Loyola charter prepared

An application by Loyola for a university charter is under preparation and is the culmination of an appeal to the provincial government initiated in 1960.

At a meeting of petitioners held this week, a group of representatives of the English-Catholic community joined to petition the provincial legislature as initial member of the corporation as a university.

Members of the group are: Murray G. Ballantyne, Westmount; Michael Blamar, Pointe Claire; Frank S. Capon, Montreal; Hon. Paul C. Casey, Westmount; Dr. Neil Feeney, Montreal; Rev. Cyril B. O'Keefe, Dean of Loyola; Arthur F. Mayne, Westmount; Very Rev. Patrick G. Malone, first president Loyola; John McIlhorne, Mount Royal; H. Ranahan, Laval-Sur-Le-Lac; Karel Velan, and Charles H. Wayland of Westmount.

Petitioners indicated their intention of increasing the number of governors of the university enlarging it to permit a broad basis of representation of the English-Catholic community.

In 1960, the application by Loyola was referred to Royal Commission of Enquiry on Education.

The 12 petitioners include persons representative of public and university education, industry and the professions who have been prominent in organizations and activities of the Anglo-Catholic community.

The group will apply to the legislature at its next session.

Obituary

Temple M. Barott

Funeral services were held Friday afternoon at St. Matthias Anglican Church for Temple Murray (Peter) Barott, architecture commissioner for the City of Westmount.

Mr. Barott died last Wednesday in hospital at the age of 46, following a brief illness.

Born in Montreal, he was the son of E. I. Barott, a veteran Montreal architect. He received his education at Selwyn House School, Bishop's College School, and McGill University where he graduated in arts. He obtained his degree in architecture at the University of Michigan.

Mr. Barott served with the Black Watch during the Second World War as a captain. He was a prisoner of war for three years.

After the war, he returned to Montreal where he became active in the Quebec Association of Architects. He was a member of the council from 1959 to 1961. He also served as chairman of the public relations, professional tariff, entertainment and convention committees of the PQAA.

He was one of the founders of the architectural firm of David, Barott, Bouvra. The firm did work for the Place des Arts. It designed the new Montreal Court House and Habitat '67, as well; it was actively engaged in building designs for the University of Montreal, Loyola College and other institutions.

Mr. Barott was president of the Specifications Writers' Association of Canada, and vice-president of the Quebec Association of Architects, at the time of his death.

He was an active member of the St. James Club of Montreal, a member of the council of the University Club of Montreal, a member of the Mount Royal Club, and the Mount Bruno Golf and Country Club.

He served on the executive of the Red Cross Society, and on the advisory board of St. Matthias Church.

He is survived by his wife, the former Gwendolyn Ward; one son, Patrick; one daughter, Chella; his father, E. I. Barott, and a sister, Mrs. Harold Thornton, all of Montreal.

HON. J. RICHARD HYDE, M.P.P.

Extends to all residents of Westmount - St. George Season's Greetings and Best Wishes for

A VERY MERRY CHRISTMAS and
A HAPPY NEW YEAR

In this season of goodwill, it is my privilege to offer my Best Wishes not only to the citizens of Westmount but to the residents of the whole Metropolitan area. It is my feeling, however, that the spirit of goodwill should not be confined to this festive season, but should prevail the year around if we are to achieve our objective of being good citizens.

In Westmount, we are undergoing gradual changes in some of our older areas, redeveloping residential sections which are experiencing the touch of time. This is good and contributes to a more comfortable and better living, heightening standards which we must not let slip.

Changes may come but it is the desire of your municipal government to adhere to the policies and principles which were established by our predecessors in office long ago and consistently well maintained in the interests of the citizens.

To all, I extend my sincere wishes for the Holiday Season and may health, happiness and success be with you in 1965.

Centre bylaw now law

The zoning amendment by-law permitting the construction of the Westmount Centre complex became law Monday evening as Mayor C. H. Drury declared the amendment adopted and ordered promulgation following second and third readings of the amended by-law at a quiet city council meeting.

The meeting also heard a report on a public meeting of elector-proprietors in the district where the project will be located. No opposition was declared at that meeting, and no one showed up to voice any differing opinions at the city council meeting.

Westmount Centre consists of two 21-storey apartment buildings, a 20-storey office structure and a two-storey department store. It is to be located in an area bounded by Wood, St. Catherine, the rear of properties facing on Greene, and Western.

Work on the project is expected to get underway in the Spring.

One city councillor, Alderman I. S. Backler, asked to be excused from voting in connection with the Centre. Mr. Backler said he wished to refrain from voting because he has been appointed consulting structural engineer for the complex.

Notice of motion was also made at the meeting to the effect that the city would sell property now known as Elm avenue in the area concerned, to the developers of Westmount Centre.

WE SAY

Some hopes for Christmas

WE hope each of The Examiner's readers experiences a joyful Christmas.

We hope that each, thought caught up in the rush and the noise of the season, finds some moment, whether it be in his church, or in a quiet time before turning off the tree lights for the night, to pause and find some of the meaning of that birth almost 2,000 years ago.

