Huntingdon Rotary Club's Sixth Birthday

Has Been Good Influence in Community and Done Much to Help

Monday's Rotary meeting marked six years of Rotary in Huntingdon. A resume of the Club's six years was made by Adam Sellar in the absence of Gilbert McMillan, the Club's first president. During this interval of time the Club has been instrumental in doing a great deal for the general welfare of youth and hospital in particular. Each year the Club has seen fit to aid the Hospital for Crippled Children, sent food donations to Huntingdon, England, that represented approximately $1,000, subscribed toward the relief funds of Rimouski, Cabana, Winnipeg, etc. A gift of $250. was accorded the Barrie Memorial Hospital, whilst the Huntingdon County Hospital received its X-Ray equipment, Diatherm, Electrocardiograph, Inhalator, etc. These expenses, for the benefit of the Hospital, represented something in the neighbourhood of $5,000. All-in-all the Rotary Club has been responsible for the raising of $13,468.57, which has been spent on benevolent works.

Each year as Rotarians observe their birthdays, the members contribute a crisp $5 bill to the birthday fund. With $150 a year going into this fund, it is used for charitable works. $300 of this fund has been turned over to the Huntingdon County Hospital.

The respect the Club members have toward one another improves with each weekly meeting. The Club has unquestionably greatly improved the fellow feeling of the men toward one another. Ten years ago the feeling of rivalry existed amongst business men in Huntingdon; today they all see the greater sphere of things and willingly work hand in hand with one another. As the seniors so act it is but a matter of time until this most friendly feeling will gain hold of every person in Huntingdon.

Throughout the past six years 210 speakers have addressed the Club members. Some very outstanding people of Canada have addressed the Club members, passing on much enlightenment on subjects to which the Rotarians might have given but little thought.

The Rotary mottoes "Joy of Service" and "Service above Self" have held sway in the Huntingdon Rotary Club. Such service can only be accorded through members being regular in attendance and when members find they are unable to meet the Club's attendance requirements they either drop out by wish or are automatically dropped. In every case where members have discontinued membership in Rotary in Huntingdon it was because the members found they could not meet with the club regularity in attendance and uphold the Rotary Objective as set forth in the motto. The Rotarians, present and past, are deserving of congratulations upon what they have accomplished in the past, and naturally we all wish them success for the future.

Rotarians present at Monday's meeting who numbered among the 21 who constituted the Club when it received its Charter on Dec. 7, 1944, were presented with a red rose by President W. R. Wilson, consequently you might have seen a number of our townsmen wearing a beautiful red rose on Monday afternoon. A minute of silence was observed in tribute to the Late D. J. O'Connor, who died Nov. 25, 1946, the only active Rotary member who passed away during the six years of Rotary.

Splendid Response From Christmas Seal Campaign

$451 Received to Tuesday Noon as First Report of Drive

Although the letters containing Christmas Seals were only sent out a short time ago, the response to the appeal is quite encouraging again this year. Up until Tuesday noon, a sum of $451.00 had been received at headquarters for Huntingdon in the County Building. There is only a short time from now to Christmas, but it is hoped that the contributions will continue to come in as fast as they have and the campaign will have a very good showing by the time the holiday season has arrived.

Published below is a letter from a former patient and it is very easy to see the good work that the fund raised by the sale of Christmas Seals is doing.

Huntingdon County,
Dec. 6, 1950

Christmas Seal Committee,
Huntingdon, P.Q.

Dear Mrs. Barrett:

Enclosed you will find $1.00 for the T.B. Seals you sent us — how we wish we could send more! No one knows, better than I, how much very good work is being done through the Xmas Seal Fund. Just last year, at this time, I was in hospital myself, and saw with my own eyes, where money from this fund was being spent. Without such a fund, many patients would not have had such expensive drugs as streptomicin, and what is known as PAS, just to mention a couple. I am sure if the public could see where their money is going, they would give a few cents more — every cent helps.

With every wish for a very successful campaign, and a very Merry Xmas, I am,

Yours sincerely,
(Signed) A Former Patient

N.Y. Man is Identified As One of Smugglers

Morris Brown, of Constable, N.Y., one of eight men charged with conspiracy to smuggle $53,000 worth of refrigerators into Canada, was ordered by Judge T. A. Fontaine in court at Montreal to voluntary statement on Dec. 12.

At his preliminary hearing, William Carriere of Valleyfield, Que., one of the accused, identified Brown as one of the leaders in a conspiracy to bring 212 refrigerators into Canada without paying the regular customs duties.

A legal argument developed when Jean Tellier, K.C., special federal prosecutor, called Carriere to testify as a Crown witness. Leonce Plante, K.C., defence attorney, claimed the Crown had no right to call Carriere as witness in Brown's case, since Carriere was himself accused of conspiracy.

The judge ruled, however, that Carriere had obtained "protection of the court" and that anything he might say could be used as evidence against Brown but could not be used against Carriere in his own case.

New and Better Rink For School

Last Thursday evening Mr. C. M. Oney attended the School Board meeting to make a special plea for a new and better "School Rink".

His suggestion was welcomed by the board and plans are afoot to erect boards four feet high all around the rink at once and to level the ground.

Ways and means were discussed to provide funds. At this point Mr. Oney donated $15. and Mr. Lyall Sparrow $10. toward the good cause of making a rink available for the children during the noon hour. This should be a very special help to country children.

The authorities are most grateful for these donations. If others care to contribute, their contributions will be gratefully received and duly acknowledged.

Lad Shot in Eye With .22

Eye to Be Removed In Operation Today

Near tragedy stalked four young lads who were out for fun and a hunting trip in the woods near Huntingdon, on Sunday, December 10th. As in most cases of this nature, a mistake was made and the victim received a twenty-two bullet in the eye and may lose the sight of one eye as a result. It was fortunate indeed that the accident was just that and did not cost the victim his life.

Like most stories of this kind, it goes like this: Four boys decided to go out to the bush at Pringle Bros., about one mile from Huntingdon and took with them .22 calibre rifles. Arriving at the bush, the boys decided to split up into two groups, two went in one direction and the other two went in another direction. At 400 yards from a sugar shanty, two of the boys saw something move, one was getting ready to fire when the other said: "Let me shoot it." The boy took the rifle and shot one bullet. Immediately there was a scream — he had shot one of the other boys, Joe Warsink. The other boy who was with Warsink yelled at the other two that Warsink had been hit. The victim was shot in the right eye. The boys, all feeling sorry for what had happened, walked back to town by way of the track and Dr. George Lefebvre attended Warsink and he was taken to Montreal General Hospital, where the bullet was removed.

What the actual condition of the eye is, is not yet known. There a fifty-fifty chance of saving the sight. The accident occurred about 4.15 p.m.

Police investigated the accident.

Guns are dangerous weapons at any time and extreme caution in their use cannot be stressed too much, even among the most experienced persons in the handling of same. It is hoped that this will be a lesson to these boys and one they will remember for a long time to come. We also hope that it will be a warning to others to leave guns at home and forget them.

It has been learned since the above article was written that Joe will undergo an operation this morning (Wednesday) for the removal of his injured eye. The bullet struck his forehead just above the left eye and was removed in four pieces — two parts of it being imbedded behind the eyeball, one along the side of his nose and the fourth near the part where the bullet first struck. Nerves affecting the eyesight had to be severed when the lead was removed from his eye.

Mr. Wm. C. Tedstone, Joe's employer, visited him on Tuesday in Ward J of the Montreal General Hospital and was told the lad would be hospitalized for about two weeks.

Joe has been in Canada only a few months, having emigrated from Holland. During this interval he has made many friends in Huntingdon. Some of the latter believe it would be a friendly gesture if a sum of money could be given Joe as a Christmas present, as a good number of his friends have suggested. This has already been started, but it is impossible to approach all who feel the same way. If there are people who are in sympathy with this idea who haven't been approached, they are respectfully requested to contact Cyril Rolfe or Keith Howden.

No Appeasement in Korea Agreed at Washington

Truman and Attlee See Immediate Action Necessary For Defence in Europe

Anyone who expected sensational developments from the Washington conference between President Truman and Prime Minister Attlee will probably be disappointed by the final communique on the talks. But its importance can hardly be overestimated.

It is at the same time a call to Russia and China to join in making peace, and a declaration that the Anglo-American allies stand firm on their principles. The two statesmen offered to negotiate for an end to the Korea fighting, but they declared there can be no appeasement, and that Korea must be free.

In at least one important instance they found it necessary to agree to disagree. This is in connection with the divergence in policy on recognition of the Chinese Communist government. Britain has recognized the Chinese Reds, while the United States still legally stands by the Chinese Nationalists entrenched on Formosa. But they agreed that this should not interfere with their general objectives.

Perhaps the most important of the agreements reached is that the military power of both countries should be increased as fast as possible. The communique makes the significant observation that if Russia and China choose, they could alter their conduct so as to make these defence preparations unnecessary.

One British observer at the conference said he thought it would stiffen the morale in both Britain and France. He pointed out that the two governments seemed far apart before the talks, and the feeling was discouraging to the public. Now that progress has been made, it should prove inspiring.

As for the military crisis in Korea, both Truman and Attlee said they hope for a peaceful settlement. Truman on his part hoped that it will never be necessary to use the atom bomb, but he reaffirmed that there is no thought of "appeasement" as the term became understood.

Europe Breathes Easier

The Washington announcement appears to have eased Western Europe's fears that the Korean crisis might side-track the rebuilding of her own strength. Apprehension that American arms essential for Europe's needs would be diverted to the Far East seemed allayed by the Washington announcement that the United States and Britain "are in complete agreement" on the necessity for immediate action by the 12 North Atlantic Pact countries to speed defence preparations.

The press in general reflected a lessening of the pessimism. The Times of London said "two heads of governments, having balanced the immediate dangers in Asia and the latent danger in Europe, have confirmed the abiding truth that Europe must remain the chief defensive base of a free world. It cannot be the only base; it would itself be weakened if other areas of strategic value were lost, but any direct threat to Western Europe would not only menace one of the strongholds of western life, civilization and power, but deprive distant areas of much of their assurance of support."

The Daily Telegraph, Conservative, said "not the least important passage in the Truman-Attlee communique is the frank recognition that the danger in Europe preceded in time and may well exceed in extent the bitter and more immediately dramatic peril in the Far East. There are still differences of opinion between the British and Americans, notably about recognition of Communist China, but no difference could matter half so much as one about whether Europe or Asia should be the primary theatre of concern."

Rome's anti-Communist press hailed the determination of the two leaders to resist Red aggression anywhere, while keeping the door open for peaceful settlement of the world's problems.

London's Communist Daily Worker could find no comfort in the communique. It said the statement means that "Attlee has agreed with Truman to force greater rearmament on Britain; to speed up rearmament of Western Germany, and to intensify preparations throughout western Europe for war against the Soviet Union. Attlee must be repudiated."

Speculation has arisen about possible formation in Korea of a Commonwealth division which would include Canadian troops. An informed military source at Seoul, capital of South Korea, said consideration is being given to a plan for joining British, Australian and Canadian troops into one division commanded by a major-general.

At present two commonwealth brigades are in Korea, and the 2nd battalion of the Princess Patrica's Canadian Light Infantry, about 1,000 strong, is nearing the area. The brigades at present are divided, each under command of a different American field formation, and because of this the Commonwealth troops have no higher representation at Eighth Army headquarters than the brigadiers who command the two units.

Naval Exploit

The Admiralty in London announced the withdrawal by sea of 7,000 wounded and civilian refugees from the Pyongyang area in North Korea in "one of the most hazardous operations of the Korean war."

Six destroyers took part — the Canadian Cayuga, Athabaskan and Sioux; the Australian Wallamunga and Bataan; and the American destroyer Forest Royal. "Through darkness and through the swept channel of a minefield, the destroyers navigated 30 unlit miles of the shallow waters of the Daido Ko estuary to cover the withdrawal of civilian, non-essential military personnel and wounded from the Pyongyang area to more advantageous positions, "said the Admiralty.

Air patrols were provided but there was no enemy attack. When the evacuation had been completed, Capt. J. V. Brock, the senior officer of the little fleet abroad the Cayuga, directed a bombardment of oil storage tanks, dock and harbor installations and supply dumps. Commercial and civilian parts of the town were untouched.

Fr. A. Pigeon Returns From Visit to Rome, Other Points

Received by His Holiness Pope Pius XII on Two Separate Occasions

Rev. Father Arthur Pigeon, parish priest of the Roman Catholic Church, St. Joseph's of Huntingdon, returned home on Thursday after a visit to Rome in connection with the Holy Year Pilgrimage. He arrived at New York, on the Queen Elizabeth on Wednesday morning after a four day and sixteen hour voyage from Cherbourg, France. The ship was a day late in leaving Cherbourg due to heavy seas and heavy seas were encountered for at least three days of the trip.

Father Pigeon left Huntingdon on October 4th and joined a group of other pilgrims numbering 65 and sailed on the Franconia to Liverpool, England, on the first leg of the journey to Rome, Italy. The outgoing trip took seven days. Upon arrival at Liverpool and after having passed customs and immigration inspection, he left the main party and took a plane to Dublin, Ireland. He spent one day in this well known city and visited with a Christian Brother named O'Driscoll and Brother Hurley, director of Astane School, a first cousin of the McCarthy family of New Erin, Que. He also visited some other relatives of the McCarthy's. The school is an industrial one with some 800 boys. Leaving Dublin, he took a plane for London, England and arrived there in three hours.

Rev. Fr. Arthur Pigeon

On the second day he visited Huntingdon, Godmanchester and Hinchingbrooke, well known names here at home and well known to the people of Huntingdon, who have sent many gifts there. At Huntingdon he met the parish priest and had dinner with him. On leaving, the priest presented Father Pigeon with two books on the history of the parish. Hinchingbrooke refers to an old castle and not to a town or village, says Father Pigeon, and Godmanchester is a residental section of Huntingdon.

