MELBOURNE — A Sherbrooke farmer Friday won the right to represent the Province of Quebec at the Canadian Plowing competitions to be held next month in Belleville, Ontario, by taking top honors at the provincial plowing matches held here.

Herbert Winget, 35, took first place with an average score of 75.3 out of a possible 100.

Second in the competition and also to represent the Province of Quebec in Belleville next month was Romeo Besner of St. Clet, Soulanges County.

In all there were eleven contestants in the provincial matches for the senior championship while the junior championship drew seven competitors.

The winner of the junior award was Freddie Johnston of Melbourne with 54.3 points.

The number of contestants at this year's competition was approximately one half of the normal and the poor showing is blamed by the directors of the Quebec Plowman's Association on cold and rainy weather Thursday evening which prevented many probably contestants from making the journey with their tractors to Melbourne.

O. R. Evans, one of the directors stated that interest in good plowing is growing throughout the province as at present seven counties have extremely active plowing associations.

Next year's competition will be held at Ste. Therese, Soulanges County.

The plowing matches started with a gala parade of all the contestants driving their tractors to their appointed plots of land which they had drawn from a hat earlier in the day.

Mr. Winget, the new provincial champion was born and brought up in and around the City of Sherbrooke. He and his brother run a farm situated between Sherbrooke and Bromontville.

US move expected

To present sweeping new disarmament proposals

WASHINGTON (CP) — The Communist and neutral United States plans to place before the United Nations what authorities described as "sweeping" new disarmament proposals with a heavy appeal to the neutral countries.

President Kennedy may present the proposals himself at the UN General Assembly which opens Tuesday. He is preparing to make his first official appearance before the UN soon after the Assembly reconvenes providing members don't get into an immediate hot-tempered fight over the seating of Communist China.

Kennedy gave a hint of the disarmament plan he has in mind when he told neutral nations in a letter Friday that American proposals would ensure that disarmament "is general and complete"—which is somewhat along the lines proposed by Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

'ABOLISH' WAR

Kennedy said also his plan would be designed to abolish war as an instrument for settling international disputes — another favorite Khrushchev phrase — and that disarmament would be accompanied by the creation of "reliable procedures for peaceful settlement of disputes and maintenance of peace."

This may be an indication the United States may show willingness to submit to the decisions of the World Court at The Hague. Neither Russia nor the U.S. have agreed to do so thus far.

The new American proposals would make room for neutral countries to participate in inspection and control procedures. While Kennedy gave no indication of any change in previous western demands for controls, informants said his new proposals would include some modification on this point.

Russia walked out of the 10-power East-West disarmament negotiations in June, 1960, rejecting Western inspection and control demands.

Russia also suggested that in new negotiations the commission be expanded to 15 member countries, including five neutrals to follow Khrushchev's "troika" demands for balanced representation among the west-

Atomic force' destruction

Typhoon hits Japan; may strike Tokyo

(CP from Reuters-AP)

TOKYO — Typhoon Nancy chalked up a record of death and "atomic force" devastation in western Japan today and then turned her fury toward heavily-populated Tokyo.

Police said 12 persons were killed, 19 missing, 93 injured and 87,072 rendered homeless by the typhoon.

Weather forecasters said if Nancy continued her present path she would slam full-force into Tokyo tonight. The first death here occurred shortly after noon when a wind-buffed fence collapsed, crushing a five-year-old girl.

A newspaper report said the typhoon, with 112-mile-an-hour winds, ripped into the Kyoto-Osaka-Kobe area in western Japan with force equivalent to "1,000 Hiroshima-type atomic bombs."

BOATS MISSING

At least 22 fishing boats and small craft were reported either sunk or missing in mountainous seas around Japan.

Families living in low-lying areas in Tokyo were warned to be ready to leave their homes for high ground. Tokyo authorities prepared emergency supplies of clothing, food, blankets, medicine and water.

The massive storm crashed into Osaka, a city of 3,500,000 people after jarring cities and towns in the Wakayama Peninsula.

It sidestepped the port city of Kobe, 15 miles to the west, and roughed up Kyoto, Japan's ancient capital, to the northwest.

BOARD UP HOMES

Forewarned 48 hours in advance of Nancy's arrival, millions of city and country residents boarded up their homes, removed loose objects from the neighborhoods and generally went underground.

Report from Washington

Mass deportation faces East Germans

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Government official reported Friday that the United States has received information the East German Communist regime is planning "the arrest and mass deportation" of Germans living along the Communist side of the Berlin and East German boundaries.

A statement given to reporters by the official, who declined to be otherwise identified, said the East German administration had Soviet backing.

It added that if the plan was carried out it would constitute a further violation of Soviet commitments and responsibilities in Germany.

The statement said: "Reports have reached us (the United States government) that the East German regime with Soviet backing is about to deal another blow to the people under its control.

"It is reported that plans have been made for the arrest and mass deportation of German citizens living in the western boundary of the Soviet sector of Berlin and along

Ottawa man gets life term

OTTAWA (CP)—Andre Crispin, 23, of Ottawa Friday became the first person to be found guilty of non-capital murder since Canadian criminal code amendments dividing murder into two categories came into effect Sept. 1.

The unemployed apprentice electrician was sentenced to life imprisonment by Mr. Justice W. F. Spence after an Ontario Supreme Court jury found him guilty of the April 11 slaying of 39-year-old Marie Parent, slain with a butcher knife after an all-night drinking party.

AMBALA (Reuters)—Police raided four Sikh temples in Punjab Friday and arrested 44 persons in a concerted action aimed at ending the 32-day "fast unto death" of Sikh leader Master Tara Singh. Crash kills priest

A professor from the University of Sherbrooke, Father Norman Boutin was killed instantly Friday morning when his car was involved in a collision on the road near Compton.

A verdict of accidental death was returned at an inquest Friday afternoon into the death of the 32-year-old priest.

At the inquest witnesses testified that Father Boutin had just come over the brow of a hill and put on his brakes. The pavement was wet and the car slid across the road into another vehicle which was coming from Compton.

The driver of the other car involved in the accident, Thomas Duggen, of Montreal was not injured.

Progress made in West talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Western foreign ministers were reported today to have made good progress in agreeing on military, political, and other counter measures that may be used by the Allied Powers against expected new Russian pressures on West Berlin.

State Secretary Dean Rusk and the foreign ministers of Britain, France and West Germany were scheduled to wind up their three-day Washington conference early this afternoon.

Rusk is scheduled to go to New York Sunday for the opening days of the UN General Assembly, beginning Tuesday, and for exploratory talks on Berlin with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

The foreign ministers meeting with Rusk — Earl Home of Britain, Maurice Couve de Murville of France and Heinrich von Brentano of West Germany — are reported to consider the Rusk-Gromyko operation a matter of crucial importance. Britain, and the United States would meet in October or November if Gromyko brings word that Soviet Premier Khrushchev is ready for negotiations on what the Western Powers would consider reasonable terms.

Help in training program

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government and Quebec have signed an agreement to co-operate in providing facilities and programs for technical and vocational training in Quebec, it was announced Friday.

The agreement was signed by Labor Minister Starr and Quebec Youth Minister Paul Gerin-Lajoie.

Under the agreement, Quebec will establish and operate special programs to develop its manpower resources fully.

The federal government agreed to pay 75 per cent of the cost of new vocational training schools and equipment up to March 31, 1963, and part of the money for training.

It will also contribute 75 per cent of what the province spends on training unemployed persons and 50 per cent of Quebec spending on training technicians ad tradesmen, disabled persons, technical teachers and others.

The federal government will also cover 50 per cent of the cost of certain vocational high school programs.

Odds even

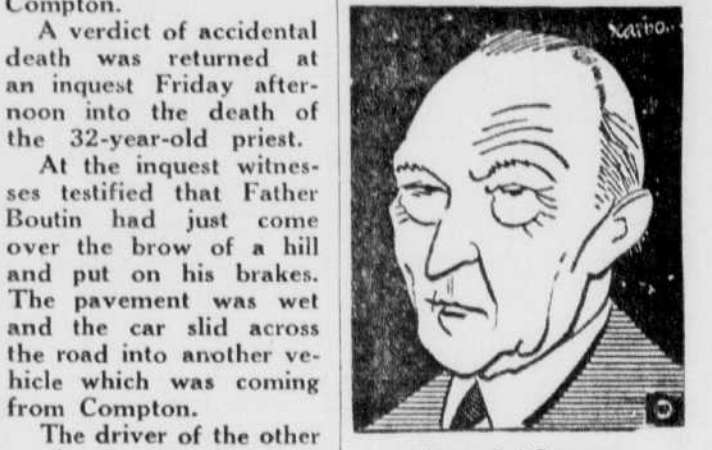

Adenauer is shaky over vote

By TED LESLIE

Chancellor Adenauer watches time tick away at terrifying speed these days — and power trickle from his wrinkled hands.

For he expects to lose votes in this Sunday's parliamentary elections. Prospects are that Adenauer's Christian Democrats will lose absolute majority they held in the last parliament. At best they expect to get only 45 to 47 percent of the vote this time.

With the Socialists expected to get some 37 per cent, the so-called Liberal Free Democratic Party led by Erich Mende will be the one to tip the scales. Mende, an ex-officer in the Nazi Wehrmacht decorated Konrad Adenauer with the Knights Cross, has gone on record that he will not agree with any coalition with the Christian Democrats as long as they are led by Adenauer.

The Christian Democrats know Adenauer has rapidly lost popularity since the August 13 Berlin Crisis. For the first time since the war he was booed on rallies.

