Washington, June 10.—(AP)—Two men have been fined $50 each for disrupting an agriculture department research experiment by picking a few innocent-looking but important strawberries.

The berries were in a control patch at the department's experimental farm at Beltsville, Md. They were part of a test to determine what type plants yielded the biggest and best berries.

"Now we don't know where we are," said a department official, "our experiment is a loss for this year."

London, June 10. — (Reuters) — Two hundred police hunting a gang which seized mail bags containing more than £200,000 last month swooped today on London's underworld.

They questioned more than 30 men and a woman following her information which leaked through the undercover agents.

The mail gang ambushed a post office truck at a side street May 21st. Seven masked men beat up the van's three attendants, drove the truck off and rifled mail bags. All in dirty bills, the money was being returned to the Bank of England for destroying.

Detectives believed the loot is still hidden somewhere within a 10-mile radius of the ambush.

Washington, June 10—(AP)—State secretary Dean Acheson plans to discuss cold war problems with the British and French foreign ministers in London late this month, and may also visit West Berlin and Vienna to talk with German and Austrian leaders. Acheson plans to leave June 22 by plane for London. He is to receive an honorary degree June 25 from Oxford University.

Quebec, June 10—(CP)—The 19,900-ton liner Scythia slipped out of Quebec harbor at 4:30 A.M., EDT, this morning, bound for England after undergoing temporary repairs to her damaged bow following a collision with a smaller coal-carrier in the Gulf of St. Lawrence last Thursday.

The Scythia originally had left here last Wednesday, carrying 800 passengers. Among them is Lady Baden-Powell, world Chief Guide who recently completed a tour of Canada.

Milan, Italy, June 10—(AP)—At least eight persons were killed and six injured early today in an explosion which flattened a three-storey residential building on Milan's outskirts. It was feared other dead were buried in the debris.

Three children, 10 to 12 years old, were among the dead.

Eight hours after the blast, rescue workers still combed the ruins. Five or six families lived in the building, located in the industrial section of Bovisa.

U.S. Paratroopers Crack Rebellion In Compound 76; 31 Prisoners Are Killed

Plot To Seize Koje Island Uncovered As Unruly Prisoners Are Moved.

By ROBERT B. TUCKMAN

Koje Island, Korea, June 10.—(AP)—United States paratroopers today cracked a communist prisoner-of-war rebellion in a 2½-hour battle that made a shambles of notorious compound 76 and uncovered a prisoner plot to seize the Island.

Thirty-one prisoners were killed and 139 wounded in the bloody fighting. Autopsies showed that 12 prisoners were killed by their fellow Reds with crude spears.

One American was killed and 14 were wounded. The slain American had been speared to death and not killed by a concussion grenade as first reported. Only one American was seriously wounded. Seven returned to duty and the others will go back in a few days.

The fight broke out when the prisoners disobeyed orders to move peaceably into new, smaller enclosures for about 500 men each.

U.S. army intelligence officers found a master plan in 76 to liberate all 80,000 communist prisoners held on Koje. It called for the Reds to seize the Island and its U.N. garrison and turn its weapon against any force from the mainland. Further details were withheld.

Not a shot was fired in the barbed-wire-encircled battlefield. The 750 Americans of the "Angels from Hell" combat team used concussion grenades, baynots, tear gas and fists to subdue the rebellious 6,400 North Koreans. The Reds were armed with spears, knives, rocks and firebombs.

Surrendering prisoners were hustled off to the new enclosures.

Brig.-Gen. Haydon L. Boatner, the Koje commander, had given the Reds a chance to move to the new quarters peacefully. Die-hard communist leaders chose to fight.

Boatner met the resistance with force in his campaign to gain uncontested control over the prison pens.

The battle was witnessed by prisoners of two other unruly compounds — 78 and 77.

Shortly after the fight ended Boatner told prisoners in 78 to get ready to be moved — or else. The prisoners obeyed meekly.

And leaders in compound 77 sent word that they would be ready to move on Boatner's command. They will be moved tomorrow.

(A company of the Royal Canadian Regiment is fulfilling guard duties on Koje Island. But reports indicate that all movement of prisoners to new compounds will be handled by U.S. troops.)

Boatner was jubilant over the way the paratroopers from the 187th airborne regimental combat team quelled the Reds. He said:

"The discipline of the troops was superb. I have an official report that not one shot was fired in compound 76. We captured the exact plan of resistance." He referred to the map and papers found inside 76.

Boatner personally had ordered North Korean Col. Lee Hak Woo, a compound 76 leader to assemble the P.O.W.'s for moving. Lee refused.

At 5:45 a.m. loudspeakers blared to the compound:

"In 15 minutes you will be moved into newly-constructed compounds. If you move quietly you will not be hurt. If you resist you do so at your own peril."

The communists ducked into freshly dug trenches and waited.

Fifteen minutes later the paratroopers attacked. They stormed through the barbed wire fences from several directions. Twenty minutes after the fighting started Red Colonel Lee was captured.

Rugged paratroopers grabbed him by the seat of the pants and walked him "frog-legged" — on hands and knees — out of the compound. Tears streamed down from his face. He was clamped in solitary confinement.

Tents flamed and wooden buildings were torn from their foundations when concussion grenades set off fires and explosions in P.O.W. caches of gasoline.

Paratroopers bounded into the prisoners trenches. Bayonets plunged into Reds who resisted. Some of the wounded fought as long as they could move.

Thirty minutes after the fight started the field was strewn with dead.

Many of the dead prisoners were slain by fellow inmates. Maj. David Korn, Richmond, Va., said he saw Red leaders kill at least five of their own men who tried to surrender.

"They were struck in the stomach with spears," he said.

In the trenches that surrounded all buildings bodies of decapitated communists were found.

Three hundred Reds made the last stand in the rocking, roaring battle. They lunged with their home-made spears from the south side of the compound.

A half dozen Patton tanks roared into the compound and trained their guns on the die-hard group but held their fire. Many of the 300 threw down their spears and surrendered.

The fighting over, prisoners were trucked off to the new en-

Sask. Vote Takes Place Tomorrow

Regina, June 10.—(CP)—With polling just a day off, 145 candidates and their workers today put the finishing touches on their campaigns in Saskatchewan's general election.

Tomorrow, some 500,000 electors will visit the ballot boxes to choose between the eight-year C.C.F. administration of Premier T. C. (Tommy) Douglas and the Liberals trying to make a comeback under Walter A. Tucker.

The Social Credit and Progressive Conservative parties are running some candidates but not enough so that either can form a government. The Social Crediters are trying for 24 of the 53 seats. The Progressive Conservatives are concentrating on eight. The two dominant parties are running full slates.

The C.C.F. went into the campaign with 31 members and is seeking to regain some of the ground it lost in the 1948 election when its House representation dropped from 47. The Liberals, whose Legislature strength jumped from five to 19 in the last election, are looking to pick up more ground.

For the Progressive Conservatives under 40-year-old Alvin Hamilton, it is an attempt to get their first members into the House in 18 years.. The Social Crediters last elected members—two of them—in 1938.

With most of the campaign oratory over, the party organizations today had for the most part settled down to the job of getting out the vote. The prospects were for a heavy vote since attendance at party rallies has been generally good. The 1948 popular vote was 498,081, of which the C.C.F. took 236,290 and the Liberal 152,395.

The party leaders today were doing the final clean-up campaigns in the ridings where they were running. Mr. Douglas, the 48-year-old Baptist minister who brought Canada's first socialist government into being eight years ago, was making his final speeches in Weyburn, south of here and near the United States border.

Mr. Tucker, 53, who quit a federal seat to become provincial leader in 1946, was in Rosthern. Mr. Hamilton was in Lumsden. Joseph Thauberger, 43-year-old Social Credit chief, was finishing up in Humboldt.

Late speeches by the campaigning leaders brought out no new issues. The main bout between the C.C.F. and Liberals was largely centring around the socialist record of the government and Liberal pledges for improved rural electrification and oil royalties for farmers, with a dash of federal issues on the side.

Mr. Tucker and national C.C.F. Leader M. J. Coldwell traded blows over the week-end on the question of how the provincial government handled oil and uranium rights. Mr. Tucker contended there had been a deal involving 9,000,000 acres of land, in which some persons had made handsome profits. Mr. Coldwell said there was nothing wrong with the tran-

X-Rays Urged For Heavy Smokers

By FRANK CAREY

Chicago, June 10. — (AP) — Twice-a-year X-ray examinations for middle-aged men who are heavy smokers were recommended today by a Washington, D.C., doctor as a means of improving the attack on lung cancer.

Declaring that there is a higher proportion of lung cancer among heavy smokers than among non-smokers, Dr. J. Winthrop Peabody said he believes such an X-ray procedure would assure spotting any such cancers early enough to allow successful surgical operation.

"Until this is done," the Georgetown university doctor told the annual meeting of the American Medical Association, "mortality (from lung cancer) will continue to be high."

He said a definite diagnosis of lung cancer now is possible in 35 per cent of people who have it. He declared the diagnosis can be made early in the disease, even while in the "silent stage" or when cough is the only apparent sympton.

In another report to the meeting, two Chicago doctors said allergic diseases are apt to develop in children of parents who themselves are sufferers from allergies —and that therefore the children should be shielded from substances capable of producing allergic reactions.

They said that in such families, dogs and cats should be removed from the home, lest the children get a reaction from their fur; stuffed toy animals, heavy drapes and bedroom carpeting should be avoided; and mother should even watch the type of cosmetic she uses to make sure it does not contain a chemical derived from a certain form of iris plant.

Doctors Leon Unger and Albert Under said youngsters showing any evidence of allergy "should be advised to avoid becoming farmers, bakers, furriers, upholsterers, grain mill workers, florists or workers around animals."

"It is easy to avoid these occupations," they said. "It may be difficult to change when an adult."

British End Berlin Radio Barricade, Win Several Concessions From Reds

By DON DOANE

Berlin, June 10 —(AP)— British troops removed their barbed-wire barricades from Russia's Radio Berlin headquarters early today, ending a seven-day siege which won several concessions from the Soviets.

The British said they lifted the blockade on the station inside their zone because it had served its purpose. Under its pressure, the Russians loosened their squeeze on West Berlin to the extent of yielding several border areas they had seized.

West Berliners were disappointed. But allied officials took the view the siege, if continued too long, might have boomeranged. They felt the allied-occupied part of this communist-surrounded city is too vulnerable to invite heavy reprisals for slight gains.

The communists still held West Berlin in a potential strangle grip that could be turned any time into a new blockade. Zonal borders between East and West Germany, and even street boundaries between East and West Berlin, have been turned into fortified frontiers.

The Reds have cut all but four of Berlin's highway lines to the west. Allied military patrols still and barred from the single allied road passageway through the Russian zone.

Some small Berlin areas which the Russians seized or cut off from West Berlin before the siege remain in Soviet control.

These are the specific concessions won from the Russians:

1. They yielded entirely on Britain's No. 1 demand by withdrawing from the little British sector settlement of Eiskeller, which they had sealed off a week ago.

2. They withdrew their sentries from the shore of Lake Griebnitz, in the American sector.

3. They permitted the tiny suburb of Steinstuecken, in the American sector, to resume contact with West Berlin via a road through the Soviet zone.

4. They also dropped their demand for a small piece of the Frohnau cemetery which extends from the French sector into the Russian zone.

The West Berliners had hoped for greater concession from the Reds, or that the British would drive the Russians from the building.

The Germans had cheered when the British strung rolls of barbed wire and posted guards around the big radio station seven days ago. No one turned out to watch the Tommies start rolling away the wire in bright moonlight shortly before 2 A.M. today.

Some 40 Russians and German communists trapped inside the building for the week refused to show themselves. By telephone they said they would not come out until relieved by a fresh staff.

During the siege they had lived in apparent comfort on stockpiled food and continued their insulting broadcasts against the west.

Duke Marks Thirty First Anniversary

London, June 10. — (AP) — The Duke of Edinburgh observed his 31st birthday today with a minimum of fuss.

Flags were hoisted on public buildings and artillery fired salutes at Hyde Park and the Tower of London. They were the first royal salutes the Duke has ever received. He did not rate such honors until his wife became Queen this year.

The Duke has no public engagements today. He remained in Buckingham Palace going through stacks of congratulatory letters and telegrams. A private dinner was planned at the Palace tonight.

The Duke celebrated his birthday with a long-distance call to three-year-old Prince Charles, vacationing with his sister, Princess Anne, and Queen mother Elizabeth.

At the Tower of London 62 guns roared a Royal salute and military stations throughout the country fired salutes of 21 guns. At Hyde Park the Royal Horse Artillery fired 41 guns.

Asked why the number of guns fired in salutes differed, the war office heaved a sigh.

"The reason for the discrepancy in numbers is wrapped in mystery," said a spokesman. "We are continually asked about the salutes but they are a historical puzzle."

Ships of the Royal Navy fired a salute at noon and remained dressed with flags throughout the day.

The Duke's health was toasted at an intimate family luncheon party and the Palace staff enjoyed its traditional treat of toasting the event in wine.

Today was the second straight birthday celebration for their father that the Royal couple's children have missed. Last year he was away from home on naval duties with the frigate Magpie.

New York, June 10—(AP)—Actor John Garfield, at first reported to have died almost broke, left an estate valued at $100,000. This estimate appeared on a petition for probate of the will, filed yesterday in surrogate's court. Garfield, who died of a heart ailment May 21 at the age of 39, left most of the estate to his widow, Mrs. Roberta Garfield. She was named executrix.

Alexander Begins Tour Of Far East

Tokyo, June 10 —(Reuters)— Britain's defence minister, Earl Alexander, arrived here today for a personal look at the United Nations situation in Korea.

At the airport to greet him as he stepped from a British Overseas Airways plane was his old associate of the second world war, Gen. Mark Clark, supreme allied commander in Korea. Clark served under Alexander in Italy.

Alexander made no statement at the airport but said he would give a press conference tomorrow at the British embassy.

Sir Elser Dening, British ambassador, declared in an airport broadcast that Alexander "is coming here on a fact-finding mission. This is because of Britain's increased interest in Japan and Korea."

Clark said, "I am proud to welcome a great and skillful soldier and a good friend during the whole of the Mediterranean campaign."

The minister was accompanied by the minister of state, Selwyn Lloyd, and the assistant undersecretary for Far Eastern affairs, R. H. Scott.

Plans for Alexander's visit to Korea are being kept secret because the United Nations command sees a possible danger of communist action if his movements are announced in advance.

The British party's visit here followed unofficial reports that Britain was interested in gaining a stronger voice in the Korean truce negotiations and in the ad-

Destroyer's Exploits Recounted

Ottawa, June 10. — (CP) — The story of H.M.C.S. Cayuga's action in directing an unsuccessful small-scale invasion attempt behind enemy lines in Korea last December was disclosed today by naval headquarters as the Canadian destroyer returned to Canada from her second tour of operations in Korean waters.

A six-man team under Lt-Cmdr. Donald Saxon of Victoria, aboard a South Korean patrol vessel, helped direct an unsuccessful attack by 100 republic of Korea troops against an island in the approaches to Chinnampo, the west-coast port for the North Korean capital of Pyongyang.

The action, on Dec. 28, was one of several behind-the-lines tasks in which the Cayuga took part. She has been in the far east since last July 24 and returns to Esquimalt, B.C., June 14. Her first far-east tour was as one of three destroyers sent by Canada to Korea in July, 1950.

The invasion attempt was launched from two islands held by South Koreans in the inner passage to Chinnampo. Target was two communist-held islands, Chong Yang Do and Ung Do. The Cayuga was to provide close support, with the British cruiser Belfast and frigate Mounts Bay and the U. S. destroyer Eversole laying down the bombardment.

The patrol vessel, with the six Canadians, accompanied four junks carrying South Korean troops to Chong Yang Do in the evening. During the crossing, one of the junks began to take on water and her troops were transferred to the remaining three boats.

Lt.-Cmdr. Saxon reported that a few seconds after the first landing, "the beach literally exploded. Machine gun, rifle and mortar fire raked the troops."

The first junk took a direct mortar hit. The second was beached shortly afterwards. "The enemy's fire discipline was perfect," the officer reported.

Nine minutes after the landing, Lt.-Cmdr. Saxon took his patrol vessel to test the defences of the second island and found it even tougher. On his return to the first island, he found only about 30 men in the last junk to force a second landing, and it was decided to withdraw.

"The R.O.K. troops took a beating" he reported, "but they deserve plenty of credit."

