Next week's weather

By ERIC NEAL

March 11 to 18

Bright and relatively warm with cold nights, morning frosts or mists, then light snows (1-2"), or showers with thunder. This is the squishy week we see the sidewalks again, 25 to 30 sunny hours, with a temperature range of 15-45°F, a little colder in the north and east.

Sunny intervals and cold rains or a little snow in the middle of the week, thunder for some places, then cold and flurries. Near blizzard conditions in the north. Fog for low lying places in the south, freezing mists for Quebec and Gaspé probable. Sugaring-off in full swing.

Pleasant for the end of the week with bright periods and a little soft snow or drizzle and improving rapidly. The log drive starts. The break-up is beginning, so are local floods.

Canadair's CL-44 contract with US still 'up in air'

By LARRY McINNIS

THE CANADAIR CL-44: Deals are still cooking, but the sales situation for this aircraft doesn't look too good. In the House of Commons recently, Prime Minister Diefenbaker was asked by Lionel Chevrier whether his personal intervention was needed to complete a deal with the U. S. for these planes. The PM said flatly, "No!" No announcement has been made to this effect, either, so it is safe to presume the matter was not brought up in his talks with President Kennedy. Meanwhile, Canadair is carrying on their tests and have found the aircraft better than even their own engineers had planned. For example, the range has been extended by 300 miles to 5,527 miles; speed is up 10 mph; takeoff distance is shortened by 800 feet; landing distance is shortened by the same amount. Still, the Military Air Transport Service (MATS) of the U. S. Air Force, are greatly interested in the plane, but decisions have been delayed so much that American firms may have a comparable aircraft for service in the near future. In fact, I have it from good authority that the U. S. contract at one time only required one signature to make it final. It now appears doubtful if that contract will ever get that one signature.

THE WEATHER: Well, we may not have had as much snow as we anticipated, but we've had more than our share of wind, sleet and rain — especially freezing rain. The weather has cut down a great number of commercial flights, and has really hit private flyers where it counts.

AIR ROUTES: No decision has yet been made public about the much sought-after Montreal - Ottawa - Kingston - Oshawa - Toronto - Windsor run. Many feeder airlines are looking for the plum, but the Transport Department has not made its decision public, although they have completed hearings for applications. We'll see!

WE HEAR that Curtis-Reid's new hangar is coming along nicely, and will be in operation in the near future . . . that Montreal Flying Club's secret bonus for new students signing up for their new plan is paying off . . . MFC directors were present at the Ad and Sales Club luncheon this week to hear Gordon MacGregor, president of TCA . . . that the much-ballyhooed Cessna Skyhook (helicopter) will make a local appearance sometime this year . . . that the Skyhook is the only helicopter fully certified for flight under instrument conditions . . . that TCA has finally announced that a lot of laid-off pilots have found work in Europe, as we have been saying since the layoffs started.

WE WONDER how the Pelican Flying Club is getting along; haven't heard from them since their organizational meeting . . . how Ron Fields finds his way around his newly enlarged Skyhaven quarters on Bois Franc road . . . how Ed Gates will enjoy flying commercial airline for his Florida vacation.

THE F-104 PROGRAM: The time is rapidly approaching when the first of these will take to the skies around here for testing and demonstration purposes. F/L Al Bowman has been the guest at various gatherings recently because he is leaving the RCAF testing staff at Canadair to go to Lockheed's California plant for complete study of the new aircraft. Al has been OC of the RCAF acceptance team for four years. He is a graduate of the Empire Test Pilot School in England. He has tested Sabres, CC-106s, T-33s, Argus and Convairs. When he finishes at Palmdale, he will be an advisor on the F-104 with the Central Experimental and Proving Establishment at Uplands, Ottawa.

MODEL AIRCRAFT

Jacques McCormack's model aircraft class continues to meet every Tuesday and Saturday each week working on a series of models which will be exhibited at the annual hobby show scheduled for late May.

INDIAN LORE

Louis Thomas' Art Woodcraft class and Skookum Tribe are also meeting twice weekly for the same purpose. Mr. Thomas is planning an exhibition of Indian Lore articles.

WOODWORK

Bird Houses are the current project in vogue for John Fleming's woodwork class which meets twice weekly in the workshop. The class is also producing articles for the hobby show exhibition.

EMBROIDERY

A large number of embroidery articles have been produced by the girls in the Embroidery Class under the direction of Mrs. S. Simmons and Mrs. W. Warren. This class meets every Monday afternoon.

PHYSICAL ACTIVITIES

Physical Director Rupert Bowen reports that great strides have been made in the area of physical education, with more and more activities being added in order to provide opportunities for the younger set to build strong healthy bodies and strong healthy minds.

At the present time, the physical education program at Unity includes the following: gymnastics, soccer, baseball, tennis, weight training, tumbling, indoor track, basketball, hockey, physical fitness and general gym activities.

The club is currently gearing up for the proposed gymkana and sports night to be held during National Boys' Club Week and the annual District track and field meet which is slated for late May.

TALENT CLUB

The Unity Talent Club under the musical direction of Fred Johnston and dance instruction of Danny Smith are meeting regularly every Tuesday evening in preparation for forthcoming presentations of the Unity Boys' Club Talent Parade Variety Shows. The first of a series takes place on Saturday, March 18, at Boucherville, Quebec, on behalf of the Canadian Red Cross.

BASKETBALL

Richard Cessford's UBC Bantam Basketball Team defeated the Town of Mount Royal Bantams 44-23 in a regular league fixture. Unity's Arthur Driver was the top sniper with 19 points while Bradley Jones accounted for 14 points for T.M.R. The league now enters the finals.

John McDonough's Biddy Team failed to advance along the playoff trail when they were defeated in overtime in the semi-final series with the East End Boys' Club. Facing a four point deficit as a result of the first game of the series, McDonough's mighty mites won the second game in overtime 31-29 but lost the series by a mere two points. At half time, Unity was leading 15-9 but the taller East Enders led by G. Riddell and L. Hamel paced the victors in the final minutes of the game. Despite their diminutiveness, Unity's Biddy boys displayed a fine brand of basketball and gave their taller counterparts a real battle for the honors. And now the curtain is down for Unity's Biddy aspirations for this year and a hearty vote of thanks is extended to their Coach John McDonough and congratulations to the team which is as follows: Neil Fernandes, Juvenal Fernandes, Jimmy Hotten, Billy Holden, Bobby Johnston, Richard

HOCKEY CHAMPIONSHIP

The Colts won the Unity Boys' Club Hockey Championship last week defeating the Indians 9-6 in a free wheeling high scoring contest. The "Big Two" of the Colts came through again getting all nine goals with Billy Standing slamming in six and Arthur Driver getting three. They also finished the season in that order for the scoring title: Billy Standing was the top scorer with 18 goals and 5 assists for a total of 23 points. Arthur Driver managed 12 goals and 5 assists for 17 points.

