INDUSTRIAL BOOM AFTER WAR ALREADY INDICATED GEORGE S. MOONEY STATES

Addresses Regular Weekly Luncheon Meeting of Westmount Rotary Club — Says Montreal Now At Peak of its Industrial Progress — Sees Prospect of Migratory Movement of British and European Industry Here

Many indications already point to an industrial boom after the war is over, George S. Mooney stated while addressing the regular weekly luncheon meeting of the Westmount Rotary Club in Victoria Hall yesterday.

The speaker said that Montreal which is, and always has been the industrial centre of Canada, should take this opportunity to "place its homes in order lest such opportunities pass them by".

Montreal, in 1940, is at the peak of its industrial progress. It is playing a dominant part—from some points of view the leading part—in Canada's effort to provide supplies for the Empire at war. This is a development that could hardly be otherwise. The nature of much of the city's industrial plant facilities lends itself naturally to war production. The unique facilities of rail and ocean terminals expedites prompt shipment of goods. Vast power reserves give assurance that there will be no slowing down of the wheels of industry and back of all these stands probably the greatest industrial asset, Labor, Mr. Mooney said.

As for the future, the speaker said there are certain straws in the wind, and some evidence of possible post-war conditions which are likely to affect industrial activity in the Dominion.

"The project of a migratory movement of British and European industry to canada after the war is a subject upon which there is a variety of opinion," he said. "But there is some evidence to support the proposition that at least some industries are contemplating such a move. I am divulging no secrets when I tell you that during recent months our office has been in touch with a number of English companies who have been making enquiries with a view to establishing branch plants in Canada. At this very moment we are holding conversations with reprenstatives of one of the largest associations of manufacturers in England, who do a heavy export business to the United States. During recent months their deliveries have been uncertain, and they desire to establish branch plants in Canada, wholly with the view to producing for their United States export business. As has been intimated in the daily press, one of the main objects of the impending visit of the Honourable C. D. Howe to the Old Country is to discuss with the British Government the possibility of Canadian industry being utilized to supplement the British industrial output during the war period.

"Admittedly, British industry without being destroyed by bombings, is being interrupted, and while the resolute spirit of the British insures rapid repairs and rebuilding, there is no assurance that the restored structures will not be bombed again, and so it has been suggested that it may be regarded as more economic in the long run to transfer to Canada

50 SOLDIERS ENTERTAINED AT Y BRANCH

Men From Many Centres of World Hosts of Westmount Women's Club

Aprroximately 50 men on active service, including members of the Royal Canadian Air Force and eight military units were entertained at the Westmount Y.M.C.A. by the Westmount Women's Club on Sunday afternoon.

Among the men were natives of the United States, New Zealand, Australia, British Guiana, England, and every province in Canada.

Neil Compton of the Y.M.C.A. Military Services acted as master of ceremonies while Miss Colin Forrest was in charge of entertainment. Mrs. Blair Gordon was chairman of the refreshment committee, Miss Clarke poured tea, and Mrs. T. H. Thompson and Miss Claudson, members of the refreshment committee, also officiated.

Entertainments for the men on active service are sponsored by the local "Y" every Sunday afternoon, and a wide schedule of activities is maintained during the week.

TRUCK STRIKES REAR OF TAXI

When its wheels failed to grip on a slippery grade a truck operated by Richard Perault, of 5470 Western avenue, skidded into the rear of a taxi driven by John L. Audet, of 4177 Berri street, on Roslyn avenue north of Westmount avenue, at 2.30 p.m. on Thursday.

Perault told police that he noticed the car ahead but although he applied his brakes he could not avoid colliding with it. Mudguards and bumpers on both vehicles were damaged.

Dickens Fellowship Will Hold Christmas Affair

The Spirit of Christmas will reign in Victoria Hall, Westmount, on Tuesday evening (December 17) when the Dickens Fellowship hold their annual "Tiny Tim" Night, one of the highlights of their winter schedule.

For the occasion an ambitious and appropriate program has been arranged by Whitfield Aston, who has been delegated by the President, Arthur H. Carter, to convene this Christmas meeting.

The choir of Wesley United Church, Notre Dame de Grace, under the leadership of J. G. W. Rendall, will render appropriate Christmas music, and will also lead the audience in the singing of the more popular Christmas carols and hymns.

A seasonable one-act play, "A Christmas Love," written by Edie Ainger, will be presented under the direction of this talented young author.

By special request, Mr. Aston will submit a number of his popular Dickensian impersonations, including those immortal creations, Wilkins Micawber of "David Copperfield"; Sergeant Buzfuz, counsel for the plaintiff in the celebrated breach of promise action, "Bardell versus Pickwick"; and Ebenezer Scrooge, the miser, who is reformed by the Spirits of Christmas in "A Christmas Carol."

Mr. Aston will also be seen in a short phantasy prepared by himself, entitled "Tiny Tim meets the Spirit of Christmas Present."

In honor of the occasion the hall will be gaily decorated by the Fellowship. There will be an illuminated Christmas tree, beneath which the members of the Fellowship, who will be received by Tiny Tim and Santa Claus, will deposit their gifts for the less fortunate children of the community. It may be noted in passing that the Dickens Fellowship ranks among the pioneers of Christmas philanthropy in this community, as Christmas giving has been a feature of their December meetings for upwards of thirty years.

City To Again Have Skiing Instructor

LAST RESPECTS ARE PAID LATE MRS. NICHOLSON

Funeral Service Held Yesterday Afternoon in St. Andrew's Church

Final tribute was paid to Mrs. J. A. Nicholson yesterday afternoon when the funeral service was held in St. Andrew's Church. Mrs. Nicholson died at her home, 4021 Dorchester Street West on Monday following an illness of two weeks. She was in her 80th year.

Formerly Miss Katherine Isabel McLean, she was a native of Eldon, Prince Edward Island, and had been a resident of Montreal for 47 years.

Her Husband, Dr. J. A. Nicholson, former registrar of McGill University, died on October 8.

She is survived by two sons, Col. William C. Nicholson, and Major J. Gordon Nicholson, both well known local lawyers, and one daughter, Miss Emily Nicholson, also of this City.

Burial took place in Mount Royal Cemetery.

CARS DAMAGED IN COLLISION

Both vehicles were slightly damaged when an automobile driven by Charles W. B. Robinson, of 2068 Sherbrooke street, Apt. 5, and a truck operated by Hector Fauteux, of 293 Bourget street, collided at the intersection of Forden and Montrose avenues at 8 p.m. on Saturday.

According to information obtained by police the accident occurred when the car, which was travelling west on Montrose, collided with the truck as it entered the intersection from north on Forden.

Mudguards and bumpers on the machines were damaged but no one was injured.

AFTER WINTER STORM LASHED GREAT LAKES

The ice-laden bridge of the freighter "Joseph Block" gives a clue to the fury of freak winter storms which swept Great Lake region, paralyzing shipping and killing at least 102. Capt. Howard Kixer, lucky to be alive, stands at his post after maneuvering the limping freighter into Lake Michigan's Indiana Harbor, Ind.

FLASH LORD LOTHIAN DIES SUDDENLY

Lord Lothian, British Ambassador to the United States, died suddenly late last night at the British Embassy in Washington. Up to 10 o'clock this morning no official announcement was made as to the cause of his death or as to the exact time of its occurrence.

Lord Lothian had been working at high pressure since his appointment to the Embassy. First indication that Lord Lothian was sick was made yesterday when it was necessary for an aide to make an address on U.S. aid to Britain scheduled to have been delivered by the Ambassador.

J. PATTERSON NEW PRESIDENT OF GRADUATES

Officers Elected at Inaugural Meeting of Boys Brigade Association

The inaugural meeting of the Westmount Boys Brigade Graduates Association for the 1940-41 season was held in the Hall of Melville Church early this week.

The main business of the meeting consisted in forming an executive and discussing plans for the coming year.

It was felt that owing to the many commitments of members in both N.P.A.M. and C.A.S.F. units the program should be limited to the recreational field, and the plan of forming two hockey teams was unanimously approved. Several new members were welcomed by the chairman and it was decided to replace members who had proceeded overseas by several old friends of the organization who might eventually receive training as B. B. Officers.

Election of an executive was held with the following results: President, James Patterson; treasurer, W. Mulligan; secretary, J. W. Jeffrey; sports directors, H. Taylor and T. Mulligan.

A brief address was given on the aims of the organization by Cpl. Jeffrey. In it he voiced his confidence in the ability of the Association to carry on during the difficult days ahead, and expressed his belief that it would form the nucleus of a city wide organization at the termination of the war.

EXPERT PASSES AWAY AFTER LONG ILLNESS

William Bell Cartmel, Claremont Avenue, Enjoyed High Esteem in Profession — Radio Research

The passing of William Bell Cartmel, Claremont avenue, brings recollections of the earliest days of radio, not only in this district but throughout Canada. There are few people in any part of Canada who, in the boom days of home-built radio sets, did not at one time or another use one of the many Cartmel circuits using the famous "Peanut" Tubes. Such circuit drawings were distributed postpaid to any part of the country and resulted in voluminous correspondence between Mr. Cartmel and his usually appreciative clientele.

All questions were answered with patience and understanding of the writer's unfamiliarity with things electrical, and often became a brief correspondence course in electronics.

Mr. Cartmel was born in Liverpool, England, in 1872. After leaving school he entered Woolwich Arsenal as apprentice. He came to the United States in 1893 where seven years later he graduated from Case School of Applied Science in Cleveland, was awarded a Fellowship at the University of Nebraska where his work gained him special recognition, which took him to the Bureau of Standards in Washington. Later he was awarded a Physics Fellowship at Harvard, followed by a call to the University of New Brunswick as Professor of Physics.

In 1911 Professor Cartmel resigned to join the engineering staff of the Northern Electric Company, where he distinguished himself by his knowledge of physics and mathematical skill, which enabled him to cope with the many telephone transmission problems of the development period of this country.

On January 31, 1932, Professor Cartmel retired with pension, to

CONSERVATION SECTION ORGANIZED BY WESTMOUNT BRANCH OF RED CROSS

Unit Seeks Co-operation of Residents in Collecting Waste Material — Will Not Only Help Red Cross But is Genuine Aid in National War Effort — Material Will Be Called For Monthly

The Westmount Branch of the Red Cross has organized a Conservation Department, and is requesting the co-operation of all citizens in the prevention of waste. This activity is not merely a method of raising money for the Red Cross. It is also a genuine contribution to the National war effort, in that the salvage of otherwise waste materials conserves the nation's resources, and helps to release productive capacity for war needs. Every sheet of newspaper, every bottle, every cotton rag and burned-out aluminium tea-kettle rescued from the incinerator or the garbage dump, means just that much more electric power, foreign exchange raw material and skilled labor available for winning the war.

The Red Cross does not wish to infringe in any way upon the resources of other organizations, People who are already contributing salvage to other organizations, such as the Salvation Army, Junior Red Cross, hospitals, etc., are earnestly requested not to discontinue, but rather to redouble their support for these worthy and necessary charities, The Red Cross, in undertaking this activity intends to supplement, and in no way compete with any salvage arrangements already operating, all working for the same end.

