

W. ALLEN WALSH ADDRESSED PROGRESS CLUB TUESDAY ON SUBJECT "SCHOOLS OF TODAY"

Principal-Superintendent of Outremont Schools Delivered Fine Address — Community and the School—Fear of Things New—Wise and Foolish Adjustments—Suggest- ed Economies.

W. Allen Walsh, principal-superintendent of the Outremont schools addressed the Progress Club of Montreal on Tuesday, taking as his subject "Our School of Today." The address given by Mr. Walsh is here reproduced in full for Examiner readers.

"Experts tell us that the average boy or girl is awake about 5,500 hours in the year. Taking the year through, 100 of these hours are spent inside the classrooms, 1500 inside the home, and the balance of about 3000 otherwise. I want to consider with you today some phases of the 1000 hours per year spent by the ordinary student under the direction of the school.

"The school of today is not as the school of yesterday. The type of building has changed, the type of teacher has changed, the type of pupil has changed, the type of curriculum has changed, the type of parent has changed. The modern boy or girl, man and woman are somewhat different to those of previous years. Even as you recall your own school days and your own attitude at that time you will notice the changes I refer to.

The School of Today
"On the school building of today I do not need to dwell. You are all quite familiar with it, at least from the outside and from an indirect interest brought about by the annual tax bill. (You are all familiar with the story of the visitors' book in a certain school where each visitor was asked to sign his name, state his occupation, and state further what he was doing for the community in which he lived; lawyer wrote, "I plead for all"; doctor wrote, "I pray for all"; the ordinary citizen taxpayer wrote, "I pay for all"). However, the school is one part of our community life that we can ill afford to neglect and where a stinting attitude does not yield dividends. At one time the work of the Board of School Commissioners was summed up somewhat as follows: To buy a little piece of ground, at little cost, erect on it a little building, engage a little teacher at very little salary, to teach the little children. Today their sphere has been somewhat broadened for our children demand our best in school facilities and nothing but the best is sufficient.

"It is natural that with the growth of the community, the school population should increase. With this increase in school population the increase in school facilities is made necessary. The trustees, holding in trust for the community the most vital and important work that could be committed to the charge of any man, must apply the same principles and have the same clearness of vision as in his own private business.

Community and the School
"We always speak of the growth of the school with the community. Did you ever stop to realize and appreciate the truth of the converse of that statement—the growth of the community with the school? There is nothing more attractive to prospective home builders in a community than first-class school facilities. Any community that anticipates a few years in advance a possible growth in the school community and prepares for that growth is taking one of the best steps in assuring that growth. Good schools will attract good citizens to your community. A community that is backward in school facilities will nearly always be found to be backward in all other facilities. Steer a straight course to the best and most efficient that can be offered.

"From the simple school of 50 years ago to the highly organized school system of today is a far cry. In the old school with its classical curriculum and its stern discipline, here was no thought of anything beyond academic thoroughness in a limited list of studies. A glance at the complex activities of a modern city school system reveals a wonderful expansion of the functions of the school outside the academic sphere. In the first place, the studies of the curriculum have multiplied and optional subjects give the pupil a remarkable variety of choice.

Fear of Things New
"But did you ever notice how anything new in education is looked at askance by the public? What a struggle to introduce Manual Training, and Domestic Science, and in fact all Technical Training, into our schools. On all sides we heard nothing but the glorification of the three Rs. "Such teaching was good enough for us, and it ought to be good enough

Business Men's Assn. Charity Frolics, Theatre Night, Biggest Entertainment Bargain of Season

Arrangements are going steadily forward looking to the monster Frolics and Theatre Night which the Businessmen's Association of the North End contemplate staging at the Rialto Gaiety and Theatre on Saturday evening, May the twentieth next. Plans as presently laid down call for dancing, with first class orchestra, a floor show, ball-rooms, serpentines and favors, to commence at eight-thirty p.m. and continuing until closing. This is to be followed, at eleven fifteen by a feature picture and ten first class acts of vaudeville, and one ticket admits to everything.

The character of the Businessmen's entertainments is too well-established to need any introduction. Sufficient to say that this one will fully live up to the reputation of its predecessors. Tickets are now available, and are being distributed in block of five, of which the profits from one go to the sellers thereof. This is with the idea of getting funds immediately into the hands of the unemployed who wish to take advantage of the opportunity.

As an indication of the energy being put into the effort to make the Frolics a success, it is only necessary to state that amongst those actively engaged in the sale of tickets is the president of the Association, Mr. B. M. Garfield, himself.

Full details may be had from President Garfield, at the Rialto Theatre, Mr. Louis H. Ducloux, director of publicity, La Patrie, or from Mr. R. L. Greenfield, secretary of the association, at 5736 Park Avenue.

One of the Best Known Milliners In New Premises

To no other business section of the city, perhaps, has May 1st had such significance as to the North End. New establishments are opening up on every hand. They cover almost every line of business. The trend, it is to be noted, is distinctly "up town." And in no other locality are the developments more rapid than in the vicinity of Park and Laurier Aves. One of the houses to change address here is that of Lillian Rubin. This well-known milliner has just occupied new and larger premises at 5103 Park Ave., just above Laurier where she feels she will be in a better position to care for a clientele which has followed her over a period of years.