With Lt.-Cmdr. Saxon in the patrol vessel were CPO. Fred Wood of Calgary, PO. George Coghill of Victoria, LS. Gerald Peterson of Olds, Alta., AB. Dennis Pierson of Winnipeg and AB. David Campbell of Calgary.

The navy said that despite the failure of the abortive attempt, that and subsequent raids coupled with the naval blockade pinned down several thousand communist troops who would otherwise have been at the front.

P.C.'s Trade Conference Proposals Are Rejected

Ottawa, June 10—(CP)—The Commons has rejected the Progressive Conservative proposal that the Canadian government call a Commonwealth trade conference to help solve some of the world's economic ills.

After a two-day debate, members last night voted 67 to 35 against the opposition motion. Supporters suggested the conference offered a possible means to obtain freer exchange of currencies and stimulate trade.

Government spokesmen considered the motion one of non-confidence. All Liberals voted against the proposal which received the support of the Progressive Conservative, C.C.F. and Social Credit parties.

The vote was one of the smallest in recent months. A total of 153 members were absent when division bells rang in the 262-seat Chamber.

The small vote was caused partly by the absence of cabinet ministers and many members who attended a state dinner at government house in honor of the Queen's birthday.

During the night sitting, members debated a government proposal to revise the capital resources of the Canadian National Railways. The plan—sent to committee for detailed study—would shift to the government some of the huge interest-bearing debt which annually places the line in the red.

The non-confidence motion on trade was sponsored by George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, June 3. It called for a Commonwealth trade conference to discuss such urgent matters as convertibility of sterling and restoration of "traditional" Canadian markets overseas.

Cabinet spokesmen considered that only the United Kingdom—banker for the sterling area—was in a position to find a solution to the problem which was turning free countries into two camps—sterling and dollar.

As the motion was discussed, government members defended Canada's trade policies. Opposition members suggested more could be done to help Canada retain disappearing markets for some Canadian foodstuffs.

John Diefenbaker (PC—Lake Centre) suggested Canada give some of her surplus food to the United Kingdom to help her obtain some things she cannot afford to buy and also to rid Canada of the economic dangers resulting from large unsold surpluses.

He suggested also that Canada could help Britain earn more dollars by shifting some $100,000,000 worth of defence orders from the United States to the mother country. This would provide Britain with funds to buy Canadian agricultural products.

Clarie Gillis (CCF—Cape Breton South) proposed that Canada increase development of her home markets as a first step to more solid trade. Victor Quelch (SC—Acadia) said Canada might consider investing in other Commonwealth countries to provide them with funds with which to buy goods from Canada.

Rodney Adamson (PC—York West) suggested that gold and not the United States dollar should be the basis of currency exchange. The American dollar was subject to internal fluctuations and maintaining it as a basis of international exchange was one of the "greatest fallacies we can follow."

Defending the government's trade policies, George McIlraith (L—Ottawa West) disagreed with Mr. Diefenbaker that a Commonwealth conference might have effective results.

The parliamentary assistant to Trade Minister Howe said the U. K. should be the one to decide when the question of convertibility should be raised. He wondered whether the Progressive Conservatives wanted Canada to tell the British how to handle their internal fiscal policies. The record showed, he said, that Canada's trade had climbed over the years, rather than decreased.

As for placing more defence orders in the U.K., an attempt was made to order $80,000,000 worth of undisclosed items but British firms, because of Britain's own defence program, could fill only $6,000,000 of the order.

Reds Must Talk Business If Talks Are To Continue

By GEORGE A. McARTHUR

Munsan, Korea, June 10. — (AP) — A United Nations spokesman said today Red truce negotiators will have to talk business without propaganda or the allies again might recess the tightly-deadlocked Korean armistice talks.

Negotiations, which began 11 months ago today, resume tomorrow at Panmunjom at 11 A.M. (10 P.M. Tuesday EDT) after a three-day recess called by the U.N. command over communist protests.

Brig.-Gen. William P. Nuckols, U.N. command spokesman, said there is a possibility of another recess "after this respite if the propaganda barrage once again becomes intolerable."

Maj-Gen. William K. Harrison, senior allied truce negotiator, called the recess Saturday because of "communist propaganda drivel."

Each day since then the Reds have sent a liaison officer to the truce site to demand immediate resumption of the talks. The demands were ignored.

The Red high command in a letter to Gen. Mark Clark, United Nations supreme commander, criticized the allies for their action The letter, signed by Gen. Kim Il Sung, premier of North Korea, and Chinese Gen. Peng Teh-Huai, said:

"If you wish to break up the talks by this tactic, you should do it officially and take full responsibility for it. You should know that what you cannot get on the battlefront you cannot get at the conference site."

An armistice is stymied by the prisoner-exchange issue. The U. N. command says only 70,000 of 169,000 captured Red soldiers and civilians have expressed a willingness to be repatriated. The communists demand all their soldiers back regardless.

Seoul, Korea, June 10. — (AP) — Swelled forces of United Nations and Chinese Red troops clashed today in the fourth day of a sharp fight for an allied-held strategic hill position on the uneasy Korean western front.

A U. S. Eighth Army briefing officer said "activity has increased" all along the western front and that patrol actions are "longer and more intense."

The Eighth Army said at least two companies of U. N. troops—about 400 men—skirmished with Reds today in the friction spot area near Chorwon.

U. N troops killed 40 and wounded 100 of 250 attacking Reds that tried vainly for 3½ hours Monday to win back the hill they lost Saturday. It was the third and largest assault on the hill by the Reds in 24 hours.

Lesser fights broke out Monday near the main hill battle but neither side won or lost ground.

Small clashes were reported Tuesday morning from the Yonchon, Korangpo and Panmunjom areas on the western front.

Clouds hampered the operation of U.N. planes over North Korea this morning.

Steel Talks Break Down But Defence Needs Assured

Washington, June 10.— (AP) — Collapse of White House peace talks posed the problem today of a continuing steel strike that may last weeks and even months.

The impasse is sure to stir Congress into renewed action on various plans to stop walkouts in steel and other defence-vital industries.

Philip Murray, president of the C.I.O. and of the striking United Steelworkers of America, said the steel stoppage will continue but he pledged that certain steel facilities needed for defence production will be reopened to take care of military requirements.

This left unanswered, however, the question of how stalled steel production will affect the general economy. Most manufacturers had a month or six-week supply of steel on hand, according to defence production officials, but the strike already is eight days old and the end is nowhere in sight now.

John R. Steelman, assistant to President Truman, announced last night that five days of intensive bargaining had failed to produce a settlement. It was strongly indicated the parties had floundered finally on the controversial union-shop demand, which would require all steelworkers to be union members.

Murray accused the industry of failing to meet wage stabilization board settlement recommendations in many respects. John Stephens, vice-president of U.S. Steel Co., said the companies had met practically all the union's money demands, only to have their offer rejected because it lacked a union shop arrangements.

Stephens and Murray were agreed, however, that there would be no problem, despite the strike, in getting steel facilities back into production where the output is needed for defence. Stephens said plants will turn out steel for munitions, jet aircraft and other military requirements.

Steelman told reporters the government's munitions board probably would announced today the specific requirements for defence.

The W.S.B. settlement proposals favored by the union called for a 26-cent hourly boost in wages and other benefits. The industry described its final offer as a 24.6-cent package, which would cost it $400,000,000 a year. Murray claimed the industry offer amounted to less than that.

Murray said the industry offer failed to meet the W.S.B. plan in amount of wages, extent of retroactivity, some form of the union shop, time-and-a-quarter pay for Sunday work and a commitment for further study of the union's guaranteed-wage demand.

The deadlock likely will touch off renewed agitation for Truman to invoke the 80-day court injunction provisions of the Taft-Hartley labor law to stop the strike.

New U.S. Liner Sets Fast Clip

Aboard The United States at Sea, June 10.—(AP)—The graceful liner United States slid through the Atlantic today at speeds "considerably higher" than ever attained by any other big vessel.

Four propellers pushed the 53,000-ton black-and-white liner through the water at about 33 miles an hour.

Officials put her speed in last night's trials at "considerably" in excess of 34 knots. This means that the 990-foot queen of the U.S. merchant marine travelled at least 37.5 miles an hour.

How much faster than that the United States actually went during the eight-hour run was not disclosed for security reasons.

The United States will make her maiden voyage July 3 from New York to Southampton and Le Havre with 2,000 passengers and a crew of about 1,000.

Although the Queen Mary's transatlantic mark is 31.69 knots it is known that the big British liner can do better than that. Like

JACOBY ON CANASTA

AWARENESS HELPS IN CANASTA

"How do you know when the opponents are about to meld out?" asks a Pittsburgh reader. "I seem to get stuck with a big fistful of cards very often, just when one of the opponents is about one play from out. Is there any sensible way to avoid this?"

This question strikes at the heart of good play. After all, Canasta is a pretty easy game.to play. If you understand the basic principles of good play and if you have a good memory for cards you should be able to beat anybody, or at least break even.

Fortunately for the game, this just isn't so. You need more than the simple equipment just mentioned. You must possess awareness to beat other good players.

Let's take an elementary example. One opponent has six cards in his hand after quite a bit of melding has been done by both sides. At a certain point in the play, that opponent closes up his six cards and makes each draw from the stock pile without opening up his hand. What is going on?

Clearly, that player is in out position. He knows exactly what he needs to meld out, and he is too lazy to sit up and look at his hand. He is going to do you a favor by warning you that he is drawing for out, and you would be very foolish if you ignored that warning.

If a tricky player acts in the same way, however, you don't assume that he is drawing for out. He probably has a hopeless hand and is trying to panic you into melding out. If he really were drawing for out he would avoid giving you the slighetst warning.

How do you know the difference. It's just a question of awareness—quality that probably cannot be taught. Some very clever people don't know when an opponent is trying to fool them them. It isn't only in Canasta that you sometimes have to wonder who is telling the truth.

Take another simple case. An experienced player has been discarding safely for several rounds into a frozen discard. Finally he goes into a long huddle and, with a full hand of 12 cards (including the card he has just drawn) he discards the first queen of that hand. Is that a singleton, or does he have more queens?

Th odds are very high he has more queens left in his hand. An experienced player will almost invariably discard from length in that situation.

Once in a blue moon an experienced players will recklessly discard a singleton. How do you know? If you're there at the table, and if you have great awareness, you know. Otherwise you must simply guess.

GOLDWYN TURNS BACK ON BUDGET TO FILM SPECTACULAR FAIRY TALE

Hollywood — (NEA) — Behind the Screen: Samuel Goldwyn has dethroned Errol Flynn as Hollywood's bravest man.

While movietown is slashing budgets and swinging the economy axe in circles to meet TV competition, Sam's pouring $3,000,000 into a super-colossal Technicolor fairy tale about a fairy tale teller, "Hans Christian Andersen." His reasoning:

"Only great motion pictures count today," he told me. "I'm doing something unusual. I'm going to show people things they've never seen on the screen."

Co-starring Danny Kaye and French ballerina Jeanmaire, "Hans" features 40 minutes of ballet, including a 15-minute, eye-popping "Little Mermaid" number in which Jeanmaire dances on ocean waves and in an undersea grotto.

And take it from Goldwyn: "It's the most effective number I've ever put on the screen."

As an independent producer, Goldwyn's free to sell his tremendous library of films to TV and he admits he's had "fabulous" offers.

"But I'm turning them all down," he said. "I still believe great motion pictures belong in theatres."

"EMBARRASSING" FUSS

Diana Lynn is bristling over the out-loud guessing that her busty likeness on the cover of a national magazine has put gallons of zip and zing into her movie career.

If she's way out in front in the flickers again, it's not because Hollywood suddenly discovered that she was Jane Russell-ish in the mustard plaster region.

She'd like to think, Diana remarked, that she earned her new role in UI's "The Great Companions" by dint of hard work on the stage and in television during the past year.

"It's all kind of embarrassing," shuddered Diana. "Suddenly, I'm a sexy flash. About that cover. I looked like a girl. And I am a girl. What's all the fuss about?"

* * *

Ezio Pinza may have his doubts about making another great lover movie with Lana Turner, but he's ready to gamble with any Hollywood studio that will star him in a filmed opera.

And gamble is just what Ezio means.

"I'll do eet for nowtheeng and take per cent," roared the Enchanted Evening man, who's starring as Feodor Chaliapin in Fox's "Tonight We Sing." I theenk I make mmore money. We are too afraind een Hollywood. Ees not a question that the poodbeec ees not raddy. The poodleec ees raddy. If Fox or MGM do a movie opera, the poobleec weel rosh to see ect."

Pinza's playing Chaliapin in a blond wi gand doesn't buss a single damsel. He explained: "Ees comedy side of heem I play, but eet does not mean Chapiapin was not romanteec. Een all hees life, Chaliapin never passed up a beautiful woman."

PASS THE SMELLING SALTS

Fasten your seat straps, readers—there's a dazzler in movietown who's asked her studio not to refer to her as a beauty.

She's gorgeous Janice Rule of MGM, who has me popping my eyes like Eddie Cantor over her "I'm-not-Hedy" cry. Janice, who's Peter Lawford's co-star in "Rogue's March," told me that "I want to be known as a good dancer and a capable actress, but I can do without this raving beauty stuff. I don't see how it can help me."

It was Anthony Beauchamp, Sarah Churchill's photographer husband, who started Janice squirming over the super-looker tag when he named her as one of Hollywood's 10 greatest beauties last year in a national magazine.

"It was a very embarrassing thing," sighed Janice. "Thank goodness, most people have forgotten about it."

Myrtle, the smelling salts, please.

Here's a CONFESSION. Joanne Dru didn't get dead-earnest about acting until after she became a star. Honest! That's what the girl said.

Co-starring with Richard Widmark in Fox's "Big Man" as a Topaz blonde, she declared:

"I began acting because I was plain bored. Even when I did 'Red River' it was just fun. Then I started doing stage plays with John (hubby John Ireland), things way over my head, and suddenly became serious about acting."

* * *

Someone asked Spike Jones, just back from a tour, if he did a satire on Johnnie Ray.

"Did we!" flashed Spike. "We almost drowned the first two rows in Portland."

* * *

Budd Boetticher, directing a character actor in a death scene for "City Beneath the Sea," quipped: "Let's try it once more. And when you die this time, please put some life into it."

ACCEPT DOUBLE IN BACKGAMMON

"I hope you answer questions on backgammon," writes a Chicago reader, "even though your column seems to deal mostly with card games.

"I don't understand the principle of doubling at the end of a game. For example, last night my wife had one man left on the three-point and one man left on the two-point, and it was her roll. I had two men left on the one-point.

"She doubled, because the odds were in her favor. I resigned, and she said I should have accepted the double.

"If the odds are against me, why should I accept a double? If the odds are not against me, why should she double? The whole thing seems all tangled up. Can you make sense of it?"

We'll try. The lady was quite right, but we may have trouble proving it in non-techincal language.

The wife stood to win the game on her next roll unless she rolled a 1 on either die. Our first step is to calculate the chance that she will win the game.

There are 36 possible combinations that can be rolled with two dice. Exactly 11 of those 36 contain a 1. Those rolls are: 6-1, 5-1, 4-1, 3-1, 2-1, 1-1, 1-2, 1-3, 1-4, 1-5 and 1-6. The other 25 combinations contain no 1 on either die.

The odds are therefore 25 to 11 that the wife wins the game on her next roll. Now we can see what happens if she fails to double; if she doubles, and the husband resigns or, if she doubles, and the husband accepts.

Suppose the wife never doubles in this kind of situation. In 36 games of this kind she would tend to win 25 and lose 11. She would therefore wind up 14 points ahead of her husband. (This is just a tendency, of course. She might actually win all 36 in a particular series of 36 games. In the long run, however, she would win 25 out of each 36.)

If the wife always double, and the husband always refuses, she wins all 36 games. She thus winds up 36 points ahead. This is a lot better than 14 ahead, to be sure.

If the husband always accepts the double, he loses 25 double games but wins 11 double games. The wife winds up 28 points ahead. Friend husband hates to lose 28 points, but it's even worse to lose 36 points by always refusing the double.

In a nutshell, it pays to double when the odds are in your favor. It pays to accept the double when the odds are less than 3 to 1 against you.

Miss C. Stuart Of Beebe Showered By Friends

Beebe, June 11—Miss Catherine Stuart was very surprised and pleased upon entering the Council room on Tuesday evening, June 3, to find sixty-two of her friends and neighbours waiting to "shower" her with gifts and good wishes in honor of her approaching marriage.