Residents of Westmount who are members of the Red Cross groups affiliated with the Westmount Branch are requested to co-operate with their group Conservation Convener. Those who do not belong to such an organization are requested to telephone the Conservation Department at Wellington 2252, and the Red Cross truch will call for 100lb. or more of salvage. These calls are made in Westmount during the first week in every month.

It is requested that new and clean rags, gramophone records and foil of all kinds (clean and in sheets, not rolled in balls,) be brought or sent in to 382 Oliver Avenue.

The following articles will be collected monthly from residences.

Newspapers: To be folded once (9 in. 12 in. approx) and tied in bundles convenient for carrying. A pile of these packages 30 in. high will weigh 100 lbs.

Waste paper: In bags or cartons.

Bottles: All kinds and sizes of bottles, jars and crocks, packed loose in bags or cartons. 4 dozen or more will be called for.

Rags: All kinds in bags or cartons.

Scrap metal: Brass, copper, aluminium, steel and iron scrap of all kinds, in bags and cartons. Please telephone WE. 2252 for the removal of large pieces of old metal, such as stoves, boilers, lengths of pipe.

Old toothpaste and other tubes are being deposited, as heretofore, in the special containers in drug stores and schools. Persons are asked to remove the composition tops before depositing the tubes.

Until December 20th, when the Westmount Branch closes for the Christmas holidays, and after January 6, there will be a representative of the Conservation Department at 382 Oliver Avenue from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. to answer any questions that may arise.

WESTMOUNT, P.Q.

November 19, 1940

The Westmount Examiner

Dear Sir:

With great pleasure the members accept your kind offer to make the Overseas Parcels League part beneficiary in the forthcoming Christmas Sale Campaign for War Charities, along with the Royal St. Lawrence Yacht Club Sea Scouts.

The League's work to meet some of the urgent needs for heavy woollen comforts of the seamen on British minesweepers and trawlers has in the past benefitted by the Examiner's thoughtful publicity given on our behalf. We thank you for this further gesture of goodwill to these unsung "heroes of the sea," and assure you every effort is being made on our part, to steadily increase the output and to deserve the admirable end ever-growing public support we are receiving.

Sincerely yours

(Signed) THEO. WALLGATE.
(Mrs. L. S. Wallgate)

THE OVERSEAS PARCELS LEAGUE

Organized on November 27, 1939, with an original membership of 12, the Overseas Parcels League has grown in mushroom fashion and today has an enrolment of 300. It consists of six units made up for the most part of business girls, and two groups giving all or part of the articles they are making for men on service, to the League.

Its original charter, which it obtained in January, 1940, provides for an annual collection of $500, but already the League has sent over 2,000 articles overseas, including 1,000 heavy, turtle neck sweaters.

ALL ARTICLES ARE SENT TO SEAMEN OF BRITISH MINESWEEPERS AND TRAWLERS

The shipping and insurance is handled by the Canadian Red Cross and the packing is done at Red Cross House, in the league's own, separate boxes, by the wool conveners, Mrs. F. W. Hammond and Mrs. R. B. Heward. They also deliver the wool and pick up articles. The goods are shipped direct to the Women's Voluntary Service Depot, (Seamen's Red Cross) Eng.

The organization of the league is entirely voluntary and it has not paid one cent for overhead, although it maintains a headquarters in room 709 in the Dominion Square Building.

All league members buy their own wool and every cent of money donated is used to purchase other comforts for the men.

It sent its first consignment overseas last January and up until September shipped one lot of articles over each month. Since September, however, it has been able to ship over two consignments monthly, and this number will be maintained from now on. Up to the present time the league has not had a single loss in its shipments.

SINGERS PLAN FINE PROGRAM DECEMBER 19

Cathedral Group To Give Program at Westmount Park Church — Dr. Egerton at Organ

At the concert which the Cathedral Singers are giving under the direction of Phillips Motley on Thursday December 19 at Westmount Park Church at 8.30 p.m. portions of Handel's "Messiah" will be performed — such well-known choruses as "And the Glory of the Lord" and "For unto us a child is born," and the Arias "Every valley," sung by William Morton, tenor, and "The People that walked in darkness" by J. C. Scott, baritone.

The main work to be performed is Bach's Christmas Oratorio, which has rarely, if ever, been heard in Montreal. It consists of six parts, originally intended to be sung on the days succeeding Christmas. The narrative is related by a tenor soloist, singing in typical "dry recitative." This is interrupted repeatedly by brilliant choruses, reflective arias, and the tender beautiful chorales, in which the congregation of Bach's time would join.

The work commences with a particularly exhuberant example of Bach's choral writing - "Christians be joyful." This is followed by recitative, chorales, arias, the Pastoral Symphony, the lullaby for contralto "Slumber, beloved," the tremendous chorus of the angels "Glory to God in the Highest." The portion to be rendered by the Cathedral Singers ends with a chorale "With all Thy Hosts, O Lord, we sing" which is superimposed on the bass figure of the Pastoral Symphony, doubtless intended to show that both angels and shepherds are joining in the praise of the new-born Messiah.

The other soloists will be Dorothy Hill, soprano, and Grace Cowan, contralto. Dr. Arthur Egerton will be the organist and the continuo part will be played on the piano by Thomas Hudson.

Canadian Club To Hold Xmas Party

Monday evening being the occasion of the Christmas Party of the Young Men's Canadian Club, that other noted Christmas "party," Santa Claus, will be the guest of honour. Among contributors to the program, in addition to the "frivolities" arranged by the committee, are Dunbar, the Singing Scotchman, and Max Ford, the noted Y.M.C.A. entertainer. Kenneth F. McNamee, president, will be in the chair.

Rev. J. A. Johnston To Preach Sermon Sunday

"Lead on, O King Eternal!" This will be the theme of Rev. J. A. Johnston's sermon in the Westmount Baptist Church on Sunday morning. "Christ somes to us, not only as Redeemer and Saviour, but as Leader and Commander. It is becoming increasingly evident that the only hope for our tortured world lies in Christ's Leadership and Christ's Programme, realized through Christ's Power," Rev. Johnston stated.

In the evening the sermon will be entitled: "Faces that Appear in the Glowing Fire." "God, who commanded light to shine out of darkness, hath shined in our hearts to give the light of the knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Jesus Christ."

On Sunday, December 22nd. Westmount Baptist Church will hold its Annual Candle-Lit Christmas Service. On this occasion the congregation will witness a beautiful and impressive scene amid baptismal waters.

The squad medal for November was again won by the 1st Squad under Sgt. Robert Morrow. This squad has shown remarkable alertness. Second in line was the band, which has tried for the past two months to make the grade.

Battalion swimming tests will be taken during the Christmas holidays and all boys desirous of applying for either certificate or badge should report to Staff1Sgt. Wm. Mulligan tomorrow night. Entries must be in not later than December 20th.

Montgomery was awarded a large crest for the recruiting campaign, and Ptes. Edwin Goring and Russell Edwards each received ski-cap crests for their endeavours in the same campaign.

The Life Boys are asked to be at Melville Church, Sunday morning at not later than ten minutes to eleven. Their leaders will see that they are in readiness to follow the Brigade into Church and immediately following the service, several awards will be made, which have been withheld until this special occasion. FRIENDSHIP OF YEARS BROKEN IN TWO DEATHS

Thomas McKeon and Moses Roberts Had Been Life-Long Friends—Die Same Day

A son of Mr. Roberts died early last week, and the funeral service was held last Friday. Both Mr. McKeown and Mr. Roberts attended the final rites.

At the conclusion of the service Mr. Roberts was walking along Sherbrooke street and dropped dead in front of Bleau and Rosseau's store.

On learning of the death of Mr. Roberts his life long friend, Mr. McKeown dropped five minutes later as he was entering his home.

Funeral service for Mr. Roberts took place on Monday afternoon and for Mr. McKeown on Tuesday.

Announcement was made this week that Canon Gilbert S. Oliver, M.C., appointed to the chaplain services of the Royal Canadian Air Force, is now an honorary squadron leader in command of the No. 3 Training Command which extends from Eastern Ontario to the Maritimes.

Canon Oliver was rector of St. Matthias Church and is now on of leave of absence from the diocese for the duration of the war.

Veteran of the Great War in which he saw distinguished service, Canon Oliver's promotion is one of the fastest on record, He was appointed pilot officer, and promoted honorary flight lieutenant and honorary squadron leader, all on the same day, last October 24. Actually his appointment as command chaplain carries the rank of squadron leader but he was required to go through the formalities of promotion through the various grades.

FREAKS OF THE MARTIAL STORM

American newspaper readers have grown accustomed to seeing freak damage pictures on the domestic front as cyclone, tornado, and flood have swept various sections of the U. S. Now the grim blasts of war are making such pictures a familiar sight to readers everywhere. Here, culled from the daily pile of war pictures, are two such photos from London. At left, bomb has ripped lower floors away, leaving top floor of this apartment building perfectly intact. At right, hats and coats hang, unscathed, on their hooks, but the rooms they were in have been completely carried away by Nazi bombs.

High Home And School Association Article

The following articles entitled "Education for Business," has been written for the Examiner by Donald Smith and is another in the series sponsored by the Westmount High Schools Home and School Association.

Commercial education was gradually developed due to the breakdown of the apprenticeship system of qualifying persons for business positions. Under this system a boy entered a firm and spent his time in laborious copying of figures and letters until he obtained a rudimentary knowledge of the office routine and the principles of business.

If he intended to become a bookkeeper he was made assistant to the housekeeper who showed him how to enter transactions in the sales and purchase journals. Through the years he was gradually initiated into the mysteries of posting and the preparation of statements. It was frequently the case that our friend obtained the ability to handle a set of books in a mechanical fashion without any knowledge of the reason for doing so.

As the number of business houses increased and the volume of business transacted daily by these concerns grew, means of increasing the clerk's speed and efficiency were studied. During the nineteenth century Isaac Pitman devised a series of symbols which could be written swiftly and read accurately. For his work in this field he was knighted. In the same century, creative genius developed the adding machine, the typewriter, the stock ticker, and numerous other aids well known in their modern form to the business man of today.

With the increased usage of these aids came the need of persons trained to use them; for no longer could the employer afford to spend the time required to teach his apprentices the knowledge and skills necessary for them to carry out their various duties speedily and efficiently.

Business education was developed to give persons sufficient training to enter an office and carry out their duties with a minimum of instruction and supervision by their employer or his assistants.

The basis of any course now offered for this purpose consists of typing, bookkeeping, and shorthand, which is frequently supplemented by instruction in the use of common business machines, elementary salesmanship and advertising, general office routine, and often individual tuition to the pupil who is interested in a special field; e.g. insurance, banking, merchandizing, or transportation.

The better business schools offer these subjects in as practical a manner as possible. Formal class teaching is at a minimum, and an attempt is made to have each student carry out definite jobs similar to those performed in the average office. He learns by doing.

