Review of autoroute toll is underway

QUEBEC — (Staff) — The chairman of the Quebec Autoroute Authority said last night that a re-assessment of the toll structure of the ET Autoroute is presently underway.

Guy Poliquin said he expects a report on the toll situation to be in his hands within five or six weeks.

"The toll structure was set up in the early 1960s," Mr. Poliquin said, "and the situation has to be studied in the light of conditions today."

He said a decision on whether ET Autoroute tolls should be lowered, or perhaps even raised, will be based on the re-assessment report.

Other Autoroute Authority officials said it is possible that the decision could come before the end of the year. They said, however, they doubted if there would be early action on proposals to eliminate the toll for the Champlain bridge.

The Eastern Townships Regional Economic Council submitted measures to the Quebec Autoroute Authority in early July to make travel on the ET Autoroute faster and cheaper.

The Council was working in close cooperation with the ET division of the Quebec Trucking Association and with Glen Brown, Brome M.L.A., and proposed five steps towards this end.

The first measure was that the fare on the last toll when heading from Sherbrooke to Montreal, the Chambly Station, be reduced from 50 cents to 25 cents.

The Council asked for a special deal for trucks using the Autoroute, allowing free passage for trucks every working day between midnight and 8 a.m.

The third measure was that the frequency of mandatory stops for trucks should be reduced from the present five to two and the fourth measure is that a special passage should be arranged at the toll stations so that a full stop is not required. Certification of the trucks should also be brought into effect.

The Council also submitted certain proposals to the National Ports Commission in Ottawa.

It suggested the Commission turn over the Champlain Bridge to the Autoroute Authority and that the toll station on that bridge be abolished.

City services feel effect of national postal strike

By PETER VERRAL
(Record Staff Reporter)

As the nation-wide postal strike enters its second day today, there are already indications that it may put massive burdens on Sherbrooke-based services.

Railway, bus, banks, insurance companies and Bell Telephone have warned that an extended strike could cause increasing problems.

Jean Vincent, manager of Bell Telephone's Sherbrooke branch said yesterday that the postal strike has cancelled the mailing of accounts to some 72,000 customers.

But Mr. Vincent stressed that "the people who have established good paying habits are in no danger of being cut off."

He suggested Bell officials may go to the outlying agencies to receive accounts from the collection agencies which would then be sent by Bankers Dispatch to the Head Office in Montreal.

Such an action has not yet been definitely decided upon, according to the Sherbrooke manager.

Mr. Vincent said the use of the Bell's long distance service which companies use for the payment of employees' cheques at distant points, increased by about 10 per cent Wednesday and 15 per cent Thursday.

Sherbrooke banks have also indicated the inconvenience where employees cannot be paid by mail. In this case the banks are able to phone the branches direct and by code can see that cheques are sent to outside areas.

A spokesman for the Royal Bank of Canada explained that with the code system a certain table of test numbers is used and if the numbers don't jive then the cheques aren't cashed.

In addition most of the local banks have their mail trucked or bused daily to the respective head offices in Montreal.

One bank spokesman commented this service was begun last week when it appeared the postal strike wouldn't be averted. One official expressed concern the CNR and CPR express outlets might not have the facilities to cope with the demands of an increasing amount of business if the postal strike drags on.

Students to get exam results at schools

Results of the Grade 11 high school leaving examinations have been received by the Eastern Townships Regional School Board for all high schools under the board's jurisdiction.

Because of the mail strike, it is not possible to get the marks to students' homes. Arrangements have been made to distribute the marks to the high schools, board director-general J. Edward Perry said yesterday.

Students may obtain their marks Saturday morning, starting at 10 a.m. at their respective high schools. Mr. Perry said the schools will all be open at this time to give students their marks.

A list of those who passed in ET Regional Board schools will be published in The Record Saturday as well.

A Canadian National Railway Express worker quipped, "right now we're acting as mailmen." He said they are about twice as busy as normal and the first sign of any buildup appeared on Monday.

He especially noted there was a large increase in the number of parcels being shipped out of Sherbrooke.

A Canadian Pacific Railway Express employee said "there has been an increase," but explained that many of the city based industries are on holiday.

He predicted a large influx of business could occur for the express workers if the many local merchants decide to take an increased advantage of the express services.

In regard to school examination results, J. Edward Perry, director-general of the Eastern Townships Regional School Board, said arrangements have been made to distribute the marks to the high schools at 10 a.m. Saturday.

A spokesman for a Sherbrooke insurance company said all correspondence with clients has been cut off because of the strike and premiums will probably not be paid until the strike is over.

She did suggest that the mail which has accumulated for the clients may possibly be picked up by the insurance agents concerned and delivered to the customers. But this would be a major undertaking.

The spokesman added that an agency called Trans Canada Courier handles all the mail between the various branches and the main Montreal office. This apparently is a common policy and has been in effect for over a year.

Maurice Lebrun, manager of the King Street West bus terminal, said there has been a "big pressure of incoming and outgoing mail" by bus.

He suggested there has been a 25 to 30 per cent increase in business in the baggage and express section. Mr. Lebrun added that the Montreal bus terminal has had to hire extra men to handle the baggage and freight demands.

An official with Voyageur Provincial Inc., said the city banks started making use of the bus service for mail purposes 15 to 30 days before the strike.

Interviewed yesterday he said the first day of a strike is usually quiet but business could "become bigger day by day." He explained that mail can be sent coast to coast from the Sherbrooke bus terminal.

An 'on strike' sign blocks mail box at Sherbrooke post office on King West.

Five local postal picketers rally around sign demanding justice.

Says taxes unbalanced

MONTREAL (CP) — The average Quebecer makes 25 per cent less a year than his counterpart in Ontario but pays the highest taxes in the country, Paul Gerin-Lajoie says in his new pamphlet of suggested ways to improve Quebec's economic situation.

The 62-page booklet, written in French by the influential provincial Liberal in collaboration with several unnamed scholars and politicians, advocates general integration of government programs to stimulate the sluggish provincial economy.

The pamphlet was launched here by the former education minister Wednesday night.

In the introduction, Mr. Gerin-Lajoie says he is not reiterating the policy of a political party, but presenting an outline for the working out of a comprehensive program.

NOT IN QUEBEC'S HANDS

"The future of the French-Canadian culture depends on its economic situation... and today the control of Quebec's economy is not in the hands of Quebecers, and in particular of French-Canadians," he writes in an outline of economic disparities.

