Weston girls study new moon

Girls at Weston School, studying the orbit of the Russian satellite launched a week ago, are finding the innovation a great spur to some of their regular study subjects.

Getting their facts tersely on paper, the girls see it this way: "An artificial satellite was launched Friday, by Russian scientists.

This is most exciting news, for man has never been able to do this before.

The last time such an event occurred, may have been when the moon shot off from the earth, millions of years ago. Man wasn't even on earth then.

This satellite, unlike the moon, is only 23 inches in diameter and so is like a tiny speck compared to the moon. It travels around the earth once every 1 1/2 hours. The moon takes a month. It is only 560 miles away. The moon is 500 times farther away than this.

If you look at the globe you will see a white cardboard circle which indicates the path the satellite may be taking. If the earth were the size of this globe, the satellite would be circling around one inch from the globe's surface. So the path as shown is the proper distance from the globe. If we had a globe for the moon on the same scale, it would be about 30 feet away, that is, just beyond the walls of the school.

Paving program set; weather is factor

Westmount's bête-noire to traffic — the $100,000 paving and alterations program at the Glen — may be ready for rolling cars Tuesday night, according to the city public works department.

The only catch is the weatherman. If he doesn't co-operate, then the dates for concluding the work may be altered.

The city has made every attempt to keep traffic flowing while the work is being done, but admittedly at times this has been difficult and traffic has sometimes slowed down considerably.

However, the paving program is now laid on for today, tomorrow and Tuesday in such a way that weather permitting the entire task will be completed.

The program will be done in three phases: (1) paving of Victoria between Western and St. Catherine, Friday; (2) parts of St. Catherine between Victoria and the Glen, Saturday; (3) balance of the work Tuesday.

This keeps in mind the problem of the merchants on Victoria avenue, so that they will not suffer any loss of weekend holiday trade; the fact of keeping Western avenue open at peak traffic period and also the handling of the traffic to and from Westmount station.

Westmount marks Remembrance Day Sunday, Nov. 10th

Sunday, November 10th at 2.30 in the afternoon is the time set by the city of Westmount for this year's observance of Remembrance Day.

As in former years, the local armed services will participate in the memorial — the Royal Montreal Regiment and the 401 squadron RCAF — and in addition there will be a detachment from HMCS Donnacona.

Teachers hear about history from Dr. Reid

Dr. W. Stanford Reid, a graduate of the Westmount school system and now Associate Professor of History at McGill, was one of the lecturers addressing the Provincial Association of the Protestant Teachers of Quebec yesterday.

The ninety third annual convention of the association has been held in the High School of Montreal for the last two days. It finishes today.

Dr. Reid's subject was "The Difficulty and the Importance of Teaching British History."

He has had a distinguished career. After obtaining both a BA and MA at McGill, the Doctor went to Westminster Theological Seminary, from which he graduated in 1938 with Th.B. and Th.M. degrees.

Following this he studied at the University of Pennsylvania on fellowships for three years, and in 1941 was awarded a Ph.D.

Since then he has taught at McGill, and is now Associate Professor and Warden of Douglas Hall.

Also, Dr. Reid was minister of two Presbyterian churches in Montreal between 1941 and 1951.

As well many articles in historical journals, Dr. Reid has published two books. "The Church of Scotland in Lower Canada," and "The Economic History of Great Britain."

The City of Westmount announces that there will be no garbage collection on Monday, Thanksgiving Day.

Garbage collection scheduled for Monday will be postponed until Tuesday.

WOVEN in WESTMOUNT

By DONALD J. HENDRY

DISARMAMENT . . . The United Nations decided earlier this week to launch a full scale debate on the subject of world disarmament. If an agreement can be reached on this subject the realization of world peace will be more tangible than ever. The threat of war and its accompanying horrors could become virtually "non-existent". Although the average citizen can do little to effect any such agreement, there is another question of disarmament which he can play a major part. This is the disarmament of criminals.

