OTTAWA (CP)—A survey conducted by the federal health department has uncovered strong new evidence that there is a link between cigarette smoking and lung cancer and that people who smoke cigarettes die younger.

One finding was that among the people tabulated those who smoked cigarettes only had a death rate 60 per cent higher than that of non-smokers.

Results of the survey — substance of which was given to the Canadian Public Health Association at its annual meeting in Halifax earlier this year — were outlined Friday by Dr. E. W. R. Best, chief of the health department's epidemiological division.

STARTED IN 1956
The study began in 1956 and is continuing. Findings to date have been based on questionnaires returned by 27,685 male First World War pension recipients.

The questionnaires, asking details of the individual's smoking habits as well as occupation and place of residence, were mailed to 207,397 veterans of whom about 118,000 or 57 per cent responded.

As deaths occurred among the pensioners they were matched against the completed questionnaires, along with the cause of death as supplied by the attending physician.

In the health department survey, only one lung cancer death was observed among the 2,854 respondents who reported they had never smoked. Among those who smoked cigars or pipe — or both — lung cancer deaths totalled eight out of 2,972.

Of the 8,232 who smoked cigarettes only, 97 died of the disease, while for those who consumed both cigars and other forms of tobacco the total was 115 out of 13,479.

Impaired driving

Wadsworth's view:

Attack on sec'y. gen. 'a declaration of war'

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (CP) — Western diplomats speculated today on whether Soviet Premier Khrushchev's appetite for power in Africa will cause him to tear out the heart of the United Nations organization.

United States, British and Canadian leaders all struck the same note: It appeared Khrushchev was trying to destroy the UN when he ripped into it Friday in a speech keyed for the ears of emerging and underdeveloped countries.

Khrushchev for two hours and 20 minutes spoke at the UN's 15th General Assembly before one of history's largest gatherings of statesmen — attending the session significantly enough at the urging of the Soviet leader.

He brought deep gloom to the UN when he said that Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld had been the tool of Western countries by his actions in the Congo crisis.

U.S. Ambassador James Wadsworth said "the crisis consists of an attempt to destroy the office and the very structure of the secretary-general and the secretariat, and through it, to destroy the United Nations." U.S. State Secretary Christian Herter called it "a real declaration of war on the UN."

Herter hopes Khrushchev will push his United Nations revamping proposals to a showdown, it was learned, because he is confident the Soviet premier will meet with a stinging defeat if he does.

Montreal dockers walk out

MONTREAL (CP) — Federal government conciliation was appealed for today to regulate Montreal's first dock workers dispute in 20 years, a dispute that sparked a brief scuffle Friday night.

The International Longshoremen's Association (ILA) called a rapid-fire succession of "general meetings" Friday — in effect a work stoppage — to protest the actions of a stevedore foreman.

All 3,000 men working on deep-sea ships left their jobs, leaving 31 freighters unattended.

A smaller ILA local working on coastal freighters and a union of steamship checkers were believed ready to call a series of "general meetings" today to discuss the situation — in effect, to join the walkout.

DISORDER QUELLED
A squad of 50 National Harbors Board and Montreal city police scuffled Friday night with a group of 70 longshoremen trying to prevent the docking of the Norwegian freighter Suncliff.

Police quelled the disorder within minutes and the men, seeing the freighter dock without shore aid, moved off down the harbor.

The Shipping Federation of Canada, which negotiates for ocean-shipping firms, called for federal conciliation to see if the men can be persuaded to come back to work today pending the regulation of their grievance.

The walkout Friday cost shippers an estimated $35,000. The ILA's local 375 is demanding that the Brown and Ryan Stevedoring Company relieve foreman Maurice Lelievre of his authority.

A TROUBLE-MAKER?
It called Mr. Lelievre a trouble-maker and said that two months ago, after he made unacceptable demands on a crew working under him, the crew walked off the ship.

William J. Brown, president of the firm, said Mr. Lelievre is a fine and sober man and the company had no intention of relieving him under any circumstances.

He said the union's accusations are unjust and that the union is trying to take away the company's traditional right to select its supervisors.

Mr. Lelievre is a member of the union, but his duties are assigned by the company.

'Step forward' for Boy Scouts

OTTAWA (CP)—Former Governor-General Vincent Massey officiated Friday at the Canadian Boy Scouts Association made "another step forward."

Looking chipper in one of his rare public appearances since retiring earlier this year as governor-general, the former chief scout laid the "commemorative stone" of scouting's new ultra-modern national headquarters.

Erection of the $750,000 building, to be paid for by donations from across the country, is another "step forward in the growth and evolution of the movement that has served Canada and the world upwards of half a century," Mr. Massey said.

week's headlines with Khrushchev.

On Monday, 24 hours after arrival, Castro and his delegation charged they had been treated badly in a mid-Manhattan hotel and pulled out. They ended up in a Harlem hostelry.

The Soviet chief took the boos in stride. At one point he observed that he was beginning to recognize the voices: at another he claimed that one of his staff members had been offered $8 to carry a pocket sign. Once he startled a crowd by booing back.

University heads confer

Seek 'non-political' grants

MONTREAL (CP)—Recommendation for the setting up of machinery for provincial aid to universities on a "non-political basis" will be sent soon to the provincial government.

This was disclosed following a meeting Friday of a committee on university development at the University of Montreal, where a draft brief was approved.

The agreement on a draft brief followed three meetings and several interim discussions of heads of Quebec universities who were called to Quebec City July 21 to meet with Premier Jean Lesage.

Mr. Lesage said then he wished to establish at an early session of the legislature, machinery of a non-political character through which to channel provincial aid to universities.

Delegates to Friday's meeting, including Dr. F. Cyril James of McGill and Dr. Henry F. Hall of Sir George Williams, did not disclose the nature of the machinery.

Claim hearing delays costly for railways

OTTAWA (CP) — The presidents of Canada's top two major railways said Friday delays in the royal commission investigation of transportation are seriously affecting the financial position of the railways.

They blamed the delays on Manitoba, Alberta and the Prairie wheat pools for missing deadlines set by the commission for receiving western submissions and called for "sanctions" against them.

The two Presidents — N. R. Crump of the CPR and Donald Gordon of the CNR — said railway lawyers will return to the commission hearings Monday. They walked out Friday for a high-level railway huddle here.

Guess who?

Revive cabinet game

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker started a new cabinet guessing game Friday by indicating he might make cabinet announcements next week.

Virtually everyone in the capital has had a crack at picking prospective ministers and shuffling the current ministry. The prime minister has joked often with reporters about it in corridor chats before and after cabinet meetings during the last two weeks.

The closest he came to being definite was to say today "I would think there would be some announcements about the cabinet next week."

Earlier, he said he would fill three vacant portfolios — veterans affairs, secretary of state and forestry — before Parliament meets. He hinted that former New Brunswick Premier Hugh John Flemming will get a portfolio. Mr. Flemming, a lumberman, has been suggested as forestry minister or mines minister.

Mr. Flemming is expected to be nominated Monday to contest the Oct. 31 by-election in the constituency of Royal, vacated with the appointment to the senate of Veterans Minister Brooks.

The 21-member cabinet is composed of six Ontario ministers, five from Quebec, three from British Columbia, two from Saskatchewan, including the prime minister, and one each from the other provinces except Newfoundland.

The prime minister has a long-standing promise to name a minister from eastern Quebec.

Appointment of Mr. Flemming, 61, would give New Brunswick a replacement for Mr. Brooks. Noel Dorion, 56, who represents the eastern Quebec riding of Bellechasse, has long been regarded as a likely addition.

On the basis of Mr. Dorion's long experience as a Crown attorney, the post suggested for him has been solicitor-general, now held by Leon Balcer who also is acting secretary of state. Mr. Balcer might become state secretary permanently.

La Tribune said sold

An Ottawa man, Raoul Landriault, claimed last night in an interview on the CBC French television network that he had purchased the Sherbrooke La Tribune Company Ltd. for the sum of $3,000,000.

In Sherbrooke, however, the report was denied by Alphonse Gauthier, general manager. Mr. Gauthier conceded that negotiations for the sale were underway but claimed sale had not been concluded.

First reports were carried in the Ottawa newspaper, Le Droit.

Mr. Landriault, an industrialist and real estate man, who lives in the Ottawa suburb of Eastview was Provincial Liberal candidate for Russell riding in 1951. First elected by a majority of three votes, he was unseated by a recount.

TOP STUDENTS — Top awards were presented last night to these graduating Sherbrooke High School students: From the left are: Eli Einbinder, who was awarded a McGill University Entrance Scholarship; David Covey, awarded the Elizabeth Thomson Bursary (IODE) and a Bishop's University Entrance Scholarship; Milton Sutor, awarded the Board of Protestant School Commissioners' Prize; John Hogg, awarded the Board of Protestant School Commissioners' Bursary and the Ross Clarkson Scholarship; Colin Jennison, was awarded a Bishop's University Entrance Scholarship and Harry Komery, awarded the Eastern Townships Scholarship to Bishop's University.

About Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—During the last couple of years, ABC, once a poor third among the three major U.S. television networks, has fought its way to equality with its big sisters in the hearts of the viewers and the cheque books of the sponsors.

The secret of its success has been to give the home viewers plenty of action—in police cars on horseback, anywhere — and "counter-programming."

(That means that if NBC and CBS have a variety show and a situation comedy in one spot, ABC will fill it with a western—or anything that is different from the fare offered by the competition.)

ABC will continue to counter-program, but now is interested in an almost abandoned area which once gave prestige to the other two: Regular dramatic shows.

"We're interested in finding ways to make more hour-long dramatic shows — ones without continuing characters," said Thomas Moore, ABC vice-president in charge of programs and talent.

"This is a difficult problem because strong dramas, live or on film, have not held up competitively, although we know there is a strong interest in them."

AVOIDS 'SPECIALS'

Moore explained that ABC "has always resisted interfering with regular programs so we could put on special shows."

"Television develops strong viewing habits and programming gives each night in the week a distinctive character. We'd like to find a way to establish a pattern of dramatic fare—particularly now that there are so few dramatic shows in the schedules and so many good writers, directors and producers available."

ABC also is interested in expanding its news and public affairs programming, "fabulously costly operations."

"There was a time when ABC was unable to afford any luxuries," said Moore, "because we were fighting for audiences and reaching a point when we can start putting our program into better balance by adding some luxuries — adding some champagne to the menu."

As far as television coverage is concerned, the presidential campaign is running a poor second to the United Nations and Mr. K—but who can compete with a short-lived Soviet premier holding a press conference from a Park Avenue balcony?

This week current events have been far and away the most fascinating viewing, much more exciting than any of the "entertainment" shows.

The first meeting of St. Luke's Junior Auxiliary was held in the Church Hall under the leadership of Mrs. G. L. Norris, Mrs. W. Venters, and Mrs. R. Stoddard. Fifteen members were present. In future, this group will meet immediately after school.

Victoria Rebekah Lodge No. 19 met at the Warden Church Hall, with the Noble Grand, Sister K. Durrell, presiding. A special item of business was the 1st nomination for officers for the 1961 term. A rehearsal of the floor drill, which this lodge is presenting at the District meeting in Cowansville, was held.

Mrs. M. McKenny, of Montreal, was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Allan McKergow.

