St. John Appeal Is, "Give In Westmount"

Library Fund Dedication Next Monday

The dedication ceremony of the Rabbi Herman Abramowitz Library Fund, initiated and sponsored by the Parents-Teachers Association of Shaar Hashomayim Congregation, Westmount, will be held Monday at 8 p.m. in the Community Hall.

An impressive programme has been arranged for this significant occasion, which is being held as one of the Synagogue's Centennial functions, and will include messages from the Affiliated Societies of the Congregation, the dedication ceremony, invocation and a description of the project.

Tribute will be paid to Rabbi Ambramowitz, who will be presented with an illuminated scroll as a memento, by the officers and executive of the Parents-Teachers Association, of which Nat. W. Jacobs, K.C., is president. An informal social will conclude the evening. Harry Kirsch, chairman of the Library fund, will acknowledge the generous donations of valuable books received to date.

It is anticipated that Rabbi Abramowitz, who is keenly interested in the innovation, will be present and will deliver a brief message.

MILLION DOLLAR CAMPAIGN

The St. John Ambulance is campaigning for $1,000,000 across Canada to support the work of its Association and Brigade. More than 600,000 persons have been trained in first aid by this organization and it now has more than 12,000 qualified members in the brigade, who are constantly on call for help in emergencies of every kind. In the Province of Quebec, the quota is $285,000. Above are the co-chairmen of the Quebec appeal, Paul F. Sise, left, and Hon. J. E. Perrault, K.C.

Co-Operation Necessary From Every Resident

The Westmount headquarters of the St. John Ambulance Appeal presented a busy picture all this week as volunteer workers under the direction of co-chairman F. D. Knowles and Mrs. Clifford Fortier went about systematically covering the homes in Westmount. For this campaign, Westmount had been divided somewhat differently from any previous campaign, and instead of being covered by districts is being canvassed by streets, so that every resident will be contacted.

Both Mrs. Fortier and Mr. Knowles were high in their praise of the splendid effort being put forth by the volunteer workers, who are for the most part, Westmount women. As an example of the hard work and forethought of these women, Mr. Knowles cited the case of one woman, who, realizing that most housewives would be in their homes on Monday on account of the blizzard, spent all day Monday walking through unshovelled streets to call at the homes on her list and was able, as a result of this special effort, to turn in her card completed on Tuesday morning.

In Westmount the following groups have organized teams and are devoting a great deal of time and effort to work on this Appeal. The Westmount Women's Club, Catholic Women's League, American Women's Club, Canadian Legion Branch 39, Rotary Club of Westmount, Westmount Taxis, and a group of Bankers, all have organized teams and pledged their support to the local headquarters. The Westmount Brigade of the St. John Ambulance is assuming responsibility for a large part of the work.

While the response of Westmount residents has to date been very encouraging it is the volunteer workers who deserve a great deal of credit for their efforts, and especially the women workers. In speaking of the placing of subscriptions by husbands in Westmount, Mr. Knowles had this to say:—

"There are so many women working on this Appeal in Suburban areas, and especially in Westmount, who have domestic obligations, that men of Westmount should place their subscriptions in Westmount and the women workers are expecting this response. It is most discouraging to call two or three times at a home to be finally told that the husband is giving down town, so that I particularly appeal to the men of Westmount to discuss this matter with their wives and give wherever possible when the worker calls at your home.

"There is always the possibility that a large number of the men will not be solicited in the industrial or down-town area, so this home donation may be the only opportunity to help the St. John Ambulance to help others."

"Citizens of Westmount", concluded Mr. Knowles, "have always come forward in answer to an appeal so worthy, and those who may not be called upon by a worker can telephone the headquarters at Victoria Hall, EL. 2220, and volunteer their donation."

Stressing the added work which is entailed when workers have to make repeated calls at any one home, Mr. Knowles requests residents to be prepared for the workers when he or she calls.

John Shepherd Will Instruct B.B. Brass Band

The 1st Company of the Boys' Brigade have been fortunate in securing John Shepherd to instruct their Memorial Trumpet band ,during the absence of Alan Robinson. John Shepherd is a talented musician, having played for a number of years in a School brass band, and presently in The Boys' Brigade Brass band as cornetist. Special drum instruction will be carried on by Cpt. Geo. Smith.

The annual B. B. Week campaign is well under way and will be carried on until next week. Officers expect the company will exceed last year's objective and establish a new record.

The Company regrets to announce that several members have been laid up with bad colds, in the persons of Hadden Whitelaw, who has been confined to his home for three weeks; Bobby Marshall and Claude Sawyer.

The seniors have enjoyed their get-togethers with Rev. Andrew Mowatt each Tuesday from 9 to 10 p.m. and are planning a very active programme.

Lieut. William Shaw will be affiliated with the 1st Company while he is stationed in Montreal, having come from the 28th Toronto Company, where he rose from Private to Lieutenant, and successfully maintained the company during the war years.

Speakers Group Under P. Harling Formed By Club

The first of a series of talks sponsored by the Westmount Young Liberals Club will be presented to the Westmount Boys Hi-Y on Thursday, February 20th. William A. MacDonald, president of the active Liberal group, will be the speaker, and he will discuss "Youth and Politics."

The Liberal Club has formed a Speakers Committee, under chairmanship of Peter Harling and the committee will arrange with various groups of young people in Westmount to have these talks presented. The Westmount Young Liberals Club believes that it is essential that young people take an active and intelligent interest in the political affairs of the nation. By presenting their views for the consideration of these various clubs, the Liberal group hope to present a clear and broadminded picture of politics.

All speeches by the club are given by its members. There is a panel of six young men who make a deep study of politics and the Speakers Committee feel that their talks will be of great interest to the young peoples club in Westmount.

"Metropolitan Government For Greater Montreal"

A speech by George C. Marler, N.P., M.L.A.

Due to the interest taken by the public in the question of Metropolitan Government, the Westmount Municipal Association has requested the Examiner to reprint in full a speech made at the Annual Meeting of the Association. Since space does not permit us to carry the complete speech in one issue, we have divided it into four parts, the second of which appears below.

1. Sanitation. This includes the collection and disposal of refuse, both domestic and industrial, and the construction and maintenance of the sewage and drainage system.

A. So far as waste collection is concerned, the quality of the service now rendered can only be improved by incurring additional expense, and in a general way it may be said that no gain in efficiency or economy in operation would result from entrusting this service to a central body.

B. So far as drainage is concerned, circumstances, and particularly geographical conditions, have resulted in the City of Montreal having become the authority for main drainage in the metropolitan area; and Montreal must be recognized as the proper body to undertake the construction and maintenance of the main collector sewers and sewage disposal plants. Each municipality, however, must remain responsible for local drainage in its own territory, and in the matter of its relations with Montreal as the main drainage authority, will continue to have the very adequate protection afforded by the Public Health Act which enables the Transportation and Communications Board to order the construction of drainage facilities, and to apportion the cost of the work and the expenses of maintenance and operation among the municipalities concerned. In this domaine a new central body would be of no usefulness or advantage.

2. Highways. This term embraces the activities of opening and building new streets and thoroughfares, lighting them, maintaining them in good repair, and keeping them clean by watering in summer and by removing snow and ice in winter.

If a borough system were introduced and the example of London, England, was followed, responsibility for the arterial and semi-arterial highways would be attributed to the central body, while responsibility for the other streets would remain with the municipalities. By such means the original cost of construction and the annual costs of lighting, cleaning, etc. of the arterial and semi-arterial streets would be spread over the whole metropolitan area. Though I think that this responsibility should be so distributed I do not believe that we need a borough system for this purpose.

A rational classification of the streets and thoroughfares, and a fair and logical distribution of the original and annual costs among the municipalities could be made without too much difficulty. That this duty would have to be performed by a central or metropolitan authority is evident and I shall have something further to say on this a little later, but I may say at this point that I consider that the responsibility for the work of construction and for maintenance should remain with the municipality in which the street or part of the street is located, the central body to finance original costs and to provide for the annual costs by assessing them over the metropolitan territory or the areas benefited.

3. Parks and recreation. I do not think that anyone who has advocated the establishment of a borough system has gone so far as to suggest that the parks, playgrounds and other recreational facilities of a city or town should be administered by a central body. Common sense dictates that local interest be stimulated and encouraged.

In this connection, we might well regard as a metropolitan responsibility and of common advantage the acquisition of one or more bathing beaches for the metropolitan population, and the preservation for use as parks of some of the few remaining wooded sections of the Island. We ought not forget that those who are in greatest need of recreational facilities are the underprivileged elements of the community, whose welfare is a common responsibility.

4. Waterworks. This term is used to designate the operation of distributing water, wholesale and retail, to domestic, commercial and industrial consumers. In the metropolitan area there are two systems: one owned by the City of Lachine which serves Lachine and LaSalle; the other owned by the City of Montreal, which distributes water in Montreal East, Pointe-aux-Trembles, St. Pierre, Outremont and Westmount, and supplies it wholesale to the other metropolitan municipalities which own their distribution system and retail the water to their own citizens. I cannot see how any gain in efficiency or any reduction in cost would result from the centralisation of this service. I think, however, that it would be desirable if the rates for water were uniform throughout the metropolitan area, and if there were no "favoured nation" treatment of any municipality or any group of consumers.

5. Fire protection: Those who advocate the "borough system" for Greater Montreal never fail to include fire protection among the services to be under the central body, and yet there is probably no municipal service which at the present time is less suited to metropolitan organization. In the towns the policemen serve as firemen in case of an alarm and are supplemented by a volunteer force, whereas in the cities there is a full complement of firemen on duty twenty-four hours a day. If a metropolitan service were to be organized the stations in the towns would have to be manned by full time firemen, the apparatus in some instances would have to be replaced, and some areas not adequately protected would have to be given protection.

This would involve a substantial outlay for new equipment and buildings and a material increase in the annual cost of fire protection of the towns. I cannot see how the cities, which would pay 95% of the metropolitan charges, and therefore of fire protection, could be expected to shoulder this burden, and at the present time it seems to be too great for the towns to assume, because there is nothing except the cost to prevent them from organizing their fire departments with full time firemen if they wish to do so.

Though I do not see the advantages of a metropolitan fire brigade for the towns, I do believe that there are some advantages to be gained by arrangements for mutual aid between Montreal and some of its neighbours, and that better use can be made of existing facilities. I think also that in the location of new stations in the metropolitan area we should seek to avoid overlapping protection particularly where interurban arrangements could make any duplication of facilities unnecessary.

The grand Patrol Leaders' Banquet concluding Scout week will be held Saturday, February 22nd, in the Mount Royal Hotel, and Viscount Alexander will be the principal guest and speaker for the occasion. We hope you have your ticket reservations in now, or else you will be out of luck altogether, as seats are very scarce.

The February Badge List has been issued by Headquarters and the following are included among the badges: Marksman, Part 1, Monday, the 17th; Pathfinder, Tuesday the 18th; Laundryman, Wednesday the 19th; Knotter, Wednesday the 19th; Ambulance Man, Thursday, the 20th; Missioner, Monday the 24th; Interpreter-French, Tuesday the 25th; Artist, Friday the 28th. Canada's 100,000 Boy Scouts will join with nearly five million other members of the Movement throughout the world in mourning the tragic death in an airplane crash of His Royal Highness, Prince Gustaf Adolf of Sweden, Honorary President of the International Committee of the Boy Scouts Association, and Chief Scout for Sweden. The Prince was an active supporter of the Movement since joining it as a boy.

Three Quebec Scouts will be included in the party of 35 Scouts and Scouters who will be selected to go to the International Jamboree in Paris this summer, and we hope for at least one from Montreal district. Boys nominated must be from 13½-17½ years of age, holding at least their First class badge while preference will be given to King's Scouts with their Bushman's Thong. Do not send in any nomination unless, in some way or other, you can finance the Scout to the tune of some $500.

An Akela Training Camp for Wolf Cub Leaders has been arranged to be held from Saturday, August 16th, to Saturday, August 23rd, 1947, on the Camp Tamaracouta property, 50 miles north of Montreal. This will be the week following the closing of the camp for Scouts. Details will be announced later, but the dates are given now so that holidays may be arranged suitably when the lists come around.

There will be no Gilwell Training Camp for Scout Leaders this summer in accordance with the "alternate year" policy adopted.

Roslyn News

By DOUGLAS TURNER and ROSS SOUTHWARD

February 6th there were two boys' basketball games played in the school gym. The first took place between the Hurons and the Mohawks. The last place Hurons put up a good fight, but were no match for the first place Mohawks who won 29-0. The second game was played between the Blackfeet and the Dog-Ribs. These teams were better matched but at the end of the game the Dog-Ribs were leading 14-5.

On February 4th, the school was delighted to receive a half holiday. This was due to the fast stepping Roslyn Girls' Basketball team. In the deciding game the Roslyn team beat King's School 26-13.