Formerly connected with the Lillian and Cupid Shops, as well as Lorraine Millinery, and with long experience in the manufacturing branch of the millinery business, the name of Lillian Rubin is synonymous with everything that is becoming and original in smart hats for women. Her slogan, "Satisfaction or money refunded" is a criterion of the character of her creations.

producers, and the greatest teacher (because he speaks to most children) Charlie Chaplin. Now what is his charm to the children? He makes them laugh. He appeals to that crude sense of humor that seems to be innate in every child. Hear the rollicking roars of laughter that rocks the theatre to its very foundation when Charlie throws a pie, and it hits the victim square in the face. If the pie is juicy and spatters all over the place so much the better. What are teachers doing to cater to that innate sense of humor in every child? Now do not mistake them. I am not suggesting that teachers should cater to that slap-stick, pumpkin pie throwing style that characterizes Charlie; that is horrible. But surely there is a way of using this innate sense of humor to the furthering of educational ends. In all our school books from cover to cover is there anything at all to make the children laugh? True, a good deal of our humor is such that it could not be introduced into the schoolroom. But on the other hand, there are certain old fogs connected with every educational system who seem to think the last duty of an educator is to make the children smile. Let us take a look at our readers. There are dirges galore, tragedies unending, wars and rumors of wars. The Burial of Moses, the Incheape Rock, the Burial of Sir John Moore, He Never Smiled Again, Lord Ullen's Daughter — beautiful pieces of literature without a doubt, but why dwell on such gloomy subjects? I believe in the psychology of Woodsworth, when he says:

"A simple child lightly draws its breath
And feels its life in every limb,
What should it know of death?"
"Surely the literary editors of our text-books are not going to take Shakespeare literally when he says: 'Of comfort no man speak. Let's talk of graves, and worm and epitaphs, Make dust our paper, and with rainy eyes Write sorrow on the bosom of the earth.'"
"The children, dear hearts, they'll learn the sorrows of life soon enough."

Here, There and Everywhere

NEW YORK CITY, N.Y.—Angelo Patri, noted educator and writer, heard on the Cream of Wheat hour on Sunday evenings over Columbia network of stations in "Your Child" has been awarded the gold medal for "Special Merit in Education," by the Italian Government. His work on radio is held largely responsible for the honor.

CHICAGO, Ill. — Age-yellowed church and birth records, copies of army files and photographs of German tombstones were introduced as evidence in probate court here, as twenty-two persons sought to prove heirship to a $450,000 estate left by Miss Emma Swigart. Miss Swigart was incompetent and a ward of the court.

SEATTLE, Wash.—The old "saucer for the goose" adage was reversed here in superior court.

Clarence R. Green a city railway employee, is paid in warrants, which are discounted 15 per cent. In decreeing Green could pay his wife's alimony in the depreciated warrants, the courts held it was no more than fair that his wife should bear her share of her husband's "frozen assets."

PHILADELPHIA, Pa.—A Philadelphia motor expert, Alexander Altieri, has perfected an adjustable-pitch propeller which, he believes, will result in a tremendous advance in aviation. By regulating the pitch of the propeller a pilot can increase the speed of his plane and at the same time cut down on his fuel and oil consumption, it is said.

FORT COLLINS, Colo. — Colorado seed growers will be well represented at the World's Grain Exposition, to be held in Regina, Canada, July 24 to Aug. 5, 1933, eleven farmers in this state having already indicated their intentions of exhibiting samples of seed. They will show 10 sample of Colorado grown field seeds.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass.—A little baby dinosaur hatched from an egg found in Asia by Prof. Frederick K. Morris during a dinosaur egg-hunt, appeared with students of Massachusetts Institute of Technology in a school play—at least the actors insisted it was a dinosaur.

LONDON, Eng.—They were sweethearts, they quarrelled and he hit her on the head. "But, sirs," he explained to the Wood Green magistrates, "I was only impressing my love on her."

HOPE'S UNLUCKY DIAMOND ON BLOCK

Although Mrs. Evelyn Walsh McLean, Washington society matron, hopes to raise $250,000 by the sale of her famous Hope diamond, it is probable that a great very many people would refuse to accept the ill-starred gem were it offered to them for the sum of a thin dime. The great diamond has an evil reputation which has followed it down through the years since the time it was brought out of Central Asia in the 17th century up to the present. It is alleged the gem first came into prominence when Louis XIV of France gave it to his wife as a bribe, and the curse is supposed to have asserted itself and France was forced to sign the humiliating Treaty of Paris that deprived her of India and Canada. Lost for two centuries, the stone reappeared in England when Lord Francis Hope presented it to his wife, May Yoho, for a wedding present. Lord Hope later divorced his wife and the diamond was blamed. He sold it to Habib Bay, an oriental nobleman, who was drowned, and the stone became the property of Prince Kantivski, who was assassinated. Edward McLean bought the diamond in 1910 for the wife from whom he is now estranged, and since that time ill-luck seems to have dogged the footsteps of the McLean family.

MERCHANTS REVEAL STAND ON QUESTION OF REPEAL OF EARLY CLOSING BY-LAW FOR DISTRICT

L. H. Ouimet, Prominent Real Estate Dealer of the North End Favors Repeal With Modifications — Others Give Views — Sentiment of General Public, However, Not Clear—Letters Will Be Published Next Week.

In view of the widespread discussion centering around the question of repeal of the early closing by-law, the following expressions of opinion by prominent North End merchants and business men will undoubtedly prove of interest:

L. H. Ouimet, real estate—"I am in favor, with certain reservations, of the repeal of the early closing by-law. I believe such a move would greatly improve North End trade conditions."

