Scotstown festival had something for everyone

By CROSBIE COTTON
SCOTSTOWN — Over 4,000 persons poured into this little community for a weekend of singing, dancing and fun in the streets as Scotstown held its second annual summer festival.

The festival started slowly with a toast of honor Friday afternoon but gained momentum throughout the whole weekend and roared to an end late last night with a "down home" fiddler concert by Sherbrooke fiddler king Ti-Blanc Richard and his orchestra.

Although the local Catholic church basement where the Grande Finale was held ordinarily holds only 700 people, nearly 1,200 people crowded the hall to enjoy the antics of Ti-Blanc. A tap dancing group, performed to the enthusiastic gathering.

After the parade the public was invited to visit an educational exhibition at the St. Paul School. The kiosks were open throughout the weekend.

It wasn't until after Frederic held an art contest early Friday evening that the festival really got underway. The artist invited all the adults to come up on stage to fingerprint. The individual who created the best "masterpiece" would be declared winner.

One director of the festival was seen sticking his mouth into the different paints and then spitting them on to the canvases. He won the contest.

Nearly 2,000 young people turned out for a street dance and campfire Friday evening.

Francine Brodeur was named queen of the festival Saturday evening. She was chosen from four duchesses. A ball followed the crowning of the queen.

One of the highlights of the festival was the construction of Frederic's gigantic puzzle. For over a month he had been working to make a puzzle which would make people believe that abstract art had order.

He cut a piece of plywood into 118 pieces and gave each child in Scotstown a piece. The children had to paint each piece. Yesterday afternoon the puzzle was put together for the first time.

the stadium two hours later apparently pleased.

What bothered the city officials was people sitting on the field at the stadium. Council has spent $2,000 converting the field to minor league baseball specifications and ordered show organizers to keep people off it.

Organizer Jean-Guy Tremblay apologized for the fact that people were there, explaining they had jumped from the stands in great numbers and could not be stopped.

Mr. Tremblay asked the ground was hard and suggested that people sitting on the grass could do no damage to the field.

Mr. Fabi did not accept Mr. Tremblay's apology and left the stadium obviously incensed.

Asked what he thought of the show, Mr. Fabi advised a reporter to re-read a report made to council by him which in part said "I cannot recommend such an activity (rock show) take place in one of our city parks. We must be wary of goings-on similar to those which occurred at Manseau."

Mr. Fabi charged Saturday that people were dancing on the field and drugs were being consumed in great quantities.

A tour of the Stadium later by The Record and Mr. Pellerin found little odor of marijuana or hashish, no drugs being taken and all individuals either sitting or standing and watching the show.

An estimated 20 individuals were arrested at the show on drug charges, according to reliable sources.

Few people were treated for "bad trips," according to Odyssey House spokesmen.

Most of the people at the show were pleased with the quality of entertainment provided. They were entertained by the Souls of Inspiration, the Merceys, Le Jazz Libre du Quebec, The Flying Colors, Expedition, Incubus, Higgin's Hill and Experience. Bands performed from a stage built between first and second base.

Organizers were thrilled with the attendance at the show.

"It's beautiful," Jean-Guy Tremblay exclaimed.

"We needed 2,500 paying customers to break even and exceeded that," he revealed.

He added, "another 4,000 people climbed over the fence to get in and that's great because we broke even and they got in free. Now we're both happy."

Rock show leaves city officials fuming

SHERBROOKE (DM) — Practically everybody at the rock show Saturday had a smile on his face except for two city officials.

The only spoilsports at the Amedee Roy Stadium were Counc. Romeo Bergeron and city manager Richard Fabi. They claimed show organizers did not keep their promises and termed the activity "another Manseau."

Another city councillor, Bernard Matte, and Galestrie co-ordinating committee chairman Roland Pellerin were disturbed at first but left

Weekend fatality toll reaches 70

Two women, killed when their car careened out of control and smashed into an apartment building in Toronto, were among 70 persons who died accidentally across Canada during the weekend.

Helen K. Brown, 55, and Isabel Craig, 54, both of Toronto, died of injuries suffered when their car, out of control on a Toronto street, sped through two stop signs, hit two curbs and struck an apartment building at a speed police estimated was 50 miles an hour.

A cross-Canada survey by The Canadian Press from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Sunday night, local times, showed that 50 persons died in traffic accidents, 10 in drownings, three in fires, four in plane crashes and one each when hit by a falling pole, struck by a freight train and run over by a motorboat while swimming.

Quebec followed with 17 dead, 10 in traffic, six drownings and a swimmer struck by a motor boat.

The survey does not include industrial deaths, known suicides or slayings.

FINAL JOURNEY — The last run of a steam locomotive took place on Sunday, from Central Station in Montreal to Victoriaville. Locomotive 6718, formerly on the CN's Montreal-Halifax run, hailed nine cars of railway buffs. The excursion was organized by the Railway Museum at Nelson, Que. The train puffed through Richmond, where this picture was taken. (Photo: J. W. Wathen Brack)

E.T. REPORT

Killed in tractor mishap

SUTTON JUNCTION (PT) — Frederic Wilson, 31, was killed instantly at about 8:15 p.m. Saturday when the tractor he had fallen from passed over him and crushed him to death.

Cowansville detachment of the Quebec Police Force arrived on the scene shortly after the accident occurred.

10 injured in auto collision

BEEBE — Ten persons were taken to hospital as a result of a two-car head-on collision early Sunday morning just outside this community.

The mishap occurred shortly after midnight along a curve of the Beebe-Rock Island road near the residence of Mr. Albert Audet.

The injured in the first car were Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Typer and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Leach, all of Newport, who were travelling north in a late model car.

Injured in the other car driven by Michel Beauregard of Granvilleville were Joan Bourque, Stanley Stratton, Roger Davies, John Yates and Richard Blouin from Beebe.

Dr. Jules Bouchard was the attending physician at the scene of the accident.

Mrs. Typer, John Yates and Richard Blouin were taken to the La Providence Hospital in Magog. The others were transported to the Sherbrooke Hospital.

Police report at least two of the injured are in critical condition.

An investigation is being carried out by Beebe police chief Gordon Bronson and his assistant Jules Morin.

Convicted of kidnapping

SHERBROOKE (PT) — A Chambly lumberjack who has been convicted of kidnapping a 12-year-old Ormerville girl is to be sentenced July 9.

Robert Nadeau, 40, is waiting in Sherbrooke jail for legal authorities to complete a report on the affair. The charge carries a maximum penalty of five years imprisonment.

Appearing before Judge Benoit Turmel in Court of Sessions Friday, Nadeau and the young girl, who looks more like 16 than 12, brought the following facts to light:

The accused arrived in the Eastern Townships from north-western Quebec, where he works, to give his wife a vacation in a Lake Megantic cottage which he owns.

Stopping at a friend's house in Ormerville, he obtained the girl's services allegedly to take care of his house in Chambly while he was away.

The couple stopped in Eastman at a restaurant, where he reportedly told the child he was taking her to Ontario. On the way west, they stopped at another cafe and the girl escaped.

Becoming frightened, Nadeau took refuge in a forest, where he spent the night without shelter in pouring rain. The next morning, he gave himself up to police in Cochrane, Ontario.

Meanwhile, the girl's parents, waiting in vain for a "safe-arrival" call from their daughter, became worried and called the Quebec Police Force.

Everyone is exposed to some radiation

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB

Dear Dr. Lamb—No doubt you are familiar with various forms of radiation to which the human body is subjected in the treatment of certain diseases. In view of these processes, it seems to me logical to believe that our bodies must be in some way affected by the constant bombardment which they receive from the radio and television waves to which they are permeable. Will you please comment on this?

Dear Reader—Everyone is exposed to radiation, with or without television or other devices using radiation of one type or another. The very existence of life as we know it depends upon radiation.

Radiation energy comes from the sun and part of it is harmful to cells. The types of radiation most dangerous to the body are filtered out by the atmosphere surrounding the earth. The same waves used in X ray and similar radiation energy are actually in the energy striking the atmosphere. Some types of this radiation, called "cosmic radiation," encountered in space have caused some concern about space travel but have not proved to be a major problem.

The energy from radiation heats the earth, makes plants grow and activates chemical processes. We know that within a given range that limited amounts of radiation are harmless to the body—that is, they do not cause changes in the cells or cell damage. Scientists have had some real battles over what constitutes safe levels.

It is a bit ridiculous to say that radios, television or ovens emit less radiation than normally occurs from the earth's environment.

Safe levels are determined by complex experiments and cognizance of what you are going to get from living on earth anyway. The safe limits for radiation also apply to medical procedures such as the frequency of chest X rays.

With the exception of a few isolated instances where a product has emitted more radiation than was legally allowed—usually because of design failure—there is no real problem from radiation from household appliances or similar sources.

Oswald: "We have set point limits for JACOBY MODERN no-trump openings at the standard 16-18. In practice, we tend to reduce this a trifle. We don't open one no-trump with 18 points if the hand has any extra strength and we will open with 15 points if we have 10s and nines to back us up."

Jim: "Our limits are 16-18. The important point is that we don't go all the way from 15-18 and use a random no-trump."

Oswald: "Those players who use 15-18 points for no-trump openings end up in a lot of no-trumps, but they also lose effectiveness. They get too high with some of miss game on others."

Jim: "Today's hand shows JACOBY MODERN bidding. With nine high-card points, plus a 10-spot, North jumps to game opposite a 16-18 no-trump. South has nine easy tricks."

Oswald: "If North and South were playing a 15-17 no-trump, North would raise to two. South would consider his 16 points, plus a 10 and two nines, enough to continue to three no-trump and he would achieve the same result."

Jim: "The blunderbuss 15-18-point no-trumper would also be raised to two. He might go to three on the theory that there was a special providence to watch over him, but it is far more likely he would stop at two and miss the game."