Last Monday the hockey playoffs began with a game between the Roslyn Belmonts and the King's Tigers. It was a good game but an unfortunate one for Roslyn. King's scored four goals in the first period and managed to hold that lead in spite of Roslyn's effort. The final score was King's 7, Roslyn 3.

Room 13 has sent another $5 to the Red Cross for February and it makes a total of $25 in the past five months. This money has gone to the polio fund.

Maureen Lefcort of Room 20 has returned from California and Arizona.

Westmount Highlights

By JOHN DICKINS

There is, at the moment of this writing, a new addition to the gallery of silverware adorning the WHS library. It is a trophy in the form of three silver male statuettes with upraised hands holding laurel wreaths. This impressive award was donated by the WHS Old Boys' Association and is to go to the grand winner of the various inter-class sport schedules. Quizzed on his personal attitude toward the donation, Lou Davies, WHS athletics, said "Just the thing we need". Lead the cheer, Mr. Davies.

Weredale House Holds 76th Annual Meeting

Broad planning, frank cooperation and a courageous effort should be the keynotes to all social welfare work in Montreal where child delinquency, divorce problems and other social dangers have led to a serious neglect of children "who are least able to help themselves," Vernon F. McAdam, secretary-manager of Weredale House, the Boys' Home of Montreal, stated at the 76th annual meeting of the institution, held at the Weredale Park building.

Following Mr. McAdam's report on the activities of the institution, Arthur H. Campbell, for many years active in boys' work, was elected honorary president for the current year, succeeding the late F. N. Southam. Others elected included: J. H. Birks, Arthur Cross, James A. Eccles, Philip S. Fisher, George Hogg and Arthur B. Wood, members of the advisory board; re-elected were: Norman Holland, president; Eliot S. Frosst, C. F. Ritchie, vice-presidents; D. Binny Robertson, C.A., honorary treasurer; H. George S. Bain, honorary secretary; Arthur J. Martin, M.D., honorary physician and Charles A. Hale, K.C., honorary solicitor.

Mr. McAdam appealing for increased assistance to meet the current expenses of Weredale House said that the need for providing care for children who are without homes through no fault of their own has more than doubled during the past 10 years. At the same time he pointed out, "the resources to meet this increased responsibility are fewer than in the past."

He deplored the lack of proper facilities to care for Protestant boys, saying, "Never has the problem been more serious and never has our ability to meet it been more futile." Referring to his personal experience during the past 30 years, Mr. McAdam stated that the "children's field has been the most frequently surveyed, and paradoxically, the least effectively planned for, of all phases of our welfare work, as shown by our present impasse. This must not be allowed to continue."

Mr. McAdam thanked all those responsible for the assistance extended to Weredale House and paid special tribute to the former honorary president of the institution, the late F. N. Southam.

Eliot S. Frosst, vice-president of the institution, read the annual report of the president, in absence of Mr. Holland. He stressed the need for more play and locker room space, as well as larger space for staff accommodation. The statistical report, also presented to the meeting noted that 71 boys had been admitted during the past year. They included 37 from children's service associations, three full orphans, and 27 half orphans; 65 of them are protestants, five Catholic and one Jew.

The activities at Weredale House included night-school lectures, public speaking groups, manual training, hobby classes, gymnasium classes, swim periods and several other activities.

The following were named life governors of the institution: John Biulard, E. Campbell Budge, James L. Carson, Mrs. Murray R. Chipman, J. E. Dodds, F. H. Hopkins, Mrs. F. W. Horner, A. W. Horsey, J. A. Kilpatrick, H. Ralph Leavitt, Dr. and Mrs. Martin, A. W. McMaster, J. E. Millen, C. D. Rutherford, Mrs. W. Grant Stewart and Mrs. A. D. Thornton.

Dr. W. Bourne, Of McGill Speaks On Anaesthesia

Dr. Wesley Bourne, Head of the Department of Anaesthesia of McGill University, as guest speaker at the Rotary Club of Westmount luncheon in Victoria Hall on Wednesday, gave the Rotarians an interesting and factual account of how anaesthesics were conceived and later experiments with them.

While the idea was conceived in the dim and distant past, it was only about 100 years ago, in an era that produced more than its share of brilliant men, that the subject of anaesthesia really came in for extensive study. It was in this period the speaker pointed out that nitrous oxide, commonly known as laughing gas was used in several experiments and the fact established that pain could be alleviated by such means. Michael Faraday conducted several experiments with this gas.

Later Hickman experimented with carbon dioxide and operated on mice, and dogs while under the influence of this gas and proved that they did not feel any pain.

Wells a lecturer on medicine in the United States finally received permission to present a brief to a group of student doctors on ether. He concluded his address by administering ether to a youth for the extraction of a tooth, but the youth cried out during the extraction and many of the student doctors were unimpressed and spoke of the whole subject as a hoax, although the youth later asserted that he had felt no pain while the tooth was being pulled. To Wells however, has been conceeded getting the idea of the use of anaesthesia.

Dr. Henry J. Biglow, who was present at Dr. Wells' lecture was impressed and later carried the study of anaesthesics further.

Dr. Bourne was introduced by Rotarian Don Ross and Dr. Geo. Little expressed the thanks of the club.

Residents Invited To Attend Lectures

The school for food handlers opened Monday with A. G. McNab instructing and conducted under the auspices of the Director of the Department of Health.

Comprehensive lectures in bacteriology, communicable diseases, medical zoology, foods, disinfection, sterilization, personal hygiene, and sanitation give food handlers complete information on how to prepare and handle foods to maintain the highest standards of cleanliness and sanitation.

Referring to the necessity for such training Dr. J. J. Day, local Health Director said, "No one would step into a bus loaded with passengers and be foolhardy enough to drive that bus without a proper understanding of its mechanical workings. The responsibility of a food handler is just as great on him to serve them with due regard to their health and safety. ,Just as an untrained driver represents a hazard to the bus passengers, so does the careless or untrained food handler represent a hazard to his patrons."

The next class in this series of lectures will be held Monday at Victoria Hall starting at 3 p. m. and Mr. McNab has issued an invitation to all those residents who are interested in increasing their knowledge of food handling to attend.

At Monday's session two films will be shown entitled, "Service With a Smile," and "In Hot Water."

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

BY WINIFRED E. WILSON

Our Vanished Birds

Only continual vigilance on the part of bird lovers keeps some of our most treasured species from extinction. When Great Auks and Passenger Pigeons could be counted by the thousands men fancied their supply was inexhaustible. Yet not one of either kind remains.

On Jacques Cartier's first voyage to America, in 1534, he found quantities of penguin-like birds living on what we now call Funk Island and the Magdalen Islands. He described them as being the size of geese, black and white, with beaks resembling Crows'. Only in water were they masters of their surroundings. Their wings were undeveloped and unsuited for flight; their short legs placed far back, so that on land they squatted with upright bodies. With difficulty they dragged their fat bodies along. The sailors picked them up and threw them into the boats like stones.

Fishermen that continued to come from Europe to the banks off Newfoundland made no other provision for food. These Great Auks could be herded onto their boats by gangplanks. They were hunted for their flesh, their eggs, and even their feathers.

When Audubon visited Labrador almost exactly three centuries after Cartier he was informed that the same practice was still going on. No wonder the Great Auk disappeared from this side of the Atlantic before 1840. Some museum pieces, a few eggs, and the name "Penguin Island" are all that is left of this splendid bird.

A more recent loss of bird life is the now extinct Passenger Pigeon. Champlain recorded that in 1605 he saw "an infinite number" and took a great many. Audubon estimated one flock contained over a billion birds. Even some old people of today can remember. when immense flocks darkened the skies as they passed overhead in migration.

These Pigeons bred in Canada from the Mackenzie Valley to the east coast, and south well into the United States. But their nests were cut down for the sake of the young birds; the migrants were shot at by every man owning a gun; the Pigeons were netted and sent by carloads to the cities. Ernest Thompson Seton said they were abundant in Manitoba until 1878; but the last one was recorded there in 1898.

Now all that remains of the Passenger Pigeon is a memory, and the name of a bird sanctuary on the Lake of Two Mountains, "Ile aux Tourtes."

Brewery Hobby Show Winners

Listed among winners at the annual Hobby Show of National Breweries Ltd. which opened on Monday night were Joseph Brennan, 3412 Addington Avenue, and Edward Birmingham, Jr., 4661 Earnscliffe Avenue, for Notre Dame de Grace and for Westmount, Dr. H. G. Ross, 4485 Sherbrooke Street West and J. E. Pickering, 225 Melville Avenue.

Other winners were Mrs. Andre Tremblay, Mrs. R. Belisle, Mrs. Bernadette Bertrand, Mrs. Roger Gosselin, R. W. Jackson, Joe Breton, J. B. Jessery, Lucien Amyot and an honorary mention went to Miss Diana Romane, of Verdun. Judging of the exhibits took place before the show officially opened.

"We all need relaxation and many of us obtain it in different ways, but it seems to me that one obtains a great deal of satisfaction out of making something with one's own hands that is useful and decorative," Norman J. Dawes, president of the National Breweries Limited, declared last night in opening the annual Hobby Show of the Breweries' employes.

All hobbies exhibited are the work of the employes or members of their immediate family. The 5,000 exhibits are on display at the Dawes Black Horse Brewery, 740 St. Maurice street. The show will be open nightly from 8 p.m. to 11 p.m. until February 22, Sunday excluded.

Unity Valentine Dance To-night At Queen's

,On Monday evening, Unity held their second sleigh ride. Weather conditions were ideal for this event and every one had a swell time. About 25 members went on the ride.

As an added attraction at the Unity Valentine Dance tonight, Bob O'Neil will present the first showing of his Unity Frolics. This show will comprise of about five acts and should be an enjoyable half-hour for all who are at the dance. The dance is being held at Queens' School.

Work is progressing quite nicely down at the club and has already reached the half way mark to being completed. However there is still an urgent need for helpers to complete this work by the end of this month.

Dal. Univ. is seeking $3,000,000 for extension work. The appeal opens May 12 under the direction of Dr. A. E. Kerr, the president, and Colonel K. C. Laurie, Chairman of the Board of Governors. J. McG. Stewart, K.C., of Halifax, has agreed to act as General Chairman of the Committee in charge of the appeal.

REGINA HARD HIT BY SNOW DRIFTS

Folks in Regina, Sask., are fighting the worst of all snowdrifts, and 13 communities along the west side of Lake Manitoba are isolated as a result. The storm has tied up transportation and the cold, as low as 22 below zero, doesn't help any. This milk-distributing "depot" was set up in a Regina suburb when the driver was unable to reach homes.

Mechanics' Institute Elects New Officers

Reports from the various committees were presented Tuesday evening at the annual meeting of the Mechanics' Institute, one of the oldest libraries in the city.

C. J. A. Cook, president, outlined the activities of the year and reported a collection of 51,950 volumes as a result of the 1,396 books added to their shelves during the past year. An increase was also noted in the number of persons using the reading rooms; also the lecture halls were in frequent demand by study groups.

The retiring officers and members of the general committee were re-elected for another term: Mr. Cook, president; Dr. A. A. Bramley-Moore, vice-president; A. J. G. Macduff, treasurer; H. F. Swift, secretary; Walter G. Attridge, H. H. Boyd, F. J. Eveleigh, V. F. McAdam, C. T. Russell. Other members of the management committee are G. Alan Johnson, J. Ernest Millen, Fred D. Rogers, E. A. Thorne and Thomas Blaikie, past president.

Miss G. Colley Service Held

Miss Georgina Henrietta Colley, well-known nurse and social worker, was buried here Monday in Mount Royal Cemetery following a service in the Joseph C. Wray & Bros. Chapel, Mountain street. The service was conducted by Canon Gilbert Oliver, of St. Matthias Anglican Church, of which Miss Colley was a member, who was assisted by Maj. George Hartas, of the Salvation Army.

Miss Colley was one of the oldest local members of the Salvation Army. She graduated as a nurse from the Montreal General Hospital in 1895 and afterwards served on the staff. She did social service work near Griffintown, Point St. Charles and St. Henry and during the First War joined the V.A.D.'s and served as a matron at Belmont, McTavish and Drummond convalescent homes. She later became a member of the Army Medical Corps and worked at St. Johns, Que., and Ste. Anne's Military hospitals. Ehe was a member of the I.O.D.E. Edith Cavell Chapter.

Chief mourners were her sister-in-law, Mrs. William Colley, two nephews and eight nieces.

Swimming, Water-Safety Courses Calculated To Reduce Drownings

Each year in Canada more than a thousand persons lose their lives by drowning. In the Province of Quebec the drowning rate is even higher—per capita—than in Canada as a whole. More than four hundred persons die each year in this province.

To reduce this frightful—and often unnecessary — toll of human lives, the Canadian Red Cross Society organized last summer a nation-wide system of courses in swimming and in water-safety. And the courses continue during the winter, by using indoor pools instead of beaches and lakes and rivers.