George Bennett, picture framer—"I am in favor of the regulation as it stands. Longer hours would impose a hardship on our staff, which we do not care to impose."

Madame Lefebvre, R. Lefebvre Sons—"We feel that repeal of the early closing by-law would be a backward step entirely at variance with present-day ideas of progress."

P. Singer, ladies' wear—"The by-law as it stands suits us. However, I think an extension of the Friday night hours until eleven would be an improvement."

H. Baum, furrier—"I am opposed to the repeal of the early closing law as I do not consider that conditions at the present time would warrant such a move."

J. Spunt, cleaner and dyer—"I am in favor of the law as it stands."

P. C. Price, boots and shoes—"I am definitely against a repeal of the early closing by-law. If a man cannot make a living in a ten-hour day, he had better quit."

Lillian Rubin, milliner—"We feel we could do a lot more business with an open door in the evening. We are for repeal—every time."

Mr. McCaughey, Woolworth's—"The extra business would not take care of the additional expenses."

A. Goldstein, ladies' wear and leather goods—"We believe later hours would be a great benefit to merchants and shoppers alike."

Mr. Shapland, Metropolitan—"I do not consider that the added expense would be justified from the amount of business that would be received."

Mr. Little, Kresges—"The additional business in my opinion would not take care of the expense of additional help."

Lucie Fischer, millinery—"We do not favor a flat repeal of the early closing by-law. We do, however, think that an extension of the Friday closing until eleven o'clock would be beneficial."

The sentiment of the general public is, however, not clear, and the "Examiner-Courier" will therefore, be glad, in its next issue, to publish letters indicative of the attitude of shoppers toward the question.

Rounding the program out with modern numbers a Cuban entry will bring a tap interpretation of the Rumba and then the scene shifts back to the land of the free (beer) and the home of the brave (columnists) as the United States is represented by nine numbers. These are representative of the spirit of the American dance, that melting pot of national airs and steps, and is opened with a number "Fit as a Fiddle." This is followed by a toe tap, waltz clog, San, "Louisiana Hayride," Busk and Wing, Southern Strut, Rhythm tap, Novelty stair tap, and then to a blending of color and national airs "Let's call it a day."

To realize the extensive amount of work that Mrs. Livinson and her staff have given to the production of this revue one must attend one of these shows. The children, of all ages, work with a zest and feeling that reveals them to the audience as lovers of their work and which proves conclusively the fact that Mrs. Livinson can bring out the best in all the pupils of the Rialto Dance Studios.

MacVICAR MEMORIAL CHURCH NOTES

The Rev. Dr. Potter in the course of his remarks on Sunday made special reference to the excellent work being accomplished by the Ladies' Aid Society of MacVicar Memorial Church, known in 1900 as the Annex Presbyterian Church. As the Pioneer Presbyterian Church of the North End it became the church home of many families. In its present central location it is a convenient place of worship for all Presbyterian families moving into the district.

Rev. Dr. Potter also made reference to the Y.M.C.A. campaign and urged liberal support.

Daffodil Cake Is Smart For Spring Tea Party

Angel and Daffodil Cakes—a perfect combination for Springtime. And this spring brings greater promise of good things than many a past season has.

The housewife who has been counting her pennies all winter and refraining from making a perfect egg cake is able to go ahead and try her art. There will be no gasp of horror at the sight of a ten-egg cake. It costs only a few cents to make now, and this is just the season to treat the family to wonderful sponge and angel cakes.

Here is a cake with two lovely daffodil shades right in the batter—a most decorative and flavorful food.

DAFFODIL CAKE

1 cup sifted cake flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 1/4 cups sifted sugar
1/2 teaspoon orange extract
1 1/4 cups (10 to 12) egg whites
1 teaspoon cream of tartar
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
4 egg yolks, beaten until thick and lemon colored.

Sift flour once, measure, and sift four more times. Beat egg whites and salt with flat wire whisk. When foamy, add cream of tartar and continue beating until stiff enough to hold up in peaks, but not dry. Fold in sugar carefully, 2 tablespoons at a time. Sift small amount of flour over mixture, fold in carefully, continue until all is used. Bake in an ungreased angel food pan in slow oven at least one hour. Begin at 275 deg. F. and after 30 minutes, increase heat slightly (325 deg.) and bake 30 minutes longer. Remove from oven and invert pan on rack for 1 hour, or until cold. Do not try to remove cake until it is cold as the jar will cause it to look and taste as if it had been "squashed."

Divide mixture into 2 parts. To one add vanilla; to other, add orange extract, and fold in egg yolks. Put by tablespoons into ungreased angel food pan, alternating yellow and white mixtures. Be sure that the pan is ungreased as the grease kills egg whites and makes the cake fall. Bake in slow oven (300 deg. F.) 60 to 70 minutes. Invert on rack until cake is cold and do not attempt to remove from pan until the cake is cold.

A downy white angel cake is simply made by following this tested recipe carefully.

1 cup sifted cake flour
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 1/4 cups granulated sugar (sifted)

1 cup (8-10 eggs) egg whites
1 teaspoon cream of tartar
3/4 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 teaspoon almond extract

Sift flour once. Measure and sift 4 more times. Beat egg whites and salt on large platter with flat wire whisk. When foamy, add cream of tartar. Continue beating until eggs are stiff enough to hold up in peaks, but not dry. Fold in sugar, 2 tablespoons at a time, until all is used. Fold in flavoring. Sift small amount of flour over mixture and fold in carefully; continue until all is used. Bake in an ungreased angel food pan in slow oven at least one hour. Begin at 275 deg. F. and after 30 minutes, increase heat slightly (325 deg.) and bake 30 minutes longer. Remove from oven and invert pan on rack for 1 hour, or until cold. Do not try to remove cake until it is cold as the jar will cause it to look and taste as if it had been "squashed."