Bruce Racicot has resumed his studies at Waterloo High School. After several days in the Montreal General Hospital following an accident while playing football.

Nato exercise toured by 'Red'

BONN (Reuters) — A West German reporter dressed as a Russian officer roamed freely through NATO's biggest manoeuvres, spoke with soldiers in defence positions and dined in the same hotel as West German officers, it was reported today.

The Frankfurt evening newspaper Abendpost said reporter Erich Kieckheofel received no more discouragement than a hostile glare until British officers became suspicious and questioned him.

Kieckheofel hired a Russian lieutenant's uniform from a Frankfurt costume store. He said he had been in the area of exercise "Holdfast" since it started last week.

About 45,000 British, Canadian, Danish and West German troops are taking part in the exercise.

FASHION NEWS

Ordinarily, manufacturers of men's fine suits and the clothing retailer feel that their responsibility to the customers who buy the suits, ends when they have concluded that sale.

However, this is not the policy of one of Canada's leading makers of men's fine clothing. Not satisfied with merely producing a finely-built suit, WARREN K. COOK and BRITISH WOOLLENS have joined with Emery Industries of Canada in conducting an exhaustive series of tests to determine how well SANITONE DRYCLEANING preserved the original shape, texture and freshness of their suits. The British Woollens suit fabrics were cleaned 25 times more dry cleanings than any suit is likely to get in its entire lifetime.

As the result of their research, WARREN K. COOK is recommending to customers, through their retailers, that WARREN K. COOK suits be dry cleaned by the SANITONE process, a dry cleaning method used by top quality dry cleaners throughout Canada. This step is unprecedented in the men's clothing field.

This recommendation followed a demonstration of the effectiveness of dry cleaning by the SANITONE process, when a number of identical lengths of British Woollens suit fabrics were selected for a test. One length of fabric in each pair was SANITONE cleaned 25 times, then compared with an identical length of fabric which had never been cleaned. Experts in men's clothing were unable to tell which fabrics had been dry cleaned many times and which had never been cleaned at all.

Preparedness pays off

Good photographs wait for no one have camera handy at all times

The importance of having a camera nearby at all times can never be over-emphasized. It might mean the price of some more paper or film to pursue your hobby, or an interesting shot of one of the young members of the family.

I realize for most of you that photography is perhaps the farthest thing from your minds at breakfast time, but the above shot was taken then.

I was trying to stay awake long enough to eat my breakfast feeling this nourishment would give me strength to face the day, when I was confronted across the table by two huge eyes and a mouth already uttering a request.

As it happened I had a Rollicord (reflex type) on the seat nearby, so below the table I quickly set the shutter at 1/12th and the lens opening of F3.5 and focused at three feet, still listening to the request repeated over and over like a broken record. "Can I go with you you?"

I brought the camera above the table snapped, and there it was. Incidentally, "No", was my answer.

The light came from a north window, the film was A.S.A. 80.

For those who commute fifteen or twenty miles every day a camera beside you could prove quite useful. The law of averages should present at least one accident a year or perhaps the beginning of a fire. Both these circumstances are worthy of a few shots because they may happen to have news interest. On the spot coverage would not require too much of your time but could mean a lot to your local newspaper. The important thing is to get in touch with the court; in all these cases the sport is being done with others, you are talking about it and practising it with those who are more advanced.

In photography all your picture-taking can be done by yourself, but, if you happen to make a mistake, or something is not just right, by being a member of a photo club you can iron out these difficulties with other members and also receive some incentive by sitting in on print discussions or viewing motion-picture films that are made by experts.

I personally feel that a camera club has its place in Sherbrooke. So let's hear from you for a year's dues—$3.00.

Sherbrooke High graduation

Stresses need for courage in a world of disharmony

There seems little chance of real harmony between nations in this generation. This is why it is very difficult for young people to look ahead. James Gray, professor of English at Bishop's University told graduating Sherbrooke High School students last night.

But he stressed the need for courage in making and sticking to one's decisions in life.

He addressed 59 Sherbrooke High School students who received their diplomas at commencement exercises held in the school auditorium.

Top scholarships awarded were: The Board of Protestant School Commissioners' Bursary and the Ross Clarkson Scholarship to Bishop's University, John Hogg; The Board of Protestant School Commissioners' Prize, Milton Sutor; The Elizabeth Thomson Bursary (IODE) and Bishop's University Entrance Scholarship, David Covey; McGill University Entrance Scholarship, Eli Einbinder; Bishop's University Entrance Scholarship, Colin Jennison and the Eastern Townships Scholarship to Bishop's University, Harry Komery.

"As future leaders of the nation," Prof. Gray said, "you will often be called upon to take hard and unpopular decisions. The test of leadership is the ability to hold firm." "It is very difficult too, in these trying times," he added, "for young people to look ahead. Most of the news that we hear or read today is bad news. There seems little chance of real harmony between nations during our lifetime or yours. Even if there is no hydrogen war, there will be other threats to life as we know it."

Professor Gray added, "set against these sobering thoughts is the fact that science has provided the means for bringing vast areas of the world under cultivation, and for manufacturing essential foods from substances like chlorophyll."

The speaker congratulated the students on the range and variety of their ambitions as they recorded them in this year's "Dumbel".

In spite of the difficulty of looking ahead, he hoped that they would achieve them all. He suggested three principles by way of advice: 1) "hold on to your ideals and never allow yourself to be deflected from your aim in life; 2) set yourself the highest possible standards of work and endeavor and never be content with anything less than the best."

The third principle suggested was "whatever the trials and tribulations that lie ahead, never lose your cheerfulness, your hope and your common sense."

Valedictorian John Hogg urged graduating students to begin to apply the democratic heritage learned in school in a fuller and more mature existence.

"This night, then," he said, "marks a radical change. For the major part of our lives, our clearest, most distinctive goal has been graduation from high school. That task has absorbed most of our energy and thought. Suddenly it has been completed."

"A period of adjustment faces us," he added, "We must lift our eyes from this limited goal to the new horizons of life as mature young men and women. The change is difficult and it is here that our training begins to manifest itself."

Presentation of school leaving certificates was made by Mrs. K. Beattie, Mr. E. Porter and ST. HUBERT — More than 1,000 youngsters from Montreal, Sherbrooke and Granby are expected to visit RCAF Station, St. Hubert, today, to take part in the annual "K-Day" sponsored by local Kiwanis Service Clubs, the Air Force announced today.

The visit is being held as part of the Kiwanis International program to initiate young people in the meaning of "air age living". Host for the event, Wing Commander W. C. Klasson, acting commanding officer of the unit, promises a full day for the inquisitive youngsters.

Jet-minded youngsters will have an opportunity to have a close look at static displays featuring CF-100 jet interceptors and T-33 jet trainers. Also on ground display will be a large C-119 Flying Boxcar an Expeditor light transport, and the versatile Otter utility plane.

Bailiff out of order

Judge acquits man of hampering bailiff

A charge of seriously hampering a bailiff while he was in the process of serving a summons was dismissed yesterday morning in Court of Sessions by Judge Joseph Marier.

Marcel Poisson, 23, of Asbestos, had pleaded not guilty to the accusation. He was charged following an attempt on September 1 by bailiff Alexandre Couture to serve him a summons on a highway leading to his father's home.

Judge Marier was of the opinion that Poisson did not know the nature of Couture's errand and that the latter was out of order in acting the way he did.

Couture had attempted to stop Poisson when he was leaving work, and followed him in his car. He tried to stop him a few times and while attempting to pass him, collided with his car.

A passenger in Couture's car, Bertrand Bernier, 25, of Asbestos, alleged that Poisson had intentionally swerved his car causing the accident.

"The bailiff had no right to make public a private summons. He had to use all the discretion possible, and it was in Poisson's home or as he was getting out of his car in his private garage, that Couture should have attempted to serve the summons," said Judge Marier.

The judge finally ruled that since the investigating officer, Constable Etienne St. Pierre, did not mention in his testimony about Poisson swerving, the Crown had not established to the Court's satisfaction Bernier's allegation.

Asbestos girl, seven, hit by bus parents file $98,737 damage suit

A $98,737.22 damage suit was filed in Superior Court this week by Roger Dussault of Asbestos against the La-bonte Inc. Bus Co., of Asbestos, and Gerard Allison, the bus driver, following an accident last April 30 in which Mr. Dussault's seven-year-old daughter, Manon, was severely injured.

The accident occurred as the young girl was driving her bicycle on Letendre Street at approximately 5 p.m. The bus, driven by Gerard Allison, struck her in the back. Both were heading in the same direction.

The girl was rushed to the St-Vincent-de-Paul hospital in Sherbrooke where it was decided to transfer her to the Neurological Institute in Montreal, the suit says. She was hospitalized for six months, suffering from a skull fracture, fractured ribs and numerous contusions and bruises. She is presently under doctor's care, the claim says.

The suit claims $7,237.22 for expenses, $4,000 for further medical treatment, $4,500 for the suffering endured, $7,000 for a permanent head wound which can cause epilepsy and repeated headaches, and $70,000 for 92% permanent partial incapacity.

It was also decided to hold the 1961 congress at Halifax, the 1962 meeting at Saskatoon and the 1963 session at Hamilton.

Prior to the close of the convention, Chief Edouard Moreau of Sherbrooke was installed as new president after which the

Amendments urged to the criminal code

Resolutions urging amendments to the Criminal Code to permit easier law administration were approved at the final session of the 55th annual Congress of the Canadian Association of Chief of Police yesterday morning.

Among other matters these resolutions called for the restoration of the section contained in the old Criminal Code covering criminal negligence in driving:

Determining that the Attorney General should pay prosecution court costs in the case of indictable offences;

Classifying drug addicts without means of gainful employment as vagrants;

Making the use of the telephone for transmitting obscene or objectionable messages an indictable offence;

Making loitering upon other persons property without just cause an offence at all time. At present this is only an offence at night;

Subjecting to a five year jail term anyone in possession of a loaded firearm while committing, planning to commit or having committed a criminal offence.

Several changes in the wording of other clauses were also suggested.

The most important resolution adopted urged that the RCMP expand its police college to give administrative training to senior officers of the municipal police forces.

It was also decided to hold the 1961 congress at Halifax, the 1962 meeting at Saskatoon and the 1963 session at Hamilton.

Prior to the close of the convention, Chief Edouard Moreau of Sherbrooke was installed as new president after which the

Chief Edouard Moreau

Sherbrooke Police Chief Edouard Moreau yesterday became the first French-speaking Canadian police chief to be elected president of the Canadian Association of Chiefs of Police in 17 years.
He was officially installed in office at the closing session of the Association's convention here yesterday.
His election was an indication of the true feeling of "bonne entente" that prevails in the predominantly English-speaking organization. The post which Chief Moreau assumes is no empty sinecure.
He heads a group whose importance in Canadian affairs is second to none;

More scholarships

Announcements of scholarships awarded to deserving young Eastern Townships students have been coming thick and fast these days.
It seems to us there are a lot more these days than there were a few years back, and that they go a lot further towards covering the cost of a college education than they used to.
A large number of different kinds of organizations are sponsoring the scholarships, too, from large corporations to local service groups.
The trend, in any case, is a most heart-a group whose strength and zeal are almost instantly reflected in the well-being of every Canadian community.