Back to London and again joining the original group, Father Pigeon spent a day in this city before going to Dover from where he went by boat to Ostend, Belgium, then to Bruges and Brussels. Three days were spent in Belgium by the party. At the Border of France and Belgium, the group stopped at Canadian cemetery where Cana-

Fines of $100 Imposed In Cigarette Smuggling

Fines of $100 and costs each were imposed Saturday in police court at Montreal, on two Americans and a Canadian when they pleaded guilty to having been in possession of 16,000 smuggled American cigarets.

The accused were Clifford Fewster, of Hemmingford, Que.; Robert Z. Pennell and Leon F. Papineau, of Plattsburg, N.Y.

Pennell was also fined $10 and costs for driving his car while the machine was bearing wrong licence plates. Police said the accused had removed the American licence plates from his car and was using Quebec plates.

Early Tumor Diagnosis Value Stressed

Chest Specialist Has High Praise For Anti-T.B. League

The great importance of the detection of tumors in the throat and lungs through the taking of X-ray pictures of the chest was emphasized here Saturday by Dr. Paul H. Hollinger, professor of laryngology of the University of Illinois, who visited the headquarters of the Montreal Anti-Tuberculosis League and several local hospitals.

Dr. Hollinger, one of the outstanding authorities on bronchial diseases, praised the league for inaugurating a service by which a radiologist examines all X-ray plates to ascertain if there are any malignant or benign tumors, or heart disease conditions appearing.

Tremendously Important

"That work is tremendously important, not only to these engaged in industry but to the individual citizens of the community. While there is no contagion with tumors, their presence in the chest may not be known to the individual until the tumor has spread so far that when it lays a person low it is too late to do anything about it."

"With this close examination of X-ray plates the radiologist is able to detect tumors early enough so that they can be treated. This opens up a tremendous field, and it is a challenge to the doctors to be able to treat them in their early stages.

"The symptoms of a tumor in the chest or lungs are very similar to those of tuberculosis, and only intense study of the plates will reveal whether a person has tuberculosis or cancer in its early stages. It is a challenge also to the patient, because it gives him an opportunity to understand the problem before it gets to the stage where he has to have help."

Dr. Hollinger, who inspected the equipment of the Montreal Anti-Tuberculosis League, declared, "this is a wonderful setup, and the league is doing a tremendous job."

Good For Industry

He said it was a good thing too for industry to have such an organization available.

"There is no doubt that industry is more willing to co-operate with a private enterprise such as this than with government-sponsored organizations, he said. "In the United States some industries have their own mass surveys, and state public health bodies do a lot of work, but we have nothing like this, where a private enterprise makes it possible for an industry to obtain, for a nominal cost, not only the services of a radiologist but also eminent tuberculosis specialists and consultants, to safeguard the health of their employees.

Asked about the effect of smoking in relation to cancerous growths, Dr. Hollinger said irritation of the bronchial tubes might lead to tumorous growths. "There is an unknown factor in tumors," he declared, "so we cannot definitely say what causes them, but there is definite proof that the incidence of tumors among smokers is greater than with non-smokers."

Lauds Sanatorium

Dr. Hollinger praised the new Rosemount Sanatorium, recently opened by the Quebec Provincial Government. "It is really the most superb set-up I have ever seen, both from the experimental and from the clinical standpoint," he declared. "The equipment for experiment and research in heart and lung studies is exceptional and it has already brought valuable results in many fields with its equipment and its eminent staff, the institution has a possibility of solving many of the problems that are so hard to differentiate at the present time."

St. Anicet Fetes Pastor's Return

ST. ANICET—The evening of Nov. 22nd was a happy one for the parishioners of St. Anicet, who turned out in large numbers to welcome the return of their pastor, Rev. P. Grondin. Everyone assembled in the church where he told them many interesting accounts of his pilgrimage to Rome and audience with the Pope, also about his visit to several countries of Europe, especially England, where he spent some years as a student and after ordination as a curate.

A few evenings later, in the town hall, the eight schools of the parish further honored him with an entertainment consisting of songs, plays and tableaux.

At the close, Father Grondin thanked all for the nice evening and asked the school board to grant the children a holiday.

ODD-SHAPED CHURCH

MIDNAPORE, Alta., (CP)—The odd-shaped little Anglican church here, looking as though it was built for a congregation of thin men, was constructed in 1884 on land donated by John Glen. Midnapore's first postmaster, he could neither read nor write.

J. G. Rennie Says Tendency Toward "Statism" in Recent Radio Address

Huntingdon M.L.A. Gives Talk in Series "Provincial Affairs"

The following is text of a radio address delivered by John Gillies Rennie, M.L.A. for Huntingdon County, over a station of the CBC Network recently and should be of interest to the people of this district.

In the short time at my disposal tonight I want to consider with you a trend that is causing some concern to those of us in Government who are actively engaged in the preservation and continuation of our democratic way of life. This trend is probably best described as a tendency toward "statism"; a tendency in our citizens to believe that it is a function of government to provide our people with more and more social security extending from the cradle to the grave.

I submit that: "you cannot get something for nothing." In those half-dozen words lie an inexcapable truth which is manifest everywhere in nature. Divine law tells us that: "In the sweat of thy face thou shalt eat bread." That law is as true today as it has been down through the ages. But the current refusal to grasp the salient fact of its basic and unchanging character is leading a lot of misguided people to the belief that it is no longer applicable.

The thinking that leads people to the belief that they can get something for nothing is not new. It has been advocated in one form or another for many years, and has probably reached its peak in Britain and other European Countries with the rise to power of their Socialist governments. Since we in this Country are probably most closely in touch with Britain, that country stands out in our minds as the most horrible example of a country that has forsaken the sane and safe policies of free enterprise for the dangerous doctrine of Socialism. It is pitiable to see a country that achieved greatness under the free enterprise system do an about-face and head down the road to decline because her government has seen fit to embrace the decadent political doctrine for its people of the unworkable theory that they can get something for nothing.

But my concern tonight is not for the people of Britain, much as I may regret the course they have taken and the end results which will inevitably follow. My concern tonight is for our own position here in Canada, and particularly for the Province of Quebec. We Canadians are committed as a nation to the Canadian way of life. Our task is to preserve that way of life for our generation and for the future generations which will come after us. We must never forget that this country of ours stands as almost the last remaining citadel of personal freedom in the whole wide world. History has proven that this personal freedom of which I speak can exist permanently only under free enterprise. Based on this thesis we must protect our system against those elements in our population which would wreck us with their crackpot theories.

There are Canadians who would have us desert our Canadian way of life. These people would have us adopt Britain or one of the other Commonwealth countries as our model. Some go so far as to say that we should adopt the dictatorship that exists in Russia. They argue that by so doing we will attain that impossible position of getting something for nothing.

Many of these people have the most excellent intentions. They have persuaded themselves, or have been persuaded, that the equal distribution of this world's goods is simply a matter of government intervention. No doubt we have been susceptible to British influence, and much of this type of thinking stems from those fanatical enemies of Capitalism in Britain.

May I suggest to you it is high time we realize that our Canada has grown to nationhood. We have a committment to the Canadian way of life, and it is the responsibility of our governments to see that we honour our committment. To walk the road to "statism" is to sanction great and ever-increasing annual expenditures on so-called "social security". If that is the road we want to take then we must reconcile ourselves to a perpetual distribution of income by government agencies. There is no turning back, short of revolution, once you have adopted the policy of bribing people with their own money.

In a young, virile country like ours such a course would be the height of folly. We are not in the position, and I trust we never shall be, that will permit us to load the cost of our exports with the costs of unwarranted social legislation. Hand in hand with such a program goes the cost of an ever-expanding bureaucracy. The decline in governmental and business efficiency is in direct ratio to this expansion. A nation whose industry and commerce must spend its time in the distasteful and inefficient task of compiling more and ever more useless form for bureaucrats to read will see its efficiency of manage-

The children of St. Andrew's Sunday School will be entertained at the annual Christmas Party in St. Andrew's Annex, on Friday evening, December 15th. There will be a pageant following a supper and then Santa Claus will arrive and hand out gifts of candies, etc., to all the boys and girls.

St. John's Christmas Party

The annual party for the children of St. John's Anglican Church, Huntingdon, will be held in the basement of the church on Thursday, December 14th. The program will consist of a Christmas film following which Santa Claus will arrive and distribute the gifts. Mrs. G. Hood and Mrs. N. F. Manning are in charge of arrangements.

United Church Christmas Party

The Sunday School children of the United Church will be entertained at a supper in the basement of the Church, on Friday evening, December 15th. Following the supper there will be a programme and Santa Claus will arrive and distribute the Christmas treats.

It looks like a very full week for the children of Huntingdon and none of them should be missed.

Christmas Seals Sent Out

Annual Campaign Funds to Fight Tuberculosis

In the past week letters have been mailed from local headquarters in Huntingdon to residents throughout the county, containing Christmas Seals for the Anti-Tuberculosis Fund. All who receive these letters are asked to return at least one dollar for the seals and thus a contribution will be made to the fund.

During the past year several clinics have been held in the district and it is found that the disease is spreading, even in this district. Many more new cases were discovered as a result of these clinics and the aid of X-Ray. It is the contributions received that keep this research work going on and it can be seen that it is proving of valuable assistance. The discovery of these cases could well mean the saving of the lives of the people affected. Besides this, milk, tonic and parcels have been distributed to patients in the Sanitorium and to local school children.

If you have received more than one letter, please return it, as an error may have occurred in addressing the envelopes. On the other hand if you have not received one, please get in touch with Mrs. J. E. Barrett, at the Court House, Huntingdon, and one will be sent out.

It is hoped that there will be as ready a response to this appeal as has been the case in past years. If this is so, then the campaign will be a success and local endeavor can proceed as previously.

Quebec Licence Plates Black Over Aluminum

QUEBEC (cp) — Motor vehicles in the province will carry aluminum-colored licence plates with black numerals during the coming year, it was announced today by the Provincial Treasury.

The new plates will go on sale Jan. 3.

This year's licence plates were blue with white numerals.

Deadline for buying the new 1951 plates is Feb. 28.

Our Canadian Way of Life

This article is an attempt to condense into a mere 3,000 words the essence of what goes to make up our Canadian Way of Life; it would take volumes and volumes to tell it all.

What we can see in a quick summary is good. In a world where we are harried day and night by new devices and disturbances, Canadians live comfortably, though not so easily as to stagnate. Our national ambition is to live richly, rather than to be rich.

If we have a fault, it is to take for granted the values and benefits of our Canadian way of life. This free society, eminent in the world because of its individual freedoms and its great opportunities for self-advancement and the sense of security it provides to ease men's minds, was gained by the struggles and sacrifices of the men and women from whom we inherit it.

One hundred and twelve years ago — a short span in human history — Governor-General Lord Durham reported to the British Government: "These small and unimportant communities (Upper and Lower Canada, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland) could be elevated into a society having some objects of national importance." It is hard to realize today how bold and optimistic that judgment was in its time.

Today, Canada is a leader in civilization. She may not dominate the physical world by her size, her economic strength, her armed might or her population figures, but in the world of ideas, of humanity and of graceful living she is second to no country on earth.

The strength of Canada's mind and the high level of her ideals are shown in unique ways. She is the only kingdom on a huge continent of republics, yet her people enjoy a measure of freedom unsurpassed — and probably not equalled in the Americas. She has originated and developed autonomy within a world system of commonwealths, yet keeps the most intimate friendship with the world's greatest independent state. Her internal dualism, linking two widely different cultures in a united nation, seems to qualify her in a special way for participation in the councils of the nations.

What Kind of People Are We?

What kind of people are Canadians? The outstanding fact is that we are all kinds of people. The French speaking Canadians have more American generations behind them than any other white stock north of the Rio Grande, save only the Spanish. Their energy and volatility and family spirit were necessary to the upbuilding of this raw land. Then came the Scotch, the English, the Irish and the Welsh, with their efficiency, thriftiness and their whole-souled respect for law, order and self-control. To these, in the hundred years of Canada's great growth, were added thousands from other lands, east, west and south. Today, they are all Canadians.

When the first settlers came to this land, the French and the British were already cultured peoples, with ancient roots in literature, fine art, music and science. They had social structures of high quality, and had laid the foundations of noble civilizations.

Out of these cultures was forged the common denominator in Canadian character. Today, some of the differences have been merged harmoniously; while some have survived in a way that prevents standardization of the nation. It is a grand feat in nation building when two diverse cultures march cordially together, co-operating and making allowances, merging ideas and preserving ideals, and welcoming people from many other nations.

So here we are: a complex aggregation of people in a land of striking contrasts, facing together problems of wide diversity. The marvel of it is that we have woven the culture and institutions of all these people into an orderly and attractive pattern.

We have learned that there are not only two sides but many views of every case. We know that the greatest nation is not a nationalistic nation but one that has many ties, of blood and mind and ideals, with other nations.

Some people might say that we do not show in our daily living that we are conscious of our keen sense of participation in an epoch-making experiment in nation building, or of our deep awareness of the greatness of the adventure upon which Canada has embarked. We are, in fact, less colourful figures to the world than our own tourist advertisments make us out to be. We have, as Hugh MacLennan put it, such a talent for avoiding the dramatic that we often escape even the notice of our friends. We have a habit of appearing solemn when we are only serious.

From Struggle to Comfort

Well, we are conservative by necessity and habit. We have not had an easy country in which to work or live. The Arctic wilderness presses close upon our cities. Montreal, our great metropolis — an island of 1,442,000 people; the world's greatest inland port, a thousand miles from the sea; a city with the world's greatest French-speaking population, aside from Paris — lies only 45 miles by rail from the United States border. One hundred and twenty miles west in Ottawa, the capital city of Canada. And beyond Ottawa the hills and tundra stretch, scarcely touched by human hands, unbroken to the Arctic Sea.

To survive in this narrow strip between the world's most highly-developed industrial nation and the barren land, we have had to be a tough and adaptable people. We have little margin for error.

Yet this country is in the centre of world affairs. Our doors open east and west, north and south, where unpredictable changes are taking place in great nations. We are, literally, at the crossroads of a newly-developing world.

Upon this narrow strip of land we have built a nation in which it is good to live. It is false to idealize the past, because the ease and comfort of today were not born of easiness and lassitude. It was a tough job, to make Canada what she is today. To raise the standard of living on this continent to levels never elsewhere attained demanded work and planning of a high order.