Miss Stuart was escorted to a decorated chair and seated with her mother, Mrs. John Stuart, on one side, and Mrs. Reginald Hatch, of Tomifobia, on the other. Six baskets of prettily wrapped gifts were presented to her. These were unwrapped and duly inspected and admired by all present.

Miss Stuart in a very charming manner thanked everyone for the lovely gifts and invited everyone to visit her in her new home, "but not to come all at once".

During the evening the honored guest was presented with a corsage of lilies of the valley by Miss Betty Hatch, of Rock Island.

Refreshments, including a lovely bride's cake made by Mrs. V. Woodard, were served by the hostesses.

Miss Shirley Grieve was an overnight guest of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Parsons, in Lennoxville.

Miss Leona Shepard has returned home, after spending a few days in Port Hope, Ont. Mrs. John Choiniere accompanied her home to remain for a week.

Lennoxville Safety Check Shows 68 Of 69 Bicycles Are Defective

Only one of 69 bicycles checked in the safety campaign of the Lennoxville and Ascot Home and School Association received 100 per cent rating, Leslie F. Bennett, chairman of the safety committee, said today.

School children's bicycles were checked on June 4 and 68 of the 69 boys and girls received red check cards, showing there was some defect in the bicycle. A white check card is given if the bike is in perfect shape.

Mr. Bennett said that in most cases there were only minor defects, although one bike was completely minus brakes.

Results of the survey, Mr. Bennett said, proved how very worthwhile the safety campaign is proving. He pointed out to parents that at the cost of a little time and in some cases just a few cents most of the bikes can be put in order.

A further check will take place on Thursday and the committee hopes that many of the red cards issued last week can be replaced by white ones.

Mr. Bennett said, too, that on Thursday the children will be issued copies listing the rules of the road and when the school term re-opens next fall the safety campaign will be carried forward another step.

At that time there will be additional tests and children whose bikes are in order and who know the rules of the road will receive Elmer stickers. Elmer is the national safety symbol.

An Elmer pennant has been ordered for Lennoxville High School. This will be unveiled next term. The pennant goes up when the school children have been free from accidents for 30 consecutive days.

If one of the children becomes involved in an accident the pennant is lowered to half mast and remains there until the completion of another 30-day accident-free period.

The school itself has organized a safety committee and has recommended that children walk on the sidewalk instead of on the road, especially going to and from school. Where there is no sidewalk, the committee has recommended that children walk on the left side of the road.

The Lennoxville and Ascot Safety committee is at present trying to obtain playground space for the use of the children this summer, with a view to keeping the boys and girls off the roads. Details about this are expected to be known next week.

Overalls Burned In Plant Blaze

A set of overalls was badly damaged by fire at the Sherbrooke Laundry on Frontenac street yesterday afternoon, igniting in a revolving dry cleaning machine. Firemen believed the blaze started through friction, perhaps a button on the overalls striking against the inside of the drum and firing the solvent. A fire-fighting party under Lieutenants Gerard Roy and G. P. Donahue responded to the alarm at 4.15 and returned to their station at 4.30.

Our Congratulations To: -

STEVE NEWTON, who is observing the anniversary of his birth today.

Police Seek Owners Of Blanket

Someone is "out" a very fine blanket as a wedding gift.

The blanket reposes at Municipal Police headquarters on Marquette Street and the would-be donors of same need only apply to Police Chief Edouard Moreau and claim it.

The blanket was placed by mistake in the car of an honest gentleman from Ayer's Cliff, Friday afternoon, as his car stood parked on Grand Forks Street.

The windows of the car were open and somebody threw the cardboard box containing the blanket in the back seat.

The box and blanket were turned over to Municipal Police who found a gift card inside reading, in English: "Best wishes from Mr. and Mrs. . . . . " (name withheld).

Mr. and Mrs. . . . . may have the blanket by presenting their own identification and describing the gift.

So far, radio bulletins have failed to locate the owners.

Three Rivers Radar Men Visit Here

Thirteen members of the newly-formed Three Rivers radar squadron, headed by their commanding officer, Flt.-Lt. Andy Dumas, visited the Sherbrooke radar unit last evening.

The group was welcomed by Sqdn.-Ldr. F. W. McCrea, the local unit's commanding officer, and was taken on a conducted tour of the building by FO. Keith Smith, permanent force officer attached to the Sherbrooke unit.

Technical and administrative guidance was given by Flt.-Lt. Greg. O'Boyle, second in command, and by Flt.-Lt. Henry Cameron, adjutant.

Potential section heads of the Three Rivers unit spent considerable time inspecting in detail the facilities of the Sherbrooke unit.

Purpose of the visit was to give the members of the newly-formed unit an opportunity to look over a well-established unit as a source of information to help further the efficiency of their own operations.

Rubin Strikers Protest Police Use To Protect "Strike-Breakers"

The three-month old strike of the S. Rubin Co. Ltd., employees had its repercussions at last evening's special session of the Sherbrooke City Council when a large delegation of the employees waited on the aldermen to protest against the use of municipal police to protect "scabs" entering the strike-bound establishment.

Roger Roy, spokesmen for the strikers, declared the men who had entered the plant in the past few days were not former employees who had become fed up with the strike but were strike-breakers imported from other parts of the province.

Other speakers declared that the police had exceeded their powers in preventing the pickets from entering a lane on one side of the building and that they had been over-zealous in clamping down on singing by the marching picketers.

Under questioning by members of the Council, they admitted they had no complaints against strong-arm tactics by the police.

In closing the discussion, Mayor Levesque praised the strikers for the good order they had shown during the long walk-out but insisted that the City was bound to protect private property and that the lane in question was private property. He also pointed out that group singing constituted unreasonable noise and had to be stopped.

The remainder of the brief session was devoted to re-approving three by-laws covering the construction of industrial buildings which required extensive amendment.

Sherbrooke District Scout, Cub Rally Held At Week-End At Cookshire

Cookshire, June 10 — The Sherbrooke District Boy Scout and Cub Rally was held at the Cookshire Fair Grounds on Saturday with a record number of scouts and cubs participating despite the unfavorable weather prevailing until a few hours before the opening. Plans of arrangement were by the Leaders' Council under the chairmanship of E. S. Heatherington, M.El. of Cookshire.

The rally was conducted on a competitive basis between troops for points, with deductions for errors. The Scout Troups participating were 5th Sherbrooke—St. Peter's; 7th Sherbrooke — St. Paul's; 10th Sherbrooke—St. Pat's; 1st Lennoxville; and Cookshire Lone Scouts. The Cub Packs included 1st Sherbrooke; 3rd Sherbrooke; 5th Sherbrooke; 10th Sherbrooke; 1st Lennoxville, and Waterville.

The events for the Cubs included a book balancing relay, a message relay, a medley relay and a knotting competition. From a possible 100 points, the results were as follows: 3rd Sherbrooke Pack 90; 5th Sherbrooke Pack 85; 10th Sherbrooke Pack and 1st Lennoxville Pack equal 50; Waterville Pack 30 and 1st Sherbrooke 20.

The Scout events created great interest among the numerous visitors in attendance. A signalling contest between three stations created great interest. The lashing of Scout staves to form a flag pole was dexterous, while lighting a fire under adverse conditions to boil water was interesting, and friction fire lighting was amusing to the non-scouting public. The art of tent raising and bridge building were very instructive.

Judging these events were Ted Austin, J. Dowling, D. Watson, E. Turner, Dr. J. A. Kyte, assisted by Rover Scouts Jack Lenaghan, Malcolm Decarie, Graham Decarie and John Addison, under the chairmanship of L. E. Trussler. The results were as follows: from a possible 125 points, 5th Sherbrooke 97½; 7th Sherbrooke 84; 1st Lennoxville 69½; Cookshire 50 and 10th Sherbrooke 15.

At the conclusion of the events, M. Parsons, chairman of the Sherbrooke District Council of Boy Scouts, presented the trophy to 5th Sherbrooke Troup while Scout Commissioner C. Blake presented the trophy to the 3rd Sherbrooke Pack.

At the conclusion of the rally a model camp competition was entered upon with the five troops participating. This included the preparation of three meals and overnight sleeping accommodation with other activities included. After the campfire activities on Saturday night, "chy" was served by the Cookshire Troop, to the surprise and great enjoyment of all.

Sunday morning was observed by Scouts Own Service, conducted by Rev. R. Turpin of Cookshire.

The judging of the camps, which included 18 tents with all necessary auxiliaries, cooking fires, etc., was conducted by Rover Scouts Jack Lenaghan, Don Griffin and Bud Fritz. The announcement of the judges' decision was made by Chairman Heatherington.

From a possible 100 points, 10th Sherbrooke-St. Pat's received 80, winning the camp trophy, under the direction of Scoutmaster George Gage; Lennoxville Troop, under Scoutmaster Cliff Force, was the runner-up with 75½ points. The other troops ranked as follows: Cookshire Lone Scouts, 72½; 5th Sherbrooke-St. Peter's with 65½ points, and 7th Sherbrooke-St. Paul's with 64 points.

Among the out-of-town district officers attending the rally and camp were Commissioner Connors and Rover Scout Allen, of Windsor Mills, Rover Scouts Malcolm Decarie, Graham Decarie, John Addison, of Montreal, District Officers Maurice Parsons, Ted Austin, L. E. Trussler, J. Wark, C. Blake, J. Lenaghan, of Sherbrooke.

Maurice Hudon was appointed chairman of a proposed club golf tournament and Guy Labrie was named to look into the matter of having a club picnic.

Evangelism Rally Held At Y. M. C. A.

Saturday afternoon brought a group of children to the Y.M.C.A. for the Child Evangelism Fellowship Rally of the Eastern Townships group. The children were from Sherbrooke, Coaticook, Hatley, Huntingville, Barnston, Lennoxville, and Compton. These had attended Good News Clubs in homes and schools during the year.

The C.E.F. is an international and interdenominational work for Bible teaching among children. The address for the local group is: Child Evangelism Fellowship, Box 283, Sherbrooke, Que.

During the sing song in both French and English, children from Huntingville demonstrated a visual chorus in English and duets were sung in French by children from Compton and Coaticook. The books of the New Testament were recited by a Sherbrooke class; two sisters recited Psalm 23, the one in French and the other in English; and prayer was offered by French children from Coaticook and Sherbrooke, and by English children from Hatley and Huntingville. The Coaticook and Barnston children sang a two-part chorus "Marvel not that I say unto you, ye must be born again." The memory verses that were learned during the winter were recited by the class from Hatley. East Ward school sang, "All the Children Ought to Know who Jesus is."

A Bible contest was much enjoyed by the children. Three of the children who know the Lord Jesus Christ as their personal Saviour told what Jesus means to them in their everyday life, after which all the children sang "For God so loved the world that He gave His only Son," a chorus taken from John 3:16.

The highlight of the afternoon was a story of trees called Tom, Dick and Harry, told by Miss B. Courtney of Montreal. Tom was made into the manger in which Jesus was born; Dick into a boat from which Jesus taught the multitude, and Harry into the cross on which our Saviour gave His life for us that we might have our sins forgiven and receive Eternal Life.

June Prom Held At Stanstead

Stanstead, June 10.—Favored by perfect weather, the annual June prom, last social event of the school term, was held last night at Stanstead College.

More than 250 students and guests were present for this colorful event which began with a promenade, under brilliant moonlight, around the College "heart" and through other parts of the attractive grounds.

Following the promenade a reception was held in the college reception room. Receiving the students and guests were Dr. E. C. Amaron, principal, and Mrs. Amaron, Ian Thomson and Freda Vivian.

There was a musical program in which Cynthia Gordon, Valerie Healy and Miss Margaret Hurley took part.

Following this, there was a promenade to the College dining room for dancing. John McKay acted as master-of-ceremonies for the dance, which was followed by refreshments.

Preparations Of Voters' List For Prov. Election Starts Next Week

The first direct contact many Quebec citizens will have with the July 16 provincial elections will come next week when they are visited by the enumerators charged with preparing the list of eligible voters.

The enumerators will make their rounds next Monday to Friday from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. and 7 to 10 p.m.

Two enumerators will be appointed for each polling sub-division, one on the recommendation of the Prime Minister—actually on the recommendation of the county Union Nationale organization—and the other on that of the leader of the Opposition or the local Liberal party. There will be no more than 300 voters in any polling sub-division.

Lists of enumerators compiled by Union Nationale and Liberal organizations must be submitted today to the returning officer in each constituency.

Revision of the voters' list will take place from June 24 to July 3 in Montreal and Quebec City; June 29 to July 3 in other cities and towns with 3,000 population or more and July 1 to 3 in rural areas with less than 3,000 population.

A provision of the Elections Act which requires that enumerators see each elector personally, unless it is impossible because of illness, applies only to Montreal Island and Quebec City.

Everyone over 21 years of age is entitled to be on the electoral list providing he or she has lived in the province since June 30, 1951 and is a Canadian citizen and is not disqualified under the Election Act.

The list of those subject to disqualification includes positions of honor and positions of shame, and reads as follows: Judges of the Supreme Court of Canada, Exchequer Court, Court of Queen's Bench, Superior Court and Circuit Court, judges of sessions, district magistrates, recorders, the chief returning officer, the acting chief, the deputy chief, the returning officer (except in case of a tie vote), the election clerk and revisers of urban polling sub-divisions; persons who have taken the oath of allegiance to foreign powers, or have become naturalized elsewhere; Indians living on reserves, persons declared disqualified by the Legislative Assembly or against whom there is a court judgment entailing disqualification; persons guilty of crimes punishable by more than two years in prison; insane persons in institutions and interdicted persons.

Anyone eligibe to vote can be a candidate if at least 25 electors of the electoral district in which he is a candidate sign his nomination papers. A deposit of $200 is required which he forfeits if he fails to poll one-half of the vote cast for the successful candidate.

No one can be a candidate in more than one electoral district. This is the first general election in which there have been such restrictions.

Forecasts indicate that approximately 2,250,000 persons will be eligible to vote in the July 16 general elections, although the exact number will not be known until the enumeration and the revision of the list is completed.

For the 1948 elections there were 2,086,576 names on the list.

The province-wide vote in 1948 was 75.2 per cent of the number on the voters' lists, the vote proportionally being heavier in the rural districts than in the urban seats.

Polling on July 16 will be from 9 a.m. to 6.30 p.m., Eastern Daylight Time.

WATCH OLD MAN SUN

We are entering the period when the sun-worshippers are in their glory. Soon they will be sporting dark brown complexions which, as bathing suit fashions change, are becoming more and more an overall job.

There is no doubt that being out in the sun is a healthy thing, but, like mad dogs and Englishmen, it can be carried too far. There is the discomfort of sunburn, which can be as serious as any other burn, and there is the belief that prolonged exposure to the sun is a contributory factor in the cause of some cases of skin cancer.

If you feel that you must acquire a suntan, you would be well-advised to follow a few simple sun-health rules as laid down in the latest issue of the Health League of Canada Magazine.

1. Don't let a hazy day fool you. Clouds do not necessarily stop the sun's burning rays.

2. Apply suntan lotion evenly all over before exposure, and pay special attention to forehead, cheekbones, nose, chin, shoulders and behind the knees. Some suntan lotions will completely prevent burning.

3. Reapply suntan lotion after each swin; and apply it periodically if you perspire heavily.

4. Watch your timing. Don't try to get your whole summer's tan the first day out, or even during the first several days.

5. Use a lip pomade to protect your lips against fever sores, chapping and cracking.

6. Wear sun glasses. Sun not only makes your eyes red and unattractive, but it also drastically reduces night vision and so contributes to many after-dark highway accidents.

By following this set of rules, your summer can be free from the discomfort of sunburn. In any event, don't say you weren't warned!

HOPE IN EGYPT

Egypt has not been much in the headlines lately, but in the opinion of the Christian Science Monitor, news being what it sometimes is, this is a case where "no news (or little) is good news." For there has been little news from Cairo and from London on Anglo-Egyptian and Egyptian-Sudanese tensions, and that little has been favorable.

About a fortnight ago Egyptian Ambassador Abdul Fattah Amr Pasha gave British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden an oral reply to Britain's proposals on settling the issues regarding the Suez Canal Zone and the Sudan.

If unofficial Egyptian hints of the content of the reply are authentic, they seem to give ground for great encouragement that a satisfactory settlement can be reached between Cairo and the western powers — assuming the Hilali government is able to keep its footing in Egyptian politics.

