Ballot box found sealed but empty in Shefford

GRANBY, Que. (CP) — Paul Langlois, chief returning officer for Shefford constituency, said Tuesday he found one of the riding's 85 ballot boxes sealed and empty during Monday's official count of the Nov. 8 election results.

Mr. Langlois said he will launch an investigation today.

The official vote count in Shefford riding Monday gave the Liberal candidate Louis-Paul Neveu a 45-vote win over the Progressive Conservative candidate, Paul Trepanier, mayor of Granby.

Mr. Trepanier said Monday that ballot boxes were tampered with and threatened to take legal action unless the official count gave him the victory.

Unless he won, he said, he would take "every legal action available to me, up to and including the Supreme Court."

Mr. Langlois said Tuesday the empty ballot box came from voting station No. 59 in the Waterloo district.

"I have spoken to Mrs. Jacqueline Boileau who was in charge of the polling station election day," he said, "and she told me that people working in her station had seen the ballots in the box in question after the station's count was completed.

"In the presence of a witness, Mrs. Boileau later gave the box to an employee of the Waterloo post office.

"The box was delivered to me, with others from station 59, by the post office at 11:30 a.m. Nov. 9."

Mr. Langlois said that when he opened the ballot box Monday the seal was intact, but missing were a large envelope containing the ballots and a small envelope containing the returning officer's vote totals for each candidate.

He said Mrs. Boileau told him she had to break the seal on the box in question in order to put in the spoiled ballots, but that she had resealed it. Mr. Langlois said it was possible for someone who had previously worked in a ballot station to have kept seals, as five are issued to each station.

Mr. Langlois said that on election night the results of the Waterloo poll were telephoned to him.

The results phoned in were: Mr. Trepanier 97, Mr. Neveu 96, Gilbert Rondeau, Creditiste 29, and Lucien Pearson, independent Liberal, 17.

The final official count Monday night, including the services vote gave Mr. Neveu 9,520, Mr. Trepanier 9,475, Mr. Rondeau 9,460 and Mr. Pearson 514.

Mr. Trepanier could not be reached for comment on the empty ballot box incident Tuesday.

United Nations hears Ceylon's two-China plan

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — The United Nations today considers a last-minute proposal by Ceylon calling on the General Assembly to vote on the seating of Communist China without touching on the status of Nationalist China.

The Ceylonese proposal was made late Tuesday night in the form of an amendment to a 12-nation resolution seeking the admission of the Peking government.

The amendment would delete from the resolution now before the 117-nation assembly any reference to the expulsion of the Nationalist government on Formosa and would call only for a decision on whether Communist China should be seated in the UN.

The Ceylonese proposal could strengthen support for seating the Peking government as several nations have indicated they could not back the Nationalists' expulsion to make way for the Communist Chinese.

A United States-backed resolution calling for a two-thirds majority vote on the question, as well as the resolution seeking Peking admission, took up the entire debate Tuesday, delaying a vote.

The U.S. was joined by 10 other nations in sponsoring the resolution calling for a two-thirds majority rather than a simple majority, as a guarantee that Peking would be kept out for at least another year.

CANADA AGAINST IT

Britain favors Peking's admission. Canada was expected to continue its opposition.

The 111-nation assembly in 1963, the last time the issue was debated, cast 57 votes against the seating of Peking, 41 in favor, with 12 abstentions.

U.S. Ambassador Charles Yost Tuesday said the question of peace in Asia was involved in the decision facing the assembly, and therefore no one could deny the importance of applying the two-thirds rule.

He repeated U.S. charges that Communist China's attitude toward the world organization was one of outright hostility and its presence in the organization would be a destructive one.

Ambassador Halim Budo of Albania, whose country is regarded as a spokesman for Peking in the UN, argued the U.S. had lost its "automatic majority" and thus was forced to seek application of the two-thirds rule.

In Moscow

MOSCOW (CP)—After a thorough discussion on Viet Nam with Polish officials, U.S. Senate majority leader Mike Mansfield and four other senators arrived in Moscow today for talks with Soviet officials.

The trip has aroused speculation here that the Montana Democrat, a close consultant of President Johnson on foreign policy, is sounding out prospects for a Vietnamese settlement.

UK in freeze

LONDON (CP)—Up to 250,000 factory workers faced enforced idleness today because of a national fuel crisis brought on by Britain's coldest November in 25 years.

Motor assembly lines in the Midlands industrial belt were threatened with virtual paralysis after a day in which thousands of employees were sent home from power-starved factories.

Court curt

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Supreme Court has voiced impatience again with the pace of school desegregation and declared delay is no longer tolerable.

The justices took this uncompromising stance Tuesday in a unanimous ruling that is significant for still another reason: it said the way teachers are assigned on an alleged racial basis has a direct bearing on the adequacy of school desegregation plans.

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican ecumenical council's controversial statement on nuclear war came to a vote today with an American archbishop seeking support for amendments to remove the "ban the bomb" tone from the document. His chances appeared doubtful.

The vote was the last major hurdle for the council's decree on modern world problems before final approval clearing the unique document for promulgation.

Vandals smash up a city man's dream

By DOUG MACKENZIE
(Record staff reporter)

EATON CORNER —Vandals wreaked havoc on a farmhouse here last weekend, and badly battered a city man's dream of a country home.

"I have only met a few people in this town, and have no idea who would do such a thing," said Ron Gobel of Montreal.

Mr. Gobel has owned the farm for about two weeks.

Mr. Gobel has been employed by the Bank of Montreal in Montreal for many years and decided to buy the farm for health and pleasure reasons.

Mr. Gobel who is 37, is married and has three children, two girls aged 10 and four, and a boy six.

The scene which greeted QPP investigators yesterday, was one of pure destruction, and prompted Investigator Normand Roy of the QPP to say, "I have never seen a more destructive act of vandalism. In fact it's worse than that, it can't be put into words. I'm disgusted!"

All the windows in the house were broken, as well as the frames themselves. The kitchen stove was pulled off its stand and was lying on the floor two feet from where it originally stood.

Broken glass was everywhere, upstairs as well as down, and every room was littered with it. Kitchen chairs were tossed down into the basement, furniture was overturned.

Mattresses, clothing, newspapers and tables were strewn about or smashed completely.

Damage was estimated by Mr. Gobel at around $800.

He was not insured against this sort of damage and only carried fire insurance.

A rather large fence post was found in the kitchen, and another on the veranda roof. It is believed that the person or persons used these to smash the windows and break furniture.

Police estimated that the damage was done between Thursday afternoon and Saturday morning.

Mr. Gobel, said that he received the news about noon Sunday, when his insurance agent called him at his home in Montreal.

Mr. Gobel arrived at his farm about 2:30 p.m. Sunday to survey the damage. The feeling was one of shock and despair upon seeing the damage, Mr. Gobel said.

"Buying this farm was the climax of a dream come true, which had been in the minds of me and my family since our first visit to the Eastern Townships many years ago. My wife and children had found a wonderful place to live, and were looking forward to spending next summer in the country."

In view of what has happened, Mr. Gobel said second thoughts were being had about taking up residence in the Eastern Townships.

Rhodesia's PM says governor's phone cut

UK considers other moves

LONDON (CP)—Seven special orders giving effect to British government sanctions against Rhodesia will be laid before Parliament today.

The orders were signed by the Queen within 11 hours of the passage of the Southern Rhodesia Act, which empowers government ministers, subject to endorsement by Parliament, to take any measures deemed necessary to counter the unilateral declaration of independence by the white-minority government of Rhodesia.

Any of the orders can be contested by Parliament within the next 28 parliamentary sitting days.

One order, preventing alleged fugitive offenders from being returned to Rhodesia unless their return is considered expedient by the British home secretary, comes into effect today.

SALISBURY (Reuters) — Prime Minister Ian Smith of Rhodesia announced today the telephone service at Government House—the governor's official residence—had been suspended.

He told a press conference he was disappointed at the attitude adopted by Sir Humphrey Gibbs, whom he described as the former governor of Rhodesia.

Smith claimed that he had evidence that Rhodesians are more united now than ever before and he called the governor's position precarious.

Tuesday 4,000 Negro postal workers balked at signing a pledge of loyalty to the Smith government within two weeks or lose their jobs.

There was no immediate confirmation of reports that other branches of the Rhodesian civil service—both Negro and white—had been asked to sign similar pledges.

DEFIES SMITH

Following the Salisbury regime's seizure of independence from Britain Thursday, the governor dismissed Smith and his ministers. Britain says the governor is the sole official authority.

Gibbs is defying pressure from Smith to vacate Government House.

Smith claimed today there was a tremendous response from the Negro section of the population following independence.

He announced he was arranging a meeting between his government and representatives of the chiefs and Negroes in Parliament and Josiah Gondo, leader of the opposition parliamentary United Peoples Party, to discuss the situation in Rhodesia.

About 150 newspaper men attended the press conference, Smith's first since independence.

MEETS WITH SUPPORTERS

Earlier the 50 parliamentarians of Smith's Rhodesia Front party held their first meetings since independence was seized.

It was believed Smith summoned his parliamentary supporters to give them a personal assurance his government was in full control of the situation resulting from the breakaway, both at home and abroad.

The Rhodesian public, meanwhile, began feeling the first economic effects of the break with Britain as prices went up on cigarettes, whisky, beer, wines and liquers.

Accepting benefits trial continues today

OTTAWA (CP)—The parade of high-level Canadian Army officers was expected to continue today at the trial of a former vice-quartermaster - general of the army who is charged with accepting a benefit or advantage valued in excess of $8,000.

Brig. John Baxter Allan, 51, is being tried by a 12-man jury at the Carleton County general sessions of the peace.

Monday was taken up with argument on a second count against Allan alleging conspiracy to accept a benefit or advantage. On Tuesday, Judge Peter Macdonald ruled the charges must be heard separately and reserved decision on a defence motion to quash the conspiracy count.

Brig. Allan is charged with accepting the benefit or advantage, while a government official, between August, 1957, and May, 1963, at Ottawa and elsewhere in Ontario.

The indictment says the advantage or benefit arose from payment of hotel bills, for merchandise, and transfer of stock from Morris, Mark, Edward and Benjamin Levy, or one or more of them, who in their capacity as directors or agents of three Toronto firms had dealings with the government.

The Levy Brothers are charged with conspiracy in connection with the same case.

Tuesday a jury was chosen but the testimony covered only Brig. Allan's service postings and the workings of the quarter master-general's branch.

Maj.-Gen. Robert Rothschild, commander, materiel command, Canadian Army, who was quartermaster - general from August, 1962, to August, 1965, said the accused assisted him in making decisions on "future procurement and disposal of surplus equipment."

The vice - quartermaster-general could approve purchases from and contracts to firms "up to certain limits." He could deal with contracts "up to $50,000." These were for good, fuel, oil, lubricants, transportation and equipment for army stores.

OAS men gather for hemisphere conference

RIO DE JANEIRO (Reuters) Foreign ministers of 19 Western Hemisphere countries prepared today to try to develop what U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk has called "a very broad consensus" in solving inter-American problems.

Methods of strengthening the Organization of American States and its peacekeeping and mediation machinery topped today's opening-day agenda as foreign ministers of North, Central and South America got together for a special OAS conference that is expected to run into early December.

Rusk arrived here Tuesday night after a student in Montivideo, Uruguay, spat in his face during a demonstration in which student placards branded him "the murderer of Viet Nam and Santo Domingo."

Rusk tld reporters here he did not expect "final action" during this conference on creation of a permanent inter-American peace force, but it would be discussed. Such a force now is in Santo Domingo, and the U.S. wants it kept permanent.

He said the conference will deal with important matters "including social and economic development, peace and the rule of law."

TWO NATIONS ABSENT

Attending the meeting, besides the U.S., are: Argentina, Bolivia, Brazil, Chile, Colombia, Costa Rica, the Dominican Republic, Ecuador, El Salvador, Guatemala, Haiti, Honduras, Mexico, Nicaragua, Panama, Paraguay, Peru and Uruguay. Cuba and Venezuela were absent.

One sinks but no lives are lost

Five ships damaged in St. Lawrence

QUEBEC (CP) — Five ships were involved Tuesday in St. Lawrence River accidents which claimed no lives but damaged the vessels, sinking one.

On the river below Quebec City two pairs of freighters collided in fog and snow. One of the ships, the large Canadian ore carrier Lawrencecliffe Hall, sank in 30 feet of water.

A fifth vessel, the Greek-flag Protostatis which was being towed by three tugs, broke loose and ran aground off Wolfe Island near Kingston.

The Lawrencecliffe Hall, a 23,000-ton vessel, and the 6,000-ton freighter Sunek collided at 7:15 a.m. off Ile d'Orleans, 14 miles downstream from Quebec City.

The crew of the Lawrencecliffe Hall tried to beach the ship but had to give up the attempt and take to lifeboats with their captain, Devona Larose.

No injuries were reported by either ship.

Less than four hours later and 120 miles downstream from the site of the first accident, the 10,658-ton Soviet freighter Kosmonaut collided head - on with the 10,142-Spanish freighter Monte Urbasa.

SOVIET SEAMAN HURT

A Soviet seaman, Nikolai Pantalei, was seriusly injured when his cabin was smashed in the collision. He was taken to hospital in Quebec City where he was to be operated on today.

Both the Soviet and Spanish ships were still able to sail and were expected to arrive at shipyards at Levis, a Quebec City suburb, today.

The Kosmonaut had left Quebec City shortly after midnight Tuesday with a 14,000-ton load of grain destined for Odessa while the Spanish vessel had been on her way to Montreal on her maiden voyage.

The 7,500-ton Protostatis was on her way to drydock at Montreal. She was beached two weeks ago at Pointe Traverse, 30 miles west of Kingston. Officials expected the vessel to be refloated shortly.

The collision of the Lawrencecliffe Hall and the Sunek took place in heavy fog and snow.

Reports from the scene said the ore carrier, christened last April, was headed upstream from Port Cartier on the Gulf of St. Lawrence to Conneaut, Ohio, with a full cargo of iron ore and that she was struck on the starboard side.

Megantic-Montreal runs

CPR presents case for curbing service

A representative for the Canadian Pacific Railroad yesterday told a hearing of the Board of Transport Commissioners for the proposed discontinuance of two CPR passenger trains operating between Montreal and Lake Megantic, that the train service should be discontinued because not enough people are using the service, the line is too expensive to operate, and an alternative service with CNR or by bus is available.

The hearings at city hall are continuing today.

CPR spokesman J. E. Paradis said on train 202 the average number of persons taking the Montreal-Megantic train for 1962 was 81 persons per trip In 1963, 83 persons per trip used the train. In 1964, the year in which the service was first suspended, 86 persons per trip used the train. In 1965, 57 persons used the train per trip but this figure is for a seven-month period.

By KARL KRAMER

Those using train 203, Megantic-Montreal, in 1962 were 128 persons per trip; 1963, 122 per trip; 1964, 129 per trip; 1965, 76 persons per trip.

A witness for CPR Allan Brown, said that the estimated revenue for a year commencing April 1, 1965 until May 30, 1966 would be $142,900 while the expenses would come to $216,255. This, he said, would create a deficit of $73,400.

George Walsh, general CPR passenger agent in Montreal for the Atlantic region, said that Canadian National charges $2.60 on red days, $3.10 on white days and $3.50 on blue days. The Voyageur Provincial charges $3.45 by Route No. 1 or $3.70 via the Eastern Townships Autoroute.

Montreal-Megantic would cost via CPR $17.60 which is the same distance as Montreal-Quebec which only costs about $8. Mr. Walsh said that this was because CPR was in a competitive field.

Mr. Walsh said that the Montreal-Megantic train trip takes four hours and five minutes. The bus trip, which includes a change over from Voyageur Provincial onto Transcar, in Sherbrooke takes five hours and 15 minutes. A member of the audience hastily added that these times were only in good weather.

Time to travel, between Sherbrooke and Megantic was reported to be two and a half hours (by car). A similar figure for the bus was not given.

It was also noted that there were no shelters for the travellers while waiting for the bus.

But Mr. Walsh pointed out that there were drug stores, candy stores or delicatessen stores in principal points where passengers could wait. Only in Sherbrooke and in Lake Megantic is there a bus terminal.

Arthur Hand, general manager of CPR was asked if more people would use the CPR trains in winter rather than in summer. Mr. Hand replied, "I would not think so.

He was also asked if the number of passengers went down during 1965. Mr. Hand replied that a decrease resulted in the revenue but the number of passengers did indeed go up.

W. R. Burroughs, another one of the witnesses called by CPR,

Gets four months for passing bogus $20s

Another counterfeit money passer bit the dust in Sherbrooke court yesterday as the RCMP continues its investigations.

Sherbrooke resident, Roger Jolin, 35, of Sherbrooke was sentenced to four months in prison after he pleaded guilty to passing four bogus twenty dollar bills.

He passed three of the bills in the Hotel Albert, and one in the Lemelin Garage at 22 Bowen Street South. Both places are in Sherbrooke.

MARTINE VAN HAMEL AND LAWRENCE ADAMS IN PULCINELLA

National ballet revives colorful Stravinsky work

The latest offering of prolific young Canadian choreographer Grant Strate is a restaking of "Pulcinella." Mr. Strate is the resident choreographer of the National Ballet of Canada which will be seen here next Sunday, Nov. 21st at 2 p.m., in the University of Sherbrooke Auditorium.