The student not only learns the mechanics of the subjects but also their inter-relation, and he acquires the ability to carry out a definite piece of work intelligently and swiftly, alone or in a group, often amid the rattle of typewriters—a sound familiar to all office workers.

The vocational aspects of business training are obvious, but it is the personal relations of the individual to business and of business to him each day of his life that makes for success or failure.

A course which does not offer the student suggestions and criticisms which will aid him in his personal business relations is not fulfilling its obligations.

It is unfortunate that the average person is convinced that no great degree of intelligence is required by a student to succeed in a business course. If a student has not sufficient ability to pass our examinations in his academic subjects, he is shifted to the study of commerce, where it is expected that he will come through with flying colours.

The student who can not obtain a pass by getting half of the questions on an arithmetic examination correct takes a course in bookkeeping — a subject requiring a thorough knowledge of computing and where, in the world of today, 100% accuracy is demanded if the individual is to retain his position. The student who cannot remember words of a foreign language and write a sentence in Latin correctly in four minutes is expected to be able to recall numerous strange hieroglyphics and write them correctly at a minimum speed of 110 words a minute. Similarly for all subjects of a commercial course, the below-average student is asked to do work which is quite difficult for the average pupil.

To remedy this situation, only the better students should be permitted to enter the business course. The selection would be made in the junior high school, the purpose of which is to discover the individual's special abilities. All the students should be given a certain amount of business training just as they now receive instruction in manual training, art, household science, metal work and music. The course could be given in grade nine, possibly two periods a week to business practice and one for typing. From this elementary course the pupil discovers if he likes the work sufficiently to continue, and the teacher discovers if he has the ability to be successful in this field.

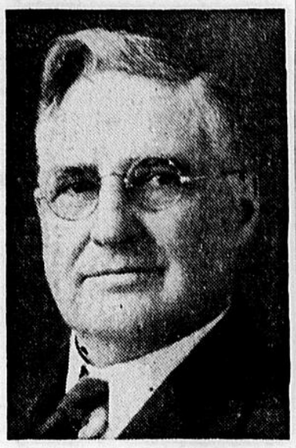

The pupil then continues his academic studies until the completion of grade eleven when he takes a special one-year course or he could take a two-year business course at the high school which combines academic and business

The special intensive course of training for one year would consist of typewriting, shorthand, bookkeeping, office practice and routine, business machines, rapid calculation, correspondence, spelling, business law and elementary economics. At all times the importance of saving time, energy and material would be stressed, for to the office manager these things mean money and the worker who conserves them increases his chances for promotion.

Such a course could become a reality due to the fact that a pupil of seventeen with an academic background equivalent to grade eleven can easily complete a business course in one year which would require at least two years for a pupil just finishing junior high school.

The graduates of such a course would be capable of doing high calibre work and be worthy of a good salary. The school who trained such pupils would increase its prestige, and soon find itself besieged by employers quick to recognize the value.

Compliment?

A lady had been looking for a friend for a long time without success. Finally, she came upon her in an unexpected way.

"Well," she exclaimed, I've been on a perfect wild goose chase all day long, but thank goodness, I've found you at last!"—Montreal Star.

WESTMOUNT, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 12, 1940

PRAISE FOR CANADA.

During the past week, more praise for Canada's methods in warfare has come from two widely separated sources. First, the British press was unanimous in praise of our gesture in putting scores of cotten items on the free list as far as Britain is concerned; and second, the American Magazine, in its December issue carries a glowing tribute to the Canadian Prime Minister, and his administration of Canada's war effort. The tribute appropriately coincides with the Premier's birthday—he will be sixty-seven on Tuesday, next. The article sums up Mr. King's methods of governing by quoting some of his own words: "The ship of state is not a steamship that can be driven right through to its destination; it is a sailing vessel, subject to every wind that blows. Frequently it is necessary to drop anchor and ride out a storm. Sometimes it has to be taken off its course to avoid shoals. The important thing is never to forget the port to which it is sailing."

WOMEN'S ECONOMIC IMPORTANCE.

For twenty-five years the feminine influence on Western life has mounted into a dominance over every sphere but that of politics, writes Roy Helton in Harper's Magazine. And even in politics its influence is absolute as to the direction of our purposes. Unquestionably we are a politer people than we were at the turn of the century. The cuspidor has been eliminated from all but the most reactionary of our remoter hotels and bar-rooms. The cigarette has largely replaced the cigar and the plug. With infinite patience and resolution men have been manoeuvred into a position where it is impossible for them to think of anything but women and their wants between the end of each day's work and its beginning the following morning. And it is those wants which with increasing authority have given form to our culture.

In Canada women have reached a dominant place in the consideration of all sales organizations, and are fast becoming an important factor in business and finance. They control forty per cent of Canada's wealth, and more than fifty per cent of its buying power. They spent more than seventy per cent of the family income—$919,000,000 a year. They control Canada's largest single industry—housekeeping—which is equivalent to five other industries in point of investment, people employed, and annual expenditures. They constitute twenty per cent of the gainfully employed workers, and carry home $5,000,000 in pay envelopes every week. They represent nearly one-third of the Bank of Canada shareholders, and are becoming an increasingly important factor in the investment field. They constitute sixty per cent of the savings bank depositors, and they save ten per cent of their wages. They receive seventy-one per cent of all estates left by men, and sixty-four per cent of all estates left by women. And they are the beneficiaries of eighty per cent of all insurance estates. Half of all working women have dependents.

CHALLENGE OF THE PRESS

"What are you, the public, going to do with the world we have to write about"?—was the answer a newspaperman gave when asked "What are you going to do for news when the war is over?" The public—the people—are news. What happens to them is news. Behind the greatest headlines, whether it be war—an earthquake—a flood—a Royal visit, are people. From the humble homeless to reigning monarchs there is a story that people create and the press publishes and gives back to the people:

To Canadians what happens in Canada is of utmost importance. Canada is dear to them because it is their homeland. The people are Canada. What they do, the way they live, moulds this nation. It depends upon what you and I are and what we do daily that will shape the destiny of this young and great nation and make the news for our papers to print. We can be "Public Enemy No. 1" in our nation and the headlines by creating destruction, broken homes, panic and hate. Or we can be "Nation Builder No. 1" creating united homes, by being panic proof ourselves, by being honest in business and by simply loving our neighbor as ourselves. What you and I are, multiplied a million times, so is our nation. We each have a part for we are each a part of Canada.

THE FORUM

In Which Subjects of General Interest Are Discussed

The opinions expressed in this Forum are not necessarily those of this newspaper and it does not accept responsibility for them.

In 1920 when British workers were struggling to make meager wages meet the inflated cost of living, a Government inquiry was set up to decide on the claims of London dockers for $4 a day and a 44-hour week. A self-taught trade unionist, whose formal schooling stopped when he was 11 years old, Bevin, now Minister of Labor, argued the docker's case against Sir Lynden Macassey, a superlatively smooth, K.C. Having won the case, Bevin was nicknamed by the press, "the docker's K.C." Bevin objected saying: "I'm not the docker's K.C., I'm Ernest Bevin, P.C.—Counsel for the Proletariat." —Allan A. Michie in Life.

Hon. Ernest Bevin, minister of Labor, tackled a big job the supplying of labor to re-equip the British Army and prepare against invasion in a hurry. In a few weeks he scrapped many of the gains for labor which had been his life's work. Having battled for a 40-hour week he now asked workers to work seven days a week and to open unionized shops to unskilled, non-union labor and to bar strikes and forbid workers to leave their jobs for others.

He told employers there must not be wage cutting but must be increased wages and pensions, home allowances for trainees' families and numerous other benefits for workers.

Dr. Edward Shillito, British author and lecturer, wrote recently: "There are welcome signs that our thinkers are busy upon the question, "If not the nazi order, what then?" On every hand we hear it proclaimed that we must not be turn to the old order. Mr. Priestley tells us this; so do the Archbishop of York, Dr. Jacks, Canor Marriott, Stanley Union and many others. Rev. Pat McCormick said: "We must get rid of the suspicion that Christianity is bound up with an order of society in which many of the younger generation have completely lost confidence."

Friendly business relations between St. Louis and thirteen southern Illinois coal counties have been endangered since St. Louis restrictions against Illinois soft coal accompanied smoke control agitation and legislation. The human issue arises from a conflict of needs. St. Louis seeks to end the ill health which comes from living under a smoke blanket. The miners of soft coal wish to save their jobs. If there is absolute curtailment of Illinois soft coal 3,250 miners will lose their jobs. Again, as so often, our faulty economic system is to blame, not St. Louis and not the miners.

Keynes, British economist on landing at New York was asked by reporters: "Do you know any parallel in history to this depression?" "Yes," he said, "we call it the Dark Ages, and it has lasted for about five hundred years."

H. G. Mells suggests there is great need of "competent receivers of mankind's bankruptcy."

The longest telephone line in the world extends from Moscow to Khabarovsk, Siberia. It is about 5,600 miles in length.

The word metaphysics originated by a kind of accident. It came not from Aristotle but from the compilers of his works. Since his reflections on these matters followed his observations on "physics" these reflections were designated meta (after) physics.

The capital funds of the United Church of Canada have steadily increased, until at present the total assets of the church amount to $13,000,000.

The last Swedish elections gave the "Keep out of war" policy of the Social Democrats 134 seats out of 230. Socialists were entirely eliminated.

The Writer's Forum, Antioch Press of Antioch College, Yellow Springs, Ohio, is doing a useful piece of work in the cause of good writing. They charge $4 per year for subscriptions and publish only material from subscribers But they pay $4 per page for material accepted and send criticisms with all manuscripts which they return. Subscribers may submit as much material as they wish and receive criticisms of all of it.

Knowing Antioch College as I do I without hesitation recommend The Writer's Forum as a boon to aspiring writers.

Industrial Boom . . .

a portion of such industry. Along with machines and workers.

Whether or not this movement of industry during the war period assumes any large proportions, it is a safe prediction that the close of the war will mark the development in Canada of a considerable amount of new industrial activity, some of which will represent migratory interests from European countries. In the year or two prior to the outbreak of the awr there was a vast movement of industrial capital to Canada, and much of it was in process of being utilized for Canadian development when the war broke out. The kaleidoscope of events leading to the fall of France had the effect of deferring final action in a number of these contemplated new developments, but interest is again being manifested, and at the close of the war I have no doubt much of this idle capital will be put to effective industrial use.

Then too, of course, at the close of the war, Canadian industry will be called upon to play in the reconstruction period that must follow. The amount of physical damage in all countries has been vast, and much of the repair and rehabilitation has been of a temporary nature only.

In addition to the possibility of European industrial migration after the war, the tasks of reconstruction and rehabilitation, in which Canadian industry is likely to play an important part, there will be those purely domestic problems which must be faced up to - problems about which we were on the verge of doing something when the war broke out, and which temporarily have had to be deferred. I refer to such matters as the housing problem." The speaker declared.