The main points covered were said to include: (a) Recognition of King Farouk's claim to the title of King of the Sudan; (b) Egyptian agreement to self-government and eventual self-determination by the people of the Sudan; (c) evacuation of British forces from the Suez Canal Zone; (d) Egyptian agreement to enter joint defense arrangements for the Middle East with Britain, France, Turkey, and the United States.

This would leave really little to be desired. But there are great difficulties of detail to be mastered on almost every one of the four points. One indication that these details are being constructively explored is contained in word that a delegation of Sudanese officials now is in Cairo on Hilali Pasha's invitation to discuss their relations with Egypt.

Such proceedings give hope that vastly more important and favorable events are stirring in Egypt than the disorders of early this year.

CONFLICTS PUT MASTER CONTROL OF COLUMBIA RIVER YEARS OFF

By PETER EDSON

NEA Washington Correspondent

Grand Coulee Dam, Wash. — (NEA) — People in the Columbia River valley can give full bipartisan support to one idea, anyway. They agree that everything possible should be done to develop their greatest natural resource, which is this mighty Columbia River.

There is wide difference of opinion, though, on how it should be done and who ought to do it.

The idea of a Columbia River Valley "Authority" to run the whole works seems defnitely shelved. All the states have rejected it — Washington, Oregon, Montana, Idaho and Wyoming.

But the need for a "water master" to control all the dams on the main river and its tributaries grows more pressing every day that development progresses in a half dozen different directions.

This control can apparently come only through an inter-state compact. A commission to study and promote this agreement is now at work under the chairmanship of Frank Banks, the man generally credited with having built Grand Coulee Dam. But final agreement is perhaps years away.

Meantime, many rivalries from special interest groups complicate the whole business. Irrigation versus power. Private power vs. public power. And in a few instances where local public utility districts think the federal government agencies are moving too slowly, these little "authorities" propose building their own dams.

The Army Engineers who built Grand Coulee will build all dams downstream from here. Bureau of Reclamation will build all dams upstream. Engineers will handle all flood control and navigation works. Reclamation will handle all power sales and irrigation projects.

More Than 20 Dams Are Done Or Being Built

One 100 dams have been proposed for this river system. Twenty-some are done or under construction.

Most of the dams on the Snake, which rises in the Yellowstone Park and Jackson Hole country of Wyoming and winds across Idaho, have now been built. But a bitter battle is coming to a head in Congress this month over authorization for Hell's Canyon Dam, on the Oregon-Idaho border.

Idaho Power Company is bucking the project hard. This company proposes to build five non-storage power dams in this section of the Snake river. Bureau of Reclamation proposes one big storage dam at the Hell's Canyon site, to develop twice as much power as the five smaller dams.

Flowing into the Columbia near the Canadian border is the center system of tributaries — the river with three names. The lower section is the Pend Oerille (ear ring) River, below the lake of the same name. Above the lake the stream is konwn as Clark Fork. One branch rises near Butte. The other, known as the Flathead, has its headwaters in Canada and in Glacier National Park.

On the Flathead, near Kalispell, Mont., Bureau of Reclamation is now building Hungry Horse Dam. When completed — now set for October — it will be fourth largest and third highest dam in the world.

It will be a "cheap" dam, costing a little over $100 million. Yet behind its 564 feet of concrete, nearly half a mile wide at the top, will be a new lake 34 miles long, generating 285,000 kilowatts as it drives four generators.

Dam Will Impound Water For Release In Autumn

The dam will do more than that. It will impound most of its water in the early summer, as the high mountain snows melt on the Great Divide. Then in late summer, fall and winter, when the flow over Grand Coulee and the dams downstream is low, Hungry Horse will release its waters to "firm up" their power.

This is but another example of how water-master control of an entire river system can be applied for maximum benefits.

At Kalispell, to use a large block of the Hungry Horse power, Anaconda Mining Company will build the new aluminum plant authorized last year to increase defense production of this light metal. Other Hungry Horse power will go to Montana Power Company on the east and to the Pacific coast power grid on the west.

Grand Coulee Dam itself, the world's largest concrete structure and the central project of the Columbia system, is still a number-one tourist attraction, though it has been operating over 10 year.

It is the world's largest power producer — nearly two million kilowatts. But it is capable of being made bigger. The site for a third Coulee powerhouse is now being investigated.

Grand Coulee has cost about $750 million thus far. That is about what New York City has spent for its water supply system. Yet only one of Grand Coulee's 12 water pumps could supply as much water as New York uses every day.

These Grand Coulee pumps raise the water from Lake Roosevelt, behind the dam for 280 feet to an equalizing reservoir. From this flows the water that will, in time, irrigate a million acres of new farmland in central Washington.

PRESS COMMENTS

KOJE PRISONERS

The Spectator—London

With the prisoners on Koje Island steadily arming themselves inside the barbed wire defences, the guards themselves are in potential danger and any further troops drafted in to control them must reduce the number available in the field. In the circumstances the Canadian government's protest at the use of its troops for this work is surprising — quite apart from the complications which it introduces into the organization of the United Nations command. The past failure in Koje may have been due to American inefficiency, but the duty to try to put it right is a United Nations duty.

"MR MAYOR" IS A LADY

London Times Weekly

Alderman Mrs. Violet Grantham, widow of a former Lord Mayor of Newcastle Upon Tyne, has been elected Lord Mayor of the city. She is the first woman civic head of Newcastle in more than 700 years.

Alderman Mrs. Lilian Farmer was elected Mayor of Hythe, Kent. The borough has been choosing civic leaders since 1036, and Mrs. Farmer is the first woman to be elected.

The first woman civic leader at Boston, Lincolnshire, in 407 years, Councillor Mrs. Alice S. Johnson, was also elected. It was announced that the new Mayor would be addressed as "Mr. Mayor." The style "Madam Mayor" employed in some towns, it was stated, lacked an historical precedent.

"HEAVY IN VOTES"

Commons Hansard

Mr. Rowe: . . . We have a government today great in number and heavy in—

An Hon. Member: Wisdom.

Mr. Rowe: No, heavy in votes, heavy in "yes, yes" men like yourself. We have a government which has probably more support in the house and fewer friends in the country than any government we have had for many years. Even after losing nine by-elections out of eleven they cannot be shocked into a realization that the public do not think they are good fellows because there are so many of them.

An Hon. Member: We are not professionals.

Mr. Rowe: I notice you are not professional in anything. We have a government in this country that thinks everything is fine. They are prize optimists. They do not care what happens as long as it does not happen to them. They believe that everything is fine so long as prices are high, so long as taxes are high and so long as they can get the taxes in and have big budgets. As long as trade is big they believe everything is fine. We should consider why they adopt this attitude.

Letters To The Editor

NO TURNING BACK

Dear Sir:

This reader found plenty to think about in your editorial entitled "No Turning Back," in your May 27 issue, notably such forthright statements as the following: "(1)—Regardless of how people may moan and groan about the present price levels, there is no prospect that they will return to pre-war rates, according to a decision of a panel of experts; and, (2)—But since 1939, national production has gone up from 5.7 billion to 21.2 billion in 1951, and an expected 22.5 billion this year. . . . It is fairly obvious that the country will no more revert to the standard of living and prices, than it will go back to the dollar a day wage level of 1900."

I find it thought-provoking, as a farmer, to ponder the fact that the upward margin in the nation's likely productivity this year, figured to move ahead of 1951 (i.e., $1.3 billion), is almost equal to the net cash income of Canadian farmers in 1950 (i.e., $1.4 billion), the kind of fact which enables my simple mind of measure the gargantuan tempo of Canada's industrial wheels generally — but especially the defense industries.

The further fact that, according to the bureau of statistics, the net income of farmers across Canada in 1951 moved forward to $2.2 billion, seems a constructive and, from my angle, a more pleasant trend; although this differential, in turn, enables me to visualize the astounding fact of an expenditure nudging $800 million last year to take care of the alcoholic beverage needs of the Canadian people. I hope you will pardon this groundline reader for the heresy of, again, comparing this latter expenditure with the rigid "welfare" total of $900 million, to which the above editorial points as having no other base than the current industrial productivity of all Canadians.

In the circumstances, maybe we should not get too enthusiastic about lowered living costs, which the news-column indicate as being primarily at the expense of rural Canadians. It would be more equitable, I'm thinking, if all our 14.3 million people were marching down that same road.

FAIR DEAL.

Jacoby On Bridge

By OSWALD JACOBY

"GHOULIE" MAKING BRIDGE COMEBACK

Many years ago bridge players used to be very fond of "goulashes," and they seem to be gaining in favor again. The cards are not shuffled for a goulash hand, and they are dealt out five at a time, then five again, and finally three at a time.

The full rules of the game are amusingly and clearly explained by my friend Phil Wertheimer in his little book "Ghoulie," from which today's hand is taken. Any bridge player can pick the game up in about one minute flat, but there's more to it than meets the eye at first glance.

South's bidding, for example, is somewhat ambitious by ordinary bridge standards. He gaily makes a cue-bid with a broken spade suit and not a single diamond in support of North's suit.

This would be unsound in ordinary bridge, but it's all right in Ghoulie. North has to have a very fine diamond suit or good support for spades to bid three diamonds. When he shows the spade support, South can gallop all the way to slam.

East's double calls for a lead in the suit bid by dummy, so West opens the eight of diamonds. Dummy plays low, and East plays the six. South knows that West has led his highest diamond, so that East is marked with A-Q-10-9 as well as the six. This means that West started with three diamonds at most.

Armed with that information, South proceeds to strip the diamonds out of the West hand. Declarer ruffs the first diamond, gets to dummy with a trump to ruff a second diamond, and gets to dummy with another trump to ruff a third diamond. Now South leads the king of cubs.

At this moment West should look around for a lily to hold in his right hand, for he is as dead as a doornail. He must win the club, for otherwise he will never get a trick in the suit. (South would ruff two clubs in the dummy and give up one heart trick.)

But what does West then return? If he returns a heart, dummy's queen wins; and South later discards a heart from dummy on the queen of clubs. If West returns a club, South makes the queen and the ten, and dummy discards both losing hearts.

CARD SENSE

Q—With both sides vulnerable, the bidding has been:

East	South	West	North
1 Heart	?

You, South, hold: Spades A-Q-9-4, Heart 8, Diamonds K-J-8-7, Cubs K-Q-6-3. What do you do?

A—Double. Your hand is perfect for a takeout double, with 4-4-4-1 distribution, the singleton being in the suit bid by the opponent. You are ready for any suit that your partner may bid, and your general strength is sufficient for a double.

TODAY'S QUESTION

The bidding is the same as in the question just answered. You, South, hold: Spades A-Q-9-4, Hearts K-J-8-7, Diamonds 8, Clubs K-Q-6-3. What do you do?

Textile Slump Hits Footwear Business

Northampton, England. — The slump in Britain's textile trade has been felt by boot and shoe traders in this midland district.

Footwear sales fell in February by more than 25 per cent compared with January. This meant short time in most factories, many of which are running a rota system that gives a three-week idle period followed by re-employment.

There are, however, no thin-faced idlers at street corners as in the slump years after the first world war. Reason is the guaranteed wage agreement whereby workers get 75 per cent of their wage even on short time.

The necessity for dismissals has been reduced by the fact that more than 2,500 workers have left footwear factories for work in engineering. But most factories are keen to keep skilled workers who will be difficult to replace—even if continued production means piling stocks.

The Record Short Story

THE LORDLY ONE

By OLGA A. ROSMANITH

Pam told herself she wasn't superstitious. Nevertheless the ring exerted a powerful fascination for her. It was beautiful in its own strange way and that was the only reason she wore it. So she went on telling herself. Just the same, her mind played tricks on her and kept telling her she was one of the "Lordly Ones."

Her luck changed so instantly and in such fabulous ways, it simply could not be coincidence. Or could it? Anyway she missed it off her finger one morning on the subway. Her heart nearly stopped. She ran right back to the glass shelf in the bathroom to get it.

She was thirty five minutes late at her job selling sports wear in Graves' Bargain Basement on a sale day, and being a little too lordly under censure, lost it.

Twirling the ring she went across the street to Sawyers', also in the throes of a sale, and got a better one. This time on the second floor in the pleasant airy daylight, the moderately expensive department.

She was tired when she got home, but so gratified with life since the ring had come into it, she stayed at the table after dinner and wrote a long newsy letter to her brother in the Army of Occupation in Japan.

It struck her as her pen raced over the pages that it was only since she got the ring he had sent her that there had been any particular news to tell.

She took care however, not to talk about the ring except to say thank you again and how much she enjoyed wearing it, for Al was practical and had said in the letter—"I only told you all this to make you realize what it meant to this grateful old Japanese guy to give it to me—not for you to take it seriously. All I did by the way, was help him salvage his household goods after an earthquake. He took it off his own hand. He has delicate little slim fingers. Won't go near one of mine. So I thought you'd get a kind of a kick out of wearing it."

The ring was a circle of stiff, strong, lustrous black elephant hair from the tail. It was delicately twisted with a gold wire and it had a clasp engraged with some strange characters.

The old man had told Al that wearing this ring made him one of "the Lordly Ones" symbolized by the elephant. He would rise in the world and be treated as a Lordly One wherever he went, so long as he was wearing the ring. Not all the elephant hair rings of course, such as you could buy in the junk bazaars, but rings like this one, rare, blessed by a sage and engraved with the magic signature. The old man had said "Look, my house falls down and you come along in a jeep and jump down and salute me and get me out of my difficulties."

Al added, "I hadn't the heart to tell the poor old guy his magic ring had nothing to do with it."

Pam had slipped it on the third finger of her right hand and it had fitted perfectly. Also it looked exotic and beautiful, the slender black band twirled with gold on her slim, velvety white finger.

She walked to the subway that morning with a half smile on her lips and her head very high, thinking "I am one of the Lordly Ones." This stayed with her on the subway train where she was jammed as usual with the other herrings. And as usual people removed her from their path of progress by pushing her in the ribs with their elbows, but she thought "it is beneath the dignity of a Lordly One to lose her temper." She smiled a little wider.

That was the first morning in two years an entrenched male had looked over the top of his paper, smiled at her and offered his seat. Any other morning she would have dropped dead of astonishment had there been room to drop, but this morning it came naturally. She sat down and thanked him.

Luck like that both large and small had gone on. She even received an unexpected invitation to a perfectly wonderful party.

Five new friends had come into her life through that party, two men and three girls, all of whom had brought with them fun, color, good company and adventure.

She couldn't resist telling Al just a little of the miracles worked by the ring.

"Now today for instance, I even lost my job through it—but only to get a better one. You might call it coincidence, but Al, that's the third time I went to Sawyers to ask for a job and it's the first time they ever listened to me. I hope this elephant hair wears well. I don't know what—"

Pam tore up the sheet and decided to finish the letter in the morning. She had to be a little more careful telling Al the magic worked. He was one of those unimaginative, "show me" people. If he'd had any imagination she'd never have got the ring. He would never have parted with it.

She was a bit late next morning, delayed by finishing the letter and she had to run to the subway. It was sticky hot, the job was new and the sale was still in progress.

It would have been a very hard day to take if she had not joined the mystical, magical, invisible club of "the Lordly Ones."

It carried her through the hectic day on the wings of the pride of keeping her usually gingery temper.

Then just ten minutes before five, when it was nearly time to tidy up to close, it had done a little more than that. It had brought about what was up till now, the best strike of luck in her life.

Pam wrote another letter to Al and this time she didn't pull her punches. The ring was real magic and he might as well accept the fact there were such things.

"Imagine it," the pen flew in her fast dashing handwriting, "only one day in my nice new job and this is what happens.

"We are all worn out at ten to five when this pale, puny-looking girl comes in. She wants to shop around in diferent departments! Sports wear, formals, cotton frocks and a traveling coat. Said she wanted to get outfitted for a trip to Bermuda for her health.

"Pam—" interrupted a gentle voice at the door of her bedroom.

"Just a minute, Mom. I'm writing to Al—any message for him?"

"Yes. Tell him to try and get me one of those rings. It sort of fascinates me—"

"Sure I will—"

Pam went on writing. "Well, you can guess what would have happened any other time. She would have had to come back. But this magic feeling comes over me. Anything can be done—anything is possible. So I sit her right there in a comfortable chair and I wheedle the other girls to go round the departments and get their girls to bring the things she wants and believe it or not, in twenty minutes she has everything—but everything! And everybody having fun out of it at the end of a sale day. Now you know Al, I mean you'd know if you knew what a department store is like in sale-time, it's not only not normal, it's not possible.

"Well, this girl realized it too, and she talked to the floor manager when she was leaving and it proved she was a V. I. P. and he told us we'd get promoted when the sale was over.

