PORT HOPE MAN KILLS DAUGHTER AS SHE SLEEPS

Member of the Salvation Army Becomes Mentally Deranged

Special to The Montreal Star.

PORT HOPE, Ont., July 26.—Edward James Tait took the life of his youngest daughter, Elsie Maude, by cutting her jugular vein with an axe while she was in bed sleeping about eight o'clock this morning. The little girl was twelve years of age.

Tait is a brick maker and an active member of the local corps of the Salvation Army. Last evening he bore public testimony, but spoke briefer than is his custom. He appeared to be in normal condition, but the murder was committed by him and he chopped the head off at once.

The sight of the blood seemed to affect him, and he ran to the bedroom of his sleeping child and committed the terrible deed. He is forty-six years of age, was thrifty and industrious and much respected.

SUDDENLY DERANGED.

It is supposed that Tait became suddenly mentally deranged. He was promptly arrested by the Chief of Police, Allan Royce, and placed in the lockup, later this morning being conveyed to Cobourg jail. In the lockup he acted strangely, making handsprings on the floor and dashing his head against the wall. It was considered necessary to place a guard over him before being taken to Cobourg.

He soon became quite calm, and was amusing himself by looking at a book which contained pictures of some New York sky scrapers.

The murdered girl is a daughter of Tait's first wife, he having married again last December a girl belonging to the Salvation Army.

WILL OF W. H. CREED FILED FOR PROBATE

The will of the late William H. Creed, builder, of Westmount, who died on Wednesday last, has been filed for probate. It was drawn up in the Royal Victoria Hospital on the day before his death, and as he was suffering from blood poisoning in his right hand he was unable to sign the document, and made his mark.

To his father, H. W. Creed, and his mother, Mr. Creed leaves an annuity of $500, "so long as the present European War shall last. Afterwards it is to be increased to $700. If the estate is found to equal or to exceed $6,000 annually in value, the annuity is to be further increased to $1,000.

Of the balance of the estate, one-third each is left to Miss Dorothy and Frederick Creed, daughter and son. The remainder is left to the testator's wife, formerly Miss Mary Morin.

Mr. Creed also leaves instructions for the payment of $1000, the balance of a present to the Theologist Colleges of Montreal, and a similar balance of $600 to the Methodist Church extension fund.

War Must Conclude Before Christmas, the Kaiser Declares

Special Cable to The Montreal Star.

COPENHAGEN, July 26.—Before going to Posen to confer with his generals the Kaiser, it is reported here, held a Crown Council in Berlin. The Emperor declared Germany could not undertake to negotiate with her enemies until Warsaw and Calais had been captured.

With Gen. von Hindenburg and von Falkenhayn, the Kaiser drew up final plans to end the war, which, the Emperor said, must terminate before Christmas.

SCHOOL BOY MAKES MOUNT BLANC CLIMB

GENEVA, July 26.—The first ascent of Mount Blanc this year was made yesterday by Anthony Hill, a seventeen-year-old boy of New York, accompanied by a Swiss professor and a guide. Excellent weather conditions prevailed.

The climb was a difficult one, the snow being knee-deep near the summit. Hill is attending school in Geneva.

PREPARING PLANS AT SING SING FOR DEATH OF BECKER

Lawyers Still Wage Fight as Electric Chair is Being Made Ready

Special to The Montreal Star by International News.

NEW YORK, July 26.—While Charles Becker's lawyers were waging their fight here today in an effort to save the condemned ex-Lieutenant of Police from electrocution for the murder of Herman Rosenthal, the grim manifestations of the law's preparations for his death appeared at Sing Sing.

Becker's electrocution is set for 5:45 a.m. on Wednesday, but it may be delayed by the execution of Samuel Harris, who must die for the murder of a woman. Becker is in better physical condition than Harris and the ex-Lieutenant probably will be second to meet death. The plans for Becker's death are unchanged from those of previous electrocutions.

Until he leaves his cell for the short walk through the "little green door" of the death chamber there will be an extra guard watching Becker's every move. His food will be cut up before it is taken to the cell, and he will have to eat it with a spoon.

STILL FOR NEW TRIAL.

Becker's counsel and representatives of the District Attorney's office were prepared to argue before Judge Ford in the Supreme Court today the motion that he be granted a new trial. W. Bourke Cochran, chief of Becker's counsel, was to make the leading argument for the prisoner.

Numerous affidavits bearing upon the new evidence upon which Becker's counsel bases his plea were ready for submission to the Court by counsel for both Becker and the State.

Condemns Methods of Some English Newspaper Owners

LONDON, July 26. — The Daily Chronicle, under the heading "The Poison Press," prints the following: "Sir Arthur Quiller-Couch, who has a commission in the Cornwall Pioneers, a commission in the Cornwall Pioneers, speaking at a recruiting meeting at St. Austell on Saturday, said he had not read the newspapers for six weeks. He was a believer in the liberty of the press, but if some of the proprietors of English newspapers had had what they deserved during the month of May and the early days of June they would have been hanged.

"They did much worse work in heartening the army and disheartening England, and did it more deliberately than any man who has yet been shot as a spy," Sir Arthur said.

SITUATION INTENSE IN POLAND NOW

Russians Report Success at Novo Georgievsk by Sorties

GERMANS CLAIM TWO FORTS TAKEN

Von Mackensen Unable to Make Headway on South

Special to The Montreal Star by International News.

BERLIN, July 26, via wireless, — Pultusk and Rozan, two of Russia's strongest fortresses on the Narew river, have been captured by the Germans, it was officially announced today.

These strongholds protested Warsaw from the northeast and their fall is expected here to facilitate the campaign against the Polish capital.

By Canadian Press.

LONDON, July 26.—Fighting for Warsaw has shifted from South Poland, where the most desperate efforts of Field Marshal von Mackensen have been unable to win an appreciable advance to the north of the Polish capital, where the Germans claim to have crossed the Narew river along a wide front.

Petrograd so far has not admitted this German claim. It also still is apparent, London military observers say, that the Ostrolenka fortress, from which radiate three useful strategic railroads, continues to be controlled by the Russians. The stubborn hold of the Russians on the Lublin-Chelm railroad continues. The Austro-German troops, Russian advices say, not only are being held along this line, but they are suffering fierce counter-attacks.

Russian Sorties at Novogeorgievsk Have Retaken Ground Lost

Special Star Cable by Francis Lavelle Murray of the International News.

PETROGRAD, July 26.—Successful sorties by the garrison of Novo Georgievsk have resulted in the regaining of ground taken by the Germans northeast of that fortress, the War Office announced today. The operations of the Russians in this district are said to threaten with disaster the troops of Field-Marshal von Hindenberg, who crossed the Narew river.

The War Office announcement brought the first hope that the German drive against Warsaw from the north would result in failure. The Petrograd military critics pointed out that the conditions in the Warsaw campaign are now strikingly like those of the German campaign brought the first hope that the Germans crossed the Aisne, but were rolled back from the prepared French positions on the Marne.

In their drive against Warsaw the Germans have crossed the Narew and plunged forward towards the Bug. Their success would be assured could Field-Marshal von Mackensen have broken the Lublin-Chelm line, but latest reports from the front indicate that not only has von Mackensen been repulsed, but the Russians have also taken the offensive with good effect.

German artillery is incessantly bombarding the outer works of Ivangorod. The Russian guns are responding effectively.

RUSSIA'S GIGANTIC TASK.

Special Star Cable.

LONDON, July 26. — The Daily Telegraph's Petrograd despatch says: The situation here is still obscure. While the battle line advances at one point, at another it recedes. For the moment neither side can claim any success decisive enough to affect the general issue.

According to the latest authoritative computations Russia is now parrying the blows of seventy German and forty-eight Austrian divisions, not including large bodies of the Landstrum of both countries, in addition to four German and eleven Austrian cavalry brigades.

The Austro-German force between the Vistula and the Bug is put at three-quarters of a million, of whom two-thirds are Germans. About four corps are operating against the line from Nova Georgievsk to Ivangorod.

The possibility is that the Austro-Germans may try to engage the fortress with a curtain of troops and employ their main force elsewhere in the field of operations.

Although the Germans continue to advance toward the east in the Korno Government, it is semi-officially hinted that they soon will meet with stubborn resistance.

General Ruski, for the first time as military governor of Petrograd, has issued an order in reference to the stoppage of work in some factories here. He points out the supreme importance of a regular supply of arms and ammunition.

Signs the German Offensive Weaker

There are signs that the German offensive has been weakened by its excessive battering the stone wall defence, that its munitions are not plentiful, and that it is forcing the pace on other less important fronts in order to conceal its failure.

The City Chancellory is taking measures to control speculation on the Exchange, which is partly responsible for the depreciation in the ruble. All private banks are invited daily to report the amounts of sterling sold, its price, and the name of the purchaser. At the same time efforts will be made to supply trade and committee quickly and constantly with the necessary quantity of sterling.

SURPRISE GERMANS AT HOOGE

FRENCH SUCCEED IN AERIAL RAID

Italians Have Won Brilliant Victory at Gorizia

Special Star Cable by United Press.

PARIS, July 26.—A raid by French aeroplanes on a German military depot at Nantillois, northwest of Verdun, was described in official despatches today. The French hurled explosive and incendiary bombs and showered several thousand darts, apparently with success.

This afternoon's official communique indicated little action along the Franco-Flanders front in the past twelve hours. Between Aix Noulette and Souches an artillery duel is proceeding. Violent cannonading is occurring at Soissons and Hartman's-Weilerkopf.

The text of the report reads as follows:

"There have been reported during the past night artillery engagements between Aix Noulette and Souchez, as well as in the vicinity of Soissons; fighting with grenades between the trenches in the forest of Ailly, and a bombardment of Hartman's-Weilerkopf.

"French aviators have thrown down shells and steel arrows on the military railroad station at Nantillois, to the north of Mont Faucon."

British Destroy Formidable Work at Hooge by Mine

Special Star Cable.

LONDON, July 26.—A special despatch to the Times from British headquarters, dated July 25, says:

"A successful mine explosion near Hooge has destroyed a formidable German redoubt of clever geometrical design which commanded the British lines in several directions with light artillery.

"The redoubt was a serious menace, but its capture was an ugly problem. The British engineers never suspected trouble from their direction. The spectacle was like a volcanic eruption. The daring engineers had carried their work right beneath the centre of the fort and when the mine was exploded the sky was darkened by the debris, in which the forms of Germans were seen hurtling through the air.

"The fall of a vast displacement of earth was directed into the adjacent German trenches, which were filled or blocked. The British at once occupied the crater, from which the whole fort had gone. Living Germans were found in the neighborhood so stunned that they were made prisoners without any trouble.

"The disruption of the locality was so complete that it was impossible for the Germans to retaliate immediately. Furthermore the British were now able to enfilade them with their fire. However, the Germans made a violent bomb attack on the crater, hoping to recapture the position, which was of much value to them. Their reception made them sorry that they had tried it.

Italian Chief of Staff Directing the Attack in Person

By Canadian Press.

UDINE, Italy, via Paris, July 26.—For the first time since the Italians began operations against Gorizia, Lieut.-General Count Cadorna, Chief of Staff of the Italian army, has been personally directing the battle in the presence of King Victor Emmanuel and the Duke of Aosta, cousin of the ruler.

"The operations against this important Austrian town have been pushed with extreme intensity of late. The Italian engineers have constructed new bridges across the Isonzo river, made new roads and erected temporary fortifications and gun platforms.

"Meanwhile the scouting service the cavalry and airships have been co-operating, while the Italian artillery has swept the Austrian front with a concentrated fire.

Successful Aerial Raid Upon Riga

By Canadian Press.

ROME, July 25, via Paris, July 26—An air raid upon Riva, an important town at the head of Lake Garda, in the Austrian Tyrol, is described, in an official report issued tonight at the headquarters of the Italian General Staff. The communication reads:

"On the afternoon of July 23 two of our seaplanes flew over Riva and dropped eighteen bombs on the railroad station with excellent results. The enemy's artillery fired on the machines without causing any damage.

"In Carnia, during the night of the 24th-25th, enemy forces attacked positions at Somdogna Pass, but were promptly repulsed.

"In the Montenero region the enemy tried to arrest our offensive, delivering three fierce attacks on positions conquered by us on the Lusinica, but was repulsed by us with great losses.

"On the Carso plateau the action continues to develop favorably for us."

Austrians Unable to Get Further Help for Gorizia Garrison

Special Star Cable by Brixton D. Allaire of the International News.

ROME, July 25.—There has been severe infantry fighting around Col-laso-Dogna in the Carnic Alps, where the Austrians attacked the Italian positions.

In the Monte Nero zone, north of Tolmino, the Austrians are again attacking the Italian positions and are losing heavily without gaining any advantage.

On the Carso plateau severe trench fighting continues. According to an authentic report, the Austrian General Staff has evacuated Gorizia on account of the inability to get any reinforcements for the army defending the city.

Describing the first five days fighting for the possession of Gorsia, the Tribuna correspondent with the Italian army writes as follows:

"From Monte Nero southward all along the Isonzo river front the battle has continued with ever increasing violence. The fighting around Monte St. Michael has been particularly severe, with the hostilities going forward uninterruptedly night and day. The opposing artillery rains shells upon the hostile batteries.

"Every arm of the Italian service is participating in the battle. Dismounted cavalrymen are fighting in the trenches alongside of the regular infantrymen. There is a steady stream of Austrian prisoners passing through to the Italian rear. They all admit that the Austrian losses have been heavy, owing to the swiftness and severity of the Italian attacks."

INVESTIGATION TO BE SEARCHING THE AUTHORITIES STATE

Both Federal and State Inquiries to Be Held with Object of Fixing Responsibility for Disaster Which Sent Over One Thousand to Their Death in Chicago River

By Canadian Press.

CHICAGO, July 26. — Federal and State authorities today took up the task of fixing the responsibility for the overturning of the steamship Eastland in her dock in the Chicago river last Saturday, in which approximately 1,000 of 2,408 excursionists aboard were drowned.

Examination of the members of the crew was continued with a view of learning if the regulations for the operation of vessels of her class were complied with. Evidence also was sought to show whether the vessel was properly constructed.

The State attorney, Mr. Hoyne, began the preparation of evidence for the Cook County Grand Jury on the theory that the United States Inspection Bureau erred when it granted a license to the boat to engage in trans-lake business.

Mr. Hoyne declared that he was ignoring the question of the filling of the water ballast compartments, and declared that the evidence he had in hand already indicated that the Eastland was an unsafe vessel, regardless of the diligence of the crew in complying with regulations.

Dickerson N. Hoover, acting supervising inspector of the United States Steamboat Inspection Service, and Captain Charles H. Westcott, of Detroit, joined Inspectors Mansfield and Nichols in the examination of the crew of the Eastland to determine whether there had been negligence in operation, and especially if the water ballast compartments were properly filled at the time the East-land laid over on its side. They expect to have this question decided today when every witness had been examined. The theory that there was a sudden shift of weight is not credited by them.

JURY TO INSPECT WRECK.

Coroner Hoffman announced that he will not hold an inquest until the work of searching for the dead is completed. This was continued throughout the night, and this morning an additional force of twenty-five divers was sent into the hull to recover bodies believed to be there. There is a possibility that 200 more bodies are beneath the steamer in the river.

Plans for determining a way of raising the Eastland will be made today at a conference which will be attended by acting Mayor Moorehouse, the State's Attorney, Police Chief Healy, and the Coroner. Immediately after the conference, at which investigation plans also will be made, the Coroner says he will again call together the jury which was empanelled Saturday, and a trip to the Eastland will be made. The jurors will make a thorough inspection, and then adjourn indefinitely.

"I believe that there are a number of bodies still in the water, held down by wreckage or the weight of the boat, and that it will be impossible to recover these until the Eastland is raised," the Coroner said.

An effort will be made to complete the identification of bodies at the Second Regiment Armory today. Only fourteen of the 728 cared for there were unidentified this morning. Early estimates of the loss are being constantly lowered, but there is only speculation to indicate the number still in the vessel or in the river.

A fund of $300,000 will be ready tomorrow for general relief work, it is announced. Relief committees which were appointed yesterday took up their work early today. The finance committee will meet in the mayor's office this morning to complete the plans for raising a fund of $200,000, to which the Western Electric Company has added $100,000.

SEARCH FOR ESCAPED CREW.

Deputies from the States' Attorney's office began the work of summoning members of the crew who are known to have escaped. Among the men sought is said to be George Munger, of Kalamazoo, Mich., purser of the Eastland, and an important witness.

Many spectators of the disaster will be examined by city officials, who plan an investigation separate from those of the Federal and County officials.

Hundreds of unemployed assembled in front of the Western Electric Company's plant at Cicero this morning seeking positions left open by deaths in the Eastland disaster. They were denied admittance to the employment office and were told that the company had no positions for them. Police were called to disperse the crowd and clear the pavement in front of the company's offices.

MAY HAVE SPECIAL BOARD.

By Canadian Press.

WASHINGTON, July 26.—A board of civilians and naval officers probably will be asked by the Department of Commerce to investigate the Eastland disaster, in addition to the investigation by the Board of Federal Steamboat Inspectors. Acting Secretary Sweet today prepared to make a recommendation for such an additional investigation to Mr. Redfield.

The inspections required by laws of the Local Board of Steamboat Inspectors in such disasters deal only with questions of carelessness, if any, or incompetency of licensed officers, and with the judgement of the inspectors in passing the vessel on inspection. Mr. Sweet expressed the belief today that there well might be an investigation with a broader scope, conducted by men in whom the public would have greatest confidence because of their standing and experience.

Should Mr. Redfield decide not to appoint a special board, it is probable that solicitor Thurman, of the Department, will be sent to Chicago to assist in the inquiry by the local board. Any assistance the solicitor might extend would be in the nature of advice, as the local board is entirely independent of higher authority during its investigation.

GERMAN SUBMARINE SENDS AN AMERICAN SHIP TO THE BOTTOM

SS. Leelanaw From Archangel to Belfast With Flax Cargo Sunk Off Scottish Coast—Crew All Safe—Washington Not Alarmed Over German Resentment at U.S. Note.

Special Despatch Over The Montreal Star's Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, July 26.—The freight steamer Leelanaw was flying the American flag when she was sunk. This statement was made today by A. H. Bull & Company, agents for the ship, which was owned by the Harby Steamship Company, the operating company of the Harriss-Irby Company, cotton merchants, of 15 William street.

By Canadian Press.

LONDON, July 26.—The American steamship Leelanaw, from Archangel, July 8, for Belfast, with a cargo of flax, was sunk yesterday by a German submarine off the northwest coast of Scotland. All the members of the crew of the Leelanaw were saved. They were brought into Kirkwall in their own boats.

The steamer left New York on May 17 with a cargo of cotton consigned to Russia by way of Gothenburg. The vessel was detained at Kirkwall while inquiries were made as to the possibility of getting her cargo to Russia, as Sweden forbids the export of cotton. The ship was released on June 26 with permission to proceed to Archangel, where the cotton was discharged and a cargo of flax loaded for Belfast.

No details of torpedoing of the Leelanaw have been received, beyond a message stating that the crew had been safely landed at Kirkwall, Scotland, from which place they notified the American Consul at Dundee of the sinking of the vessel.

The Leelanaw was owned by the Harby Steamship Company, of New York. She was formerly called the Earnwell. She was 280 feet long and of 1,924 gross tons. She was commanded by Captain D. B. Delk. Her crew consisted of seven officers and thirty-two men.

GERMAN ATTITUDE DISAPPOINTS

Special to The Montreal Star by Theodore Tiller of the International News.

WASHINGTON, July 26.—National defence and the forthcoming protest to Great Britain against its interference with American shipping today took precedence over the German situation in official Washington.

Advices from Berlin showing the attitude of the German press to be one of hostility to the last American note on the Lusitania tragedy, and the submarine warfare, served somewhat to dampen the optimism of officials as to the position of the Kaiser's Government. But there were no signs in official quarters of a tendency to view the future with alarm.

Despite the mutterings of the Berlin press, it is felt by officials that Germany must recognize the justice of the American position regarding the rights of neutrals. The fact that this Government now is preparing to take up its controversy over the British blockade is another circumstance, it is believed here, which will temper the German view, should the press utterances actually represent the present feeling in that country.

SEES INDIRECT PROTEST.

Unofficial advices are to the effect that the reference in the American note to the freedom of the seas "from whatever quarter violated," is construed in Germany to be an indirect protest against the British blockade, and this may serve to bring about better feeling as the note is digested by the Kaiser's Government.

Germany frequently has proposed that the United States take up the blockade question with Great Britain, but the Wilson administration has declined to join the submarine and blockade issues.

The references in the Wilson-Lansing note, however, to freedom of the seas, "from whatever quarter violated," is one way of saying, according to German reports, that the United States intends to deal firmly with the situation raised by the British Order-in-Council.

Two subjects are receiving the attention of the President at Cornish. One is that of national defence, upon which there has been a recent awakening in administration circles. Another is the protest which soon is to go to Great Britain against continued interference with American cargoes.

State Department officials now are engaged in preparation of a memorandum of the British blockade situation, and this is to be sent to the President for his consideration and revision.

It is believed in official quarters that it will be several weeks before a reply is received to the note sent Germany—if a reply be received at all. Meanwhile the controversy with Great Britain will receive much of the attention of the President and his advisers. That a strong note of protest soon will be despatched to the British Government is conceded here.

It is stated that the British blockade situation would have received the vigorous attention of the administration by this, had it not been for the fact that the German controversy concerned human life, while the British matter hinged solely about inanimate cargoes.

The preservation of human life, therefore, took precedence over shipping, but having transmitted practically its last word to the Kaiser, this Government now is ready to inform John Bull of its position regarding non-interference with American cargoes on the high seas.

The way is left open for Germany to reply to the latest American note to that Government, but the United States appears to be disinclined to pursue further the role of a ready-letter writer and has served notice, in effect, that Germany must be judged by acts rather than words. Such notice gives time for taking up the British controversy.

Upon the President's return from Cornish he will consult Messrs. Daniels and Garrison regarding the national defence, and these officials now are preparing data to lay before the Chief Executive. It is apparent now that a more ambitious program for the Army and Navy is to be mapped out for the next session of Congress.

The lessons of the European War and the public clamor for preparedness have caused concern in administration circles, and national defence is forging ahead as the prime legislative problem of the forthcoming session.

That Congress may be called into session by December is possible, although there has been no official intimation as yet to that effect.

Great Britain's reply to the American note of March 30, protesting against enforcement of the Orders-in-Council which restrict neutral commerce, was received here today.

It holds that the orders are within international law, although they may involve a new application of principles, and argues that it is proper to wait a judicial interpretation.

TO INVESTIGATE CAPACITIES FOR WAR MUNITIONS

British Delegation Will See How Canadian Firms are Equipped

NOT FOR PURPOSE OF PLACING ORDERS

Will Not Interfere With Functions of Canadian Shell Committee

Special to The Montreal Star from Our Own Correspondent.

OTTAWA, July 26.—To investigate the capacity of Canadian factories and firms to turn out munitions of war, D. A. Thomas, representative in America of the Rt. Hon. David Lloyd George, arrived here yesterday from New York. His coming has been awaited for several days. Mr. Thomas, who is no stranger to Ottawa or Canada, having been here several times, is accompanied by Gen. R. H. Mahon and R. H. Carr.

The delegation will be in Ottawa some time, but will also visit Montreal, Toronto and other cities. They have not come over to buy goods. In the United States, the munitions are being secured through the house of J. P. Morgan and Company; in Canada the business will be done through the Shell Committee. It is the purpose of the delegation rather to investigate conditions, to facilitate production, and to dispose of any problems that may arise in connection with them.

DOUBLE THE OUTPUT.

"Our trip is not for the purpose of buying," said Mr. Carr, "but to ascertain how the Canadian firms are equipped to turn out what we require."

Questioned as to the British campaign for increased output of armaments Mr. Carr said it was marvellous. "It takes a lot of time," he observed, "to procure and instal machinery. Yet, in a very short period the output of many houses has been doubled, trebled and even quadruple. The making of a shell consists in much more than turning out a steel case. The fixing of it is most technical."

MEET SHELL COMMITTEE.

Mr. Thomas, Gen. Mahon and Mr. Carr were in conference bright and early this morning with members of the shell committee, from whom they got a statement as to the work so far accomplished in regard to the award of contracts for munitions and the way the operations are progressing.

Mr. R. H. Carr is the war office expert with the delegation, and acts as its spokesman.

MORE THAN PREFERENCE.

"As Mr. Thomas stated in New York," Mr. Carr observed this morning, "we feel that Canada should have a preference, and more than a preference, in regard to War munitions, considering its status in the Empire and the magnificent work which its men are doing and preparing to do at the front. We want to find out all about Canada and what its manufacturers are capable of doing."

Mr. Carr's attention was drawn to Gen. Bertram's statements that orders for $150,000,000 of munitions are now being executed in this country. He was asked the prospect of that being increased. "That," he replied, "depends upon two factors—the requirements of the British Government and the capacity of the Canadian firms to do their share in meeting those requirements. As to the former, I am not in a position to make any statement. It will depend upon our advices from the War Office, and the developments of the situation at the front. As to the latter, that is what we are here to find out. It will take some little time to adjust our requirements to the domestic conditions in Canada."

THE TECHNICAL OFFICER.

Asked as to the delegation's plans, Mr. Carr said that none were settled as yet. "We will be at Ottawa for some days and will doubtless go to Montreal, Toronto, Hamilton, and other cities. Gen. Mahon is the technical officer of the party, and it is likely that he will inspect all of the more important plants."

Since the delegation arrived on this side they have been approached with all sorts of propositions for the supply of war stores and equipment. It is emphasized, however, that their mission relates exclusively to munitions, that is to say, the supply of shells, rifles, small arms, ammunition and the like.

The prospect for very extensive orders in these lines is excellent, but, as stated above, it depends wholly upon the needs and the ability of Canadian firms to meet them. In other words, it is up to the Canadian factories to show what they can do.

From the information which has been conveyed by the Shell Committee, however, the delegation feel that Canada has done remarkably well, considering the time and expense incidental to adapting factories to turn out war munitions.

HAS WIDEST POWERS.

"Mr. Thomas has the widest powers to directly place orders," stated Mr. Carr, "but there is a difference between possessing powers and exercising them. It is not our intention, generally speaking, to interfere with what is already being done, but rather to inquire into it very fully and to see what more can be accomplished, if the necessity arises. What is required is not the steel shell, but the complete article ready for use."

Speaking of the Canadians at the front, Mr. Carr said they had done magnificently. "They have made a splendid showing," he added, "and at home one hears nothing but the work and the patriotic spirit that is impelling them to perform it."

The British delegation occupy a suite at the Chateau Laurier, and are attended by quite a large staff of secretaries. Last night they dined at Rideau Hall as guests of Their Royal Highnesses The Duke and Duchess of Connaught.

The immediate work to which they will devote themselves is that of a series of conferences with the Shell Committee, after which the leading industrial centres engaged in the making of war materials will be visited.

As stated, no itinerary has yet been arranged. While the delegation will be glad to meet Canadian manufacturers and discuss the situation with them, the impression abroad that they are here to directly place orders is erroneous. Such powers, from the present plans at least, are not to be exercised.

MUNITIONS AGENT HERE

D. A. Thomas, special agent of the Minister of Munitions, Lloyd George, is now at Ottawa, investigating the capabilities of Canadian factories to turn out munitions of war.

Selection Received With a Chorus of General Approval

When the Right Hon. David Lloyd George announced in the British House of Commons recently that he had appointed Mr. D. A. Thomas to cross the Atlantic to organize the munitions production in Canada and the United States, the announcement was received with a chorus of universal approval. It is now realized by everybody that the problem of victory in the great war is a problem of organization; and as Mr. Thomas is one of the most famous organizers in the world, both press and public warmly approved of Mr. Lloyd George's prompt action in calling the great Welsh coal magnate to his aid in the new Department of Munitions.

Mr. Thomas is already well known on this side of the Atlantic, and his large interests both in the United States and in Canada. The newspapers of the United States were fond of describing him as "the British Coal King."

"We must organize victory and not take it for granted," said Mr. Lloyd George. Mr. Thomas will take nothing for granted, for thoroughness and determination are his main characteristics. A man of iron will, he does not know the meaning of defeat, and in fact, his name is recognized as a synonym for success in everything he undertakes.

HAS PLENARY POWERS.

In announcing the appointment in Parliament, Mr. Lloyd George said that in consequence of the innumerable offers he had received from Canada and the United States to provide munitions, he had asked Mr. Thomas to go to America to assist the Ministry in developing the Canadian and American market. Mr. Thomas had been given the fullest authority to represent the new Department of Munitions in the United States and Canada, and he would at once organize a system for accelerating the supply of war munitions.

Mr. Thomas, under the direction of Mr. Lloyd George, is acting in cooperation with the representatives of the Government in the United States and in Canada. He will get into communication at once with engineering works throughout America, so that every available wheel will be put into motion in the production of munitions, with the least possible delay.

ORGANIZING FOR VICTORY.

Mr. Lloyd George has declared that the cardinal fact in the situation in this war is that the duration of the war, the toll of life and limb levied by it, the amount of exhaustion caused by the war, economic and financial, depends on the supply of munitions which the rival countries can produce to equip their armies. Where the Allies are making progress in any part of the line it is due to the fact that in that sector of the battlefield the Allies have a predominance of the munitions of war.

Where the Allies are not making progress, the absence of munitions in sufficient quantity is the cause, because, declared Mr. Lloyd George, "we have an undoubted superiority in men—not merely superiority in numbers but in quality of men."

Germany and Austria-Hungary are at present turning out 250,000 shells every day, or very nearly 8,000,000 a month. The problem of victory for the Allies is how to equal and surpass that tremendous production, and to do it with the least possible waste of time. Although France has lost to Germany 70 per cent of her steel-producing areas, she has effected by mobilizing and by discipline an increase in her output, which shows that if the British Empire does its part, the Allies can certainly establish a definite superiority in munitions over the Teutonic Powers.

THE MUNITIONS NEEDED.

The weapons needed are: Heavy guns, high explosive shells, rifles and machine guns, which last most formidable weapons have in this war largely superseded the rifle.

Under the impetus of the new Ministry of Munitions, prominent business men are helping, and each has his task assigned to him. Under that famous Canadian officer, Sir Percy Girouard, Great Britain has been organized with ten munition areas, with local offices, a local organizing secretary, and a clearing house for work, labor and information.

Mr. Lloyd George gave a concrete instance of what this organizing for victory meant. In one British town, under the old system of sub-contracting, the output of shells was 10,000 a month only. By clearing out the privileged middlement and doing direct business, the output has been increased at once to 150,000; and it will soon be 250,000 and even 300,000.

IS A WELSHMAN.

David Alfred Thomas is a man in the very prime of life. To be exact, he is just a little over fifty-nine years of age, having been born on March 26, 1856. Like Mr. Lloyd George he is a Welshman, and his principal interests are centred in the gallant little Celtic Principality. He is the son of the late Samuel Thomas, of Aberdeen, and it was in that busy colliery town in Glamorganshire, not far from that great hive of industry, Merthyr-Tydvil, that he was born.

Unlike the majority of the great captains of industry in Great Britain or elsewhere, Mr. Thomas is a university graduate. His early education he received privately, and then he proceeded to Cains College, Cambridge, where in due time he took the degree of Master of Arts. While at the university he showed marked intellectual ability, and untiring industry, and he received honors as a Scholar of Jesus and Cains Colleges.

HAS MANY INTERESTS.