Once our people hewed farm plots out of the wilderness, built their own homes, made their own clothes and produced their own food. Children and women laboured hard in the fields and there was no diversion but sleep.

This year, Toronto is building a subway to carry thousands of persons swiftly and comfortably between their homes and downtown. Machines are digging a trench along Yonge Street. Here is menial work, but no manual toil and no slavery; only proud mechanics guiding the great machines. There, but for invention and initiative, go a thousand slaves, poor skill-less men, digging wearily with tools a thousand years old.

There are wires on our roofs, on which birds sit to sing, but within the wires are songs from half a world away, brought by the genius that developed radio. In hydro power we are pre-eminent among nations. Waterfalls are harnessed to bring us electricity, pouring into our factories power in a cascade that liberates a hundred men with every pulsation.

At the last count, a million homes out of 3,300,000 had refrigerators, 3,127,000 had radios, 623,000 had electric ranges, and 2 million had electric washing machines. When we take a total view, and see our modern Canada against its background, we are comforted. Some may still live backward lives, but millions are living better, and all have the opportunity to step forward.

The Test of Democracy

As part of our improved standard of living we must recognize the increased attention given to social services. Public health is the concern of all levels of government. Pensions for the aged and the blind have been adopted by the provinces with financial help from the Dominion. Unemployment insurance, family allowances, war pensions, help in home-building, and many other forms of assistance, are provided through government action.

But these are merely incidental; they are not the measure of a democracy. The test of democracy is the extent of freedom its people have from dependence on authority. This freedom is a sign of maturity.

It can be said with assurance that Canadians do not wish to become so dependent on their government that they, like people in some other countries, will forfeit political democracy. All that they look for is adequate reward for initiative, ability and work, with safeguards for those who cannot work.

Hon. Paul Martin, Minister of National Health and Welfare, told a conference on social work in June: "It never can be too often emphasized that social security is not an end in itself; it is only part of the pattern of our whole social system. The first essential in any society is to produce in such quantities that all who are willing to work and who can work will be able to enjoy a decent livelihood for themselves and their families."

Closely allied with dependency is fear. People who live in states where citizens are kept as dependents are afraid that their benefits will be cut off if they offend the powers that handle the distribution of gifts, allowances and bonuses.

Freedom

Canadians, whether native-born or immigrants, may live and act with full security within our pattern of freedom. We do not simply safeguard human rights; we erect an order of law, animated by freedom of men's spirits.

This means that men must not expect that in Canada they will be told what to do. That is the kind of thing that happened in Germany and Russia. We believe here that freedom to think should be followed by using your head to choose between alternative courses of action. It is freedom of choice that develops personality, and it is only out of personality expression that reasonable men derive satisfaction.

Democratic governments feel it to be part of their duty to avoid unnecessary interference with men and women who intend to carve out careers on their own. They believe it is their duty to interfere as little as possible with voluntary associations. They leave men free to make an honest livelihood at what trades they want, and do not dragoon them into labour. They encourage men to express their opinions.

Canadians believe in independence and in the growth of personal responsibility. They reject the suggestion that men should be made good citizens by compulsion, by statute, or by coercion. They believe more good will be accomplished by inducting the Golden Rule into all phases of Canadian life than by any number of government edicts. Regard for one's fellow man, considered by some to be the touchstone of all other virtues, stands out as a cardinal principle of Canadian life, both within Canada and in her international contacts.

The Good Citizen

All of these rights, liberties and benefits are at the free and bountiful service of good citizens. Anyone can be a good citizen of Canada if he keeps his heart right; if he acknowledges the dignity and worth of all socially acceptable work; if he appreciates the necessity and justice of a fair return for a fair day's labour; if he realizes the interdependence of all people, and that a high standard of living depends upon the co-operation and contribution of all people; if he feels the need for conserving Canada's natural resources of men and materials, and does his part toward their best development; if he participates in municipal, provincial and federal government and in community affairs.

That citizens should participate in governing themselves is a vital part of democracy. You cannot set up a democracy by building government machinery, but only by developing a spirit.

When a person is convinced that our Canadian way of life offers more opportuuity and happiness to larger numbers of persons than does any other scheme, he will be eager to contribute his share to keeping it effectively working. The democracy of which we are talking is an arrangement of life whereby the members of a group, large or small, have opportunity to partake in proportion to their maturity and ability. There is no room in such a society for envious dislike of persons who are prominent or great, but an appreciation of what all greatness adds to the common good.

Our Government

Democratic government is a form of government in which the people rule by discussion and compromise. Free elections, in which the people choose their government representatives, and the secret ballot, which gives them absolute freedom of choice, are prized possessions of Canadians.

In Canada, all government is elected government, responsible to the people. The cabinet, which has its finger on all phases of national life, economic and social, internal and external, is made up of men chosen from the elected representatives of the people. These men, each of whom is head of a department of government, are directly responsible to parliament.

There is no distinction between class or creed in Canadian public affairs. Rich or poor, a Canadian citizen has a voice in the government, may serve on a municipal council, in a provincial legislature, in parliament, or on boards set up by any of these governments. Minorities are heard freely and patiently.

The existence of an opposition party in parliament is necessary to our system. In totalitarian countries there can be only one political party, and a revolution is needed if a government is to be changed. In a democracy, the people may vote the government out and the opposition in.

This is one reason why it is the duty of any democratic government to take the people frankly into its confidence.

Consultation is one of the oldest democratic functions, the natural instrument for government to use in order to harmonize its policy with public opinion. The people should be given a picture in broad outline of the proposed plan and of the economic and social facts that underlie it. Then they should be shown what are their individual tasks and duties. The people of a democratic country like Canada cannot be driven in blinkers. Any attempt to promote great changes without making clear the purpose and method will dissolve into frustration.

External Affairs

Canadians have a compelling interest in world affairs. The pressure of events, the continuing sense of crisis, and the rivalries of continents, demand clear and confident rather than flamboyant leadership, and this Canada is prepared to give. She has the attributes of a hunter who was referred to by a companion in these terms: "He is the kind of man to go tiger hunting with in the dark, because you can always reach out and be sure he is there."

Canada, more than most nations, needs world peace for her prosperity. Her external trade provides a third of her national income. If her exports were cut off or seriously interfered with, every workman's pay envelope would suffer. For this practical reason, as well as because of a natural desire for world peace and order, Canada supports the United Nations.

Religion and Education

People in Canada worship in many different ways, yet their belief in God, their emphasis upon trust, hope and love are strong assets toward the development of good citizenship. All the faiths represented here, and freely practised here, teach the dignity of the human soul, and regard all individuals as important members of the human family. The church, of whatever denomination, is the voice of the nation's conscience.

This spiritual culture, the inward force which creates and sustains the outward manifestations of civilization, is the greatest power a democracy can have. That is one reason why democracies take such pains to safeguard the right of citizens to worship "each according to the dictates of his own conscience". It is one of the most important freedoms in the modern world.

Church authorities in Canada and elsewhere are emphatic in their condemnation of the atheism and tyranny of Communism. Any system of government that deprives people of the right to faith, the exercise of their religious instincts, and the communion of spirit provided by worship, will be condemned by all right-thinking people.

There are ample and freely-available educational resources in Canada, directed to providing the opportunity for relf-realization, human relationship, economic efficiency and civic responsibility.

The standard educational ladder consists of eight grades in a public elementary school and four or five in a public secondary school, though there are minor differences in the provinces. The vital point is that throughout these years education is free. There are certain "separate" schools to accommodate minority groups.

After school years comes adult education, which enables the mature members of the community to pursue various courses of study. In recent years, adult education has grown from almost complete obscurity to the position of a third partner along with higher education and the public schools. It is not a scheme to help the illiterate and under-educated to "catch up", but a plan for enabling everyone to develop the best that is in him and obtain the greatest satisfactions out of life.

Adult education is a main strength of democracy. Subversive influences and totalitarian philosophies thrive on ignorance. They cannot stand the light of truth. This is why enlightened men in business, government and education are supporting every advance in adult education, urging the idea of lighting up the schools at night for use of mature persons, and contributing through pamphlets, films and posters to the spread of knowledge.

Law and the Police

The high standing and independence of magistrates and judges have always been conspicuous merits in Canadian government. Judges are not elected but are appointed for life by the Governor-General in Council or the Provincial Lieutenant-Governor in Council, according to the rank and duty of the court. They must not take part in politics, and are not allowed to vote. Their positions are regarded by all as posts of great honour and responsibility.

Respect for the law derives from the highest levels. In taking the Coronation Oath, the King is asked: "Will you to your power, cause Law and Justice, in Mercy, to be executed in all your judgments?" To which the King assents, "I will."

From coast to coast, Canada has a uniform code of criminal laws and a uniform procedure in criminal matters. The purpose of law is to guard the liberties of every citizen. In a democracy like Canada, a man is free to live as he chooses so long as he keeps within the law which he, as a voter, had a hand in shaping.

The police in Canada, perhaps better than any other group, know the meaning of civil liberties and personal rights because it is their duty to guard against the violation of these rights by anyone or by any group. They are the friends of every good citizen, and the defenders of our free democratic way of life.

Our Future

We can listen at any moment and hear our country growing. The air is rich with promise. The spirit of Canada is progressive still. We can say to the childen who left school this year what old Voltaire, when he went to Paris in 1778 to die, said to the youth in whose hearts he sensed the grandeur of the coming century: "The young are fortunate: they will see great things."

We are not seeking a mechanical utopia, or a country with highways paved with gold. The ideal Canada will be developed by its people, using all that science can give them as an aid but keeping their roots firmly grounded in the rich heritage of the past.

To quote a fine Greek adage: "Life is the gift of nature, but beautiful living is the gift of wisdom." What we need in these days is to broaden our knowledge and intelligence, and at the same time cling to the simple virtues which our society approves. The values which test achievement — honesty,

Why Red is Popular Barn Colour

Did you ever wonder why the little red schoolhouse happened to be red? Or why the farmer years ago began the tradition of painting his barns the same bright color?

The answer is simple. The farmer didn't really choose red. He just looked around for what was handy and when he finished mixing, what he had turned out to be red paint.

The ingredients usually at hand were red iron oxide and linseed oil obtained from the flax he grew. The result was a paint which was highly durable, attractive to the eye and it cost practically nothing.

Even town dwellers who had to buy the ingredients found iron oxide the cheapest color pigment —which explains the color of the little schoolhouse.

Today it is hard to imagine the time in this countrry when paint was looked upon with disfavor. But during the early years settlers regarded paint as both unnecessary and an unwelcome sign of worldiness. In 1670 there was not a single painter in the Massachusetts Colony.

Regarding the durable nature of red barn paint, chemists now reason that it lasts well because it is chemically stable. Iron oxide being rust, it has gone chemically about as far as it will go, and after being applied to a finish there is little change or deterioration. This is not true of other pigments.

Dairy Farmers of Canada Launch Advertising Campaign

TORONTO,—Dairy Foods Service Bureau will originate all product advertising in the Dairy Farmers of Canada national campaign which begins in December, it was announced here by Erle Kitchen, Secretary-Manager of the organization.

First national farm organization to go into product advertising, the Dairy Farmers of Canada, through the Dairy Foods Service Bureau will seek not only to better serve consumers, but the food trade and the whole dairy industry as well. Mr. Kitchen pointed out that the National Dairy Council and the Associated Milk Foundations were co-operating to give maximum effect to the work of the bureau in the better merchandising of dairy foods. The bureau will use a wide variety of media to bring to the consumer needed information regarding dairy foods. Newspaper advertising will tie in with shopping days and habits. Full color will be used in magazines to show dishes with appetite appeal. Radio will add sound to sight, serving as a reminder in meal preparation. Trade papers will be used to reach industries using dairy foods in bulk.

Beginning with butter in December, different dairy foods will be featured each month until August 1951. In January the promotion will feature fluid milk, while emphasis will fall on concentrated products in February and on cheese in March during the Lenten season. Ice cream, cottage cheese and cream will be featured in the spring and summer months.

Editorial Notes...

Christmas Shopping Time

MAYBE you are one of those persons who has already completed your Christmas shopping and have your gifts all wrapped and hidden away. On the other hand perhaps you are one of those who are so busy with other duties that you have to crowd your shopping into odd hours that can be spared. The point is, it is not good business to delay your shopping to the last minute, you cannot blame the storekeeper if the selection is poor a few days before Christmas. He has to buy early and he does not want to carry stock from one year to another, thus he tries to visualise his custom and order just enough to cover the present season. Given time he may be able to procure what you want, but if too late, this certainly cannot be done.

From what we have seen of the stores in Huntingdon there are still very good selections of merchandise of all kinds, but time is getting on that it cannot be expected that these stocks will be as large in a week's time. Those housewives who are still figuring on making the Christmas cakes and puddings, would do well to procure their supplies of ingredients, nuts, oranges, candies, etc., while stocks are at their best. Poultry and meats may be hard to get if left until the last minute and right at this time a number of farmers are advertising that orders for poultry can be taken.

Don't forget to mail those letters, parcels and cards early, the mail employees have given good service and they too like to enjoy the Christmas season. While on the Christmas mailing, might we suggest that you take every opportunity to use Christmas Seals and so help along the Tuberculosis Fund. Christmas is a time for the thought of others and in practically everything we do, the thought is for some other person's enjoyment or benefit.

You now have nine shopping days left until Christmas, they are going to be nine crowded days for a good many and if you are to avoid disappointments to make the most of them.

A Cry for Controls and Price Fixing

THE past week has seen pressure being brought to bear by top Unions in the country for the re-imposition of controls of various natures and for price fixing. In view of the alarming situation in the Korean war and other developments that have come as a result, there is fear that a full scale war may be upon us very soon. The United States was talking all-out mobilization, but this has been tempered somewhat. New wage hikes in the States have caused prices of a number of goods to soar again and meat has been counted in this. Meat prices over the past week-end took three and four cent jumps over the previous week. Several of the big Unions which have recently gained wage increases for workers in this country, fear the soaring prices will result in further demands for wages to up in keeping with the higher cost of living. They have therefore demanded that controls be put into effect to keep a level all around.