EL PASO, Tex.—Al Smith paused here on his 8,829 miles motorcycle pushing trip from the Pacific to the Atlantic coast and back again—not the Al Smith of the Brown derby and presidential aspirations, but the stocking-capped fellow from Seattle who has been pushing a motorcycle for eight hours a day for two years and three months.

The engine of Smith's machine is sealed to prevent riding, and he was to rely on his own motive power to make 15 miles a day.

He has already made the Atlantic coast, and is on his way back to Los Angeles, which city he hopes to reach by May. He has worn out 14 pairs of shoes on the way.

This nerve-racked, speed-maddened population which finds its relaxation in swift iron-mongery.—Mr. St. John Ervine.

What One Girl Wore

By Betty Brownlee

course, as always, there were the heavily-furred coats trimmed with fur that are smart as well as expensive.

The girl whose budget is limited should never try to buy a fox-trimmed coat. The fur is sure to be inferior in quality and will almost certainly wear poorly.

Many of the new coats are entirely untrimmed and manage to be as striking as any we've seen. Some reveal small touches of pique trimming—smart and practical since it can be laundered.

One fur that won popularity on the more inexpensive coats is galyak. It is used effectively to fashion collars, separate scarfs, or for sleeve trimming.

Personally we think that the coat without fur trimming is a very sensible choice for spring. When the warm days roll around it isn't so very comfortable to have a fur scarf around one's neck—particularly if it's a scarf that cannot be detached.

Extremely simple and very effective is the coat slashed today. Of pin-striped tweed in a new greyish-brown shade, it uses its fabric in reverse fashion to form the shoulders and collar. White pique edging emphasizes the shoulder width. A wide brown suede belt nips in the waist properly and there are sporty slit pockets.

We talked about coats earlier in the season and we're going to talk about them again. If you've shopped for your spring coat you know what a wide variety of reasonable garments are available this season.

This is one spring when the new coat to be smart did not necessarily have to have fur trimmings. Of

Let us put as much joy and sunshine into their school lives as we can crowd in. A short time ago an Inspector adversely criticized a teacher. She came to me with her face haggard and drawn. She appealed to me. I called up her Principal and I said, "What is the matter with that girl?" He said, "Well, she evidently hasn't pleased the Inspector, but the only criticism I have of her is that she persists in seeing the funny side of everything." And I said, "Heaven bless the girl, I wish she were twins." Some of these days we shall read an advertisement such as this: "Wanted—a bright, breezy girl, with a sunny disposition, one whose own childhood is not too far behind her that she has forgotten all about it. Only those with a sense of humor need apply." Wouldn't the children, who for years have been bored to death by some old frump who never saw a joke in her life, rise up and call us blessed.

Wise and Foolish Adjustments
Let us now pass to another phase of our schools of today. We are undergoing a period of social, economic and industrial reconstruction, and our schools are naturally feeling the urge from within and without to adjust themselves to those changing conditions. Severe cuts in educational expenditures are being suggested. In some instances sayings can be effected, but I wish to stress with every degree of emphasis that it would be national suicide to plunge the pruning fork too deeply into the vitals of our educational system. It has required years to build up our present educational service and we must not endanger it by unwise curtailment. It is not so much 1933 that I am concerned about, but what will be the effect on 1953? Irreparable loss will be suffered by the present generation of growing boys and girls by a suggestion that has already been made to curtail the programme to a considerable degree. The school programme of today means too much to the future of our country to put even a part of it in cold storage. The building of edifices may be postponed; the building of roads may be postponed; the building of wharves may be postponed; but not so the education of our children. Now is the only time adequately to provide the leaven for our society of 20 years hence. Please don't misunderstand me; savings can be effected in the operation of our schools, but not the sweeping sword-like thrusts that many of our leaders in business life are now suggesting.

"Educational leadership must not be made to stand the stigma of the sins of our economic leadership. As we carefully review events in the business world over a period of ten years and take due note of the dilemma we find ourselves in at the present time, is there anything to commend our so-called financial and business leaders? If these same leaders seek to impose their will in matters educational as they have in matters financial we can only look for the same unsettled conditions and chaos that these men have produced in the business world. In a land flowing with milk and honey we find dire want and distress, in a land with an excess wheat crop we find people begging for bread, in a land of untold mineral wealth we find people looking for a few coppers to help support life, in a land with acres of unsettled land we find people yearning for work. I protest against the men who have brought us to this cess-pool of disaster being allowed to take any active part in the readjustment of our schools to a new democracy, but I do ask that the younger generation of business executive, along with the trained progressive educators of our day, actively engage themselves in a study of our educational administration.

"For fear I might have been misunderstood I wish to emphasize again that I fully appreciate the economic disaster that has overtaken us. I fully realize that something must be done to adjust the financial administration of our schools and bring the school budget in conformity with the trend in other businesses. Economy is imperative. I am firmly convinced, however, that educational leadership must play a large part in the reconstruction of such budgets and prevent any panicky, undeveloped, unplanned, unintelligent action that would surely lead to distress in the field of education.

