Pelletier wins handily in Sherbrooke

SHERBROOKE — The Social Credit party made significant progress throughout the province of Quebec during the five victories in the eight Eastern Townships ridings in Monday's federal election.

In what has to be a great personal victory for leader Real Caouette, the Creditistes gained two seats from the Liberals and made strong showings in Brome-Missisquoi, Sherbrooke, and Frontenac where they lost.

Riding a wave of popular support unseen since their history-making appearance on the federal political scene in 1962, the party unseated industry, trade and commerce minister Jean-Luc Pepin in Drummondville. The colorful Pepin was defeated by little-known Social Credit candidate Jean-Marie Boisvert.

In other reversals PC Heward Grafftey regained his seat in Brome-Missisquoi, defeating Liberal incumbent Yves Forest by a comfortable margin to culminate three years on the hustings.

Meanwhile, Frontenac remained Liberal when Leopold Corrivault defeated Social Credit candidate Nelson Lessard by a whisker - 87 votes. Social Credit had won in Frontenac in 1968 but lost the seat when the SC candidate switched to provincial politics.

Newcomer Irene Pelletier caused a stir in Sherbrooke by defeating his closest opponent, Maurice Couture of Social Credit, by over 4,000 votes. In 1968 Liberal Paul Gervais managed to win by only a 92 vote margin over SC hopeful Adelard Larose.

Voters in Compton, Richmond, Shefford and Lotbiniere returned the four incumbent Social Credit candidates, three of them with increased majorities.

Andre Fortin, who won Lotbiniere by less than 2,000 votes in 1968, walked away with a convincing 11,000 vote victory. The SC incumbent polled twice the combined votes of his opponents.

In Shefford, SC party whip Gilbert Rondeau scored a crushing 6,000 vote plurality over his nearest rival, former MP Jean Paul Neveu. Only four years ago Rondeau unseated Neveu by less than 500 votes. Progressive Conservative candidate Guy Arseneault was a distant third despite the efforts of Armand Russel, Unite Quebec provincial deputy for Shefford, who campaigned actively for the Conservatives.

Richmond incumbent Leonel Beaudoin also defended his seat with a higher majority despite spirited opposition from Liberal Leo-Paul Thibault and PC Lucien Bachand.

Beaudoin, who resisted the efforts of former Social Credit provincial vice-president Bachand, thanked his supporters "for not believing the lies of his opponents and for remembering his efforts during his term in office."

Veteran Social Credit MP Henry Latulippe gained his fifth consecutive victory in Compton, barely surviving a strong effort from highly acclaimed Liberal newcomer Claude Tessier. Latulippe, who had one of the highest majorities of any Eastern Townships SC winner in the last election received less votes than in 1968 and beat his closest rival by over 1000 votes.

The strong Social Credit showing in Quebec and especially in the Eastern Townships caused the downfall of one of the top ministers in the Trudeau cabinet, Jean-Luc Pepin. Earlier in the campaign Pepin said on numerous occasions he was "uncertain" about his own riding, but he still travelled throughout the province in aid of other Liberal candidates.

"The Creditistes are certainly after my neck," Pepin muttered earlier in the campaign, "and maybe they're going to get it." Pepin lost his seat by less than 200 votes to mark the end of an illustrious career as cabinet minister in one of the most important portfolios in Canadian government.

While Pepin's defeat came as a shock to most political observers, the victory of PC Heward Grafftey was as stunning. At a time when PC support in Quebec dwindled to obscurity, Grafftey, an English speaking candidate, defeated his nearest rival, Liberal incumbent Yves Forest, by over 3,300 votes.

A tireless campaigner for the last three years Grafftey won the respect of both English speaking and French speaking to capture a unique personal victory in Brome-Missisquoi.

Results in Sherbrooke, the home of Social Credit in Quebec some 35 years ago, pointed to a definite change in voting trends. The Social Credit party increased its vote total by less than 1,000 over 1968 despite the fact that 10,000 more voters were eligible this election.

The voting trend indicates that Sherbrooke voters may be acquiring a more metropolitan consciousness, a fact no doubt influenced by the expansion of the tertiary educational and medical sector. Significantly, the failure of Social Credit to make substantial gains in Sherbrooke was contrary to the pattern in other ET ridings.

It was a gratifying victory for Irene Pelletier in his first attempt at politics. SC hopeful Maurice Couture ran a strong second while Alexandre Kindy finished a respectable third, despite the fact that he lost his deposit.

The Conservatives blazed back at the Liberals Monday, forcing the federal general election into a neck-and-neck struggle that will leave the outcome in doubt for days, if not weeks.

The only certainty was that either the Liberals or the Conservatives will form a minority government. The Liberals went to bed with one more seat than the Conservatives—108 to 107—but this could change with four seats still to be settled.

The New Democratic Party which had won 30 seats when vote-counting stopped for the night, were leading Conservatives by small margins in two other ridings. And Social Credit, with 13 victories, were leading Liberals in two more.

This was the standing of parties at 6 a.m. EST:

	1972	1968	1965
Lib.	108	155	131
Prog. Con.	107	72	97
NDP	30	22	21
SC	13	14	14
Others	2	1	2
Dbltl	4	—	—

The doubtful seats in Monday's election are Churchill and Meadow Lake in the West, with NDP leading; and Bellechasse and Charlevoix in Quebec, with Social Credit leading.

Neither Prime Minister Trudeau nor Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield was ready to make any major statements until later today.

"It's not over yet," said the prime minister.

Mr. Stanfield said he was ready to form a government, but "I think we should wait and see what the morning brings."

New Democratic Party Leader David Lewis, holding the balance of power in a new Parliament, said he would support a minority government if it dealt with unemployment, high living costs and the "corporate rip-off."

And Social Credit Leader Real Caouette, who again will lead an entirely Quebec-based party, said he would support either a Liberal or Conservative government.

"The NDP may have the balance of power, but the government will still have to compose with us."

The Liberals, who left the last Parliament with 147 seats, lost four cabinet ministers—Trade Minister Jean-Luc Pepin, Labor Minister Martin O'Connell, Agriculture Minister H. A. Olson and Minister of State Pat Mahoney—as the Conservatives, along with the three other opposition parties, flexed more muscle.

It was the Conservatives who sent the Liberals reeling, despite the fact that the Liberals scored a massive victory in Quebec and picked up three additional seats in the Atlantic provinces.

In Ontario, where the Liberals elected 64 MPs in 1968, they ran into a revitalized Conservative opposition and ended up with only 35 members. The Conservatives, who elected only 17 in the last general election, came bouncing back with 41. And the NDP, which last time elected six, this time took 11.

And after Ontario, the Conservatives blazed across the West like a prairie fire, burning up all Liberal hopes for another majority government. Alberta was the high point of the Conservative revival, as they took all 19 seats.

In Manitoba, the Liberals lost two seats to the Conservatives, who came out of the province with seven. The NDP held steady at three. One of the two Liberals elected was Supply Minister James Richardson.

Saskatchewan, where the Conservatives previously held five seats, they added two more—this time at the expense of the NDP—and the Liberals managed to elect only Justice Minister Otto Lang in Saskatoon-Humboldt.

Then on to Alberta and the shutout. In British Columbia, where the Conservatives failed to elect one MP in 23 seats four years ago, they won eight this time. And the NDP, which held eight seats at dissolution, took 11.

The Liberals won 16 B.C. seats in 1968.

This time it was four.

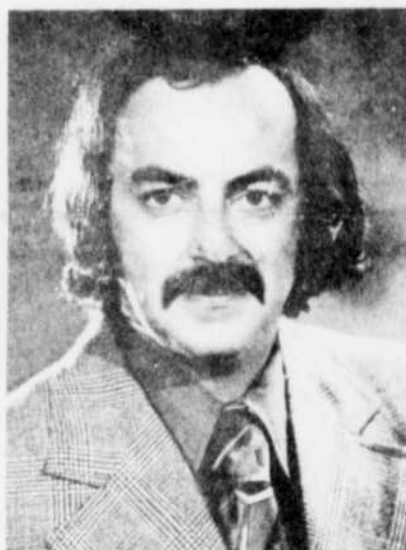

STRONG IN QUEBEC

With 56 seats in Quebec, the Liberals will have more than half of their parliamentary strength from that province. Although Claude Wagner, the former provincial Liberal justice minister who now is Mr. Stanfield's Quebec lieutenant, won his own seat, only one other Quebec MP will join him in Ottawa. He is Heward Grafftey returning to Ottawa after being defeated four years ago.

Despite the slight Liberal inroads in the Atlantic provinces, the Conservatives still hold four of Newfoundland's seven seats, three of Prince Edward Island's four seats and 10 of Nova Scotia's 11 seats. As in the last Parliament, Privy Council President Allan MacEachen is the only Liberal MP from Nova Scotia.

Mr. Stanfield, who became premier of Nova Scotia 16 years ago Monday, is still considered a formidable force in that province.

Pepin drops squeaker

Winner Jean Marie Boisvert

DRUMMOND (WM) — One of the major shocks in this federal election must be the loss of the Liberal seat held by one of the major figures in the liberal cabinet, Jean Luc Pepin, former minister of industry, trade and commerce. Pepin lost the seat to Social Credit candidate Jean-Marie Boisvert, who won the riding with a margin of less than 200 votes.

S.C., who lost to Pepin in the last election by more than 2,000 votes, gained the majority this time partly by determined efforts to discredit the federal government's agricultural and industrial policies in the Drummondville area.

The Social Credit candidate elected yesterday claims that Drummondville had one of the lowest per capita incomes in Quebec and that any improvements under the Liberal regime were slight and often not of a permanent nature.

Another major complaint against the former Liberal minister was that he did not pay enough attention to the people in the Drummondville area. Because of this Jean Luc Pepin has spent most of the last few weeks in Drummondville trying to regain the political popularity which gave him a 2,122 majority in the 1968 election.

Yesterday evening, however, Jean-Luc Pepin, the first French-Canadian to hold the Industry, Trade and Commerce portfolio lost his seat to the man he claimed "doesn't know whether he is a revolutionary or a reformer," and the Social Credit party gained another seat in Quebec, the stronghold of the Social Credit party.

Loser Jean Luc Pepin

Up to 15 recounts expected

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

There's bound to be one recount in the aftermath of Monday's federal election and there probably will be about 15.

The election that was a cliffhanger in national seat totals had a good clutch of ultra-tight individual races as well.

Under changes made to election law in 1970, an automatic recount system is in effect for any riding where the winner had less than a 25-vote margin.

For any margin wider than that, the candidate who wants the recount has to post a $250 deposit.

The only completed vote count early today that showed an under-25 margin was in Ontario riding, where Conservative Frank McGee finished 12 votes ahead of Liberal Norman Cafik.

But there were some other real squeakers:

QUEBEC

—Charlevoix—Social Credit candidate Gilles Caouette held an eight-vote lead over Liberal Jean-Guy Alain with two polls still to count.

—Drummond—Social Credit J. M. Boisvert held a 120-vote lead over Liberal Trade Minister Jean-Luc Pepin with one poll to count.

—Montreal Ste. Marie—Liberal Raymond Dupont won by 94 votes over Conservative Georges Valade.

—Portneuf—Social Creditor Roland Godin won by 377 votes over Liberal Claude Bernard.

—Bellechasse—Social Creditor Adrien Lambert held a 1,017-vote lead over Liberal Pierre Mercier with 71 polls to count.

—Compton—Social Creditor Henry Latulippe held a 93-vote lead over Liberal Claude Tessier with one poll to count.

ONTARIO

—Toronto Trinity—Conservative Paul Hellyer won by 183 votes over Liberal Aileen Nicholson.

—Sault Ste. Marie—New Democrat Cyril Symes won by 219 votes over Liberal C. Terrence Murphy.

—Kitchener—Liberal Keith Hymmen won by 229 votes over Conservative R. G. R. Lawrence.

MANITOBA

—Churchill—New Democrat Don Duff held a 135-vote lead over Conservative Keith Taylor with 27 polls to count.

SASKATCHEWAN

—Meadow Lake—New Democrat Elias Nesdoly held a 10-vote lead over Conservative Albert Cadieu with seven polls to count.

—Moose Jaw—Conservative Douglas Neil won by 288 votes over New Democrat John Skoberg.

BRITISH COLUMBIA
—Okanagan-Kootenay—Liberal Douglas Stewart won by 77 votes over Conservative Howard Johnston.

Melbourne Unit UCW meets

RICHMOND — The Melbourne Unit of the Richmond and Melbourne United Church met in the church parlor on Wednesday, Oct. 18, with a good attendance present. The vice-captain Mrs. M. Hughes who is replacing the captain Mrs. Arnold Mallette, was in the chair and conducted the meeting. The devotional period was taken by Mrs. S. Husk with the theme Same is the Pilot On Board, with hymns and prayer.

Eighteen members answered the roll call by reporting 31 Wales Home calls and seven local calls made during the month.

The minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary Miss T. Mills and the treasurer, Mrs. W. Moreland gave a very satisfactory report.

Correspondence consisted of three letters in connection with the Foster Children.

Mrs. Hughes extended thanks from Mrs. Mallette to the members for their assistance for the Wales Home Reception Day.

and also for the Evening of Song and Praise conducted by Mr. and Mrs. W.J. Hyde of Montreal, held at the school.