Mr. Thomas is senior partner in the firm of Thomas and Davey, coal sale agents, and he is managing director of the Cambrian Combine in the Rhondda Valley, and other important colliery companies in South Wales. He is in control of the Consolidated Cambrian collieries, the Glamorgan Coal Company the Naval Colliery Company, the Britannic Merthyr Coal Company, the Fernhill Collieries, and the Cynon Colliery Company He is also on the board of the Ebbw Steel Wire and Coal Company, the Taff Vale Railway, and the Rhymney Iron Company. Altogether, he is on the board of some twenty big companies, some of these vesting among the most important concerns in the United Kingdom. In 1895 he was elected President of the Cardiff Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Thomas has had an active political career, and sat in Parliament as a Liberal member for several years. In 1888 he was elected for the Merthyr Burghs, and he represented that constituency until 1910. He sat for Cardiff in the short-lived Parliament of 1910, but since then he has not had a place in the House. From 1893 to 1897 he was president of the South-Wales Liberal Federation.

RESCUED FROM LUSITANIA.

It is only the other day that Mr. Thomas was in London giving evidence at the Lusitania Inquiry, describing his experiences on the ill-fated liner, when he and his daughter, Lady Mackworth, were rescued with great difficulty.

Mr. Thomas is a Deputy Lieutenant for Glamorganshire. His home is "Llanwern," Newport, Monmouthshire, where his brief moments of leisure he loves to live the life of a country gentleman. His favorite recreation is farming.

Mr. Thomas in 1882 married Miss Sybil Haig, daughter of Mr. G. A. Haig, of Penithon, Radnorshire, Wales. Lady Mackworth, who was rescued with her father when the Lusitania went down is their only

KAISER PLANNED TO CHANGE MAP OF SOUTH AFRICA

Special Cable to Montreal Star.

LONDON, July 26.—A Times sepcial from Cape Town says: Gen. Botha, speaking at a banquet in his honor, laid stress on the far-reaching character of the German designs in South Africa. He said maps had been discovered re-casting the chart of Africa on the basis of a peace to be concluded at Rome in 1916.

The whole of Africa south of the equator was marked "Greater Germany" except for a minute fragment of territory labelled "Boer reserve." At the outbreak of the war Col. Maritz inquired how far the independence of the new Republic was guaranteed. The Kaiser replied:

"I shall not only acknowledge the independence of South Africa, but even guarantee it, provided the rebellion starts immediately."

A bomb was thrown into the Sofia Casino at one o'clck on the morning of February, while a gala performance was in progress. Ten persons were wounded, including a daughter of the Minister of War. A son of General Voyjeiff was killed and several of the wounded died later.

SAY RIVER BOATS ON ST. LAWRENCE ARE PROVED SAFE

Declare Repetition of Chicago Disaster is Impossible

INSPECTION IS STRICTER HERE

Number of Passengers Allowed Much Lower Than in the States

The Eastland disaster at Chicago was the chief topic of interest in Montreal shipping circles this morning. The general opinion was that the vessel, built with straight sides, was a "crank" boat—that means that with addition to her top weight she would roll over to one side, with no bilge keels to steady her. This theory is strengthened by the information that the 2,000 excursionists she carried were mostly on the top deck.

There is no danger of such a catastrophe on steamers that ply on the St. Lawrence, so The Star was told today. Shipping men are emphatic on this point, and explain why. In the first place, the system of licensing the steamers is different from that used in the United States, as is the system of inspection.

All boats sailing on the St. Lawrence must pass two inspections, made by fully qualified men appointed by the Federal Government. First, there is the inspection of engines and boilers, and then the inspection of all the steamer, the provisions made for safety, and the capacity of each vessel.

PASSENGER NUMBERS.

In the United States the number of persons permitted on a boat is calculated at the rate of so much space for each passenger. In Montreal the number of passengers is determined by the dead weight of the ship, and by her measurements, and boats on the St. Lawrence are not allowed to carry nearly as many as those licensed in the States.

To prevent overcrowding of passengers on Canadian boats, there are inspectors, appointed by the Canada Steamship Company, (who control most of the boats on the river carrying short-trip passengers), and by the Department of Marine and Fisheries. These inspectors check the number of people who go on board, and when the full complement is on they allow no more.

At the ferry where the boats leave for St. Helen's Island there is a pen, and the stipulated 800 passengers only are allowed inside this; then the gate is closed. All the boats could carry many more passengers than the licensed number, for they are built with bilge keels and are very wide, to accommodate a heavy main deck cargo, but the officials see that "Safety First" is the principle adopted, and the licensed number is stated never to be exceeded. Each of the boats has a big supply of life-saving apparatus, and in addition there is a lot of apparatus on the decks which would float off in the case of any accident happening.

Montreal excursionists who desire a river trip may, according to officials of the Harbor Board, the Shipping Federation and the various steamship companies, indulge in their desire without any fear that anything untoward will happen.

BAVARIAN KING MAKES THE KAISER FIELD-MARSHAL

LONDON, July 26.—The King of Bavaria has appointed the German Emperor a field-marshal of the Bavarian army, and the Emperor has accepted the appointment, according to an Amsterdam despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company.

The incident, the despatch, has caused a tremendous stir in Germany, as it has frequently been asserted that the Emperor alone had the power to appoint field-marshals. The rights of the Bavarian have never before been asserted, but there has been a strong feeling recently in Bavaria in favor of the king asserting his position in the face of the powerful army, because of the prominent part the Bavarian troops have taken in the war.

Women's Volunteer Reserve. Drill on Ritz-Carlton Hotel roof garden 8.

Tuesday Morning.

WOMEN'S RIFLES NAME IS CHANGED TO RESERVE NO. 4

"The formation of a woman's volunteer reserve corps in Montreal would be of inestimable advantage, for quite apart from the wisdom of training a large body of the population in methods of field sanitation, field oven construction, etc., a vast improvement in health among the members of such corps is noticeable, habits of discipline are inculcated and a wider outlook on life and the world in general is obtained."

These were Dr. Ella Scarlett-Synge's opening words in her address to the Montreal Women's Rifle Association at he tea given in her honor at the Rit-sCarlton on Saturday. The name of the association was changed to "Women's Volunteer Reserve No. 4" and the corps is now affiliated with the original organization started by the Hon. Mrs. Haverfield in England.

Lieut.-Col. C. E. A. Patterson received a vote of thanks for his work in organizing the local association, and was elected honorary colonel of the new corps.

Rifle practice will be continued and various other units including signalling, Red Cross, telegraphy and cooking will be organized. Two members, Mrs. G. Darling-Conner and Mrs. N. B. Brown, will train in special Red Cross work that they may possibly join Dr. Synge's Voluntary Aid Detachment from Canada, which will proceed to Serbia in a few months. Mrs. Darling-Conner announced she had collected $85 for the Serbian Red Cross fund and that 480 articles were donated by the Royal Circle of Notre Dame de Grace. The M. A. A. A. grounds have been offered to the corps for drilling once a week.

Dr. Scarlett-Synge gave a demonstration of "jui-jitsu" and recommended the study of that mode of defence. She advised the members to take up wireless telegraphy, saying the Government posts would be available as soon as women were ready to fill them. She left for New York last night.

REV. DR. JACKSON, NOTED MINISTER, DIES IN QUEBEC

Special to The Montreal Star.

QUEBEC, July 26.—One of the best known clergymen in Canadian Methodism died Saturday night in the Jeffrey Hale Hospital, in the person of the Rev. Dr. William Jackson, who succumbed to a sudden attack of pneumonia, with which he was stricken only one week ago.

Deceased was a native of Lincoln, England, where he was born seventy-five years ago. He came to Canada in 1862 and was ordained to the Ministry in 1863, one of his first stations being that of Quebec. He had held many important pastorates in Quebec and Ontario provinces, among the most notable of these being Mountain Street Methodist Church, West End Methodist Church, and Douglas Methodist Church, Montreal. From 1901 to 1908 he filled the position of Professor of Systematic Theology, Apologetics and Homiletics in the Montreal Wesleyan Theological College, and in 1893 was given the degree of Doctor of Divinity by that College. For the past four years Dr. Jackson had been Methodist Immigration Chaplain at Quebec.

Surviving him are his widow, one daughter, Miss Gertrude Jackson and three sons: Lieut. W. S. Jackson, of the Royal Navy, Douglas Douglas Jackson, connected with the C.N.R., at Montreal, and Stanley Jackson, with the Globe Indemnity Company, Montreal.

The interment will take place in Kingston, but it is likely that a funeral service will be held in Montreal.

Dr. Jackson's funeral will be held this evening from his late residence, 82 St. Lake street, to Calaroqui cemetery. There will be a service at the house.

POPE APPEALS TO KAISER TO STOP MURDER BY TURKS

ROME, July 26.—The Apostolic delegate at Constantinople has succeeded in conveying confidential information to the Vatican that the forcing of the Dardanelles is inevitable, and that the Turks are determined to massacre the Christians when the Allies occupy Constantinople, which will probably be razed to the ground.

The delegate urges the Pope to use his influence to prevent massacres, and to suggest that the Christians be interned in Asia Minor, that they may thus escape a death which otherwise will be inevitable.

The Pope has appealed to Emperor Wilhelm and to Emperor Francis Joseph, whom he will hold responsible, unless the threatened massacres are averted.

Satisfied with the Employes at Rigaud Plant

At the request of the Curtis and Harvey Company, whose works are at Rigaud, Inspector Rioux, of the staff of the Registrar of Alien Immigrants, made a searching investigation of the labor conditions existing there last week, and both he, as a Government official, and the officers of the company, were quite satisfied with the results. The complaints of some discharged employes to the military officials of the district were found to be lacking in sufficient foundation to make it necessary to interfere in any way with the company's employes.

CANADIANS SUBSCRIBED 1000 MACHINE GUNS DURING LAST TWO WEEKS

1000 MORE NEEDED TO MAKE CANADIANS AS WELL EQUIPPED AS ENEMY

One thousand machine guns in two weeks.

That was Canada's response to the appeal made just two weeks ago today for more guns for Canadian regiments on their way to the front.

One thousand more guns will be needed before our soldiers are as well equipped as the Germans whom they are facing, or are to face, in the trenches.

From Halifax to Victoria a wave of enthusiasm has swept across the country as the urgent need of our regiments for more machine-guns became recognized, and it has found its expression in the generous subscriptions which are recorded in every province.

A machine-gun of the latest and most efficient type costs $1,000. Col. Curry, invalided home from the front after the battle of St. Julien, estimates a machine-gun as the equivalent of almost a hundred men, and more than their equivalent in certain ever-recurring emergencies.

There are times when machine-guns, and machine-guns only, can accomplish certain results. Without them, the lives of soldiers must be sacrificed to do what, with them, can be better done with much less risk and at a much less cost.

There has been one voice and one voice only, throughout the Dominion since the appeal for more machine-guns was made a fortnight ago. Those who cannot go to the front are using this opportunity to aid those who have gone or are going in a way which means not only saving Canadian lives, but increasing the efficiency of Canadian regiments.

$1,000 FROM MRS. C. E. FULFORD.

The Star this morning received the following letter from Mrs. C. E. Fulford, of Brockville:

"Sir,—Enclosed you will please find my cheque for $1,000 for the purchase of a machine-gun for some Canadian regiment.

"Sincerely yours,

"B. A. FULFORD."

ONTARIO HAS SUBSCRIBED FOR 732 MACHINE GUNS

Special to the Montreal Star.

TORONTO, July 26. — Since Senator Lougheed, Acting Minister of Militia, made his call for machine guns, or at least suggested that these are the most appropriate gifts that could be made by public bodies or individuals desirous of helping the Empire, 732 machine-guns have been donated or promised by this province or residents of it. Taking the average cost of a manchine-gun at $950,they represent a cash donation of $695,400.

Col. J. A. Currie, M.P., commander of the 15th Battalion, who has returned to Canada on duty, estimates that 500 machine-guns are equal to forty battalions of one thousand rifles each. Taking this estimate as a basis, the number of machine-guns donated in the Province of Ontario up to the present will be the equal of about 60,000 rifles.

A British officer writing from Flanders, a few weeks ago, declared that while howitzers and heavy artillery were doing their great part in the war, and while barbed wire was also a big factor, machine-guns would decide the battles of the future. He pointed out that barbed wire can be surmounted, and that the loss of life from shrapnel and high explosive shells was not in proportion to the number of shells fired. But, he said, nothing can advance against concentrated machine-gun fire. German machine-guns had kept their long battle line intact more than anything else.

MANY BATTERIES GIVEN.

Early in the war, Ontario realized the necessity and importance of the machine-gun as an offensive and defensive weapon. Some of the first public gifts from this province took that form. The City of Ottawa appropriated $300,000 six or seven months ago for a machine-gun section of four guns mounted on armored motor cars. The Hon Clifford Sifton and a number of other gentlemen of Ottawa duplicated the City of Ottawa's gift and donated the Sifton Machine Gun Battery of ten guns on armored cars. Sir John C. Eaton also formed a battery at a cost of $100,000.

$500,000 FROM ONTARIO.

The most spectacular gift from Canada, however, was announced at the Massey Hall recruiting meeting held in Toronto last week, when the Hon. W. J. Hanna, acting premier, announced that the Provincial Government, in addition to the other munificent gifts it had made, had decided to spend $500,000 for the purchase of 500 machine-guns of the Lewis type. This type of gun is a light and portable weapon, weighing with all its appurtenances only 29 1-2 pounds. Without its field mount it weighs only 25 pounds, and can be fired from the shoulder by a strong man, and is capable of firing 440 rounds a minute.

At the same meeting at which the Hon. W. J. Hanna made his announcement, the Toronto Ministerial Association also announced that its members had contributed the cost of one gun.

HAMILTON WANTS 200 GUNS.

The City of Hamilton is booming the purchase of machine-guns. A Machine-Gun Association has been formed under the presidency of Colonel R. H. Labatt, who went with the first contingent as commanding officer of one of the battalions, but was unfortunately compelled to relinquish his command on account of ill health. Working on the basis that one gun is worth fifty men, the league has set for its object at least 200 guns, and judging from the early response, the movement being yet only a few days old, no difficulty will be experienced in getting the $200,000 necessary. Collection boxes have been installed all over the city, and stay-at-homes are asked to buy a full share in a gun for $20.

Mr. H. L. Frost, of the Frost Wire Fence Company, has donated five guns, and has thrown in for good measure a large quantity of barbed wire with which to build defences round the guns.

The Daughters of the Empire have pledged themselves to contribute one, and every class of citizen has enthusiastically taken up the campaign. In many places where firms are giving guns, employees are volunteering to man them.

Guns are already assured, in addition to the foregoing, from the following residents of the ambitious city: G. W. Robinson, two; Mrs. W. E. Sanford, two; and one each from the employees of The Herald, employees of The Spectator, Band of the 13th Regt., Post Office staff, Howell Lithographing Company and employees, Retail Druggists, Cyrus Birge, Hamilton Insurance Agents, George Parke, Walter Woods, Archdale Wilson, Eagle Knitting Co., Dominion Steel Casting Co., C. W. Sherman, Geo. Lynch Staunton, K.C., W. A. Spratt, J. J. Greene, J. B. Tshann, Imperial Vinegar Co., and Wilson, Lytle and Badgerow Limited.

Mr. Justice Teetzel, of the Supreme Court of Ontario, some time ago donated two guns to be manned from Hamilton, his home city.

BUSINESS MEN GIVE TEN.

The Bloor Street Business Men's Association of Toronto will contribute ten guns in lieu of going to the front themselves. They have divided themselves into groups of fifty, each group to contribute one gun. The Riverdale Business Men's Association will also purchase a gun.

IN KINGSTON.

Ten Kingston merchants have subscribed to buy a gun for the 59th Battalion. The grocers of the city, the wholesalers and manufacturers, and the commercial travellers of the city will also give one each.

One of the most pleasing features of Toronto's twelfth of July celebration was the gift of a gun by the Queen City (857) L.O.L. Lodge. The idea came suddenly to the mind of ex-Alderman St. Leger, and an impromptu meeting of the lodge was called in the Metropolitan Church just before the parade started. One of the members was appointed treasurer, and a hat was passed around. When it came back it contained $765 in five and ten dollar bills.

IN MEMORY OF HER SON.

The 9th Mississauga Horse of Toronto has received a gun from Mrs. G. Kappele in memory of her son, the late Lieut. G. Kappele, who was accidentally shot dead a short time ago. He was to have gone with the 75th Battalion, but the memorial machine gun will take his place.

BRANTFORD POST MEN.

The Brantford postal staff have have not only decided to donate a gun, but nine letter carriers have volunteered to man it.

CHARTERED ACCOUNTANTS.

The Council of the Institute of Chartered Accountants of Ontario, at a meeting on Friday, unanimously decided that the $1,000 voted by the members of the Institute at the annual meeting a week ago should be expended on the purchase of a machine-gun.

CIVIL SERVICE ASSOCIATION.

The Civil Service Association, at the Parliament Buildings, will donate one gun.

The Dunlop Tire Company, which is already, represented by 60 men from its Toronto branch at the front, have presented a gun to the 9th Mississauga Horse.

Herbert N. Cowan, president and general manager of the Cowan Co. Limited, chocolate manufacturers, has donated a gun to the 75th Battalion.

J. H. Weldon, president of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association, has donated one gun, the other four members of the executive doing the same.

The office staff of the Manufacturers' Life Insurance Co., Toronto, have also pledged themselves to furnish a gun.

J. H. Hamilton, of the Union Bank, Toronto, has donated $750 to the 75th Battalion, and this will probably be used in the way that is so popular now. The same battalion has also received gifts of guns from anonymous donors.

Victoria Harbor Home Guard Rifle Association, organized a few days ago, subscribed sufficient money at the inaugural meeting to purchase a gun.

The Orangemen of Elgin County have also subscribed for one.

In several Brantford factories movements are on foot to equip and man machine-guns.

On Friday Senator Lougheed announced that in the last two weeks subscriptions for one thousand machine guns had been received at Ottawa.

MANY SUBSCRIPTIONS STARTED IN NOVA SCOTIA

HALIFAX, July 26.—Nova Scotia has contributed six machine guns to the Canadian Expeditionary Forces with more in sight.

At a public meeting to arrange for recruiting, Mr. G. S. Campbell announced that the Directors of the Bank of Nova Scotia had offered to supply two machine guns for one of the Nova Scotia battalions. He said it was eminently appropriate that a bank which bears the name of this province should make the offer applicable to the Nova Scotia battalions.

The same day the Directors of the Halifax Hotel wired the Militia Department that they would deem it a great privilege to have the honor of contributing a machine gun to the Canadian Contingent, and that they desired this this gun be given to either the 25th or the 40th Battalion, Nova Scotia regiments. Their cheque would be forwarded as soon as advised of the acceptance of this gun.

The Directors of the Acadia Fire Insurance Company have wired the Minister of Militia that they desire personally to contribute a machine gun for the use of the 40th Battalion now being mobilized at Valcartier.

The office staff and men of the Nova Scotia Steel plant, at Trenton, have presented a machine gun to the war department. The response of the men was spontaneous and the contributions made so liberally that it is possible the gift may grow into two machine guns. Besides this gift the men are dong a big part in the nation's behalf. In manning the works and turning out such a volume of shells they are contributing in a large measure towards placing the armies of the Allies on a stronger footing.

At the weekly luncheon of the Commercial Club in a few minutes over one hundred dollars were subscribed towards the purchase of a machine gun. "I propose that every member give some article to the Machine Gun Fund, and when sufficient goods have been collected hold an auction," says Mr. T. G. Ferris. "I will start the move with a donation of a $45 shot gun." M. J. C. Stredder said he would give a waggon. Mr. G. S. Campbell asked to give a contribution and the full amount it is expected will soon be realized. Truro is also taking a subscription for a gun, and there are others talked of.

BRITISH COLUMBIA WILL GIVE 100 MACHINE GUNS

Special to The Montreal Star.

VANCOUVER, B.C., July 26.—The machine gun movement in British Columbia was inaugurated by two officers of the 47th Battalion, who appealed to Vancouver men to purchase Lewis guns at $1,000 each for issue to British Columbia regiments.

The appeal met with a striking response. Seven guns were donated at the end of the first day's campaign, several wealthy men appearing on the list. So fast did the money come in that a committee consisting of E. R. Ricketts, Clarence Marpole and R. V. Winch was appointed to take charge of the fund.

Vancouver hoped to donate twelve guns but the latest figures show that the money to buy fifty guns has been secured.

The committee then visited Victoria, where ten guns were secured.

The movement spread to the upper country, and Nelson came through with five, while small interior centres put up the money for one each, and there is little doubt that British Columbia will buy one hundred guns for British Columbia boys.

All contributions are from private or municipal sources. One striking contribution comes from Britannia mines, which a few months ago was the scene of a snowslide with heavy loss of life. The miners sent money for one gun to be known as "Britannia No. 1," and a week later sent money for a second gun to be known as "Britannia No. 2."

Concerts are being held and subscription lists opened to afford the man in the street an opportunity to contribute a little, and the movement to provide one hundred guns from British Columbia for British Columbia boys is well on the road towards realization.

The people of Hedley, it is announced today, have raised sufficient money to give three machine guns. In proportion to population this is better than Vancouver has done.

SASKATCHEWAN HAS NOT YET TAKEN ACTION

Special Staff Correspondence.

REGINA, Sask., July 26.—From available information, offers of three machine guns have been made by private organizations of this Province to the Militia Department. The Pharmaceutical Association of Saskatchewan, in session here last week, voted $1,000 for this purpose. The staff of The J. F. Cairns departmental store of Saskatoon, and the citizens of Kinderseley, by private subscription, have pledged guns.

Other offers are expected to follow as the mobilization of the 68th Battalion at Regina and the 66th of Saskatoon continues. Recruiting for both units has just commenced.

ALDERMEN TO GIVE FEES.

Aldermen of Regina, at the next council meeting will consider a proposal to hypothecate their yearly fees, and donate the amount for the purchase of a machine gun. The plan was evolved by one of the council members, and is expected to receive unanimous support. The honorarium of each alderman amounts to approximately $100, and with ten members of the council the aggregate amount will be sufficient for the purchase of one gun.

The Government of the province has as yet taken no official action towards equipping the battalions mobilizing here with machine guns. Hon. George Bell, provincial treasurer, the only member of the Government in the city today, declared that the matter had not been considered at any of the recent cabinet council meetings. He could venture no opinion as to the likelihood of the Government making a donation, following the lead set by the provincial Government of Ontario.

In the case of the guns offered by the Cairns Company, and by Kinderseley, squads of ten men volunteered to man the guns. Both these guns will, it is thought, be used in the equipment of the 65th Battalion.

THIRTY GUNS ALREADY FROM NEW BRUNSWICK

Special to The Montreal Star.

ST. JOHN, N.B., July 26.—With the campaign for machine guns gathering momentum every day, thirty guns are already assured from New Brunswick. So far the contributions have been almost entirely from individuals and groups of individuals. As the various civic and municipall bodies meet it is expected that official grants will swell the lists.

So far the contributions announced in St. John are, one gun each from G. S. Mayes, Joseph Allison, L. R. Ross, T. H Estabrooks & Co., James F. Robertson, Malcolm MacKay, John E. Moore, Fred E. Sayre, Frank P. Starr. Several others are undecided as to giving one gun each or half of a gun.

ONE HALF GUN EACH.

The following are giving one half gun each, D. C. Dawson, E. L. Rising, D. C. Clark, E. A. Goodwin, F. G. Estabrooks. These with guns the Elks are expected to provide, one each from several societies, one from a group of ten men, one from Douglas avenue residents and one from Indiantown section will make at least twenty.

IN MONCTON.

In Moncton collections for guns are being made by the I. O. O. F., the Women's Patriotic League and the Knights of Pythias.

OTHER CITIES.

The St. Andrews Society of Fredericton has given one gun. Residents of Woodstock, N. B., have given a gun for the 55th Battalion and the municipality of Carleton County, is expected to give at least one.

In the Miriamichi district on the north shore a resident of Chatham and another of Douglastown have given one each and subscriptions in Chatham and Newcastle have provided two more. In several other counties the movement is just beginning to take form and before long many more contributions are expected.

No more popular movement has been undertaken since the war started.

FIFTY GUNS ALREADY SUBSCRIBED IN ALBERTA

Special to The Montreal Star.

EDMONTON, July 26.—Nearly fifty machine guns, as the result of both public and private subscriptions, are in sight from the Province of Alberta. The News Telegram of Calgary says that with contributions already made and promises given, about twenty-five machine guns are assured from the Calgary and Eastern British Columbia districts.

The Mountain Lumber Manufacturers' Association has given $5,000 for guns for the 54th Battalion of British Columbia, and individual contributions for one gun apiece have been made by the citizens of Hanna and district, Patrick Burns, Eugene Costa, C.P.R. employes of Calgary, Hebrew citizens of Calgary, F. E. Osborne, Wholesale Grocers and Grocery Brokers, Canadian Credit Men's Trust Association of Alberta.

For the 66th Battalion at Edmonton, guns have been contributed by the following northern towns: Vegreville, Vermillion, Fort Saskatchewan, Peace River Crossing, Grand Prairie and possibly one other town.

Three guns are being subscribed for by the citizens of Medicine Hat, and were intended for the 63rd Battalion of Edmonton, but as the Medicine Hat Company is now being absorbed by the 82nd Battalion of Calgary, the guns will doubtless go to that battalion. The City of Red Deer is raising money for a gun for the 63rd, and also the employes of the E. D. and B. C. Railway. For the 49th, now at Shorncliffe, an Edmonton regiment, and for the 51st, eight guns were secured as the result of the Board of Trade Fund.

FIVE WINNIPEG DROWNING CASES MARK WEEK-END

Motor Cyclist Also Loses Life Following Automobile Smash

Special to The Montreal Star.

WINNIPEG, July 26. — Saturday was an ill-fated day in the Winnipeg district. The splendid weather sent young people to the water and five were drowned, one of these being a tot of two years, Stanley Hickman, who wandered down to the Assiniboine river near his home at St. Charles, fell into the water and perished.

Three swimmers, all beginners, went down in deep water. Dave Devin and Sam Sloser, aged nineteen and seventeen respectively, died in the Assiniboine River and one of two died in an attempt to save his friend. A woman watching from the bank saw one of the swimmers go down and his companion immediately went after him. They rose to the surface clinging together, then sank again, and were lost.

Another swimming fatality occurred when Ernie Malar, aged fourteen, learning to swim in the Seine river at St. Boniface. He got beyond his depth and despite the fact that there were thirty other people in the water, he lost his life.

At Winnipeg beach a boy of nine, James Parkin, playing with a toy sailboat, fell over the end into the lake and was drowned.

DIES IN HOSPITAL.

A fatal automobile smash in St. James caused the death of John Webster, aged thirty-five, a motor cyclist and his companion, Miss Cissie Wilson, aged twenty. Going west on Portage avenue a heavy touring car swerved from behind another auto, in order to pass it, and crashed into the motorcycle.

Webster sustained injuries from which he died within a few minutes, while Miss Wilson is in hospital suffering from severe injuries. The driver of the car, Percy White, a member of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange, is under arrest.

J. McFarlane, of Sidney, narrowly escaped featuring in another auto smash, when his machine was trapped between two street cars at the corner of Osborne street and Stradbrooke place. The heavy cars smashed the machine into scrap, but McFarlane, through some miraculous chance, escaped.

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., July 26.—Helen Hedley, aged twelve, daughter of Canon Hedley, rector of St. John's Church, is dead of injuries received by being struck by a tram last Tuesday at the same time as her mother was killed.

FORMULATE PLANS TO INCREASE U. S. ARMY AND NAVY

For Enlargement of Auxiliary Fleet and Naval Aircraft

WASHINGTON, July 26.—Pending President Wilson's return from Cornish, N.H., when he will formulate with the secretaries of the Army and Navy what the White House has announced would be a sane, reasonable and practical programme of national defence, army and navy officials are busy assembling the information upon which the new military policy will be founded.

It is definitely known that navy plans contemplate a big increase in submarines, the building of thirty, and perhaps fifty, being recommended; that several battle cruisers will be urged and at least four dreadnoughts, and that a big increase in the auxiliary fleet and in navy aircraft will be sought. Several additional small navy yards to serve as submarine bases also will be suggested, it is thought.

BIG VOLUNTEER ARMY.

Such a programme would carry with it, of necessity, an increase in navy personnel and probably the enlargement of the academy at Annapolis, where navy officers are trained.

Army plans look to the building up of an army of 500,000 men, regulars and militia, within territorial United States. This has long been the figure at which officers placed the needs of the country for defence. This force is designed to be quickly available and to bear the brunt of the fighting while a great volunteer army is being trained.

To make the plan efficient, it is believed some scheme to federalize the militia will be advanced and also that methods of building up reserves for both regulars and militia will be proposed. The strength of this first line army must be maintained while the volunteers are being trained and that reserves would be trained men ready to fill gaps caused by losses, and keep the units at full strength.

Another feature to receive attention probably will be plans for training officers for the volunteer forces. Enlargement of West Point may be proposed.

LOCAL CAB-DRIVER IS CHARGED WITH HELPING ENEMIES

Albert Harden Said to Have Taken Germans and Austrians Across Border at $10 a Head — Alleged Spy in Custody

Albert Harden, a local cab-driver, whose home is in Point St. Charles, was arraigned in the police court this morning on the serious charge of "inciting and assisting subjects of foreign states at war with His Majesty to leave Canada without the consent of the Crown." He pleaded not guilty and will appear for preliminary trial on Wednesday. Fabre Surveyor, K.C., is prosecuting for the Crown. The warrant was sworn out by Major Date, of the Provost Marshal's office. Detective Crowthers made the arrest.

Harden is a Canadian. He was born in the Eastern Townships, where his parents still live, near the border. In his youth he learned every detail of all the roads in the district and, according to the prosecution, he found it comparatively easy to slip Austrians and Germans across the border in an automobile.

Harden, it is alleged, cultivated the acquaintance of aliens in Montreal and encouraged them to allow him, for a price, to take them across the border. Many, he found, were anxious to go. To the others, those who were comfortable here, making good money, and accepting the conditions that the war brought, Harden, they say, placing the thoughts of gain above all loyalty or honor, painted vivid pictures of internment and incited them to leave.

His price was $10 a head, so The Star was told. He would escort them to the train, probably explaining that he was taking them down country as laborers, and purchase tickets for his old home. He would leave the train there with his men and drive to a nearby house, where the party would put up for the night. Usually not more than two or three were taken at one time.

USED SPEEDY AUTO.

Then follow stories of wild rides through the early morning or late at night, in an automobile. The car drove at high speed along little frequented roads, it wound a tortuous passage through tracts of bush, over roads that were little more than cow-paths. With lights extinguished it fled under the soft moon, and many times accidents were narrowly averted. Then, with one supreme effort, exercising every care, the border was reached. Over that and a sigh of relief was heard.

Whether Harden had accomplices across the border is not known. It is quite possible that he had, the police assert. So far as the prosecution here is concerned that is of little importance.

But, add the police, Harden played his alleged treacherous game too long. Rumors trickled through to the authorities in Montreal. Many rumors come into the Immigration building, on St. Antoine street, where Major Date has his headquarters, and occasionally one bears fruit. This one looked good.

Major Date has many queer people on his staff. He has Germans who have grown to love Canada and who have turned against the Fatherland. He has Austrians who have long been naturalized, whose sympathies are all with Great Britain. Two of these latter were put on the trial. Detective Crowthers was called in to assist in laying the trap.

MARKED MONEY FOUND.