Westmount Municipal Judge Bernard Rose has called for the establishment of a Royal Commission to investigate the methods through which criminals are able to obtain firearms. The brutal slaying of a bank manager in Blind River Ontario added to the recent murders of Constable Charles Houle of the Montreal Police Force and Constable Ronald Pitt of the Morrisburg, Ontario Police Department makes the establishment of such a commission and the possible resulting legislation an urgent matter. As Judge Rose has pointed out it is a relatively simple matter to purchase a revolver. If the purchase of firearms were more difficult and if, as Mr. Rose has further suggested, the penalties for the illegal possession of such weapons more severe, one would not be presumptuous in assuming that the murder of innocent persons such as those mentioned above would be less frequent. Gertrude Stein once wrote "Rose is a rose is a rose is a rose. In this case the Rose is a man who has the courage of his convictions and one who should receive the undivided support of the community in which he serves as magistrate in order that his efforts to make our city, province and country a safer place in which to live.

War artist turns his brush to postage stamp design

Silhouetted against the massive serenity of a thoughtfully designed iceberg is an Eskimo hunter seated in his kayak which is at rest in a tranquil arctic sea. The Eskimo is watching the flight of a distant plane—a link with the white man's civilization in the distant south. Such is the Canadian 10 cent stamp designed by Harold Beament of 4709 The Boulevard, Westmount.

Mr. Beament who was born in Ottawa has become so well-known for his paintings of Eskimo life that he is at times referred to as the Eskimo man. His first introduction to the Arctic came while on a 3 months tour of duty with the Royal Navy in northern waters in 1937. "I found the Eskimos very attractive," he said. "Their golden-copper faces, often with surprisingly high color, the intensity of their dark eyes and blue-black hair and the simple, graceful lines of their costumes all seemed to be most paint-worthy. Moreover, I found myself responding to the splendid rhythms underlying the somewhat grim and brooding landscape. The skies in the north are unusually exciting: in contrast to the slow-moving landscapes, the clouds seem to be in a hurry."

A former barrister Mr. Beament was asked why he had given up practice after only a year. "My father, who was a sensible business man, took a somewhat cloudy view of an art career," he said. "As he offered me an education in any field except art, I chose law believing that it would give me a good practical foundation for whatever I ultimately turned to. After attending Osgoode Hall in Toronto, I was called to the bar in 1922."

This year of practice Mr. Beament said was a concession to his father's point of view. Meanwhile his paintings had been favorably received in one or two important exhibitions. "I had grown completely impatient with being a Sunday painter," he declared, "especially after having done some work at the Ontario College of Art while I was studying law in Toronto. Therefore, I decided to try making a living in the field of art. I took a job in an art department of the civil service, where the duties were not very demanding, and by painting in my spare time managed to get a one man show together." This show which was held in Ottawa was not a financial success, and Mr. Beament even though his funds were limited decided to go abroad. "I worked my way over to England on a cattle boat," he said. Apparently his recollections of the trip were not altogether pleasant—for he added, "I detest cattle on such a familiar footing—they're so excessively physical."

On reaching London, Mr. Beament secured a job as representative of the National gallery of Canada in the Fine Arts section of the British Empire Exhibition. This position suited him very well indeed, as it brought him into contact with most of the leading art critics in the British Isles, as well as affording a generous amount of time in which to study and paint. At the end of 1924 he returned to Canada and settled permanently in Montreal.

Mr. Beament has for many years taken a great interest in the Navy—which is rather unusual for an artist. After naval service in the first World War, he secured a commission in the Royal Canadian Naval Volunteer Reserve shortly after it was formed in the early 20's. This allowed him many opportunities to go to sea and to paint fresh subjects of which one of his favorites was the sea itself. At the outbreak of World War II, he was called to active service, and spent most of the next 3½ years afloat—mainly on convoy duty.

In the spring of 1943 Canadian War Artists were organized under the direction of the head of the National Gallery of Canada, and Mr. Beament was selected by the governing committee as one of the initial three artists chosen to represent the navy. "It was a wonderful opportunity for an artist," he said, "as our terms of reference left us free to choose our own subjects, and to interpret them in any way that seemed suitable to us—anything from representational painting to abstraction. We were also given every reasonable encouragement to go places and see things—among them a flight to Athens to join the Canadian ships just as the communist uprising started in Greece towards the end of 1944 and a front seat on "D" day of the Normandy Assault.

Mr. Beament painted about 50 war pictures which are now in the national collection. He was awarded the Volunteer Officer's Decoration, and promoted to the

Make every week 'Fire Prevention': Harper

Proclaiming October 6-12 as Fire Prevention Week, Governor-General Vincent Massey has drawn urgent attention to the national importance of the protection of life, property and natural resources from fire.

In the last 10 years, fires in Canada have taken a toll of 5,082 lives and have burned and disfigured at least 16,000 persons. The direct financial loss of 647,000 fires in the decade was $878 million.