For the Indians, Michael Weston knocked in four goals and Richard Holden picked up two goals and assisted on all of Weston's goals.

The Norris Brothers, Bruce and Douglas, played an outstanding game for the losers. Although scored on 9 times, goaler Bruce Norris, played a strong game in the nets for the losing Indian aggregation, and had it not been for his good goaltending, the score would have been much higher.

The Championship Colt team consisted of the following: Jimmy McMahon, Billy Holden, Lawrence Crouch, Billy Standing, John Galley, Arthur Driver, George McMahon and Tommy Walsh.

Science "is a must for prosperity," affirmed English-born Westmount lad, Tony Hancock, in his speech before the Westmount Rotary Club yesterday.

The twelfth grade Lower Canada College student went on to win the preliminary bout in the Rotary Club of Montreal annual boys' public speaking contest, topping four other boys for the decision. His topic was "Is Science A Threat to Civilization?"

Tony, who lives at 32 Shorncliffe avenue, is president of his school debating society, the Quintillion Club, and an editor on the school paper. His future plans extend to the arts curriculum at McGill University.

Arthur Brewer, 17, of 4334 Montrose avenue, eleventh grade student at Westmount High School, spoke on the same topic as the winner.

Paul Durocher, 16, of 4884 Bessborough avenue, NDG, a grade 11 student at St. Leo's Academy, discussed the Future of the United Nations."

Lyle Benson 16, of 4141 Wilson avenue, NDG, eleventh grader at West Hill, spoke on "The Importance of Human Relations."

Robert Carlidge, 16, a grade 11 student at Verdun High School, who lives at 357 Melrose avenue, Verdun, chose for his topic "The Greatest Achievement of the Twentieth Century." His choice was the invention of aircraft.

Judges of the event were R. W. Stoeckel, Principal, Cote des Neiges Commercial College and well-known public speaking teacher; Stan Engel, 4359 Draper avenue, NDG, creative director, Ronalds-Federated and Harold Shizgal, 5764 Rand avenue, Cote Saint Luc, creative director, Aluminum Co. of Canada.

The meeting was chaired by vice-president, Jack Burrows 335 Clarke avenue, and the speakers presented by Youth Service Committee Chairman, Mark Charlton, 50 Easton, Montreal West.

Mr. Dawe says:

Westmount was not 'lucky'

"Westmount was not 'lucky,'" said City Manager Norman Dawe in a diatribe on last week's editorial page, "the reason for the so-called luck was the fabulous job done by the Westmount light and power employees."

"It was their baby," he commented, "and they came through in grand style."

He said the civil defence, described in the Examiner editorial as "one of the best on the island of Montreal", is non-existent, and in its absence the city employees worked through for 50 hours non-stop to get and keep the situation under control.

In the second place, the city manager wondered who was the resident complaining in a letter to the editor about candle shortage in Westmount, since the (Continued on page 7)

Roslyn H-S told:

'Curricula anarchy' University problem

By Miriam Armstrong

A "great millstone is hanging on Canadian Universities," Dean H. N. Fieldhouse told some 200 parents attending a meeting of the Roslyn Home and School Association Tuesday night.

Elaborating on his statement, Dean Fieldhouse said the first two years of university are commonly considered an ideal "general education" period. Nothing could be worse for the student, the Dean contended, than when he is suddenly thrust into the senior years of university education and bitterly resents advice to take an extra year in math or some other subject not given the proper attention in the junior years.

"In the last 10 years at McGill, it has been possible to get one of the easiest degrees and also one of the most difficult," said the Dean, "and all under the same umbrella."

Under a new system now being worked out by a committee, McGill has generally liberalized the first two years of education, especially in the humanities — not to make the first year easier

— but so that any reasonable freshman can prove his fitness in his first year, Dean Fieldhouse explained.

"Thaumaturgy"—a sort of magic or miracle—is required to remove the compulsory quality from compulsory subjects, according to the Dean, who suggested, however, that the teacher is very rare indeed who, trained as a specialist, can transcend his specialization to convey the subtle meanings of thaumaturgy.

Another fault of universities is "curricula anarchy," the Dean explained.

"There is a badly swollen curricula in all Canadian universities, and in the States there exists a fantastic range and diversification of subjects," the Dean of McGill University continued, "but this is not the case at McGill."

End this monopoly
on airport taxis

A West End resident waited 20 minutes at Montreal International Airport for a taxi the other evening.

The weather was clear, flights were operating normally.

Yet this was the best the miserable Murray Hill taxi monopoly could do.

In Montreal the taxi industry generally is languishing.

It is time it received a shot in the arm by recognizing that the airport is too vital to the community at large to be at the mercy of one outfit.

And when cleaning up that sore point, the authorities well might also reverse the deplorable situation whereby the choicest and closest parking spots at the airport terminal are reserved for Transport Department bodies and for rental cars, while the paying public are relegated to the far pastures.

The Transport Department seems to have forgotten that it is there to serve the public, not take the best for itself at the public's expense.

It's 'University' to us from now on

THE editorial department of this paper has been instructed by the publisher that henceforth in our columns a certain local Jesuit institution of learning shall be referred to as "Loyola University."

That is the status which the former Loyola College has been rightfully seeking for some time; which English Roman Catholics particularly and the entire West End population generally supports wholeheartedly; and which seems to be pointlessly denied this famous Sherbrooke street establishment.

We say that if the Provincial authorities choose to drag their feet in this matter there is an easy remedy. The community at large simply can will it by starting to

Sir: Members of the Committee organizing the Women's World Day of Prayer have phoned to express their great pleasure in the fine support given in the way of publicity prior to this very important event.

It was an extreme pleasure, as members of The Salvation Army, to have an opportunity of assisting this Committee in such an international, interdenominational effort, and the support given by the Westmount Examiner and Monitor was a tremendous boost in making this event the success it proved to be.