We hope that those who are troubled and alone can seek and find hope and renewed strength in the promise of rebirth the season brings.

We hope that those who are struggling to maintain their faith experience the certainty of divine love that was manifested in Bethlehem.

We hope that none will fall victim to the hazards created by modern life and its inventions. That all will survive to know another Christmas.

We hope that families everywhere find in the celebrations the means to move closer together and surmount whatever difficulties may face their unit.

We hope children experience the gift of their parents' love — a gift not Santa Claus or bright shiny toys can alone convey.

We hope that each and everyone finds some of the peace and goodwill promised so long ago, and that some are able to carry that peace and goodwill with them when the holidays are over.

We hope that each and everyone is able to find cause and the means for

YOU SAY

Asks Centre
clarification

Sir: The name of the Westmount Centre has been brought up at the Dorion inquiry. Considering the circumstances, surely City officials will find out what exactly was the favor or information mentioned in connection with the Centre at the inquiry.

The Centre was too controversial for too long to now be allowed to be built so long as there is any question, or rumour, of there being more to the whole affair than the citizens of Westmount have been told.

What goes on?

A.P.B.

Separatism in Westmount?

Sir: Now that we have a new flag, I wonder if the City of Westmount will condescend to fly it?

I have never seen anything on the City's flag poles but the Union Jack. Westmount's Mayor recently has stated the need for co-operation with its neighbors. We have all deplored the excesses of extremists in our province.

Surely our failure to fly any other flag is not only extremism at its worst, but a provocation to hotheads.

It's about time the separatists in Westmount realized that there is little difference between their attitudes and those of the R.I.N.

Let's join Canada or get out of it altogether.

A CANADIAN

25 Years Ago
in The Examiner
Dec. 27, 1939

Twenty-five years ago in The Examiner the following editorial appeared under the heading 'NEW CANADIAN FLAG':

Canadians learned with a great deal of interest the past week that the soldiers of the First Canadian contingent, arriving in England, carried a flag which may become the official flag of Canada. The fact is interesting both in view of the discussion that has taken place in Parliament from time to time on the subject, and because all the other Dominions have distinctive flags of their own. Unofficially Canada has had a flag for many years — the red ensign, or Lancashire duster, plus the Canadian consulates and trade offices all over the world, but it has never been officially adopted by Parliament. The subject has invariably been 'talked out' in the House for the reason that some of the designs submitted have been atrocious both from an artistic and heraldic point of view, and because at times the idea has been sponsored by groups whose object was the breaking, by slow degrees, of the British connection. But Canada needs a flag, from a practical as well as a sentimental viewpoint. And now our soldiers have taken one to England that is both correct and beautiful. The Union Jack holds the place of honor, of course, symbolizing our British connection. Opposite it is the fleur-de-lys of Old France, while beneath are three scarlet maple leaves. The whole on a background of white. It is probable that, having been baptized in battle, the flag will be made

Eliminate home hazards for Christmas holidays

The Christmas holiday, more than any other, is centered around the home and the family.

Coupled with the fact that more accidental deaths occur in December than in any other month, this means that every family should do its utmost to eliminate home hazards that could mar the happy time by needless tragedy.

According to the National Safety League of Canada, many accidents over the holiday season result from general bustle and confusion, putting the most safety-conscious person temporarily off-guard.

"This makes it all the more imperative that families bear in mind the major hazards in the home — fires, slips and falls," says Gay McLaren, the League's general manager.

Falls are caused in a variety of ways, according to N.S.L.: Toys scattered around the floor; climbing too high to hang decorations; using a chair or some other makeshift device instead of a step-ladder for climbing, ignoring ice on steps and sidewalks.

Fire hazards can be reduced if holiday decorations are fireproof or fire-resistant. Keep inflammables — paper, tree bough, ribbon — away from lights, candles, and fireplaces.

Christmas trees require the most attention. Every year the official one of this country. It got a tremendous reception in England (as in these days); and, we venture to predict, will make a big hit in France when it is carried over there.

many go up in flame causing families to suffer hardships and even tragedies. These can be prevented by checking decoration wiring, dryness of tree and removing ashtrays near the tree.

Yule advice:

Jovial Joe
no longer safe

A holiday is a time for frivolity and carefree joy, time to be convivial and friendly, a time to be intermittently host and guest. In the days when highways were laneways and Dobbin could find his own way home, Jovial Joe was comparatively safe on his junkets.

It's different today. Joe, still jovial and junketing, has command of a couple of hundred horsepower and a two-ton vehicle amid thousands of other similarly uninhibited celebrators. The same manoeuvre that dropped an alcoholic mist over his unfocussing eyes builds within him a boldness and recklessness that reduces his driving ability and produces an unguided missile that takes human life in horrifying quantity.

Keep that effervescent Christmas cheer between the walls of your home, or take a taxi. There'll come another Christmas and New Year's and you might want to be around, but not as a shameful memory.