The fire prevention appeal is directed especially to the home. It is in the home that most fires and deaths occur—especially tragic because many of the victims are children, women and folk of senior years.

In an interview this week with Deputy Chief E. C. Harper of the Westmount Fire Department he stressed the necessity of everyone being interested in this fire prevention appeal not just during Fire Prevention Week but all the time. Deputy Chief Harper stated "we of the Fire Department of Westmount are looking forward to your energetic and sustained co-operation in fire prevention."

A complete Fire Inspection and Prevention Department with two full time Inspectors are employed by the Fire Department. During 1956 there was a total of 2532 inspections and 457 notices were sent out to property owners bringing these defects to their attention.

The following table shows the number of fire prevention inspections made, records com-

Sea Cadets line the Royal route

Eighty Royal Canadian Sea Cadets from Montreal Corps will have a front rank, if somewhat fleeting view of Her Majesty and the Duke of Edinburgh (who, incidentally, is Admiral of the Royal Canadian Sea Cadets), when they visit Ottawa on October 16th. Some two hundred Sea Cadets have been given the privilege of lining the route, of whom eighty likely lads will be selected from Montreal corps and will proceed in special buses provided by the Royal Canadian Navy. Approval has been obtained from the school boards for the boys to be absent from school, and all other detail attended to. There's only one catch. The boys will have to be in their positions along the route by 8:30 a.m. Allowing 2 1/4 hours for the trip to the capital, it means that eighty lively lads are going to have to rise and shine well ahead of the sun if they're not to miss the bus. Let's hope the sun will be on hand for the occasion, too.

JEWISH BROADCAST
 Rabbi Morton Leifman of the Beth El Congregation Town of Mount Royal, will deliver a Simchat Torah message over radio station CJAD Sunday morning at 9:30. This program is under the sponsorship of the Board of Jewish Ministers of Greater Montreal.
 Drive safely — don't cut in.

WE SAY

Taxes to go up in the suburbs

ONE thing certain about the coming changes in administration for the Greater Montreal area is that many taxpayers in the independent suburbs are going to pay more.

If one is to judge from the assertions of practically everyone supporting the reforms, the principle objective is to spread the expenses of administering the City of Montreal "more fairly;" that is to say, over a greater area.

If it is any consolation to the taxpayers of the suburban municipalities, the blow probably will not be as heavy as many of them fear. When, for example, the Protestant School Board of Greater Montreal implemented the power given it by the provincial authority to equalize with Montreal the assessment valuation of 23 municipalities, there was a great outburst of protest in these municipalities.

Yet, when the report of the assessors was made public and the percentages of increases announced, the right of appeal was exercised by only 420 taxpayers in the 23 municipalities — representing about two percent of the total number of properties revalued.

Changes in the present system were bound to come, sooner or later. Montreal taxpayers could not be expected to continue indefinitely to shoulder the greater part of the expense of maintaining services used jointly with the suburbs.

ON the eve of her arrival in Canada The Examiner joins in extending a welcome to Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth.

The monarchy has a secure place in the hearts of all Canadians, and especially in the hearts of the people of this City who have demonstrated their loyalty in two world wars.

At this time when barbed criticism of the monarchy appears to be fashionable in so-called avant garde literary circles, we pride ourselves on preserving a good old fashioned attitude that is not unmixed with common sense.

True romanticism and idealism make new life possible at 79

By AGATHA VAGI

YESTERDAY I received a parcel by mail. It contained a small book. The title: "Hungarian Love-poems." It came from my father-in-law with a note attached to it: "... because you and I are the only members of the family who know what romanticism and idealism are..."

I am 23, he is 79. Yet he ing of the Magna Carta many centuries ago.

Since then the throne has evolved through many processes until today it stands as a symbol of freedom and democracy.

Other systems have come and gone. Today half the world is suffering under an incredible tyranny worse than anything ever witnessed in history.

The divine right of the state is the new credo which is supposed to be a product of enlightened 20th century thinking.

We prefer the good and proven system. The Crown is not a meaningless symbol.

It unites under one flag people of many races and creeds who find under it freedom and a right to live according to the dictates of their conscience.

The Queen is the constitutional head of the free commonwealth of nations to which we belong.

It is fitting that she has come to open our new parliament.

knows it better than I do...

HE came by plane four months ago from Budapest. He came to live with three sons - who left the country after the revolution.