In the Province of Quebec the Canadian Red Cross has already given directly through specially-trained instructors, more than two thousand lessons in swimming and water-security. The number of instructors fully qualified by Red Cross and who have been handing on the knowledge they gained comes to more than two hundred. And the system provides for more instructors qualified each year.

More than thirty public schools in Montreal are using indoor swimming pools to carry on winter courses in water-safety under the Red Cross plan. In this way hundreds of young city boys and girls are getting a proper grounding in knowledge essential to protect them and their comrades during their summer outings on the water, or when swimming and diving.

The total of children who have been taught already in the province runs into the thousands.

It is too early to secure all the statistics on drownings to determine to what extent this work of the Red Cross has reduced the death rate in Canada. However, it is likely that the other provinces of Canada have profited to a greater extent than Quebec from the courses offered by the Canadian Red Cross. But more and more the population of this province is taking advantage of the free instruction which the Red Cross gives.

Such has been the success of the work that now the University of McGill has adopted the Red Cross course as part of the curriculum of the McGill School of Physical Education where male students are now being taught the Red Cross methods of swimming and water safety. Later, girl students will probably take a similar course and it seems likely that the University of Montreal will also adopt the course.

The Red Cross is not primarily interested in swimming as a competitive sport. That is left to the various organizations already in the field. The Red Cross is however definitely interested in personal safety in and on the water and endorses the activities of recognized organizations engaged in such work. Its aims in teaching swimming and water-safety are two-fold; first as a measure to reduce the toll of deaths from drowning throughout Canada and secondly to promote a healthful form of exercise and physical development.

Statistics bring out the fact that the majority of people living in the Province of Quebec live near rivers or lakes. Yet only one person in ten in this province knows how to swim at all —let alone how to save himself or a comrade in distress.

The techniques taught by the Red Cross come largely from the experience of the American Red Cross. However, they have been adapted to regional requirements in Canada. The instruction includes such subjects as personal safety in the water, how to cope with cold water and ice; handling of watercraft; behavior in weeds and currents; improvised life-buoys; foolproof aids to distressed swimmers; special strokes that make for strong swimming and high manoeuvrability in the water; how to tow a distressed swimmer and a variety of other aspects of the science of safe swimming. Each prospective instructor must do practical teaching before he or she gets the Red Cross Certificate of competence and must actually teach for a certain period before getting the final diploma in swimming and water safety.

Valentine Dance Saturday Night

The Westmount 'Y' Saturday Nite Club will hold its special Valentine Dance on Saturday, at 9 p.m. This will be the first of the monthly parties to be conducted by the new S.N.C. Executive, under the chairmanship of Bill Pardoe, to replace the regular weekly parties held up till the end of January.

Music for the occasion will be supplied by Johnny Pepper and his orchestra, who has been so popular among the Saturday night crowd with his sweet and rhythmic tunes. In keeping with the holiday festival, Bill Ridley and his decorating committee have planned appropriate decorations.

John Pitblado, chairman of the Publicity and Membership Committee, says that this party will exceed by far the brilliance of any previous S.N.C. dance. Miss Ruth Kervin, chairman of the Refreshment Committee, has arranged for sandwiches, coffee and a Valentine cake. The novelty dance program will be under the direction of Graydon Riepert, who will also act as Master of Ceremonies.

HANDICAPPED WORKERS' FINE RECORD

"A recent sample survey shows that the physically handicapped worker in Canadian industry is proving himself as efficient as those with no physical handicaps," it was stated by Hon. Humphrey Mitchell, Minister of Labour, in announcing the results of a survey of physically handicapped workers, carried out by the National Employment Service in late 1946. The sample covered 467 Canadian firms employing 2,315 workers classified as "handicapped personnel."

The Minister added that the evidence secured in the survey bore out the contention of the officers of the National Employment Service concerned with the placement of disabled workers, that physical handicaps are not necessarily vocational handicaps.

The survey was made during 1946 when physically fit workers were available for many types of work. The fact that firms had not only retained their physically handicapped employees, but in many instances had engaged other workers with disabilities, was the best testimony to their work ability, the Minister said.

The firms which were covered by the survey are located in 48 centres across Canada, and employ a total of 2,315 handicapped persons, either male or female, of whom about one half are handicapped veterans.

The work records of these, 2,315 physically handicapped persons show that the great majority of them do as much or more work than the average normal employee on the same type of job. A total of 313, or 13.5 percent, are reported to have a lower output than the physcially fit workers. However, 1,783, or 77 percent of them, are said to turn out the same amount of work as the fit person, while 219, or 9.5 percent of the surveyed do more work than the fit worker.

SAVE THE CHILDREN FUND

"The memory of these children in Budapest and their utter destitution will always haunt me", writes a Save the Children Fund worker in Hungary in a report to Canadian SCF headquarters.

In Budapest alone there are 59,000 families whose fathers are either dead or prisoners, and 90% of these families have not enough income to support their children. The worker writes that "milk and meat are almost non-existent", and the daily rations given out at the Budapest orphanages contain only 1200 calories. At the day nurseries, for instance, two meals only are served per day, where it used to be four. Those two precious meals are the only ones most of the smaller youngsters see each day.

Proof of the destitution of these Hungarian children are the infant mortality figures which have again risen considerably during the winter months. During the summer of 1945 deaths among babies and children were reduced from 50% to 30%, but in April of 1946 it was reported that 40% of the babies in Budapest alone had died. It is also estimated that 17,000 children in this area are tubercular. Juvenile delinquency is rising to frightening proportions, also, the SCF worker says. She places the need for milk and tonics, shoes and clothing, and pharmaceutical supplies for hospitals at the top of the list of relief supplies needed urgently in Hungary.

WEEKLY REVIEW

FOREIGN LABOUR FOR BRITISH COAL MINES

By LEWIS MILLIGAN

Britain is a land of paradoxes, and here is the latest.

The London Times is urging the Labor Government to consider the advisability of starting a program of immigration to the United Kingdom as an answer to the acute manpower shortage problem. At the same time London reports that over 300,000 people in Britain are awaiting transportation to new homes in the dominions.

"The case for selective immigration of up to 500,000 foreign workers during the next few years is exceedingly strong," says the Times. "It is regrettable that neither the government nor the labor movement appears to have given much thought to it." The National News Letter goes further, and says: "We think the government would be abundantly justified in arranging for immigration at once of not less than 250,000 foreigners. And as a footnote to this plan we hasten to add that we would warmly support any proposals (such as an assisted passage scheme) for enabling any in the dominions who wish to throw in their lot with these islands to migrate."

A significant sidelight is thrown on this situation by an editorial in the Manchester Guardian commenting on the coal mine labor shortage. The Guardian says: "There will not be enough suitable men among Poles in this country—indeed there are said to be only 170 experienced miners who can be employed at once. We must therefore recruit other labor from Europe . . . a start should be made quickly." It is also significant that these newspaper references to immigration came on the day after the National Mine Workers' Union, after a year's consideration, announced its willingness to tolerate the employment of Polish labor in the nationalized coal mines.

Labor union leaders had long been agitating for the nationalization of the coal mines as a solution to repeated disputes between the union and operators. Nationalization was to ensure higher wages, better working conditions and more contented and industrious workers. So far from being contented and industrious, the workers have been deserting the mines, and those who have remained have been taking things easy, with the result that there is a serious shortage of coal for domestic and industrial use.

It is one of the chief claims of the socialists that government planning through nationalization would result in greater production—as in time of war—and that men would work harder because they would feel that they were working for themselves as part-owners of the mine, and not for a private company of capitalists who were "exploiting" their labor. But this has not proved to be the case with English miners. In Russia, where all the mines are nationalized, there is no shortage of labor and there are no disputes, slowdowns or strikes, but this is because labor itself has been nationalized. The miners themselves are government-owned and are not freemen. They are not allowed to leave the mines for other work without special permission from government officials.

Nationalization is a success in Russia because it is complete, in that it not only takes over complete control of the mines but also of the miners, without whom the mining properties would be worthless. That is the logical sequence of nationalization in a Socialist State. Where free enterprise is abolished, freedom of labor must inevitably be denied.

This brings me back to the question of immigration, for I want to point out that this is the first time in the history of Britain that a government has been forced to consider the immigration of foreign labor—and that to operate a nationalized industry. The sole purpose of nationalization was to satisfy the claims of the miners' union and to render mining more attractive. The coal mines have been operated by the government for several years, yet there has been a continual drift of workers away from the mines. The government cannot very well compel the men to return or institute a system of selective service which would draft suitable men into mining, as in Russia; yet it would amount to the same thing if foreign labor were to be imported and forced to work in the coal mines. It would be serf labor, and that is the ultimate and logical solution of labor troubles under a system of industrial planning in a Socialist State. But "Britons never shall be slaves."

THE FORUM

Conducted by Howard S. Ross, K.C., D.C.L.

In Which Subjects of General Interest Are Discussed

The opinions expressed in this Forum are not necessarily those of this newspaper, and it does not accept responsibility for them.

The B.B.C. broadcasts of Clive Staples Lewis, Magdalen College, Oxford, England, were, next to the mellow tones of Big Ben, the most familiar sound during the war years. In his broadcasts he defends the Christian faith and attacks the various forms of modern humanism. It is predicted that when writers of the future discuss the humarism of the twentieth century they will class this Oxford don, fellow and tutor of Magdalen College, as one of its strongest opponents. He believes that watering down the rigid demands of the Christian faith to a shallow system of good behaviour or ethical culture is one of the serious heresies of our day. He speaks of the "mental gymnastics of many modernists who, after extraordinary demonstrations of logical agility, leave one with nothing but a bucketfull of bubbles." He believes that humanistic teaching is anti-Christian and that those who accept this philosophy should not be in the Christian church. He compared the two views to rival political parties and believes that "from the standpoint of intellectual honesty Christian teachers who preach humanism should renounce their claim to be Christians. Because God is the centre, God rules, God can interfere with men whenever he desires. The intellect is not king." He disclaims any skill as a theologian and recently told his large radio audience that just one should go to a doctor when needing bodily treatment and to a lawyer for legal advice, one should go to a clergyman for spiritual advice. And yet he seems to have a keen interest in human needs and daily concerns.

Rector George C. Anderson of Trinity Episcopal Church, Swarthmore, Penn., who interviewed him last summer, wrote to him: "He may enter the church some day. But even if he never becomes part of the apostolic succession I think it must be said that he achieves apostolic success." It is said that many Britons are wondering what the brilliant scientists and liberals of all sorts think of the large place which this lay lecturer on English literature holds on the air waves of Britain.

Governor Dewey, of New York State, appointed a committee to look into the matter of teachers' salaries. The committee, examining proposals of teachers' groups, decided that their minimums were close to the maximums, remarked tartly, "It is questionable also whether they offer a sufficient reward for exceptional competence as contrasted with mere time-serving." The committee members brought in their own recommendations. They urged emergency raises of $300 for any of the state's 72,000 teachers who have not had that much in pay raises in the past year and a half. They recommended new minimums of two thousand dollars which for the state's lowest paid meant a 67-percent pay boost, costing the State of New York $32,000,000 a year. Even so, New York's minimum will still be below that of California which recently approved a $2,400 base.

Worried by the teacher shortage, Philadelphia's public schools were ready to accept teachers with only two (instead of four) years of training, also suspended the customary retirement age of sixty-six. Maine looked around for over-age teachers, retired by other states. In New York the average salary of school teachers is $4,100, while in rural New York districts some teachers receive as low as $1,200 a year.

Britain's Labor Government proposed the most sweeping act since the Soviet Government's decree of forced collectivization on the peasants in 1929. It was the Town and Country Planning Bill, 1947. Earlier the government had published its sweeping, rigorous Farm Control Bill. With these measures—certain to be keenly debated and as certain to be passed—owners and users of Britain's land and everything "in, on, under or over the land" knew that they were in for something very far-reaching. Hereafter a gate sign, frought with the British instinct for freedom, would read "An Englishman's home is his government's." Planners have captured the Englishman's castle. These bills do not nationalize land outright, but they firmly assert prior government interest in all land and its uses and subordinate all private interest to the government. The bills revolutionize the whole basis and tenure and use of Britisn land. Private individuals may continue to own property and use it for profit (unless and until the national or local government chooses to take it from them) at a price set by the government. From the day when the bills take effect, private owners may not alter its present use or sell it for any other use without government permission. If permission is granted and property value is thereby increased, the government (not the owner) gets the profit in whole or in part.

Any compensation the owner may get goes to him not as a vested right but as a favor from an indulgent government. Only if the government takes land for planned use, or compels a property owner to demolish buildings or otherwise alter the use of its property in ways which lessen its current value, is compensation granted as a matter of right and then only in amounts determined by the government. Compensation will be paid to injured owners in government bonds. Owners must pay the government in cash. One British journal suggested that "no cold-hearted free-enterpriser ever enforced a colder bargain.'