Again thanking you.

BY THE WAY

THE liveliness in the sporting world, with riots at football matches and boxing matches, is spreading to the theatre. I hear that the members of one sprited cast are rehearsing collective booing as a deterrent. The moment it is suspected that the audience is about to boo the cast will steal a march on them, thus showing what they think of hostile criticism. If a spectator begins to shout "Balderdash!" the leading actor will at once yell back: "Mind your own business!"

A TAILOR has said that trousers should be exactly the right length, falling neatly over the shoes. That may be, but I knew a rich man whose trousers were so long that he was followed by pages who held up the ends like a lady's train. In a high wind they billowed, and once he was blown through an open window into a solicitor's office in Kilburn. The pages fell into the basement. The solicitor, noticing the dandy's struggles to disentangle himself, said coldly, "Why not tighten your braces, sir?"

call Loyola what we all regard it: Loyola University.

So today we welcome Loyola University to our pages where it stays, the Government at Quebec and other reluctant parties notwithstanding.

Education standards must improve; children should remain in school

"STAY IN SCHOOL" is the slogan of Education Week, and figures show that 50% of students enrolled in grade eight drop out of school before completing grade 11, according to D. E. Pope, 4088 Hingston avenue, Deputy Director of education for the Protestant School Board of Greater Montreal.

"There is an improvement," said Mr. Pope. "The situation is not as serious as it was, but it is not good enough to be satisfactory."

Twelve or 13 years ago, the drop-out percentage between the first and last grades of high school was 55%, but in 1921 between the first grade in elementary school and the last of high school, there was a 90% drop-out, he pointed out.

To which pressures will the young man or woman yield at a time when his or her education is as yet incomplete?

On one hand there's the lure of money, leisure and pleasure flaunted by the very commercialized world we live in, and on the other hand there's the threat of automation, less and less need for untrained minds and more desperate need for leaders in the expanding world of knowledge today.

The ease history

A 17-year-old boy who quit school this year in the West End in grade 10, said, "I failed two subjects and it was the second time around for me — I just couldn't sit still any more. I am working for a chain store earning $45 a week. I like it."

He said he hoped to become manager some day, but he definitely wants to go back to school at night in a couple of years' time, so that he would have "something to fall back on". His parents allowed him to make the decision to leave school, but the firm he works for will pay part of his tuition should he enroll in night school.

A girl who said she always wanted to be a nurse, but quit grade 10 at 17 because, in her words, "I just felt it wasn't worth it, and I had friends who were working, so I got a job as a clerk at $35 a week." But she

Former WMA president named Chief Justice

A former president of the Westmount Municipal Association, Hon. William B. Scott, 611 Sydenham, Westmount, last week was appointed Chief Justice of the Superior Court of Quebec, effective March 1, 1961.

Mr. Scott served on the City Council of Westmount for six years from 1936 to 1943, and was one of those responsible for expropriation of property to make way for Murray Park.

Son of the late Rev. Frederick Scott, and Amy Brooks, Chief Justice Scott was born in Drummondville, April 7, 1888. He was educated at Quebec High School, and at Bishop's College where he graduated with his BA in 1908. He received his bachelor's degree in civil rights from McGill in 1912, the year he was accepted at the Bar of the Province of Quebec.

Mr. Scott served overseas does not feel now the decision was wise. "I am going back to school in the Fall so that I can be a nurse. This was something I had to find out for myself."

"I never did like school," said one 15-year-old miss who quit grade eight in another West End School, "and I was embarrassed when I couldn't answer questions the teacher asked me in front of the class. I wasn't failing, but I could have done better if I'd tried."

Her parents at first refused to allow her to quit, but later relented and said if she wasn't happy, she might as well leave school. She worked for a while in a factory for $27 a week, but quit in a few weeks' time. She now thinks she would like to get a job in a nursery, but most of all she wants to be a housewife and mother.

Industry sensitive

If chain grocery stores are sufficiently concerned with the education of their employees to dole out part of the cash required for night school, other industries appear even more sensitive to the educational requirements of prospective employees.

"Even in the plant, we take the fellow with the most high school education — it's our guiding light," said J. J. Maingot, 73 Columbia avenue, Westmount, employment supervisor for Continental Can Co. of Canada Ltd., 3455 Cote de Liesse road. "Eventually we will take high school graduates only, but not yet," he added.

Old-fashioned standards for a job as salesman are definitely on the way out, if not completely lost for sight.

"Soft soap or buying the customer a drink is not the whole thing in selling," explained Mr. Maingot, "because a man has to know what he's talking about. We are mainly interested in university graduates with a degree in mechanical engineering, chemical engineering or a BSC in chemistry for our sales staff."

"Trainees on our two-year training course must be university graduates," he continued, "although the ability for salesmanship is important."

D. R. Buglass, manager of advertising and promotion for the Armstrong Cork Can. Ltd., 6911 Decarie boulevard, Cote Saint Luc, believes university graduates turn out in the long run to be the best salesmen.

"We hire only university graduates for our sales staff," he said, "and their sales experience is not important." In the last seven years the policy of the firm has veered towards hiring of men who have just stepped out of university classrooms, usually with degrees in commerce or business administration.

"Our sales staff must have at least high school education," said N. J. Watson, 76 Arlington avenue, Westmount, manager of industrial relations at Robert Mitchell Co. Ltd., 350 Decarie boulevard. "We have no formal training period," he said, "but a lot of people move into sales from the engineering and estimating departments, just as skilled craftsmen may move into the estimating section."

"If a youngster of 14 or 15 came here looking for a job, we'd try to convince him to go back to school," remarked Mr. Watson. "The better his education, the better his chances are for advancement."

Corrective measures are being tried out all over Canada in an effort to probe beneath the surface of the problem and keep the student in school.

An experiment now in progress at Mount Royal School and at Rosemount is promotion by subject, whereby a student who has failed in one or more subjects has only to repeat that subject but may advance in all subjects in which he passed.

Promotion by subject

Grades as such are abolished and with them goes the social stigma of "failing" a grade and spending two or more years in the same grade. Unlike the poem that says, "all men strive, but who succeeds," all will strive and none will fail, unless the poor subject has not been improved by the time the student has completed his other studies, in which case he will not get his matriculation.

"We are trying to improve our methods of guidance," said Mr. Pope, "and we are trying to make our teaching more effective."