"Quebec has 40 per cent of Canada's unemployed, although it numbers only 29 per cent of the country's population. In the last 15 years the province's unemployment has always exceeded the rest of Canada and frequently doubled that of Ontario."

Individual revenue in the province amounted to an average of 25 per cent less than the Ontario average, but the province has the highest taxes in the country.

Since 1951, twice as much money has been invested in Ontario as in Quebec, which has a similar population and geography, he says in a warning that Quebec's industrial structure is too concentrated in the area of primary industry.

Some 24 per cent of urban Quebecers scrape by on less than $3,000 a year and the average income of French-language Montrealers is 40 per cent lower than that of English-language Montrealers.

Another section of the booklet deals with the responsibility of the Quebec government in healing the province's economic ills.

HOLD MAJOR SHARE

He says the role of the federal government is perhaps primary on a short-term basis, but the provinces have the power to influence the economy on a long-term basis and this gives them the major share of the responsibility.

Outlining his coherent program for economic growth, Mr. Gerin-Lajoie says that quite apart from the province's fiscal powers, which are adequate to develop an efficient economic policy, Quebec's "human capital" is the most important instrument for long-term growth.

As well as educational reform, which is the cornerstone of economic progress, studies have to be made on the relationship of manpower training to the jobs available.

Mr. Gerin-Lajoie suggests creation of an institute of public administration, a management training institute for the private sector and an institute to train highly-qualified technical people as a link between policy-making and administrative levels.

In conclusion, the author says his suggestions do not pretend to be original, but he has tried to present a "coherent system" of measures for economic growth and to encourage a change in the basic attitude of Quebecers regarding their economy.

The postman didn't come Thursday for most Canadians and there is no definite word when the mail will again go through.

A coast-to-coast strike by 24,000 post office employees that started early Thursday effectively shut down all but a handful of 410 offices.

William Houle, co-chairman of the Council of Postal Unions, said as pickets marched across the country that "it appears everyone is out."

A post office spokesman agreed that "it's a pretty solid strike."

Substitute mailing operations sprang up across Canada, ranging from student letter-carrier operations in Edmonton to special airline shipments.

Negotiations in the dispute are adjourned until Sunday. Spokesmen said that during the break both sides will reassess their positions and consider developments across the country.

OFFERS AN INCREASE

The government has offered the workers a 15-cent-an-hour wage increase, or six per cent over a 14-month contract, but council bargainers rejected the offer, calling it a joke. It has been estimated that a six-per-cent increase will cost the country an additional $7,620,000 a year.

Postal workers are seeking a 75-cent-an-hour increase in all categories, increases ranging from 26.1 to 39.1 per cent. The average wage now is $2.57. Letter carriers at present earn from $4,735 to $5,485 a year while postal clerks range from $4,685 to $5,735.

As striking workers from 400 union locals set up picket lines in front of post offices, Canadians in all walks of life turning to alternate means of communications.

Telegraph and telephone companies reported a near-frantic rush as companies and individuals attempted to get messages through.

In Toronto, Bell Canada, Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Telecommunications recorded an increase of about 50 per cent over the amount of traffic handled on a normal day.

Elsewhere, companies in cities and towns near the United States border rented U.S. postal boxes and arranged for mail pickups and deliveries.

In British Columbia companies offering alternative methods of communications were so swamped with business that they had to call in extra staff. People turned to the telegraph, telephone, air express, delivery truck, taxi and U.S. mail services.

B.C. Telephone Co. reported a 10 per cent increase in calls originating in the province while both CN and CP Telecommunications reported landslide increases in the number of messages and money wires.

Air Canada and Canadian Pacific Airlines said there was a big upsurge in the use of air express and air cargo services, and both expect it to get worse if the strike lasts.

Fresh supplies of U.S. stamps were rushed to Blaine, Wash., 20 miles south of Vancouver, where the U.S. post office was doing a roaring business from Canadians wishing to send letters abroad.

All across Canada companies began marking time on sending out bills while other organizations arranged for payments to be made through local banks.

The morale of picketing postal workers seemed high as Montreal workers sang in French and Ottawa strikers carried signs reading: "You'll wonder where the posties went if you still insist on six per cent."

But in Winnipeg letter carrier Ken Corrigan echoed the feelings of many strikers who agree with the objectives of the strike, but nevertheless are not happy about it.

"There's no money coming in, that's why," the 48-year-old father of two said in an interview.

"The wife, she doesn't appreciate the strike too much either. She says she doesn't worry about it too much but I know she is worried and so am I."

Postal workers get no strike pay, but receive an incidental allowance for work at strike headquarters or on the picket lines.

Mr. Houle said the strike is much better organized than the walkout of postal workers in Quebec, Ontario and British Columbia in 1965, when most workers returned to their jobs after a week.

"Everything is going smoothly, but why not? We've been getting ready for this strike for six months."

Record distribution

During the postal strike, mail subscribers to The Record in Lennoxville, Coaticook and Waterloo may pick up their copy of each day's paper at the following places:

Lennoxville: Clark's News Stand;

Coaticook: Beerworth's Reg'd;

Waterloo: Dixie Restaurant.

Richmond: Richmond Drug Store (R. Lafrance).

Richmond rural routes: Arnold Healy's, 70 Main Street.

Cowansville: 127 Albert Street, residence of correspondent Mrs. S. Gruenewald.

Mail subscribers in other localities will be advised through the paper and over the radio of other distribution points as they are set up.

Says political group grows

MONTREAL (CP) — The co-founder of the United Liberal Party of Quebec said here Thursday the new political group is "snowballing."

James Doherty, a former federal Liberal organizer, said in an interview the new group is attracting so much interest that plans to choose a leader and to launch the group officially have had to be postponed for one week.

He said the group is taking a position alongside that of Prime Minister Trudeau and hopes to attract provincial Liberals away from the "special status" position adopted by the provincial Liberal party.

The organization was examining "four key French-Canadians" in a search for a possible leader.

"We may consult Prime Minister Trudeau on the leadership matter," he said. "It would be to his advantage to have a say since he loves Quebec so much."

The group aimed at giving those with Liberal leanings in Quebec "an option in the form of a party which will be dedicated to working for a united Quebec within a united Canada."

The new political entity was brought into being last week by Mr. Doherty and Alexandre Menard, 50, president of the Vigilants of Canada—a group claiming 65,000 members across Canada dedicated to keeping the country unified.