Suggested Economies
"Just where can we suggest the possibility of economies in our schools of today? I would suggest first that salary reductions should be made and that these should be commensurate with the decreased cost of living; secondly, that a new scale of salary, developed scientifically, should be immediately adopted showing a decided decrease in the initial stages; thirdly, larger units of administration should be established; fourthly, eliminate waste and inefficiency from many of our systems; fifthly, in many areas increase the size of classes; sixthly, better administration of our schools through more adequate budgeting practice; seventhly, reduce the cost of operating and maintaining our school plant. Any or all of these economies should only be adopted after a very careful investigation by a competent committee on which each and every interest should be adequately represented.

"In closing I would like to refer again to the children in our schools of today. I have already made brief reference to the fact that the present generation of boys and girls should not be made to suffer for the economic sins of the past ten years. I feel that I must emphasize this warning. Our children are going through a period of adjustment such as we in our generation were spared from. In 20 years from now they

If our educational programme is seriously impaired and cut down, if unwise economies are introduced, if men and women of capacity and integrity are diverted from the field of education, the future generation who will replace us will not be fitted for their tasks. They will pay the price of any unwise economy, and the world will find itself in the throes of an economic convulsion far worse than we are experiencing today. Give these boys and girls their proper chance and ensure the safety of our civilization for generations to come!"

Rabbi J. Mirsky and cantor Rabin. Mr. Kenneth Meek presided at an organ which was installed in the Chateau Laurier especially for the occasion. Miss Eve Hart sang "O Promise Me" during the signing of the register.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and was attended by her sister-in-law, Mrs. Samuel Shenkman, of Montreal, and by four bridesmaids, the Misses Anne and Beatrice Slonensky, Sylvia Gould, all of Ottawa, and Miss Dorothy Weiss, of Montreal. Mr. Charles Gavsie, of Montreal, brother of the bridegroom, was best man and the groomsmen were Dr. Benjamin Raginsky, Mr. David Sherman, Mr. Bertram Fraid, all of Montreal, and Mr. Harold Shenkman, brother of the bride, of Ottawa.

The bride wore a Lucille Paray model of white shimmering satin, designed with a high neckline, the sleeves made with large puffs from the shoulder to the elbow and finished in a long close-fitting cuff to the wrist. The train fell gracefully from the skirt and was adorned with a pearl buckle at the waistline. Her veil of mousseline de soie was caught with orange blossoms at the back of the neck in a true lover's knot. She carried white orchids and lilies-of-the-valley in shower. The attendants wore Maggy Rouff models of mousseline de soie with organza jackets, all of similar design, the matron-of-honor being in pale yellow and the bridesmaids in pastel green. They

CANADIAN MISSION NOTES

The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints held its regular Sunday Services at 7:00 p.m. in Rialto Hall "B", 5711 Park Ave.

Miss Thelma Dastruys, Richfield, Utah, gave an explanation of the use of miraculous signs or gifts of the spirit. These signs are given to strengthen the faith of those who believe and not as a means of conversion. These gifts have to be cultivated. Numerous examples were given to were matching fez turbans and each one carried a sheaf of mixed spring flowers. Mrs. Shenkman, mother of the bride, wore a handsome Patou model of white crepe with a beaded capelet and a slight train. She wore a raped turban to match and carried an arm bouquet of deep crimson roses. Mrs. Gavsie, mother of the bridegroom, was attractive in a Jenny model of rose beige with smart hat of the same tone and wore Tallman roses. Following the ceremony a dinner was held in the banquet hall with dancing in the ballroom of the Chateau Laurier. Archie Frieman of Ottawa, acted as master of ceremonies. Dr. and Mrs. Gavsie left later for Montreal to sail for Europe on the Duchess of Atholl. They will take up residence upon their return, at 1982 Queen Mary Road, Montreal.

In 1928 it was a joke to quote the poet who said: "Man wants but little here below." Times have changed.

show where the Lord explained his laws to His servants. They were all given talents and gifts of the spirit and were only able to use them through exercising their own faith and works. These signs are a means of revelation to those who are the recipients. This revelation is a necessity to the priesthood of God and where we find the authority of God on earth we will also find manifestations of the gifts of the Spirit.

Elder Glenn A. Stoker, Salt Lake City, Utah, gave a discourse on the law of the church concerning temporal affairs during the righteous sojourn under the leadership of Enoch. This same law was established by the apostle in the meridian of time on both Eastern and Western Hemispheres. This law was again revealed to Joseph Smith in Kirtland, Ohio, February 9, 1831. This principle was known as the "Law of Consecration." It called for all the saints to consecrate their property to the Lord and it was redistributed as stewardships in the interest of equality hence the saying "They had all things in common." This system was a general revision of the capitalistic order and was for the good of the community without the frailties and absurdities of the socialistic or communistic order.

SOUTH BEND, Ind.—A new word in aircraft is the "dirigiplane" developed by Dr. Cloyd L. Snyder. It consists of a single broad foil to which is attached tall fins. There are no struts or braces, to offer wind resistance, and everything, including the plane's motors, are enclosed in the air foil. It has been successfully flown in tests here.

MADRID, Spain.—Two men stole $600 from a bank in Bilbao. They hid part of it in an old raincoat and placed it in a cowshed for safety. They were then arrested.

Police went to recover the money. All they found were some scraps of paper lying in the mangers. Cows had eaten the rest.