Board scholarships are now granted, and book rentals in high school have been dispensed with, Mr. Pope explained.

"Parents should encourage pupils to stay in school," he with the Royal Montreal Regiment (14th battalion CEC) in World War I and was seriously wounded in France.

During a brilliant legal career, Chief Justice Scott was appointed 'batonnier' of the Montreal Bar (1951-52) and was elected vice-president of the Quebec branch of the Canadian Bar Association. He was named King's Counsel in 1928 and in 1952 he was named chief associate judge of Superior Court for the district of Montreal.

Prior to his nomination to the bench, Chief Justice Scott was associated with the legal firm of Scott, Hugessen, Macklaier, Chisholm, Smith and Davis, of Montreal.

He is a former president of the Canadian Club of Montreal, and was at one time prior to 1952 legal advisor to the Canadian Nurses' Association and the Provincial Association of Protestant Teachers.

In 1950, Bishop's College conferred on him a doctor's degree in civil right — "Honoris Causa."

Married to the former Esther Aird, Chief Justice Scott has two sons, who are physicians in Montreal, Dr. H. J. Scott and Dr. Geoffrey Scott. A third son, Richard Aird Scott, was killed in action in the second World War.

We have a report from Kensington avenue that dogs are on the loose again. Our informant complains that the canines should not be allowed to run free on other people's property but should always be on a leash when on the street.

M. Brandt, the plumbing and heating expert is enjoying a vacation in Florida.

More changes! Westmount Taxi is now under new management. President of the new set-up is J. A. Speirs, vice-president is C. Goulden and S. Yetnikoff, B. Com., C. A., is secretary-treasurer.

Here's one that Ripley would have enjoyed! Mrs. A. E. Bleau of Olivier avenue has a canary which she always supposed to be a male because it is such a wonderful singer. However, the other morning she was surprised to find a genuine canaries' egg in the cage. The bird must have been singing under false pretences.

Miss Agnes Reid of Madame Joel's still hospitalized with a broken shoulder suffered in a fall about a month ago.

Don Adey, former proprietor of the Western Taxi Association which merged with the Veterans Taxi, is now driving for Westmount Taxi.

Quite a bit of moving going on by our local stores. M. Larsen is giving up his antique business on Sherbrooke, west of Claremont, and Brandt Plumbing Co. is moving into that location from their present spot just east of Claremont. Harte's Durg is going out of business because of the illness of Mr. Joubert and Victoria Furniture is taking over that store. Also, as mentioned here before, the Handicraft Shop is moving into the store formerly occupied by Westmount Stationery.

This is the upside-down year! Did you realize that you can look at 1961 upside down and it still comes out 1961? There won't be another one like it for 4158 years. Then, if

Linemen all were heroes

About 26 men worked for 50 hours in Westmount without stopping except for a five-hour rest period during the recent crippling ice storm accomplishing a "fabulous" job in the words of City Manager Norman Dawe.

Under the guidance of A. D. Heron, superintendent of light and power for the City of Westmount and general foreman I. A. McIsaac, Westmount employees closed in on trouble spots involving 15 to 20 major city blocks and two or three hundred isolated cases.

"All principal distribution of lines in Westmount is underground," said Mr. Heron, "so we have no one large area affected by a single group of poles."

"I don't think we were exceptional," said Mr. Heron, "all linemen everywhere worked hard."

F. E. Regan named St. George's VP

F. E. Regan, 3756 The Boulevard, president, Bepco (Canada) has been appointed vice-president, St. George's Society of Montreal, it has been announced. He replaces J. H. F. Turner, Bank of Montreal, recently transferred to London, England.

A native of Lancashire, England, Mr. Regan is a member of the Association of Professional Engineers, Ont., the Corporation of Professional Engineers, Que., and the Engineering Institute of Canada.

Mr. Regan's position as director of the society is now filled by L. H. T. Clegg, 651 Victoria avenue, retired president, Crane Ltd., Montreal.

The St. George's Society of Montreal functions as a welfare group for former British residents and their dependents now living in Canada.

you're still alive, you will be able to do the same thing in 6119.

Mrs. Anna Kemeny of Anna Gowns, has just returned from a month's visit to Paris. You may be sure that she took a good look at the new Parisian styles while there. She reports that business is good in France.

Malcolm Gregory has a fascinating display at his shop on St. Catherine. He recently received a shipment of unique hand-woven articles from far-off Assam. They include table cloths, throws, cushions and dress lengths hand-loomed by members of the hill tribe of Naga.

St. Andrew's Cub, Scout banquet for father, son set Fri., Mar. 17

The Cubs and Scouts of St. Andrews United Church will hold their annual Father and Son banquet in the church hall Friday, March 17, at 6:15 p.m. Special feature of the evening will be a surprise guest, a member of the Alouette football team whose identity will remain a secret until the night of the dinner.

Other special guests will be Rev. Dr. D. M. Grant and, it is hoped, Fred Tees, District Commissioner, Westmount.

A magician will be on hand to amaze the guests with tricks, old and new. Also, to round out an enjoyable evening, an entertainer has promised to come to lead the guests in a sing song.

Sun Life Urges: don't drop out

If you or anyone you know is having trouble deciding whether to stay in school, call F. Stewart Mount, Sun Life Manager, Westmount branch, and have him send you a leaflet entitled, "Why Stay In School" that should give you all the answers.

According to Mr. Mount this is just one of the 10 leaflets in Sun Life's Values In Education series, 1,500,000 copies of which have been distributed in North America upon request to schools, parents, teachers and students. The leaflets are free.

Other leaflets discuss how to seek out scholarships, technical and industrial schools, value of a college education, sport tips, extra-curricular activities, adult education, the duties of school boards and education for retirement.

"Sun Life is sponsoring this educational project because of the increasing importance of a good education for everyone," Mr. Mount pointed out. "The leaflets give important information not readily available elsewhere," he said.

NEW RECORDS

Schubert: Sym. 4 in C (Tragic)/Sym. 8 in B (Unfinished)/Berlin Philharmonic-Lorin Maazel/Deutsche Grammophon LPM 18628 (M)

American born Lorin Maazel might be likened to our new musical director here, Zubin Mehta, in that they are both young and energetic, and are able to coax beautiful sounds from their respective orchestras. The Berlin Phil. plays beautifully and the record is well worth having.