Mr. Doherty said the provincial Liberals are "infiltrated by separatists" and this helps to cause dissension within the party's ranks.

"The provincial Liberals keep contradicting themselves about their constitutional position and this is what is hurting Mr. Lesage," he said.

Mr. Doherty's statements followed by one day an announcement by Mr. Lesage that a two-month survey of members of the Quebec Liberal Federation would be taken to find out how strongly they felt about the constitutional issue.

Starting this weekend, members will be asked if Quebec should have a special status within confederation or be "a province like the others."

News in brief

Won't change

PRAGUE (AP) — Alexander Dubcek, the leader of Czechoslovakia's liberalization movement told his people Thursday his regime will not change course under Soviet pressure but "our road will not be easy."

"The people will not permit a return to the pre-January days," said Dubcek, who displaced Stalinist hard-line Antonin Novotny as the Community party chief at the start of the year and launched the so-called democratization movement.

US arms found?

MOSCOW (Reuters) — The Russian Communist party newspaper Pravda today claimed a cache of American-made arms destined for "revenge-seekers and supporters of the restoration of the old orders" was found in northern Czechoslovakia.

At the same time, another Pravda article alleged that a NATO plan was uncovered for the subversion of Czechoslovakia followed by a full-scale invasion.

Will embrace

HONOLULU (AP) — Talks between Presidents Johnson and Nguyen Van Thieu apparently will embrace possible direct Saigon-Viet Cong negotiations and a total bombing halt in the North.

In advance of today's first formal meeting between the U.S. and South Vietnamese leaders here, Defence Secretary Clark Clifford said he avoided those two topics during his Saigon visit earlier this week "in order to leave that up to Thieu and President Johnson."

Domtar office workers join mill strike

WINDSOR — (Staff) — Office employees from the Domtar plants in Windsor and East Angus officially joined mill workers yesterday in a strike against the management of both plants.

The position of the 126 white-collar workers, members of the CNTU, was uncertain Thursday morning when the 1000 mill workers ceased operations and complications immediately arose over who would make up the workers' pay cheques which were due yesterday afternoon.

The office workers' decision was reached yesterday morning at about 10 a.m. after they were forced to observe the mill workers' picket line set up two hours earlier. Their wage demands are the same as the mill workers, that is, a basic 55-cent an hour raise. The company's final increase proposal to both groups was a flat 18 cents an hour over a two-year period.

The office employees agreed late yesterday afternoon to complete drawing up all the pay cheques before they ceased work.

Meanwhile, at the Windsor plant, the towering chimneys which two days ago had belched clouds of smoke and dust into the air ceased to function.

Bands of picketers gathered before all three entrances to the plant and refused admission to all save one electrician, one boiler operator, and the security police.

Their mood was tense and potentially explosive. The scorching heat contributed greatly to their distemper.

Admission inside the gate was refused to even pressmen on the site, although the latter found sanctuary in the guard-house amid shouts of "Don't go inside those gates."

One angry picketer, after being questioned, shouted out, "Why should we say anything;

the newspapers will only print the company's side anyway."

Another unshaven strikers issued the warning, "Go inside those gates and you won't get out for two days. And you won't eat either."

A continuous stream of workers drove up to the gates, inquiring about their pay cheques, but they were told that the cheques weren't due for another few hours and that they should return then.

Art show, sale opens on Aug. 2

NORTH HATLEY — (Special) — Plans are being made to hold the Art Show and Sale at the Community Hall. The dates have been set for August 2, 3, and 4, and a festive opening is being planned for Friday, Aug. 2, from 5 to 7. On Saturday and Sunday afternoons, tea will be served.

Last year the work of several local artists was shown and aroused considerable interest in the viewers. Some of the paintings and ceramics were sold on commission, which resulted in a substantial sum for the sponsors, the North Hatley Library and the Village Improvement Society.

The library, which the members believe to be unique in a village of this size, is supported solely by the subscribers and fund raising projects. Last year the Art Show and Sale was attempted for the first time. It's success made the organizers feel that an effort should be made to make it an annual event. This year, the hopes are for a bigger and better show.

Any artists, professional or amateur, who would like to show a few samples of their work, are requested to get in touch with Mrs. Roger LeBaron.

Crown corporation to operate post office?

Canadians facing a long drawn-out suspension of postal facilities as a result of strike by post office workers may gain a degree of satisfaction, if no relief, from the fact that the United States itself is facing a mail crisis.

The troubles south of the border involve no immediate strike threat but are more concerned with the efforts of the administration to reduce the huge deficit on post office operations and to bring a degree of financial self-sufficiency to the movement of the mails.

To meet treasury directives to keep its deficit within the limits of past years, many smaller post offices in the United States are being closed down, certain services suspended and the elimination of Saturday mail deliveries is planned before September 1.

But the proposal of greatest interest to Canadians is that advanced by a commission probing postal operations that the post office be handed over to a state-owned corporation in an attempt to improve efficiency.

One important result of the change, the commission believes, would be a sharp reduction in political patronage which plagues the postal service.

The idea of operating the post office by a state-owned, or Crown corporation, is not new in this country and in fact was been under intermittent study since the last post office walkout.

Canada's experience with Crown corporations to operate nationalized services has been decidedly satisfactory as the record of such groups as the Canadian National Railways, Air Canada, the Polymer Corporation and the Bank of Canada proves.

Perhaps when the current dispute is settled, deep consideration may be given to the transfer of postal operations.

Friend of ours says his boss's door is always open, but he notes that the hinges swing outward only.

How many day dreams?

Psychologists possess one important advantage over ordinary mortals.

They can offer radical suggestions and there is no one who can refute their arguments.

Take for instance the New York psychologist who claims, on the basis of 10 years of research, that employers should encourage their workers to day dream because these day-dreamers may come up with worthwhile ideas.

Of course the more earthbound boss may wonder if that faraway look in the eyes of his chief clerk results more from memories of last night's visit with the girl friend, a fishing trip, a recent movie or the hopes of winning a sweepstake.

Admittedly the solution to many problems and many ideas for inventions have come suddenly.

That is the way it was when, during the night, Banting cracked the insulin conundrum.

But it also must be appreciated that these sudden inspirations were preceded generally, as studies of the sub-conscious mind have found, by weeks or even months of intense mental wrestling with every facet of the question.

