HOUSE OF ASSEMBLY,

TUESDAY, March 6, 1855.

BILL TO REQUIRE EDUCATIONAL INSTITUTIONS RECEIVING AID FROM THE PROVINCE TO LAY CERTAIN PETITIONS BEFORE THE LEGISLATION YEARLY.

Mr. DARCHE, seconded by Mr. DORION of Drummond and Arthabaska, moved the second reading of this bill.

Hon. Mr. CAUCHON asked for some explanation of its provisions.

Mr. HOLTON said the bill was a very short one, and the title sufficiently explained it.

Mr. DORION of Drummond spoke at some length in favor of the bill. Some academies and other educational institutions were obliged from time to time to receive aid from Parliament; the object of the bill was to put all such institutions receiving aid from Government upon the same footing, or are incorporated with power to hold property.

Hon. Mr. CAUCHON moved that the bill should be read in six months. There was no need for the measure, as all necessary information could be got without it, and the bill was introduced to forward sinister purposes.

Hon. J. S. McDONALD said some were bound to make returns, and some not; nor could they be made to do it without such an enactment as they proposed. It was strange that opposition to so reasonable a measure should be offered by Government, and that such a motion as this should come from the hon. gentleman, and he had thus, early in his Ministerial career, justified their most sinister anticipations. Why should inquiry be stifled and information withheld. He did not doubt the Commissioner of Crown Lands had taken even his colleagues by surprise with his motion. He hoped that hon. members would have spirit enough not to vote for this motion because it emanated from a Minister, but would vote for the principle of the bill, which all must admit to be a just one.

Sol. Gen. SMITH.—No doubt members for Lower Canada would be obliged to the Hon. member for Glengary for taking charge of the defence of their bill. But he found it also applied to Upper Canada. All educational institutions in the Province not now compelled to report to Parliament, should be compelled to report, shewing their real property held by them, list of tutors, whether lay or ecclesiastic, number of pupils, &c. Now, the common schools throughout the Province did not report to Parliament, but to the Superintendent of Education. All these reports numbering several thousand would, therefore to be made in quadruplicate, hereafter giving the teachers an immense amount of useless trouble.

Mr. O'FARRELL spoke in very high terms of the institutions this bill was especially designed to affect; the legislature in making exceptions to the rule whereby they required returns from these institutions when incorporated must have had some reason and that reason would hold good now. When such details as these had been moved for from certain Railways and other commercial companies the House had refused to authorize the demand. They should do so and might do so with still greater propriety in respect of these institutions.

Hon. Mr. CHABOT said if the bill simply ordered a return of how the money granted was spent, he should not object to it. Parliament had a right to demand this. True, many might rather decline to receive the pittance granted them than take it on such troublesome conditions, but Parliament might properly exact thus much, but the bill asked too much. If amended in that way he should have objection to vote for it. Such returns might serve a good purpose and disabuse the minds of many people of prejudices entertained against the management of Lower Canada educational institutions. Much of the information asked for by the bill in its present shape, however, was wholly unnecessary.

Mr. MACKENZIE said he had said the previous evening that the Ministry was made up of the remnants of all exploded parties, and here was an illustration of the justice of his remark. He had brought out the Postmaster General in a great speech in which he had asserted that all Ministers were liberals. Here was a speimen of the liberality of their views. The moment a really liberal measure was brought before them, they offered it a strenuous opposition. They had declared in a recent act that they wanted no union between Church and State; even the hon. and gallant knight who had for 30 years chanted the praises of the union of Church and State, subscribed that declaration. But now, it seems they did want to pay large sums out of the consolidated revenues of the country for sectarian religious institutions, and not call on them to give any account of it. The Banks and other corporate bodies published periodical statements of their affairs in order to give the public confidence in them and assure them of the proper use of the privileges bestowed on them by Parliament. Why should not the same thing be exacted from collegiate institutions enjoying Parliamentary grants? A similar enquiry had been set on foot by Lord Brougham in England, and it had been found that large funds, originally devoted to educational purposes, had been perverted from their original destination, and legislation ensued to return them to those uses. Thus the education of a million of children in England had been provided for. He understood that in some Lower Canada institutions where several scholars were supported at the expense of the Government, the scholarships had been made a matter of party patronage, not given to assist the meritorious poor. He would like to know if this was true? As for this bill, it was an honour to the Lower Canada member who brought it in, and would be an honour to the House if they passed it.

Mr. FELTON said the support given to this bill by honble. members opposite, only arose out of prejudice against Lower Canada R. C. religious institutions.

Mr. McKENZIE had never said one word against R. C. institutions.

Mr. FELTON, to use a technical legal phrase prayed aid of this declaration. He said nothing, because he could find nothing to say. Had he found anything, they could not doubt he would have said it. He would not oppose the granting of any proper demands for information into the expenditure of the funds given to these institutions, but this was not asked for in the right way by this bill. It asked too much. Why, he held in his hand a list of the gratuities from which returns were now received, and they occupied 14 closely printed pages,—20 of these institutions were Lower Canadian, such as were referred to in the bill. The promoters of this measure should have proceeded by a Committee to enquire into the necessity for it in the first instance.

Mr. WILSON had expected the Commissioner of Crown Lands would have given some explanation of his reasons for opposing the bill, but he had not done so. If these instiutions did not wish to give this information, if they desired to remain close corporations, let them cease to ask for grants of public moneys. The Legislature had sanctioned the principle of this bill, by making the furnishing of such returns a condition of the charters of all the recently created educational institutions when incorporated. That bill should be extended, and made universal. If the provisions of the bill were too wide on the face of them, that defect could be remedied in Committee. The proviso showed the intention of the power, and the soundness of the principle on which the measure was based.

Mr. HOLTON had no desire to prolong the debate, but wished to speak to one point raised by the hon. member for Sherbrooke. He had said that the support of this measure was based on hostility to Roman Catholic institutions in Lower Canada. Such was not the case. He was not afraid that any one would charge him with being actuated by such hostility; and as for this bill, it had been introduced by a Roman Catholic member for a Roman Catholic constituency, and the motion for its second reading seconded by another. It applied to all institutions, Protestant as well as Catholic, and there were many Protestant institutions from which it was very desirable to get these returns. The opposition offered to this measure was not based on any reference to its merits or demerits, but was raised for partizan purposes by an hon. member who aspired to lead Roman Catholic sentiment in Lower Canada and another hon. member, who, with charges impending over him are about to be investigated by the House, desires throw the shield of Roman Catholic influence in the House over him to protect himself.

Mr. FELTON asked if it was in order to make such an accusation, and refer in such a manner to any such charges not yet brought under the consideration of the House?

Sir ALLAN McNAB said the course pursued by the Hon. Member for Montreal was improper, calculated to forestall the opinion of the House on a question not yet before it. They could not then move to have his words taken down, and exact an apology, but he trusted the honorable member could see the impropriety of the expressions he had made use of, and feel that it was due to himself, as well as to the House and country, to retract and apologize for them. If not, there was still another proceeding by which the honorable member might be compelled by the House to conduct himself as a gentleman.

Mr. HOLTON said if, in the heat of debate, he had made use of expressions deemed too strong, or ill-timed, he was quite willing to say he regretted it, but he certainly thought that the rebuke of the honorable and gallant Knight, the leader of the House, and so high an authority in matters of convenance, was quite as much open to objection as what he had said. It might have been couched in more courteous and becoming language. He had indeed been much annoyed by the insinuation that he and his friends around him had been actuated by a hostility to Roman Catholic institutions in Lower Canada, which was utterly unjust.

Mr. FELTON said the Hon. Member for Montreal had not spoken before him, therefore his remarks could not have been applied to him. They were more especially intended for the Upper Canada supporters of the bill. Yet the honorable member had attempted unfairly to forestall the opinion of the House, and arouse Upper Canada anti-Catholic prejudices against him. He hurled back the charges and insinuations of the honorable member in his teeth. He asked for no shield or adventitious aid to defend himself; he could and would be prepared to defend his character whenever, howsoever, and by whomsoever assailed.

Mr. FERRES, as another Lower Canada member, must vote for the second reading of the bill. Aside from all prejudices, religious or other, he he felt bound to support the principle that wherever public money was given, an account of its expenditure must be rendered. In Lower Canada he felt this was much needed. In Upper Canada they might already have sufficient checks provided by their excellent educational system upon this expenditure. In Lower Canada they had not. He was opposed to all class legislation, especially that for religious purposes. He would have all these institutions receiving legislative grants, or legislative privileges, whether Protestant or Catholic, placed upon the same footing, and obliged to account in the same manner. The bill was still in the right direction, its defects might be amended in committee, and if passed into law it might avert the evils which existed in England from a lack of legislative experience; large educational endowments having been there diverted from their proper destination.

Hon. Mr. CHAUVEAU thought the bill no such terrible affair as it had been represented. He believed, however, that the friends of the measure might better have attained their object in another manner.

Hon. Mr. CAUCHON was not opposed, nor was the Government to the principle so earnestly contended for on the opposite side. He was prepared to admit the right of Parliament to call for any institution to account for the manner in which it had expended any grant of money. He would make the giving of this information a condition of all new charters granted. He opposed this bill from no feeling of opposition to such a rule, but because of the animus which had dictated its introduction—a feeling of ill-concealed hostility to certain Lower Canadian institutions. If there was no religious hostility meant, why the question—who were the teachers, whether laymen or ecclesiastics? What purpose could such information serve but the justification of some religious pique? Besides, the bill was wholly uncalled for and unnecessary. These returns had always been furnished when called for. Until some refusal of information was required legislation was not required. When there was any such refusal he should be prepared to give his support to legislation necessary to compel returns.