We met him at Dorval airport and found him surrounded by a group of distressed immigration officers to whom he was trying to explain about his luggage — first in Latin, then in ancient Greek.

Our brand-new English helped him out of his trouble and we got him home all right with all his big and mysterious parcels. Every member of the family expected something — we left everything behind.

We found he had brought: (a) The complete collection of family photos — specially grandmothers, grandfathers, the country-house and the domestic pets.

(b) Four old candlesticks he had got from his father on the day of his graduation.

(c) A wrist-watch, the hands of which stopped about the time of the Versailles Treaty - but this was a present from his first love.

(d) Several abominable bric-a-bracs - all with a special "sentimental value".

(e) The rest of the space in the suitcase was taken by about 150 books - mostly in German, with fine gothic letters.

Everybody stared at the collection, and would have had a question about a winter coat or a camera or some valuable paintings — but it was simply impossible.

He was sitting in the middle of the room, his face red and his eyes glittering with happiness. He had all his values around him. All that really meant anything to him.

THE next day he started his discovery of Canada. He left about eight o'clock in the morning with a map in his hands.

He came back at four in the afternoon, carrying a bundle of newspapers, pamphlets, catalogues. He did not tell us where he was but during dinner he commented on the organization of the McGill library, the exhibition of the Fine Arts Museum and the architecture of certain local churches.

We opened our eyes. None of us had visited these places. After dinner he took his coat.

"I go to a concert," he said without any explanation.

It was exactly 72 hours since he had left Budapest...

NOBODY knows what his sources are, but in a week or two he had completely filled his room with maps of the Canadian provinces, history books, magazines and dictionaries.

Nobody could tell how he gets the patience to read all this, even with the help of his dictionary, but at nights when the family is sitting together he throws subjects into the conversation:

"After studying the mineral sources of Canada I think..."

"In connection with Canada and the United States" relationship, I would like to mention the fact..."

"Perhaps you'd be interested in the book-exhibition I have just seen at McGill University..."

And he talks about Canada's history or economical situation with precise, complicated sentences that became his habit during a long legal practice...

Sometimes he doesn't understand everything he wants to know, and then he phones me, late at night or early in the morning, to ask the meaning of a word or of an expression.

Some days ago he called to ask the meaning of "teenager."

Next day I found out the connection. His first sentence in the conversation sounded like that:

"Well, if you want my opinion about the reasons for juvenile delinquency..."

HE never talks about Hungary.

Senior citizens launch friendship club season

The Westmount Friendship Club for older men and women residing in Westmount, held their opening meeting Wednesday and are looking forward to another happy year of activities.

The past season was most enjoyable, beginning with a bus trip to St. Adele to enable the members to see the beautiful fall coloring of the Laurentians. Later, tea was served at the Golf Club in Shawbridge. This outing was organized by the Westmount Rotary Club, under the direction of Mr. Donald Ross.

Another highlight of the season was a jolly Hallowe'en Party. Mrs. J. C. McKean delighted the members with her songs, accompanied by Mrs. Christine Nielson and recitations by Mrs. E. Underdown were enthusiastically received. The decorations were gay and colorful and during the tea hour, the birthdays of a number of members were celebrated with many good wishes and two large birthday cakes.

The Christmas meeting was a gala affair in the form of a dinner party, organized by Mr. Donald Ross of the Westmount Rotary Club Recreation Committee. This was followed by movies through the courtesy of the United Amusement Corporation.

A new innovation was a Surprise Party, where cards were played, gifts distributed and an excellent tea enjoyed.

The St. Patrick's Day birthday party was a great success. Card games were again the favorite pastime, followed by a pleasing rendition of songs by Mrs. A. B. Hunt. Members celebrating their birthday sat at the attractively decorated Head Table, where the delicious birthday cakes were cut.

The Easter Meeting was also a Birthday celebration for some members.

One of the most delightful trips the members have taken was to Abbotsford, in the Springtime. The blossoms in the orchards were beautiful to behold and the Ladies of the Community added additional pleasure by serving apple pie and tea. Again the Club was indebted to the Westmount Rotary Club for organizing this outing.

It is not all card playing and entertainment at the Club, pleasant though that is, for a group of members have made hundreds of dozens of cancer dressings.