RICHMOND FAIR GOERS STOP TO TALK

Richmond Fair: 'successful'

RICHMOND (WC) — Richmond's county fair which came to a close Sunday night disappointed no one.

Although plagued with rain, fair organizers described the fair as having been very successful.

"I haven't had time to find out how many people went through the turnstiles Sunday, but I am sure that this year's gate will probably set a new record," fair president Robert Labarge told The Record late last night.

Mr. Labarge estimated over 10,000 people had visited the fair during its four-day stand.

The fair opened last Thursday while one of the major attractions was Friday night when Jerry and Joanne played in the arena to over 300 people.

For the first time this year's competitions were closed to everyone outside Richmond County.

"As far as the agricultural exhibits go, we had a very successful year. Closing the competitions to outsiders was a measure designed to offer Richmond County residents a better chance," Mr. Labarge said.

Martinville stages walkathon

MARTINVILLE (PT) — A walkathon was held yesterday in Martinville, but it wasn't for charity: it was organized to fund recreational services for this town.

Following an early 8 a.m. registration, about 100 marchers from Martinville and Ascot Corner left from the baseball diamond in the centre of town for the ball field at St-Isidore, 10 miles distant.

They then returned, having walked a total of 20 miles.

Relief points were established all along the route, at which refreshments were served free to the enthusiastic walkers.

The Martinville recreation committee intends to use the proceeds of the walkathon to improve their ball field.

The field must be ready for the many teams who will be participating in a baseball tournament there towards the end of August.

The recreation committee is under the chairmanship of Claude Fauteux, who was also put in charge of organizing the walkathon.

He is assisted by two secretary-treasurers, Jocelyne Boivin and Paul Rancourt.

Consultation centre to open

SHERBROOKE (PT) — The Regional Bureau for the Promotion of French will soon open a new linguistic consultation centre.

Sherbrooke and region population will be able to take advantage of the rapid, free services offered by this bureau in the fields of translation and correction, as well as in finding correct French words for unusual or specialized English words.

The number to call to reach the bureau is 563-1292.

"We are certain that this service will improve the quality of French being used in the area," will be helpful to printers and editors who constantly need English-French translations in the preparation of texts, and will facilitate the work of professional people and secretaries in the area," said Daniel Gagnon, in charge of the centre.

It will be beneficial to anyone interested in speaking the real French," he added.

The bureau also has several specialized dictionaries and other reference works available to the public.

Among others, these include booklets dealing with radio and television terms, life insurance vocabulary, and Canadianisms which have meanings in both languages.

Anyone may receive a copy of these booklets free, by writing to the bureau, at 174 Palais Street, Sherbrooke.

SHERBROOKE (PT) — A motorist was sentenced Friday to 15 days in jail and his driver's licence suspended for six months for his participation in a "motor rodeo" in the town of Windsor.

Henri Forest, 18, of South Durham, appeared in court before Judge Benoit Turmel only to be refused his request for a fine rather than a jail sentence.

Forest was caught playing the "fool" on the night of St-Jean-Baptiste, driving on the sidewalks and drinking from a glass he held in his mouth with his teeth.

Trying again

President Pompidou of France can sleep soundly, untroubled by any dreams of a credible opposition ready to wrest power from his party. One by one, leaders of a prospective revolt against the post-Gaullist rule plummet into the overpopulated limbo where failed French politicians live out their oblivion.

The effort to revitalize the Radical party — once the decisive power in French politics — by handing it over to Jean-Jacques Servan-Schreiber, was no more than a flash in the pan. Mr. Servan-Schreiber, despite his wealth, his comparative youth (a relative term amongst the veterans of French political life) and despite his electioneering tactics imported from the United States, has come a cropper. At present, he is casting a covetous glance at his property, the Paris weekly tabloid L'Express — fashioned after Time magazine — from whose management he had resigned in the fond, if premature, expectation of becoming the next president of France.

After his spectacular defeat at Bordeaux, the Radicals have become tired of him, and he has become tired of the Radicals, and the party now continues on its appointed course: to wither on the vine.

The Socialist party, one of the oldest Socialist parties in Europe, has just concluded its national congress at Epinay-sur-Seine, electing Francois Mitterrand as its new leader. Mr. Mitterrand once led the Federation of the Left, and succeeded in forcing the late General de Gaulle into a second turn of presidential elections. But this was, as politics in France go, a long time ago, in December of 1965.

Since then Mr. Mitterrand has vegetated as the solitary deputy of the Convention of Republican Institutions party, while the United Socialist Party was falling to pieces. Eventually it disintegrated completely, now to be put together once more by the aging Mr. Mitterrand, fished out from the aforesaid limbo.

Mr. Mitterrand favors close collaboration with the Communists and the formation of a Popular Front government. This in itself is enough to scare every floating voter in France, French voters having unusually long memories, some of which reach as far back as 1848.

Mr. Mitterrand's aims are fiercely opposed by Gaston Defferre, the mayor of Marseilles, who suffered a humiliating setback in the 1969 presidential elections but controls the Socialist party machine in the South. He and Pierre Mauroy, who controls the party in the North, believe that the Socialists should combine with the centre parties, in a reform left-of-centre grouping that would appeal to the cautious French voter and have a sporting chance in the forthcoming election.

Both Mr. Defferre and Mr. Mauroy have been elected to Mr. Mitterrand's steering committee, which promises to provide fertile ground for the turbulent fissile activities so beloved of French politicians.

The outgoing secretary of the ci-devant United Socialist Party, Alain Savary, has lamented that the party has been captured from within by fellow-travellers. The Communists, who detest Mr. Mitterrand, claim the Socialists have shifted to the right.

However, being most anxious to get within sight of those elusive cabinet seats, Communist spokesmen have now disavowed their first reaction, reassuring both the Socialists and the voters that a Popular Front would not imply communism. At least, now until the party has pushed through an electoral reform patterned on the "valid experience" of the Soviet Union.

READER FORUM

The Editor,
Sherbrooke Record.

June 19, 1971

Dear Sir,

After spending some hours wondering, first why you choose to insult the intelligence and the patriotism of your Canadian readers by regular publication of the Buckley column, and secondly, why those same readers submit without protest to his brainwashing rhetoric, I conclude that there is really no cause for wonder: this is but another manifestation of the Canadian satellite syndrome. The main symptom is already well-known, a not unpleasant pulling sensation which Canadians experience towards the gravitational centre of North America economy and culture which metropolitan America has become. If you don't resist, it seems the pulling sensation ceases and you find yourself in orbit.

Those who are at this stage of the condition are fairly comfortable with it and do not feel the need either for diagnosis or treatment (hence I imagine the lack of reaction to Buckley). Theirs is a tidy universe of orbiting bodies, in which Ottawa revolves around Washington, just as Quebec revolves (or should) around Ottawa. Critics of this cosmic order are generally regarded as trouble-makers, socialist intellectuals or separatists, if not worse.

The challenge to the satellite complex of English Canada should not in fact be coming from socialists or separatists. That type of debate simply degenerates into rhetoric and counter-rhetoric, opinions are polarised and the real issues are forgotten. The challenge should be coming, illogical as this may seem, from English-Canadian conservatives.

In her book, "Silent Surrender" (McMillan, 1970), Professor K. Levitt, a Canadian economist who does not appear to have any political bias, has skillfully traced the origins and evolution of Canada's satellite status, from pre-Confederation days down to the present. In the early days of the Canadian nation state, there was no conflict of interest whatever between Conservatism and Canadianism; the two were merged into a "conserving" nationalism which "derived from the desire to control and shape the conditions of life within the community." It was in fact "the triple alliance of federal government, conservative party and Canadian big business which gave birth to the Canadian nation-state and secured its economic and political viability."

Tracing the vicissitudes of the nation-state, the author describes the gradual drifting away of English Canada "from the satellite orbit of Britain into the stronger gravitational field of the rising American superstar;" how "an economy originally built on an East-West spine was imperceptibly overlaid and intersected by a multiplicity of North-South linkages of trade and commerce;" how in short the prize that distant Britain could not hold in her grasp fell unresisting into the hands of the friendly American neighbour.

The original structure of Canada has not only been eroded, it has, in the words of Professor Levitt, "conclusively disintegrated." She does not see in this the end of the nation but on the contrary, a call to its rebuilding. Nor does she blame the waning of Canadian nationalism on active interference from the U.S. "The continental tide has been running strong", she writes, "but it has been permissively assisted by successive liberal administrations, who opened the floodgates to massive American direct investment in the post-war period."

To counter the question as to what, if anything, is undesirable in American investment, and why it should not automatically work for the betterment of the Canadian economy, the author points out the important distinction between direct investment and portfolio investment, and between entrepreneurs and managers. The early Canadian capitalist was clearly an entrepreneur, a resourceful and inventive nation-builder. Can the same be said of the Canadian businessman of today? Decidedly not, says the author: "an economy composed of branchplant industry must of necessity lack the self-generating force which characterises successful entrepreneurship." With some notable exceptions, Canadian capitalists have become managers, not entrepreneurs, and "the entrepreneurs of yesterday are the coupon-clippers and hired vice-presidents of the branch-plants of today." They have, she adds, "literally sold out the country."

Even if one does not subscribe to the author's opinion, it is clear that there has been a widening split in the original partnership between conservatism and Canadian nationalism. The business class, she points out, "rejected Diefenbaker because he is a nationalist and they rejected Walter Gordon for the same reason." Anyone who has been reading the newspapers lately can verify that the prevailing mood among the leaders of big business is anti-nationalist. Canadian banks will not take risks with an independent Canadian firm (such as McClelland and Stewart) but will gladly lend money to American conglomerates to help in the takeover of Canadian business. They can no longer give expression to Canadian nationalism because they have become "continentalist" in their thinking. Some have become to all intents and purposes "citizens of an international corporate empire," prepared to fight the Canadian government where there is a conflict of interest.