Mr. SANBORN thought the Hon. Commissioner of Crown Lands had himself made out a case for this bill. The only ground for his opposition was the flimsy pretext of a suspected hostile design to certain religious institutions, without showing how they were to be harmed by its operations. Such a reason for his conduct was unworthy any statesman, especially unworthy of a Cabinet Minister. They ought none of them to take their position as the partizans of any religious body. They were sent there, and were bound to protect the civil rights of the people whom they represented, even though it should be at the expense of any religious body with which they were connected. It seemed to him that the only correct principles in these matters was that on which the bill was based—viz: that wherever any educational or eleemosynary institution received Government moneys it should account to Parliament for their expenditures—showing by an account of its progress and position how much good it had been enabled to effect. This measure seemed to be treated by some as an attack on the R. C. Church, but he could not see what harm it could do it. For his part he always endeavored to divest himself of all prejudices respecting religious bodies, and he would never lend his influence to any such attacks. He desired to act, and he thought other hon. members should act upon the simple consideration whether it was expedient that such a measure as this should pass or not.

Hon. Mr. CAMERON thought there was no warrant for saying that this bill was an attack on the R. C. institutions of Lower Canada. They were only asked to do what Protestant institutions in Upper and Lower Canada would have to do also. He did not know of any reason why the R. C. institutions should hesitate or object to furnish the returns. When they asked for aid the legislature granted it to them for public purposes, not for private use. It would have been refused if asked for as a grant for private ends; they were therefore bound to account to Parliament for the manner in which they had effected the contemplated public object. He had not heard any member of the Government, however, oppose this principle, and he should like to know whether they were prepared to act on it. He saw a notice of a bill by the hon. Inspector Gen. on the notice paper, for auditing the Public Accounts. He would like to be informed if that would include the accounting by these institutions for the expenditure of their grants. He thought it better the Government should take the responsibility of this legislation. If they would do so he was prepared to vote against this bill, which all must admit was a very crude one —if not, he would vote for it, and endeavor to amend it in Committee.

THE INSPECTOR GENERAL said that he would explain what he had intended to do on a subsequent occasion; that the bill referred to would contain provisions providing for returns regarding the expenditure of the grants to those and other institutions—in fact, such accounts would be required from all recipients of public moneys without distinction. In this way a condensed report would be laid before Parliament by the board of audit, similar to that for Common Schools by the Superintendent of Education, which were satisfactory. This would save them sending into Parliament and printing in the Appendices of the Journals some 3,000 returns from Upper Canada, and 2,000 from Lower Canada.

Mr. BROWN had admired the opening remarks of the Hon. member for Toronto, but had been disappointed at its conclusion. The Government had taken the hint thrown out for them by the hon. member, but how could a bill for auditing the public accounts be made to embrace the objects of this bill? How could they in such a measure include an enactment for full returns from these institutions. A few months ago they voted at the request of ministers a list of grants to new institutions of this sort, of which they hardly knew the name—some of them owing their existence to such grants, and he supposed they would shortly be called on to vote £25,000 more to them. Yet they were told they were not to demand full information concerning their management. It was one thing to audit their accounts, it was quite another to call upon them for details of their management and progress, in order to show whether the public money had been judiciously spent or no. They were told the Government were not opposing the principle of that bill—they were doing much more; shey were shirking the matter altogether. This was not required for Lower Canada institutions alone. There was one institution in Upper Canada which had received a grant of £500 and only had three students. Another with a large grant had only seven. The £11,000 given to Upper Canada College had been wasted in a shameful manner. After the scenes they had witnessed last session, respecting the expenditure by the Board of Works, they should take care not to run on in similar blind extravagance, with regard to educational institutions. He should like to see a member from Upper Canada, whether conservative or liberal, go back to his constituents and avow his opposition to this measure, and confess that he had voted against it at the dictation of the hon. member for Montmorency, the leader of the Lower Canada section of the ministry. The country would mark this as the first act of that hon. member's leadership. He regretted it was such an illiberal one. As a member of the press, one who owed his position to education, he should have been foremost to see to the proper regulation of educational institutions. He was sorry that a gentleman whom he respected for his consistency while he opposed his principles had been led to adopt such a course of proceeding.

Attorney General McDONALD said the honble. member for Lambton had manifested great fear least the Government should be led astray by the ultra views of the hon. member for Montmorency, and great regret for it. He doubted not the expressions of fear and of sorrow were alike sincere. But he remembered that once in a time when he [the Attorney General] was in opposition, those two hon. gentlemen were on the same side, and fast allies, supporting the Baldwin-Lafontaine Ministry. His hon. colleague then gave a rather thick and-thin-support to that ministry in the House, oft times, he thought, voting with them when they were wrong; but whatever his hon. colleagues did in the House, the hon. member for Lambton was sure to echo and applaud outside in the Globe. [Laughter.] When long lists of gracts for Ste Marie this and Ste. Marie that, and Ste. Therese here and Ste. Therese there, were brought down by that ministry, and voted for by his hon. colleague, nothing could be better in the eyes of the honble. member for Lambton. "Look," he would say in that able journal of his, the Globe, "look how ministers take care to provide for education in Lower Canada, and how generously Upper Canadians vote money for that great object." Later still, certain Lower Canadian supporters of that ministry were given a dinner in Upper Canada, at which the honble. member pronounced a eulogy on their conduct, his hon. colleague being of the number. Nay, at Brantford whither his colleague, being a modest man, desired to go quietly and unostentatiously, the member for Lambton trotted him out, and brought him before the eyes of admiring Upper Canada liberals, in a coach drawn by six white (an hon. member near him said Brown) horses. He declared then that his hon. colleague and his companions were liberals of the purest water. Now, times were changed. The hon. member for Lambton from being editor of the ministerial Globe, had become leader of the opposition, while his hon. colleague the Commissioner of Crown Lands remained much the same as he was in those days when the honble. member so lauded his conduct. Nevertheless it was cruel in him to attack him so bitterly after having so recently patted him on the back. But to have done with badinage, though that was the only way to treat such a bill as this, which the hon. member who introduced it did not understand and could not explain. He did not believe he had ever read it, or that the hon. member for Montreal had done so before that evening. Before any hon. member had a right to come before that House and ask for legislation, he should be prepared to establish that some wrong required to be redressed, or some right required to be asserted. The promoters of this measure had done neither—they should have shown that they had been unable to obtain this information, or Government had refused to enforce the order for it, and continued a grant after such refusal. Neither of these things had been done. The principle was an undoubted one which had been so often asserted in the course of the debate. All institutions were bound to account for moneys received from the Province—but why limit it to educational institutions? The general measure to be introduced by his hon. friend the Inspector General would provide that all should account, and he hoped that measure would be full enough to satisfy even the hon. member for Lambton, though that were to hope against hope. Nevertheless, he was persuaded that his candor would compel him to vote for it however unwilling.—And this bill, while it provided for everything else, did not provide for the rendering of this very account, and was altogether such an entity that the House could not be asked to remodel it and pass it into law.

Mr. LARWELL attacked Mr. Brown for inconsistency. He had refused to vote for a motion of his, asking for similar information from the Elgin Institution, of which the hon. member or his father was a member.

Mr. BROWN had furnished the hon. gentleman with the information.

Mr. LARWELL said he had refused to have it furnished to the House and the country, as this bill would make the educational institutions do. The fact was, the bill was intended as an attack on the R. C. Institutions of Lower Canada, and that was why the hon. member supported it. He saw no use in passing more acts for returns, when they had not got from 50 to 100 reports sent in which were already required by law.

Mr. TURCOTTE was not surprized that the mover and seconder of the second reading were curious to know something about the management of the superior seats of learning, since they had had no personal experience of their benefits. It had been said they were Catholics who introduced and seconded it. Yes, they were excellent Catholics indeed, and members of a party which not long ago published a paper (L'Avenir,) particularly devoted to the advocacy of Catholic interests.

Messrs. LEMIEUX and DUFRESNE opposed the bill.

Mr. JACKSON spoke in favor of it.

Mr. FOLEY remarked that there was no man on the floor of the House less wished than himself to do anything to oppose the institutions of Lower Canada, and his vote for the bill would be actuated by no hostile feeling, and he would do nothing to Lower Canada but what he did to Upper Canada. He had watched for any argument on the other side that could have induced him conscientiously to vote with the majority of Lower Canada, but he had watched in vain. None of the arguments had convinced him, and they had been as numerous and conflicting as the speakers were numerous. The Crown Lands Commissioner gave no reason but his own will. The member for Lotbiniere alleged vested rights, but this argument appeared to be scouted by all subsequent speakers. The most feasible objection was that of the Attorney General, who said that it would force all the common schools of Canada West to report, but upon examination there appeared to be nothing in this, for first of all they were obliged by law now, and next being obliged to report, they were exempted in the present bill. Other members seemed to think the bill ought to be rejected because it was not perfect, but that was a bad argument from members whose colleague had brought in bills that required to be so often amended in the upper House. The hon. member for Kingston had alluded to a journey which the hon. members for Lambton and Montmorenci and made in company, but he had failed to complete the story and tell how it appeared that he (Mr. McDonald) who was then opposed to Mr. Cauchon, was now in the ministry with him, while Mr. Brown who contended now for the same principles as he maintained then was in opposition.

After a few words in support of the bill by Dr. Rolph, the House divided on the amendment—Ayes 55, Nays 32.

The House then adjourned.

WEDNESDAY, March 7th, 1855.

MR. FELTON'S CASE.