As a result the Old Man, who never had any personal friends because of his coldness, is now losing political friends as well, and bets that Adenauer will not top the next cabinet are approaching even odds.

Some say the loss of popularity is because he went too far smearing top opponent Willy Brandt by claiming he was in cahoots with Khrushchev. Some say Adenauer didn't go to Berlin soon enough. When the latest crisis broke he waited 10 days to visit the troubled city.

There is even hissing from movie audiences in West Berlin when he appears on the screen in newscasts.

But I believe another theory advanced by one leading Christian Democrat explaining the loss of Adenauer's popularity.

"For 12 years he's been in government Adenauer has been promising West Germans power — if not in their own hands then behind the hands of the Western Allies NATO friends.

"He told them Britain and France would fight for the Germans if the Communists acted up against them. He promised them that power would some day help them rebuild the Reich now divided in two — the Reich he himself never liked and does not want again. He pictured the Reich dressed in the shiny armour of NATO, western watchdog against communism.

of the theatre's most talented performers.

Still in the comedy field, there will be a weekly Bob Newhart Show on NBC enlisting the talents of one of the brightest young comedy minds around these days.

In the area of action-adventure, we can look for an abundance of hard-hitting, realistic shows that are well produced and not exactly fresh in concept.

Among them are NBC's Gain's Hundred and 87th Precinct; CBS The Investigators and The Defenders; and ABC's The New Breed and Target: The Corruptors. The principal problem for the viewer will be to keep the names straight because of a lot of titles sound alike.

Take it from Kathy

Dear Kathy: I especially like a boy who has asked me to date him for the first time. His family has an attractive home in a nice neighborhood. Our furniture is shabby and my mother is not the best housekeeper in the world. I'm ashamed of my home. Could I meet him someplace else? M. T.

Dear M. T.: If he is well mannered and knows the rules, meeting him elsewhere would make a poorer impression than a house that isn't beautiful. If your date is pleasant, he will eventually meet your family and see your home anyway. The longer you postpone this, the more you will dread it. The correct thing to do is to have him call for you at home. I'll guarantee that things will turn out best that way.

These thoughts might help:

1. Things that are dirty or untidy always make a poor impression. Go to work on the house and make sure it is spotless.

2. Make sure you look your best and be ready ON SCHEDULE.

3. Introduce him to your parents in the proper way. Manners count a great deal.

4. DO NOT APOLOGIZE for your home or your parents no matter how you feel. This is the most important piece of advice I could possibly offer.

You'll feel happy because you have done things right. Have fun!

The following is the list of the Fair's first, second and third prize winners of each section:

In the oats section, sheaf of oats, there were only two entries. First place went to Jimmy Crawford and second to Alain Lafond.

A 33-year-old Drummondville man was injured and his car demolished when he failed to halt at a stop sign at the corner of 10th Avenue and Connel Street about 11 o'clock Friday morning and ran into two cars and a truck.

According to Sherbrooke police the driver, Jacques Martel, was apparently unfamiliar with the city and did not see the stop sign.

Approximately $400 damage was done to a parked car which Martel hit and about the same amount to one which was coming along 10th Avenue. A truck which was driving along Connel was only slightly damaged.

Martel was taken to St. Vincent de Paul Hospital and authorities there said this morning that his condition was satisfactory.

Sherbrooke Court cases

Sentenced to one month in jail for passing phoney $10 bills

Two young Sherbrooke men were each sentenced to one month in Winter Street jail Friday morning after they were found guilty of circulating a counterfeit $10 bill. Judge Joseph Marier also imposed a $200 fine on each accused, or in default, an extra month in jail.

Rosaire Lecours and P. Lessard both in their early twenties, were found guilty by the Court of passing the $10 bill while buying $2 worth of gasoline in a local service station.

Prosecuting attorney Roland Dugre asked the Court to impose an exemplary sentence, alleging that Sherbrooke had been deluged by counterfeit $10 bills during the last few months. Mr. Dugre told the Court that the RCMP had investigated more than 600 cases, representing a total of approximately $6,000.

Defence counsel Louis Pelouquin said that both accused

Unique labor contract

Wage hike tied to recovery of business

MONTREAL — (Special) — A unique labour contract, promising a 5 cts hourly wage increase when a section of the Canadian textile industry can recover business lost to low-cost imports, has been signed between Belding-Corticelli Ltd., and the National Syndicate of Braid Employees.

The contract provides for retroactive pay and increase of 11 cts per hour over the contract period.

The new article contained in the three-year contract, covering employees at Belding-Corticelli's Coaticook mill, grants an additional increase immediately "the Federal Government places a maximum quota of 25 per cent of the Canadian usage on imports of braided and woven elastics."

H. H. Warren, President, Belding-Corticelli Ltd., said establishment of such a quota will result in the Canadian industry supplying 75 per cent of the domestic market "enough to get our business back on its feet, increase production, lower costs, and result in at least a 50 per cent increase in employment at our Coaticook plant."

"At the present moment, imports to Canada from low-cost countries of braided elastics exceed Canadian production, and this industry can only claim some 43 per cent of the home market.

"There is a quota in existence, covering imports of woven and braided elastic from Japan, but the amount is excessive. Besides, we have uncontrolled imports in this field from the United States and Britain, and Japan is only one part of the entire picture. At any moment, severe import pressures could come from any one of a dozen countries.

"The only major hope for the survival of our industry lies in establishment of a quota limiting imports to 25 per cent of domestic consumption — and this figure to encompass shipments from all sources," said Mr. Warren.

Mr. Warren said the National Syndicate should be complimented for its "realistic and human approach towards the problems of our industry."

"They have realized that it is the employer who is suffering as well as the employees, and the syndicate must be commended for agreeing to this new approach until we are in a position to pass a share of company's savings in overheads back to their members," he said. "If more unions were prepared to observe this attitude towards companies and industries affected by low-cost imports, then their support might bring about the government intervention that is so desperate, needed in so many areas of Canadian manufacturing."

A 58-year old Stratford laborer was fined $200 and costs in Court of Sessions Friday morning after he was found guilty of using a net while fishing in Lake Aylmer. Judge Joseph Marier also ordered the net, boat and outboard motor which he was using while fishing confiscated.

The accused was arrested on August 29 by three gamekeepers. Defence counsel was lawyer Guy Arsenault, of Sherbrooke.

An argument which developed into a heated altercation between two neighbours in Windsor, ended in Court of Sessions Friday morning when Paul-Emile DeBellefeuille was fined $25 and costs.

The accused admitted striking his neighbour's son but explained that he had been provoked by the lad's father. Judge Marier however imposed the $25 fine and ordered the accused to refrain from letting his temper get the best of him.

Lawrence Noble, 25, of Nicolet Falls, was allowed to go free on a suspended sentence in District Court Friday morning, after he pleaded guilty to a charge of wilfully damaging Mr. Lionel Tourigny's car, in Wolfton. Judge Redmond Hayes ordered the accused to pay for the damage he had caused.

Marcel Denoncourt, 17, and Clovis Daniels, 18, both of Sherbrooke, pleaded guilty before Judge Redmond Hayes in District Court Friday morning to a charge of car theft.

Denoncourt was sentenced to six months in Winter Street jail while passing of sentence on Daniels was remanded to September 25.

Judge Hayes imposed the six month sentence against Denoncourt when it was revealed that the accused had a criminal record dating back to July, when he was released on a suspended sentence, but Judge Hayes decided to investigate his case further.

The car was stolen from Adelaire Jacques during the night of September 12 to 13.

Autumn brilliance will soon be here

With the coming of fall we start thinking of the colorful foliage that will soon be ours to enjoy and photograph.

Plan to take a few trips to record these fall scenes and in the meantime keep your eyes open for choice countryside spots such as side roads, or wooded areas which promise to provide a splendid scene.

As quite a lot of negative colour (Kodachrome) will be used soon in recording the fall colours it would be a good time to answer that question — What is that orange colour you see in the Kodachrome films. It is even visible in the thinnest portion of the negative.

This colouration is there to help make better colour prints and is called the mask. There are actually two masks incorporated in the film. A color negative film is basically like a black and white film and can be printed in either color or black and white. However, the negative colors are opposite to those which will be seen in print. For example green in the negative will be red in the print.

CAMERA TALK

By DOUGLAS GERRISH

By looking at a colour wheel one can see what the print colour will be like.

This film has three emulsion coatings which are sensitive to blue, green, and red light respectively.

During development there are formed in these coatings yellow, magenta, and green dye images.

Unfortunately these dyes like people are not perfect. The green absorbs red light and some green, and blue light which it should not. The magenta dye absorbs not only green but blue light as well. To rectify this compensation must be made in the form of masks.

A yellow coloured coupler is used in the magenta coating and a magenta colored coupler in the green coating.

The two together appear orange and this is the reason for the appearance of Kodachrome negatives. Next time you see the orange you will know it is performing an important function by improving your picture.

The Sher-Bell Camera Club will hold its first fall meeting at the St. George Hotel, September 21 at 8 p.m. New members will receive a warm welcome.

CHILDHOOD SECRETS — This photograph would make a good colour photograph as the light is soft and even — both of which are required for good colour rendition. This picture was taken with a Rolleiord camera Ilford HP3 (new rating ASA 400) at F11 at 1/60.

Katanga and the UN

Future students of history may well look back upon the United Nations' role in The Congo with some perplexity.

They will read of Katanga's efforts to remain independent of the central Congolese government, and of United Nations forces fighting to nullify these efforts.

At the present time, it seems to most that the break-away province, which has relied heavily on mercenaries and other outside influences to press its case, does not have a legitimate claim to independence. This is why the United Nations force in The Congo is willing to wage a shooting war to keep Katanga within the original framework of The Congo.