"Pulcinella" was first performed in 1920 by the Diaghilev Ballets Russes with choreography by Leonide Massine and decor and costumes by Pablo Picasso. The idea for this ballet started with Diaghilev's discovery of some Pergolesi manuscripts. He commissioned Igor Stravinsky to arrange and orchestrate these into a ballet score, but Stravinsky did much more. The result was a fresh Stravinsky composition still dedicated to the style and intention of the original manuscripts. For a theme, Diaghilev unearthed a 17th-century Commedia dell'Arte manuscript, and Massine adapted this to the musical score. The collaboration of Stravinsky, Massine and Picasso created one of the most succesesful ballets of the Diaghilev repertoire.

For his National Ballet staging, Mr. Strate uses all of the main characters in the original scenario but he has changed the sequence of events to better suit the musical structure. In fact, very little of the old story is intact. By writing a new scenario, Mr. Strate was able to simplify the confusion of the plot and update the comedy. 'My main intention is to satisfactorily blend what appears to be improvised buffoonery and a comedy of errors with an elegant setting," Strate explains.

Canadian designer Mark Negin has set the decor and costumes for the new work and utilizes a unique "stage-within-the-stage" setting. Mr. Negin has used muted tones to accent the beauty and refinement of the true elegance of the Stravinsky music.

The plot of the ballet revolves around a traditional Commedia dell'Arte story. Pulcinella is a gentle-natured fellow, but ugly, who for some strange reason appears maddenly attractive not only to his sweetheart, Pimpinella, but also to two ladies of quality, Prudenza and Rosetta. These ladies have fathers, who, in the Commedia dell'Arte tradition, spend most of their time guarding their daughters against amour — unless, of course, money is involved.

Pulcinella is fought over, beaten and murdered. All the Pulcinellas of the world come to mourn at his funeral, but find to the surprise of all that no one is dead. In the end, of course, all turns out well. The two ladies are married to prosperous gentlemen, the fathers are happy, and, inevitably, Pulcinella is married to Pimpinella.

Rotary Foundation program said vital one

The Rotary Foundation program is not merely a worthwhile cause, but a vital one, editor-in-chief of the Sherbrooke Daily Record Hugh Doherty said last night at the New Sherbrooke Hotel addressing the Rotary Club which has recently set up a a Rotary Foundation sub-committee.

Originally begun in 1947 to award funds for travel and educational expenses for outstanding young people for graduate study abroad, the Rotary Foundation is branching into three new fronts—awards for technical training, group study exchanges and new experimental projects.

The program contains a blueprint for one of the most ambitious and most successful edifices of international goodwill ever constructed through private initiative, noted Mr. Doherty who travelled to New Zealand as a Rotary Fellow in 1956-1957 and is now a Sherbrooke Rotarian, and chairman of the Foundation sub-committee.

These are Fellowships for International Understanding a Rotary International publication, The Rotary Foundation Story states. "In co-operation with Rotarians of the country where he studies, the Fellow gains insights and contacts in all aspects of life and culture. He is given opportunities to share knowledge of his own country with many individuals and groups. Lasting friendships and mutual respect are born and carried back by the Fellow to his home country in the district which sponsored him."

"While in New Zealand, I travelled over 7,000 miles with the help of Rotarians in that country, addressed 51 Rotary clubs, one district assembly and 13 other organizations," Mr. Doherty said.

"On my return to Sherbrooke, I addressed 31 clubs in this area, one district assembly and eight other organizations."

"The most important comment I can make on the whole scheme is this: it works," he said.

The Sherbrooke Rotary Club is a 300 per cent contributor to the Rotary Foundation as the level of support is the equivalent of $30 per member. This club is one of only three in the district to have attained this level. The others are Burlington and Middlebury, Mr. Doherty explained.

In addition, the club has Doug Stevenson, a former international director of Rotary instrumental in setting the Rotary Foundation program in motion and a Paul Harris Fellow of the Foundation, he added.

The newly formed Rotary Foundation sub-committee in the club will set up a working operation to find suitable applicants for the fellowship program in this area, Mr. Doherty said.

As the meeting was service club presidents' night, presidents or their representatives of Sherbrooke and Lennoxville service clubs were special guests. Seated at the head table: were Andy Bruygom, Sherbrooke Optimists president; Bill Dowbiggin, Kiwanis Club president; Claude Begin, Lions Club president; Clarence Blake, Rotary Club president; Maurice Tanguay, Richelieu Club president; Jean Desharnais representing the Club des Francs president; Paul Bergeron, Canadian Progress Club president; Dr. Mac Salvas, past president of the Lennoxville Optimists; Doug Stevenson who introduced the speaker; Osgood Broadbelt who thanked him and Lyman Tomkins.

Complete purchase of regional school site

By J. EDWARD PERRY
(Director-general, ET regional school board)

At a meeting held on Thursday, November 11, the Regional Board completed arrangements for the purchase of the Norman Majury farm as a site for a regional school. Now that this major hurdle is over we hope that our plans will proceed with a minimum of delay.

Last week I received a letter. The writer was genuinely concerned about several basic problems and asked for answers in this column. Unfortunately the letter was not signed. I regret that anyone should feel the need to remain anonymous. We have expressed our willingness to answer questions and to speak to any group. Dialogue is still the best way of resolving problems. I shall attempt to answer this writer's questions but in the future will not reply to anonymous letters.

STATEMENT

"No one can or will say definitely that our very young children will receive a better education than our older ones have."

ANSWER

If the writer means by "very young children," those in the elementary school the answer is obviously outside my jurisdiction. Under regionalization pupils in the secondary school — that is those from Grade VII to XI — will go to the regional high schools while pupils in the elementary grades will remain pretty much where they are now. Our children will receive an education far superior to anything we have been able to provide before. We will be able to offer a superior academic course which will not require pupils to make choices between important subjects such as Biology and say Latin, Physics, or Geography.

They will have a choice of subjects which is presently denied them. In addition pupils will be able to explore various fields pertinent to our technological age. They will obtain as many basic subjects as they can handle in order to enable them to meet the uncertainties of the future. This cannot be done effectively in "existing facilities" as anyone intimately acquainted with them knows. Dr. Billings reiterated this in a speech delivered at Teachers' Convention.

I have visited many comprehensive schools during the past two months and am more firmly convinced than ever that we haven not begun to realize the potential of a comprehensive High School program. The members of the Parent Commission, and educational leaders throughout Canada and the United States have been most emphatic in their views about the potential advantages of this type of school.

Galt home

In yesterday's Record it was stated that Labor Minister Carrier Fortin said that the Galt Home might be preserved through funds from the Cultural Affairs Department by public subscription. This is incorrect. Mr. Fortin said the money might be obtained either through the Cultural Affairs Department or through public subscription.

Art exhibit is opened downtown

An exhibit of about 20 original oil paintings featuring Sherbrooker Jean - Claude Lefaivre opened yesterday in the Dufour Gallery at 184 Wellington Street North.

Mainly impressionistic with some abstract or realist styles, the paintings will be displayed daily including Saturday from 9 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. The gallery is owned by J. O. Dufour Ltd. and is situated in the Dufour store.

Subjects range from still-life to country and harbour scenes to portraits and include a Townships maple sugar camp by Mr. Lefaivre. Other artists exhibiting are Andre Besse, Constantineau, Gaucher, Noth, Milko, Mike Tol and Jozsef Osillag. Mr. Lefaivre is the only local artist displaying work.

Having painted for the past 15 years, Mr. Lefaivre has displayed his work in two other art exhibits during the past two years.

His works were shown with other local painters at the Howardene Residence Art Gallery and by the Beta Sigma Phi, a young women's group, in a solo exhibition.

His nine paintings shown presently at the Dufour Gallery were all painted during the past three months and show his versatility of style letting his inspiration rather than his technique lead him in painting.

C of C supports council

Jacques Lemieux, president of the Sherbrooke Chamber of Commerce, said this week that the Chamber is in full support of the newly formed Eastern Townships Economic Council. He made the statement at a meeting of the directors of the Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Lemieux said that it was evident that the Council rests on a solid base, and that all the areas it serves are well represented.

He added that the Chamber of Commerce had contributed considerably to the formation of the Council, and it was now the role of the Chamber to observe its activities, especially through their official delegate, Gontran Guillemette.

Mr. Lemieux announced the Chamber's support after Mr. Guillemette, president of the Study Committee which laid the foundations for the new council, had reported on the first general assembly of the Economic Council last week.

Mr. Guillemette reported the excellent representation at the assembly. He said that Sherbrooke, Magog, Lake Megantic, Bromptonville, Coaticook, Asbestos, Richmond, East Angus, Lennoxville, Windsor, and Cookshire, all sent delegates. There were also representatives from the Counties of Frontenac, Richmond, Stanstead, and Compton, as well as from the Economic Development Council of Frontenac County.

He noted also that the following organizations sent delegates: the Eastern Townships Chamber of Commerce, the Sherbrooke Chamber of Commerce, the ET Junior Chamber of Commerce, the Univeristy of Sherbrooke, Bishop's University, and a number of farmers' syndicates and cooperatives.

The next general meeting of the Sherbrooke Chamber of Commerce is scheduled for November 25, at the LeBaron Motel. The guest speaker at the meeting will be the Honorable J. Richard Hyde QC, the Provincial Minister of Revenue.

Plans made for sale and supper at North Hatley

NORTH HATLEY — A meeting of St. Barnabas Guild and W. A., was held in the Community Hall on the afternoon of Nov. 3. The president, Miss H. Ireland, lead the opening worship period with the three prayers, and reading from the Living Message, stressing the importance of faith in our lives today.

During the business session it was announced that several mite boxes had been turned in, also thank - offering envelopes. Pl[illegible] for the Christmas sale and supper on Nov. 20, were well in hand. The men of St. Barnabas Church will again, be in charge of the supper, the ladies of the Guild and W. A. being responsible for the dessert.

The following committees were appointed: Food table; Mrs. F. Auger, Mrs. M. Converse, and Mrs. C. S. Daintrey; Gift Table; Mrs. Scott, Mrs. W. Sutherland, Miss M. Riley and Mrs. M. Wynne; Candy; Mrs. [illegible], Sprigings; Poster and Advertising; Miss B. Odell, with decorations in charge of Mrs. A. Eke and Mrs. C. Coleman.

A letter was read from Mrs. Pennington, president of the Diocesan W. A., and also one from Mrs. Dickson, who is in Formosa, telling of the tragic disaster in a recent typhoon.

Following the business hour, Christmas cards were sold after which the hostesses, Mrs. Wynne and Mrs. Miller Hall served tea.

GENERAL NOTES

Rev. K. B. Monks and Mrs. Monks, Rosemere, Que., were weekend guests of Mrs. Richard Sprigings.

Mrs. Clive Reiz and two daughters, East Lansing, Mich., are guests of the former's mother, Mrs. L. Heath.

Old - time styles are modelled at Granby meeting

GRANBY — A fashion show, featuring styles of by - gone era, was presented at the monthly meeting of The Church Women's Association of St. George's Anglican Church, held Nov 4 in the Parish Hall.

The many dresses, suits, coats, hats, and even high buttoned shoes, of former days brought a feeling of nostalgia to the older group and amusement to the younger set.

The models were Mrs. N. Frost, Mrs. G. Whitehead, Mrs. A. Hasley, Mrs. E. F. Davidge, Mrs. G. Archer, Mrs. Peter Lawrence and Mrs. R. Graham who also acted as commentator. Mrs. Davidge, dressed in a costume of 100 years ago, was at the piano.

The costumes were the property of the Granby Little Theatre and the group expressed thanks to Mrs. Claud Nelthorp for making possible the showing of the very ancient costumes.

As the styles were shown, songs of that particular period were sung by the audience.

A short business meeting preceded the fashion show, when plans for coming events were discussed.

ASBESTOS

The many friends of Mrs. John Cowdrey, Manville Street, who underwent surgery at the Sherbrooke Hospital, will be pleased to hear she has returned home.

Mrs. Richard Hull, Nicolet Street, is spending a few days with her daughter, Mrs. Hilda Beauregard, and family, New Richmond.

The tea and fall bazaar of the United Church was held on Nov. 6. Both the bake table and fancy work table were attractions. The fish pond held many surprises for the children, as well as the white elephant table, which was in charge of the young girls. Proceeds were satisfactory.

LISGAR

Mr. Jimmy Johnston, Macdonald College, Ste. Anne de Bellevue, spent the weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Johnston.

Mr. Gilbert Henderson, Pembroke, Ont., was calling on Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Fleming.

Mr. Gary Gunter, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Gunter, Kevin, Sherry, and Penny, Montreal, were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Gunter.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Coote, baby Carol Ann, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Mace and family in Drummondville.

Golden wedding celebration held at North Hatley

NORTH HATLEY — Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gagnon were guests of honor at a surprise party, held Oct. 17 at the home of Mrs. Vernon Wilson, to celebrate their golden wedding anniversary. Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Patrick Gagnon were the hostesses.

The livingroom was attractively decorated with gold and white streamers and gold 50s.

On entering Mrs. Gagnon was presented with a corsage of carnations and, with Mr. Gagnon, was escorted to a lace-covered table, which was arranged with a three-tier wedding cake, golden candles and gold mums. Tea was poured by Mrs. H. Halligan and refreshments were served by the hostess.

A purse was presented to the guests of honor by a nephew, Albert Gagnon.

Among those present were were Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Gagnon and three sons, David, Steven and Bryan, Mrs. Elizabeth Rodney, of Waterville, 86-year-old sister of the groom of 50 years, and a friend, Miss Alice Colt, who had attended the wedding.

The 50 relatives attending included sisters, nieces and nephews of the honored couple. The guests were from Montreal, St. Cesaire, Waterloo, Waterville, Coaticok, Disraeli, Sherbrooke, Magog and North Hatley.

Ulverton church group meets

ULVERTON — The Florence group met in the Church vestry on Nov. 9.

Mrs. F. Doyle opened the meeting with prayer and Mr. J. Stokoe gave the Scripture reading.

Mrs. Doyle gave a report on the two orphan children, which this group sponsors. She also gave an interesting report on the World Vision Korean Orphan Choir, which she attended in Montreal in October.

Mrs. U. Massey and Mrs. A. Dunn are to look after purchasing cloth to be made into a quilt.

Mr. J. Stokoe closed the meeting with the benediction, after which refreshments were served.

Brown's Hill

Miss Vicki Mosher spent a few days visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Johnston in Stanstead.

Mrs. George Butler, accompanied by her aunt, Miss Lena Gustin, of Ayer's Cliff, were visiting Mrs. Ora Gill in Rock Island recently.

Recent callers of Mr. and Mrs Cuyler McGillivray and Wayne were: Mr. and Mrs. Turner, Montreal; Mrs. Bobby Leith and daughter, Cassville; Mrs. Billy Leith. Miss Brenda Turner and Mr. Murray Thompson, all of Ayer's Cliff.

Sympathy is being extended to Mrs. Alice Huntingdon, Rock Island and Mr. Fred Dunn in the loss of their sister, Miss Jennie Dunn, whose death occurred at the Sherbrooke Hospital on Nov. 1, in her 77th year. Miss Dunn had lived all her life on the family farm, and will be greatly missed by her neighbours.

ST. ARMAND —

Mrs. Lionel Courchesne spent several days in St. Johns at the home of her son-in-law and daughter Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Regnier while Mrs. Regnier was a patient in the St. Johns Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Wade, Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Wade and Mrs. G. L. Kidd were in St. Lambert recently to a party given by Miss Barbara Seale on the occasion of her parents' Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Seale's 25th wedding anniversary.

How to preserve city's Galt home

Positions have changed with startling rapidity on the use of centennial funds for preservation of the Galt Home in Sherbrooke.

It wasn't too long ago that Labor Minister Carrier Fortin, in a letter to council, informed the city that the secretary of the province, who has jurisdiction over provincial centennial projects, found the Galt home was a suitable centennial project, and therefore eligible for centennial funds.

Now, it apears, discussions between the mayor and Mr. Fortin have resulted in the joint opinion that the Galt home is not, after all, a suitable project upon which to spend municipal centennial funds.

Instead, Mr. Fortin has suggested that money for renovation and preservation of the home come either from the Cultural Affairs department, through the Quebec Historic Sites and Monuments Commission, or through public subscription.

The first step in this process is to get the home declared an historic site through Quebec Order-in-council, which, in effect, means that no one can do anything to the house until the appropriate government authority has decided what to do.

Why this kind of an approach was not suggested in the first place is not clear. Nor has anyone in authority adequately explained yet why the Galt home would not be suitable as a centennial project.

In any case, it now seems clear that one way or another, the Galt home will be preserved. And that, for the moment at least, is the most important consideration.

If financing of the home's renovation and preservation is not to come from centennial grants, then provincial financing under methods available to official historic sites might well be the best way to proceed.

If, however, it comes to a public subscription, there may be some hesitation.

The public may then well wonder why it is being asked to donate money voluntarily to a project which had appeared to be eligible for $100,000 already "donated" in the form of taxes.

Where every single vote counted

Pending a judicial recount that could change the result again, Liberal Louis-Paul Neveu has been declared Member of Parliament for Shefford County thus ending one of the most dramatic election races in Canadian history.

The unusual feature is not that Mr. Neveu won by a slim margin of 45 votes over his closest rival, Conservative Paul Trepanier. Other Members of Parliament have been elected by smaller margins, including Hon. Paul Martineau who captured Pontiac-Temiskaming in 1963 by a single vote — that cast by the returning officer to break a tie which resulted from the final tabulation of the votes cast.