Mrs. B. Rodgers offered to take charge of flowers for Anniversary Sunday. Members were reminded of the Anniversary service on October 29, followed by a pot luck lunch. Miss M. Kerr solicited food for a banquet that the members are catering for.

Mrs. E. Wentworth and Mrs. W.J. Reed appointed on the nominating committee. Mrs. Florence Foster kindly offered her home for the November meeting.

After the benediction, Mrs. A. Galbraith acted as auctioneer at a table of Biring and Buy articles which realized a nice amount.

This was followed by the serving of refreshments.

B.M.P. W.A. Bazaar

COWANSVILLE — When you mention a Christmas Sale in early November, some people are amused, but others are happy to take advantage of it. These are the lucky ones! Lots and lots of articles are displayed, they are agreeable to look at and appealing to the taste. This is the Bazaar and you cannot be indifferent! You go back home with a choice of gifts or knick knacks you thought you could not live without!

The B.M.P. Women's Auxiliary, with their many years of experience are well aware of the tastes of their customers, so they are prepared to meet them with a selection of: China, Porcelain, ceramics, dried flowers, woolens, dolls, etc.

Friday afternoon November 3, from 2 to 5, the Gift Shop doors will be wide open. Counters will be placed in the Lobby and we will display our merchandise. The auxiliaries will be on hand to greet you.

For those who enjoy good food, prepared with taste, you are invited to the Cafeteria where you will find the "apocryphal corner" a pure delight where it will be possible to buy succulent pastry and "home made" cooking.

After such a shopping spree, what could you enjoy most? Tea of course, and it will be served with the finest of sandwiches and daintiest squares, fingers and cookies prepared by the auxiliaries, some of them worthy of the title of "Cordon Bleu."

Megantic County Historical Society

KINNEAR'S MILLS — At a meeting of the Megantic County Historical Society, held recently in the United Church hall here, another new member was welcomed into the Group.

An interesting business meeting was held, the main item being the planning of an antique show. It was decided to wait until spring to have this showing as this would leave time for arrangements during the winter months.

Nov. 4 was the date set for the next meeting. It was agreed, on account of weather conditions, to have the meeting earlier in the month rather than set it on the usual date, that is the last Monday in each month.

As the attendance was not as large as hoped for at this meeting it was agreed to have the next one an afternoon meeting rather than an evening one, on a trial basis. It is thought this might make it more convenient for older members who don't care for night driving.

Friendly Neighbours Club

ROCK ISLAND — The October party of the Friendly Neighbours Club was entertained at the home of Mrs. Lyle Mosher in Rock Island.

The group of 12 had a pleasant evening playing 500 cards. Mrs. Mildred Wheelock claimed the door prize and card prize winners were Mrs. Geneva Lyons, High; Mrs. Howard Walsh, second; and Mrs. Gordon Johnston, low.

Mrs. Mosher served refreshments. Mrs. Gordon Johnston invited the Club to come to her home in Derby Line for the November party.

Sherbrooke

By WENDY McMULLEN

SHERBROOKE — When Irene Pelletier, successful candidate for Sherbrooke arrived at Liberal party headquarters on Alexandre street yesterday, he was greeted by a telephone call from Pierre Trudeau congratulating him on his victory in the Sherbrooke riding.

Irene Pelletier, winning the Sherbrooke seat with a majority of more than 4,000 over Social Credit candidate Maurice Couture, was greeted by a cheering crowd of the party faithful when he arrived at Liberal party headquarters after it was clear he had won the race. Among the more enthusiastic party supporters were Sherbrooke Mayor Marc Bureau and city councillors Romeo Bergeron and Roger Giguere. The crowd at Liberal headquarters then moved in procession to the Reform Club in Sherbrooke where celebrations continued well into the night.

Irene Pelletier made a short speech thanking Liberal party organizers who had worked with him to make his campaign a success. Following his speech, the Sherbrooke MNA Jean Paul Pepin, announced that he and Mr. Pelletier would work together and they had great plans for Sherbrooke.

"With Irene Pelletier and myself working together, Sherbrooke's future could be very bright," he said.

CHANCE OF 'SPECIAL ZONE'

Interviewed after the speech, Mr. Pepin said there was a 70 per cent chance that Sherbrooke would be declared a "special zone" and receive increased aid from government. Mr. Pepin added he had always wholeheartedly supported Irene Pelletier's candidacy and that he thought the 33-year-old MP might be made a deputy minister in the near future.

While Liberals at the Reform Club were celebrating the large victory for Pelletier in the Sherbrooke riding, many were clearly concerned about the narrow margin of victory for the Liberals in the whole of Canada. Some expressed the belief that the large number of Liberals from Quebec and Progressive Conservatives from Ontario could lead to a division between French and English-speaking Canadians which could be hazardous to national unity.

Some Liberal supporters predicted there would be another election in the near future.

Meanwhile, at the Sherbrooke Sports Club on Fraser street, Social Credit candidate Maurice Couture asserted that the election was a moral victory for the party since the Social Credit party increased the number of votes by 2,000 over the 1968 Social Credit total.

He said that although a certain increase was to be expected because of the 10,000 additional voters in this election, this had not applied to Social Credit since the party had not really had the opportunity to explain the Social Credit system to young persons at universities.

Maurice Couture said he would run again if he was convinced that the people wanted him but that he would not run again otherwise.

SPENT $3,000

"I have spent $3,000 of my own money campaigning for this election," he said and added that he felt that he could have won if he had had more backing and if more funds had been available to him. "The Liberals," he claimed, "spend rich men's money on their campaign whereas we depend on money from the poor people."

Regarding Irene Pelletier, Maurice Couture commented, "I believe he is a gentleman and I wish him well and hope he gets the help from the population he has been asking for."

Couture said that he intended to return to his work as a salesman for Sherwin Williams. "I would rather be at home with my family than in Ottawa," he said. "I did not run for the money but only for the good of the people." The other five candidates in the Sherbrooke riding all lost their deposits.

LESS THAN ONE-THIRD

Dr. Alexandre Kindy, Progressive Conservative, the only other serious contender, received only 6,739 votes, less than one-third of the winning Liberal vote. New Democratic Party candidate, Rebecca Augenthaler, brought in from Montreal, received 1,707 votes and Gerard Gosselin, independent got 1,369. The other candidates Jean Siméon of the "Rhino" party and Johnny Teasdale, independent, each got 839 and 291 votes respectively.

Irene Pelletier, a professor in political science at the University of Sherbrooke for several years will now have the opportunity to put theory into practice in Ottawa.

One of the main themes of Pelletier's campaign in Sherbrooke was the need for participation and assistance by the population in political endeavors.

The new parliament: 259 men, five women

By SCOTT BUTTON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Women once again will be far outnumbered by men when the next session of Parliament settles down to business.

Only five women—three Liberals, a New Democrat and a Progressive Conservative—will be seated in the 264-member House of Commons.

The five were the only winners among 71 women candidates competing in Monday night's general election.

Elected from Quebec, a province which will send a woman to the House of Commons for the first time, were three Liberals—Albanie Morin in the riding of Louis-Herbert, Jeanne Sauvé in Montreal Ahuntsic and Monique Bégin in Montreal St. Michel.

The other women elected were Progressive Conservative Flora MacDonald, a landslide winner in the Ontario riding of Kingston and the Islands, and New Democrat Grace MacInnis in Vancouver Kingsway, the only woman to sit in the last Commons.

CREDITS LIBERALS

Miss MacDonald, 46, gave Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau and former Liberal finance minister Edgar Benson some tongue-in-cheek credit for her victory.

"Mr. Trudeau did me a great favor by procrastinating so long about the date of the election," she said in an interview. "It gave me more time to put my organization together. It was a big asset."

She said that Mr. Benson, who decided against seeking re-election in the Kingston and the Islands riding, helped her cause because his "misleading" of the economy while finance minister swung many voters over to the Conservatives.

Miss MacDonald is former executive secretary of the national Progressive Conservative, an executive director of the Committee for an Independent Canada and a political science instructor at Queen's University.

The three Quebec women winning Monday night all had gone into the election as favorites because the Liberals had won the three seats in 1968.

Mrs. Sauvé, 50, is the wife of former Liberal cabinet minister, Maurice Sauvé, and a well-known reporter-interviewer and host of radio and television programs.

"BREAKING THE ICE"
She said that the victory of the three Quebec women was "breaking the ice very nicely."

Miss Bégin, 36, a sociologist who was research director for the Royal Commission on the Status of Women, defeated three men and a woman in Montreal St. Michel.

Mrs. Morin, a 50-year-old town councillor in Silly, Que., defeated three men and one woman—Independent Henri Tremblay who presented himself late in the race so that the campaign "would not take on the aspects of a beauty contest."

Mrs. Morin said that problems of government, like everyday life, should be able to be solved by "collaboration between men and women."

Mrs. MacInnis, 67, also was a favorite in Vancouver Kingsway, a riding she has held since 1965. Among prominent women defeated was Dr. Pauline Jewett, a former Liberal MP, who lost in Ottawa West under the NDP banner.

Another was Peggie Thatcher, wife of the late Ross Thatcher, Liberal Premier of Saskatchewan for seven years. She ran unsuccessfully as a Liberal in Regina East.

Compton

COMPTON COUNTY — Social Credit incumbent Henry Latulippe retained his Compton county seat squeezing by Liberal hopeful Claude Tessier by 1,056 votes according to the unofficial total reached late last night.

The other candidates in this riding trailed far behind. Progressive Conservative candidate Guy Gauvin counted 4,124 votes, New Democratic hopeful Duncan Graham captured 612 votes while independent Conrad Descoteaux trailed the field with 197 votes.

Gauvin, Graham and Descoteaux all lost their $200 deposits. In order to run, a candidate must post a $200 deposit with the returning officer in his area. If a candidate polls less than half the total of the winning candidate, the deposit is not returned.

For Latulippe, a 59-year-old shop-owner from Lake Mégantic, it marks a fifth consecutive term of office for the Compton county seat. Prior to his first election to the House of Commons in 1962, Latulippe was an alderman in the Lake Mégantic area for nine years.

But the victory was not an easy one for Latulippe. In 1968, he out-poll his nearest Liberal opponent by 3,394 votes. That margin was reduced last night to 1,056 votes. In 1968, Latulippe earned a total of 11,961 votes. Last night, he counted 11,636 votes to Tessier's 10,580. But the

Historians puzzled by election saw-off

By JAMES NELSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Monday's general election results sent historians and constitutional experts scurrying through the records of 1926, 1957, and 1962—and none of them were much help in untangling the new situation.

The 1972 election results are unprecedented—a saw-off between the two leading parties, with almost 20 per cent of the seats held by other parties and independents.

Frank R. Scott of Montreal, former dean of law at McGill University and a constitutional lawyer, said the constitutional duty of the Liberal government is to face the new House of Commons before admitting defeat.

That is what happened in 1926, when the Liberals refused to admit defeat after electing 101 members in the 1925 general election in a Commons of 245 seats. The Conservatives elected 116, the Progressives 24, and Labor and independents, four.

KING DICKERED

Mackenzie King, then prime minister, dickered furiously with the Progressives for support and won some of them over. But when the axe was about to fall on his government in a want-of-confidence vote, he went to Viscount Byng of Vimy, then governor-general, and sought a dissolution and a new general election.

Byng refused, insisting that Arthur Meighen, leader of the opposition, be called on to attempt to form the government, as leader of the Conservatives, the biggest party in the Commons.

Byng's refusal infuriated King, precipitating the memorable Byng-King dispute. Never again has a governor-general refused a prime minister a dissolution of Parliament.

The Liberals elected 116 MPs in the 1926 general election, and the opposition was so split among 91 Conservatives, 11 United Farmers of Alberta, 13 Progressives, nine Liberal Progressives and five others that they were able to carry on until 1930, when the Conservatives went into power with a working majority.

RULED 22 YEARS

The Liberals went back into number of eligible voters has gone up considerably since 1968 now that 18-year-olds are allowed to vote.

Last night's result indicates a weakening of Latulippe's hold on the Compton county seat and a resurgence in strength for the Liberal party. Significantly, Latulippe lost to Tessier in his home poll of Lake Mégantic, 1,818-1,133.

But sources close to the election returns last night pointed to another significant factor—returns of 1,117-717 in favor of Latulippe in East Angus as well as a 1,389-1,173 victory for Latulippe in Coaticook.

Observers summarized last night's result in these terms: Latulippe made up for his loss in Lake Mégantic by winning heavily in Coaticook and East Angus.

Results in Compton also showed the following: Latulippe and Tessier polled 6,765 and 6,415 votes respectively in urban areas in the riding and 4,871 and 4,165 votes respectively in rural areas of riding.

Neither of the two top candidates was available for comment last night although independent Conrad Descoteaux released the following statement soon after it became apparent he would suffer defeat:

"I want to thank my organization, Mr. Wilfred Galant and Mr. Pierre Ethier for the good job they accomplished and I want to thank all the people who voted for the Independents."

"I think my defeat in Compton was from a lack of cooperation from the provincial government, more specifically the high authorities of the Minimum Wage Commission, which I am working for, since they refused me a holiday with salary to complete my campaign."