But 50 years from now, when the smoke has long been cleared away, and the confused atmosphere of the present has been dissipated, one may well wonder why the United Nations tried to prevent a segment of Africa from applying the principle of self-determination.

Instalment plan survival

In the House of Commons this week Walter Pitman, the New Democratic Party member for Peterborough, complained with some justice that a man's chances of survival in a nuclear war depend on whether or not he can spare $500 for a fallout shelter.

This, apparently, is the minimum cost of a government-approved shelter although an economy model — admittedly less effective — is on the drawing boards.

Mr. Pitman was conveniently overlooking the fact that home improvement loans can be applied to this type of construction. But by and large, lack of money is probably behind much of the public indifference to shelter construction.

A contractor in Wisconsin, however, has offered a way out.

With what appears to be welcome optimism he is offering to build shelter with payments spread out over five years.

And this doesn't sound like a bad business proposition at all when you think it over.

If he's still around to collect full payment, his company will prosper. If he isn't — Well, it won't matter.

He might, of course, run into a bit of trouble making collections if the war scare blows over.

Excessive farm protection

In recent years, the British farmer, like his confreres in many other countries where governments are working for self-sufficiency in the production of foodstuffs, has been receiving special consideration from politicians.

This might have improved the cash return to the producer but in too many cases it has undermined his efficiency.

Sheltered from the battles of the marketplace by marketing boards, subsidies and high protective tariffs, the British farmers have lost the art of selling.

And now, in Britain, the marketing boards, co-operatives and similar bodies are reportedly in trouble.

Much of it results from the practice of enterprising individuals in the retail trade expanding their business by buying top quality produce directly from the farmers at a premium price, leaving the boards with only second quality merchandise which must come in competition with the better article.

Naturally, the consumer prefers the better food, while the marketing board is left with inferior produce on its hands. Sometimes prices must be cut. Other times perishable products are allowed to rot. But in all cases, the return to the members is reduced.

Adventures with God

Children require spiritual values

By JANE SCOTT

The joyful shouts of care-free children reached the crescent point on our little street on a recent holiday. Today a strange silence hangs, like heavy mist, over the neighborhood. All but the tiny tots have gone to school, some for the first time.

To many of these little ones the experience of school is a great adventure. To others it is terrifying. To be suddenly thrust into a strange environment and subjected to the dictates of a strange teacher and become just one of the mob, after being the kingpin in the family circle, is to some children a humiliating experience.

It is one from which they shrink. But it is a necessary process if they are to adjust to the wider world in which they live.

Wise parents will mop up their tears and turn a deaf ear to their protests and make them stay with it until they learn to accept the new situation with good grace.

The kindergarten age is the logical time for parents to consider the education of their child. His body, soul and spirit are at a point of development which enables him to better understand the physical, mental and spiritual facts and processes of life.

That parent is wise who seizes every opportunity to enlarge his horizons and develop all his faculties to the fullest extent.

A child is a triune being. He has a body, a soul and a spirit. Each of these must develop proportionately to give him balance and poise.

Our society is faced with the problem of juvenile delinquency today because parents have failed to recognize these facts. The street corners are hotbeds of crime because we have reared a race of physical giants who are inches taller and pounds heavier than their forefathers but whose mental and spiritual faculties have not developed beyond the kindergarten stage. They have been fed and pampered and allowed to make their own decisions until they rebel at any suggestion of law and order. They demand the best of everything and refuse to contribute anything constructive to the well-being of the world in which they live.

It is my contention that parents who permit their children to dictate the terms on which they will behave are often to blame for the young renegades who are a nuisance and a disgrace to society.

By their indifference to the spiritual needs of their children, they have precipitated a situation which they cannot control.

Young people who have never been taught by precept and example that there is a Higher Authority than their parents, whom their parents recognize, respect, worship and follow, have been denied one of the most stabilizing forces available to mankind; and without which they seldom reach complete maturity or realize happiness.

By the battle for minds

Our complex way of life makes the role of parenthood more exacting than it has ever been. Increased knowledge and privileges bring increased responsibility and call for greater dedication by parents, who must not only direct and teach their children the spiritual values, but who must deal with many of the problems which arise from a too secular education.

The battle for the minds of our children has become a hot war and nothing but a full scale counteroffensive can save them from the wiles of the evil one.

Now is the time for parents of young children to review their strategy, renew their dedication to God and restate their vows to "bring up their children in the fear and nurture of the Lord."

They must settle down to a long weary stretch of servitude until their boys and girls reach maturity and become settled in faith and practice.

It is not enough to give them vitamins and proteins for "man shall not live by bread alone."

They need the Word of God and the example and encouragement of honest and God-honoring parents to develop their spiritual nature in proportion to their physical and mental faculties.

It was not by chance that "Jesus grew in wisdom and stature and in favor with God and man." His earthly parents directed Him in the teachings and practices which develop all-round men.

JESUS WAS TEMPTED

He, like your child, started out with human limitations because He "took on himself the form of man and was made in the likeness of men."

He, like your child, was faced with the same temptations that your child faces.

But His spiritual training kept him in balance and he stood firm against the wiles of the devil who offered him the kingdoms of this world if he would fall down and worship him.

Dare to be wise. Begin now to train your children. Do not count on the schools to give them spiritual teaching and guidance.

It is your responsibility and you deny them the best things in life if you fail to teach them by precept and example that God is the centre of the universe and the source of all good things that come to those who honor and serve Him.

Take your children to church and Sunday School while they are young and when they are old they will not bring you to shame and themselves to sorrow.

The law of cause and effect is still at work. God will work with you as you follow His divine instructions in training your children. (TNS).

Gerald Waring REPORTING

OTTAWA — The government is spending $1,168,904 to rebuild the breeches of the regular army's new automatic Fabrique Nationale rifles because somebody boomed.

The FN is the Belgian-designed weapon the army adopted in 1955 to replace the .303 Lee-Enfield. It can be used full auto, like a machine gun, or semi-auto, with a separate squeeze of the trigger required for each round fired. It takes the standard 7.62 NATO cartridge.

But we didn't buy the rifles from Belgium — only the Canadian manufacturing rights. Then we proceeded to make the rifles in Canada, at the plants of the Crown-owned Canadian Arms Ltd., at a cost of about $200 per rifle.

However, our small arms experts at National Defence Headquarters couldn't resist "improving" on the Belgian design before the FN went into production here.

"About 18 months ago minor difficulties developed in the FN rifle," Major Burley Burleson of the army's public relations office said in answer to my inquiries. "The trouble was pierced primers — the firing pin would go through the primer, and there'd be a backlash onto the breech block. Out of 11 million rounds fired we had two minor accidents — a burned hand and a sore shoulder or that kind of things," he said.

The army PR officer admitted the rifles were being withdrawn gradually from the troops and being sent back to the factory to have their breech blocks modified. The reason is that the blocks are not interchangeable. You can't count on the block from one rifle fitting another rifle — and, of course, being manufactured to the same specifications and tolerances, they should. It will cost $10 per rifle to make the changes, I was told.

As a result of the danger of gas leaks around the breech block, the army has downgraded the strength of the cartridge that may be used in the weapon.

The army's explanation is that this isn't merely because of the trouble with the breech blocks; it's also because there is a variation in the powder charge of the 7.62 mm round as among different manufacturers. This also, of course, should not be.

The story reminds one of the fiasco of the Ross rifle in World War I — the Canadian designed and made weapon that frequently backfired, blowing the bolt into the soldier's face. The FM muckup is nowhere as serious — but bad enough when you consider the dollar waste through carelessness in design and/or manufacture. For my money — and a small part of that million plus is my money — it also shows that the "what's-a-million" complex in government doesn't belong to any particular political party.

To the civilian, with one or two rifles in the upstairs closet, it wouldn't make any difference if the parts of his 30-30 wouldn't fit his hunting companion's rifle. But the government likes to store its rifles and breech blocks separately, so no one breaking into an arsenal can get a shootable weapon. And a war might be over before the troops could get their FN's matched up with properly fitting breech blocks. How embarrassing that would be!

One of the plays that is found in every expert's kit is the so-called "obligatory finesse." The obligatory finesse can gain a trick for you and can never cost you a trick, so it is a play that is well worth knowing.

North would have preferred to have better trumps for his raise, but unfortunately he had to get along with the cards dealt to him.

South took his ace of spades and immediately saw that his only hope of making the contract would be to get away with the loss of just one trump trick. It was reasonable to assume that West would hold the ace of hearts as part of his vul-

BC expands pulp, paper industry

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia's pulp and paper industry is in the midst of a $125,000,000 expansion program, first stage in a drive to double its $250,000,000 annual production by 1980.

The present program will add 500,000 tons in the next three years to present annual output of 3,200,000 tons.

Two major projects already are complete: a $50,000,000 pulp mill built by Celgar Ltd., at Castlegar in the Kootenays and a $15,000,000 modernization that has brought back into production the Rayonier Canada Ltd. mill at Woodfibre, 40 miles north of here.

Work is in progress on three other projects:

A $12,000,000 expansion of the Canadian Forest Products Ltd. pulp mill at Port Mellon, 10 miles south of Woodfibre on Howe Sound;

A $24,000,000 expansion of pulp facilities at the huge MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd., operation at Port Alberni in central Vancouver Island;

A $25,000,000 B.C. Forest Products Ltd. newsprint mill at Crofton, also in central Vancouver Island.

Canadian Collieries Resources Ltd. also is considering construction of a mill at Union Bay on Vancouver Island. Shareholders have been told it may be undertaken jointly with another firm.