One of the arguments put forth in the downgrading of Canadian nationalism by big business is that this identity thing can wait. Economic growth has a higher priority, it is claimed, and with prosperity will naturally come self-sufficiency. The satellite, in other words, will become self-propelled. The author points out the fallacy of this expectation. Direct investment, particularly on the part of the large "multi-national corporations," comes "for reasons of its own and has no necessary termination;" the big corporation tends to "pursue its own interests and is responsible to nobody but itself." Its structures of ownership and control "are such that there are barriers to the flow of savings to finance new Canadian enterprise." Canadians, she concludes, are "captives in a not-so-gilded cage," and who more captive than a "highly-paid, salaried employee?" It is not, as Pearson once said, a matter of rape but of seduction.

As an illuminating sidelight on the Quebec problem, the author suggests that "those who view Quebec separatism as the main threat to Canada's survival might ask themselves why French-Canadians should remain with Confederation, when the dominant English-Canadian majority appear to put such low value on Canada's national independence." She suggests that while English-Canadians are thrashing out the differences with Quebec, they should seriously take stock of their own "will to survive as a distinct national community on the North American continent."

To return to Mr. Buckley, my objection is not that he is "on the right," but surely that he has nothing to contribute to the Canadian political debate. His message, whether you agree with it or not, is irrelevant to Canadian readers. Worse still, he is, with your assistance, clouding the real issues with his anti-communist obsession and with his selling of the Vietnam war. Agents of the John Birch society, which is not too far right of Buckley, have recently gone so far as to send unsolicited booklets through the mails to Canadians, attempting to prove that our Prime Minister is a communist plotter. We are entitled to wonder: what next?

Is there any better way to maintain good relations with one's neighbors than a policy of mutual respect, which means among other things, mutual non-interference? American problems are for Americans to solve. There are enough healthy elements to heal the wounds of the nation. They do not seek our advice and have never taken it in the past. By the same token, we do not need to import their problems nor their politics.

Sincerely yours,
Roger de Verteuil
1444 Beckett Street
—Sherbrooke

Dr. de Verteuil's letter, printed above, invites some response. Readers will have noticed that his remarks consisted of a lengthy citation of Philippe lamentations wedged between two paragraphs denouncing William Buckley and this newspaper.

Dr. de Verteuil's discussion of the parlous condition of the Canadian nationality is largely correct and certainly commendable. It is peculiar that he should gratuitously bandy about such uncalculated terminology as "syndrome, diagnosis or treatment" in reference to the entire Canadian people, but be unable to detect a political bias in the writings of Professor K. Levitt. She is one of the many obsessive anti-Americans whose squeals of protest against the proximity of what Mackenzie King described as the "overwhelming American Contiguity" have cluttered Canadian bookshelves in recent years.

Her treatment of Sir John A. MacDonald's conservative nationalism is reasonably accurate and quite useful. It is therefore not so surprising as Dr. de Verteuil claimed that anti-Americanism should be discovered in Conservative circles. In the circumstances now obtaining in this country, that is no less explicable than the gravitation of Donald Creighton, the quivering standard-bearer of traditional Canadian nationalism, from the Conservative Party to the New Democrats; or the jejune tergiversations of the inimitable Dalton Camp.

Dr. de Verteuil is no doubt aware that nationalism shreds ideological lines, as is evident in the presence of such diverse individuals as Gilles Gregoire and Pierre Bourgault in the Parti Quebecois.

The resumes of the degeneration of the Canadian nation-state and of the east-west economic orientation of the country are grossly inaccurate. It is a notorious fact that Canada has so far lacked the coherence, unity and independence necessary to full nationhood, and that except for the sole gesture of the CPR, it has never had a lateral economic axis.

We entirely agree with the preceding letter's denunciation of the emphasis on equity, as opposed to debt-capitalization for economic expansion, and the decline of Canadian entrepreneurship. The latter ailment is, in our judgment, more the result of the bland, benumbing and unoriginally malignant socialism cherished by Dr. de Verteuil's much beloved NDP than by a collapse of Canadian material ambition. It was not collective stagnation or lack of patriotism that lured Garfield Weston, Lord Thomson, E.P. Taylor, Jack Kent Cook, and other noted Canadian industrialists from this country. It was the imitative mediocrity in which Dr. de Verteuil's ideological brethren have wallowed so comfortably for so long that caused this regrettable exodus.

Dr. de Verteuil's comments on Canadian banking practice are errant nonsense. No one but a left-wing philanthropist such as Pierre Berton (the angel until recently) would lend money to McClelland and Stewart. And to what invading U.S. company is the mindless shibboleth of "conglomerate" attached?

We agree with the conclusions that U.S. penetration of Canada has been passive, rather than imperialistic; and that English Canada's lack of apparent distinctiveness contributes to Quebec separatism.

Dr. de Verteuil claims to have been inspired to write us by the "insult to the intelligence and patriotism" of our readers, and by their submission "without protest to his brain-washing rhetoric." Yet in the penultimate paragraph of his lengthy letter, the writer asserts that his objections to William Buckley have nothing to do with ideology, but are based on his inability "to contribute to the Canadian political debate."

Such contradictions may be acceptable in Dr. de Verteuil's profession, but journalism is rather more exacting. Readers are not brainwashed by "the regular publication of the Buckley column," and the failure of all but one of our readers to object to this column is not a submission "without protest" revealing a "satellite syndrome," but a demonstration of courtesy, tolerance, or even indifference, all lacking in Dr. de Verteuil's attitude. The letter cryptically accused us of complicity with Mr. Buckley in "clouding the real issues," with anti-communism and the "selling of the Vietnam war." This preposterous allegation, unspecific as to the identity of "the real issues," presumably refers to the occasional published remarks of the undersigned on the subject of Vietnam, written in response to the pre-published comments of others. If it is a publisher's obligation to publish opinions contrary to his own, it is also his right to reply to them.

The invocation of the John Birch society is understandable only as an attempt to smear this newspaper and its contributors as extremists. We all object to being sent unsolicited pamphlets. What is Dr. de Verteuil's solution? Suppression of free access to the mails? Such a hysterical and negative proposal would not be surprising from a leftist in Canada.

Let Canada and the U.S.A. by all means enjoy a "policy of mutual respect." But this can scarcely be construed as rejecting all foreign opinion, any more than it is desirable to suspend publication of all foreign news.

What happens in the United States is important to the world and especially to Canada. William Buckley lucidly expresses an intelligible if controversial point of view, and he frequently comments on international affairs.

Indeed, the publication of his views is much more defensible than that of the muddled prejudices of a Franco-Trinidadian psychiatrist expressed in the letter faithfully reproduced above. We are, however, happy to publish all letters from readers.

C.M. BLACK, PUBLISHER OF THE RECORD.

Denunciation and reply

"We could try showing him some unemployment figures . . ."

William F. Buckley, Jr.

On the Right

A gentleman of the press writes me, not without glee, to remark what he clearly conceives as an irony, to wit that on the very same day the press published a paragraph by me and a paragraph (from a memorandum written in 1965) by the Assistant Secretary of Defence making my own paragraph look positively sick in its judgment.

I had written, after analyzing the arguments of John Kerry, "Myself, I will listen patiently, decades hence, to those who argue that our commitment in Vietnam and our attempt to redeem it, were tragically misconceived. I shall not listen, ever, to those who say that it was less than the highest tribute to the national motivation, to collective idealism, and to international rectitude."

The McNamara draft, done for Secretary of Defence Robert McNamara, is in style and content rendered in the telegraphic beloved of the boss. "1. US aims: 70 per cent — To avoid a humiliating US defeat (to our reputation as a guarantor). 20 per cent — To keep SVN (and the adjacent) territory from Chinese hands. 10 per cent — To permit the people of SVN to enjoy a better, freer way of life. ALSO (caps in the originals) — To emerge from crisis without unacceptable taint from methods used. NOT — To 'help a friend,' although it would be hard to stay in if asked out."

"That was hardly an idealistic statement of US purposes," Time magazine commented, disgustedly.

Notice that notwithstanding his determination to compress his thoughts into the fewest words, Mr. McNamara felt it necessary to indicate exactly what he meant by "humiliation." He meant something quite different from what it is that one experiences in Chicago when The Wild Ones take an American flag and burn it in the park. One experiences, on such occasions, a sense of humiliation, of hurt, and, emphatically, one suffers along with one's country: but the whole of one's experience is spiritual.

The Department of Defence was talking about something utterly concrete: about the humiliating to "our reputation as a guarantor." Now, if the United States' reputation as a guarantor is humiliated, much else happens than that sinking spirit in the patriotic breast. What happens is things like wars, conquests, and enslavement.

"Many people seem to think one can ignore treaties at will," Eugene Rostow, who with his brother Walt was closely involved during the years the Pentagon Papers are discussing, writes me.

"Those who profess to be super-moral and criticize others for being immoral, have the breathtaking habit of assuming that treaties are scraps of paper. That really isn't true, and can't be true, if a nation (or a politician) wishes to retain any influence at all. Churchill said of the decision to go into Greece that Britain could afford to lose a battle, but not her honor. The political meaning of these documents is not in the fine print, but in their deterrent power, if any. If we don't want to have to fight off the Ostrogoths every five minutes, then an American commitment has to be respected completely. Civis Romanus Sum. That is our national security interest."

Even so, Mr. Rostow goes on to say that he has personal knowledge to the effect that President Kennedy's thinking was influenced by his knowledge of what commitments President Eisenhower made. In turn, President Johnson was influenced by the decisions of his predecessors.

And, even now, precisely the anti-Wilsonian rigor of McNamara's analysis (10 per cent — To permit the people of SVN to enjoy a better, freer way of life) makes it historically sensible that we stood by our treaty obligations, thereby increasing the prospects for improving life in South Vietnam, but only as incidental to the main purpose for which we acted: our pursuit of collective idealism, and international rectitude.