And this question may be asked: Did the New York researcher ever find an employee so deep in day-dreaming that he missed his coffee-break?

Considering that they never go near the water, why do they call 'em "bathing" beauties?

"Do you have an ascot to match . . .?"

French Canada says:

PET's proposed Senate reform touches off lively discussion

Trois-Rivieres, Le Nouvelliste — Prime Minister Trudeau is thinking of reforming the Senate. That our Senate, such as it has been since Confederation, does not fulfill the role given it by the Fathers of Confederation is an undeniable fact. This is why it has been so often criticized and why so many Canadians have called for its reform, some even going so far as demand its abolition.

By letting it be known that he intends to reform the Senate, Prime Minister Trudeau has touched off a lively debate. Nobody is coming to the defence of the upper house, but a great many people are wondering if its reform is possible.

Reform of the Senate certainly is not a recent problem; it has existed since the beginning of Confederation. During the debates which preceded the final accord of Confederation, Christopher Dunkin, . . . a reputable political figure well known in rural Quebec, predicted with a certain cynicism what was to come. If all Senate appointments, he said, were to be made by the federal government, this would only amount to a system of patronage. . . .

People have been talking of reforming the Senate for decades and decades, but all these very intentions just descended to cynical confessions of impotency. Goldwin

Smith, a liberal thinker, recognized it only a few years after Confederation. The then prime minister, even though he was imbued with the best intentions to reform the upper house, had to worry instead about the exigencies of his own party. Three years before he came to power, Sir Wilfrid Laurier had a promise to reform the Senate written into his party platform.

But once in power, he did not deviate from the tradition established by the Conservatives . . . that only partisans could be worthy enough to sit in the Senate.

Will Prime Minister Trudeau be able to put an end to this form of patronage? All his predecessors promised to do it, but not one of them was faithful to that commitment.

If in spite of all that has gone in the past, the prime minister today succeeds where all the others failed, that would be a true achievement. He will have shown a real mastery over his own party.—Hector Heroux (July 11)

Montreal La Presse — Though nobody asked its opinion the Montreal St. Jean Baptiste Society said "no" in May, 1966, to a Quebec-Brinco agreement. In June of the same year, two days before the provincial election, a long article by geographer Michel Brochu was printed in Le Devoir and entitled "An agreement with Brinco, in the present circumstances, would entail for Quebec veritable economic suicide." . . . Jan. 23, 1967, Pierre Bourgois harshly criticized the Hydro-Brinco agreement in St. John's. "Daniel Johnson calls himself a nationalist, the leader of the RIN said, "but he is prepared to give up a quarter of Quebec's territory to balance his budget."

Out of this stew of contradictory ideas finally has come a decision—the right one: Hydro-Quebec is authorized by the government to sign a power-purchasing contract with Churchill Falls (Labrador) Corp. Ltd., as soon as the corporation completes the long-term financing of the project, a financing that will be easy to realize now that Quebec has said "yes".

US and Russia urge Mideast peace talks

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (NEA)

For the first time since the end of the war in June, 1967, the United States and Russia are jointly urging Israel and the Arab nations to agree to direct or indirect peace talks on the Middle East.

East European diplomats see this as another sign that, despite the war in Vietnam, the Soviet leaders are moving slowly toward an accommodation with the United States in some areas of conflict. It accounts, they believe, for the failure of President Nasser's recent mission to Moscow.

Egypt's president went to Russia with a request and a veiled threat. He sought more Soviet arms and the Kremlin's aid for prompt action to bring about Israel's withdrawal from conquered Arab territory. He intimated that he would seek closer relations with the United States should Moscow deny his request.

The Russians, it seems, were not impressed by Nasser's diplomatic blackmail since they are themselves currently engaged in secret bargaining with Washington about peace in the Middle East.

Leonid Brezhnev, chief of Russia's Communist party, went through the usual ritual of castigating "American-Zionist imperialism." However, according to the East European diplomats, he warned Nasser to seek a diplomatic solution.

Peace between the Arabs and Israel is still only a dim hope. But there is considerable evidence that Russia, like the United States, is eager to settle the conflict without a renewal of hostilities.

Even before Nasser reached Moscow, Pravda, the Communist party's paper, warned in an editorial that new military ventures in the Middle East would not help an already delicate situation.

An authoritative radio commentary, Life Abroad, even blamed Red China's "provocateurs," working hand-in-hand with "reactionary Arab extremists," for fomenting new strife.

Echoing Pravda, the commentary finally conceded Israel's right to exist. As though the Kremlin never urged the destruction of the "Zionist state," Life Abroad even claimed that "former Arab threats to eliminate Israel" originated mainly from "irresponsible Arab figures" who serve as Red China's agents in the Middle East.

In the view of experts on Russia, renewed warfare between Israel and the Arabs is the last thing the Russians want, for the present at least.

They have their hands full with Red China and face an increasing anti-Russian upsurge in Czechoslovakia and elsewhere in East Europe. They are also eager to reopen the Suez Canal since Soviet shipments, especially to North Vietnam and India, have become more costly because of the need to sail around Africa.

Moreover, the closing of the canal indefinitely means that the day for repayment of Egypt's vast debt to Moscow has once again had to be postponed to a distant future.

Altogether the conclusion might be that while the Russians strengthened their overall political position in the Middle East since the Arab-Israel war, this achievement was bought at an ominously high cost in purely economic terms.

For the present, then, Russia seems to be anxious for a breathing spell in the Middle East. What a fair peace settlement should involve will be argued for many months. As in the case of Vietnam, the diplomatic bargaining will be long and difficult.

The PRAYER FOR TODAY FROM The Upper Room

W know that in everything God works for good with those who love him, who are called according to his purpose. Romans 8:28.

PRAYER: Our heavenly Father, we know the love Thou hast for us in Thy Son, who is saving us and teaching us to love Thee and trust in Thee. We love Thee, but in our weakness we ask Thee to keep us in Thy grace to overcome difficulties and wait till Thy power and glory becomes evident to us. In the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, Amen.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Today's six-club contract would be a cinch had West opened anything but a spade. Declarer wouldn't like a diamond opening but he would take a heart finesse at trick two. When that worked, he would simply play out ace and another club and eventually run the hearts to take care of his spade losers.