More than half of Britain's electorate are getting what they asked for. They had voted for such acts when they voted the Labor Party into office in 1945. London's Tory "Express" summed up the bills with a quotation from "As You Like It" — "Thy lands and all things that thou dost call thine, worth seizure, do we seize into our hands."

George Bernard Shaw for a change was in print with an utterance that had nothing to do with mankind's folly The New Statesman And Nation came across an old note he had sent, apparently with a picture, to the late actress Ellen Terry with whom he carried on a safely epistolary "love affair" for thirty years. The old note is as follows:—

"This scene which would a stone
Is but the view from Bernard's garden,
Here, standing sidewise to the dawn,
And looking northwards up the lawn,
You see the house that Bernard weeps in,
Because his Ellen never peeps in.

Stanley Presbyterian Church Reports Most Successful Year

Reports presented at the annual congregational meeting of Stanley Church held in Franklin Hall Memorial recently, indicated the past year had been one of the most successful in the history of the congregation. The meeting was presided over by H. W. Dunn, chairman of the Board of Management.

Funds raised for all purposes during 1946 amounted to $43,902.56 according to J. .T Keay, congregational treasurer. This included an amount of $20,305.04 obtained in the Advance for Christ and Peace Thank-offering Campaign, being $6,825.04 in excess of the allocation.

The following were elected elders of the congregation: L. R. Canning, L. C. Currie, H. C. Harkness, R. N. MacLean and Professor J. U. MacEwan.

Re-appointments to church offices were: J. T. Keay, congregational treasurer; Harold Brooks, auditor, and L. R. Canning, congregational secretary.

Elected to the Board of Managers were Matthew Adam, F. Binmore, L. Canavan, H. G. Marsh, D. C. McKellar and N. Ohman.

The following were re-elected to the Board of Management for a three year term: L. C. Currie, G. M. Finlayson, C. W. Herzberg, P. H. Jamieson, H. Johnson and G. F. Muir.

St. Luke's United

Girl Guides, Brownies and Cubs from St. Luke's, MacKay Institute and Wililngdon School will parade to church at St. Luke's on Sunday morning. The District Commissioner, W. J. S. Dormer, for the Western Area, will read the lesson. The minister will speak on the subject, "Be Prepared." Friends and visitors are cordially invited to attend this service.

Fear of ill-health and insecurity and a multitude of things is characteristic of man. How can we make the instinct of fear an ally instead of treating it as an enemy. The minister's sermon on Sunday evening, "Handling Our Fears Successfully" is an endeavour to show this may be done.

The Young Adult Group will meet on Sunday evening and will have as guest speaker, Rev. W. F. Mitchinson, who will show movies and slides on Newfoundland and the Sir Frederick Banting Expedition. This is an open meeting.

The minister's Church Membership class for Young People and others who desire to unite with the church on profession of faith will meet Thursday evening, February 27th, at 7.15 p.m. Will those interested kindly contact the minister.

John Bennet, in writing the book 'Master Skylark,' wrote a children's classic. It has been translated into many languages and is required reading in many English and American schools. New Type Of Washing Machine Takes Grief Out Of Wash Day

One of the most difficult problems for the modern housewife is keeping abreast of household duties and having enough leisure to enjoy life. This problem has been particularly difficult in the case of household laundry Help is hard to obtain and the cost is high. Many housewives prefer not to send laundry out, or have it done in some homes where sanitary standards may not be the best.

They believe that the best place to do laundry is at home, where it will be treated carefully, will not be mixed with other laundry, will not be lost and will be available whenever needed. ....

The modern Launderall which is now on display at the store of Westmount Appliances and Sports Company, 4209 St. Catherine West makes it easy to do all household and personal laundering at home without any of the work of inconvenience usually associated with wash day. If you are going out for the day, Launderall will wash, double rinse and damp-dry the clothes automatically, while you are away. Or you can load Launderall at night, go to bed and your wash will be ready for the line in the morning.

Launderall needs none of the time - consuming attention or work of an ordinary wash day. You fill it, set it, flip the switch, leave it and return at your convenience to unload it. You are not a slave to your wash or to a washing machine. You'll have hours of extra leisure time and the energy to enjoy it.

That's why the modern Launderall means "A better life for the modern wife."

The Re-verso-rol washing action is entirely different from ordinary washing action. There's no slapping, twisting or tugging and no tangling. As the cylinder rotates, the four vanes in the cylinder lift the clothes and drop them gently through the sudsy water. Re-verso-rol washing action reverses the cylinder rotation five times every minute, thus preventing the clothes from becoming twisted together or knotted. Thus, each piece of garment gets a better individual washing and rinsing.

Re - verso - rol washing action cleanses your clothes by assuring through penetration of sudsy wash water and clean, clear rinse waters through the fibers of the cloth. It does this by keeping clothes distrubuted around the cylinder and by drawing all of the clothes through the water with a gentle tumbling action. There is no violent action in Launderall.

When Launderall has thoroughly washed and rinsed your clothes it automatically switches to the Roto - drier cycle. In this cycle the cylinder spins at 375 revolutions per minute and most of the remaining moisture leaves the clothes and is drained away. In a few minutes, your clothes are damp-dried and ready for the line.

Launderall is now on display at the showrooms of Westmount Appliances and Sports Company, 4209 St. Catherine St. West, who are the only dealers in Westmount for this sensational new household servant. You are invited to drop in and inspect the many other features of Launderall which are too numerous to mention here.

Westmount Appliances and Sports Company also invite inquiries from groups, such as apartment house tenants, who might be interested in Launderall as a community proposition.

Mrs. Edna Collaton In Town At Eaton's

Mrs. Edna Collaton, Fashion Director of Dorothy Gray (Canada) Limited arrived recently at the Mount Royal Hotel. Mrs. Collaton came to Montreal to introduce an exclusive "Beauty Clinic" which will undoubtedly prove of great interest to every woman.

This "Beauty Clinic" is being presented in the Cosmetic Department of The T. Eaton Co. Limited till about February 22nd.

Of the many interesting features concerning Dorothy Gray's "Beauty Clinic" perhaps one of the most interesting will be the debut of Dorothy Gray's new colour shade "Trans-World". A very special pride on the part of Dorothy Gray is attached to this colour because of its fashion importance. "Trans-World" was developed in Paris by the famous fabric house of Bianchini, after consultation with Harper's Bazaar, the Paris dressmakers and independent fashion experts. It is interesting to note that this colour ha. the official approval of Harper's Bazaar as one of the leading high-fashion colours for Spring. This colour will appear in leading Paris collections in the Spring, and will be referred to as "Trans-World" in these collections. Designers from all over the world have contributed to this collection, and Dorothy Gray is at present exhibiting them throughout the key cities in the United States at fashionable centres. Among the notable designs in this collection are an evening dress by Jacques Fath of Paris, an evening dress by Balenciaga of Paris, a suit by Hardy Amies of London, and a one-pice bathing suit designed by Cole of California. These are but a few of the designs which are being exhibited, the proceeds from which are going to charitable organizations.

The Captain Fryatt Chapter I. O.D.E. held its 30th annual meeting on February 5th, at the home of Mrs. Chas. Krause. The reports of the various committees showed that the Chapter has had an active year. Interest and work were earnestly maintained in all post-war efforts.

Her Heart's Desire

C.S.L. Gift Shop

February is the month of storms, parties, and St. Valentine's day. If perchance you have seen the C.S.L. Gift Shop's window, 1480 Sherbrooke St. W., just east of Guy, and admired the Valentine setting, I'm sure that you can think of one little lady whose HEART'S DESIRE would be satisfied by one of those hand painted, and heart shaped, china trinket boxes, very quaint and inexpensive. At this time of the year, like all good business people, the C.S.L. Gift Shop is clearing out some of their stock, to make room for the new Spring merchandise, which I will soon be describing to you. Here is the chance you have been waiting for to buy that particular article that you have been admiring, at an attractive bargain. You may welcome a few suggestions for showers or a bridge prize; A very highly polished wooden bowl, in natural colour, a dainty cream and sugar set, a hand crocheted face cloth, with the edges trimmed in harmonizing shades. These cloths are something quite different from any I have seen. If you want to make a hit with the family, be sure and buy a few of the hand crocheted egg cosies, done in pastel shades. Those of you interested in wild plant life should see the specimens, picked in July 1871 at Niagara Falls, and now assembled, framed and hanging in the foyer at this attractive shop. This is just a bit of "CANADIANA". If you are looking for an unusual tray, be sure and see the oak or mahogany frames with the centre containing old English prints, these are very attractive and sturdy. The handmade bench on which these trays are resting is also for sale.

A unique table decoration for a children's party can be made with animal crackers and vanilla wafers. Dip the feet of the animals into the white of an egg and stand each on top of a wafer. Arrange them on the table to look like a circus parade and the children will be greatly amused.

A Fairy Land

JASPER IN QUEBEC

Three years ago I spent my vacation at JASPER in Quebec, at St. Donat. What an experience that was to tell the folks back home. Here is one of the most unusual holiday resorts in the Laurentians. The Lodge and individual chalets are built on the slopes of beautiful Sunset Mountain, reaching down to the shores of Lake Archambault. When I was there the management was making plans for a winter resort also. This winter their dreams were realized. I have just returned from JASPER in Quebec, and what a revelation it was. Up to now I thought that I had seen all the beauty that the Laurentians have to offer in the wintertime, but I was wrong. Here is a spot where the comforts of home have been transported to a veritable crystalline fairy land. There are hills for every class of skiers; the young fry, the flying youth, and the olders with young ideas. In the evening after a day of the time of your life, you can mingle with congenial friends, or pay a visit to NOAH'S ARK . . . where a sing song is bound to wind up an evening of laughter and good cheer. The main Lodge has accommodations for about seventy-five. There is a radio in every room too, and a push button brings in your selection from five programs. On Saturday night, with a city orchestra, dancing becomes a community affair. This Sunday, the 16th, The Laurentian Zone Slalom race takes place, which promises to be the high-light of the season. This affair is being run by Fred Urquhart and Lorne Lindsay. Expect to be there so will tell you about it next week. The best route is by the Provincial Bus direct to St. Donat, as it stops at "JASPER". You make your reservations by phone, PL. 5485, JASPER in Quebec, Keefer Bldg.

Silver and Harbour Light

The Davies Brothers who own and operate SCOTT'S MARKET, 56 Westminster Ave., Montreal West, DE. 8479, are quite versatile in their hobbies. They are well known in equestrian circles, having won twenty one first prizes, and their mounts, "SILVER" and "HARBOUR LIGHT" are well known for their sterling performances, and they are members of the Montreal Riding Club. Another hobby is in quite a different field, that of music. Both brothers are well known church singers. However, their first interest is naturally centered in their fine up-to-date market in Montreal West. Their territory distribution extends to all parts of Montreal, and no order is refused. When visiting the market I was told about the various brands of beef. The red brand being the very best is the only type carried by the Davies brothers. I'm sure those of you who have bought juicy steaks from this shop last week, will be steady customers from now on. They have another specialty about which the men of the family will be pleased to know, namely, real corn beef, that is guaranteed to provide the best "Jiggs" dinner in town. Consult your best cook before preparing this treat, and I'm sure you will be back for more.

The Magic Carpet

I always find a rug store a very fascinating place to visit. It is like taking an imaginary trip around the world. One minute one is looking at rugs from India, and if they are hand made, one can visualize the natives bending over their looms, toiling at this art centuries old. Or, there are the fine Scotch or English Broadlooms, and also the French rugs. Now and then one does come across superb Chinese rugs. Not to be forgotten are our fine domestic rugs, which can be compared with the finest of their kind in the world. The western part of Montreal is fortunate indeed in having a fine collection of such rugs at Frank Round & Son's store, 5336 Sherbrooke St., W., near Decarie Blvd. Today I was admiring some rather unusual French wool Axminsters. These rugs are especially nice for bedrooms, as they come in all the Pastel shades. There are two sizes, 4'4"x6' and 6'5"x9'. They are uncut wool, and therefore should wear very well. They are made in France. Very attractive rugs for the country are the Indian Numdahs, which you will find here in small sizes. These are all hand embroidered in wool, and wash splendidly. Have you tried the new floor treatment called MIR-O-GLOSS? It has a plastic base, and dries in 60 minutes after the first coat. The beauty of this liquid is that it retains its gloss for six months, regardless of how many times the floors are washed. It is just as effective on linoleum as on hard wood floors. By phoning DE. 4529 you may have any of these articles delivered to you.