The two Austrians allowed Harden to find them, it is said. They allowed him to make the proposal. They accepted. On a certain day last week the money was paid. Ten dollars was given by one man. The other was to pay at the train. That was on Friday. Before Harden had time to leave the house in Point St. Charles where the transaction is alleged to have taken place, Detective Crowthers placed him under arrest. He was searched. A ten dollar bill was found. It was a marked bill, and it will be identified by the Austrian who gave it to him.

This morning in court Harden seemed dazed. He did not seem to realize that he was charged with a serious crime. Probably it seemed to him a species of smuggling, which among many people along the border is not thought wrong. He murmured not guilty and was told to have his lawyer ready by Wednesday.

"My lawyer," he repeated, as though he was too amazed at what had happened to comprehend. Then he turned and passed again into the cells.

A GERMAN SPY.

Jean Bouchard, the name given by a man arrested on the mountain on Saturday, and who is regarded by the police as a German spy, has been handed over to the military authorities, by whom he is being detained.

"That is all we are doing at present," said Major Date, this morning. "I expect the investigation will be made by the police who made the arrest. So far as I know, they have all his effects. If there is sufficient evidence that he is a spy he will be brought to trial, and the Department of Justice will handle the case."

Inspector Cowan, of the detective department, stated that the case had not been reported. "The police department made the arrest," he said. "They are handling it, I suppose."

Chief Campeau stated that the police department had handed the men and the case, so far as he knew, to the military authorities.

"Of course if we can do anything, we will," said he.

The only other officer who might handle the case is Charles G. Ogden, K.C., registrar of aliens. He stated that his men were working on it, but beyond this he would say nothing.

Bouchard was observed by Sergt. Dettmers, of the St. Lawrence boulevard station on several occasions, and on one occasion the officer spoke to him. The man conveyed the impression that he could not speak French or English, and, thinking that he was a foreigner out of work, the sergeant let him go on. Then it was learned that a man was frequenting the vicinity of the incline railway every night. Taking Constables Bastien and Dufour with him, Sergt. Dettmers started to investigate. Early in the morning they found the man in a clump of bushes at the top of the incline. He was at once taken into custody and examined.

Then astonishing revelations were made. The man spoke French and English perfectly. He said that his birthplace was the little Duchy of Luxemburg, the first neutral territory invaded by Germany, but that he had been living here for nearly a year. He was dressed very poorly, but in his pocket were found nearly $800, some of which was German gold, notes in German, and a map of the city, with all the armories, the railway stations, the public buildings, pumping stations, reservoirs, and munition factories marked.

THE MAYOR WRITES LONG LETTER TO SIR LOMER GOUIN

Fears He May Have to Take a Hand in Administering the City

Court proceedings against members of the Board of Control threatening to derange the administration of the city, Mayor Martin is anxious to discuss with Sir Lomer Gouin the possibility of the Provincial Government providing some means for the temporary government of the city.

"I may ask for a special session of the Legislature if necessary," said His Worship this morning.

"I wrote him today," the Mayor told The Star, "and asked him if he would meet me the next time he comes to Montreal, or if I could make a journey at once to see him. I want to ask him 'What is to be done about the administration of Montreal?'" Here are quo warranto proceedings applied for against Controller McDonald. Supposed the writ is granted and he is suspended from his office. Then Controller Hebert expects that similar proceedings will be instituted against him at any moment. Suppose the application is granted.

"If those two gentlemen are temporarily unseated, and suppose Controller Cote should be sick at any time, well there is only my friend Controller Ainey and myself—two members of the Board, and we can not legally transact any business. You will have a Board of Control powerless to do any business.

"So we must provide for any emergency of this character, and I think the best plan for me is to see Sir Lomer now, so that we may make arrangements against eventualities. I may even ask him to call a special session of the Legislature, if that is necessary."

A second point is to be discussed when His Worship meets Sir Lomer.

"The law says that the city every October must sell the land of people whose tax payments are in arrears. Now I think that in war time, when things are hard, there should be some relaxation of the law, and I want the premier to ask the Lieutenant-Governor, the Hon. Mr. Leblanc, if he will sign an order changing the law so that these Montreal people—and I believe there are something like 3,000—who are now in danger of losing their properties, may get another two or three months in which to pay their taxes."

A visit was also paid to the Trianon Palace, and the ambulance of the British Red Cross at Versailles, to which are attached several Canadian nurses.

On Saturday evening Sir Robert dined with President and Madame Poincare. Among the guests were the Minister of War, M. Millerand, the Foreign Minister, M. Delcasse and Gabriel Hanotaux.

COURT CONTEMPT CASES TO GO ON, DECIDES JUDGE

Mr. Justice Lafontaine Refuses Appeal — Not Enough Evidence in Unseating Proceedings — Others May Be Taken

Mayor Martin will have to appear in the Superior Court tomorrow, with Controllers Hebert and Cote, and show cause why he should not be adjudged in contempt of court and penalized accordingly for voting a Tramways franchise despite the injunction issued by Mr. Justice Archibald.

This was decided at noon today, when Mr. Justice Lafontaine gave judgment on a motion of George Montgomery, K.C., to throw out an inscription in appeal entered by Leon Garneau, K. C., on behalf of the mayor from the ruling made by Mr. Justice Panneton in Practice Court on July 14.

Mr. Montgomery presented his motion on Friday and Mr. Justice Lafontaine, who presided in Practice Court last week, took it under advisement. Mr. Garneau held that the Prothonotary and accepted security for the appeal on Wednesday last, and therefore, the case was out of the jurisdiction of the Superior Court and in the hands of the Court of Appeals. Mr. Montgomery contended that no appeal could lie from an interlocutory, or non-final judgment.

NOT FINAL JUDGMENT.

In his decision today Mr. Justice Lafontaine holds that the rule "nisi" granted by Mr. Justice Panneton, was merely an interlocutory judgment, ordering the mayor and his two confreres to come into court and show cause. There could be no final judgment until the rule "nisi" had been made absolute after the hearing of evidence upon it. He therefore dismissed the petition in appeal with costs, and ordered that all mention of it be stricken from the court records.

UNSEATING PROCEEDINGS.

Mr. Justice Lafontaine also gave judgment in the petition of J. A. Thibaudeau for the issuance of a writ of quo warranto to unseat Controller McDonald pending investigation of the present charges against him in connection with the Hebert-McDonald case. This case was also taken under advisement on Friday last.

The judge refused the application on the ground that it was not sufficiently supported by affidavit or evidence. He stated, however, that a new application might be made with more evidence to place before the court.

"This is a serious matter," remarked the court. "A writ of quo warranto is not an ordinary writ. It is practically a criminal accusation, and for this reason such a petition should be accompanied by full affidavits."

TO UNSEAT HEBERT.

While these matters were occupying the attention of the Practice Court, another somewhat unexpected development in the Hebert-McDonald case was brewing in the office of Pierre Ledieu, advocate, who is acting in the interests of A. St. Martin, one of the courthouse stenographers, and a Socialist leader.

Mr. Ledieu this morning drew up the papers in quo warranto proceedings against Controller Hebert, and the notices, he said, would be served this afternoon, while the matter would be filed in Practice Court tomorrow morning.

Mr. St. Martin, when interviewed on the matter at the Courthouse this morning, was somewhat reticent.

"Time enough to talk about it after it is an accomplished fact," he said.

In the meantime, quo warranto seems to be the favorite topic of discussion in legal circles, and there are rumors of at least two other possible writs of this nature.

Judge's Ruling Refuses Appeal in Contempt Case

The text of Mr. Justice Lafontaine's judgment in the petition to allow an appeal from his ruling in the contempt of court proceedings is as follows:

The Court having heard the parties by their lawyers and witnesses upon the merits of this case and after having examined the proceedings and the exhibits produced, and after deliberation, doth render the following judgment:

Seeing that while as a general rule an appeal lies from every final judgment of the Superior Court (Art. 43, Code of Procedure) and that for the exercise of this right it is sufficient to produce within the prescribed delay an inscription followed by payment of security, on the other hand appeal from an interlocutory judgment can only lie when permission is granted by one of the judges of the Court of King's Bench, a summary petition being presented and the judgment being one of those specified by law (Art. 1211 Code of Procedure).

MERELY INTERLOCUTORY.

Whereas an interlocutory judgment is a preliminary judgment which does not dispose of the litigation, but is only a step in the development of the action, preparing it for the consideration of the court, and so leading to the final judgment, so that a judgment, given in contempt of court proceedings simply ordering the issuance of a rule against the incriminated party ordering him to appear before the court to show cause why they should not be declared guilty of contempt of court and condemned to a fine or imprisonment, is indisputably an interlocutory judgment even if by the terms of the judgment ordering the issuance of the rule the accused person, through a form of words that affords grounds for more or less criticism, finds himself already declared in contempt of court and condemned to fine or imprisonment, this declaration being only provisional, preparatory, temporary and conditional, specifying nothing definite, being merely a part of the case, would have no value or effect unless followed by another judgment declaring the rule absolute and deciding the case completely and definitely. Such a judgment would be rendered only after the parties had been heard and a complete case made out.

"A SCRAP OF PAPER."

Whereas the effect of an appeal can be operative only when the appeal is regular, authorized by law, but that this effect cannot apply in the case of an irregular, illegal and unauthorized appeal which is only an appeal in name only, and which has the value only of a scrap of paper, following the elementary rule of law that that which is null can produce no effect.

Whereas this must be the case even when the Prothonotary in excess of his jurisdiction, by error and contrary to his duty, instead of refusing the inscription in appeal in such a case, accepts it in good faith and is even ready to accept security regardless of the production of a motion, preventing him from doing so, that which is valueless in law being incapable of ratification or confirmation, and ever remaining valueless; any other way of looking at the question would lead to a state of judicial anarchy by favoring the obstruction of the course of justice; all the authorities quoted against this method of dealing with the case have no application, having been established in cases of regular appeals authorized by law.

The Prothonotary is ordered not to register the security offered by the respondent, not to enter or register any record of it whatever, and the Court doth throw out from the record the paper produced by M. Martin, one of the parties in the case, called an inscription in appeal, the whole with costs.

MOVIES—THE WILD OLIVE

LONDON, July 26.—An official report from Field Marshal French was issued last night by the Press Bureau, reading as follows:

"On July 21 we repulsed a bomb attack on the crater caused by the explosion of our mines west of Hooge, which was reported in my communication of July 20. Our heavy artillery succeeded in silencing a heavy trench mortar which was assisting in the attack.

"On the evening of the 23rd we successfully exploded a mine under a salient to the German line southeast of Zillebeke, and destroyed the enemy's trenches there. Shortly afterwards the enemy exploded a mine a little further to the south, which, however, did little damage.

"Since then we have made some ground by occupying the crater of a German mine and linking it to our trenches. Yesterday we repulsed an other heavy bomb attack on our trenches around the crater near Hooge."

TURKS AGAIN REPULSED.

Official announcement was also made here on Saturday that the Turkish forces at the Dardanelles had made a new attack on the Allies and had been repulsed. The text of the statement follows:

"Sir Ian Hamilton reports that in the southern section about 3 p.m., yesterday, the Turks attacked the northern trenches on our left flank. Our front trenches in that neighborhood were shelled rather heavily.

"Under cover of the bombardment a small force of Turks dashed for our sapheads. Two of our machine guns opened fire, and the survivors retired, leaving about forty-nine Turks lying in front of our trenches. Probably more were out of sigt, as our shrapnel was effective.

"The whole affair lasted twenty minutes.

VICTORY IN SOUTH ARABIA.

LONDON, July 26.—There has been further fighting in Southern Arabia, where British and Turkish forces have been skirmishing for some time, according to an official statement on Saturday, announcing a success. The statement follows:

"Sheikh Othman, which, in the withdrawal of our troops to Aden had been temporarily abandoned, was reoccupied on Wednesday. The Turks were easily expelled, and were pursued for a distance of five miles. Sheikh Othman is now securely held and the civil population is fast returning. The Turks are still near Lahej, but are said to be suffering from sickness.

"Our casualties in the affairs of Wednesday amounted to about twenty-five of all ranks."

Early this month, Aden, the important British free port at the entrance to the Red Sea, on the Suez Canal route to India, was threatened by Turkish forces from Yemen, Arabia, supported by Arabs.

On July 5 the Turks and Arabs crossed the Aden hinterland near Lahej and compelled the British to fall back on Aden.

French Take Strong German Positions

PARIS, July 26. — French troops on Saturday night stormed several powerful German defensive works between La Fontelle Heights and the village of Launois, in the Ban-de-Sapt region of the Vosges Mountains, according to an official communication issued yesterday afternoon by the French War Department.

The southern part of Launois, the statement adds, was occupied by the French, and 700 unwounded Germans were taken prisoners. On the remainder of the front only artillery duels took place. The text follows:

"The night was without incident except some artillery actions in Artois, in the neighborhood of Souches, between the Aisne and the Oise on the plateau of Quennevieres and in the forest of Le Pretre, where the cannonade was accompanied by a lively fusilade of rifle fire.

"In the Vosges, at Ban-de-Sapt, we attained a new success. We seized last night some very powerful German defensive organizations, which extended between the heights of Lafontelle (on the side of Hill 627) and the village of Launois, and we occupied a group of houses which formed the southern part of the village.

"We made more than 700 unwounded prisoners belonging to four different battalions and a machine-gun company. The amount of war material captured has not yet been determined."

CONQUERED POSITION ORGANIZED.

An additional official communication was issued by the War Office at night, saying:

"In Artois and between the Oise and the Aisne there have been continual artillery actions.

"On the north bank of the Aisne, in the region of Troyon, as well as in Champagne, on the Perthes-Beausejour front, the mining operations have continued to our advantage.

"In southern Woevre the cannonading has been intermittent.

"In the Vosges our troops, notwithstanding the bombardment, have organized the positions conquered yesterday at Ban-de-Sapt.

"The number of German prisoners has increased to 11 officers and 825 men, of whom only 70 were wounded. A number of bodies were found in the trenches.

"On our side only two battalions of one regiment of the regular infantry were engaged. Six machine-guns have already been recovered from the conquered trenches."

GERMANS CROSS NAREW.

PETROGRAD, July 25, via London, July 26.—The following official communication was issued from General Headquarters today (Sunday):—

"In the region of Mitau there has been no important change. On the Shavli-Rossieny roads the enemy continues to advance in the direction of Poneviej, in which region, as well as on the River Tavenna, there were engagements on the 24th.

"On the Narew front the enemy in the course of the night made a series of fierce attacks along the east bank of the Pissa, in the region of Serotatka, but realized no success while sustaining great losses.

"In the sector between Ostrolenka and Rozan we repulsed determined attempts of the enemy to cross the Narew at certain points. In the sector of Rozan-Pultusk the enemy on the 23rd succeded in throwing a portion of his forces on to the left bank of the Narew and is trying to consolidate his positions.

"On the left bank of the Vistula the enemy on July 24 made fruitless attacks in the direction of Piassetchno. Between the Vistula and the Bug the enemy's advance was arrested by our counter-attacks. He has undertaken no further offensive except in the Grubechow region.

"Our destroyers in the Black Sea have bombarded a Turkish cavalry camp in the region of the Bosphorus, inflicting losses on the enemy and causing the explosion of a supply train."

AUSTRIAN ATTACK FAILS.

ROME, July 25, via Paris, July 26. The following official communication was issued on Saturday by the War Office:

"In Cadore we have completed the occupation of Tofana and repelled slight enemy attacks. Against our position at Monte Piano, north of the basin of Misurina, the enemy also tried an attack, which was promptly repulsed.

"In the Monte Nerp zone our forward advance continues along the crest of Luginica. On the Isonzo front the enemy sought by habitual night attacks, all of which were fruitless, to trouble our works and positions we had conquered.

"Yesterday morning the enemy also attempted an advance in force against our right wing occupying Carso, but were obliged to fall back, suffering heavy losses and leaving in our hands some dozens of prisoners, including an officer. According to orders found on the Austrian officer, who was taken prisoner, the attack we repelled on July 22 and already recounted in yesterday's communique, was of a general character intended to throw back our left wing occupying the region this side of the Isonzo.

GERMAN OFFICIAL CLAIMS.

BERLIN, July 26.—The Germans have crossed the Narew River on a front from a point south of Ostrolenka to Pultusk. Southeast of the Puleusk fortress the Teutonic forces are approaching the Bug River.

Those two advances of the German troops in Russian Poland are announced in Saturday's official statement issued by the German Army Headquarters Staff.

"The movement indicates that the Germans are making for the Warsaw-Petrograd Railway, which runs parallel with the Bub River twelve miles to the southeast. The text of the statement follows:

"In the western theatre: On the eastern border of the Argonne we blew up an enemy blockhouse.

"Near Launois, south of the Bande-Sapt, the French established themselvs in a small portion of our advanced trenches.

"The fortress of Dunkirk was bombarded by us with several shells.

"In the eastern theatre—The army of Gen. Buelow is engaged in rear-guard actions during his forward movement on the Jesia River, south of Kovno, and in the region of Dembowo six miles northeast of Suwalki, several Russian trenches were captured.

"The Narew River has been crossed on the whole front from the south of Ostrolenka to Pultusk.

"Southeast of Pultusk our troops are approaching the Bug River.

"Southwest of the stronghold of Pultusk, despite the enemy's firm resistance, the line of Nasielsk-Gzowo has been reached.

AUSTRIAN OFFICIAL REPORT.

VIENNA, July 26.—The following official statement regarding the progress of hostilities was given out here on Saturday night:

"As a consequence of the victorious attacks of Archduke Joseph Ferdinand's army in the last few days, the enemy yesterday evacuated positions between the Vistula and Bystritza rivers for a breadth of forty kilometres (a kilometre is about two-thirds of a mile) and retreated between eight and ten kilometres northwards on a prepared line.

"His efforts to gain a footing on positions previously prepared in the intervening ground were baffled by the vigor of our pursuit. The number of prisoners captured by the Archduke's army was increased to forty-five officers and 11,500 men.

"North of Crubechow the German forces penetrated the enemy's position. Near Sokal the Russians repeated vain efforts against our positions. On the east bank of the Bug River, due west of Ivangorod, the enemy undertook some fruitless attacks against our Transylvania corps. On other parts of the front the fighting is fluctuating, but the situation is unchanged.

Gorizia Battle Is Not Yet Concluded

"The battle in the Gorizia district has not yet been concluded. Yesterday evening, on the heights of Podgora, a new attack was started against the Gorizia bridge-head, but it was immediately stopped by our artillery fire. Our troops counter-attacked and threw the enemy back completely.

"On the north-west edge of the Doberde plateau the Italian attacks were weaker and less frequent and completely ceased at night. Renewed attempts of the enemy to attack on the front of Poiazzo-Vermegliano were easily stopped. Yesterday morning near Seis the enemy penetrated part of our trenches on the edge of the plateau. At night, however, we counter-attacked and captured all the former positions and repulsed the enemy on the whole line. The day of July 24 began more quietly.

"On the morning of July 23 our cruisers and destroyers successfully shelled a railway on the Italian east coast for a distance of 160 kilometres. The stations at Chienti, Campo Marino, Fossacesia, Termoli and Ortona were badly damaged and those of San Benedetto and Grottamare were set afire.

THREE NAMES GIVEN IN THE LATEST LIST

That the Canadians have not been in any action to compare with Langemarck or Festubert is shown by the casualty lists issued daily. Snipers occasionally wound or kill a man, a German shell, searching the country behind the advanced lines finds a Canadian or a group of them. There are the usual mishaps of life at the front. And there are the revisions and corrections and confirmations of previous reports. These make up the lists.

Three Montreal men are named in the list issued last evening. One is dangerously ill, the second is now officially reported to have died of wounds, and the third, previously reported missing, is now stated to have returned to duty.

DISCREDIT STORY OF MURDERER IN THE BECKER CASE

ALBANY, July 26. — Joseph Murphy, a convicted murderer serving a life term in Sing Sing, who recently made an affidavit that he had heard Jack Rose, Bridgie Webber and Harry Vallon plot in the Tombs to "frame" ex-Police Lieutenant Charles Becker, admitted to Governor Whitman that he had had a talk with Becker in the death house the night before he wrote to Becker's counsel that he had a story to tell which might save the life of the condemned man.

Governor Whitman spent two hours questioning the convict, and afterward announced that there was nothing in the story to justify him in taking any action to save Becker from the electric chair or even grant him a reprieve. The interview between the Governor and the convict was held at the Executive Mansion. Deputy Warden Johnson and a stenographer were present.

"With other prisoners at the Tombs, I was out for my afternoon walk on July 29, 1912," Murphy told the Governor. "I heard some one say 'We must frame Becker.' I was curious to hear the rest of the conversation. I slipped into a bathroom, so I could listen. 'There I heard some one say: 'We haven't a chance in the world unless we frame Becker.' Rose, Webber and Vallon were talking, but I do not know which one it was said it.

"The man who was talking went on to say. 'According to newspapers they seem to think that Becker did it because Rosenthal made that squawk. Anyhow it will be easy to make people believe it is the truth.' One spoke up and said, 'You damn fool. Big Tim will never stand for that. He knows Becker was not in this.' Another of the three men then said: 'Big Tim sent Applebaum (his secretary) to see me to get Steuer to fix it up for us so as to cover Tim's name up and put it all on Becker.'"

The Governor's cross-examination of Murphy brought out inconsistencies in his statement, which have apparently justified Mr. Whitman in placing no credence in his story.

TURKEY HAS CEDED DEDEAGATCH ROAD TO THE BULGARIANS

LONDON, July 26.—A dispatch to the Times from Sofia, dated last Friday, says that a convention ceding to Bulgaria the Turkish portion of the Dedeagatch Railway was signed in Constantinople on Thursday.

"I understand," says the Times' correspondent, "that the agreement implies no engagement of a political character on the part of either country. Bulgaria neither binds herself to remain neutral nor to permit the passage of contraband to Turkey.

"Under the new arrangement Bulgaria obtains the whole extent of the line traversing Turkish territory, together with the stations of Karagach, Demotika, and Kuleli Burgas. The Bulgarian frontier will coincide with the course of the Maritza River, all the territory west of it becoming Bulgarian. Round Karagach, the station of Adrianople, Bulgaria claims a zone of one mile and 1,522 yards. If this is conceded a new line will be constructed affording Turkey independent access to Adrianople.

The Times, in commenting on the foregoing despatch, says its significance is unmistakeable, and that it clearly indicates the existence at least of a tacit understanding between the Turkish and Bulgarian Governments.

"Despite the assurance that the cession of territory implies no political engagements," says the Times, "it is improbable that Turkey would make concessions so large without some certainty of a political quid pro quo."

WHAT TURKEY DEMANDED.

For some time past negotiations between Bulgaria and Turkey concerning the Dedeagatch Railway have been going on. The railroad enters Turkey near the Bulgarian town of Mustapha Pacha and runs south-easterly to Adrianople, where it turns and runs south and southwestward and leaves Turkish territory at Mandra. Thence it proceeds through Bulgarian territory to the port of Dedeagatch, on the Aegean Sea in Thrace.

A despatch from Berlin, July 18, dealing with the negotiations between Bulgaria and Turkey, said that Turkey was willing to make certain territorial concessions in the Adrianople district to give Bulgaria the desired railroad route to the sea, but that Turkey demanded in return not merely passive neutrality by Bulgaria but some participations in the war, or at least some form of pressure against Turkey's enemies.

SUBMARINES ONCE MORE ACTIVE IN BRITISH WATERS

LONDON, July 26.—German submarines resumed their activity in English waters yesterday, sinking a British steamer, a French steamer and four British trawlers. One of the undersea boats is reported to have been destroyed by bombs and gunfire. Another British trawler was destroyed by a mine and ten of the crew killed.

The French steamship Danae, bound from Liverpool for Archangel, Russia, was sunk off Cape Wrath, which forms the northwestern extremity of Scotland. The trawlers Henry Charles, Kathleen, Activity and Prosper were sent to the bottom in the North Sea. The crews of all the vessels were saved.

The Danae was attacked by two submarines. The crews of the trawlers state that one of the underwater craft was sunk by means of bombs and guns fired from the trawlers.

The British steamer Firth (498 tons), of Aberdeen, bound from France for Firth of Forth, was torpedoed by a submarine in the North Sea. Four of the crew were killed by the explosion.

BELIEVE CREW DROWNED.

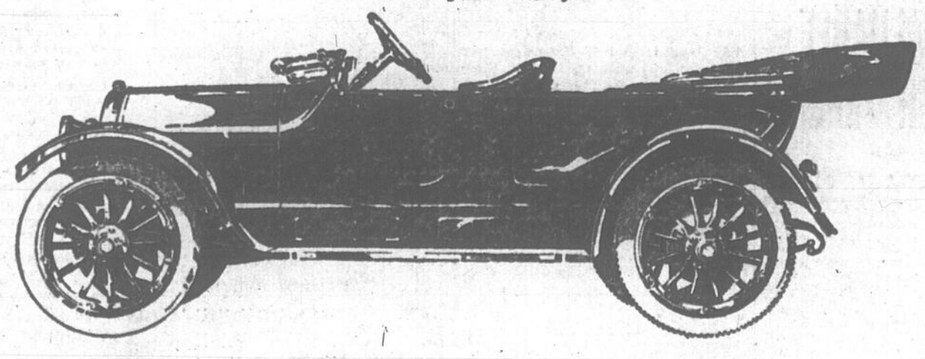

LONDON, July 26.—The Admiralty announced the loss of the Aberdeen trawler Briton, but does not state whether by a torpedo or a mine. The skipper of the trawler was killed and five of the crew are missing and are believed to have been drowned.

That the making and marketing of automobiles in large quantities enable us to produce cars at less cost per unit than if they were produced in small quantities.

Each season we increase the production, not a few cars but often tens of thousands of cars.

Each year this means a corresponding reduction in the price to you.

For 1916 we are doubling our capacity.

This gigantic production plan enables us to offer the very finest four-cylinder car we have ever made at a price which is less than half that charged for a similar car a few years ago and $375 less than our largest four of last season.

REAL VETERANS TURNED OUT TO PLAY LACROSSE SATURDAY

STARS WIN FAST GAME FROM CAUGHNAWAGA--FINE PITCHING BY AUCOIN

"Rick" Paquette Holds Nationals to Four Hits — The Bakers' Victory Gives Them Clear Hold on First Place

Stars, 7; Caughnawaga, 4.
Strachans, 7; Nationals, 1.

Holding the heavy-hitting Nationals to four scattered hits, yesterday afternoon at Delorimier Park, in the City League series, "Rick" Paquette, of the Strachans, enabled his team to take a firm hold on first place position in the race, as the "Bakers" romped away with a 7 to 1 win.

Jean Paquette, the seventeen-year-old south paw, that Billy Innes picked up on Lafontaine Park, was found for eight hits, and suffered his first defeat of the season. His support at times was not perfect, but he again clearly demonstrated that he has all the car marks of a future star.

STARS WIN THEIR FIRST LEAGUE GAME.

By defeating the Caughnawaga Indians in the opening contest, by 7 runs to 4, the Stars captured their first league game, since the amalgamation of the two local leagues, and judging from their play yesterday, they are due to register many more wins before the close of the season.

Both Lee Aucoin and Malcolm Fraser were at their best. The former allowed but six hits, while the latter was found for five, eight and nine men respectively fanned the air, the play right through being of the most interesting kind. Baril, a new catcher from Sorel, caught well for the Stars, while young Wingo, of the Indians, handled Fraser's benders in his usual clever manner. Not a stolen base was registered during the match.

McGRANAHAN WON.

Jimmy McGranahan, of the Magcottes, defeated both Sprague Cleghorn, of Strachans, and "Larry" Carmel, of Nationals, in the much-talked of base running competition. McGranahan circling the paths in 14¾ seconds, while the well known hockey, lacrosse and motor cyclist, and the league's leading hitter taking an even 15 seconds. The race caused much interest amongst the spectators. Sabourin, of Nationals, tried to lower McGranahan's time, but only equalled the 15 seconds mark.

Caughnawaga took a rather big lead in the first game with Stars, getting one in the first session, and two in the next. The Stars were held scoreless until the fourth, when they delivered four runs on timely hitting, an error and wild throw. With the bases full, "Bud" Carver, the Stars big first sacker, came through with a scorching two-bagger, which cleaned up the bases. The Stars added three more in the seventh, while the Indians' last run came eighth. "Big Six" Jocks, who has been playing in the Blue Ridge League for the past three weeks made his reappearance with the Indians. Manager Page sending him in as pinch hitter in the ninth.

STRACHANS BAT TIMELY.

Nationals barely escaped a shut-out from the Strachans in the second game, the Frenchmen getting their only run in the fourth, when what at first appeared like a big rally, was stopped in quick fashion, Emile Morin's timely bingle bringing in the one count, with a runner on second base. Strachans were baulked in the opening session, but in the second, third, and fourth they scored five runs, their final two coming in the seventh. Chutchley and Major lead for the winners at the bat, each connecting for two hits, the latter also played a smart game in the field.

Sabourin registered the only stolen base of the afternoon. Lorne Webster made a fine pick up of Morin's fly in right field, getting the ball at his shoe strings after a long run.

The attendance was large, nearly two thousand spectators thoroughly enjoying the two games, which were well handled by George Parks and Harry Tomkins. The scores, summaries, and teams were as follows:

NATIONAL MEN GOT LINE ON THE MONTREAL TEAM

MONTREAL, 7.
SHAMROCKS, 4.

Jim Kavanagh did not turn out to play lacrosse on Saturday, but Paddy Brennan, an even more celebrated veteran, did.

For a man who has been out of the game as long as he has, his showing was excellent, and the moral effect was good, indicating that the members of the Association who have its welfare at heart, are ready to sacrifice something to keep the grand old game of lacrosse growing.

He even made a mark in the way of scoring, certainly worked as well as some of the other younger veterans who were out, and when it came to the fight which sort of upset a pleasant match, he was one of the first to go in as a peacemaker.

George Roberts greatly strengthened the Montreal end, and the Montreal team as constituted now should put up a great resistance against the Nationals when next these two clubs meet.

It was a fairly well contested match, Frankie Hogan also doing a come-back and scoring one for Montreal, and the fight, although it looked bad, did not result in any serious injuries, the referees keeping the situation well in hand by their strict decisions.

As upon other occasions, Secours seems to have been the storm centre.

Some of the National players, including L'Heureux, were interested spectators, evidently trying to get a line on the reorganized Montreal team for their next encounter.

PRESIDENT TENER AT BOSTON TO INVESTIGATE EVERS RUN-IN WITH UMPIRE QUIGLEY

Upon arriving at the Braves' Park in Boston on a special trip of investigation of the recent row between Johnnie Evers, the Boston captain, and Umpire Quigley, President Tener, of the National League, did not wait for the game then in progress to end, but strode out on the diamond, interrupted the game, and began to interrogate Umpire Quigley, who was one of the arbiters. Photo shows President Tener as he met Umpire Quigley, who is saluting the ball magnate.

FORM FOLLOWERS HAD A GOOD DAY AT MAISONNEUVE

Favorites continue to be very much in evidence at the Maisonneuve track on Saturday no less than five landing home in front, while two of the other events went to second choices.

Saturday's attendance was a record one, and early in the afternoon the management opened up the big gates and let the crowd into the infield, this being necessary to avoid crowding about the stands.

The officials, who have been pretty busy about the half-mile track of late, handed down three more rulings Saturday. Jackey Wolstenholm, who rode two winners, was suspended for striking Hinphy with his whip in the last race, when Ball went to pass Indifferent. McCullogh and Foden were set down for two days by Starter Murray for disobedience at the post.

Nine races were on the card and some close and interesting finishes were provided. The closest finish was between Bat Masterson and Major Belt, the former winning by a neck. The winner was in front from the start, but was tiring badly at the finish, and had to extend himself to the limit to stave off Major Belt.