There are difficulties in the way of all things and no perfect solution has been found to adjust economy to stay stable for everyone.

During the last war we saw controls clapped on almost everything and apart from banning the manufacture of certain articles, it did not seem to work out. When prices were set, the producer or the manufacturer had to be subsidized and the money was paid out of increased taxes. This seemed to be absolutely O.K. until the time came for the subsidies to be taken off. The public then became fully aware of the extra amount that must be paid in order to meet the loss of subsidies and no one liked it. Controlled production of non-essential products may help in keeping prices more stable, but black markets would likely come about and many difficulties created. It seems that when an article is hard to get, it is that article that people want to buy. The demand then brings pressure on the short supply. If some sort of control could be placed on this sphere such as registration of all buyers and sellers with a penalty for those who had unauthorized goods, it may possibly be worked out. But as one can see one control leads to others. In a very short time we have the government dictating everything we shall, or shall not do.

Fixing of prices, means fixing wages. In the cases of the members of big Unions, they have forced the wages up so high, that fixed wage rates in their case would actually be an asset. It would seem that if prices are fixed, they would be fixed at present levels as the 1939 level is out of tune at this time. With the advent of the Korea war many manufacturers took the opportunity to raise their prices in anticipation. Thus today, we have the highest cost of living index ever to be reported since the index was kept. On the other hand there is no indication that prices will remain at present levels, in fact, the tendency is for them to go higher and higher.

Only in some cases has the demand increased, but supplies generally speaking in essential articles remain good. Thus the old law of supply and demand seems to be counter balanced by some unknown economic quantity that must be clarified. Some items are in short supply because of demand for war purposes or defence orders, but controls or priorities have already been placed on such, therefore they are not considered.

Summing up the situation, controls and price fixing do not seem to be the solution at the moment. It will take some of our best economists to figure a way to hold things in such check that everyone will be protected. On the other hand if things are allowed to run the gamut, controls may be exercised by the fact that by sheer necessity people will have to forego buying and adjust their own economy to fit. If hardship comes into the picture, then the government should step in with measures to alleviate it. In any case, essential items should be made available to all and not just the few.

Postmaster Believes Show Must Go On

OF all the ridiculous holidays to be created, the Post Office civil servants have it. During the past week Postmaster James O'Hare was informed that he was to observe Saturday, December 23, as a holiday to do Christmas Shopping. Evidently this is a holiday the post office employees will be observing across Canada. No doubt all the post office employees have already made their Christmas purchases.

With a closed post office a great many boys and girls, and adults too, will not be receiving Christmas parcels or letters for Christmas that would arrive on December 23. Whilst the Huntingdon Post Office will have to observe this ridiculous holiday, Postmaster O'Hare has informed the Gleaner that he and his staff will have the post office open for a while on Saturday evening, December 23. The Postmaster feels no youngster should go without receiving any Christmas parcel that might possibly be in Huntingdon by mail on Saturday. That's the kind of a heart Jim; the people of this community will stand firm behind you and your faithful employees in appreciation of what you are doing to accord public service.

Why? Why? Why?

RULE G of the North American railways makes it an offence for any enployee to drink while on duty. Yet trains run on steel rails.

Aeroplane companies forbid pilots to fly within 24 hours of taking an alcoholic drink. Yet co-pilots are available to take over the controls in case of emergency.

Canadian automobile drivers, with nothing to guide their course and no co-drivers, are legally free to drink and drive.

No one is allowed to take charge of a railway locomotive without years of experience and training.

No one is permitted to pilot a passenger plane without a thorough and arduous series of examinations and hundreds of hours of flying experience.

An automobile driver's licence can be secured in Canada following a most casual examination or, in some provinces, by merely sending a dollar or two through the mail.

Yet, while railway engineers and aeroplane pilots are forbidden to drink and drive, there is no similar restriction on a car driver.

Traffic on the railways is regulated by persons other than the locomotive engineers.

Traffic on the airways is regulated by persons other than the pilots.

Traffic on the highways is almost entirely controlled by individual car drivers.

Yet a railway engineer and a pilot cannot drink and drive, but a car operator can.

Why?

November 2.

On Tuesday, October 17, a young man, age 18, Jean Bte. Pari, son of respectable parents of the parish of St. Clement, was crushed to death in the machinery of the grist mill of Mr. Joseph Doutre. He had come with a load of grain to the mill and while waiting until it was ground he went down into the lower part of the mill, and while examining the machinery was caught by a wheel and killed instantly.

The store at Fort Covington Centre, owned by Mr. Chandler, Ellsworth, and occupied by Mr. Robert Cushman, was burned last Friday night. The building was insured for $150, and the stock for $2,000. Loss on building above insurance, about $100. Loss on stock covered by insurance. Origin of the fire unknown but supposed to have been from pipes.

November 16

On the night of Friday last an accident happened to the Beauharnois canal. While a barge was passing down the locks at the foot of the canal, through some mismanagement two gates were torn away. The damage was not repaired until Tuesday night, by which time an extraordinary number of vessels were collected waiting to get up. This interruption has been a great loss to merchants and others who have goods to receive as the season of navigation is apparently about at an end.

The weather for the past week has been decidedly wintry. On Saturday night an intense frost set in which continued over Monday and since then we have had frequent falls of rain and snow. The rivers were frozen across by the cold of Sunday, but have since partially opened. As farmers had only a comparatively small breadth of their land ploughed, this sudden access of frost is regarded with dismay.

November 23

The young men of Durham have organized a new Brass Band calling it the Independent Brass Band of Durham.

They have purchased a new drum, costing $30, and a few new instruments, and a good selection of new music, all from the large establishment of S. Brainard and Sons, Cleveland, Ohio. The band consists of ten performers who play with much taste.

The string band has also been reorganized and rendered more efficient. The services of both bands will doubtless be in frequent request this winter.

December 7.

Mr. James Feeny, of this Village, killed a pig the other day, which he thinks will beat the Franklin porkers chronicled in last week's paper. Mr. Feeny's pig was five months, 14 days old and weighed 260 lbs. when dressed giving an average of over 1¾ lbs. per day.

At the meeting of the village council on Monday evening it was moved by Coun. Cunningham, seconded by Coun. McArthur, that the Mayor, Mr. Shanks, and Coun. McDonell be the delegates from this council to the meeting regarding a railway. The Secretary, Mr. Hyndman, was appointed to preside at the election of the new council.

December 21.

Considerable excitement has been caused in the west end of Hinchinbrook by the wilful destruction of the dam on the Chateauguay River which supplies water to the Athelstan Grist Mill. For several years back legal proceedings have been going on as to the overflow of water at the place and on Friday the plaintiff Mr. Robt. Graham, caused the dam to be opened. The mill is now idle, to the annoyance and loss of the farmers in the neighbourhood. Should the mill have to be abandoned it will prove a death blow to the prosperity of Athelstan, which during the past three years has made greater progress than any other village in this District.

Letters to The Editor

To the Editor of the Gleaner:
Dear Sir:

In your issue of the Gleaner of November 22nd, it was stated that the ice of the Curling Rink would be ready to start operations on December 3rd. This date was a Sunday and it raises a very important question as to whether or not the Curling Club intends to be in operation for organized games on Sunday.

We believe that this would be contrary to the best interests both of the Curling Club and the Community. We believe that it would tend to restrict the liberty of the Lord's Day for many people. We believe that anything which helps to break down the sanctity of this day is tending to destroy one of the most beneficial institutions God has given to man, the day of rest and worship. Unfortunately there has been in recent times a marked movement in that direction within this Community. We respectfully request those most concerned in the matter to refrain from giving impetus to this movement.

At the same time we congratulate the Curling Club on its initiative in providing such fine facilities for its members. We declare ourselves wholeheartedly in favor of everything which contributes to the wellbeing and wholesome recreation of the community. May this new enterprise be kept upon such a level that all Christian people of whatever communion can conscientiously give it full support and encouragement.

U.S.A. Import Regulations For Canadian Livestock And Poultry Amended

OTTAWA,—It was announced previously that certain changes in the United States regulations regarding the entry of Canadian livestock into that Country would be effective as from August 14. These changes were not implemented for that date, but will become effective as from December 10, 1950. The changes follow.

Canadian cattle offered for entry to the United States need not be tested for Brucellosis (Bang's disease), if they are accompanied by a certificate issued or endorsed by a veterinarian of the Canadian Government showing they were officially vaccinated as calves 6 to 8 months of age, in accordance with Canadian Government Regulations, within 22 months of their being offered for entry to the United States. The certificate accompanying such vaccinated cattle must show the date of vaccination of each animal.

The Government Regulations cover only those cattle which have been vaccinated according to the requirements of the Federal-Provincial Brucellosis Control Program, and cattle which have been vaccinated under the Federal Brucellosis Free Listed Herd Plan. Cattle vaccinated under other conditions will not be accepted for entry to the United States without being blood tested negative to Brucellosis, unless they are classed as animals for which a blood test is not required, such as cattle for immediate slaughter, steers, or spayed heifers.

The 6 to 8 months age range for vaccination actually means that calves may be classed as "official vaccinates" if vaccinated at six months of age, and up to but not including 9 months of age.

Canadian poultry exported to the United States must be accompanied by a certificate of a Canadian Government veterinarian showing that the poultry have been inspected on the premises of origin and are free of any evidence of communicable disease or exposure thereto. Under certain conditions the United States authorities may authorize the importation from Canada without such certificate, of eggs for hatching, newly hatched poultry, and poultry consigned for immediate slaughter.

Death Claims Paid Increase in Quebec

Payment of death and accidental death claims to Quebec families amounted to more than $18,630,000 in the first three quarters of this year, compared with about $17,280,000 in the corresponding period of 1949, the Canadian Life Insurance Officers Association reports.

In the first nine months of 1950, over $13,490,000 was paid on 5,570 ordinary policies, $2,480,000 on 10,626 industrial policies and $2,650,000 on 1,556 group certificates.

Death claims in Canada's ten provinces resulted in $63,713,000 being paid b ythe life companies.

The Week At Ottawa...

OTTAWA, (CP)—With events in Korea and the Far East in critical condition; with the international situation at a peak of tension, and with a Dominion-Provincial conference keeping the cabinet busy, there was also news of Christmas trees in the capital this week.

The Christmas news was that a Nova Scotia tree firm has offered and has seen accepted, the gift of 150 trees for Canada's servicemen training in the United States and in the Korean theatre.

Along with this came word of Christmas trees being shipped out to Canada's lonely weather station in the North Atlantic, and to Sable Island, on the eastern continental shelf, overhanging the ocean depts, out past the eastern seaboard.

Christmas trees, incidentally, have turned into a $2,500,000 seasonal industry. Last year Canada chopped down nearly 11,000,000 of them and exported 7,500,000 at a handsome profit. It's a standard industry now, and growers calculate the production rate and safe cutting methods as would a farmer.

Tense Waiting Period

The trees—symbols of Christmas and of peace—were in one sense the highlight of the week's news. It was a week of watching and waiting, at Lake Success, Washington, and in Korea. Even the Federal-Provincial conference on fiscal matters was overshadowed by the threat of a third world war. And Canada, with a small voice in the world situation, made hopeful overtures toward peace on earth while the larger powers flexed muscles. It was a lot like the little spruce trees.

External Affairs Minister Pearson made two major foreign-policy speeches this week. One was at the start of the federal-provincial conference; the other, in similar vein, was made from Lake Success.

Mr. Pearson called for every possible effort to open negotiations with the Chinese Communists once the frontline is established in Korea. He looked to a "cease-fire, followed by negotiations—possibly covering more subjects than Korea—in which the Chinese Communists would participate," as a way of hope for an "honorable and peaceful settlement."

He condemned any use of the atom bomb on the Chinese and said the bomb should be regarded as the ultimate weapon.

Not "Appeasement"

The policy he outlined, he insisted, was not "appeasement." It was "an attempt through diplomacy to reach a modus vivendi with the Asian Communist World."

Enlarging, he added:

"It now is clear these Chinese Communists have intervened in Korea in very large numbers. Their final purpose is not yet beyond doubt, but certainly they have committed themselves to an incursion far in excess of any that might be explained by nervousness over local Chinese interests along the border between Manchuria and Korea.

"In this dangerous situation, it remains our view that if and when the military position is stabilized, we should try to begin negotiations with the Chinese Communists by every means possible. I am aware of the difficulties, I assure you, but I believe that nothing should be left undone which might conceivably result in an honorable and peaceful settlement in Korea.

"If, for example, providing the military situation is stabilized, there could be a cease-fire followed by negotiations — possibly covering more subjects than Korea—in which case the Chinese Communists would participate, there might still be hope of reaching such a settlement. At least, we would have done our best and the responsibility for failure could be placed where it would belong."

Higher Costs—More Taxes

The federal-provincial fiscal conference was told at the outset by Prime Minister St. Laurent that the Dominion cannot revise its tax agreements in any way which would add "materially" to the cost to the federal treasury. Finance Minister Abbott added that the increasing defence expenditures probably will run his budget up to $3,000,000,000 next spring. This compares with a current budget of $2,654,000,000, and leaves little doubt of higher taxes in 1951.

The statements came at a time when the cost-of-living index at least had levelled off for a month. The steady rise which has been uninterrupted since last April stopped during October at 170.7. There was no assurance it will not continue to climb, but at least the rise had been temporarily halted.

Conference Progress

The fiscal conference broke up with no indication of strong disagreement. Most of the sessions were held behind closed doors, but delegates said the discussions had been amicable.

It agreed to give early consideration to a constitutional amendment allowing the federal government to inaugurate a contributory system of $40-a-month pensions for Canadians of 70 and over without a means test, and also to consider allowing provinces to impose indirect retail sales taxes.

A committee will be established to consider what sort of legislation will be necessary to inaugurate the $40-a-month pension plan, with the federal and provincial governments sharing the cost on a 50-50 basis.

The conference also agreed to consider federal proposals for a new taxation agreement. They will indicate their positions later. Meanwhile, deliberations on new methods of constitutional amendment have been suspended until after the tax agreements and related matters have been worked out.

