martin, another machinist, plays an acetylene torch on the liquid just to prove it isn't gasoline. High pressure and temperature are used to break the water into hydrogen and oxygen. The hydrogen then is exploded, creating power to run the motor. Other inventors have built other water-driven engines, but none has been successful.

ST. ARMAND W.I. TO ENTERTAIN HIGH OFFICIAL

Miss Hazel McCain, Provincial Superintendent, to Attend Semi-Annual County Meeting.

St. Armand, September 20.—Mrs. J. Thomas entertained the St. Armand Women's Institute at an exceptionally interesting meeting on September 11th, with fourteen members and several visitors present.

The president, Mrs. Miles E. Krans, was in the chair, and the Club Women's Creed was repeated. The roll call was "My Favorite Song." After the reading and signing of the minutes of the preceding meeting, a letter was read from Provincial Superintendent, Miss Hazel McCain, in which she announced that she would be present at the semi-annual County meeting on October 23rd. The place for this meeting will be announced later. The treasurer's report showed a balance of $56.32. Miss Sigbee, V.O.N., spoke of organizing a "Little Mother's League," in St. Armand, and the hostess offered her home as the meeting place of this little club, should it be started. A motion was made and carried that this branch of the Women's Institute would sponsor such a society should it be formed.

Mrs. George Bradley then gave a resume of the Life of Stephen Foster, which was much enjoyed. A musical guessing contest was conducted by Mrs. J. Thomas, and the pretty prize was awarded to Mrs. N. H. Robinson.

Among the guests present were county president, Mrs. W. S. McElroy, Mrs. O. C. Selby, county secretary and Mrs. Kilgallen, president of the Dunham branch.

The president asked Mrs. McElroy to address the meeting, and in doing so the county president expressed her pleasure at being present, and after discussing several items connected with W. I. work, read an interesting article. Mrs. O. C. Selby then spoke a few words, also stating that this opportunity to visit our branch afforded her pleasure.

Mrs. L. Roy gave a short report of affairs in connection with the Child Welfare and Public Health, of which she is the county convenor. Miss Barbara Thomas delighted the meeting by singing two solos.

At the adjournment of the meeting the hostess invited the guests to the attractively decorated dining room, where a delicious afternoon tea was served in honor of her house guest, Mrs. McGuire, of Cornwall, Ont.

COPERNICUS, DEAD SINCE 1543, BECOMES LIVE ISSUE BETWEEN NAZIS AND POLES AT PARIS FAIR

Paris, Sept. 20.—Poland and Germany are waging a bloodless war here over an issue nearly 400 years old, despite their 10-year peace pact.

So far as Nazi-land was concerned, all was peaceful on the Spree, and even on the Seine, where the French are holding their great Paris exposition.

Then the Poles built for the fair a good-looking pavilion. Inside that pavilion they had a rotunda which they converted into a sort of Polish hall of fame. And one of the most conspicuous of the statues was that of Copernicus, astronomical genius of the Middle Ages.

That was just too much for Nazi Germany. Might as well let the Poles claim the invention of sauerkraut or Frankfurters as claim Copernicus. So immediately the government placed in the German pavilion a nice picture of Copernicus, together with documents which it claimed prove beyond a venture that Copernicus was not a Pole, but a man of pure German blood and good German consciousness. Aryan, of course!

When's a Pole a Pole?

The German papers took it up. One of them sneered that the Poles had such "taking ways." They were not satisfied with taking the German name and proclaiming him a Pole, but, in their hall of fame in the Polish Pavilion, they also swiped two more national heroes—Jagellon, founder of a dynasty of great kings, and Adam Mickiewicz, cracked up as Poland's greatest poet, Jagellon, born 1554 and died 1434, headed the dynasty that ruled Poland from 1550 to 1572. Mickiewicz, born 1798 and died 1855, wrote Poland's great epic—"Pan Tadeusz." But—said the scornful German press—both Jagellon and Mickiewicz were Lithuanians, not Poles.