The Westmount Friendship Club meets every Wednesday at 2 o'clock in the Westmount Athletic Grounds Club House, 4350 St. Catherine St. West, and will warmly welcome new members, as well as old. Any senior citizen of Westmount is eligible to join the club, where old friendships are renewed and new ones found during pleasant Wednesday afternoons.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

BY
WINIFRED E. WILSON

FAREWELL HERONS

Members of the Heron family are on the move though, unlike most migrants, they are not all starting off south. Some kinds, notably Black-crowned Night Herons and Snowy Herons (rare in Canada), have the unusual habit of wandering northward in autumn for a short while. Although occasional adults are among the ones spotted many miles north of their nesting grounds, it is chiefly the young of the year that do this. However, before long even these tourists must leave the country where small lakes, ponds, and streams will soon be ice coated—the restaurants closed until the spring thaw.

Heron is primarily fish eaters, although frogs, crabs, snakes, eels, and even insects are also on their diet. The fishing ability of the species with which Canadians are best acquainted, the Great Blue, is renowned. About four feet high, the long-legged bird has the advantage over others of being able to wade farther from shore. It accomplishes the catch by changing its position in the manner of a slow-motion picture, standing like a statue for long periods, and practising patience. It advances by such slow degrees that practically no movement can be seen, as it slowly raises one foot, very deliberately steps forward, then stands silently gazing into the water. If any little fish is foolish enough to take those long legs for sticks, the sharp bill plunges down and secures the prey. Should you be living near some fairly isolated body of water with a suitably shallow shore, you might possibly see a Great Blue Heron autumn assembly. One favorite time for the group to gather is

Atomic locomotive still long way off Rotary Club told

The growth of a civilization on the American continent was made possible not by maritime development — as in Greece and England — but by the rapid development of the locomotive. It was the locomotive that opened the continent up, and it has served the country well.

These remarks by Stephen Gately Harwood, vice president of Montreal Locomotive Works, marked the opening of a highly illuminative talk to Westmount Rotary Club Monday. A Montreal Rotarian, Mr. Harwood's talk provided the members with an informative and detailed account of locomotive development during the last four decades.

During those years 3870 steam locomotive had been built by the speaker's firm — a large number for export.

But, he continued, the advantages of the diesel locomotive have at last been asserted, and the last steam engine was completed in 1950 and sent to India.

It is not hard to realize why the diesel has taken over, he pointed out. It costs only half the normal amount in fuel; it cuts the cost of maintenance by $50; and its smooth acceleration and faster speeds on curves makes it easier for drivers to keep to schedules.

The diesel, he said, is really only an electric train carrying its own power-plant. The fundamentals were conceived by the German, Dr. Rudolph Diesel, who built the first one in Germany in 1897. He tried to sell his idea to the government for military use, but they weren't interested. So he decided to take his ideas to England. But he never arrived there. He mysteriously disappeared from the ship during the voyage across the North Sea, and his plans went with him. "And that", said Mr. Harwood, at dawn. In flight they carry their long necks pulled in to form a letter S, their long, slender bills point forward, while their long legs trail out behind. The silhouette is unmistakable as their wings flap slowly up and down.

The voice of a Great Blue Heron has been described as "a drawn-out, harsh, gooselike honk." Actually, the call greatly resembles the bark of a dog. With welcoming barks, then, the group gathers, and if you are on hand you will see them, one by one, drop gracefully to the shore. They may just stand and rest, very often on one foot, or may wade cautiously out into the water, there to stand silently, like old, broken branches, waiting hopefully.

Both rest and food are necessary at these shelters. Some of these birds may by tomorrow be on their way to a climate where they can fish all winter to their hearts' content.

Do birds wear plumes?

"was the fate of the first diesel salesman".

But the idea had been born, and a few years later an Englishman, Robert Ackroyd, built a diesel. This failure was of a different sort, however, the diesel just would not run.

The next scene of development was in Russia, where the difficulty of transporting water over the plains to provide watering stops for the steam-engines necessitated something new. It was in Russia that the first diesel was successfully developed.

America quickly realised the potential of these new engines, and they were soon being produced on this side of the Atlantic. The first to run in Canada was built for CNR jointly by an American and English firm and went into service in 1927.

In 1948 the first diesel was built in Canada and production really got under way. Since that time 2200 have been built here, mostly for home use.

But of course, the speaker pointed out, we ran into a lot of difficulties modifying diesel plans for conditions here. The earlier locomotives that ran here were not always a success. He recalled that one complaint received pointed out that "the temperature inside the car may be thirty degrees higher than outside, but outside it's forty below".