Mr. DORION of Drummond and Arthabaska moved for an address to his Excellency, for copies of all papers, documents, correspondence and returns, of the Prothonotary of the Superior Court for the District of St. Francis, relative to suits or informations instituted by Her Majesty's Attorney General, to annul patents to certain lands in the Township of Oxford, granted to the heirs of the late Hon. William Bowman Felton, and of all papers, documents and correspondence, relative to or connected with the surrender to the Government, or sale, or exposure to sale, by any person or persons, of certain Lots of Land in the Township of Oxford, in the District of St. Francis. (March 2.)

He proceeded to explain that the late Hon. W. B. Felton, then local Commissioner of Crown Lands in the Eastern Townships, having been authorized to make a grant to his children, nine in number, of a lot of land (200 acres each. It seemed, however, that the grant had been made for 6 lots, (1,200 acres) to each child. This matter was taken up by the people of the Townships at the time, and it was made a matter of grievance by the Committee on grievances in the Lower Canada Parliament. Mr. Felton had been ordered to reconvey the property, which, however, never had been done, owing at the time, to the fact that the children were minors. Subsequently actions were taken by the Hon. Mr. Lafontaine, when Attorney General, to rescind the patents, and in some of these actions judgment had gone by confession. Yet a part of this land so given up by these judgments had since been sold by one of those heirs, and had passed into the possession of Mr. Nagle, a Crown Lands Agent. The circumstances called for enquiry, and he hoped the House would grant the motion for an address.

Attorney-General DRUMMOND said, this was not the proper time to discuss the matter, and he hoped the hon. member for Drummond and and Arthabaska would have postponed its discussion until the papers had been brought down. The hon. gentleman had expressed his surprise at the manner in which the proceeding had been spun out. But when he came into office there was not a single book in his department in which was recorded the actions instituted and judgments obtained. Of these he had no means of obtaining information. The only book kept was that in which the opinions of the law officers of the Crown were entered. (Hear, hear, from Mr. Mackenzie). The hon. member cried out "hear, hear," but he should remember that the law department had heretofore hardly been looked on as an independent department of Government, or furnished with clerks to do the immense amount of business entailed upon it. He had endeavored to remedy these defects, and opened the necessary books. But hon. members would see by the circumstances stated, how it was he was not aware on his entrance into office of the position of these procceedings. He first learned them when absent from the Seat of Government at Montreal, attending to some pressing private business, about two years ago. His attention was then called to an article in the Sherbrooke Gazette, stating that some of these lands had been siezed and advertised for sale by the Sheriff in the hands of one Abercromby, at the suit of the firm of Noad & Co., of Quebec. How could he have known that the Crown had an interest in the lands thus siezed? He did not carry a list of crown lands in his head. He immediately telegraphed to Sherbrooke, and had the sale suspended. Up to that time he had a sort of indistinct historical recollection of these grants, but that was all. He telegraphed forthwith to the Solicitor General for information, but he could get none at the time in the Law Department or Crown Lands Office; but at last he got it from Mr. Hallowell, at Sherbrooke, and the hon. member for Compton. The position of the matter had been correctly enough stated by the hon. member for Drummond and Arthabaska. Judgment had been confessed in some of the cases, and the others were still pending. All that could be done at the time was done; the sale was stopped. Some four or five months after, he was surprised to hear that Mr. Nagle had become the purchaser of these lands. It had been charitably suggested by some newspapers in Montreal, that he (the Attorney General) had an interest in the purchase, because, forsooth, Mr. Nagle was his agent. Now, Mr. Nagle was at one time his agent, but had ceased to be so some three years ago. It had been said the lands had been bought in order that the timber on them might be made available at his (the Attorney General's) mills. Now it so happened that, finding it did not do to mix up such business with his public duties, he had some time before the purchase disposed of them, and paid off his debts. He would not have entered into these personal explanations, but for the manner in which the charges had been bandied about, and mixed up with the question now brought before the House. He never answered newspaper paragraphs, or replied to such accusations elsewhere than on the floor of the House. As for Mr. Nagle, he had bought the land in ignorance of the precise claims of the Crown to it. As soon as his attention had been called to the fact, he had written to the Commissioner of Crown Lands, and had offered to surrender the property. The proceeding in the case would be prosecuted to judgment without farther unnecessary delay.

Hon. Mr. CAUCHON corroborated the Attorney General's remark respecting Nagle. He had not been appointed Crown Lands Agent when he made the purchase, or for a month after.

Mr. SAMBORN said this might not be a matter of very general interest, but was of very deep local interest. The lands were situated near the Magog River, not far from Sherbrooke, near mills, and covered with valuable timber. His constituents felt a deep interest in the matter, and, though a somewhat disagreeable one to meddle with, he felt it a duty he owed them to bring the facts fully before the House. He felt, too, the country had a right to complain of the laziness of those charged with the legal proceedings that they had been allowed to linger so long. They should have known the facts before they were published in the newspapers. Ministers were responsible for the appointment of those barristers who had been charged with the Crown business in that district. Mr. Hallowell, Mr. (now Judge) Short, and the hon. member for Sherbrooke himself had been successively entrusted with that business, and should have informed ministers of the progress of the affair. 1,200 acres of land had been granted to each of 9 children, making 10,800 acres in all: 18 of these lots, or 3,600 acres, had at different times been surrendered,—yet 24 lots, including those surrendered, had been subsequently sold to Abercromby, and seized in the cause of Noad v. Abercromby. In that cause the gentleman charged with the Crown law business in that district was plaintiff's Attorney of Record, and it was at his instance the lands were seized and advertised for sale. That proceeding being stopped, then a while after comes the sale from Abercromby to Nagle Mr. Felton intervening as payee of the price, £750, it was somewhat late for Mr. Nagle to offer to give up these lands. He was fully informed of the fact at the time, and the titles or registry bonds shown to him. It was necessary to bring out these explanations from the Attorney General, and, considering the connection that had subsisted between Mr. Nagle and himself, the circumstances of the case were looked on with a suspicious eye, and made the subject of comment among those not fully informed of the facts, or not disposed to deal charitably with public men. There were many reasons why public opinion was required to be brought to bear on this matter, and these legal proceedings on the part of the Crown brought to an end. It was not for the value of the lands to the public domain simply, but in order that public morality might be vindicated, and men taught they could no more despoil the public than individuals with impunity, but that they could be condemned by public opinion for such conduct and reached by the laws.

Mr. FELTON had hoped for fair treatment at the hands of gentlemen opposite, until last night the hon. member for Montreal had attempted to prejudice the house against him. And now hon. members were pursuing an unfair, unjust and dishonest course in forcing on this discussion before the papers were laid before the House, which would contain his vindication. They did it in order that their ex parte statements might be circulated through the press from Gaspé to Sandwich and create a further prejudice on the public mind against him. And why was this done?—Because the individual assailed happened to be a supporter of the administration, and a little buncombe might be made by abusing him, and involving a member of the Government in the charges brought against him. He appealed to the good sense of the House if this were not so, and he called on them not to be carried away by any such attempts to prejudice or mislead them.—The lands in question had been granted to minor children who could not have been guilty of any fraud or corruption in the matter. The House of Assembly in those troublesome times held that these grants had been illegally and improperly made. He would not debate that question now, though he believed that opinion to have been erroneous. When one of the heirs came of age and another married and thus acquired the rights of majority under the laws of Lower Canada, they were called on to surrender their shares, which they did, not even reserving the sixth parts to which they were legally entitled, but giving them up as so much on behalf of the minors.—Subsequently becoming possessed of another share by the death of another of the heirs, he had surrendered that also on condition that he should get back the 200 acres of each of the three shares to which he was entitled. He had always held and it had been held by Mr. Justice Aylwin, another of the parties, that these surrenders were invalid and could not be enforced by the law Officers of the Crown. He had never spoken to the present Attorney General of the fulfilment by the Government of the surrender by re-conveying to him the lands to which nobody questioned his right, for as he was a friend of that hon. gentleman, he knew the doing of this act of justice by him, which other governments had failed to do, would be attributed to improper motives. So these heirs had been left for 29 years in this position, that being the guarantees of this large tract of land their title to a portion of which no one disputed, they yet could not dispose or make use of any of it, since as no division had taken place, the actions instituted attached their right to the whole. Weary at last of this state of things, he determined to test the legality of the proceedings by selling a portion of the lands. He effected a sale to Abercromby, and took advantage of a judgment against him to bring them to Sheriff's Sale. He expected an opposition on the part of the Crown, on which he could join issue, and in order that this might be done, he wrote some weeks before the time appointed for the sale advertised in the Canada Gazette, to the Provincial Secretary to inform the Government what he had done.—As for having charge of the Crown business at the time, neither he nor Mr. Justice Short, who preceded him, had charge of any but the Criminal business. This suit and other civil business had been left in Mr. Hallowell's hands. The value of these lands had been much exaggerated by the hon. member for Compton. Instead of being 6 miles from Sherbrooke, the greater part of them were 18, and on a mountain instead of the bank of the Magog—only two or three of the lots touching that river. He had taken £400 to £450 for his four shares in them, and should be sorry to buy them back at £500. Mr. Angle considering his official position was prepared generously to surrender his rights in these lands; but he [Mr. Felton,] set the Government at defiance. He believed he had the law on his side. He should take care that all the papers came down to the House, though he was afraid the motion of the hon. member opposite was not quite broad enough.

Hon. Mr. DRUMMOND should explain that the letter referred to by the hon. member, had been sent down to the Secretary about the time of his leaving for Montreal, and had not been referred to him, but sent into the Crown Lands Office.—He was not aware of its existence when he first saw the account of the matter in the Sherbrooke paper. The motion for the address was agreed to.