Ravel: Gaspard de la Nuit/Le Tombeau de Couperin/Charles Rosen, Piano/Epic LC 3589.

Discs such as these make one wish that fine pianists like Rosen would undertake recordings on a somewhat larger scale.

Mussorgsky (Orch. Ravel): Pictures at an Exhibition/Monte Carlo National Theatre Orch. Louis Fremaux/Select M-298-002

The recording was made in France by Erato, and pressed in Canada by Select Records. The performance is a very fine one, indeed, and the recording equally good. The company has a growing catalogue of excellent records including Leopold Simoneau, Pierrette Alarie, Jean-

Pierre Rampal, and many others, and at the price of $2.98 ($3.98 for stereo) are a true bargain.

Prokofiev: Peter and the Wolf/Tchaikovsky-Nutcracker Suite/The NY Philharmonic-Leonard Bernstein/Columbia ML 5593 (M) MS 6193 (S).

The performances of these somewhat over-familiar scores sound fresh in Bernstein's interpretation, and his new approach as narrator on Peter is delightful.

Dvorak: Requiem, op. 89/M. Stader, sop., Sieglinde Wagner, contr., E. Haefliger, ten., Kim Borg, bass / Czech. Philharmonic and Choir - Karel Ancerl/Deutsche Grammophon LPM 18547/48 (M)

Here is a neglected masterpiece that is resplendent with beautiful melodies and sonorities. The entire work takes about 1 1/2 hours with never a dull moment, and deserves a place of honour among the other, more familiar works in this form.

Vivaldi: The Four Seasons/David Nadien, Vln./The Kapp Sinfonietta-Emanuel Vardi cond./Kapp KCL 9056 (S). Vivaldi: The Four Seasons/Anshel Brusilow, Vln./The Philadelphia Orch.-E. Ormandy/Columbia ML 5595 (M) MS 6195 (S)

Had Vivaldi been able to hear his concerti performed by an orchestra the size of the Philadelphia, he would have no doubt been bowled over. The recording is absolutely stunning, but if you are the stick-to-the-original type, the Kapp version with Vardi has the edge. Both conductors, however, depart from the customary tradition of moderate tempi, and give lively concerti propulsive and exciting performances, with excellent Stereo engineering adding to listening pleasure.

Miss Kathleen Jenkins, Westmount Library, Director of Canadian Library Week, is away in Ottawa working out arrangements to celebrate this event which will take place April 16 to 22.

The prizes are on view in a glass case in the hall at Northmount High. Under club size, the chess men are elaborately cut and coloured white and green, instead of white and black or white and red.

Fencing champion 'Barby' Jack

Local girl wins metro fencing championships

A Metropolitan fencing champion, women's division, since last Saturday, 15-year-old Barbara Jack, 45 Holton avenue, Westmount, is well qualified to offer advice on the ancient art of self defence.

"The time to start learning to fence is when you reach the age of discretion . . . in your early teens . . . and not before," says the grade 10 Westmount High School student.

Another recent honor was winning the junior championship, women's division, for the province of Quebec. The competition was held in the Westmount YMCA on January 28.

The daughter of two fencers, (her mother a former fencing champion of Canada), Barbara is just doing what is natural when she excels at this glamorous sport. Other sports interests of the slim tall blond include volley ball, basketball, skiing, and swimming.

A girl of well rounded interests, her plans are to attend college and to major in archaeology. She is not entirely certain just what her eventual major will be. However, she likes English, history, Latin and French the most of the courses she is now taking in the A course, Latin curriculum, at Westmount.

An extracurricular subject which she has taken for the past two years is art. She became sufficiently interested in art when taking it as part of her regular schedule in the ninth grade to continue taking it thereafter. For a while she contemplated commercial art as a career and believes her teachers enthusiastic about her abilities. Certainly, whatever Barbara eventually decides to do with her life, she will bring to it a tremendous amount of intelligence and enthusiasm.

On Saturday, March 18, Barbara will appear in a brief fencing bout on the CBC television program, Youth Special, with Luigi Calderisi as her partner. Luigi, 24, 6657 Monkland avenue, NDG, is a science student at Sir George Williams University.

The Westmount YMCA fencing master, Stephen Vamos, 414 Victoria avenue, Westmount, is the person named by Barbara as the person who taught her how to fence.

Dean for this "turgid undergrowth" is the sheer growth of knowledge, and when a new subject comes in, it's difficult to know what to throw out.

It is a question of where to put the horizontal extension of subjects to increase the vertical study, desired, the Dean commented.

City had thousands of candles available at the police station, and further arranged for Pascal's hardware to open Sunday as a special convenience for residents without electricity.

Thirdly, regarding the story on The Boulevard and a George Hogg, described as a surviving early resident of the boulevard, Mr. Dawe inquired if the Examiner had been in contact with the spirit world, as the gentleman in question had been dead and his property sold to these many years.

"I am glad to know George is still with us," commented Mr. Dawe cryptically.

Preparing for Lent - V
Pre-occupied soil

by

The Venerable

R. Kenneth Naylor, D.D.

Rector, Trinity Memorial Church

"And some fell among thorns;
 and the thorns sprang up with it, and choked it." (Luke 8,7) "And that which fell among thorns are they, which, when they have heard go forth, and are choked with cares and riches and pleasures of this life, and bring no fruit to perfection." (Luke 8,14).

This is perhaps the most exasperating soil of all. The farmer knows that the soil is good. He may have worked hard on it, but the thistles have taken hold because they are already there before the wheat is sown. The thistles have the start and the wheat has no chance, because a piece of land can only grow so much.

Anyone who has lived in the country has seen fields with a corner or a great square filled with thistles or mustard, and he knows from the appearance that there will be little wheat. However, there is one point in the simile which our Lord does not mention. That is, that the farmer reaps the whole field and threshes the produce — weeds and all, — and next year when he sows, the weeds are spread still more widely. I have known a western homesteader driven off his farm because he was growing nothing but weeds. And yet those same weeds brought under control might be useful in themselves, for they too are the creation of God.

Our Lord leaves no doubt about the interpretation of the parable.
 The soil represents the man of ability who can recognize the value of the Word he hears. In fact, "he goes forth" to do something about it. I once heard a group of men asserting the value of Sunday evening service. They were completely sold on the fact that people ought to go to Church on Sunday evening but cares and riches and pleasures were too much for them and they stayed at home to watch TV. Even Church people will have a party in Lent on the very evening when there is a service.