MONTREAL, THURSDAY, MAY 4th, 1933

THEATRE NIGHT

The Business Men's Association of the North End are sponsoring a Dance and Theatre Party on May 20th with the proceeds to go to a fund for the unemployed of this district. The program is one of the finest ever attempted in this district and with Mr. B. M. Garfield, president of the Association and himself a showman of merit at its head cannot help but be an unqualified success. Does it not seem strange, however, that any organization should have to put on a record-breaking performance to make the residents attend an affair, the proceeds of which are to go to the unfortunate of this district. The public should not be bribed to attend a function of this kind. It is the duty of every right thinking citizen to attend. But when the sponsors are going to the trouble of presenting an extremely excellent show, and at prices way below what a similar performance would cost on a circuit, then the resident is amply repaid for his contribution to the unemployed fund. It is only reasonable to suppose that every resident of the North End will make every effort to aid this worthy cause.

BUSINESS SHOULD BE BETTER

All records were broken in this district this year on moving day, as thousands moved out of the ward, thousands moved in, and hundreds more moved from one house to another within the ward. The moving firms made a killing, and the re-arranging process, taken as a whole, should be a good thing for business in this district. Heretofore, because of reduced incomes and for other reasons, and because of iron-clad leases, thousands of local residents haven't had a surplus to spend. Moving day witnessed the great realignment, the moving to dwellings more in keeping with incomes, and from now on, there will be greater surplus available for spending among the merchants and other business men of the district. As a matter of fact reorganizations and realignments have been going on for many months among all classes of the population and among all businesses, and the results are evident in the marked improvement in business generally during the past two months.

NO POLICE REQUIRED

A "filler" news item mentioning a police force as one of the Scout-operated features of the 1933 World Jamboree in Hungary has drawn a statement of arresting significance from Dominion Headquarters of the Boy Scouts Association. This is the declaration that police are never required at international Boy Scout gatherings, no matter how large.

In illustration reference is made to the gathering of 53,300 Scouts from 73 different countries and parts of the British Empire at Arrowe Park, Birkenhead, England, in 1929. The Birkenhead authorities, learning that this canvas city of youth would include in its population thousands of lads from the War—France, Germany, Belgium, Hungary, Russia, Poland, as well as Britain and the United States—on opening day posted police at strategic points about the park, "to keep the peace." By the end of the second day the last Bobby had been withdrawn.

Boyhood, as yet unspoiled by suspicion and hate, plus the Scout code of world brotherhood, had made misunderstandings impossible. Friendliness and confidence were taken for granted, without regard to colour, creed, race or language. A frequent scene was a laughing group of boys, all of a different country, hands on one another's shoulders, joking and "talking" somehow with gestures and a polyglot invention of their own called "Jamboreese."

At the end of the two weeks' camp one of the heads of the Canadian Scout contingent, chatting with the police inspector of the area, inquired what he thought of the gathering.

In accustomed phraseology the inspector replied: "There wasn't a single case of crime or disturbance to report."

Will these lads, when grown up, ignore the teachings of suspicion and hate, and continue to meet in friendliness and good will? Let us hope so. It could mean much to this suspicious old world.

Embargoes on arms shipments will not help the peace movement unless a distinction is made between aggressors and victims of aggression.

THE EDITOR'S COLUMN

A great many favorable comments have been received on the short articles which have been appearing in this column during the past few weeks. It is indeed gratifying to know that we are able to print something that the public likes to read.

This week the column will be given over to a most worthy cause. The Business Men's Association of this district are sponsoring a theatre night and dance at the Rialto Theatre and Rialto Gardens on May 20th next. The proceeds of this entertainment will form a fund for the relief of the local unemployed.

Surely there is no resident of this district who would refuse to aid a cause of this type.

The subject brings up a story told of a well-known evangelist who was once asked what made him so zealous in his work with unfortunates and his reply "Every time I see a daret of the human race I say to myself 'There, but for the grace of God' go I."

The economic depression took its toll from all classes of society and was no respecter of persons. Every down and out man of today is the unfortunate victim of circumstance. With the exception of course of the few who do not want to work at any time. The worthy family, however, suffering from the effects of the depression and in many cases starving deserve the support of the more fortunate residents of the community. The Business Men's Association has taken the lead, it is up to the residents to follow and support them.

MILK BOTTLES AND MAPLE SYRUP

In many grocery stores and public market stalls, bottled maple syrup is being offered for sale, and in some cases the bottles used are milk bottles belonging to local milk dealers. The milk dealers of Montreal are starting a campaign for the return of their bottles within the next few days. The first step is to secure the co-operation of merchants all over the city, who are asked to be very careful not to fill trade-marked milk bottles with syrup.

If a storekeeper has empty milk bottles he is asked to put them out for his milkman, or to telephone to the Milk Dealers' Bureau Inc., who will be glad to send a truck for them at any time.

Hoarding one's confidence is desirable; when the store gets sufficiently large, it begins circulating automatically.

BISHOP DESCHAMPS BLESSED ST. JOSEPH'S SCHOOL SUNDAY; RECEPTION GIVEN BY PUPILS

Auxiliary Bishop of Montreal Officiated at Imposing Ceremony at Town of Mount Royal—Rev. E. Laurin, C.S.C., and Rev. L. Pauze, C.S.C., Assisted—Mayor T. S. Darling and Councillors Attended—School Commissioners Also Present.