MOTION FOR PAYMENT OF JURORS.

Mr. TURCOTTE, seconded by Mr. MASSON, moved resolutions to the effect that as all actions or legal proceedings, not borne by the parties, should be borne by the state, petty jurors should be paid. Mr. Turcotte supported his motion by a speech of considerable length. It was asked them at all their elections, what they were doing in this matter. The people desired for the reform and it was a just one. Poor men had been compelled to sell their household goods and leave their wives to die in their absence. He was aware that there was a provision in the municipal act of the Attorney General to allow the county municipalities to levy a rate to pay them, but the people did not wish this, and one must legislate in accordance with the desires or even the prejudices of the people. If it were objected that Upper Canada paid its jurors out of its own funds, and, therefore, his proposition would be unfair, he would reply, put the charge for them too on the consolidated revenue.

Mr. Attorney General DRUMMOND was surprised to hear the hon. member say they must legislate for the prejudices of the people—it was the duty of statesmen and educated men to remove prejudice by enlightening the people and to legislate for their good. He knew much better than he of the hardships of jurors, and the Government was prepared to take the responsibility in this matter which properly belonged to them. Before the House proceeded further, he desired to lay certain statistics concerning the probable expense to be incurred before it. At his request the further consideration of the motion was postponed.

KAMOURASKA ELECTION.

Four of the deputy returning officers of Kamouraska having been brought to the bar:

Sir A. McNAB moved their discharge from custody. They had put in a defence which he was satisfied was a good one and well founded. The Committee had reported nothing against them personally, and all they had done which was matter of complaint, had been done under coercion. They had, too, at the time, made special returns to that effect, and it was on their returns and evidence the election had been voided.

Hon. J. S. MACDONALD thought this a strange, precipitate proceeding. The printed petition for the examination of which the consideration of the case had been postponed, had just been put into their hands, and they had not had time to read it.

Mr. RANKIN thought that to discharge these men in such a way would be trifling with the privileges of the House. Admitting that the men were not blameable—and if so it was a shame to have brought them up to the bar of the House—they ought to proceed with more deliberation.

Hon. Mr. CAMERON thought the hon. member for Glengarry could not find any instance in which punishment had been inflicted on men when the committee had not reported against them by name, with the evidence against them; therefore if any mistake were made, it would not be in letting these men go, but in having brought them up there at all. He thought the hon. and gallant knight, therefore, was taking the proper course.

Hon. J. S. MACDONALD said the evidence was reported by the committee in this case, and it showed that irregularities had been committed at the polls of which they had charge. They must be held responsible until they had exculpated themselves; and he contended that the House was not yet in position to judge of the validity of their excuses.

Solicitor General SMITH would not yield to any man in his respect for the privileges of the House, but in this instance he believed it had made a mistake, as other Courts sometimes did, in summoning these men to answer for their conduct. They had acted without a due consideration of the report of the committee. Hon. members had jumped at the conclusion, that because mal-practices had been used at the polls presided over by these men, they were blameable, but the committee who had investigated the matter carefully, had reported no such thing. All they did report was founded on their evidence.

Hon. Mr. CAUCHON, and Mr. DUFRESNE [a member of the election Committee] followed on the same side.

Mr. WILSON argued that comparatively little violence or threat of violence might restrain a man, but a great deal was necessary to compel him to go on for hours with illegal proceedings against his will. He did not believe there was any evidence of such excessive or long continued violence as would justify the conduct of these men. After some further discussion the motion was carried by a vote of 65 to 21.

THE CASE OF MR. DEPUTY RETURNING OFFICER HUDON.

Mr. PLAMONDON was then introduced and was heard at the bar on behalf of Mr. Hudon.

When he had concluded, Sir A. McNAB rose and said he considered the case of this gentleman very different from that of the other Deputy Returning Officers who had just been discharged. This gentlemen was not a mere instrument in the disorders which had been pointed out, and condemned by the Committee. In proof of this he read several extracts from the printed evidence; and concluded by moving that Mr. Hudon be declared guilty of a gross breach of the privileges of the House.

The further consideration of the subject was postponed, and the House adjourned.

THE HON. JOHN ROSS AND THE MONTREAL MINING COMPANY.—The telegraph enabled us, yesterday morning, to furnish our readers with the Hon. Mr. Ross's "explanation" of the circumstances connected with the sale of his stock in the Montreal Mining Company to Mr. Allan, the President of that Company, at fifteen shillings per share above its market value at the time of the sale—or at any time before or after the sale. It is often a thankless and always an invidious task to expose, what we cannot help viewing as, the loose morality—to use no harsher term—of our public men: it is a duty, however, from the performance of which no honest and independent journalist can escape. It will be remembered that, on first noticing the extraordinary revelations with reference to this matter, which were made at the meeting of the Montreal Mining Company—and again, on publishing Mr. Murray's letter on the subject—we said we should suspend our judgment on the character of the transaction until Mr. Ross had had an opportunity of explaining all the circumstances connected with it. The Hon. gentleman has now given the Legislature and the people of Canada all the explanation, we take it for granted, he has to give on the subject. It will be observed that Messrs. Wilson, Gamble, Cameron and other members of the House of Assembly, expressed themselves quite satisfied with Mr. Ross's explanation, while Mr. Rankin was of opinion that further investigation was absolutely necessary. We entirely agree with Mr. Rankin; and trust that, what certainly appears to us to have been not only a very irregular transaction but a highly reprehensible "bargain and sale" of Mr. Ross's influence as a Minister of the Crown to the Montreal Mining Company, will not be allowed to pass, without, at least, a formal decision of the Legislature on its character. Mr. Ross, we admit, may, as the phrase goes, have "meant no harm" in listening to and taking advantage of, his now colleague, Mr. Cartier's offer, on the part of the company of which he, Mr. Cartier, was a Director, to purchase his stock at a price which, it is notorious, none but the Company would give—or ever did give; but who can fail to see that, for that excessive price, Mr. Ross, with his shares, also sold to the Company his influence as a Minister of the Crown, to secure the fixing of the site of a new county town upon their property? The only interests which appear to have been considered in the transaction, were those of the Hon. John Ross and of the Montreal Mining Company. The purchase, as stated by the Vice-President of the Company, was made "for the benefit of the Company, might hereafter derive great advantages"—to compensate, of course, for the present loss incurred by purchasing Mr. Ross's shares at a price beyond their value in the market. The public interest seems never to have been considered, either by buyer or seller. Now, as the turbulent Argyleshire freebooters used to say, "It's a far cry to Loch Awe!" and it is not easy for us in Montreal to form any just opinion as to the merits of the real question in issue—which is, not the enriching of either the Montreal Mining Company or of the Hon. John Ross, but the proper selection of a "Seat of Government" for the settlers in the mining districts on Lakes Huron and Superior. It is a "far cry" to the Bruce Mine, but, as it happens, we have not had long to wait for an answer; and here it is, from a correspondent of the Toronto Colonist—he says:—

I have lived for several years in that country, which is now expected to be set off into a Provisional District, and which the Honourable John Ross presumes to take under his special patronage. I have never heard whispered, nor do I believe that any resident there has heard, that it was intended to establish a County Town at the Bruce Mines. The directors of the Company in Montreal, and the Hon. John Ross in Quebec, (some 600 miles distant) appear to be the only parties in possession of a secret the knowledge of which ought, in fairness, to have been in the possession of every inhabitant of that region.

These gentlemen have no knowledge whatever of the country, are utter strangers to its people, their wants, their wishes; and consequently utterly incapable to legislate for their advantage.

The Bruce Mines are situated on Lake Huron where the Montreal Mining Company own 6400 acres of rock; and are as distant from other mining localities upon Lake Superior as is Toronto from Sandwich. Was it a spirit of patriotism—was it a sincere desire to confer a benefit upon that extensive country, its present inhabitants and prospective large population, that prompted the Honourable John Ross to sacrifice his shares in the Montreal Company for £1000, in order that he might, with honor unimpeachable make use of an office which he holds in trust for the people, to place the County Town of the destined County upon the property of the Montreal Mining Company?

There are many localities throughout that country highly eligible for a county town, as regards facilities of access from every quarter and position more central; and above all, offering great capabilities for agricultural pursuits. The country around the Bruce Mines is a bare and barren rock. There is no prospect that a sedentary or fixed population will ever exist in that locality. If the mines are successfully worked, a transitory and fluctuating population of mining laborers will frequent it—sometimes for one month the miner will be at the Bruce Mines, the next perhaps at some mines upon Lake Superior, distance some 300 or 400 miles.

Let the public now judge whether the Hon. John Ross, in this matter, has been influenced by a single motive in favor of those objects which the ministery are bound by oath to originate and support on the behalf of the people, or whether he has not prostituted his office to the mercenary ends of himself and of others.

The concluding remarks of this writer—who signs himself "Huron"—may we think also be perused with advantage by our readers, and with them, therefore, we shall for the present close our comments upon this new case for the "Corruption Committee"—"Huron" closes his letter with the following general reflections, in which we entirely concur:—

It is not very long since that a member of the then Executive, the Fidus Achates of the Hon. John Ross, when under examination by a Chancery Commission, on his oath declared that "he believed that he had a right to accept compensation for services rendered to corporate bodies or to individuals."

In the instance before us, the Hon. John Ross has rendered a service by which the Montreal Mining Company may "derive great advantages." He had a right to accept compensation for services rendered.