Changes Noted In Canadian Dairy Industry

OTTAWA, Dec. 4, 1950 — Due to an increased domestic consumption and exports and a lower production of certain manufactured products in 1950, the Canadian dairy industry has changed from one of surplus of certain commodities in 1949, to one of no surpluses or near of the Canada Department of Agriculture recently told delegates to the Ontario Creamery Association at Toronto.

Despite unfavourable feed shortages last winter and spring Dr. Derby estimated that the overall milk production for this year will be approximately the same as in 1949 when it was 16.7 billion pounds. He said that the relatively high returns from other farm commodities, beef for example, have had a deterrent effect on milk production during the past season, as many dairy cows that would otherwise have been maintained on the farm for milk production were sold for beef. The export of dairy cattle also is higher than last year, more than 60 thousand having been exported up to November 22, compared with about 57 thousand for the same period a year ago.

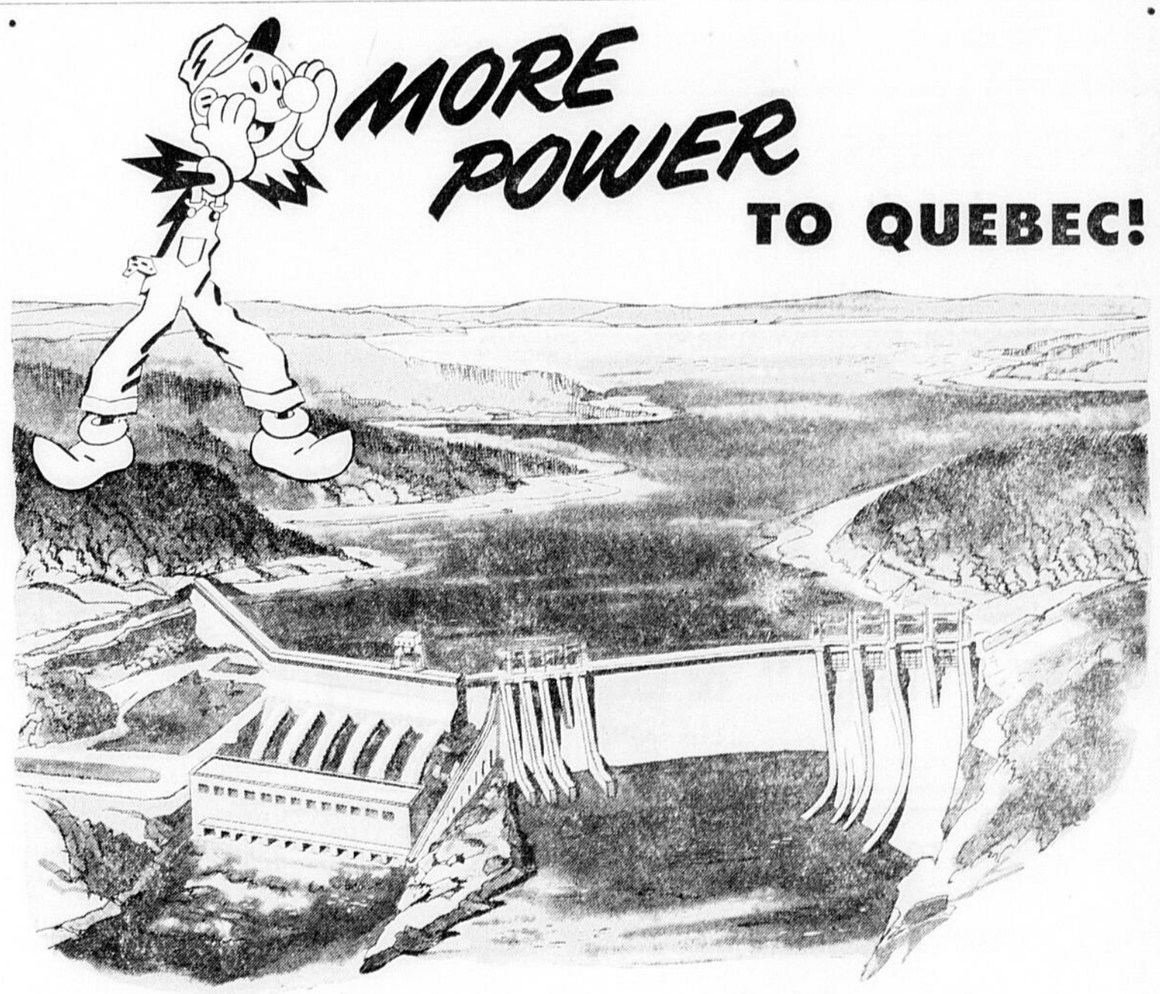
Dr. Derby stated that the overall demand for dairy products has strengthened during the past season and no doubt has been stimulated by the general rise in economic activity. Evaporated milk and dry whole milk are the only two whole milk concentrated products in which there has been an increase in production during the first 10 months of this year as compared with a year ago. The increased output of these two commodities has been stimulated by both domestic and export demand.

The decrease in consumption of butter, which was evident in 1949, was halted and for the first ten months of this year the disappearance has been 16 million pounds greater than that of the corresponding period last year. The increase in butter consumption, coupled with the decrease in production which has taken place this year, has been instrumental in reducing storage holdings of butter from the comparatively large stocks held on the first of January, 1950. The present stocks of creamery butter coupled with the anticipated production from now until the 1st of May, will be barely sufficient to meet requirements, if the trend in consumption of the past season is maintained throughout the winter months.

Total milk production in Canada, Dr. Derby said, is not keeping pace with the increase in population and increase in per capita consumption of milk and its various products. In 1925 with a population of some nine million people, Canada produced 12.5 billion pounds of milk, 74 per cent of this being used domestically and 26 per cent exported either as fluid milk or manufactured products. With a population of more than 13 million in 1949, Canadian farmers produced 16.7 billion pounds of milk, more than 94 per cent of this going into domestic consumption and about six per cent exported. Had there been no dairy products exported in 1949, this six per cent total milk production would have made approximately 45 million pounds of butter.

ENDS SAILING SEASON

MONTREAL (cp) — When the Canadian Challenger sailed on her 30th voyage to British Guiana, via Bermuda and the West Indies, it marked the end of the 1950 schedule from this port for the Canadian National Steamships.



Thursday, December 14th, marks the official placing into service of the first 65,000 horsepower unit of The Shawinigan Water and Power Company's Trenche Development. By next summer 325,000 horsepower of electrical energy will be available from this great new power plant. Thus Shawinigan continues to assure the Province of an adequate supply of vital hydro-electric power well in advance of requirements.

Designed and now being completed by The Shawinigan Engineering Company, this latest and largest generating station on the St. Maurice River begins operations with its first unit a full seven months ahead of schedule. That this was possible is indeed a tribute to the ability and know-how of the company's engineers and the cooperation of the suppliers.

Thus, more power comes to Quebec—power generated and distributed by Shawinigan to contribute to the economic and industrial growth of the Province and its people.

THAT SECOND VEGETABLE

Canada's Food Rules say that, every day, we should eat certain foods to maintain good health. Under the heading of vegetables we find, "at least one serving of potatoes; and at least two servings of other vegetables, preferably leafy, green or yellow and frequently raw".

During the summer months, when gardens are producing so abundantly, it is easy to follow the rules and have three or even four fresh vegetables every day. As the cool weather advances this problem becomes more difficult. Often the second vegetable may be served as a supper dish with eggs or cheese in it or with cheese as an accompaniment. Sometimes two or three vegetables are mixed and served together to add interest.

The home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture, suggest several ways by which fall and winter vegetables may be dressed up and combined to serve as a special at dinner or for the main hot dish at supper.

Although social and religious help is given throughout the year, the staff tries to do something extra at Christmas. Dinners are given to about forty needy families and about 100 children attend the annual "Christmas Tree". Concentrated Milk May Reduce Prices

After seven years of experimental work, a New York firm (National Dairy Products Corporation) has produced a concentrated milk which, when mixed with two parts of water, is said to look and taste like ordinary milk. The new product is being marketed on an experimental basis in several U.S. cities.

According to the manufacturers, the milk should eventually sell at a lower price than ordinary milk due to the reduced cost of transporting containers which hold the same amount of milk — minus most of its water.

A quart of whole milk, when reconstituted from concentrated milk by mixing two parts of water is said to have the same nutritive value as one quart of conventional pasteurized homogenized milk of the same fat content and composition. When mixed with equal parts of water it becomes an extra rich cereal milk. When used at full strength it is rich, full-bodied and flavorful in coffee or tea.

It's All in the Point of View

The other day, a friend, whose business it is to collect odd facts, told us one we didn't believe. We changed our mind some time later when we came across the same fact in a booklet published by Montreal Trust Company, called "Forethought." After all, if you can't trust a trust company who can you trust?

According to both our friend and the Montreal Trust, in India it is a delicate compliment to tell a beautiful lady that she is "as graceful as an elephant." We have often heard tales of the inscrutable East and how different it is from the more prosaic West but it appears that the East is more inscrutable than we thought, particularly the female section of it. We haven't had the courage to try it, but our experience with Canadian ladies is sufficient to tell us that an elephant is something which should never be compared with a lady, within earshot of the lady, beautiful or not. Apparently, Indian ladies are much impressed with the smooth gait of the pachyderm. Their Canadian sisters are more concerned with Jumbo's girth. As we said before, it's all in the point of view.—Northern News.

"Pickling" in Plastics

A new method of "pickling" portions of animals in plastics for anatomical studies has been introduced at the Ontario Veterinary College, Guelph, by Dr. Victor Brown. In studying the circulatory system of a horse's kidney, colored plastic is pumped through the kidney's blood stream and left to harden. The surrounding tissue is then dissolved away, leaving the circulatory system intact. It is then imbedded in a clear "Lucite" plastic block with every detail permanently preserved. The doctor's biggest project was the preservation of a horse's head in 40 plasticized cross sections.

SOUNDS LOGICAL

"Well, you know, your Worship," said the prisoner, "quite often a fellow wants to tighten a nut."

Chateaugay, N.Y., Plans Busy Pre-Christmas Week

by JULIA HARRICA

CHATEAUGAY, N.Y. — Weather that bids fair to offer a "White Christmas" for this vicinity greeted local residents on Monday, Dec. 11. Deep snow covered the ground and roads that were bare on Sunday required snow plows to clear the way for vehicles, while pedestrians found sidewalks deeply covered. The sun was obscured all day and toward late afternoon a dense fog settled down limiting visibility to a few yards. To one walking home in the early evening the scene was decidedly eerie as the fog dimmed the street lights and gave one the effect of being alone in a strange, new world. There was no wind however and the temperature was moderate. Tuesday the temperature was lower and it looked as if winter had really arrived.

The young folks were excitedly discussing plans for sleigh rides and all were loudly hoping that winter sports might soon begin. During the week of December 10, local groups scheduled special Christmas programs. Tuesday the members of Court St. Helen, C.D. of A. had a covered dish supper and a social hour, with the exchange of gifts Wednesday the Chateaugay Grange had a party in the Grange Hall and gifts were exchanged. Thursday two groups will meet to celebrate the season. The Home Bureau will hold a turkey supper at the home of Mrs. Lillian Rose. and following this the guests will join in group singing of carols and folk songs, under the leadership of Mrs. Rose. A silver collection will be taken up, which sum will be used as part of the contribution being made by the Home Bureau to the Chateaugay Community Council Fund. Also on Thursday, the Gay Unit of the Home Bureau will enjoy a dinner at Soda Land, and the members will later go to the home of Mrs. Stella Godfrey for an evening of fun. Friday the Eastern Star will hold the Annual Meeting of officers, and a short Christmas program. Light refreshments will be served and at this time the Worthy Matron, Mrs. Mabel Irwin, will present gifts to the officers who gave her such fine support during the year.

The big event for the children will be the coming of Santa Claus, who is due to arrive in town by snowmobile at 3 o'clock on Friday, Dec. 15. This vehicle will bring Santa Claus himself to town, and he will be accompanied by an elf and other helpers. Santa Claus will distribute gifts to all the children and will make recordings of the children's Christmas wants. These recordings will later be broadcast over Station WEAV, Plattsburg. This holiday feature is being managed by the Chateaugay Chamber of Commerce and is sponsored by the Chateaugay Community Council. Other plans call for the distribution of baskets to needy families so that every family may be able to celebrate Christmas happily in its own home. Individuals are being urged to offer contributions to the Christmas Fund to supplement the money available through the donations made by local organizations to the Chateaugay Community Council Fund. Arthur Hammond is treasurer of the Christmas Party Fund and Henry McArdle is chairman of this project.

The community Christmas Tree, erected before the Town Hall by the local firemen, will be lighted at 8 o'clock on Saturday evening, Dec. 16. Carolers will present a program of Christmas music at this time, under the direction of Mrs. Julia Hammond. The carolers will consist of the high school glee club, and of another group which has been holding rehearsals recently to prepare for this event. This group is made up of adults who will sing folk songs as well as carols. During the following week the carolers will sing at various times and will visit the homes of "shut-ins", to allow these people to join in the season's festivities.

Already the village is gaily decorated as business places are beautifully ornamented and resplendent with merchandise to tempt shoppers who are seeking the right gift for someone on Christmas Day. Later the gaily lighted tree and colored lights in the streets will add to the happy atmosphere. During the week of Dec. 17 Christmas hymns will be broadcast through the town from the belfry of St. Patrick's Church, with Miss Catherine Doige playing the chimes.

The Meeting of the J.C.C.

On Tuesday evening the J.C.C. held their regular meeting at the Legion Hall, with a good attendance.

It was brought to the attention of the members that the Town Council would be in a better position to have the municipal rules observed if a charter could be obtained and new amendments made. Especially the traffic problem for which the council has to use the old amendments dating back to 1870. In such a case the J.C.C. as a group believe that a chart should be obtained, there may be some expense but this could be reinbursed in a very short time.