Sunday last, His Excellency the Right Reverend Alphonse Emmanuel Deschamps, Auxiliary Bishop of Montreal, officiated at the imposing ceremony of the Blessing of St. Joseph's School, Mount Royal, which is under the direction of the Sisters of Holy Cross. This School which is now the pride of the Catholic population of the Town was founded March 12, 1923. In the year 1927 the little school in Dicksteed no longer sufficed for the growing population. It was then that the ever vigilant trustees secured the lot on the corner of Regent and Cornwall. Here was laid the foundation of the present beautiful edifice.

The pleasant environment with all the enchantment of country life, as well as the commodious advantages of city life attracted many families, anxious to secure for their children the blessing of a good Christian education. Last year when the congested classes could no longer provide for the enrolment, the Board of Trustees decided on the plan of enlargement. The work was confided to Mr. J. Venne, architect, and Chauvin & Girard, Contractors.

Enlarged and renovated, St. Joseph's School stands with pride beside her sister establishments, nothing envious of them. The School Board at present is composed of Messieurs L. Lamarche, president, R. Deslauriers, T. Logan, J. Brunet, J.

Y.P.A. CONCERT WAS WELL ATTENDED HERE

The concert and dramatic entertainment held Friday by the Young People's Association of St. Peter's Church drew a large crowd. The guest artists, Miss A. L'Allier de Marcheterre, Miss E. Sheldon and Mrs. Harold Hodgson were well received.

Two plays were presented and the first, "The teeth of the Gift Horse" which dealt with the complications that arose when a certain gift presented by an aunt to her nephew and niece-by-marriage could not be found by the aunt on her arrival for a holiday, provided a very pleasing entertainment.

The second play "A Girl to Order" was replete with wit and was well received by the audience. The choir numbers were well rendered under the direction of Mr. Lawrence E. Lister.

Regiment in preparation for one of the numbers of the gym exhibition.

Rifle drill with strict discipline has put the corps in A-1 condition. The shooting team averaged 84.3% in the Saturday morning shoot. This team is as follows, K. Robertson, C. Clarke, J. Webster, F. Morrison and J. Chisnall.

The fair sex is up in arms about the statement in last week's column relative to girls not having given exhibitions here before. There was a part taken by girls under the direction of Miss McNaughton in an exhibition three years ago.

CGFALSC NOW PROGRESSING

Nine Passed Life-Saving Tests Successfully on Saturday Last

The Canadian Girls' First Aid and Life Saving Corps is progressing favorably at the present time according to reports received from Lieut. A. Rubens, director.

Nine girls successfully passed their first life-saving tests for certificates on Saturday morning at North Branch Y.M.C.A. Mr. A. Ross, of the Royal Life-Saving Society, the examining officer, complimented the girls on their very fine work. Another group will come up for examination this month and it is expected that there will be no failures.

For the past five or six weeks the girls have been undergoing instruction in small bore rifle shooting. Some ideal of the progress that the girls are making can be realized from the fact that they entered a team in the Dominion Provincial Championships which terminated with a total of 1350 out of a possible 1600.

Some of the girls are Winnifred A'Bear, Iris Armstrong, Pauline Hooper, Marion McLean and Elaine Painter.

Youth will be served. Middle-age should be.—Fannie Hurst.

The Rhyming Optimist

Time comes with healing in his hands,

For all men, everywhere; He brings forgetfulness of grief, And lightens dull despair. There are some friends whose love and truth

Are gifts we hold sublime; But we have not one friend of all So merciful as time.

Each sting and hurt time takes away, With every keen distress; And from the burdened heart he lifts The ancient bitterness.

He bids the weary thought forget Its enemy of old;

He leaves no futile, balked desire For soul or mind to hold.

THREE CORNERED FIRST PLACE TIE IN "Y" CAGE LEAGUE BROKEN AS TOILERS UPSET THE ROYALS

Toilers and Leafs Now Top Standing and Will Meet Tonight in Finals—Titans Meet Royals in Other Contest on Interesting Bill—Leafs and Aces Won Contests Last Week.

In last Thursday night's games in the North Branch Y.M.C.A. Senior House Basketball League, the three-cornered tie for first place which had been previously shared by the Leafs, the Toilers, and the Royals, was suddenly broken when Scriver's Royals in a very close and dramatic struggle, lost out to the hard-fighting Toilers. The game was a fast one throughout, both teams passing quickly and adeptly, and at times exhibiting some very fine basketball. The finals of this league which are being held tonight, will feature Stewart Robert's Toilers and Manager Walsh's Leafs fighting it out for first place. The game should produce some exciting basketball and a large crowd is expected to attend.

The two other games of the evening between the Marilles and the Leafs, and the Titans, and Aces, featured the easy victories of the Leafs and Aces who won respectively by 27-13 and 45-21.

The Toilers-Royal game was a ding-dong battle from the start, both teams taking the lead at times, but losing it almost immediately after. A fast pace was set by both teams, their fine passing and dribbling being on a par, and it can hardly be said that the 40-37 score determined to any great extent the superiority of the winners.

The Royals taking the lead in the first half with baskets by Struthers, Stalon and Peacock, nevertheless had a difficult time to prevent the Toilers from taking the scoring edge away from them in the first half. Blackburn and Carruthers sniped several baskets in to help give their team 15 points against the Royals 19.