Chief Moreau's election, too, constitutes recognition by his confreres of his stature as a police department administrator.
Under Chief Moreau, the Sherbrooke police department has developed into an efficient, well-trained well-disciplined body, which, although laboring under some of the handicaps that affect all city police organizations, is a credit to our city.

ening one. It indicates that everyone, from top business tycoons to the neighborhood Home and School association, is taking an active interest in strengthening our system of higher education.
It is usual at this time of year to extend congratulations to those awarded scholarships and bursaries.
We would not forego that, but it would seem in order too, to congratulate those who have made the awards possible.
May there be even more of them to congratulate this time next year.

Perennial idol

Over the past four decades there has been a revolution in popular entertainment. First the movies and then television have brought it freely and copiously to the masses.
What was considered thrilling yesterday has become commonplace today. And children of this generation often yawn when they hear of sights, sounds and smells that sent the children of yesterday into raptures.
As a result many parents find it hard to appreciate or, at times, to tolerate the entertainment idols of today.
But one matinee idol has successfully bridged the gap from the Twenties to the Sixties. A perennial favorite, he has enjoyed 42 years of stardom on films and on television.
That idol is Rin Tin Tin.
This week, in Riverside, Calif., Lee Duncan the man who made Rin Tin Tin

the most famous dog alive, died.
The first Rin Tin Tin, a German Shepherd puppy, was brought from Europe by Duncan after World War I. By 1922 he had become a top movie attraction and up to 1932 he shared billing with such stars as William Desmond, Jean Harlow, Wallace Beery and Charles Farrell.
His son, Rin Tin Tin II, took over at his death in 1932 and starred with Jackie Cooper in a hit movie of 1935, The Tough Guy.
During World War II Duncan trained more than 5,000 dogs for the U.S. Army but kept the Rin Tin Tin strain intact. When peace came he made a comeback in the movies with Rin Tin Tin III.
But Duncan's greatest success came in 1953 when Rin Tin Tin IV leaped across the continent's television screens.
And yet another generation of North American children shared the same entertainment idol.

ALWAYS FINESSE AND BE DONE IN
South won the opening spade lead in dummy and played the jack of hearts. East played low and South was in an unusual finessing situation. Unusual because South would be silly indeed to take that finesse.
South was one of those players who believes in finessing at all times and under all conditions.
Hence, he had no problem at all with his four heart contract. He won the opening spade in dummy and promptly led the jack of hearts and let it ride. At this point the hand collapsed.

West took his king and led the ten of spades. East ruffed and returned a diamond. West took his ace and gave East another spade ruff. Down one!

Why did East happen to return a diamond and not the more tempting club? East and West were playing a suit preference convention and if West had wanted a club return he would have led his lowest spade.
This suit preference convention will be the subject of next week's articles, but meanwhile we should note that South had no reason to try this particular trump finesse and every reason not to. West had made a vulnerable overcall on a jack high suit. Surely he was likely to have

Letter To Editor

Dear Sir:
Where are the policemen in Sherbrooke around 10 o'clock in the evening.
Wednesday evening my sister and I got off Lennoxville bus 42 about 10 o'clock. We were crossing Wellington Street at the intersection from North to South. When the green light was on when we are supposed to walk, the cars and buses were coming in all directions. The policeman was not there supposing I got hit by one of those

Adventures with God

A wise hand is in control

By JANE SCOTT
Some folk speak of lucky breaks. I call them divine provisions. And how thrilling to review the past and recount the special provisions the heavenly Father sends for His children.
He pushed back the Red Sea for Moses and his followers. He sent chariots of fire to pick up Elijah. And He is still looking after the interests of men and women who seek to do His will in our day.
We sometimes wonder how we shall get through a full program with limited strength. Then suddenly something comes up to reassure us that a wiser hand than yours or mine is in control of the situation. And His way is better than the way we had planned.

Jane Scott

We were directed to the white bridge by the old mill stream. And what a pleasant spot to stop to inquire. The quiet mill pond spanned by a quaint bridge that led to the old mill was most inviting and inspiring. Not a few fishermen were casting for fish. Beside this quiet place we found the father of our host and he directed us to the hill home of his son. We missed the route and in our wanderings saw more beautiful country. We dipped into valleys and climbed steep hills. I felt like Moses viewing the promised land. Finally we drove into the farm house where our host greeted us warmly. We were soon exploring the farm where I revealed my ignorance when shown 300 white turkeys.
I did not know that modern farmers raised white turkeys. Any such fowl I have seen were either golden brown on a platter or spotted black and gray on the hoof.
For the first time I saw Suffolk sheep with black faces and feet. They reminded me of people who will not admit that they are black sheep in God's sight but who have enough black showing to put them under suspicion.

GONE ASTRAY

But whether we are all black, all white or a mixture of black and white, we all have one thing in common, "we all" (like stupid sheep) "have gone astray and turned everyone to our own way."
And God declared that whether we are pedigreed or not we all need the healing touch of the Great Shepherd who gave His life for His sheep.
The Little United Church at Mount Pleasant was nearly full and among the group was an elderly gentleman, a double amputee in a wheelchair. He is a reader of this space who had wanted to see and hear me speak.
I realize that I pass this way but once and any speech might by my last opportunity to point me to the Saviour. With this conviction growing on me, I am compelled to speak forthrightly and use my time and that of others wisely, for, ere long we shall all stand at the judgment bar

Report From Ottawa

by Clyde Blackburn

By CLYDE BLACKBURN
OTTAWA — Government officials have been sent into action on their annual job of planning how to spend our money.
Preparation has started on the estimates for the fiscal year starting next April 1.
It is understood there has been no instruction to hold down — or to spread out.
Just the order to get the spending program planned as soon as possible. The treasury board and cabinet will do the trimming. If necessary and advisable.
The main estimates as presented to parliament for the current fiscal year, in a 600-page blue book, called for spending of about five and a half billion dollars.
There were a number of supplementary estimates added later during the parliamentary session. And the year is not nearly over.
Undoubtedly when parliament meets again there will be "further supplementary estimates" for the current year.
The likelihood is that the final figure will be almost a billion dollars more than the main estimate.

And it is a fair guess that the final figure for the next fiscal year will be that much more than whatever the experts bring out from their current huddles.
Particularly if there is any chance of an election next summer.
There is nothing new about any of this. It is just a reminder of an unpleasant fact of life.
If every living person in Canada paid the same portion of taxation it would be the equivalent of well over a dollar a day from each.
But many pay very few taxes that they know about — that is direct taxes — and many pay enormous sums which of God to give account of our stewardship of time and talent. It is a sobering thought as life expectancy wanes and so much remains to be done.

GLORIOUS STARS

We met many friends at a reception following the service. It was late when we turned the nose of the car toward the south on a dark, dark road. The majestic display of stars held me spellbound.
I asked the driver to stop for a few minutes to behold their glory. We stood enraptured as I thought of the prophetic promise: "They that be wise shall shine as the brightness of the firmament; and they that turn many to righteousness as the stars forever." Dan. 12.
I wondered as I beheld the heavens if the billions of lights in the Milky Way could be ordinary people like you and me who had been true to their trust and are now shining as the stars forever!

means they are in the money in a big way.
Everyone who spends any money for food, shelter, smokes, drinks, cars — almost anything he may buy — feeds the tax kitty.
And the total goes up every year. It will continue to go up every year.
Earnings and personal revenues also go up every year, except in depression periods, and so it balances off to some degree so long as times are good.
Now there is to be a long royal commission inquiry into public administration which will essentially have to do with public spending and public costs.
This will take some years to complete and will cost the taxpayer probably a million dollars.
And the report will go into the archives along with a thousand or more accumulated from royal commissions since confederation.
And probably, we hope, Canada will still be one of the happiest and most comfortable nations in the world.

North Hatley Library Association names officers at annual meeting

NORTH HATLEY — The Library Association held its annual meeting in the library with J. R. MacKay, president, in the chair.

In the absence of Mrs. K. Y. Stanton, secretary of the Ladies Board, minutes were read by Mrs. G. E. Bennett, who also gave her report as president of the Ladies Board.

The women who give their services as librarians every Saturday afternoon throughout the year, were thanked, as were the librarians whose voluntary service made it possible to have an open library every morning during the summer.

A special motion of thanks was extended to Mrs. E. Irvine, whose resignation as buyer of adult books was regretfully accepted. Mrs. Irvine with an increased schedule of responsibilities found it impossible to continue. On her recommendation a local committee of buyers was named and voted into office.

The financial statement was read, and a report on the insurance carried was reviewed. It was voted to increase the insurance on the building and on the contents. The Men's Board will accept this responsibility.

Mrs. R. N. LeBaron read the state of officers for both Boards, and the names of the members of the Ladies Board.

The officers of the Library Association are: President, J. R. MacKay; vice-president, R. N. LeBaron; secretary, Mrs. K. Y. Stanton; treasurer, Mrs. G. E. Bennett; committee buying adult books, Mrs. John York, Mrs. Robert Brown, and Mrs. Ronald Clark; buyer of children's books, Mrs. R. N. LeBaron.

The Library was happy to receive the gift of a rare old book of maps and pictures of the Eastern Townships, and a motion of thanks was extended to Clifford Parkins, and a letter of thanks directed to his friend in Montreal, who gave him the book for the library.

Panama's President Ernesto de la Guardia, miffed because he wasn't asked to pull the flag rope, stayed away.

Week in Quebec

Yves Prevost became leader of Quebec's Union Nationale party following the unexpected resignation of former Union Nationale premier Antonio Barrette. Mr. Prevost is a 52-year-old corporation lawyer.

Some 500 delegates gathered in Montreal for the week-long annual convention of the American Association of Port Authorities, the first time it has been held there since 1916.

A European-born Canadian was arrested on unspecified charges in Warsaw while on a visit to his homeland, it was disclosed in Montreal Saturday. Tadeusz Koyser, 38, was the second person in the last three months to be arrested while visiting behind the Iron Curtain. In July, Czechoslovakian-born Milorad Cyp, 38, was taken into custody and charged with espionage. Both men were living in Montreal.

Quebecair Limited, crippled by a pilot's strike since Aug. 12, announced Monday it would return to regular flight schedules Sept. 26. The Rimouski-based company said 13 of the 31 pilots who walked out over a wage dispute, had returned to work and the company had hired several new pilots.

In Sherbrooke, delegates to the Canadian Association of Chiefs of Police convention Wednesday reaffirmed their opinion that capital punishment should be retained when they unanimously approved a resolution calling for the death penalty for murder.

The Quebec legislature held a special, four-day session and by week's end had passed a bill providing for preliminary modifications to Montreal's complex administrative and electoral systems. Principal modification concerns the method by which the powerful executive committee, a body chosen by council members, is elected.

ATTACK

18,000-word address to a denunciation of colonialism, causing Western spokesmen to retort that Russia is the greatest imperialist power in the world today—perhaps in history.

His call for a quick burial of all things colonial was regarded as clear notice of his hopes of winning Africa—which has placed 13 new members in the 96-member UN—to Communist influence.

On disarmament, Khrushchev apparently sought to discard the 10-nation committee made up of five Communist and five Western members, claiming that the West in that commission tried only to hinder progress. Canada was a member of the committee which fell apart in Geneva because of a Communist walkout in June.