CROWN LAND

Of Canada's total area 3,851,809 square miles, nearly 90 per cent is still publicly-owned Crown land.

Needy tots get toys from local firemen

Members of the Westmount Fire Department played Santa Claus last night for a number of families in their city.

With the co-operation of Public Safety Director E. C. Harper, as well as the staff of the Welfare Department, the firemen were able to obtain names and addresses of needy families in the city.

This is the first year the project has been undertaken, but it is understood that this will be a yearly event in which the members will take part in the repair and distribution of toys.

The project, says the firemen, depends on the public's help.

Firemen had been planning a program to collect toys for the needy, but they did not feel the program could get underway this year. However, word of the project got around and the toys began to flow in.

Some 15 of the firemen members of the International Association of Firefighters, Local 981, distributed the toys last night.

D. L. Gales to get honor at Columbia

D. Lorne Gales, Executive Director of the Graduates' Society and Fund Council at McGill University, a resident of Westmount, will be honored by the Alumni Federation of Columbia University at a special convocation honors ceremony December 30.

Mr. Gales, who lives at 486 Mountain avenue, will be the only Canadian among 24 individuals selected to receive the Federation's Medal for Distinguished Service to Education.

The ceremony is part of the Federation's observance of its 50th Anniversary, and the individuals who will be honored represent the leading educational institutions in the U.S.A.

They form "a specially selected professional group whose accomplishments and influence, within and outside their own institutions, and whose services to the American Alumni Council, of which their schools, colleges, and universities are members, have been productive, far-reaching, and distinguished".

(The American Alumni Council is an educational organization specializing in services in the field of alumni relations and educational fund-raising.)

Mr. Gales has been associated with the Graduates' Society of McGill University since 1945. He was, in turn, Field Secretary, General Secretary, and Executive Director. He has also served as Development Officer for the University.

During his years on the staff, McGill University's alumni organization set the pattern for other Canadian universities and when the McGill Alma Mater Fund was set up in 1948 as part of the Graduates' Society, the concept of annual giving by alumni to their universities was first introduced to Canada.

OBITUARY

Miss Vera King

Westmount and the entire English-speaking Catholic Community were saddened last week by the death on December 16th, in the prime of life, of Miss Vera King at St. Mary's Hospital after a lengthy illness. Her many friends and business associates joined a large representation of the Clergy in paying their final respects at a Solemn Requiem High Mass in St. Augustine of Canterbury Church at 10 a.m. last Saturday officiated at by her brother, Rev. Richard E. King.

She was born in Montreal the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John King who were one of the early residents of Victoria avenue north of Sunnyside, and where she resided until a few years ago. A graduate of St. Paul's Academy, Westmount and Marguerite Bourgeys College, Westmount avenue, Miss King was a long time employee of the Canadian Salt Company, where she was editor of "Salt Licks," the staff magazine. A highly intelligent woman she was an active member of the English-speaking Catholic Community. Until her illness, she was honorary member of "The Challenge," the diocesan newspaper.

Stricken in early life with a painful and crippling complaint which she bore cheerfully and despite which she carried on actively in the many worthy organizations of which she was a member, and at various times held offices in the St. Ann's Baby Clinic of which she was one of the original members the Business Women's Unit of the CWL, St. Malachy's Parish Sodality, and Ascension Parish Sodality, and the Union of Parish Sodalities, St. Paul's Academy Alumnae Association and Eaton's Career Club. A profile of courage in the face of personal health hardships, Miss King's life exemplified selflessness and devotion to worthy causes that interested her and her passing leaves a great void in the lives of all who had the pleasure of her acquaintance.

Besides Father King, Miss King is survived by two other brothers, John of Ottawa, and Paul, of Montreal; three sisters, Mrs. Emmett Stafford (Margaret), and Mrs. William Brennan (Kay) of Montreal and Mrs. Paul Dougherty (Pat.) of Pennsauken, N.J. Burial took place in the family plot in Cote des Neiges Cemetery.

Christmas message

The Rev'd J. N. Doidge
St. Matthias Church

May the blessing of Christmas abide with you throughout the New Year, and may your Christmas be a happy one.

In the midst of a world filled with fear, GOD REIGNS and comes to us in Jesus Christ — the God-man. This is the Christmas Good News. This is the Christmas Good News. Put your trust in this fact and face the future with this faith. Remember that at Christmas "God — stooping down — gave us enough of Himself to live by.

My greetings to the readers of The Examiner this Christmas tide are summed up in the following lines:-

There is nothing I can give you which you have not; but there is much, that, while I cannot give, you can take.

No heaven can come to us unless our hearts find rest in it today. Take Heaven.

No peace lies in the future which is not hidden in this present instant. Take Peace.

The gloom of the world is but a shadow; behind it, yet within reach, is joy. Take Joy.

And so, at this Christmas time, I greet you, with the prayer that for you, now and forever, the day breaks and the shadows flee away.