Of all the causes of seduction from virtue and honor, perhaps none is more powerful than evil associations, whether in a political sphere or otherwise; whilst we cannot deny the fact, we can have no grounds for reposing confidence in the correct moral discernment of men, even in those whom we know to have been deluded, nor in the restraints of shame or principle upon those minds which have already overcome the shame of their principles and their associates.

The Hon. John Ross is now the associate of other men who are comprised in the present Ministry. If this Government shall consummate, without enquiry, the iniquitous scheme of the Hon. John Ross and the Montreal Mining Company, in establishing the County Town at the Bruce mines, we may be sure that more than half the corrupting work of political vice is already introduced into the Government, and that the reputed honest men of that body have either renounced their old principles, or dismissed them as the guide of their conduct.

It is a cruel mercy that would spare the parties in power because some of them mean well. The plain truth should be told; it may alarm a few, and save them from being traitors to the principles which they profess, and which their professors adhere to.

THE ST. JOHN'S NEWS.—We omitted to mention in our description of the articles ot the Exhibition, that Mr. Smith, of the News, exhibited a

THE COLLINS LINE OF OCEAN STEAMERS.—It would be seen by the report of the closing measures in the United States' Congress, on Sunday morning last, which we gave in our yesterday's issue, that President Pierce's veto of the Appropriation Bill in favor of this line has itself been, practically, vetoed by the Legislature including the appropriation in the navy estimates for the year—leaving the Government to give the necessary six months' notice of its withdrawal.—

As having some analogy with the existing difficulties between our own Government and the Contractors for our Canadian line of Ocean Steamers, many of our readers, would, doubtless like to see the grounds upon which President Pierce bases his disallowance of the action of the Legislature in reference to the Collins Line—the following is a copy of his message on the subject:—

To the House of Representatives:

I herewith return to the House of Representatives, in which it originated, the bill entitled "An act making appropriations for the transportation of the United States mail, by ocean steamers and otherwise, during the fiscal years ending the the thirtieth of June, one thousand eight hundred and fifty-five, and the thirtieth of June, one thousand eight hundred and fifty-six," with a brief statement of the reasons which prevent its receiving my approval.

The bill provides, among other things, "that the following sums be, and the same are hereby appropriated, to be paid out of any moneys in the treasury not otherwise appropriated, for the years ending the thirtieth of June, one thousand eight hundred and fifty-six:—

"For transportation of the mails from New York and Liverpool and back, eight hundred and fifty-eight thousand dollars: and that the proviso contained in the first section of the act entitled 'An act to supply deficiencies in the appropriations for the service of the fiscal year ending the thirtieth of June, one thousand eight hundred and fifty-two,' approved the twenty-first of July, one thousand eight hundred and fifty-two, be, and the same is hereby repealed: Provided, That Edward K. Collins and his associates shall proceed, with all due diligence, to build another steamship, in accordance with the terms of their contract, and have the same ready for the mail service in two years from and after the passage of his act. And if the said steamship is not ready within the time above mentioned, by reason of any neglect or want of diligence on their part, then the said Edward K. Collins and his associates shall carry the United States mails between New York and Liverpool from the expiration of the said two years, every fortnight, free of any charge to the government, until the new steamship shall have commenced the said mail service."

The original contract was predicated upon the proposition of E K. Collins of March 6, 1846 made with abundant means of knowledge as to the advantages and disadvantages of the terms which he then submitted for the acceptance of the government. The proposition was in the following terms:—

"E. K. Collins and his associates propose to carry the United States mail between New York and Liverpool twice each month during eight months of the year, and once a month during the other four months for the sum of three hundred and eighty-five thousand dollars($385,000) per annum payable quarterly. For this purpose they will agree to build five steamships, of not less than two thousand tons measurement, and of one thousand horse-power each, which vessels shall be built for great speed, and sufficiently strong for war purposes.

"Four of said vessels to be ready for service in eighteen months from the signing of the contract. The fifth vessel to be built as early as possibly practicable and, when not employed in the mail service, to be subject to the orders of the government for carrying despatches, for which service a fair compensation is to be paid. Contract to be for the term of ten years. It is also proposed to secure to the United States the privilege of purchasing said steamships whenever they may be required for public purposes, at a fair valuation, to be ascertained by appraisers appointed by the United States and by the owners.

"EDWARD K. COLLINS.

"Washington, March 6, 1846."

The act of March 3d. 1847, provides:—"That from and immediately after the passage of this act, it shall be the duty of the Secretary of the Navy to accept, on the part of the Government of the United States, the proposals of E. K. Collins and his associates, of the city of New York, submitted to the Postmaster General, and dated at Washington, March sixth, eighteen hundred and forty-six, for the transportation of the United States mail between New York and Liverpool, and to contract with the said E. K. Collins and his associates for the faithful fulfilment of the stipulations therein contained, and in accordance with the provisions of this act;" and under this proposition and enactment the original contract was made.

According to the terms of that contract, the parties were to receive from the United States, for twenty round trips each year the sum of nineteen thousand two hundred and fifty dollars for each trip, or three hundred and eighty-five thousand dollars per annum; and they were to construct and provide five ships of stipulated size and quality, for the performance of this or other service for the government.

Of the ships contracted for, only four have been furnished, the Atlantic, Pacific, Arctic, and Baltic, and the present bill proposes to dispense entirely with the original condition of a fifth ship, by only requiring the construction of one, which would but supply the place of the Arctic, recently lost by peril of the sea. Certain minor conditions, involving expense to the contractors, among which was one for the accommodation and subsistance of a certain number of passed midshipmen on each vessel, had previously been dispensed with on the part of the United States.

By act of Congress of July 21, 1852, the amount of compensation to the contractors was increased from nineteen thousand two hundred and fifty dollars to thirty-three thousand dollars a trip, and the number of trips from twenty to twenty-six each year—making the whole compensation eight hundred and fifty-eight thousand dollars per annum. During the period of time from the commencement of the service of these contractors on the 27th of April, 1850, to the end of the last fiscal year, June 30, 1854, the sum paid to them by the United States amounted to two million six hundred and twenty thousand nine hundred and six dollars, without reckoning public money advanced on loan to aid them in the construction of the ships; while the whole amount of postages derived to the department has been only seven hundred and thirty-four thousand and fifty-six dollars; showing an excess of expenditures above receipts of one million eight hundred and eighty-six thousand four hundred and forty dollars to the charge of the Government. In the meantime, in addition to the payments from the treasury, the parties have been in the enjoyment of large receipts from the transportation of passengers and merchandize, the profits of which are in addition to the amount allowed by the United States.

It does not appear that the liberal conditions heretofore enjoyed by the parties were less than a proper compensation for the services to be performed, including whatever there may have been of hazard in a new undertaking; nor that any hardship can be justly alleged calling for relief on the part of the government.

On the other hand, the construction of five ships of great speed, and sufficiently strong for war purposes, and the services of past midshipmen on board of them, so as thus to augment the contingent force and the actual efficiency of the navy, were among the inducements of the government to enter into the contract.

The act of July 21, 1852, provides "that it shall be in the power of Congress at any time after the 31st day of December, 1854, to terminate the arrangement for the additional allowance herein provided to upon giving six months' notice," and it will be seen that, with the exception of the six additional trips required by the act of July 21, 1852, there has been no departure from original engagements but to relieve the contractors from obligation, and yet, by the act last named, the compensation was increased from three hundred and eighty-five thousand to eight hundred and fifty-eight thousand dollars, with no other protection to the public interests provided than the right which Congress reserved to itself to terminate the contract, so far as this increased compensation was concerned, after six months' notice. This last provision, certainly a primary consideration for the more generous action of the government, the present bill proposes to repeal, so as to leave Congress no power to terminate the new arrangement.

To this repeal the objections are, in my mind, insuperable, because, in terms, it deprives the United States of all future discretion as to the increased service and compensation, whatever changes may occur in the art of navigation, its expenses, or the policy and political condition of the country. The gravity of this objection is enhanced by other considerations. While the contractors are to be paid a compensation nearly double the rate of the original contract, they are exempted from several of its conditions, which has the effect of adding still more to that rate; while the further advantage is conceded to them, of placing their new privileges beyond the control even of Congress.

It will be regarded as a less serious objection than that already stated, but one which should not be overlooked, that the privileges bestowed upon the contractors are without correspondent advantages to the Government, which receives no sufficient pecuniary or other return for the immense outlay involved; which could obtain the same service of other parties at less cost; and which, if the bill becomes a law, will pay them a large amount of public money, without adequate consideration—that is, will in effect confer a gratuity, while nominally making provision for the transportation of the mails of the United States.

To provide for making a donation of such magnitude, and to give to the arrangement the character of permanence which this bill proposes, would be to deprive commercial enterprise of the benefits of free competition, and to establish a monopoly in violation of the soundest principles of public policy, and to doubtful compatibility with the constitution.

I am, of course, not unmindful of the fact that the bill comprises various other appropriations which are more or less important to the public interests; for which reason my objections to it are communicated to the first meeting of the House following its presentation to me, in the hope that by amendment to bills now pending, or otherwise, suitable provision for all the objects in question may be made before the adjournment of Congress.

FRANKLIN PIERCE.

Washington, March 3, 1855.

The above message having been read by the Clerk of the House—

Mr. Hunt rose, saying, veto follows veto, in rapid march.

Much excitement and confusion, with cries of "Order," and "Hear him."