Damages By Deer Cost Maine $8,500 Annually

Although Maine is the most productive deer hunting state in New England, the state now pays $8,500 a year to farmers whose crops have been damaged by deer. The Maine Co-operative Wildlife Research units will assist the Department of Inland Fisheries and Game in a study to find some way of controlling the deer, says the United States Fish and Wildlife Service.

The heaviest concentrations of deer are found in areas adjacent to farmlands and not in the remote forested areas, it was reported. The number of deer near the more settled areas has increased each year during the last decade.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICES

"God the Preserver of Man" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon to be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist throughout the world on Sunday, December 15.

The Golden Text is from Proverbs 2: 6, 8. "The Lord giveth wisdom: out of his mouth cometh knowledge and understanding . . He keepeth the paths of judgment and preserveth the way of his saints."

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "And the work of righteousness shall be peace; and the effect of righteousness quietness and assurance for ever." (Isaiah 32, 17).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science text book "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Heaven is not a locality, but a divine state of mind in which all the manifestations of Mind are harmonious and immortal, because sin is not there and man is found having no righteousness of his own, but in possession of "the mind of the Lord," as the Scripture says." (Page 291).

"On Toast" Specials Are Ideal as Breakfast Food

Perfect toast—hot, golden, luscious—starts the day off right! As an all-Canadian breakfast favorite, it probably stacks higher than any other single food.

Did you ever hear of anyone who didn't like toast? Well, neither have I. But I bet you never guessed just why toast tastes so good the very first thing in the morning—

Yes, it's hot and it's crunchy, and its flavor is delicious with your breakfast coffee, tea, or cocoa — it's a swell excuse for jam or marmalade, too. But these aren't the real reasons you crave your morning toast, you know. The fact of the matter, so nutritionists tell us, is that toast is an energy-food (something you need to get going), that sits extremely easily on an empty stomach (something you have at 7 a.m.)

According to Dr. James A. Tobey, prominent health authority, toast is one of our best and most easily digested forms of energy food. What's more, it agrees with practically everyone. This combination of energy-elements and easy digestibility explains, too, why toast has long been on the preferred food list for children and invalids.

For Reducing

When you want to lose weight, toast is an ideal food in your reducing diet — just remember to go lightly on the jam and the butter. The average slice of dry white, whole wheat, or rye toast confains only 65 to 70 calories, in case you're counting them. Yet its mineral and protein content supply with valuable nutriments that you need for good health.

Make It Correctly

Many people are just as particular about the way their breakfast toast is made, as they are about the length of time their eggs are boiled. So here are a few tips on making toast come out the way it's wanted:

Soft, golden toast: use very fresh bread, toast quickly at high heat; spread immediately with softened butter.

Crisp, brown toast: use fresh bread, toast slowly at moderate heat; butter immediately.

Dry, crunchy toast, use bread at least a day old, toast slowly at low heat; butter each slice as eaten.

Serve It Right

If you bring your electric toaster right to the table, you can have the luxury of toast piping hot without a bit of worry. If the toast is made in the kitchen, however, arrange it on a plate in a row of overlapping slices; cover with a warm oven until ready to serve. Leave the crusts on for breakfast toast. And never stack it or it will steam and become soggy, if it isn't eaten at once.

"On Toast" Specials

Ideal for snappy mornings are "on toast" breakfast specials! Butter slices of toast, leave the crusts on if you wish, arrange on a platter or individual plates, and then heap the toast high with fluffy scrambled eggs, hot creamed chipped beef, creamed codfish, or creamed finnan haddie.

CAMP COMMITTEE HELD TEA MEETING

A tea meeting of the Camp Committee of the Council of Jewish Women was held at the home of Mrs. B. H. Rubin, chairman of the committee when plans were discussed for the annual campaign for the camp, located at Lac Fournelle, near Shawbridge, Que. Mesdames C. Shane, W. Rosengarten and H. Hart are the co-chairmen of the campaign. Mrs. Rose Medine is the financial chairman.

It was decided to have a money-raising event in January with Mrs. Rose Medine in charge assisted by Mesdames M. Getz, G. T. Kenny, I. Blackman, S. Pesner, H. Shulman, H. B. Prinsky, J. Weiner, P. Fram, H. Hart, B. Vanderwalde, M. Robinson, F. Beck.

Business pertinent to camp welfare was discussed. Mrs. Joseph Leavitt will lead the Brides' group of the council in follow-up work with council campers. Children often need medical, dental, musical, academic or personality adjustment assistance and this committee will endeavor to guide these girls into the proper channels for such corrective measures.

In appreciation of Mrs. Rubin's chairmanship of the Camp Committee for the past 5 years Mrs. J. J. Jacobs presented her with a silver tray on behalf of the members.

Those attending were Mesdames B. H. Rubin, J. J. Jacobs, W. Rosengarten, J. Leavitt, C. Rosenthall, J. Victor, E. L. Gardner, J. Weiner, H. B. Prinsky, H. Grover, H. Shulman, C. Shane, F. Beck, M. O. Kirsch, M. Getz, Rose Medine, G. T. Kenny, S. Pesner, A. Tencer, A. N. Pesner, B. Vanderwalde, F. Bernstein, I. Blackman, P. Fram, M. Robinson, H. Hart, J. Freedman and Miss Mary Vineberg.

Dresser Sets Are Back, More Useful And More Decorative

NEW BRUSHES AND COMBS ARE EASIER TO KEEP CLEANED

Dresser sets are the big news in smart shops all over the country these days. In a wide variety of modern patterns, new colors and beautiful plastic materials, they take a prominent place among gift items, especially for forehanded Christmas shoppers.

Crystal and clear lucite are used to make handles and frames for some of the loveliest dresser sets. The mirror of one particularly good-looking set has a curved handle. Another, attractively packaged, is of etched crystal. The mirror is rather small and perfectly round. Bristles of the brush and teeth of the comb are white, of course.

LOVELY TO LOOK AT, PRACTICAL TO USE

Speaking of brushes, those included in all 1940-41 dresser sets are as utilitarian as they are handsome. In other words, they were made to be used on the hair and not simply as dressing table ornamentation.

"Undoubtedly, one of the reasons that dresser sets went out of vogue for a few years was because the brushes were pretty but not practical, the combs too difficult to clean," explains a toilet goods and beauty authority of the Cavendish Trading Corporation, an organization of experts who buy merchandise in New York for stores from coast to coast.

"The brushes in today's dresser sets are made to be used. The combs are simple to clean, the mirrors designed to meet the needs of the well-groomed woman who always looks at the back of her hair and hat when she finishes dressing. All will withstand frequent soap and water cleansings as well as everyday use."

GOOD BRUSH DESERVES CARE

At this point, it seems appropriate to list an expert's rules for washing a hairbrush properly:

Put lukewarm (never hot) water and mild soap flakes in a bowl. Then, grasping the brush by its handle, use the bristles to whip up a thick lather in the bowl. When you have whipped long enough to dissolve all of the flakes and the bowl is full of lather, the bristles should be clean. Rinse by holding the brush under the cold water faucet for several minutes. Shake it vigorously, the nplace it on its side on a clean towel and leave until dry.

Never put it face down, or, for that matter, face up. If it won't stay on its side, put a bottle or something behind it for support. Dry in the sunshine whenever possible, but never near a radiator.

DR. BERCOVITCH TO PRESIDE AT 58TH MEETING

Annual Congregational Session To Take Place At Temple Emanu-El Sunday

Dr. Abram Bercovitch, president, will be in the chair when the 58th annual congregational meeting takes place in the Temple Emanu-El Community House, Sunday evening, December 15 at 7 o'clock. The business of the Congregation will be preceded by supper under the auspices of the Sisterhood Committee.

The Child Study and Parent Education Group will meet at the home of Mrs. Samuel Paperman, on December 24, Tuesday afternoon, at which time a Chanukah program will be presented. A paper will be presented by Mrs. David G. Jassby. Mrs. H. J. Stern will preside.

The dramatic group of the school, in conjunction with the music and hebrew departments will present the annual Chanukah program on the morning of December 22. Miss Francis Katz, Miss Ann Dasheff, Herbert Stern and Bernard Figler are co-operating on arrangements. Chanukah Candelabra and Chanukah lights may be purchased through the Temple office. The annual distribution of Chanukah gifts will be made by the Sisterhood committee to the pupils of the religious school.

On Friday evening, December 27, a Chanukah Sabbath service will be held to which members of His Majesty's Forces are invited. After the service, an Oneg Shabbat with special Chanukah entertainment will take place in the Temple Community House. The committee on religion headed by Mesdames M. Margolick and J. N. Neumann will be in charge.

As is the custom yearly, the Social Service Committee of the Brotherhood will distribute baskets of food for the neediest Jewish families in the city.

Recently Dr. Stern addressed the Commercial High School; the O.E.A. Clergy Club; and this coming week he is scheduled to speak at the Beth David Synagogue Oneg Shabbat and the Gyro Club.

This past week-end, Dr. Emanuel Gamoran, director of Education, Union of American Hebrew Congregations, has conducted Seminars for the teachers of the Temple School, which proved most provocative. Teachers from other synagogues also attended. Dr. Gameron was the guest of the Educational Department of the Temple.

For That Midnight Lunch

The midnight lunch will never be a drab affair so long as there is a piece of Angel Lemon Roll left in the house. A sandwich, a cup of tea or coffee, and a liberal serving of this delightful cake should please even a finicky mother-in-law. If you don't believe me, try this recipe:

Angel Lemon Roll

½ cup sifted cake flour; ½ cup egg whites; ⅛ teaspoon salt; ½ teaspoon cream of tartar; ½ cup, plus 2 tablespoons, sifted granulated sugar; ¼ teaspoon vanilla; ⅛ teaspoon almond extract.

Sift flour once, measure, and sift four more times. Beat egg whites and salt with flat wire whisk. When foamy, add cream of tartar and continue beating until eggs are stiff enough to hold up in peaks, but not dry. Fold in sugar carefully, 2 tablespoons at a time until all is used. Fold in flavoring. Then sift small amount of flour over mixture and fold in carefully; continue until all is used. Turn into 15 x 10-inch pan which has been greased, lined with paper to within ½ inch of edge, and again greased. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) 15 to 20 minutes. Quickly cut off crisp edges of cake. Turn out on cloth covered with powdered sugar; remove paper. Spread with your favorite lemon filling and roll. Wrap in cloth and cool on rack.

THE LITTLE RED HEN FINDS A WAY

Once upon a time there was a little Red Hen who had a very large family of very fine chicks. Now these fine chicks wanted very fine times; skating parties, dances, Christmas tree, prizes and even a club house.

Well the Little Red Hen wanted to give all these things to her brood but!!

"Where will I get the money?" said the Little Red Hen.

Everybody thought and thought then one bright chick said:

"Let's start shop."

"But what can we sell?" said the Little Red Hen.

"Whatever we can make," said the Grouse

"What ever can we bake, said the Mouse."

"Yes we will each sell our TALENT," said the Little Red Hen.