Anavris, Uncle Dick and Bunice got away together in the second, and went down the back stretch running neck and neck, the race proving a very interesting one. Swinging into the stretch Anavris pulled in front, while Howard, on Uncle Dick, outrode Doyle on Bunice, and won the place money.

Mud Sill, finding a track to his liking, showed one of his best races, and won going away at the end from horses which had beaten him in former races. He was the class to the race, and the victory was not a surprise. The greatest disappointment of the afternoon was the defeat of Rosemary. This filly ran her race, but through getting caught in the barrier her chances were detracted from, and she could not overcome the lead secured by Indifferent and Sati in the early stages. McCurrogh also made a mistake in trying to steal through on the rail, when he might have done better by retaining his position in the centre of the track.

The riding honors of the afternoon were well divided between Wolstenholm, McCullogh and Gargan, each riding three winning mounts.

LEAFS DROP WHOLE SERIES TO ROYALS; HEAVY HITTING

At the expense of the Toronto Leafs, the Royals opened up a little winning streak on Friday, and continued it over the week-end, cleaning up a three-game series from Bill Clymer.

Heavy hitting was the chief cause of the Saturday and Sunday victories, the Royals smothering Toronto 15 to 6 in the Saturday encounter, and winning again yesterday 10 to 7.

Manager Dan Howley was the big noise in the hit column Saturday, peeling off two homers during the entertainment, the bases being crowded on each occasion. Mr. Howley is displaying some hitting talent of late, taken it from us. Irelan and Flynn also contributed to the home run column during the afternoon.

The Royals' heavy artillery was again very much in evidence at the National grounds, when Hebert, who had already lost one game in the series, was sent back for more. He found the Royals in excellent mood to receive him, and his offerings were awatted up freely during the encounter, but he managed to keep the game in hand and tightened up very materially when hits meant runs.

The Royals got to Herbert at the start and did not ease up until the game was on ice. Nash, Flynn and Paul Smith were the big hitters with three each.

The lacrosse match and horse racing at Maisonneuve attracted most of the fans who were in town over the week-end, and as a result the attendance Saturday was very small, although it showed some improvement yesterday.

GOLF NOTES

CLEVELAND, July 26. — Playing the greatest golf that ever has been witnessed over the Mayfield course, Chick Evans defeated J. D. Standish, jr., of Detroit, 7 and 5, in the final match for the 1915 western amateur title. In doing so he set a new record for the course in the morning, finishing the eighteen holes in 71, one stroke less than marks made by W. C. Fownes, jr., Pittsburg, and Ned Sawyer, Chicago, earlier in the tourney.

DALE IS SEVENTH AMONG NATIONAL LEAGUE PITCHERS

Jake Daubert has been deposed. That is, he has been ousted from the batting leadership of the National League. The proud position at the top is now held by Fred Luderus, of the Phillies. His average is .338 and Jake Daubert is six points behind. Fred. Merkle is third with .323 and Larry Doyle comes fourth with .320.

The Giants have plenty of men near the top, for Davey Robertson is no further away than sixth with his mark of .314. George Burns is coming up steadily all the time. He gained three points last week and is now hitting for .272, as against .269.

AMERICAN LEAGUE.

Ty Cobb's only worry these days is to stay in the .400 class. Since he is the only man in either league hitting above that mark, he finds the strain of his isolation growing. His margin of safety is slight now, for he lost two points last week and is hitting at present .404.

The .275 hitters are:—

LAWN BOWLING

The Valleyfield lawn bowlers were defeated by the M. A. A. A. in the St. Pierre Trophy competition on Saturday evening by a score of 108 to 87.

On only one of the visiting rinks were the visitors successful against the Peel street club, J. Ferrie having a three-shot margin over A. McLachlan. The match was well contested, and was really won on Willie Wilson's rink, where he was six shots up over T. Houghton, of Valleyfield. Davie Wilson had a seven-shot margin over R. Wardrop, Norrie Cornell managed to nose out J. Jackson by a single shot, while Rupert Darling had three shots the best of A. Robinson.

League soccer has now entered the second half of the season, and Saturday saw many games pulled off, with a slight shuffle in the senior table, from the dizzy heights of which C. P. R. go to third place, after a brief occupation.

Locos' victory over C. P. R., at Angus, was a surprise all round, and quite as much to Locos themselves as the losers. It was a very scrub team that represented the Locos, and C. P. R. were at full strength. Why the railroaders did not win can be better described by Woodside, who excelled himself. Yet the game was not what could be called a good one. In the second half, Rough scored the only goal, all that was necessary, as though forwards hung tenaciously around Woodside, they could not beat him. Even if the result was a surprise, it shows the danger of scratch elevens, who can and will at times upset all calculations.

Lachine was beaten by M. A. A. A. 2-0, but only after a worthy fight. The first half was scoreless, though both missed chances. Half way through the second portion of play, Wash got M. A. A. A.'s first, to be followed by Sharp with number two. Lachine at least deserved a goal, but were denied by a stubborn defence. The result keeps M. A. A. A. well in the running for senior honors, and opens out the fight with C. P. R. and Grand Trunks. S. O. E. and Locos hold a watching brief.

Shamrocks were expected to at least put up a show against Sons of England, but when the time of kick-off approached and neither Cowie nor Sloan put in an appearance, chances were sadly discounted. Joe Langley left the front rank and doffed his green shirt for a white sweater to operate in Cowie's place between the sticks. After five minutes' play it was clearly to be seen Shamrocks were no match for the Englishmen, who, after Jack Berry scored with a lightning shot, attacked persistently. Wakelin scored the second, after Langley had saved, and Syd Garrett finished a fine run with an equally fine shot, and made it 30-0. Shamrocks put in a few disjointed attempt to score, but, on the whole, Wilson had little to do. Much good work went for nought by Shamrocks' right wing and centre repeatedly laying offside, greatly to Emery's comfort. The end saw Shamrocks routed 6-1.

Sons of Scotland performed quite a feat in defeating St. Paul Rangers on the latters' ground, by 5-2. This victory gives the Scots a welcome leg up, and also needed encouragement, after recent happenings. As for Rangers, they appear to be slipping, or perhaps they had a day off. But as enlisting has made such a difference in local soccer, in and out performances are only to be expected. Still, S. O. E. are to be complimented for Saturday's work.

Fairmount could not raise a team, so defaulted to Grand Trunks, but it is possible that Trunks will not, under the circumstances, claim the points, following Locos lead; instead, will offer a later date for the fixture. However, they are theirs by right, and any other arrangement is only by courtesy. There is persistent talk that Fairmount will disband, being tired of the struggle against "adversity." This is not to the game's advantage, so doubtless the P. Q. F. A. will make the proposed "open transfer." Nothing else can save Fairmount, who are one of the three oldest clubs in the First Division, the others being Sons of Scotland and C. P. R.

Home or away seems all alike to Invictus, their latest victory being over Canada Tube, 4-0. Only a few more "trenches" remain to be taken ere Invictus find themselves in senior company, at their present rate of progress this is a certainty. The Tube are no easy picking on their own ground, which makes Invictus' victory all the more meritorious.

Few clubs have borne the "slings and arrows of outrageous fortune," with greater fortitude than St. Thomas, of the Second Division. This bunch have not a point to their name, and an adverse goal balance that is mounting as "huge as high Olympus," yet to their credit they have never scratched a game, and what is more, say they never will. This is the stuff that commands respect.

EXCITING CANOE RACES DURING NORTHERN MEET

Special to The Montreal Star.

OTTAWA, July 26.—A comparatively clear sheet of water, a large representation of members of various aquatic clubs, and no end of interest and excitement made for the success of the annual qualifying meet of the Northern Division of the Canadian Canoe Association at Carleton Place on Saturday afternoon.

The greater majority of first positions were won by the Ottawa-New Edinburghs, their tally being five firsts out of eleven events on the program. Besides this, very good showing, they secured second position in four of the races and third position in two other ccntests. The Rideaus fell down somewhat in their showing. Britannia firsts and Ottawa-New Edinburgh seniors paddled a great race. They were never able to overcome the lead which their opponents from the junction town held. These three crews stuck pretty close together all the way, and towards the finish, Carleton Place gained a little more, crossing the line a full boat's length ahead of the other two crews, who finished a dead heat for second place. In both war canoe tussels, Carleton Place, Britannias and Ottawa-New Edinburghs each had two crews entered. In the half mile fixture the Britannias was awarded second position, although the judges decided that it was a dead heat between Britannia and Ottawa-New Edinburgh. The matter, however, was settled by the final decision of referee Gowling, who claimed that Ottawa-New Edinburghs fouled Britannias near the end of the race. With one exception only, the races were very closely contested, and there was all kinds of excitement at the finish of each race.

HALF MILE WAR CANOE.

The main interest centred in the half mile war canoe race. Four starts were made in this race before the crews were finally off to compete in one of the most exciting War Canoe struggles in the history of the Northern Division. Right at the beginning the Carleton Place crew nosed ahead and retained their lead to the finish. But they did not win by any walk-over. The Ottawa-New Edinburgh crew pressed them hard and there was only two seconds difference between their finish. The Carleton Place crew covered the course in seven minutes and fifty-six seconds. Although out of the course, the Britannia seconds were a close third Carleton Place won the Senior Fours, while Millar and Stimson, of the Britannias, carried off the Senior Tandem, the Senior Singles also going to Britannias, when Ernie Ballantyne, a dark horse, paddled home ahead. All these winners will go to Toronto next week to paddle in the Canadian Canoe Association championship finals.

Evans Defeats Standish Also Sets a New Record

CLEVELAND, July 26.—Playing the greatest golf that has ever been witnessed over the Mayfield course, Chick Evans defeated J. D. Standish, jr., of Detroit, 7 to 5, in the final match for the 1915 western amateur title.

In doing so he set a new record for the course, finishing the 18 holes in 71, one stroke less than was made by W. C. Fownes, jr., Pittsburg, and Ned Sawyer, Chicago, earlier in the tourney.

Evans made the first nine in 37, equaling the par up to the turn. On the return he played sensational golf, being aided at the eighteenth by holing out on a mashie shot from the rough, 100 feet from the cup. This gave him a 34 for the return,

OPENING SECOND HAMILTON MEET GREAT SUCCESS

Special to The Montreal Star.

HAMILTON, Ont., July 26.—Resign, a chestnut colt from the stable of J. P. Kilpess, of Cincinnati, and favored by a light weight, accounted for the Prince Edward Selling Stakes, the carded feature of the opening day's program at the Hamilton Jockey Club, Saturday afternoon. Back of him finished a representative band of candidates, with Schemer and Bendal to share the honors with the winner in the charmed circle. The dash of a mile and a sixteenth drew a band of eleven to the post, and after a few minutes delay at the post, the field was despatched to a good start. Schemer was the first to show in front, but he was closely followed by the field. The winner, ridden by Garner, was kept under restraint, and when straightened away in the stretch responded with good courage and assumed the lead to dray away at the end. Schemer, although tiring, was quite a distance in front of Bendel, who sweved very wide entering the final quarter after the turn.

IDEAL CONDITIONS.

Ideal conditions marked the opening of the Jockey Club's second and final meeting. A crowd that fully taxed the capacity of the spacious stands and lawns was on hand. Toronto and Buffalo being well represented in the different delegations that arrived via the different routes. The track, although at its height, witnessed the passing of an old mark that has stood for several seasons, when Slipper Day, a fleet filly from the stable of J. S. Hendrie, lowered the old mark held jointly by U See It and Panzareta at five and a half furlongs. The winner was ridden by Smyth and won in fashion in 1.08 2-5, reducing the old mark by 3-5 of a second.

Favorites fared harshly during the afternoon, the players being all at sea and unable to locate the choices. The hardest blow of the afternoon was the defeat of the over-estimated Kentucky youngster Dodge. He appeared unable to get up at any stage of the journey. Pan Zareta also suffered defeat by the big daughter of Abe Frank, being forced to take the overland route in the deepest going on the outside and the heavy impost that she was asked to carry had a lot to do with her undoing.

E. G. Williams of Toronto, a prominent Spadina avenue chemist, dropped dead during the running of a race from undue excitement. The remains were taken in charge by relatives of the family.

Sir F. L. F. FitzWygram, who played for I Zingari and Household Brigade, is in the injured list.

The Chances for Connaught Cup Final Matches

Special to The Montreal Star.

TORONTO, July 26.—According to Secretary Tom Robertson, of the Dominion of Canada Football Association, it is almost certain that the Connaught Cup final will be played in Toronto. The proposal is that the Western champions, including New Ontario, play to a finish, and the Eastern champions do the same, leaving the grand champions of east and west to play off in Toronto, where the annual general meeting of the D. F. A. will be held. With regard to the East it is suggested that Grand Trunk of Montreal and Lancashires of Toronto play home and home games, goals to decide the issue to the two "gates" to be pooled. This arrangement would prove a most satisfactory one and will probably be adopted.

Kingsbeer---

"Club Special" and "Home Brew?"

"Club Special" is the original Kingsbeer, which is so well known all over Canada for its fine taste and exceptional flavor. It is impossible to produce a finer beer than "Club Special". In fact "Club Special" holds the same place amongst beers which champagne holds amongst wines. "Home Brew" is slightly different from "Club Special" but is produced with the same high grade materials which are used in the latter. It is brewed specially for home consumption and family use. Whilst differing slightly in taste and flavour from "Club Special," it is an unusually fine brew.

Insist upon having these brands.

GERMAN PAPERS ARE FURIOUS AT AMERICAN NOTE

Bitterness Underlies Defiant Comment in Reply to Wilson

AGREED UNDERSEA CAMPAIGN GOES ON

United States Accused of Siding with Enemies of Germany

BERLIN, July 25, via London, July 26.—The American note was published in the Sunday morning newspapers. Count Ernest von Reventlow, in the Tages Zeitung, declares that the contents and wording far exceed even the most unfavorable anticipations. Count Reventlow writes:

"The note uses languages which will find no response with the overwhelming majority of the German nation since it means in the last analysis an appeal to fear, a threatening, domineering demand. The note will make a conceivably bad impression among the people since it lacks utterly the friendly frankness of the German note and breathes almost hateful disregard of the German Government's standpoint."

The Vossische Zietung, in a lengthy editorial, says:

"The refusal to accept Germany's practical proposal to protect American passengers shows an absolute lack of readiness to understand the German standpoint. The principle that belligerent states must protect neutrals is untenable if applied in the fullest sense, as it would mean abdication to neutral States.

VICTORY SUPREME LAW.

"Victory over the enemy is the supreme law for every belligerent. Those who render more difficult this task than does international law support the enemy. The war on land has shown clearly that restrictions are necessary. A person who remains within a beleaguered fortress or walks into a gunfire zone risks his life without the right of protection from his home Government.

"The same also is true of naval warfare in spite of the mistaken phrase 'freedom of the seas.' It is granted that the ocean is free for peaceful travel, but naval battles also take place on it. Neutral ships sailing between fighting battleships run the risk of being hit by shells and also of being struck by mines. The submarine's only instruments are the firing of torpedoes.

"Those who demand that Germany should conduct the war according to rules laid down by some academic professor expect Germany either to endanger her submarines or to give up this warfare, which means the weakening of Germany in the interest of her enemy. This is not neutrality, but partisanship against Germany.

"We know today that the passengers (of the Lusitania) could have been saved, but that they were neglected. Germany regrets their death, but she has a clean conscience and has no reason to disapprove of the conduct of her submarine commanders."

CHANGE OUT OF QUESTION.

The Tagliche Rundschau and the Kreuz Zeitung similarly declare that the American note calls for the most decided opposition and that it requires Great Britain to show at least an equal respect for the spirit of international law as the President demands from Germany.

The Tageblatt says:

"The note shows clearly that the American Government cares more for the crippling of our submarine war than for the safeguarding of American lives. The United States must realize that to change our submarine warfare is out of the question."

The Tages Zeitung writes:

"Neutrals have rights, but so also has a great nation fighting for its life. Though maintaining submarine warfare, Germany always is willing to respect the justifiable wishes of Americans, but not at any price."

Captain Persius, naval expert of the Tageblatt, commenting on the note, says:

"The American note expresses a decided will to rob us in our battle against England of the weapon on which we place the biggest hopes. By the rejection of the German proposals regarding special ships the United States shows that it is not striving for the safety of its citizens, but rather for the laming of our submarine campaign."

SIDES AGAINST GERMANY.

The Vossiche Zeitung says that Germany's courteous proposals have not been able to change the President's obstinacy and that from his standpoint he not only rejects all proposals but clothes the rejection in a form that is anything but friendly.

"Whoever plans such a thing," the Vossiche Zeitung continues, "is no longer neutral, but takes sides against Germany and for its enemies."

The newspaper defends the sinking of the Lusitania, which it terms a warship, and says that a different course cannot be followed towards a warship simply because Americans are on board.

The Vossiche Zeitung adds that the note further shows "that not only is President Wilson's policy in the matter of the German submarine policy influenced by an especial relation to England, but also by the internal political situation in the United States."

"The only answer to the concluding paragraph of the note," says the newspaper, "is that American citizens have it in their own power to avoid danger."

"We resist the thought," says the Kreuz Zeitung, "that the United States in its position on the submarine matter aim at the indirect support of England. But we must confess that the contents of the note are with difficulty understandable to us from any other viewpoint."

The Boersen Zeitung says it regrets that it is compelled to say the note is a very unsatisfactory one and that "one cannot escape feeling that the shadow of England stands behind it."

erlin Will Not Hasten to Reply

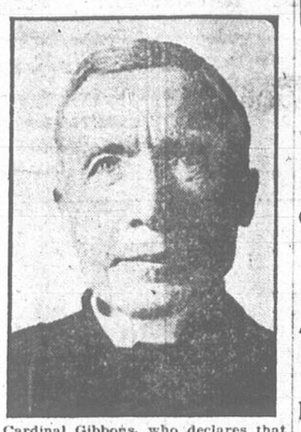

Here is every indication that considerable time will elapse before the German Government makes any attempt to answer the latest American note on the sinking of the Lusitania.

[illegible] the United States protest [illegible] Britain in regard to restrictions placed upon shipping, it is reported here, is now being formulated, be couched in firm terms, it is considered possible the German reply would not be brusque.

In the absence of evidence that the United States intends to force Great Britain to abandon the policy German considers illegal, condemnation of residenPt Wilson's attitude is universal.

Hope has not been abandoned, however, that the United States may intend to assail vigorously Great Britain's methods of controlling the sea. Until this point becomes clear the Berlin Foreign Office probably will mark time.

No Doubt That U. S. Note is an Ultimatum Now

LONDON, July 26. — The morning newspapers devote much attention to President Wilson's latest note to Germany, which is applauded for its firm tone, dignity and force.

The Daily News remarks at the outset that in spite of the scrupulously diplomatic language employed, there is no doubt but that the note is an ultimatum. Continuing, the Daily News says:

"The action of the German Government has forced Washington to descend from the general to the particular. The demand for reparation for American lives lost in the Lusitania disaster, and for the disavowal by Germany of the submarine commander's act may conceivably be the subject of prolonged negotiations, but the last clause of the message puts an end to negotiations."

Discussing the possible result of the note, the Daily News says:

"The natural attitude of Wilhelmstrasse in the face of the American ultimatum would be to delay. The very nature of the submarine campaign makes it extremely difficult to avoid the offence which President Wilson has indicated will be regarded as final. In the second place, there exists doubts, which seem at least to be well founded, whether Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg's control is all perfect as far as the German Admiralty is concerned.

"A single intractible submarine commander may now destroy in a few seconds the flimsy fabric which is all the remains of the official German-American friendship. We still hesitate to believe that this will happen, but the history of the German conduct of this war gives no security that it will not."

ISSUE STERNLY STATED.

"The issue between the two Governments is thus stated in its sternest and most unequivocal terms, says the Daily Mail, and adds:

"Whatever happens, nothing can detract from the dignity, high-mindedness and patient skill with which President Wilson, acting in the name of humanity and from no merely national motive, has thus far conducted these difficult negotiations."

The Daily Chronicle says

"A firm hand is felt under the velvet glove and the controversy is quietly advanced to a point where old prevarications can suffice no longer. In the face of this note, the German Government, into whatever other negotiations it may enter, has only two practical alternatives—either to abandon its submarine campaign, or else to continue it with the knowledge that the next incident like the Lusitania or the Falaba will cause the United States to break off diplomatice relations, and possibly to declare war."

The Morning Post says:

"The note is dignified, conciliatory and resolute, and brings back the discussion to the real point at issue. The language employed by Secretary Lansing is unmistakeable."

The Post incidentally remarks that it is at a loss to understand what is meant in the passage of the note referring to "freedom of the seas," in the attainment of which Germany is courteously requested to lend assistance and argues that under the order-in-council of March "things have been made as easy as possible for the neutral trader."

ULTIMATUM IN SUBSTANCE.

The Daily Telegraph says:

"Those who had expected any lack of firmness in the note will perceive that Secretary of State Bryan in resigning correctly foresaw the development of this momentous correspondence between Washington and Berlin. While scrupulously courteous, the note is in substance an ultimatum and nothing else.

"Germany has done her worst with her policy of maritime murder, and brought herself within sight of rupture with a power whose continued neutrality she has moved heaven and earth to secure. We shall see whether she is prepared to persevere in the course which led her to this situation."

The Daily Graphic, in an editorial thinks it unlikely that the American note will result in war, because of the cosmopolitan population of the country.

"It is needless to say," the newspaper adds, "that we in no wise are anxious that America should be dragged into war, but only that as the most powerful neutral nation she should undertake the defense of the principles of International Law."

The Times characterizes the American note as "not an ultimatum, but an exceedingly strong and definite warning," and adds:

"It cannot be said that President Wilson has been precipitate. His handling of the whole question, indeed, has been remarkable, not less for its patience than for its sustained loftiness. The responsibilities of an American President in such an emergency as this are very great. We do not know when they have been discharged with more skill, dignity or self-restraint than by President Wilson."

NO CHANGE IN METHOD.

The naval correspondent of the Times asserts that the blockade of the past two months does not bear out the view of President Wilson, and points out that the few intervals of decreased activity always have been followed with renewed activity, resulting in the sinking, without warning and with the loss of life both of British and neutral vessels. He says there is not the slighest indication that German commanders have changed their methods and that President Wilson's words, therefore, taken in ordinary acceptance, "cannot be justified."

The Times says it is possible President Wilson may have had from the British Government some information which is withheld from the public, but argues that so far as the facts have been revealed, there is no ground for supposing any changes have been made in the instructions given German submarine commanders.

CAUSE FOR REFLECTION.

In an editorial discussing the paragraph in the American note to Germany, which invites the co-operation of the German Government in securing the freedom of the seas, the Manchester Guardian says:

"This whole passage should be very carefully noted. It means quite plainly that in President Wilson's opinion this country is an offender against the principle of the freedom of the seas; we have, in fact, had several despatches from President Wilson on this subject, and these shortly will be followed by another.

"He declines to discuss alleged infractions of the freedom of the seas with Germany now, but he says in effect that the case might be different if Germany showed sincerity in her attachment to the principle of freedom at sea by abandoning her submarine campaign, which is the most serious infraction of that freedom ever known. Let Germany do that, and America, and she may do something together for freedom on the seas. The whole passage may well occasion some very serious reflections in this country."

ITALY HIGHLY APPROVES.

ROME, via Paris, July 26.—President Wilson's note to Germany is highly commended by the Italian press. The Tribune says:

"The situation has reached a decisive stage and all further discussion seems impossible; or at least useless. It only remains to be seen what attitude Germany will adopt in the face of this courteous but firm statement of the American position."

AUSTRIAN PAPER PUZZLED.

VIENNA, July 26, via London. — The Neue Freie Presse expresses itself as unable to understand why the United States refused Germany's proposal for protecting the lives of American citizens at sea and, although seeking the sanctity of American passengers, declined the practical means offered for securing this end.

"It is a question," the paper adds, "whether the same stiff-neckedness would be observed against England."

CHICAGO TO FIX RESPONSIBILITY FOR HOLOCAUST

Chief of Police Declares There Has Been Criminal Negligence

ARRESTS ORDERED BY THE CORONER

Fatal Ship Has Always Been More or Less of a Hoodoo

CHICAGO, July 26.—The death ship Eastland, had given up 820 bodies of those who went down to death in the Chicago River on Saturday morning, when the steel steamer, bearing 2,408 excursionists rolled over at her dock, lies on her side in the river with divers still floundering through her ghastly interior and burrowing under ner in a death search, while Chicago appalled, is just beginning to realize the real significance of one of the greatest river disasters.

While the grieving thousands who lost dear ones walked through the morgue in the Second Regiment Armory, gazing into the faces of the dead, half in hope, half in despair, Chicago citizens and city, State and Federal officials turned their attention to investigations that must bring forth some explanation of the catastrophe and the work of providing relief for those left destitute.

Acting-Mayor Moorhouse and his advisers decided to raise a relief fund of $200,000 to be distributed by a sub-committee acting under the direction of the National Red Cross, the Associated Charities and the Municipal Health Department. In addition to this the Western Electric Company, whose employees formed the majority of the ill-fated excursion party, announced that $100,000 from its employees' insurance fund was available for relief. Numerous private relief funds were started.

Coroner Hoffman issued an appeal to the public for a fund for the burial of whatever dead may remain unidentified. City officials with one voice declared that all dead should have proper burial.

In churches and homes throughout the city there were offered prayers for the thousands whose hearts have been pierced by grief. The day was one of gloom. The sky was cloudy and a mist hung in the air. There was more than the usual Sabbath quiet everywhere, and the crowds of out-door pleasure seekers were thin. As was the case yesterday baseball games were postponed.

THEORIES OF DISASTER.

Various theories as to what caused the Eastland to turn over were discussed, but without prospect of a definite explanation being reached until the official inquiries to be taken up tomorrow are finished. The most discussed theories are four; that the boat was overloaded; that she was not properly ballasted; that a tug that made fast to warp the Eastland from the dock started pulling too soon; that congestion of passengers rushing to the port side attracted by some passing sensation tipped the steamer over.

Exploration of the wrecked steamer was continued all Saturday night and yesterday by divers searching for bodies. The steamer lay close to the south bank of the river at Clark street like some giant fish that had stranded in shallow waters.

The Eastland's position had not shifted during the night. The river current, which ordinarily is from six to eight miles per hour, had been reduced to about one mile an hour by closing gates in the drainage canal dam at Lockport, Illinois. This not only kept the great steamer's hull steady, but prevented drifting away of bodies that were still in her hold or pinned down in the mud underneath her port side.

DIVERS ARE WORN OUT.

Seven divers had brought up before ten o'clock yesterday morning forty-two bodies. Then came an interval of five hours before the search was rewarded by discovery of two more corpses. Eight other bodies were found in the river several blocks from the scene of the disaster.

Four police patrol boats cruised around the Eastland for hours, using trawl lines with heavy hooks trying to bring out bodies that possibly had drifted away from the steamer. This search, however, was fruitless.

Four divers from Milwaukee to assist Chicago workers, worn out by their efforts of yesterday. Seven divers in all were at work yesterday.

One of the divers, Louis Kruger, said that he thought several score bodies were still pinned under the boat, which, he said, was resting in about four feet of stiff mud. These bodies cannot be reckoned with until after the coroner's inquest, when efforts will be made to right the vessel.

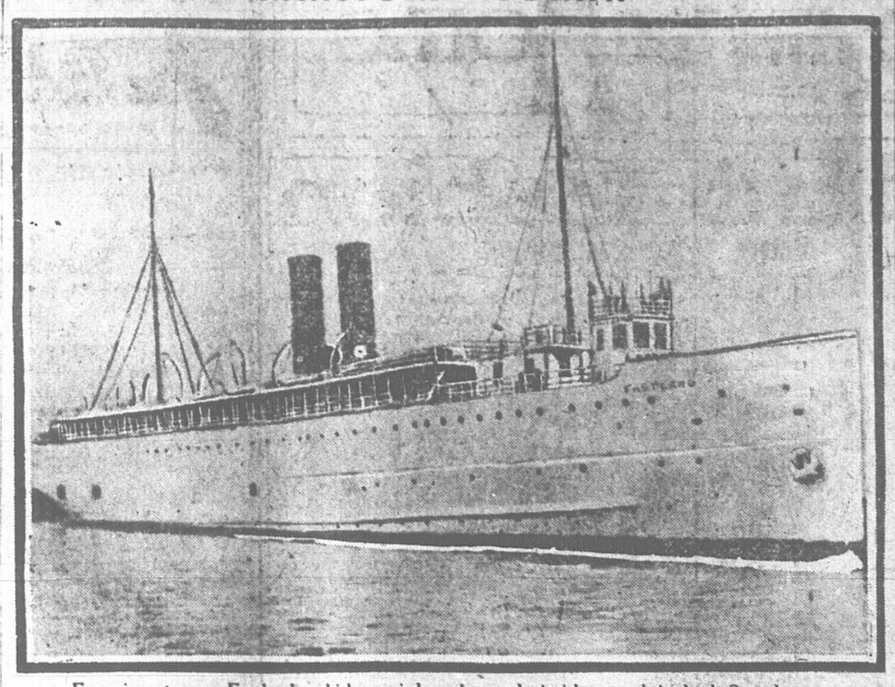

RELIED ON GOVERNMENT O. K.

Manager W. K. Greenebaum, of the Indiana Transportation Company, which had leased the steamer for the Western Electric Company's excursion, was early at his office. From his window he overlooked, with grave face, the scene in the river below and said:

"It was a terrible calamity. As I said before, the Government inspector's 'OK.' when the passengers were taken aboard, seemed assurance that all was well, and the catastrophe came to us as a terrible shock."

Three investigations were in full swing here yesterday, the object of each being to ascertain the cause of the Eastland disaster. Dickerson N. Hoover, Government steamboat inspector, and Federal Supervisor Charles Westcott, arrived from Washington and conferred with the local inspectors, who began to gather facts for the Federal grand jury, ordered empanelled tomorrow.

CHICAGO'S SHIP OF DEATH.

Excursion steamer Eastland, which carried a thousand picnickers to their death Saturday.

Criminal Negligence Sure, Declares Chief

MacLay Hoyne, state attorney, had a full force of men locating witnesses to go before the county grand jury, which will be empanelled today.

The entire police department was active. That evidence of criminal negligence in connection with the wreck had been obtained by them was hinted by C. C. Healey, chief of police. He said valuable information was found in the inspection papers seized Saturday in Capt. Harry Pedersen's cabin. Two documents were taken and the captain and twenty-eight officers and members of the crew arrested.

These papers, according to the meagre information that could be obtained about them, showed that following inspection the boat was to be permitted to carry 2,000 passengers and a crew of seventy. Chief Healey refused to discuss the papers other than to admit he had them and that he would turn them over to States Attorney Hoyne.

"Has there been criminal negligence?" the chief was asked.

"There is no doubt of that," Chief Healey answered.

ARRESTS ORDERED WHOLESALE.

Coroner Hoffman issued the following statement:

"I intend to use every effort within my power to punish every person, directly or indirectly responsible for this disaster. None shall escape. I am ready to co-operate with any official, city, state or national, in fixing the responsibility for this disaster."

Coroner Hoffman had announced late on Saturday night that he had ordered the arrest of every official of the Indiana Transportation Company, which leased the Eastland. No individuals were mentioned in the coroner's announcement.

W. C. Steele, secretary and treasurer of the St. Joseph-Chicago Steamship Company, which owned the Eastland, was arrested on Sunday night and locked up at a police station. The steamer was leased by the Indiana Transportation Company, whose officers said they were not responsible for the licensing of the ship and did not control the crew.