Nicholas Copernicus, the man about whom all the fuss started, was born in 1473 in a small town in what was then Poland, but later became incorporated in Prussia. His family name was really Koppernick, Copernicus being its Latinized form. Son of a prosperous merchant, he attended the ancient University of Cracow. He studied theology, medicine, mathematics and astronomy. Later he went to Italy and studied more medicine in Padua and ecclesiastical law in Ferrara.

Greatest Astronomer.

He settled down as a canon in the old German town of Frauenburg in 1512 and there worked out the theories which gave him eternal fame and founded modern astronomy. The world had believed the sun revolved around the earth. Copernicus and Mrs. John Chandler and Miss J. Mullins, of Montreal, called on Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Russell, recently.

BOLTON GLEN

Miss Clara Paige, of Montreal, was a week-end visitor of her father, Mr. B. G. Paige.

Miss Ruth Hastings is spending her vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hastings.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmore Bockus and family and Mrs. Mrs. Ormonde Brown were recent visitors of Mr. and Mrs. John Bockus, at Fulford.

Mrs. Forest Cousins, who has been ill the past week, is improving.

CRUCIAL CUBS-GIANTS SERIES IS ON TOMORROW

Both Pennant Contenders Chalked Up Victories Yesterday, New Yorkers' Beating Cards in Tenth Inning and Chicago Nosing Out Brooklyn Dodgers.

To a lot of people, this is only the time to get ready for the end-of-the-month bills; but to big league baseball it looks like the week for which everything has been headed since the "play ball" signal back in April.

Unless all signs are pointed backward, before the week runs out the Yankees will have clinched the American League pennant, and the Giants and Cubs will either have settled the National League squabble or given definite indication as to what the fans can expect.

New York's Giants and Chicago's Sox, both of whom have won five of five games apart in that order, go to work on each other's throats in a series starting tomorrow.

Over in the rival loop, meantime, the Yankees, with a ten and a half game lead, only need any combination of five victories and two defeats, or a collection of the two, mathematically to eliminate the Tigers and nail the flag to their mast for another year.

The Giants yesterday nosed out the Cards by four to three in ten innings. Behind two to one, Manager Bill Terry reached into the hat and came up with Wally Berger, a futile pinch-hitter for his most powerful pitcher, Hank Linder, in the seventh. In the ninth, however, Wally belted a homer to tie the score and ultimately lead the Giants to a win over Los Angeles.

Meantime, big Max Baer held the Cubs to four hits. Unfortunately one was Gabby Hartnett's homer with a mate aboard—just enough to cash in on Curt Davis' classy flinging for a two to one win over the Brooklyn, leaving the pennant situation in this form:

Team	W	L	G.B.T.P.
Giants	84	53	17
Cubs	83	57	24

Elden Auker's submarine ball baffled the Yankees and the Tigers trampled the American League leaders by eight to one. The White Sox were mathematically eliminated from the pennant race by only breaking even in a twin bill with the Senators, losing the opener by five to four and taking the nightcap nine to one.

Philadelphia's Athletics astonished themselves and the Cleveland Indians by topping the Tribe twice in eight to four and five to three. The Boston Red Sox-St. Louis Browns' bargain bill was rained out. Pittsburgh's Pirates split with the Phillies, winning the afterpiece by five to one after the Phils took the opener by eight to one. The Boston Bees and Cincinnati Reds did the same thing, Boston coming through with a seven to six victory and then losing by two to nothing on Ival Goodman's two-run homer and Gene Schott's three-hitter.

SPORT FLASHES

New York Sept. 20.—Max Schmeling will take on two tune-up bouts before meeting Joe Louis for the title next June. One will be against Walter Neusel in Germany. The other will be held in this country in February, probably in Miami.

The New York football Giants to a man say Sammy Baugh, of Washington, is the hottest thing to come up from the college ranks since Bronko Nagurski joined the Chicago Bears from Minnesota.