Christmas message:

Rev. Callum Thompson
Westmount Park Church

Each day now brings its quota of Christmas cards to the manse. These cards and their messages seem to be more beautiful each year. Yesterday, I sat down to look at them all more carefully and thoughtfully. One of these 1964 cards had a message of such beauty of insight and appreciation of all that Christ's coming has meant to the world, that I read it again and again.

I noted with some puzzlement the name of the family which had sent it, and suddenly, I had to make a mental admission that I had been wrong in my judgment of this family's philosophy of life. These folk had never seemed to me at all religiously inclined nor spiritually centered in their family life. Their conversations seemed to mark them as very worldly and secular. However, sometimes we ought not to judge people by their words, or even on occasion, by their actions.

Perhaps we are altogether too self-righteous in our summations of people's character. Who knows the challenging and sometimes dark paths we all have to travel at times. In giving our estimate of the faith we live by, we can seem very glib by attitudes taken and value judgments expressed; thus, the people we meet are not likely to have an insight into the total situation in our lives.

Again, as the story of the birth of Jesus in Bethlehem is re-told we stand in thankfulness for the loving God who sent Him and for the new hope His life has given to all men who believe and respond to His call upon their lives.

Bethlehem reminds us of the mysteries of the universe. In our secular world, we marvel at the Place Ville Marie; the Place

Victorias and the Expo '67s — man made islands, these are the work of our human skills and

Christian Science

Sunday theme is 'Healing'

Christian healing will be the theme of the Bible Lesson to be presented in all Christian Science churches this Sunday. The subject is "Christian Science." Included in the Scripture readings are the words of Jesus: "But the Comforter, which is the Holy Ghost, whom the Father will send in my name, he shall teach you all things, and bring all things to your remembrance, whatsoever I have said unto you" (John 14:26).

Pertinent selections from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will include: "Christ's Christianity is the chain of scientific being reappearing in all ages, maintaining its obvious correspondence with the Scriptures and uniting all periods in the design of God."

Westmount Park

Senior Choirs to participate

This Sunday the services at Westmount Park Church, corner of Western and Lansdowne Avenues, will feature two year-end services at 11:00 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

At 11:00 a.m. the minister, the Rev. Callum Thompson, will speak on the topic "Saying Good-bye to Another Year of Days," and the 4:30 p.m. service will take the form of "The Service of Nine Lessons and Carols."

The readers of the nine lessons will represent the different organizations of the church, and the carols will be sung by the senior choir under the direction of Wayne Riddell, B.Mus. (McGill).

Christmas message:

Rev. William C. Nolting
 Redeemer Lutheran Church

At this time of the year many pilgrims will be in the holy land to view the place where Christ was born. Countless others will again in their minds gather around the manger to recall the great event which took place almost two thousand years ago.

A story is told of a man who dreamed that he was in the Bethlehem stable and saw the Christ child.

"What are you doing here, little one?" he asked of Jesus.

"I am not doing anything — HERE", the child replied. "But I shall go forth from here soon. I shall speak parables that will haunt the world. I shall climb a hill, rise on a cross, and the world will never be able to forget. I shall overwhelm the grave. I shall establish the church. I will come again some day to reign as king. My birth in the stable is not as important as the fact that I shall be born in men's hearts around the world."

The Christmas festival appeals to young and old. But there is a danger that we remain at the stable manger and overlook the purpose for which Jesus was born into the world. Christ never referred to his manger birth, but he did refer repeatedly to what the prophets had to say about the mission he would come to perform. To Pilate he said, "For this I was born, and for this I have come into the world, to bear witness to the truth." And in John's gospel Jesus says, "I came that they may have life, and have it abundantly." Thus it becomes evident that it is not enough for us to gather around a manger in a stable once a year to adore a child, but we must follow that child as he leaves the manger, grows to manhood, walks among men, teaching them the great truths of God, especially as they pertain to man's redemption. We must not be satisfied until we know all that the Christ child came to accomplish with his teachings, life, passion, death, resurrection, ascension, and reigning in glory. It is not enough that we have a stable-faith. We must also have a cross-faith, a resurrection-faith, and a Pentecost-faith. We must have a faith that fulfils the words of the apostle Paul, "Christ in you — the hope of glory".

Christ in us — yes! But we must not overlook the fact that he wants to be the Saviour of all mankind.

After the bombing of a London church building, some one took a statue of Christ out of the ruins and set it in the street. A passer-by made the remark that this was the first time Christ appeared outside of a church build-

Keeping in mind the recent historic declarations by the Roman Catholic Church Fathers and leading Protestant Church Councils, that Jews are not deicides, "Christ-killers", but rather "Christ-begetters" and that the Church do all it can to wipe out those teachings which tended contempt for the Jew through centuries, Christmas Day 1964, should indeed inspire Christians everywhere toward a renewed study of Judaism, the Mother faith of Christianity and Islam.

While we Jews cannot accept the theology of Messiahship, connected with the Christmas observance, nevertheless, in-so-far as this day serves to promote goodwill and peace among men — it touches us Jews deeply and we see the Christmas season as a

Christie, Norman Smith, Mrs. Ellenor Sheppard and stooping down, Mrs. McGee. The gentlemen didn't divulge their ages, but the ladies were quite willing to do so. Mrs. Christie is 96 years and Mrs. Sheppard is 87 years of age, both young at heart and proud of their ages.