And so they made their plans.

"Who'll make the jam?"

"I Will" said the Mouse.

"I will," said the Grouse.

"Well that is a start," said the Little Red Hen.

"Who'll make some PICKLES?"

"I will,' said the Mouse.

"I will," said the Grouse.

"You can't beat HOME MADE," said the Little Red Hen.

"Who'll make some CAKE?"

"I will," said the Mouse.

"I will," said the Grouse.

"Then orders We' take," said the Little Red Hen.

"Who'll knit some SOCKS?"

"I will," said the Mouse.

"I will," said the Grouse.

"Oh, we're well off the rocks," laughed the Little Red Hen.

"Who'll find some ANTIQUES?"

"I will," said the Mouse.

"I will," said the Grouse.

"Then we'll rival the Greeks," said the Little Red Hen.

Then the Little Red Hen rented a shop at 4861 Sherbrooke street, near Victoria avenue, and a few willing workers painted and decorated; another fine helper did the fetching and carrying. Soon the TALENT SHOP was filled with the most attractive array that ever fingers could advise.

And now the Little Red Hen invites you and you to come to the Talent Shop. Bring four Christmas list and your shopping worries are over.

Movies Offer A Constant Parade Of Smart Styles

SCREEN IN GREAT FOR "WINDOW" SHOPPING

Restrained elegance, with interest focussed on the shoulder treatments marks the attractive evening and dinner gowns Brenda Marshall wears, above. The off-the-shoulder evening gown, left, is of flat black crepe, and with a shirred yoke of flesh-colored souffle. The same warm, pink tone is repeated in the peals of the twin accessories, necklace and bracelet. The dinner dress, right, combines black sable net with Alix Jersey in flesh; the huge water-lily deepen to rose at the centre.

Hollywood.—If you come away from a movie remembering more about the star's clothes than her acting, you can bet one of two things: either she's a bad actress, or the wardrobe designer went overboard on the costumes. Because, except when they've been instructed to create something super-colossal for Miss Gloria Goofus' big scene, most of Hollywood's screen stylists use considerable restraint.

In one modern-day movie, you can see as many outfits that are advance style, in good taste and not too expensive as you could find in a day of window-shopping. Any young, dark-haired girl, for instance, could plan a complete wardrobe from the 12 suits and dresses that Howard Shoup designed for Brenda Marshall's role in "South of Suez."

TRAVELS FAR FROM SUEZ

"Don't let the title fool you," cautioned Shoup, as he showed me sketches and photos. "The story starts in Africa, but later on we get Brenda to London and she gets George Brent, so she's dressed up part of the time.

"Now, here's a soft yellow wool apron dress—she wears that on the country estate outside London. When she has to drive to Scotland Yard, she slings on this corduroy hat and coat — honey-beige, with huge pouch pockets and a fitted top and flared skirt.

I don't suppose many women, when they're planning a wardrobe, anticipate needing a coat just to wear to Scotland Yard — though, of course, you never can tell. But this would fit into any fall or spring wardrobe. The wool dress is just the kind of thing they're going to wear under fur coats this winter.

"And this evening gown and dinner dress that she wears in the London sequence . . . " Shoup showed me the two photographed here. The dinner dress with covered shoulders combined Alix jersey in flesh color with black cable net, stiff and not weighty enough to need petticoat flounces. In the same color combination, the off-the-shoulder frock used flat crepe with a neck yoke of souffle, a material thinner than chiffon.

"These aren't spectacular, and I think they'd be very nice first spring clothes. The necklace? . . . oh, we made that, too. Got a pair of flesh-colored pearl bracelets strung on from narrow black velvet ribbons.

"FLASH" DRESS COPIED IN WHITE

"Here's the most glittering dress in the picture: a silver lame with a lot of bodice draping, a straight front-panel drape, and a wide silver kid belt set with rhinestones. Brenda liked the lines but for her own wardrobe she had it copied in white crepe. The simpler you make a dress, the better she likes it."

Only clothes trouble designer Shoup has with Miss Marshall is in giving her added inches, a real difficulty since up-and-down skirts aren't becoming to her. The tunic line, new this year, solved both the height and skirt problem. A flared tunic coat over a straight skirt was one outfit. A tailored dress of navy-blue twill was cut pencil slim and two bands of the material were spiraled in tiers around the skirt.

RECEPTION GIVEN FOR NEW SODALISTS

On Sunday evening, at a largely attended service, thirty-one candidates were received into the Young Ladies' Sodality of Ascension Parish, Westmount. It was a very impressive ceremony, conducted with dignity and reverence by the Sodalists. The speaker of the evening, Reverend Raymond Cadwallader, S.J., of Loyola College, gave a stirring sermon on the Immaculate Conception. He stated that the world needed Our Blessed Mother now more than ever before. If ever peace is to be brought to this war-torn world of ours it will surely be through the intercession of the Queen of Peace. Father Cadwallader went on to trace Mary's influence down through the ages, stating that it was She who was the inspiration of the greatest painters, sculptors and writers the world had ever known. He held up Mary as the model and ideal of all sodalists and urged them to pattern their lives closely after Mary's.

The special musical program, under the direction of Mr. J. Brassard, was very beautiful. After the service the Sodalists entertained the newly received Sodalists with a few short skits and songs, followed by refreshments. The following girls took part: Miss Louisa Walker, Miss Eileen Cullen, Miss Helen Lapierre, Miss Madeline Clifford, Miss Mary Gutelius, Miss Naomi Ferguson and Miss Sheila Tremblay. Miss Alma Tremblay, Prefect of the Sodality, spoke a few words of welcome, as did Rev. Father McDonagh, Pastor. Father Thoms, Director of the Sodality, spoke very highly of the new girls who had been received and said that it was not an easy matter to become a sodalist. To do so it is necessary to go through a probationary period of four weeks and attend meetings regularly. A written examinatin is held at the end of this period and a high percentage must be obtained. The Executive of the Sodality then passes on the acceptability of each individual girl. Father Thoms then briefly spoke about Christmas baskets which the Sodalists would shortly be distributing and asked each one to be as generous as they could to help fill these baskets.

$50 Donated To Children By Maritime Women's Club

"Save the Children Fund in London" to Receive $25—Needy Maritime Families to Receive Christmas Baskets

The Maritime Women's Club of Montreal, Inc. announced that a cheque for $25.00 will be sent to the Council for Overseas' Children, Montreal Branch; also $25 donated to "Save the Children Fund (London)" through the Canadian Branch of which Mr. Norman A. MacKenzie, president of the University of New Brunswick, Fredericton, is chairman.

The announcement was made at the Christmas meeting of the Club held in the Windsor Hotel, at which time gifts were received from the members for the baskets prepared for needy Maritime families at this season of the year.

New members were welcomed to the Club, and plans were made to entertain a group of the Empire's "lads in uniform" early in the year.

A discussion, led by the president, to name the most outstanding woman from the Maritime Provinces during the last 50 years, was taken up enthusiastically; a straw vote was taken; and the matter referred to the Provincial Representatives for further study, the result to be announced at the annual meeting in April.

The chairman of the Red Cross Group reported that this fall to date members have completed 130 knitted garments, sweaters, scarves, helmets, seaboots, etc., 79 garments for refugees, and one afghan donated, which will be forwarded to the Canadian Hospital at Taplow, England.

Mrs. H. T. Mitchell presented the report from the Marathon Bridge Committee, and Mrs. W. P. McVie read the list of Maritime patients who had been visited at various times in the hospitals.

Miss Margaret Dickson thanked the members for their generous response to the appeal for the Christmas baskets, the large table provided being heaped with packages tied up in the traditional tinsel and tissue.

Mrs. G. R. McLeod and Mrs. W. F. Worfolk recited several poems from their own compositions. Miss Dorothy Black rendered several solos, and led the meeting in the singing of carols. She was accompanied by Miss Bertha Rogers.

The president, Mrs. W. Guy Lapraik was in the chair, and presented greetings from the Maritime Provinces Association in Regina.

Mrs. R. Vance Ward and Miss Nettie Warren, vice-presidents, presided at the tea tables, and a social hour was enjoyed by members during the serving of refreshments.

CHRISTMAS FRUIT CAKE

1 lb. butter, 1 lb. brown sugar, 10 eggs, 1 cup sour milk or cider, 2 lbs. raisins, 2 lbs. currants, ½ lb. candied citron peel, ½ lb. candied lemon peel, ½ lb. candied orange peel, 1 lb. dates, 1 lb. figs, 1 lb. English walnuts (in shell), 1 tsp. allspice 1 tsp cloves, 1 tsp. cinnamon, 1 tsp. nutmeg, ½ cup black molasses, 1 tsp. baking soda, flour to make stiff dough (about 6 cups).

Put butter into large mixing bowl or preserving kettle (if you haven't a mixing bowl large enough) and let stand at room temperature until somewhat softened for creaming. In the meantime prepare fruit and assemble all ingredients. Use 1 pound of seedless raisins and one of seeded raisins, cutting the latter in halves if you wish. Wash raisins and currants, picking the latter over to remove stalks, etc., and dry with towel. Cut all candied pells into small pieces or slices, cut stalk from figs and cut up, crack nuts and break meats into smallish pieces. Sprinkle all fruits with part of flour. Cream softened butter, add sugar a little at a time, creaming well, then add molasses, then sift again with spices and soda. Add part of flour and spice mixture to first mixture, alternately mixing it with milk or cider until both are used, and last add fruits and nuts. Stir in well to mix all together evenly, and pour into well greased bread or loaf cake pans. Bake very slowly at about 250 degrees F for 1 hour, then look at cakes and continue baking until all are a nice brown and a toothpick inserted in the middle comes out dry. Put on rack to cool, and when cold they may be wrapped in pieces of old linen and kept in tin boxes until used. An apple in the box with the cake will help keep it moist, but is not necessary —at least I have not found it so. This amount makes 5 medium sized cakes.

APPLE DUMPLINGS

2 cups pastry flour, 1 tsp. baking powder, ½ tsp. salt, 6 tbsp. shortening, 1 egg yolk, ⅓ cup milk, apples.

Sift dry ingredients, add shortening and mix slightly with fork. Add egg yolk to milk and add both to dry ingredients to make soft dough. Roll one-half dough ¼-inch thick, cut into quarters. Fit each section into muffin pan, fill, sweeten to taste, sprinkle apples with cinnamon and a dash of nutmeg, pinch edges of dough together on top. Repeat with remaining dough and bake in hot oven at 400 degrees for 15 minutes, then reduce heat to 350 and bake 15 minutes longer. Any other fruit, cooked or raw, may be used instead of the apples, if you prefer. Serves 8.

STRAWBERRY ICE CREAM

Ingredients: one pint frozen berries, one-half cup sugar, one pint whipping cream, or cream that will whip. Put sugar over berries, stir and allow to stand one hour after they have been thawed. Put bowl and beater into cold place to chill. Put berries through sieve, whip cream, fold in berries and stir until thoroughly mixed, then freeze. Any fresh or canned fruit may be used. If you use canned fruit, drain it from the juice. This recipe makes eight small or six large dishes.