Kosher Canned Corn-Beef

Yesterday noon I stopped in to have lunch at ROSEN'S DELICATESSEN, 5339 Sherbrooke St. W., just west of Decarie. There is something about spiced food that is refreshing. This is a restaurant that I'm sure will soon be THE eating place in the west end. They specialize in potato salad, cold slaw, chopped liver, chopped herring, spiced smoked beef, and pickled herring. I had one of their delicious hot smoked meat sandwiches, with French fried potatoes. Here is an idea that some of you ladies may welcome when entertaining at an evening party. Why not have Rosen's send your refreshments to you, at the time you require them? Their prices are very moderate, and the suggestion of a hot smoked meat sandwich would I'm sure make a big hit with your friends. By the way, they have Kosher canned corn-beef, which I assure you is delicious. I bought a tin, and I will be back for more. They also have a very good assortment of appetizers. Once you have acquired the taste for spiced food, you will find yourself clamoring for more. Do hope you like this restaurant, as it is worth investigating.

Vigorous Brushing Of Hair May Yield Ideas For New Coiffures

MARGUERITE CHAPMAN

There's more to be said for the commendable habit of brushing your hair than that it puts a polish on your crowning glory.

Out of the wild disorder created by a brush ideas frequently come for a smart new hair-do.

That's the origin of her new up-do, says Marguerite ("Mr. District Attorney") Chapman. An unexpected parting and grouping of curls proved to be an inspiration for an effect, which an obliging hairdress whipped into shape. While Marguerite is plenty satisfied with a topknot of curls, clustered back of a center part, she watches for new inspirations while she flourishes her brush.

"To find ideas," says Marguerite, "you have to give your hair a good tousling and coax out all sorts of effects with your brush."

Earl Of Bessborough Chapter Continues Local Scholarship

The 16th annual meeting of the Earl of Bessborough Chapter, I.O.D.E., took place last Thursday evening at the home of the Regent, Mrs. A. W. Myers.

The treasurer's report showed a total funds raised during the past year as $542.29,with a membership of eighteen.

This, as was to be expected, showed a decline in both receipts and membership from the busy war years.

The chapter contributed to many municipal projects: Endowment Fund, Work in India, Family Welfare, Ex-Service Men's Welfare and Provincial Scholarships. Support was given to the Boy Scout Maintenance Fund, Lewis Camp for Boys and the Summer Camp for girls. A dictionary valued at $30 was presented to the Phillips Training School for Nurses, and the Regent and members of the chapter were present at the capping ceremony at the Homoeopathic Hospital when this was donated.

About 178 articles of children's clothing were bought and sent to UNRRA and the municipal work-rooms for shipment overseas. Members visited the veterans in the Montreal Military Hospital and in Ste. Anne's Hospital and contributed to the cost of parties given for the patients by the I.O.D.E.

Educational Work Outstanding

The educational work of the chapter took first place in the list of expenditures. $300 has been paid to the I.O.D.E. Post - War Scholarship Fund the Chapter's quota for this being $500. Two adopted country schools have received donations of books, clothing and prizes. The Kilvie Myers Memorial Scholarship award in West Hill High School was again presented to an 11th year student preceeding to 12th year.

The regent and secretary attended the graduation exercises and the prize was presented by Mrs. A. W. Myers.

The Secretary in her report thanked the press of Montreal for co-operation which greatly aided the work of the chapter.

PRESENTATION TO REGENT

Mrs. A. W. Myers, the retiring regent was presented with a sterling locket and chain suitably engraved. Mrs. C. T. Groome, who made the presentation on behalf of the members of the chapter, spoke of their deep appreciation of the many years devoted service rendered to the I.O.D.E. by Mrs. Myers who had been at the helm during all the strenuous years of the war. It was also regretted that the new regent, Mrs. A. E. Watts, just recovering from an operation, was unable to be present.

The new slate of officers was then announced as follows: Hon. regent, Mrs. A. W. Myers, regent Mrs. A. E. Watts, 1st vice regent Mrs. A. Wallace, 2nd vice regent Mrs. H.M. Thomas, treasurer Mrs. R. H. Grant, secretary Mrs. C. T. Groome, educational secretary, Mrs. J. O. Clark, membership secretary, Miss Mavis Porteous, echoes secretary, Miss Doreen Wison and Standard bearer, Miss Andree Gelinas.

Surprises Lighten Children's Chores

Children would get more enjoyment from the ordinary household chores such as dishwashing, etc., if mothers used some imagination by providing a surprise now and then.

Dishwashing on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, in June, September, and January is all about the same. Wash, dry, put away. There's no novelty to it.

How about hanging a new apron on the nail for the young miss to use when she does the supper dishes, or tucking a new tea towel in the drawer unsuspected while she's away at school? Even a new dish cloth will bring a moderate rise in enthusiasm from the young dishwasher.

Sweeping can be pretty boring but it's slightly better with a new broom. Or the old one washed and trimmed.

Frontier Fashions
West Corrals Dazzle-Duds

Golden Accents, Blazing Colors Whoop Up Styles

Spectacular sportswear, Western-style, designed by Dallas's Justin McCarty, was shown recently at the Madison Square Garden rodeo. A wide gold kid belt flashes at the waist of the prairie-fire-red wool jersey costume, left, with its fringed skirt and gold-laced, tight-cuffed shirt. Center, the 1946 Girl of the Golden West wears a white outfit with gold kid belted shorts and gold-cuffed shirt. Gold-studded bolero has a yoke of fringed gold kid. Trim chartreuse frontier pants, right, are teamed with chartreuse and lavender-plaided taffeta blouse to make a colorful dinner-at-home ensemble.

Swash-buckling sportswear reminiscent of the yippee-ai-ay days of untamed bronchos and buckboard wagons are fashions which come, as anybody who is hep will guess, from Texas.

More proof, if any is needed, that there's nothing small about Texas was the great big show of spirited sportswear staged in New York's arena — Madison Square Garden — by designer Justin McCarty of Dallas. This collection was the curtain-raiser at the opening of the big-time rodeo.

As bristling with color as the Southwest itself, these styles are designed for other girls, as well as the blue bonnets, to romp, loaf and dine at home in. What any girl with an eye to figure-flattering slacks will applaud are, for instance, the frontier pants. On these, high front pockets are set just below the waistline. Another slimming device is narrow piping used in contrasting colors and carried down the side seams of legs.

With the dress-up group of frontier-styled pants, the traditional cowboy shirt that's used—open-necked and full-sleeved with long, tight, four-button wristband cuffs—becomes a blouse of Western Clan plaid or striped taffeta.

The same style of shirt, as authentic as a ten-gallon hat, also goes with rodeo-inspired fringed skirts and drum-major shorts. One white outfit combining shirts and shorts is topped by a bolero fringed with gold and star-studded with more of the same. This ensemble, called "Girl of the Golden West," puts on a show with a wide gold belt and matching cuffs.

Answering to the name of "Prairie Fire" is a saucy hoid-em-cowgirl number combining fringed skirt and shirt of red wool jersey hitched together Western-style with a massive gold kid belt. The shirt laces up with gold cord.

Sophy Elliott Recalls Heroines

Stirring tales of the pioneer women of North America were recounted by Miss Sophy Elliott, well-known author and radio speaker, in her address to the Cote des Neiges and Snowdon Women's Club on Tuesday afternoon. Miss Elliott mentioned how little is heard of the wonderful contribution which our feminine ancestors have made to the culture and historic interest of our country. Her lecture was illustrated with colored slides.

Among the early heroines whose achievements were described by Miss Elliott were Helen Champlain, young wife of the rugged Samuel, who left her sheltered life at the French court to follow her husband into unknown wilds, where she busied herself with the teaching of Indian children; Jeanne Mance, great-hearted and talented founder of the Hotel Dieu; and Madame D'Youville, originator of the Order of the Grey Nuns, who gave her time and money to the establishing of a hospital for the poor, under the auspices of the Sulpician Fathers. Madame de la Tour and Madame de Bouillon, a generous benefactress, were other courageous women of whom Miss Elliott told.

Mrs. Arthur L. Moorhouse thanked the speaker for her address and lantern slides.

Fussy Over Food? Etiquette Forbids

In an etiquette book (which unfortunately is now out of print) there appears a paragraph that deals with the matter of idiosyncrasies in eating. It is the worst possible taste, it seems, to express dislikes for certain foods, for people who have traveled and lived interesting lives have become accustomed to foods of all kinds and it therefore denotes provincialism and a narrow way of life to say, "I dislike mushrooms," or, "I never eat lobster."

The idea seems particularly appropriate today. Perhaps food shortages cannot make you really like onions or spinach, but you can accept them when they are served to you, eat what you can and say nothing. If you are hostess and know your guests preferences and dislikes, it would be courteous to bear them in mind if possible.

There is no denying that eating seems an important part of our lives. But there are other important features and it is challenging to balance it with the many vital interests of daily living. So pass the spinach!

Picturesque Drama Of Orient Is Seen In History Of Rugs

With the exception of experts, how many people ever give a passing thought to what lies beneath their feet when they step on the velvety softness of a fine Oriental rug? History, romance, all the vivid, picturesque life of the East are there for him who can read.

While rugs are still handwoven in various Oriental countries, just as they have been for thousands of years (rug-weaving parallels civilization) Persia, or Iran as it is now known—is the greatest of all rug-weaving countries.

Some of the most interesting rugs were—and are—made by nomads. Dependent upon their flocks for food and wool, grazing lands were essential. Those who lacked sufficient pasture formed themselves into tribes, packed their belongings on their donkeys, and followed their sheep from pasture to pasture.

Today, a nomadic weaver of a Shiraz tribe pitches his tent wherever he finds green grass, sets up his loom and weaves his rugs, as his people have done for centuries. His rugs have certain characteristics in common with others woven by his tribesmen; but each workmans' rug bears the stamp of his individuality.

Throughout Iran there are many rug-weaving groups today, settled and nomadic, each quite distinct from the others and giving its name to its product—hence the formidable list of rug names. (Only the neighboring Armenians, Afghans, and Seljukes have developed the art to an equal degree.) A Persian rug is a living monument to its weaver; its pattern is simple or subtle, according to whether he is a simple or profound person.

If You Can't Store Your Steamer Trunk Then Try Camouflage

A large steamer trunk can be a white elephant or it can be an attractive dressing table and storage place.

You may want to set it up on blocks of wood first to make it the right height. Then measure around the three sides of the trunk which extend into the room and cut a strip of material twice this length. It should be about 16 inches wide. Gather this on a piece of elastic for a flounce around the bottom of the trunk. Over the top drape a rectangular piece of material so that it hangs in natural folds at the corners. Braid or edging sewed around the bottom of this cover is very effective, especially if you are using a two-color combination. For instance, the flounce may be red or burgundy and the overskirt gray with gray braid. The amount of flounce you allow to show depends upon the height of your trunk—the proportion should be roughly one-third flouce to two-thirds cover.

A piece of heavy glass, cut to the proper size, makes a practical, washable top.

The mirror you use with this dressing table should be large to conform to the size of the trunk. Second-hand shops often have large old mirrors with gilt frames. If you find one, paint the frame white, hang it along the dressing table and it will add distinctiveness to your room.

Hubby Soon Discovers Comfort Afforded By A Chaise Longue

People are busy everywhere and nothing is more important to them than to be able to come to a home furnished so that each may relax in his way for those extra 15 minutes or the one or two hours of leisure each may have at his disposal.

A chaise is a long chair and we have adopted the French term, chaise longue, in describing it.

There are few rooms in which one may not be used. The only limiting factor is space. If the bath is large enough and private enough, a chaise is a wonderful place to relax under a sun lamp, with witch-hazel pads on your eyes before the big party, the heavy conference, or a long night's sleep.

A pair of chaise longues in each corner of a sunroom are wonderful. Then two people have the opportunity to rest and relax at the same time.

It is customary for men to place their feet on their desks. Why? They learned at a very young age that it was restful to sit that way. Once a man bridges the mental hazard of being a "sissy" and tries a chaise, his wife will never be able to use it when he is home. The only solution will be to have two.

BRITISH FILM SUCCESS AT WESTMOUNT! Trevor Howard and Celia Johnson are co-starred in the very successful British film "'Brief Encounter," which starts on Sunday at the Westmount United Theatre for one week. The film has been

Bob Hope, Joan Caulfield Star In Comedy, "Monsieur Beaucaire"

Bob Hope has been turned loose in the courts of 18th Century France, and the things Bob does in his powdered wig and knee breeches are enough to bring him into a present day court of law. All this takes place in the new adaptation of Booth Tarkington's famous novel "Monsieur Beaucaire," which is now playing at the Westmount United Theatre until Saturday night, and which co-stars the lovely Joan Caulfield with the inimitable Bob Hope.

The film has retained little else but the title, period and locale of Tarkington's story, which, in an earlier film, was one of the great successes of the late matinee idol, Rudolph Valentino. In that picture, Beaucaire was a dashing swordsman of royal blood who posed as a barber to a French ambassador to effect an escape to England, thereby avoiding a marriage of state.

In this film the plot has been switched from romance to riot. They've changed the title character to fit Hope's comedy style, casting him as a barber to Louis XV of France. As a royal barber, Hope has too many close shaves with the King's temper, and, the latter, in a lather of wrath, causes Hope to almost lose his head.