The only thing wrong with the Pompton Lakes training camp of M. Thil and Senors Gracia and Montanez is that nobody around the joint can speak English.

Elmer Layden means Notre Dame fans expect too much of his team. What, with eleven bona fide Irishers on the team?

Don't look for Clark Griffith to send Nick Altrock on another scouting trip soon. The clown was dispatched to Sioux Falls, S.D., to look over a pitcher named Anderson, Nick wired Griffith: "Have signed Joe Anderson, a southpaw. He is a honey." It turned out Anderson's front name is Arnold and that he is a right-hander. He won fourteen of seventeen starts. And since he's signed to a Washington contract, Altrock probably will say, "So what?"

Oak Ridge, a tiny preparatory school down in North Carolina (but it turned out the Ferrell boys, Ray Hayworth and Tom Zachary, among others) already has started baseball practice for next year.

The first fellow to jump six feet in the United States was Jeremiah T. Mahoney, who won out in last week's mayoralty primary. He did the trick in 1909.

ENDEAVOUR MAY REACH ENGLAND UNDER OWN SAIL

Rolling Sea Today Held Fate of British Racing Sloop and Her Crew of Twenty. Missing Since Last Monday.

Newport, R.I., Sept. 20.—A rolling sea today held the fate of the British racing sloop Endeavour I and her crew of twenty, missing since last Monday when the trim craft lost her convoy in a storm two hundred miles off Nantucket Light. As several Coast Guard vessels, searching for the craft for the fifth day, swept a wide area south of Nova Scotia, T. O. M. Sopwith, former owner of the sloop, sent word to Tollesbury, England, where seven members of the crew lived, not to worry, that "she'll come, in two or three weeks."

On those words hung the hope of mariners on both sides of the Atlantic that Endeavour might reach England under her own power. The Coast Guard cutter Cayuga, plowing the sea near Sable Island, where prevailing winds would have driven the ill-fated sloop if she was drifting helplessly, reported that the only chance for her safety if she was not found in that area was that she proceeded across the ocean under her own sails. It was possible, the Cayuga reported, that she was moving south of steamer lanes and might not be sighted until near England.

Meanwhile the Endeavour's convoy, the 180-foot motor yacht Viva II, sailed for England, from Newport, with the intention of searching for the missing sloop on the way across.

A LAST MINUTE LEPINE RALLY TIED ST. PATS

Yves Gadbois Went on a Scoring Spree in the Final Stanza Which Enabled His Teammates to Divide Honors with Local Lacrosse Champions.

Scoring three times in a thrilling third-period rally, Yves Gadbois enabled his Lepine teammates to come from behind and earn a five to five tie with St. Pat's, City Lacrosse League champions, in an exhibition game played yesterday afternoon at the Arena. Fast and exciting, the game provided a fine brand of entertainment for the lacrosse enthusiasts in attendance.

The Irish stepped out and established at three-goal lead in the opening period. H. Delorme, Harold Mooney, V. Murphy and Roger Dufour, tallied for the champions to the Red's single counter for the Lepine squad.

Both teams added one marker in the second frame, R. Moine doing the honors for Lepine and Pete Plamondon for St. Pat's, setting the score at five to two. Gadbois then went on a one-man scoring spree in the final stanza, garnering three goals and knotting the count.

Besides the rover's flashy performance, the game was marked by hard checking and sensational stops by the rival netminders. These two teams will clash at Windsor Mills next Monday evening, September 27, in another exhibition match.

The teams lined up as follows:
St. Pat's: E. Morin, goal; B. Jones and H. Delorme, defence; H. Mooney, centre; P. Plamondon, rover; V. Murphy and R. Dufour, attack.

$350,000 GATE EXPECTED FOR RING FESTIVAL

If Mike Jacobs Keeps on Tossing His Hard-Earned Currency Around Like a Drunken Sailor, He'll Soon Have to Buy His Own Bank to Keep It In.