It is hard for us to escape cares;
 the political scene, the world of business, are terrifying enough to drive even the Word out of our minds. Even more does wealth occupy our minds, either the desire for it or the possession of it. Our Lord felt that wealth was one of the great dangers to the spiritual life. When the rich young man asked what he lacked our Lord replied: "Sell that thou hast, and give to the poor, and thou shalt have treasure in heaven." Then to the disciples he added, "How hardly shall they that have riches enter into the kingdom of God!" Yet He did not condemn wealth outright. He said it was dangerous, and implied that it must be kept under control. To put it in other words, it must not be allowed to be an end in itself. It would be like a man cultivating mustard for its own sake — mustard is useful as a condiment but it will not support life.

So in our lives there are things which can be turned to the advantage of kingdom, such a business, industry, pleasure, money, but they must be kept under control else they occupy the field and there is no crop to life eternal.

Lenten studies

Lenten Studies continue in Dominion-Douglas United Church on Sunday evenings. After an informal Worship Service in Leslie Hall, a Chapter Topic from the Lenten Study Book is introduced by Dr. Smith, following which a Panel discusses the theme. The Panel this Sunday will be Messrs.
 E. A. Everson, F. G. Hubbard; D.
 Matheson and T. G. Sweeney. The theme will be "The Crisis of Vocation."

Bible study
on St. John

Continuing the series "Words from the Cross", Dr. E. J. Bailey will speak at the morning service on "Behold Thy Son", and at night on "One Baptism", at Westmount Baptist Church.

The mid-week service of the church will be held on Wednesday night with Bible Study on John,
 Chapter 20, led by the minister.

The BYPU meets on Friday at 8 p.m. in the lower hall. The Annual Montreal Baptist Communion Service will be held in Westmount Baptist Church on Good Friday at 11 a.m.

LOCAL FAIRS

For years it has been advocated . . . here that younger men should be induced to take an interest in the local fairs. One of the big arguments was that once younger men became interested in the fairs they would become still more interested in agriculture and this would be good for farming practices. — Huntingdon (Que.)

PEOPLE and PLACES

The choice of Stowe, Vermont, as a summer home for the New York Philharmonic orchestra seems to be running into some difficulties with two local factions wrangling about the production and promotional honors and, of course, the profits which may accrue from such activities...

From New York we receive reports that no one appears to have asked the musical organization whether or not they want a place to rest their weary fiddles and horns during the hot months. Bob McDougall, of Hampstead, a visitor to Jim Reynolds' Center Motel in the same town... This is the spot with the smart new heated swimming pool... Actually with the accommodations, bar, restaurant, theatre and the other attractions, the Center is a small resort town in itself... Chet Batchelder unveiled his new Yankee Tavern tippin' quarters at the Stowe Village Inn last Saturday with great success... Neal Waters, the piano talent, working smoothly and — we repeat — the Indefatigable Pete Mancusco hustling the grape as of yore.

Louis Cochand had his Holiday Club, for teenagers, opening on the same day at Ste. Marguerite's in the Laurentians... This is a swell and original idea... Somewhere on these pages there is a detailed story of the group's workings, we hope...

From Walt Woodward of the Connaught Inn, North Hatley, Quebec, we received our membership card and the book of rules for the Lake Massawippi Fish and Game Protection Club... We are now a full-fledged protector... Or, at least we will be when the spring skiing is over...

John and Margot Macone have a great lay-out at the Alpen Inn, Mad River Valley in Waitsfield, Vermont...

The George Donato trio at the Gray Rocks Inn, St. Jovite, Quebec makes for good listening... Nice to hear that the Montreal Winter Carnival for 1962 promises to be larger, brighter and as financially sound as 1961... The Quebec Kandahar at Ste. Agathe des Monts had a fine turn-out of participants and fans, and their Winter Carnival was a hit this year too... Adelard Rattelle should take some bows for

Sports Spectacular features Adirondacks

Columbia Broadcasting System brought their huge vans into the Adirondacks, February 16, to film the world bobsled championships. In ideal weather six cameras covered the mile long Mount Van Hoevenberg run and caught spectacular action that will be seen by millions of people as part of the Sports Spectacular, Sunday, March 12, from 2:30 to 4 p.m. Many of the technicians involved had worked on the Arthur Godfrey broadcasts from Lake Placid in 1956 and 1957.

Television tape had not been invented. Very expensive microwave towers were beamed to the top of Whiteface where 40 degrees below zero weather gave the engineers and their equipment Antarctic survival test that remains a horrible memory to the men involved.

Washington's Birthday, February 22, the cameras caught some of the best ski jumping ever put on film. Hemmo Silvennionen and Ossi Laaksonin of Finland as well as Canadian and U.S. Olympic stars performed in sensational

Courage

A battered banner, held aloft with pride,
 Is treasured more, than one that's new and bright,
 Though courage, may lose gaiety and glow,
 It still, may put the enemy to flight.

If drab or gay, the color matters not,
 The banner must be held high, flying free,
 A smiling mask, may hide a broken heart,
 With courage strong, to face a tragedy.

Nothing remains, but to march on and on,
 The road may stony be, and all uphill,
 The end crowns all, — we then the heavens gain,
 Holding the flag high, — torn but flying still.

Education standards ...

added, and prepare for it by having the right attitude before high school, and making sure the child gets a good grounding so he won't drop out because his academic subjects are weak."

But while educators are extolling the virtues of education, employers are asking for university diplomas, and parents are brainwashing their children from earliest cradle days to "desire and admire" a university education; some Canadian schools have elaborate plans to throw students out the back door though admittedly only the "laggards".

Expel persistent idlers

"We suspend and sometimes expel persistent idlers," said D. E. Pope, "but there's no formula, because we don't feel it can be done by formula."

"As in all methods of discipline, it cannot be dealt with in a 1, 2, 3, procedure," he continued, "and we always discuss the matter with the parents."

It has been suggested in some quarters, and it is perhaps a point to be considered, that pressure groups may fill in the gap where education disappears. Unions have been mentioned as ready and willing to take over when individual initiative and superior education have gone down the drain.

"Unions are all very well," one executive warned, "but they sap the ambition of employees. When chances of a promotion come up, only the senior man gets the job according to the union rules, and the man with the superior education, though perhaps not a senior employee, loses his chance. Then industries and the public in general will suffer the results of inferiority in all fields. Office unions in particular are bad."