Bob escapes to Spain, disguised as a nobleman who has been playing around with the King's paramour. Even after his arrival in Madrid, Hope is forced to continue his masquerade, that of one of France's deadliest swordsmen and greatest lovers.

Gorgeous Joan Caulfield, who won instant acclaim in her first film, "Miss Susie Slagle's," is cast opposite Hope, and she proves to be a beautiful foil for the comedian's romantic antic.. Joan is cast as a scullery maid in the palace, loved by Beaucaire, but ambitious to become one of the court favorites. She incurs the displeasure of the Queen and is exiled to Spain, where Hope follows her. Bob finally wins her in an ending that is both unpredictable and uproarious.

Heading the supporting cast is the handsome, increasingly popular Patric Knowles, who has the counterpart of the Valentino role. Cast opposite Knowles and providing the romantic interest is Marjorie Reynolds in the role of a Spanish princess. Others in the excellent cast are Cecil Kellaway, Joseph Schildkraut, Reginald Owen, Constance Collier and Hillary Brooke.

M.R.T. Presents Bohemian Life Comedy March 6

As the fourth presentation of its present record-breaking season, the Montreal Repertory Theatre has chosen a sparkling comedy of bohemian life in New York, "Biography" by S. N. Behrman, for nine performances starting Thursday, March 6, at the Guy Street Playhouse.

Featured in this comedy will be Betty Wilson, president of the Junior League, and Montreal's leading comedienne. Miss Wilson will enact the role made famous by Ina Claire, that of Marion Froude, a famous portrait painter and amused connoisseur of men. At the beginning of the play Marion Froude is contemplating publishing her biography, a decision which causes dismay among many of the men who are personally concerned, most important of these being a Senatorial candidate from Tennessee, home state of the blue laws. His attempts to halt the publication constitute the plot of the play, which, however, is not important, the main appeal of the comedy lying in its scintillating dialogue with its sharp satirical overtones.

Supporting Miss Wilson in "Biography" will be John Drexler, student in the drama courses at McGill University, who scored notably in his last two appearances at McGill in "Outward Bound" and "Our Town," and Kenneth Culley, who will be remembered as a very fine Kent in last spring's production of "King Lear" by the Shakespeare Society. Others in the cast are Henry Ramer of the CBC, Pauline Trehub of the Y.M.H.A. Players, Dr. Victor Goldbloom, who was Claudio in the Shakespeare Society's "Much Ado About Nothing," Lenore Osborn, holder of a certificate from the Queen's University Summer School of the Theatre, and Eddie Asselin. Herbert Whittaker is directing.

BEST-SELLER FILMED! Irene Dunne and Rex Harrison are co-starred with Linda Darnell in the film version of the best-selling biography, "Anna And The King Of Siam," which starts on Saturday at the Monkland United Theatre, playing until Tuesday night.

Trinity Players Present Play "The Ninth Guest"

There will be eight guests on the stage when Trinity Players present "The Ninth Guest" which is the third play of the current season, on the evenings of Wednesday to Saturday this week.

The ninth guest will be manifest but he will not appear as a visible entity.

There will be a great many other guests on the floor of the Trinity Memorial Hall to watch this exciting and intriguing mystery drama.

Give Your Guests A Scheduled Stay

Entertaining guests in a locality where there is interesting sightseeing to do requires a nice juggling of time and budget on the part of the hostess. But if she is a "plan-ahead" sort of person she will make a tentative schedule that will permit time for expeditions and also allow a choice of activities for the guests.

Before their arrival she will have collected bulletins about places of interest and obtained information about visiting hours and methods of admission to parks and buildings, to avoid conflict in engagements or disappointment on finding that long-awaited visits to certain places are impossible because they are not open.

The hostess in the sightseeing city has to climb the same stairs and hear the same speeches of guides over and over, but as the spots are new to her guests she will feel rewarded by their pleasure. It is difficult to manage sightseeing and housekeeping, too, but it is always worth while to show out-of-town friends at least one outstanding place.

Radio Messages From Alexanders Will Open Boy Scout - Guide Week

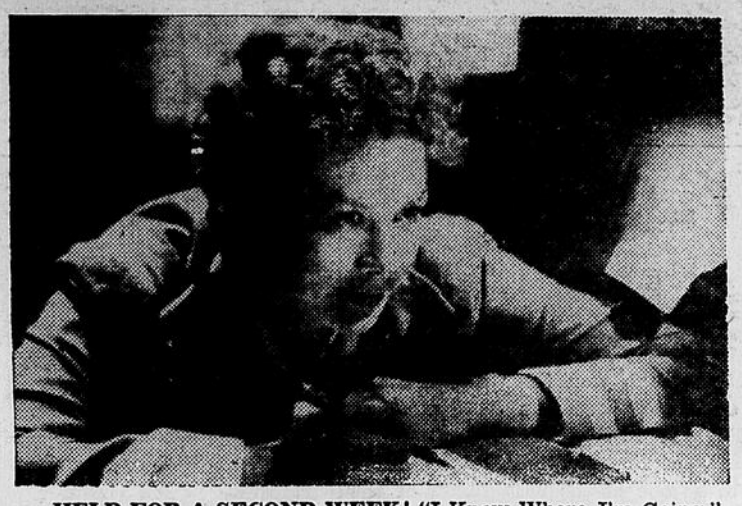

Sunday will be the opening day of Boy Scout-Girl Guide Week, and as in previous years, it is expected that a large number of Cubs and Scouts, Brownies and Guides will attend divine services at their respective places of worship.

In the evening, His Excellency the Governor General, who is Chief Scout for Canada, and the Viscountess Alexander, who is Honorary Dominion President of the Girl Guides Association, will speak over the CBS trans-Canada network at 6.38 E.S.T., and officially open the week. Major-General D. C. Spry, C.B.E., D.S.O., Chief Executive Scout Commissioner for Canada, will speak on the same program.

During Scout-Guide week, many units of both associations hold "open night" to which parents and friends are invited to see the form of training regularly followed throughout the fall, winter and spring season. Some groups hold special events combining Cub and Scout programmes; others combine programmes of Scouts and Guides.

Boy Scout-Girl Guide Week will be high-lighted by special addresses to several service clubs, to the Montreal Scouters' Club, and finally by the annual patrol leaders' banquet to be held on Saturday evening, February 22nd, when His Excellency will be the guest of honour and chief speaker.

Some synagogues and churches will probably prefer to hold their Scout and Guide services at the end of the week, and so the observances will carry over from the 16th to the 23rd.

HELD FOR A SECOND WEEK! "I Know Where I'm Going," which co-stars Wendy Hiller and Roger Livesey, has been held for a second week at the Snowdon United Theatre.

"Daddy Long Legs" Is Acclaimed Fine Performance By Children

The work of the Children's Theatre of Montreal, under the capable direction of Dorothy Davis and Violet Walters, has reached a fine standard of acting in the past few years.

Last Saturday afternoon, the Children's Theatre presented a dramatization of the universally popular play "Daddy Long-Legs" which brought out remarkable work of the children, and proved highly successful entertainment.

Elizabeth Kraminer was splendidly suited to play the difficult role of the little orphan girl. Her natural appeal and understanding of the character, holding the balance between comedy and sentiment, showed that this teen age young thespian understood the character, and played it skilfully. The choice of Gordon Jones as Daddy Long-Legs was a happy one, as he gave a spendid performance.

Eleanor Lightstone, Gloria Stotland and Willa McKillop gave convincing performances, and Ann Kraus as the head of the orphanage played the role sufficiently well to be thoroughly disliked by the youthful audience. Beatrice Picard as Miss Pritchard was delightfully dignified and charming, and Eleanor Schecter as Lizzie Semple, did an excellent character study. The role of James McBride, played by Bill Shatner, was an amusing study of a young college lad, and Bob Davis as Walters, the butler, afforded the audience much laughter with his excellent interpretation.

While it is impossible to make mention of every member of the cast, one certainly cannot omit the charming tiny tots, who delivered their lines with such excellent diction. This may be said of every member of the Children's Theatre—their diction is excellent.

Sheila Davids, Roslyn Briskin, Rona Silverman and Leonard Cytrynbaum gave a clear cut picture of the poor little orphans, and Denise Leroux delighted the audience with the song "Fraidy Cat," as well as Joyce McKenzie and Douglas Pascal in their special numbers, the latter a four-year-old young man who thrilled the audience with his rendition of "Stomach-Ache."

Myrna Rappoport, Rosemary Gravina, Seena and Marcia Aber, Corinne Copnick, Betty Campbell, Ruth Heller in minor roles were completely in the picture, and the entire cast did a thoroughly good job, and obvious painstaking care had been taken by the directors, Dorothy Davis and Violet Walters, to round out a performance of the highest standard, which is now expected of the Montreal Children's Theatre.

SUN TAN OUT

Billy De Wolfe had to bleach his complexion to lighten a heavy suntan he had acquired before starting his role with Bing Crosby, Fred Astaire and Joan Caulfield in Irving Berlin's "Blue Skies," the Paramount Technicolor musical.

MOVIE STARS

A little girl whose fondness for movie and the personalities featured in them far surpassed her liking for school and textbooks was selected by the teacher to answer a question:

"What is a comet?" Perturbed, the girl hesitated.

"What is a star with a tail?" persisted the instructor.

Why, Mickey Mouse!" exclaimed the pupil.

SQUARE DANCING PROVES POPULAR

Members of the 'Y' Square Dancing Club are holding their third party this season on Friday February 21st, at 8.45 p.m. Miss Barbara MacPherson will be guest "caller" for the dances on this occasion.

Music in the traditional manner of square dancing will be supplied by Rolland Lussier, old-time fiddler, accompanied by a pianist. Miss Kay Cameron and Mr. and Mrs. Holmes are acting as convenors for this dance and arranging for the refreshments.

Westmount Hoopsters Unbeaten

Roll Up 7-Game Win Streak

The Westmount Junior Basketball Club won their 5th, 6th and 7th straight league victories by outscoring Georgian Juniors 47-41, St. Willibrord 57-31, and N.Y. Fashion Royals 52-32. These wins assured the local M.B.L. Junior entry of first place in their section.

The Georgian contest proved to be one of the best games of the season and was played on the Central "Y" floor. From the outset, the Georgians, smarting from a previous 51-26 defeat at the hands of the visiting purple and white squad, forged into a lead if 7-2 after five minutes of play. However, the Westmount boys put up a spirited rally to forge in front 15-13 at the half. In the second canto, the two clubs battled tooth and nail all the way, with the lead changing hands several times. With but less than a minute to play, Waldie of the homesters, who played a bang-up game, sunk a difficult long shot from the corner to tie up the game at 37-all, to send the teams into overtime.

Right from the tip-off in the extra period, the local Juniors forged into the lead when John Field took a bounce pass from Gordon MacLeod, who in turn had received the tip-off from Jack Dudley, to break through the Georgian defence and sink a lay-up shot good for two points Right after this, Ray Binmore, Westmount's towering guard, proved to be the hero of the contest when he sunk two long shots and two foul tries for a total of six points to put his club into the lead which they never relinquished. Try as they might, the Georgians couldn't get back into the game and their efforts were only rewarded with four more points before Jack Dudley clinched the victory with another two pointer.

For Westmount, Jack Dudley and Ray Binmore were outstanding with 13 and 8 points respectively, while Waldie of Georgians shared the spotlight with a hard driving game good for 14 points.

SIXTH WIN

For their sixth victory the Westmount club had an easy time disposing of the St. Willibrord entry 57-31 on the Junior High Floor The visitors put up their best showing in the first half, only being outscored 18-11. However, the Westmount boys really put on the pressure in the remainder of the game, outscoring the visitors 39-20. For Westmount, Jack Dudley,

AMBULANCE MEN ON THE JOB

Bringing first aid to skiers who get hurt in the Laurentians, the Eastern Townships, and throughout this province's excellent skiing country, the St. John Ambulance has established in the region a great number of first aid posts where every week-end members of the St. John Ambulance Brigade gather to administer first aid and patrol the hills. This picture shows one of the type of stretches mounted on two skis which was invented by Pierre Cochand, chief instructor at Chalet Cochand at Ste. Marguerite station. The patrolling of the ski country is one of the many services rendered by the St. John Ambulance which is at present campaigning for funds to carry on its important humanitarian work all through Canada.

This is one of a series by outstanding Canadian curlers relating what they consider their "most thrilling moment" in competition for the Macdonald's Brier Tankard, representing the Canadian single rink curling title.

By CLIFF MANAHAN,

Probably the most thrilling moment of my curling career occurred in the final game of the round robin series in the Brier competition at Toronto in 1937. Our rink had to win this game to tie the Manitoba rink for the series and force a playoff with them for the Dominion championship. The Nova Scotia rink we were playing was skipped by H. M. Ferguson and the Maritimers had the edge on us all the way to the end of the 10th, when the score read 8-5 in favour of Nova Scotia.