BREAK THE DEADLOCK

His idea, Khrushchev said, was that "to break the deadlock in the disarmament problem, the General Assembly should call to order those who impede the solution of the disarmament problem, who try to supplant businesslike negotiations on disarmament with meaningless beatings about the bush."

Khrushchev demanded that the UN create conditions which would permit Premier Patrice Lumumba, currently to resume as head of "the legitimate government" of the Congo. He contended that only African troops should be left by the UN in the Congo.

The Soviet Union's rule in central Asia, Khrushchev said, is not colonialism because of the friendship among all nationalities.

Khrushchev, knowing that the majority of his hearers represent former colonies, said the final burial of colonialism either would be peaceful or "accompanied by dangerous gambles by the supporters of colonialism who clutch at extreme measures."

Prime Minister Diefenbaker is scheduled to arrive late today and address the assembly Monday, making him one of the first western leaders to reply to Khrushchev.

In other developments Friday: 1. The assembly's steering committee voted for a new debate by the assembly on the U.S. U-2 spy plane and RB-47 plane incidents. The U.S. did not oppose the discussion although it said the Soviet allegations were false.

The committee also voted for debate on the Hungarian oppression of 1956. Twelve countries, including Canada, were for the debate, four against and there were four abstentions.

2. Premier Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana made a major speech to the assembly, demanding that the UN turn over its functions in the Congo to African forces under a "united African command" responsible to the Security Council. He also blasted colonialism.

Khrushchev, in addition to his attacks on Hammarikjold and the basic structure of the UN, made these points:

He accused Eisenhower of risking a third world war by sending American planes over Soviet territory.

He said Russia "is prepared to wait a while with the solution of the question of the German peace treaty."

This should be done at a summit conference "which the Soviet Union has proposed be held in a few months time."

Women's Institute holds meeting at Melbourne Ridge

MELBOURNE RIDGE — The Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. Aldas Beauregard, with Mrs. L. Driver and Mrs. W. Adamson assisting.

The president, Mrs. John Hamilton, reported that the refreshment booth at Richmond Fair had been successful, and thanked all those who had helped in any way.

Plans were made to do further work on the grounds at the site of the picnic table.

In the absence of Mrs. G. Stainthorpe, agriculture convener, the report of the School Fair was given by Mrs. G. Fowler.

The large number of high quality exhibits indicated much interest.

The sick committee reported having sent flowers and cards.

The education convener, Miss Marion Kerr, introduced the guest speaker, Miss Ruth Langman, of Richmond, who told some of her experiences in social service work as a missionary of the United Church for 31 years.

Miss Langman was thanked by Mrs. Gerald Fowler.

The usual donations of jam, jelly, and pickles will be received at the next meeting, to be held at the Wales Home.

The meeting will be held in the W. 1. Hall, in Kingsbury.

Brome - Shefford Deanery meeting at Waterloo

WATERLOO — The Brome-Shefford Deanery held a service in St. Luke's Church here on Sunday evening, Sept. 18.

Those taking part were Archdeacon I.M. Lidstone, of Granby; Rural Dean T.E.R. Nurse of Knowlton; Rev. E. Macklin, Mansville; Rev. J. H. M. Brett, Sutton; Rev. W. Davidson, Shefford; Rev. T. J. W. Leggett, Bondville. The speaker was Rev. R. E. Nerman, warden of the Montreal Diocesan College.

Other clergy attending were Canon Lewis, West Shefford, and Rev. Gerald Talk, Mansville. The choir rendered the anthem, "God Reveals His Presence."

Mr. Newman based his sermon on the need for Christianity, which should not be taken lightly or for granted. If as in olden times, they would be apt to appreciate them more.

The offering was allocated to the Montreal Diocesan College.

Following the service, St. Hil-da's Guild ladies were hostesses at an informal reception for those from the different parishes.

Melbourne Ridge W.M.S. celebrates 52nd anniversary

MELBOURNE RIDGE — A special meeting of the W.M.S. was held in the Church Hall, as a memorial to mothers each member and associate member was asked to give a special donation to celebrate the 52nd birthday of the Melbourne Ridge W.M.S., which was organized in 1908.

Twelve members and three associate members were present to enjoy the birthday cake, made and decorated by Mrs. John Hamilton. A candle on the cake, and two larger candles in holders beside it, carried out the color scheme of white and pale yellow.

For the roll call, each member was asked to name her favorite book of the Old Testament.

Mrs. Henry Fowler and Mrs. Sydney Johnston will bring in donations for next month.

Mrs. Henry Fowler presided over the W.A. meeting, and Mrs. Gerald Fowler was elected secretary-treasurer to replace Mrs. Elton Gilchrist.

Final plans were made for the chicken pie supper, to be held in the Church Hall, on Wednesday, Sept. 28.

The Soviet allegations were false.

In Memoriam

CRAWFORD — In loving memory of our darling Kathleen who passed away five years ago Sept. 24th, 1956. The Golden Gates stood open. With farewell left unspoken, She silently passed away. We miss her in so many ways. Life is not just the same, just the same. But God will link the broken chain. As one by one we will meet again. To some she may be forgotten. To others a part of the past. To us who loved and lost her. Memories will always last. Sadly missed by: DAD, MOTHER and brother, DONALD.

DEAN — In fond and loving memory of our dear mother who passed away September 25th, 1956. Not a day do we forget you. In our hearts you are always near. We who love you, sadly miss you. As it dawns another year. Ever remembered by: ELSIE and JOHN, (daughter and son-in-law); GERALD and LORRAINE, (grandchildren); DOUGLAS, CAROLYN and SANDRA, (great-grandchildren).

KINSLEY — In loving memory of Mrs. Thomas Kinsley, who passed away September 16th, 1956. Remembrance is a golden chain. Death tries to break but it in vain. Someday we'll meet on the "golden shore" Enshrined with God for evermore. Lovingly remembered by: NINA (VIVIAN) TAYLOR, (daughter); EDWIN VIVIAN (son); LETTIE (VIVIAN) HARRIS, (daughter); THOMAS, (husband).

VICKERS — In loving memory of a dear wife and mother who passed away Sept. 24, 1940. "The tears in our eyes will wipe away. But the arch in our hearts will always stay." Always remembered by: WALTER and ELSIE.

Missionary Will Address Deanery At North Hatley

NORTH HATLEY—Rev. F. A. Peter will be guest speaker at the annual Deanery meeting, to be held here under the auspices of St. Barnabas W.A. and Guild, on September 27.

Mr. Peter, who was born in India of Swiss parents, comes from a missionary family, of which he was the third generation to work on the Tibetan border.

For the past ten years he and his sister have been loaned to the West Pakistan Christian Council, Lahore, for rural work under Technical Services Association.

In making plans for this special meeting, the Guild has arranged for Holy Communion and an address in St. Barnabas Church, at 10 a.m. Luncheon will be served at 12:30 in the Community Hall, followed by a short business meeting, after which Mr. Peter will again address the delegates and visitors. Tea will be served at the close of the meeting.

Chicken Shoot At Derby Range

DERBY LINE — On Sunday afternoon, Sept. 18, about 60 people braved the inclement weather and attended the Derby Fish and Game Club chicken shoot held at its shooting range.

Prizes of dressed chickens were won for running deer, trap and skeet, about 19 rounds of ammunition being used.

This Sunday, Sept. 25, another shoot will take place at the Club range, commencing at one o'clock. Again competition will be for running deer, trap and skeet, with prizes of more dressed chickens.

In addition to the shoot there will be horse-shoe pitching competition and prizes will be offered for highest points.

Canadians are invited to participate. They may shoot without an American license as the shooting range is privately owned.

FOSTER —

Thieves have again been active in this locality. The home of Mr. John Worden was broken into during his absence and several articles stolen. Among them were a TV, a radio, a wrist watch, a mantle clock, a 22 rifle, tires and articles of clothing. The Provincial Police are investigating.

BOYNTON —

Mr. Harold Cooper entered the Sherbrooke Hospital for surgery. Last reports state he is doing well.

Mrs. Margaret Mosher of Beebe, spent the week-end at her home here.

Card of Thanks

HEARN — Most sincere thanks to all our friends and relatives who have been so kind to us both during my stay in Hospital and while at home. Many thanks to those who sent cards, letters and gifts and visited me there. Also to those dear friends who so kindly contributed to our Sunshine Baskets in Sawyerville, Cookshire & Bury. It has passed many a happy hour for Bert & I to know our friends remembered us.

Sincerely, BERT & MAUD HEARN, Cookshire.

HUTSON — With grateful appreciation, we extend thanks to so many for the wonderful expressions of friendship and help extended to us during my illness and the process of our moving. All the kind thoughts and deeds received have been a very great source of strength and comfort to my family and I, and shall always be remembered by us.

FRANK HUTSON and FAMILY, Rock Island, Que.

History as revealed by Zsa Zsa

ZSA ZSA GABOR by Gerold Frank — Nelson Foster & Scott, Ltd. — 308 pages — $4.75 — History records that Kemal Ataturk, founder and first president of the Turkish republic, died at 57 after a long illness.

Nevertheless, right up until the end, he lived the hard-drinking life of a playboy, and enjoyed a romantic dalliance with Zsa Zsa Gabor, then approximately 18 years old — that's what this book says, anyway.

There's another hitherto hidden piece of history in the volume, too. Zsa Zsa and her husband (the first of three, to date) are dining sedately with George Bernard Shaw and H. G. Wells. Zsa Zsa's napkin slips to the floor. Shaw and Wells bend gallantly to retrieve it. One of them, it is claimed, pinches Zsa Zsa's leg before straightening up.

"I like to think it was Mr. Shaw," Zsa Zsa is quoted by her biographer as saying.

This is another of those books that an American news magazine has aptly dubbed a "non-book." Put together by a man who specializes in writing the first person stories of well-known people, it purports to be the life-story of Miss Gabor.

It runs along smoothly enough, from Zsa Zsa's first affair in a Swiss chalet at approximately 16 years of age to the present time, running through the trio of husbands and a number of other attachments that didn't quite reach the same status.

To give Mr. Frank his due, the book often catches the same glamorous, gay, child-like Zsa Zsa that the public sees on television and in the movies, but there are many other parts where he has obviously worked hard to bring a bit of balanced reason to the whole mad whirl.

While Van Nostrand's book was written by an American about American novels, it behooves us as Canadian readers — and writers — to ask ourselves if the same charges can be made about the Canadian novel. Is the Canadian novel being denatured and if so, why? Is it the fault of the publisher, the novelist himself — or the reader?

By GLADYS TAYLOR

THE DENATURED NOVEL by Albert Van Nostrand is a book I have not as yet read but I hope to. However even if I don't get around to reading it, the things I have read about it have been enough to make me think.

Van Nostrand makes an all-embracing charge. He says "commercial exploitation is ruining the American novel."

He goes on to bolster this charge with these assertions:

1. Novelists are required to write in the standard pattern that is an assured current money maker.

2. Mass circulation magazines dictate the message of a novel and denature it by the demands of their advertisers.

3. Manipulation of motion picture studios again denature the author's original intention.

While Van Nostrand's book was written by an American about American novels, it behooves us as Canadian readers — and writers — to ask ourselves if the same charges can be made about the Canadian novel. Is the Canadian novel being denatured and if so, why? Is it the fault of the publisher, the novelist himself — or the reader?