The date of the ice carnival will be announced a little later and the party for ladies will take place early in January. Mr. Don Moore said that the Band will soon need some financing and good results have been obtained from the few rehearsals up to date so the group must be encouraged. A donation of $50.00 was voted.

Mr. Pilon, of Valleyfield, accompanied by the President of the Region for the J.C.C. Mr. Meunier, were at the meeting as guests and the members were pleased to see a film in which a large part was on the 125th anniversary.

Rockburn

ROCKBURN — On November 28th, there passed on from our midst, in the person of Mrs. Ernest Rennie, one whom we all miss and one who had won the admiration and sympathy of all who knew her through the patience and cheerfulness with which she faced a life of suffering. For twenty-two years she was unable to walk because of the crippling effects of that dread disease—rheumatism. But she was cared for devotedly by her husband and children to the last. Born in Liverpool, England, she came here a little girl, and made her home, until marriage, with Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Henderson. And when she left here the community was her friend. Mrs. Rennie left four daughters. Mrs. Allen Taylor of Schenectady, Mrs. Allan Elliot of Brooklet, Mrs. Margaret Hunter and Mrs. Harold Douglas of Huntingdon, and two sons Mr. Bruce Rennie of Rockburn and Mr. Raymond Rennie of Huntingdon.

The funeral was conducted by Rev. R. D. MacLean and was private. Pall bearers were Messrs. A. Douglas, G. N. Lindsay, J. Sloan, Rod. Arthur, Bert Rennie and J. Oliver. Interment was in Hillside Cemetery, on Thursday.

Father A. Pigeon...

dian soldiers are buried. There are 982 Canadians buried there and the cemetery is well kept and looked after. Here the party offered prayers and sang. A large number of beautiful flowers had been placed on graves in the cemetery by the Hotel Keepers Association of Canada.

Throughout the travels in England, Belgium, France and Italy, Father Pigeon saw much war damage and states that no one has any conception of what war really means to a country until they have seen the damage and desolation and heard the stories of the people. It must be remembered that the Germans bombed these countries and then they were subjected to further bombing when the allied forces went in to force the Germans out. Main targets were railway stations and public utilities and such like. Some repair work has been done, but the scars are still numerous.

The party headed for Paris and this was the headquarters for a few days. On one day they went to Lille and to St. Marlow. They then journeyed to Marseille and spent three days at Nice and other coastal resorts. Father Pigeon states this country is most beautiful and caters especially to tourists. He went to Monte Carlo and saw the Casino there.

After a few days the group moved on to Genoa, Italy, and here saw the largest cemetery in the world. It is laid out in a very artistic manner, hundreds of acres in size and there are many beautiful monuments. From here they went on to Rome, Italy and spent three days. During those three days they witnessed the great celebration of the Blessed Virgin Mary, on November 1st. After the three days they went on to Venice, that beautiful city of canals, instead of streets. There are no cars in Venice, it is all canals and has 400 bridges, travel to different parts of the city is done by boats. There is a sidewalk about a foot above the water on either side of the street which is a canal and you can cross from one side to the other by means of the numerous bridges. It is very beautiful however.

Florence was the next stop and here they visited the military cemetery known as the British Empire Cemetery, where 1560 soldiers from various parts of the British Commonwealth are buried. There are also 40 Canadians buried in a special section. It was November 6th when the party reached here and the flowers were very beautiful. Before leaving Huntingdon, Mrs. H. J. Cosgrove had given Father Pigeon particulars of the grave where her husband was buried, and he asked for this grave and visited it in the special Canadian section of this cemetery. He said it is well kept and has a tombstone marking it. The inscription on it reads as follows:

"We are proud of you Daddy, we love you and need you— Your two little boys and Mummie"

The flowers here were very beautiful and all the graves have tombstones to mark them and each have inscriptions. Father Pigeon said he was glad to have seen this particular grave and it brought back memories that he can never cast aside.

From Florence the group moved on to Naples and to Pompei and to the Isle of Capri. They spent two days at the Isle of Capri and were enraptured with the beauty of the place. It was November 9th, but it was quite warm.

The tour then turned back to Rome, where a further ten days was spent. On November 12th another great celebration was held in honor of the foundress of the Order of the Sisters of Notre Dame, which is the Order of the Sisters here in Huntingdon. The foundress was Marguerite Bourgeois. While in Rome Father Pigeon was received twice by His Holiness Pope Pius XII. Once was with a group of 1,000 Canadians and the second time a group of 300 attended while the ceremony of Marguerite Bourgeios was taking place.

The group left Rome and went to Milan where they stayed for one day and then on to Switzerland. Here they stayed at Montreux and visited Geneva. Montreux is a very beautiful place built on a round lake surrounded by mountains. It is a winter and summer holiday resort. The buildings of the town are built up the side of the mountain at different levels. The buildings start at the bottom and then at levels of about 200 feet up the mountains other buildings are placed, at the top is a very large hotel. People have to climb up steps to these various levels or go by bus up the roads that lead to them. At night when all is lit up it is a most beautiful panorama of color which reflects into the water of the lake below. Father Pigeon thinks this is one of the most beautiful places he has seen.

Back to Paris again and enroute passing through Lyon. While in Paris the group visited Troyes, the birthplace of Marguerite Bourgeios, and were officially welcomed by city officials. Paris was left behind finally and the group arrrived at Cherbourg for the voyage back home. They left Cherbourg on a Friday and arrived in New York on Wednesday morning, December 6th, spent the afternoon in that American city and Father Pigeon arrived home in Huntingdon, on Thursday, December 7th.

This is the first trip of this kind that Father Pigeon has ever taken and he was thrilled with every minute of it. He says he has often heard of these places and now he has actually seen them and knows what they are like. He would have liked to have had more time in some of the places so that he could have learned more about them, but he is well satisfied.

Ormstown

W.C.T.U. Meeting

ORMSTOWN — The December meeting of the Ormstown W.C.T.U. met with Mrs. Harold Parkinson on Thursday, Dec. 7th. Though not a very pleasant day, sixteen members responded to their names. The president, Mrs. English, suggested that as Rev. W. T. Payne was to bring us a message later, we reverse our usual order and take up the business first.

As the News Letter of the Quebec Temperance League contained some interesting item it was discussed. The Argenteuil Protestant Ministerial Association appointed Rev. W. H. Britton of Lachute as their official representative on the Executive of the Quebec Temperance League. The appointment of Rev. John Linton, M.A., of Toronto as General Secretary of the Canadian Temperance Federation, in succession to Rev. John Coburn, D.D. He will take office at the New Year.

A problem of serious proportions has been launched with the news that American Air Lines, a major transcontinental operator, is going to ask for licenses from the States over which it flies to serve liquor on its flights.

Are the airlines going to take on a heavier problem by inviting liquor on board? It is well known that the effects of a single glass of liquor are doubled when taken at high altitudes.

The Baptists Federation of Canada at its recent meeting in Toronto called on its members to abstain from the consumption of liquor and asked that a Royal Commission be established to enquire into Canadian liquor industry.

The visiting committee reported 20 calls made. The two Christmas parcels sent to England were acknowledged with real appreciation.

Several members with Mrs. Parkinson put on a Clip Sheet exercise, stressing a number of temperance facts.

Rev. W. T. Payne gave a very thoughtful and helpful talk from the 1st chapter of John. Andrew, after some hours with the Saviour, sought his brother Simon, saying we have found the Messias. Andrew was the Saviour's first convert. Simon was Andrew's first convert. So must the work go on. Our missionaries do not stay at home and try to convert, they go out among the people they wish to reach. Mr. Payne suggested that so must our temperance work be made effective.

Mrs. Parkinson served a delicious tea and all enjoyed a pleasant social hour.

Hemmingford

The monthly meeting of the Hemmingford W.I. was held on Wednesday, Dec. 6th, at the home of Mrs. Ernest Moore, "Sadie's Dream House." It is a delightful meeting-place for the Christmas meeting. Items of interest, art, or of great attraction caught the eye from the minute one stepped inside the porch. A Christmas decoration, a frilly white curtain, beamed ceilings, carpeted staircase, and a "What-not" of great beauty are a few of these.

The President, Mrs. J. P. Simpson, observed a moment of silent prayer for Peace. Business touched on a report of the Card Party by Mrs. E. S. Cunningham, Convener of the Finance Committee. A cheque for $150.00 was given to the Ormstown Hospital at the opening on Saturday, Dec. 2nd. This is part of our promised amount which will equip a 'station for nurses' on the second floor. It was decided to have a Minstrel Show in the spring to augment our finances for the benefit of the Hospital, providing we can persuade Mr. C. E. Petch to give his co-operative services.

Mrs. Ernest Merlin gave a very instructive demonstration on decorative flowers and leaves for Xmas. Mrs. Merlin offered a pot of her poinsettias for sale. The proceeds from chances at guessing the number of beans in a can amounted to $4.90. This money goes towards our gift to the Hospital. Mrs. Lynwood Cookman won the decorative plant.

Mrs. Jack Stewart presented a painting of Mrs. Ernest Merlin's to Mrs. Robert Hauver as a farewell gift. Mrs. Stewart expressed our sadness at losing a very good member. Mrs. J. P. Simpson has once again offered to pack the Christmas baskets with the help of Mrs. Wylie, Mrs. Tomlinson and Mrs. Laurie. The roll call was "What's Your Beef?" One outstanding one was that the Christmas seals came too late. Mrs. Tom Clelland thought rightly that we would all have that extra dollar in our purses a little bit earlier. The hostesses who helped Mrs. Moore were Mrs. K. Campbell, H. McAdam, E. Merlin and J. P. Simpson.

PRIDE AND JOY

WINNIPEG, (CP)—Proud parents are Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Peeler, whose daughter, Linda Doreen, was born with a single tooth. Even hospital officials are tickled at the precocity of young Linda.

St. Andrew's Ladies' Aid Meeting

The last meeting of St. Andrew's Ladies' Aid for 1950 was held in the Annex with a good attendance. The annual election of officers was held, also reports from the various committees were given, showing a very successful year.

The group system was followed during the year and each had a glowing report of their activities and the cooperation of the many members.

After meeting the yearly donations to various causes and church commitments, putting a kitchenette in the Annex, the treasury shows an excellent bank balance with plans in the coming year, for overhauling and equipping the basement kitchen to meet the growing need for more space.

Christmas cards are being sent to all sick and shut-in members.

The following officers were elected for 1951:

Pres. Mrs. Cecil Stark; Vice-Pres. Mrs. W. E. S. McNair; Treas. Mrs. John Smaill; Rec.-Sec. Mrs. F. K. Bruce.

All enjoyed the social hour which followed and the delicious refreshments supplied by the hostess, Mrs. W. Hogg and Mrs. H. Bickford, leaving with the feeling that the year was a very profitable one, indeed.

Monthly Meeting of W.I.

Mrs. Clarence Henderson was hostess at the monthly meeting of the Huntingdon Branch of the W.I. held at her home on Tuesday afternoon, Dec. 5th. In keeping with the season, Christmas decorations were seen. A Christmas story was read and Mrs. Douglas MacNaughton won the prize on a quiz about the favourite children's poem "A Visit from St. Nick."

During the business a donation of $3.00 was voted to the T.B. Christmas Seal Fund. After the closing of the meeting a gay little party was held and Christmas gifts exchanged.

St. Andrew's Sunday School Pageant

The Sunday School members of the St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church are to be entertained at a supper served by the Huntingdon Division Ladies' Aid. The Program following the supper consists of a Christmas pageant under the direction of Mrs. Stanley Ruddock and Mrs. Randolph McLean. Costumes for the young participants are being supervised by Mrs. Robert Merson and Mrs. William Baird and the stage settings by Harold Merson. The arrival of Santa Claus and the treat for the children then brings the programme to a close.

Paris Fashions Headed by Wool Jersey.

In Paris, Wool Jersey is taking the spotlight for holiday round-the-clock clothes, informal or dressy, as required. These vary from cobwebby thinness to near-blanket types and mauve, grey and moss or fern green are the popular shades. If carefully chosen and with exactly the right accessories, grey, black and white striped jersey with a black border, worn horizontally for a youthful sweater-topped model, finished with a medium full gathered skirt, gives the perfect interpretation of sweater and dirndl style dress.

As the day advances Jersey adopts a more sophisticated role and the addition of contrasting material increases the dressy effect, but when it comes to after dark designs there is only one colour that really attracts attention. Black.

St. Andrew's Y.W.A.

The regular monthly meeting of St. Andrew's Y.W.A. was held on Tuesday evening, Dec. 5th, at the home of Mrs. Emmett Duheme with a large attendance present. Following the regular meeting, election of officers took place resulting as follows: President, Mrs. Wm. Goodall; Vice-Pres. Mrs. Finlayson Ross; Secretary, Mrs. Allen McDermid; Treas., Mrs. James O'Hare. Welcome and Welfare, Mrs. Kenneth Ferns and Mrs. Randolph MacLean; Supply Secretary, Mrs. Emmett Duheme; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Nelson White.

A vote of thanks was tendered the retiring officers for a very successful year.

The meeting for January will be held at the Manse, with Mrs. R. MacLean and Mrs. Julius Boyd entertaining.

Joint Conference at Y.W.C.A.

Problems of common concern were discussed at a joint conference of the Montreal Council of Women and the Quebec Women's Institutes, held recently at the Y.W.C.A., Montreal. Miss Esther W. Kerry, Montreal, President of the former organization, and Mrs. G. E. LeBaron, North Hatley, 1st vice-president, Q.W.I., with other officers and chairman of similar committees in the two organizations, were present.

Reports were given on progress made on the joint resolutions passed in the early summer: Reciptocal Maintenance Orders and Reforms for Protestant Women's Jail, Montreal; and plans formulated for effective and combined action on other topics relating to legislation and nutrition, which were of interest to both rural and urban women.

Suggestions were made pointing to more active participation by women in matters pertaining to civic government, with a view to securing representation on county and municipal councils. Similar action was also urged for school boards.

This is the second year such a joint conference has been held and Miss Kerry, commenting on the tangible results already achieved by this pooling of ideas, which reflect the viewpoints of both city and country women, stated, "We are only at the beginning of what will grow to be of very real benefit to our province."