On the 11th end, when I came to play the last rock, we lay two shots. Nova Scotia had third shot and we had fourth and fifth shots. If I drew my last shot for three points, the game would be tied up at the end of the 11th and they would have advantage of last rock on the 12th end.

I explained the situation to my players and they all agreed I should play the shot to remove the Nova Scotia stone, even though I could easily have hit it in such a way as to put in my own shot and leave them counting one.

Perhaps a newspaper account of what transpired will describe the situation more clearly than I can: "The Ferguson marksmen started the ninth with a lead of 7-3. Manahan got two points back at the ninth, but dropped another at the 10th.

"In this situation the Edmonton rink pulled itself together and scored five on a daring shot by Manahan that meant the difference between victory and defeat. Alberta lay two shots and Manahan could draw his final shot for three. That would tie the score.

SCOTIA ADVANTAGE

"But Nova Scotia would have the advantage of last shot on the last end. Manahan figured he needed more than three. He called a conference of his rink — Wes Robinson, 22 year old Ross Manahan, son of the skip, and Lloyd McIntyre. The parley decided Skip Manahan would take the long chance.

"So he endangered the position of his counters to get at the only Nova Scotia stone in the house. The final shot circled a guard, narrowly missed two Alberta stones and wicked the Maritime stone out of the circle. There were just five Alberta stones left.

"The gallery was still cheering when Nova Scotia came down the 12th end stretch and tied it up with two. This was a safety-first end and Skip Ferguson was confronted by seven guards when he first shot. He pierced the guard to enter the ring. On his final shot he duplicated the effort and made it two.

"But Manahan produced the answer to these shots on the extra end after Ferguson had made two brilliant draws to lie shot. The Edmonton skip took them both out, leaving Alberta with the third."

The next day we played the Manitoba rink, chalking up the win that meant the Brier Tankard and the Dominion title for 1937.

Ed Dawson Lands Giant Amberjack

HAMILTON, Bermuda—A torrid battle ensued off the reefs of Bermuda before Edward Dawson, using a handline, pulled aboard a 132 pound amberjack. Fishing off the edge of the deep, a few miles off shore, employing a live yellow tail for bait, hooked the nearly six foot fish on a 54 thread handline. Silvery, averlaid with light blue, the fish gave Dawson a great struggle before he pulled it overboard.

Although it was larger than the the world's record 106 pound amberfish caught on rod and reel, it was not the largest amberfish to be caught in Bermuda waters. A 175 pound fish of this variety was caught last year, and one of 146 pound dimension was taken the year before the war.

Amberfish are to be found in the Atlantic as for North as Massachusetts, but are commonly encountered off the Florida coast. They are usually caught in winter or spring and are encountered in the region of offshore reefs, singly, or in small schooling groups.

ST. LEO'S SPORTS

The chief topic in the school's sport gossip, is the perplexing question asked on all sides; can St. Leo's Senior B Club with its present line up successfully defend their 1946 hard earned championship? Two weeks ago one of the most drastic disciplenary measures ever wittnessed in school sports. Missing from the line up are: Dave O'Meara, regular goaler; Moe Strachan, first string rightwinger and leading scorer all the time, and Bob Lunny second string right winger. Right wing and goaler are the two most difficult positions on the team to replace and at this late stage of the season the prospects of filling these vacant spots acceptably is remote.

Earlier in the season coach Andy McGillis Bantam squad was wrecked after been victiminized by a series of injuries and sickness. At present coach Andy is a little groggy from the series of misfortunes, but not yet ready to take a full count as he feels if he can whip his rather difficult charges on his Senior B club into better condition they will stand a good chance staggering through to another title. Last Saturday morning at Lachine Arena, the team with a makeshift line - up wilted badly in the third period after outplaying the Double Blue for two periods.

This Saturday morning at Lachine Arena the Academites will tangle up with Brother Paul's fast skating Senior B Crew and if they manage to eke out a win, should have clearer sailing to the interscholastic Senior B honors.

The Black and White Bantams will also travel out to the shores of Lake St. Louis to engage our Bantams in a battle for second position in the standing.

SPORT SHORTS

Langley Desjardins has been coming through with some real good games in goals after answering the S.O.S. to replace O'Meara in the Senior B twine.

We can't string along with the report in some quarters that D'Arcy McGee Senior A team play rough hockey. Last Saturday's game with McGee at Lachine Arena was a fast and clean game, without a penalty being handed out to either squad. St. Leo's also played the Pine Avenue hockeyists in a few exhibition games without any outward incident happening and definitely nothing to suggest that they are capable of playing dirty hockey.

St. Leo's eigth Annual Boxing Show will be held on Friday, May 2. The training season will start early in March.

This years Interscholarship Ski Competition will take place locally on Sunday, February 23, and at St. Sauveur on Sunday, March 2. St. Leo's will conduct this year's meet.

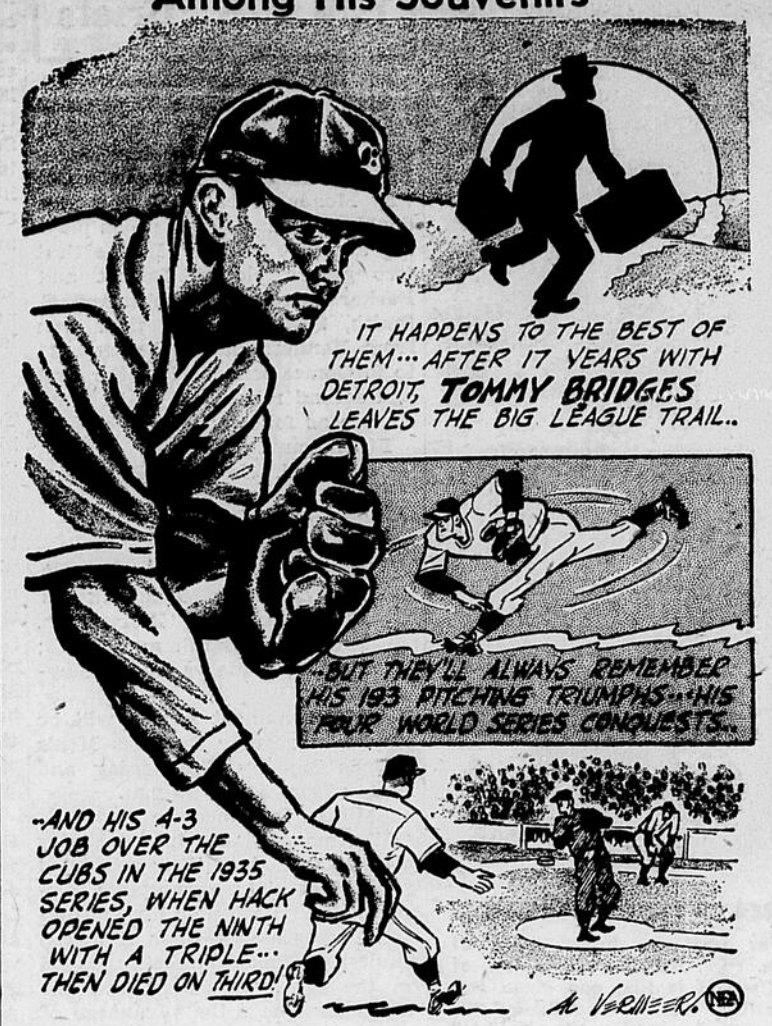

Neil Walsh, sturdy Bantam defenceman is back at school after a bout with pleurisy. His absence from the team was keenly felt. Ernie Sciampocone another Bantam defenceman who suffered a broken collorbone in practice is well on the mend. There two boys are not likely to see much action this year. Vaughan Quinn, Bantam goaler is another recuperating fast after an appendicitis operation but will not be back in action this year.

Last year St. Leo's Old Boys hockey collection defeated the 1946 Senior B champs 7 to 5 in a grudge battle. A spokesman for the Old Boys recently added fuel to the fire by charging, Andy Gillis, who handled the bench last year for the former St. Leo's hockey greats, with deliberatly keeping some of their stars on the bench to keep them from adding up a record score against his newly crowned champs, Andy's reply to this charge was that he felt sorry for some of the old timers and the only reason he gave them a good rest was to keep them from breaking down on the ice and slowing up the game.

At any rate they are seeking a new coach for the 1947 battle and it is rumoured that the popular Mr. Joseph O'Hanlon, B. A., Latin teacher, will be offered the post with instructions to go all out in providing this year's Senior B team with a valuable lesson on how to play hockey.

Roll Up 7-Game

Gordon MacLeod and John Field shone with seventeen, eleven and ten points respectively, while Cahill was outstanding with 12 for St. Willibrord.

The purple and white next invaded the Verdun High School floor to tangle with the N. Y. Fashion Royals and emerge victorious with their seventh straight league victory to the tune of 52-32. Team captains Jack Dudley of the locals continued his brilliant work, racking up 16 points, and also playing a sound defensive game. Bob Putnam and Ray Binmore were good for 7 points apiece while Wenty Young played outstandingly on guard and also tallied 4 counters. For the Royals, Pat Redmond racked up 16 tallies to share individual honors with Dudley.

In a rough, hard - fought, exhibition contest the locals disposed of a reputedly strong M.B.L. Intermediate Southwestern "Y" to the tune of 60-48, on the "Y" floor in Verdun. The "Y" boys forged into an early 8-2 lead, but the determined efforts of the smoother working Westmount Junior squad soon dominated the play and from then on they were never headed. Jack Dudley was top scorer with 18 points, followed by Mort Weiner and John Field with 12 and 9 respectively. For Southwestern, Maskell with 14 and Marshall with 12 were the main point getters.

Peewee Pucksters Set For Playoffs

The Municipal Pee-Wee hockey circuit ended its schedules in each of the four sections last week and the respective league-leaders and individual scoring leaders were determined.

Roslyn Termites finished atop the Division "A" standings as a result of their four games winning streak and edged out their closest rivals, King's Tigers, by four points; a battle royal is predicted for the Grade VI championship, should these two teams hook up in the finals, which seems a likely prospect, as the other two teams this section, Belmonts and Corvettes, have not shown much to date.

Al Wamock carried off the individual scoring honors; the ace Termites' sniper was credited with ten goals in the five games he participated in. Jim Beaton, Tigers' pivotman sunk eight tallies in one less game to assume runner-up position in the senior loop.

The "B" division league honors went to the Queen's Aces in a nip - and - tuck battle that was only determined on the last day of the schedule. The acemen eked out a 3-2 victory over Roslyn Victorias last Friday at King George Park and thereby finished one point ahead of the Vics. Heroes for the Oliver gang were Dick Boon with two markers and Arthur Davidson, who sank the other Derek Dunbar and John Moore contributed in the lost cause for Victorias. This game was the second in as many days for the Roslynites as the day previous they had edged out a weakened King's Beavers team by 6-5. Dunbar and Moore with four and two goals respectively, paced the winners; Don Smith with the "hat trick" and Dick Christensen with two, marked up King's tallies.

Queen's Westerns by virtue of their 5-0 shutout over the threatening Elms from Roslyn, were rewarded with first place honors in the "C" division. Willis Beaton, Ronnie Foreman, and Bob Cotey were the "Punch" line for the Queen's gang. Beaton accomplished the "hat-trick" and Foreman netted one. Cotey with several assists and Alex Swendsen rounded out the victory for the Avenue boys, Elms had been awarded the previous day, with two points through a defaulted win over King's Wildcats.

SCORING

The scoring records show that three Westerns top the list. Willis Beaton sunk the disc eight times in five games while linemate Ron Foreman scored on six occasions. Alex Swendsen and Pete Haldeman of Elms are tied at three points each.

The "D" division witnessed another close race for league supremacy. Queen's Rovers and Roslyn Strathconas both ended up with eight points to their credit. The Rovers, however, have counted fifteen goals to their rivals eight, and were awarded first place laurels on that basis.

SAWS TOP

Hughie Saws was the junior league's top markman according to the final statistics. The Queen's sniper netting four goals throughout the season's play: The players were grouped one counter behind the leader. George Barton, Terry Gray, Tony Manson, all of Rovers and Fred Von Zuben and Clive Kierstead of Strathconas.

The semi-finals play-offs series which got underway this week brought together the following teams: Division "A" — Corvettes, Termites, Belmonts, Tigers; Division "B" — Aces, Boulevards, Victorias, Beavers; Division "C" Elms, Wildcats, Westerns, Oaklands; Division "D" — Rover, Argyles, Strathconas, Bears.

Each series is a two games total - goal - to - count affair, the winners meeting in the final round, which is also a total - goals engagement. The finals are slated to begin on Monday, February 17, weather permitting.