Residents of Eventide Home of the Salvation Army enjoyed the Christmas Party given for them on the evening of December 15 in the Assembly Hall sponsored by the Women's Auxiliary.

The lounges, halls, corridors and dining room were all beautifully decorated for the occasion. Gifts and Christmas bags were arranged beneath the lovely Christmas tree which was donated and decorated by the Mens' Associates.

Mrs. C. N. Knowles, president, extended all best wishes to the residents on behalf of the auxiliary.

Feature of the evening's entertainment was the singing by the Bank of Montreal choir. The leader, Mr. George Barton was introduced by Mrs. Ethel Gardner.

Mrs. J. A. P. McGee was chairman of the Christmas party, assisted by Mrs. R. J. Dunn.

At the conclusion of the musical program, Santa Claus, assisted by members of the Venture Club, distributed Christmas bags to all residents.

After the distribution, the residents were ushered to the attractively decorated dining room and tables where Mrs. P. Shaughnessy and her committee served dainty refreshments to climax a wonderful evening for the residents who make Eventide their home.

Christmas in the Country

Christmas in the country! We shall see that the world is low and wide and still, and peacefully filled up with trees and snow!

A million stars will brightly run through sky, and each of them remind us of the lovely one that shone on Bethlehem!

Barns that huddle with their sheep and cattle, closely kept, miraculously will seem to keep a place where Jesus slept.

Christmas in the country! There, like wise men on a hill, we can look down and, anywhere, surprise a miracle!

Sift together flour and salt. Blend butter and sugar. Add egg and vanilla; beat well. Stir-in sifted dry ingredients. Shape dough into balls about 1 inch in diameter. If using Corn Flakes, crush into fine crumbs. Roll cookies in Corn Flake Crumbs. Place about 2 inches apart on ungreased baking sheets. Make dent in centre of each cookie. Bake in slow oven (300° F.) 10 minutes. Remove from oven; press down dent in top of each cookie. Return to oven and bake about 10 minutes longer. Fill centres of cookies with jelly when ready to serve. Yield: about 4 dozen cookies, 1 1/2 inches in diameter.

spread the delicious, pale pink meat on Melba toast and garnish with ripe olive slices.

LOBSTER PASTE

Lobster paste provides the incomparable lobster flavor at a budget price. It comes packed in 3-ounce cans and is available at most food stores. Just as taken from the can it makes a tasty spread for party sandwiches and crackers. It also makes a delicious pink dip to serve with potato chips, crackers and the like.

To make the dip, soften one 8-ounce package of cream cheese and blend in the contents of 2 cans of lobster paste, 1/2 cup of softened butter, 1/2 teaspoon salt, and 1 teaspoon curry powder mixed in 2 tablespoons sherry. Whip with a rotary beater until light and creamy. Cover and chill until serving time.

Evergreens bring Christmas cheer

Christmas greens bring into a house an inspiring beauty from the hills when the season of the Yuletide comes again to spread its color and cheer across the land. The holiday tree, and the sprays of pine and spruce and hemlock, and a few twigs of the ground pine and the juniper, fill a house with the good country atmosphere of love and purity. Every room gives out the rich pine aroma that has filled the quiet winter walks through snow-filled woods.

The parlor of a house, with its green and stately tree, becomes a veritable haven for dreams at Christmas-time. The branches lift like quiet arms toward the December skies. The long and gracious needles point like fingers toward the stars. It is easy here to contemplate a quiet woodland path through the soft pine slopes.

In the sitting room, a sprig of green has been placed across the mantel by the woman of the house. The berries of the alder add their bright red hues to the richness of the green. Sprays of pine have been placed over the antique picture frames, for this is an old house to whom a hundred Christmas-times have come.

Christmas greens play their colorful and inspiring role in the kitchen too, where the holiday meals are prepared in the bustling activity of the house. Here the cookies and nut cakes and the breads are baked. Here the pies are baked, and the corn is popped. The firm small kernels open like giant and fluffy snowflakes swirling down from winter skies. A vase on the table is filled with pine; sprigs of green hang in all their loveliness over the windows, too.

Outside the door two earthen jars on either side are filled with evergreens. In all these ways of country living, a farm family can always bring the green of Christmas-time in from the hills. Inside the rooms an atmosphere of purity and peace, of goodness and cheer, reigns again in all the glory of the joyous Christmas hours.

Traditions of Christmas have strange ancestry

Most traditions are children of strange ancestry, and the two most popular Christmas customs — Santa Claus and the Christmas Tree — may have the strangest heritage of them all.

Does it come as a surprise that the lighted tree is entirely Christian in origin while the jolly figure sometimes called St. Nick was born of pagan parents!

True, the name Santa Claus is derived from St. Nicholas.

But the Saint and the elf have nothing in common except the name.