Silver anniversary celebrated

FITCH BAY — The Legion Memorial Hall in Fitch Bay was on Friday evening, June 11, the scene of a delightful event, when a surprise silver anniversary party was held for Mr. and Mrs. Frank Smith of Libbytown.

The couple had been invited by Mr. and Mrs. Randolph Dustin, of Cowansville, to be their dinner guests at a restaurant in Magog; from there, the foursome came to Fitch Bay and the hall.

On entering the hall, Mrs. Smith was presented with a corsage of yellow sweetheart roses and Mr. Smith with a white carnation boutonniere by the attendants at their wedding a quarter century ago. Mrs. Harvey Bennett, sister of the bride, and Harold Smith, brother of the groom, who also escorted them to a table where the four formed a receiving line. Good wishes were extended then by over 150 relatives and friends.

The entertainment of the evening was dancing with music played by Nutbrown's orchestra and the square dance calls were by Harold Smith. Refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. Smith's family, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Smith, Russell and Ruby Smith, who planned the reception, assisted by other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Bennett and Harold Smith were seated at a table, having a white cover decorated with blue and silver, which was centered with the anniversary cake, flanked by white spiral candles in silver, and seasonal garden flowers.

The hall was further decorated with silver garlands, white wedding bells and arrangements of spring flowers.

Shortly after arrival, Harvey Bennett, a professional photographer from Montreal, a brother-in-law of Mrs. Smith, took several pictures as did others, as souvenirs of this very happy occasion.

The fruited anniversary cake was made and decorated by Mrs. Wendell Cass with silver posts separating the triple tiers which were decorated with blue roses and scroll on white with touches of silver, 25 numerals and was topped with a bride and groom. This was initially cut by the bride assisted by the groom of the silver years, and later passed by them, in this way, they had another opportunity to speak to everyone attending.

Russell Smith, speaking remarks of tribute to his parents on behalf of his two sisters and younger brother, also presented them with a silver decorated box containing congratulatory cards and money, with the leather covered guest book and invited them to open the gifts on another table. The gifts were in silver and 25th anniversary china, as well as other items for their home.

The couple voiced their appreciation to everyone who had given them this memorable evening. In his remarks, "Mr. Smith said 'the years have been good to Kay and I, we have been blessed with four children, we had not much money but a host of friends to enrich us and friends are something more precious than money."

Relatives were in charge of the guest book. It was signed by relatives and friends from Montreal, Georgeville, Dorval, Lennoxville, Sherbrooke, Way's Mills, Ayer's Cliff, Coaticook, Rock Island, Stanstead, Cowansville, Derby Line.

Mr. Smith and Kay McIntyre of Libbytown and Stanstead were united in marriage on June 12, 1946. They have four children, Mrs. Edgar Smith, the former Meta Smith, now of Georgeville, Russell, Ruby and Cecil, at home.

Their many friends join to wish them many more of these truly happy gatherings.

EARN MASTERS — James J. McGuire, B.A., M.Ed., husband of the former Frances M. White of Glen Murray and son of Dr. and Mrs. M. G. McGuire of Brockville, Ontario received his Master of Education degree in Psychology, at the May 31 convocation of the University of Ottawa. Mr. McGuire received his Bachelor of Arts degree from Western University in 1969, and plans to continue for his Doctorate, after taking a year off to work.

Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. G. A. (Jerry) Ord of East Clifton, formerly of Cookshire, are celebrating their 25th wedding anniversary on July 3, at 8 p.m. at the Legion Hall in Sawyerville. Relatives, friends, and neighbors are invited.

Personal

Mrs. Dick Aulis of Bury is a surgical patient at the Sherbrooke Hospital, Room 215. Her many friends wish her a speedy recovery.

At home

Colonel and Mrs. Lee M. Watson, 37 Clough St., Lennoxville, will be "at home" on Wednesday, June 30, from 3.30 to 6 p.m. to the friends of the Right Reverend and Mrs. Harold Waterman on the occasion of their golden wedding anniversary.

65th feted

COOKSHIRE — An unusual and happy event took place in Cookshire when Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Learned celebrated their 65th wedding anniversary on Sunday, June 13.

Their son, Rupert, and his wife, Mildred, gave a party Saturday evening June 12 for relatives and close friends, and many friends called on the couple on Sunday afternoon and evening of June 13, to extend their best wishes.

Mr. and Mrs. Learned were married on June 13, 1906, at the home of Mrs. Learned's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alton Hodge, in Eaton, by the Rev. George Crabbe, the Methodist minister.

They had two children, Rupert, and Jean (Mrs. Milton Lardy, of Winnipeg) who was unable to attend this celebration as her daughter Patricia's wedding had taken place a few days previously. They have six grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

The living room and the dining room were beautifully decorated with spring flowers, and many of Mrs. Learned's house plants were also in bloom, which added to the decorations.

Refreshments, including a two-tier wedding cake, were served by Mr. and Mrs. Rupert Learned.

Among the communications received were telegrams from the Queen, the Prime Minister of Canada, Mr. Pierre Trudeau, the Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec, Mr. Hugues Lapointe, the Premier of Quebec, Mr. Robert Bourassa, from Mr. Omer Dionne, MNA for Compton, and a personal letter from the Honorable John G. Diefenbaker, P.C., Q.C., M.P.

Mrs. Learned is still able to do much of her own light housework, and takes a keen interest in her garden and house plants. Mr. Learned is not quite so active, but both enjoy having friends call on them any time.

THE FAMILY

Church news

Grace Chapel women

Grace Chapel's Women's Missionary Fellowship held their last meeting of the season as guests at Bethel Bible School in Lennoxville. Mr. Sheldon Bard, principal of the school, conducted a tour of the grounds and buildings. He recounted the very interesting history, and also the future plans of the school.

Refreshments were then served by the hostesses, Miss Bernice MacMillan, Mrs. Frances Hatch, and Mrs. William Blythe.

Miss Bernice MacMillan presided over the meeting, and announced the following events: on June 15, the ladies were invited to Dr. and Mrs. Kline's ranch in Dixville; June 18, there were a Pioneer Girls' encampment, on June 19, the Sunday School picnic was held at Frontier Lodge; and on June 26, a Child Evangelist Supper was held at the Bethel Bible School.

The secretary-treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Frances Hatch; a work report was given by Mrs. Thomas Young.

A prayer time followed. A question and answer period, regarding the French work in the area, was then held. Mrs. Sheldon Bard and Miss Sandra Lucas, represented Bethel Bible School, and Mrs. Cyril Shontoff, the Assemblée Chrétienne in Sherbrooke.

The summer offering will be used to purchase a clock and a gift of money will be given to encourage a Bethel student.

Mrs. Arnold Baker thanked the staff at Bethel for their hospitality, and closed the meeting with a prayer.

Quebec Lodge rally

The Annual Rally at Quebec Lodge was again a great success.

The weather accommodated everyone—there wasn't a cloud in the sky. It was so warm that a few brave souls followed the lead of the Rev. Digby Buxton of North Hatley and plunged into the lake. Most of us, though, children and adults alike, found it took courage enough to paddle.

At the picnic area, the Young People's Group from Waterville, with a great deal of help from Bill and Barbara Edgecombe, provided soft drinks and a barbecue pit for hot dogs and hamburgers. Their venture proved profitable and was certainly popular with everybody.

The races were enjoyed as much by the spectators as by the competitors. Their success was due to the great organization of Mr. C. Kobelt, who deserves much of the credit for the continuing popularity of this annual event.

The rally would be an impossibility without Mr. C. Dougherty's loudspeaker. His encouragement to the racers, his good humor, warnings and appeals for assistance, are familiar sounds at the Rally, and yet without them nothing at all could be accomplished.

The Rally drew to an end with the usual service, made unusual this year by the fact that someone forgot Archdeacon Matthew's portable organ. It all turned to the good, however, when a group from the Lennoxville AYM undertook to look after the music. Their enthusiasm proved contagious, and along with the preaching of the Rev. Clare Scratch, the praying of Rev. A. Lovelace, and the reading of Father Tierney, the service was a most lively one, and a fitting ending to a beautiful afternoon.

Jesus had short hair?

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: If one more kid says to me, "Long hair is great. After all, Jesus had long hair," I will personally kick him in the teeth.

Nobody knows what Jesus looked like. They did not have photographers 2,000 years ago and no artist ever painted a picture of Him. The pictures we see hanging in churches and hospitals are based on somebody's imagination.

The best information we have regarding hair styles of that time is from the Bible. Corinthians, Chapter II, Verse 14: "Does not even nature itself teach you that, if a man have long hair, it is a shame unto him?"

Any kid who wants to wear his hair long ought to be man enough to do it without saying he is imitating Jesus.

—I Like It Short

Dear Like It: I swore I would not print another letter about hair, but yours is out of the ordinary, so I'm making an exception. Thanks for writing, and I'm renewing my resolution.

Dear Ann Landers: Recently you printed two letters in your column from mothers who had just lost their babies. They wrote to complain about the bad manners and poor judgment of people who asked fantastic questions and made some very dumb remarks.

I was in a similar situation eight months ago, only my baby lived. Our son was premature. He weighed 3 pounds, 8 ounces. Within two hours after the baby was born two doctors assured us he was perfectly formed and in excellent condition.

I was scarcely back from the delivery room when a friend called to say, "If the baby dies, don't feel bad. Usually premies have something wrong and it's better if they don't live."

Our baby was in an incubator 40 days. I never received one gift or even a card in all that time. Everyone was afraid he might not make it. I was told by "friends" the baby would be

"slow, sickly and he might not have teeth."

Our son is now 8 months old, weighs 18 pounds and can walk around in his crib, hanging onto the sides. He has six teeth, is a bright, happy child and has never even had diaper rash.

Please print this. A lot of women need educating on the subject of premature babies.

—Baltimore Mother

Dear B: Here's your letter, plus my thanks for helping to educate the women who need it.