Dickerson N. Hoover, who is acting supervising Inspector-General of the steamboat inspection service, on his arrival, said:

"All I am here for is to impress upon the local inspectors the grave importance of a thorough investigation. If it is true that an inspector is to blame, I want to know it. If it is some other cause, I want to know that. There is no one more interested in getting at the bottom of this situation than is the department at Washington.

"A considerable portion of the blame for the Eastland disaster rests upon the United States Inspection Bureau," said MacLay Hoyne, State Attorney, in a statement regarding his investigation of the wreck. "If the inspectors had done their duty the accident could not have occurred.

"We know the ship was considered unsafe by them, because I have copies of letters sent to Washington which predicted yesterday's occurrence. I may introduce these letters at the inquest."

This quiet half-cloudy Sunday was a day of gloom for all Chicago. Ministers said more people attended church than for many Sundays past. Chicago turned to prayer and thought. The preachers nearly all referred to the Eastland disaster in their sermons and asked congregations to join in prayer for the bereaved.

There were crowds of the morbidly curious along the river, but for the most part the populace either went to church or stayed at home in appalled thought.

With the details of the catastrophe summed up and sober second thought given the people shuddered that close to the throbbing heart of one of the great cities of the world a thousand people could go to their death with hundreds of persons powerless to aid standing within a stone's throw — that that great mass could drown in a narrow river, twenty feet from the dock.

PRESIDENT SENDS MESSAGE.

Acting Mayor Moorhouse, of Chicago, received the following telegram from President Woodrow Wilson, addressed from Windsor, Vermont:

"I am sure I speak the universal feeling of the people of the country in expressing my profound sympathy and sorrow in the presence of the great disaster which saddened so many homes."

"The Eastland was the crank of the lakes, and, as far as I know, the only crank on the lakes," W. J. Wood, naval architect, who was called by the owners in 1903 to correct faults in the boat, declared today. In 1904 Wood made representations to Captain Ira Mansfield, local steamboat inspector which resulted in an order to cut off the top deck of the vessel and to keep the water ballast compartments filled.

"The deck was cut off," Mr. Wood declared today, "but it would be impossible to fix the cause of the accident until it is known whether the other conditions were fulfilled.

"The design of the vessel would not permit of its operation as other vessels are operated and great care had to be taken at all times."

The Eastland was built by the Port Huron Shipbuilding Company and on its trial run in 1903 failed to come up to specifications, according to Wood, who was one of three judges to pass on its performances. "The fault in the Eastland was in the hull," said Mr. Wood. "After the Eastland was completed, $35,000 was spent to correct faults, but the vulnerable faults were in the hull, and I got my first sight of it today as I saw the boat overturned in the river.

"There are certain fundamental principles applying to naval architecture which seemed not to have been carried out. The Eastland had almost no body at all, and this was its main weakness. Other boats on the lakes look as top-heavy as did the Eastland, but they are absolutely sare, because their hulls are properly constructed."

The Eastland's first two seasons, 1904 and 1905, were failures, and the Eastland Navigation Company of Cleveland bought her for $250,000.

The next two seasons were failures also, and she was bought by a new company, which lost between $175,000 and $200,000 on her in seven years on the Cleveland Cedar Point run.

During her first Cleveland season the Eastland ran aground at Cedar Point with 2,000 passengers on board. She listed heavily, but did not turn over.

In 1913 she ran ashore in the mud near Cleveland, and 600 passengers were kept on board until 2 a.m.

No lives had been lost on the Eastland before Saturday's disaster.

A PITIFUL MEMENTO.

What is now a pitiful document is the "July Jubilator," the official Western Electric employes' newspaper, boosting its great picnic in Michigan City via the Eastland that tragedy forestalled.

Introducing the front-page cartoon is the caption:

WHAT HO! READERS OF THE JUBILATOR, BE JUBILANT! LAST TIME IT WAS A SUBMARINE.
LONG AGO JONAH TOOK A TRIP IN A SUBMARINE.
THERE IS NO JONAH ABOUT THIS.
BUT IT WILL BE A WHALE OF A SUCCESS.

The newspaper was filled with jokes and cartoons of what might have taken place at the fifth annual picnic of the employes, which was to have been the largest ever held.

A great parade in Michigan City, with movie men recording every event, athletic contests, and every amusement that goes with a summer resort had been provided.

Prizes had been offered for the most novel and beautiful costumes in the parade, and this accounted for the gorgeous attire found on many of the bodies taken from the river after the Eastland overturned.

This is a section of both Tube and Tire. The Inner Tube is pictured to show the layers which compose it. In completed Tubes these layers, of course, are vulcanized together into one solid rubber Tube.

Goodyear Tubes Can't Leak

They Outlast Any Tire

Inner tubes are made to hold air. Those that are made of one thick piece of rubber are apt to be porous. Neither can foreign matter be detected. So the air escapes and your tires run into trouble. Tubes that are colored contain much mineral matter. That heats up under friction and destroys the tube before its time.

Goodyear Inner Tubes are made of thin sheets of pure natural gray rubber. So the slightest flaw is detected and eliminated. Then these perfect sheets are wrapped layer on layer and vulcanized into an inseparable unit. The valve patch, too, is made part of the tube. It is not stuck on. And so our method makes the tube proof against inherent leaks.

14 Per Cent Heavier

Countless tests have proved that Goodyear Laminated Inner Tubes outlast, on the average, any tire.

Yet since those tests we have added extra layers. The smaller sizes are 12½ per cent thicker, the larger sizes 16 per cent—all pure rubber. They average 14 per cent heavier.

20 Per Cent Lower Priced

Besides giving extra quality, we cut our prices 20 per cent on tubes when we announced our great reduction on Goodyear Fortified Tires. That was February 15th—in the face of the war tax on all our raw materials.

And that reduction—our third within two years—was earned by the legions of users that Goodyear Tubes and Tires have won.

Their demand compelled us to double our factory capacity at Bowmanville, Ont. And it also cut our factory cost per tube and tire.

So this saving we pass on to Goodyear users in the form of betterments and lower prices.

Buy Fewer Tubes

No matter what tires you use, get these Goodyear Laminated Tubes and you will buy fewer tubes than in the past. For they outlast any tire that's made. And these leak-proof tubes are sold, remember, at about the prices of ordinary tubes.

Let Goodyear Tubes reveal Goodyear standards to you. Then you will want the famous Goodyear Fortified Tires that embody those standards, too. Any dealer can supply you. If he hasn't them in stock he can get them from our nearby branch.

For Women and the Home

LITTLE STORIES for Bedtime By T. W. Burgess

FARMER BROWN'S BOY REPAYS HIS FRIENDS.

(Copyright, 1915, by J. G. Lloyd.)

A little kind and goodly deed
Is like a tiny little seed;
It grows and grows and grows and grows,
And where 'twill stop nobody knows.

The little friends of Farmer Brown's boy who were trying to help him by killing all the bugs and worms in the Old Orchard, the garden and the berry patch were doing it to repay him for his kindness to them. They did not expect any further reward. No, indeed! Such a thought had not once entered their heads. They didn't even know if Farmer Brown's boy would know what they were doing and they didn't have the least idea that he would know why they were doing it.

But Farmer Brown's boy did know what they were doing. He listened to the chattering of the birds in the Old Orchard and when they didn't know it he watched them. Then he called Farmer Brown to listen and watch. "There are the best friends we've got," he whispered. "I guess we'll have plenty of apples this year for those birds won't leave a bug or a worm on the trees if they keep on. It's the same way down in the garden. Old Mr. Toad is working his head off down there, and I found a lot of places where Jimmy Skunk has dug up grubs. Of course, I don't suppose they know that they are helping us, but they are just the same, and I'd like to do something for them."

"Why don't you?" asked Farmer Brown with a twinkle in his kindly eyes.

"What?" demanded Farmer Brown's boy.

"Well it seems to me that those little folks must get dreadfully thirsty these hot, dry days, and they must have to go a long way for a drink and a bath."

"The very thing!" cried Farmer Brown's boy delightedly. "I wonder I didn't think of it before."

With this he stroke off toward the barn and there for a time he was very busy, and while he worked he whistled. By and by he came out to the Old Orchard and began to dig a hole just where the sun broke through the branches of one of the apple trees. The birds stopped their work and their singing to watch. What could he be doing?

When the hole was deep enough to suit him he brought a post and put it in. Then he pounded the earth down all around it so that it would stand solidly. On top of the post he fastened a shallow pan. Then he brought a pail of sparkling fresh water and filled the pan, after which he went away and hid where he could watch. At first the birds looked at that post and pan a wee, wee bit suspiciously. Was it a scare crow or a kind of trap? Then Tommy Tit the Chickadee came along and right away he guessed what it was.

"Dee, dee, dee! See me! See me!" he cried joyously, and flitted down to the edge of the pan and began to drink, for he was very thirsty. Then he hopped right in and took a bath. How he did make the water fly It was so cool and refreshing. "Dee, dee dee! See me! See me!" he sang joyously.

Then one after another the other birds did the same thing, and when they had drunk their fill and bathed to their heart's content they sang with all their might and main to let everybody know how happy they were, especially Farmer Brown's boy, for they knew then that he had done this to repay them for their work in the Old Orchard.

Farmer Brown's boy chuckled. Then he put a pan of water in the berry patch and another in the garden, only these he put on the ground for the little people who like the ground best. Every day he saw to it that each pan was filled with fresh, clean water, and so he won his way still farther into the hearts of the little people of the Old Orchard and the Green Meadows. They knew then that he was indeed their friend.

They Sang With All Their Might and Main.

Next Story—Tiny the Warbler Makes a Discovery.

In the fashion By Lillian Young

A Good Design for a Not-too-slender Figure.

Here is a smart bathing dress to be carried out in two materials. It is a design happily suited to a full figure: in fact, it would be a bit too straight and plain for a slender one, with its long waistline and blouse of striped silk.

Waterproof satin in navy blue is used for the skirt and tie, while the blouse is of blue-and-white striped satin, with nickel buttons in a close row down the front and finely twilled white pique for the cuffs and collar. There are two narrow white belts of oilcloth, with nickel buckles. Small loops of silk over the hips and in back will serve to hold the belts in position.

There are very short sleeves cut in one with the waist, and curving pockets—slashes cut over the bust at either side. The brief skirt is evenly gathered to the waist all around. Black jersey tights or silk bloomers are worn beneath, then there is a jaunty little cap of the striped silk tied about the head with a band of white.

The bathing dress accessories are really wonderful this summer. So many dainty little things are made of rubber and rubberized silk. There are braided girdles in Roman colorings, rubber corsage flowers, rubber collar and cuff sets, caps, ties, and shoes that add the daintiest of touches to one's bathing costume

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENCE

All correspondence for this department should be addressed to Margaret Currie. All communications must have name and address signed.

BUGLER.

Will you kindly advise what age a bugler is allowed to join the Canadian Militia for overseas service, and whether the physical standard is the same as that of the rank and file.

INTERESTED.

Ans.—Boys of 14 are acceptable as buglers. Older lads are preferred. There is no particular physical standards, but the applicant must be strong. The choice is left in the hands of the commander of the unit.

A GENTLEWOMAN.

I have written you two letters; the second held a self-addressed envelope, written some weeks ago. You can at least spare the time and saliva to return my envelope—some little satisfaction in this you know. I am beginning to think you are working solely for the Montreal Star; also, you should run, I think, a "Kickers' Column."

MRS. LYDIA McGUIRE
588 Prince Arthur Street,
Amherst, N. S.

Ans.—I regret that your letters have not been answered, also that to the best of my remembrance, they have not reached me. Possibly you forgot the war-tax? Naturally, I am working for The "Star," and the "Star" extends my services to you. The only difference is that The "Star" pays me a salary and my services cost you nothing. If you will be so kind as to write again, enclosing your questions, I shall be glad to answer them, as courteously as possible. I am happy in receiving many, kind and charming letters, about my work which I rarely publish; but I am always glad to give publicity to the letter of a "kicker"—like yourself shall I add?

ANXIOUS.

(1) Put a small wad of absorbent cotton under your nail where it is inclined to grow into the flesh.

(2 Massage your scalp)with finger tips night and morning to correct dryness. Do not use olive oil on fair hair, as it will darken it. Put lemon juice into rinsing water to keep your hair light.

JACKDAW OF RHEIMS.

Several days ago I noticed someone asking you the reason why her face pealed. May I suggest that it may be the soap she uses. I had the same trouble, and after trying several different kinds of soap I gave up using it on my face altogether, and simply used a good face cloth and clear water. The peeling stopped at once, and I have never had a sign of it since.

(1) Could you tell me who wrote the poem "The Jackdaw of Rheims."

(2) Could you tell me what are the national flowers of Belgium and Russia, as the rose stands for England and the tulip for Holland.

(3) Could you give me a recipe for pot pourri of roses. Is it ever made of flowers other than roses.

MILDRED.

Ans.—(1) Thomas Ingoldsby. It is contained in that delightful book called "The Ingoldsby Legends."

(2) The Belgian consul's office said Belgium had no national flower, and the Russian consul's office said Russia had no national flower.

(3) I will give a recipe in Economy Corner.

RINGS UNDER EYES.

Could you give me a remedy or tell me how to remove the ring from under the eyes.

I get plenty of sleep, exercise and sleep with my windows open.

D. P.

Ans.—Get your barber to give you a massage treatment and see if that has any effect. You might also dissolve a little boracic acid in cold water, and bathe your eyes frequently with the solution.

AMMUNITION WORK.

Could you tell me to whom to apply in order to get employment at shell making, either in Montreal, St. John, N. B., or any other city in the Maritime Provinces, or in England.

Ans. — Apply Canada Car and Foundry Company, Angus Shops or Dominion Bridge Co., Montreal.

FRESH AIR FUND.

Will you kindly give me through The Star, address of The Children's Fresh Air Society of Montreal.

STAR READER.

Ans.—Address Mr. Whitrod, Secretary Montreal Star, for information regarding Fresh Air Fund.

"MUCH ANNOYED ELSIE"

will probably find a cure for "warts" by rubbing or covering each night (not one night only) with good castor oil—letting it dry on nands.

I was sadly troubled with them and after trying every thing possible was prevailed on to use this remedy In one week my hand was free after being bothered for over a year. This of course may not benefit some skins as it did mine, but there is nothing like trying.

ALMA E.

BESSIE.

(1) From the description of your friend's trouble, I should think she had some form of disease. Better have her consult a doctor.

(2) Try massage treatment for your hair.

(3) Your writing is clear and distinct. Typewritten letters are, of course, always easier to read, but if people write in ink, on one side of the paper, that is all I ask.

(4) Use lemon juice, peroxide or milk to whiten skin on hands, arms and neck.

(5) Sorry. I do not know the meanings of names.

KHAKI.

If your fiance has so completely "dropped" you, I think the only self-respecting thing you can do is to write, formally releasing him from his engagement to you. I am sorry for you, but you should find some comfort in the fact that a man who could behave as he has done, is not worthy of your love, and that you have had a blessed escape. It is hard to realize that now, of course, but time will bring you that consolation.

SOLDIER'S WIFE.

A woman with three children, whose husband is at the front, writes to ask some suggestions as to how she shall keep house on an income of $30 a month, this to provide all necessaries except rent, which is paid. Her condition of health prevents her from doing any outside work at present. I shall be glad to receive suggestions from readers of this page.

WILLIAM H.

Thank you for your letter. I have already received the information, but I appreciate your sending it and your very kind appreciation of the page.

STAGE.

Would you please tell me how a girl can belong to a stock company, and does she have to be a chorus girl first?

Ans.—Apply to the manager of the stock company. Chorus girl experience is not necessary, but of course any previous experience helps.

GOLDEN SMILES.

Your question is legal, and will be answered under "Notes and Queries."

WHAT GIRLS MAY DO BY JESSIE ROBERTS

A GIRL, HER MOTHER, WORK AND MARRIAGE.

"Dear Miss Roberts — I am in a difficult position, and though this may not be quite in your line, I wish you would give me your opinion.

"I am employed in a publishing office at a salary of $20 a week. On this I support both myself and my mother, who is quite old. Lately I have become interested in a young man who wants me to marry him. He does not make very much more than I and he wants me to give up my position and to let him take care of mother and me.

Of course, we could all three live on his income, but I dread to let go of my job. If he were incapacitated or laid off, if he fell ill, where would we all be? And then there would be a great strain to make both ends meet. But he seems to think that it is dreadful for a married woman to go to an office every day; he says he wants his wife to be at home and not to get all tired out working for a salary when his is big enough to pay all the bills. Maybe if you agree with me he will think differently. If you do not, I will give up my idea. Yours sincerely. Rose."

I do agree with you, Rose. The days when a woman thought it necessary to stop working when she married are over. The most contented homes are often those where both husband and wife go to their daily job, and meet in the evening with mutual pleasure at getting home, and with plenty to talk over. In your case, with a mother to take care of, it seems to be decidedly wiser to keep on with your job. After all, if the thing does not work, you can always give it up later, can't you, while if you find that things are going wrong because you quit the job, you may not be able to get back to it, or to another.

If your husband desires to carry the entire housekeeping expenses, put your own money into the savings bank, against future calls. Should you have a child, you might be very glad of such a nest egg, and in case of illness or for some other bit of ill luck it would come in well. If your mother stays with you she can see to the housekeeping; if she lives elsewhere you can manage it as many women do, and you will feel content.

A DAINTY FROCK FOR LITTLE GIRLS

A Smart Model That Can Be Finished With or Without Embroidery

By MAY MANTON

8730 SPORT COAT, 34 TO 44 BUST.

Undoubtedly the sports coats makes one of the most important garments of the season. It is worn not alone for tennis, for gulf and for occasions of the sort, but also upon the piazza, for the stroll, upon the beach, or at the mountains, and, indeed, for any occasion when such a wrap is needed. This one is as simple as it is smart, and so easy to make that any home dressmaker can undertake the task with assurance of success. The shoulders are dropped a little and that means that the sleeves are easy to fit, for the coat otherwise is loose, the sash confining it sufficiently at the waist line. In the picture, it is made of striped taffeta and that material is a new and favorite one, but plain colored glove or Jersey silks are much liked for coats of this sort. The fronts are faced and the collar is made double and the lining and the facing can be made of the same or of contrasting material, also the sash can match the coat, or be made of a different material.

For the medium size will be required 5 yards of material 27 inches wide, 3⅝ yards 36, 3 yards 44, with 2½ yards 10 inches wide for the cash. The pattern No. 8730 is cut in sizes from 34 to 44 in. bust measure. It will be mailed to any address by the Fashion Department of this paper, on receipt of 15c.

Pattern No. 8733. Price 15.

PASSING OF THE ST. BERNARD.

The monks of St. Bernard, to whom a little party of Englishmen have just carried the first war news they have received for months, have found a great part of their occupation gone since the construction of tunnels decreased the traffic over the St. Bernard and other passes, but they still hold themselves and their dogs in readiness for deeds of mercy. The dogs now in use, however, are not really of the famous St. Bernard breed, which originated in the fourteenth century through a cross between a Welsh sheep dog and the offspring of Great Dane and a Pyrenean mastiff. The last pure descendant of that noble line was buried under an avalanche in 1816, says the Pall Mall Gazette.

THE FIGHTING ABOUT WARSAW

THE tremendous and unprecedented battle of fabulous millions continues in Poland. There are apparently two alternative objectives in the mind of the German General Staff. They want to capture Warsaw, and they want to capture the Russian armies defending Warsaw. They are seeking a new "Antwerp," but they would dearly love to make it also a new "Sedan."

The splendid resistance being offered by the Russians proves how virile and full of fight the Muscovite forces still are. They are not discouraged—they are not disorganized—they are not beaten. It is impossible at this distance to penetrate the Russian plan of campaign, so we cannot tell whether they are really determined to hold Warsaw or if they are merely beating back the Teutonic tide while they get their armies safely away. The latter is the only important thing. The loss of Warsaw would be unimportant and temporary. It would mean nothing of itself. Its only serious feature would be the incidental evidence that the Russians were still short of shells, and unable to still make a winning fight on the lines held so magnificently all winter. But the loss of the Russian armies would be a grave business.

We are confident that this latter loss will not occur. The Russians still have their three lines of railway open for retirement, though the Germans claim to be shelling the most southern. On the other hand, the southern Austro-German arm of the vise has been held firmly back for days. Immense losses must be inflicted hourly upon the German infantry attacking such strong positions. The cost of any advance will be tremendous. That is, undoubtedly, one of the purposes of the stubborn Russian resistance—supposing they intend to eventually evacuate Warsaw. If they decimate the German forces and then keep their own armies intact, thus holding millions of German troops permanently in the East, they will have covered by brilliant strategy and dauntless courage the consequences of their unfortunate lack of war munitions. They will have played a maximum part in the war with a minimum of material. They will keep great German armies constantly engaged, and will thus earn the gratitude and admiration of Italy, France and Britain. If—better than this—they hold Warsaw, then the whole summer campaign of Germany collapses in utter ruin.

GROWTH OF CITY PLANNING

THE idea that cities shall grow along symmetrical as well as on useful lines is spreading with rapidity. City Planning Commissions are in nce in hundreds of American towns today, and lid things are being accomplished. The value se commissions is shown by the wise things they the unwise things they prevent. New York, like most other cities, has suffered from the practice of treating each public improvement as a thing by itself, without relation to the growth of the community as a whole. It is this special error that city planning is remedying. Rarely is city planning initiated by the municipal government. Experience has shown that where this has been attempted the success achieved has been very meagre. The best results have been obtained where the city planning movement originated with a group of substantial public spirited citizens, or under the auspices of commercial or local civic organizations. At the very outset adequate funds must be had for technical advice and for the conduct of preliminary work to interest citizens generally. It is only after plans for elaborate remodelling are completed that they are finally submitted to the civic government for consideration and approval. In Montreal practically no steps have yet been taken to prevent a continuation of the haphazard growth of the city.

BERLIN MENACES UNCLE SAM

THE decidedly menacing tone of the Berlin press toward the latest American "note" is the surest proof of its courage and firmness. It is the man at the target who is in the best position to signal "hits." Berlin has been hit. It has been told in so many words that, if it continues its reckless policy of torpedo "piracy," it is likely to create a "casus belli" with the great American Republic at any moment.

For there is no blinking the stern meaning of the last two sentences in the Wilson-Lansing "note." In the meantime," it reads, "the very value which this Government sets upon the long and unbroken friendship between the people and Government of the United States and the people and Government of the German nation impels it to press very solemnly upon the Imperial German Government the necessity for a scrupulous observance of neutral rights in this critical matter. Friendship itself prompts it to say to the Imperial Government that repetition by the commanders of German naval vessels of acts in contravention of those rights must be regarded by the Government of the United States, when they affect American citizens, as "deliberately unfriendly."

A deliberately unfriendly" act, committed by one great nation against another, after a solemn warning, is almost invariably a precursor of war. After so long and explicit a correspondence over the matter as has been exchanged in this case, between the American and German Governments, there is little that a sinning Government can do in expiation of a repetition of the precise "unfriendly" act complained of. Germany could not now sink another "Lusitania." with American citizens on board, and escape the consequences by merely apologizing and offering to "pay cash" for any American lives taken. She must stop murdering American citizens, or prepare for trouble.

This, however, means unmistakably that she must put a stop to her submarine campaign. Submarine commanders, ordered to sink British ships without warning, are liable to murder an American citizen any day. But submarine commanders, ordered to stop and search merchant ships before sinking them, giving the ship's company time to escape, are liable to catch a tartar any day in the form of a merchantman carrying metal enough to sink two submarines. For belligerent merchantmen have every right to carry guns for their own protection.

So the American "note" punctures German "piracy." Hence the tears—and angry outcries—of Berlin. The submarines must go back to their proper business of fighting warships, and abandon their "side line" of drowning neutral women and children. If Germany cannot "blockade" the British Isles without imperilling the lives of neutrals into the bargain, why then she must give over the pleasure of blockading the British Isles. She must do that or risk the performance of "a deliberately unfriendly" act toward the United States. That is the present position. No amount of penmanship can now win her a way out. She must call off her sharks.

THE WORLD'S PRESS

A Message to Our Allies.

Westminster Gazette:—What we have to say to our Allies in these days is that we will be as steady and enduring as they, that we believe in our power, as they believe in theirs, that the pledge which we made together last year is stronger and firmer than ever, and that we have no shadow of doubt of our capacity and theirs to carry through to the end.

Lord Fisher's Return.

London Times:—We need hardly say with what satisfaction we welcome the official announcement that Lord Fisher has been appointed Chairman of the Inventions Board which is being established to assist the Admiralty. Lord Fisher is old, as years of life are counted but he is young in physical and intellectual vigor. Experiment and progress have always been his watchwords, and his whole heart and mind are devoted to the improvement and development of the naval machine. He is essentially the right chief for an Inventions Board.

The Hyphenated-American.

London Daily News and Leader:—Unless the German-Americans are wise—and their conduct hitherto has unfortunately shown far more evidence of cunning than of wisdom—it may still lead to an explosion. Their power is no doubt considerable; but it is only considerable enough in the forms in which they have sought to use it to inspire resentment, not to command respect. The American people are in many respects extremely tolerant. American civil administration is tolerant to what, to European eyes, appears the border of licence; but no one who knows either will doubt that upon occasion both might be brought to act with the most uncompromising energy. There is really no country in which propaganda by terrorism would be treated with shorter shrift than the United States.

Unity of the Empire.

London Daily News and Leader:—It may be said that the organic unity of the Empire is still a dream and a vision; that a spasmodic outburst of enthusiasm on occasion of supreme trial is no evidence of capacity to resist the slow corruption of time; that the end of the war will still leave unsettled as ever the great problem of the Empire builder. It will. But it will not leave unsettled the lines along which alone an Empire that is to endure can be built. The loyalty of the Dominions is not a dream; the repugnance of the Alsatians to resolute government is not an imagination. The war may bring—we hope it will bring—this country and the Colonies into a yet closer and warmer union. But the lesson of the war on Imperial policy is written too boldly and bluntly for even the would-be Empire builder of the future to ignore. For him it is primarily a lesson of sanity and humility—the lesson that when all is said and done it is not he who builds.

THE PASSING HOUR

A near race riot happened in a southern town. The Negroes gathered in one crowd and the white in another. The whites fired their revolvers into the air, and the Negroes took to their heels. Next day a plantation owner said to one of his men: "Sam, were you in that crowd that gathered last night?" "Yassiv." "Did you run like the wind, Sam?" "No, sir. I didn't run like the wind, 'deed I didn't. But I passed two others that was running like the wind."

IT SUITED HIM.

"Did you tell that young man of yours that I am going to have the light switched off at ten?"

"Yes, dad."

"Well?"

"He's coming at ten in future."—London Mail.

"Your family must be very fond of oysters?"

HEIGHT OF ANNOYANCE.

"I'm mad at my wife. To anger her, I shall flirt with some other woman."

"If you want to make her absolutely furious, ask some other woman to sew on a button for you."—Kansas City Journal.

TELLING A SECRET.

"Can you keep a secret, uncle?"

"Yes."

"Well, auntie has eloped with the chauffeur, and they've borrowed your motor."—London Mail.

WHAT IT MEANS.

Daughter—"What does old-fashioned mean?"

Mother—"Anything that I think is right, and you don't, dear."—Philadelphia Record.

"You don't think I'm ordering oysters by the bushel because we like them, do you? I'm the only one in the family who can eat them at all."

"Then what do you want with so many?"

"I don't want them. My wife wants the shells to make a path down the garden to the garage."

ARDUOUS TASK.

Waverly—"What has become of Penelope, your attractive friend?"

Marcella—"She has been in a bad way for some time."

Waverly—"Not ill, I hope."

Marcella—"Rather. You see, she was voted the prettiest girl in town at a carnival contest a few months ago, and she now has nervous prostration from trying to live up to her reputation.—Youngstown Telegram.

FRAGILE

(Cartoons Magazine).

Governess—How many commandments are there, Peter?

Peter (glibly)—Ten.

Governess—And suppose you were to break one of them?

Peter—Then there'd be nine.

Bulkins was very pious and very fond of the ladies. One evening he was calling on a girl, and was boring her with sanctimonious remarks.

"Ah, Miss Mary," he said, "we are watched over very carefully! Even the hairs of our head are numbered."

"Yes, Mr. Bulkins," she replied, "but some of the back numbers of yours seem to be missing."

HIS JUDGMENT.

"I fear that young man to whom I gave a job to in the store last week is crooked."

"You should not judge by appearance."

"I am judging by disappearance in this case."—Houston Post.

As old Gobsa Golde was cutting dividend coupons with a pair of gold manicure scissors in his inner office, a messanger rushed to him and said:

"Oh, Mr. Golde, poor Mr. Golde, I am so sorry. Your beautiful girl wife has eloped with the office boy."

Gobsa kept right on with his coupon cutting.

"Oh, well," he said, "he wasn't much of an office boy."

FROM THE STAR FILES

THIRTY YEARS AGO.

Saturday, July 25, thirty years ago, was observed as a civic holiday in honor of the return of the Garrison Artillery from the North-West, and The Star was not published on that day.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

"Ottawa, July 26.—During Sir Mackenzie Bowell's absence, the duties of the Premier at Ottawa will be discharged by Sir Adolphe Caron, the senior Privy Councillor in town."—From The Montreal Star, July 26, 1895.

The Late Sir Adolphe Caron.

The late Sir Adolphe P. Caron was born in 1843, and was educated at the Quebec Seminary, and graduated B.C.L. at McGill. After being admitted to the Bar, he joined the well known Andrews firm of Quebec, and in Q.C. Amongst the many able young men who attached themselves to the Macdonald-Cartier party, there was none who accorded a truer allegiance to his leaders than the late Knight. He sat for Quebec from 1873 to 1891, when he was returned for Rimouski, and at the general elections in 1896 he was returned for Three Rivers and St. Maurice. Sir John chose him as Minister of Militia in 1880, and it was while holding this important position in the Cabinet that he was called upon in the Rebellion of 1885 to show the metal he was made of. For his services then he received the order of K.C.M.G. In 1892 he was Postmaster-General. He was a man of striking appearance, and an attractive speaker.

"Today being the anniversary of Ste. Anne, services of a special nature are conducted in the Church of Notre Dame de Bonsecours. From 6 o'clock this morning until sunset, a relic of the great saint, which has been sent from Rome, will be exposed to the faithful. At a quarter past seven this evening the solemn benediction of the Holy Sacrament will be celebrated, after which the congregation will kiss the relic."—From The Montreal Star, July 26, 1895.

"Montreal will shortly be visited by some 6,000 Royal Templars of Temperance from the western portions of Canada and the United States."—From The Montreal Star, July 26, 1895.

FIRE WIPES OUT COMPANIES' PLANTS

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y., July 26.—Damage estimated at $250,000 was caused early today by fire which swept an entire city square and wiped out the Wilbur Lumber Company, the plants of Armor and Company Nelson, Morris and Company, Forsythe and Davis Paper Warehouse, Jansen Roberts, Chemical Company and several dwellings.

Thirty firemen were injured by explosions in the meat packing plants.

The authorities today are investigating the cause of the blaze.

Why "Vorwartz" Was Suppressed

The organ of the German Social Democratic Party, "Vorwarts," has been suppressed for publishing an outspoken manifesto in favor of peace, issued by the Central Committee of the Party.

The main points of the suppressed manifesto are thus given by the Manchester Guardian:—

"For nearly a year war fury has raged over the world. Hundreds of thousands of lives have been lost, irreplaceable works of culture have been destroyed, and a fearful destruction of the people's strength has taken place. Millions of mothers, wives, and children weep for their sons, husbands, and fathers. Need and want accompany the distress that weighs upon the people.