Rather the race may make something in the way of history because three candidates, Messrs. Neveu, Trepanier and Creditiste Gilbert Rondeau, were all in the race until the last minute with the final count showing only 61 votes between the first and third candidates.

And the close finish also shows the importance that may be attached to the entry of a weak candidate.

An Independent Liberal garnered 514 votes, less than two per cent of the total vote in the riding.

But for a time it appeared that his vote would mean the difference between victory and defeat for the official Liberal.

Without knowing the reasons behind the entry of the Independent Liberal it is reasonable to assume that his share of the vote would have gone to the official Liberal, which would have meant the election of Mr. Neveu long before the service vote was counted.

And the final count is a warning to those rather lazy voters who believe that one ballot more or less does not make any difference.

Had any one of the three top candidates in Shefford received one more vote per poll, the outcome might have been very different.

Too much or too little in welfare

Proposed rewriting of the social assistance laws in Quebec province as proposed by Welfare Minister Rene Levesque may sound something like a return to the means test, so deplored by most proponents of the welfare state, but somehow or other the plan makes an unusual amount of common sense to the average individual.

One of the chief complaints against many of the welfare programs now in operation is that payments are made without any relation to the resources and needs of the recipients or to their contributions where the plans are contributory.

Allowances are made on the basis of so much a head. As a result persons with substantial financial resources are recipients of state aid they do not need and perhaps do not really welcome. On the other hand needy citizens are given aid substantially below the subsistence level.

Typical of this is the family allowance plan. Each family receives a flat payment of so much per child. For the well-to-do parent the family allowance cheque represents additional income that is not needed. But to parents in the low-income group, whom the allowances were supposed to aid, the payments are insufficient to do any good.

It is doubtful if any man in the low income group would be enabled to keep his child in school for an additional year because of the $100 allowance from the government. And it is equally doubtful if any parent in the high income groups would withdraw his child from school if the allowance were cancelled.

But the payment of such allowance on a sliding scale would permit adequate assistance for families in real need without any substantial increase in the drain on the public treasury.

Alberta views Harry Hay's defeat

Calgary Herald

The many capabilities of Mr. Harry Hays will now be missed in the political life of Calgary and Canada.

His defeat in Monday's election in Calgary South riding interrupts, temporarily at least, a political career begun relatively late in life but which was distinguished by the energy and selflessness devoted to it.

Mr. Hayes, not a polition by nature, had nothing to gain personally by entering politics. His years as mayor of this city, and later as member of Parliament and federal minister of agriculture, were characterized by the finest traditions of public service. As representative of Calgary South in Ottawa, his was an effective voice. As minister of agriculture, he made sure that Canadian agricultural products continued to sell in ever-greater quantities abroad. He was the author, too, of a national farm policy designed to make this country's agriculture industry healthier and more productive than ever.

The defeat of Mr. Hays is especially regrettable in that it not only removes a capable Calgary representative from the Ottawa scene, but it also leaves Alberta without a voice in the federal government.

It is unfortunate that the ends of politics are not always productive.

Mr. Hays, characteristically, has taken his defeat philosophically and in good grace. Perhaps he will decide to accept it simply as an interruption and not as an end to his political career. This city will be the chief gainer if he does.

REFUGEES TO INDIA

NEW DELHI (AP)—Government officials reported that 789,000 refugees entered India from East Pakistan in the 18 months since Jan. 1, 1964. They said most were Hindus, but added the total included 48,000 Christians and 20,000 Buddhists. East Pakistan is predominantly Moslem.

Sharp or Winters now?

Shift to right in Government result of Gordon's resignation

By HARRY HALLIWELL

Hon. Walter Gordon's resignation brings a shift to the right in the balance of power within the Pearson government.

Barring some unpredictable political adventure on the part of the Prime Minister, Mr. Gordon's voluntary stroll to the back benches strengthens the hand of the right-of-centre business-oriented members of the Cabinet, such as Hon. Mitchell Sharp, Minister of Trade and Commerce, and Hon. C. M. Drury, Minister of Industry.

They will undoubtedly soon be joined in the inner circle of the Cabinet by Hon. Robert Winters.

Mr. Gordon was a successful businessman before he entered public life and businessmen generally welcomed his ascent to the seats of power in 1963.

But his economic nationalism, telegraphed in his Report on Canada's Economic Prospects and in his book, Troubled Canada, came to dominate his policies.

In his attempts to repatriate control of the Canadian economy he did not hesitate to use the powers of government, too often unwisely. His honeymoon with business was brief. Most businessmen were alienated by the attempt in his June, 1963, budget to place discriminatory taxes on foreign investment and the decision to lift the exemption from the 11 percent sales taxes formerly permitted on new construction and equipment.

He quickly backed down and softened the impact of both, but his departure from the norms of the business world was established.

Later he further undermined business confidence in his abilities by measures to protect the Canadian magazine industry, to prevent foreign ownership of newspapers and to restrict growth of a foreign-owned bank, the Mercantile Bank of Canada. He also planned a publicly-sponsored billion-dollar Canada Development Corporation.

Business came to regard him as dangerously "left wing" or "socialistic" in his economic philosophy, although perhaps in the protective nature of his measures he is closer to the 19th Century Conservative philosophy than anything else.

The possibility that Prime Minister Pearson will entrust the Finance portfolio again to a member of the economic planning wing of the Liberal Party seems remote in the extreme.

This sector of the Parliamentary Liberal group is made up chiefly of the "new guard" members from Quebec. It includes Hon. Maurice Sauve, Minister of Forestry, Jean-Luc Pepin, and the "three wise men" recruited in the recent campaign—Jean Marchand, Gerald Pelletier and Pierre-Elliot Trudeau.

Two men are obvious front runners for the portfolio.

One is Mr. Winters, former Minster of Public Works, defeated in 1957, now a highly successful businessman as chairman, president and chief executive officer of Rio Algom Mines Ltd., and officer or director of several other firms.

The other is Mr. Sharp, whose transition from bureaucrat to ministerial rank was punctuated by a term as vice-president of the big, Canadian-dominated, international corporation, Brazilian Traction, Light and Power Company Ltd.

Assuming there is any real substance to businessmen's hopes that Mr. Sharp would be at least a couple of good strides ahead of him on the way to the Department of Finance. The portfolio has been the political graveyard of many Prime Ministerial hopefuls—Hon. J. L. Ilsley, Hon. Douglas Abbott, Hon. Walter Harris and Hon. Donald Flemment would represent a closing, to mention four.

In either case, the appointment would represent a closer orientation towards business and towards continentalism in economic policy.

It would also indicate that the Government hopes to draw support from the free-enterprise Social Credit Party and Creditistes in order to stay in power.

Should the Prime Minister venture to appoint another planner — an extreme outside chance—it would indicate he hopes to get the support of the NDP.

We'll know for certain when the writs are returned. (TNS).

The readers say:

Letting vandals go harmful to them

Dear Sir:

In the Nov. 11 issue of the Sherbrooke Daily Record there is a news item; "Cars smashed by vandals at Stanbridge East," which brings to mind a controversy in your paper of some two or three years ago when lawyer Levesque of Bedford, Que., wrote you a letter condemning the behaviour of the teenagers of Stanbridge East.

There was great indignation expressed verbally and in letters to your paper by several of the parents of our teenagers at that time. In view of what has happened in this supposedly quiet little village since then. I am wondering if some of those same parents, now, do not feel like eating humble pie. It is a strange thing that these parents do not have intelligence enough to realize that by upholding their children in wrongdoing, they are eventually sending them out into the world with two strikes against them.

The kids are smart enough to know that if they can get away with petty misdemeanours; (although smashing over one thousand dollars worth of car windows and windshields is no petty misdemeanour) their parents will still come to their rescue if they get into more serious trouble. Do not the big majority of criminals get their start by not being properly punished when they commit their first minor infractions of law and decency? Records prove that they do.

One of the prime reasons why these kids are not punished is that it costs an individual so much to prosecute these cases in court that very few of them can afford it.

Why do our provincial and federal governments not give us a similar law as exists in the U.S., whereby the State takes over and absorbs the costs of the trial? If they did our Quebec courts would be so jammed with cases that it would be more disgusting than the situation is at present no doubt.

Another reason is, that the public gets very little cooperation from our provincial police. You call them, they will come and make a preliminary investigation and usually that is the last that you will hear from them, unless you keep calling again and again.

The next reason that these kids are not prosecuted is, fear of retaliation to the ones who suffer the damage. If the victim happens to be a storekeeper and he knows who the culprit is he is afraid to prosecute because no doubt the kids parents turn out to be among his best customers and he would lose valuable trade; so he suffers on and on.

Come on parents, if we love our kids as we profess to, let's make a start here in Stanbridge East, by giving them a better start in life; not by upholding them in acts of destruction and vandalism but by teaching them that they must respect the law and other peoples rights or suffer the consequences. Perhaps our local authorities will give us a helping hand. Failing this, maybe a few trips to the woodshed (if you find one anymore) will supply the remedy. Help us to keep our town from getting a worse reputation than it enjoys at present, which is bad enough.

Signed,

MELBORO — The last meeting for the season of the "Willing Helpers" Mission Band was held in the Melboro Consolidated School Friday afternoon, November 9, under the leadership of Mrs. Lorne Ames.

There were thirteen members present, Winnifred Booth presided, and the meeting opened with the hymn, "Jesus Bids Us Shine," followed by the "Mission Band Purpose", repeated in unison. The roll call was answered by reading a favorite part of the story "Tommy Two Wheels."

Hibernating wasteful

Winter works no snow job

By GEORGE GRAHAM

Every year at about this time, Canada starts settling into an unnecessary — and vitally wasteful — hibernation.

The bill for this winter snooze runs to $300,000,000 and more, according to the Royal Bank of Canada. The loss in jobs is 250,000 at the period of peak unemployment.

The Royal Bank says in its Monthly Letter that this annual depression is largely avoidable.

"We are victims of a pattren of thinking that belongs to the days when Canadians settled comfortable into hibernation once the snow fell."

Admitting the impossibility of ending seasonal rise and fall in employment, the bank said that even a one-third reduction would have a substantial impact on the economy.

"The $90,000,000 which this would represent could: 1) put 24,000 persons to work full time for a full year; or 2) build 7,500 single unit dwellings at $12,000 per unit; or 3) put 15,000 students through a four-year university course on scholarships of $1,500 a year; or 4) increase the investment in schools or other educational institutions by 30 per cent for one full year . . ."

The bank urged all Canadians to help fight winter unemployment.

TECHNOLOGY

Pointing out that advanced technology has largely overcome the difficulties of winter operations in such industries as construction, the bank observes that many projects which could be done in winter are held over to summer because of habit established by the pioneers.

But the bank said Canadians are approaching the problem constructively. The monthly letter praised the National Employment Service winter work program and urged all Canadians to pitch in and help.

"There are approximately 4,500,000 householders in Canada. In most of their houses there is work to be done requiring the services of skilled or unskilled tradesmen . . . jobs that it is practical and economical to have done in winter.

NOT FELT YET

"Winter employment is everybody's business," the bank declares. "The health of all business depends upon keeping earners at work."

The impact of seasonal unemployment has not yet been felt this year.

The latest Dominion Bureau of Statistics figures — for mid-October — show unemployment down to 171,000 from 176,000 the previous month, a one-third decline from the same period a year ago.

But the Canadian Manufacturers, Association expects unemployment to climb to 4.5 per cent next year from this year's 2.7 per cent. in October.

The estimate was based on a survey of CMA Industrial Economists Forum members, who are economists and markets research specialists employed by firms within the CMA.

Canada's present economic picture reflects the general prosperity of the country the result of new techniques developed to combat the climate and the impact of Government and private efforts to promote winter work.

DBS said employment rose between September and October by about 25,000 to 7,008,000. In previous years, employment has tended to fall at this time of year.

In mid-October, employment was still heading upwards. A government survey showed 7,179,000 employed — 204,000 more than a year ago.

TODAY IN HISTORY

The modern Suez Canal was officially opened 96 years ago today—in 1869—15 years after Ferdinand de Lesseps had been authorized to start work. The first canal had been dug about 2000 BC and had been periodically restored until after the Mohammedan conquest. The French venture was opposed by Britain at first, and work on the canal was stopped more than once. However, in 1869, Queen Victoria received de Lesseps in London and Britain later bought shares in the international venture.

Second World War

Twenty-five years ago today—in 1940 — air fighting continued over London and small units of the RAF bombed the Ruhr industrial region and Lorient naval base in France; Port Gentil, in French Equatorial Africa, surrendered to Free French units.

The PRAYER FOR TODAY FROM The Upper Room

I have fought the good fight, I have finished the race, I have kept the faith. (II Timothy 4:7, RSV).

PRAYER: O God, when we fall into troubles and difficulties, help us to keep the faith. Thou hast promised to be with us, and many have testified to the wonderful way in which Thou hast sustained them. May we also feel Thy presence. In Jesus' name we pray. Amen.

Waterloo Hospital officially opened

WATERLOO — (Special) — At the official opening of the Waterloo Hospital on Sunday the keynote was pride and satisfaction by the whole community for "Mission Accomplished." Waterloo wanted this hospital, worked for it, gave for it and now has it.

About 200 people visited the new hospital that afternoon and each individual expressed his or her delight at the building now open to receive the chronically ill and convalescent. The beautiful, spacious rooms looking over the hills were bright and shining. Several beds are already filled and work is in full swing.

At exactly 2:30 p.m. the master of ceremonies, Claude Gauthier, President of the Private Hospital Association, started the proceedings. Rev. Canon Roland Frigon blessed the new hospital and declared it officially open. Rev. Allison Haley made a prayer of dedication. Jack Buckland, chairman of the Protestant School Board, was called on for a few words on behalf of the English community and Armand Russell, M.P., Mayor of Waterloo, spoke in French to express the congratulations and good wishes of everyone. Father Girard, Director of Social Agencies of Quebec, brought greetings.

Fred Marsh, general contractor, ceremonially handed the key to the Waterloo Hospital to George Courville. Mr. Courville thanked all who had supported him and his wife in so many ways. The encouragement and generosity of the people had made this dream a reality, he said.

A tour of the building was taken by the visitors present. Baskets of chrysanthemums and stocks, gifts of a friends, were in standards at the entrance. Bouquets of fresh flowers were on the desk and tables in the reception room. Each patient was the recipient of a beautiful corsage or boutonniere from a thoughtful friend.

Tea was served in the dining room which was attractively arranged. The tea table covered by a white linen cloth held a large floral arrangement of orange and white pompom chrysanthemums, gift of a friend. Orange candles in silver candelabra completed the decor. Mrs. Vivian Courville and Mrs. Pearl [illegible]merville poured. Mrs. Courville assisted in receiving by Mrs. Norman Moore and Mr. [illegible]ore.

MASTERING ART OF CANING — These adults at the Missisquoi Community School for Adult Education are mastering the art of caning which consists of weaving seats from rushes. They are using their own chairs, some of which have been in the family well over 50 years. As well as caning they often completely renew the furniture by scraping, resurfacing, varnishing, and thereby returning the furniture piece to its original elegance. There were about 18 persons in Thursday evening's class and the weekly class is well attended. There are approximately 15 different courses in all and this is the 25th session of the school which is held in the Cowansville High School. Students are left to right Mrs. J. F. Meunier of Cowansville, Mr. Meunier and Mrs. J. B. Moore, Fordyce. (Record photo by Studio Eclair)

Bedford notes

Folk song mass enjoyed

BEDFORD — (Special) — On Sunday St. James Church was filled to capacity on the occasion of the presentation of The American Folk Song Mass. Members from Montreal joined members of the congregation of St. James Church for the service which opened with the processional hymn, Jesus Christ is Risen Today.

Musical instruments used at the service were guitars instead of the traditional organ music. Among hymns sung were, How Sweet and Holy, Where Have All the Flowers Gone? and during Communion, Blowing in the Wind and Cum Ba Ya. This was the first time that the group had sung at St. James Church. Last summer they took part in a similar service ata St. James Church, Stanbridge East. It was the opinion of all those attending Sunday that the service was most fitting, the singing was excellent and the guitar music furnished a most pleasing background to the hymns.

The American Folk Song Mass was written by the Rev. Ian Mitchell a priest of the Diocese of Chicago in the Episcopal Church of the United States. It follows in the tradition of Father Geoffrey Beaumont's 20th century folk mass in swing style and Father Patrick Appleford's Mass of five melodies in mild rock rhythm composed by these two well-known Anglican prests in England. The use of guitars instead of organ is in keeping with a custom in parish churches in England in the 19th century, when flute and horn-players were used prior to the adoption of organ music.

Rev. Peter Hannen of St. James Church, Stanbridge East was the preacher, and spoke on the importance of adopting features, which will add to the beauty of church services and to endeavour to incorporate into the church new ideas which will further the work of the church.

The drive for funds for Caritas was very successful here. The sum of $2,151 was collected which was well over the objective of $2,000. Both French and English canvassers for the project worked hard.

On Sunday, Nov. 28 the annual visit of the representative of the British and Foreign Bible Society will take place. This year the service which alternates between the Anglican and United Churches will be held in St. James Church with Rev. T. Dale Jones as speaker. Also on this Sunday a corporate service of Holy Communion will be held in St. James Church at 8 a.m. for members of the Women's Auxiliary in commemoration of St. Andrew's Day. This will be followed by breakfast in the parish hall.