It would appear that Van Nostrand lays most of the denaturing of the novel at the door of the publisher. To me this is over-simplification of the case. Immediately I should insert here that while I am accusing Van Nostrand of over-simplification in his thesis, I am also due to the limitations of this column — about to be guilty of the same thing in presenting my own views on the subject. However, very briefly, these are the reasons why I can't — comfortable as it would be — lay all the blame for the state of the novel on the shoulders of the publishers.

First I must face this question as a novelist. If I could say with complete honesty that I have never written a word without once peering over my mental shoulder to see how a publisher was reacting to it, then I would have no responsibility for the denaturing of the Canadian novel. But I can't say this — and neither, do I firmly believe, can any other novelist. (The only novelist who can say this is the one whose book still lies hidden somewhere in manuscript form — and the reason it is still in manuscript form is that he hasn't consciously tried to please a publisher.)

Second, I must face this question as a reader and so must you. If you or I can truthfully say that we have never read a little more avidly when we came to a racy part of a book; if we can honestly say that we have refused to read or discuss (because by discussion we subtly advertise and promote) the latest PEYTON PLACE or LADY CHATTERLEY then we bear no responsibility. But how many, save the unlettered, can say this?

I agree that the American — and the Canadian novel — is being, at times, denatured — even degraded. I agree that it is being exploited — but I don't think the situation is so simple we can solve it by laying it all at the door of the publishers. At the base of this, and every ill — be it social, cultural or political — lies the frailty of man himself.

Ed. note: In order to avoid delay correspondence to Mrs. Taylor should be addressed to her home at 386 Carrette St. Theftford Mines, Que.

that is apparently Zsa Zsa's life.

Readers who find the massive name-dropping and flitting from man to man a bit tiresome (and it's difficult not to) can amuse themselves by figuring out Zsa Zsa's age.

All they have to go on is the dateless fact of her birth, admitted to in the opening paragraph.

But there is enough information in the rest of the book to do the job. It works out to about 40, give or take a year or two.

And at that age, Miss Gabor should know better!

about as much as a rootin' shootin' T.V. Western affects a child jaded by a surfeit of them. But a book like A BALLAD OF LOVE read with no advance warning of its decadence could easily dull the youthful perception to the nuances of right and wrong.

This book has a cast of thoroughly useless and disgusting characters. The scenes are laid in a completely unreal and revolting world. It seems to me that Mr. Prokosch insults the intelligence of the reader by picturing such an improbable world and insults the reader's emotions by using the word love in juxtaposition to such animal reactions as his characters display.

THE BALLAD OF LOVE has one saving grace. Mr. Prokosch writes superbly. The splendid flow of his sentences, his starkly descriptive phrases and flawlessly uncluttered paragraphs are

From Caesar to Arthur

FROM CAESAR TO ARTHUR by Geoffrey Ashe — 320 pgs — Wm. Collins & Sons, Ltd. — $4.50 — In this book the author patiently unravels a tangle of Welsh, Celtic and Irish folklore, poetry and ecclesiastical records, to throw some light on the dim period in British history between the withdrawal of the Romans and the Norman conquest.

He reveals that the traditional, schoolbook view of that era as an anarchic age of barbarian conquest, leaving no written records of importance and in which few events occurred worth recording, is a false one. A difficulty has been to understand the imaginative imagery of those who have left records and also, according to the author, a rather surprising lack of archaeological investigation of suitable sites in Britain.

Slowly and carefully the author examines all sources of information in a sort of literary detective work. He points out evidence of the fact that during the gradual disintegration of the Western Roman Empire, there were times when Britain was virtually the sole remaining stronghold of Christianity in the West and that this was the only former Roman colony that was never completely over-run, or which never lost its identity. Angles, Jutes, Saxons and later, Danes came in conquering waves, were beaten back and came on again, but never obliterated the remnants of Christian Roman — British civilization that they found.

The Arthur who became the legendary "king" of the Round Table, gradually emerges as the central character of the book, but a rather different figure from the one built up by later poets and ballad singers. He was the most successful leader of the Britons in their fight for survival and the author gradually builds up a picture of him as a man, not of royal birth and probably never regarded as a king during his lifetime, but a bold and successful general, with some very human faults.

This is not a book that will have wide popular appeal, but to anyone interested in this subject, it should prove fascinating.

While attending the university in 1952, Angela created a stir when, working as a stage manager and lighting designer for an amateur group using a burlesque theatre closed by the police, Angela suggested in jest that Tobacco Road might be a likely attraction to prepare for Christmas Time.

The play committee took up the suggestion and, halfway through one of the early performances, police halted the show and hauled off the principals to jail.

Charged with presenting "a lewd and indecent performance," the troupe defended itself through a series of trials and appeals, aided in its defence by author Erskine Caldwell, who maintained that his play had been presented as skillfully by the Vancouver group as it had been in the Broadway original. The actors ultimately lost the case.

Angela attended the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art in London and worked extensively in BBC radio and television, but was unable to land roles in stage repertory.

Returning to Vancouver in 1957, she appeared in several plays produced there by her husband-to-be, John Brockington, now at Yale University studying for a doctorate degree in directing.

Angela was majoring at Yale in technical designing and lighting until she won her present role in John Brown's body.

Angela Wood on the Players Theatre stage," wrote one critic, "you feel John Brown's body is going to be a real stirrer-upper. When she moves, her slim frame twines, twists, sways and floats."

By the time Miss Wood completes her share of Stephen Vincent Benet's rhythmic civil war, males like me need an emancipation proclamation all our own."

Miss Wood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. G. C. Wood, attended University of British Columbia and has a rich family theatrical background.

Her mother has for many seasons acted every winter in a community playhouse in Laguna Beach, Calif. The Frederic Wood Theatre, on the University of British Columbia campus, was named for Angela's father, a playwright and a professor of English at the university until he retired in 1952.

Off-Broadway Canadian is hailed by critics

NEW YORK (CP)—One of the big success stories of the New York stage this season is that of Vancouver's Angela Wood, who has been hailed for her brilliant acting in the off-Broadway production of Stephen Vincent Benet's John Brown's Body.

"The minute you glimpse Angela Wood on the Players Theatre stage," wrote one critic, "you feel John Brown's body is going to be a real stirrer-upper. When she moves, her slim frame twines, twists, sways and floats."

UK reviewer praises 'Ginger' but is doubtful over Montreal

LONDON (CP) — A Canadian no way to blame—he has had novel set in Montreal has just some doubts.

about convinced British writer Gerard Fay that the city has something to be said for it.

In a lighthearted personal column for The Guardian, the Manchester newspaper of which he is London editor, Fay recalls memories of Montreal based on The Luck of Ginger Coffey, a book by Brian Moore that has attracted considerable attention in Britain.

Fay notes how Moore, an Irish-born author now living in Montreal, is able to evoke his adopted city in a few passing phrases, such as "fire chains rattling in the brown sugar slush." These passages help to convince Fay that Montreal really is an attractive city, though because of a Amis said Moore "can write personal experience with an auto-mob for which the city was in the ground."

"Some day I shall have to do something about Montreal to put myself on better terms with the city of whose charm I can convince anybody but myself."

Fay says The Luck of Ginger Coffey is the best novel he has read this year. In an earlier review, British author Kingsley view, though because of a Amis said Moore "can write personal experience with an auto-mob for which the city was in the ground."

emphasized at the services in all the Christian Science churches this

Sunday, in the reading of the week's Lesson-Sermon on the subject "Reality." Bible passages will include the following from

Psalm: "The works of his hands are verity and judgment; all his commandments are sure. They stand fast for ever and ever, and are done in truth and uprightness."

Corroborative selections from

"Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker

Eddy will include: "Let us learn of the real and eternal, and prepare for the reign of Spirit, the kingdom of heaven—the reign

and rule of universal harmony, which cannot be lost nor remain

forever unseen."

Marriage

PARKER — KINSMAN

CLARENCE N. S. — Baskets

of white gladioli and white car-negations gave simple but impressive dignity to the summer

wedding of Miss Janet Carol Kin-smann, the only daughter of Mr.

and Mrs. W. T. Kinsman of Clarence, N.S., and Mr. Gerald Douglas Parker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gault L. Parker of Drummondville, Quebec.

The marriage was solemnized on Saturday, August 27th, in a double ring ceremony in the United Baptist Church in Clarence by the Rev. Kenneth Thompson.

The bride, a recent graduate of Acadia University was gowned

in white silk organza over taffeta, fashioned with a fitted bodice and boat neckline decorated with appliques of French lace. The flowing floor length skirt swept gracefully with a bustle effect at the back. Her elbow length veil fell from a coronet of seed pearls, and she carried a bouquet of white roses

accented by white stephanotis and green ivy.

The maid of honor, Miss Linda

Forrest, wore a street-length gown of mauve pink taffeta. The bridesmaids, Miss Ruth Nichol,

Miss Sandra Franklin and Miss

Margaret Jackson, were similarly attired in gowns of sapphire blue.

They carried bouquets of white chrysanthemums and ivy.

The mother of the bride wore a sheath of sapphire blue lace

over taffeta with a matching hat and a corsage of pink roses,

while the groom's mother wore eration Lennoxville United Church reopened for the fall activities with a meeting in Douglas Hall.

Mrs. K. Baldwin president, opened the meeting with prayer and plans were discussed for the summer trip to Europe.

Tea was served by the hostesses.

After the business session the members enjoyed an imaginary trip abroad when Mrs. Edson Warner showed slides of her summer trip to Europe.

Tea was served by the hostesses.

SANGSTER MEMORIAL W. A.

The first meeting of the fall session of the Sangster W. A. was held on Tuesday, September 20. First vice president Mrs. J.
D. Edmond was in the chair replacing Mrs. C. Wilson who has moved to Massachusetts. Sixteen members were present. The devotions were taken by the president with Mrs. C. M. Currie at the piano.

The proposed calendar was submitted for approval and accepted by the members. A Food Sale will take place in Steinberg's on Thursday morning,
September 29, at 10.30 a.m.

There will be a rummage sale in the church hall on October 24 at two o'clock. The annual Thanksgiving Supper will take place on October 13. The Christmas tree and sale will take place on December 3.

The treasurer gave her report and the card secretary, Miss a teal blue sheath of tissue tulle with accessories to match and a corsage of pink roses.

William Parker, brother of the groom, was best man. Ushers were Paul Kinsman, brother of the bride, Benjamin Leonard and MacGregor Fraser. Mr. Freidel
Gmelner of Acadia University was organist.

The wedding reception for one hundred guests was held at the residence of the bride's parents.
Pouring at the bride's table were Mrs. W. S. Rice of Wolfville, the groom's grandmother, and Mrs.
Wilfred Bishop of Paradise, aunt of the bride.

For going away the bride wore a two piece costume of pale rose-ta green linen. Her accessories were of beige and her corsage of pink roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Parker will reside in Sackville, N.B., where the groom is a lecturer in English at Mount Allison University.

IODE sponsors Mam'zelle de Paris fashion show

Elegance is the keynote this fall

Little or long jackets top all types of dresses, regardless of their skirt styling: bias, or semi-circular; pleated or straight.