"But that didn't end it. When we got out of the store there was a big black Cadillac with a chauffeur sitting by the employees' door with this girl in it. She beckoned me and asked me if I'd like to get a leave of absence for six weeks and go with her to help her in Bermuda.

"She said I was such fun to be with it was like a vacation just to come in the shop and have me wait on her. So Al—you see? And before I forget, try and get another ring just like it for Mother—I wouldn't dare even go to bed without this one or I'd loan it to her while she's waiting."

Pam signed it with love from all and sealed it up, put her shoes back on to go out to the mail box.

"You remembered to ask?" Pam's mother said, holding her slim white hand out. It was decorated by the strange black ring gleaming with its twirl of gold.

Pam glanced at her own hand. Nothing there.

"You went off in such a hurry this morning, you left it in the bathroom. I put it on and it started fascinating me."

Pam sat down and took off her shoes. She was breathing as if she had been running.

"I don't think I'll ask. That was a special ring—not the kind he says you can buy in any curio shop. You can have it Mom. The luck sticks. I'll never lose the luck it brought to me."

Thoughtfully she tore the letter she had written into little scraps and dropped them in the waste basket. She sat beside her mother to watch the television. New friends, promotion, a trip to Bermuda—and knowing how to get them—what more could any girl want?

Milan Carry-On Society Makes Fine Donations

Milan, June 10—The Carry-On Society met at the home of Mrs. John E. MacDonald on June 4, with a good attendance. The president, Mrs. George Macdonald, opened the meeting with devotions, reading from St. Matthew V. This was followed by the singing of a hymn.

The business period was opened with the reading of the minutes of the previous meeting by Mrs. A. W. Murray, which were adopted as read.

The treasurer, Mrs. D. A. Nicholson, read her report, which was accepted as read. The only correspondence for the day was a letter from the Scotstown W. I. asking for a contribution towards the expenses of the Dental Clinic being held at the Scotstown High School. A motion to give two dollars to this cause was voted.

It was decided to clean the church on Wednesday, June 11, and it is hoped that all who can will come out and lend a hand in this work.

It was voted that $20 be paid to salary, and $5 to budget.

The secretary was asked to acknowledge a generous donation received from Miss Frances MacDonald, of Sherbrooke.

The president also requested that the members who reside in Dell be notified of the date of the next meeting, to be held at the home of Mrs. Donald MacArthur, on June 25.

There being no further business, the meeting was brought to a close in the usual manner.

At the refreshment hour, the hostess was assisted by Mrs. K. A. Macdonald and Mrs. George Macdonald.

BARN STRUCK BY LIGHTNING

During the evening of June 4, this district was visited by very heavy rains and thunderstorms.

The worst of these occurred shortly after nine o'clock, and about 9.15 p.m., the barn belonging to Mrs. Donald MacArthur was hit by lightning and set ablaze.

Attracted by the reflection of the fire, villagers who ventured out in the rain for the evening mail spread the news, and soon were at the scene of the fire, a mile from the village.

Mrs. MacArthur's son, Donald, and her son-in-law, Henry Mouland, were able to save only the animals which were in the barn. These were five calves and a sow with a litter of young pigs.

Fortunately, there was scarcely any wind, and the other buildings were not endangered.

No machinery was lost, but the greater part of the year's wool crop was lost, having been stored in the barn temporarily.

CHILDREN ENTERTAINED: Pictured here are a group of children at the Sacred Heart hospice who were entertained recently by the Sherbrooke Film Council. This was one of the 600 showings a year given by the Council in homes and to various organizations. The council was formed to further the education of children and for the benefit, additionally, of adult groups. The film shown at the hospice was New Land, which deals with Newfoundland, and which won first place in an international competition for films at Cannes, France. Forty organizations and 25 family groups now are members of the local Film Council which, in addition to its showings for members, puts on special films, free of charge, for underprivileged children and for persons in old folks' homes. Shown in the above picture with the children are Inspector Wilbrod Lapierre and Capt. Charles Audet of the local fire department who will be working in conjunction with Sydney Hart (also shown above), 1st vice-president of the Council, in showing films to the underprivileged children. The Mother Superior of the hospice and Sister Coulon, also are in the picture.

Cookshire J. R. C. Society Had Successful Year

Cookshire, June 10. — The last meeting of the season of the Busy Bees of the Junior Red Cross Society was held in the class room of grades V-VII. The president, David MacKay, was in the chair, and Mrs. Barter, the class-room teacher, was also present.

The secretary, Barbara Bewick, read the minutes of the last meeting, which were approved as read.

After some discussion, it was moved that $35 be given to the Dental Clinic.

According to the annual report, the "Bees" have been quite active. During the year approximately $144 has been raised. Donations have been given to the Crippled Children's Fund, for improvement to the class-room, for the Red Cross rally transportation, etc., and the treasurer, Douglas Parker, announced that there was a small bank balance to start the new year.

A box was also sent in to Red Cross headquarters, which contained toys, games and many knitted articles.

Following the business, Donald McNair and Edwin Rothney were in charge of a "fun program," which was much enjoyed.

Michael Morse, convener of boys' work, thanked the officers for their co-operation during the year, and on behalf of the officers the president responded.

The meeting was brought to a close with the singing of God Save the Queen.

Mr. C. Thompson Of Danville Feted By Trinity Choir

Danville, June 10. — The choir of Trinity United Church were invited to the home of the organist, Mr. A. W. Bishop, and Mrs. Bishop, on Sunday evening, when they had planned a surprise party for Mr. Charles E. Thompson, who has been a choir member for fifty-seven years.

Mr. Thompson had been asked to come in for choir practise and on entering the house, all joined in singing, "For He Is A Jolly Good Fellow."

There were thirty-eight present, the choir members and friends.

The evening was spent singing solos, and in group singing.

Before the delicious refreshfents were served Mrs. Arnold Leet in a few well chosen words spoke of the long years of faithful service both in the choir and the church, and voiced the wish of all present that "Charlie" would still continue to serve. Then his granddaughter, Miss Sue Webb, presented the gifts to her grandfather, a Kenwood blanket and a box of cigars.

Mr. Thompson expressed his thanks to all for the gifts and kind words.

TAXI METERS: Owing to the increase costs of operation, taxi drivers in the city felt they needed a raise. They have now been granted the meter system.

Last week on the Brompton Road veteran taxi-driver Joe Vaillancourt, of the Diamond Taxi Company, had his meter sealed after police inspected the apparatus and found that it met with the requirements.

The requirements were that the taxi would go one mile for fifty cents. The taxi passed the test and the meter was sealed, meaning it cannot be tampered with.

City engineers measured the mile on the Brompton Road for the test.

Here is one of the "Mounties" who is stationed in Jasper National Park with his horse "Blackie" and in the background is multi-colored Pyramid Mountain across the Athabaska Valley from Jasper Park Lodge, a village of log bungalows, operated by the Canadian National Railways. London, June 10.—(AP)—The Queen today invited two diplomats to bring along their wives on their first call to present their credentials.

The precedent-breaking move was taken as an indication women will now play a more conspicuous part in court activities. Ordinarily wives of diplomats are not presented for weeks after their husbands.

The invitations to bring their ladies went to Ambassador Don Augusto Dillon of Ecuador and Minister Nguyen Khac Ve of Viet Nam.

Portsmouth, England, June 10.—(AP)—The aircraft carrier Campania, carrying Britain's first atom bomb, sailed today for Gibraltar en route to Australia.

The bomb will be assembled and set off late this summer at a testing ground in the barren Montebello Islands, off Australia's northwest coast.

The 15,000-ton carrier took aboard a helicopter. She carried no other airplanes.

The Campania, with a crew of 1,500 officers and men, was escorted by the 1,400-ton frigate Plym.

London, June 10. — (Reuters)—A force of 250 ships and 400 planes from nine Atlantic pact countries, including Canada, will take part this month in the biggest naval exercise around the British coasts since the war.

Named "operation castanets" the exercise will range over the North Sea, the English Channel and other approach routes to Britain to test the convoy system and mining counter-measures.

French Reds Call For Mass Protest

Paris, June 10. — (AP) — French communists called again today for mass protest against the jailing of their leader, Jacques Duclos, charged with plotting against the country's internal security.

"We have the honor to inform you," aid a communist party letter to the press today, "that a grand meeting will be held" at 5:30 P. M. Thursday "for the liberation of Jacques Duclos, of Andre Stil and of all the other patriots imprisoned for the defence of liberty, bread and peace."

Stil, editor of the communist morning newspaper L'Humanite, was jailed in late May. He was accused of inciting to public disorder by publishing a call for a violent demonstration against Gen. Matthew Ridgway, who replaced General Eisenhower as Atlantic pact military commander.

Some of the "other patriots" may face espionage and treason charges, police have intimated, because of documents found in police raids in Toulon, Brest, Lorient and other military port cities early this week.

closures, stripped, fingerprinted and given new clothing.

After the fighting, military police with gas masks moved through the buildings looking for weapons, documents and hiding prisoners.

They found trenches and tunnels connecting many buildings. One tunnel led out of the compound in the direction of adjoining compound 77. It did not reach the other compound but possibly had been filled in by the inmates of 77. The tunnel was elaborate and even had wooden ventilators.

Koje Island, Korea, June 10. — (CP) — The significant fact about today's operation against rebellious compound 76 on this prison island was that most of the spilling of communist blood was done by the communists themselves.

During the two hours and 27 minutes it took American troops to remove the Red prisoners and level the camp, not one rifle, machine-gun or revolver was fired.

From the hil-top command post of Brig.-Gen. Haydon Boatner, the operation appeared methodical and efficient. Tents were flushed of their Red inmates, usually by discharging tear gas into them. Then the tents were torn down with grappling hoks or set afire.

The relatively quiet atomsphere was disturbed only by sporadic explosions of tear-gas bombs, clouds of smoke, and charred debris.

sactions and called Liberal suggestions "scandalous and cowardly."

Premier Douglas and Federal Agriculture Minister Gardiner — a predecessor of his as Saskatchewan premier—exchanged statements over federal policies, chiefly farm issues. Mr. Hamilton attacked the provincial Liberals, saying the opposition in the Legislature has failed to do its job.

For polling day, there appeared the prospect of good weather on the Prairies to help the turnout. Counting of the ordinary votes will begin immediately but there is a possibility that the eventual outcome for some of the seats may not be determined on election night.

Under Saskatchewan's electoral law, several types of votes — including those at advance polls and those voting for candidates in their home riding from another area—have to make out affidavits. These will be allocated among the candidates for three weeks. In a close fight, the election-night tally could be changed.

British Premiers Can Rest At Three Country Estates

London. — Through endowments announced by two veteran Peers, future British Prime Ministers will have the use of three country houses for relaxation and rest.

At present there is only Chequers, in Buckinghamshire, presented to the country in 1917 by the late Lord Lee.

The latest gifts are Chevening, the Kent residence of Earl Stanhope, First Lord of the Admiralty at the outbreak of the second world war, and Dorneywood, another Buckinghamshire estate, the home of Lord Courtauld-Thomson.

Chevening, ancestral residence of William Pitt, is noted for its rich furnishings and fine library. A considerable maintenance fund goes with the property.

Now 71, Earl Stanhope has no children. Lord Courtauld-Thomson, a bachelor, is 85.

Both estates become national property on the death of their owners. Under a clause in the finance bill such gifts to the National Trust are exempt from the normally heavy estate duties.

Dorneywood, with its 200 scenic acres, will go to the trust with adequate funds to cover operating expenses.

Prime Minister Churchill frequently spends his week-ends at Chequers. But he prefers his own home Chartwell, in Kent. He has already made it known that on his death Chartwell will become the property of the state.

DANVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Atyea, Miss Dorothea Atyeo, Mr. and Mrs. R. Perkins and little daughter, Carol Joan, were week-end guests at the Perkins home, at "Mountain View Farm," and of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Perkins, of Danville.

Cure Big Ben's Annual Sniffles

London. — Experts have cured Big Ben's sniffles.

Every winter the Commonwealth's most famous clock, which has won a hallowed place in the British tradition, used to develop a grating, cough-like sound when chiming in cold weather.

The explanation was that the rubber pad which acts as buffer between Big Ben's bells and its clappers became stiff in cold weather, thus tending to muffle the normal clear chime.

Now Big Ben's annual cough has been cured. The "doctor" in the case was George Hammond, a ministry of supply technician whose job is developing special kinds of rubber resistant to any kind of climate.

Operater Shortage Hits Beauty Salons

A shortage of operators in local beauty salons is putting store-bought pulchritude at a premium.

The head of a Calgary beauty school said that if decreasing enrolment continues for another five years, half the beauty parlors in the city will be forced to close.

Although women are becoming more beauty conscious, girls are losing interest in the business, one beauty expert explained.

The main reason for the decrease in students is reported to be the recently enacted apprentice act which requires that operators in Alberta serve a year's apprenticeship in the city before they operate their own shops or demand regular pay.

The need for annual renewal of licenses was also contributing to the shortage of operators, as many experienced hairdressers who have left the profession temporarily cannot regain a license without writing a theory examination.

Working long hours on their feet dealing with hard-to-please customers are also reasons why women aren't taking the beauty courses.

"They would rather work in congenial surroundings with both men and women," said one beauty parlor operator.

Home beauty products have increased rather than decreased business in beauty shops. Advertising of such products have made women more beauty conscious and willing to spend more money on "looks."

Home permanents haven't made a dent in the business either. One beauty school reports that providing corrective treatment for amateur "perms" has become a business in itself.

Right from the start - you'll love it!

IT ISN'T always the big things that tell you how downright good a car really is.

You'll note, for example, that this Buick has—not one—but two sets of figures on its speedometer. There's one for total mileage, which almost all cars give you. And there's one for trip mileage, found on all Buicks, but rare on other cars carrying comparable price tags.

Then there's the way a Buick starts. No groping for a starter button on the dash. You just push down your foot on the accelerator pedal—and one motion does the whole job.

That's something else found only on a Buick—and we can give you a good guess what the reason is—it's a costlier device.

And when you step on this combined starter-accelerator—boy, do things start to happen! That great-powered Fireball 8 Engine purrs into action—and you're off with the steady swoop of a Diesel streamliner on the rails.

Now, you discover something else. Buick's Million Dollar Ride. Sure-footed on curves, level-gaited on the straightaway, steady and true on course—it's worth every dollar it cost in tools, engineering and special features—including the magic of Dynaflow Drive.*

What we are trying to tell you is this:

No matter how you size up a 1952 Buick—by its features, its fabrics, the way it performs, the way it rides—or the cost per mile of operation—you find that nothing is spared to make it the greatest buy it has been in years.

And that's doubly significant when you remember that Buick delivered prices start down at a figure that any new-car buyer can easily reach.

How about checking this for yourself, at your nearest Buick dealer's?

Industrial Softball League Games Run According To Pattern; Three Tilts Slated For Tomorrow Night

Results of the games played last last night in the Sherbrooke Industrial Softball League went pretty much as expected. Textile defeated Rand at the Parade Grounds 13-0, while at Dufresne Park in the opener Suffield defeated Railroaders 7-4, and in a closely-fought game in the nightcap Machinery edged Domil 17-15.

Textile had it all their own way in their game with the Rand men, scoring in every inning. In the second, Bolanger, G. Pepin, R. Pepin all knocked out circuit clouts. Two scratch singles in the first inning was all Gagne, the Textile hurler, allowed Rand. Errors were very costly, Mike Farrell's men having five chalked up against them.

Railroaders and Suffield fought it out all the way in the opening game at Dufresne Park, going into the sixth inning with the score tied at 3-all. Fern Bouchard, the Suffield hurler, then connected for a circuit clout with one on to push Suffield into a 2-run lead. Railroaders, in their half of the sixth, got one of these back, but Suffield settled the issue with two more runs in the seventh and came out on the long end of a 7-4 score. F. Bouchard had 14 strikeouts in the game and allowed 5 hits.

Domil threw a scare into Machinery before they dropped the count. Machinery, leading by a 11-5 score at the end of the fourth, blew it when Domil got to Rolandi in their half of the fifth, getting 8 hits for 8 runs and jumping to a 13-11 lead. A big 4-run inning in the last of the sixth gave Machinery a narrow 17-15 win.

All teams played much improved ball and showed that the run for league honors this season would be close.

Wednesday night games slated will see Suffield and Domil at Parade Grounds, Rand at Machinery and Railroaders will tangle with Textile. Both of these game at Dufresne Park.