"So I had to go back to work and this is why I didn't have a chance to see people during the campaign, because when you work, you cannot mix with politics. All documents concerning the holiday without pay that was refused me by the government will be studied and we will hold a press conference this week. I am very sorry that the newspapers didn't print the right documents and pictures which they had before the election."

power under King in 1935, and held sway until the Progressive Conservatives under John Diefenbaker took minority control of the Commons in 1957. The Conservatives elected 112, Liberals 105, CCF 25, Social Credit 19, and there were four others.

But the atmosphere then was entirely different from what it is today. The Liberals were stunned by their defeat, and unwilling to precipitate another election immediately. The Conservatives, who had castigated the Liberals for trampling on the rights of Parliament, eased into power quietly, at first, trying to show the country that the end of 22 years of Liberal government was not necessarily a bad thing.

Mr. Diefenbaker and his inexperienced cabinet governed for nearly nine months, raising old-age pensions and preaching his vision of northern development. When he thought the time was ripe the next spring, he sought dissolution from the late Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, then governor-general—and there was no question of it being granted.

SWEEP TO POWER

The Conservatives swept to power in 1957 with the biggest majority ever accorded a prime minister, 208 seats out of the Commons 265.

The vision faded by 1962, when the Progressive Conservatives elected only 116—another minority government—against 99 Liberals, 30 Social Crediters, 19 NDP members, and one Liberal-Labor who sat with the Liberals.

The Opposition then smelt the blood of battle, hot for another election contest. The government was torn by dissent over Mr. Diefenbaker's leadership and split on the issue of arming Canada's Bomarc missiles with nuclear warheads.

The Liberals came back from the 1963 election with 129 seats in the Commons '95 and formed the government—though a minority one. Again in 1965, Lester B. Pearson sought a majority for the Liberals and failed to get it with only 131 seats of the Commons 265. But it was enough to carry on tenuously.

Prime Minister Trudeau in 1968 got the majority Mr. Pearson strived for, 155 seats in a Commons then reduced to 264. But Monday night it slithered out of his grasp.

Richmond

RICHMOND (WM)—Leonel Beaudoin, Social Credit incumbent for Richmond, achieved an even greater majority than expected yesterday evening in the federal election.

Beaudoin, who won with a majority of 2,665, the largest majority in the Townships in 1968, increased the lead to more than 4,000 yesterday.

Beaudoin commented in an interview after the results had SHEFFORD COUNTY (AR) — One of the most convincing examples of the Social Credit wave occurred in Shefford where incumbent Gilbert Rondeau triumphed by 6,000 votes over the Liberal candidate Jean Paul Neveu.

In 1968 Rondeau upset MP Neveu by 475 votes, setting the stage for the 1972 rematch. The final result indicated that it was no contest.

Active in his constituency and been broadcast that he thought that his support came from everywhere in the area not one particular place. Jubilant about his increased majority he said, "It proves it is possible to defeat the Liberals but you have got to work twice as hard."

Part of Beaudoin's remarkable success is the strong reaction by small businessmen in the area against liberal welfare, unemployment and industrial incentive policies. Also he has tried to maintain close contact with his constituents.

He said recently that during his time in Ottawa he went to every local gathering he possibly could and constantly sent letters to every household.

Beaudoin also asserted shortly before the election that he expected his number of English-speaking supporters to increase because "they know I am all for Canada and against the Parti Québécois."

The other candidates for Richmond were Lucien Bachand, ex-Social Credit provincial vice-president turned Progressive Conservative and Leo-Paul Thibault, Liberal candidate.

Beaudoin said yesterday evening that he wanted to thank all the electors for voting for him and his organizers for working so hard and devoting their time so freely to his campaign.

in Ottawa the Social Credit party whip took firm control from the earliest returns and never looked back. Running third in the race was the Progressive Conservative candidate Guy Arsenault, a Granby lawyer.

Rondeau, President of Sawfarm Farm Equipment in Rougemont, campaigned on his record during his term in office. Interviewed recently by the Record he claimed to have done more for Shefford than the Liberals had for 100 years. Apparently the voters agreed with him.

He was an active member of many parliamentary committees but he always came back to his riding to help his constituents. "I have been going to Shefford three to four times each month to help people solve various problems," he affirmed recently.

"I have given the best of myself and solved thousands of problems dealing with unemployment, insurance, income tax and welfare," he added.

The race in Shefford was complicated by the involvement of Armand Russell, Unite-Quebec MNA and close personal friend of PC candidate Guy Arsenault. However, Russell's party machine did not appear to harm the chances of the Social Credit incumbent.

Vietnam peace would usher in new era

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

If the suggestion of peace in Vietnam proves secure enough to permit withdrawal of all military men and preclude further intervention by sea or air, a sharp corner will be turned in world history.

No longer is there implicit U.S. military support for Southeast Asian countries. They have been mending fences and casting about for alternatives, for new concepts of self-protection.

All will be affected, one way or another—but for South Koreans, Thais and Nationalist Chinese on Taiwan the change, though not sudden, is nonetheless shocking.

In the 1950s, the world picture had a rather simple look of a contest of ideologies, a world Communist bloc against a system of U.S. alliances. In the 1960s, disintegration of Soviet-Chinese ties and China's climb to nuclear power contributed to a process of change. In the 1970s, the scene is dominated by a new and perhaps precarious three-way balance achieved by the Nixon administration's contacts with Peking and Moscow and prospective U.S. retirement from most of the Asian mainland.

BIG CHANGE IN PICTURE
All this represents a startling turnaround in the Asia-Pacific picture. An assumption of sharp decline in U.S. influence and authority is inescapable.

China's influence rises. Russia contests Peking and asserts her own Asian authority by strengthening the Soviet role in India and sending the fleet on showy Pacific and Indian Ocean operations.

What may develop is a test of the Nixon doctrine of 1970. In effect, the doctrine says the United States will provide a nuclear shield for countries whose survival is tied to American security, and furnish military and economic aid to countries threatened by aggression. But it expects them to do the rest of the job themselves without direct American military intervention.

Having gone through the long agony of Vietnam, the U.S. public would be unlikely to support any new deployment of ground forces elsewhere. Since a nuclear shield is unusable against political aggression, is the United States even now implying that political expansion by Asian Communists need no longer represent a threat to American security?

THREAT PLAYED DOWN
The whole picture implies that the Communist threat has been downgraded.

Brome-Missisquoi

COWANSVILLE — The glue came back to Graffey country last night as early polls showed that the native son had returned to power.

The smoke-filled Conservative centre on St. Joseph street was ringing with the voices of party workers who had toiled valiantly for the past two years to insure victory. The celebrations got underway shortly before 9 p.m.

"It was a team victory and the noise is the end result of a justified celebration by those who worked for me," said Mr. Graffey. "There is no answer to hard work. I had felt my strongest opposition was going to come from the Creditistes and that proved to be true."

The victory was no surprise to area residents long familiar with the sight of Graffey shaking hands on the streets and meeting factory workers as they either plied their skills or left places of employment.

One voter remarked, "Whether Heward was in power or out, you knew you could go to him and he would attempt to solve your problems, bureaucratic or otherwise. Probably his greatest asset was the common knowledge that he'd stand up for you, Tory, grit or Creditiste. I'm personally relieved to see such a fighter representing Brome-Missisquoi again."

Mr. Graffey, as gracious in victory as he was in defeat four years ago, said, "My only wish is to see a strong Canada and to insure the electorate of my riding are not forgotten."

"I will continue my previous program of trying to create additional employment in the Opening the country

STEWART, B.C. (CP) — A way of life is changing in British Columbia's wild northwest. Some residents of the sparsely populated area are worried that the change is not for the best.

The new road link from Terrace to Watson Lake and the B.C. Railway extension to Dease Lake are opening up the country and ending forever the isolation people in this area have endured—or enjoyed—for decades.

Whether the changes will bring civilization is another matter.

The people of the northwest seem to be accepting the change, but not without apprehension.

As Kay HUGHAN puts it: "I suppose we must have progress, but it would be nice to be able to guide it a little."

Mrs. HUGHAN is a second-generation resident of the northwest. Her mother was born in 1885 in the old village of Aiyansh on the Nass River 60 miles north of Terrace. Mrs. HUGHAN was born there in 1911.

area. We must have a wider scope of employment to offer young people—at the same time I will strive to improve essential community services.

A LIFE OF DIGNITY
"We mustn't forget the lot of senior citizens, many of whom reside here. There must be one of dignity," he concluded.

In yesterday's election Mr. Graffey was restored to power with a majority of more than 3,300 votes. He lost out to former incumbent Yves Forest by 1,200 votes in the 1968 election.

Perhaps the biggest surprise in the riding was the sudden surge by the Creditistes who went from approximately 5,800 votes in 1968 to 9,000 cast for candidate Jean Paul Lasnier in the 1972 poll.

The Creditistes made most of their headway in the Iberville section of the riding, one which went Graffey all the way in the last election.

Significant trends for the victor in last night's election included a solid sweep in the Township of Bedford, Sutton, Town of Brome Lake, Cowansville and Eastman.

AMID SURPRISE

In Bedford Graffey's clear-cut margin came as a mild surprise, since many observers felt that Mr. Forest's work in local initiative projects would create a closer battle.

The ridings of Cowansville, and Mr. Graffey's own riding of Town of Brome Lake were not close as the PC member carried a margin of approximately 1,700 votes in the former district and about 600 in the latter.

Farnham, usually a touchy area, also went to Mr. Graffey by a slim margin of 120 votes. Graffey failed to win this district in the last election.

Mr. Forest, as expected, was able to gain some ground in his own Magog district, but an improvement by Graffey and a fair amount of strength by the Creditistes held the margin to around 800 votes. Omeriville, which many thought to be a gain for the Liberals fell to Mr. Graffey.

A hint of what was to come occurred early in the returns as Graffey assumed the lead and never relinquished his grasp.

With all but four of the polls counted, the returns showed Mr. Graffey a clear winner with 15,594 votes. Yves Forest, the former Liberal incumbent amassed 12,204 votes. 9,038 electors cast ballots for the SC candidate Jean Paul Lasnier and 795 votes were cast for NDP standard-bearer Jean - Guy Lewis.

HOLD FOR STANFIELD WIN

MISTER PRIME MINISTER!

HOLD ON — Even professional journalists playing the percentages sometimes get it wrong. The Record, along with many other newspapers across Canada, yesterday received two sketches from political cartoonist Yardley Jones. The instructions above each cartoon made one thing perfectly clear, "Hold for Trudeau win", and

HOLD FOR TRUDEAU WIN

"Hold for Stanfield win". Well, we all know what happened. Mr. Jones good work went for naught in what turned out to be the closest race in Canadian electoral history.

Stanfield

HALIFAX (CP) — Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield will outline his views today on what he believes the government should do as a result of one of the closest general elections the country has known.

Results were still seesawing back and forth with first the Conservatives, then the Liberals holding a slight margin in seats when Mr. Stanfield spoke to hundreds of joyous party workers and supporters at Conservative party headquarters after midnight.

"As of now, we should wait to see what morning brings," Mr. Stanfield said. "I think we should await the morning because a number of the counts were very close."

He appeared to be coolest person in the building. Beside him his wife Mary wore a broad smile and daughters Judy and Mimi appeared excited by it all.

As the hundreds of persons who jammed the building left after about six hours of watching results, the count was Liberals 105, Conservatives 107, New Democrats 29, Social Credit 14, others 2. There were still seven incomplete results.

WON'T SPECULATE

Mr. Stanfield resisted reporters who asked him to speculate on what Prime Minister Trudeau would do.

Aides said later Mr. Stanfield would hold a news conference a round 11 a.m. EST today.

The Conservative leader spent election night with his family and close aides watching results. He made a brief appearance early in the evening to thank workers and supporters for his own quick reelection in the Halifax riding.

He also thanked Atlantic voters who gave the Conservatives 22 of the 32 seats in the four provinces. They held 25 of them in the last Parliament.

Atlantic support for his party had remained firm, he said.

SMELL VICTORY

As Ontario results flowed in offsetting the heavy support Quebec gave the Liberals, the headquarters began to sense a victory.

"Go, Bob, go," they shouted as the Conservatives edged closer.

"We're number one, we're number one," was the yell as returns, later corrected, showed the Conservatives in the lead.

There were shouts of "Prime Minister Stanfield" as the Conservative leader made his way through the crowd for his appearance on national television.

Mr. Stanfield was low-key all the way.

After saying it was too early to assess the results, he added that he wanted to thank all Canadians who supported his party's candidates.

Lewis

TORONTO (CP) — Pleased but cautious after leading the New Democratic Party to a record number of Commons seats, David Lewis pledged Monday to support any minority government that would adequately tackle Canada's economic problems.

"We wouldn't go for tokens," the greying, 63-year-old party leader told a midnight news conference in his York South riding here.

But any government that would deal with unemployment, the high cost of living and the system of giving big companies tax and grant breaks, would receive support from the 30 elected members in his party.

When his first election day as party leader ended, Mr. Lewis and 29 other New Democrats were assured of seats. There was a possibility of gaining two more.