Border C.W.L. making plans for Yule party

STANSTEAD — Our Lady of Mercy Council, C.W.L., met Nov. 9 at the home of Mrs. Nora Sigouin where the president, Mrs. Helen Bushnell, conducted the opening session with prayers and additional prayers for the deceased members.

A High Mass will be sung this month for the souls of the deceased members.

Mrs. Catherine Fregeau agreed to act as spiritual convener

The annual Christmas banquet will be held on December 14 at the Del Monty Hotel with a dinner at 6:30 p.m. Mrs. Mirielle Masse will be convener of arrangements and Mrs. Fregeau will phone the membership. In place of a gift exchange, gifts will be brought suitable for patients at Youville Hospital in Sherbrooke. Tentative plans are to have a speaker at the party. The business meeting will follow the dinner.

At a previous meeting, held at the home of Miss Madeleine Poisson $20 was voted to the care of an Asian child, a diocesan project.

The $50 bond sold by the Council went to Mrs. Clarence (Elma) Smith of Beebe, the lucky ticket being drawn by Albert Fregeau, mayor of Rock Island and friend of the Council.

STUDENTS TOUR SHERBROOKE PLANT — Twenty-seven students of the Institut de Technologie (the Institute of Technology) with their, Prof. R. Dubois visited the Canadian Ingersoll-Rand Company recently. The tour of the plant which included the reproduction section of the company was of special interest to the students. Duplicating machines of various types were seen in actual operation by the students. The tour was arranged by C. H. Kuntz, industrial relations manager. Shown in the photograph from left to right are: R. Lessard, R. Berube, W.T.M. Edwards, supervisor of safety and security at the company, Professor R. Dubois, R. Irrigation turns Rhodesian desert to economic and political fertility

HIPPO VALLEY, Rhodesia (CP)—"This earth was dry as dust, semi - desert stuff. Now when we show it to a visiting farmer, he wants to get down and eat the ruddy stuff."

That was the earthy way in which Barry Day, 49, general manager of Hippo Valley Estates Ltd., described a transformation taking place in this southeast corner of Rhodesia, near the Portuguese Mozambique border.

A vast irrigation scheme is causing arid bushland to burst into bloom in the Lowveld, the lowest-lying and hottest section of Rhodesia on the outer edge of the tropical zone.

Hippo Valley is one section of the development in which the irrigation potentialities of the Sabi and Limpopo river valleys are being exploited in a scheme with key importance in Rhodesia's economic—and political—future.

"All this was bushland 18 months ago," said Day, gesturing toward a field of lush sugar cane. "We cleared 200 to 300 acres a day."

Officials took a reporter on a tour of the 100 miles of concrete-lined canals that carry water from a series of dams—the Kyle dam alone is 207 feet high—that irrigate everything from cane to orange trees.

"It's our biggest development by far since the Kariba dam unleashed the power of the Zambezi River on the border between us and Zambia," said P. J. Stanbridge, 34, planning officer for the Sabi - Limpopo Development Authority.

HAS LARGE TASK

Over-all development of the region of 800,000 acres covering one-quarter of Rhodesia is the responsibility of the authority, which has a considerable degree of autonomy.

"It's one of the biggest projects in Africa, ranking with the Aswan High Dam in Egypt," said Stanbridge.

A total of £350,000,000 is expected to be spent in a 25-year phased program in the joint enterprise of government and private investment.

"We will be authorized to go overseas to raise capital," said Stanbridge, mentioning such countries as Italy, West Germany and France as well as Britain. Canada also was a possibility as an investment source.

Population of the area now is about 100,000 but "we expect the total irrigation scheme will support a population of 1,500,000, mostly Africans, at a reasonable standard of living," said Stanbridge.

"We see the construction of a dozen townships, roads, railways."

The Sabi-Limpopo story is the sort of frontier yarn beloved by Rhodesians who take pride in recalling their pioneer days of derring-do. It started 50 years ago when Tom MacDougall, a tough Scots immigrant, formed the idea of growing sugar on the Lowveld although the crop requires a humid climate and the area receives only 16 inches of rainfall a year.

FACED TOUGH OBSTACLES

MacDougall and a group of unskilled Africans, wielding picks and shovels, cut an eight-mile canal, sometimes through sheer granite kopjes, or hills. Hippopotami sometimes interfered with their work and lions slept through the day in their vegetable patches. MacDougall's feat led to larger-scale efforts that began at nearby Triangle 25 years go and here eight years ago.

Climbing the huge, bottle-shaped baobab trees—"cream of tartar" trees—that serve as lookout towers for fires, you can observe large sections of the 65,000 acres already under irrigation.

Day said it is hoped to feed 70,000 cattle on byproducts of the crop which besides sugar cane include cotton, wheat, tobacco, fibre products, lucerne, citrus and soybeans.

Stanbridge predicted the area would compete with Kenya in export of high - grade coffee and with Tanzania in seed beans.

A visiting reporter found politics and the racial question to be the chief topics of discussion in Rhodesia. But these subjects were hardly mentioned during a day spent in this bustling area of airstrips, construction sites, sugar plants and distilleries.

"We never talk about it," said one hawk - eyed official, John Salt, driving his car at breakneck speed over a molasses-wetted road.

"Oh yes," he added with a smile. "There was one thing. I showed a movie to the Africans one night of a raid on a Cuban sugar factory. Some people thought this wasn't wise — it might give the natives ideas, you know.

"And the Africans did make trouble. They complained because I didn't show a Western instead. We love Westerns here."

Scotstown pastor, wife welcomed by W.A. group

SCOTSTOWN — The St. Alban's Anglican Woman's Auxiliary held its November meeting at the Parsonage, home of Captain and Mrs. Ronald Smith. Capt. Smith opened the meeting with prayer and Litany.

President, Mrs. Basil Woolley, welcomed Capt. and Mrs. Smith, expressing good wishes, and hoping they would be happy in their new home in Scotstown.

1966 W.A. Calendars have been received; several members purchasing them at the meeting.

Mrs. Atkin, Living Message secretary, was instructed to order the 1966 Livin. message for the members.

The W.A. members will sponsor the Candy Table at the Guild Christmas sale on November 26 in the Church Hall.

The hostess served refreshment, assisted by Miss Judy Parsons.

The December meeting will be held at the home of Miss Judy Parsons.

BRIGHAM

Armistice Sunday was observed by a special service of Remembrance at Brigham United Church by the placing of wreaths in memory of the Veterans of World War I and II. Mr. Borden Ingalls and Major Denis Wilkinson assisted at the service.

About Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Another victim of the ratings game quietly bit the television dust Monday. It will be mourned, partly for what it tried to bring to television but mostly for what will take its place.

The program scheduled for extinction is a high-minded interview show, ABC's The Young Set.

The program came at an hour —11 a.m. EST to noon—when the two rival networks are filled with soap opera (NBC) and reruns of old Dick Van Dyke and Andy Griffith shows (CBS). Moderator Phyllis Kirk tried valiantly and often successfully to provide intelligent opinion and stimulating conversation.

Miss Kirk brought together specialists and personalities ranging from dog trainers to Dick Gregory. On one occasion this reporter tuned in on a session in which an Anglican bishop, a Roman Catholic priest and an agnostic were conversing. And Miss Kirk, who egged them on, had obviously done her homework.

PLAN GAME SHOWS

The Young Set dies Dec. 17. On Dec. 20, in come two half-hour game shows. One is called Supermarket Sweepstakes and will feature women bidding on items commonly found in stores. The winners will be turned loose in a self-service store to scoop up as much merchandise as possible within a time limit.

The second, Dating Game, will present eligible spinsters and bachelors after some sort of a computerized selection process.

On the casting front, ABC has replaced Edmond O'Brien — who walked out of its Long Hot Summer—with Dan O'Herlihy, last seen around regularly in that network's Travels with Jaimie McPheeters which lasted a short time a year ago.

The role of Will Varner, abruptly vacated by O'Brien, will be filled by the new actor without explanation. However, the role will be written out of two or three episodes to be broadcast before O'Herlihy's debut.

TURN TO GAS FUEL

The use of natural and coal gas in Britain is expected to increase by 75 per cent during the next five years.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Here's one politically-minded star who isn't thinking of running for office: Janet Leigh.

George Murphy has been elected to the United States Senate. Ronald Reagan is casting his eyes at the governorship of California. Wendell Corey is a member of the Santa Monica city council. Steve Allen announced he was running for Congress, but couldn't qualify.

With this and other political action among actors, it seemed possible that Miss Leigh might seek elective office. After all, she is a veteran campaigner and member of two government bodies.

The actress herself put a halt to such conjecture.

"Me run for office? No chance," she says.

"It would end my amateur standing. Now when I talk to gatherings about public issues, they believe me, because they know that there's nothing in it for me. But if I were to run for office, my motives would be suspect."

Miss Leigh has done some touring of foreign lands for the state department, and her service led to appointment to the Peace Corps advisory council.

"Then we pursue whatever aspect of the corps we are interested in," she explains. "I felt I could do some good in recruiting, and so I have made appearances at colleges. I also have been concerned with educational television in Colombia."

Her activity in state political matters also led to her appointment by Governor Edmund G. Brown to the state recreation commission.

Miss Leigh is not so stimulated by public affairs that she is giving up her career, however. She is co-starring with Jerry Lewis in the madcap's first adventure away from Paramount: Three on a Couch, filmed at Columbia.

She admits that politics hold a great deal of interest for her.

"It started back in 1952, when I did some campaigning for Adlai Stevenson," she recalls. "In 1960 I did a great deal of work for John Kennedy, and I also campaigned for President Johnson last year.

"I think it's a good sign when actors can be seriously considered for political office. That indicates the public is more mature than the times when the misdeeds of one actor would cause all of us to be labelled as immoral."

U.C.W. group to pack bale for overseas relief

COOKSHIRE — The Afternoon Group of the United Church Women, Trinity United Church met at the home of Mrs. Heatherington, with Mrs. MacRae presiding.

Miss Aleta Mackey was in charge of the devotional period.

Plans were made for sending the remainder of the allocation from the Prestyterial U.C.W., by packing a bale of good used clothing to be sent to Toronto for the United Church Overseas Relief. The required articles from this group, along with those of the Evening Group, have been sent to the Rev. C. W. Duquette in Quebec City.

A nominating committee was appointed to bring in a slate of officers for the ensuing year to the next meeting, which will be held at the Manse on Dec. 8th.

Final arrangements were made for the supper and sale, a joint effort of the two groups, set for Nov. 20. The ladies were asked to contribute handmade articles or food for the event.

At the close of the afternoon, the hostess served refreshments, assisted in serving by Mrs. J. Van Der Leden.

WHEN COMPETITION JUST DOESN'T PAY

France lost the 1958 European championship in a photo-finis when it lost the last-round match to the United Arab Republic.

Here is a key hand. When France held the North-South cards, they reached a three-spade contract and made it with an overtrick. We were not given their bidding but it is worthy of note that, while four spades is a cinch, there is not much ammunition in the North-South cards and they should not really be criticized for not getting to the game.

At the other table, the UAR stopped at two spades on the bidding shown in the box. We rather feel that they should not have stopped there. North had doubled the diamond opening with only 13 high-card points and 4, 3, 3, 3, distribution but he held three honors in spades, the possibly important ten and nine of clubs and the king of diamonds in back of the diamond bidder. Of course, his partner had passed originally but he had jumped to two spades at his next turn.

However, North passed and this made poor East the goat. He could have passed but he was sure that South would make two spades. He also did not see the danger that South could make four spades. He had 10 high-card points and they included three spades to the ace. Then, his partner had opened the bidding.

East felt he had to compete. He did bid three hearts and all bridge players will agree with his statement: "If I had my life to live over, I would have passed."

Suburbanite can't stand suburbia so he lampoons it from a distance

CALGARY (CP)—Sid Barron is a suburbanite who can't stand suburbia, a cartoonist who works for a newspaper published in Toronto but refuses to live there because he hates that city.

Readers of the Toronto Star who catch his cartoons on the editorial page can tell from the content that he doesn't think much of suburban living. But they'd hardly guess he lives in Calgary—his Toronto cartoons have an uncanny local flavor.

"About last spring I felt that Toronto was just about as crummy as I thought it was and suggested to the Star editors that I move out to Calgary and mail my stuff."

The 48-year-old cartoonist and painter had been living in Toronto's Don Mills — suburbia's suburbia — and the conformity got too much for him.

"All the people seemed to be executives. They all played golf and they all had power lawnmowers. I've been trying to get out of suburbia for a long time. We're back in it here but at least here we can look out the windows at the mountains."

Barron, his wife Maggie and their two children live in a neat home at the edge of Calgary's western suburbs. From their living room window they can see the rolling foothills that stretch west to the Rockies.

STRICTLY LOCAL

Barron, who also does some work for the Calgary Alberton, isn't a poltical cartoonist. His forte is suburban life. Into each cartoon he puts healthy amount of detail and plenty of labels. Inevitably there's a bored-looking cat, often with some catty comment to make. And there's almost always a rickety biplane towing a sign that, in Toronto, reads "Mild isn't it," and in Calgary says "Aren't the Mountains Pretty Today."

In one Star cartoon a woman approaches Harold one of the Barron regulars, at a bus stop and gaily asks: "Hi . . . I'm planning to marry for money . . . .Do you have a lot of money?" Harold and the other two men are all reading the same newspaper folded the same way. A sign on a factory reads, "Four - Square Piston Rings."

When a cartoon is for the Albertan, Harold becomes Ralph and the labels are changed to conform to the Calgary locale but the humor is much the same.

In one cartoon Ralph is stretched out in a camp cot in the Paddlecreek Oil Company office after returning from vacation. A fellow worker is saying to another employee: "Just got back from a two-week vacation in the Okanagan . . . the boss is good that way . . . puts in a cot and gives them a couple of days to adjust to reality." A sign on a bulletin board says: "Employees must refrain from free-lance drilling in their spare time. Thank you." One of the office staff wears a shirt button saying: "New Boy."

BORN IN TORONTO

Barron, who works in an office at the Albertan, has a subscription to The Star and gets many ideas from reading the paper. He makes regular trips to Toronto.

But he says certain themes of suburban life are applicable to any city in North America.

Barron was born in Toronto. His family moved to Victoria when he was 18 months old. Until he was 20 he worked off and on as a commercial artist in Victoria and Vancouver.

When a job as a commercial art teacher fell through, a relative at the Victoria Times suggested he try cartooning and in 1958 he was hired by the Times. He found "all those English people in Victoria" natural subjects for suburbia cartoons.

Refused a Canada Council grant in 1961 to go to Spain, he went anyway. He tried to paint but found the "colors and atmosphere" didn't help and decided to return to Canada.

He stopped in Toronto to see his old friends, Charles Templeton, then a Star editor, and Pierre Berton, a Star columnist at the time. Someone suggested he try cartoons for The Star. He began filling in when regular Star cartoonist Duncan Macpherson was out of town.

But his Don Mills neighbors scared him. He found "you could work in an office and get to know people but they would never ask you out to their home," and he was bothered by that old "driving obsession for money." And so the Barrons headed west to Calgary.

Religious liberty is theme of talk at East Angus

EAST ANGUS — The meeting of the Catholic Women's League, Our Lady of Lourdes, was held recently at the regular meeting place. Rev. G. Laliberte, spiritual director, addressed the gathering on the subject of religious liberty.

Final plans were made regarding the annual bowling party to take place Nov. 27 at the Domtar Club house. In charge of the afternoon bowling for children ages 4 - 12 is Mrs. R. Corriveau. Evening bowling for adults will be convened by Mrs K. Patton, Mrs. S. Lagueux, Mrs. B. Aulis, and Mrs. P. Bergeron.

In charge of the food sale and sale of articles are Miss. M. Palmer, Mrs. R. Hayes, Mrs. D. Cormier and Mrs. L. Larkin.

Mrs. R. Corriveau, for education, reported on the library and stated that members could show more interes. towards this project.

Miss M. Palmer reported that a mass would be said for the deceased soldiers of both world wars. Miss Palmer also discussed the matter of a retreat master for the annual retreat. Members agreed that Rev. St. Pierre be asked to preach it again this year.

Mrs. Lagueux reported that the UNICEF drive, in collaboration with the Women's Institute and the Ecole Labreque, had been successful.

Following the meeting, refreshments were served by Miss M. McCormick and Mrs. R. Hayes.

SCOTSTOWN

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Young and family, Laurie and David, and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Turner, Lennoxville, were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Burns MacDonald and family. Mr. and Mrs Young were also callers of Mr. and Mrs. George MacRitchie, and Mr. and Mrs. Turner called on Mrs. K. H. MacIver.

Mrs. Dannie Campbell is spending a holiday guest of her sister, Mrs. Andrew MacAulay, in Manchester, N. H. En route she was a guest of her sister and brother - in - law, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Kinsey in Newport, Vt.

Mrs. Philip Boy has returned home from Montreal, where she spent a few days with her husband, C. S. M. Philip Boy, a patient at Queen Elizabeth Veteran's Hospital.

Bringing Up Baby

HINTS COLLECTED BY MRS. DAN GERBER, MOTHER OF 5

If there's a second baby in the offing, it's a good idea to plan a few "away-from-home" visits for your first child . . . without you. An occasional afternoon at grandmother's, especially if cherub #1 is going to stay there when you're in the hospital. Or a few visits at a neighbour's house, possibly. In this way he'll get accustomed to your absence, probably won't feel your loss so keenly while you're away.