This is how they came to be joined in Christmas lore:

For years the feast of St. Nicholas, December 6, was observed in Europe by giving gifts to children. He is their patron saint, and the custom still is practised in most European countries.

Few historical facts are known about the Saint. He was bishop of Myra in Asia Minor and died about the year 350. He was an orphan, and a generally accepted legend is he often helped poor children by slipping coins through their windows at night.

Dutch immigrants to North America brought the traditional "visit from St. Nicholas" with them. They had clung to the custom even after the reformation.

LIKED IDEA

Later, when the English founded the colony of New York in the same territory, their children liked the idea of a nocturnal visitor coming to their homes, too.

But the idea of a bishop was disagreeable to the New Yorkers, many of whom were Presbyterians. Also, they did not celebrate feasts of saints.

In the withered pages of Germanic folklore, familiar to these Anglo-Saxons, was the pagan god Thor.

He was the god of the peasants; an elderly, jovial man with a long white beard. His color was red, his element was fire, and the hearth was sacred to him. On the occasions when he left his home among the icebergs of the northland, where he fought the giants of ice and snow, he frequently would come down chimneys into his element. He rode in a chariot pulled by two white goats, cracker and gnasher.

Exchanging gifts at Christmas was traditional with the English-Americans, and it was not surprising the jolly old elf now familiar to us all should emerge as the new delivery boy.

In most European and South American countries it is the Christ child who sends the gifts, his angels who deliver them. The Germans called the infant Christ-kindel. When they immigrated to North America he became Kris Kringle but became identified with Santa Claus.

TREE FROM ADAM

The Christmas tree evolved this way:

In Medieval days a favorite pre-Christmas pageant was the "Paradise-Play," depicting the fall of Adam and Eve, the promise of a saviour and the ensuing birth of Christ.

A fir tree hung with apples represented the Garden of Eden, and the symbol soon found its way into homes on the feast day of Adam and Eve, December 24.

Germans also had the custom of erecting in their homes during advent a candle-bedecked wooden pyramid topped by a star, signifying the "Light of the World" which shone from the stable at Bethlehem.

During the 16th century they began combining the two symbols, usually adding beneath the tree the Christmas Crib which formerly stood at the foot of the pyramid.

Trees began appearing in American homes after the first big wave of German immigration in about 1700. The practice picked up momentum when another large group arrived about 1830.

By now the tree is the symbol of an "old fashioned" Christmas — and still represents paradise in the hearts of the young.

in egg and lemon rind. Add dry ingredients; mix well. Stir in coconut, raisins and cherries. Drop by teaspoonfuls onto greased baking sheets. Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) about 15 minutes.

Yield, about 4 dozen cookies, 2 inches in diameter.

Christmas service
'In the Arctic'

By Millicent Hickmore

WHEN WE THINK of Christmas in Canada, a glittering mosaic of pictures dances before our eyes. People scurrying down snowy streets, arms laden with gaily wrapped packages — rosy-cheeked carollers serenading their neighbors — frost-tipped evergreens bedecked with winking lights — Santa Claus parades — fragile crepe paper angels, tinsel, colored balls and holly wreaths — they're all an integral part of our Yuletide.

How ever, Christmas customs, like any other customs, vary greatly from country to country. Recently I came across a little item culled from an American booklet describing "Christmas in the Arctic", which differs so greatly from our much commercialized Christmas.

To the Eskimo, Christmas is a joyous religious festival. The story of Christ and His birthday was first told to them by the White Man, and at this time the Eskimo loads his entire family atop a long komatik and points his furry dogs' noses towards the main settlement, which is sometimes sixty miles away, or more.

Christmas Eve at the settlement, long narrow dog sleds begin to arrive. There is much talking and laughing, and mittens removed, everyone joins in the ceremony of hand-shaking. No one is overlooked, the gnarled hand of an old hunter extends towards the chubby fist of a baby on its mother's back. It is no wonder that Eskimo babies of the Eastern Arctic learn to shake hands before they can talk.

Temporary igloos sprang up everywhere, snow knives flashed, puppies yelped and everyone's children became confused with everyone else's.

Here in this faraway spot, without benefit of priest or church, the Eskimos held their Christmas service. They knelt in their sealskin boots on a floor of snow. No choir, no altar and no candelabra — only the flickering light from a stone lamp casting eerie shadows on an igloo wall.

Strange and simple people, yet the same Christmas Star which hovered above the grandeur of the city churches shone down on these crowded igloos of the North.

Spring rainsuits brighten the day

Remember those dull, drab, rainy days, when people carried black umbrellas, wore long rain-proof garments and big rubber boots — what a contrast today, when one finds it difficult to discern the colorful rainwear from every day costumes.

This was emphasized Friday at a fashion preview sponsored by Lydia Fashions, held at the Queen Elizabeth Hotel.

Doris Clark, women's editor of CJAD was commentator and Mrs. Miriam Simon of St. Lambert, the pianist.

Lydia collection included suits and coats of many shades, all rainproof. Delightful youthful styles as well as the more sophisticated styles for the matron. Fabrics were of light nylons and cotton blends, pinwale and a new fabric called diolen.