He said he wanted to talk over the nebulous result of the federal vote with other party people before making a definite statement today because of the "really difficult situation" now facing the country.

Canadians would not be happy with another election in two or three months, he said as his party tallied up enough seats to make them balance-of-power holders in the next Parliament.

But the NDP "will not be intimidated into accepting anything for the sake of avoiding an election."

Earlier, he said the thought of a minority government did not disturb him. Rather, it "might do Canada a lot of good."

Two of the country's worst governments were the majority administrations of Conservative prime minister John Diefenbaker from 1958 to 1962 and the last one of Liberal Prime Minister Trudeau, he said.

"It's a choice of the people."

Later, he watched quietly while the prime minister told a national television audience that the vote meant that "the universe is unfolding as it should."

"That's a fancy way of saying what is, is," he replied.

The election was an "important defeat" for the prime minister and proved that Canadians were "disenchanted with the Trudeau government."

The New Democrats exceeded the 25 seats held in the last Parliament and squeezed by the former record 28 held by their forerunners, the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation in 1945.

The party gained four seats in Ontario, three in British Columbia and claimed the only representative in the Northwest Territories.

But the party lost ground in Saskatchewan, birthplace of the CCF, and once again was shut out of anything east of the Ontario-Quebec border.

Mr. Lewis explained the western results as a negative reaction to Mr. Trudeau's government.

"It was something we feared from the start," he said. The party felt the "anti-Trudeau trend" would encourage voters to elect Conservatives as the "most credible alternative."

The fluently-bilingual, former Montrealer was obviously disappointed with the vote in Quebec, where the NDP has never elected a member, but said it would require time to build a firmer party base in that province.

And he was also disappointed with results in Atlantic Canada where the NDP and the CCF historically have elected only one member—M. V. MacInnis in Cape Breton South who sat between 1947-57 and later in 1962-63.

Nevertheless, Mr. Lewis said he remained jubilant despite the results because the party had not only held ground, but increased its elected numbers.

He was particularly surprised and delighted with Wally Firth's victory in the Northwest Territories—the party's first member from the region—because Mr. Firth well understood the problems of native people.

Trudeau

OTTAWA (CP) — "It's not over yet."

The words were spoken by Prime Minister Trudeau early this morning as he went home after a disheartening evening of watching the large Liberal majority of the last Parliament slip away.

Minutes before the prime minister was overheard expressing this bit of optimism he had said in a statement that he must await for final results today before deciding what happens to his government following the closest general election in Canadian history.

At the time, shortly after midnight, the Liberals had a one-seat lead over Robert Stanfield's Conservative party.

The prime minister permitted no questions after making his statement before a small number of cheering supporters and a larger number of reporters and photographers in a hall in a downtown hotel.

His complete statement:

"First I want to thank the people of Montreal Mount Royal who voted for me and my association which worked very hard and which brought support for me in there in Mount Royal."

"Secondly I want to thank the people of Canada who did vote for our members. I congratulate those who were returned."

"I want to say I'm sorry to those who lost in our party and in other parties. I'm sure there's a lot of broken dreams there. I met so many people across the country who wanted to come to Ottawa to work as members of Parliament."

"And I just want to tell them they have done a great service to democracy by running for Parliament, by running hard, giving the best they had."

"I just want to tell them to cheer up."

"For the rest there's not much I can say. I understand that the results are still a little bit uncertain. I'm not sure if we're slightly ahead or slightly behind."

"Apparently there's a lot of seats that still have to be finally counted."

"So I find it difficult to say anything else. I'm not sure what the final results will be."

"Tomorrow we will obviously know and I will have to decide then what happens to us, what happens to the government."

Then the prime minister harked back to a quotation from Desiderata, a poem he quoted last May when he said the country faced an 'election-free summer.'

"Whether or not it is clear to you, no doubt the universe is unfolding as it should."

Having said that he went home.

Liberals, those that could be found, could give no indication of when or whether the prime minister will have a news conference today.

Party officials disappeared as it became apparent the Liberals could hope only to form a minority government.

As results came from the Maritimes and Quebec, officials remained in evidence. But as it became evident that Ontario was winging away from the Liberals they slowly started to disappear.

By the time Alberta results started coming in, not one could be seen.

They had joined the prime minister and a party of about 100 on the 25th floor of the hotel. The guests, party officials and some cabinet ministers, watched the results there, well out of sight of reporters who were not allowed near them.

It is reported that with most of the Ontario results in Mr. Trudeau left the party and went into another room to phone candidates.

At one stage a group of four young persons came into the press room, obviously there to start celebrating.

They left shortly after one of their number said: "Jesus, we're in trouble."

Caouette

ROUYN, Que. (CP) — Real Caouette, federal leader of the Social Credit party, said Monday night he is willing to support either the Liberals or the Conservatives as the next government.

Mr. Caouette was convincingly re-elected in his own riding of Temiscamingue by more than 6,000 votes, the biggest majority since he entered the House of Commons in 1948.

Early today his party had elected 13 and was leading in two ridings. The party's share of the popular vote in Quebec increased to almost 25 per cent in this election from 17 per cent in 1968.

Mr. Caouette said he recognizes that the New Democratic Party and not Social Credit holds the balance of power. Earlier in the evening, he had told supporters the Social Credit would be in the buggy seat, running the government with a whip.

Drinking coffee, the bleary-eyed Mr. Caouette stayed on at his committee headquarters past midnight with a handful of his supporters who had numbered about 500 earlier in the evening.

"The NDP may have the balance of power, but the government will still have to compose with us," he said, adding that there would be no coalition but he would be willing to support a government that would govern along the lines established in the Social Credit program.

Mr. Caouette said that during the campaign, the Conservatives had the platform closest to that of Social Credit.

Mr. Caouette said the Conservatives had basically the same position as Social Credit on the guaranteed annual income, increasing old-age pensions and removing the 11-percent tax on building materials.

"I don't see the NDP aligning themselves with the Conservatives," he said. "I'm ready for another federal election in six months if there is need for one."

Because, if you're ever going to take advantage of what a bank can do for you, we've got to talk.

About budgets.

We can start with our free Money Guide. A little wheel that gives you some idea of how much rent your income will stand and interesting things like that.

We can show you all kinds of accounts and services to help you plan your spending and saving. And we know which ones are realistic for you and which ones aren't. Simply because we use them ourselves.

About homes and home improvements.

We've got every kind of financing imaginable from small personal loans to large mortgages.

And we've got an attitude that makes our lending more flexible than most.

We'll mortgage where there aren't even paved roads yet. Or we'll lend you enough to improve a solid old house that may not look so good right now. Or we'll help you improve or extend your present house so you can stay in a neighbourhood you know and like.

About investments.

We can lend you money to invest in the stock market. Which is a good way for you to invest in Canadian companies and in Canada's future.

You can borrow as much as $10,000 and, depending on the amount, you can pay us as little as $20 a month.

We'll even throw in a subscription to the Financial Post or Financial Times and a little folder that explains Bulls and Bears. Just so you'll know what to call yourself.

Let's talk.

The First Canadian Bank

Bank of Montreal

About travel.

We can arrange a travel loan so maybe you can take advantage of a charter, without taking a big chunk out of your savings. We'll give you our free Foreign Currency guide. We'll get you safe, secure traveller's cheques for only one cent on the dollar. We'll let you know if we have branches where you're going, to give you a little feeling of home. And, while you're gone, we can pay your more important bills for you and send you your earnings as they come in.

About business.

A lot of people got their starts with us. Which means that we know the ins and outs of running a small company or store.

And because we deal with big corporations, we know a lot about international banking, corporate financing and services, and export development.

Enough that maybe we can help your big corporation. Or help your little corporation to become a big one.

About car-buying.

We know what a problem an old car can be and we know what an expense a new car can be. So we're doing a lot to get you out from under. We've even got a special loan that gives you the full purchase price of the car. You don't need a down payment and you can make your payments on a schedule we'll tailor specially for you. At the same rates that our regular loans offer.

About a lot of other things.

Anything that you think might be of interest to us probably is. Because it's in our best interest to have you get more out of life.

If we don't have the answers you want, we'll try to get them for you. And that's a promise.

Now, what would you like to talk about.

HEAD TABLE OF W.I. PRESIDENTS — L. to r. first four are: Mrs. L. Driver, charter member; Mrs. V.R. Beattie, provincial president; Mrs. Broscombe, county president; Mrs. N. Fowler, branch president.

Melbourne Ridge W.I.

The Melbourne Ridge W.I. celebrated their 50th anniversary this year and spent a gala afternoon on Oct. 14. About 80 W.I. members from all 8 county branches attended.

Upon entering guests were asked to sign the guest book by Mary Wood and then were given a number by Ethel Adamson for a door prize.

The branch president Shirley Fowler opened by asking everyone to rise and repeat the Mary Stewart Collect. The Ode was then sung followed by singing 'Hail Hail The Gang's All Here'.

The provincial president Mrs. V.R. Beattie was welcomed and Shirley Nelson pinned a lovely blue and gold corsage on her. The same was done for county president Mrs. Broscombe.

The history for 50 yrs. that had been compiled and written by Dianna Taber and Marg Smith was read. One minute of silence was observed for the deceased members.

Following this the president had a very pleasant chore to perform. Ruth Driver was introduced and asked to come forward.

She is the only charter member for 50 yrs. of this W.I. branch. Mrs. V.R. Beattie pinned a 50 yr. pin on her and Mrs. Thormin pinned on a blue and gold corsage. Another member who joined here in 1922 and was a member till 1948 when she moved to Lennoxville where she joined that group. She was unable to be present but was presented with a gold basket with blue and yellow flowers and had an honourable mention as one of our loyal members.

Violet McMorine and Irene Kerr were introduced as our two senior citizen members. They were both present and are still active as best they can be and are very interested in the W.I. work. They were presented with gifts by Marion Kerr.

A letter of congratulations was read from Marion Settelund of Kingston, Jamaica, who is the niece of the two 50-yr. members and also a former member herself. A letter was read from Kathleen Hamilton of Picton, Ont., who was a former member and unable to attend.

The ladies then rose and sang "Some Folks Do." Marg Smith read the first min. available which was Jan. 1926.

W.A.—W.M.S. joint meeting

MELBOURNE — The joint meeting of the W.A. and W.M.S. of L'Eglise des Cantons de l'Est was held in the church hall on Wed., Oct. 11 with Mrs. Lucien Perron, the vice-president in the chair. The roll call was answered by six members. Mrs. Real Larochele lead in the devotional period.

In the absence of the president Mrs. R. Gifford, Mrs. Perron read the report which was very encouraging. The minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary Mrs. L. Vidal.

After the meeting and business period were over the Auxiliary Prayer was repeated.

W.M.S. MEETING
Mrs. Real Larochele, president of the W.M.S. opened the meeting with prayer after which Mrs. Lucien Perron gave a very satisfactory treasurer's report, and Mrs. C.P.R. Fortier the secretary read the minutes of the last meeting.

Plans were finalized for the Christmas tea to be held on Wednesday, Nov. 15. After a short business meeting was concluded the ladies of St. Andrews Presbyterian Church, Upper Melbourne joined the group for a Thanksgiving service. The program was taken from Glad Tidings, with Mrs. R. Larochele leading. Two poems

'I was Seeing Nellie Home' was sung followed by a lively game in which five prizes were won.

A skit of hats, purses, and jewellery made from household items was performed by 11 members. They were Shirley Johnston, Gertrude Marshall, Dianna Taber, Shirley Nelson, Myrtle Johnston, Shirley Fowler, Ruby Hawker, Muriel Stawker, Edna Frank, Maudie Thormin and Mary Dalton.

The commentary read by Florence Roster put on the finishing touch and was the cause of much laughter. It was thoroughly enjoyed by all.

To finish the entertainment a short piece titled 'What a Grandmother Is' was read. Mrs. Beattie said a few words and brought greetings from the provincial office to our branch.

Mrs. Broscombe said a few words of praise for us and also brought greetings from all of the county members.

Everyone joined in the singing of "Good Night Ladies" and "Oh Canada."

The head table was set for the 10 presidents and Ruth Driver. The table was set with flow blue dishes which matched perfectly our blue and gold colors of the W.I. There was a lovely center piece of flowers of blue and yellow with a blue ribbon across it inscribed in gold "For Home and Country".

This was donated by Edna Frank and later presented to Carrie Ward, a member residing at the Wales Home. A very lovely cake made by Edna Frank and decorated by Marg Smith also adorned the table. The cake was done in white and yellow with two blue candles on a large gold 50 at the top. It was surrounded by large gold roses.

The room was decorated with blue and gold streamers and gold 50s. The Canadian flag and motto of the W.I. were hung behind the head table.

A delicious lunch in charge of Noreen Wilkins and Marg Smith was served buffet style. Every member contributed to the lunch.

The door prize was won by Muriel Parks. The chair prize was won by Mrs. V.R. Beattie and the cup prize was won by Florence Roster. These prizes were donated by Ruth Driver and Ethel Adamson.

The ladies then rose and sang "Some Folks Do." Marg Smith read the first min. available which was Jan. 1926.

Mrs. Shirley Hawkes, of Bury, showed some very modern wall plaques, made on canvas, decorated with dried colored weeds and felt, the colors were bright and the designs original and attractive.