New Jersey expert Ira Rubin was declarer when West opened the three of spades. Ira won the first trick with the queen over East's jack, cashed the ace of spades and ruffed his last spade. Then he finessed his jack of clubs and played the ace. The king failed to drop and Ira threw East in with that card.

At this point, Alvin Roth, one of the greatest players in the world, who sat East, made a really brilliant play which did nothing to make things easier for declarer. He played his eight of diamonds!

Ira ruffed. It would have been rather silly to play so early in the play, when there was still a really good play in hearts left.

Now Ira ran off all his trumps. West let one heart go somewhere along the line. Two hearts were played from dummy early and, finally, the last diamond. Roth, sitting East, hung on to his nine of hearts, ace of diamonds and a spade.

The next play was the king of hearts, to which everyone followed. The four of hearts produced the eight from West and the moment of decision had arrived. The three missing cards were the queen of hearts, a spade and the ace of diamonds. West still held one card. If it was the ace of diamonds or the spade, Ira could rise with the ace of hearts and drop East's queen.

Ira knew that Roth had been capable of underleading his ace of diamonds, so there was no clue there. Finally, Ira decided to play general percentage. West had started with more hearts than East, therefore he was more likely to hold the queen. Ira finessed and made the slam.

Not Necessary to Remove Flowers from Sick Room

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q—Is it true that flowers in a hospital room absorb all the oxygen and that is why they are taken out at night?

A—No. A plant can release at most 10 milligrams of carbon dioxide per gram of dry weight per hour and consumes seven milligrams of oxygen in the same period—an infinitesimal amount. The nurse who enters the sickroom and removes the plant contributes more carbon dioxide and uses more oxygen in that brief period than the plant would if left in the room all night. In most hospitals, the flowers are no longer removed at night.

Q—How dangerous is the drug Chloromycetin? What is its for? What are the side effects?

A—The antibiotic chloramphenicol (Chloromycetin) is used in the treatment of typhoid, typhus and other acute infections. It should not be used for minor infections. Because in some patients it destroys the white blood cells, it may cause a dangerous loss of ability to ward off even mild infections. For this reason, many physicians now prefer other, safer antibiotics.

Q—Can a person get a good suntan by sitting in the sunshine that is coming through windows?

A—No. Ordinary window glass filters out actinic rays. Special glass which allows such rays to pass through can be purchased but it is not advised for general use.

Receives conversation gift

DERBY — Miss Diana MacLean, home with her parents from Boston, Mass., for the weekend was on July 12 the guest of honor at a shower, held at the home of Mrs. Fred Taylor in Derby, where about 35 relatives and friends gathered.

Miss MacLean, an August bride-elect, was seated under a canopy of pink streamers with a wedding bell and roses and assisting her to open the attractively wrapped gifts were her mother, Mrs. C. R. MacLean, Derby Line, her sister, Susan, Mrs. John Watson, Watertown, Mass., and Mrs. David Moore, Derby. The gifts included many items for her new home.

Mrs. Taylor and her daughter, Mrs. David Moore, served buffet refreshments from the dining table, arranged with four tall candles, set in a base of pink roses, and centered with a full skirted bride under suspended doves with wedding rings in their beaks, the creation of Mrs. Edward Kolar. The shower cake, made and decorated by Mrs. Benoit Blais of Derby Line, featured pink roses and wedding bells. Mrs. John Watson presided at the punch bowl.

A conversation gift, given the bride elect by Mrs. Kenneth Baldwin, Rock Island, brought from Land's End, England by Mrs. Baldwin, was a bottle of Mead, from which the word honeymoon originated and which was traditional in former days in the Old Country. According to the tale, the bride and groom must drink slowly of the nectar for a period of from new moon to new moon, thus originating the word honeymoon. The gift will travel with the bride and groom on their wedding trip.

Guests attending were from Boston, Westfield and Watertown, Mass., Newport and Boundary Villages.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Just One Little Dime Can Meet Emergency

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—The biggest bargain today is the emergency phone call that can be made for a dime at a roadside booth. That is, if you have a dime in change. Remember it could be your family or any other accident victim who needs a doctor or an ambulance. A dime could bring a mechanic quickly and prevent a long walk or wait. Make sure to always have a dime reserved for such emergencies. Tape one to the inside of the car glove compartment door. A dime, if included in the first-aid kit, may some day be the most important "medicine" of all. Tell all the family members about this dime because you may be the victim and they will need it to get help.—ARTHUR

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—I washed two wool knit suits and they looked all right when I took them out of the washer. I put them in the dryer (set at "air") and they shrank somewhat so I think heat remained in the dryer from a load just dried. I can kick myself for being so hasty. What can I now do to stretch or relax the knitting in these suits? I can stretch them to some extent with the steam iron or a pressing cloth but I would like them more relaxed than that.—MARY

DEAR POLLY—Suzanne wanted to know how to fix a toy chest lid so it would not slam and bash little fingers and hands. I used a case-ment hinge on my little granddaughter's chest lid. It works fine and stays open at any angle. Only one hinge was needed. It was purchased at a hardware store for very little.—DAVID

DEAR POLLY—I am custodian at our church and part of my job is to fill three trays of small glasses as we take Communion every Lord's Day. I have hit on the easiest way ever to fill these tiny glasses with the grape juice we use. I fill a plastic squeeze bottle and can fill a glass a second with no drips and dribbles to clean up when the job is finished.—MILDRED

Miss Learned is feted

COOKSHIRE — Mrs. Lynn Forgrave and Mrs. Lyle Rand held a miscellaneous shower at the home of the former, in honor of Miss Janet Learned, East Angus, a prospective August bride.

Corsages were presented by Mrs. Forgrave to Miss Learned.

ed, to her mother, Mrs. D. H. Learned, and to Mrs. Stewart McKelvie, mother of the prospective groom, and to her paternal grandmother, Mrs. R. B. Learned.

Mrs. Forgrave escorted Miss Learned to a prettily decorated seat of honor on the lawn, the color scheme being in pink, green and white. Mrs. Forgrave and Miss Pat Loach brought out a decorated basket of attractively wrapped gifts. The basket was replenished several times.

Mrs. D. H. Learned and Mrs. S. McKelvie assisted the prospective bride to open her gifts. A social hour was enjoyed and a number of games played.

Refreshments served, included a shower cake, on top of which was a mechanical bride, which kept turning around and singing. Here comes the Bride.

The joint hostesses, Mrs. Forgrave and Mrs. Rand were assisted in serving by the Misses Heather McKelvie and Pat Loach.