In the second half the pace was again very fast, fine combinations and plays being exhibited by both teams to drop in basket after basket. While outscoring the Royals in the half by seven points, the Toilers also allowed the Royals sufficient points to almost tie the game with a few minutes to go. The Toilers came back,

FIELD MEETS WAITING FOR WEATHER

About the only thing now holding up track sports is the weather. The weatherman has been shyly casting around for warmer days, but these have been slow in coming. However, with the Interscholastic meet only a short way off, we can't afford to feel pessimistic. Coach Brennan, of Strathcona, is depending on a better showing for his boys this year, and is now seeing to it that they keep in training as much as possible. Roger Griffiths is again expected to represent the blue and white with even greater success this year. Montreal High forged ahead of him in the finals at the M.A.A.A. by a small margin last year, but now, Griffiths shows brighter hopes of equalling if not exceeding his past performance. Another little star of the track is young Alfred Sugden of the same school. His time in the 40 and 60 metres has not been equalled here yet, or rather officially. Not exceeding new talent either, we have several other young sprinters on this card. The young ladies are no less reaping in a fair share of track honors for this School too. There's the Misses Eliasoph and Miller, hurdlers and sprinters, who will be seen again at the McGill Stadium next week.

A GOOD BUSINESS PROPOSITION

Better days may soon be here again, at least for lacrosse, if the North End Business Men's Association lend their support, which has been asked for the new North End Intermediate Lacrosse League. It would certainly be a very worthy gesture to broaden the scope of their commercial activities in a more replete manner, if they promote sport. Who knows, this part of the City has been waiting a long time for similar support, both in Civic circles and private quarters, without any appreciable success. Further, to be more familiar with the amount of good this business men's Association can do, it now seems obvious that tackling major problems that affect our commercial welfare, with such success as they have accomplished since incorporation, we should now look forward to them for assistance of some kind. As Alderman George Pratt of Outremont remarked last week, before a large gathering at Place Vigor Hotel, "if we must keep up the good morale of our youth, one of the best means for this end is to sustain sports." Mr. Pratt is well known for his interest in sports, as evidenced by numerous trophies which he has donated to various clubs.

THOSE WERE THE DAYS

When King Sport reigned on high in this section of Montreal, not so long ago, his kingdom was one huge fancy of baseball, soccer, cricket, tennis and lacrosse, with especial attention to the two first-named. Two or three thousand staunch soccer supporters often crowded St. Cyril Park, as it was then known, to witness this former national sport. Park Extension was also the scene of football fame for many years. Nomads could blanket most of their visitors, with veteran "Jim" Burke in goals, one of our greatest goalies, who held the highest record of any other player in the league. He was chosen several times in the famous trials with England, Ireland and Scotland. Canada was never badly beaten with Burke between the posts, unless "Jim" dropped out himself. That fleet-footed "Jackie" Davis of Printers, whose terrific right wing kicks often called him for many teams, seldom affected Nomads sturdy guard. And so down the line, many more stars of the day passed before us, until with the fall of 1930, soccer was supplanted here by Rugby, for the future in football. Hardball or baseball to many, was another high spot in our Sunday afternoon's sporting bill. Parisien Freres often dominated the scene with sluggers like the Lalonde brothers, Phil and Mars. Emile Baglot, Henry and John Farley were also rated for home-runs. Hardly a game passed that at least one of the three scored a homer. Outremont then boasted of real talent and vied with other sections of Montreal for leadership every year, finishing with great success in 1924, when Coblin's highly strung squad from Lafontaine dropped to defeat after a rare battle that ended in something like 42-10 runs for Outremont, not to mention nearly fifty fights and three arrests. Those were the days.

A MUNICIPAL TENNIS CLUB

Some say competition is not very keen on Municipal Tennis Courts, as to make this plan of a Club very difficult. Before suggesting to the contrary, a simple review of figures will show rapid improvement in this direction in the past few seasons. Bill and Gerald Kahn, were first seen on Municipal Courts, and between them, salted away five cups. This means performance. At Y.M.C.A. these brothers showed more opposition for their limited experience in tournaments than many old-timers with the racket. Many others, whose names are today linked with Stuart, Izo, Hillcrest and Rockland, found ample excitement on Municipal Courts several years ago. Our only regret is that we cannot organize them again in an elimination series for the best, to represent their respective City in a non-professional Island Tournament. The result would be very interesting. At present it would be difficult to rate our best class from winners in seasonal tournaments on over seventy-five courts in the City of Outremont alone.

HILLCREST HAS OPENED COURTS

Hillcrest Tennis Court on Van Horne was the first one to inaugurate their tennis season here last Saturday morning, when eighteen members lined up for the first game of this season. President Frank Mc-Goldrick was on hand to greet a lively gathering of members and past season cup holders, among whom were Gordon Lambert and Maude Lane, winners of singles. Both were presented with the Club Trophies, which will again be up for competition this season. Spring tournaments will be soon under way here, when players have had an opportunity of limbering up a little, after a long winter's rest from tennis.

Additional comforts have been provided in the Club house adjacent to the courts, which has undergone the necessary repairs, and now appears greatly improved. The Messrs. Wright, Longtin and several other tennis stars will probably be seen here shortly in exhibition matches, for the benefit of charity.

LONDON, Eng.—It has been predicted that 100,000 hats made like a Turkish fez — with a crown seven inches high—have been sold to the big London stores within the last few weeks. The fez was inspired by a painting of a Turk in a Paris salon. A designer saw the painting copied in it felt for his collection—and now the fez is the hat of the year.

It is sometimes offset with a sweeping veil which covers the face in the same fashion as an eastern vashmak.