Mr. T. Harbinson, of Birchton, had an interesting collection of clocks, and his sister, Mrs. Victor Bernard, of East Angus, had some team-bells dating from 1878.

Mrs. Ronald Stokes was the convener for obtaining these exhibits, and did an excellent job.

Refreshments were served in the lower hall having been jointly conveyed by Mrs. Victor Bernard and Mrs. Wells Coates, of East Angus, with other ladies in the district helping in the serving, in the kitchen and in providing the refreshments.

Mrs. Basil Prescott, of Birchton, acted as cashier and Mrs. Stanley Bishop, of East Angus, received new memberships.

Several of the ladies and gentlemen acted as guides in the Museum at Eaton for those who wished to see the exhibits there also.

The executive expresses its thanks and appreciation to all exhibitors, and to those who helped to make this project a success.

Canadiana Tea & Hobby Show

COOKSHIRE — Sponsored by the Compton County Historical and Museum Society a very successful Canadiana Tea and Hobby Show was held in the Birchton Church Hall on Saturday, Oct. 14, 1972, from 2-5 p.m.

It was noted that over 100 were present, coming from Richmond, Windsor Mills, Danville, Bishopston, Lennoxville, Sherbrooke, Bury, East Angus, Sawyerville, Birchton and Cookshire.

The hobbies were displayed in the upper story of the building; some were most colorful, and all were beautifully made, many were of great historical interest and of value.

Mr. and Mrs. W.F. Campbell, of Cookshire, had an interesting collection of Canadian crockery made by the Brantford Pottery (1889) some made in Hamilton, Ont., (1880-1900) some from the Prince Edward Island Pottery, Ithaca, Que., and St. Johns, Que., (1855-1860), from Cornwall, Ont., (1880-1900) 20th century pottery from Medicine Hat, Alta. and some British porcelain. These included pitchers, a liquor jug, baking dishes, a butter churn, a soap dish, a colander, crocks, etc.

Mrs. Lois Callan, of Sawyerville, had a large display of buttons, some made of Goodyear Rubber, calico, some with animals, fruit or flowers on them, soldiers' uniform buttons, jet and glass, jewel buttons which men wore on their tattered brocade vests in the 19th century. French enamel, depicting skating in Central Park (U.S.A.), Mary Queen of Scots, mythology symbols, etc.

Mr. Lionel Hurd displayed a Long Rifle which had originally belonged to Col. Edmund Heard (1793-1814).

Mrs. M.E. Desruisseaux, of Birchton, displayed a rose-design woven tapestry table cloth, which was more than 100 years old.

Mr. Wayner Laberee, of Bury, had a fine collection of coins, some dating as far back as 1815, 1837, 1842, 1919, 1965 and 1967. They included Wellington tokens, Habitant tokens, Bouquet sous, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick coins before they entered Confederation, and some of the more modern silver dollars. From about 1842 banks were permitted to mint coinage.

Ronald Stokes, of Bury, had a collection of crystal goblets, a small hand sewing machine, a fleaming knife, a whale oil lamp, a single-tined hay fork, a hay knife of 1820, a wooden box for 'suggestions' to the Editor in Sutton, Que., dated July 21, 1861, a hand-made jack knife (1830) a tooth puller, over 200 years old (which was an instrument for extracting teeth before they invented forceps), a marble plate made in the Drennan Gravestone Shop by the late William Cork (between 70-80 years old), a show case from Pope's Store in Cookshire (over 100 years old), a steel for striking flint for making fire (about 200 years old).

Mrs. George Churcher, of Bishopston, showed a display of modern handicrafts, which included braided and woven rugs, wooden hand-carved bowls, egg cups, candle holders, suede leather articles, a macramé belt and wall hanging, woven linen towels, knitted angora wool sweaters and tam, a patch-work quilt of red wheel design, wrought-iron candle sticks, stained glass necklaces, crocheted stoles, knitted socks and mitts.

Mrs. Shirley Hawkes, of Bury, showed some very modern wall plaques, made on canvas, decorated with dried colored weeds and felt, the colors were bright and the designs original and attractive.

Mr. T. Harbinson, of Birchton, had an interesting collection of clocks, and his sister, Mrs. Victor Bernard, of East Angus, had some team-bells dating from 1878.

The family

25th wedding anniversary

SPOONER POND — On October 7, nearly 200 friends and relatives gathered at the Bellevue Golf Club to help celebrate the 25th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Dunlavy.

It was a complete surprise to the couple, as they were invited by Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Brock to join them, in celebrating an anniversary party for friends. Upon arrival at the hall, they were met at the door by their two children, Raymond, who presented his mother with a corsage of red roses, and Marion, who pinned a white carnation on her father's lapel.

They were then escorted into the hall to the strains of music, where congratulations and best wishes were extended by all present. The surprised but happy couple were then joined by everyone in the Grand March, with Herb Stevens, Malcolm Knowles, Marlene McCourt, and Mrs. Charles Granger, providing the music until midnight. Steve Perkins acted as Master of Ceremonies, and called for the square dance changes.

Miss Maureen Murphy was in charge of the guest book.

At midnight a buffet lunch was served, with the three-tiered fruit cake, made and decorated beautifully by Mrs. Pierre-Paul Desilets which was cut and passed around.

Mr. Henry Mulvena, of Winnipeg Man. presented Mr. Dunlavy with a purse of money, and Mrs. Dunlavy with a beautiful bouquet of pink carnations.

Mr. Dunlavy, on behalf of his wife, expressed his thanks to all, for such a wonderful evening, and the delight at having so many friends.

The hall was decorated for the occasion with fall flowers, and silver 25's, complete with an apple tree, with beautiful red apples secured to the branches, all the artistic work of Miss Maureen Murphy, Mrs. Larry Cinnamon, Miss Marion Dunlavy, Eric and Brian Brock. The fall flowers were a gift of Mrs. Merrill Hodge.

Guests attending were from Winnipeg, Man., Edmonton, Alta., Montreal, Granby, West Shefford, Windsor, Waterloo, Maricourt, St. Felix de Kingsey, and the surrounding district.

91st Birthday

BULWER — Mrs. W.G. Pinchin, assisted by her daughter, Dorothy, entertained in honor of her mother, Mrs. A.R. Merrill, on the occasion of her 91st birthday, at their home in Eaton Corner.

Thirty four members of the family were present, including her sons Kenneth and Stuart, and her daughters Edna (Mrs. Waymond Little), Marjorie (Mrs. W.G. Pinchin), and Jeanne (Mrs. Justin Lowry). One daughter, Annie (Mrs. K. Hodge), was unable to be present as she had just returned from hospital that day.

Also present were one daughter-in-law, three sons-in-law, 11 grandchildren, eight great-grandchildren, four nieces and nephews and two sisters-in-law, Mrs. B.A. Crosby of Lennoxville and Mrs. M.P. Sharran of North Hatley.

Several pictures were taken, including one of the guest of honor, holding her youngest grandchild, Stephanie Lowry, eleven month old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Justin Lowry. There was also one of four generations: Mrs. Merrill, her daughter Edna, Edna's son Wayne and his children, Dannie, Debbie, Brenda and Kathy.

Lunch was served buffet style. The dining room table was centered with an arrangement of red carnations, a gift from her granddaughter Marsha Merrill, who was unable to be present, and the traditional birthday cake was made and decorated by her granddaughter Dorothy Pinchin. The guest of honor received many gifts and cards.

Social & Personal

Mr. George Speck is a medical patient in the Sherbrooke Hospital.

Mrs. Florence Charron, who has spent some time with her daughter Mrs. Joe Dufour, has taken an apartment at 315 High St., Sherbrooke. Mrs. Charron also spent a time with Mrs. G. Drew in Coaticook.

Pourers at the Chicken Patty Tea and Christmas Sale to be held at Plymouth-Trinity Church Hall, Dufferin St., on November 4th, will be Mrs. M. Fuller, Mrs.

T.A. Cadman, Mrs. W.E. Hodge, and Mrs. C. Drummond.

Mrs. A. Trussler has returned to her home in Lennoxville after spending the past three weeks with her daughter Mrs. Rosa Heath of Toronto who has been very ill. While with her daughter Mrs. Trussler had her 76th Birthday. She received some lovely gifts, and a watch from her daughter, also Birthday cake from her daughter and friends Mr. and Mrs. L. Marler and family of Port Credit, Ont.

Dixville Home Notes

Mr. Horace Gardner has recently been ordained into the Quebec and Ontario Baptist convention. Rev. Gardner is Head Chaplain of the Home and also teaches grades 6 to 8 in our school.

A number of new staff have arrived during the past few weeks. Dr. Armando Araujo of El Salvador, Mr. Donald Bliss of Rock Island, Miss Mylinda Dyck of St. Catharines, Ont., Mr. James Little of Ayer's Cliff, Mr. Keith Mosher of Rock Island, Mr. John Newfield of Abbotsford, British Columbia and Miss Wendy Williams of Danville, Que.

Miss Judy Simms married Mr. Brulotte. Mr. and Mrs. Brulotte reside in Coaticook.

During the International World Congress of the Mentally Retarded a large percentage of the staff took the opportunity to view the Home's display as well as to take in the various lectures.

Groups of students from the Champlain College are spending several hours each week at the Home as part of their practical experience in their course of Special Education.

The course has started at the Home with 30 students enrolled. The potato crop, which the older boys planted, weeded and harvested, turned out very successful, with a return of ten times what they planted.

Two more boys are working in our store, one is cutting meat and the other boy is stacking and pricing.

The sale of handicrafts in the United Church Hall in Lennoxville where the Home had a table was successful. Many of the woven rugs, beads and pot holders made by the children were sold. Mrs. Andrews, Mrs. Blokzijl and David, one of the boys, sold the articles.

Shipton W.I. Trophy

The Shipton Women's Institute Trophy was presented to Miss Peggy Stalker, a level 4 student at A.D.S. Elementary School. Peggy had 24 winning entries. Not far off was her sister Joanne with 19 winning entries, and third came Irwin Perkins with 18 winning entries. Over and above the prize money and W.I. trophy to keep for a year the First Place winner gets three dollars and second place getting two dollars.

The Shipton Women's Institute who sponsor this fair are very proud of these children. With a total enrolment of 212 in this school, 181 children entered exhibits in the annual school fair, thus making the 1972 event a most successful one.

West Sutton

Mrs. M. Kowal and sons of Ontario, Mr. and Mrs. H.H. Robinson of Sutton, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ethan Perkins.

Miss Valerie Macey has commenced her teaching duties, in Sutton Elementary School.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Johnson, of Chateaugay, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Buchy, Mrs. A. Buchy of Philadelphia, were Sept. 18 guests of their brother Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Robinson and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Page of California, spent Sept. 16 guest of his brother Mr. Raymond Page, Mrs. Page and Nason. We are all pleased to know that Mr. Raymond Page has returned home from B.M.P. Hospital, after being a patient there.

Mrs. Leon Jordan attended the W.I. meeting held in Sutton Grace Church parish hall Sept. 14.

Mr. R. Dewar, principal at A.D.S. Peggy Stalker receiving trophy from Mrs. R. Hull, President of the Shipton Women's Institute.

Myrtle Rebekah Lodge

Frank Hanford, PGR; Bro. Harry Burt, PGR of the Grand Encampment of Quebec.

The following distinguished guests were also welcomed and presented: Sister Dorothy Woods, President of the Rebekah Assembly of Quebec; Brother Francis Healy, Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Quebec; and Brother Percy Burnham, Grand Patriarch of the Grand Encampment. They were escorted to the dais where Brother Healy and Brother Burnham spoke briefly to the lodges.

Sister Rhoda Pratt, DDP, then presented Sister Dorothy Woods with a corsage in her chosen colors of red, white and blue.

Sister Woods graciously expressed her thanks for the gift and the courtesies which had been extended to her.

Sister Doris McHarg, PDDP, gave the address of welcome and Sister Ruth Stoddard, PP, of Princess Rebekah Lodge No. 4 responded.

Two minutes of silence were observed to honor the memory of all departed Brothers and Sisters, and a short prayer was offered by Sister Ethel Cruickshank.

Reports of the activities, membership and funds of the two lodges were given.

Sister Margaret Currier, Assembly Treasurer, was recommended for the office of District Deputy President for 1972-73.

Two items of floor work depicting the President's emblems were well presented by members of the lodges.

All the guests who were called on to speak expressed their thanks to the District Deputy for the fine meeting.

The President, Sister Dorothy Woods, then gave her address in which she urged all lodge members to participate in the good work of the Order. Sister Woods stated that the older members should be made to feel that they had much to contribute to Oddfellowship.

The meeting was closed in ritual form by the officers of Myrtle Rebekah Lodge No. 28.

Guests attended from Montreal, Greenfield Park, Granby, Sawyerville, Scottstown, Bishopston, Cowansville, Knowlton, Sherbrooke, Richmond, Danville, Rock Island, Ayer's Cliff and Lennoxville.

SYLVANIA makes stereo worth listening to.

In fact, it makes it superb.

Modern 3-piece modular stereo with built-in AM/FM/Stereo-FM solid state tuner superbly recreates the original performance of any recorded or broadcast material. Of particular interest is the remote sealed air-suspension speaker system which includes two 8" base woofers and four 3 1/2" tweeters.