Dear Ann Landers: I am 11. I have two sisters—one is 14, the other 17. Seeing as how they are both older than I am you would expect them to be more mature, but they aren't.

Both sisters are in bad with the library. They have lost their cards, lost books and ended up having a hassle with the librarian. They can't take any more books out so they have been borrowing my card. Now I'm in trouble. They have run up fines which I am getting notices about. The last notice sounds as if the library will sue me if I don't pay up. Please tell me what to do.

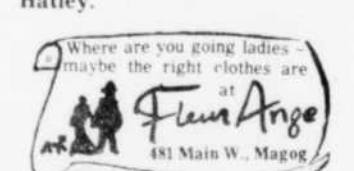

—Victim of Sisters

Dear Vic: The first thing you should do is see that the fines are paid. Since they charged against your card, you are responsible. This might require a high-level family meeting, like with parents.

Next, urge your sisters to go to the library and get reinstated as welcome visitors. Inform them they may not use your card in the future—and make it stick.

GRADUATES — Susan Jane Little, who recently graduated from Macdonald College with a degree of Bachelor of Science (Food Management). Susan is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Little of North Hatley.

Bridal showers

BOLTON CENTRE — A bridal shower was held for Miss Diane Jusza in the club room of the town building. The room was decorated by Mrs. Hilda Cousens and Mrs. Phillis Terrio consisting of baskets of Cherry Blossoms, narcissus and pink roses.

Miss Jusza was met at the door by Miss Linda Peasley who pinned a pretty corsage of flowers on her. She was then escorted to a table laden with gifts.

She was assisted in opening her gifts by her mother and Mrs. Keene Peasley, mother of the groom-to-be, and two aunts of Diane. Diane's gifts were passed around for everyone to admire, after which Miss Jusza thanked everyone.

A shower cake in the shape of a heart was made and decorated by Mrs. Phillis Terrio. Lunch was served by her friends.

Those from out of town were from: South Bolton, Montreal, Waterloo, and Knowlton.

SHERBROOKE — In honor of the approaching marriage of Miss Suzanne Wood, a kitchen and linen shower was held recently by Mrs. William Ross with Miss Eloise Loon as joint hostess.

Miss Wood was taken by surprise when arriving at the home of Mrs. Ross to find Miss Loon also there and a large number of friends.

Miss Loon read poems to the bride-to-be to guess what was in the gaily wrapped gifts. After the gifts had been admired by all, the bride-to-be, in her usual charming manner, thanked everyone for the gifts and the surprise party.

Refreshments were then served including a lovely heart-shaped shower cake made and decorated by Mrs. Charles Ross. The hostesses were assisted in the serving by Mrs. George Hoy, Mrs. Charles Ross and Miss Cathy Ross.

Young look at art

BOUNDARY — The world is right and young and good in June. Who will deny it this June? In keeping, the Haskell Library offers a young look at the world of art. The month had to be shared by two "quickies", the first half presenting the boys of Stanstead College, Mrs. Duncan Graham, teacher; the last half — and currently showing, are pictures by students of North Country Junior High School, Mrs. Virginia Telford, teacher.

Both of these small shows are well worth a second and serious look. If you don't like what you see, you may be lost in the generation gap. And that's a pity, for you miss so much! If you think art in the school is, or should be the senseless copying of some ancient print, or the making of "pretty scenes", visit the library and see what has happened to art education while you weren't giving it your attention!

The students in both of the June shows explore medium and technique with refreshing zest. They open new windows on the world. That is justification enough.

Quebec Presbyterial

St. Andrew's, in historic Quebec City, created a quaint atmosphere for the May rally of the Quebec Presbyterial. Registration totalled 57 from Sherbrooke, Scotstown, Asbestos, Danville, Melbourne, Upper Melbourne, Quebec City, Valcartier and Inverness.

The theme of the rally was "A Step Forward," based on II Thes. 3:1.

The meeting was opened by the President, Mrs. J. Imrie. This was followed by a memorial service led by Mrs. H. Mayhew, with a minute's silence observed in memory of devoted WMS members who have passed away.

Synodical greetings were brought by Miss D. Blaise, and Presbytery greetings sent from Rev. G. Doran.

Reports were received from Departmental secretaries, from the Synodical Annual meeting, and from Council.

The morning agenda was closed with a National Workers quiz, which gave delegates an opportunity to become informed as well as better acquainted. During the morning session, each delegate was given a nametag of a WMS or GBM missionary. All those from one particular mission field sat together at lunch.

During the afternoon session, a Camp Committee was given by the chairman, Mrs. D. Campbell, who announced a camp weekend at Camp d'Action Biblique, in September. A "shower" of practical gifts was received for the Presbytery Camp.

A workshop-type program highlighted the afternoon, with each group of the Presbyterial representing a mission field abroad. This provided total involvement, a wealth of information, as well as an opportunity to observe techniques of presentation.

This was followed by prayers for the missionaries and their work.

The day was one of warm Christian fellowship, enjoyed by all.

Laver, Newcombe advance in net play

LONDON (Reuter) — Stan Smith of the U.S. made it to the men's singles quarter-finals at the All-England tennis championships Saturday, notwithstanding some four-set heroics from Roy Emerson of Australia to avenge defeat last year.

Smith's scores were 2-6, 6-1, 6-3, 9-7, as he became a quarter-finalist against Onny Parum of New Zealand, surprise winner Saturday over Marty Riessen of the U.S. by 9-8, 6-3, 3-6, 6-3. The Smith-Parum match will be played Monday.

There was a big upset in the women's singles, where Judy Dalton of Australia once again ended fifth-seeded Virginia Wade's chances of winning before her home fans with a 9-8, 6-3 win.

In other men's matches, third-seeded Ken Rosewall got through against fellow-Australian Fred Stolle, 6-4, 7-5, 7-9, 6-4.

Sixth-seeded Cliff Richey of the U.S. qualified to meet Rosewall Tuesday in the quarter-finals by surviving a difficult match against Jeff Borowiak of the U.S. 6-4, 4-6, 6-4, 6-4.

TOP SEEDS TO PLAY
The other quarter-finals, Monday and Tuesday respectively, will send top-seeded Rod Laver against Tom Gorman of the U.S., and John Newcombe of Australia, the second seed, against Colin Dibley of Australia, winner by 6-3, 8-6, 6-3 over Joaquin Loyo-Mayo of Mexico. Other women's winners Saturday were the third and sixth seeds, Yvonne Goolagong of Australia and Nancy Richey Gunter of the U.S., and Winnie Shaw of Scotland.

Miss Goolagong was terrible for one set against Lesley Hunt of Australia, recovered some form in a second set that was closer than the score would indicate and then waltzed through the third to win 1-6, 6-2, 6-1.

Mrs. Gunter by-passed the Soviet challenge of Saigo Yansone 6-3, 6-3, and Miss Shaw was victorious against Lesley Bowrey of Australia 1-6, 9-7, 6-3.

In the quarters Monday, it will be Margaret Court against Miss Shaw, Kerry Melville of Australia against Mrs. Dalton, and Billie Jean King of the U.S. against Francoise Durr of France.

WINDS CHOPPY

Emerson and Smith played in choppy winds on centre court Saturday in a match that turned back and forth on easy misses and wasn't won until the sixth match point. The first set was all Emerson.

Lafleur given advice

WOODBIDGE, Ont. (CP) — Bobby Orr had four little words for Guy Lafleur when the two met this weekend at the annual National Hockey League Players' Association golf tournament.

"Get a good lawyer," said Orr, the Boston Bruin defenceman considered by many experts the outstanding player in the game, to Lafleur, junior scoring sensation of the Memorial Cup champion Quebec Remparts.

Lafleur, picked in the recent NHL draft by Montreal Canadiens, scored more than 130 goals with Quebec last season and is currently negotiating a contract with the Stanley Cup champion Canadiens.

Orr is himself negotiating what is believed to be a multi-year contract with the Bruins. Talks have been going on "for quite some time."

When Orr signed with Boston six years ago, his lawyer, Alan Eagleson, NHLPA executive director, negotiated an unheard-of multi-year pact for the former Oshawa General.

ORR IS CADDY

Orr had to withdraw from participating in the tournament this year because of a death in the family but showed up unexpectedly Sunday to caddy for team-mates Derek Sanderson and Ed Johnston, winners of the best-ball play with a score of 125.

Asked to comment on Campbell's statement last week that Boston couldn't afford the team it has without selling some of its stars, such as centre Phil Esposito, Orr replied:

"I don't think the league president should say things like that... I think the Bruins still have a few bucks."

Asked what his contract is calling for, he said "I'm asking what I think I'm worth."

Angels' Johnson handed suspension

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — Controversial Alex Johnson, the 1970 American League batting champion, was suspended indefinitely without pay Saturday by California Angels "for failure to give his best effort to the winning of games with which he is concerned."

The announcement was made by the club's home office. The Angels, fighting to stay out of the American League West cellar, lost a 10-inning 4-3 decision to the White Sox in Chicago before the suspension was announced.

A club official said the suspension came 10 days after Johnson was given an official warning by general manager Dick Walsh.

"Walsh and Alex met the day after the trading deadline and he was placed on formal notice," said the official.

Walsh said Johnson was "in constant violation of club rules and regulations," but he did not specify which rules.

Stewart cops Can-Am

MONT TREMBLANT, Que. (CP) — The man who served notice Sunday that Team McLaren domination of the Canadian-American Challenge Cup series may be over says he expects even better performance from his Lola T160 in the future.

"The car never missed a beat from start to finish," Jackie Stewart said following his victory in the Le Circuit Can-Am. "But it's still not handling as

Expo guns back Strohmayer 12-4

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Expos exploded for seven runs in the first inning to throttle New York Mets 12-4 in National League baseball action Sunday.