QUEBEC SCENE:

Seeks a court injunction

MONTREAL (CP) — The lawyer for two members of a Roman Catholic school commission filed a petition Thursday seeking an injunction from the Quebec Superior Court in an attempt to prevent French-only instruction at schools in suburban St. Leonard.

The petition will be argued in court today.

Leo Perusse and Jean Papa of the five-member St. Leonard Catholic School Commission specifically are challenging three resolutions passed by colleagues at a special meeting June 27.

They said in a statement Wednesday "the rights of an in-calculation number of parents and children are violated by the illegal manoeuvres" of the board.

Kids scream

MONTREAL (CP) — Children screamed and cried in a nightmare of mirrors, flashing lights and booming music as Montreal's Mind Excursion Centre — "total environment for sensual appreciation" — opened to the public Thursday. Teen-agers who wandered through a series of 11 rooms in a converted downtown button factory reacted with a simple: "Is that all there was to it?"

The children, about 20 four- and five-year-olds from local orphanages, became near-hysterical as they entered the first room, the Mirror Maze.

First operation

QUEBEC (CP) — The Quebec Heart Institute said Thursday doctors at the hospital performed an open heart operation using heart-lung apparatus about three weeks ago.

The operation, performed on one-year-old Dany Roy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Roy, of Buckland, Que., was the first such operation performed in Quebec City, said a spokesman for the institute.

Attacks Rene

QUEBEC (CP) — Pierre

Bourgault, leader of the separatist Rassemblement pour l'indépendance nationale, launched an attack Wednesday night on Rene Levesque and his Mouvement Souverainiste Association, a group which aims at united separatist forces in the province.

The RIN, Quebec's biggest separatist party, and the MSA, recently formed by Mr. Levesque, a former provincial Liberal cabinet minister, have held talks with a view to forming a common party.

Isn't an excuse

QUEBEC (CP) — The postal strike will not be accepted as an excuse for late payment by individuals and businesses of taxes owing the Quebec government, Raymond Johnston, provincial revenue minister, announced Thursday.

He said for the duration of the strike payments should be made as usual to chartered banks, savings banks and credit unions, which have been authorized to collect them without extra charge.

C of C man to join tour

Henri Baudot, secretary general of the Sherbrooke Chamber of Commerce, has been asked by the Canadian Council of Christians and Jews to accompany them on their inter-provincial visit across Canada as far as Vancouver.

Mr. Baudot, his wife, and three other supervisors will be in charge of forty youngsters during the three-day train trip.

Mr. Baudot will be carrying a message and a gift to the president of the Vancouver Board of Trade. He will also be carrying a letter from Mayor Armand Nadeau to the Mayor of Vancouver as well as a pair of cuff links decorated with the city coat of arms.

Upon his return to Sherbrooke and a brief visit to the Chamber, Mr. Baudot will head down to the University of Syracuse in New York State where he will participate in a one-week course in public administration.

The secretary general of the C of C will take several of these courses in the ensuing years. These courses in public administration are especially geared to officers of the Chamber of Commerce and are organized by C of C branches in the United States.

Bid for speedy Lakehead settlement

FORT WILLIAM (CP) — Negotiations were to resume today to try to bring a quick settlement in a strike of Lakehead grain handlers which Thursday plugged the eastern flow of Prairie grain.

The walkout, legal since July 9, came hours before the company and union negotiators were to meet in their first session in eight weeks. They met for about seven hours and agreed to talk again today.

A spokesman for the 10 grain companies represented by the Lakehead Terminal Elevators Association expressed satisfaction with the initial meeting but hedged when asked if he thought a settlement was attainable by the weekend. He said, though, the strike action should not jeopardize the settlement prospects.

The 1,300 members of Lodge 650, Brotherhood of Railway, Airline and Steamship Clerks, Freight Handlers, Express and Station Employees voted in favor of a strike earlier this month but left the date open.

The vote had followed rejection of the chairman's report of a conciliation board recommending an increase of 70 cents an hour over two years, bringing the wage of general elevator laborers to $3 an hour from $2.30.

DEMANDS RAISE

When negotiations broke off, the union was demanding $1.25 the union was demanding $1.25 in a one-year contract while the companies offered 42 cents over two years. The union later modified its demand to $1.25 over two years.

The immediate effect of the strike was a railway announcement that grain shipments to the Lakehead from the Prairies were embargoed.

Sherbrooke Alouettes split the first Provincial Baseball League twinbill of the season last night with the Quebec Indians, dropping the first game 2-1 and then coming back to take the nightcap 6-2.

Geraldo Martinez and Luis de Leon went all the way for the respective teams in the first end of the doubleheader, each allowing four runs. A record crowd of 2,305 witnessed the twinbill.

In other Provincial League action Drummondville Royals swept past the front-running Granby Cardinals 5-1. The win for Drummondville allowed Sherbrooke to pick up a half game on the Cards. Elsewhere the Plessisville Braves were blanked 5-0 by the Lachine Mets.

In the first game of last night's twinbill, at the Park Avenue Stadium, Sherbrooke was the first to draw blood. In the bottom of the second Als' first baseman Erasmo Felipe homered off de Leon to put the locals ahead 1-0. Martinez kept the Indians baffled for the first three innings without allowing a hit. The three perfect innings stretched his no-hit pitching to 12 complete innings following his no-hitter against the Mets last Saturday.

In the top of the fourth Quebec scored their first run on a pair of singles and a pass ball. After Robinson went down swinging, Poole singled to right-centre. A pass ball advanced Poole to second and Bueden fled out to Ridley. Marshall three. Luis de Leon picked up the win, allowing four hits also, walked one and struck out six.

In the second game Quebec opened the scoring in the first inning on a run and then Sherbrooke came back in their half of the first to pound Indians' starter, Bob Koehler, for four runs on five hits and an error.

Leon. Both runners had advanced on a pass ball. The pitcher, Koehler, on his throw to first overthrew Nazario and Felipe went to third. Madison scored on the error.

Yancey singled in the third and came home on a pair of fielder's choices. This concluded the Indians' scoring for the night.

Sherbrooke added a run in the sixth and the seventh of round out the evening. Pace tripled in the sixth and stole home. Jim Ridley homered in the seventh over the leftfield wall.