Mr. Hunt (warmly)—I am in order. I should feel unworthy of holding a place upon this floor if I did not give utterance to the feelings of my heart. Veto follows veto in a rapid march of tyranny over the liberties of our country. This abominable veto just brought into the House is the height of tyranny and usurpation, unknown to our ancestors, and without precedent. I desire gentlemen to remember who they are—the representatives of independent people, the Parliament sent here to express their minds—men met for grave, conscientious and patriotic purposes, and not slaves—the medium for recording the will of the Executive, who seems bent entirely upon doing away with the legislation of the country. The times are melancholy indeed, when the President dictates laws to the people without allowing members the exercise of their individual judgment. This is a power never conferred by the Constitution, and if permitted or tolerated for an instant, will prove the overthrow of the liberties of the country. When our fathers put an end to monarchy, they thought they had established a free country; but Franklin Pierce, by accident President, can dictate to a free people what they shall do in the making of laws. Some gentlemen over the way are smiling complacently. No doubt they would feel rather overwhelmed with grief and sorrow at a tyrant striking down the will of the people.

Mr. Kirk moved the previous question. Amid excitement,

Mr. Campbell loudly and excitedly proclaimed, "This is the day of the revolution." The remainder of the sentence was drowned in cries of "Order."

Mr. Wheeler moved that the House adjourn.

Mr. Breckenridge vainly strove for the floor to express his unqualified approbation of the veto.

Gentlemen standing in all parts of the hall were calling for question on the adjournment.

Mr. Ashe—If we adjourn now, when will we meet again?

Cries of "Never, Never."

The Speaker—It is not for the Chair to determine.

Mr. Ashe—If we adjourn, we can't meet to-morrow.

Cries of "Order" in startling tone.

The House refused to adjourn.

The Speaker stated that the question was, Shall the ocean mail steamer bill pass, the President's objections to the contrary notwithstanding. Decided in the negative by a vote of 98 to 79. The constitution requires a two-thirds vote.

A DUEL FIFTY YEARS AGO.—The following is a correct account of a duel fought in the year 1802 by DeWitt Clinton and John Swartwout, in which the late Richard Riker and Mr. W. S. Smith acted as seconds. The latter gentleman relates the particulars:—Portland State of Maine.

"The ground being correctly measured, and intermediate questions adjusted, the gentlemen took their stations—were each presented with a pistol, and by order, faced to the right, and fired ineffectually. At the request of Mr. Riker, I asked Mr. Swartwout, 'Are you satisfied, sir?' He answered, 'I am not'—neither shall I be until that apology is made which I have demanded. Until then, we must proceed.' I then presented a paper to Mr. Riker, containing the apology demanded for Mr. Clinton's signature, observing that we would not spend our time in conversation—that this paper must be signed or proceed. Mr. Clinton declared he would not sign any paper on the subject—that he had no animosity against Mr. Swartwout—would willingly shake hands and agree to meet on the score of former friendship.

Mr Swartwout then on his signature to the apology, and Mr. Clinton declining, they stood at their posts and fired a third shot. Mr. Clinton's ball struck Mr. Swartwout's left leg, about five inches below the knee; he stood ready and fired at the request of Mr. Riker, and then addressed Mr. Swartwout, 'Are you satisfied, sir?' He answered, that it is useless to repeat the question—my determination is fixed, and I beg we may proceed.' Mr. Clinton repeated that he had no animosity against Mr. Swartwout—was sorry for what had passed—proposed to advance, shake hands and bury the circumstances in oblivion. During this conversation, Mr. Swartwout's surgeon, kneeling by his side, extracted the ball from the opposite side of his leg, Mr. Swartwout standing erect on his post, and positively declining anything short of an ample apology. They fired the fourth shot, and Mr. Swartwout received the ball in the left leg, about five inches above the ankle; still, standing steadily on his post, he received a second. At the request of Mr. Riker, I again addressed Mr. Swartwout, 'Are you satisfied, sir?' He forcibly answered, 'I am not, sir—proceed.' Mr. Clinton then quited his station, declined the combat, and declared he would fight no more. Mr. Swartwout expressed himself surprised that Mr Clinton would neither apologize nor give him the satisfaction required; and addressing me, said, 'What shall I do, my friend?' I answered, Mr. Clinton declines making the apology required—refuses taking his position—positively declares he will fight no more; and his second appealing to acquiesce in the disposition of his principal, there is nothing further left for you now, but to have your wounds dressed.' The surgeon attended, dressed Mr. Swartwout's wounds, and the gentlemen, in their respective barges, returned to the city."

Supposing Mr. Clinton's fifth ball had passed through Mr. Swartwout's lungs, prevented the possibility of his acting any longer as a target, and left him, for the short remainder of his life, a poor, helpless invalid—would he have had any better reasons for being "satisfied?" The folly of duelling is quite as transparent as its immorality. Two gentlemen so hate each other that they find "the wide, wide world" all to narrow to contain them both. Being gentlemen, however, neither will be guilty of murdering the other, unless that other will consent to put himself on the same moral level, by at least doing his best to murder him. It is agreed that only one of them shall live, and that he shall only survive as the murderer of the other. Such, evidently and indisputably, being their relative position towards each other—being agreed that, according to the "code of honor," one of them must die—would it not have been more logical, more "chivalrous" and less brutal and murderous, had Messrs. Clinton and Swartwout, having procured an adequate supply of prussic acid, thrown the dice or drawn lots for which of them should swallow the deadly draught? Most assuredly it would. There is also a savour of Socratic philosophy in this mode of obtaining "the satisfaction of a gentleman," which, we feel sure, must recommend it to all refined and intellectual natures. It may be remembered that the modern Plato (Box), in his admirable narrative of the wise sayings of the modern Socrates (Mr. Weller, sen.), puts the following speech in his hero's mouth—the venerable sage (if we remember rightly, for we quote from memory) is instructing his son, Samivel, on the "philosophy of widows":—"Samuel, my son," solemnly says his parent, "if ever you grows up to be an elderly gen'leman of fifty-five or sixty, and marries a widow, take my advice, Samivel: go into your room, if you has one, lock the door—and pizen yourself, right off—hanging's vulgar,—you'll be happy on it artervards, Samivel." Now, we have neither time nor space to do justice to the great philosophical principle involved in Mr. Weller, senior's, advice to his son, our object in quoting the brilliant passage being, as the acute reader will at once see, simply to support our views as to the modus operandi suggested by us. If "hanging's vulgar," surely slaughtering by inches—sending ball after ball into your antagonist's legs or lungs—cannot possibly be genteel. We should, then, in the venerable Mr. Weller's words, recommend any two gentlemen, who may find the world too narrow for both of them, to supply themselves with, what we shall venture to call the Socratic remedy for their wounded honor—throw the dice, and let whoever loses the cast, retire to his room, lock the door, and "pizen hisself right off." Whether he will be "appy on it artervards" is, we admit, extremely doubtful; but, at all events, he will not die with the blood of his brother on his hands.

ADDRESS TO THE GOVERNOR GENERAL BY THE ST. HYACINTHE COLLEGE AUTHORITIES.—We learn from the Pilot of yesterday afternoon, that on His Excellency's arrival at St. Hyacinthe on Thursday, the College Authorities of that flourishing town presented him with an Address, which our contemporary "condenses" as follows:—

Your Excellency will receive the expression of our profound respect for the kindness which has induced you to receive on this occasion an address from the Directors, Professors, and Students of the College of St. Hyacinthe.

Your Excellency will perceive that this place is advancing from a small hamlet in the career of prosperity which marks the progress of Canada. We unite, Sir, to a love of country, an earnest zeal for the extension of education, which is the first and most pressing want of a nation.—St. Hyacinthe has received a large share of support both from the public and the government, which has constantly manifested a high degree of interest in encouraging the spread of education among the youth of the Province.

It was under the government of the noble Lord, whose place your Excellency so worthily fills, that the edifice, whose vast proportions may be seen in the distance by your Excellency, was raised and devoted to this object.

We leave to the citizens who can better appreciate your Excellency's value as a Statesman, the duty of felicitating you on your qualities as a Governor, which have been so well demonstrated in another Province of North America, and which bear evidence of the profound and sagacious character of your mind, and the spirit of conciliation by which you have ever been influenced. But to us more properly belongs the privilege of felicitating your Excellency upon the profound and varied knowledge by which you have been distinguished in that celebrated seat of learning, which is the glory of England. To your titles gained at the Univeristy of Oxford, we point as an incentive to our own students, inviting them to emulate, although at a distance, the advantages which are possessed by your Excellency in so eminent a degree.

But it is not only to your Excellency personally we desire to render homage: it is, above all other things, to the authority with which you are invested as the Representative of the gracious and august Sovereign who rules the British Empire; and it is in this character we offer you the testimony of our faithful devotion and inviolable attachment to the monarch you represent. And these, Sir, are the sentiments which we think it a duty and a privilege to instil into the minds of our pupils, joined to the injunction that they will do all that in them lies to contribute to the prosperity of the important section of that mighty empire of which Canada is an integral part.

We also pray your Excellency to pay the homage of our profound respect to the noble Lady who accompanies you, and whose excellent qualities already felt in the Province.

Encourage our students with your approbation, and accept our hearty acknowledgments for the favor and attention you have bestowed on their journey.

THE EXHIBITION.—This is the last day of the Exhibition, as will be seen by our advertising columns. From yesterday afternoon's Pilot we learn that the close of the Exhibition to-night is on account of the necessity of forwarding the articles selected to Paris for Exhibition, and the difficulty of finding steamships. So many vessels have been taken up for the conveyance of troops to the Black Sea, that it has been found necessary to pack and forward the articles next week to New York, so that the Montreal Exhibition will absolutely close to the public on Saturday night. The Committee, anxious to extend its benefits as far as possible, will open it gratuitously to schools, under the charge and control of their teachers, this morning, and to the public generally in the afternoon and evening, at half-price. At ten o'clock to-night the Exhibition will close with a Valedictory Address from his Worship the Mayor of Montreal.