Early starter for the new baby will, of course, be specially prepared fruit juice . . . to provide vitamin C. Gerber Strained Orange Juice (now in handy "six-packs") or Apple Juice are both excellent starting juices for infants. Both are pleasing and mild. The Orange Juice is a natural source of vitamin C (ascorbic acid). Equal amounts of the vitamin have been added to Gerber Apple Juice. One can of either will give baby an ample supply of this important vitamin.

Advance plan. As baby gets a bit older, he (or she) will enjoy the 3 combination juice drinks also offered by Gerber. Try all three: Orange-Apple, Orange-Banana, Orange-Pineapple Drinks. Bonus in bliss!

Toddler tactic. Why not keep a supply of inexpensive toys on hand? Then, when gift-bearing callers come to admire the new baby, you can slip one of the toys to them to present to the older child. Does wonders for his (or her) sense of importance.

Golden treasure for baby's pleasure. Gerber Strained Egg Yolks are a sunny delight for any sprite. A creamy, custard-like texture and a delightful, fresh-egg flavour make for a truly happy mealtime surprise. What's the good word on nutrition? Gerber Egg Yolks provide iron and vitamin A, are a good source of protein. Delightful just by the spoonful or as a topping for baby's cereal.

Special nog treat for older tots: Blend a cup of milk with 2 tbs. Gerber Egg Yolks, 1 can of Gerber Orange Juice and 2 tsp. sugar. Nothing short of wonderful! Gerber Baby Foods, Niagara Falls, Canada.

Tex Coulter here

To be guest speaker at Traffic League "Carriers' Night" event

TEX COULTER

Tex Coulter, former Montreal Alouette All-Canadian tackle and one of Canada's outstanding painters, will be the guest speaker Thursday evening at fifth annual Canadian Industrial Traffic League which is taking place at the Le Baron Motor Hotel.

Mr. Coulter will talk about his football experiences at the annual Carriers' Night of the league. He is very well known throughout Canada as a player and now is considered as one of the top artists in sporting circles and has painted several outstanding sporting celebrities of Canada.

Coulter was born in Red Springs, Texas, a farming community in the Eastern part of the State. He was raised in Forth Worth, Texas He attended West Point where he was an All-American tackle in 1945. He played seven years with the New York Giants of the National Football League and was named twice as All-Professional tackle.

He joined the Montreal Alouettes under Peahead Walker and played four years of which he was named All-Canadian tackle for three years and the Lineman of the Year in Canada in 1955. He is married and has four children. He is presently working with CFCF radio station in Montreal and is kept busy with his paintings.

It is the first time he has ever spoke at the annual Canadian Industrial Traffic League and the local committee is pleased that he accepted the opportunity of coming to Sherbrooke to address the league on football.

Blue Bombers will see more of Eagle Day tonight, says coach Jerry Williams, to throw more WINNIPEG (CP)—If Winnipeg Blue Bombers feel they saw enough of Calgary quarterback Eagle Day last Saturday, Stampeder coach Jerry Williams has news for them.

Day, Williams says, was being "over-cautious" when the Stamps trampled the Bombers 27-9 in the opening game of the Western Football Conference final.

The coach promised Day will throw the ball with "more authority" when the teams meet tonight in the second game of the best-of-three series.

At Calgary Saturday, Day, with occasional help from stand-in Jerry Keeling, gained 176 yards passing, including a 53-yard touchdown pitch to Herman Harrison.

Williams, who brought his team to Winnipeg Tuesday, said he was concerned when Day completed only one of seven passes in the first half. The Stampeders led only 10-9 at three-quarter time when Day began clicking with his heaves to Harrison and flanker Bobby Taylor.

The Winnipeg fans and viewers on the CBC's national TV network can also expect to see plenty of the big-guns of the Calgary ground attack — fullback Lovell Coleman, recovered from an ankle bruise received in the first contest, and halfback Ted Woods.

If a third game is needed, it will be played in Calgary Saturday.

HARRIS WILL START

Williams said Wayne Harris, his middle linebacker and the newly-elected CFL Lineman of the Year, is a definite starter despite a groin injury.

Bombers linebacker Ken Maglicic will likely miss tonight's action with a sprained ankle. Maglicic's replacement would be Paul Robson who filled in for Maglicic during Saturday's game.

Although seven inches of snow have fallen since Sunday, the Winnipeg Stadium turf has been covered with tarpaulins and the field is expected to be in ideal condition—barring a last-minute snowstorm.

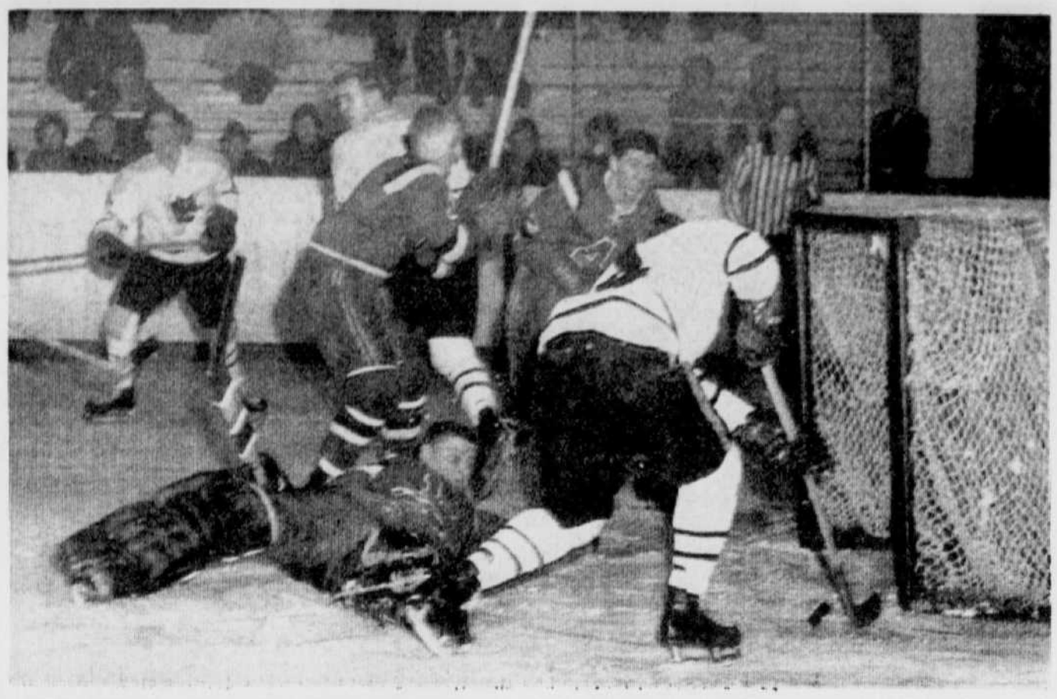
Beavers edge Tigers 5-3 in overtime



CLOSE CALL — Serge Aubry, Sherbrooke's agile netminder, is seen down on ice while Johnny Mentis, back to camera is set to flip the disc into the net but he hit the goal post and Aubry smothered the rebound to make the save. Cossette and Thibault are the Sherbrooke players standing by. It was one of the many close calls Serge Aubry had to contend with. Standing won 5-3 in overtime.

Locals forced to go all out to post win, tally two goals in overtime, Rene Pepin pots two

Two quick goals in the overtime decided the issue and the Sherbrooke Beavers were lucky to emerge with a 5-3 win over the Victoriaville Tigers at local Arena before 1,700 fans. It was the only game on tap in the Quebec Provincial Senior Hockey League.

The outcome was a costly one for the Beavers as they will lose the services of Playing Coach Georges Roy, who was handed a match penalty when he 'contacted' the referee during an argument over a decision. At the same time Rejean Richer tried to skate prior to game time but was obliged to withdraw as his leg failed to stand the going. Claude Cardin should be back by the weekend providing things check out well.

The Tigers presented a revamped lineup compared to their past few games. During the week they added Georges Bouchard on defense and Nelson Tremblay at centre. These two, besides several others from Quebec, gave the Beavers plenty of trouble.

Coach Roy had Larry Drouin with Bill Dupre and Rene Pepin while Real Rousseau filled in on the third line with Gilles Cartier and Kimo Hurtubise. Roy was forced to shift his lines in an effort to get the club going.

It was the worst game the Beavers have played for sometime but on the other hand the Tigers were giving them plenty of trouble. They fore checked well and for the first half the Tigers should have had a couple more goals.

Serge Aubry, although he handled only 28 shots during the fray, was obliged to extend himself in order to keep his mates in the game. The Tigers were close several times but they ran into a stone wall in Aubry, who was a standout.

Rod Gaudreault opened the scoring a couple of minutes after the faceoff when his long shot caught the corner as Maurice Grenier failed to cut off the angle. It was the only tally of the period. In the middle session the Tigers took over and Pichette and Tremblay put them out in front.

Pichette got his marker after taking his second rebound as the defense was occupied shoving other players and left him uncovered. It was the same case with Tremblay and he made no mistake. In the third period the Beavers came to life after two dull frames of hockey. Jean Levesque set up the first tally when he rifled a long shot and Larry Drouin got the rebound to tie the count.

A minute later the Tigers' defense forgot Rene Pepin in front of the net and he made no mistake to put the Beavers out in front for the first time in the game. It was a nice passing play with Kimo Hurtubise and Georges Roy.

At this stage the Tigers generally fold as they run out of steam but for a change they forced the play and kept Aubry hopping. Thibault went off and Rene Pepin and Bill Dupre were close but Grenier turned their effort aside.

A scramble developed in front of the Sherbrooke nets and Johnny Mentis batted the loose puck into the net over Serge Aubry. He had made a couple of close saves but finally the Tigers clicked. Following this the teams tried to break the deadlock but to no avail as the goalies were at their best.

In the overtime things happened. After three minutes of play Coach Georges Roy got sore at the referee for not calling a tripping penalty and jumped over the boards to chase the ump. His players and the linesmen kept him away and finally when the smoke had cleared away he was tagged with a match penalty for his little fracas.

Old reliable Rene Pepin broke the tie when he was put in the open from a Victoriaville ganging play and coasted in between the defense to let go with a high shot and that was it. Jean Levesque, who turned in a fine defensive game, came up with the insurance tally when he rifled a hard high shot to catch the upper right hand corner and it was all over.

Coach Sazio has problems, too many players

HAMILTON (CP) — Coach Ralph Sazio of Hamilton Tiger-Cats must feel a little like the old woman who lived in a shoe.

He has so many players he doesn't know what to do.

The Tiger-Cats carry a five-point lead into the second game of the Eastern Football Conference finals against Ottawa Rough Riders Saturday afternoon in Hamilton and Sazio is undecided what players he will dress.

Halfback Johnny Counts, who injured his ankle in the last game of the schedule against Toronto Argonauts more than two weeks ago, sat out the opening game last Sunday in Ottawa, won 18-13 by the Ticats.

SAT HIM OUT

When Counts was still on the limp, Sazio made the logical decision and sat him out as the 13th import. Rules in the Canadian Football League permit teams to carry 13 imports but to dress only 12 for each game.

With Counts on the bench, Sazio plucked Dick Cohee from the defensive backfield and inserted him on offence. Cohee responded by scoring one of Hamilton's two touchdowns in the second half that helped wipe out a 13-0 Ottawa lead at half time.

If Counts bumps Cohee back into the defensive backfield, Sazio will also have to figure out which import to go without.

The Ticats came up with the strongest defence in the EFC schedule this season and it's creating problems for Sazio at another position, too.

He doesn't know whether to use Herb Paterra or Bobby Kuntz at middle linebacker.

Paterra had the job to himself until he was injured in October in a game against Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

KUNTZ STEPPED IN

Sazio needed a replacement desperately at that stage, so he lured Bobby Kuntz away from his electro-plating business in Kitchener and back into uniform.

Simard paces St. Pat's to 66-36 victory

St. Pat's Old Boys, of the Eastern Townships Amateur Basketball Association, staged a rally last night at Lennoxville High School. And it was planned around their tallest guard, Louis Simard.

In defeating the Lennoxville Independents 66-36, the Old Boys opened up an early spread with Simard frequently cutting the strings. This 6'4" cager responded to team contributions with the major rebounds, securing ball control at both ends. By halftime, Simard had netted nine of the St. Pat's 32. The eventual winners led 32-15.

This wni puts St. Pat's high in the ETABA standings, having won two games and lost one. Thursday's action is at Bishop's, with the JV's hosting Bean Clippers, and at Rock Island, the home club meeting Sherbrooke University.

Besides Simard's total output of 24 points, playing-coach Mike Leveque netted 12, with Bill Taylor coming through for ten. Lennoxville's tops was Rick Beliveau, with 14.

The Old Boys, youngest team in the circuit, have applied their cage potential and abilities, and with more time in a unified effort, will be a tough competitor. Their youth enables greater speed and less fatigue on the court.

ST. PAT'S: Louis Simard 24; Mike Leveque 12; Bill Taylor 10; Dick Brown 7; Don Charlebois 7; Rick Valle 4; Serge Morin 2; and Don Kinsley. Total — 66.

LENNOXVILLE: Rick Beliveau 14; Vern Horsman 5; Grant Peak 5; John Wingeat 4; Bruce Hodge 3; Garth Smith 2; Jeff Dunn 2; Dick Matheson 1. Total — 36.

Braves top Juvenile loop, two tilts tonight

The Braves are holding down top place in the Sherbrooke Juvenile Hockey League according to the latest report released by Roger Therriault, league statistician. J. St. Cyr of the St. Charles Seminary is the top pointgetter in the circuit.

In the games played on the weekend Optimist posted a 3-1 win over the Aces while the Cardinals and the Seminary battled to a 2-2 deadlock. This evening another doubleheader is on the agenda with the Seminary meeting the Meteors in the 7:00 tilt while in the second fixture the Cardinals and the Aces meet.

S. Brodeur opened the scoring in the first period of the Optimist-Aces tilt at the start of the frame but M. Perron squared things when he tallied a few minutes later. In the middle stanza the Optimists went to the fore when J. Planche dented the twine just near the half-way mark.

M. Perron registered the insurance tally just before the closing of the period to give the Optimists a 3-1 lead. In the final frame there was no scoring and the game finished with the Optimists posting their first win of the season.

In the second game it was another close battle. There was no scoring in the first period although both teams had good chances owing to the heavy number of penalties but they failed to click. Six penalties were called.

In the second frame the Cardinals went to the fore on goals by R. Therrien and M. Grenier for a 2-0 lead. Six more penalties were called. In the final period J. St. Cyr came up with two goals to deadlock the count with two and half minutes left to play. The Cardinals tried their best but the Seminary held to earn a tie. Eight minors and two majors were dished out as the boys were trying to establish a new record for one game.

J. ST. CYR TOP SCORER

J. St. Cyr of the Seminary is leading the scorers in the circuit with a total of six goals for his six points on top of the pack. He has no assists. M. Perron of the Optimists is second with four points, also only goals with no assists.

Seven players are deadlocked in their position with three points each according to Roger Therriault, league's official scorer. F. Martel, Cardinals, P. Simoneau, Braves, N. Richardson, Braves, R. Castonguay, Seminary, R. Couture, Braves, R. Lecours, Cardinals, and P. Viens of the Braves are the players tied.

The Braves are leading the eight-club juvenile circuit with four points while the Seminary and the Cardinals are tied with three, one behind. The Meteors and the Optimists are deadlocked with two each while the other clubs are still to pick up some points.

Michel Raymond of the Cardinals is the top goalie with an average of one goal in two games while B. Bernier of the Seminary is next with his average of 1:50. B. McKenzie of the Optimists and Y. Carpentier of the Aces are tied with 3:50 each.

Bishop's stops Sherbrooke 6-5 in hockey exhibition

University of Sherbrooke's Green and Gold Hockey squad, after spending numerous hours of practice on the ice at the Scott Rink on Bishop's campus, faced their first test last night.

They lost.

Bishop's Gaiters, under the observant eye of Coach Bruce Coulter, edged their visitors 6-5 in what could be termed a "fast-moving prize fight."

After a rather one-sided first period with Bishop's moving ahead 3-0 in this exhibition meeting, a switch of goalies and the absence of players through penalties allowed Sherbrooke University to move up, but never equal, the goal achievements of Bishop's. Mike Lemieux, occupying the Gaiters' crease for his first official time was the victim of a scattered Bishop's defense and little else, as three of the Sherbrooke goals came with two men in the box.

Bill Murray, on the hottest offensive string for the Gaiters, potted two against goalie Ste. Marie, while others were added by Lindsay Majury, and Mike Patrick.

Terry Marshall, another impressive Gaiter, opened the game scoring unassisted late in the first period, and finished Bishop's tallies, again unassisted, early in the third period.

This 'fast-moving prize fight' consisted of numerous penalties called on tripping, roughing, and one misconduct, as the defensive side of the tilt offered the better action.

Bishop's Gaiters, who open up their Ottawa-St. Lawrence hockey beat this Saturday on campus against Carleton, seems to have a speedy, hard-checking group.

Doug Campbell, in the nets for Bishop's during the first and last periods, is a definite asset, as shown in the latter, knocking, blocking, and sweeping aside every Sherbrooke attack. His ability to anticipate and move quickly bolted Sherbrooke's chances.

Top scorer for Sherbrooke was Blais, managing two of their five.

New Yorkers getting winning hockey team something they haven't had for long time, Duff, Richard out

The people of New York are getting something they haven't had for a long time—a winning hockey team. And New York Rangers might be getting something they seldom get—a full house.