Andy Occhionero picked up the win, hurling a 10 - hitter, striking out six and giving up a pair of walks. Koehler took the loss, striking out six and walking one. Ramirez relieved Koehler after six and two-thirds innings. He did not allow a hit, walked one and struck out one.

Red Sox edge Tigers, Orioles win, Regional playoffs open Monday with Cowansville here

Red Sox took over second place in the standing of the Sher-Lenn Little League last night edging Tigers 3-2 in a closely fought game at the Parade Grounds. Twins defaulted to Orioles in the other game slated, Twins being unable to field a full squad.

No games are on tap for this evening, the next game is on Monday evening when the Cowansville Little League All Stars met the Sher-Lenn All Stars at the Parade Grounds in the first game of the Regional Play-Offs.

Three runs by the Red Sox in their win over the Tigers were all unearned. An error and hits from Daniel Auger and Daniel Denault gave the Red Sox a one-run lead in the bottom of the first inning. In the first four innings Pierre Dansereau, Sox pitcher, held the Tigers to a single hit by Roger Roy.

An error in the fourth set up the Red Sox's second tally. Yves Pomerleau, first up, was walked and reached second on a hit by Richard Joyal. He made third on an infield error and came home on a single by Dansereau.

Tigers, in the fifth, made it a 2-2 ball game getting to Dansereau for three hits by Rose, Verplest and Belanger. It was nothing for Tigers in the top of the fifth.

Pomerleau's hit for Red Sox put him on in the last of the sixth, the next two men went down then. Dansereau looped a fly to second base which the pitcher, shortstop and second baseman went for but the ball fell between them allowing Pomerleau to come home with the winning run. It was a tough one for Tigers to lose but an important win for Red Sox.

Players chosen to represent the league are: Roger Roy and Denis Rose; Tigers, Luc Landry; Twins, Norman Houle; White Sox, Pierre Provencher; Senators, Randy Warner and J. P. Goyette; Yankees, Andre Caya. Red Sox, Yves Longpre and Denis Choquette; Indians, Conrad Deschenes, Daniel Forget and R. Laforest, Orioles.

The team shows good pitching strength and if the hitters come through the All-Stars should give a good account of themselves.

Indians belt Olympics 16-9 as Braves upset A's 15-4

Caughnawaga Indians came up with an outstanding two-way performance at the Sports Palace last night to run away from the Sherbrooke Olympics 16-9 in a regular fixture of the Quebec Lacrosse League before 1,325 fans.

The tilt left on the agenda saw the Valleyfield Braves pull a surprise knocking over the front running Athletics of Drummondville 15-4. It was the third straight loss for the Pierre - Paul Blouin squad but they still hold an eight - point spread over the Braves.

The win for the Indians permitted them to close within two points of the Olympics in the standing and Coach Billy Two Rivers has high hopes his team will knock Sherbrooke out of the last playoff berth.

On Sunday evening the Olympics travel to Drummondville to take on the Athletics while the Indians visit Sorel. On Saturday evening Sorel will visit Caughnawaga in Montreal.

In the tilt last evening the Indians presented a strong attack and just ran away from the Olympics, especially in the later stages of the game. The Despard crew held their own for the first two frames but just ran out of steam.

At the end of the first period the Indians held a slim 5 - 3 lead while in the second the Olympics held their own but in the final period the Indians opened up registering six goals while holding the locals to two.

The Indians played it smart using a short - passing attack and made great use of the long pass. This caught the Olympics off guard several times and it was only the great work of Terry Burgess that the Indians didn't score more. Time after time he was obliged to come up with some great saves to ease the pressure.

Several of the goals were chalked up in this manner as the Olympics were trying to get goals and forgot about the fast-moving Indians who got out in the clear for the long pass. Coach Two Rivers had his team working this system to perfection and with their speed it gave them plenty of good scoring opportunities.

The Olympics missed several good scoring chances with their wide shots, which were nicking the goal posts. They were trying to work in close before firing and this idea didn't pay off too well as the Indians presented a strong defense in front of chunky Eddie Delaronde.

The Indians, once they got the ball in their own end, were breaking out fast and this made things tough for the Olympics' rearwards as they had to come back fast to stay with the attackers. This was the idea of Coach Two Rivers and he kept his crew rolling in like fashion.

The Olympics had a younger crew with plenty of speed, but small in stature, but this didn't stop them. The locals lost many good chances by trying to pass instead of shooting from close range while the Indians, once they got in scoring position, fired from any angle and it paid off.

The Olympics' next home game is next Thursday when the Titans of Sorel will pay their final visit of the season. All tilts are important for the Olympics, especially with the Indians pressing so strongly.

Claude Perreault paced the Indians' attack with five goals with Wally Goodleaf, Sikki Two Rivers, Barry Delisle, Wally Deer and Irvine potting two each and John Brisebois one. For the Olympics it was Ron Thompson with two along with Denis Dagenais and Guy Hubert with Andre Despard, Richard Dagenais and John Hansen getting singles.

Tigers retain form, take A's as Orioles lose

Detroit Tigers, after a brief plunge, seem to have resumed the course that had them flying high in the American League.

After taking a commanding 9½ game lead into the All-Star break, the Tigers dropped two of three games at Minnesota and two straight to California, the first time this season they had lost two consecutive series. But the Tigers steadied in Oakland and rode Earl Wilson's six-hitter to a 3-1 victory over the Athletics Thursday, giving them the series two games to one.

The victory brought Detroit's lead to seven games over idle Cleveland Indians.

Do-it-yourself

Plan before you pick a fence

By MR. FIX

A fence can be for privacy, for looks or to establish a property line. It can do one or many things and it can be attractive and useful if you plan it well.

If you plan to put up a fence, check first with your local building department. Local ordinances differ concerning height, types of fencing and location. Generally, your fence should not encroach on adjoining property or on a right-of-way.

Plan a fence that will blend or harmonize with house and property. A white picket fence, for example, goes with a tailored, well-manicured lawn and garden. With tall shrubbery and trees a rustic fence may be more appropriate. A fence made of material similar to your house would look like an extension of the house wall.

Keep the top of the fence horizontal. This is especially important near the house. If it is some distance from the house, a sloping fence line may be all right. If there is a severe slope near the house, change the line of the fence in a series of steps.

Types of fences are limited by your imagination and your pocketbook. Lumber yards often carry a wide variety of fences made up in eight-foot lengths. If you see something you like, you may be able to save money by purchasing the material and fabricating your own. Figure carefully though, and allow some value for your time. Prefabrication of fence panels can be relatively inexpensive when mass-produced.