Dresses with sleeveless or camisole bodices usually underscore jacket styles. Also, three-

7th annual style show has Parisian theme

The Seventh Annual Admiral Sir Dudley Pound Chapter IODE fashion show will be held at the Cavalier room of the Wellington Hotel on Wednesday evening, September 28.

This year's show will be on a Parisian theme with a side-walk cafe and will exhibit Fall and Winter styles.

The "Mam'zelle de Paris" show will include the showing of dresses, sportswear, maternity clothes and suits, with accompanying accessories such as furs, jewelry and purses.

Arrangements for the "Mam'zelle de Paris" fashion show are under the convenship of Mrs. James Strickland, co-convener being Miss Emeline Zakaib and Miss Evelyn Komery. In charge piece outfits with blouses and skirts plus jackets are coming to the fore. Handsome jacket linings usually match the over-blouse.

Dresses with coats of varying lengths are smart and either sharply contrast or coordinate with companion dresses. Mink, nutria and fox are but a few of the many exotic and exciting furs that are used to trim collars, cuffs and linings of these fall costumes.

Ocelot, leopard and cheetah furs are used with emphasis and elegance on many of these coat and dress, or jacket and dress ensembles.

of tickets are Mrs. Don Lyon and Mrs. Richard Crotty.

In charge of publicity are Mrs. Stephen Allatt and Mrs. Ronald Phillips. Decoration convener is Mrs. Gordon Moe, while the music convener is Mrs. Curtis Bishop.

The English commentary will be provided by Mrs. Norbert Keenan and the French commentary by Mrs. Hans Van der Werff.

The models will be Mrs. Robert Beaudry, Mrs. Marcel Moreau, Mrs. Sanford Carter, Miss Anita Doucet, Mrs. John Turnbull, Mrs. Bert Paquet, Miss Claudette Peres and Mrs. Gordon Breen.

Fashions will be supplied by Mam'zelle de Paris, J. A. Robert, Skinner and Nadeau, J. N. Boisvert and Salon Gina.

Proceeds from the show will go towards education and welfare for the needy.

Among some of the projects undertaken during the year by the IODE are: supplying milk daily to a needy family and knitting socks for Koreans.

At Christmas time, Christmas Cheer Baskets containing clothing, food, and toys are given to needy families.

During the past year the Sir Dudley Pound Chapter has been contributing to the "Eskimo Fund," a fund to help the Eskimos of Frobisher Bay build a recreation hall.

One of the Chapter's primary purposes is the promotion of education by financial aid to students, particularly to those whose fathers were killed or disabled fighting for their country.

This group also made it possible for a young girl to go to the Y.W.C.A. camp this summer.

Best wishes for the success of the I.O.D.E.

"MADAME AMBASSADOR," a stately evening gown of white jersey knitted of acrylic fibre and wool. As contemporary as the Jean-Paul Riopelle abstract pictured with it, the dress, nevertheless, can trace its ancestry back to the classic Hindu sari. Tiny folds mold the waist and a semi-detached panel breaks the skirt's perpendicular line to achieve a wrapped effect.

50 years ago

Charles Dana Gibson's "girl" was just departing from the scene as a new era of elegance and sophistication began.

The dress silhouette was changing; dresses were very slim; just above the ankle; often had their fullness brought to the front and draped or crossed.

Ensembles were important... dresses were elaborate and had elaborate coats to match.

The simple tailored suit, was often bound with silk braid, and was set off by a blouse with deep ruffled front.

1910 introduced what was known as the dressmaker suit, elaborately tailored to "look like a dress."

Coats with lavish fur linings came into their own; the favored fur for lining at that time was squirrel.

Shortly thereafter, fur began to swirl about hemlines, cascade down tuxedo fronts and generally, appear everywhere.

The Doctor Says

NEURALGIA IS LIKE PHONE RINGING, BETTER ANSWER
By HAROLD THOMAS HYMAN M. D.

It's the last half of the ninth. The score is tied. The bases are full. There are two out. The home team's cleanup hitter is stepping to the plate. And the phone rings.

You leave your chair before the TV screen and go to the next room to answer. A blurry voice asks if this is a number that doesn't remotely resemble yours.

You hurry back to the game. The count on the local hero is 3 and 2. Again the phone. Again the same voice with the same question. Again the dash back to the screen. But now the game is over. The crowd is pouring out of the stands. You're going to have to wait for the papers to find out what really happened.

You tell the story to your pals next day. Who do you cuss at? The phone? Or the fathead who misused it at the critical moments of the game?

Now keep this episode in mind while we talk about neuralgia. Which really means a nerve that's taken it upon itself to cause you pain.

About 999 times out of 1,000 when someone tells you he's suffering from neuralgia, you may be sure that the abused nerve is no more at fault than the phone that rang during the home half of the ninth. That's why the dash for a pain-killer ought to be one of the last things you do. Instead of the first.

For example, take a facial neuralgia. It's quite true that once every blue moon the nerve itself seems to be primarily at fault. And in this condition, called trigeminal neuralgia, the pain may be so severe and persistent that the physician has to cut or destroy the offending structure.

But most often, as in the case of the phone that's misused by some fathead, the nerve is the innocent victim of something that's gone sour along the line. Like an impacted third molar. Or an abscessed fang of a tooth. Or a pimple in the ear canal. Or an infected middle ear. Or pressure on the nerve root as a result of a misalignment due to loss of teeth or an ill-fitting denture. Or maybe even an increased pressure in the eyeball such as occurs in glaucoma about which I wrote a few weeks ago.

One way or other, don't take it out on the nerve. Unless you're the sort that would pull out your phone because someone dialed the wrong number a couple of times.

Miss S. Mosher feted at shower in Ayer's Cliff

AYER'S CLIFF — Miss Sandra Mosher, a bride of the month, was feted at a community shower in the United Church Hall, which was attractive with Autumn flowers in multi-colors, and white bells.

The guests were received by Mrs. G. H. Clough and Miss Mildred Paul. Upon arrival of the guest of honor and her mother, Mrs. Leland Mosher, wedding music was played by Mrs. Walter Keeler. The rose corsages made by Mrs. Galen Brown, from Dr. C. L. Brown's garden, were pinned on by Mrs. L. H. Martin, Mrs. G. H. Clough, and Mrs. H. N. Pierce. The two guests were then escorted to the front of the hall, where Mrs. John Dezan was seated with them. The groom-to-be, George DeSilver, had made the Dezan house his second home.

Mrs. Pierce had charge of the entertainment, which consisted of games, readings by Mrs. R. G. McHarg, and a vocal solo by Miss Jane Pierce, accompanied on the piano by her mother.

A presentation speech was made by Miss Mildred Paul, and an attractively-wrapped gift was presented to Miss Mosher by her cousin, Mrs. Mearl Whipple. The parcel contained a leather purse, containing a purse of money. The bride-elect expressed thanks.

Prior to refreshments a singing was led by Mrs. Pierce, with Mrs. Keeler at the piano. Tea and coffee were poured by Mrs. Mosher and Mrs. Dezan, at a lace-covered table centered with giant pink dahlias in a silver basket, and lighted with white candles in crystal holders. The serving table was also centered with dahlias and white candles.

The bride's cake decorated in pink and white, was made and decorated by Mrs. R. G. McHarg. The servers were Misses Lela Dustin, Sandra Hibbard, Margaret McHarg, Mary Waite, Mrs. M. Whipple, and Mrs. Pierce. Others helping were Mrs. Ruth Waite, Mrs. L. H. Martin, Mrs. Claire Libby, Mrs. W. S. Keeler, and Mrs. Alex Hibbard.

KNOWLTON —

The Hospital Auxiliary was entertained by Mrs. Nellie d'Artois and Mrs. Elton Bockus at the latter's home on Wednesday afternoon. The ladies spent the afternoon in knitting and handwork. Tea was served by the hostesses. The next meeting will take place on October 12 at the home of Mrs. F. Baader in Bolton Pass.

The Quest Young People's Group met in the manse for the election of officers and the following were elected: President Arthur Duboyce; secretary, Linda Bockus; treasurer, Janet Benoit; and social convener, Nancy Crandall.

On Friday evening, Grade XI held a record hop in the High School gymnasium. Refreshments were served at intermission. Proceeds for the evening were most satisfactory.

On Wednesday evening, Sept. 14, Mrs. Elton Bockus, with Mrs. Nellie d'Artois as co-hostess, entertained the Canasta Club at her home on Maple Street. Cards were played at three tables and the prizes were won by Mrs. Gertrude Partridge and Mrs. Carl C. McClay. The party was held in complement to Mrs. Earl DeMarcos, of Vancouver, B.C., who is visiting her mother, Mrs. Marion Pettes, for the month of September. Refreshments were served by the hostesses.

On Sunday morning, the 400th anniversary of the Scottish Reformation was celebrated at the United Church with a special service conducted by Rev. J. David McCord, and a sermon in keeping with the day was delivered.

Mrs. Earl DeMarcos, of Vancouver, B.C., who is visiting her mother, Mrs. Marion Pettes, spent several days in Montreal, where she visited friends and relatives.

Mrs. DeMarcos, a graduate of the Royal Victoria Hospital was a member of the hospital staff before moving to Vancouver.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Battley, of Smithville, Ont., spent their holidays in town, guests of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Battley.

Rev. and Mrs. D. H. MacFarlane and family have returned to their home in Lachine after spending a holiday at their cottage at Brome Lake.

Mr. Kenneth Eden has been a patient in the B.M.P. Hospital at Sweetsburg.

Mrs. F. Shaw has returned from spending a holiday at Stratford and Niagara Falls, Ont.

Mr. and Mrs. John Syberg are spending a holiday in Washington, D.C. During their absence, Miss Susan Syberg, is a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Taylor.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley d'Artois and daughter Joanne, of St. Laurent, were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. J. Partridge. They also visited Mrs. Nellie d'Artois and Mrs. Jane Clarke at Brome. Mrs. C. P. Thornton and Mrs. Paige Thornton have returned from spending a few days in Burlington, Vt.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Peak and daughters, Jill and Judy, of L'Abord a Plouffe were weekend guests of Mrs. Peak's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elton Bockus.

Mr. and Mrs. K. C. George have returned to their home in Montreal after spending a holiday at their summer home here. Mrs. Rebecca Porritt is spending a few days with her daughter, Mrs. Eric Farmer, and Mr. Farmer at their home in Ste. Therese.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Armstrong included, Mr. and Hatley, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Parker and son Craig, of Sherbrooke, and Mrs. Earl DeMarcos and son Jon, of Vancouver, B.C.

Mr. Charles Morrison has returned from the B.M.P. Hospital at Sweetsburg and is convalescing at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. Bruce Bailey. Mrs. Nellie d'Artois is assisting at the Fashion Store during Mrs. Bailey's absence.

"SHER-BELL" CAMERA CLUB OUTING

Technical advisor is versatile

The technical advisor of the "Sher-Bell" Camera Club is a well experienced professional photographer who has been practicing his profession in the Toronto, Montreal and Eastern Townships districts for the past 20 years.