We are indebted to Eddy Kantar and the American Contract Bridge League Bulletin for today's hand.

The play starts out normally enough. Dummy's ace of clubs holds the first trick and West wins the second trick with the ace of trumps. He leads a second club and South ruffs.

Now South plays another trump and East must discard. East's correct discard is his last club. This card is useless but it should be played in accordance with the principle of "Treat 'em rough and tell 'em nothing."

At the table, East made the mistake of discarding a low spade. Eddy might have made the hand even without this tell-tale play, but he had no trouble after it was made. He simply led a spade from dummy, finessed his

Red Cross meets

HIGH FOREST — The Red Cross held their regular meeting with Mrs. Alice Wilson on Oct. 5 when dinner was enjoyed by the members and several visitors. Sewing was done during the afternoon.

Some sweaters have been turned in and a box of a new sewing received and some of this was given out.

A donation was gratefully received. A bill for material was ordered paid. Plans were made for the dinner for next meeting and members will be notified where it will be held.

By Ann Landers

Ann Landers, housewife
—with the not so white wash

Dear Ann Landers: As a former resident of Eau Claire, Wisconsin, I was fascinated by your statement that when you lived there, more than 20 years ago, you had the whitest wash on Valmont Avenue.

That statement also intrigued a reporter for The University of Wisconsin campus paper who decided to do some digging on her own. This is what she wrote:

"Dear Ann Landers: It wasn't very nice of you to publicly insult your former neighbors in a column that circulates all over the world. I contacted several women who lived near you in those days and this is what they had to say about your claiming the whitest wash on Valmont Avenue:

"Mrs. Emma Weiss of 1619 Valmont Avenue commented: 'Ann was a wonderful neighbor but I don't recall that her wash was any cleaner than anyone else's.'"

"Mrs. Paul Marg of 1610 Valmont said: 'I never paid much attention to my neighbor's wash. I couldn't tell you if Ann's was the cleanest or the dirtiest. But I do remember her as a very sweet and interesting person.'"

"Mrs. G. W. Bremel of 1618 Valmont recalled: 'Mrs. Lederer (Ann now) was a nice neighbor.

She mended her own business.' A few others had similar comments but they preferred to remain anonymous. So it seems, Ann, that no one in Eau Claire remembers your wash as well as you do. Borrowing one of your nuggets of advice, I say, 'Count your blessings — but make sure they're yours.' — Maggie Menard Of The Spectator

Dear Maggie: I remember every one of those women. They were all good neighbors and they minded their own business, too. I apologize if I insulted their laundry. Will you please go back and give them all my warm regards?

Dear Ann Landers: Now that the great American home wrecker (football) is being glorified on all the networks, will you please relay a message to my husband? There is no chance that I can get his attention until January, but he might listen to you.

Dear Husband: I am fast slipping into a state of depression as I face another season of watching you watch the idiot box as if it were the only thing in life that matters. But then I guess it is. I find it quite remarkable that you chat so easily with the players, whom you don't even know (and who never answer you, of course), while I sit there, the woman who has been married to you for 15 years, bore you three healthy, beautiful children, and I could drop dead in front of your eyes and you wouldn't even notice.

I find it fascinating that you can call each and every player by name. You know where they were born and how much they weigh. I am certain you do not know how much your own children weigh and at this point I wouldn't bet that you could call them by name.

For the last three Thanksgivings you have not come to the table to eat with us.

Christmas and New Year's it was the same story. When your children grow up they will remember that you ignored them. Nature has a strange way of paying people back. When you want their love and affection, they will tell you to get lost. — The Girl In Your Wedding Picture. Remember Me?

Dear Girl: I'm printing this in October in the hope that things will brighten up around your house before the holidays. Thanks for writing.

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB

Quit Drinking
To Solve Problem

Dear Dr. Lamb—My husband drinks heavily on weekends and it makes him quite sick. He complains afterwards about his stomach burning. For relief he drinks milk, takes Maalox and soda water. Could you possibly give me some advice as to what the burning and bloating is. Is it a stomach ulcer? I would appreciate any advice as I can't get him to a doctor.

Dear Reader—The obvious answer to his problem is to quit drinking. If this is an every weekend affair, he probably needs help. Your letter suggests that he functions all right otherwise, and I presume that his weekend drinking signifies that he is gainfully employed during the week.

Weekend alcoholics aren't necessarily new. That's what gave rise to the term "lost weekend." He really should see a doctor to find out about his general physical condition and get some help from him in stopping drinking. Short of this, I would recommend that he contact Alcoholics Anonymous (AA) and see if they can help him with his problem. Make no mistake about it, anyone who drinks regularly on weekends to the point that they make themselves sick does have an alcohol problem.

The stomach complaint you describe is typical of individuals who overindulge in alcohol. It is called alcoholic gastritis, which literally means inflammation of the stomach caused by alcohol. The lining of the stomach becomes reddened, engorged and irritated. By the way, individuals can have gastritis even though they don't use alcohol.

Of course, there's no guarantee that your husband doesn't have an ulcer and it would require a good medical examination to establish its presence or absence. I think it's a safe bet though that he at least does have alcoholic gastritis with each of the drinking bouts as you describe them. The best treatment for gastritis of any kind is a bland diet, avoiding spicy foods and things which irritate the stomach which definitely include alcohol. Antacids and a bland diet are about the only thing you can do. If he really wants to get some relief, he's going to have to give up his drinking habits. In addition to stomach problems excessive drinking can cause damage to the liver and the heart. In men it is a frequent cause of impotency. If more men realized what alcohol does to their sex life rather than for it, there would be a lot less drinking. Then there is the gradual brain damage that occurs from drinking too much.

Dear Dr. Lamb—If a person is taking thyroid medicine and also birth control pills, does the thyroid medicine prevent the birth control pills from acting? My doctor says no but a friend has had two different doctors tell her it will.

Dear Reader—Your doctor is right. Birth control pills are composed of the female hormones produced by the ovaries during the normal menstrual cycle. These hormones, through a complex mechanism, block the ovaries from producing another egg (ovum) and in this way prevent pregnancy. When the amount of these hormones is diminished, the ovary is activated and fires off another egg. The usual female cycle literally then is a rising and falling of the female hormones. When the hormones fall, menstruation occurs and the next cycle to release another egg begins. By providing female hormones regularly and withdrawing them for the menstrual period, birth control is accomplished. Giving thyroid tablets will not interfere with this action between female hormones and the ovaries.

WI meeting

EAST ANGUS — The October meeting of the Women's Institute was held in the church hall with Mrs. R. Knapp and Mrs. E. Fearnley as hostesses.

The Collect was repeated in unison and two minutes' silence for a departed member. Roll call was answered by 18 members answering the question: Are our young people better or worse off than we were and why?

Plans were made for a bus to go to Montreal on Nov. 1 to attend a Salon of Food.

Plans were for a party for the children on Halloween who collected for UNICEF.

Treasurer's report showed a good balance. Talent money was turned in to the amount of $32.00.

A thank you letter was received for flowers. Mrs. S. Bishop, agriculture convener, read an item entitled Potato chip eaters.

Mrs. Labonte, publicity convener, read an article on who founded the WI.

Mrs. W. Coates read an article about What a grandmother is. Mrs. R. Knapp, Health and Welfare, reported that 32 cancer pads had been made for a nursing home, also read an item entitled Antidote to Anger.

A discussion was held about changes that should be made in the Handbook and it was decided that the executives would meet and go over the bylaws and make changes they saw fit.

The semi-annual meeting was held in Sawyerville on Monday Oct. 23.

A donation of $15 dollars is to be sent to the Eaton Museum. Pennies for Friendship were collected.

The next meeting will be held at the church hall on November 15 with Mrs. L. Bailey and Mrs. S. Clout as hostess.

OBITUARIES

MRS. G.M. ROBINSON

Funeral services for Mrs. George Merritt Robinson who died Aug. 25, 1972, at Youville Hospital, Sherbrooke, in her 99th year, were held on August 28 from Cass Funeral Home in Ayer's Cliff to Beulah United Church. Rev. G.W. Stokes officiated.

The bearers were Lyle Thompson, Percy Verdon, John Brus, Nelson Pierce, Norman Wintle and Hector Channell. Mrs. Rose Keeler was at the organ and accompanied Mrs. Carl Mayhew and Mrs. Nelson Pierce in a vocal selection. Interment was in the Ayer's Cliff cemetery.

Mrs. Robinson, the former Estella Tiechurst was born September 1, 1873, at Tiechurst Corner, the youngest of six children born to the late Calab and Rosamond (Brainerd) Tiechurst. She was a member of one of the pioneer families of the community and lived for two years in a log cabin that was later replaced by the present farm buildings occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Wynn Dustin, (the latter, the former Faye Tiechurst).

Mrs. Robinson was the widow of the late George M. Robinson who predeceased her November 29, 1921.

She is survived by three daughters, Miss Hilda Robinson, of Ayer's Cliff, Mrs. Roland (Blanche) Drew of Morrisville, Vt., Mrs. Wayne (Bernice) Cobleigh, of Winchendon, Mass., three sons, Sydney and William of Ayer's Cliff and George of Winchendon, Mass., 11 grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren.

Her husband predeceased her on Nov. 29, 1949. Since 1960 she has been a resident of the Wales Home, Richmond. She leaves to mourn her loss her six children — Herbert of Lennoxville, Evelyn (Mrs. Elroy Johnson) of Keene, N.H., Doris (wife of the late Charles Johnston) of Gallup Hill, Mildred of Montreal, Thomas Elton of Upper Melbourne, Marjorie (Mrs. Murray Barlow) of Danville, 17 grandchildren, nine great-grandchildren and several nieces and nephews.

The funeral was held in Tremholm United Church with the Rev. Mr. R.A. Cameron officiating.

The bearers were four grandsons — Harold and John Gilchrist, Frederick Johnston, James Gilchrist and the husbands of two granddaughters, Alden Edwards and James Blyth.

Interment was in Tremholm Cemetery. The many beautiful flowers testified to the high esteem in which the deceased was held.

MRS. W.H. GILCHRIST

of Richmond

The death occurred on Tuesday, Sept. 26, 1972, at the Wales Home, Richmond, of Mrs. W.H. Gilchrist at the age of 83 years.

Mrs. Gilchrist, the former Winnifred May Wintle, who had been in failing health for several years, was born in St. Felix de Kingsey, the only daughter of the late Gilbert S. Wintle and his wife the late Mary M. Wales. Her only brother, Archie, predeceased her on Sept. 26, 1961.

On Sept. 14, 1910 she was united in marriage to William Herbert Gilchrist and they went to reside in Kirkdale until 1944 when they sold the farm and moved to Richmond. Her husband predeceased her on Nov. 29, 1949. Since 1960 she has been a resident of the Wales Home, Richmond. She leaves to mourn her loss her six children — Herbert of Lennoxville, Evelyn (Mrs. Elroy Johnson) of Keene, N.H., Doris (wife of the late Charles Johnston) of Gallup Hill, Mildred of Montreal, Thomas Elton of Upper Melbourne, Marjorie (Mrs. Murray Barlow) of Danville, 17 grandchildren, nine great-grandchildren and several nieces and nephews.

The funeral was held in Tremholm United Church with the Rev. Mr. R.A. Cameron officiating.

The bearers were four grandsons — Harold and John Gilchrist, Frederick Johnston, James Gilchrist and the husbands of two granddaughters, Alden Edwards and James Blyth.

Interment was in Tremholm Cemetery. The many beautiful flowers testified to the high esteem in which the deceased was held.

MARKET BINS GLOW GOLDEN WITH FRESH BARTLETT PEARS

PEARS CARMEN are cooked and served dotted with chopped nuts on top of fresh strawberry mousse... a great way to present the Bartlett pears in such good supply at your market now.

Elocution students used to be admonished to speak in "pear-shaped tones." The pear shape is a lovely one and the fruit inside is even better. Now is the time to find good supplies of Bartlett pears in your market and there are many ways to enjoy them. Eating pears out of hand is one delicious way. Keep plenty ready for your family. They make a refreshing and nourishing snack.

The United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association informs us that pears are one of the few fruits which should not be ripened on the tree. They reach their peak of goodness after they are picked. If you have to ripen pears at home, as is usually the case, they can be kept in a paper or film bag with a damp sponge or wad of cotton to supply humidity. Ordinary room temperature will suffice, but the pears should not be put next to a radiator or other source of great heat. If a film bag is used, it should have some holes in it.

Serve fully-ripened pears with a favorite cheese for a fine dessert in continental style. That makes a good TV snack, too. A very pretty dessert—company showpiece or family treat—is Pears Carmen. They are gently poached in water with sugar, lemon juice and vanilla—never overcooked delicate pears. The pears are served in great style topped with chopped nuts and set on fresh strawberry mousse. Whipped cream finishes off this delightful dessert.

1½ hours or until a knife inserted in custard comes out clean and pears are tender. Makes: 5 to 6 servings.