More than 10,000 British Columbians are employed in the pulp and paper industry and jobs will be provided for 1,000 more when the present projects are finished in 1964. Capital investment in plant already is more than $750,000,000.

Foreign sales account for more than 75 per cent of the income of the industry but even so B.C. supplies only 2.5 per cent of the world demand for pulp and paper.

World consumption of the industry's products is expected to double during the next 20 years and B.C. hopes to hold its market share.

All the B.C. expansion projects are ahead of schedule.

The new Celgar mill at Castlegar, using logs hauled down the 130-mile Arrow Lakes waterway, now is employing 300 men and producing more than 500 tons a day working at peak capacity.

The Woodfibre mill, reopened after three years of idleness, is working up to a 200-ton-a-day capacity.

The MacMillan, Bloedel Port Alberni project is well ahead, with pile driving completed and construction due to start soon. The new facilities will increase by 20 per cent the plant's present annual production of 380,000 tons and employ 200 more men.

B.C. Forest Products say its Crofton project will employ 500 men when full-scale construction is under way later this year. It will employ 150 permanent workers and produce 350 tons of newsprint a day.

Letter to Editor

Sir:

After reading Mr. Allard's "Shaking with fear" statement in your paper, I can only say that that adds to the poor showing that has been going on in the papers over this survival question that we will be called upon to face. Our civic leaders, who should be just that, as far as I can see, have not as yet issued a statement or have done anything that shows a grasp of the situation that faces us. The whole idea of mass shelters, can only lead to mass hysteria and tremendous cost, and no one trained to control such a project. The answer is home shelters, out of doors if possible at the one or two family level.

And most important a sound and well trained and armed civic or home guard, trained to control panic, looting, traffic and to enforce law and order under an attack of any kind. As it stands at present what has been done in this town or any other, up to the present time? "Nothing."

There is no reason why in three months time every family in this area could not have a fall-out shelter, but it must be done by a united effort of the people of each community working together, if they can be taught to do it.

So let us have no more of this "shaking with fear" stuff. In two wars we have been a race of people who have been at many times been face to face with "fear," but have never gone so far as to "shake" over it, so to Mr. Allard and anyone else who feels the "shakes" coming on, I say let's get the lead out" and get on with the job.

Angered at Belgrade conference

India is disturbed by reports of US thoughts on neutralism

BOMBAY (CP)—Indian politicians, government officials and newspaper editors have been deeply disturbed by reports that the United States is having second thoughts on the question of neutralism.

Indian correspondents in Washington report that the recent Belgrade conference of 25 neutral nations has angered the American government.

They say Washington is displeased with the failure of the neutral nations to condemn Soviet nuclear tests to such an extent as to think of "drastically revising" the Kennedy administration's whole attitude vis-a-vis neutralism.

Great publicity has been given here to President Kennedy's recent reported statement while signing a foreign aid bill that "it is my belief that in the administration of these funds we should give great attention and consideration to those nations who have our view of the world crisis."

Many responsible Indians feel the impact of the Belgrade resolutions in Washington is unfortunate. They are particularly puzzled that American news commentators and politicians should have singled out Prime Minister Nehru for criticism, despite his successful efforts at moderation in Belgrade.

Political and diplomatic circles here suggest that any hasty reconsideration of the foreign aid question by the American administration in the light of the Belgrade resolutions would only widen the gulf between the West and the neutral nations.

Observers stress that in the ultimate analysis Prime Minister Nehru's talks with Khrushchev in Moscow following the Belgrade meeting would really contribute to better understanding in New Delhi of the Western position on Berlin, nuclear tests and other controversial subjects.

Some Indian commentators say that despite his lavish hospitality and gushing eloquence Khrushchev has not been able to convince Nehru that the Soviet Union did the right thing in resuming nuclear tests.

The Indian public also is concerned that the resumption of nuclear tests in the Kazakhstan region of the Soviet Union may contaminate the atmosphere over northern India.

has not dimmed his enthusiasm.

It is wise, however, to have a reserve crusade, and he feels that the idea of foam rubber mattresses for cows is a practical and humanitarian project. At a Farmers' Week program at Michigan State University, an Ohio farmer displayed such a mattress under the name of "Dairy Queen Cow Mattress."

It is claimed that a foam rubber mattress is a time saver for a farmer, and that it eliminates the cost of straw or sawdust for bedding. Before taking an arbitrary attitude, a countryman would want to know the economics involved; the cost of living for cows has presumably climbed along with the cost for himself.

We feel there is definite merit in the idea and that the Ohio firm may have struck a rich vein. Naturalists tell us that man cannot understand the instinctive reactions of lower order animals; but we are certain that if we were a cow we would prefer a foam rubber mattress to cement or plank bedding materials.

Sell $140,000 bonds

MAGOG (Special)—At Thursday evening's Magog council meeting, it was decided to accept a tender from Bell Quinlock and Company to buy $140,000 in municipal bonds. Six firms bid on the issue. The chosen tender allows Magog $98.24 per hundred for $51,500 of the issue from 1962 till 1971, and 5 1/2% on $88,500 from 1972 till 1981.

The council instructed the municipal attorney, Yves Forest, to investigate and provide a report on a building belonging to Jean Louis Poirier located on Percy Street. At the council meeting held a week ago Thursday evening, Poirier was given six days to improve the appearance of his building, otherwise action would be taken against him. Citizens living on Percy Street have petitioned the city to force Poirier to improve his property, in accordance with the municipal zoning by-law.

The meeting heard a petition for an amendment to the zoning by-law, that a garage might be constructed on Chenier Street, which runs to Hatley in the south section of the city. The appeal was made by Roger Audet, and unless six protests are filed at a public meeting in the city hall on Sept. 26th, at 7 p.m., the amendment will be made automatically. Should six property owners protest, a referendum will be called.

Magog's by-law No. 404 was created Thursday evening, es-establishing an industrial fund of $50,000, which was called for in order to purchase the building and immovables in the Viterie Magog Glass Inc. The purchase price is not to exceed $50,000. Provision in the by-law specifies that the city can, when desired, resell the property and business back to the firm, or lease it for a twenty year period.

On November 1, Magog's police, firemen and city employees' contract terminates, and a request was heard Thursday for negotiations with the city before that date. A number of changes in the existing contract are asked for the next term, mostly dealing with wages.

At the Sept. 7th meeting, the city heard a complaint by the Bell Telephone Company, who advised the city that a third party was using the poles for electric and telephone lines, shared by the municipality and their firm. At Thursday evening's meeting, Magog Television Inc., the firm operated by J. C. Bergeron requested permission to also use the poles. The matter was held aside until the city officials and the Bell Telephone Company could discuss it further.

"Promenade Memphremagog" is the name given the new lakeside area established by the municipality this last summer opposite the Canadian Pacific Railway Station. A request for a name was tabled by the city's tourist commission Thursday evening.

Another item of business heard Thursday evening, was the authorization given for formation of a nautical and water skiing club to be formed in this community under the name of Le Club de Yacht et de Ski de Magog, Inc.

Magog citizens will be advised by newspapers and other media of fire prevention week, being observed from October 8th till 14th.

Cercle Lacordaire, the Roman Catholic Church sponsored organization that combats the use of alcohol, will hold its annual provincial convention in Magog on October 7th and 8th. The city has voted $100 for a civic reception for the gathering.

Notary Gerard A. Southere of Granby, who owned considerable property in the vicinity of Wright's Beach wrote a letter to council, protesting the high level of the Memphremagog Lake during summer months. He stated that the high level made it difficult for lakeside property owners to do maintenance of the beaches, boat houses ever. The city cannot, however, do anything about the complaint, as the Memphremagog is an international body of water.

Western foreign ministers met in Washington for three days of negotiations among themselves on how hard to press for Berlin talks with Russia and what settlement terms to seek.

DIEFENBAKER SPEAKS

Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Monday the time has come when the United Nations might consider the internationalization of Berlin.

Various roles have been proposed for the UN in Berlin, the Canadian leader said in a strong plea for Western firmness in the German crisis.

The UN could promote an East-West Berlin agreement by focussing world opinion which could impel the powers directly concerned to settle the problem by negotiation.

The UN could, if the Big Four agreed, act in various roles as observer to verify the implementation of any new agreement.

The UN could be assigned the more difficult task of operating an international regime in Berlin.

KATANGA FIGHTS BACK

Ever since The Congo received independence from Belgium June 30, 1960, the role of mineral-rich Katanga province has been in doubt as self-styled President Moise Tshombe defied the central government at Leopoldville.

On Wednesday the United Nations Congo forces launched a military campaign to bring Tshombe into line and at first claimed a quick victory.

By Friday it was clear that Tshombe was fighting back strongly — using planes and tanks and troops commanded by white officers — and the situation was confused. Casualties were mounting on both sides.

BRITAIN JOLTED

If Britain thought it would join the European Economic Community without straight talks from its Commonwealth partners, its disillusionment came this week.

Canada's Finance Minister Donald Fleming and most Commonwealth finance ministers at a 13-nation conference at Accra, Ghana, spoke strongly on their fears about Britain's historic move toward the European continent.

A communique was issued stressing "grave apprehension and concern" at the possible results of Britain's bid to join the six-country Common Market.

Spotlight On Business

By JOHN BELANGER

Canadian Press Staff Writer

The stock market this week was a little more active than usual with a new industrial index high set Wednesday and volume over the 2,000,000-share mark on three of the five days.

The index touched 610.35 at the close on Wednesday to reach its highest point since the initial compilation in 1934. The index, a cross-section of 20 market leaders, closed the week at 605.81, ahead 2.87.