The final league standings in each division are as follows:

LOOKING BACKWARD A FEW YEARS

The other day we got our hands on an old copy of the excellent Winter Sports Guide that Jim Hendy of the American Hockey League used to put out before the war. The one which we ran across was the book published after the 1939-40 season. That was the year that group of hardy miners came down from the north country under the name of the Kirkland Lake Millionaires to upset the top favourite, Montreal Royals, and go on to make mince-meat out of the Calgary Stampeders in the finals. Top man on that great amateur club, called by many the greatest of all amateur teams, was the goaler, Bill Durnan. The year after the Millionaires' triumph, Durnan came to Montreal to goal for the Montreal Royals, and after two years of brilliant netminding in the Q.S.H.L., he advanced to the Canadiens, with whom he won the Vezina Trophy in his first three years in the League and now seems on his way to his fourth successive year as the League's least-scored-upon goaler.

* * *

That year, also, the Oshawa Generals led by their great defenceman, Frankie Eddolls, now of the Buffalo Bisons, a Canadiens' farm club, won the Memorial Cup from the Kenora Rangers, whose lineup included such present-day N.H.L. luminaries as Chuck Rayner and Bill Juzda of the New York Rangers. Nor was amateur hockey in other parts of the Dominion less brilliant as may be shown by the fact that 1939-40 senior hockey in Saskatchewan produced three of the greatest hockey players to play in the National Hockey League. They are Max Bentley, who led the Senior Saskatchewan League in scoring and in goals scored that year. Alex Kaleta of the Chicago Black Hawks, and Elmer Lach, recently injured member of the Canadiens' famous Punch Line.

* * *

Then in this same season, one of the defencemen on the Senior Group, (or Q.S.H.L. as it is now called) all-star team was none other than Leo Lamoureux now one of the Canadiens defenders, who then starred for Cornwall. In Alberta, Bunny Dame, recently of the Canadiens, won the scoring crown, and Joe Benoit of last year's Habs was third.

* * *

From this it can be seen that most stars of the National League work their way up the long trail through the lesser leagues, from outdoor rinks to the Junior Leagues and then to the Seniors and finally into pro ranks. Few make the jump from junior to pro. We are fortunate in Quebec to have the best of the numerous amateur leagues in the country, the Q.S.H.L. being generally recognized as the tops among the simon-pure leagues. And well it should be for this league has sent more players to the National Hockey League than any other amateur organization on the map. Among those to graduate from the Montreal district league are such prime pro favorites as Maurice Richard, Buddy O'Connor, Billy Reay, Leo Gravelle, Glen Harmon, Bill Durnan, Eddie Bruneteau, Paul Bibeault, Leo Lamoureux, Butch Bouchard, Jimmy Peters, Mel Read, Billy Mosienko, Phil Watson, Fern Gauthier and Mike McMahon.

Then there are the stars who have helped Canadiens out at various times and who performed creditably in the Big Show. In this list we find Alex Smart, Smiley Meronek, Butch Stahan, Johny Mahaffy, Nils Tremblay, Eddie Emberg, Gerry Heffernan and Pete Morin. Then there are the boys who went to the American pro teams to star. Among this group are Rosie Rossignol, Rosie Rozzini, Armand Gaudreault and others.

Yes, the Q.S.H.L. has produced a great many fine hockey players, and a look at the present crop of amateurs indicates that in players like Doug Harvey, Gerry McNeil, Gerry Plamondon, Tod Campeau, Eddie Slowinski, Lude Check and Roy Giesbrecht, there are several pro prospects still in the League from which the N.H.L. clubs take their more promising rookies.

MASSEY GOES SKIING

Far from the bright lights of New York, and the movie sets of Hollywood is film and stage star Raymond Massey, who "skied the old year out and the New Year in" at the Alpine Inn of St. Margaret's Country club in Quebec.

What people used to spend, but don't now, is anybody's business.

Handball Tournament

Sixteen men in the Westmount 'Y' Business Men's Club are participating in a 'Round Robin' Handball tournament which got under way Monday evening. This is a doubles tournament, the men playing as eight teams. In the first two games played, Brunet and Parker defeated E. Smith and C. Smith, 21 to 15, and then won from Bannerman and Pratley, 21 to 9. Games scheduled in the first and second round still to be played, are as follows:

First Round

Mitchell, Croft vs Pangman, Cliff; Ross, Baadsvik vs Thom, Meyers.

Second Round

Mitchell, Croft vs Brunet, Parker; Ross, Baadsvik vs Pangman, Cliff; Bannerman, Pratley vs Smith and Smith; Barker, Pride vs Thom, Meyers.

All Tournament games will be played in regular Business Men's periods Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 5 to 6.30 p.m.

M,B.L. Intermediate Game

Westmount 'Y' Intermediates played the last of their scheduled games last night against Ste. Augustine's. Westmount won from Ste. Augustine in their first encounter. This game being played on the local 'Y' floor, gave the Westmount boys the advantage of knowing their own floor, but the small playing space cramped their style.

Inter Y League

Westmount Y teams in the Inter-Y League carried local colours high. The Juveniles finished their section of the League in undefeated first place. In the Midget section, Westmount dropped their last game to N.D.G. to end up in tie position for second place with Southwestern Y. Westmount Bantams lost their last game to Pte. St. Charles, thus giving Point Ste. Charles first place and Westmount second.

Play-offs in all sections of the Inter-Y League will commence next week, dates to be announced later.

Badminton

The Westmount 'Y' Badminton Team braved last Saturday night's blizzard to travel to Southwestern 'Y' for a scheduled game in the Murray Badminton League. After exhausting themselves plowing through the snow, Westmount players dropped an easy Tournament match to Southwestern by the score of 13 to 3.

The Badminton Team have completed their home games in the Murray League Schedule. Members of the Club will now have all three courts available for Club play.

Fencing

Members of the Westmount 'Y' Fencing Club are practicing regularly Wednesday evenings under the watchful eye of Norman Lavallee, their coach, in preparation for the Quebec Fencing Association Tournament to be held in the Westmount 'Y' gym Saturday evening, February 22. This will be a novice tournament and spectators are invited.

A lark is something that if you go out on it's hard to get up with.

SHUTOUT HOCKEY

Charlie Rayner, New York Rangers' sensational goaltender who had successive shutouts on January the 4th and 5th, played a total of 161 minutes and 15 seconds in the New York goal before he was scored upon. Joe Carveth of Boston broke the "spell" when he scored at the 3.45 mark of the second period in the Boston-New York game on January 8th.

QUINTS GOAL TRICK

The last player to score five goals in one N.H.L. game was Maurice Richard of Canadiens and he did the trick on the night of December 28th, 1944 when he blasted five goals past Harry Lumley in the Detroit goal and assisted in three others to garner eight points for himself and establish a record for the most points by an individual player in a single game.

Canadians buy from people of many races—and sell to them—all over the world. Indeed, a third of every Canadian's earnings comes from selling to people in other countries.

In this trading we do not always sell to the people from whom we buy. That is why we have to find customers.

To assist in finding both buyers and sellers, Canadian banks maintain branches or correspondents all over the world. They gather valuable information about people and markets abroad. They place this at the disposal of Canadian merchants, manufacturers and marketing agencies, introduce them to likely customers, and handle the "paper work" involved in transferring goods and money.

20 Years Of Hockey

"Dit" Clapper Honoured In Beantown Wednesday

Wednesday night, in Boston, the National Hockey League, and hockey fandom everywhere, paid tribute to one of the all-time great of hockey. The only man to play 20 seasons in the N.H.L. The man to be so honored was Aubrey Victor "Dit" Clapper, coach of the Boston Bruins, senior player in the N.H.L., and one of the most exemplary characters to ever be asociated with the world's fastest game.

Among the many gifts Clapper received was a beautiful sterling tea service from the National Hockey League. The inscription on the tray of this invaluable silver tea service reads—"Presented to Aubrey V. "Dit" Clapper on the 12th of February, 1947 in recognition of his fine sportsmanship and exceptional playing skill displayed in the course of an outstanding career of twenty consecutive seasons as an active player in the National Hockey League 1927-1947." The inscription bears the signatures of C. S. Campbell, President of the National Hockey League and the six League Governors: Arthur H. Ross, Boston; James Norris, Detroit; W. J. Tobin, Chicago; D. Raymond, Montreal; J. R. Kilpatrick, New York, and Conn Smythe, Toronto.

Dit Clapper was born in Newmarket, Ont., on February 9, 1907. A few years later his family moved to Hastings, Ont., and it was here that he first developed a keen interest in athletics. He blossomed into a top notch lacrosse player, and it was his prowess at this game that first attracted attention to the tall slender athlete.

Finding out that he was also some shakes as a hockey player, Fred Hogarth brought him to Toronto to lineup with the Toronto Parkdale Juniors. After a slow start with the Parkdale team, he finished the season strong and was the star of the club. The team won group honors, but were defeated in the finals by the Kingston Juniors.

Eddie Powers, then coach of the Boston Tigers, heard about Dit and signed him to a Boston minor league contract. Clapper starred for the Tigers during the first half of the 1926-27 season, but in February, 1927, he was moved up to the Bruins, where he has remained ever since. Dit had always been a defenceman up to that time, but Art Ross, master-mind of the Bruins and possessor of one of hockey's most inventive minds, figured the rangy youth was a natural forward and moved him up to a right wing position.

Dit scored four goals in his first season with the Bruins. Two years later playing right wing on the famed Dynamite Line with Cooney Weiland and Dutch Gainor, he attained his highest scoring honors. He scored 41 goals and had 20 assists for 61 points, and would have led the League, except that Weiland, his centre, scored 43 goals and had 30 assists for 73 points. The six-foot, 190-pound Clapper was a prolific scorer, a great team player, and an excellent inspirational leader to his team.

Clapper patrolled the right boards for the Bruins for ten years, but when some of the regular Boston defencemen retired, he was moved back on the rearguard. The change took place in the 1937-38 season, and Dit was a standout at right defence right from the start. As a defenceman he was named on three successive all-star teams, 1938-39, 39-40, and 40-41. He made the all-star team in two positions.

He scored his 200th N.H.L. goal on January 8, 1941, in Toronto as the Bruins defeated Maple Leafs 1-0. Dit saved this memorable puck for himself, and presented the stick that fired the 200th goal to Frank Selke, general manager of Montreal Canadiens, who was then connected with Toronto Maple Leafs. In his 20 seasons in hockey's major league, Clapper has scored 228 goals and has 246 assists for 474 points during regular play. In playoff competition he scored 13 goals and had a total of 19 others.

Up until the 1941-42 season no record was kept of the number of games a player took part in each season. Therefore, it would be difficult to say just how many games Clapper played in—but it would not be an exaggerated figure to estimate his number of games during regular play as over 800. He played in 89 playoff games. Dit hasn't participated in many games as a player during the current season—only six as a matter of fact.

In January, 1942, Clapper's Achiles tendon was accidently severed by Bingo Kampman in a game at Toronto. Happening as it did, at his age, it was believed Clapper's playing days were over. However, demonstrating the same stamina and courage that has been so predominant in his make-up in his 20 years in the N.H.L., he returned to take his regular turn on the Boston blueline, and was named on the alternate all-star team of 1943-44.

Lovers of outdoor life are liable to point to Clapper's enthusiasm for hunting and fishing as a clue to his abundant reserve of energy. It is true that few men derive as much pleasure from these sports as Clapper, yet it was on one of these hunting trips that Dit faced the most momentous crisis of his life. Clapper and three friends were on a duck shooting expedition in the marshes of Ontario's Trent River when a sudden storm came up and overturned their boat. The four hunters were thrown into the icy waters. Realizing the seriousness of the situation, Clapper told his friends to hang on to the boat while he swam to shore in search of help. Hampered by his heavy fall clothing, Dit struggled manfully on until he reached shore nearly a half-mile away. He managed to locate a boat and came back to rescue his three friends who were on the verge of slipping quietly under the icy waters. This incident is related as an illustration of the type of character Clapper possesses.

A recent honor to be bestowed upon him, and without a doubt the greatest—is his inclusion in Hockey's Hall of Fame. Clapper is the only living player to be so honored. He will take his place on hockey's honor roll beside such immortals of the ice sport as Howie Morenz, Georges Vezina, Frank McGee, Hobie Baker, Chuck Gardiner, Harvey Pulford, Eddie Gerard, Hod Stuart and Tom Phillips.

SHUTOUTS IN SUCCESSION

Frank McCool was the last goalie to turn in two shutouts in as many nights and McCool recorded his two "collors" in regular N.H.L. play on January the 27th and 28th and New York Rangers were the victims both times. In the Stanley Cup finals of 1945 between Toronto and Detroit, McCool in the Toronto nets racked up three shutouts in succession, although they were not on three nights in a row. Harry Lumley in the Detroit goal turned in two shutouts in a row in a Stanley Cup final that saw five shutouts recorded in seven games.

SCORES FIVE GOALS

Howie Meeker, Toronto Maple Leafs scrappy right-winger is the first rookie to score five goals in one game. Howie tallied his five goals on January 8th against Paul Bibeault in the Chicago nets as the Leafs trounced the Black Hawks 10-4.