PEARS CARMEN

3 firm ripe Bartlett pears
1½ cups sugar, divided
2 cups water
2 tablespoons, fresh lemon juice, divided
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 envelope unflavored gelatine
½ cup cold water
2 cups 1 pint fresh strawberries
1 to 2 drops red food coloring
1½ teaspoon salt
1 cup heavy cream, whipped
Chopped nuts
Additional whipped cream

Wash, pare and cut pears in half, lengthwise, and remove cores. Mix 1 cup sugar, 2 cups water, 1 tablespoon lemon juice and vanilla in a saucepan. Bring to a boil. Add pears, cover, and cook slowly 20 minutes or until tender, being careful not to overcook. Cool in syrup and chill. Meanwhile, sprinkle gelatine over ½ cup cold water in saucepan. Stir over low heat until dissolved. Wash strawberries, remove caps, mash and put through a sieve. Stir in remaining ½ cup sugar, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, red food coloring, salt and dissolved gelatine. Chill until the mixture is slightly thickened. Fold in whipped cream. Turn into 5 or 6-cup glass or china bowl. Chill until set. Arrange poached pears over the top and sprinkle with chopped nuts. Serve with additional whipped cream. (Save pear syrup to use for poaching additional pears or other fruits or use in fruit beverages.)

Makes: 6 servings.

GRATED FRESH PEAR SNOW

2 cups grated pared raw pears (2 medium)
½ cup fresh lemon juice
½ teaspoon salt
6 tablespoons sugar, divided
2 egg whites
Mix grated pears, lemon juice, salt and 2 tablespoons sugar. Beat egg whites until foamy. Gradually beat in remaining 4 tablespoons sugar and continue beating until stiff. Fold in grated pear mixture. Spoon into 8 individual dishes. Chill or serve immediately. If desired, garnish with a sprinkling of grated unsweetened chocolate over the top.

Makes: 8 servings; 78 calories each.

BIRD'S NEST PUDDING

5 to 6 fresh pears
¾ cup sugar, divided
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon mace
1 tablespoon cornstarch
2 eggs
2 cups milk
Wash, pare and core pears. Stand upright in a 1-quart casserole. Fill centers with sugar, reserving ¼ cup for custard. Mix the ½ cup sugar, salt, mace and cornstarch. Beat in eggs. Mix in ¼ cup cold milk. Heat remaining milk, add and pour over pears. Bake in 325° F. oven

Blazers' GM resigns

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Dave Creighton resigned Monday as general manager of the Philadelphia Blazers, citing pressing personal reasons and business dealings in Canada. No announcement was made on a successor.

Creighton owns and operates the Vaughan Valley Golf Course at Woodbridge, Ont. He joined the World Hockey Association club last July when the franchise started here. The team is 1-8 for the season.

Buffalo trio riding herd over rest of NHL

MONTREAL (CP) — A line put together late last season by Joe Crozier, coach of Buffalo Sabres, continues to dominate the National Hockey League's scoring statistics today.

The line of left winger Richard Martin, Centre Gil Perreault, and Rene Robert was formed by Crozier with nine games left to play last season. It scored nine goals and 27 points in its late-season spurge.

But its production has increased considerably this season—24 goals, 34 assists and 58 points in 10 games, including six victories and four ties.

Tonight's only scheduled game has Vancouver Canucks at Los Angeles against the Kings. The Kings are in a second-place tie in the West Division with 10 points, the same number as Pittsburgh Penguins and Philadelphia Flyers, three fewer than Chicago Black Hawks.

Perreault leads all point-getters with 21, one more than right winger Robert, who shares the assist lead with Perreault, each with 15.

The other member of the trio, Martin, is the goal-scoring leader with 13 and his 17 points places him in a tie for fifth place with Jacques Lemaire of Montreal and Fred Stanfield of Boston Bruins.

Left winger John Bucyk of Boston, who scored his 400th NHL regular-season goal Sunday, is third with 19 points, one more than Rod Gilbert of New York Rangers.

Two teams have a goals-against average of less than 2.00 — the undefeated Canadiens and the Sabres.

Montreal's Ken Dryden, who leads in shutouts with three, and rookie Michel Plasse have combined for a 1.64 average. Veteran Roger Crozier and Dave Dryden of Buffalo have an average of 1.80, one of the reasons the Sabres' 10-game undefeated streak is the best by a post-1967 team since St. Louis Blues went 12 games without a loss in the 1968-69 season on five wins and seven ties.

Skins lose QB for year

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sonny Jurgensen, veteran Washington Redskins quarterback, underwent surgery Monday to repair a torn Achilles tendon and will be lost to the National Football League team for the remainder of the 1972 season.

At age 38 the injury, suffered Sunday in a 23-16 victory over New York Giants, may end Jurgensen's career. Originally drafted by Philadelphia Eagles after starring at Duke University, Jurgensen was acquired by the Redskins April 1, 1964, for quarterback Norm Snead and another player.

Ironically, Snead was quarterback of the Giants when Jurgensen was injured seven minutes into the game. Jurgensen dropped back to throw his first pass of the game, a completion, then fell to the ground without being touched.

"I just seemed to slip," he said later. He couldn't get up. Billy Kilmer then came off the bench and led the Redskins to victory.

Birdie worth $3,000

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — JoAnn Prentice birdied the 10th extra hole Monday to defeat Sandra Palmer in a sudden-death playoff that lasted two days and won the $3,000 first prize in the $22,000 Corpus Christi Civitan Golf open.

Miss Prentice, Miss Palmer and Kathy Whitworth tied at the end of the regulation 54 holes Sunday at 210.

Miss Whitworth was eliminated late Sunday on the third playoff hole. Miss Prentice and Miss Palmer resumed play at the fourth hole Monday and each parred until No. 10. Both players were on the green in two.

Miss Palmer, 60 feet away, three-putted. Miss Prentice rolled her putt into the hole for the birdie.

It was Miss Prentice's first LPGA tour victory since the Dallas Civitan in 1967. Miss Palmer received $2,032.50 for second place.

It was a case of allowing the Russians to enter a horse which we felt was not of championship calibre or holding our ground," John Schapiro, the president of Laurel Race Course, said Monday.

Herold, winner of the Russian Derby, was the first entry for the 21st running of the invitational 1½-mile turf race.

Schapiro said the Russians wanted to add Skala, the fifth-place finisher in the Grand Prix von Europa at Cologne.

Cowboys ride to 28-24 win

DALLAS (AP) — Super Bowl champion Dallas Cowboys, struggling to stay alive in the race to the 1972 National Football League playoffs, rode the passing arm of quarterback Craig Morton to a crucial 28-24 victory over Detroit Lions on Monday night.

Morton, who took over from Super Bowl hero Roger Staubach after Staubach was injured during the exhibition season, threw three touchdown passes and set up the fourth touchdown with his tosses.

Morton wowed the sellout crowd of 65,000 in Texas Stadium with a 38-yard touchdown throw to Billy Parks and a 33-yard touchdown pass to Errol Mann.

Both defenses stiffened in the second half as Detroit tallied on a 17-yard field goal by Errol Mann and Morton threw his third touchdown pass—the 15-yarder to Montgomery.

Landry narrowed the gap in the waning moments when he threw a 21-yard scoring pass to Larry Walton with 1:36 left.

Denied first, scratch second

LAUREL, Md. (AP) — Russia, denied a request to run a second horse in the $150,000 Washington International, has withdrawn the three-year old colt Herold from the Nov. 11 race.

It was a case of allowing the Russians to enter a horse which we felt was not of championship calibre or holding our ground," John Schapiro, the president of Laurel Race Course, said Monday.

Herold, winner of the Russian Derby, was the first entry for the 21st running of the invitational 1½-mile turf race.

Schapiro said the Russians wanted to add Skala, the fifth-place finisher in the Grand Prix von Europa at Cologne.

From dusty van to the hotel counter

PANGNIRTUNG, N.W.T. (CP) — Ross Peyton is a hotel operator, but no one would guess it to see him hammering along the dirt roads of this Baffin Island settlement in his Volkswagen van.

He doesn't fit the image of the neatly-suited, furrow-browed hotel manager who flits from front desk to VIP suite worrying about banquets, bookings and balance sheets.

But the lean 43-year-old native of Norris Arm, Nfld., is sometimes on hotel business when he's bouncing through the village in his dusty van.

He may be headed for the Bell radio-telephone base to call Froisher Bay with his daily weather report. Or he may be on his way to the airstrip to meet one of the two or three Nordair flights that have been stopping here each week since 1968.

ROUNDS UP GUIDES
He also may be rounding up Eskimo guides to take hotel guests on a canoe tour up Pangnirtung Fiord, or heading for the Hudson's Bay store to renew the coffee supply for his kitchen staff.

He's in and out of his small, cluttered office so often he frequently doesn't bother to take off his overcoat when he comes in.

When he is behind his desk, his paperwork is interrupted by a stream of people: guests checking the arrival of the next plane, an Eskimo with another carving to sell, a girl from the kitchen who can't open a bottle of pickles.

"Just about everything is a little different than it would be running a hotel down south," he said, toying with the mammoth moustache and sideburns. Mr. Peyton and his partner, Doug Cressman, opened the 10-room Peyton-Cressman Hotel in 1970 after the start of scheduled air service unlocked the door to tourism.

At the same time, they opened a fishing camp at Clearwater, 70 miles up Cumberland Sound in one of the best char fishing areas in the eastern Arctic.

LOOKS TO FUTURE
During the fishing season, Mr. Peyton looks after the hotel. Mr. Cressman tends the fishing camp.

Most guests are southern businessmen attracted by the fishing but the hotel register also carries the names of mountain climbers, hikers, government officials, armed forces personnel, construction workers and, this season, a couple of botanists.

Mr. Peyton came north in 1950 and worked 14 years as a Hudson's Bay store manager before going into business himself.

"We've sunk maybe $150,000 into this thing and so far we're probably not getting anything back on that. But I'm optimistic."

He doesn't dwell long on finances. He'd sooner talk about the hotel itself, a flat-roofed two-storey brown building perched among a cluster of houses near the rocky shoreline of the settlement.

"We're not equipped to offer all the comforts you'd expect in a hotel down south, but people are really considerate. We almost never have any complaints."

"Last year we had the president of General Motors, the president of U.S. Steel and the chairman of the board of Rockwell of North America here all at once to do some fishing."

"They had a great time—kicked the girls out of the kitchen and washed their own dishes. They were completely relaxed."

RATES REASONABLE
Hotel rates are $45 a day for a small room and three home-style meals, served in an upstairs dining room that also doubles as a lounge. Given the cost of living in the North, the price is reasonable.

Most food for the hotel is flown in from Montreal at an air freight rate of 46 cents a pound. A sack of potatoes that sells for $1.49 in Montreal can carry a price tag of more than $25 in Pangnirtung.

Bread sells here for $1.25 a loaf, eggs for $1.55 a dozen. The kitchen staff is comprised of Eskimo girls who have been trained to serve food familiar to southerners. They avoid common local staples such as seal meat and frozen char, which many northerners eat with relish.

Galt takes first loss

LENNOXVILLE (BP) — The junior football squad from Alexander Galt Regional High School dropped their first loss of the year to North Country Union High in Newport, Vt., 30-6.

Coach Brian Heath summed up the team's first defeat in six games saying, "We lost to a bigger, older and better team, and we played American rules, which were a bit confusing."

After the Pipers were trailing 22-0 at half-time, Randy MacAskill knocked the ball from the quarterback's hands, who had faded back to pass. Gary George recovered the pigskin and ran in for the only Galt major of the day. Dan Speck missed the convert attempt.

Dan Downey played well on defense, making key tackles, while Scott Stansbury, the offensive centre, had a good game. George Baptist was yesterday's best ball carrier for the Galt squad.

All the coaches felt the game was, "good for our boys for their own experience, they saw some good football."

Heath noted that even though his team has defeated Stanstead College twice this year, it will still need a good effort in the remaining game. The juniors end their season on Saturday when they face Stanstead College in Lennoxville at 2 p.m.

The senior Galt gridders complete their season tomorrow in Cowansville opposing the Massey-Vanier Regional Squad, in a 2:30 p.m. contest.

Small parcels. Big deal.

Pre-Pac
Our new Pre-Pac Service (prepaid package express) can be a very big deal... you can make substantial savings on single-piece, prepaid shipments weighing 50 lbs. or less.
It eliminates waybills and simplifies procedures. So it costs us less to operate. And it costs you less to use.
For instance, if you ship one shipment per pickup, you save fifty cents on normal express charges. If you ship ten, or more, shipments per pickup, you can save up to 50% on express charges.
And you get a door-to-door service between business establishments. Free insurance up to $50 per parcel. Records for follow-up purposes. The convenience of a charge account.
Naturally, there are some limitations... C.O.D. shipments, collect shipments, and certain commodities cannot be accepted at these rates.
At present, Pre-Pac rates apply within Quebec/Ontario, between Quebec/Ontario and Western Canada, and on shipments to the Atlantic provinces.
To make sure your shipments qualify for Pre-Pac rates, call your CN Express Sales Representative — or write to your nearest CN Express office for a folder and price list.
And save. And continue saving.

La Prevoyante, Secretariat romp to easy victories, eye juvenile title

By THE CANADIAN PRESS
La Prevoyante romped to a 14-length victory in the $121,990 Selima Stakes and Secretariat scored an eight-length triumph in the $133,300 Laurel Futurity at Laurel Race Course Saturday as each continued their relentless drives towards thoroughbred racing's 1972 juvenile championships.