B. Whittall named chairman of McGill Alma Mater Fund

Boyd Whittall, of 4307 Montrose avenue, B.Sc., '50, was named Montreal chairman of the McGill Alma Mater Fund was announced by A. Deane Nesbitt, general chairman. Mr. Whittall is vice-president of H. M. Long & Co. Ltd.

Mr. Whittall heads the largest segment of the annual fund, which is sponsored by the Graduates' Society of McGill University. The total contributed to the university through the fund during 1960 was $336,939 from 12,939 graduates. Montreal graduates alone contributed $126,845 of this total. There were 4,455 who participated, or 55.3 per cent of the 8,043 male graduates in the Montreal area.

Mr. Whittall succeeds Dr. George Dundass, DDS '44.

The typical family man has a billfold full of pictures and no money.

YOU CAN BET YOUR BOTTOM dollar that the six teams now known for the Metro Junior Hockey League play offs, will play a different type of game than what they did during the schedule. It also seems silly to have the teams play some 42 games just to fight for a playoff place, and there's always that chance that the last place playoff club will skate away with all the marbles. But, such is the case in amateur hockey, or so called amateur when club officials sit up at night trying to figure ways to make money. Playoffs, like Metro have started have the $$$ ring, but no different than other amateur leagues across Canada.

The Metro playoff should hold some surprises and maybe a few upsets. In playoff hockey the game is played tight. A team being down one goal can provide an interesting game for the fans. Can St. Jerome and Lachine, who have not had it their own way in the latter part of the schedule meet in the final? In their closing end of the schedule St. Jerome and Lachine made little advance. The Saints will tackle Nationale, who will be a hard club to handle in the best of seven. Leafs have drawn NDG Monarchs, the latter could also prove themselves a better playoff team than Verdun.

Maple Leafs are hot, the hottest club in the last lap of the schedule. They won their last 12 of 13 starts, ending in third place. Lachine draws Sorel in the other series, which will not be an easy task for the Maroons, for Sorel, like in previous playoff proved to be hard to beat. These two series are a best of five, with the winners playing each other in another best of five.

Metro teams have played to large crowds this year and there is no reason the attendance should drop in the playoffs, but will show an increase. The final could be the best crowd pleaser, but playing at small rinks like Lachine, St. Jerome and other places, there may be a chance that some of the games will move into the larger Forum. Verdun is perhaps the second largest rink in the league 4,200 seats to the Forum. The balance of the other rinks run from 2,500 to 3,000, and that's packed to the wall, including standing room.

PINT SIZE REFEREES

Last week we paid a visit to Rocky Rothwell and John Garland of the Westmount Recreation Department in their offices in the new ice rink. We were impressed with two pint size lads, wearing the familiar black and white sweater worn by hockey referees. They handled the game like pros. They were working a pee wee game and were also of pee wee age.

The teams in Westmount are coached by adults and the several coaches of which we spoke to had nothing but kind remarks for the young game officials. Several times, one of the lads working the game has worked a bantam contest. Even blowing the whistle for players a few years older than they are, they had no trouble.

They are something to see in action. Both lads we saw skated well and stayed with the play all the time. At one time, a captain came over and spoke to the young official. We never found out what the question was, but judging by the waving of the official's arm and pointing to one of the captain's players, the captain went away content with the answer.

Another good part of this is the young officials get paid for working. It helps them with their pocket money. Maybe this idea could be used in other hockey setups. Pee wee players could handle a mosquito game quite well. At the start of the season, Rocky told us, the boys interested in whistle blowing sit down and study the rules, plus a skating test.

It also knows that discipline in a proper manner, even in such a rough game as hockey can be given out by the smallest lads. It is wonderful training as well, for players and for officials. Westmount take their boys not too young, but one of these referees was 11 years old. He also plays, and is one of the best in his pee wee league.

Hockey officials interested in this plan of having young fellows learn-

Westmount Juniors hold first place

Westmount Junior bantam hockey sextet continued their hold on first place with a 4-2 win over Lachine.

Mark Feldman scored a brace of goals with singles going to Munro and Brabant.

Patterson and Borosiuk scored for Lachine. Westmount led 2-1 after one period.

Loyola bantams beat Westmount

Loyola nipped Westmount Junior 4-3 in a bantam hockey game.

Brian Johnson scored twice and assisted on the other two Loyola goals. Bruce Kelly and Pat Donvito picked up singles for the winners.

Courtney Pratt, Mark Feldman and Steve Abbot fired Westmount's goals.

Many races make up minor hockey teams

By GEO. E. JONES
(Sports Editor)

THE CITY of Westmount Recreation Department can form its own International ice hockey team and maybe two of them to compete with any other International squad on the island of Montreal. This fact was brought out last week, when some 20 boys, born in other parts of the world, and Canada, play for Westmount minor hockey teams.

John Garland and Rocky Rothwell, of the Recreation Department were loud in their praises for the boys, who, many of them have been only on skates two years. They have taken a great liking to the game of hockey, a sport that they heard about, but very little, until they resided in Montreal and later in Westmount.

The veterans of the International players are the Ono brothers, Paul, 11; John, 12 and Mark, 14. These three brothers are Canadian born Japanese who started to skate at the age of seven. In most cases the three boys play other sports such as football and Little League Baseball.

Another set of brothers hail from Georgetown, British Guiana. Juvenal Fernandes plays for the Vics in pee wee 'B' and has only been on skates a year. His brother Neil, is a mosquito playing for the Cadets and he too has been on skates only one winter.

There is John Gracia, who is 14 years old and plays bantam for the Red Wings. He hails from French Morocco and can skate with the best of his Canadian cousins. He has been in Canada only a few years.

Another pair of brothers hail from Korea. They are Hon Lee NG, 11, who plays for mosquito Crowns and Hon Ying NG, who plays for the pee wee 'B' Vics. They arrived in Canada three years ago from Hong Kong and have no father nor a mother. They reside with their grandparents in Westmount. They don't remember

Two pairs of brothers playing in Westmount minor hockey setup, who have been in Canada only a few years, but have taken to skating like a duck takes to water. Left to right: Hon Yee NG (11) mosquito Crowns, Korea; Neil Fernandes (11), mosquito Cadets, Georgetown, British Guiana; Hon Ying NG (12) pee wee 'B' Vics, Korea; Juvenal Fernandes (12) pee wee 'B' Vics, of Getorgetown, British Guiana.

too much of their parents, losing them during the war.