New York, Sept. 20.—It looks like Mike Jacobs will, as usual, "make a little" out of his super-colossal festival Thursday night at the Polo Grounds.

The reason that's news this time is because all the best curbstone fight promoters along Sixth avenue agreed that the old ticket scalper finally had got himself singled when he promised important money to four champions (or, anyway, three and a half champions) to defend their crowns on the same night.

The man the experts felt sorry for laid out a total of $195,000 in guarantees for the eight principals in the four fifteen-round events. He admits, now, modestly, to an advance sale of around $175,000, and the "legionnaires" haven't started buying their pasteboards yet. A popular estimate is that 40,000 fans will gather under Coogan's Bluff and pay $350,000 for the privilege. Nobody would die of surprise if the show drew close to a capacity crowd of 70,000.

That's how "whacky" Jacobs is. In a few more years, if he keeps on tossing his hard-earned currency around like a drunken sailor, he'll have to buy his own bank to keep it in.

Putting a whole basketful of champions on the same card, though, is the sort of thing that would appeal to Jacobs. It's a sense of showmanship he absorbed, perhaps, from his long relationship with the late Tex Rickard. He, like Rickard, doesn't pretend to know anything much about fighting or fighters, but he knows what the public will pay to see, which is more important.

Jacobs, though, genial enough, doesn't mix around much and talk fight with the gang that clutters up his office in the Hippodrome every afternoon. He listens to the talk vacantly, for a few minutes and then ducks back into the box office to see how the advance sale is going. He loves to watch tickets being sold, and it's a nice hobby when they're your own tickets.

The New York State Athletics Commissioners have taken a bite of one of Jacobs' champions, the bald Frenchman Marcel Thil. They have decided that Marcel isn't the world middleweight champion in New York, so that leaves him only the champion of the International Boxing Union, or approximately half a champion, and the prevalent odds are two to one that he will be only a foreign fighter when Fred Apolloni, of San Francisco, gets through with him.

All the other champions are in a similar two to one favor-

LENNOXVILLE LADY GOLFERS NAME OFFICERS

Mrs. J. P. L. Stewart Takes Over Reins of Presidential Office from Mrs. R. W. E. Wright, Who Retired After Years of Splendid Work as Head of Club.

Mrs. J. P. L. Stewart was elected president of the Lennoxville Ladies' Golf Club at the annual meeting Saturday evening, succeeding Mrs. R. W. E. Wright, who retired from office after successfully guiding the destinies of the club for several years. Mrs. Wright, in recognition of the valuable services she has rendered, was named honorary president. The meeting, which followed a baked bean supper that was enjoyed by a large number of members, terminated the club's activities for this season.

Other officers elected were: First vice-president, Mrs. C. L. Hall; second vice-president, Mrs. G. L. Deak; secretary-treasurer, Miss Caroline Taylor; captain, Miss Barbara Fletcher; chairman of the house committee, Mrs. R. C. McFadden; treasurer, Mrs. T. P. Delany; Mrs. Roy Clarke, Mrs. Henry Downey, Jr., of Lennoxville, and Mrs. M. McFadden, Mrs. S. LeHurray and Mrs. E. E. Messenger, of Sherbrooke.

Mrs. R. W. E. Wright distributed the prizes won this season, as follows: Ladies' Trophy, won by Miss Caroline Taylor, with Miss D. E. Giroux, of Sherbrooke, as runner-up; cup donated by Mrs. R. W. E. Wright for class "A" players, won by Miss M. Kirby, of Cookshire, with Miss Barbara Fletcher as runner-up; prize donated by Mrs. N. A. Flint, of Sherbrooke, for class "B" and "C" players, won by Mrs. S. LeHurray, of Sherbrooke; approaching and putting prize, won by Miss D. E. Giroux, of Sherbrooke, with Miss Caroline Taylor and Mrs. L. Watson tying for second place; driving competition, won by Miss Caroline Taylor, with Miss D. E. Giroux second.