THE LATE BENJAMIN HART, ESQ.—We take blame to ourselves for not having before said a few words "in memoriam" of our old friend and fellow-citizen, whose name heads this paragraph and whose decease, in New York, was lately recorded among our obituary notices. Mr. Hart was one of our oldest merchants; a man, as many of our readers know, of quick, impulsive temperament but of warm and kindly disposition—one who, with some failings, had many virtues, who was widely known and wherever known was beloved and esteemed. He was for many years a magistrate for this city and county, commanded the 3d battalion of our city militia and, we believe, served in the war of 1812. Mr. Hart was a member of the Jewish persuasion, but a man of liberal ideas and entirely free from all bigotry of sentiment or narrowness of conduct. He was a man who despised bunkum and insincerity, and who, certainly, would have scorned laudations on his character, which were not merited. He died at a ripe old age, full of years and, if not of honors, at least of the kindly regard and esteem of his numerous relatives and friends.

Time rolls his ceaseless course. The race of yore
Who danced our infancy upon their knee,
And told our marvelling boyhood legends store,
How are they blotted from the things that be.

CITY COUNCIL.—The City Council meets next week, on the evenings of Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. On the first evening, the new members and his Worship the Mayor will take the oaths of office.

A JUDICIOUS PROPOSAL.—The Mayor of Albany has proposed an ordinance in the Common Council of that city, prohibiting the use of camphene, under a penalty of $25 for each violation of the law.

GEOLOGICAL AND MINERALOGICAL DEPARTMENT OF THE EXHIBITION.—In to-day's paper will be found an account of this most interesting section of the Exhibition, from the pen of a thorough scholar—"a ripe and good one"—in this department of knowledge.

THE MAYOR OF KINGSTON.—Judge McKenzie gave his decision on Thursday last, that the election of John Counter, Esq, as Alderman for Victoria Ward, in the city of Kingston, and his subsequent election as Mayor by the Council, was illegal, he being at the time of his election, a stockholder in the Kingston Gas Company. A new election will, therefore, be held immediately.

PRESENTATION.—We are happy to learn that the men in the employment of Messrs. Cantin & Risley have presented to Mr. John Schlytter, on his departure, a very handsome Silver Hunting Watch, Chain and Gold Key, bearing the following inscription:—"Testimonial from the men of the Montreal Marine Works to John Schlytter, Esq., as a testimonial of their respect and gratitude to him for the able an efficient manner in which he conducted the engineering department of that work since its commencement."

LONDON QUARTERLY REVIEW.—American Edition: Leonard Scott & Co., New York. We have received the January number of this standard Quarterly organ of British Conservatism, from Mr. Dawson, Great St. James Street. Judging by the table of contents this number will prove an extremely interesting one—it contains articles on the following subjects:—Fires and Fire Insurance; Life of Dalton—Atomic Chemistry; Pictures of Life and Character; Psychological Inquiries; Clerical Economies; The Open Fireplace; Provident Institutions; Campaign in the Crimea; Corsica; and The Conduct of the War.

SHRIMPS.—Mr. George Lulham of St. François Xavier Street, has received a fine supply of fresh Shrimps. See advertisement.

CHURCH SOCIETY'S OFFICE, March 7, 1855.

A meeting of the Central Board of the Church Society was held this day, the Lord Bishop in the Chair.

The following report of the Lay Committee was presented by the Hon. Justice McCord and ordered to be considered at the monthly meeting in April next:—

The mission at Hemmingford having complied with the requirements of this Committee, suggested in their report to the Central Board in November last, by placing before them sufficient assurance of means to complete the parsonage now in the course of erection, respectfully recommend the Central Board to pay over to the Rev. G. D. O'Grady the sum voted on the 4th January 1853, namely £25, and a further contribution of £10 towards the balance of £22 15s 4d remaining to be made up.

An application from the Mission of Lapraire was submitted, showing an unpaid debt due on the Church property at that place of £75, and praying an aid from the Central Board of £25 towards the payment of the same, the Committee recommend the Board to grant their request so soon as the inhabitants shall have raised the sum of £50 required to free the property from debt.

A letter was received from the Rev. the Missionary at St. Hyacinthe, praying aid towards the erection of a building to serve, at present, both for a school-house and house of prayer, until the inhabitants shall be able to build a suitable church. The Lay Committee recommend a grant of £12 10s.

J. McCORD, Chairman, L. C.

QUEBEC CORRESPONDENCE OF MONTREAL HERALD.

QUEBEC, March 8.

I wrote you some comments on the proceedings of last evening with regard to the Deputy Returning Officers for Kamouraska, and the Telegraph will have informed you, before this reaches you, of some other facts in the same connection. As I intimated some days ago, the officer unlucky enough to have erred on the wrong side, is to be made the scape-goat for those who were fortunate enough to sin on the gaining side.—There does seem to be a shade of difference between the two cases, for an impartial Committee have made a direct charge of corruption and fraud against Mr. Hudon, while they have left the four others to the discretion of the House, I must say, however, I am unable to see much.—The evidence, as I read it, establishes this fact, that Mr. Hudon acted obstinately against the advice of the Returning Officer, in admitting children and other persons, notoriously unqualified, to give their votes, but that according to his own account, he did so in the belief that he was bound to admit anybody to vote who claimed to be a usufructuary, inasmuch as the law provided no form of oath to be tendered by such persons, whereas the other four say they did what they knew to be illegal by compulsion: the compulsion being evidently of a kind very insufficient, except, perhaps, in the case of Beckard, to operate upon an unwilling man. Herewith I send you an extract from the petitions of the several parties, showing the excuses which they severally make for their conduct:—

The undersigned, Deputy Returning Officers of the Parishes of St. Anne de la Pocatière, of Mont Carmel, and of the Township of Ixworth,

HUMBLY REPRESENT,

That the Electors of the Parishes aforesaid, having taken possession of the Polling-places, in defiance of the protestations and the legal measures taken by your Petitioners, they (your Petitioners) were compelled by an irresistible controlling power, to enter the votes as they were given.

That they do not in any degree undertake to justify the conduct of the Electors on that occasion.

That in their returns after the closing of the Polls, they stated, that from 9 o'clock in the forenoon of the first day to 10 or 11 in the forenoon of the second day's voting, the registration of the votes proceeded regularly, but that after that time they were compelled to yield to force;

That their returns furnish proof that it was not their intention to favor one party to the prejudice of the other;

That they humbly pray that your Honorable House will consider that your Committee cast no blame on their conduct during the said Election;

That they therefore remain in ignorance of the charges laid against them, and in what particular their conduct may be culpable;

That they therefore trust that your Honorable House will exonerate them from all censure;

That having already performed two journeys to Quebec, thus incurring considerable expense and inconvenience, they venture to hope that Your Honorable House will be pleased to indemnify them.

F. DEGUISE,
P. GAGNON, N.P.
P. OCT. DUPUY.

The Petition of Jean Thomas Bechard, of St. Louis de Kamouraska.

HUMBLY SHEWETH:

That your Petitioner, during the whole of the said Election performed his duties of Deputy Returning Officer to the best of his knowledge and judgment; but that on the second day of voting, a disturbance having been got up among the voters at the said Poll, the crowd succeeded in taking possession of the said Poll, and violently controlled the proceedings of your Petitioner and of the Poll-clerk, thereby rendering it impossible for your Petitioner to perform the duties of his office.

That your Petitioner is now, and from that moment, became firmly convinced that parties were so much excited that it was utterly impossible for him to maintain order any longer, and that he would have uselessly exposed his life had he made any further efforts to re-establish order.

J. T. BECHARD.

The Petition of Joseph Magloire Hudon, of St. Louis de Kamouraska.

HUMBLY SHEWETH:

That in conformity with this order of your Honorable House, your Petitioner has the honor to represent, that by the forty-first section of the Act, 12 Vic., ch., 27, the Deputy Returning Officer is bound to administer to voters, the oaths 8 & 9 and 9 and 10 others.

That these oaths can in no way be made applicable to usufructuaries, to whom, nevertheless, the right of voting at elections for the County is given by the thirty-eighth Section.

That your Petitioner, in the difficult position in which he was placed, did not take upon himself to make up the deficiency manifested in that Act, with respect to the oath of qualification, and deemed it his duty to act strictly in accordance with the terms of the law.

And Your Petitioner takes the liberty of further representing that, in the whole course of his conduct at the said Poll, he was only influenced by a sense of duty, and strove to act with the greatest impartiality, towards the two parties into which the County was then divided; that he had previously given a similar decision on the same question at the time of the election of 1851; that he has, moreover, since been confirmed in this opinion, and that even on the first day of polling he submitted several votes to me as usufructuaries without administering the oath, under the impression that he had no right to do it.

That Your Petitioner relying upon the good faith which has governed all his actions, in the matter in question, and in consideration of the embarrassing position in which he was placed by the law, ventures to hope that Your Honorable House will be pleased to do him justice, by acknowledging the justice of his intentions.

J. M. HUDON.

The telegraph will have informed you of the result in Hudon's case before this reaches you. The returning officers ought all, if not to have been punished, at least to have been censured in a manner to mark their conduct with a proper stamp; and perhaps Hudon deserved something a little more strong than the rest, though the great difference in their respective criminality—always omitting the mistake of Hudon in being on the wrong side—seems to me hard to distinguish.