Rookie Charlie Williams (3-2), the Met starter, got himself in trouble by walking leadoff man Boots Day and then throwing Stan Szanson's grounder past first. Rusty Staub singled for the first run, Ron Fairly doubled for two more and singles by Bob Bailey and John Bateman made it 4-0 and kayoed Williams. Ron Hunt's single off Jim McAndrew drove in the fifth run. The sixth scored on McAndrew's throwing error, and a single by winning pitcher John Strohmayer (1-1) completed the uprising.

Art Shamsky tagged Strohmayer for a three-run homer in the fourth but the Expos came back with two in the sixth. Singles by Hunt, his 1,000th major league hit, and Gary Sutherland and an error by third baseman Bob Aspromonte loaded the bases and the runs crossed on Day's force out grounder and Swanson's single.

Montreal added three runs in the eighth on Strohmayer's single, a double by Day, Swanson's two-run single and an RBI double by Fairly.

Strohmayer scattered 10 hits in posting his first victory as a major-league starter, and snapping the Expos four-game losing streak.

It never rains inside the Houston Astrodome, but it generally pours for San Francisco Giants anyway.

Sunday was no exception as the Giants lost to Houston Astros 5-2, making it 20 setbacks in their last 25 games inside the dome.

"We're kind of jinxed here," said pitcher Jerry Johnson. "Maybe we've got it in our heads that we play bad here."

"It's just a psychological thing... I can't explain why..."

Elsewhere in the National League Sunday, Pittsburgh Pirates edged Philadelphia Phillies 10-9 after dropping the opener 8-4, Montreal Expos trounced New York Mets 12-4, Los Angeles Dodgers trimmed San Diego Padres 7-2, Chicago Cubs downed St. Louis Cardinals 4-1 and Cincinnati Reds held off Atlanta Braves 7-5.

In Saturday's play, Pittsburgh home run in the opener and broke Tony Perez's NL record for most homers through June 30.

Roger Freed's game-tying home run and doubles by Denny Doyle and Willie Montanez keyed a four-run seventh inning that enabled the Phils to win the opener.

Richie Allen clouted a two-run homer as the Dodgers whipped the Padres and chopped a game off the Giants' lead in the NL West.

The Cubs moved past the Cardinals into third place in the East by handing St. Louis its 20th defeat in 27 games this month. Don Kessinger's two-run single in the sixth broke open a pitching duel between Ferguson Jenkins of Chatham, Ont., who won his 11th, and Steven Carlton.

Cincinnati's Gary Nolan hurled perfect ball for 6 1-3 innings but needed Lee May's two-run homer in the ninth and relief help from Wayne Granger to beat the Braves.

The Mets dropped four games behind Pittsburgh in the East when Montreal exploded for seven runs in the first inning against Charlie Williams and Jim McAndrew on six hits and two errors. Ron Fairly and Stan Swanson each drove in three runs as the Expos ended New York's four-game winning streak.

Dolan repeats Open win

MONTREAL (CP) — Jay Dolan of Leicester, Mass., fired a one-under-par 71 for a 54-hole total of 214 Sunday afternoon to win the Quebec Open golf championship for the second year in a row.

Dolan, in repeating the 1970 victory when the Open was played in Quebec City, scored a one-stroke victory over Bob Payne of Mount Vernon, Ill., and Tom Nettles of San Diego, Calif.

Dolan was one stroke behind four co-leaders at 143 going into Sunday's final round in the $16,000 event.

He claimed $3,000 first-place money. Payne and Nettles, who shared first place with two other golfers after Saturday's second round, both fired one-over 73s and finished at 215. Each man won $1,875 second-place money.

Low Taylor of Lachute, Que., and Duke Doucet of Windsor, Que., also tied for the lead after 36 holes, blew to 76 and 79 to finish with 218 and 221 respectively.

Moe Norman of Guilford, Ont., scored the tournament's lowest round, a 69, Sunday to finish at 217, lowest-scoring Canadian in the field.

He won $1,200 and automatic qualification at this week's Canadian Open at nearby Richelieu Valley Golf and Country club.

Ben Kern of London, Ont., and Taylor were a stroke behind Norman at 218 and earned $750.

Two Canadians and two players from the U.S. were two strokes back at 220 and $425.

John Baldwin, Ashburn, Ont., first-round leader, Tom McGinnis, Memphis, Tenn., John Elliott, Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and Phil Giroux, Montreal.

Toronto's Al Balding was another stroke back with Max Thompson, of the host club, Doucet and Bob Cox Jr. of Richmond, B.C.

Ken Trowbridge of Bolton, Ont., was the event's low amateur at 223, registering rounds of 72 and 73 Friday and Saturday before jumping to 78 Sunday and was the only amateur to finish in the top 25.

Jean Ratelle, centre with New York Rangers of the National Hockey League, shot rounds of 78, 73, 77 to finish well back in the field at 228.

Some 225 golfers were entered in the three-round tournament, but many failed to make the second-round cutoff score of 156 strokes.

Local minister ordained in N.S.

FOSTER — The ordination of the Reverend Robert David Price as a priest of the Anglican Church took place on May 23 in Christ Church Cathedral, Halifax, N.S. The ceremony was performed by the Right Reverend William Davis, Bishop of Nova Scotia.

The service was attended by David's wife, Florence, his father-in-law and mother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Purdy of Deep Rock, N.S. and his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Purdy of Dartmouth, N.S., as well as David's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Price of Foster, Quebec. Rev. and Mrs. Austin Munroe of Lunenburg N.S. also attended. The beautiful old Cathedral was full to capacity, as there were in all ten ordinands, their families and friends as well as the usual congregation.

In the evening, Rev. David Price conducted his first mass in the Church of the Holy Spirit, where he had assisted the Rev. Emery Harris for some months. Two newly-ordained priests, the Rev. Peter Harris and the Rev. Jack Tattler, took part in the service. Their wives, relatives and friends were also present.

Following the service, a reception was held for Rev. David in the parish hall. A

He is here shown with fellow ordinands, Reverend Kenneth Wissler, of the United States, to the left, and Rev. Vernon G. Kent, of Halifax, at the far right of the picture. The Rt. Rev. W.W. Rev. David will be priest-in-charge of St. James Church, Herring Cove, near Halifax, for the summer months, after which he will be assigned to another church where he will stay for some time.

Leaving Sister honored

RICHMOND — Sister L. Comeau, Superior of Our Lady of Mercy Convent, was completely taken by surprise, on Thursday evening, June 17, upon her arrival at the Bellevue Golf Club, to find a large number of her friends and co-workers gathered there.

Sister was greeted at the door by Mrs. Joseph Doyle and Mrs. Harry Smith. Mrs. Maureen Quinn pinned a beautiful rose corsage on Sister Comeau and led her to the chair of honor, to the strains of "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow." Sister C. McNeil, principal of St. Michael's School accompanied Sister Comeau who was seated beside her.

Mr. John Boersen welcomed all those present in both English and French, and thanked them for coming to pay tribute to Sister Comeau.

Mr. Leo Delaney then spoke of Sister Comeau's untiring devotion above and beyond the call of duty in helping in the community during her all too short stay in our midst.

La Chorale de L'Estrie under the direction of Mr. Jean-Marc Bernier rendered several selections in her honor.

Master Anthony Hodge then presented Sister Comeau with a basket of roses following which Mr. Boersen on behalf of her many friends and colleagues presented Sister Comeau with a Cassette Tape Recorder and a purse of money.

Sister Comeau expressed her thanks and appreciation for the tribute and stated that although she would be leaving Richmond, her new mission in Sherbrooke would allow her frequent visits to her friends in this area.

A social hour then followed and refreshments were served bringing a very enjoyable evening to a close. The evening was arranged by the P.T.A.

CGIT promotion services at UCW meeting

MAGOG — On June 2nd the UCW of St. Paul's Church met at 7:30 p.m. in the Church Hall with Mrs. G. Bailey presiding at the meeting.

Miss Joyce Broadbent and the CGIT girls took the worship service, each girl taking a part. Two hymns were sung with Mrs. G. M. McLaughlin at the piano, after which the promotion ceremonies took place.

These girls received their lanyards on graduation: Susan McLaughlin, Brenda Ruck and Linda Cotterell. Two girls were promoted from the Explorers to CGIT — the were Sandra McLaughlin and Heather Keet. These girls received their "E" pins in graduation.

The programme was taken by Mrs. Phyllis Wilson and her Explorer girls, who presented a very interesting skit and a number of songs. Mrs. Bailey thanked the Leader and girls for their part in the evening's programme.

Twenty-five members answered the roll call and four guests, with one birthday announced.

The Treasurer reported a very substantial balance at the end of the second quarter with all bills being paid. It was decided to give a donation to the Ambulance Fund which has started in Magog.

At the close of the business meeting there was a moment's silence in memory of a very faithful member, Mrs. Helen Kirk who had passed away the week before.

A social hour followed at which time Miss Ada Sandell presented Mrs. Vernon Bell with a gift from the members wishing her and her family the very best in their new home in Ontario. Mrs. Bell thanked Miss Sandell for her kind words and the members for the gift saying she would miss the group here but was glad to be going back to Ontario which was her home before coming to Magog.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Lucy Smith and Miss Lillian Pike. The fall meeting will be held on September 8 in the evening.

Postal rules to follow

DERBY LINE — In an interview recently with Raymond Petelle, Postmaster at Derby Line office, this correspondent learned that Ray has over 30 years of Federal Service, and a few thoughts on the problems and disappointment that the postal service customers themselves cause.

At this time of year, with people moving, and people do, just as regularly as some do spring cleaning, Ray points out to them, when they move from one town to another address, to notify the Post Office that one is leaving; also register at the Post Office that "you have moved." The same holds true if you move from one place to another at the same delivery office.

Also, there are available at the post office, "change of address" cards, free to you, which after applying postage may be sent to newspapers, family, or firm, in a very easy manner. Ray will gladly give them to those making address changes.