Help Your House Plants

Place your poinsettia away from drafts and in room temperature. Too much moisture will cause its leaves to turn yellow and drop off. Spray its leaves daily, being careful not to wet the blossoms, to acquire the regular hot-house temperature.

If kept in a room between 50 to 60 degrees and not given too much sun a cyclamen can be kept in bloom most of the winter. Spray the leaves once each week and place a saucer of water under the plant for one hour each day.

Azaleas need plenty of water, and will soon suffer if allowed to become too dry. A daily spray of leaves and a temperature of 60 to 70 degrees will keep this plant blooming.

Many varieties of begonia bloom this time of year. These should be subject to moisture and not too much water. A daily spray of leaves is usually sufficient. If properly treated a begonia will literally bloom itself to death and provide a cheerful splash of color all winter.

Beauharnois

BEAUHARNOIS — The Ladies' Curling Club held a Bean Supper on Saturday, which was a great success. The team which won the curling spoons with a high plus six, was as follows: Mrs. Andrew Kokko, lead; Master Sydney Currie, second, Mrs. Charles E. Lagden, third, Mr. Donald Currie, skip.

The choir of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church will render a cantata Sunday evening, Dec. 17, at seven o'clock. The choir will be under the direction of Mrs. T. M. Anderson. There will be a Carol Service on Sunday, December 24th, at midnight, in the Church.

Mr. John Paquin, well-known local singer, is now one of the cast at Belleview Cassino, Montreal.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Lagden have returned from a trip to Miami, Fla.

Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Watson visited Mr. and Mrs. W. Watson, Howick, over the week-end.

The Ladies' Curling Club is entertaining out-of-town teams on Wednesday. A Christmas party will be held at the Club on Saturday, Dec. 16th.

The scholars of Beauharnois Intermediate School are putting on an entertainment in the near future.

Mrs. Grange Kingsmill and Mrs. J. Scott were guests of Mrs. J. S. Spencer Wednesday.

The regular monthly meeting of the Evening Auxiliary will be held in the Church Hall on Tuesday evening at eight o'clock. The Women's Missionary Society will meet on Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. W. H. Brown.

The traffic problem in Beauharnois during rush hours (noon and five p.m.) appears to be more serious day by day. There is definite need of better regulation at a number of the main intersections.

THE NEWCOMERS

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Couchon, proprietors of the Normandie Restaurant and Bowling Alley, held a reception on Saturday at the tea hour. Guests included members of the clergy. Rev. Father Pigeon, just returned from his Europeon tour found much of interest to discuss with Rev. Thomas Knowles and Rev. R. D. MacLean and Mrs. MacLean. It was pleasant to meet Rev. George Quenneville and talk about old days when all the children played together at St. Anicet Beach.

Mayor Cappiello and Mrs. Cappiello were much impressed with the spotless kitchen, presided over by Chef Guy Pichette, who comes from Quebec.

Beautiful bouquets of seasonal flowers decorated the counter. The young and charming Couchons were congratulated on the newly decorated premises and the speed in which the renovations were effected. Mrs. Couchon experienced great grief and personal bereavement in the death of her father last week, necessitating hurried trips to Quebec. They are planning to have their two children, boy eight and girl five years, join them for Christmas. Madame Couchon is a catering enthusiast, formerly conducted a summer resort near Quebec, where she personally did the cooking for as many as eighty guests when the chef engaged failed to carry out his contract for the season.

The guests departed with sincere wishes for success in this undertaking for Mr. and Mrs. Couchon. When the Normandie was opened to the public on Sunday it was filled to capacity until a late hour.

FOOD AND CONSEQUENCES:

Talking about food . . . and who doesn't? Bacon and Eggs . . Amazing and intricate grading formulas, plus Brand names give the retailers a chance to brush off determined customers armed with twenty questions or less. Brief survey last week showed bacon in half-pound wrappers from 35 to 43c or 70 to 86c a pound.

Let's take "Mayle Leaf," a so-called standard rindless variety, packaged to show the red and disguise the fat. Two chain stores advertised it in the Star at from 25c to 27c, the half-pound. For the same article local stores asked 35c to 43c the half-pound. On the basis of one pound, an increase from 20c to 36c. For a standard article of food that doesn't have to be even cut or wrapped!

The same mystery surrounds retail prices of ham offered in small communities. Wholesale price of bacon to retailers here seems to be from 25c to 54c, above even the retail price advertised in Montreal, if we take "Maple Leaf" at 25c the half-pound as the basis.

The Meat Merchants claim that protests about this discrepancy from customers who can read the papers are embarrassing and frequent. The M.M.s. just shrug their shoulders and say travellers for the Meat Packers refuse to admit anything is wrong or give concessions. They won't even take such objections to Head Office . . . their jobs would be at stake, etc. The obvious fact is that retailers are more than happy to play along, taking a profit from 40 to 60%. . .

Who sets the retail prices of bacon and ham? Is it the Packers? Are the large retail chains robbing the unprotected victims in smaller towns with the help of retailers and wholesalers, in order to give lower prices in Cities?

One Huntingdon merchant retailer says that certain large Chain advertisers in Montreal are controlling stock-holders in Packing concerns, who also have interlocking directors. Some method of price cutting to large buyers accounts for lower prices in well-advertised Brands in city Chain stores.

Manager of a chain store selling bacon at 37c a half-pound when same product is advertized in Montreal stores of same chain at 27c half-pound said: "We can't meet Montreal prices as transportation adds to the costs." Obviously it doesn't cost twenty cents a pound to transport bacon from Montreal to Huntingdon.

With export price of bacon at 29c a pound, even the advertised 50c a pound retail, by chain stores in Montreal seems like enough to ask the customer.

For the sake of ordinary justice and information the matter of Canadian retail price spreads in cured meats, eggs, sausage, fish, and what used to be procurable as "cheaper cuts of meat", is a matter for investigation by the Combines Investigation Commission — if we still have one.

Everyone has twenty questions? Who has the answers?

1. Are the helpless consumers outside the radius of powerful chain groceries being victimized with the connivance of Government, packers and retailers? The total take must be enormous.

2. Is the split of the packers used as a secret subsidy for lower export price?

At some point there must be an intolerable swindle and consumers in the position of sheep, fit only to be sheared.

Bitter comment of one disgusted housekeeper . . . "My arm is twisted out of joint through the well organized competition . . . to keep prices UP in Huntingdon." Several others frankly admit that they shop regularly in Montreal, Athelstan, Cazaville, Ormstown, Cornwall and general direction of the river Trout. A combination of business, pleasure and sheer revenge.

How and When to Move Established Trees

OTTAWA, November 28, 1950,— Home owners in town or country frequently have need to replant established trees. These may be growing in an unsuitable location, or the shelter belt has become too crowded and some thinning-out is required. Sometimes there may be an opportunity to obtain well grown trees from a nearby commercial nursery or they may be available in a native grove. Whatever the reason for transplanting established trees, there are obvious advantages in making use of trees that have made reasonable development and growth, but to obtain best results great care should be taken in the lifting and replanting operations, says John Walker, Superintendent of the Forestry Nursery Station at Indian Head, Sask.

The roots should be disturbed or injured as little as possible. This will mean digging a trench around each tree at a radius of one and one-half feet or more from the trunk. This trench must be deepened and extended underneath the tree so that the majority of strong roots may be severed to a depth of about one and one-half feet depending on the nature of the root system.

After the trenching is finished strong burlap or sacking of sufficient size to completely envelop the ball of soil around the roots may be laid into the trench at one side. The burlap should be neatly folded to permit easy spreading out under the tree. This burlap will also prevent the roots drying out.

The tree and ball of soil should then be gently eased on to the burlap; at the same time unsevered roots should be cut with a sharp spade from the opposite side — a two-man job! The next step is to fold and tie the burlap securely around the ball of soil in readiness for transporting the tree to its new location. If planted in a hole of sufficient size to readily accommodate the roots, and the site is favourable in every respect, the operation should be successful in a majority of cases.

After being transplanted in the manner described, and some loose soil has been packed around the ball of soil, the roots of the tree should be thoroughly watered by pouring from one-half to one pailful of water around the roots of each. Filling in of the holes may then follow.

Trees may be transplanted in early winter or early spring. Moving trees in early winter may best be delayed until the ground is sufficiently frozen to permit lifting a frozen ball of soil around the roots. In such cases digging may be partially completed before the ground freezes and the final task of lifting postponed until the ground is actually frozen.

If it is decided to transplant established trees in early spring the operation should be done as soon as frost is out of the ground. As already stated, the roots should be disturbed as little as possible but soil cannot be retained around the roots to the same extent as when the ball of soil is frozen.

When moving trees from native groves or woods, those growing in high land or in soil similar to that into which they are to be transplanted should be selected, rather than easily-pulled-up trees from swampy areas. It may also be advisable to prune back some of the outermost and uppermost branches of broadleaf trees. Tall trees may also need to be supported for a year or two by stakes or guy wires to keep them upright.

The basement was tastefully decorated for the occasion and everything possible was done for the enjoyment of the young folks.

These Are Busy Days — but isn't it fun that Christmas is just around the corner? Families will be getting together, talking and laughing, and of course, eating. For special family occasions, I like to have a gaily decorated cake, exquisitely tender and delicious as SWANS DOWN CAKE FLOUR always makes cake. Swans Down is specially made for "dress-up" cakes — it's sifted and resifted until 27 times as fine as ordinary flour. If you'd like some wonderful cake recipes, send for the 80-page book "Learn to Bake, You'll Love It." It's colour illustrated and chock-full of helpful baking hints. Mail your request for a copy, along with your name and address and 20c in coins to Swans Down, Department K, Cobourg, Ontario.

There's A Man thinking of you these busy Christmas shopping days. And he's ready to help you save time and money on meal preparation. That's the Heinz "Chef"! He can help you save hours at the stove, not to mention work 'n' worry! Just remember to "stock up" a little ahead of time on these luscious 7 *HEINZ MAIN COURSE MEALS ... four kinds of Oven-Baked Beans — two kinds of Cooked Spaghetti, and Heinz Cooked Macaroni in Cream Sauce with Cheese. How grand to be able to shop more leisurely, with no feeling of "meal-getting rush"! All you have to do with these seven "flavourites" is heat any one of them — and serve! You know they're good because they're Heinz!

"Ohs" And "Ahs" will echo through your home on Christmas morning if the "family" gift is a FRIGIDAIRE REFRIGERATOR! Think what you give wife or mother when you give a Frigidaire, whether you choose a Standard, Master, or De Luxe Cold-Wall model! She gets really safe cold from top to bottom. Extra large freezing compartments for frozen foods. Those Double-Easy Quickube Ice Trays. Sturdy, one-piece steel cabinet. Beautiful Raymond Loewy styling. And oh so many other things a woman wants! Every model is powered by the famous Meter-Miser. And every genuine Frigidaire is made by General Motors. There's not a minute to lose. See your Frigidaire Dealer today.

*Heinz will soon introduce Cooked Macaroni in Tomato Sauce with Cheese.

Bothered About Christmas Gifts For "Small Fry"? I was, too ... then I discovered BANK OF MONTREAL Christmas Savings Accounts. They're the perfect answer to a doting aunt's prayer ... so practical and yet so "Christmassy", with the gaily-decorated passbook covers and presentation cards. And you can start an account with as little as one dollar! I just know my nieces and nephews are going to be thrilled to have a bank account of their very own right off the Christmas tree. So, write "B of M Christmas Savings Account" against the names of some of the special youngsters on your list ... then make a convenient branch of the B of M the first stop on your Christmas shopping expedition.

When The Thermometer drops 'way down, there's nothing more warming — nothing cheerier than a really good cup of coffee! And there's no coffee you'll enjoy more than RED ROSE COFFEE! It's a coffee I heartily recommend to you, for it's a quality coffee so good it almost makes itself! No matter how hurried you may be when you're making it, it always tastes just right, I find. So, anytime, when it's "Coffee time" — serve Red Rose Coffee for real flavour satisfaction. And you'll find the same good taste in Red Rose Tea. They both maintain the same high standard.

KNOBBY FRUIT LOAVES

● Scald 1½ c. milk, ⅔ c. granulated sugar, 2 tsps. salt and ½ c. shortening; cool to lukewarm. Meanwhile, measure into a large bowl 2⅔ c. lukewarm water, 3 tsps. granulated sugar; stir until sugar is dissolved. Sprinkle with 3 envelopes Fleischmann's Royal Fast Rising Dry Yeast. Let stand 10 minutes, THEN stir well.

Add lukewarm milk mixture and stir in 2 well-beaten eggs, ½ c. maraschino cherry syrup and 1 tsp. almond extract. Stir in 4 c. once-sifted bread flour; beat until smooth. Work in 2 c. seedless raisins, 1 c. currants, 1 c. chopped candied peels, 1 c. sliced maraschino cherries and 1 c. broken walnuts. Work in 3⅔ c. (about) once-sifted bread flour. Knead on lightly-floured board until smooth and elastic. Place in greased bowl and grease top of dough. Cover and set in a warm place, free from draught. Let rise until doubled in bulk. Punch down dough, turn out on lightly-floured board and divide into 4 equal portions; cut each portion into 20 equal-sized pieces; knead each piece into a smooth round ball. Arrange 10 small balls in each of 4 greased loaf pans (4½" x 8½") and grease tops. Arrange remaining balls on top of those in pans and grease tops. Cover and let rise until doubled in bulk. Bake in moderate oven, 350°, about 1 hour, covering with brown paper after first ½ hour. Spread cold loaves with icing. Yield—4 loaves. Note: The 4 portions of dough may be shaped into loaves to fit pans, instead of being divided into the small pieces that produce knobby loaves.

New Office Building For Jersey Club Under Construction

The new office building of the Canadian Jersey Cattle Club is now under construction in north Toronto.

The cornerstone has been laid by the President, Mr. A. E. Dumvill of Sardis, B.C., in the presence of a large gathering of Jersey enthusiasts.

This building will be completely financed by donations from Jersey breeders across Canada and will cost $50,000.00 when completed.

This is the first time a breed association in Canada has built its own office.