It was decided that a field day for the lady members of the club would be held next year, and prizes were offered by Miss Caroline Taylor and Mrs. R. C. McFadden for this event. Next year's prizes were also offered by Mrs. C. L. Hall for approaching and putting; Mrs. L. J. Watson for driving, and Mrs. J. P. L. Stewart for class "B" and "C" players.

The members decided to hold a bridge party early next spring, when the proceeds will be used to purchase new furniture for the clubhouse.

Mention was made of the deep regret of the members over the passing this year of their second vice-president, Mrs. W. H. Ames, whose splendid work and sincere interest in the club's activities had always been a great encouragement to them. Her untiring efforts and her splendid sportsmanship will long remain a monument to her and a source of inspiration to the members.

GRANBY GOLFER SET NEW RECORD
Granby, Sept. 20.—Turning in a card of twenty-nine-five under par—for the nine holes, Billy Macdonald, youngest member of Granby's golfing family which includes three brothers and two sisters, sent a three-year standing course record tumbling at the local golf club on Saturday afternoon. The previous mark of thirty was established by Macdonald in 1934.

QUEBEC TEAM WON LESLEY CUP
Montreal, Sept. 20.—With triumph over Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and the Metropolitan Golf Association of New York in a two-day international match played at Laval, Quebec added the Lesley Cup to its collection of team trophies over the week-end.

The P.Q.G.A.'s ten-man squad, captained by C. C. "Happy" Fraser and led by two of the province's outstanding players, Phil Farley and Gordon B. Taylor, finished with seventy-four points, which gave them a ten-stroke margin over Massachusetts, the runners-up, with the Metropolitan team one point behind Massachusetts.

YESTERDAY'S STARS
Outstanding players in yesterday's major league games were:
Wally Berger, Giants: His ninth inning homer with a mate on base brought the Giants from almost certain defeat to tie and eventual four to three win over Cards.
Elden Auker, Tigers: Whipped the Yankees by eight to one with five-hit, five strike-out pitching.
Gil English, Bees, and Gene Schott, Ival Goodman, Reds: English drove in two runs in seven to six opener win; Schott pitched three-hit, two to nothing shutout in nightcap, as Goodman's homer drove in all runs.

Jack Rothrock and George Caster, Athletics: Former scored three runs in eight to four opener win over Indians; Caster pitched ten-hitter and took nightcap by five to three.

Curt Davis and Gabby Hartnett, Cubs: Davis' seven-hit, six strike-out pitching stopped the Dodgers as Hartnett's two-run homer brought in all runs for two to one win.
Al Simmons, Senators, and Vernon Kennedy, White Sox: Simmons drove in two runs in five to four opener; Kennedy allowed five hits, fanned seven and took nightcap by nine to one.

Over his Filipino rival, Ceferino Garcia, in some quarters, Lou Ambers is a popular choice to retain his lightweight title against Pedro Montanez, of Puerto Rico, and Sixto Escobar, bantamweight champion, is favored over Harry Jeffra, but the odds are shorter in these two bouts.

A DECISIVE WIN FOR CHAREST IN TITLE CONTEST

Steadiness and Experience Counted Heavily as Majella Charest Topped Fabre Surveyer in Men's Singles Final in East Sherbrooke Tennis Tourney.

Clearly demonstrating his superiority over his opponent, Majella Charest stroked his way to the men's singles laurels in the East Sherbrooke invitation tennis tournament when he defeated Fabre Surveyer, of Montreal, the defending champion, in three out of four sets at the Boisvert court, on Saturday afternoon. The scores were 7-5, 2-3, 6-4 and 6-3.

After dropping the first set, Surveyer rallied strongly to capture the second just in a convincing manner, but Charest's steadiness and experience counted heavily as he marched to a well-deserved victory.

Play serving and thrilling net play featured the match, which drew generous bursts of applause from a large throng of enthusiastic spectators. Both players put all they had into their shots, and at times the ball rattled back and forth with lightning-like speed.