A rare mid-week sellout crowd is expected to be on hand tonight when Chicago Black Hawks meet the Rangers at Madison Square Garden in the only scheduled National Hockey League game.

During the 1964-65 seaon, the Rangers drew a total of 415,748 fans for 35 home games—a decrease of 19,883 from 1963-64 attendance.

Capacity at the Garden is 15,284, 15,925 including standees, and in the 35 home games last season New York averaged 11,878 fans per game.

The rejuvenated Rangers, currently third in the standings, two points behind the Black Hawks, will be looking for the fifth win in 11 outings while Chicago will be out for revenge. New York handed the Hawks their second defeat of the season last Sunday, 4-2, in the Windy City.

New York observers have been impressed by Rod Seiling, who moved up to Doug Robinson's left wing position when the latter was injured in a game against Toronto. Seiling has scored a goal in each of his last two games.

Another factor in New York's improved standing is the strong play of rookie netminder Ed Giacomin. He is being tipped in some quarters for Rookie-of-the-Year honors.

The league-leading Montreal Canadiens have declined to summon help to replace two injured key players for a game against Toronto Maple Leafs in Montreal Thursday.

Montreal coach Toe Blake will face the Leafs without the services of centre Henri Richard and left winger Dick Duff. Richard is sidelined with a shoulder injury and Duff is convalescing from an infected toe.

Blake said that because of the improved play of several of his players he has no thoughts of reaching into the minors for reinforcements.

The Toronto management is thinking differently.

Stafford Smythe, Leafs' president, said that if "things don't improve, we may have to go to the minors and bring up the kids. If we're going to finish last, we may as well do it with younger players and build something for the future."

Smythe also said that Punch Imlach will remain as general manager and coach of the club.

The Leafs' president said the problem is that "we haven't enough NHLers." He suggested that perhaps some of the players are unahppy playing for Imlach and if so "I would be more inclined to change the coach rather than the general manager."

Says 5th school needed to halt doctor shortage

MONTREAL (CP) — Quebec will have a shortage of 2,500 doctors within 20 years unless the provincial government urgently takes steps to establish a fifth school of medicine, the Quebec College of Physicians and Surgeons said in a statement Tuesday.

The college said that in 1964 there were 143 physicians for every 100,000 persons in the United States and 140 in Ontario compared with 121 in Quebec.

The college said Quebec should seek a ratio of 140 per 100,000.

Escape recession

MONTREAL (CP) — Romeo Mondello, director of the city permits and inspections department, said Tuesday Montreal will escape the world-wide recession in construction expected in 1970.

Speaking at a trade show sponsored by construction industry exhibitions, Mr. Mondello said Montreal was a "snowballing city" and would escape the predicted recession baed on "an enquiry made a year ago among 127 countries."

He said the Montreal 1967 world's fair had contributed to a continuing stimulation of the construction industry in the city but that it was only part of the high level of activity in this field that has been planned.

Mr. Mondello said there are 17 major building projects worth more than $547,000,000 that would not be started until after Expo 67. The projects include buildings rising more than 30 and 40 storeys high and redevelopment of a 20-acre site in downtown Montreal.

New CN contracts

MONTREAL (CP)—The Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers (CLC) said Tuesday it will meet with Canadian National Railways management next Tuesday to discuss new contract proposals for its members.

The first meeting will deal with the sleeping, dining and parlor car attendants' contract involving 1,500 of the union's 18,000 members at the CNR.

The CBRT is asking for a complete revision of the present agreement so that employees will work 174 hours a month instead of 208. The union says this is in accordance with the new Canada Labor Act.

The union presents its demands to the CNR and other railways at the beginning of November. The CNR has not commented on the demands.

Bootleggers out

MONTREAL (CP) — The Air Transport Association of Canada ended a two-day convention in Montreal Tuesday night after an appeal for a crackdown on bootleg operators in their business.

ATAC members taking part in a legal symposium, asked representatives of the Air Transport Board and the department of transport to force unlicenced operators to conform with government regulations or get out of the business of offering transportation for hire.

ATAC spokesmen said these operators flagrantly disregard both ATB and DOT regulations. Some owners of privately-registered aircraft have been providing a commercial service under the guise of a leasing arrangement, the spokesmen said.

Reduce money

MONTREAL (CP) — David Rockefeller, chairman and president of Chase Manhattan Bank, said Tuesday price increases creeping into the United States economy will continue during next year if the federal reserve system does not tighten money supply and curb expansionary policies.

Mr. Rockefeller, 50, who heads one of the world's largest private financial institutions, said at a press conference here that the U.S. has reached the point where it is desirable to reduce the money supply and moderately tighten credit.

said that run 203 is a flag stop (when a flag is raised the train must stop to entrain passengers). Run 202 is not a flag stop, he said.

Allan Brown, another witness for CPR testified that during June 1965, when there were several bus strikes in Montreal, traffic was heavier than normal. He also admitted that for July the traffic was heavier even though most of the bus service had been restored.

In August it was noted there was a drop in passenger traffic. This was due to the fact that CPR installed its new rate: five cents per mile.

Mr. Brown presented surveys conducted by Mr. Brown's department which listed the number of persons who made use of the trains and between which points along the railway during the weeks of July 13 till July 19, 1965 and August 23 till August 29, '65 and October 18 till October 24, 1964.

It was pointed out by some members of the public at the hearing that no study was made when Bishop's University was in session.

Mr. Brown replied that he picked a week in which there were no holidays and said that there was no specific reason to choose the weeks.

The last witness of the day, Kenneth Brink, supervisor of cost projects for the CPR in Montreal explained a list of the estimated variable expenses for trains 202 and 203. The total expenses came to $216,255 but was rounded off to $216,300.

This statement contained figures for wages of the trainmen and the enginemen.

The wages, stated on the statement were arrived at by calculating the costs of the wages under a new agreement which has been signed by CPR and is scheduled to go into effect soon.

the river just behind the Gobel property, said that when he passed by the house Thursday morning everything looked normal, but when he returned early Saturday morning, he found the house damaged. Mr. Giroux then contacted the former owner, Wilfred Dumas, and told him about the damage. Mr. Dumas, in turn, then contacted Mr. Gobel's real estate agent and gave him the news, who in turn called Mr. Gobel.

Entrance was gained by a downstairs window.

Police attempted to get various fingerprints on pieces of glass that may have been removed from the window frame, but the moisture in the house made prints unrecognizable. An empty liquor bottle was found in the house, but this proved fruitless as far as prints were concerned.

QPP Investigator Normand Roy said that he would do everything in his power to find those responsible. Police investigation continues.

THE MARKET TODAY
(Greenshields Ltd.)

Sales of Distillers Corporation-Seagrams Ltd. for the first quarter ended Oct. 31-65 were up 10% from the corresponding period of 1964 Samuel Bronfman, President, informed the annual meeting. He said he didn't know as yet what the net income was for the latest period but indicated that it would be in keeping with the increased sales.

Consumers' Gas Co. reports net income for the year ended September 30-65 at $11,730,000 or 68c per share compared with $9,604,000 or 55c per share. Latest figures do not include a gain of $809,000 from sale of land. Gross operating revenue was $92,408,000 compared with $78,489,000.

Net income of Inland Natural Gas Co. Ltd. for the 12 months ended Sept. 30-65 (fiscal year ends June 30) rose sharply to $1,452,404 or 45c per preferred dividend requirements, from $1,189,588 or 34c per share for the previous 12 months.

Imperial Tobacco Co. of Canada, Ltd. through its wholly-owned subsidiary, Con-Pak Ltd. has offered to purchase all publicly held Class A and common shares of Canada Foils Ltd. Purchase offer prices are $40 per A and $45 per common share. There are 100,000 shares of each class of stock outstanding.

much. This is fantastic yet no one denied it."

ANSWER

I do not know the speaker or the meeting referred to. Certainly no one connected with the Regional Board would make such an irresponsible statement which clearly indicates a lack of knowledge or a deliberate attempt to confuse and mislead the public. In a previous letter I explained that the financial burden as far as the taxpayer is concerned is based on a system of normalized tax rates and expenditures.

It is the policy of the government that all Boards shall meet these norms. It is obvious that a tax on real estate alone cannot finance the tremendous costs of Operation 55. Government policy recognizes this and underlines its responsibility for underwriting the program.

In all I would estimate that over a hundred Regional schools will be built in the province. The cost of building two Protestant schools in the area will have little effect on the total cost of the new programme. In other words, if we never built a school the Protestant residents of this area (as residents of Quebec) will pay their share. I doubt that the cost of our two schools will make any appreciable difference in the amount they will have to pay. Under the circumstances it would appear that we should obtain the best educational facilities for the children of our area while the Department is committed to a program of expansion.

In closing I invite the writer to contact me. I will be pleased to discuss the matter more fully than is possible in a short article. I would also repeat that we will be pleased to meet any group for the purpose of discussing similar problems.

If you have any questions or comments they may be addressed to the writer, P.O. Box 560, Lennoxville. Please note that anonymous letters cannot be acknowledged.

Card of Thanks

PATTERSON — I wish to thank all those who helped in any way during the illness, death and burial of my dear husband Donald Floyd Patterson. Special thanks to Drs. Scott and Bryant, the Sisters, nurses, orderlies and aides on the second floor of La Providence, to "Aunt Susie" who came and stayed at the house for so long enabling me to travel back and forth with an easy mind, to Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Stone for all their aid. To all who furnished me transportation to and from the hospital, to Revs. MacDonald and Stark, the bearers, those who furnished cars, sent flowers, food, etc. Many many thanks. Your kindness will always be remembered.
ALICIA M. PATTERSON.

STELWAGEN — During my recent return to the Sherbrooke Hospital for an emergency surgical operation, I would like to express my gratitude to my friends and relatives for their many acts of kindness. Special thanks to Mrs. K. Beattie, my daughter Siemy and husband, for their wonderful care of my family. To Drs. Ross, Mills, Dougan, Decarie, Paulette and Dr. D. Dykeman, Richmond, to the entire staff for their interest and kindness beyond the call of duty. The lovely sunshine basket from friends in Lennoxville and Sherbrooke, was much appreciated. I was pleasantly surprised on my birthday anniversary, October 22, while in the hospital, on the arrival of my dear daughter Siemy, who presented me with a lovely decorated birthday cake topped with lighted tapers, with love and best wishes from the family. A shower of cards and gifts from Richmond friends, which included a gift from the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Royal Cdn. Legion Branch 15. Several friends called during the day. The kind thoughtfulness of all made the day a pleasant one long to be remembered.
MRS. JACK STELWAGEN, (Greta), Richmond, Que.

MR. AND MRS. W. F. FLEMING

Greenfield Park couple feted on golden wedding

MELBOURNE — Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Fleming, of Greenfield Park, were guests of honor at a surprise Golden wedding anniversary party held in St. John's Hall on Oct. 23, given by their son, Warren Fleming, and Mrs. Fleming, of Greenfield Park, and their daughter, Mrs. Gordon Johnston, and Mr. Johnston of St. Laurent. The ladies of the Gallup Hill Club catered for the party.

The hall was prettily decorated for the occasion with autumn leaves, flowers and golden 50 motifs. About 150 relatives, friends and neighbors enjoyed a pleasant evening spent in dancing to music by the Fleming orchestra and Herbert Stevens, of Richmand, and Mrs. C. Grainger.

At midnight refreshments were served. The head table was centered with a four - tier wedding cake, made and given by Mrs. Elmer Stimson, who was assisted in decorating it by Mrs. C. Mastine. Personal gold printed serviettes and 50 motifs completed the decor.

Seated at the head table were the guests of honor and their sisters and brothers, Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Fleming, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Coddington, Mr. and Mrs. William Boa and Mr. and Mrs. Holland Burrill, who were all presented with corsages and boutonnieres.

M. B. Fleming and W. A. Boa proposed toasts to the bride and groom of 50 years. On behalf of all present Mrs. Irene Burrill presented Mr. and Mrs. Fleming with a purse of money containing over $100. They were also the recipients of gifts of golden glassware, china and oil paintings, also many cards of congratulations.

Mr. and Mrs. Fleming expressed their appreciation for the surprise and pleasure of the party.

The couple was also honored at a second celebration at the home of their son - in - law, and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. G. Johnston, at their home in St. Laurent.

Mrs. Fleming, the former Ida Boa, Melbourne, and William Frederick Fleming were married on October 27, 1915, by Rev. G. H. Craik, of Melbourne at the home of the bride.

During the evening the Gallup Hill Club raffled a blanket, which was won by Mrs. Irene Burrill.

Richmond-Melbourne U.C.W. holds meeting, discusses varied topics

RICHMOND — A meeting of the United Church Women of Richmond - Melbourne United Church was held in the church hall. Mrs. E. Hutchings, of the Melbourne Unit, was in charge and led the devotional period.

Mrs. R. A. Cameron suggested a Christmas play continued in the study book, as the program for any group.

Mrs. Barrington thanked those who had entertained in their home, guests here to attend the Montreal - Ottawa conference, or helped in any other way.

A request for financial aid for the Sunday School was met.

Correspondence consisted of thank-you not s from Mrs. John Hawker Jr., Stephen Miller, M's. James Bak Mrs. G. W. Ewing, and William Reed.

A letter of thanks from Mrs. Morrison, president of the Montreal-Ottawa Conference for entertaining those who attended, also a thank you note from the Vandewalks at the Flambeau Homes, Bondville and sections of a pamphlet enclsed was read.

Aid was given in response to appeals from the AVEL and from St. Francis High School Welfare Fund.

Housecleaning of the kitchen in church hall was allocated to various Units.

Miss McCourt's report stated that during the latter part of October a visit was made to the Flambeau Homes at Bondville and donations received from the following, were delivered: the Ways and Means of the Cdn. Ladies Auxiliary; the balance of their recent sale, Miss Muriel Lemoine, Mrs. W. J. Collins, Hampstead; Mrs. Gladys Perkins, Melbourne and Mrs. George Donahue. The gifts were much appreciated by the Vandervalks. Mrs. D. Blemings was thanked for her assistance in conveying these, and other donations.

A committee of Miss Jean Pepler, Mrs. S. Husk, and Mrs. B. W. Armatage was appointed to be on the watch for a refrigerator for the church kitchen.

Plans were discussed for the Christmas Tea and Sale to be held in the church hall n Dec. 1.

The next meeting will be held in the church hall at 2 p.m. Dec. 8. The hostesses will be the Marjorie Unit. Mrs. A. B. Lovelace of Lennoxville will show slides of the Holy Land for this meeting. It was suggested that each member bring a guest to this meeting.

It was also mentioned that on the evening of Nov. 21, at 7:30 p.m. Mrs. Graham Barr will be soloist and will also play a number of violin solos.

100th birthday is celebrated by Mrs. Cora Austin of Sawyerville

SAWYERVILLE—The Women's Institute sponsored an at Home for Mrs. Cora Austin on Nov. 5, the occasion being her 100th birthday.

The day's festivities commenced with the arrival of a telegram from Her Majesty, Queen Elizabeth II. Several other telegrams from friends were received during the day.

Mrs. Austin received resolutions from the Town of Newport and the municipality of Sawyerville, stating that her name would go down on their records as having observed her 100th birthday, and receiving their best wishes on the happy occasion.

Letters of congratulations were received from Prime Minister Lester Pearson and John Diefenbaker, leader of Progressive Conservative party. She also received over 200 cards offering congratulations.

Mrs. Austin, her niece, Mrs. Edna Smith, Montreal, and Mrs. Wells Bishop, a close friend, who was also celebrating her birthday were presented with a corsage by the Sawyerville Women's Institute.

The guest of honor was the recipient of a birthday cake from Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Halliday, a money tree from her friends, and neighbours, also a guest book for the occasion from the Women's Institute, several potted plants, a beautiful bouquet from the Staff of the Bank of Montreal, Sawyerville branch, a year's subscription from the Sherbrooke Daily Record, as well as many other gifts.

During the day over 140 guests called to offer best wishes and have a chat over a cup of tea and many others called prior to or since her birthday to extend congratulations.

Refreshments were served by the W. I. Members.

Dropping of two-party system by Africans upset few experts

NAIROBI, Kenya (CP)—Defenders of the one-party state in Africa say it acts as a brake on dangerous tribal divisions and opens a channel for new nations to concentrate on development problems.

They also say the one-party system is a natural progression from African tradition in which the British concept of a "loyal opposition" was not understood.

There is much head-shaking in Britain about the way new African countries are turning away from the political and multi-party lessons learned at Westminster's knee in colonial days. British diplomats in the field seem unmoved.

"A greater understanding of this matter among Western countries would lessen fears of the system," said one senior English official.

"If there were two parties here in Kenya, as was the case less than a year ago, the division would be on tribal lines, such as Kikuyu versus Luo, Kikuyu versus Masai.

"The division would be on racial grounds—not Socialists versus private enterprise, or Conservatives versus Liberals. As it is, the various tribes are represented in the ruling party and the government."

MANY JOIN GOVERNMENT

In Kampala, the Uganda capital, another diplomat stressed that to the ordinary African, an opposition spokesman means someone who is opposing the people, not the government. Hence the tendency of opposition members to cross the floor of Parliament and join the government ranks.

In the traditional tribal council, debate might continue for a long time over any particular issue, but eventually the debaters turned to a chief for a decision. Once the chief gave the decision, all were committed. There were no winning or losing sides, no opposition.