Bright colors were much in evidence — one coat in particular was a brilliant green, a most attractive garment. Low back belts were seen on many coats and the trend in suits was the short jacket. Capes are also popular, one short model shown was attached to the coat seam at the side leaving the front of the coat free, two other models were knee length. Long matching spats were worn with this collection.

For evening wear, Lydia showed the ankle length coats or evening wraps. One model shown was of black velvet with white satin lining, the coat, when one walked opened a little at the hemline showing the white satin lining — a most attractive creation, also rain resistant.

Spring, especially the month of April, is unpredictable. However

St. Paul's and St. Leo's Student's aid needy, new paper planned

By BEVERLY JONES
With the holidays almost upon us, little school work is being done these days.

In keeping with the season's festivities, St. Paul's High School held a Christmas Supper last Thursday evening, Dec. 17, for the teachers and students.

The parish priests, Monsignor Lapointe, Father Barry Jones and Father Walton Hannah were present.

It was a buffet supper with turkey, ham, potato salad and all the trimmings. The supper gave the girls a great chance to get to know one another and to get into the spirit of Christmas. Sincere thanks go to all who brought in food, helped to prepare the supper and hardest of all to those who did the dishes and cleaned up after the supper.

Another great expectation is the first edition of the St. Paul's-St. Leo's Academy Journal, our new paper. This first edition is expected before the Christmas Holidays and everyone is anxiously awaiting it. The editor is Richard Martyn and the associate editor is Maureen Newman, Miss Mallaley and Mr. Griffin have helped considerably. A great deal of hard work has been put into this paper and we truly hope it is a success.

As in previous years this Christmas, St. Paul's and St. Leo's Academy will help some of the less unfortunate people in Montreal to have a Merry Christmas, each grade in both schools will provide a Christmas dinner and gifts for a family.

The pupils raise money for this purpose usually by Christmas Carolling, this money is used to buy the food, clothes and presents. On Christmas eve the baskets are delivered to the needy families.

A Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year from all of us to all of you.

Mr. Hannaford lived at 496 Mountain avenue, Westmount. He died suddenly last Saturday at his country home at Lake Macdonald.

A son of the late Markland Molson Hannaford, sr., and Mrs. Hannaford, the former Jessie Eddington, he was born in Montreal, and educated here and in the Maritimes.

Mr. Hannaford entered the machine tool business as a salesman and subsequently became Ottawa branch manager of the firm.

He was interested in woodlot development and had his own tree-growing farmland at Lake Macdonald.

Surviving are his wife, the former Joan Hebdon; two daughters, Carol and Gail; one son, Richard; his mother; and two sisters, Mrs. L. H. MacQuarrie and Miss Cora Hannaford.

TRAIN CHILDREN

Many children die in home fires through panic. When a youngster finds himself in darkness and thick smoke, he may crawl away under a bed. The whole family, including the small ones, should be trained to make their way to exits and to the safest way of escape. Practice will help the plan to become routine in case of emergency.

powerful factor in the realization of Jewish religious ideas and the sublime teachings of the great Hebrew prophets.

We are comforted by the fact that on this day, millions of Christians will meditate on the birth and life of the humble Rabbi of Galilee, Jesus of Nazareth, son of Israel, who taught in the prophetic tradition of Judaism for men to love one another and to strive for brotherhood under the fatherhood of The One Eternal God.

On Christmas Day 1964, let Jew and Christian and all God believers resolve to stand together, work together and fight together against the evil forces of discrimination which judge a man not by his worth as a child of God, but by the colour of his skin. I rejoice on this day that the Negro, The Rev. Martin Luther King, Jr., was but a few weeks ago awarded the Nobel Peace Prize at the Norwegian Parliament at Oslo. What a rebuke this award is to those who still practice brotherlessness against the coloured man. I recall how but a few years ago, this courageous and dedicated young Negro leader, stood in the Pulpit of our Temple Emanu-El here in Montreal and called upon all who believe in God to strive courageously to advance brotherhood among men of every race and creed.

On this Christmas Day of 1964, let Jew and Christian engage in battle against the injustices in an economic order whatever be its designation which permits the degradation of fellow man and reduces him to live in a state of poverty amidst a world of plenty. Surely, we of Church and Synagogue cannot be at peace with ourselves when two-thirds of the world's population dwells under a substandard of livelihood and where millions walk this earth in hunger every day of the year. The nations that have must be motivated by teachings of Church and Synagogue to provide for the "have-not" nations without any ulterior motives to gain political advantage.

And above all now in this nuclear revolutionary hour of the human adventure, we must affirm the faith that man has the spiritual capacity as a child of God to control his destiny and through wisdom make use of the scientific technological instruments by which to remove the causes of war and the curse of war so that truly we may speed the day "when they shall sit every man under his vine and under his fig tree; and none shall make them afraid."