In the doubles' quarter-finals, Gaetan and Yvan Cote topped Bob Dunsmore and John Bassett by 3-6, 4-4 and 6-1, while in the mixed doubles Miss Mariette Daignault and Gaetan Cote won from Miss Therese Goyette and Henri Goyette by scores of 1-6, 6-4 and 6-3.

Rain washed out yesterday's scheduled doubles matches. Tonight's scheduled matches, however, are slated to meet Connie and Marcel Gregoire, while Ivan Boissvert teams with Hector Prefontaine against Gaetan and Yvan Cote in the quarter-finals. If rain necessitates postponement of the matches, they will be played tomorrow night.

WILL BE KEEN CONTEST FOR NO. 2 PLACE ON U.S. TEAM
Atlanta, Sept. 20.—The way Frankie Parker figures it, there's going to be a tough fight between him, Bobby Riggs and Bryan Grant for the second place on the Davis Cup team next year.

Frankie, former boy wonder from Milwaukee, now the United States second ranking tennis player, rather reluctantly talked the situation over after suffering a defeat at Grant's hands and then seeing Grant beaten by Riggs in a week-end round-robin here.

"From the looks of things now," he said, "Grant, Riggs and I will have to fight it out. Don Budge can't be dislodged from the number 1 position."
"Riggs," he went on, "seems to have the edge over 'Bitty' right now. He is a good retriever and has a better service. And he's younger. That counts a lot. But don't count Grant out of the picture."
"And how about the three of you?"
"It should be a very interesting fight," said Frankie.

HOME RUNS GAVE OROLES A BIG LEAD ON ROYALS

Four-Base Blows Mainly Responsible for Baltimore Squad's Two Wins Over Royals—Semi-Final Series Stands at Three to One.

That unanswerable Baltimore argument, the home run, may give the International Baseball League the best possible attraction for its final playoff series—Newark vs. Baltimore.

Newark's great team, pennant winner by twenty-five and a half games, already has reached the finals by eliminating Syracuse, Baltimore, the team that came back after filling the cellar berth for a long time early in the campaign, held a three to one lead over Montreal's second-place Royals in the other semi-final series today and looked like a good bet to win.

The Orioles got a gift run in the ninth inning yesterday to mark victory No. 3 over the Royals, fourteen to thirteen, but it was mostly by means of homers that they won. They swatted four, after having won Saturday night's clash mainly because of a four-run clout by Manager Buckey Crouse, Montreal tied valiantly to provide the only answer for a home run—another homer—but stopped at three.

Despite a six-run blast in the sixth inning that gave them a temporary tie to nine lead, the Orioles were two runs behind when they started the last half of the ninth. Les Powers drove his second homer of the game over the fence with one aboard to even things up. Then Ed Chapman blew up, loaded the bases and forced in the winning run fifth two out, passing Milt Gray to send Harry Matuzak across the plate.

The pitching mortality in "sterday's slugfest was so great that there wasn't much left in prospect for today's fifth encounter except another hitting match.
The Orioles used up five fingers, leaving only Carl Fischer available for starting duty. Montreal got along with three elbowers and thus Manager "Rabbit" Maraville can call upon any one of his three aces, Harry Smythe, Marvin Duke or Crip Polli.

INJURY BLAMED FOR YOUNG'S POOR SHOWING
Toronto, Sept. 20.—Lack of training because of an injured, cleat-torn leg was blamed by Walter Young and trainer Pete Gavuzzi for the former's poor showing in the marathon trial for the British Empire Games which was run here on Saturday. Young, formerly of the Eastern Townships, finished twelfth.

His failure was the outstanding surprise of the race, as he had gone to the starting line a warm favorite to win by virtue of his triumph in the Boston classic. However, he may still be taken to Australia.
Jimmy Bartlett, of Oshawa, led the field home over the twenty-six mile course in two hours and forty-one minutes.