Failure to notify the postal workers often causes a lot of mail to be left at the old post office and returned after a delay to the sender, or to the dead letter office. The same happens at the new Post office you have moved to.

Ray says, "when you go visiting, it's always a good idea to tell your correspondent to include the persons name you are visiting in the address". The postal people may not know who you know in town.

Another common situation arises about once a year at different times, when new officers are elected into different organizations that exist today. After an election it would help a lot to speed up the mail, and cause less pondering, if a list of new officials names were submitted to the post office. All one needs to do is tell a clerk or leave a slip of paper at the office. Saying "Joe Blow" is the new president of such and such a club.

The postal people are a dedicated group of individuals who delight in the proper and complete performance of their duties. The postal customers can help a lot by observing those simple rules, and make it a lot easier for you as well to have mail promptly.

Inspection trophy donated

RICHMOND — The guiders (leaders) of the 1st Richmond Brownie Pack decided to try to beat the inspection problem once for all this year by awarding a trophy to the Six who had led in an inspection competition during the year.

Each Brownie was required to be in complete uniform, have fair gold, and, as well, pass a special inspection on clean hands, etc. each week in order to place a star beside her name on the Inspection Chart. Then each Six with perfect inspection each meeting was given a Brownie sticker to place on the Chart.

At the end of the year, Laura Johnston's Six, the Fairies had proudly won the Inspection and was awarded a trophy which will remain in the pack for competition in future years.

The trophy was generously donated by W. Poirier, Jeweller in Richmond, and Mr. Poirier presented it to the Fairies — namely Laura Johnston, Sixer; Louise Ouellet, Second; Heather Dewar, Cathy Clark, and Joanne Poisson. Each Brownie in the Fairies Six will enjoy having the trophy for a few weeks after which time it will return to the Pack. Sincere thanks were extended to Mr. W. Poirier for his generosity and concern in youth activity.

A Brownie Character Plaque was also awarded to the Brownie whom the guiders felt had best fulfilled her Brownie Promise, Law and Motto, and who had learned to apply these in every day living. Sarah Oakley, Sixer of the Imps, was the proud recipient of this plaque and it is hers to treasure.

This was held in the Richmond and Melbourne United Church Hall on Saturday, June 5.

CANADA

Indians are on the warpath

The Indians, as the white man has so long been fond of saying, are on the warpath.

It is symbolic of aggressive new attitudes among Western Canada Indians today that the very word "warpath"—when so used—tends to make them despair of ever getting a fair deal from what Manitoba's Dave Courchene describes as the "larger society."

The demands of French-Canadians, Ukrainian-Canadians and other kinds of Canadians are received with far greater concern by fellow-citizens than those of the native people—of that the Indians are sure.

Spokesmen say it is really a little late in the day to be talking of Indians on the warpath in search of wampum—something like hoary old jokes about a Scotsman with haggis in his hair and heather in his ears.

Alberta's Harold Cardinal, 24, a sort of prophet among militant young Indians, said cultural concerns of his people can be compared in some ways with those of the French-Canadians.

But the French-Canadians still have a homeland-Quebec to fall back on if the worst came to the worst in North America. The Indians don't have that kind of refuge.

Mr. Courchene, 42, president of the Manitoba Indian Brotherhood, said the Indians — "and probably every ethnic group in Canada" — are proud of their culture but the native people cannot foster theirs in poverty.

"Poverty is a culture of its own."

Fred Favel of Vancouver, 29-year-old Indian publisher, said a newspaper headline he once saw about "four white men and five war whoops" being jailed for drunkenness illuminates "an ugly white mind-set."

"The Indian has been the only true Canadian and he hasn't changed much since the white man came," said Mr. Favel.

"We want to be brothers on an equal basis. Indians have had more patience than any other ethnic group in trying to create what Prime Minister Trudeau uses as a political gimmick — the Just Society."

"Maybe in the end it is going to be the Indian who will make Canada what it was supposed to have been. I believe very much in the country."

The claim of the Indian to a pristine love of and sense of belonging to Canada is valid, in the opinion of sensitive non-Indians.

Prof. Kenneth Lochhead of the University of Manitoba's school of art was asked in Winnipeg in a general context whether various regions of Canada are producing distinctive art.

Prof. Lochhead, 44, said regional influences are, indeed, apparent, but the white man in the eyes of history is still a newcomer in the vast western land and, in a way, has retreated from it into city-dwelling insulation.

CLOSE TO LAND

"We haven't been here long enough even to understand the subject, let alone see its relationship to the art that is out of it or by it, except the Indian and the Eskimo. They seem so a part of the landscape because they live so close to it."

Interviews with Indian and Metis leaders throughout Western Canada indicated a strange mixture of unease and hope among the native peoples. Profound fears were expressed that the flimsy framework of whatever rights the Indians have managed to salvage through the years is threatened by the federal government's proposals for shifting Indian affairs to the provinces.

It seems certain there are a great many more Indians and part-Indians in Canada than is generally assumed, one estimate going as high as 1,000,000 Indians though only 250,000 were counted in the last census.

"I was brought up in an atmosphere that made me ashamed to be an Indian and I didn't even admit it until I was 19 years old," said the Winnipeg-born Mr. Favel, who founded the periodic newspaper The First Citizen.

Winnipeg's Rev. Adam Cuthand, 56, president of the Metis Federation of Manitoba, said research has shown 25 per cent or more of Manitoba's population has Indian ancestry. But the federation has a membership of only 34,000 and Mr. Courchene's brotherhood about the same.

MANY ARE LOST

"That means 200,000 people living in Manitoba have become lost as Indians or half-breeds because of assimilation, intermarriage with the Anglo-Saxons and French," said Mr. Cuthand, an Anglican minister.

One implication is that reawakening of interest and pride in Indian culture could be a potent force because many of the "lost" Indians hold high positions in Manitoba and elsewhere.

Observers of the native scene believe the more radical young western leaders are intent on stirring their kinsmen from their ancient lethargy, before it is too late.

"In many ways there's more discontent among us now than in the past and for a number of reasons," said Mr. Cardinal, president of the Indian Association of Alberta, in Edmonton.

"The social and economic situation hasn't improved that much but the entire awareness of what is possible has vastly increased. I think a lot of people are beginning to get at least an inkling of what place they should occupy in Canadian society."

Before, there might have been an acceptance for an Indian to withdraw to the back of the bus, so to speak. That isn't there any more."

How closely do the Indian bands and leaders see eye to eye among themselves?

OPEN TO SNOW JOBS

"We are united on the question of our desire to have our rights honored by the Canadian government. On how we propose to solve our social and economic problems, we necessarily have to use divergent approaches because like all Canadians we are governed by our geographic environment..."

"It's much the same if one looks at Pierre Elliott Trudeau and his concept of federalism and at Rene Levesque and his concept. If we were to use the same standards as the white people, we'd turn around and say, 'Those damn white people are divided again.'"

Mr. Favel, who was bitter about what he termed discrimination and racism in elements of the Canadian news media and also denounced the Indian affairs department, added:

"The government has tried to attach the Red Power label to us but I do not favor violence. Indian people have been passive, taken abuse, lived in the back ends of the country."

"We've been cheated, robbed and manipulated by governments."

Here is hoping everyone has a pleasant July 1st!

Hatley offers something for everyone on Canada Day

HATLEY — This town will open its eyes, wipe the sands from its brows and come alive for another Dominion Day celebration Thursday, July 1, a small town of 300 situated about 19 miles south of Sherbrooke, will once again revive a long-standing tradition of festive marking of Canada's birthday July 1.

The quiet flower-filled lanes will thrive with spectators and fun-seekers. The common, up on a hill above the centre of town, will be the stage for hundreds of people who have come to participate in a gigantic birthday party for our country.

The party will be like all the others everyone has grown accustomed to. People will be parading, people will be singing, people will be eating. All in all, everyone will be having a great time.

"We like to organize the festivities because we sure get a lot of fun out of it," Lester Drew, organization chairman for the Village of Hatley, told The Record.

Mr. Drew pointed out that a few years ago there was a motion to put an end to the yearly activities. "But we couldn't do that. How could we not have a birthday for Canada?" he asked.

"I like to say that we have had Dominion Day celebrations in Hatley since the beginning of time but I can't. All I can say is that everyone has come to Hatley for as many years as I can remember to enjoy a day of celebrations on Dominion Day," Mr. Drew said.

Everyone will be up bright and early this Thursday morning in Hatley. Final touches will be added to the multitudes of colorful decorations which will adorn all the town's youngsters' bicycles. Floats will have to be polished. Horses will have to be groomed. Visitors from out of town will congregate early, bringing with them many more colorful floats and beautiful horses. Some will bring only smiles and countenances bubbling with happiness.

At 10 a.m., the festivities will start officially with a parade. Led by the Coaticook majorette band, the parade will follow a course along the town's main street.

"We hope to have lots of floats in the parade. There will be horses, bicycles and decorated cars in the parade," Mr. Drew said.

The town is encouraging all participants from out of town to join in the parade. "There will be prizes for all the different classes in the parade," he said.

Following the parade at noon there will be a gigantic picnic lunch up on the common, the ring for the day's festivities. Kentucky Fried Chicken will be served by Charlie's Restaurant Lennoxville. The dinner will be a great chance for everyone to visit with the friends that they haven't seen since last year's Dominion Day festivities in Hatley or maybe even friends they haven't seen for years. It will also give everyone a chance to strike up new acquaintances.

After dinner will be the sports activities. Everyone will be able to digest their delicious meal better by partaking in the different sports activities that have been organized.

There will be racing for the children. Prizes will be offered in each event.

At the same time there will be one of the activities which is sure to be one of the highlights of the day. Everyone will cheer and the men will be among the most avid onlookers when two women's softball teams take to the field to battle each other in a ball game. The Hatley ladies will take on the ladies from the town of Lennoxville.