It is expected that the building will be ready for occupancy by April 1st of next year and it will fill a much needed place in the activities of Canadian Jersey breeders.

SAYS WOOLLEN AND KNIT GOODS INDUSTRY MUST BE KEPT READY AT ALL TIMES

An industry must be kept economically vigorous at all times in order to be effective in an emergency, Harold G. Smith, O.B.E., of Hamilton, retiring president, told the 28th annual meeting of the Canadian Woollen and Knit Goods Manufacturers Association in Ottawa recently. Responsibility for preparedness should be shared by government and producers alike, he said.

Mr. Smith stressed his industry's readiness to swing into action immediately it were needed in a crisis, but warned that "the effectiveness of any action would be in direct ratio to the economic health of our industry at that particular moment." He went on to show how the industry would prove inadequate if allowed to return to the position it held in the Canadian market six months ago.

The 567 primary textiles plants in 229 communities that comprise the woollen and knit goods industry were severly hit by imports from low-wage countries at a time when consumer demand here was levelling off, Mr. Smith said. "This situation was reflected by a drop in employment of 5,000 or 11% between August 1, 1948 and August 1, 1950."

The president summarized his remarks by saying: "Conditions have improved a little in recent months, but so long as wages here are among the highest in the world and tariffs the lowest, the danger of a shrinking home industry will continue to exist. So long as there are recognizable differences in wage costs and standards of living between industries in Canada and industries in other countries, so long will tariffs be required reasonably to equalize the effect of these differences.

"Should this industry be allowed to slip back to a minor position in supplying Canada's market, as it was six months ago, it would prove inadequate in a crisis, no matter how willing. Wars today are all-out affairs with little time to plan and muster industrial capacity. Our mills, partially demobilized by imports, could then not supply all Canadian civilian and military demand and, even if time allowed, there would be rationing, emergency substitutions and unnecessary delay and confusion."

"Please Pass the Cheese"

Most Canadian housewives are busy planning the Christmas dinner. There will be the inevitable roast turkey, cranberry sauce, plum pudding, fruit cake, nuts and other delicacies. But one food often overlooked and which should occupy an honored place on the festive table, is — cheese.

Among the most plentiful and nutritious foods in the country, cheese is rarely displayed prominently in our daily menu. According to government statistics, we use less than five pounds of cheese per person annually. Compare this to the annual per capita consumption in some European countries: Switzerland—20 pounds per capita; the Netherlands—15 pounds; France—16 pounds.

In Great Britain, cheese consumption is almost double ours despite the fact that the British depend largely on imports for their supply. During World War II, cheese was high on the "must" list of food recommendations since it contains more food value per pound than any other food.

Nutritionally speaking, cheese contains nearly all the fat, casein, calcium and Vitamin "A" and part of the milk-sugar and salt content, of the milk from which it is made. From Biblical records, it learned that cheese was the "iron ration" of early history. It was a staple diet among the Greeks and Romans 1,000 years before the dawn of Christianity. The Jews and Romans recognized its strength-giving properties and fed it to their armies because of its convenient concentrated form. The Greeks gave it to their wrestlers to build up endurance.

Canadians can well emulate the ancients by eating more cheese. There's a variety for every taste, made by our own cheesemakers. Make the phrase "please pass the cheese" a daily habit.

C.V.T.A. Meeting In Ormstown

A regular meeting of the Chateauguay Valley Teachers' Association was held in the Ormstown School, on Thursday, November 30, with approximately thirty members present. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved. Mr. Upton, one of the official delegates to the P.A.P.T., gave a short report of their last meeting. He mentioned a booklet that is being prepared, "Recruiting Teachers of the Veteran Type". Dr. Percival reported at that meeting that there is an increase in the number of people taking Teachers' Courses. A special Delegates' Conference was held on December 9. The main topic of the meeting was "Salary Campaign".

Mr. Upton gave a very full report of the Inter-School Track Meet held at Ormstown in October. Approximately $65. was spent on this meet. The expenses included a "Shield" for the school having the most points, an individual cup to the boy and girl in junior, intermediate and senior events with the most points, ribbons to first, second and third in each event, and light refreshments for all when the meet was over. The money realized from the two Inter-School Concerts held last spring, was used to sponsor this event.

Funds for transportation of teachers from outlying areas to regular meetings and other expenses was discussed and it was decided to raise the membership fee and thus meet these expenses.

After a delicious supper which was served by the staff of the Ormstown High School, Miss G. Getty, as chairman of the Local Salary Scale Committee, reported to the group on the findings of her committee. It was very interesting to note the differences in the average salaries in both larger and smaller schools in this area. A further survey is to be made to see how our averages compare with those in other sections of the province.

Canadian Apples May Find Market in Belgium

The market in Belgium for Canadian apples is dependent upon its import licensing policy. At present, import licenses are not granted until the domestic crop has been consumed. With the 1950 apple crop estimated at 300,000 metric tons, or double the normal yield of 150,000 tons, it is not yet possible to gauge the market possibilities for Canadian apples for the 1950-51 season.

The "Delicious", "McIntosh Red" and "Rome Beauty" varieties from British Columbia are remembered favourably in the Antwerp trade, although it is many years since they were brought in.

Nova Scotian apples are well known in Belgium and, providing they are competitive in price and shipped in boxes, importers will be glad to receive quotations. Sales will depend on the granting of import licences and American competition. The trade anticipates that licences will be issued in the latter part of January or February.

Large Belgian imports of apples from the United States have been assisted by Marshall Plan funds and by subsidies granted to growers and exporters under United States Government auspices. The subsidies have amounted to as much as 50 per cent of the f.o.b. cost.

ment decrease and its level of productivity decline. In conjunction with the decrease in productivity comes more taxation, more compulsion, more restrictions, and more deficits from publicly-owned and operated industries.

Let us not forget that such a road can have other disastrous results. Experience has proven that Socialism is the forerunner of Communism. To date no country has adopted Communism without first adopting Socialism. If the staggering burden of cost is not sufficient to show us that this is not the road for us, surely the threat of Communism should be enough to make us pause and remember that we have a stake in the Canadian way of life.

We in Quebec believe that we have a country with a tremendous future. In no other part of this world is there greater opportunity offered to the citizens of any province or country. But, at the same time, we realize that the development of our democratic way of life.

It is our firm belief that the interests of the individual members of our society can best be served by strict adherence to a system based on free enterprise. Our National Union Government believes in "Social Legislation" without the adoption of "Socialism". It has given ample proof to this statement since it first came to power in 1936.

In the field of agriculture it has given assistance by making cheap money available in the form of farm loans. Each loan is based on the productivity of the farm that is offered as collateral. There is no suggestion of a "handout"; there is no suggestion of a gift. It is a business transaction on a business-like basis, and it is, in my opinion, an excellent example of one ideal way in which a government, committed to the system of free enterprise, can aid one class of its people without recourse to socialization.

In the same department we note a program of improvement to farm land by making better drainage possible. This is done partly by grant with the balance being paid by the farmer. In other words, we are giving a certain amount of direct aid to free enterprise, and, at the same time, we permit that free enterprise to remain free.

The tremendous expansion that is at present taking place in the industry of this Province has been made possible and will continue only under the system of free enterprise. It has been and is today the policy of this National Union Government to encourage this expansion by a measure of direct assistance and by sound legislation which permits industry to progress. It is our firm conviction that this is the only sane and safe way to guide the industrial government of this Province.

In every department of government our course has been the same, the results are beginning to show. Believe it or not, there is an industrial revolution going on in this Province at the present time. The next few years will amply justify the course that our National Union Government is following.

It would be entirely useless to develop our agriculture, our natural resources, and our industry if we did not develop the natural talents of our people at the same time.

This development is taking place in the fields of education. The construction of more and better schools is progressing faster today than at any time in the history of this Province. In addition to schools for elementary and secondary education we are making available to the youth of this Province a large number of specialized schools in which arts, crafts, and handwork are being taught. There is no regimentation of our students. Their choice of subjects is wide. They may choose the career they want. Once they have chosen this career they may confidently count on direct government aid in its attainment.

This is the task to which Prime Minister Duplessis and the members of his National Union Government are committed. We know full well that our Province can attain its destiny under this system alone. There must be freedom for the individual to work out his own destiny within the framework of the law. You cannot replace normal human initiative by substituting government "handouts". You cannot replace normal human ambition by regimentation, by compulsion, by restrictions, and bureaucracy. The path of statism would be the high-road to folly and destruction.

There is a sense of dignity in human initiative; there is a sense of dignity in individual ambition; there is a scene of dignity in legitimate desire for accomplishment. There is pride in achievement.

The function of government is to aid this spirit of development. That is what our National Union Government is doing. That is what our National Union Government will continue to do because it knows we stand committed to the Canadian way of life. We know full well that our National development must be the sum total of our individual developments. Nature's law is unchanging and unchangeable. "In the sweat of thy face thou shalt eat bread." In other words: "You cannot get something for nothing."

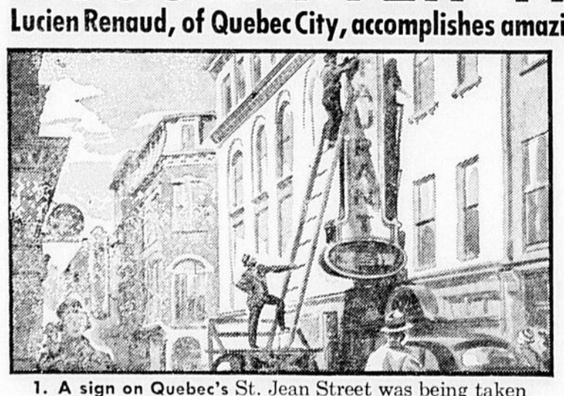
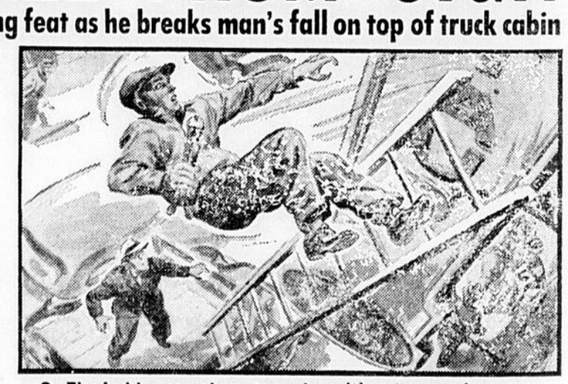
COURAGEOUS WORKER CATCHES BOSS AFTER FALL FROM SIGN

Lucien Renaud, of Quebec City, accomplishes amazing feat as he breaks man's fall on top of truck cabin



1. A sign on Quebec's St. Jean Street was being taken down for repair. Superintendent Wallace Hanson was at the top of a ladder about 30 feet from the ground. Lucien Renaud was at the foot of the ladder on a platform above the cabin of their truck. The men were not new to their job, but an accident can happen even to experts. And happen it did — suddenly!



2. The ladder somehow turned without warning — causing Mr. Hanson to lose his footing at the top. Although he instinctively clutched for something to hang onto, his hands grasped nothing but air . . . and he hurtled down head first, still holding a pair of heavy 24-inch pliers in one hand. At the bottom of the ladder Lucien Renaud had a fraction of a second in which to decide what his course of action would be.

3. Renaud resolved to save the man's life if he could possibly do so. Bracing himself for the impact, he circled his arms and caught Mr. Hanson, pressing him to his chest to break the fall. Although the pliers struck his head, causing a 4-inch gash, brave Lucien Renaud didn't lose his hold. He had saved Wallace Hanson from serious injury and possibly from death. We are proud to present him with The Dow Award.

Feathers For Feed

The use of feathers as a feed supplement for poultry is being experimented with at the western regional research laboratory of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, Albany, California. According to the research workers, feathers are high in arginine, one of the amino acids considered essential for the feeding of poultry. In the same laboratory processed feathers are being tested as a conditioning agent in mixed organic fertilizers, in the preparation of plaster retarders and the manufacture of plastic articles.

The process consists of a cooker, drier and grinder. Feathers are cooked under pressure in saturated steam at a temperature of 287 to 307 degrees F. To obtain uniform heating, the feathers are agitated during cooking.

After cooking for 30 to 60 minutes, the steam is exhausted and the feathers transferred to drying equipment where the moisture content is reduced to eight to 10 per cent. The dry, friable material is then easily ground to produce a meal or powder suitable for packaging in such containers as multi-wall paper bags.

Thousands of tons of feathers go to waste each year in Canada, because no suitable method has been devised to process them economically. In fact, the cost of disposing of feathers has been a costly problem for many packers of fresh and frozen poultry.

Knowledge of Both Languages Needed

News from all over Quebec tells us how our people urgently feel the need for studying English, which study is facilitated by the free night courses initiated by the provincial government. One hundred have enrolled in cases where 20 were expected. It is evident that French-speaking citizens, particularly younger ones who figure on starting business careers, understand the advantages of bilingualism fully and wish to benefit from it, more so perhaps because the courses cost next to nothing. In business as well as in professional work, the person with a good command of both languages is better equipped to succeed.

Topic - "Security For Farm Labour"

Farm Workers Should Have Workmen's Compensation

A very pleasant evening was spent last Monday, Dec. 11th, when the Beaver Farm Forum group met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Sutherland with an attendance of 26 members.

A lively discussion went on. 1st What are the most important things for a farmer to keep in mind if he wants to get and keep good hired help? 2nd Farm workers in many countries have their own unions. Do you think it would be a good thing for farm workers in Canada to unionize? Give reasons for your answer.

Regular hours, reasonable wages, good meals or a good house to live in, are quite important things for a farmer to remember if he has a good hired man that he wants to keep.

Most of our farmers around here, have their own help, so they don't think much of the union. A few were for the union. Although they all agreed that farm workers should have Workmen's compensation in case of accident or sickness.

Cards were played after which, Mr. and Mrs. Sutherland assisted by Mrs. Myrtle Sutherland served delicious refreshments. Mr. and Mrs. Lisle Watterson will entertain the group on January 8th. Next Monday December 18th, being the 4th night, the Forums will meet in the Huntingdon High School. Everybody is welcome.