"Shall a fearful drama such as the world's history has not known never come to an end?

"Social Democracy saw this world-catastrophe coming and prophesied it. In all countries it has struggled against the policy of Imperial expansion and its consequences. It has struggled against the armaments which have called forth in the end this fearful world-war.

NO ANNEXATION

"Up to the last moment German Social Democracy set its whole strength for the maintenance of peace. But when the Tsar's Cossacks crossed our frontiers, plundering and burning, the Social Democrats kept their word given to the German people and put themselves at the service of the Fatherland.

"The group in the Reichstag and the Council of the Social Democratic Party have continually and unitedly striven against a policy of conquest and annexation.

"We raise anew our sharpest protest against all efforts and declarations in favor of the annexation of a portion of a foreign country, and the suppression, by force, of another people suggested in the speeches of certain political personages. Themere expression of such a policy pushes further and further off the fervent desire for peace. The people desire no annexation. The people desire peace.

THE FIRST STEP.

"If the war, which daily demands new sacrifices, is not to go on indefinitely until all the nations have the Powers taking part must stretch out its hand to peace. Germany has already proved itself inconquerable and can therefore take the first step towards peace.

"In the name of humanity and culture supported by the bravery of our men in arms, who have created a favorable situation, we demand of the Government that it shall announce its willingness to enter into negotiations for peace in order to make an end of the bloody struggle."

THE GERMAN REPLY.

"This document," says the Economist, "evidently represents a widespread movement of the opinion, and the Frankfurter Zeitung (June 26) devotes to it an article of two and a half columns, which closes with the following:—

"No one in Germany desires war for its own sake. That peace is desired by the entire German people, and not by the Social Democrats alone, is a fact that must be known to the whole world of right-thinking people. Everyone knows the sacrifices in life and property that war is costing every day. There is no need to point out that a speedy peace is incomparably more valuable than one remote.

"But it goes on to argue that Germany cannot conclude peace until it is safe from the enclosing policy of enemies who seek to destroy it."

The Conservative Kreuz Zeitung says:—

"The Socialist Executive urges the German Government to assume the role of the vanquished. By making this demand it arouses abroad the impression that a considerable part of the German people feels itself defeated That is untrue. We have absolute confidence in the Government that it will remain firm and hold out until our enemies lie upon the ground."

"The German Government is obviously afraid of the effect that the manifesto would have on the German working class," says the Morning Post. "There is no doubt that the German people do really want peace, and also that they have no desire to sacrifice their life-blood and their economic future to realise the ambitions of Prussian Junkers and of Pan-Germans. Up to the present the German militarists have the German people and the German Socialists well in hand; they cannot, however, run the risk of losing any of their influence and power over the people, so they prohibited, under pain of heavy penalties, the circulation of the manifesto in Germany."

Roosevelt Quotes Scriptural Warning

As an introduction to his article in The Metropolitan Magazine, Mr. Theodore Roosevelt uses the following:

In the thirty-third chapter of the great prophet Ezekiel, the first six verses run as follows:

1. Again the word of the Lord came unto me saying:

2. Son of man, speak to the children of thy people, and say unto them, When I bring the sword upon a land, if the people of the land take a man of their coasts, and set him for the watchman:

3. If when he seeth the sword come upon the land, he blow the trumpet and warn the people;

4. Then whosoever heareth the sound of the trumpet and taketh not warning, if the sword come and take him away, his blood shall be upon his own head;

5. He heard the sound of the trumpet, and took not warning; his blood shall be upon him. But he that taketh warning shall deliver his soul.

6. But if the watchman see the sword come, and blow not the trumpet and the people be not warned; if the sword come and take any person from among them, he is taken away in his iniquity; but his blood will I require at the watchman's hand.

"Hang it, Jones, I've just been stung by one of your confounded bees! I demand reparation!"

"Certainly, Bilson. You just show me which bee it was and I'll punish the horrid thing severely!"

More than 50,000 olive trees are being planted on 15,000 acres of land near Maryaville, Cal.

Alberta Mormon Has Three Sons in Service

The proudest Mormon in Canada is undoubtedly R. Savage, of Glenwood, in the Mormon colony south of Macleod, in Alberta. This man has no less than three husky sons fighting for Britain on sea and land in Europe and Asia.

R. G. is an under officer of H.M.S. Kennet, stationed somewhere in Hong Kong, China. He wrote some time ago that his vessel had had a brush with the Germans, and added, "Don't worry, we'll see the Germans off all right." This is not this sailor's first experience in naval warfare. He was in a scrap with the Arabs in the Persian Gulf some years ago.

Harold Savage is but 19 years of age, and is stoker on H.M.S. Lord Nelson, a battleship cruising the North Sea. The lad is a member of the Salvation Army, and writes his father: "I'm all right, dad; if we are blown up, I go straight to glory."

Edward was a resident of Glenwood when war was declared, but being a reservist, it did not take him long to entrain for England, where he joined the colors. He had a military experience at Woolwich and Aldershot, and was made on his return, a driver in the Army Service Corps.

Just before the last great encounter with the Germans Eddie wrote: "We are having a royal time up to now. People rush out and load us down with fruit, candy, cigarettes, milk, tea, wine, and everything that one can think of. Then they ask us for souvenirs, so we have to give them a badge, letters off our shoulder straps, or even pull a button off our coats. They prize these highly. One lady gave me a locket for a button."

Robert Savage, the father of the boys, has been in Canada five years during which time he has been a leader in all patriotic movements inaugurated by the Mormon peole in Canada.

Tommy's Good Humor

Of course, just now we have to have daily respirator drill, and take great care that our men are able rapidly not only to adjust their "nose-bags" but dip them in solution (writes an English officer). This entails more work and vigilance than you imagine, for unless carefully watched the men are remarkably careless in taking precautions. The other day a rumor spread around that the Germans were using bullets which set one on fire. I heard an amusing dialogue on the subject outside my dug-out. "I say, Bill," said one, "the swine are now using bullets which set yer alight." "Good God," said Bill, "we shall now have to carry buckets of water to put ourselves out." It is this spirit of jokiness and humor which keeps us in good form. If we allowed ourselves to ponder all we saw our nerves would be destroyed in a very short time.

NOTES & QUERIES

A SERVANT'S ILLNESS.

Q.—A man hired a young woman as a domestic servant, and brought her from her home, ninety-two miles; engagement was so much per month and board and lodging; after she had been with him for three weeks, she was taken ill and he himself took her to see a doctor. She had begun with typhoid fever, doctor said, and she must go to bed at once; employer took her in his car to within fifty yards of a friend's house and left her there; friend took her in and placed her in bed, and then called a doctor to attend to her; employer never came near or made any offer of remuneration for this attention and expenses. Can her friend sue employer? Can girl sue him for neglect, and wrongful dismissal? His wife made a statement that unless she returned to work in one week, she would not keep her place open for her.—Justice.

A.—There is no legal obligation on the employer to pay anything.

MUST RETURN, OR PAY.

Q.—I moved from city to country in May last; town house I gave up was rented to a family; I had to leave a few things in basement; but not without permission from man, who had taken possession; when I went for my belongings quite a few things were missing; I got abuse from son for asking for them; gave case to detective and got a search warrant; we found my missing things all over the house and they were using them; I had a box containing over $150 worth of furs, which they deny seeing; detectives think case hopeless. Please advise.—Anxious.

A.—If you can prove that they took charge of the things they are bound to return them or pay their value.

BOARDING HOUSE RENT.

Q.—I run a boarding house. Have always paid in advance first of each month. This month I could not pay in advance. Can landlord cause me any trouble? I told him I would pay on 31st. Can he attach furniture of house for rent?—H. M., Quebec.

A.—Unless it is specially stipulated in the lease that you must pay in advance, you have until the end of the month to pay.

A HERALDIC DEVICE.

Q.—Would it be possible for you to give me an interpretation of the following heraldic device: "On a field Sable, the letter A. Gules."—A.M.M.

A. — The meaning is: —On a black field, the letter A in red. "Field" means the whole surface of an escutcheon, also so much of it as is shown unconcealed by the different bearings upon it. "Sable," black, indicated in a blazon without color is by horizontal and vertical lines crossing—a net-work of lines crossing each other at right angles. "Gules" is red, indicated by parallel vertical lines.

MEN OF ALSACE-LORRAINE

Q.—Were the French inhabitants of Alsace-Lorraine compelled to do military service in the German or French armies prior to the outbreak of war? And are they at present serving in the respective armies?—Star Reader.

A.—The men of Alsace-Lorraine—the Heichland of Elass-Lothringen—served, and are serving, in the German army. In 1910 the population of Alsace-Lorraine speaking German numbered 1,634,980; French, 204,262.

GRAIN FUTURES.

Q.—1. Would you be kind enough to give me explanations regarding grain futures?" 2. How are "futures" orders executed? 3. Is so-called "future trading" anything more than mere gambling (speculation) between clients and brokers, meaning that if clients lose the brokers win, or vice versa?—E. W.

A.—1. "Dealing in futures" is buying or selling for delivery on a specified date in the future. 2. Trading is done either by cash or margins. 3. That is the bucket shop idea, but in real trading the broker acts only as an agent. It is all speculation.

DIGGING GINSENG.

Q.—Could you let me know what is the best time of the year to dig ginseng? Does it have red or blue berries on it, and what is it worth a pound?—S. C.

A.—Ginseng should be collected only in the autumn, about September or later. The fruit is a bright red, somewhat flattened berry, with two or three seeds. It flowers in July and August; fruits ripen from August onward. The dried root is worth $5 a pound.

ENGLISH GRAMMAR.

Q.—Would you be good enough to direct me as to the best way I can improve my stock of English grammar? What books can I buy on the subject?—A Constant Reader.

A.—Get "A Working Grammar of the English Language," by Dr. James C. Fernald, published by Funk & Wagnalls Company, New York. Price, $1.50. Any good book seller will get it for you.

TO CONSTANTINOPLE.

Q.—What is the extreme distance from outer forts at Dardanelles to Constantinople?—I. T. F., Nfld.

A.—From the outer forts to Gallipoli the distance is about forty-five miles. From Gallipoli to Constantinople the distance is 138 miles.

GEN. JOFFRE'S AUTHORITY.

Q.—Is General Joffre, of the French army, in supreme command of the allied army?—Reader.

A.—General Joffre is in supreme command of the Allied armies in the West.

CAN CLAIM DAMAGES.

Q.—I am occupying a store and house both on same flat; people living above have let water come down, a lot of plaster coming down from ceiling and damaging furniture and oilcloth; I have warned them, but with same result, they always finding an excuse; landlord claims he cannot do anything; Can landlord hold me responsible for lease if I move? Lease expires next May. What is best course for me to take.—L. M. J.

A.—You are responsible up to the end of your lease term, but you can proceed against the tenant above you who has caused the damage.

BOUND BY AGREEMENT.

Q.—For six months I was unable to pay rent, $14 per month; landlord agreed to take $10 a month; I paid $10 for six months and I was to pay balance as soon as I was able; In May I moved from house and gave him new address; before I left I gave him $5 on balance; In June he called, and I was unable to pay anything; this was the only time he came; he has sent me a lawyer's letter. Please advise.—An Enquirer.

A.—Both the landlord and yourself must carry out the terms of the agreement made.

LOWER STANDARD OF MEASUREMENT TO GET RECRUITS

Many Turned Down Have Now Chance to Enlist

TEETH QUESTION BEING CONSIDERED

Plan to Have Dentists Attend to the Volunteers

The physical standard for recruits has been reduced. Ever since the beginning of the war officers have pointed out that it is not always height that gives the ability to fight. The little fellows who wanted to go and were kept at home because they were a half inch short (though organically sound) protested and bantam battalions were formed in England. Now it has come in Canada. One inch has been taken off the height minimum and one-half inch off the chest measurement for men between eighteen and thirty years of age. Men over thirty must go thirty-four inches around the chest, to make up.

Any officer will lay odds that a youth who cannot stretch the tape farther than thirty-three inches when examined here, will be able to qualify under the old standard after a month at Valcartier and have some to spare.

Here are the modified regulations:

Height, five feet, two inches.

Chest measuremant, men under cvthirty inches, thirty-three inches — men over thirty years, thirty-four inches.

MORE MEN EXPECTED.

The officers who are recruiting for overseas units here are delighted with the change. For them it has been a heart-break to see the good material, just a little under the standard, turned away because of the slightest lack of height. Many men who have been told that there is no hope, are expected to return to stand up to the tape once more. It is also expected that men who have taken their own measurement and found themselves just too small in height or chest, will now approach the recruiting officers.

The next modification expected is in regard to teeth. Hundreds of men have been turned away because they have neglected their mouths. It is thought that those whose teeth are not beyond all repair will be taken on if arrangements now under discussion mature. Col. E. W. Wilson, O. C. the 4th division, was in Ottawa last week, and recommended that two dentists be appointed to Montreal to repair the teeth of recruits. Valcartier has been provided with dentists, and departmental office looked upon the colonel's proposals favorably.

MORE RECRUITS.

Recruits still continue to come, and every night of the week sees parties from the 57th and the 60th battalions, and occasionally from the 41st, entraining at the Moreau street station for Valcartier. On Saturday evening 150 men got away, their cheers for the officers who had given them what training they had had in Montreal, mingling with the shrill strains from the pipes and drums of the Highland Cadet band.

One hunddred men were from the 57th (French-Canadian) Battalion, under the charge of Capt. J. Arthur Watters, while the remainder, from the 60th, were commanded by Lieut. K. C. Campbell. A large number of relatives and friends gathered to see the lads away. The customary cheers for the King and their officers were given.

The Montreal detachment of the Heavy Brigade, commanded by Lieut.-Col. F. Minden Cole and the Third Universities Company, under Capt. Eve, attended Crescent Street Presbyterian Church yesterday morning and heard a stirring patriotic sermon by the Rev. Dr. Gordon. Sixty men of the Heavy Brigade turned out and the Universities Overseas Company was eighty strong.

Col. Cole has just returned from St. John, N.B., and Cobourg, Ont., where he inspected the other detachments of the Heavy Brigade, which will make up the unit, he will take to the front. Two-fifths of the men have been recruited in Montreal, an equal number in St. John and one-fifth in the Ontario town. The commanding officer states that the men are all fine physically and intelligent. He was specially pleased with those at St. John. Most of them were recruited from the batteries now doing home guard duty near the city and are all well trained. It is expected that the entire battery will be mobilized at Halifax soon to receive training with the guns.

"The Spoilers" is London Feature

The London program for today and tomorrow has a stirring feature in the fourth episode of "The Broken Coin," the serial story in which Grace Cunard and Francis Ford are the central characters. The story of adventure which commenced with the opening reel grows more exciting each week, and today's contribution shows developments in the story which are startling. "The People of the Pit," with Cleo Madison is also being shown, as well as some more adventures in the "Lady Raffles and Detective Duck" series of comedy, and other good films.

The management has secured for Wednesday and Thursday the great motion picture story of "The Spoilers," adapted from Rex Beach's famous novel, and in order that patrons may not miss any part of it arrangements have been made for performances to be given at 12:30, 3 p.m., 5:30, 7:15 and 9:15 during each day.

The film is in nine reels and three acts, and, as most people know, is a thrilling story of strong men battling for supremacy in Alaska, as well as a gripping love story. William Farnum and Kathlyn Williams play the leading roles, and wherever the picture has been shown hundreds have been unable to gain admission. It is a remarkable picture, with scenes out of the ordinary, including the blowing up of mines and towns.

Harry Thomas, at the piano, has some specially selected music for this film, which will add to the pleasure of seeing it.

The old story about the large feet of Chicago girls is to be hamstrung. There is soon to be a contest for smallest pedal extremities, prettiest toes, and in case of extreme timidity, most charming heels.

Special to The Montreal Star.

ST. CESAIRE, Que., July 26.—Speaking here yesterday at a large gathering of electors of the counties of Rouville, Shefford, Brome, Richelieu, Iberville, Bagot and Ste. Hyacinthe, the Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux declared that if conscription were introduced into Canada it would be at the wish of the electors of the Dominion, for there was nothing in the Federal statutes which allowed of enforced military service, and the Constitution could only be changed with the consent of the people.

Outlining the causes of the war and terming it "the fight for humanity and liberty," Mr. Lemieux said that, as a unit of the British Empire, Canada was as vitally interested as Great Britain.

A VOLUNTARY EFFORT.

"The political liberty which we enjoy," continued the speaker, "confers on us rights and responsibilities. It is true that I see nothing in the text of our Constitution which obliges our soldiers to cross the ocean to fight in the army of Sir John French. The effort of Canada, then, is purely voluntary. But who would deny that the triumph of Germany would erect the tomb of modern liberty?"

Having declared that he was fully in sympathy with the policy of Canada assisting the Allies, Mr. Lemieux proceeded:

"These sympathies . . . do not rest on a regime of conscription. No more in Britain than in Canada do the statutes authorize obligatory service. Of all the countries of Europe, Britain is the only one which has maintained the principle of voluntary service, and the Dominions have followed the example of the Motherland.

IN A FREE COUNTRY.

"We have here, as there, our apostles of militarism. All jingoes dream of conscription; they see in this policy the salvation of the Empire. Were it necessary to listen to these exaggerators in Great Britain and in Canada, we should have anew scenes of Prussian swashbuckling. But very happily we live in a free country where the Constitution can be changed only with the consent of the people."

The speaker then asked the reason of the journey now being made to Britain by Premier Borden and wondered whether it was a prelude to an appeal to the country or to some other violation of the party truce which had been declared by Conservatives and Liberals at the beginning of the war, and had been respected only by the followers of Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

Several other Federal members addressed the gathering.

FIREMEN STATE THEY FOUND COAL OIL ON CARPETS

Mysterious in its origin, as many other outbreaks which have given the men of the brigade considerable trouble lately, a fire was discovered on Saturday night in a house at 383 St. Denis street.

There was no one in the place at the time and ten rooms, five on the second and five on the third floor were badly scorched.

Upon his arrival, Deputy Chief Mann noted that there was a strong odor of coal oil in every room on the two top floors. The rooms were sparsely furnished, containing but a bed and bureau each, while there was but little wearing apparel. Coal oil, according to Chief Mann, had also been spilled or sprinkled on the carpets in the hallways.

Considering that the matter warranted the attention of the authorities, the chief called in Lieut. Desmarteau, of the City Hall Avenue Station, and, pointing out the suspicious nature of affairs, asked him to make a thorough investigation. Chief Mann will also present an account of the affair to the Fire Commissioner.

The fire was caught quickly, and was not of a serious nature, one stream and a number of babcocks being used.

Mrs. Boisvert, who occupies the house was away from home at the time of the blaze, and has no idea as to how it occurred. It seems that it started under a flight of stairs on the second floor. In that part of the building the most damage is done.

Inspector Cowan, who received a report of the affair from the City Hall Avenue Police Station, has put two detectives on the case.

Father Rivet Killed in War

While leading a company of infantry into action, Lieut. the Rev. Father Rivet, S. J., was killed.

This news was received from France by the Jesuit Fathers at St. Mary's College, Bleury street. Father Rivet, who was forty-four years old, had made many acquaintances in this city. Before the outbreak of the war he was professor of canon law in a university at Rome. He was a brother of Lieut.-Col. Rivet.

Oahu college Honolulu, T. H., is soon to celebrate its 75th anniversary. This college has sent many famous athletes to mainland institutions, the best known being the Withingtons, of Harvard.

REV. DR. GORDON PREACHES ABOUT WAR

The Rev. Dr J. L. Gordon, of Winnipeg, preaching at Crescent Street Presbyterian Church yesterday, dealt wit haix aspects of the war and the part played in it by Great Britain. He declared that the man who fought for Great Britain fought for the great principle of national honor, for the great sentiment of loyalty, and the cause of universal democracy, under a great leader, a great King and a great flag.

Dr. Gordon said that if there were no national honor there could be no individual honor, and without the latter the very foundations of civilization would be gone. Germany desired the suppression of democratic aspirations, but the nation which sought to destroy the spirit of democracy must be vanquished in the end. He spoke of the extreme loyalty shown by the different parts of the Empire, and expressed the hope that something might happen to bring the United States and England in even closer relationship than existed at present.

The preacher paid a high tribute to Lord Kitchener, and all that made for sobriety, purity and all that made for manliness, saying that never before had any leader inspired Christian mothers and fathers with such confidence by the high moral tone which he aimed at among his men or given so good a promise that the men would come back, if permitted by the exigencies of war, sound in character and reputation.

Dr. Gordon paid loyal tribute to the strong mind and sincere heart of the King and said that, together with the Queen, he would go down in history occupying a splendid place in the story of the Empire.

N. B. WOMAN ENDS LIFE IN RESERVOIR

ST. JOHN, N.B., July 26. — Mrs. George Hicks, 35 years of age, was drowned in the St. John city water reservoir yesterday.

The woman had been demented for some time. Early yesterday morning she left home, attended to the cattle on the farm, and then went to the water reservoir, where she plunged in. The body was found in four feet of water.

Mrs. Hicks is survived by her husband and small family.

FIND ONTARIO TRAPPER SLAIN IN LONELY LAND

TORONTO, July 26.—A report has been sent to provincial police headquarters here by Constable Campbell at Fort Frances of the murder in the wilds of Mountain Lake of Harry S. Brown, a trapper. Another trapper named Tony Ross is also missing, and William M. Salt, partner of Ross, has been placed under arrest.

On June 23, Salt reported to Constable Campbell,at Fort Frances, that he had discovered the badly decomposed body of a man lying in a shack at Mountain Lake. Accompanied by Salt and a guide Campbell made a three-day trip to the scene and found the shack near an abandoned lumber camp. The door of the shack was locked from the outside by means of a padlock. Inside the body of Brown was found badly decomposed and covered by a pile of sacks. There was blood near the door and a trail of blood where the body lay.

THEORY OF POLICE.

The theory of the police is that Brown's assailant came to his shack and that there was a quarrel over fur or traps. A hand to hand battle ensued and the assailant seized Brown's gun and shot him four times. He then made sure his victim was dead, covered the body over with sacks, and left the shack, fastening the door from the outside.

Complications Stop Strike Settlement at Munition Works

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., July 26.—Unexpected complications which are said to have arisen through refusal of several superintendents of departments in the Remington Arms and Ammunition Company to take back machinists who had been on strike, prevented resumption in full of several sub-contracting firms of the Remington plant today.

J. J. Keppler, vice-president of the International Association of Machinists, temporarily called off conferences he had arranged with heads of sub-contracting concerns for discussion of the eight-hour day demand which was among the concessions granted by the Remington Arms and Ammunition Company, and sent word to J. A. Johnston, head of the structural Iron Workers of America, whose iron workers had returned to their labors on the new buildings of the Remington Company and to John Flynn, an international organizer of the Carpenters' Union, requesting a conference on the new turn of affairs.

Ireland sent out 230,314 emigrants last year, a decrease of 10,653 from the previous year, and the smallest number in any year since 1890.

LACK OF FUNDS STOPS GOOD WORK OF THE RED CROSS

WASHINGTON, July 26.—The decision of the American Red Cross to withdraw on October 1, its doctors and nurses from the European battlefields was being discussed today by officers of the society, who expressed regret at the necessity of the action. Lack of funds is given as the reason by Miss Mabel T. Boardman, chairman of the Red Cross Relief Committee, who announced that on the date mentioned the General Fund, aggregating $1,500,000, will have been exhausted.

Of the sixteen units, all will return to the United States with the possible exception of the two in Belgium, where there is the greatest need. The Serbian Sanitary Commission and other work supported by special conribution will be continued as long as funds are available.

RECORD OF THE WORK.

Summarizing the record of the Red Cross in the warring nations, Miss Boardman said that a total of 367 persons had been engaged in the work, including seventy-one surgeons, 253 nurses and forty-three members of the Serbian Sanitary Commission and in addition an enormous amount of medical supplies had been sent into the war zone. This personnel, except the Belgian units and the Serbian Commission, will on October 1 have been maintained in each country a year.

FINISHING WORK ON NEW RIVER CHANNEL

A sight which caused war racked sailors in port to jump was witnessed this morning when a deep muffled explosion was heard and a column of water was seen to rise to a great height off St. Helen's island. Sailors at first thought a mine had been sprung but it was learned later that it was merely a river bed blast operation.

This is the last portion of the work undertaken by the harbor authorities to redistribute the flow of the river with a view to lessening the current outside the harbor proper. The channel behind St. Helen's island is now nearly finished and is regarded as one of the most rapidly completed works of its kind in Canada.

BISHOP ASKS FOR TRUE FACTS OF CASE

Special to The Montreal Star.

KINGSTON, Ont., July 26.—Preaching in St. George's Cathedral last night the Rt. Rev. Dr. Bidwell, Bishop of Kingston, said: "We have read again and again in our newspapers that the Canadians are the finest troops in the world, of their wonderful achievements and how they saved the situation. And all this is true enough. But when we came to inquire who are these Canadians and ask are they the product of Canada, we find that about seventy-five per cent of them are not, as the casualty lists prove up to the hilt, and that many of them had been but a short time in the country.

"I am speaking of the rank and file, not of the officers many of whom were, and are, Canadians and have shown a spirit of heroism and capacity for leadership second to none. Has not credit been quietly assumed as if Canadians, in the true sense of the word—that is,men born,or at least brought up, in Canada—had done these things, when the facts are that a considerable number ha donly been resident in this country for two or three years, or even one year or less."

"Is this known to the public as it ought to be? I am sure it is not. Otherwise the native-born Canadians would not be hesitating to come forward. I am sure they have only to understand the facts to do so. Let the veil of self-complacency be drawn from their eyes. They think all is well because they hear what Canadians are doing.

"But let the fact be driven home that these are largely new comers, and that Canada's native sons have yet their part to play, and I am certain that the reply would come. For the spirit is there surely enough."

BULL FERVOR CHECKED BY TORPEDOING

The bullish contagion with which the market became affected on Saturday as the result of the remarkable performance in Canadian Car in its startling flight to 100, abated not one particle of its enthusiasm today until news reached the market shortly before noon that Germany's reply to the recent note was the torpedoing of an American steamer, which it was declared would be viewed as a "deliberately unfriendly act."

This incident undoubtedly checked bullish enthusiasm until it could be seen how the United States would take the news. Wall Street immediately began selling off, but the decline was temporary, and prices soon steadied up and recovered part of the losses.

Local losses were very light, considering the recent improvement, the most striking change being a five-point break in Canadian Car, which had jumped rapidly from 100 to 106 at the opening, and receded to 101 on the adverse news.

Other changes were very slight. Iron, for instance, after a very active market, receding from 34¼ to 33⅝, after opening at 33⅝, compared with 32⅞ at the close Saturday. Iron was by long odds the most active issue on the list, and there was a renewal of the talk of the activities at the Sydney plant. It is stated that the company is doing an exceptionally large business at the present time; in fact was never busier. Today's high at 34¼ marks a new high level since the war began, the minimum having been 20.

Steel of Canada was another of the issues which joined in the bullish enthusiasm, it also being one of the companies which is benefiting from war orders. It worked up from 17½ to 19¾, but reacted to 18⅝. The preferred jumped from 69 to 72.

Scotia was strong, but the buying did not extend its way, the price holding at 67 to 66½.

Can. Locomotive was another quiet one of late to become active, and, compared with 42 on Saturday, opened at 43 and went to 46¼, reacting to 45⅝.

Dominion Bridge continued the rally which set in last week after the disappointment over the dividend, and from the low at 126 closed last week with a rally to 128½, which was resumed at 129 today, and continued up to 131, or within four points of the highest.

Power was steady at 216½, and Shawinigan former at 112⅜ to 113. Canadian Car preferred sold up to 103.

SENSATIONAL RISE AND FALL

An advance that promises to be historic in the annals of the N.Y. curb market reached its climax Saturday, when Electric Boat common, a stock which a few months ago was offered freely for less than 70, and which last week was 170, advanced to 360. Preferred advanced to 310, as compared with 265. Rumors of fresh contracts for the manufacture of submarines, and expectation of an early reorganization of the company, accounted for the rise.

In the break today on the torpedoing of a United States ship by a German submarine the stock broke 220 points.

Answers to Questions

Nemo.—Benjamin Tooke and N. B. Stark are acting as a committee representing the Spanish River and Ontario Pulp bondholders during the period of non-payment of interest. Negotiations with London at this time are necessarily slow, but progress is being made, and it is expected that certificates of deposit will be ready for the bondholders shortly. The local feeling is that with patience the value of the bonds will be ultimately restored.

MR. PLUMMER NOW HOPEFUL FOR FUTURE

"That the outlook for the steel industry in Canada was more promising than at any time for the past few years," was the statement made this morning by J. H. Plummer, president of the Dominion Steel Corporation, who is spending the day here.

Mr. Plummer said that many of the obstacles with which the company had to contend were now gradually being removed and while actual results had not been obtainable as yet in any marked degree, things were now approaching such a point that he was very hopeful for the future. Asked if the Sydney plant was working to capacity Mr. Plummer said that it was now working almost full capacity, and that there was more activity there than at any time during the past three years.

"Our chief difficulty just at present," said Mr. Plummer, "is to obtain vessels for our export trade, but this was now being arranged satisfactorily.

Asked to what extent the company was sharing in the war business Mr. Plummer said that their only line was making shell steel and that it was not likely to enter any further into this business. "We will have plenty to do along other lines," added Mr. Plummer.

Regarding future dividend prospects Mr. Plummer would say nothing, but he declared prospects for the immediate future of the steel business was a great deal better now than at the time of the annual meeting held about a month ago.

STEADINESS IN C. P. R.

DEAR MONEY DOMINATES LONDON INVESTMENTS

Special to The Montreal Star.

LONDON, July 26.—There was no feature to the dealings in securities on the Stock Exchange today. The markets generally were narrow. The gilt edged section lacked firmness, owing to the dearness of money. Month-end preparations by the banks accentuated the effect of payments for the war loan. Support was furnished to the war loan.

The Home Railway group was dull, the forthcoming issue of £1,500,000 London and Northwestern Railway four and a half per cent preferred offsetting dividends.

The American department had a chequered appearance, but it was firm in th main on advices from New York. Canadians were dull on continued poor earnings. South American rails were soft.

There was little trading in foreigners. Mines displayed steadiness. Marconis were favorably influenced by the meetings There was a rally in Hudson Bay Company issues.

Press Opinions on N.Y. Situation

Special to The Montreal Star.

NEW YORK, July 26. — The Sun: Securities have been tested and seasoned by periods of liquidation, and the market's capacity to absorb them seems to have grown steadily since foreign selling reached its probable maximum months ago. As for the banking position it suffices to say that it is so comfortable that no domestic requirements, at any probable rate of expansion, are likely to engage all the credit capacity of the bankers' money market for fully two or three years to come.

The Journal of Commerce: President Wilson's note did not constitute a shock in Stock Exchange circles last week. Pending final agreement of the two Governments, there is not likely to be great activity in entering into new stock market commitments. Capital will continue cautious. It is in abundant supply, but this very caution prevents it seeking prominent abode. The market has now become more concerned in the so-called war stocks than in the German situation. The speculation in these securities has reached what is concededly a point of great danger.

The Tribune: The speculation ruled the securities market last week, with great orders of the Allies in this country used as the lever to hoist stocks of concerns supposed to be profiting by war contracts. In the main it was a market for professional traders, though the glamor of sudden profits brought some outside business.