Heavy steel-wire fencing, generally used for protection and privacy rather than looks, is best installed by a fencing company. Special equipment is needed to stretch the fence so that it will be taut.

The main strength of a fence is provided by its posts. Generally these are of 4x4 stock. Doubled 2x4s can be used but this is not as desirable. Posts this size are good enough for picket fences up to six feet high.

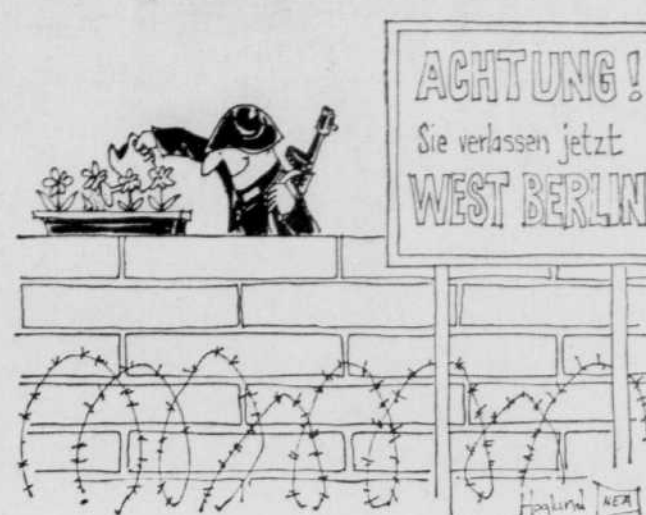

Higher fences or solid fences—which would offer wind resistance—should have 6x6 posts. Use 6x6s for corner posts in any event.

For even a light fence sink posts at least two feet. For a high or solid fence, add another six or 12 inches to the depth.

Fence posts should be treated with a preservative. If you cannot buy treated stock, soak the posts in preservative overnight or longer. If you can't find a container large enough for soaking, spray or paint the solution on. Have posts dry so they will soak up the preservative. Be careful in handling the posts since most preservatives can irritate the skin.

For digging post holes buy or rent an auger or post hole digger. The former is twisted into the earth like a drill. The latter looks like two shovels hinged together for lifting out the earth—good in rocky soil.

If your soil is well-drained, keep your holes to the size you need. In clay dig a wider hole and fill with gravel to permit drainage. If the soil is loose and may not hold, nail a couple of cross-cleats (2x3 scraps about a foot long) at the bottom and pack soil in.

A fence can be useful and attractive as well.

If you set the posts in concrete—and you should for gate and corner posts anyway—fill the bottom of the hole with gravel first. Set the post, add gravel and then add concrete to a point above ground level.

Make certain the post is level first. Smooth off concrete at a slant so that water will drain away from it. If concrete shrinks away from the post when dry, fill the gap with asphalt.

Bell's new plan gives you the widest-ever choice of savings.

We keep on reducing Long Distance rates. This new plan is based on a simple idea: if you make your calls at times when lines have spare capacity, you will benefit from these new bargain rates.

This chart shows a typical example of the five new rate periods now available Monday thru Saturday, and the two rate periods offered on Sunday, between any two points in Ontario and Quebec.

Night-Owl: Midnight—6 a.m. (On calls dialed direct)	.45	.75	.75*	.45	.75	.75*

*Family Calling Time rates are fully explained in the text below.

Notes and Explanations

These new, reduced rates apply on all calls between any two points in Ontario and Quebec, as well as on calls to points in Labrador and the North West Territories served by Bell Canada.

All figures shown on this page give you the price for station-to-station calls. These are the calls you dial direct, or calls which our Operator places to the distant number. They always cost less than if you ask for a specific person.

The main change in the Day Rate is a reduction of up to 55 cents in the price of calls over 350 miles. On the other hand, the initial time period on calls of less than 10 miles has been cut from five to three minutes for 10 cents, and overtime units are now two minutes instead of three for 5 cents.

As you can see from the chart above, your real savings come into effect after 8 p.m. on weekdays, and all day Sunday. The cost of a three-minute call is now just 50% of the Day Rate on calls of 100 miles or more; for shorter distances, the percentage of savings is a little less.

Family Calling Time is in effect all day Sunday, Monday thru Saturday, it now begins at 10 p.m. instead of 8 p.m.

On person-to-person calls over 350 miles, reductions range from 20 cents to $1.10; on calls under 100 miles, there are increases ranging from 5 to 20 cents.

*This is how Family Calling Time works:

All day Sunday, and after 10 p.m., Monday thru Saturday, you pay only for the first five minutes of your call; then, there is no charge for the next five minutes. In other words: you get 10 minutes of calling time for the price of five. If you wish to talk longer, every two additional minutes are charged as just one.

The "Night-Owl" Rate applies seven nights a week, from midnight to 6 a.m., but it applies only to calls you dial yourself (D.D.D. calls); if this service is not yet available where you live, our Operator will place such a call for you at the same low rate.

Typical examples of the new low rates for station-to-station calls between any two points in Ontario and Quebec.

BETWEEN	Cost of 3-minute station-to-station calls
	8 p.m. to Midnight Monday thru Saturday and all day Sunday	Midnight to 6 a.m. Daily D.D.D. calls

Sherbrooke — Montreal	.40	.30
London — Toronto	.40	.35
Montreal — Quebec City	.45	.35
Kingston — Montreal	.50	.35
Windsor — Toronto	.55	.40
Ottawa — Hamilton	.60	.40

Direct Distance Dialing is this easy — and gets you there in seconds:

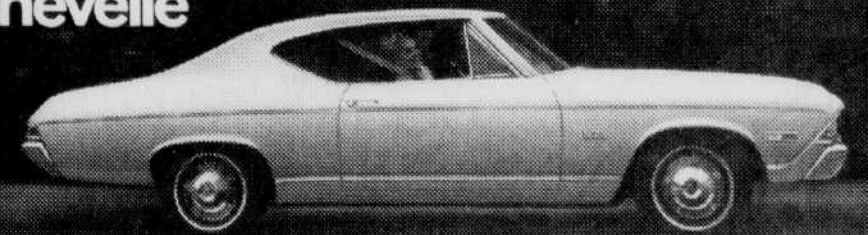

First — dial 1 (or 112), then — the Area Code, then — the phone number.