Dick Chapman Wins French Amateur Golf Tilt By Downing Maxwell 4-3 As Both Display Sub-Par Rounds

Paris, June 10—(AP)—Dick Chapman, 41-year-old Pinehurst, N.C. tournament veteran who lost his British amateur title last month, rallied under pressure yesterday to win his second French Amateur Golf Championship from collegian Billy Maxwell of Odessa, Tex., United States amateur king, 4 and 3, with a display of sub-par golf.

Bearing down as the pressure mounted, Chapman repeatedly scrambled out of sand and heather to overcome his 22-year-old opponent with long booming drives. The part-time bond salesman, a seasoned Walker Cup competitor, shot 12 birdies and strayed over par only once in the 33 holes.

Chapman was 11 under par and Maxwell six under the 37-37—74 par for the beautiful 6,605-yard Morfontaine course, north of Paris.

One down at the lunchtime break, Chapman finished strong. He took the lead on the first afternoon nine, quickly won the 29th and 31st with birdie two's and closed out the match on the 33rd with a birdie four while Maxwell strayed in the rough three times to take a six.

Chapman previously won the French title in 1939 and didn't try for it again until this year. He succeeds to the championship won last year by Bobby Knowles of Brookline, Mass.

Joe DiMaggio Happy As T.V. Commentator; He's Relaxed Now

New York. — (AP) — Joe DiMaggio makes only half the money but is twice as relaxed doing television this year as when playing baseball for the New York Yankees last year.

Gone are the aches and pains and recurring injuries that plagued the great outfielder to the point he retired at the end of last season despite the Yankees' offer of another $100,000 contract.

"I wake up in the morning and I feel wonderful," he says. "Last year I'd wake up and wonder whether I'd be able to play that day."

DiMaggio does 10-minute TV interviews before and after each Yankee home game over station WPIX here. He also has a 15-minute filmed show over NBC's WNBT each Sunday morning.

While he estimates his TV income at only half the $100,000 a year he made with the Yankees, he figures his take-home pay is only about $15,000 less because of the much smaller tax bite.

"And I can live a life I haven't been able to live the past 20 years," he related. "When the team goes out of town, I have the time to myself."

However, if Joe is more relaxed now, he wasn't when he started TV.

On his first program in April, he says he was much more nervous than when he made his first appearance in Yankee Stadium as a player in 1936.

Scared Stiff

"I was scared stiff," he recalls. "I was dying—it was dying a million deaths."

But DiMaggio now appears completely at ease in front of the TV cameras. He interviews players and other baseball notables before and after games with the ease and competence of a video professional.

"I'm also getting to know a lot of ball players," he adds.

"Some that I played against for years I'd see only in passing in the outfield after a side was retired, and we'd exchange hellos. Now I get a chance to know them, and I also learn a lot about their careers I didn't know before."

Attendance Down, Trautman Not Worried

Columbus, O., June 10.—(AP)—Minor league baseball attendance may be off a bit, but no one is too concerned about it, George M. Trautman, president of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, said today.

"Our attendance is spotty, just as it usually is during the first third of the season," Trautman said. "We have some good spots, and we have some poor ones—just as the major leagues have.

"We've had some lousy weather, too, washing out some games. But make-up double headers will take up some of the attendance slack later.' '

Grimm Looks For Sauer To Maintain Hot Pace

Chicago, June 10—(AP)—Quip-tossing Charley Grimm gazed admiringly at Chicago Cubs' Hank Sauer yesterday blasting away in batting practice and boomed at him:

"Herr Sauer, you chust knock mit der big bingles und across all der runs come yet."

The new boss of Boston Braves then turned to baseball writers and seriously said: "I don't look for that big guy to tail off much. He's a solid hitter and he always finishes strong."

Grimm might be a little prejudiced over Sauer, pacing the National League in hitting with .347; in homers with 14; in runs batted in with 54; and in hits with 66. Charley, as Cub vice-president, got Sauer and outfielder Frankie Baumholtz from Cincinnati Reds for Peanuts Lowrey and Harry Walker in 1949.

Other pilots like Leo Durocher of New York Giants and Charlie Dressen of Brooklyn Dodgers admit they shudder lately every time Sauer comes to bat, but they think it's just a hot streak.

Langlois Earns Nod Over Georgie Small

Brooklyn, June 10—(AP)—Pierre Langlois, 155½, of France, last night won a 10-round split decision over Georgie Small, 159, New York, in the feature bout at Eastern Parkway Arena.

The result came in the nature of an upset since Small was installed as a 2-to-1 favorite. The triumph was Langlois' 51st in 63 professional fights, while for Small the defeat was his 10th in 55 battles.

The 27-year-old Small seemed to have the advantage in the early going, but in the fifth round Langlois began to crowd him and the 26-year-old Frenchman began finding the range.

Lucien Dugre's Bandleader Cops Free-For-All Pace At Three Rivers

Special to the Record

Three Rivers, June 10.—Bandleader, the property of Lucien Dugre, of Sherbrooke, walked off with the honors Saturday evening here in the free-for-all $500 pace stake.

The Sherbrooke horse was driven to two first in the two-heat plan by Emile Larente and covered the miles in 2:11 and 2:12. It was the first race on Canadian soil for the newly acquired horse purchased last fall in the States.

Eight horses were in the field and Diserali Brook finished in second position twice while Honors Bon Volo copped third spot with two thirds. Top Hanover took fourth in both heats while Adage finished in fifth position in the first heat and sixth the second mile. Tigers' Friend ended with a seventh and fifth while Little Clipper copped a sixth and seventh and Josedale Scotland trailed the field on both occasions.

Racing is held here three nights a week on Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday. Last Saturday the sum of $30,000 was wagered at the pari-mutuels while $25,000 went through the wickets on Sunday.

The Sherbrooke stable moves down to Quebec City this week-end as Bandleader is entered Saturday while on Sunday True Mary, another new acquisition to the Dugre string, will complete in a $1,500 Stake before returning to Three Rivers for the Wednesday evening program which will see Discord making his first debut under new ownerssship .

World Champion Kid Gavilan Signs To Meet Unbeaten Gil Turner In 15-Rounder July 7 At Philadelphia

Philadelphia, June 10 — (AP) — Welterweight champion Kid Gavilan yesterday signed to defend his title against Philadelphia's unbeaten Gil Turner in a 15-rounder here July 7 that the promoter predicts will draw $350,000 without the benefit of television or radio receipts.

Promoter Herman Taylor, a bitter foe of television in boxing, said there will be no home television or radio broadcast of the title fight at Municipal Stadium on the eve of the major league baseball's All-Star game.

"Here is a good chance to see what a real boxing attraction can draw without TV or radio," Taylor said. "We have the world's champion and the number one challenger meeting in what should be a spectacular fight. I honestly feel —and I pledge my 30 years of promotion experience on this—that this fight will draw 34,000 people and will bring in $300,000 at the gate. It doesn't need TV and radio money."

The promoter said there was a "very slim" chance he might relent and permit some 70 suitably equipped theatres to telecast the fight, but only to points at least 90 miles from Philadelphia. Tickets, which go on sale Monday, will be priced from $3 to $15.

Taylor has the attraction to test his theory about TV in boxing. Gavilan has fought here four times and given a good show each time. Turner is the best gate attraction Philadelphia has had in years.

Gavilan, who has won 81, lost 12 and fought four draws in his 97 fights, will receive 37½ per cent of the gate. Turner, unbeaten in 31 fights, including 25 by knockout or T.K.O., is in for 20 per cent of the take.

Each deposited a $2,000 forfeit check with the Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission today at the signing ceremony.

Commissioner John (Ox) Da Grasa announced that there would be no draw in this fight. "The judges and referee must pick a winner," he said.

Doug Grant Enters Pro Tennis Event

Quebec, June 10 —(CP)— Doug Grant of Montreal is one of 12 players entered in the Canadian Professional Tennis Championships to be held here June 12-14, it was announced last night.

Grant is the first Canadian to enter the tournament, held for the fourth straight year.

Seeded No. 1 is Frank Kovacs of Los Angeles, 1950, Champion, who was defeated by Pancho Egura in last year's singles final. Segura is not defending his title.

Others entered are: Jim Everet, Larchmont, N.Y., and Joe Fishbach, New York city, 1952 United States clay court doubles champions; Bob Stubbs, Miami, Fla.; Charlie Swanson, Providence, R.I.; Herb Stead, Harrisville, R. I.; George Richie, Houston, Tex.; Jack March, Cleveland; and Dan Halpern, Newark, N. J.

Ray Famechon Rallies To Win Over Ankarah

Nottingham, England, June 10—(AP)—A brisk rally in the last round last night enabled France's Ray Famechon to retain his European featherweight boxing championship with a 15-round decision over Roy Ankarah of the African Gold Coast. Famechon weighed 125 pounds, Ankarah 125¾.

The broad-shouldered French veteran started brilliantly and piled up a good lead through the first seven rounds. Several times he rocked Ankarah with crisp rights to the head.

But the busy-punching Gold Coaster came on strong in the closing rounds and Famechon needed his last-round spurt to clinch the victory.

A crowd of 35,000 cheered the decision when Referee Andrew Smythe lifted Famechon's hand.

The Associated Press score card gave Famechon seven rounds, Ankarah six and called two even. All of Famechon's rounds came before the eighth with the exception of the 15th.

The referee, sole judge in a British fight, is not permitted to discuss his scorecard.

Cards To Use Dirty Dirt Against Dodgers

St. Louis, June 10.—(AP)—St. Louis Cardinals at getting downright "Dirty" in their rivalry with the Brooklyn Dodgers.

They're bringing in dirt from Yadkin County, North Carolina that's said to be a sure-fire whammy on the Brooklyns.

George Sisler, Jr., a Redbird executive, learned about the charm when he visited Winston-Salem, N.C. — home of a Cardinal farm club — for a ceremony honoring Ernie Shore, onetime Boston Red Sox and New York Yankee pitcher.

In pre-game ceremonies a box of dirt was placed on the pitcher's mound. A curious Sisler was told it was "lucky dirt" — a box of good ol' Yadkin County dirt, "real dark and dirty dirt," a local fan explained.

It seems that in 1920, at the twilight of Shore's career, Yadkin County fans packed some of their dirt into the same mound prior to an exhibition game by the Yankees. Shore pitched a shutout.

"Against what club" asked a cynical Sisler. "Brooklyn," was the answer. Sisler made quick arrangements. Tonight, in the opening game of the Brooklyn-St. Louis series at Sportsman's Park, the pitcher's mound is to be packed with good ol' Yadkin County dirt.

Beavers' Bid For Help Turned Down By CAHA

Sydney, N. S., June 10—(CP)—The C.A.H.A. has turned down a request for financial assistance by Saint John Beavers, Maritime Major Hockey League champions who lost to Quebec Aces in the Alexander Cup finals, it was learned here today.

A report from secretary-manager George S. Dudley declared that the Saint John management said they lost a "very considerable" sum of money and was about $10,000 to $12,000 in debt.

The report added:

"While the officers expressed every sympathy with the situation of the club, they felt it would be quite impossible to extend any assistance in this way as if this practise were established, every club which operated at a loss in the Association would have a just right to ask for assistance and the financial burden would be impossible."

Canadiens' Home Tilts May Be T.V. Next Year

Montreal, June 10.— (CP) —There was widespread talk in sports circles yesterday that home games of Montreal's hockey Canadiens will go on a coast-to-coast broadcast Thursday nights and on television locally Saturday nights.

The story lacked official confirmation. There wes indication negotiations have not yet been completed.

The report in Montreal was that the same sponsors (Imperial Oil) who broadcast Toronto Maple Leafs' Saturday night games on a national basis are concerned in the deal.

Under the reported set-up, television would carry Saturday games in Montreal beginning about 9:30 p.m. E.S.T., with french-language comment.

Canadiens' Saturday games have hitherto been broadcast only in Quebec Province.

Randy Turpin Favored Over Cockell Tonight

London, June 10.— (AP) —Randy Turpin, former world middleweight champion, ruled a 5 to 1 favorite to dethrone Don Cockell, British 175-pound champ, tonight at White City Stadium.

Promoter Jack Solomons, expected a police-limited crowd of 55,000, announced the show would go on rain or shine. The latest weather forecast indicated his phenomenal good luck will hold.

Turpin is expected to take care of Cockell without too much trouble. With two winning contests since he was knocked out by Sugar Ray Robinson in New York last September, Turpin boasts a more impressive record than Cockell who has looked bad in recent fights.

In two fights since he met Robinson, Turpin stopped Alex Burton and Jacques Hairabedian. He weighed 163 and 164 for the two scraps.

Cockell was knocked out by Jimmy Slade, of New York, in a big upset Dec. 4th. He narrowly outpointed Renato Tontini, the Italian champion, May 20th although he was down twice.

David Funare Dies From Baseball Injury

Norwich, N. Y., June 10.—(AP) —David Funare, 17, of Oxford, died last night of a head injury suffered Thursday when he was hit by a baseball.

Funare, who would have been graduated in two weeks, was injured during an inter-squad practice at Oxford Central School.

Red Sox Extend Lead Over Yanks To Full Game As They Edge Tigers 9-8; Braves Down Pirates 3-2

Boston Red Sox moved a full game ahead of the second-place New York Yankees in the American League Monday by overcoming a four-run deficit for a 9-8 triumph over Detroit Tigers.

Home runs by former Bostonians Walt Dropo and Don Lenhardt, the latter with three on, in vain at the Sox scored the winning run in the sixth inning of an error by former teammate Johnny Pesky.

The Tigers chased lefthander Mel Parnell in the opening inning when they scored four times.

The Sox came back with five of their own runs in the second as they rapped six singles and bombed starter Marlin Stuart from the box.

Boston added a pair in the third and appeared to have a safe margin.

However, Lenhardt hit his grand-slam homer to pull the Tigers into an 8-7 lead.

Jimmy Piersall's homer tied it up.

Dom DiMaggio was on second after a single and a sacrifice and Hoot Evers was on first with a walk when Pesky let Georgie Kell's grounder go through him for a two-base error which allowed DiMag to score what turned out to be the winning run.

Chicago at Washington in the American League was postponed because of wet grounds.

Big Jim Wilson hurled Boston Braves to a 3-2 victory over Pittsburgh Pirates in a National League night game, giving up five hits.

It was Wilson's fourth victory and the sixth in 11 starts for the Braves since Charley Grimm took over the managerial post May 31, succeeding Tommy Holmes.

Pirate Manager Billy Meyer was ejected from the game in the sixth inning for protesting that a drive by Ralph Kiner which struck the left field screen was fair. It was ruled a foul ball and Kiner then struck out.

Bobby Del Greco, rookie Pittsburgh outfielder, smashed his first major league home run in the sixth.

Red Wings Move Into Second Spot In International As Royals Drop Tilt To Springfield Cubs 3-2

Rochester Red Wings moved into second place in the International League by defeating the Athletics at Ottawa last night, and now are but two and a half games back of the leading Montreal Royals, who lost to Springfield.

With George Condrick pitching seven-hit ball for his fourth victory, Rochester led all the way for a 6-4 decision. First baseman Eddie Michelson scored two runs and drove in a third. He had a double and triple in three trips. Lou Limmer hit his ninth homer for Ottawa.

Springfield Cubs downed Montreal 3-2 on first baseman Mickey Rocco's two-run homer in the first inning and doubles by Harry Chiti and pitcher Bill Padget in the second frame.

Buffalo moved past Ottawa into fifth place as Don Lund doubled and came home on Larry Ciesielski's tenth-inning single as the Bisons outlasted Toronto 7-6. The defeat tumbled Toronto to third place.

In another 10-inning affair, Baltimore defeated Syracuse 6-5, scoring three runs in the top of the extra stanza. Paul Stuffel, Baltimore pitcher who got credit for the victory, started the rally with a double. Then Syracuse put on a two-run rally that brought in Kent Peterson and finally Blix Donnelly to save the game. Donnelly pitched one ball, and Carden Gillenwater hit into a double play with two on base.

Bettenhausen To Retire From Auto Racing

Chicago, June 10. — (AP) — Melvin (Tony) Bettenhausen, National Champion of the American Automobile Association, yesterday announced his retirement from racing except for the 500-mile Indianapolis Classic.

Bettenhausen, 35-year-old father of four children, said that after 14 years of speed driving he was quitting all competition in big-car dirt, midget and stock car racing to concentrate on business.

But "I'll keep trying at Indianapolis, because nobody passes that kind of money. If you win, it's worth about $70,000.".