Plum Pudding

As much a part of Christmas as Santa Claus—the traditional plum pudding baked in a glass dish and presented to your hostess as part of the great festive dinner all will enjoy together.

Plum pudding for Christmas dinner is like Santa Claus to the Christmas stocking — almost a necessity. Some may prefer ice cream with a rich sauce, or fruit cake with ice cream on top of it. But for the sake of tradition, plum pudding is usually the cornerstone of the dessert.

Today almost every high class baker and confectioner puts out a special plum pudding for the holidays. You steam it at home just before serving with hard sauce.

However, in many households, making the plum pudding is part of the Christmas ritual. And in others, puddings are made to be given as presents on Christmas Day. If you plan to give a friend one of your puddings, notify her in advance so she will allow space in her menu for it.

Here's a fine recipe for plum pudding:

Burning plum pudding is part of the ceremony in many households. Just before the pudding is brought into the dining room, a jigger of strong brandy is poured over it and then lighted. It will arrive in beautiful flames.

Colonial Plum Pudding

One cup currants, 1 cup seeded raisins, ½ cup candied orange and lemon peel, and citron mixed; ¼ cup pecans, 1 cup beef suet, grated rind and juice of 1 lemon, 1½ cups flour, ¾ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon allspice, ¼ teaspoon cloves, ½ teaspoon nutmeg, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, ¼ teaspoon mace, 1 cup breacrumbs, 1 cup dark brown sugar, 4 eggs, ½ cup currant jelly and grape juice mixed.

TOPPING: ¼ cup currants, ¼ cup citron.

Wash currants and raisins; drain well. Cut raisins in half. Wash candied fruit and cut into small pieces. Slice pecan meats and add to fruit. Put beef suet through food chopper and add to mixture. Add grated lemon rind and lemon juice; blend. Sift together flour, salt and spices.

In another bowl, mix breadcrumbs and sugar; moisten with well beaten eggs. To breadcrumb mixture, add fruit, flour mixture, and jelly and grape juice, blending thoroughly. Turn into a 1½ quart heat-resistant glass casserole. Decorate the top with currants and cubed citron.

Cover and bake for about 2½ hours in a slow oven (250 degrees F.). Cool without removing cover. If the pudding is to be shipped the edges of the dish may be sealed with cellulose tape.

Menu

BREAKFAST: Tangerines, Scotch oatmeal, crisp bacon, toast, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Tomato juice, cornbread, syrup, fruit bowl, tea, milk.

DINNER: Roast loin of pork, brown gravy, applesauce, mashed potatoes, Brussels sprouts, fruit gelatin mold, cream, coffee, milk.

'Sea Hawk' Glorious Screen Epic Starring Errol Flynn

"The Sea Hawk," starring Errol Flynn in the most glorious screen adventure of his career, now playing at the Westmount United Theatre until Saturday night. In the stellar supporting cast are Brenda Marshall, Claude Rains, Donald Crisp, Flora Robson and Alan Hale.

Background of the stirring story of "The Sea Hawk" is England in the lusty days of Queen Elizabeth. Among England's heroes of the time are sea fighters, who prey on the Spanish galleons, stripping them of their rich booty and bringing it home to swell England's dwindling treasury. Most daring and fearless of these privateers is Geoffrey Thorpe, the role portrayed by Flynn.

The fortunes of England are at a low ebb, however, and King Philip of Spain, aided by Elizabeth's traitorous chancellor, is planning to attack and seize the weakened country. To further his plans he sends one of his most able men to England as ambassador. Thorpe attacks the ship which is bringing the ambassador and his lovely niece Maria (Brenda Marshall) to England. Maria scorns Thorpe as a pirate and a thief until he returns her jewel casket to her, and also points out that the Spanish ship she was on was propelled by several hundred galley slaves, all Englishmen. From that time on Maria and Thorpe are allies, bound together by mutual understanding as well as romantic inclination.

In secret conclave with the Queen, Thorpe outlines a plan whereby he can salvage considerable gold from the Spaniards in Panama. Before Maria can warn him that the Spaniards have learned of his plans, Thorpe sets sail for Panama. There he falls into the hands of the Spanish, and is impressed as a galley slave until he can be returned to Spain for trial by the Inquisition.

The dauntless sea hawk, however, still has a trick or two at his command. When the slave ship arrives in Cadiz, Thorpe steals a knife from one of the guards, frees himself and his men from their chains, and under cover of night, they daringly capture the "Madre Di Dios," and make a dash for the open sea. On the ship, Thorpe finds the documents he is looking for, which prove that Spain had planned to attack England.

CON-MOVEMENTO, AND HOW!

San Diego, Cal., December 11—South of the border recently, Manuel Avila Camacho became Mexico's fifty-first President without a single "serious" disturbance.

The word "serious" is that of a young Mexican Government Press Attache with whom I dined during my flying visit to the southern capital. It is used as a comparative, and as such it should be regarded. Disturbances classified by my luncheon companion as "slight" include three murders in Mexico City, a score of bloody riots, a violent anti-American demonstration fomented by Spanish Falangists, and a half-dozen minor revolutions in outlying states.

But Mexico takes her revolutions with a grain of salt. Indeed, it's a dull week when at least one army general does not desert his desk to form a rebel party. These generals generally end up in the same place, a hilltop in Pueblo, surrounded by government agents, bombed from the air, weary, hungry, but no wiser. They are pardoned on the morrow — and two weeks later try it all over again. Indeed, revolution is the national pastime.

With an eye to recent 'plane disasters, air-wary friends had warned me of the flight to Mexico, but the etherial journey proved only that air travel is the most comfortable form yet devised. Sipping Martinis one mile nearer the stars is the height of something or other, and an experience which bears repitition.

It wasn't until the 'plane swooped to earth at out destination that I realized the American border was 1000 miles due north. The airport was surrounded by legions of straw-hatted Agrarian Reservists from Pueblo, imported to help keep order for the day. Tough hombres, these. Short, stocky, swarthy - complexioned, their sombreros stuck on stubborn heads, their fingers itching at the triggers of well-oiled rifles.

The scene resembled that of a Spanish town in recent revolutionary days. Nor did the Spanish influence end there. Axis-trained voices of the Almazanistas, the opposition Fascist party, screamed "Recover Texas." Similar words of greeting graced our arrival at the American Embassy. They were but the first lines in a libretto which will soon have Mexican mobs clamoring for restoration to Spain of Arizona, California, Puerto Rico, the Philippines and New Mexico. The voices are Mexican, but the words and music are by Ramon Serrano Suner and Adolf Hitler.

Manuel Avila Camacho will have his hands full, for it is within his power to unite his people or let them diet on Axis propaganda. His intentions seem honorable. He has thrived on revolutions since joining the army at 13. But today he is 43 and President — and his outlook on revolt is healthy. Inherently a Conservative, he is none the less Liberal, too. Even more important, he is tough — and Mexico needs a strong man at the helm, for here both music and politics are conducted "con-movimento", and the man on the podium must have full control.

"STRANGE HONEYMOON"

Ronald Coleman, an eccentric artist with a secret past, takes Ginger Rogers to Niagara Falls on a strictly platonic honeymoon before she is to wed her fiance, and the madcap couple are anxious lest hotel clerk Hugh O'Connell jar their goofy scheme. These uproarious advantures belong in the exciting plot of "Lucky Partners", which opens at the Monkland United Theatre on Sunday playing until Tuesday night.

"ROMANTIC DRAMA"

Patricia Morison and Fred MacMurray are co-starred in "Rangers of Fortune," which will be presented at the Westmount United Theatre on Sunday playing until Tuesday night.

M. Carroll Stars In Spy Drama at Snowdon Theatre

"I Was A Spy," which is now playing at the Snowdon United Theatre with Madeleine Carroll and Herbert Marshall co-starred, is, as its name implies, a spy picture. But it would be unfair to place in any category a story as original, exciting and human as this one. It is a picture that establishes a trend rather than follows one. It is alive with real people, and genuinely human situations.

The picture is based on the experiences of Martha McKenna, on the reminiscences of an actual woman spy. With Madeleine Carroll in the starring feminine role, the ever-popular Herbert Marshall as her masculine partner; assign to Conrad Veidt the half-sinister, half-sympathetic role of the German Commandant; include such brilliant players as Gerald Du Maurier, Edmund Gwenn, Nigel Bruce and Martha Hunt, and you have many reasons why "I Was A Spy" is a notable film, a genuine treat for all fans of all ages.

The story tells of how Martha, a Belgian nurse, impelled by her humanity to act as nurse in a German hospital, also accepts the call of patriotism and spies upon the Germans. In vain, the enemy seeks to discover the leak in their plans. Martha, working hand in hand with Stephen, a hospital orderly, deals one heavy blow after another.

"Sing, Dance, Plenty Hot," the second feature on this splendid program, is a lively musical comedy. Ruth Terry, Johnny Downs, Barbara Allen, known to radio listeners as Vera Vague, and Billy Gilbert head a large cast of players.

A cartoon and the latest news of the day will be included.

New 'Lifeline' For Americas

There is perhaps a new kind of "Burma Road" in prospect for all the Americas in renewed official discussions of the proposed military and commercial highway up and down the Pacific Coast from Alaska to Argentina.

This "lifeline," so called for 16 years by advocates of its availability for land passage of food and arms if war came to this hemisphere, would be the proposed Alaskan international highway linked, through the United States, with the Pan-American highway across the equator.

It would form a 16,847-mile longitudinal thoroughfare, with Fairbanks and Anchorage, in Alaska, at one end, and with Buenos Aires, Argentina, and Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, at the other.

Blessed are the meek: for they shall inherit the earth.

DRAMATIC SPY FILM AT SNOWDON

'No Time For Comedy' Tells About World Of Theatre

In undertaking the production of "No Time For Comedy" co-starring James Stewart and Rosalind Russell, now playing at the Monkland United Theatre until Saturday night, the Warner Bros. Studio was confronted with the problem of presenting a phase of metropolitan New York life which had to be factually authentic. The story revolves about the world of the theatre - Broadway - and the behind-the-scenes lives of the glamorous folk who people the theatre.

To convey properly the background and atmosphere against which this popular Broadway success is performed, close to fifty different sets — interiors and exteriors — had to be built and completely furnished and equipped.

The Esterbrook menage — the home of James Stewart and Rosalind Russell, playwright and actress — is dressed with fine examples of modern furniture and same careful attention with a view to mirroring the characters of its occupants. The home projected a display of great wealth and very little taste.

Two large, complete theatres had to be erected—both exteriors and interiors. More, they had to be representative of those along the Roaring Forties just off Broadway. The famous Shubert Alley — rendezvous of the theatrical profession on 45th Street was reproduced in general detail. Many an actor seeing these scenes in the picture will likely sigh for the departed days of Broadway in its heyday.