The evening's events will start at 8 p.m. An amateur hour is on tap to bring to life the town that has quieted down for supper. After having enjoyed a hardy dinner, everyone will flock back to the common to clap, to cheer and even to jeer and boo at the amateur hour that is sure to attract many interesting entries.

"We hope to have all kinds of performers at the show. There will be singers, bands, comedians and hopefully magicians and tricksters," Mr. Drew said. Attracting performers from all over the Eastern Townships, the amateur show will be one of the most enjoyable activities of a day filled with plenty of goodies.

Everyone is entitled to be a contestant in the amateur show. Prizes will be presented for the best performers.

After the amateur show there will be a fabulous street dance in Hatley. Albert Nutbrown and his Western Swingers will supply the music which will allow everyone, young and old, to stomp their feet in the streets. Can't you see it all now? Hundreds of jubilant people tapping out a tune as they dance to the country and western flavored music whose sounds will float through the streets beginning at 9:30 p.m.

All in all Dominion Day in Hatley offers a fun-filled time for everyone. Young and old alike will find something to amuse them.

Can anyone think of a better way to celebrate our country's birthday than to spend it enjoyably in Hatley? Hatley's festivities have to be some of the best offered on Dominion Day in the Eastern Townships.

"We do it because we mean it and also because we have a great time," Mr. Drew said.

All the profits that are realized from the day's activities are separated between the town's two churches. The Anglican as well as the United Church is able to function more efficiently because of Canada's birthday.

"See you all Dominion Day in Hatley" is being passed from person to person these days throughout the Townships.

Dominion Day will be a great day in Hatley. Meet you all there.

UCW holds devotions

HATLEY — Mrs. Keith Morse entertained several UCW members and friends for a devotional program at her home, the theme being The Beauty of Nature Around Us. The program opened with a repetition of the UCW purpose, followed by a hymn. Mrs. Lester Drew read an article of interest from the book entitled Live, Love. Everyone present then participated in singing another hymn.

Mrs. Dale Miller and Mrs. Howard Ayer read prayers, and Mrs. Wallace Hartwell read a portion of Scripture from the book of Acts. Mrs. Dale Miller and Mrs. Keith Morse read articles pertaining to the theme and everyone took part in the Fellowship of the Least Coin.

The ladies presented Mrs. Morse with a gift, this being her first time to entertain the UCW members in her new home in Hatley.

Two short games were played and light refreshments were served by Mrs. Lester Drew, Miss Wendy Hartwell, and the hostess, bringing a pleasant evening to a close.

DOMINION DAY means all kinds of things for the young ones, and these two youngsters seem to be all set for a pony ride, doing their share for the celebrations marking this happy occasion.

Bury's Canada Day festivities have long, colorful history

BURY — Once a year this town about 30 miles north east of Sherbrooke receives visitors and recognition. Bury makes itself noted on the map. That day is Dominion Day, and the reasons for all the talking is because of Bury's Dominion Day festivities. These were the words of Mrs. Connie Martel, secretary of the Bury Recreation Association, when she talked with The Record last week. Mrs. Martel is the secretary of the organization which sponsors the Bury celebration.

"With the money we receive from the day, we are able to sponsor all the recreation activities in Bury. To mention a few of the spots sponsored by the Bury Recreation Association, we pay the costs of the skating rink and we buy hockey equipment and hockey sticks for the youngsters during the winter," Mrs. Martel said.

The Bury Recreation Association has organized another great day for everyone this coming Dominion Day, Thursday, July 1.

Dominion Day festivities in this town of nearly 1,300 started over 30 years ago. "We began before the Second World War. During the war the celebration ceased to exist but as soon as the war was over Dominion Day sprang into life planting seeds of joy and rays of happiness amongst all the people who have come and still are coming to participate in an active enjoyable day," Mrs. Martel said.

Everyone in Bury awaits the arrival of Dominion Day. During the past week and all through this week until the annual festival day all the townsfolk will be busy as Canadian beavers preparing, organizing and laboring to insure that Dominion Day in Bury will be the success that the inhabitants of the Eastern Townships have become accustomed to.

At the moment, different organizations are busy covering their beautiful floats with abundances of colorful trinkets and decorations. Youngsters are plotting and planning so that they will be able to decorate their bicycles better than their friends. Horses are being cleaned and groomed until they reach their peak of beauty. People are busy cleaning up the Bury Memorial Park. Soon it will be ready to accept the thousands of people who will pour into its boundaries Dominion Day.

The town is anxiously awaiting arrival of the great day commemorating Canada's birthday.

Nearly 4,000 people turned up to partake in the Bury celebrations last year. This year an even greater schedule of events and activities are scheduled.

"We have done everything within the realms of our possibilities to insure a great Dominion Day this year," Mrs. Martel said.

Bright and early, at 9 a.m., the day which promises to be a memorable highlight of a lifetime to all those attending will begin with its first event. A softball game between two ladies' teams, one from La Patrie and the other from Lennoxville, will take place at that time.

Avid sportsmen are likely to forget about fishing for trout at 9 a.m. this Thursday morning in Bury. Sure to attract a multitude of spectators, the early morning softball game will unplug the dam that is holding back an avalanche of fun-filled activities, each a highlight of its own.

A street parade will begin at 11 a.m. Thousands of spectators will line the parade route to admire the yearly parade which has become a topic of discussion in years gone by. The parade will include bands, floats, decorated cars, horses and their riders and bicycles. At the head of the parade will be one of the most beautiful horses of the Eastern Townships, ridden by Oden Winston.

In the parade there will be four bands and majorette corps. The Aristocrats from Windsor, Les Parisiennes from East Angus, the St. Marguerites Majorette Corps from Magog and the Fusiliers Army Band from Sherbrooke will all participate in the parade.

"During the day we will be offering more than $2,000 in prizes in all events. Each class will have a series of prizes," Mrs. Martel said.

Early afternoon will see everyone swinging in the streets. A teenage dance with go-go music will be held at 1 p.m. Entry to the dance will be free.

Youngsters will probably find the afternoon dance the highlight of the day.

Sweet music will begin floating through the air at 1:30 p.m. at which time a band concert is slated. The renowned Fusiliers de Sherbrooke Army Corps Band will play to the utter enjoyment of everyone who attends.

Cries of "bingo, bingo" will begin to pierce the air at 2 p.m. A giant portion of all the spectators are expected to retreat to the bingo game area to try to make their day financially profitable. "All the prizes will be in the form of money. We don't give away teddy bears and the rest of that junk," Mrs. Martel said.

At the same time, at the other end of the field, a horse weight-pulling contest will be taking place. Over a dozen teams are to take part in the horse pulling contest which everyone knows is a highlight wherever it takes place. Prizes will be offered to the winners.

A show by Mr. Leclerc and his horse is to take place at 3. "Mr. Leclerc has a horse that can do tricks that you wouldn't believe could be done by a horse. He is really great," Mrs. Martel said.

Majorettes can give quite a spectacle when they are well trained. Well, the Marguerite majorettes are supposed to be one of the best in the region. These girls from Magog will show their talents when they perform precision drill exercises at 3:30 in the afternoon.

The precision drill will end the afternoon's activities. Some people will retire to their homes for their evening meal; others will enjoy a picnic lunch but they will all return for the start of the twilight activities at 7 p.m.

At that time a variety show is to begin. Headlining the variety show are two well known personages from the country radio station in Wheeling, West Virginia. Skinny Clark, a comedian will be there with his band, as well as Roy Scott and his orchestra.

The variety show will allow everyone to see in person the people that local country and western music lovers listen to over the radio every night.

Also as a variety show headliner will be a 14-year-old organ player from Sherbrooke. "He is one of the best organ players that I have ever heard," Mrs. Martel added.

The dark sky which will shadow the Memorial Park as evening approaches will be shattered with the thunder and explosive glittering beauty of a fireworks display at 9 p.m. Everyone is awed by fire works show and they are even more impressive when as good as that in Bury.

The day's celebration will come to a close with a dance at the Salle Jean Paul. All kinds of music ranging from rock to western will be played.

Success to the Association at Bury, July 1st.

Social notes from Bury

Mr. and Mrs. George Massie, Boston, accompanied by Mrs. Donald Murray, Sherbrooke, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Marcel Gauthier.

Mr. and Mrs. Barry Lawrence, Bagotville, spent a recent weekend at the home of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. J. Lawrence.

Mrs. Russell Dougherty spent a few days in Cowansville where she was a guest of her daughter, Mrs. John Clough, and sons Harvey and Herman Dougherty

Mrs. Ethel McLeod has moved into the apartment of Mrs. Martin Allison, recently vacated by Mr. and Mrs. Scott Allison who are now residents at The Mayhews.

Mrs. Howard Gilbert, Napanee, Ont., accompanied by Mrs. Nelson Amo of Kingston, have returned home after spending a week guests of Mrs. Gilbert's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Wootton.

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Loweryson, of Lachine, were recent guests of Mrs. Elvira Cathcart. They were accompanied here by Mrs. Sydney Wintle and Mrs. Allan Matheson of Gould who visited other friends in town.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Leavitt, Knowlton, were Sunday guests of Mrs. Geo. Parsons.

Mrs. Lena McGee, who has spent the winter months with her sisters, Mrs. Wheatley and the Misses Anna and Vera Reed in Ville St-Laurent, is spending a few days here, making arrangements to give up her apartment and dispose of her household effects, before leaving to make her future home with her sisters. She was accompanied here by Miss Anna Reed, who is helping her to make the change.

During the twenty odd years years Mrs. McGee has lived in Bury, she has made many warm friends who deeply regret the unfortunate accident which has made this move necessary. Coming to Bury in the late 1940's Mrs. McGee taught in the primary room for several years where she endeared herself to her young pupils as well as all those with whom she was associated in the church and social life of the village, in which she had been an active and generous participant.