The Post: On the whole, it is reasonable enough to accept the action of the Stock Exchange as indicating public sentiment at large. If so, it would seem to express the view that the peremptory reassertion of our Government's plain demands on Germany, and its positive rejection of the absurd and impossible tentative compromises offered by Berlin, is the shortest road towards the satisfactory closing of the controversy. Such a judgment necessarily assumes that peaceful counsels will prevail at Berlin itself. That remains to be determined.

The Herald: It would seem during the present craze for "war stocks" that dividends are detrimental to values. Such railway issues as New York Central and Baltimore and Ohio, and an industrial, like Mackay Company's common stock—all of which are regularly paying five per cent—are quoted round $80 to $86, and are comparatively neglected. Indeed, one reason for the dullness in seasoned dividend paying shares is the caution of investors, who fear that the crazy gambling in manipulated "war stocks" will end in a ruinous collapse.

The Times: There is this much satisfaction to be taken in the stock market by those whose interests lie in more substantial things than a lucky throw of market dice, namely, that this speculation is but one of the phenomena of a condition born of fundamental conditions favoring industrial and commercial progress, but one of the phenomena of a situation which holds promise of the unfolding for the United States of a period of increased prosperity, of renewed prosperity it will be, for we have passed through depression and have only recently been recovering a fair measure of business activity.

SUBMARINE DEMORALIZED BULL MARKET

Special to The Montreal Star.

NEW YORK, July 26.—News of the torpedoing of the American ship Leelanaw caused a short period of excitement bordering on demoralization on the Stock Exchange. The market had recovered slightly at 12:30, prices being up from the low marks. Bethlehem Steel, which sold as high as 222 during the morning, dropped to 207, and then recovered to 208. U. S. Steel touched 65, dropped to 62⅝, and recovered to 208. U. S. Steel touched 65, dropped to 62⅜, and recovered ½ point. Most of the selling was in stocks of concerns engaged in manufacture of munitions.

It was said by one of the prominent members of the Stock Exchange early in the day that while he was a bull on the market, and buying stocks, he was fully alive to the fact that the bull position was over a mine of dynamite, and was attended with acute risk and danger.

This statement was verified by the action of the stock market during the course of the day. Stories of war orders and war contracts were the only incentives which the speculative element desired to guide them in the market operations, and because the morning papers were full of stories of consolidations and new war orders, that group of stocks made sky rocket gains in the first hour.

Bethlehem Steel, which closed at 208 on Saturday, rose to a new high record of 222. Baldwin Loco advanced from 78⅜ to 82 ⅞, and Crucible Steel moved up from 45½ to 47⅞. There were many other advances in this group of stocks, ranging from 3 to 5 points, with the heaviest trading in American Can, which advanced from 59⅜ to 61.

More conservative operators who were carried away by the war order fever, confined their ventures on the bull side to the United States Steel common, which advanced ⅝ to 64⅞. Bull activities, trading efforts and what seemed to be institution buying were in full swing when news came of the torpedoing of the steamer Leelanaw, an American vessel.

This news, following the announcement of the position of the nation, made by President Wilson in his last note to Germany, caused havoc for a time in bull ranks. Bethlehem Steel in a few minutes dropped from 222 to 207½. Baldwin Loco fell from its high record of 82⅞ to 75, and American Loco fell from 53 to 48. United States Steel common quickly yielded 2 points to 62⅞, and losses of above 1 point were sustained in the copper stocks and the leading railway issues.

These sharp breaks occurred within a period of a few minutes, but afterward there were some moderate rallies, although the news of the torpedoing of the American vessel received quick and definite confirmation. Canadian Pacific was weak in the early trading, declining ⅜ to 138⅝, under selling by room traders, who based their bearish activities on the showing of gross earnings for the third week in July. This decline followed by a quick upturn to 139⅜, but when the unsettling news was published of the sinking of the American vessel, Canadian Pacific yielded with the rest of the list, declining to 138½.

PARIS, July 26.—Prices were steady on the Bourse today. Three per cent rentes 69 francs for cash. Exchange on London 24 francs 87½ centimes.

WEST DOME MINES IS BEING RE-ORGANIZED

West Dome Mines is in the process of reorganization. A special meeting of the shareholders of the company has been called to be held in Toronto August 20 for the purpose of considering and passing on a by-law already passed by the directors authorizing the sale of property to the West Dome Consolidated Mines, Limited, which company is to be incorporated.

The present financial position of the old company makes is impossible for them to proceed with operations. The capital stock of 3,000,000 shares is all issued, and no funds are left in the treasury with which to proceed. The new company, into which the old is to form itself, will be capitalized at 3,000,000 shares. Of this amount 2,000,000 shares will be divided among the shareholders of West Dome in lieu of their old stock, pro rata, and the remaining 1,000,000 shares will be sold to provide funds for developing the property. It is understood unofficially that later a block will be placed on the market at 25 cents a share.

Topics of the Street

The success of the Canadian loan in New York amounted to a bouquet.

But there was that little 5 per cent thorn concealed in it to serve as a reminder of the cost.

The improvement in railway earnings last week was small, but coming at this time will arouse hopes that it is the forerunner of more to come.

Speculative imagination here is by no means so dead that it cannot be rejuvenated.

Local proficiency in estimating the value and extent of war orders in their relation to share values had become blunted through disuse.

It just required a little New York coaching in Car shares to pull the local talent out of its dazed and stupefied condition.

Car went off at a gallop this morning at the opening, with an evident intention to show Bethlehem Steel and Electric Boat what weakling performers they were.

The Toronto market missed something worth while by closing on Saturday, and just at a time when the brokers could not very well afford to pass up any business.

The bull movement in Canadian Car had about the same effect on the rest of the local list of war influenced issues as a case of measles in a crowded school; it spread rapidly, and they soon all had it.

The New York market appears to have reached the dreadnought stage. It seems to be on the verge of something startling.

Some people would like to see the war stop suddenly if for no other reason than to see whether they were not right in refusing to get mixed up in war shares at what seemed to them absurdly inflated prices.

It is perhaps human nature to want to see those daring plungers who apparently succeed without reason or sound judgment brought to their senses, and some people think the sudden ending of the war would turn the trick.

Over par for Car shares on a non-dividend basis sounds crazy to a good many people, but then they said the same thing about Bethlehem Steel when it was around the same price, but now it's around 200. You can't always tell.

GREAT INTEREST IN ALLEGED GOLD FINDS

Special to The Montreal Star.

COBALT, Ont., July 26. —Numerous free gold discoveries in Delora and Shaw Townships are beginning to excite great interest and prospectors are busy on various claims.

In Shaw Township J. A. Herman has a block of seven claims on which he proposes to carry out an extensive prospecting plan. Camps have already been erected to accommodate thirty men. One large dyke, 150 feet across the Herman claim has given some excellent samples of free gold, and samples of ores have given assays of $12 a ton from the surface.

An examination of this district was made recently by Messrs. Burroughes and Hopkins, of the Geological Department at Ottawa, but their report will not be ready for some time.

SUCCESS OF LOAN PROVES GRATIFYING

"I am much gratified at the result of the issue. As our first offering in New York it was most important that it should be favorably received. More than the conspicuous success of the loan the Canadian people will appreciate the cordial feeling of international goodwill of which it is the expression. The liberal over-subscription is a fine compliment to the credit of the Dominion, and will have an important stimulating effect upon the market for all Canadian securities."

Such was the expression of feeling made by Hon. W. T. White, Minister of Finance, today over the outcome of the Dominion of Canada's $45,000,000 short term 5 per cent loan in New York last week, which was oversubscribed on Saturday.

The notes for one and two years were placed in New York by the Bank of Montreal, as financial agents for the Government, and were brought out under the auspices of the strongest banking group that has been associated with any recent financing in the United States, namely, J. P. Morgan & Co., Brown Bros., the First National Bank of New York, the National City Bank of New York, and the Bank of Montreal. The association of so powerful a group with the offering assured its success from the start.

Referring to the general situation created by war financing, an official of the Canadian Treasury said:

"After the conclusion of peace, international markets will be for many years engaged with the financial task of funding short-date maturities and temporary borrowings of Governments. It is the object of Governments at present to make permanent issues when possible so that after the war is over they may not be confronted with heavy liabilities maturing within a short space of time, which would embarrass their financing during the period of reconstruction following the war."

PAPER MILL STARTS

IROQUOIS FALLS, Ont., July 26.—The first run of the Abitibi paper mill was made on Saturday. Only one unit is running at present, but this will be augmented by two others which are being put up and adjusted. The mill will, it is expected, be running full by September.

Opinions from Wall Street

E. and C. Randolph.—Speculation on the bull side in some of the specialties appeared to be reaching dangerous proportions before the news of the sinking of the American steamer was announced, but the shake-out which has now occurred should produce a salutary effect and divert the interest of speculators into safer channels. At noon the market showed a tendency to rally after the break.

Burnett & Co.—There was a bad slump in the market upon the report that an American ship had been torpedoed off the English coast, and a number of stocks collapsed, with bad breaks between sales. There was some recovery from the lowest, but the market was extremely nervous, awaiting something definite concerning this report.

Shearson Hammill & Co.—The Steel statement comes tomorrow, the street is guessing 30 to 31 million with some extravagant guesses as high as 35 to 38. We believe that even 30 is too high, and would be surprised if 28 millions was reached.

Post & Flagg.—After the first break in the market, and the tumble in the war order stocks, which have been lifted so fast, the market has steadied and is acting very well. There is a top heavy position in several of these stocks and we have got to expect some lively fluctuations on any such reports of damage to American interests as the one this morning.

TOUGH OAKES TROUBLE

The English courts have been petitioned for a compulsory winding up of the Tough Oakes Gold Mines, Limited, which was formed in England to acquire the Tough Oakes claims in the Kirkland Lake Gold field, of which so much was heard a year or so ago. There appears to have been a good deal of "frenzied finance" in the company's affairs, with the result that payments due on the property could not be met.

NEW INCORPORATIONS

Canadian Car Foundry is now being dealt in on the New York curb. As compared with the local high of 91½ yesterday, it went to 92 in Toronto, equal to the highest the stock ever sold at.

DELAY IN NATIONAL BRIDGE BOND INTEREST

Bondholders of the National Bridge Company, who had to wait for ninety days to cash their half-yearly coupons due February 1, and during the wait were the victims of many misgivings as to whether they would get their interest at all, will, according to semi-official reports, have to wait ninety days beyond the next payment date on August 1.

The blated interest paid on April 1 was derived from the payment in advance of rental from the Montreal Ammunition Company, a new subsidiary of the Dominion Bridge Company, which formed and took over the plant of the National Company, which is controlled by Dominion Bridge.

The next instalment of rental will not be due for another three months, so that the National Company, not having any other source of revenue, will have to wait for that payment in order to meet their bond interest.

O'Brien Mine shipped 27 bars of 29,171,000 ounces, valued at $13,560.47.

LATE FINANCIAL NEWS

SCOTIA ROSE FOUR POINTS, OTHERS FIRM

The stock market quickly got over the check it received just before noon, and the bull movement in the war issues went on as merrily as before the torpedoing of an American ship caused a halt and moderate reaction.

From activity in a single issue prompted by outsiders the local steel list promptly took the cue, and the prompt broadening of the trading will be one of the most remarkable features of the war period.

Instead of leading up gradually to the activity, the market plunged headlong into it at a most unexpected period, and with the result of higher prices for the most part than had been created in any similar movement since market operations were resumed early in the year.

Canadian Car, which was the prime mover in this upturge has been practically lost sight of in the activity which it promoted, and others have sprung into the limelight.

Nova Scotia Steel, which had been previously neglected, and which only a few days ago sold around 62, hardened to 67 this morning, and in the afternoon became the most active feature of the list, advancing four more to 71, which is the highest of the year. Scotia is quite busy on orders which it has received arising out of war conditions, and it was reported in the Street that the company would publish a periodical statement of its earnings for the benefit of the shareholders.

Car was strong at the opening at 105½, but later sold at 104. Iron sold to 34¼, with the preferred 83. Steel of Canada was 19½. Bridge continued its rally to 132.

Iron later went to 35, Steel of Canada 20½, Textile 71½, Car 106, Locomotive 45¼.

WAR STOCKS BOOMED UP ONCE MORE

LAST MINUTE NEWS, LOCAL AND TELEGRAPH

OFFICIALS ANXIOUS RE LEELANAW

Ship Was of American Registry Navy Department Confirmed

CONSIDER BERLIN HAS IGNORED NOTE

Right to Sink Limited to Extreme Cases of Necessity

Special to The Montreal Star.

WASHINGTON, July 26.—It was confirmed at the Navy department today that the steamer Leelanaw was of American registry. Officials did not attempt to hide their anxiety at the report of its loss, but would not comment on the matter, pending the arrival of confirmation and details.

The torpedoing of the steamer is, however, a distinct shock to officials, who see in the incident further aggravation of the situation between Germany and the United States.

Although they hesitated today, in the absence of details, to construe the act as coming within the warning of the last American note, which pointed out that further violation of international law affecting American citizens was to be regarded as "deliberately unfriendly," the view taken was that Germany, in effect, had ignored and disregarded an earlier note sent in connection with the sinking of the American sailing ship William P. Frye by the German cruiser Prinz Eitel Friedrich.

RIGHT TO SINK QUESTIONED.

In that communication, the United States vigorously asserted its position that even though an American ship carried contraband of war, it was peculiarly protected from destruction by the stipulations of the Prussian-American Treaty of 1828.

Flax, which was being carried by the Leelanaw, was declared absolute contraband by Germany on April 18 as retaliation against the British contraband declaration. While precedents of International law in recent years, supported particularly by the Declaration of London, have recognized the right of a belligerent to sink a neutral vessel carrying contraband if the ship was certain of condemnation by a prize court, the action has been limited to extreme cases of necessity when the taking of a prize into port would involve danger to the vessel making the capture.

Irrespective of the principles of International law noted on that point, however, the United States has, in its correspondence with Germany, insisted on the application of Article 13 of the Treaty.

ALDERMEN AGAIN ASKED TO FAVOR COURVILLE SITE

Despite the plea that the city should call for tenders and give all proprietors of the ward an equal chance to sell their land, Mayor Martin and Controllers Cote and Hebert reiterated this morning their request that the City Council vote $25,000 with which to buy from J. D. Courville, for Lafontaine ward, a bath site situated on Amherst street, just north of Ontario street east.

The proposed purchase has become famous because it formed the subject of an administrative inquiry held at the City Hall last winter, when allegations were made that middlemen were operating in the deal at the expense of the city.

The price then was $34,000, but despite the reduction to $25,000, the proposed deal is still very distasteful to some members of the Board of Control as well as of the City Council, which rejected the report last week.

THE DISCUSSION.

The new report was introduced to the board today without the flare of trumpets. Controller Hebert pushed the document towards the mayor, who read it and then held a whispered consultation with Controller Cote. All apparently being well, Mr. Hebert proposed that the purchase be made on condition that Mr. Courville pay to the city a monthly rent of $25 during the time that he occupies the property. Controller Cote seconded the motion.

"My opinion has not changed," he declared.

Controller McDonald—What's that, Mr. Mayor?

The mayor—The Amherst street bath site report.

Controller McDonald—Is that a motion you propose to pass?

The mayor—It is a motion proposing that we buy the Courville property. The report was returned to us by council last week.

Controller McDonald — Returned, why?

The mayor—Because the majority was not large enough.

Controller McDonald—Well, I have always been in favor of calling for tenders for land purchases, and I dissent on that. I favor calling for tenders from proprietors of land in that ward so that all may have a chance of selling their land, and so that the city may know what lands are for sale, and may get good value for its money. I dissent.

The mayor—I favor this site because it is close to the intersection, and is a good place for a bath and public convenience.

It was thought at first that Controller McDonald was the only dissentient, but Controller Airey was against the proposal, so the vote was called and carried as indicated.

The report was thus sent to the secretary's office, put into form for the city council, and sent forward for consideration this afternoon.

WELSH MINERS LOSE HEAVILY BY STRIKE.

Special Star Cable by International News.

LONDON, July 26. — The Rt. Hon. Walter Runciman, president of the Board of Trade, stated in Parliament this afternoon that the Government estimated the losses due to the Welsh coal strike at 1,000,000 tons and $2,250,000 in wages.

ONLY QUARTER OF FIRST CONTINGENT NOW IN TRENCHES

Officers Return from Front on SS. Missanabie This Afternoon

Capt. V. J. Hastings, of the 16th Battalion, who has been promoted since going to the front, will have four days with his parents in Winnipeg, before he turns and starts on the long trip that will take him back to the trenches in Flanders. He arrived in Montreal this afternoon on the S. S. Missanabie, after having been through all the big actions, Langemarck, Festubert and Givenchy, and it is just three weeks since he took leave of his fellow-officers in the trenches at the famous "Plug street," one of the worst salients in the line.

"Of the 19,000 men who went across with the first division, there are 4,500 left," said Capt. Hastings, resting on the muzzle of a German rifle which he picked up in the trenches at Festubert after the 16th Battalion had chased the Germans out. "That is what they are worrying along with. I hear that there are 40,000 Canadians at Shorncliffe, but they have not reached the front yet. What we need is men."

Twelve officers in all returned on the Missanabie today. Several left the ship at Quebec, and there were only about half that number on board when the C. P. R. liner docked here. Everyone of them emphasized the need of more men. Several showed the effects of wounds, but Capt. Hastings and Lieut. A. R. Fortin came through without a scratch. They were given a short furlough, but must hurry back. Although he was not wounded, Captain Hastings was reported killed four times. Each time he came back to his unit, and was hailed with joy.

MANY ARE WOUNDED.

"Of the 4,000 or so who are left, hundreds are severely wounded," said Lieut. A. R. Fortin. "The rest are either killed or missing. All my friends have been killed, and it is no pleasure for me to come back to Canada, except to see my own people, for none of my friends will ever come back. It is terrible to think of it, and yet I went through five months of fighting without getting a single scratch, or being ill in any way. I am home on three months' leave and leave Canada again on the same ship at the beginning of September."

Lieut. Fortin, who comes from Winnipeg, went over with the first contingent, in the 13th Battalion, and was afterwards transferred to the 16th Battalion. He was through the battles of Ypres, and saw the beginning of the great fight at Festubert, while he experienced the gas attacks at St. Julien and lived through that struggle without a scratch.

"You cannot describe the gas," he said, "beyond saying that it is a terrible thing. It came upon us so quickly we had no time to realize what it was. But now we have all sorts of things to meet it. In addition to respirators we have large biscuit tins, about two feet long, placed at intervals of ten yards along the parapet of the trenches. They are filled with tinder and soaked in oil, and when we see the gas coming these tins are lit, and the great burst of flame that goes up disperses it."

Lieut. Nichols, son of Sir Frederick Nichols, of Toronto, Lieut. C. A. V. McCormack and Lieut. Walter Rogers, both sons of prominent Toronto men, got off at Quebec. They all belong to the 3rd Battalion and are home on leave. Lieut. J. Max Reid, who is suffering from a compound fracture of the right arm, also got off at Montreal.

MANY OFFICERS FELL.

How the 5th Battalion, Saskatchewan, got the position of honor in the Festubert fight on Victoria Day and gained new laurels for Canada, but at terrific cost, was the story told by Capt. S. J. Anderson. On the morning of May 24, the 5th were addressed by their colonel and told "K 5," as they were known in tactical movements on the fighting line, had been given the key position. On them rested the brunt of the attack. In one quick charge they took their trench, but when Captain Anderson tried to establish connections with his other officers he found that of the eleven officers in the Battalion that morning, he and Colonel Tuxford were the only ones left. "After that day's fighting," he said "we numbered barely 100 men out of 500. The only officers were Colonel Tuxford myself and the quarter-master sergeant. The Germans never gave us a change to get at them, relying on machine gun fire and high explosives."

A few days later the gallant 5th figured in the Givenchy fighting and has been wiped out as an effective unit.

"They wanted to give me my discharge," said Captain Anderson, who is minus the sight of his right eye, "but I couldn't see the need of that and expect to go back in two months. My Battalion got the chance to distinguish itself at Festubert and I think we did do that."

One of the earlier Canadian casualties was Capt. G. O. Brown, of the 5th, wounded at St. Julien. Few have survived his experience as he was not only gassed but wounded in fourteen places, in both arms, both legs, and four wounds in each of his hands, also scalp wounds. He is still fit, he claims and hopes to return.

MISS ALLAN'S BODY BROUGHT TO MONTREAL

The flags of the Missanable were all at half mast when the vessel tied up at her wharf here this afternoon, as she brought with her the body of Miss Gwen Allan, who was drowned on the Lusitania. Other vessels in the harbor were seen to lower their flags in respect to the dead.

The funeral arrangements have not been completed.

Sir Montagu Allan is returning to Canada via New York.

SUBMARINE IN GOLDEN HORN: HAVOC PLAYED

Special Star Cable by International News.

LONDON, July 26.—A British submarine has eluded the Turkish warships in the Dardanelles and Sea of Marmora, penetrated into the very harbor of Constantinople, sunk two of the Sultan's gunboats and a steamers and returned in safety to its base.

Details of this exploit, one of the most daring carried out by a submarine commander during the war, were received here today in despatches from Athens. According to a Mitylene despatch, the submarine also sank in the Sea of Marmora a Turkish transport.

Note.—Some time ago a similar feat was accredited to a British submarine. It is not clear from the above despatch whether this is a further reference to the same occasion or not.

MONTREAL FIRM FAVORED THOUGH FIGURE IS HIGH

Holding that Montreal workmen should be given all work possible at the present time, the Board of Control today refused to award to a Hamilton, Ont. firm a contract for the supply of electrical apparatus required for the city filtration plant, giving the order to the Northern of asphalted macadam on city whose quotation of $11,677 came $400 higher than that made by the Hamilton firm.

It was rumored at the City Hall following this action, that the Hamilton contractors would apply for an injunction to restrain the city from consummating the deal with the local firm, on the ground that all specifications having been met, the lowest tendered should have been given the order.

A contract for the supply of 1,100 pairs of boots for policemen was awarded to M. West, of this city, his offer of $3.25 per pair being the lowest tender.

CITY MAY DONATE $15,000 TO BUY MACHINE GUNS

Controller Cote is taking steps to determine if it is legal for the city to vote $15,000 with which to purchase machine guns for Montreal battalions going on active service.

It having been brought to Mr. Cote's notice that nearly every town in the Dominion is giving one or more machine guns for the use of men fighting overseas, he at once set to work to find out if Montreal could so act towards the battalions being raised here.

"It is a proposal that I shall have very great pleasure in making," he told The Star. "I have called Mr. Pelletier, the city comptroller, to see if we have the money to allow of $15,000 being voted for guns; you see the vote must come out of revenue, and not loan fund, so that there may be some difficulty. He tells me, too, that it is doubtful whether the city charter will allow Montreal to spend its money in his fashion. However, he will consult Mr. Laurendeau, the city attorney on the matter, who will report to me, and I will bring the matter before the board at the earliest opportunity."

Discussing the kind of machine gun that the city might buy, Mr. Cote said that he had heard the Lewis gun, costing $1,000, was the best equipment available and that it was moreover made in Canada. It is probable that if the vote is legal and passes the Board of Control, Lewis guns will be selected for the gift.

ANOTHER BRITISH VICTORY WON ON EUPHRATES RIVER

By Canadian Press.

LONDON, July 26.—Official despatches concerning the operations along the Euphrates river, in Asiatic Turkey, announce that the British forces, after rushing and capturing the Turkish advanced and main entrenched positions, occupied the town of Nasiritch on the morning of July 25.

A British gunboat shelled the city on the previous night and the Turks, disorganized, retreated northward. The British in the course of their advance captured eleven guns and two machine guns. Several hundred prisoners were taken and 500 dead Turks were counted in the main position.

The British casualties numbered between 300 and 400.

By Canadian Press.

LONDON, July 26.—A despatch from Petrograd to Reuter's Telegram Company today says:

"A German air raid on the Vistula bridge at Warsaw failed of its object though the bombs caused several casualties among the civilians.

"The German advance from the Narew river now is twenty-four miles as a crow flies from the Warsaw-Petrograd mail railroad, but the Germans still have to fight their way across the Bug river, as well as over sixteen miles of virtually roadless country between the Narew and the Bug.

"The fate of Warsaw really depends on the Bug river, which is a much more formidable obstacle than is the Narew, the crossing of which by the Germans was facilitated by an islet in mid-river, near the confluence of the Orjitza river."

GERMANS CLAIM ADVANCE.

By Canadian Press.

BERLIN, July 26, via London. — There was given out at the War Office today an official report on the progress of hostilities which reads as follows:

"An official telegram from main headquarters, dated July 26, says that in the western theatre of the war no important events have transpired anywhere on the front.

"In the eastern war theatre:

"North of the River Niemen the army under General von Buelow has reached the district of Poswol and Poniewitz. Wherever the enemy has offered resistance he has been beaten. We captured 1,000 prisoners.

"On the Narew front our troops forced a crossing of the river. Furthermore, both above and below Ostrolemka, our troops are slowly pushing the enemy back in the direction of the River Bug. The Russians are offering obstinate resistance to these advances. Here also we captured about 1,000 Russians, and more than forty machine-guns.

"On the north-west front our troops are advancing toward the group of

HUDSON MAXIM WARNS AMERICA AS TO INVASION

Possibility That U. S. May Be Invaded by Foreign Power

Hudson Maxim, inventor of high explosives and war materials and advocate of the high-power gun as a means of insuring peace, told 200 members of the Chamber of Commerce at Harrisburg, Pa., that there is a possibility that this country may be invaded by a foreign Power after the close of the European war, and he urged immediate preparations. He did not say what country might make the invasion.

"The time to prepare for war is now, not when the enemy is upon us," he said. Mr. Maxim's subject was "Things We Lack to Make This Nation Safe Against Invasion and Able to Maintain its National Honor Abroad by Force of Arms if Necessary."

Mr. Maxim denied that he said, in a recent speech at Cornell, that "all wars are foolish." He explained that what he did say was: "I believe in being so prepared against war as to render it practically impossible. Make it so costly that it would not pay. There are good wars and bad wars, wars of plunder and wars for freedom and rights. There are justifiable wars. We should be strong to fight good wars.

"Christ believed in self-defence. He drove the money changers out of the temple with a cat-o'-nine tails, and it was Christ who said, 'He that hath no sword let him seek his cloak and buy one.'

"Turn your other cheek, but be in readiness with a strong defence to hit back."

Speaking of methods of driving an invading force out of the country, Mr. Maxim said:

"One of the methods is to accept the theory of Mr. Carnegie and Mr. Bryan—that is, to meet the enemy, show them the best roads into the interior and then let Mr. Carnegie and Mr. Bryan talk to them. Mr. Bryan has eloquence enough to drive a dog out of a tanyard, but I am afraid Mr. Carnegie could not repel an invading army."

New Brunswick Farmer Kills His Son and Commits Suicide

ST. JOHN, N.B., July 26.—Armstrong's Corner, thirty miles from St. John on the main road to Fredericton, was the scene of a murder and suicide early Saturday morning, the facts of which came to light yesterday.

James Francis, 69 years of age, a farmer, and father of fourteen children, shot his son Fred through the head, killing him instantly, and then placed the barrel of the gun to his mouth and blew his own head off.

Francis' wife died in March last, and since that time his mind has weakened. Recently he has made threats to neighbors that he intended to kill himself, but little attention was paid to his threats.

Insanity is given as the cause of the farmer's deed.

Criticize Lenient Treatment Given Interned Prisoners

NORFOLK, Va., July 26.—In the opinion of local critics, there are many justifiable criticisms of the lenient manner in which the interned German sailors of the Prinz Eitel Friedrich and Kron Prinz Wilhelm are handled with regard to shore leave. The facility with which they are accorded leave makes it easy for them to leave the jurisdiction of the local navy yard, perform any mission to other parts of the United States, and return without detection.

In fact, it is firmly believed here that such excursions have been made by the Germans and that the navy officials are none the wiser except in the few instances in which they have failed to return.

JOFFRE TOLD TO USE BEES AGAINST FOE

Idea is But Revival of Trick Used by the Romans Centuries Ago

Among the many suggestions for ending the trench warfare that have been sent to the French military headquarters, says the Brooklyn Eagle, has been the idea of using bees and wasps as a means of attacking the enemy. One French patriot has written to Gen. Joffre that the French aviators ought to be given hives full of live bees, which they should carry aloft and then drop on the German trenches.

"This would be a much better way of preparing the ground for an attack than by using the heavy artillery and much cheaper," he concluded. The obvious objection to the plan is that when the trenches are so close together, the hives might fall in a French trench as easily as in the German.

From a serious source comes the news that the German armies in East Africa actually mobilized a species of wasps for warfare against the native soldiers under the British colors. It was done by capturing nests of wasps, and by placing them in covered boxes at strategic points. When the hostile forces attack, the Germans have contrivances such as strings or wires running through the brush by which they can raise the lids, and let out the infuriated insects. In this way the attacking natives have been very much disconcerted at crucial moments.

AN ANCIENT METHOD.

The idea is far from new! In a recent volume, "The History of Subterranean Warfare," the author, Monsieur A. Genez, relates an incident from the siege of Themiscyra in northern Asia Minor by the Roman general, Lucullus, in the year 68 B. C. In order to weaken the walls of the city the Romans dug trenches underneath them, and the defenders met them by making excavations from the inside. But instead of attacking through the holes thus made the Roman general had bees, wasps and even wild bears introduced into the city by this underground passage. It is Appian, a Greek, writer of the second century A. D., who is the authority for this classical story. It is used in his "Roman History."

AT THE SIEGE OF CHESTER.

A more recent instance of the use of bees in siege warfare is related in an old Irish manuscript, kept in the Royal Library of Brussels, but whether it is more trustworthy than the Greek author, is a delicate question. It tells, in brief, that when the City of Chester was besieged by the Danes and the Norwegians, the former were put out of commission by a stratagem, invented by the wily Saxons and Celts that were defending the city, but that the Norwegians used their shields to such good advantage that they were able to make a breach in the walls.

The defenders of Chester then brought together a great quantity of water, which they heated to the boiling point and then poured it on the Norsemen. This move was soon countered by the latter, who covered their shields with hides, which made the protecting shields waterproof. At the next sally they made further "marked progress," as the modern "Communique" writer would say, and the Saxons and Celts of Chester saw they would have to try something else. They quickly gathered all the bee-hives in the town, and when the next attack was launched the contents of the hives were emptied on the besiegers.

"And then," says the old chronicler, "the Norwegians withdrew, much discouraged in their minds." Chester was saved by its bees.

The question whether the stings of bees are deadly has been fully treated by M. Paul Fabre, the eminent French entomologist, in a paper entitled "Le Venin des Hymenopteres," which he presented at the French Academy of Medicine in 1905. His conclusion was that in rare cases a multiplicity of stings could have mortal effects, and that there were persons specially sensitive to the poison of bees.

CRANK INVENTOR BUSY NOWADAYS WITH SCHEMES

Washington Inundated with Inventions and Their Plans to Aid War

WASHINGTON, July 24.—Eccentric and would-be inventors are bombarding Washington with thousands of "inventions" to protect the United States against all sorts of enemies that travel in or on the water, overland or in the air. More than three thousand letters offering "devices" to swat the enemy have been offered to the War and Navy Departments within the last few weeks, and the offices of the patent attorneys of Washington overflow with designs for submarines, aeroplanes and bomb-making machines.

"The cry of the inventor who has been set going by the report that the Government is looking for death-dealing weapons has not reached the Patent Office," said an official of the Interior epartment. "It requires some time and a little money to get up here with a business proposition. The would-be patentee must put down $15 to begin with, and $20 if the patent is issued. These are small sums, but they keep back the eccentric fellows."