Myrna Loy With Melvyn Douglas In New Comedy

Myrna Loy, perfect wife of "The Thin Man" pictures, and Melvyn Douglas, who made Garbo laugh in "Ninotchka," team for the first time in "Third Finger, Left Hand," hilarious adventure in romance, now playing at the York United Theatre.

Miss Loy proves far from a perfect wife, and keeps Douglas in more trouble than she did William Powell in "I Love You Again."

She invents a husband for business reasons, and Douglas, in love with her, shows up and pretends to be the mythical spouse, keeping away her other two suitors. She can't expose him, so takes it out by getting him into all manner of troubles—all of them funny.

Her attorney, Lee Bowman, wants to arrange a divorce for her so that he can marry her himself. But in the end the warring romancers, who got married so she could legally be divorced, discover they were really in love with each other all along and, with deceptions ended, all ends merrily and happily.

Robert Z. Leonard, veteran director of "Maytime," "New Moon" and "Pride and Prejudice," directed. The principals include Raymond Walburn, Bonita Granville, Donald Meek, the eccentric bee man of the Nick Carter series, Felix Bressart of "Ninotchka" fame and Ann Morriss. John W. Considine, Jr., producer of "Boys Town," "Young Tom Edison" and "Edison the Man," produced.

MUNICIPAL HOCKEY LOOP TO MEET ON TUESDAY

LEAGUE EXPECTED TO OPEN SCHEDULE ON DECEMBER 27; PLAY-OFFS END IN FEBRUARY

The Westmount Municipal Hockey League will hold a meeting for all the groups on Tuesday evening December 17th at Victoria Hall, at eight o'clock. All Team managers are requested to attend. It is hoped to have an experienced referee at the meeting to go over the rules with the managers and referees and explain the various interpretations of the rules.

In the event the cold weather keeps up, it is quite possible that the league will open its schedule on December 27th enabling the teams to have plenty of time to complete their play-offs in February. This would give the teams at least one week for practice and fit them for their opening games.

Former star players from Westmount Leagues will be seen in action again this year, but in different roles, as a few of them have made known their intention to referee in the league. Among these will be Rollie Loftus, Tommie Brennan, Desse Brown, Bill McCarthy and Emmet Milne. Another official in the league will be a Mr. Thurston, an experienced referee from the Maritimes. Most of these fellows have had some kind of refereeing experience before, either in school loops or in the Westmount leagues of other years.

KEEN CONTEST IN LOOP SEEN

The Pee Wee League held a meeting on Thursday evening at the playground shack on the Clandeboye playground. Some more new players turned up and they were placed on the teams. All four clubs, Canadiens, Detroit, Toronto and Boston claim to have strong line-ups, so that a close league race may be seen.

John Guynan has signed up his colorful "chocolate line" of last year for his Maple Leafs again this season, this together with strong players been added to the other squads, points to a banner season for this loop.

Jack Featherstone, secretary-treasurer of the league, announced that another players' meeting will be held on Thursday evening December 19 at the same place.

Meekness is imperfect if it be not both active and passive, leading us to subdue our own passions and resentments, as well as to bear patiently the passions and resentments of others.

EAGLES FIRST LOCAL SQUAD TO OPEN PLAY

Dougie Alexander's Golden Eagles of the Juvenile section can lay claim to be the first Westmount hockey team to see action this year, for weather permitting the local team was to have played the N.D.G. Maple Leafs, last year's provincial juvenile champions last night, in an exhibition game at Marcil Park. While Manager Alexander doesn't expect his team to perform wonders against the N.D.G. team who have had a few practices under their belts, he figures the pre-season game will give him an opportunity to look over some of his prospects and will give him a slant on what to expect from his squad this season.

Manager Kitchen of the Hawks has lined up a strong team to enter the Juvenile league. Most of the players are former Pee Wee League players and have starred in Westmount leagues of other years. Duncan Rowntree has been obtained to play goals and a strong defence should be obtained from the following candidates, Andy Baxter, Warren Duley, Buster Selby and L. Pitre. The Hawks hope to have Bert King, Wallace Tinning and E. Reid playing center, along with some good wing men in Alan Jones, Walter Steen, J. Baker, and J. Rimmer.

The Grade are also strengthening up their line-up, as Manager John O'Connell has announced that Eugene Simard a strong defence player has been added to the roster. As defencemen seem to be scarce this would appear to be a decided acquisition for the O'Connell men. The Grads will be decked out in a flashy white uniform this year, with red shoulders, letters and numbers.

Argos, another Juvenile team, has also signed up another player in Raymond Shea, a hard checking defenceman. Shea, along with Adrian Lunny, Mike Asselin and Dick Beattie should give the Rodier-McCarthy outfit one of the strongest rear-guards in the loop.

Women Executives To Issue Magazine

The Executive Women's Association announced recently it would begin publishing "City Life", a new magazine for city women, with a December issue to be distributed this month. The proceeds of the magazine will go toward the support of the Executive Women's Association, organized to open up employment opportunities for women more than 35 years of age.

The magazine will print articles on home decoration, meal planning, places to live, gardening and club news by outstanding writers. Also featured will be a budget department to aid women to plan their needs within their income. Fashion problems will also receive space in the new publication.

REFRIGERATOR ROOM

Domestic refrigerators have just "caught on" in the Straits Settlements and sales are booming.

Hawks Lining-up Strong Group Of Players

The Hawks team in the Municipal Midget group which is wholly made up of players from the Pee Wee League and under the able managership of Mr. Kitchen, are banding together a good squad. Bun Clark has been signed for the nets, Buddy Kitchen, Leslie Smith, Roy Hellyer, Masterman, Wilkinson, Morrison and possibly Bob Lord are other players who will line-up with the Staynor district team in the league. Additional men will be signed on before the season starts.

YMCA Notes

The Senior basketball team of the local 'Y' played it's first game of the season last Saturday night at the Central Y.M.C.A. floor. The team took on the first place Rockland outfit and although they lost the game, by the score 33-19, the score is no indication of the play.

Many of the Westmount boys had to be introduced to each other before the game started; and judging from the style of play presented by the locals it looks as if Westmount may jump from city Intermediate Champions to Senior Champs. The locals are strongly supported by Joe Richman, Captain of Y.M.H.A. senior team of last year, Hugh Purdy, Bert Holddrige, John Eaves, Bill Ashley, Howard Eakin, Earnie Hall Bill Davidson, Des Chown, Mishlap and Bill Grindley. The local five take on the fast moving National team on Saturday. The time of the game, and the place where it will be played has yet not been decided.

The Business Men of the 'Y' are making plans for their annual round robin tournament in handball for the much looked prize, a turkey. It has been the practice in the past for the handball players of the local branch to muster together their energies for a bang up tournament, just about this time every year. Following the tournament the men will have a 'splash' at water polo and then up to the cafeteria for a hearty meal. Although no definite date has been announced it is likely that it will be this coming Wednesday.

The business girls at the Westmount Y.M.C.A. have started a fencing class under the direction of Mr. Graham Yates, who is assisting Doug Rieley with the boys' fencing. The local girls have expressed a keen interest in the art, and from the first turn out of last evening the popularity and success of the classes assured.

Her Knife Killed Mate; She Collects

By the ruling of the Albany Appellate Division, Mrs. Katherine Mahar, Troy, is entitled to accidental death benefits under an insurance policy on the life of her husband, John, although she held the knife which killed him.

Mahar was attacking his wife when she ran from him to the street. There he caught up with her and was fatally wounded.

The Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. contended and therefore Mrs. Mahar was not entitled to accidental death benefits.

However, the Rensselaer County Supreme court upheld Mrs. Mahar and the Appellate Division awarded her $1,521.58, unanimously agreeing that "Mrs. Mahar did not intend to inflict the injuries from which her husband died on Sept. 23, 1939."

It's Ski Time In The Laurentians

By JOAN MacMILLAN
Director of Physical Education for girls and women at the Westmount Y.M.C.A.

At the first sign of snow, ski suits are shaken free of moth salts, skies, base waxed, lacquered and waxed again.

A word about equipment.

If this year new skis are in order, plan an Hickory—it's the best wood and the heaviest. Their length is usually the height the wearer can reach with the hand upraised. For girls the distance is to the wrist - for men, to the base of the fingers.

Steel edges are essential, useful in any kind of snow or ice conditions, they're imposible to do without slaloming,—and you will slalom!

To have any sort of control over your skis your heel must rest on your ski. Have a "donwpull" on your steel binding. Be certain too, that the soles of your ski-boots have a built-in piece of steel to prevent buckling in tight bindings.

Balance, strong ankles and abdominal muscles are the prequisites for good skiers. Ankles must be strengthened and limbered to permit the knees to come forward, this is especially difficult for women skiers who are accustomed to wearing high heels.

Practice for the forward lean now—without your skis. Standing swing the arms forward to shoulder level, now swing the arms down and back, at the same time going into a deep crouch with a supple knee action. Keep your heels on the floor. Repeat about twenty times. Practice balance the odd times to, for example by standing on one leg in the streetcar or bus.

Don't attempt to begin at the height you left off last winter. Review your Stems, Christies, etc., on practice slopes the first few hours. Remember to fall forward the upside of the slopes; To stand up, place your skis parallel on the downside—remember too, to relax when you fall, and you will seldom hurt yourself.

Walter Prager, Darmouth ski coach, suggests practicing by gaining complete command of all turns and absolute control on a short uncompleted slalom course. Place two sets of blind gates in a vertical row—this is a "Flush." Approach the first gate in deep racing position, just before it, stem sharply with the outside ski. Just before the skis pass the flag, raising the body at the same time. Ease some of the weight from the skis. Bring the inside ski over to the stemming ski, then drop to a crouch position. It it is executed correctly the turn is accomplished with parallel skis.

Remember to relax when yo fall and you will seldom hurt yourself.

Stainback Had Long Hit Streak; 21 Games In Row

Murray Howell, slugging Baltimore outfielder, led International League regulars with a swatting average of .359 for 152 games of the past campaign, it is shown in the official figures released by the league.

The Oriole clouter had no really close rival as he also led the race for total bases with 330. George (Tut) Stainback, Montreal outfielder, who finished the season with the American League's Detroit Tigers, was second among the regulars with an average of .330 in 88 games, followed by Clyde McCullough of Buffalo, .324; Henry Majeski, Newark, .323; Nick Etten, Baltimore, .321, and Tommy Holmes, Newark, .317.

Holmes, playing in every one of Newark's games, collected the most hits, 211, and scored the most runs, 126. Etten knocked in the most runs, 128, and tied with George Staller of Montreal and Eugene Corbett of Baltimore for the most doubles, 40. Staller hit the most triples, 12.

Bill Nagel, joining Howell, Etten, Corbett and the rest of the crew of sluggers that gave Baltimore the top team batting average of .286, put 37 out of the park to win a thrilling home-run race against Alex Kampouris of Newark. Kampouris not only hit 36 homers, but he was the league's leading strikeout victim, with more than any other batter.