And we still have plans for future improvement, the speaker stressed. We are already studying the possibility of developing diesel hydraulic engines here, the type that are used in Germany extensively.

"I have no hobbies, my work is my hobby", Mr. Beament admitted. "Then that is true of many artists—given a holiday they usually devote their time to painting.

A wide diversity of subjects has marked Mr. Beament's work. These have ranged from nudes to warships, from Eskimos to natives of the West-Indies. He has painted in Italy, France, Greece, the West Indies, Panama, the southern United States and most parts of Canada.

Active in the Royal Canadian Academy for some years, Mr. Beament was elected an Associated of that body in 1936, and a full Academician in 1946. He has exhibited in most of the important art shows in this country since 1922, and his work has been shown extensively abroad. He is represented in the National Gallery of Canada, the Dominion Archives, the Quebec Provincial Museum, the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts and the Art Gallery of London, Ontario, as well as many other collections across Canada.

Mr. Beament who teaches a small group of amateurs said, on being asked if this did not interfere with his own work, "On the contrary—I only accept as pupils people who are congenial to me and find teaching them very stimulating."

Christian Science

"Are Sin, Disease, and Death Real?" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon at Christian Science services this Sunday.

Readings from the King James Version of the Bible will include the following from Psalms (67:1,2): "God be merciful unto us, and bless us; and cause his face to shine upon us; That thy way may be known upon earth, thy saving health among all nations."

From "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy the following selections will also be read (206: 26-28, 30): "Instead of God sending sickness and death, He destroys them, and brings to light immortality . . . God does not cause man to sin, to be sick, or to die."

The Golden Text is from Proverbs (12:28): "In the way of righteousness is life; and in the pathway thereof there is no death."

Thanksgiving

By

The Venerable
 R. Kenneth Naylor, D.D.,
 Rector, Trinity Memorial Church

Once more we thank God for all His mercies to us as individuals and as a nation. Thanksgiving Day is not like the great Church festivals Christmas and Easter, which are a yearly remembrance of two of the mighty acts of God wherein He intervened in the affairs of men. Thanksgiving Day, on the other hand, is a yearly reminder of the continual activity of God in all natural things.

We think of Creation and of God's activity in that stupendous activity. We think of God's resting from that work of creation; but His rest is still an activity, for our Lord says of Him: "My Father worketh right up to the present time." So in our General Thanksgiving we thank Him for our "creation, preservation and all the blessings of this life." It is a recognition of the fact that God not only created the earth, but that He has it under His continual care.

In the Spring we prayed for God's blessing on the sowing of the seed. We did our work to the best of our ability and we left the result to the goodness of God. So, quite naturally, we come to thank Him for all His goodness. Of course, we do not confine our thanks to this day. Just as God's care for us is continual, so we should live in a state of continual thankfulness. But it is natural to express our thanks in a special way on a special day.

There is always a danger that we take credit to ourselves for our crops and other blessings, and forget the Giver. St. Paul says that is what happened to the Ancient World. They were able to see the world and they should have recognized God in it: "For the invisible things of him since the creation of the world are clearly seen, being perceived through the things that are made, even his everlasting power and divinity; that they may be without excuse: because that, knowing God, they glorified him not as God, neither gave thanks." Then follows that appalling list which St. Paul said flowed from their unthankfulness.

On the other hand, to recognize God in the works of nature is to acquire a new understanding of nature, and even a new dimension in one's own soul. To take credit to oneself for the wealth of our fields and forests is to grow inwards and small, but to see God in those works and to feel that we are co-operating with Him, is to expand. Life becomes richer. But the recognition of God does something else to us. It takes away the sense of ownership and replaces it with a sense of stewardship. We are no longer owners. God is Lord of all and we are His stewards, administering His wealth to His glory and for the welfare of His Church and of His children.

There are several practical ways of showing our thankfulness. One is to support such community efforts as Welfare Federation; another is to maintain with the utmost generosity the Church to which we belong. And there are many private affairs to which we commit ourselves.

Our thanksgiving must be in thought and word and deed to our Father and His children.