Fishermen Welcomed Season Start

Rock Island, June 10. — May 1st, the season for brook trout fishing opened, but there are 23 more days to await fishing in a number of waters of the County of Stanstead, while waiting for the big day, time is passed by the fisherman cleaning the lures, taking apart the reel, cleaning and oiling it, and testing the line for strength. He "window shops" for tackle, a lure catches the eye, it is bought and added to that in the tackle box. The last day or so the main topic of conversation is "Fishing."

Finally the eve of the 24th arrives. Those who are fortunate enough to have a cottage or camp at the lake, leave as soon as possible for it, others pack their equipment, fishing tackle, food, worms or live bait, into the car, or in some cases the boat onto the trailer and soon its time to start.

Some start at Crystal Lake, Stanstead. As early as eight o'clock in the evening, cars begin to arrive at the lake, some have boats in trailers, these are put into the water. Then fish yarns are spun while waiting, at last its midnight, the waiting is over, at a few minutes after mid-night several are fishing.

The Duputy Wardens at the lake state that not one offered to try fishing until the legal hour. From midnight on men and women continue to arrive, boats are at a premium, the peak is reached from 4 a. m. to 7 a. m., when it is reported some one hundred boats were counted on this small body of water. There are from two to five persons in each boat. Perhaps the fish became suspicious of so many juicy worms being offered at one time, for they did not bite.

The wardens state that not one caught the legal catch of 15 trout or 8 pounds. The catch was one to six, and a good number didn't even get a nibble, but most of the persons were true sports, they didn't mind, they were having fun.

Some were so anxious to fish, that when they found a boat was not available, they put on hip boots and waded into the water, others didn't have boots but they waded into the water just the same to their waist, to fish. Others tried casting from the shore, but that was almost impossible, with the large crowd gathered. Noticed were two fellows in a rubber boat, one trying to row, but getting nowhere, finally Phil said, "Ed, pull up the anchor," then we noticed how much easier the outfit was handled.

Two other fellows were in a boat, when suddenly they found themselves in the water, and we heard the remark, "Well they won't bite so we went in after them," and so it goes.

In the check for the largest fish caught at this lake for May 24, the records, which will be rechecked, show Mr. Philip Pinard, of 444a King Street West, of Sherbrooke, to have caught the largest, a trout weighing 1 pound and fifteen ounces, measuring six ane one half inches. The prize for this is being presented at the banquet of the Stanstead County Fish and Game Club, and was donated by the Club President, Charles Crawford.

A record was kept of the number of fish taken from Crystal Lake May 24, which shows an estimate of 450 checked by members of the County Fish and Game Club.

At Baldwin's Pond its much the same as Crystal Lake, only here we have a larger body of water so that it is not quite so congested.

Lake Massawippi came alive with the buzz and hum of outboard motors, at the break of dawn, as the sportsman sped to their favorite place for still fishing for pike, others lined the granites along the railroad tracks, many of the anglers were lucky. We saw six caught from the granites, nice ones too, later many of the boats leave the pike grounds to try their luck at lake trout fishing.

As we were trolling for the latter, I using a light outfit, my companion a deep water outfit, we were admiring the beauty of the hills in their spring array of greens of many colors, we had the pleasure of seeing some fine fish caught, although we were not too lucky ourselves.

In one boat were two men, trolling with light outfits, that is a fly on a silk line, when one had a "strike," and we saw his pole bend until it all but touched the water, then began the fight, the fisherman for the fish, the fish ofr his freedom, for 35 minutes the reel is reeled in, perhaps a foot or a little more, then the fish dives for the bottom of the lake, fighting for all its worth, but finally the reward of patience pays off, as the fish is brought to the surface, and breaks water, the net is under him and he is landed, this was I would judge from where we were, a distance of 14 feet, to weigh 10 pounds.

Two other chaps, one from Orleans, Vt., and his brother from Connecticut start out fishing, and after five minutes of trolling get a strike, they were using deep water outfits, copper line and a lure, in another five minutes their fish is in the boat, later they told us it was a ten pounder. These are not the largest fish caught, but are nice sport on any line, especially a silk line, and are a fine size for eating. So throughout the day the fishing continued either for pike or trout, until at last the mantle of darkness decends over the waters, and fishermen reminisce beside the hearth. Some have tales of the ones they caught, others the ones that got away, and others like ourselves, no luck at all, but even so its been a great day. The season will remain open until October 20, but there won't be another day like May 24 until May 24, 1953.

ROBBERY AT DEMICK'S MILL

Between the hours of Saturday night and Sunday noon the H. W. Demick, Inc. feed mill, at Derby Line, was broken into. Entry was made by smashing the lock on the door, and once inside the culprit or culprits successfully smashed the doors of the safe, but were rewarded with only a small amount of cash.

They left the office in a mess, as papers were strewn around everywhere.

The break was immediately reported to the Vermont State police, by the General manager Stuart Taylor, of Derby Line, and an investigation is being carried on.

This is the third time this mill has been broken into, the last time was in 1946 and again previous to that.

FIRE CHIEF L. E. MOORE REWARDED

Because there had been no major fires in Derby Line for eighteen months in 1949 and 1950, Fire Chief L. E. Moore was awarded a three day, all expense paid trip to Boston, Mass.

The chief was unable to take the trip, but was naturally highly pleased at the award.

The company has been busy holding drills and tests, trying out their new ladders, and seeing that the fire engine is in tip-top shape at all times.

If Knowing Course Meant All, Home Pros Would Win U. S. Open

Dallas, Tex.— (NEA) —Having carefully cased the Northwood Club course, site of the United States Open, Ben Hogan spent most of his time alone at Fort Worth Colonial's practice tee.

There the three-time champion further grooved his matchless swing for the defense of the title, June 12-14.

Ben Hogan

The stars hit an incredible number of balls in practice and when his eye is on an objective, Hogan is an indefatigable worker.

The report that Bantam Ben played Northwood eight hours daily was ridiculous, of course. The shotmaker must control his swing before he can control a course. Once he is putting the ball where he wants it, courses look much alike.

If knowing a course intimately was everything, the superior-playing home professionals would win the Open. The big one has been played on the home grounds of some pippins, yet, while it might have happened in the misty past, antiques can't recall a home pro accounting for an Open.

Gene Sarazen had been succeeded by Al Ciuci at Fresh Meadow before the winner of them all played the last 28 holes in 100 strokes to win the Open there in 1932.

This year could be an exception to the rule that the home pro never scores. Ray Gafford, Northwood's head man, an Open veteran, was showing the way in the Colonial Invitation until Hogan overtook him with his customary roaring finish and a second 67.

When Hogan faded out of the Masters with a concluding 79, some suspected that the greatest little Irishman who ever came out of Duxlin, Tex., had lost the touch.

"When I was young," remarked Sarazen, "I was only annoyed by a 79, but when I grew older I was concerned."

Hogan insists that he has not yet reached his peak at 39, and the pair of 67s in the Colonial readily could be accepted as something in the way of evidence.

Hogan answers all the questions asked of a champion, mending mistakes, making up for a bad shot, hole or round with a good one.

Joe Dey gives you striking examples taken from last year's Open at gigantic and rigged-up Oakland Hills, which Hogan referred to as "the monster."

"The seventh was a drive-and-pitch par 4, with an arm of a brook on the right," recalls Executive Secretary Dey of the United States Golf Association. "In the third round, Hogan's tee shot went into the brook. The penalty stroke incurred in dropping out caused him to take a 5.

"When he came to that hole in the fourth round, four and a half hours later, Hogan hugged the left side with his tee shot and panted his approach two feet from the hole, sank a birdie 3.

"On the 15th, 392 yards, near the middle of the fairway in the drive zone there was a bunker forcing the player to pace his tee shot with almost pin-point accuracy. Hogan in the third round went too far to the left, became entangled with the rough, took 6, losing two precious strokes to par.

"Later in the day he came to the 15th in the final round, knowing it was touch-and-go as to whether he would retain the championship. Off the tee he placed a beautiful spoon shot to the left side of the fairway, approached to within six feet, downed the putt for a birdie 3."

A mistake upsets Ben Hogan less than anybody in the word, which is not the least reason why he makes so few.

Four Top U.S. Tennis Players Face Ban

New York —(NEA)— If the ridiculous eight-week rule is enforced, suspensions shortly will be slapped on four first-10 tennis players and several lesser lights.

Facing banishment from all invitation tournaments this Summer are Vic Seixas, Dick Savitt and Billy Talbert, first, second and fifth-ranking in the men's roster, and Mrs. Pat Todd, fifth-ranking woman.

All have been notified by Harold Lebair, chairman of the United States Lawn Tennis Association amateur rule committee, that they have exhausted their 1952 "free-loading" privileges. Technically, they must start paying their own freight—or else.

The super-silly eight-week rule, still on the USLTA books where the International Federation permits year-round acceptance of expenses, sounds simple in print. It merely states that a player cannot receive traveling or living expenses for more than eight sanctioned tournaments or team matches in any year. National and sectional championships don't count, nor does foreign play if the subject is an accredited representative.

The rule is a huge joke to players and many officials who regard it as a minor annoyance easily circumvented.

"Something must be done to conform with the Federation regulations," says Lebair. "Even if I try to crack down, players can get special dispensation, doctored financial reports or find other hypocritical loopholes. We're just kidding ourselves."

Lebair won't take the job again next year unless the eight-week anachronism is abolished.

Even with a 52-week leeway, Americans still would pass as amateurs compared to the Australians.

Promising Aussie kids are signed by sporting goods firms before they're out of grammar school, thanks to a highly-competitive scouting system.

Slazengers Ltd., for example, has McGregor, Rose, Candy and Ken Rosewall on the payroll. A former employee from the age of 15 was John Bromwich. Rosewall, a likely junior, has been a Slazengers hired hand since the age of 12.

What he does to earn $25 a week, equal to $75 in this country, is hard to explain.

But he does play 18 exhibitions a year, as do the others, at spots approved by Slazengers.

Small wonder many U. S. officials regard Aussie netmen as out-and-out professionals.

Lebair doesn't want anything like that in this country.

But he does insist upon more elastic rules, so the boys can take expense money across the table as often as they like.

"I don't expect to bear down too hard this season," he admits.

"Seixas and Savitt probably will be named on the Davis Cup squad, which will clear them for Summer play.

"But Talbert, Irv Dorfman and Mrs. Todd may be the horrible examples.

"They're on the danger line."

Asbestos Achievements

J-M ASBESTOS TEXTILES

Modern asbestos "magic", in the form of fireproof asbestos textiles, today wards off many hazards that once took tragic toll of property, wealth and human lives. Thanks to asbestos clothing for the fire fighter, fire departments are better able to cope with searing, destroying flames. Asbestos oven mitts protect the housewife from burns and even the theatre you attend is made safer thanks to an asbestos curtain.

J-M INDUSTRIAL FRICTION MATERIALS

When a giant derrick lifts a heavy load and sets it down gently it depends on asbestos friction materials for safe, sure, positive stops. When the office elevator handles rush hour loads smoothly it's asbestos that takes the strain. From raw material to finished product, Johns-Manville controls the quality of J-M Industrial Friction Materials. That's why many leading industrial equipment manufacturers have standardized on Johns-Manville friction materials.

Script Writers Attend Courses On T. V. Styles

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canadian writers of television programs must be developed if the new Canadian television is to be truly Canadian. That's the idea behind a television script-writing seminar that was called by the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation for three days at Toronto, June 11-13.

The Canadian Authors Association and the Association of Canadian Radio and Television Artists are co-operating in the seminar, to acquaint potential television script writers with the program and technical requirements of the visual broadcast.

Guest lecturer is Gilbert Seldes, United States authority on television and author of "The Seven Lively Arts" and "The Great Audience." He is a former director of the television program department of the Columbia Broadcasting System and has written for radio and television, the movies and stage.

Following the three-day seminar the extension department of the University of Toronto has arranged a two-week daytime course in TV script writing, running to June 27, with Mr. Seldes as director of the course. The university will have co-operation from the CBC including technical assistance and studio facilities.

One of Ontario's best-known radio personalities, Rev. Charles B. Lamphier, soon will celebrate his silver jubilee as a Roman Catholic priest. He became the world's first regular religious broadcaster 20 years ago when he started his 20-minute weekly broadcasts at Toronto.

Pastor of St. Joseph's Church at suburban Highland Creek, Father Lamphier was a hotel bell-hop and a newspaper reporter before becoming a priest.

He started broadcasting in 1932 and six years later organized and directed the Trans-Canada Catholic hour program still heard over the CBC. His broadcasts bring mail from many parts of the continent and he is Catholic representative on the national religious advisory council of the CBC.

Radio coverage of the Olympic games at Helsinki this summer will be routed via Stockholm to 66 countries.

The Finnish and Swedish telegraphic authorities have completed an agreement by which 90 per cent of all transmissions from the games will be directed via the Swedish capital. From there they will be routed to five centres in Europe for re-transmission to other parts of the world.

Under this agreement Brussels will be the relay point for transmissions to Britain and the British Commonwealth, the United States, Singapore and Nigeria.

The language problem will be specially difficult during the opening and closing ceremonies and the authorities consequently decided to group these transmissions in language pools. French-speaking countries will share one commentator's report, the Scandinavian countries another, and so on.

The world contains 1100 kinds of animals and insects, with thousands of varieties of each.

Crusading Artist Set Party Symbols

New York. — The most important animals in the United States in this election year are the Democratic donkey and the Republican elephant, throwbacks to the political cartoons of the 1870s.

Both animals were first used as political symbols by Thomas Nast, a cartoonist who worked on Harper's Weekly from 1862 to 1886.

Nast first used the donkey to symbolize the Democrat's action in ending alleged Republican corruption in 1870. The donkey was shown kicking a dead lion which symbolized Edwin M. Stanton, a member of cabinets of both Presidents Lincoln and Johnson.

Four years later Nast used the elephant with the label "the Republican vote." Nast, an ardent Republican himself, used the large and docile animal as a symbol of his party's size and importance.

Because of the influence of Nast's political cartoons, successive artists have continued his use of the animals as party symbols.

Britons Need More Cancer Education

London. — A country-wide investigation of about 7,000 cancer patients, nursed at home, resulted in an urge to "educate" the public regarding early symptoms of the disease.

Reports from doctors and nurses indicated that many persons reach advanced stages of cancer merely through fear and ignorance. These include patients who knew they had a malignant growth, but refused to see a doctor because they were afraid.

Others, unable to recognize early symptoms, seek medical advice only when the cancer is too far advanced. And some linger in pain and dread because they believe cancer is always incurable and are afraid to consult a doctor.

Considerable anxiety could be allayed, the report says, if patients and their families were told that cancer is not infectious.

"... the building of my herd"

Many a farmer knows that initiative, hard work and the financial support of the bank can all play their part in developing a successful farming operation.

One such man, a rancher in the West, recently wrote to his bank manager:

"I wish to express my appreciation of the way your bank has treated me through the years ... the encouragement you have given me in the building of my herd. I feel the success we have achieved could hardly have been obtained without your intelligent support."

The farmer uses bank credit in many ways: to develop his land, buy livestock and equipment, market crops. Aiding Canada's food producers is an important part of the broad service the chartered banks perform for all Canadians.

MORE PEOPLE Prefer B-A 88 & 98

The general public will give any product the greatest test there is! And it was in actual performance on the road . . . in all kinds of cars, with all types of drivers, under all driving conditions . . . that B-A gasolines soared to the top in public preference. There were reasons why more people than ever prefer B-A 88 and 98 gasolines. They found they were getting extra power for pick-up, for hills, for long hours of steady driving. They found B-A was economical, and they found it was the right answer to top engine performance. They found, too, they liked B-A service, and the clean stations where trained attendants gave them courteous and skilful attention. It's no wonder that more people than ever prefer B-A!

independent survey shows big gain in preference for B-A

In 1949 and again in 1951 independent research panels asked thousands of Canadian motorists a simple question: "Which gasoline do you prefer?" In that brief period B-A showed a soaring increase in public preference. This survey was based on a cross-section of the Canadian motoring public from coast to coast. And it proves that after actual use by all kinds of drivers B-A is preferred by more people than ever before!

Tommy Ritchie In Citizenship Talk Tells Boundary Club Of Ottawa Trip

Derby Line, June 10.—"I am proud to be a Canadian and to be a Canadian student and to have had such an experience," said Tommy Ritchie, of Rock Island, a student at Stanstead College, in telling about his trip to Ottawa, where he took part in a program entitled, "An Adventure in Citizenship,' 'sponsored by the Rotary Club of Ottawa. The talk was given at the regular Monday evening meeting of the Rotary Club of the Boundary, held at the Del Monty Hotel.