Harry Davis of Rochester delivered the most sacrifice hits, 21; Michael Chartak of Newark, who finished the season with the New York Yankees, drew the most bases on balls, 116, and Ed Collins of Baltimore, was the stolen base king with 21.

Stainback put together the longest hitting streak. Starting April 25, the Montreal gardener connected safely in 21 straight games before he was stopped by Earl Cook and Floyd Giebel of Buffalo, both of whom will be Detroit team-mates of this next spring. During his splurge he had an average of .407.

Clarence (Ace) Parker, who footballs for the Brooklyn Dodgers during the winter, started the season at a terrific pace with Syracuse and had hit .392 in 16 games before a leg injury forced him out. Ken Sears, son of the big-league umpire, hit .356 for Newark in 140 games.

The Baltimore club, besides hitting 10 points higher than Newark, its closest rival, also led the International in total runs, total hits, total bases, home-runs and runs batted in. Rochester made the most sacrifices Montreal made the most two-base hits, and Syracuse the most three-baggers.

Other leading hitters who appeared in at least 100 games were: James Outlaw, Buffalo, .309; Arthur Metheny, Newark, .308; Donald Ross, Montreal, .308; George Staller, Montreal, .307; Harold Epps, Rochester, .306; Jimmy Ripple (he wound up the year as a World Series hero with the Cincinnati Reds) Montreal, .305; Harry Davis, Rochester, .304; Stanley Benjamin, Baltimore, .304; Jack Redmond, Baltimore, .304; Eugene Corbett, Baltimore, .302; Frank Crespi, Rochester, .301, and Allen (Dusty) Cooke, Jersey City, .301.

Club Has Room For Beginners

To date there are ten regular members of the 'Y' Fencing Clug which allows plenty of room for beginners. The Club is extremely fortunate in having Douglas Reilly as its instructor.

Mr. Reilly is not impartial to bits of feminity lunging at him from all directions, (gathered and gleaned from "Swordplay") hence the interest evinced by "business girls." One member of the fair sex has joined the Westmount Fencers, and the males want some more.

When sufficient persons have availed themselves of this opportunity, the Club will have suppers and dances during the coming season.

The assistant instructor, Mr. Graham Yates, is going to take some photographs of the Club.

CROSSWORD SOLUTION

BANTAM SECTION OF LEAGUE COMPLETES PLAYERS' ROSTER; ADDITIONAL MEN ARE PROCURED

Most of the Municipal Bantam section teams have just about completed their roster of players. Manager Warren Chippendale of the Aces is depending on the following players to keep his club up in the league race, Peter Merril in goals, Pat Rigby, Jim Henderson and Charlie McCrae on the defence. The Aces have two good pivot men in Bob Grant and Doug Lindsay, while the forward line should be strong enough with players like Bernard Keefler, Ralph Edmison, Ian MacCauley and Manager Chippindale himself.

Jimmie DeLalanne of the Eagles announces that he has signed on two more men for his team, Tommie Earl a forward and Kenny Robertson, a defenceman, are the newcomers. These two additions just about fills the Eagles roster for the year.

The Hurricanes another Bantam team has added a player to their line-up, as Herbie Truax, a forward has signed up with Bill Dryden's team. The addition of Traux will give the Hurricanes some needed scoring power.

The Argos, remaining Bantam group team, not to be outdone in singing new men, announce that they have signed up another goalie in Kevin Colly. Mentor Logue McDonald is evidently taking no chances on the important goal-keeping position, as he also has Ernie Dooley in the nets.

DR. B. BELL WILL ADDRESS SUPPER CLUB

Dr. 'Bobbie' Bell will be the guest speaker at the "Y" Boys' club supper this Friday night. This supper will be the official opening of the Prep. Junior and Intermediate hockey leagues. Dr. Bell, who is not only well known here in Westmount, but whose name is a by word wherever hockey is mentioned, will bring along as an extra treat the Moving picture of the McGill Hockey teams. These pictures have been shown to most of the theatre, as well as many of the Colleges, in United States and Canada. As illustrated pictures around these parts.

The Westmount 'Y' hockey league has always enlisted the enthusiasm and support of one hundred boys each year. The divisions play their games on Saturday mornings and each group plays on a different rink. The Preps, Juniors, and Intermediates are expected to have four teams each division. The preps have organized themselves into the following teams, Kings, Roslyn, All Stars, Queens. With such young hockey enthusiasts as Ian Ross, Keith Everson, Ian Ogilvey, and Peter Kenwood showing the initative. In the Intermediate division the spark behind the machine are Ian Fraser, Don Guess, Roy Hellyer, and Eric Price.

The supper is at six p.m. this Friday and the Movies by Dr. Bobbie Bell will be shown at eight.

MR. TAILLEFER

Under the ownership of Mr. Ovide Taillefer, the M. Philbin Hardware Company is reopening its stores at 4169 St. Catherine street west and 4860 Sherbrooke street west, Westmount, and at 1385 St. Catherine street west, Montreal.

The reorganized stores will be entirely new-stocked. Each will offer to the public a complete assortment of general hardware and of small wares. Electrical repairs of all kinds will be undertaken by licenced electricians. Radio repairs will be confided to experts of long experience. Speedy service has been organized for repairs to, and replacement in, windows, double windows, and screens. The firm will call for and deliver articles to any customer's residence or place of business.

President and general manager of the reorganized M. Philbin Hardware Company is Joseph Ovide Taillefer, head of one of the leading Montreal houses marketing automobile body and carriage supplies. Head office and warehouses are at 1326 Notre Dame street west; at 3445 Park avenue is a branch opened in 1936.

Thirty years ago, Mr. Taillefer put his modest savings into a small carriage supplies and hardware store. In that period, with Quality, Service and Value as his slogan, he has built a business of national reputation. His extensive list of customers includes firms in Vancouver. And his books today carry names entered in his 1910 ledger.

Mr. Taillefer is a Montrealer. He was born in 1882 on Versailles street, north of Notre Dame street, where his father, a carriage builder and blacksmith, had a building which combined workshop and home.

Young Taillefer first went to St. Joseph School, on St. Martin street, near what then were the Grand Trunk Railway tracks. Then, in a Montreal much smaller than the metropolis of today, he left home to become a boarder at the Academie St. Jean Baptiste, which still stands at the corner of Sanguinet and Marie Anne streets though it now caters to day pupils only. He was eleven years old. He remained there until he was fifteen, when he transferred to the old Archbishop's Academy, on the east side of Ste. Cecile street, between St. Antoine and Lagauchetiere streets, still there but no more a school. At seventeen, Ovide Taillefer left school for good and started to earn a living.

He first joined P. Demers et Fils, on Notre Dame street west, where he became a clerk with a weekly pay envelope that contained $2.50. There he obtained his experience in the carriage supplies business, serving customers, learning stock and learning merchandising. For ten years, he held that job. He lived at home, paid his board, but kept the rest of his wages — and saved.

In 1910, when Ovide Taillefer was twenty-seven, he passed an eventful spring. On April 14 he married, and on May 1 he went into business for himself. His savings were not great, and the venture was not over imposing. The sign went up over a tiny store of modest mien at 669 Notre Dame street west, situated at the corner of Aqueduct street. The personnel comprised one store clerk, one carter, and Mr. Taillefer himself. The store sold carriage supplies and general hardware. First client was Mr. Taillefer's own father, who was still doing business at the old stand. But the list of customers grew quickly as the young merchant went on the road and traveled all of Montreal and surrounding territory. The business grew. Mr. Taillefer lengthened his sales route to Quebec, Three Rivers, Sherbrooke and the districts roundabout.

Larger premises became necessary, and there were extensions at the corner of Notre Dame and Aqueduct streets. But, in 1924, the business had once more out grown its locale, so Mr. Taillefer bought a site and erected an office and stockrooms at 1326 Notre Dame street, and has been there ever since. But the history of the firm has been one of constant expansion. More space became necessary, property was acquired at the rear of the office building until the Taillefer establishment stretched to Barre street, below Notre Dame street.

While the business was growing, it was also changing in character. The automobile was ousting the horse. In 1928, on the crest of the boom, Mr. Taillefer added to carriage supplies a complete range of accessories, materials, etc., for building and repairing automobile bodies.

Today, the firm of Ovide Taillefer occupies spacious offices at the Notre Dame street address. To the rear are stock rooms; more below street level. Behind the office building are loading and unloading platforms, garages, and a large fireproof warehouse. For the stock shelves bear more than 7,000 separate items; from rubber horseshoes to tiny bolts, from auto top material to the smallest of the myriad rubber fittings that go into auto bodies today. In many of the items, the range is large; for instance, door handles have to be provided for every different make of car, and up to now those models have changed once a year.

On a smaller scale the stock is carried at the branch at 3445 Park avenue, just above Sherbrooke street.

The automobile and carriage supplies business demands wide experience in buying and knowledge in merchandising. The horse may yet be losing ground; but 25 per cent of Mr. Taillefer's business still arises from use of the horse, mainly by bakers and milkmen. Automobile body supplies command the utmost in buying technique, for the business must reflect fluctuations in use of all the different makes of cars.

As buyer and merchandiser, as well as student of public taste, Mr. Taillefer has become a specialist. All through the years, he has concentrated particularly on those phases of his business. And never has he forgotten general hardware; he has followed trends closely from year to year.

A month ago, when the stores of the M. Philbin Hardware Company were offered for reorganization, Mr. Taillefer bought the chain. Thus he returned to an old love; for his modest store of 1910, at the corner of Notre Dame and Aqueduct streets, had stocked general hardware. With the responsibility of three retail hardware stores added to that of the large Notre Dame street west establishment and the Park avenue branch, Mr. Taillefer is retiring from public life. It is his intention personally to supervise the Philbin stores to insure maximum in quality, value and service to customers.

Public life has filled a considerable portion of Mr. Taillefer's time in the last decade. In 1930, at the insistence of business men, his name was put forward in connection with the post of alderman for St. Joseph ward. But Mr. Taillefer could not see his way clear to accept the honor. In the following year, however, the St. Joseph seat in the Montreal City Council again becoming vacant, he allowed his name to go before the voters, who elected him and have re-elected him at every municipal election ever since. From 1934 to 1936, he was a member of the Executive Committee. From 1936 to 1938, he was president of that Committee.

For many years, he has been a member of the Chambre de Commerce de Montreal.

J. Emile Leblanc, above, is the genial manager of the Philbin Hardware Store located at 4169 St. Catherine street, west. Mr. Leblanc takes over his new post well qualified to serve his customers with satisfaction. He has had eleven years' experience in the hardware business and has a thorough knowledge of the merchandise his store carries.

Particularly well known in the west end, Harry Poirier, above, is manager of the Philbin store at 4860 Sherbrooke street west. While presently associated with the firm bearing the name Philbin for the first time, he has served residents in this section of the city with hardware needs for the past 18 years.

Joe D'Allaire, above, manager of the Philbin store at 1385 St. Catherine street west, has had particularly wide experience in the hardware field. He first joined the old Philbin firm in 1917 and during his association with the company had been manager of each of its stores.