A man of diversified interests, Douglas Gerrish, of North Hatley has taken a multitude of pictures ranging from Maurice Chevalier, the world-famous singing star of France to accident pictures. At age 43, gay, jovial Gerrish is considered to be one of the Townships best photographers having studied at the Ecole des Beaux Arts in Montreal and having worked for four years textile designing.

Among his many activities, Mr. Gerrish is also honorary president of the Bishop's University Photography Club and a member of the Commercial and Press work and an amateur psychologist.

Among the interesting people he has photographed are Maurice Chevalier and Lauritz Melchior, Metropolitan Opera singing star. Over the years, Doug has worked for Oliver, Skinner and Nadeau and M. W. Mitchell photography departments.

At present, he is photography columnist for the Sherbrooke Daily Record. He specializes in commercial,

Sher-Bell Club open to all interested

The "Sher-Bell" Camera Club was organized in the spring of 1959 by a group of Bell Telephone employees from which the club received its name.

At the beginning, only Bell Telephone employees were admitted into the club but later this was found to be impractical for many of the members were transferred to other cities for extended periods.

To carry on its work effectively, the club found it necessary to open its membership to everyone interested in photography.

Being a member of the Camera Club offers many opportunities to those who even have a box camera to pursue their art. The club brings together a group of people with a common interest - photography - who discuss their particular ways of taking a picture. Everyone is able to learn something new out of this.

Among the Club's activities are field trips which not only offers the student fresh air, but enjoyable afternoons where one is free to try out any particular angles he wishes to use without fear of criticism from fellow-members, will be trying, in his own way, to capture on film his own viewpoint.

Meetings are held once a month and are carried out in an informal manner with good discussion periods. Also books on photography are brought in by members on a loan basis. This gives members a chance to read about subjects which they might not have in their own library.

Interesting films and slides are shown which give the members ideas for future projects. As the films are taken by professionals, there is a lot to be learned from their work.

Photography has no age barrier.

Following is the Club's constitution: Regular meetings shall be held every first and third Thursday of the month, except during the summer months when the meetings will be every 1st, Thursday of the month.

Special meetings of the Club may be called by the President at the request of five members. Notice of such meetings shall be sent to each member of the Club at least three days prior to the date of the meeting.

Regular membership is open

DOUGLAS GERRISH

Photographers' Association of Canada.

Before accepting the position of the "Sher-Bell" Club technical advisor, Mr. Gerrish was professor of photography for two years at the Y.W.C.A. located on Montreal Street.

Father of three children ranging in ages from 18 months to 7 years, he is a great enthusiast in scrapboard (scratchboard) art

Industrial, profile and wedding pictures. But what he likes photographing most of all are young children and pretty girls.

"Photography is a form of expression unlike other mediums," Mr. Gerrish says, "which requires greater or lesser time to realize one's original vision. The whole photograph takes place in an instant in the negative. But the print, the form in which the picture will be seen, can be made five minutes or five years from now. The print is only an extension of the original vision."

The main reason why Mr. Gerrish got interested in photography was "the speed of completion of my ideas that fascinated me and as time went on the improvement of my technique through experience and experiment gave me more incentive to continue in my chosen profession."

"I am continually striving to improve my work. And after all these years I still find myself enthusiastic over a theory or some new technique I am anxious to use in some picture story," he says.

Mr. Gerrish likes to use a Roliflex camera and finds that he can use it about 70 per cent of the time. On the other hand, Mr. Gerrish needs a bigger camera and then uses a Linhof 4 x 5.

LITTLE LEAGUE HONORS THEIR CHAMPIONS

The sixth annual banquet of the Sherbrooke-Lennoxville Little League was held Thursday evening at the New Wellington Hotel where the various champions and winners of the special awards were honored. This in the young ball player's mind is quite an event.

We had the pleasure of attending, as we have in the past, but we think that Thursday's was the best yet. Jim Wark, commonly known to his many friends as Uncle Jim, was the guest speaker and we think that he gave one of the best talks to the kids we have heard for a long time.

He talked plainly and all the youngsters understood what he was trying to get across. It wasn't over their heads, as some we have heard, but real plain down-to-earth language. When you can keep close to 100 youngsters' interest that is certain proof that your talk is reaching them.

His French version was great and although he made a few mistakes that didn't matter. The kids enjoyed every minute of it. We think what struck them the most was when he commenced and told them that everybody called him "Mon Oncle Jim" well from then on he had their complete interest.

His talk was plain every day language and we are of the opinion that many of the parents who were there will agree. He outlined several very important facts in a youngster's life and pointed out that what they were learning would help them to become better citizens later in life. He was really great and everybody enjoyed every minute of it. Thanks Jim for a nice evening.

The event was well organized and despite all the trophies and awards presented it didn't last too long which is very important as far as the kids are concerned. It was a great thing to see them go up for their trophies and for once their parents were there to see them do it, which in our mind was a great thing.

President Frank Kenally spoke briefly, as the others, and thanked all who helped to make the season such a grand success. We would like to pay a few compliments of our own to one individual who in our mind has done more for the Little League than any other we know of.

We don't believe he has missed a game throughout the season. He was always there ready to do anything, keep score and several other things and has even on occasions acted as an umpire. We think a lot of credit for the success goes to him and we are referring to a slightly built individual with a Scottish accent none other than Ted Anderson.

Ted was the first president of the Little League in Sherbrooke and it always has been very close to his heart. He reports the games to both papers, gives results to the radio and TV and covers all events pertaining to Little League. As far as the newspapers are concerned we would like, on behalf of the Press, to thank him for his great help in looking after things.

He happens to be one of the few always ready to give a helping hand. You don't hear too much about him as he is always in the background but your work is greatly appreciated and Ted the boys of the Press thank you for your great help. It is a great community service you are doing and keep it up.

A junior football practice has been called for Monday evening at the Park Avenue Stadium for 6:30. This is open to all juniors who are interested in the game and they are asked to be on hand. The teams will be chosen and all players should be there for this important meeting.

The next game of the finals of the Massawippi Valley Baseball League is slated for tomorrow afternoon in Magog. In the first tilt at Beebe last Saturday the Magog sluggers belted out a 17-5 victory while the second one, called on Sunday, was cancelled owing to the inclement weather.

Gene Rancourt earned the victory and went the whole distance while Beebe used two hurlers. It was a tough day for the pitchers as it was rather cool and didn't help. Magog banged out some hard hits to chalk up the win but Beebe may come back strong tomorrow to even the series.

The annual International Golf Tournament is the big event in local golf over the weekend as thirty-two golfers will battle it out for the Canadian John Manville Trophy. Last year the American team won out over the boys from the Townships, down at St. Johnsbury, but we think the role will be reversed this year.

Amedee Roy, local chairman, has lined up a strong outfit and the boys from across the Border will be in for a tough battle. This event has been going on for several years and we think it is one of the most popular on the golf calendar. It helps to establish and maintain goodwill across the border.

Ivan Dugre's fillies, Fairy Dream and Merry Dream, got away to a flying start in their American debut at the Saratoga Raceway this week. Jacques Larente teamed Merry Dream to first place in the $2,000 Williamstown Stake Pace in 2:11 to win by two lengths. Her sister came in strong to finish third.

Both the fillies got away to a bad start but rallied after the first turn to finish going away. This puts the Dugre name back in racing circles since his brother Lucien has sold stock, and barrel, so to speak. His health forced him to do so but we understand that he is on the gain now since passing a few days in the hospital.

Our American friends don't miss a trick when it comes to publicity. They called us to give us the low-down in the race which was greatly appreciated. It is a shame that some of our own don't think along these lines. It would certainly help matters and let the people know what is going on. Congratulations Ivan for your recent success with your fillies.

Sorry we didn't get the news earlier but Joe Leblanc won the Theford Open last Sunday when he posted a neat 70 on the tricky nine-hole layout. Rodolphe Huot of Royal Quebec finished second, six strokes behind the leader. Andre Maltais and Bert Trepanier of East Angus paced the amateurs with 72's which is nice shooting. Congratulations to the winners.

Quebec Aces Are 60% Stronger Than Last Year, Says Manager Jack Toupin

QUEBEC (CP)—Manager Jack Toupin figures his Quebec Aces are going to bounce from last place right into a playoff spot in the American Hockey League this year.

"We're 60 per cent stronger than we were last year," says Toupin.

A year ago, Aces were accepted into the league just two weeks before the season started. "It was tough because I couldn't get the players I wanted," said Toupin. "I only had seven I felt were really good enough for the league. But this year I've got everything I want."

"If we work together we'll at least make the playoffs. That would be something good for a team only two years in the league. It would be something you don't see very often."

With spirited fans and a healthy bankroll behind them, the Aces are going to bounce from last place right into a playoff spot in the American Hockey League this year.

They include new playing-coach Fleming Mackell, late of Boston Bruins. His appearance has permitted Toupin — who coached last year — to concentrate on managing alone.

Danny Lewicki, acquired from the Toronto Maple Leafs organization, is the only player who didn't appear when training camp opened Sept. 14. He still hasn't been heard from.

In their first season Quebec was last in the standings with 19 wins and two ties in 72 games. But they were first at the box office with 205,000 paid attendance and management forecasts 250,000 attendance this year at the 12,000-seat coliseum.

Pittsburg Pirates' pennant champagne still in ice bucket

Bob Buhl, Ernie Broglio, two right-handers give Pirates more trouble as Buhl pitches a five-hitter for Braves

By ED WILKS

Bob Buhl and Ernie Broglio, a couple of right-handers who have given Pittsburgh trouble all season, combined Friday to keep the Pirates' pennant champagne on ice.

The Bucs, who have waited 33 years for a National League pennant party, have to wait a bit longer because Buhl pitched a five-hitter that gave the now-dead Milwaukee Braves a 2-1 victory and ended Pittsburgh's winning streak at six.

That left the Pirates with six games to play and a magic number of two over the second-place Cardinals, who stayed alive with a pair of 5-1 victories at Chicago. Broglio won the opener of the doubleheader with a five-hitter against the Cubs for his 21st victory, tying Milwaukee's Warren Spahn for the major-league lead.

Buhl's victory was his third over Pittsburgh in four decisions. He and Broglio, who has a 4-0 record against the Bucs, are the only two pitchers who have beaten Pittsburgh three times as starters this season. The Cards' Ron Kline, an ex-Buc, is the only other pitcher to beat the Pirates three times, once in relief.

CARDS' CHANCES SLIM

The Cardinals, trailing by six games with eight games left, have only a ghost of a chance to catch the Pirates, even after winning six of their last seven and 14 of 18. Any combination of two—a pair of Pirate victories, a Buc victory and a Cardinal defeat, or two St. Louis losses—wraps up Pittsburgh's first flag since 1927 and pops the champagne.

Philadelphia defeated Cincinnati 6-1 in the only other NL game scheduled.

Milwaukee defeated the Pirates for only the sixth time in 17 games when Chuck Cottier, a 233 hitter, plunked a single to centre in the seventh inning, moved up on Buhl's sacrifice and scored on Del Crandall's bad-hop single off the glove of shortstop Dick Schofield. That beat Red Witt (1-2), who gave up the other run on Billy Bruton's 12th home run.

Buhl (15-9), winning his first since he beat Pittsburgh 7-1 three weeks ago, lost the lead after blanking the Bucs on one hit until the fifth inning. Then Bill Virdon's two-out double tied it after singles by Don Hoak and Schofield.