There is a Chinese boy, Gregory Wong, who was born in Canada. His parents are also Canadian born. Ken Hama, is from Japan, and took to hockey some years ago.

John Jear, another boy from China who landed in Canada, Christmas 1955, but took up skating only two years ago. There is Joseph Cosniac, who was born in Austria, moved to France as a little boy and came to Canada three years ago. He has been on skates for one winter.

These boys take part in a program that has some 600 others playing for Westmount minor hockey teams.

He came to Canada three years ago and never played hockey until last year; John Jear, (13) pee wee Broncs, was born in China, moved to Hong Kong as a child and arrived in Canada, Christmas 1955. Young Cam Grout, retired makes MAAA Hall of Fame

Cameron Grout, an outstanding swimmer, had his picture placed in the "Hallway of Fame" at the Montreal Amateur Athletic Association.

It hangs beside that of George Hodgson, winner of two events in the 1912 Olympic Games, and other swim "greats" who represented Montreal in world competitions.

The presentation was made by William Northey, honorary-president of the Association, with H. E. Herschorn making the citation speech.

Grout recently announced his retirement from active competition to give his full attention to his medical studies at McGill. He will continue to assist other swimmers at MAAA and clubs in the Montreal district.

The picture was accepted on behalf of the Association, by Norman Cooper, the manager and Mrs. Dorothy Corrigan, assistant manager, who is soon to retire from her position after 27 years of service.

Marty O'Doherty, active organizer of junior activities of Montreal Amateur Athletic Association, was chairman of the dinner. Many older members of the club were in attendance.

Clues to Cashword Explained

ACROSS

5. SOUP is chosen. Advertising may not motivate some people to try a new SOUP, as those who know they dislike the taste of its chief ingredients. SOAP is not as sure; people are not likely to have rigid requirements where SOAP is concerned.

8. INCIPIENT is comprehensive. An employer may fire an INCIPIENT troublemaker, as one who is just beginning to show his capacity for stirring things up, whether he is INSIPIENT, or lacking in intelligence, or capable, for in either case he may do more damage than he is worth.

9. PENNY is better. A man may be surprised to find a PENNY in his garden, for he may know that he couldn't have dropped it. "May" is weak for PEONY; he would certainly be surprised if he hadn't planted it.

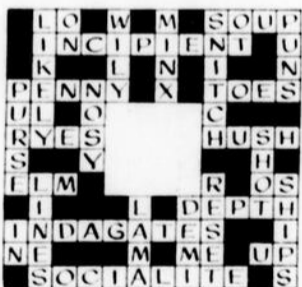

11. TOES, to be sure. A mother may examine her child's TOES to prevent future trouble, as to look for pressure marks where shoes may become too short. She would examine TOYS before she bought them to be sure they were safe. TOGS is vague. TOPS is remote.

14. HUSH is preferred. A boss who is greeted by a HUSH when he enters his office after a vacation may have some misgivings, as he may take the silence as a sign that something serious has gone wrong and no one dares tell him. He would have more than misgivings if he found a HASH, or mess.

16. ELM is selected. A home owner may consider putting in an ELM if he has sufficient ground, for such a beautiful shade tree would be an asset to his lawn. One would need better reason than sufficient ground for putting in an ELL; such as need for the additional rooms it would provide.

22. DEPTH is wanted. The DEPTH, or profundity, of a young author may limit his fame, for he may appeal only to a small group of "intellectuals. His DEATH, if anything, might enhance the popularity of his small literary bequest.

23. INDAGATES is the word. A boy may worry if his teacher INDAGATES, or investigates, a sudden drop in achievement, for this may be by questioning his parents, among other things, and punishment at home might result. INDICATES, or points out, suggests that the teacher speaks to his pupil directly, and this could be fair warning.

27. SOCIALITE, yes. A SOCIALITE, as a socially prominent person, may bring people together, for such an individual is likely to entertain extensively. SOCIALITY, or friendliness, may not if response is lacking.

DOWN:

1. LIKELY is preferred. If one enjoys good theater, one might read the reviews to find a LIKELY play, as one that would provide a satisfying evening at the theater. A LIVELY play may have short-comings in structure and characterization that make it second-rate theater.

3. WILY is chosen. A diplomat's WILY, or crafty, speech may allay world suspicions, for it may be so worded as to infer whatever the listeners want to believe. An OILY, or unctuous, speech may merely be a bland restatement of his country's objectives.

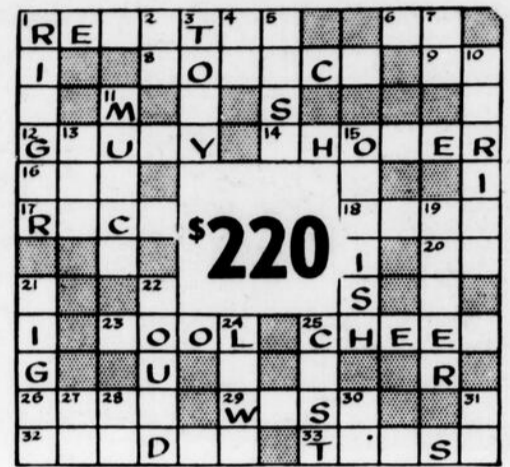

4. MINX is best. A woman and her husband may have a sharp disagreement about a MINX, or a pert young girl, whom he may consider amusing and attractive much to his wife's displeasure. MINK is vague; one would have to know something about the specific situation. MINE and MINT are remote.

5. SNITCH is wanted. A SNITCH, as an informer, may get a gangster into trouble, whether he tells the police about a SNATCH, or kidnapping, or some other crime.

7. PUNS, to be sure. A fastidious individual may not be amused by PUNS, for he may consider them a vulgar and obvious form of wit. He may like animals so long as they are clean, and this could include PUGS, or PUPS of any breed.

opposition, as when he inaugurates a spending program to better the people's lot. A PURGE is more likely to create opposition, even if it is not audible.

15. SHOT is specific. A SHOT may require a police officer to summon all his ingenuity, for it would indicate that he is dealing with someone who is armed. A SPOT, as a perilous situation, would require anyone to use his ingenuity. SLOT is vague.