Volume was higher than last week and a total of 10,054,000 shares. Trading was steady and seemed to have more direction than has been seen in recent sessions, as shown by the 13 special-sized transactions turned over.

A number of individual stocks helped the market's gradual upward swing by reaching new highs. Chief among these were Algonia Steel, Investors Syndicate A, Imperial Oil, Dominion Foundries and Steel and Distillers Seagrams.

FORD HIGHEST

All gained between 3/4 and $2, while U.S. Ford, had the largest rise of those to reach highs — $3.25.

Walker-Gooderham roused a lax market on Wednesday when it advanced $2 on stock — split rumors, Thursday brought official denial of the split and the stock promptly dropped $3.50 in heavy trading.

Utilities, refining oils and steels proved to be the strongest group, with widespread fractional gains predominant.

In oils, Alberta Gas Trunk A, BA, Pembina, Trans-Canada and Trans Mountain all rose in the 1/4 to 3/4 range, the last finishing on the weekly most active list with volume of more than 34,000 shares.

Steels advanced behind fractional gains to Atlas, Page-Hersey and National Steel, along with Dominion Foundries and Algonia.

STOCKS ADVANCE

Among utilities, BC Power, CPR, Consumers Gas, Inland Natural Gas, Northern Ontario Natural Gas, Power Corporation and Shawinigan all advanced smartly in moderately heavy volume.

Most gains, however, were smaller than a point. The senior base metals list was generally depressed. Falconbridge, International Nickel, Noranda, Steep Rock, Quenont and Ventures all fell as much as a point in steady trading.

McWatters highlighted the speculative list with a volume of 618,000 shares. McWatters traded steadily all week and lost about five cents.

Trading in both golds and western oils was weak with few significant changes.

Index changes at Toronto: Industrials up 2.87 to 605.81; golds down 2.04 to 88.82; base metals down .91 to 202.89 and western oils up 1.14 to 97.15.

VOLUME UP

Volume at Toronto was 10,054,000 shares compared with 8,364,000 last week and the total dollar value was $42,998,409 compared with $36,725,380.

Index changes at Montreal: banks down .34 to 67.43; utilities up 1.0 to 144.6; industrials down .2 to 326.5; papers down 2.5 to 303.5 and golds unchanged at 87.88.

Week's volume at Montreal was 571,001 industrial shares compared with 507,097 the previous week, and 1,564,796 mining shares compared with 1,237,048.

Of the 412 issues traded, 121 advanced, 141 declined and 150 were unchanged.

Buy decorations for 125th year

Members of the decorations committee for Sherbrooke's 125th anniversary celebrations being held next year have announced that decorations unique in Eastern Canada will be festooning the city by Christmas time. Paul H. Lecours, executive secretary said yesterday.

Purchase of the decorations has been completed it was announced at a meeting of the committee recently.

The committee is headed by Paul McKenna and the members include Louis Faucher, Lewis Rosenbloom, Philippe Goudreau, and Maurice Despres.

Rene Mercier, testifying at the preliminary hearing of Rosario Lemire, onetime QLP Quebec district chief and one of three men charged with defrauding the government of $500,000, said he worked as an organizer on orders from Lemire's deputy and was paid with fraudulent expense accounts.

A 23-year-old frustrated painter arrested in Montreal Tuesday in connection with two bank robberies is also suspected of having slashed five paintings in the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts Monday night.

When arrested he was carrying a 10-inch dagger on the scabbard of which were minute flecks of paint.

POLITICAL ROUNDUP

Nationale party, will be something.

Nearly two thousand men and women will be authorized to cast their ballots at the Quebec Coliseum for one or other of the six candidates.

These include 1,900 county delegates, 20 from each constituency, 40 Legislative Members, 17 Legislative Councilors and 30 university students, five from each university in the province.

Balloting will be carried out at ten different polling stations set up on the main convention floor and will be supervised by five lawyers, none involved in the leadership race, 10 returning officers and 10 assistants.

Each county delegation will report to its own polling station. The returning officer will check each delegate's credentials and give one ballot to each.

The ballots will be deposited in a ballot box in full view of the delegates.

Each of the six candidates for the party leadership will have the right to post one representative at each polling station.

When balloting is completed, returning officers will count votes with the candidates, representatives present.

Results of each station will be reported to the election chairman.

One matter still to be decided is the manner of eliminating candidates after the first ballot.

Some believe the low man should drop out at the end of each round; others claim those receiving less than a certain percentage of the votes should be dropped, but others contend that because nominations closed two weeks before the convention, all should remain in the race unless the low man wished to withdraw of his own accord.

Probably, no decision will be announced until the opening of the convention Thursday.

The Doctor Says

LACK OF SALT MAY CAUSE THAT WORN-OUT FEELING

— What causes the very tired and worn-out feeling I have whenever the temperature goes above 80? Is this a blood condition? I am 45 years old, but I've just had to drag myself along all my life when the weather is hot.

A—It may possibly be that you suffer a salt deficiency, especially if you perspire freely. Why don't you eat a few salt crackers or add some table salt to your drinking water and note the effects?

Q—I am 5 feet 3, stockily built, large of frame and I work as a "cleaning lady." I used to weigh 195 pounds and, on my doctor's advice, I reduced my diet to 2,000 calories and then to 1,500 calories (and I count carefully). I got down to 172 pounds.

I'm sticking to the 1,500-calorie diet but I can't seem to lose any more weight. And if I take fewer than 1,500 calories, I can't get my work done.

A—I presume your metabolism is normal or your doctor would surely have prescribed a thyroid preparation. If this is so, and if you feel well (your letter mentions no distress), why don't you merely concentrate on not regaining any of your lost weight?

It may well be, despite standards that give AVERAGE weights and heights, that your NORMAL weight is 172 pounds. You're stockily built and large framed. There's no reason to judge your normal by the standards whose calculations necessarily take into account the weights of those who are neither stocky nor large framed.

Q—Can two entirely different, distinctly opposite, personalities inhabit the same body and each not know of the existence of the other? Please, please answer this question in your columns before my husband kills me.

We have been married six years. When he is apparently normal he is the most lovable person and a hard, honest worker. Then, out of a clear sky, he becomes an absolute maniac. Will not work. Will stand up and look anybody in the face and lie right in the face of evidence that proves him a liar.

Three times, he has destroyed valuable property, of mine and swore to the last he had nothing to do with it. He tore a dress of mine in front of five witnesses and 10 minutes later said he didn't know anything about it. Ripped an expensive suit coat and pants with his knife and swore I had done it.

Picks me up bodily and slams me down on the floor or across the arm of chair to break my back without leaving any bruise that will show. The Bible says a person can be inhabited by demons. Could this possibly be the trouble with him?

A—Your husband obviously has a profound psychosis. For your own safety and that of your community (as well as in his best interests), you should go to your local law enforcement authorities. Ask their help in placing him where he can do no damage to himself or to those who cross his path during these episodes you describe.

The treasurer gave a satisfactory report on the financial standing of the group, after all outstanding obligations had been met. The group voted $100 towards the expense of the artesian well system being installed at the parsonage.

The visiting and Christian fellowship committee tabled several thank-you notes, replies to sympathy expressed and parcels of cheer.

The convener of Unitarian Relief made an appeal for contributions, particularly layettes, and for children's clothing to be sent to the Disabled Children's Home in Seoul, Korea.

Final plans were made for the turkey supper in the Hall on Sept. 16.

In closing, Mrs. Howard Picard gave a humorous reading, The Battle of the Sexes.

Hostesses for the October meeting will be Mrs. J. A. H. Plowright and Mrs. John Vandervelden, the place of meeting to be decided later.

Pagan worship began with muscularity, but the law of Sinai lifted thought into the song of David. Moses advanced a nation to the worship of God in Spirit instead of matter, and illustrated the grand human capacities of being bestowed by immortal Mind."

DENISON'S MILLS

Miss Jolene Denison has returned to Gattineau to resume her teaching duties. En route, she was an overnight guest of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Greig, in Lacolle.

Among the beginners journeying to St. Francis High School are Marion Mastine, Debbie Armstrong and Joan Lyall, all from this community.

The Misses Ann and Ruth Denison have resumed teaching duties in Montreal, after spending their last few holidays in Concord, N.H., with Miss Bernice Driver. During their visit they called on Mr. John Evans, who is in a convalescent home nearby, and also met Mr. and Mrs. George Lee, former residents here.

A Juicy, Plump Chicken, stuffed, roasted and sauced in the Spanish manner with pimiento-stuffed olives, will gladden any Canadian table as the masterpiece of a creative cook.

Chicken, always a delicacy, always available at prices that all can afford, can be a brand-new delight when cooked in this manner with Spanish pimiento-stuffed olives. These delicious red and green morsels, add tang to the stuffing and to the sauce, bringing a touch of far-away Spain to our Canadian tables.
Next time you're out shopping, pick up a few jars of stuffed olives. Discover the excitement they give familiar foods, both in taste and appearance. And remember — there's no greater favorite for snacking than Spanish pimiento-stuffed olives. Old and young love them at all hours; besides, they are the perfect one-food appetizer or cocktail tidbit.
For a speedier chicken dish try this Spanish Barbecued Chicken. Here again, the pimiento-stuffed olives add a delightfully new and different touch — the touch of a creative cook.

By GLADYS TAYLOR

I can't resist quoting this editorial paragraph from the CANADIAN AUTHOR & BOOKMAN: "It does seem ironic, doesn't it, to contemplate the fact that in Winnipeg there's a 3,000 pound bronze statue on a 20 ton granite base erected to honor a poet, on the lawn of the Manitoba legislative building. It was unveiled by Prime Minister Diefenbaker and cost $100,000. The catch is, it's to honor the centenary of Tassie Shevchenko, one-time serf who became the Ukraine's unofficial poet laureate. This was an achievement made possible by donations from Ukrainian people in the United States and Canada. What have the Canadian people done to honor one of their writers or poets?" The editorial concludes.