And on this day of goodwill whether we be Jew, Christian or Moslem, let us remember that our Source is The One God and though we each approach God by a different path, we have as our goal the Kingdom of God on Earth. Respecting each other's faith and working together in brotherhood — in this regard, how significant was the utterance from The Book of Micah by President Shazar of The State of Israel nearly a year ago when he welcomed to the Holy Land, Pope Paul VI — "For let all the peoples walk each one in the name of its God.

But we will walk in the name of the Lord our God for ever and ever."

ing among the people of the street. A sad commentary, indeed, on Christianity, if it is true that it never gets outside of the church walls. When Christ spoke of his followers as being the salt of the earth, the light of the world, and the leaven which should eventually leaven the whole lump, he definitely implied that his followers are to spread and apply their faith in every sphere and walk of life — home, church, school, industry, commerce, government, excepting none. How else can he exert his redemptive power in all of the world.

A storekeeper, during the Christmas season, placed figures of Mary and Jesus in his display window. A woman, seeing this, remarked contemptuously, "Now they have to drag religion into Christmas!"

Such an attitude may be extreme. Countless thousands do recognize Christmas as a festival commemorating Jesus' birth. But it is not enough to lock up the Christ child in an ox stall from one Christmas to another. We must get him out of the manger bed so that he can move freely among the dispossessed, the disinherited, the needy people everywhere to work his saving grace. He wants to be the Saviour of all men, and is not satisfied until he has moved from the cattedled into the living room of men's lives everywhere.

"Tis not enough that Christ was born beneath the star that shone,

And earth was set that blessed morn within a golden zone.

He must be born within the heart before he finds his throne,

And brings the day of love and good — the reign of Christ-like brotherhood.

Rev. C. Thompson . . .

daring. Yet, despite all this "know-how" abroad in the world, have we found the answers to the three longing questions of mankind — (1) "Have we found our reason for Being?" (2) "Have we found our peace of heart?" (3) "Have we found a sense of oneness with God and with each other?"

This baby Jesus has the answers to these questions. This is our Faith. The Wise Men found it so; the shepherds found it so. And when, in reverent imagination, we take our place in like believing fashion before His manger cradle on Christmas Day 1964, we can surely rise from our knees and sing from a full heart: "Joy to the world, the Lord is come, let earth receive her King."

20 'Y' holds fencing meeting

The Westmount Examiner, Merry Christmas, 1964

Saturday, December 12th, was a busy day for the fencers. The YMCA fencing club, under the guidance of Professor Stephen Vamos sponsored a mixed handicap fencing tournament for class A.B.C

class A, B, and D foil fencers. Talking to Professor Vamos he stated that Westmount held the first competition of the season. Twenty-nine entries were vying for the top honor.

Even though it was an individual tournament with no team trophy it is interesting to note that six club participated: Westmount 'Y', University of McGill, University of Montreal, Palastri National, I.C.C. and the YMHA.

After six hours of bouts two people tied for first place, Miss Gillian Gray of Westmount and University of Montreal and Mr. Mari-Andre Pelouquin of the Palastri National.

In the final bout Mr. Pelouquin was able to defeat Miss Gray by one hit (one point) thereby winning the first place honors. Miss Gray was declared second.

Ski safety tips given

Skiing, already our nation's biggest outdoor winter sport, continues to increase in scope and enthusiasm.

Thousands of seasoned skiers will shortly be taking to the slope and many more will be first-timers. Most will be weekend participants with varying degrees of experience and skill. The growth of the sport has led to increasing concern about the numbers of accidents, and injuries being sustained.

Accidents are caused by skiers who over-estimate their physical ability, or lose control because of fatigue. This combination far outranks any other factor as an injury cause.

The National Safety League of Canada gives these 10 points leading to greater skiing safety and the enjoyment of this fine winter sport.

1. Physical condition. By exercising 10 minutes a day, the week-end "recreational" skier can greatly reduce accident-proneness in one of the most strenuous sports known.
2. Proper equipment: Ski equipment need not be the most expensive, but should be fitted to the requirements of each individual by a ski-equipment expert.
3. Lessons. Learn proper techniques from a certified instructor.
4. Know ski area: Don't choose areas beyond ability.
5. Ski in groups. Groups of four are best; in an accident, this allows one person to stay with the injured skier while the other two seek help.
6. Lifts and tows. Follow instructions.
7. Ski courtesy. When skiing, be courteous.
8. Fatigue increases accident proneness.
9. Cross-country skiing. Notify ski patrol of departure and expected return times
10. Join a ski club

HAPPY NEW YEAR

Westmount Branch: 1326 Greene Ave.

FOR ALL MANKIND

Rome had established law and order. The Greeks pointed out reason and moderation as a way of life. From earliest times the Jews acknowledged the one God as father and director of their lives.

Then out of Bethlehem Jesus came, with a new message: Love for each other, as well as love for God.

The message, added to other earlier concepts of man, gave the best in each of them new meanings.

Moreover this was not a message for one city, one nation or one race. It was for all mankind, everywhere.

Our Christmas wish follows this precept: good will to all peoples in all lands.