Broglio (21-7) became the first to win 21 for St. Louis since 1946, when left-hander Howie Pollet, now the Cards' pitching coach, won his 21st in a pennant play-off with Brooklyn. Broglio, certainly a top choice as the league's sophomore of the year, is 15-5 as a starter and 6-2 in relief. He didn't win as a starter until Memorial Day.

WHITE PROVIDES POWER

This victory was the fifth in a row for Broglio, 25, who extended his shutout string over the Cubs to 24 innings before they scored in the seventh on three singles and an infield out. Bill White had put it away by then, driving in the Cards' first four runs off Glen Hobbie (14-20), three with his 16th home run.

Card rookie Ray Sadecki (9-8) then gave up just five hits in the second game, which was held to seven innings by darkness at Chicago's lightless Wrigley Field. Ken Boyer knocked in three runs, one with his 31st home run, off Seth Morehead (2-9).

A single by Tony Gonzalez broke a 1-1 tie for the Phils in a four-run eighth inning capped by Pancho Herrera's two-run homer off Bob Purkey (17-10). John Buzhardt (5-16) won it, after John Buzhardt (5-16) won it, after losing 11 in a row.

Dr. Roger Moffatt And Al Caplan
Named Vice-Presidents Of Newly Formed Depression Hockey League

Dr. Roger Moffatt and Al Caplan accepted positions as vice-presidents of the Depression Hockey League, stated Eugene Lalonde, president of the newly formed circuit, last evening.

Caplan is well known in local sporting circles and his addition to the league will add considerable strength to the executive. Dr. Moffatt is no new comer to hockey having served with QAHA prior to coming to Sherbrooke. He is a member of the Saguenay District and acted as vice-president.

A meeting of the league has been called for Monday evening at the King George Hotel at 7:30 where plans for the coming season will be discussed. One big item will be the changing the league name as the "Depression Hockey League" is registered at Quebec by the Montreal body.

With the acceptance of Dr. Moffatt and Al Caplan the executive is now complete and Monday evening all team managers are asked to be on hand. Several sportsmen have been approached to take over the clubs and they are, Georges Masse, Guy Donahue, Rene Laffleur and Raymond Bergeron. These team presidents will pick their own coaches.

The league will play their games at the Arena on Tuesday and Thursday evenings when the Sherbrooke Beavers are away. They will be doubleheaders commencing at 7:30.

Special forms will be required from all players who wish to play in the league. They will supply the uniforms, sticks and tape. Special rules will be established and all players will be required to follow them strictly.

Harry Jerome Comes Up With Same Story As Joe Mullins, Must Have Read Same Script Regarding Coaches

By JACK SULLIVAN

Two years ago Joe Mullins returned to Canada from the British Empire Games at Cardiff, Wales, with a batch of bees about Canadian officials. They were incompetent, he said, and the coaches were "lacking in ability."

Harry Jerome was old enough to read at the time. He must have remembered Melancholy Mullins' ruminations because the 19-year-old Vancouver sprinter returned from the Olympic Games last week with essentially the same complaints.

It isn't surprising when you look at their performances.

At Cardiff, Mullins, a native of Glace Bay, N.S. and a student at the University of Nebraska, ran a poor 880 yards and was eliminated in the first round. Jerome, co-holder of the world record of 10 seconds flat for 100 metres, was an aloof and rude young man but with a manner that certainly wouldn't win friends.

He ran respectable 10.5 and 10.4 first- and second-round hurdles but with the pressure on in the semi-final Jerome pulled up lame at the half-way mark. He had a wobbly start and was last by about a yard in the field of six when he hobbled off the track.

In a race where a yard or so is an almost insurmountable lead—and particularly in such a class field—it is doubtful whether an injury-free Jerome could have made the qualifying first three and given Canada its first 100-metre finalist since 1928. He was a penitent young man after the race, but the people he had snubbed didn't rush around to sympathize with him. On his arrival in Vancouver, he rushed into print with what he—a first-time Olympics competitor—felt was wrong with the Canadian setup.

"Some officials," he said, were "real nice and helpful" but others "just went along for the ride." Track coach Harold Brown of Toronto "isn't my type of coach" and "he did nothing whatsoever for my track attitude."

Mullins had said Canadian officials "spent more time in reception parlors than in taking care of athletes who were presumably under their care" and that the coaches "knew nothing . . . about training methods and so on."

What these young men seem to forget is that they are adults—Mullins was 21 two years ago—and that, as British Empire and Olympic athletes, they aren't sent to far-away places to be coddled by officials.

Coaches are sent along merely as policemen, to make sure that athletes under their care aren't there for the joyride and that they must keep in condition. They can't—and don't attempt—to change styles or to adopt new training methods for individual athletes.

One of the main duties of a track coach is to decide, after workouts, the best order of legs for the relays. Another, is to try to instil confidence in the athletes.

Now, if Master Jerome will put his mouth where his spikes belong, Canada might have a world champion. Or possibly a medalist in the 1964 Olympics at Tokyo.

Warriors Notify
NHL Clubs About
50-Mile Radius

WINNIPEG (CP)—Jack Perrin, owner and general manager of Winnipeg Warriors of the Western Hockey League, said Friday he is notifying New York Rangers and Toronto Maple Leafs they may not operate sponsored junior hockey teams within a 50-mile radius of Greater Winnipeg.

Perrin told a press conference because of "lack of co-operation" with his professional club the two National Hockey League clubs will not be allowed to sponsor junior clubs in this area as they have in the past. Leafs have sponsored Winnipeg Monarchs and the New York club sponsored Winnipeg Rangers in the Manitoba Junior League.

Perrin said he is stopping the sponsorship under terms of the Professional Affiliation Agreement, which gives a professional team territorial rights on players within a 50-mile radius of the city in which it operates, and halts other pro teams from operating sponsored teams in that area without permission.

Perrin sponsors two teams—Winnipeg Braves and St. Boniface Canadiens—in the five-team MJHL.

Stamps Face
Tough Weekend

Calgary Stampede will have a better idea after this week-end's action whether they will be in or out when playoff time rolls around in the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

Stampede, in fourth place with four points, face British Columbia Lions in Calgary Saturday night. Lions hold the third and last playoff position with seven points.

The Stampede then travel to Regina for a game Monday against the last-place Saskatchewan Roughriders, who have their only point this year from a tie with Calgary in the first league game. In other Monday action the league's two "giants," Winnipeg Blue Bombers and Edmonton Eskimos, tangle in Winnipeg.

Als Face Argos In Montreal Today
In What Should Be Real Battle As Both Clubs Gunning For A Victory

MONTREAL — The big game is today. It's a big game for both the Alouettes and the Argos, as the Alouettes will be striving to dump Toronto into second place and at the same time equal the distance between the two clubs.

Toronto, who blasted off to 5 straight wins before running into 2 losses at the hands of the Ottawa Rough Riders, will come to town with a win in mind. In their last meeting, the Alouettes felt they should have had the victory, although the Argos sneaked through with a 29 to 28 win in the last minute of play. Since the Argos are under the gun from two straight losses by Ottawa, they can be counted on to be as rough as their opening game.

The Alouettes by the same token are fighting mad about the one point losses to Toronto and Hamilton and will be out to prove they can win handily. Sam Etchevery would like nothing better than to get back his passes completed record from Toronto. In the first meeting of the season, the Argos, behind the arm of ex NFL great Tobin Rote, set a new pass completion record. Etchevery, with enough pride to fill a wash tub, can be counted on to get this record back to the Alouettes if possible.

Although the Alouettes go into Saturday's battle without the services of George Deiderich, Bill Shipp, Wes Gideon and Ron Nietupski, the replacements for them have felt the fruits of victory over Hamilton last week-end and can be expected to perform 100%. Charlie and Ray Baillie played an important part in the 30 to 29 win over Hamilton last Saturday and are raring to go against the Argos. Ross Buckle and Ted Elsy, who played exceptionally well last week, are anxiously awaiting a crack at Rote and his gentlemen from Toronto.

Sherbrooke Parachuting Centre To Be Hosts To Three Clubs At Windsor,
Special Exhibition To Be Given

The Sherbrooke Parachuting Centre will play hosts to three visiting clubs tomorrow in a special demonstration at the Windsor Mills Airport.

The Montreal Sky Divers, St. Hyacinthe Parachute Club and the Quebec Sky Birds will be on hand to stage an exhibition of jumping with the Sherbrooke Centre. Weather permitting the members will stage their activities throughout the day.

The local enthusiasts who have witnessed jumps during the summer weekends when the Sherbrooke Club staged such events will see how the sport has progressed throughout the Province. Some of the jumpers have plenty of experience.

Several different kinds of jumping will be seen. A "static line jump" is one where the parachute opens automatically when the jumper leaves the plane. A "free fall jump" is one where the parachutist opens the chute himself. He leaves the plane at around 7,200 feet and will open it around 2,200 feet which is the minimum altitude at which all parachutes should open.

During the "free-fall" the member is falling at approximately 120 M.P.H. or maximum velocity whereas after the parachute has opened the rate of descent is about 12 M.P.H. which is quite a difference.

The members of all three clubs have been jumping for several years and are rated with the best in the country. They stage exhibitions throughout the Province at all special events and furnish the public with some thrilling moments.

Freddie Hutchinson Is Rehired As Manager Of Cincinnati Redlegs To Become Second NL Manager To Sign

CINCINNATI (AP)—Signing of Freddie Hutchinson to another one-year contract as manager of Cincinnati Reds Friday was no surprise, but a statement by general manager Gabe Paul gave a routine event a new twist.

"In my opinion, managers get too much blame when they lose, and too much credit when they win," Paul said.

However, Gabe in announcing Hutchinson's retention, said he thought Hutch had done a good job this season despite the sixth position in the National League in which the club is buried.

Hutchinson was the second National League manager to get a new contract. Solly Hemus of St. Louis Cards, is the other.

Hutchinson became manager of the team on July 8, 1959. The team was in seventh place at the time, but it finished in fifth position. Hutch succeeded Mayo Smith.

Paul outlined his views on field management this way:

"It is a much more difficult job for a manager to retain his balance and continue to control his club when a club does not do as well as expected."

"It is very easy to manage when everything is rolling."

"In my opinion, a manager gets too much blame when they lose and too much credit when they win."

"Many times a better managerial job is done in a situation like ours than when a club is exceeding expectations, because the manager does not have to contend with the frustrations and disappointments of the individual players. Discouragement is the enemy of the player and the team."

Then Paul praised Hutchinson with these words:

"Through many difficult situations and periods, Hutch has continued to be the boss and that's why I think he's done a good job."

The Yankees, shut out on five hits by Bill Muffett (6-4) for seven innings, came from behind in a five-run eighth, which began with an error by shortstop Don Buddin. A double by Hector Lopez tied things 1-1 and Roger Maris broke it up with a single. New York sent 11 men to the plate in the rally, collecting six hits and a walk.

Bob Turley, removed for a pinch-hitter in the sixth, was the winner for a 9-3 record after giving up three hits and an earned run. Bobby Shantz mopped up.

The White Sox rolled behind Wynn (13-10) with Ted Kuszewski hitting a home run and driving in three runs and Minnie Minoza rapping a pair of doubles.