After reading this piece, I have to come to the defence of Manitoba sufficiently to say that not long ago Winnipeg did recognize a local writer in the person of Olive Knox, by holding a civic dinner in her honor and presenting her with the key to the city. However this affair was far short of a lasting monument to a Canadian writer and, unhappily, Winnipeg is the only city I know of that has gone even this far in recognizing those among its citizens who bring attention, and often honor, to the place in which they live by the use of their pens.

Cities and towns are quick enough to hold civic receptions or raise purses for their hockey stars, tennis champions, skiers, curlers and what have you - all of whom excel only in a purely physical sense - while the writers, artists and musicians, whose creative work, in the final analysis will likely be remembered long after the "champs" are gone, are usually ignored.

Do your children dislike the names you gave them? If so, it is probably because you didn't have access to a NEW TREASURY OF NAMES FOR THE BABY, authored by Dorothy Burton and published this month by PRENTICE-HALL. In her book Miss Burton shows how "the choice of a fitting name can be a simple and exciting challenge instead of a vexing problem." For each name she gives its national or religious origin, meaning, derivation, history its well-known bearers and its variants and diminutives. All the names in the book were selected under the supervision of such experts in their field as Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, Monsignor George A. Kelly, Rabbi Leo Jung, child-care specialist Dr. David Goodman and family advice columnist Ann Landers.

Three of MACMILLAN OF CANADA'S best known writers have new books coming out this fall. Morley Callaghan's latest is A PASSION IN ROME. Hugh MacLennan's new book, republished on the autumn book stands by SEVEN RIVERS OF CANADA and Eitel Wilson will have out a new collection of her stories under the title MRS. GOLIGHTLY AND OTHER STORIES.

Another first novel by a Canadian author has been announced for autumn publication. It is by William McAllister and is the story of human endurance against insuperable odds in a Japanese Prisoner Of War Camp. It is published by BRITISH BOOK SERVICE, however so far it doesn't appear to have a name. Presumably that bit of information will be divulged later.

JAKE AND THE KID

Authentic and warm portrayal of life in the Canadian West

JAKE AND THE KID—by W. O. Mitchell, MacMillan Company of Canada Limited, 184 pp., Paper $1.50, Cloth $4.00.

Problem: How to write a book review of one's favorite radio programme, "Jake and the Kid" a problem which has been compounded by the recently inaugurated series on CBC Television with the same name.

In reviewing this collection

A skillful who-dun-it

HE SHOULD HAVE DIED HERE—by Cyril Hare — 155 pp. — Penguin Books 50c — Francis Pettigrew, "an inveterate analyst of his fellows," goes with his wife Eleanor to Sallowcombe, a small village on Exmoor, for a summer holiday. (Sallowcombe is not unknown to Pettigrew, for he had had an exciting and unpleasant experience there during his boyhood.)

Pettigrew's inability to sleep in a strange bed starts this later holiday off rather inauspiciously. His discovery of an early morning visitor's shadowy form climbing out of the landlady's bedroom window would seem to have little relation to his discovery of a dead body in the moors the next day — a body that mysteriously disappears while Pettigrew goes for help — but the two events do have a very definite relation to each other as the reader will discover before the story ends.

What makes Pettigrew's finding of the body so particularly upsetting is that he had seen a dead body in almost the same place fifty years before, and the question of his being "haunted" arises.

Pettigrew and his old friend Inspector Mallet make a fine team in this skillful who-dun-it.

BLUEBELL PHILLIPS

Davies instructs the British

LONDON — (CP) — Canadian writer Robertson Davies has gently instructed The Guardian of Manchester on Canadian achievement in the arts.

Mr. Davies, editor and publisher of the Peterborough Examiner as well as novelist, playwright and former actor, noted that The Guardian's London letter thought poorly of an exhibition of Canadian books and referred to Canada as a "cultural backwater."

of 13 episodes from the lives of "Jake and the Kid", I am assuming that there are few Canadians who were not enchanted with the CBC radio series of half-hour plays of the same name which ran for several years during the early 50's, which series, at least in my family, was heard by all members on every Sunday afternoon almost as a form of religion.

For those less fortunate and uninformed individuals it perhaps would be best to say that this book is the story of a hired man (Jake), the Kid, a 10 year old boy on a farm outside the mythical town of Crocus, Saskatchewan in the early 1940's. Such a bare statement hardly does justice to some of the most authentic Canadian writing in existence to-day. For here is the farm life of the Prairies, exaggerated to be sure, but portrayed with warmth and humour and sympathy. I don't really like this but such is the writing of Mr. Mitchell that I am prepared not only to believe it, but to hope that it is. The author has done more in this book and in his writings generally to portray the West to other Canadians than more illustrious residents of the Prairies such as Mr. John Diefenbaker and Mr. T. C. Douglas have ever done or can ever hope to do.

PIECES OF EIGHT — Linda Rohrer of Vincennes, Ind., shows a Spanish trade dollar found in Lawrenceville, Ill. The coin is the "Piece of Eight" mentioned in pirate stories, so-called because it often was cut into eight pieces known as bits. Hence, the expression two bits, meaning 25 cents.

HISTORIC PIPES

Here in print we renew our acquaintance with old man Gatenby, Repeat Golightly, Miss Henschhaw and other characters (I am sorry to say that old Daddy Johnson is not included in this collection) but lest I be carried away with affection for the people in this book and neglect the literary aspect thereof, let me quote from one of its edifying passages to show that this work is more than just a rehash of dated radio scripts:

"The wind caught me full in the face, drove the dust clear into the corners of my eyes; I could taste her grittiness between my teeth. The whole sky was blown untidy with torn, back pieces of cloud, and the night was real fierce with breathing. The sound was coming from a million miles away, and she was after every living thing. She was having your father over in England; she was Jake telling Mrs. Clinkerby talk about your baby like that, and not having any time to drowned out gophers; she was awful!"

In conclusion if you have never heard of "Jake and the Kid", buy this book; if you have, buy it anyhow.

Brinks' robber tells all

THE MEN WHO ROBBED BRINKS—by Specs O'Keefe, 279 pp. . . RANDOM HOUSE . . . $4.95.

If this book proves anything, it is not so much that crime doesn't pay but that locks don't pay! A piece of celluloid and Specs O'Keefe could apparently open any door he came to. And if he entered the Brinks' premises as many times before the robbery as he claims, then certainly the average precautions taken against burglary are not deterrents; in fact they're barely annoyances to the accomplished thief.

Specs O'Keefe, the "hero" of this book has, as well as "telling all" to the FBI, also told enough to columnist Bob Considine for him to come up with a good-sized book on this notorious robbery and the men who pulled it off.

But while a certain inevitable curiosity about this celebrated case draws the reader to the book, neither Considine's writing ability or Specs O'Keefe's "baring of his soul" has enough meat in it to hold the reader for 279

Completely credible

FRANNY AND ZOOEY . . . J. D. Salinger . . . Little, Brown & Co. Ltd.

This is the first book of Mr. Salinger's to be published since THE CATCHER IN THE RYE created such a stir in 1951, but during these ten years he wrote several short stories that appeared in the New Yorker magazine.

The stories were about the Glass family "settlers in twentieth century New York," as Mr. Salinger describes them, and two of them are reprinted here.

"Franny" is the shorter of the two stories, and it is a study of Franny Glass, aged 20, a college senior, who is off for a football week-end with her beau, Lane Coutell, hoping for a happy and care-free time. Because Franny is unhappy in herself, dissatisfied with her whole life, her college, and her friends, she ruins the week-end for both Lane and herself and retreats miserably still looking for the answer to her troubled spirit.

The story of "Zoovey" takes over where "Franny" ends; it takes place on the Monday following Franny's disastrous weekend from which she returned disconsolate to her home rather than back to college. Zoovey is Franny's brother Zachary Glass, an actor, five years her senior.

The story is basically Zoovey's reaction to his sister's problems and his way of helping her find peace of mind, but in learning about this we also get a wonderful glimpse into family life and relationships in the Glass household.

Mr. Salinger has such a remarkable way of transposing into words conversations, thoughts and happenings that the book is almost photographic, so real and so credible. Together with his phenomenal ability to make his characters live, Mr. Salinger writes with understanding and tolerance of human frailties.

OPERA SINGER — Pierre Duval, 28-year-old Montreal opera singer, has become a leading Italian star since travelling to Rome last year on a Quebec government scholarship. He has already played the lead in two operas. In October, he will go to Vancouver with an Italian troupe to sing the principal role in Rigoletto.

Lindsay coins a centenary

The ambitious town of Lindsay, the gateway to the Kawarthas and home of Premier Leslie Frost, has issued a dollar size token commemorating the centenary of the incorporation of Victoria County, on August 20th.

The Chamber of Commerce of Lindsay, the county seat of Victoria, had the token struck in bronze and made available to the public for one dollar apiece.

Shown on the obverse is a sheaf of wheat with "August 20 1861-1961" encircled by a wreath of maple leaves below a crown, and around the edge. The Corporation of the County of Victoria.

Summing up the convention activities at the Royal Connaught Hotel in Hamilton last week end, the highest price paid for any coin at the auction was $3,400 for a rare 1936 dot Canadian cent.

This coin went to John J.

Pittman of Rochester, N.Y., who has one of the finest collections of Canadian decimal coinage in the world.