St. Andrew's United Church

The theme of Thanksgiving will be observed at Saint Andrew's United Church, Westmount, on this coming Sunday. At the Morning Service the minister, Dr. D. M. Grant, will preach on the subject "All Dressed Up and No Place to Go". At the Evening Service the Assistant Minister, Rev. Robert Mumford, will preach from the theme "Thanksgiving, 1957". The ministry of music at both services will be directed by Mr. Eric Adams and the Saint Andrew's Choir.

The Saint Andrew's Church School will meet on Sunday morning, the Beginners, Primary and Junior Departments at 11:00 and the Seniors and Intermediates at 10:00. A special class of the Intermediate Department will gather at 11:00.

During the week the Scouts and Guides will hold their regular meetings at 7:15 p.m. on Tuesday evening and the Cubs on Friday evening will meet at 7:00 p.m.

Westmount Baptist Church

In the absence of the minister, Rev. Edgar J. Bailey, who is leading an Evangelistic Campaign in Charlottetown, P.E.I., Dr. J. A. Johnston will conduct the services, morning and evening, in Westmount Baptist Church, Sunday.

Recognizing Her Majesty's visit to Canada, the services will observe Thanksgiving. The address of the morning will carry the title: "NO MIRACLES — BUT TRUE!" while that of the evening will be under the caption: "PORTIA PLEADS AGAIN!" the brief of a woman barrister who won her case. Visitors will be welcomed.

Enjoy summer by the gallon

People who love summer hate to see it pass. That's the way we feel at Shell. So we did something about it. Something rather special.

Red Feather district chairmen pleased with campaign returns

Westmount is giving its usual good support to the Red Feather campaign, according to comments received from the three district chairmen for the community. In Westmount East district chairman Mrs. W. P. Carr, 445 Strathcona avenue, has nearly 100 volunteer workers busily engaged in canvassing to reach Westmount East's objective of $20,054.

In Westmount North district chairman Mrs. W. H. Seymour Lueas, 3787 Cote des Neiges road, and her volunteer workers numbering nearly 125 reported returns were coming in well towards their objective of $35,000.

Westmount West district chairman Mrs. Elliott A. Durnford also expressed herself as being extremely optimistic about results of the drive. The district has an objective of $13,718 with approximately 100 workers hard at canvassing.

All three chairmen praised the work of their team captains and canvassers and concurred in saying that this year had seen the most thorough canvass ever done for the Red Feather campaign even though many workers and their children had been ill with flu. The Red Feather drive this year has an overall goal of $1,862,000. Campaign leaders have stressed the need for a 15 per cent increase in total giving if the goal is to be attained. The drive, which supports 31 Red Feather services in Greater Montreal, is the largest annual maintenance appeal in the city and the third largest in Canada.

Any resident who has not yet been canvassed and who wishes to make a donation should get in touch with Red Feather campaign headquarters at 1040 Atwater avenue.

October Leaves

There is a shower of autumn leaves,
Blown by the wind that falls in October;
Spotting the roofs with splashes of color;
And filling the eaves.

Like rubies and other colored gems
Their descent seems aimless, willy-nilly,
How gently they land be it flat or hilly,
Steered by their stems.

Sometimes, into a river they tumble,
Just as the sun gives way, before dark,
Riding the currents better than a man-made bark,
Until upon a log they stumble.

They alight upon the evergreens,
Decorations — like baubles on a Christmas tree,
Then downward they float, so fancy-free
And covered with dew; they gleam.

As I see that stand of woods,
Of "tinted" birch and "painted" maple,
A blaze of fire and just as unstable —
Life is more clearly understood.

They're piled against the cord-wood there;
'And filling the hollows of the ground;
They move with the slightest rustle of sound,
'And high above them the trees are bare.

Every day is "Ladies' Day" at Le Pavillon

Ladies who lunch in Le Pavillon of the Hotel de LaSalle tell us they find the atmosphere "Delightful," the decor "so charming" and the food "absolutely divine!" Well, we admire them too... their pretty chatter that enlivens the midday hours.

Barbarians atop standing

Football

Montreal Barbarians held their lead at the top of the Quebec Rugby League standings with a 6-0 win against Ottawa.

Westmount moved into second slot, three points back, by spoiling the McGill Redmen's debut with a 9-0 whitewash.

Wanderers took over third position by beating the Town of Mount Royal 14-11 in a thriller at Trenholme Park.

The Barbarians invaded the nation's capital and while only hitting the score sheet twice flashed brilliant play throughout their tussle against the stout defending Bytown Beavers.

Bert Reid opened the scoring with a sensational 55 yard penalty goal. The visitor's touchdown was notched by Martin Wallace.