This tradition was said to be particularly strong in West Africa. Yet it is there that Nigeria, the most populous of African countries, has maintained the multi-party system despite racial and regional difficulties under a coalition—not single-party government.

The one-party systems vary considerably. In Ghana's election earlier this year the supporters of dictatorial President Kwame Nkrumah were unopposed.

There was no question of who would win that West African poll. Later, all government ministers were sent to the Kwame Nkrumah Ideology College to study the essentials of "Nkrumahism."

MINISTERS DEFEATED

In contrast, East Africa provided a more exciting election in September although this one, in Tanzania, also was under a one-party regime.

The ruling party allowed opposing candidates from within its own ranks to stand for the same seat and the result was that a couple of President Julius Nyerere's ministers were defeated, including the able finance minister, Paul Bomani, 40.

Bomani, as it happened, had given me an interview only a few days earlier earnestly defending the one-party system and drawing from his own experience to illustrate his reasons.

"I've been a parliamentarian for 10 years—first nominated under the colonial system, then elected to Parliament after the constitutional changes," he said.

"I was elected twice entirely unopposed because our party—the party of independence—was so popular that no other candidate would have a chance of winning. None of the other parties won a single seat under the multi-party system, except one man, and that was a special case."

Under the one-party system, defeat came at least to Paul Bomani, although he was retained in the cabinet under a different portfolio by Nyerere—a practice well known in older countries.

Part of the mystique of African politics is that the leaders who brought their countries to independence, such as Nyerere, are the main symbols of national unity.

Many countries did not exist until colonial times when their borders were drawn by imperialists with little or no regard for the ethnic and other interests of the inhabitants.

There is no doubt that personal freedom and privacy are far less secure in many African countries than in, say, Canada. It is common for a visitor to be told by citizens that the mails are not safe from inquisitive government eyes.

In white-ruled Rhodesia, however, there are similar stories of telephone-tapping, and the security police of South Africa are regarded as perhaps the most efficient and ruthless on the continent.

Nyerere said in an interview the awareness of the need for unity, in the face of tribalism and other divisive forces, is one of the most "genuine" feelings in Africa. He said this should be understood in Canada with its own record of division.

RECOGNIZE WEAKNESS

"We are very genuine, very conscious of the weakness of divisive forces, hence putting tribes together, refusing to adopt a multi - party system which must divide us," Nyerere declared.

President Kenneth Kaunda, Zambia's moderate - minded ruler, said "naturally we work very hard to be the only party in the country," which now has an opposition and constitutionally "reserved" seats for white-skinned members.

But he pledged that he would not legislate against opposition parties and similar sentiments were expressed in a television talk by Uganda's Prime Minister Milton Obote, who declared:

"We feel that where there is no fundamental difference between the parties, there is no reason why the two parties should not combine to face the common problem.

"And we say the common problem in any African state is development of economic and social standards . . . and unless there are fundamental differences we are wasting our time fighting elections on a two-party system when the problem is one."

LOWER WINDSOR

Mr. and Mrs. Theo. Van Den Brock and son Johnny motored to Montreal to attend the graduation of their daughter, Miss Mayo Van Den Brock, where she received her teacher's diploma. Mr. Theo Van Den Brock, Jr., who is attending teacher's college in Quebec City came home for the weekend to attend his graduation, which took place at Notre Dame High School, Richmond. Mr. and Mrs. T. Berkmortel and two children, Simcoe, Ont., visited Mr. and Mrs. Theo. Van Den Brock and family.

Obtaining a licence to marry

...then there was the groom who forgot his second name

By BARBARA STEVENSON
(Record staff reporter)

The bride blushed, batted her big blue eyes, smiled broadly . . . and burst into tears.

"Why didn't you tell me you couldn't marry people," the indignant groom asked, between comforting phrases he threw to his sobbing sweetheart.

"You didn't ask," was the reply.

The wedding party, bride, groom, best man and bridesmaid dressed in full regalia, had turned up at the Sherbrooke legal office of Harry Grundy, QC to get their marriage licence which they believed was the same as being married in a civil ceremony.

In Quebec there is no such thing as a civil marriage ceremony.

A member of the clergy must officiate.

Protestants planning to marry have the alternative of obtaining a marriage licence or having their bans read in the church to which they belong. Roman Catholics must have bans read or obtain a dispensation from the Church.

"I missed that one as I was away on vacation. It must have been funny though," secretary Mrs. Jack Reid said.

This plus other incidents have added notes of humor to Mr. Grundy's eight years experience issuing marriage licences in Sherbrooke.

"Everything isn't lost", was one prospective groom's repeated phrase when he had trouble straightening out a legality to obtain his licence.

Whether the phrase meant he still saw a break for bachelor freedom or whether he eagerly hoped to tie the knot is left up to the reader.

Then there were the American elopers who came to Mr. Grundy's house late in the evening in pursuit of a licence. Finding him away from home they knocked at the neighbour's and waited inside for two hours.

When Mr. Grundy returned they approached him for their licence.

"They wanted it on the spot. But I wouldn't give it to them at home and they didn't have the required bondsmen," Mr. Grundy recalled.

Two men bondsmen must sign a bond guaranteeing there is no legal impediment to the marriage. They must be at least 21 years old, Canadian citizens and Quebec householders (own or rent an apartment or house).

The two bondsmen and the groom in signing each vow $800 that the marriage will be a legal one: neither bride nor groom is already married, underage without the necessary consents, brother and sister or other such reasons. If underage both parents of that person must give their approval of the marriage.

One excited 43-year-old groom-to-be going through the process for the first time faced a unique problem.

He couldn't remember his second name.

A call to his fiancee set him straight.

"Where was I born?" he then asked himself. Another call to his fiancee set him straight.

"When was I born?" came next, although perhaps to himself he was asking why instead of when.

Delving deep into his memory he finally came up with the date.

A list of applicants' typical comments can also be compiled: Bondsman to groom shelling out the $20 government licence fee: "This is only the beginning, there'll be plenty more expenses before you're through."

Keen groom-to-be after signing licence application: "Now how long do I have to wait?" (There is no waiting time but marriage must be within six months).

"Invariably I ask them on the phone to bring in their mother-in-law's maiden name and invariably they forget," Mrs. Reid added. "Could I borrow your phone" is the most oft-said phrase in such a situation.

People applying for licences could be classified into two divisions: tickled pink or matter-of-fact, Mrs. Reid noted. You get so you can spot each type right off, she relates.

Youngest ever to come in was a 15 year-old and there have been several of them. The oldest was 82 and at that age are "quite cute" and seldom embarrassed, Mr. Grundy said.

Rhodesia governor torn between country, loyalty

SALISBURY (AP)—Sir Humphrey Gibbs, the British-appointed governor of Rhodesia who won't quit, is torn between loyalty to the Crown and the close personal ties he has formed during 37 years in the Central African colony.

Gibbs, 63, a tall, lean rancher born in Britain but a Rhodesian citizen, is the Queen's personal representative in the rebellious self-governing colony. Fighting to maintain his sovereign's residence, he has grimly dug in for a showdown with Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith.

Sir Humphrey has been governor of Rhodesia for six years. He loves the roomy freedom and open spaces of Central Africa and once remarked to a friend: "I feel sorry for people who have to live in London and places like that."

Humphrey Vicary Gibbs was born in London in 1902 and educated at Eton and Trinity College, Cambridge. In 1928, aged 26, he left his homeland for Rhodesia to begin a highly successful ranching life.

FORM FARMERS' UNION

Early recognition came his way when he organized the country's farmers into the now powerful Rhodesian National Farmers' Union. In 1947, he decided to try his hand at politics, was elected to Parliament and was a member of the government of Lord Malver, then Sir Godfrey Huggins. As a politician he was known for his brevity.

Gibbs soon realized his heart was not in politics. After one term, he left Parliament and went back to his ranch near Bulawayo.

"This man is too honest to have remained in politics for long," Lord Malvern said later.

In 1959, the Queen named him her representative in Rhodesia and recalled him to public life. He was knighted in 1960.

His wife, the former Molly Nelson, was born in Rhodesia. They have five sons.

On warpath over made-in-Japan totem poles

VANCOUVER (CP)—A group of British Columbia's native Indians is up in arms about Japanese totem poles.

The group, woodcarvers and artist , is led by Hungarian-born Gyula Mayer, who was made an honorary chief of the Kwakiutl tribe for his efforts in reviving sacred native arts.

Mayer buys Indian arts and crafts from tribes such as the Haida, Coast Salish, Kwakiutl and Tsimpsean tribes in B.C.

He says an awakening to Indian art is occurring all along the B.C. coast, but the revived interest has touched off an influx of totem poles from Japan and Germany.

Mayer says the designs have been altered or slightly distorted so as not to violate copyright laws and this corrupts and degrades the native culture. He explains that the totems, crests, masks and other items are the property of Indian tribes or families.

Mayer says he will complain to the Indian affairs branch and the Better Bussiness Bureau about stores selling plastic or fake argilite totems advertised as "hand-carved by B.C. Indians." He says true argilite poles are not cast but created by hand by Haida Indians.

Some of the almost 100 native Indian carvers on the B.C. coast can earn up to $12,000 a year at their art.

Bird watcher's notes

By J. GRAHAM PATRIQUIN

With reversion to Standard Time again, visibility is good at breakfast, and the back porch feeders get as busy as traffic at a commuters' intersection.

They are back once more, those amiable trenchermen: tiny, immaculate Chickadees, sleek, streamlined Nuthatches, garrulous, Bluejays, tricoloured, nervous Woodpeckers and flamboyant, plug-ugly Grosbeaks. Best of all, a well-supplied feeder brings in a variety of species, whether located in a rural environment or a closely settled urban quarter.

For example, Mrs. Lorne Campbell, who lives on Quebec Street, Sherbrooke, reported a visitor at her feeder which (and the degree of possibility is high) was probably a Cardinal. This report immediately started a flashback in your commentator's memory; last July, a bird was minutely described by Fred Hoy, of Sherbrooke, and one could only conclude that it was a Cardinal. It was sighted in a field on Belvidere Hill, Lennoxville, but only once. The current report from the North Ward might indicate the same bird, or perhaps a family of Cardinals in this region.

Elsewhere, Mrs. Mary Blaikie, up on Moulton Hill, checked a Northern Shrike on the wing, and without prey. (It is almost frightening to see them impale a victim on a thorn; as a boy, we called them Butcher-birds.)

Feeder-operators have no monopoly on rare birds. Chalk up one to a most enthusiastic — and successful — beagle trainer-owner. Don Clowery gets about the woods a great deal. He has a genius for observing in detail and photographic - type eyesight. Not long ago, he watched at 5-yard range an odd-looking Woodpecker stripping the bark off a tree in the Johnville Bog district, and after a quarter hour's puzzled but critical observation, was able to describe the bird, practically feather by feather, to brother Freeman. The latter had no problem to identify the Arctic Three-toed Woodpecker. Until a few years ago, this bird was virtually unknown locally, and it is no commonplace resident now! One recalls the "appearance," not many years back, of the Mourning Dove. When informed folk look, they often discover hitherto unknown species.

Information is a vital part of the work of the St. Francis-Massawippi Bird Club; the growing practice and respectability of birding testifies to that. Dr. Langford's drive to put naturalist film-shows in the schools has produced tremendous results this year. By degrees, more and more school boards have become convinced of the significance of conservation, until, this fall, no less than fourteen schools this side of the St. Lawrence River are sharing the Cleveland and Ruth Grant film-lectures, and one of these schools, Princess Elizabeth High School in Magog, is inviting the public (for an admission fee) to enjoy their 7:30 evening show on November 30 — Land of Early Autumn.

The famous Grants will make a veritable tour of Southern Quebec with programs at Stanstead College, King's Hall, Lennoxville High, B.C.S., Otterburn Park High, Bishop's University, Waterville Intermediate, North Hatley High, Magog High, Asbestos - Danville - Shipton High, Waterloo High, St. Helen's School for Girls, Sutton High and Feller College.

North Hatley's school board and administration have made it a community affair by inviting the local French-speaking school to the presentation — generous and public-spirited gesture indeed.

Residents of the Sherbrooke-Lennoxville area will have the option of a matinee show at 3 p.m. (not for Grey Cup fans!) when Land of Early Autumn is presented, and an 8:15 Revue with the Grants' Birdwatchers Holiday both at Lennoxville High School.

Christmas trees suffer from bug

FREDERICTON (CP) — The federal forestry department office here says the balsam gall midge, an insect whose attacks on balsam fir Christmas trees may seriously affect their market value, is on the increase in the Maritimes.

Extension officer C. C. Smith has warned woodlot owners, who will soon start to cut trees for the Christmas market, to examine new needles carefully for small swellings or galls before any fir trees are cut in 1965. The galls are caused by tiny midge larvae within the needles.

He says infested needles are usually shed in the fall and trees cut with a large number of galls may be rejected at the grading or shipping yard because of excessive needle drop.

The insect seldom injures the fir tree seriously.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH MISSION CIRCLE

Members and friends of the Women's Mission Circle held the November meeting recently in the church hall, chaired by the president, Mrs. J. Gilmartin, who conducted the devotional period. Miss H. Benner led in prayer.

Following a short business meeting, Mrs. J. Dozois introduced the speaker for the evening, Mr. J. Visser, founder of the Dixville Home for Retarded Children. Mr. Visser told interesting and heart warming story of the work being done at Dixville, beginning with the founding of the Home in 1958 with two children and two staff members, with the present time, The numbers have now grown to 104 children and 48 staff members. Mr. R. Maginbir, a religious welfare worker at the Home, was also present.

Mrs. Gilmartin thanked the speaker on behalf of the circle for his informative talk.

Pianist for the evening was Mrs. D. Wright.

Following a hymn and closing prayer by Miss M. Maines, members and friends were invited to remain for refreshments, served by Miss J. Hopkins and Mrs. H. Leech, Jr.

ST. PAUL'S LADIES' GUILD

A regular meeting of St. Paul's Ladies' Guild was held in the church hall on Nov. 10, opened by the president, Mrs. G. Carleton. The treasurer, Mrs. F. Staniford, gave a financial report for the months of September and October.

Further plans were made for the turkey supper and sale to be held on Nov. 27. The purchasing of new plates was discussed.

It was decided to have the rector, Rev. G. Rennison, appoint a nominating committee for officers of 1966.

The members were pleased to welcome a new member, Mrs. C. Coates, to the Guild.

A good member of articles were brought in by members for the sales table.

Following the meeting tea was served by the members and a social hour enjoyed.

The next meeting will be held in the church hall on Nov. 24.

SANGSTER MEMORIAL U.C.W.

The November meeting of the Sangster Memorial United Church Women was held recently in the church hall. In the absence of the president Mrs. M. MacCoubrey, vice-president, took the chair. The devotional period, in keeping with Armistic Day, was conducted by Mrs. R. Wheeler. The treasurer, Mrs. J. Hosking reported that the annual fall supper had been a fine financial success.

All members were asked to turn their Holiday Plate money in to Mrs. A. MacDonald as soon as possible.

Plans were made for the Christmas Tea on Saturday, Dec. 4. Mrs. C. McLachlan, in charge of the sale table, asked that all ladies bring in their donations on Friday afternoon to the church hall.

As the every member canvass will be held on Nov. 21, hostesses to the canvassers will include Mrs. J. Hosking, Mrs. M. MacCoubrey, Mrs. R. Dewing, Mrs. J. Hillman and Mrs. D. Bresee.

It was decided that the next meeting at which the group's Christmas party is to take place, would be held on Dec. 8.

Following the adjournment lunch was served by the hostesses, Mrs. MacCoubrey and Mrs. Hosking.

Engagement

The engagement is announced of Miss Marsha May Morey, daughter of Mrs. John Morey, (Iris Gale) of Drummondville, and the late Mr. Morey, to Mr. David Thomson Moodie, son of Mr. and Mrs. David J. Moodie, of Three Rivers. A July wedding is planned.

Today's recipe

WINTER SALAD BOWL

1 can (8 oz.) sliced beets
¼ cup oil and vinegar dressing
1 head romaine
1 head iceberg lettuce
1 small onion
1 can (8 oz.) peas
1 can (8 oz.) cut green beans
1 cup cauliflower pieces
2 teaspoons seasoned salt
¼ cup bottled garlic salad dressing
Sliced radishes
Halves of cherry tomatoes

Drain beets; pour oil and vinegar dressing over them and chill for at least an hour. Save enough romaine leaves to line the edge of the salad bowl. Break up remaining pieces and iceberg lettuce and put into bowl. Combine sliced onion with marinated beets and add, with the dressing, to greens. Pile drained peas, green beans and cauliflower on greens; sprinkle with seasoned salt. Add garlic dressing and toss. Garnish with sliced radishes and halves of cherry tomatoes. Six to eight servings.

CANNED PIE FILLINGS

Use canned pie fillings for an array of desserts. To choose from there is cherry, peach, apple, berry, or any of the marvelous variety. Use them conveniently in pies and tarts, or as topping for wedges of cake. For ice cream sundaes they're simply great. Too you'll like pie filling just as it comes from the can. For garnish use a dollop of whipped cream a sprinkling of nuts or coconut and a dash or two of spice.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester B. Caswell.

Heather Spafford weds Chester Bruce Caswell

WATERVILLE — Standards of white chrysanthemuns formed the background setting in Waterville United Church, recently, when Heather Wilma, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Lloyd Spafford, Waterville, was united in marriage to Chester Bruce Caswell, of Valleyfield, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester William Caswell, of Earlstown. Rev. J. Brooks officiated at the ceremony and Mrs. C. Burton played the wedding music. White bows were used in marking the guest pews.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a two-piece suit of white chiffon velvet, a matching circlet headpiece held her elbow length veil and she carried a bouquet of red roses and white heather.