Secretary Daniels in his files has letters from about two thousand persons who would help him organize his Naval Advisory Board and steer him right on patents. He would not permit any of the communications to be published at this time lest he stop the flow.

HALF OF THEM CRANKS.

Joseph A. Steinmetz, President of the Pennsylvania Aero Club, apprehends that Washington will be overrun by men with hopeless schemes. J. H. Brickenstein, of this city, President of the Patent Law Association, says that Mr. Steinmetz is right.

"Many men with impractical schemes come to Washington as it is," said Mr. Brickenstein. "Every patent attorney encounters well-meaning but misguided fellows who believe they have solved some problem like perpetual motion. Probably 50 per cent. of the supposed inventions brought to patent attorneys here either are impractical or the patent would be comparatively worthless if granted.

"The Naval Advisory Board, of course, is a good thing, but it is bound to encourage a journey to Washington of a certain percentage of visionaries. Some of these men probably would spend their last cent to get here and present the Advisory Board with some plan which might prove utterly worthless on the most cursory examination."

AN INGENIOUS IDEA.

One "inventor" has written to several Congressmen asking them to urge the Navy Department to adopt his plan for beating the submarine. This man, who resides in an interior state, says that if Uncle Sam will have two aeroplanes hooked together with a wire 100 yards long, and then drop from each a heavy piano wire, with a torpedo on the end, and let them fly about the ocean and strike submarines the trick will work. Offers to aid the Government show that more land lubbers than seamen invent submarines, and more sailors than land lubbers invent airships.

WILL REAFFIRM DETERMINATION TO CONTINUE WAR

LONDON, July 26.—The anniversary of Great Britain's declaration of war on Germany, August 4, will be marked by reaffirmation of the determination of the British peoples to continue the struggle unswervingly.

The pledge will be embodied in the following resolution, approved by Premier Asquith:

"That on this anniversary of the declaration of a righteous war this meeting of citizens of ——— records its inflexible determination to continue to a victorious end the struggle for the maintenance of those ideals of liberty and justice which are the common and sacred cause of the Allies."

Meetings have been arranged throughout the Empire, at which the resolution will be put. Members of the Cabinet and of Parliament and other public officials are co-operating in the arrangements, and the dominions and colonies are all joining in the movement.

SETTLE STRIKE IN MUNITION WORKS

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., July 26.—With the ratification Saturday night by the machinists of the agreement reached between the labor leaders and the Remington Arms and Ammunition Company and the Stewart Construction Company, the strike at the arms company's plants came practically to an end, and the men resumed work this morning. The structural iron workers took similar action.

NEW YORK SUPREME COURT SUSTAINS ORDER'S LEGISLATION

The Appellate Division of the New York Supreme Court has reversed with costs, the judgment obtained in the lower court by McClement against the Order, and dismissed his complaint. This was the so-called Watertown case against the legislation of our Supreme Court in 1913 re-establishing the financial security of the Order. We presume we are now at the end of all litigation on this subject, and the promise of the Supreme Chief Ranger has been made good, "that all members of the Order will have even justice" —there shall be no different rule applicable to members in Ontario and to members in New York State. The provisions of the Act of the Parliament of Canada are declared to be binding upon the members outside of Canada as well as upon Canadians.

SUSPECT GERMAN SPIES ON BORDER

BRETTON WOODS, N. H., July 26.—Residents of Northern Vermont and New Hampshire are becoming alarmed over the evidence that these sections bordering upon Canada are infested with German spies.

An aeroplane with searchlights has been seen at various points near the Canadian border and is thought to be of the biplane type and possibly the the same one whose night visits are alarming Montreal and Quebec.

Fishermen who have penetrated into the Maine woods near the Canadian border report seeing in the thick of the forest near Lake Megantic, a wireless apparatus which was connected with a camp owned by Germans and numbers of Germans have appeared in the towns of Northern Vermont and New Hampshire of late.

FIRE DESTROYS WOMEN'S CAMP

KNOWLTON, Que., July 26.—The Young Women's Christian Association senior summer camp here was totally destroyed by fire Saturday night, nearly all the contents being lost, while two of the members received slight burns. The fire broke out in the kitchen while the majority of the campers were away from the building, the apparent cause being an oil stove which was being used to heat water.

Miss Lukes, general secretary of the association who was in charge of the camp, at once made use of the hand extinguisher in the building, but this failed to work and the fire spread so rapidly that it was impossible to save much of the contents.

The loss is about $2,000, with $800 insurance.

IS THIS YOUR BIRTHDAY

JULY 25.

If this is your birthday, wear a ruby or a diamond.

Your governing sign is Leo, and governing planet is the sun. This combination gives an ardent, warm, magnetic nature.

Your mental characteristics are all on a high plane, but your love-nature is inclined to be arrogant, and to demand greater constancy than the beloved is willing to give.

This birthdate gives a passionate love of music; the musical talents should be cultivated.

People of this nature must learn patience and self-control under all conditions, it is the hardest lesson the man and woman of this birthdate has to learn.

Hold Intercession Service on Steps of St. Paul's Cathedral

LONDON, July 26.—The hymn "O God our Help in Ages Past" welled from the throats of thousands of Londoners yesterday to the accompaniment of massed bands, when the Bishop of London, the Rt. Rev. Arthur F. W. Ingram, appeared on the steps of St. Paul's Cathedral to conduct a service of intercession for those killed in war and for the success of the arms of Great Britain and her allies.

Intercession services also were held in all the free churches of the kingdom yesterday.

AWARD AVIATOR MILITARY CROSS FOR HEROIC DEED

LONDON, July 26.—Lieut. Oliver Dwight Filley, of the Royal Flying Corps, has been awarded the Military Cross for conspicuous gallantry on July 6, while taking observations for the British artillery. The lieutenant is a member of the well-known American family of that name of St. Louis, and was stroke of a boat crew ten years ago, at Harvard University, where he graduated.

According to the official report Lieutenant Filley and an observer although not in a special fighting machine, attacked and drove off German aeroplanes on two occasions, and continued his work of observation until two enemy machines came up.

Lieut. Filley attacked both aeroplanes with his remaining five rounds of ammunition and only retired after his observer had been killed and the engine had been damaged. He landed safely within the British lines.

Lieut. Filley, who was a mining engineer in Rhodesia at the outbreak of the war, came to England and received his commission. His exploit is featured in the "roll of fame list," in the English newspapers.

CHURCH BELLS CONVERTED INTO SHELLS

Austrian Women Give Up Iron and Brass of All Kinds for War

"War Bells," is the title of a lengthy article in the semi-official "Lokal Anzeiger," of Berlin, in which the sacrifices made by Austrians in parting with their church bells and superfluous household brass and copper are extolled. The writer is rapturiously enthusiastic about those poor village communities and their priests who have parted with treasures of inestimable value to them, and cannot find words powerful enough to laud the fine patriotism of the poor Viennese women who have parted with their pots and pans to make shells for killing Russians and Italians.

A hundred years ago, says the writer, German women and maids sacrificed their silver combs and gold chains as once the women of Carthage. Gold was wanted to beat the Corsican. Now it is not gold that is wanted but bullets and shells cartridges, fuses, and a score of other things pertaining to army munitions. In Vienna among the trucks full of articles one sees valuable brass candelabra and bronze statuettes by the score. The entire collection would fill hundreds of railway wagons.

Stories are told of little villages in the Austrian Alps where every article of bronze and brass was sacrificed—crucifixes which have come down from mother to daughter for generations, ingeniously wrought baptismal basins, queer specimens of brass belt buckles, the metal horns that the shepherd boys blow to collect their herds straying over Alpine meadows, the richly ornamented metal pieces of bridles and saddles—these and a hundred other things of the greatest antiquarian value have been collected in Vienna and other towns and in countless villages in Carinthia, Carniola, the Tyrol and Styria.

But it is the gifts of bells which most touch the writer. In very poor villages where they had no crucifixes or buckles or horns they gave their poor little tinkling bells to the Emperor with the message that he was not to be anxious for fate of his Empire. The cannon made of these bells, says the poetical writer, will speak with a different voice and convey a different message from those used by the Italians and English and made of "business steel" with 20 per cent profit to the makers. The cannon from those Aiping bells, we are told, have a soul, a national soul, and if it is God's will they will help towards victory."

INTERESTING BITS OF GENERAL NEWS FROM HIGHLANDS

From Our Own Correspondent, Resident in Glasgow.

GLASGOW, JULY 3.—The half o' the year is bye again, an' whaur are we? If I were writin' a review o' the war, what a lot I wad say aboot whaur we arena. A' doon the end o' last year what a lot was to happen in the spring o' 1915! Then it was the simmer that was to see "the great shove" an' now the simmer is nearly past, an' we arena at Berlin yet. An' naebody says onything aboot the autumn. The opinion seems to be that we'll hae anither winter o' casualty lists an' recruitin' an' "great victories" that lead us to nae place; an' war loans at 4 1-2 or 5 per cent, an' German stories by wireless o' hoo they an' the Austrians an' the Turks are wipin' the floor o' Europe wi' a' the ither countries. But then I'm no writin' a review o' the war, an' nae I can just say that we're NO doonhearted. It's a big job, but we're to see it to an end, even though we hae to fecht richt through Kitchener's three years, an' ither three years besides.

I'm feelin' better after that, an' mair fit to see what's daein' in Scotland. Simmer though it is, an' a braw simmer at that, there arena mony tourists. Edinburgh is feelin' the want o' them. In ither years the city aboot this time was "a great caravanseral for travellers from all ends of the earth." I dinna ken exactly what a caravanseral is, but it sounds like somethin' oot o' the "Arabian Nights." Onyway, I tak' richt, for if the Scotsman disna ken the word o' the Scotsman that it's a' hoo to describe Edinburgh, wha does? The American tourist season has been killed by the war. It ne'er had ony great prospects, an' the Lusitania settled it. The sinkin' o' the big Cunarder stopped a' bookin's on the ither side, an' the men wha ken aboot this line o' business say there arena a fifth o' the usual number o' American visittors.

It is specially hard lines on Edinburgh hotelkeepers, an' on a' the folk that live on visitors an' their fees, their payments, an' their tips. And it is hard lines on the land o' the Lady o' the Lake an' Roderick Dhu and Rob Roy an' Helen Macgregor, an' a' the rest o' the crood that Sir Walter created oot o' the depths o' his great imagination. The Hielan' hotelkeepers are waur aff even than them o' Edinburgh, for they live on their simmer trade, an' the want o' tourists means that they've little or nae income for the haill twelve months.

Then there are the railway companies. They haena a muckle in the way o' regular passenger traffic, but they've as muckle trade as they ken what to dae wi'. What the trade is naebody asks, an' naebody wad get any satisfaction if they did ask. But as the companies hae lost big lots o' their men to Kitchener's army they are pleadin' wi' the public not to harass them wi' passengers' luggage in the holiday season. They— heavens, plenty o' porters at the stations to handle the mountains o' luggage that folk usually carry wi' them to the coast towns, an' they want to rin as few luggage vans as possible. Sae the— are askin' in a' the papers that folk gaun on their holidays should leave at home ilka article that they can dae without, an' send in advance by goods train a' the heavy boxes that they really maun hae wi' them on holidays.

Last year at this time, there was nae war, an' sae far as the public could see, nae sign o' war, an' the railway companies were runnin' special luggage trains across Scotland to Fifeshire, wi' a truck for each coast toon after crossin' the Forth Brig. This year there isna muckle East Coast holiday traffic, an' there are nae special trains. Sae the East Coast landladies are feelin' the war as muckle as the Hielan' hotelkeepers.

But the patriots are aye to the fore. In spite o' the war—or may be because o' the war—some o' them seem to be mair lively than ever. The St. Andrew's Society, for instance, has discovered a grievance in that "practically all the flags of the Royal Navy are contrary to the express terms of the Act of Union." They've been writin' to th Librarian o' the Admiralty, tellinu' him a' that they think is wrang wi' the flags, and' he has replied, an' if I had a column to spare I wad explain a' aboot it. Then, a lot o' folk are writin' to the papers protestin' that Scotland isna N.B.—"North Britain"—but Scotland!

Another lot are writin' angry at the Corporation of Glasgow for refusin' a site for a Wallace statue.

POLITICIANS OF MANITOBA TREAD TENDER PATHS

Present Campaign is Mild as Contrasted with Other Contests

SEEKING TO AVOID ALL PERSONALITIES

Both Parties Condemn Machine Politics and the Recent Graft

Special to The Montreal Star.

WINNIPEG, July 26.—What strikes the impartial observer of the present provincial campaign is that it is a very mild affair, lacking on the surface at least in enthusiasm and the driving force that gets the staid citizens "going" around election day.

Manitobans are used to stirring times on these occasions; they expect all the noise and tub thumping of the country fair fakir-sound before argument, invective and mud-slinging in place of a policy, and a furious froth of words obscuring whatever issues there may be.

Of all the Dominion, Manitoba remained the stronghold of the old political swashbuckler, survivor of a more decorative period, and the brave old figure is sadly missed from the present campaign, though doubtless he may still be found in some of the country constitutencies.

ALL GOING ORDERILY.

The fast is that so many politicians are treading on eggs—or dynamite—that the whole thing is going as orderly as a Sunday School picnic. Sir James Aikins struck the correct note in announcing, when he opened his campaign at Brandon, that he would avoid personalities. He followed that up by offering in form an apology to the Lieutenant-Governor, who was sadly belabored by the recent convention of the Independent Conservative party. And so far his opponents have been quite as discreet.

A change may come over the scene this evening, when Winnipeg Liberals are to be addressed in mass meeting by their leaders but there seems a disposition to let sleeping dogs lie. Both parties unite in condemning machine politics and the graft and corruption recently exposed, but they are mighty chary about tagging personalities with these ugly names.

TO SCRUTINIZE CHARGES.

On Saturday the Attorney-General, the Hon. A. H. Hudson, said in effect that he would very carefully scrutinize the criminal charges framed by R. A. Bonner, K. C., on behalf of the Norris Government against ex-Cabinet Ministers and others in relation to the Parliament building contracts. Street gossip has coupled the names of all sorts of people in high positions with these charges, and possibly an announcement will be made today in the form of the extent of criminal prosecution the Norris Government is committed to at the present time.

Mr. Hudson, indeed, with the election only ten days off, is in a sufficiently envious position for whomsoever he may select to criminally prosecute or not to prosecute—and the significance of the latter may be the more important—it is certain he will be accused of measuring his law to fit the immediate needs of the campaign.

The statesmanlike thing might be to let the prosecutions lie until after the election, but in view of the charge by the Opposition that the Government is only awaiting its triumph at the polls to quietly drop criminal prosecutions against all but Kelly, this is hardly possible.

WINNIPEG NOMINATIONS.

Tonight the Conservatives of Centre and South Winnipeg will nominate candidates. Two members sit for each seat. South Winnipeg provided the great surprise of the last election when Messrs. Hudson, now Attorney-General, and Parrish, a well-known grain dealer, were returned by a big majority over the two sitting members. Therefore, an effort is being made to get the best possible candidates into the field against this redoubtable team. Conservatives claim that the split of the Liberals in Beautiful Plains will give that seat to their candidate, J. H. Irwin.

Sir James, himself, wound up last week's campaign, mostly through South Manitoba, at Selkirk on Saturday night. This is the centre of the famous constituency of Kildonan and St. Andrews, where the Hon. Dr. Montague was returned by a narrow majority at the last election.

Conservatives here nominated Richard Saunders, reeve of St. Andrews, notwithstanding that he took a firm stand against women's suffrage, one of the planks of the party.

RE-NOMINATE PREMIER.

ALEXANDER, Man., July 26. — The Hon. T. C. Norris, Premier of Manitoba, was re-nominated here Saturday night by the Liberals of Lansdowne, which constituency he has represented almost uninterruptedly for eighteen years.

In accepting the nomination, Mr. Norris reviewed the platform of the Liberal party, and referring to the matter of prohibition, stated that if elected, they would in the first session, have a bill prepared by the temperance people and submitted to the electorate by means of a referendum. If endorsed, this bill would be placed on the statute books at the earliest possible moment. He guaranteed that this policy would be carried out.

With regard to education the Premier said that, following the repeal of the Coldwell amendments, the Norris Government would establish a reasonable compulsory education law. As for the Parliament buildings scandal, the Government would unhesitatingly prosecute all those shown to be criminally responsible. But this was not the only steal. The probe would have to be inserted into the agricultural college construction and the Bell Telephone deal, and in every case those criminally connected, whether high or low, would, Mr. Norris asserted, be prosecuted.

SOURIS, Man., July 26.—At a Liberal convention at Souris, Saturday, J. W. Breakey was nominated for the Glenwood constituency. Mr. Breakey was elected for Glenwood at the last election. W. W. Wilson, mayor of Russel, was nominated by the Liberals there.

WHAT IS GOING ON IN EMERALD ISLE TO INTEREST YOU

Special From Our Own Correspondent Resident in Dublin.

DUBLIN, June 26.—Last week at Belfast Major-General C. H. Powell, C.B., impressed on the ministers of the General Assembly the fact that 12,000 more men are wanted for the Ulster Division Reserves. He pointed out the impossibility of sending a division to the front until there was an adequate backing in the shape of reserves. To that end they were engaged in raising these reserve battalions of the division, each of 2,000 men. At the present slow rate of enlistment, he would not get these battalions filled before the end of the current year, if then. Then, as if the provision of three reserve battalions was not hard enough, the War Office had ordered him to raise three more battalions, which meant that he had got to raise no less than 12,480 men, more than he had already got in the division.

GALLANT IRISHMEN.

On June 22, Sergt. Michael O'Leary, of the Irish Guards, was received by the King and decorated with the Victoria Cross, so gloriously won at Cuinchey in February. The King heard that O'Leary was visiting his old headquarters at Wellington Barracks, and decided to take the opportunity of decorating him. The Colonel of the regiment was communicated with and he accompanied O'Leary to the Palace. The King, Queen and Princess Mary were in the grounds, and soon after Queen Alexandra and Princess Victoria arrived, and saw the giving of the decoration. The King pinned on the cross and shook hands with O'Leary, congratulating him on his heroism and wishing him a long life to wear the cross and a happy future. All the Royal ladies present shook hands with the hero. The same evening O'Leary crossed over to Ireland to see his parents in County Cork.

Private Mannon, of the Inniskilling Fusiliers, writes home to a friend at Athlone, says that at Messieres, when the regiment charged and took a position before the London Scottish came up, William Feary, son of Mr. W. Feary, of Athlone, was the first man in the trenches, and that he bayoneted two German officers. When the regiment was cut off, Feary, who was exposed to machine gun fire, went back two miles for reinforcements, and was wounded on his return, but "saved the situation." Feary also brought in a wounded comrade under very heavy fire.

Captain E. G. Milne, 1st Irish Guards, who has died of wounds received at the front on May 18, was in the Royal Irish Constabulary, and was one of the first of a small group of Constabulary officers who obtained commissions in the Guards a couple of months after the outbreak of war. Captain Milne obtained special good service pay and other honors while serving in the Constabulary.

IRISH COMPOSER LOST.

In the Probate Court, Dublin last week, Mr. Pierce D. Butler applied for an order presuming the death of his brother, Thomas O'Brien Butler, the well-known Irish composer, who was a passenger in the Lusitania, and is believed to have been drowned. Mr. Pierce Butler stated that he had made diligent searches and enquiries concerning his brother. He had met a lady amongst the survivors, who had sat at the same table with him, and knew him intimately. She stated that he suffered from neuritis and had not been well during the voyage. It is believed that he went down in the ship as his body has not been recovered. Mr. Justice Madden granted the application, making an order for the administration of his estate, as he is believed to have died intestate.

CROP PROSPECTS.

The crop report issued by the Irish Department states that a prolonged spell of rain would be welcomed by farmers. The area under spring wheat is estimated to be much larger than last year, while more land was broken up for wheat than in other seasons. The oat crops is reported healthy, but backward, the winds in May having been very harsh. The area under barley is smaller than usual, on account of oats being a better paying crop last year. Potato crops are healthy on the whole, especially where the seed was sprouted before planting. Turnips are backward owing to frosts and dry soil—and flax is described as patchy and backward. Hay has made very little growth and pastures are very bare.

Last week the three Irish Wolf Hounds presented to Mr. John Redmond, M. P., by Mr. Thos. Ryan, of Brixton, for the Irish Division arrived at Kingston. The animals are splendid specimens of the breed. They were received by men of the Inniskilling usiliers and conveyed to earmoy, Tipperary and Buttevant, where the Irish Brigade are in training.

The Royal Dublin Society has decided not to hold a Horse Show this year, and the reason for not holding the show as usual is that the Ballsbridge premises are occupied by the military authority. It has also been decided not to hold the Winter Show, owing to the conditions at present existing and likely to exist during 1915.

Cleveland won five straight from the Athletics. This makes six consecutive victories; the longest winning streak the club has had since 1913.

Alexander won another.

Tyrus Cobb already has drawn more passes this year than he did last, namely, 59. Donie Bush also is over the half-century mark with 54. Then follow Oscar Vitt, with 39; Sam Crawford and Bobby Veach, each with 29; Ralph Young, with 28; Marty Kavanagh, with 23.

M. Fink, pitching for the Young Canadians of the Spalding Montefiore Junior Baseball League, on Fletcher's Field yesterday afternoon, won his game from the Laetus Cercle aggregation by 10 to 1, and in doing so failed to give the opposing batters a solitary hit. NOISE OF BOMBS ONLY FIREWORKS OF THE ITALIANS

Celebration of Mont Carmel Feast — Can't Trace Mysterious Aeroplanes

FIRE BALLOONS MAY BE CAUSE

Military Authorities Unable to Find Definite Trace of Aircraft

Great excitement was caused in Montreal between 9 and 10 o'clock last evening when, following the many "aeroplane" reports of the past week or two, a series of bomb explosions, resembling in sound the noise of artillery, were heard. Hundreds of people were startled into believing that the aeroplane peril had materialized, and that bombs were being dropped on the city, or that the aircraft were being shot at, but the noise was traced to the Italian celebration of the feast of Mont Carmel, held at Lafontaine Park.

A large representation of the Italian colony attended services at the Italian Catholic Church, Dorchester street east, and then marched to the park. After a number of patriotic speeches, the program wound up in a display of fireworks, during which a number of large aerial bombs were sent up. The explosion of these it was that startled the citizens.

CAN'T FIND PLANES.

The numerous reports that aeroplanes have been seen in various parts of the district, including Brownsburg, Rigaud, Chateauguay and Magog have been investigated by the Intelligence Department of Divisional Headquarters, as well as by the staff of the Enemy Alien Registration Bureau, but so far the inquiries made by these departments have not produced any evidence that the wandering airships are real. Col. E. W. Wilson, O. C., Divisional Headquarters, believes the whole series of reports to be decidedly improbable.

"The Government officers know the location of every aviation school on both sides of the line, the name of every licensed aviator, and the name of every aeroplane owner in Canada, as well as the United States near the line," he said. "With this information at their disposal they are in a position to keep track of all such machines.

"It is also extraordinary that the aeroplanes should be flying at night, when, if they are hostile craft, they could do the least good. Then again, they are always reported as flying with lights, which appears to be very remarkable when an aeroplane would naturally wish to conceal its whereabouts."

FIRE BALLOONS?

The investigation is being carried on and every effort will be made to furnish the public with a full explanation of the "aeroplane" visions. It has been observed at Chateauguay, as well as in other sections where aeroplanes have been reported, that boys have been sending up a number of fire balloons in the evenings. Under certain conditions, a fire balloon might well be mistaken for an airship, so this theory is being advanced on many sides to explain the widespread rumor.

Austrian Found Taking Measure; Had Stolen Tape

Demetro Merello, the Austrian alleged to have taken measurements in the Angus Shops of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and whose case was characterized by Judge Leet as "most peculiar and suspicious," admitted he stole a tape measure worth $2, and was sentenced to three months in jail by Judge St. Cyr on Saturday. After the expiration of his term he will be interned as an alien enemy.

Tomorrow he will be tried on charges of assaulting Constable Rhynd and damaging property.

FIND RESCUED BOY.

The identity of the boy who was saved from drowning by Constable Lebel, of the Grand Trunk police station, on Thursday, has been established. He is Edouard Hante, fourteen years of age, of 349 Grand Trunk street.

Wading in the river behind the plant of the Montreal Water and Power Company, Hante was carried away by the current and rescued in the nick of time. While the constable was calling an ambulance, he recovered and ran away, thinking he was to be arrested.

Take the "Trip of Shadows" on Your Western Tour.

Absolutely unique in Western travel is the trip down the "Shadowy" St. Joe River of Idaho, declared by some writers to be "a trip through fairyland." It affords miles of incomparable mirror reflections—mountains, forests, clouds, headlands and blossoming shores appear as clear and seemingly as real as the originals.

This trip is an exclusive feature of the "Milwaukee" and is optional with the traveller; that is, if he wishes he may leave the train at St. Maries, Idaho, and without extra cost, take a steamer down the St. Joe River and across beautiful Lake Coeur d'Alene to Coeur d'Alene, thence take the electric line to Spokane where the journey over the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway to the Pacific North Coast is resumed. This trip provides a welcome break in the transcontinental journey and is an exclusive feature of this route.

Three great mountain ranges are pierced by the "Milwaukee," affording a vaster extent of beautiful mountain scenery visible close at hand from the famous all-steel across-the-continent trains, "The Olympian" and "The Columbian," than any other route.

The return journey from California can be made direct from either San Francisco or Los Angeles on the steel-equipped "Pacific Limited" on the "San Francisco Limited" over the central route of this company, thus completing the "grand circle tour" of the west and at moderate cost.

For information about low fares, time of trains and for western travel literature apply to T. P. Casey, T. P. A., 53 Yonge St., Toronto.—Advertisement.

Wedding Guest Now in Hospital Wounded in Head

"Irish confetti" was thrown in the course of wedding festivities held in a hall of the Labor Temple on St. Dominique street yesterday afternoon, and Mike Coletsky retired to a ward in the General Hospital with a fractured skull, after a ten pound rock had been "bounced" on his head from a first-floor window.

His assailant is yet to be caught by the police.

Double festivities were celebrated in the halls of the Labor Temple yesterday,—a christening on the first floor, and a wedding in the basement. Coletsky, it is said, had been indulging liberally in refreshments at both parties, and started to "beat up" several of his fellow guests. One of these, after receiving a severe pounding, ran up the stairs of a house opposite and appeared at the window with a stone, which was used as a door stop, in his hand. The crowd below scattered, but Coletsky was too slow, and was dropped like a log.

Bystanders were prepared to call the morgue waggon, but the men rose to his feet, and staggered to the ambulance with the help of two policemen. Doctors at the hospital said that Coletsky had a remarkable skull, for the blow would have killed the average man. Coletsky is doing well today.

POSTAGE STAMPS FOR POLAR REGIONS

Many arctic and antarctic explorers have taken with them a special supply of postage stamps for special uses. When the Terra Nova left New Zealand on November 20, 1910, she had on board 100 pounds sterling worth of New Zealand penny stamps bearing the words "Victoria Land."

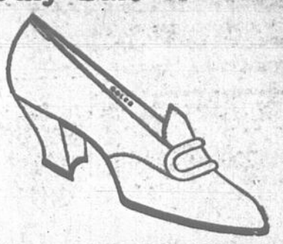

Capt. Scott was made postmaster of British Antarctica, an appointment first held by Sir Ernest Shackleton in 1907. The stamps carried by the Shackleton expedition were the ordinary New Zealand stamps, marked "King Edward VII. Land"; 23,000 of these stamps were issued and though of only a penny in value, they are now quoted at 26 shillings each, unused.

The Australian Antarctic expedition, under the leadership of Dr. Mawson, used the stamps of Tasmania, cancelled with a special postmark, showing in the centre the figure of a penguin. The stamps used by the Terra Nova expedition were also cancelled by a design noticeable for the figure of a penguin.

The German Antarctic expedition of 1911 had a stamp of special manufacture showing a design of the expedition's ship, the Deutschland.

HE'S A "DADDY" TO A THOUSAND ORPHAN KIDS

Charles Page Takes a Carload of Children to the 'Frisco Fair

Charles Page, the Tulsa, Okla., father of 1,000 children by adoption, passed through Kansas City the other morning with a carload of his youngsters en route to San Francisco and the exposition, where they will be given the time of their lives. Eight gallons of milk and a wagon load of cantaloupes were added at this point.

Mr. Page is an oil man whose income is said to be several thousand dollars a day. In his early years he was brakeman on the Wisconsin Central Railroad. The brave struggle made by his widowed mother as she toiled over the washtub in support of her seven fatherless children made such an impression on the lad's mind that he determined some day to do as large a part as possible toward lessening such misery. He is guardian for 400 widows.

"He sure does feed those children high!" remarked a railroad man as the train steamed into the distance with its happy bunch. "Nothing small about that man. He knows how to use money and use it right!"

HOUSE WAS ABLAZE, WOMAN IS ARRESTED

Arraigned before Judge St. Cyr on Saturday, Goldie Gold, charged with trying to set fire to a house at 51 Vinet street, pleaded not guilty and was remanded until tomorrow.

Neighbors were attracted by the light of candles in a house which they knew was temporarily unoccupied. They investigated, found a strong smell of oil, and two candles in dangerous positions. The police were notified and Miss Gold, the last person to leave the place, was arrested on her return.

To the police she gave the name of a young man who accompanied her from the house before the neighbors' investigation, but he has not been located.

The trial of Tse Ne Gat, the renegade Ute, cost the Government $20,000. The unhappily redskin, though freed, is mortally stricken with tuberculosis.

SHIP ARRIVALS

The Allan liner Sardinian, Capt. Mowatt, is in port again for the first time since early May. She brought a very small cargo and no passengers.

The Anglo-Columbish, Capt. A. C. Birch, also arrived over the weekend. She had heavy weather and fog off the banks. While on the other side the officers of the vessel saw the Anglo-Californian, which was being repaired. She had many holes, but will soon be ready for sea again.

The steamer Monadnock, Capt. Bapt. Blackmore, is in Montreal on her first trip. She formerly ran in the Far Eastern trade, between London and Calcutta.

FINDS BABY BOY

A baby boy about three days old was found on the doorstep of a house in Desjardins avenue, Maisonneuve, yesterday. The child was well dressed. He was cared for by the police of Maisonneuve station and unless adopted today will be sent to the Grey Nunnery.

If your life is worth anything to anybody but yourself, you should have insurance for their protection. If not, you should have it because of its sterling value to you as an investmen . Your policy will prove the best possible in either case if it be issued by the

THREE LIVES LOST IN N. S. DROWNING

HALIFAX, N.S., July 26.—Three young Halifax men were drowned, and one narrowly escaping the same fate when their rowboat upset in the harbor at midnight Saturday.

James Gerald Hann, electrician, twenty-five years of age; Clifford Long, about the same age, driver; and Frank Walsh, twenty years of age, were the men who lost their lives. All three were unmarried.

Just what was the exact cause of the accident it was difficult to learn last night, as Thomas James, the rescued man, was in too nervous a condition to give a coherent story. It was believed that the men were changing seats and capsized the craft. None of the bodies have been recovered.

EXPLOSION MYSTERY ON BRITISH BOAT

NEW YORK, July 26.—An explosion of unknown origin occurred in the forward hold of the British freight steamer Cragside at her dock in the Hudson River here Saturday, and was followed by a fire which, however, was speedily checked.

The Cragside, which was to leave here for an English port with a cargo of 100,000 bags of sugar, will be delayed a few days. Authorities are investigating to determine the cause of the explosion.

The fire and water damage to the steamer was estimated at $10,000, while the cargo of sugar, valued at $144,000, is believed to be a total loss.