Some other prices paid for rare Canadian pieces were: 1921 half dollar in only very good condition, $1,550; 1921 silver five cent in "very good", $375; 1893 "round top three" ten-cent piece, $725; 1880 half dollar, only "good", $120.

The convention was a success in all phases and a credit to the officers of the Hamilton Coin Club. Much of the credit must go to Bruce Brace, the convention chairman, who with his committee, toiled so hard to ensure the success.

STAMP CHAT

by Milton Cronenberg

From St. Christopher-Nevis Anguilla a special four stamp set was released July 15, to commemorate the centenary of the first stamps issued by the colony of Nevis. The new stamps feature a portrait of Queen Elizabeth and reproductions of the Medicinal Springs design in 1861.

These classic issues of Nevis were among the world's first postage stamps to carry a device other than the portrait of a sovereign or heraldic patterns. The stamps were produced for Nevis by the firm of Nissen and Parker in London and carry a vignette, symbolic of a mineral spring near Charlestown in Nevis which was famous as a spa.

The 1-d dull red of the 1861 series is reproduced on the 2-cent value of the Nevis Stamp Centenary series. The 8-cent carries a reproduction of the 4-d bright rose, the 12-cent shows the 6-cent grey lilac of 1861 and the 24-cent has a reproduction of the 1-shilling green value of the first series for Nevis.

The Centenary stamps are in large format and the reproductions of the 1861 stamps are presented in a frame which incorporates the portrait of the Queen. The 2-cent is printed in green, the 8-cent in blue, the 12-cent in red and the 24-cent in orange.

St. Kitts and Nevis were discovered by Christopher Columbus on his second voyage to the West Indies in 1493, but a further 130 years were to pass before Captain Thomas Warner landed a party on St. Kitts and founded an English settlement. In 1628, the settlers established themselves on the nearby island of Nevis, and later, in 1650 Anguilla was also discovered and colonized. Among the best-known events in the early history of the islands was the marriage at Nevis in 1787 of Lord Nelson, Commander of the Leeward Islands Naval Station, to the young widow Nisbet, and the birth at Charlestown, Nevis in 1757 of Alexander Famed for its scenic beauty, Nevis is also rich in history. In 1787 Lord Nelson, Commander of the Leeward Islands Naval station, was married to the young widow Nisbet, and Alexander Hamilton, one of the draughtsmen of the American constitution was born there in 1757.

Hamilton, the son of a Scottish planter, who became one of the draughtsmen of the American Constitution.

The new stamps were produced for the St. Christopher-Nevis-Anguilla postal administration by Waterlow & Sons, Ltd., of London, and are reported by the British Crown Agents to be among the last postal engravings produced by the venerable firm — now incorporated with Thomas De La Rue & Company Limited. The Nevis Stamp Centenary commemoratives will remain on sale until March 31, 1962, unless stocks are exhausted earlier.

Collecting in the E.T.

by IVOR WHITEHOUSE

Stamp collectors have become very familiar with the design of the stamps from Bechuanaland through the years. The same design has been used since 1932. The basic design of cattle drinking by a baobab tree was introduced in the year mentioned and stamps featuring this picture have been issued ever since. The new stamps to be introduced on October 2nd will feature different birds in multicolor, and other topical subjects. The 1-cent will show the Golden Oriole, the 2-cents the African Hoopoe, the 2½-cents the Scarlet Chested Sunbird, the 3½-cents the Cape Widow Bird, the 5-cents the Swallow Tailed Bee Eater, the 7½-cents the Grey Hornbill, the 10-cents the Red Headed Weaver, the 12½-cents the Brown Hooded Kingfisher, the 20-cents will show a musician, the 35-cents will show the grinding of maize or corn, the 25-cents the Baobab Tree, the 50-cents the Bechuana Ox, the 1-rand the Lion and the 2-rands a Kalahari Policeman. The stamps should certainly add colour to your collections.

The year 1838 saw the first transportation of transatlantic mails by steamboat, the two ships "Great Western" and "Sirius" made successful voyages to and from New York and Bristol and Cork respectively. The "Sirius" also picked up mail at Halifax on one occasion. The first crossing of the Atlantic under steam alone rests with the Canadian built boat "Royal William", which left Quebec on August 5, 1833 and arrived at Gravesend September 11 of the same year. It is worthy

CONFUSION REIGNS IN SPORTING WORLD

That just about sums up the situation in sporting circles at present. We are in the middle of a home-run race between Roger Maris and Mickey Mantle, who are trying to break Babe Ruth's record of 60 in a season, the gridgers opened with their big guns and now to confuse the spotlight along comes the National Hockey League.

In looking over the weekend scene variety seems to be in the offering. Ottawa is at Montreal today while out West the Argos tangle with the Eskimos and the Ticats clash with Calgary. In the other tilt on the slate the B.C. Lions visit the Blue Bombers.

On top of this the fans will have an opportunity of seeing the NFL in action over the CBC. This is the first year they are carrying the games and it will be interesting to see how it goes over with the Canadian fans.

The NHL teams open their exhibition games which won't prove too much as the rookies will be in the spotlight trying to prove they are good enough to stay up in the majors. So all in all it should be a very interesting weekend.

The Little Big Four Football League will get underway this coming week. The call to arms has been sounded for Tuesday afternoon at the Parade Grounds and all youngsters, interested, are asked to be on hand.

Practices will be held Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday afternoons and the players are asked to report between 3.30 and 4.00. The age limit is 10 to 12 years with Sept. 1st, the date set to determine the deadline. If you are 13 years of age before then you are eligible. The limit on the scales is between 80 and 110 lbs.

Lou Cote has been named head coach for the league and he will name men to handle each of the four clubs. The schedule will open Saturday, Sept. 30th, and will play double headers every Saturday.

The $70,000 Little Brown Jug, the second gem in the triple racing crown, takes place Thursday, Sept. 21st, at Delaware Ohio with nothing in the way of pari-mutuel machines and bookmakers. Hard to understand but it is the truth.

The Hambletonian Stake the Kentucky Derby of the trotters worth $150,000, now is staged at Du Quoin, Ill., and there is no betting on that. These big races are all staged as part of State and Country Fairs and maybe is the reason why they are so successful. They have the best pacers and trotters around and race for the biggest purses.

A meeting has been called for Monday evening to discuss formation of a football team in the City. It has been slated to commence at 8.00 and all interested are asked to be on hand. It will take place at the Parade Grounds following a workout.

A group of football-minded boys have called a practice for 6.30 Monday evening at the Parade Grounds. Lou Cote, Harry Hodges, Harry Blue and Jean-Marc Pichette are behind the movement. This is open to all who are interested in playing. So don't forget 6.30 at the Parade Grounds. It will be more of a conditioning workout than anything else.

Handy pocket-size schedules of the National Hockey League are now out and anyone desiring one can get them free of charge by writing N.H.L. Information Bureau, Sun Life Bldg., Montreal.

The Sherbrooke-Lennoxville Little Leaguers are staging their closing Thursday evening, Sept. 21st, at the Hotel Wellington at 6.15. Presentation of the various team trophies and individual winners will take place. Anyone interested in attending can secure tickets from the team managers or members of the executive.

The first fall meeting of the Yamaska Conservation Association will take place Wednesday, Sept. 20th, in the Legion Hall at Granby. Three fine films pertaining to ducks will be shown during the evening. All members are asked to be on hand.

Ed Meadows Not As Tough As Press Releases Claim, Says Modzelewski Who Played Against Him In NFL

Ed Meadows came to Canada this year to play for Montreal Alouettes and some folks dug up old press clippings that said he was a rough, tough guy. The idea was that opposing players in the Eastern Conference had better keep their heads up or they'd get it from this 225-pound bone-rattling defensive end.

Meadows claims he's not as much an ogre as he has been depicted. And he gets support from Ed (Big Mo) Modzelewski who played against him for years in the National Football League.

"That's a lot of guff," Modzelewski said in an interview in Toronto the other day. "He wasn't a tough guy at all."

"Meadows got a big reputation when he slugged Bobby Layne of the Detroit Lions back in 1956. And that's all it is—just a reputation. I don't want to spoil the fun, but there are, and always have been, a lot of tougher guys in the NFL."

THREE NFL CLUBS

Big Mo should know. He was a big hard-hitting fullback with Pittsburgh Steelers in 1952 and then from 1953 to 1959 was a star on Paul Brown's backfield until Jimmy Brown showed up. Meadows played with Chicago Bears, Pittsburgh and Washington Redskins from 1952 to 1959, laid off in 1960 and reported to the AIs this summer.

It's only natural that his reputation as a bad egg on the football field should follow him to Canada.

In a Chicago-Detroit game at Detroit five years ago American newspapers devoted a lot of sports-page space to the Layne incident. Lions officials called for a life ban on Meadows, declaring he was noted for his dirty play and that he deliberately slugged Layne.

The Detroit quarter was forced to leave the game in the second period and Meadows followed him to the sidelines in the third. He was banished for what game officials called "unsportsmanlike conduct" against another Detroit player.

138 Horses To Compete On Weekend Racing Program

Handicap Pace And Trot Sunday Has Top Notch Field, Only Two Doubles Listed, Classes Are Well Balanced

One hundred and thirty-eight horses are entered on the weekend program which is being presented by the Sherbrooke Racing Club at the local track. Ten classes are booked for tonight and tomorrow evening with Post Time at 8.15.

Only two double heats are on each card with the other remaining eight all single dashes. A total of $3,125 will up for grabs for the drivers with $1,500 at stake tonight and $1,625 Sunday evening.