This was the second year the Rotary Club of Ottawa had sponsored this project to promote better Canadian Citizenship, and Tommy Ritchie was selected to represent Stanstead College. His report to the local Rotary Club proved to be very impressive and interesting.

There were 156 students present, including 50 girls, from various parts of Canada, and the program opened on May 19th, with a welcome from the president of the Ottawa Rotary Club, E. H. Charlson, and a civic welcome by the Mayor of Ottawa, Dr. Charlotte Whitton.

The Monday noon luncheon meeting featured a talk by the Honorable Brooke Claxton, Minister of National Defense, and was also the regular meeting of the Rotary Club.

The discussion groups met at Carleton College, and were divided into 20 members, discussing current events, including the St. Lawrence Seaway project.

The young people visited the Parliament Buildings, watched the House of Commons in session. Later the students received certificates of Canadian citizenship from D. C. Harris, Minister of Citizenship. Later the students conducted a model Parliament and Tommy Ritchie was made the leader of the C.C.F. Party.

Among the other speakers heard by the group were M. J. Coldwell and Solon Low, M.P.'s, and B. K. Sandwell, a member of the Federal District Commission for Ottawa.

The students visited the R.C.M.P. Training School, and were greatly impressed; they also visited Government House, the National Gallery of Art, the Canadian Mint, the National Museum, and took extended tours of the city of Ottawa.

"The significance of the trip was the realization of the value of Canadian citizenship. It made you proud to be a Canadian and a Canadian student able to participate in such an affair. The thanks of all of us are due to Rotary both in Ottawa and at home for making it possible to have this 'Adventure in Citizenship.'"

The talk was regarded by the members present as one of the finest they had heard; and Tommy Ritchie was complimented for the fine way he expressed himself and described his experiences.

From The Pen Of E.T. Writers

A TRIBUTE TO FINE FATHERS

– – There's a day in each year, set apart we are told
To honour one dear to the heart,
Who may be quite youthful, in his prime, or grown old,
And long miles may e'en keep us apart.
The day aptly chosen, – – third Sunday in June,
When we manifest love for dear Dad;
The date swiftly passes, and oft it seems soon
We've forgotten the ardour we had.
They are champions of all that is noble and fine,
Good Fathers are hard to surpass;
In your estimation, the same as in mine
I hope you term Dad as first-class.
Ah, Youth is so thoughtless, we often neglect
To show Dad the love which we feel;
We have proof of his worth, when the score has been checked,
And we know that his interests are real.
When we turn our thoughts backward, to days of "Lang-Syne,"
When life seemed so free and content,
And sum up our Dads, I guess yours, and mine
Were just "tops", – – YES! ONE HUNDRED PER CENT!
We never realized in full, their sacrifices made,
The struggle to provide what Life demands;
The price was often high which they so freely paid,
– – We know it now, by withered forms, and calloused hands.
Their gentleness was oft concealed, no tender phrases fine,
Yet, in a crisis, note Dad's anxious face;
Through Childhood, Youth, yes, right on down the line
I doubt if there be one can fill his place.
So thoughtless Sons and Daughters, pause in your mad rush for fame,
Bestow on Dad some kindness, while you can;
Life's path was thorny, but he ever "played the game,"
Without reserve, proved every inch a man.
– – My silver-haired Father I'm thinking of now,
Grown feeble, resigned, yet content;
Past Ninety-Two Years, and I'm thinking of how
His days on this earth seem nigh spent.
And I pray when his craft is moored at "Death's Pier,"
Where he enters the "Garden of Rest,"
He may taste of the pleasures he oft had missed here,
– – For I count Dad just one of the best.

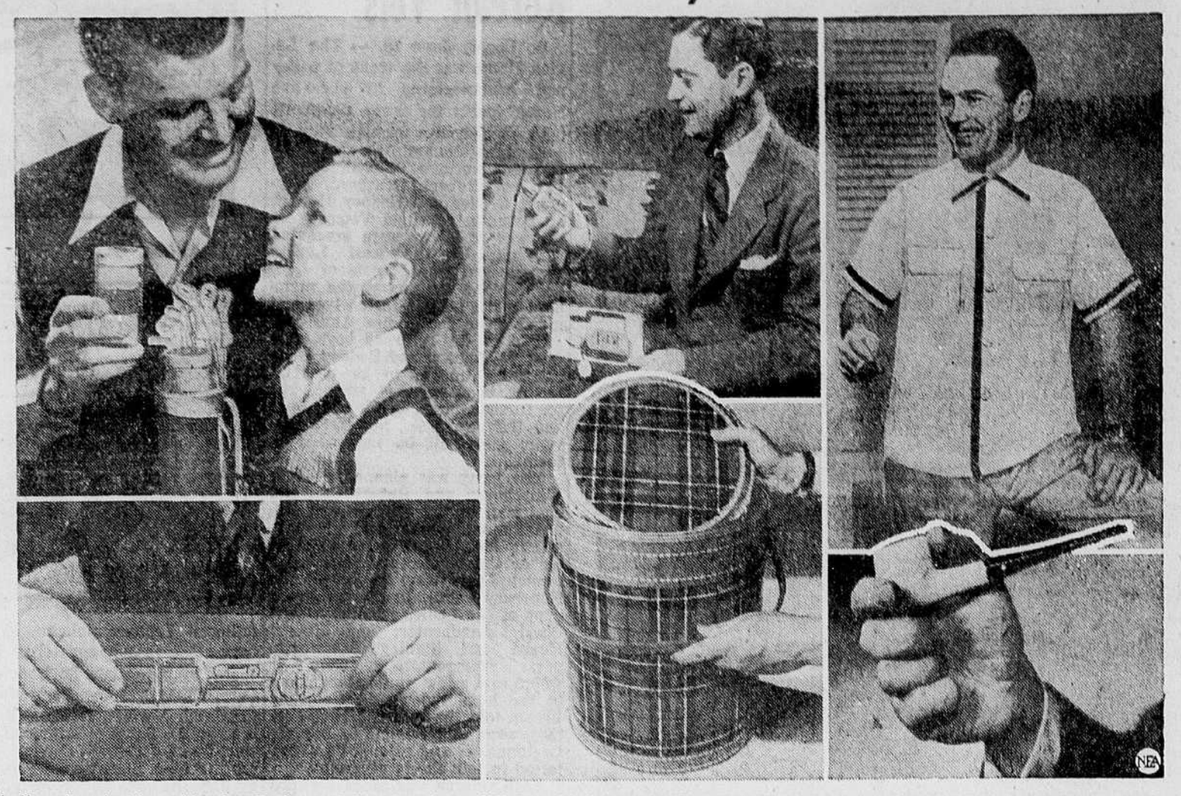
Greet Father's Day With New Ideas



Finding imaginative gifts for Father on his day isn't difficult this year. Consider the new grooming set (upper left) that combines after-shaving stick and deodorant stick in miniature golf bag gift package. Or, for the man who likes to work about the house, there's an amber tenite plastic level (lower left) that's guaranteed shatterproof. After-shave lotion and toilet water are pleasantly packaged together in unbreakable plastic bottle (upper center) and come in pine, sagebrush or desert verbena scent. Scotch plaid cooler (lower center) in red, yellow and black is made of coated steel, has a sanitary vinyl finish and is insulated with fiberglass. The ice bucket is good for picnics or a "big party" because it retains either hot or cold for long periods. All-rayon linen makes new sport shirt (upper right) in white and colors. It's shown here in white with contrasting blue trim. Formal pipe (lower right) is streamlined for easy carrying in pocket of a dinner jacket, has white briar bowl and black stem, and will be a welcome collector's item.

EAST FARNHAM

Mr. and Mrs. A. Graham and Miss Noella Graham spent the holiday and week-end at Smith's Falls, Ont., where Mrs. Graham remained for a two weeks' holiday with relatives.

Friends are sorry to report that Mrs. S. J. Byrne is critically ill at her home here.

Miss Dorothy Button, of Abercorn, spent a week with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wilson.

Mr. and Mrs. Miles Lahue and family were called home by the sudden death of Mrs. Lahue's brother, Glenn Wilson.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Irving, of Montreal, Mrs. D. Coristine and Mrs. C. Smith, of Saskatchewan; Mr. Kenneth Byrne, of Winnipeg, Man., and Mr. Horace Byrne and Mr. Stuart Bryne, of Chicago, Ill., have been called home owing to the critical condition of their mother, Mrs. S. J. Byrne. Miss Alice Derby, of Sutton, is also at the Byrne home.

Mrs. Grace Collins, of Sherbrooke, was calling on Mrs. George Durach and Mrs. D. W. Collins.

Week-end guests at the home of Mr .and Mrs. G. H. Barton were Mrs. D. Stratton, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Stratton and young son, and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Ellis and baby daughter, all of Maine, U.S.A.

Mr. Lance Hadlock spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Hadlock. He accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Hadlock to Fulford and called on Mr. and Mrs. Herman Hadlock.

New York. — To find truly imaginative gifts for Dad on Father's Day needs only the realization that the old stand-bys are welcome if they have a new twist.

Men, generally speaking, are not thrilled by a package containing the standard and familiar white shirt. But the man who's handed a gift box that has in it several well-cut sports shirts in a brand-new fabric will instantly register interest.

It might well be a short-sleeved shirt that's done in all-rayon linen this year, with added appeal in the contrasting trim that's used on white or solid colors.

Or, let's consider the matter of pipes. Most pipe-smokers are accustomed to getting them as gifts on several occasions during the year. So, to set Father really grinning over his gift, it will have to be a pipe with a difference.

There are several new types that fill the bill this year. One is a light, streamlined pipe that fits flatly into a pocket, eliminating bulges. Specifically designed for use with formal wear, it has a white briar bowl and a black bit.

Or, there's another that's all briar, from bowl to bit. Its makers claim that it gives a cooler, sweeter smoke. And, because it's the first such pipe made, it can be considered a collector's item even though it's not expensive.

If Dad is a fisherman, if he likes picnics or enjoys big parties in his own home, a Scotch-plaid cooler is the gift for him. Though it's light and easy to carry, it's well-insulated.

It will handle a capacity of four gallons, keeping the contents either cold or hot for long periods. It has, in addition, a transparent plastic separator tray suspended in the top to keep sandwiches away from bottled goods and ice.

Many fathers will find grooming sets at their breakfast plates on Father's Day. This is fine if the contents have a freshness in packaging or a special appeal in practicality.

Try an after-shave stick and a deodorant stick packaged together in a miniature golf bag. Or, if Dad travels, give him after-shave lotion and toilet water in matched, unbreakable plastic bottles. These are gift-packaged together.

For the man who's a Mr. Fix-It around the house, try for something more unique than a screwdriver or a hammer. The gift might be, for instance, a carpenter's level in shatterproof amber plastic. It has a large bubble that can be read at considerable distance—even at several feet above eye level.

Miss M. Markwell Feted By Friends At Ayer's Cliff

Ayer's Cliff, June 10. — Miss Mary Markwell, a May bride, was feted one evening at a delightfully aranged miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. Glen Little, and Mrs. Marjorie Robinson, at the home of Mrs. Little, on Pleasant Street.

Upon the arrival of the bride-elect, she was escorted by Mrs. Little to a special chair decorated in yellow and white, and who expressed on behalf of all her friends the wish for years of happiness. A decorated cart drawn by little Nancy Robinson and Gerald Robinson which contained the gifts was drawn up in front of the bride-to-be.

Miss Markwell unwrapped the gifts and all were passed around to be admired by the guests, after which the guests of honor expressed sincere thanks for the nice gifts and good wishes, and invited all to visit her in her new home in Magog.

After a social hour delicious refreshments were served by Mrs. Little and Mrs. Robinson assisted by Misses Mary Rose Royea, Lillian Markwell, Annie Robinson and Margaret Markwell.

The table was attractively decorated with blue and white streamers and centered with a three-tier wedding cake, on a lace cloth.

Tea was poured by the bride-to-be's mother, Mrs. Ralph Markwell, and the groom's mother, Mrs. Warren Place.

Thirty guests were present. Before departing for their homes they extended best wishes and much happiness to the guest of honor in her married life.

General Notes

The name of Mrs. Glen Little was omitted in the report of the Talent Card Party held at the home of Mrs. K. Gale, where she was one of the hostesses.

Mr. R. G. Cass was in St. Lambrt for a few days visiting his children, and on Saturday returned home with his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Cass, and Stephen, who spent the week-end here with his parents.

Mr. Charles Ives, of Greenwich, Conn., visited his nephew, Mr. Sidney Baldwin and Mrs. Baldwin, over the week-end. Mr. Ives is eighty years old and drives his own car wherever he wishes to go.

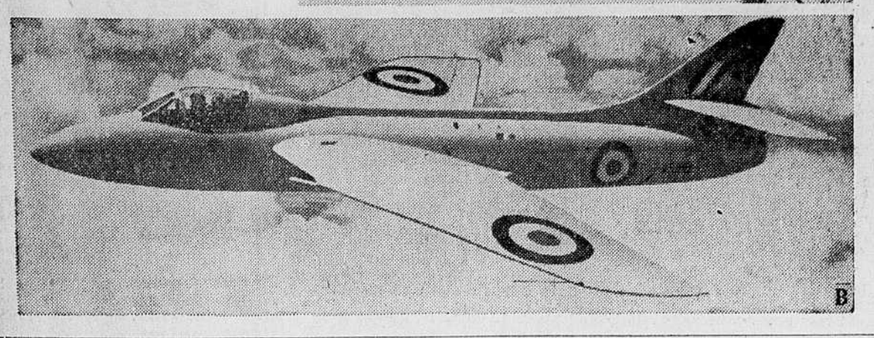
Top U. S. Test Pilots Fly New British Ships

Stepping into the cockpit (right) of a British Hawker Hunter is Brigadier-General Albert Boyd, Senior Test Pilot of the U.S. Air Force heading a three-man team on a "familiarization" mission with the latest—and some secret—British aircraft. The other Americans on the mission were Lt.-Col. Richard Johnson, fighter test pilot, and Col. Fred Ascani, bomber test pilot.

In their test of the Hunter the American aces flew it in English skies against a U.S. F86. Watching from the ground of Dunsfold Airfield were members of the U.S. Embassy staff from London.

The Hunter (bottom), also known as Hawker P1067, a swept-back wing, jet fighter, has had very little details released about it by the British, but their former Air Minister Arthur Henderson has described it as the fastest in the world and the Royal Air Force ordered it straight off the drawing board.



Coaticook Legion Welcomes Home Korean Vets

Coaticook, June 10. — The Legion Home was the scene of a gay and heartwarming "Welcome Home" party for seven Coaticook boys on Saturday evening, June 7.

Leonard Johann, Stewart Williamson, Norman Dawson, Gerard Lessard, Robert Bouchard, Raymond Olivier and Rodney Howitt, all recently returned Veterans of the war in Korea were presented with gifts by the local Legion Branch and were guests of honour for the evening of the members of the Legion, their wives and members of the Ladies' Auxiliary.

Two of the returned boys, Stewart Williamson and Rodney Howitt, were unable to be present, having been recalled from leave for further duties at Toronto, Ont., and Calgary, Sask., but their souvenir gifts will be forwarded to them.

The party was planned by Ivor Whitehouse and Hubert Clowery, chairman of the Welfare and Entertainment committees. Vice-President Jack Brown acted as Master of Ceremonies and introduced branch Padre Rev. Mr. Rowe; the Honorary Padre, Dr. Perry; President of the Ladies Auxiliary, Mrs. Charles Leadbeater; and Robert Huard and Stanley Beerworth, press representatives, each of whom said a few words of welcome to the honoured guests. Comrade Brown told the returned boys that they were now eligible to became Legionnaires and extended an invitation to join the local branch.

Each veteran was called forward in turn and presented with an Eversharp pencil with his name engraved thereon.

The presentations were made as follows:- Leonard Johann, by his father George Johann; Robert Bouchard, by his father, M. Bouchard; Gerard Lessard, by Comrade R. Charland; Norman Dawson, by his brother, D. Dawson; Raymond Olivier, by his father, L. Olivier. Gifts for the boys absent were received by Jack Howitt, who accepted the gift for his son, Rodney and by J. Brown, who accepted that of Stewart Williamson.

The evening closed with a social hour and dancing and refreshments served by the Ladies' Auxiliary.