Westmount were too good for McGill in the colleg boy's opening league encounter. The campus crew showed enough form to indicate they will be a serious threat for league honors once they settle down.

Broncs beat Mules, knot up first place

Two low scoring games were staged in the Westmount Recreation Department eight man football league on Saturday at Westmount Grounds.

The Broncs won 13-6 over the second place Mules and the two teams are tied for first place. Huskies tied up last place with a 14-6 victory over Bulls.

The first game saw the Huskies capture their first win of the season by outchargin' the Bulls to win by a 24-6 count.

In the opening quarter, Hal Smith of the Bulls went 75 yds around end for the Bulls only score in the game. Quarterback Dave Tyldsley came back for the Huskies to major from 3 yards out. Both converts were missed.

In the second quarter Tyldsley passed 10 yards to Constant Nucci for the only TD of the quarter. In the third quarter, the Tyldsley-Nucci combination again clicked; Nucci gathering in a pass from Dave to go 70 yards and hit paydirt.

The last stanza was highlighted by a grotesque run of Dave Tyldsley, who went 43 yards in the broken field to score the last major of the game. Buddy McKaig turned in a fine effort along with Claude Servant for the winners.

Gordie Cole, transferred from the Mules was a standout both offensively and defensively for the Bulls. Both the Bull's coaches were away sick, and John Garland took the reins to guide them very nicely.

The second game was a very close contest all the way, with the Broncs finally emerging the victors by a 13-6 count. Both teams were handicapped by the absence of several of their leading players.

The scoreboard was unmarked until the league leading scorer, Tony McCullagh went 5 yards around end for the major score.

Tony also converted his try. Tony Tyrrell came back for the Mules on a 25 yard run for a TD.

The Broncs scored their last major of the game when McCullagh went over on a 33 yard pass and run play. Gordie Robson took over the quarter slot and did very well throughout the game.

The final quarter was nip and tuck with no scoring throughout. These two teams will put on a tremendous show when both at full strength.

YMCA starts cage drills

Basketball is once more in full swing at Westmount "Y." Plans are being held for an entry into Senior "B" section of the Montreal Basketball League.

Last year's players have been rallying and several prospects are being lined up to bring the team up to full strength.

Among those expected to be out are, Randy Brooks, Vic Bryant, Charlie Ancrum, Rod Glansdorp, Phil Harrison, Stan English and Carl Hotter.

Practice periods are scheduled Wednesday at 8:00 and Saturday at 2:00 p.m. The "Y" floor has been freshly sanded and relined with the official new style "key-hole."

The Westmounters plan to enter the Golden Ball Tourney, and also to take part in a number of exhibition games here, Quebec City and Ottawa.

Mt. Royal girls win inter-school tennis

Town of Mont Royal High School scoring eight out of a possible nine points, defeated three other school teams to win the girls' inter-school doubles tennis tournament.

Lachine High School ranked second in the meet with six points, followed by Westmount

Junior and Montreal West High School.

The winning Mount Royal team was made up of: Betty Jost, Claudia Bierman, Linda Gick, Karen Lanthier, Inger Conradi, and Robin Goodfellow.

After nearly four years of haggling with their bosses, major league baseball players finally have succeeded in having their minimum salary raised from $6,000 to $7,000 a year.

Rys reaches final by ousting Forsyth

P. Rys trimmed J. Hodge 6-3, 6-3; P. Morse edged H. Shapiro 6-4, 6-4 and M. Collier was extended 10-8 in the second set after taking the first 6-4 to eliminate the veteran G. Fochs in the third round matches played in the Westmount Men's Open Singles Tennis Tournament in progress at the Adult Courts.

Rys got himself a berth in the final by ousting former champ Alex Forsyth by scores of 6-3, 8-6.

Rys will tangle for the 1957 crown with either Morse or Collier who are scheduled to meet in the other semi-final match.

GULF, CURLING CLUB

A new combined golf and curling club is presently under construction in Maple Grove, Beauharnois County, 17 miles from Montreal on route No. 3. The Beauharnois Country Club Inc., will be strictly a members club with a limited membership for both curling and golf.

Work is well advanced on the golf course and a complete nine hole layout with a par of 36 will be ready for play in June 1958.

With an annual value of production of $1.4 billion, pulp and paper accounts for seven per cent of the value of the output of all Canadian industry.