Seven starters are listed tonight in the main class, a C-3 Trot and Pace. This should be a close battle as any one of the horses could emerge a winner. The weather, as usual, will be a big factor in the outcome.

Atruscot, Jerry Tally, Eveana, who won in the mud Wednesday, Our Horse, Mervil Hal, May Kirk N and Captain McKenney S should stage a real right to the wire. This is a double event, the only one this evening and if the track is in good shape it should be a battle royal.

On Sunday a Handicap Trot and Pace is the main event with seven slated to go to the wire. With such entries as Poplar Dream, Cardinal Prince G. H.

Roger Maris Is Still Hopeful He Can Break Babe Ruth's Record, Surprised At Mantle's Statement

DETROIT (AP) — Roger Maris, homeless in the last five games, said Friday he was still hopeful of breaking Babe Ruth's record.

The 27-year-old New York Yankee slugger, still four shy of Ruth's 60 homers in 1927, looked forward with anticipation to the four-game series at Detroit beginning Friday night.

"I always hit well in that ballpark," he said. "If I'm lucky enough to get a couple here, I should have a good chance."

"I'm not saying I will do it," Maris cautioned. "I just hope I can. But I know one thing. I'm not going to count myself out until there is no longer any mathematical chance."

Maris, with 56 home runs in 48 games (including a tie), has seven games left in which to overcome the Babe.

Roger expressed surprise that Mickey Mantle, his running mate for Ruth's honors, virtually conceded the home run record. Mantle, with 53 homers, told The Associated Press Thursday "I don't see how I can make it now. I'd have to hit

Maris Has 5 Games Left Must Hit 4 Homers To Tie Ruth's Record

Homeless in seven games, Roger Maris faces the imposing task of hitting four home runs in five games to tie Babe Ruth's 1927 home run record of 60.

Maris, who spurred 24 games ahead of Ruth's pace July 25, came up with only one single in nine at-bats Friday night while the American League-leading New York Yankees were splitting a two-nighter with second-place Detroit.

Yanks won the opener, 11-1, and Tigers the nightcap, 4-2. Maris, with 56 home runs, is even with Ruth's pace and must hit four homers in the next five decisions—two against Detroit and three at Baltimore.

—to match Ruth under the 154-decision allotment specified by commissioner Ford Frick.

Teammate Mickey Mantle, with 53 homers, needs seven home runs in the five games to get a draw with the Babe.

SET TEAM RECORD

The Yankees, however, set a major league team home run record as Yogi Berra and Bill Skowron connected in the opening game victory. The two homers boosted the New York total to 222 for the season, one more than New York Giants hit in 1947 and Cincinnati Reds in 1956.

In the nightcap, the Tigers used a two-run homer by Norm Cash and a solo shot by Steve Boras for a three-run third that proved enough to subvert the Yankees. That left the Yanks' magic pennant-clinching number at four.

Any combination of four New York victories and/or Detroit defeats will give the Yankees their 11th pennant in the last 13 years and the first under rookie manager Ralph Houk.

Red Sox edged Baltimore Orioles 3-2 in 10 innings, Minnesota Twins nipped Cleveland Indians 3-2, Los Angeles beat Chicago White Sox 9-5 and Washington Senators defeated Kansas City 3-1.

The Yanks won the first game easily behind Whitey Ford, who scattered eight hits in going the route for his 24th victory against three defeats. Don Mossi (14-7) was the loser.

Bedard ranked No. 1 in Canada but seemed beneath Sangster in this tournament, has a tough hurdle to clear in Whitney 6-4.

Reed, third-seeded import from Alameda, Calif.

Godbout, ranked third nationally, sneaked out a close victory over John Swann of Toronto Friday 8-6, 9-7, 6-4, 8-6.

STAYS WELL BACK

Swann played too much of a waiting game, staying well back and allowing his Davis cup teammate to rush the net. Then changing his mind time after time, Swann would clear the ball to take surprise twists.

COACH ON DEFENCE — Doug Harvey (2), new coach of New York Rangers of the National Hockey League, moves in too late to stop a shot by junior Bryan Hextall during Rangers opening practices this week at Guelph, Ont. Hextall and netminder Phil Hedley, also a junior, are from Brandon, Man. Opening workouts were carried out under adverse conditions as 85 degree temperatures prevailed outdoors and resulted in a heavy mist over the arena ice. Harvey took over as New York coach this seasons after a long career with Montreal Canadiens. (CP Photo)

National Hockey League Opens Oct. 11th

MONTREAL — The 1961-62 National Hockey League season opens officially at Boston on Wednesday, October 11. This marks the 45th season of play in the National League. Previous to the opening in Boston the annual All-Star Game will be played in Chicago on Saturday, October 7.

The rebuilding New York Rangers supply the opposition to the Bruins in the initial tilt of the '61-62 season. The following evening, October 12, the season opens on two other fronts. In Detroit the Red Wings play hosts to the Toronto Maple Leafs, while in New York the Rangers will tangle for the second night in a row with the Boston Bruins.

Saturday, October 14, is the opening night of the season in Toronto and Montreal. The Maple Leafs will play the Boston Bruins in Toronto and the Canadiens will entertain the New York Rangers in Montreal. The Stanley Cup champion Chicago Black Hawks officially open the 1961-62 season at home on Sunday, October 15, when they play the Detroit Red Wings.

Montreal Canadiens Arrive To Open Training Camp At Victoria, Two Workouts A Day Until Sept. 28

VICTORIA (CP) — Montreal Canadiens arrive today to open a two-week National Hockey League training camp team of officials hope will start the club back on the road to regaining the Stanley Cup.

Canadiens were eliminated in the Stanley Cup semi-finals last season by Chicago Black Hawks, the first time in 10 years Montreal had failed to gain the final. The loss broke a string of five straight cup championships.

Canadiens' Vice-President Ken Reardon said here earlier this summer he was going to take the club as far away from Montreal as possible for the pre-season camp.

Local fans will get only two opportunities to watch the Montreal team since all but one workout will be closed.

The team begins workouts Sunday and the public has been invited to Memorial Arena free to watch and meet the players.

TO PLAY 11 GAMES

Only other change to see Canadiens will come Sept. 27 when Montreal meets its Western Hockey League affiliate, Spokane Comets, in one of 11 exhibition games on a western Canada tour.

Canadiens will have several new faces in the lineup this year but the big difference — as in last year when Maurice (Rocket) Richard retired — will be in the absence of an old regular.

This time it is Doug Harvey, captain and defenceman, traded to New York Rangers during the summer to become player-coach.

Others on the 1959-60 Montreal club who have since been traded or drafted are Jean-Guy Gendron and Albert Langlois to Rangers and Bob Turner to Chicago.

Canadiens picked up Toronto goalie Cesare Maniago along with New York defenceman Lou Fontinato and John Hanna and forward Fred Hills from Chicago during the off-season.

It will be a two-workout-a-day routine until the club closes camp Sept. 28. First exhibition game will be in Vancouver Sept. 26 against the WHL Vancouver Canucks.

Eddie Machen Confident He Can Win Bout

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Eddie Machen has wholesome respect for big Mike DeJohn's right-hand power but expressed confidence Friday he will defeat Syracuse, N.Y., veteran again in their return fight tonight.

"He's got a real good punch," said Machen, the 8-5 favorite. "But I can hit pretty good myself. I beat him once and I can beat him again."

Pollution essay wins first in province

A sixteen-year-old grade eleven student at Sunnyside High School was presented with a trophy and a check for $100 for placing first in a Province-wide pollution essay contest on "Why we must prevent water pollution."

Rebecca Humphrey was one of 22,500 high school students to compete in the English section sponsored by the Quebec Federation of Fish and Game Clubs last March. Rebecca received a mark of 99½ out of a possible 100.

Second place, with a prize of $25 also went to a student of Sunnyside High, Susan Fisher.

The following is Rebecca's winning English essay on "Why we must prevent water pollution."

The pollution of lakes and streams has become an increasing problem. Such a condition not only leads to illness and disease but it also destroys the wildlife, especially birds and fish.

There are two principal sources of water pollution. The first is the silt which comes from an erosion by flood water, caused by badly managed farm lands. Tons of silt have covered a completely suffocated schools of fish leaving only hardy and worthless species. Consequently, the lakes and streams can no longer be places of recreation and sport.

Next to silt is the sewage pollution which comes from industrial plants, improper sewage disposals in cities, and wastes from mines.

These are two of the larger and significant causes of water pollution which are hard to combat and will be a tedious task to overcome.

But, there are things which we ourselves are guilty of doing and if done incessantly could pollute a lake or stream.

How many times have you been walking past a stream or lake and absent mindedly thrown a wrapper or some other worthless object into the water? Just suppose that there were about two hundred others who had done the same thing that day and many days, how would that lake be pure and fresh? You would be surprised to see that in a few years it would be dirty and slimy and unfit for any sort of man or beast.

Unfortunately our fish, birds, deer, and many other animals cannot live on rubbish. I am sure if they could we would have a most abundant supply of wildlife.

It will be of no use to raise fish in hatcheries, if we have to place them in polluted streams and lakes, and if birds and other species of wildlife have to feed on waste and water from unsanitary streams.

I once saw a movie on "wildlife" and it was horrifying to see the streams simply contaminated with the carcasses of fish and other animals. This was caused by an improper sewage disposal.

In my opinion, we are extremely selfish. We want to have wildlife around us, we complain if we do not see birds or deer, or if we cannot catch the fish we want, but why is it? It is because we are careless and are thinking only of ourselves and not of our friends of the animal kingdom.

We must prevent water pollution and I leave with you this motto, "Think before you leap one wrong leap could mean the death of many animals."