Unbeaten La Prevoyante, owned by Jean-Louis Levesque of Montreal and a shoo-in to be named the year's top two-year-old filly, took the lead midway through the back stretch while topping just three opponents.

She was timed in 1:46.25 for the 11.6 miles but Secretariat's time for the same distance over Laurel's sloppy racing surface was 1:42.4-5, just one-fifth off the track record.

The victory for Secretariat, heading for the juvenile colt championship, was his sixth in eight starts. He also finished first in the Champagne Stakes but was disqualified and placed second behind Stop The Music which trailed the winner in Saturday's Futurity.

La Prevoyante upped her earnings to $302,557 with her winning share of $76,043 in the Selima while being ridden by jockey John LeBlanc.
Ron Turcotte, of Grand Falls, N.B., aboard runner-up Naive, said the performance of La Prevoyante was like "a Cadillac running in a Volkswagen race."

PAID $2.20
La Prevoyante paid $2.20 and $2.10 while Naive returned $2.10. Trainer John Starr said he planned to run La Prevoyante in the Gardenia at Garden State.

In the Selima, she carried 122 pounds—three more than her rivals.

Turcotte came back to win on Secretariat, a colt which trainer Lucien Laurin rates at this stage of his career a better prospect than 1972 Kentucky Derby winner Riva Ridge.
Laurin said he would point Secretariat, which paid $2.20,

$2.10 and $2.10, for the Garden State. Stop the Music paid $2.10 and $2.10 while finishing ahead of another Laurin-trained entry, Angle Light.
The exacta payoff for Secretariat and Stop the Music was $3.20.

With his $83,395 winner's share, Secretariat increased his earnings for the year to $277,205.
At New York, Autobiography handed star three-year-olds Key

To The Mint and Riva Ridge a smashing setback, romping through a driving rain for a 15-length victory in the two-mile Jockey Club Gold Cup at Aqueduct.

You'll never see a game like this!

By BRUCE PORTER
LENNONVILLE — The Physical Education Dept. of Alexander Galt Regional High School will be hosting the wildest basketball game ever seen in the Eastern Townships on November 7 at 7:30 p.m. in the AGRHS gymnasium.

The Canyon Brothers Circus will present at that time their world famous Champion Donkey Basketball Team with staff playing against students. All proceeds from this show will be for the benefit of athletics at Galt and the senior boys hockey trip to Nova Scotia in particular.

The admission is $1 for students and $1.50 for adults. Advance tickets may be purchased from students of Galt and tickets will also be sold at the door.

The teams consist of twelve players each, with four on the floor at one time. The staff team will have Janet Angrave, Don Parson, Frank Boushel and Jack Garneau on their first team opposing the student squad of Graham Tribble, Grant Learned, Colleen Cooney and Kevin Boushel.

For the student's third team, Gary Guillette, Shareen Hashui, Robert Nugent and Peggy Adams will battle John Perkins, Nancy Love, Elkie Rodger and Gordon MacMillan of the staff.

The official rules for Donkey Basketball are:

1. Players lead their donkeys into the court and line up under the opposition's basket.

2. Stay dismounted until the referee blows the whistle and throws out the ball; then the players may lead or ride Donkey to the ball.

3. When passing the ball between two players, one or the other must be mounted.

4. When retrieving a "free" ball, players must have reins in hand.

5. Players must be mounted to shoot and steal ball or block passes and shots.

6. Ball cannot be held more than fifteen seconds.

7. There are no time-outs, out-of-bounds, or fouls.

8. Players must not pull Donkeys hair, ears, or tail. Use caution when catching a Donkey and please stay off his rear end at all times.

9. Donkeys may be swapped with a team-made any time and no one can keep the same Donkey for more than one period.

10. Teams must swap sets of Donkeys and baskets at the half.

11. Intermission will be 12-15 minutes long and all Donkeys must be led off the court quickly.

12. Players are advised to wear football helmet and any available padding that isn't already built in.

13. Each player is responsible for his own Donkey while it is on the floor and a broom and shovel will be handy at all times.

Come on out and enjoy the "funniest show on earth" that combines the circus, rodeo and basketball.

DONKEY BASKETBALL — That's what they're calling it at any rate when Galt staff take on the AGRHS students at the AGRHS gymnasium on November 7 at 7:30 p.m. Proceeds go to the school's athletics program. They will also be used to help sponsor the senior hockey team on a trip to Nova Scotia. The public is welcome.

Nice work if you can get it

Providence Reds didn't lift a stick over the weekend but they managed to cling to the lead in the Eastern Division of the American Hockey League by one point over Boston Braves and Rochester Americans.

The Braves were idle Sunday, but the Americans were prevented from jumping into top spot when they lost a 4-3 decision to Tidewater Wings, leaders of the western section. In other games, Cincinnati Swords beat Nova Scotia Voyageurs 4-2, while Hershey Bears and New Haven Nighthawks tied 2-2.

In Saturday's action, Cincinnati edged Baltimore Clippers 4-3, Boston beat New Haven 6-4, Nova Scotia and Cleveland Barons tied 3-3, Rochester nipped Springfield Kings 7-6 and the Bears mangled Richmond Robins 10-6.

The Wings, who now enjoy a seven-point lead over the Barons, had to rally for two goals Sunday to dispose of the Americans.

Goals by Ron Simpson, a defenceman converted to right wing, and defenceman Ron Newell decided the outcome in the third period, after Rochester had taken a 3-2 lead in the second on goals by Bob Kelly, John Bednarski and Larry McKillop. Bob Cook accounted for Tidewater's first two markers.

CLINCHER IN OPEN NET

John Gould's close-range shot with about four minutes remaining put the Swords ahead of the Voyageurs 3-2 and Billy Inglis slapped the puck into an open net for the clincher in the closing seconds. Cincinnati jumped into a 2-0 lead in the second period when Rick Dudley and Steve Richardson connected, but the Nova Scotia rebounded early in the third on goals by Yvon Lambert and Guy Delparte.

Power-play goals by Ron Snell and Gil Gilbert were needed in the third period by the Bears to gain their standoff with the lowly Nighthawks, who have only four points on one win and two ties in 13 games.

Neil Nicholson and Terry Gray had given New Haven a 2-0 lead. The Nighthawks introduced two new faces, goalie Gerry Gray, on loan from New York Islanders of the National Hockey League, and Willie O'Ree, a veteran of the AHL and NHL. O'Ree was obtained from San Diego Gulls of the Western Hockey League.

the over-all title two weeks ago with a victory at Monterey, Calif.

He averaged 122.585 m.p.h. for the 201 miles of the Times grand prix.

There were no changes in the second-place finishers for the series over-all. While Follmer had 130 points, Denis Hulme of New Zealand and Team McLaren, and Milt Minter of Reseda, Calif., each finished with 65 points although they did not finish this final race.

Follmer triumphant again

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — George Follmer capped his triumphant Canadian-American Challenge Cup series for sports cars Sunday by winning the Los Angeles Times Grand Prix at Riverside International Raceway.

Follmer led all but five of the 61 laps as he drove his Porsche to victory. His mate on the Roger Penske team, Mark Donohue, was the leader for those five laps, but dropped back when he took a 50-second pit stop because he thought he had a flat tire.

Peter Revson of Redondo Beach, Calif., the champion a year ago, took second place, with Donohue, coming back to finish third.

Follmer, who lives in Arcadia, Calif., became the driver of the Porsche for this sports car series in July when Donohue was injured practising for the Road Atlanta race.

Winner of the Trans-Am for smaller cars this season, Follmer came on to take five victories in eight races. He clinched the over-all title two weeks ago with a victory at Monterey, Calif.

He averaged 122.585 m.p.h. for the 201 miles of the Times grand prix.

Rugby season unites widely separated foes

LONDON (CP) — The rugby touring season, a big feature of the sports year in Britain, has resumed with much-anticipated visits to this country by teams from widely separated parts of the world.

It would be tough to be more widely separated, geographically and in most other ways too, than Romania and New Zealand.

These in fact are the points of origin of the two squads who are the guests giving the British rugby season a touch of outside flavor in 1972-73.

The visit of the All Blacks from New Zealand is a familiar event.

The latest one has been preceded by cautious predictions Down Under about what the All Blacks are likely to achieve in Britain this year.

The caution results from the absence of veteran New Zealand stars like Colin Meads, who is a legend in rugby-mad France—where he was known as Le Monstre—as well as in this country.

For their part, the Romanians were certain to add a particularly exotic touch to the season.

TAUGHT BY FRANCE

They first learned rugby decades ago from the French who in their turn initially had been tutored in the game by Britons involved in commercial expeditions to the wine-producing areas of France.

The Romanians still show a decided French influence in the way they play.

They regularly employ Gallic techniques of swift changes of speed and direction in ball-running and their over-all game is an open one.

Last year, the Romanians played host to players from Devon and Cornwall.

Their tour of Britain this season thus was billed as a return gesture, with the fixtures scheduled for grounds in the two areas of southwestern Britain.

The visit was the first by the Romanians in 16 years.

"National politics and hints of professionalism among their players might have (had) something to do with it," wrote a Times rugby expert in trying to explain the big time gap.

MANY WERE STUDENTS

Some 80 per cent of the Romanian group visiting Britain turned out to be students. But this did not detract from the general impression here that the talents of Romania's general run of rugby players are formidable.

The New Zealanders, in undertaking still another invasion of Britain, hope to avenge the victories scored in their country last season by a triumphant touring team from here.

"Boy, are we green," complained one New Zealand correspondent in describing the state of the current All Black team.

The British, however, seemed almost equally uncertain about their prospects for success against the visitors.

"I confess I feel in need of encouragement after watching the first month of the British season," said the Daily Telegraph's rugby specialist, John Reason.

Obituaries

MISS ANNETTE KIMMELL

of Bedford

The death took place on Oct. 9, 1972 at Hospital Lagace of a life-long resident of Bedford, Miss Annette Kimmell, who passed away in her 67th year after a long illness, being for a time a patient in the St. Johns Hospital and during the past weeks in Hospital Lagace.

Miss Kimmell was born in Bedford, one of a family of four, of the late Damien Kimmell and of his wife the late Mari-Louise St. Jean. For some years Miss Kimmell had a store and all her life was spent in Bedford.

In addition to her sister Miss Cecile Kimmell, Miss Kimmell is survived by a brother Rene Kimmell and sister-in-law Mrs. Kimmell, also a nephew Robert Kimmell also of Bedford. She was predeceased by her eldest brother, Armand, some years ago; a number of nieces and nephews also survive.

The funeral was held on Oct. 14 from the Dion Funeral Home for service at 3 p.m. in St. Damien's Church. The funeral mass being taken by the Rev. Father Desjars. Interment was in the Bedford Catholic Cemetery.

BENJAMIN C. MOFFATT

of Fulford

Benjamin C. Moffatt passed away very suddenly at his home here on Wed. Sept. 27, 1972.

He was born near Knowlton on Aug. 23, 1897, son of the late Edgar Moffatt and the late Janette Tibbitts.

He was united in marriage to Edna Johnson on Oct. 21, 1931.

To this union were born two daughters, Doreen, Mrs. Colan Coates of Magog and Shirley, Mrs. Wesley Alnutt of West Brome.

He lived on the home farm until 14 years ago, when he had to retire on account of ill health.

He is survived by his wife Edna, two daughters, two sons-in-law, seven grandchildren, two brothers-in-law, several nieces and nephews.

They also had three foster home children namely Robert Robertson, Albert Dey and Barbara Dey who were very much a part of the family.

He was a kind husband, father and grandfather and friend who will be greatly missed by all who knew him.

Funeral services were held at Wilson's Funeral Home on Friday, Sept. 29 at 2 p.m. Rev. Warren officiating. Burial was in Knowlton Cemetery.

The bearers were Greg Lambourne, Cecil Seymour, Hugh Wright, Donald Badger, William Chapman and Floyd Sanborn.

ROBERT E. SCOTT

of Cowansville

The accidental death of Robert Ernest Scott of Cowansville, Que., occurred at Knowlton, Que. on Sept. 22, 1972.

Mr. Scott was born at Sweetsburg on Sept. 12, 1918, fourth son of the late Landon Scott and his wife Alice Westover. He received his education at Cowansville High School.

In 1940 he enlisted in the Royal Canadian Navy and served as an Ordinary Telegrapher until the end of World War II. He operated the home farm for several years. At the time of his death he was employed at Union Carbide in Cowansville.

He is survived by his wife Phyllis, a son Gary, and a daughter Dawn; five sisters: Helen, Viola (Mrs. de la Mare), Marion (Mrs. Hatch), May and Frances; three brothers: Wendell, Eric and Keith. A brother Kenneth predeceased him in 1967 and a sister Margaret (Mrs. Raymond) in 1952.

The funeral service was held at Wilson's Funeral Chapel, Cowansville on Sept. 25 at 2:00 p.m., with Rev. John Peacock officiating, and Mrs. Octave Domingue at the organ. An impressive service was conducted at the graveside in the Pettes Cemetery, West Brome, by members of the Canadian Legion, with fellow members as pall-bearers.