Miss Marilyn Vera Crowley, as maid of honor, was in a dark green chiffon velvet two-piece suit, matching circlet hat and white satin accessories. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses.

Mr. Barry James Caswell acted as best man for his brother, and the ushers were Messrs. Malcolm and Bruce Spafford, brothers of the bride.

Mrs. Spafford, mother of the bride, chose a three - piece suit of pale green wool boucle, with matching hat and forest green accessories. Her corsage was of bronze pompons.

Mrs. Caswell, the groom's mother, wore a green ribbon silk two - piece dress, small black mink hat, black accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the United Church Hall, catered by the W.A., where the bride's table was centered with the wedding cake, and bowls of white shasta daisies and pink carnations.

Later, the bride and groom left on a wedding trip to the White Mountains, the bride travelling in a brown mixture wool two - piece suit with matching hat and brown accessories. Her corsage was of red roses.

Guests were from Boston, Mass.; Lebanon, N.H.; Cowansville, Sherbrooke, Montreal, Richmond, St. John, N.B., and Lennoxville.

Mr. and Mrs. Caswell will take up residence at 97 Purvis Street, Nitro, Que.

Just an ordinary girl says scholarship winner

VANCOUVER (CP) — Pianist Andrea Kalanj modestly declares she's just an "ordinary girl," and the Canada Council apparently believes her.

The council has twice turned down her applications for scholarships. But music authorities in the Soviet Union and Belgium like her kind of ordinariness. She has won scholarships in both countries, and it may be in Europe that she first scores as a concert pianist.

The 20-year-old beauty has been away from her Vancouver home for the last year, living on a shoestring in Brussels to attend the Belgium Royal Conservatory of Music.

A recent telegram informed her parents that she had won a Belgian government scholarship expected to provide living expenses and tuition until she wins her Diploma Superior in December, 1966.

North Hatley Bonspiel

Lady curlers compete in successful bonspiel

The North Hatley Ladies Curling Bonspiel came to a successful conclusion, Thursday night, with the presentation of the trophies and prizes to the winners.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. Bruce Bishop, the past-president, Mrs. J. H. Whelton, thanked all the curlers and visitors for their attendance, and introduced the winning rink.

The Bishop Trophy was won by Mrs. Charles Guild and her rink, from North Hatley; the Balfour Trophy was won by Mrs. R. Cleveland and her rink, from Danville; and the Margaret Hatrick Trophy, by Mrs. Ivan Saunders and her Lennoxville rink.

Early morning coffee and homemade coffee cake and donuts had been served by Mrs. Paul Theobold; lunches and late snacks were attended to by Mrs. R. E. Allworth, with delicious homemade soup prepared daily by Mrs. J. Schiller.

The Tuesday afternoon sherry party was convened by the Misses Edith and Margaret Swanson; and a buffet supper on Wednesday was ably convened by Mrs. E. Nelson and her committee.

The Thursday afternoon tea was co-convened by Mrs. Phil Scowen and Mrs. R. O. Bartlett. The attractively appointed tea table had a center piece of bronze mums, flanked by triple crystal candelabra holding candles in the fall shades of yellow gold and brown. Tea and coffee were poured by Mrs. John McKay, Mrs. Miller Hall, Mrs. Guy Woodard, Mrs. Nell Scott and Mrs. J. Wynn.

Bridge was played in the upper rooms of the club house prior to the tea.

The match committee and the chairman, Mrs. George Johnston, were kept busy recording the scores.

A needlepoint picture, donated by Mrs. J. H. Whelton, was won by Mrs. George Carruthers of the Border Curling Club.

Morrow, Davison

LONDON, Ont. — The marriage of Marilyn Elizabeth, daughter of Mrs. H. William Davison and the late Mr. Davison of Wellesley, Ont., to David Winston Morrow, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Morrow, of London, took place recently in the First St. Andrew's United Church, London. Rev. Anne Graham officiated.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, William L. Davison, wore a floor-length gown of white chantilly lace and nylon tulle, fashioned with a sequined scoop neckline, lilypoint sleeves and lace appliques on the bouffant skirt. Her chapel-length veil of nylon was held by a tiara of rhinestones and pearls and she carried a bouquet of red rosebuds on a white Bible.

Miss Pamela Davison, as maid of honor for her sister, and Miss Margaret Hicks, of London, as bridesmaid, wore peacock blue gowns of peau de soie.

Mr. Richard B. Bennett, Exeter, Ont., acted as best man and Mr. Ray Hands, London was usher.

Mrs. Davison, mother of the bride, chose a beige brocaded gown and brown accessories, while Mrs. Morrow, mother of the groom wore a coffee color gown with gold accessories.

For a wedding trip to the Maritimes and Cape Cod, the bride travelled in a dress of figured camel jersey with light blue wool coat, black accessories and a white carnation corsage.

The couple will reside in London, Ont.

Eight months needed for readying bazaar

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — London's annual Hadassah bazaar has closed its doors but in four months donations will start trickling in for the next one.

It takes eight months to collect, sort, price, mark and pack the 50,000 to 60,000 items sold at each bazaar.

Usually they start to arrive in March, says Mrs. K. H. Kendall, who is in charge of eight basement rooms which she uses as a warehouse for the donations.

The bazaar, started five years ago, attracts about 10,000 people every year. Mrs. Kendall has been in charge of the warehouse all along except for 1963, when she was bazaar general chairman.

She says by the end of summer and early fall as merchandise comes in faster she has to open the warehouse daily and work with her volunteer helpers from 1:30 to 4 p.m.

All kinds of merchandise are donated.

"Anything you find in the home we've got. Sometimes we don't even know what the article is."

Everything is evaluated and priced on the basis of a standard price list.

Cleveland W.I. marks Armistice

CLEVELAND — The Women's Institute held its November meeting at the home of Mrs. Alfred Smith. One guest was present.

Each member bought a poppy and a wreath was purchased for the Armistice Service.

Stuffed toys were turned in at the meeting.

Conveners reports were heard.

Two silver dollars were presented to a member's baby, Elizabeth Healy.

Plans were made for cheer boxes to be sent out at Christmas time.

Remnants were sold. Tickets money for a drawing on a crocheted bedspread was turned in. The drawing is to take place on Dec. 11, members are asked to have ticket stubs in to Mrs. Alfred Smith one week before the drawing.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Kenneth Stevens, when a luncheon will precede the meeting. Members are asked to bring an article and 25 cents for Christmas cheer boxes.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Alfred Smith.

Altar Society meets at Border

DERBY LINE — St. Edward's Altar Society held its Nov. 10 meeting in the Parish Hall with two guests attending.

The meeting was opened with prayers by the president, Mrs. Robert Goudreau, after which reports were heard.

The turkey dinner, held Oct. 31 was a huge success as over 300 attended. The president thanked everyone who had helped in any way, in either preparing or serving the dinner.

As there were so few members present at this meeting, the president will contact someone to care for the Altar for the month of December.

The society has ordered some large pans for cooking, more silverware and juice glasses.

The ladies of the society are to serve lunch at the turkey festival sponsored by the Holy Name Socity on Nov. 19 in the Parish Hall.

The next meeting will be on Dec. 7 as the regular date falls on the Holy day of Obligation. This meeting will be the Christmas party with an exchange of gifts. The hostesses will be the members from Beebe.

The members then engaged in playing a few games of bingo after which refreshments were served.

PAVING CAME LATE

Washington's Pennsylvania Avenue was not paved until 1876, when sheets of solid asphalt were imported from Trinidad for the purpose.

Mansonville resident reaches century mark

MANSONVILLE — On Thursday afternoon, Nov. 4, Mr. Volney G. Atwell was at home to his friends and neighbors, the occasion being the celebration of his 100th birthday.

Telegrams were received from Queen Elizabeth II, the Hon. Paul Comtois, Lieut. Governor of Quebec; Rt. Hon. Lester Pearson, Prime Minister of Canada; Hon. Jean Lesage, Premier of Quebec, and the Provincial Association of Protestant Retired Teachers.

Sixty-nine persons signed the guest book and over 100 cards were received from well wishers both far and near.

Among the callers were, Glen Brown, M.L.A. for Brome, and Jean L. Cardin, federal Liberal candidate.

On the evening of Nov. 3, the mayor, Fred Korman, and councillors of the Township of Potton called on Mr. Atwell and presented him with a silver tray, suitably engraved for the occasion. Mr. Atwell at this time also signed the town's Golden Book.

Flowers were sent to Mr. Atwell by St. John's Lodge, Owl's Head Chapter O.E.S., No. 35, and the W.A. of St. Paul's Church. Among the many beautiful gifts given Mr. Atwell was an all wool blanket, the gift of the Monticello Bobbin Company Ltd. Mrs. Garth Eldridge's gift was a birthday cake, made in the shape of 100 and trimmed with silver candles.

Mrs. Jane Lang, Mrs. Raymand Miller and Mrs. Bernice Hamelin poured tea and coffee. Others assisting were Miss Ruth Heath, Mrs. Adelard Gendreau, Mrs. C. Schoolcraft and Mrs. Garth Eldridge.

GIFT FROM POTTON — Mr. Volney G. Atwell, of Mansonville, receives a silver tray, a gift from the municipality of Potton, from Mayor Fred Korman and Mrs. Korman. The presentation was made on the occasion of Mr. Atwell's 100th birthday, when the mayor and councillors of Potton Townships called to offer congratulations.

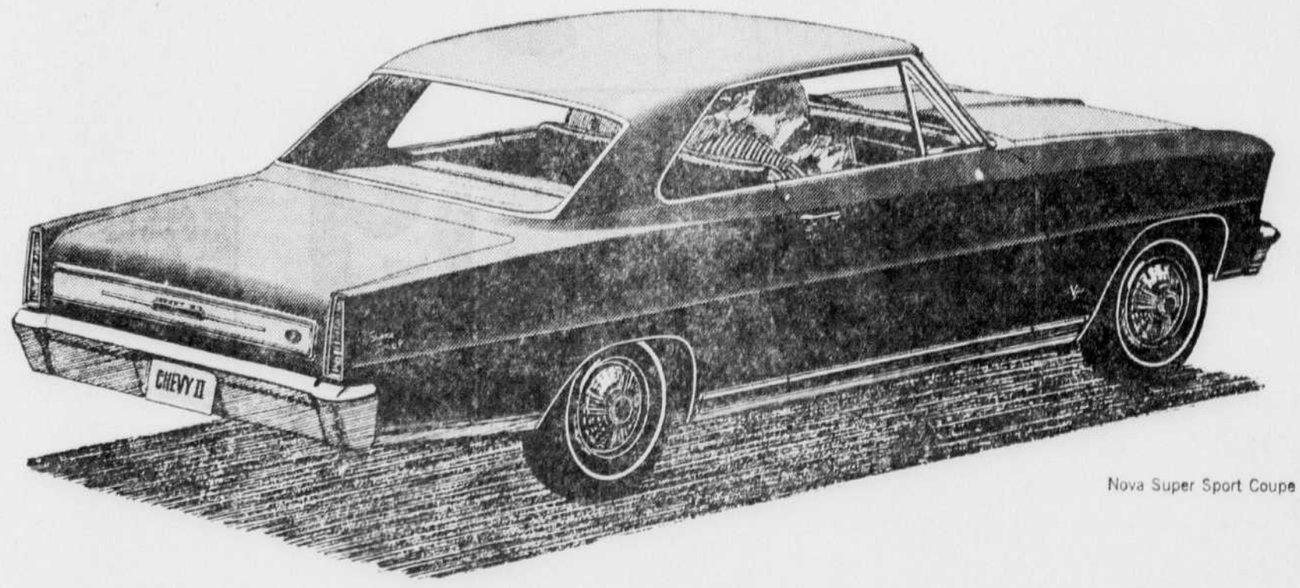
ALL-NEW STYLING



Nova Super Sport Coupe

'66 CHEVY II

Chevy II's always been a style leader. And for '66, it's no exception. There's a new swept back roofline. And big bold taillamps with integral backup lights as standard equipment. Up front and under that wide new hood you have a choice of 3 great engines from the ever-popular Hi-Thrift 6 to a new 350-horsepower 327-cu.-in. V8. You can match these with one of three great transmissions, a 3-Speed or 4-Speed manual (they're both fully synchronized) or the silk smooth automatic. Now let's go inside! New interior trim styling, fabrics and colors make Chevy II more luxurious and durable than ever. And be sure and ask your Chevrolet dealer about Chevy II's new standard equipment comfort and convenience items on all models: Nova Super Sport, Nova and the thrift-champ Chevy II 100 Series. Ask about Chevy II extras. Such as front seat head rests, Positraction rear axle and sporty wheel discs. See and drive the new '66 Chevy II. Everything's changed but the thrifty price!

Bury Women's Institute discusses varied subjects at busy session

BURY — A meeting of the Women's Institute was held on Nov. 5 at the home of Mrs. Gerald Pehlemann and Mrs. Bruce Pehlemann.

Correspondence consisted of a letter from the C. .P R. giving notice of a meeting to be held in Sherbrooke on Nov. 16 at 10 a.m. in reference to maintaining the service of the train 202 203 running daily from Montreal to Megantic.

A letter from Miss Norma Holmes, provincial secretary, stated that Mrs. Wells is the only W. I. technician available and is booked up for months ahead, but may be able to give a course, if desired, during the winter. In reply to an inquiry regarding Q. W. I. literature in French, there is very little available.

The financial report was given by the treasurer, Mrs. Elsie Morrison, who reported most gratifying results from the three card parties held recently.

Arrangements were discussed in regard to a paper drive and Mrs. Gauthier consented to make inquires as to where the paper can be stored, before setting a definite date for the collection.

Mrs. Arthur Prangley will place the Q.W.I. wreath at the cenotaph on Nov. 11.

Mrs. Olson, and others, who recently attended the public speaking in the school, gave a brief report and comments on it.

Mrs. Gerald Pehlemann gave an excellent report of the semi-annual convention held at Sawyerville on Oct. 16.

Mrs. Lena McGee, reporting on citizenship, spoke of the need for more adequate information on the work of the United Nations. She will send for a book on the subject to promote better understanding of that organization.

Mrs. Dan Pehlemann, convener of health and welfare, gave an interesting article on Children's diseases of the Ear, and their relation to the Kidneys and Urinary tract.

Mrs. Gerald Pehlemann, reporting for education, mentioned that Compton is one of three counties chosen to produce a play to be taken to the Provincial Convention in June 1966. The plays of the various branches of the county will be adjudicated and the best chosen to be taken to the Convention. A committee will be appointed to make further plans if the branch decides to take part.

The conveners of agriculture and home economics being absent no reports were given on these topics.

A quiz on the hand book was held followed by the roll call, which was answered by naming an industry of Compton County and its products.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses. A guest, Mrs. G. McMillan of Sherbrooke was welcomed.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Arthur Olson, with other members assisting. The program is in charge of Mrs. McGee and Mrs. Russell Dougherty.

Reports heard at meeting of Fordyce W.I.

FORDYCE — The November meeting of Fordyce W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. Randolph Dustin, Sweetsburg, with Mrs. John Syberg, Knowlton, as co-hostess.

Correspondence included Thank-You letter from Butters Home for boxes of articles sent there. The president, Mrs. I. Williams reported that she had visited the Home. Thanks were also received from 4-H Club for a donation.

Members paid their Service Fund.

It was reported that Freda Mason and Danny Chatam had collected over $21 for UNICEF. Poppies were sold by Mrs. Stowe.

Convener's reports were most interesting: Agriculture; Mrs. Bromby, "What Is A Farmer"? Mrs. E. Dryden The Bunkhill Professors: Citizenship, Mrs. Mason: The Exchange of Students was discussed, four will go to Ontario from Brome County and four will come from Ontario; they must be 6 - 18 years old.

Mrs. Hauver read the Outline for Health and Welfare; more concern by members about the problems of sex education and veneral disease was urged. Mrs. A. Dryden gave household hints for home economics, and how C.A.C. is fighting the stapling of food packages; A.C..WW. Mrs. Hooper read an article from The Countrywoman, Keen As Mustard.

The afternoon program was on publicity, and was in charge of convener, Mrs. Moore. A quiz on W.I. work and general publicity was won by Mrs. G. David. Colored slides on Hawaii, Arizona and Missisquoi Co. were shown.

A vote of thanks was extended to Messrs. C. Dougall and E. Dryden for storing the Picnic Tables for the winter.

The monthly drawing was won by Mrs. G. Hooper.

Members were reminded that the next meeting would be on Tuesday, Dec. 7.

Why did Cliff Egerton switch to Black Horse Ale with the new gold label?

Mr. Clifford Egerton of Chateauguay, Que.

Cliff Egerton knows a winning flavour* when he tastes it. He tried Black Horse Ale, and now it's his favourite beer.

*In a recent taste-test (no looking at labels) among Quebec beer drinkers, 3 out of 5 picked Black Horse Ale over another popular competitive ale.

(This test was conducted by an independent research company)

Make the flavour test yourself! Pour a glass of Black Horse Ale. Look at the head. Sniff the pleasant aroma. Best of all, enjoy the rewarding taste. You'll realize why the winning flavour of Black Horse Ale really quenches a beer thirst.