In the course of the evening, the affair of the Crown Lands given up by Mr. Felton, but afterwards sold by him for £750, and subsequently made the subject of a Sheriff's Writ, came up on a motion for papers. Mr. Felton made a statement which, if borne out by the facts, seems fully to exonerate him. He says he wrote to the Provincial Secretary to inform him of what he was going to do. Mr. Drummond's excuse for the neglect of the Government to interfere till his attention was called to the subject, was the old excuse of incapacity, just such as everybody has made in England for the horrible shortcomings of Government there.—Everything was wrong, but nobody is in fault. He knew nothing of what was going on; there was no record in his office; the Provincial Secretary did not communicate Mr. Felton's letter. In the meantime, the land was in great danger of being disposed of in such a way as though it would not have been lost to the Province, could only have been saved at the expense perhaps of wronging an innocent buyer. Upon this statement Mr. Drummond charges the newspapers with slander because they called him to account, and because they did other things (as he alleged) which I believe none of them did do. But Mr. Drummond might at least reflect upon this, that if he has been neglectful not to know that which his official duties made it important that he should be aware of, the public, of which newspaper writers form part, could hardly be expected to know that the public offices were in the deplorable state that he described, and which accounted for his own ignorance.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

Let the Skeptical read this.

From Edward Brinley, Esq, No. 3, South side, Faneuil Hall, Boston.

BOSTON, Jan. 19, 1837.

Dear Sir,—Having for some time purchased of your agent the article of hair restorative prepared by you, and having found it the most valuable preparation for the hair, in my estimation, ever offered the public, I feel it a pleasure, as well as a duty, to offer you my humble testimonial as to its worth, begging you to make such use of it as may seem best to you.

The public has long been deluded and imposed upon, and still are, by thousands of nostrums, promising a benefit to the hair, whilst they have proved but an injury. But the article you have produced, I feel a pleasure in saying, is the most agreeable preparation for dressing the hair, and keeping it in a healthy, vigorous condition, that I have ever known. And wishing you that full success in its sale which its merits so fully and pre-eminently entitle it to, I am, dear sir, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

EDWARD BRINLEY.

Both Upper and Lower Canada speak alike as to the miraculous powers of "BOWMAN'S ENGLISH LINIMENT."

Osgood, Oct. 13th, 1854.

Dear Sir,—It gives me great pleasure in testifying to the extraordinary virtues of the "OLD ENGLISH GARGLING OIL." I have sold it for some time past, and have always found it to give satisfaction in all cases of external injuries, such as Flesh Wounds, Rheumatic Pains, Burns and Scalds, Saddle Galls, Lumps and Swellings of all kinds, &c. &c.

I could enumerate numerous extraordinary cures that have come under my own observation. One for example, was that of a horse that had been badly burned, and afterwards received a kick upon the burnt place; the effect of your Oil in this instance was miraculous.

I can confidently recommend it to the public as a Liniment worthy of a trial. I remain, &c.,

SUBMARINE ARMORS.

THE Subscriber, who was the contractor with the United States Government for the removal of the late Steam-frigate Missouri from the Bay of Gibraltar (after the work had been abandoned by English Engineers), is the inventor of

AN IMPROVED SUBMARINE ARMOR,

Through which valuable auxiliary he so successfully succeeded, now offers for sale SUBMARINE ARMORS

THAT HAVE NO EQUAL!

They have been adopted and purchased by our Government, and are now in use at the several Navy Yards.

The Greek Government have purchased them for the Coral Fishery. One man can obtain more Coral by their use than thirty naked divers. They have also been purchased of me by the Russian and French Governments, for the purpose of examining the bottom of ships, and building stone walls under water.

By their aid a diver can descend with perfect safety to the depth of 150 feet, and work with great facility, walk about any distance, and remain as long as he pleases.

A Commission appointed by the Secretary of the Navy to test their utility, witnessed an experiment at the Gasport Navy Yard, where a man WALKED TWO MILES UNDER WATER! and remained six hours without ascending to the surface. At the same time a quantity of Gunpowder was placed under a vessel that was sunk, which completely shattered it in pieces.

By its aid the machinery of the Steamers Humboldt and Erie was recovered the past Summer, as well as many other valuable wrecks whose cargo have been saved by their aid.

The price of one of my "ARMORS" complete, is ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS. They will last in constant use ten years.

ALSO FOR SALE,

Improved Voltaic Batteries, Insulated Wire and Cartridges,

For exploding Gunpowder instantaneously under water.

☞ All orders promptly attended to.

NOTICE.

MESSRS. WILLIAM LYMAN & CO., Saint Paul Street, Montreal, Wholesale Agents for the sale of
DR. McCLINTOCK'S FAMILY MEDICINES, have received instructions to dispose of them, by Wholesale and Retail, at the Proprietor's prices.
The undermentioned medicines, prepared under the direction of Professor James McClintock, late President of the Philadelphia College of Medicine, &c., from the purest and freshest materials, are strongly recommended to the afflicted.
Their sale has been unprecedented in the United States, where they have effected thousands of cures, and no case of failure is yet recorded. At this season we call especial attention to one of the most remarkable of these remedies, namely,
DR. McCLINTOCK'S
PECTORAL SYRUP,
the best and safest medicine ever used for BRONCHITIS, CONSUMPTION, and all diseases of the Lungs and Air Passages. For any of these forms of disease, showing themselves in COUGH, Tickling of the Throat, Sense of Tightness in the Throat or Chest, Spitting of Blood, Difficulty of Breathing, Hoarseness or Loss of Voice, Hectic Fever, Night Sweats, &c.,
This great remedy is unparalleled for success in the above complaints. It purifies the blood of all scrofulous taint, it heals ulceration, it destroys tubercles in the lungs, it regulates the bowels, checks night sweats and strengthens the stomach, it stimulates the vital powers, and gives vigor to the whole system, it quiets nervous excitement, relieves pain in the chest, soothes the cough, promotes expectoration, and at the same time affords a delicate nourishment. It contains no opium in any form, and agrees perfectly with the most delicate patient.
Dr. McClintock's Pectoral Syrup is put up in elegant Flint Glass Bottles, containing one pint each, and is sold at only $1 per bottle, or six bottles for $5.

A most important article, at this changeable season, is, also,
DR. McCLINTOCK'S COLD AND COUGH MIXTURE.
Colds and recent Coughs, especially if accompanied by fever, or inflammatory excitement, require a remedy different in character from the Pectoral Syrup, which is so valuable in chronic complaints. The COLD AND COUGH MIXTURE is precisely the cure for recent coughs and irritations of the throat and lungs. It is ESPECIALLY VALUABLE FOR CHILDREN,
as a preventive of Croup. No family in our climate should be without this efficient remedy, which, if taken on the first symptoms of cold, would prevent many an attack of Bronchitis, and
A FATAL ISSUE IN CONSUMPTION.
It is put up in neat flint glass bottles, and is sold for 25 cents.
☞ No opium in any form contained in this mixture.

Dr. McCLINTOCK'S REMEDIES FOR RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, &c.—These excruciating diseases are radically cured by taking Dr. McClintock's Rheumatic Mixture in doses of a teaspoonful three times a day. We have seen the worst cases relieved by it in 24 hours. For external use we have never known so powerful and penetrating an application as Dr. McClintock's Rheumatic Liniment. For swelled limbs, bruises, internal pains, cramps, chilblains, stiff joints, toothache, and other painful complaints, where we have seen it tried, it acts with magical effects. These remedies are sold at 50 cents per bottle.

Dr. McClintock's Dyspeptic Elixir.
Headache, Dizziness, Heartburn, Palpitation, and all the disagreeable symptoms arising from imprudence in diet, or from indigestion, may be promptly cured by Dr. McClintock's Dyspeptic Elixir, the result of thirty years experience in medical practice. This medicine is now for the first time made public, though it has cured thousands of cases of confirmed Dyspepsia.
Price Pint Bottles, $1. Six bottles for $5.

Dr. McClintock's Tonic Alterative Syrup,
For removing all impurities from the blood, and effecting the most rapid cures in all skin diseases, as Erysipelas, Tetter, Scurvy, Salt Rheum, Ring Worm, Boils, Pimples, Eruptions, Ulcers, Fever Sores, &c. Also for Scrofulous, Rheumatic, Mercurial or Siphylitic diseases, this great remedy is surpassingly efficacious. It is exceedingly pleasant to the taste, and will not disagree with the most delicate stomach. At this time of year, it should be taken freely. For children it is invaluable. Price $1 a bottle. Six bottles for $5.

Dr. McClintock's Anti-bilious Pills,
For irregularity in the functions of the liver and bowels. 25 cents per box.

Tonic Mixture, or Fever and Ague Specific,
A sure and safe vegetable remedy for Fever and Ague, or intermittent Fever in any of its forms. Price $1.

Dr. McClintock's Diarrhœa Cordial and Cholera Preventive,
A certain cure for Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Cholera Morbus, and Asiatic Cholera.

Dr. McClintock's Anodyne Mixture kills all kinds of pains.
For the instant relief of toothache, headache, neuralgia, &c. Price 50 cents.

Dr. McClintock's Asthma & Hooping-Cough Remedy.
These terribly distressing diseases are relieved to an unparalleled degree by this purely vegetable medicine, which has been brought to perfection slowly in the course of many years observation. Trial is all that is needed to prove its efficacy to those who have never employed it. Price per bottle, 50 cents.

Dr. McClintock's Vegetable Purgative Pills,
A mild, safe, and thorough medicine for Costiveness, Headache, &c. 25 cents.

The above medicines may be procured in Montreal of all Druggists, and of W. Lyman & Co., Saint Paul Street, Wholesale Agents, to whom orders from abroad must be addressed.

Herring's Fire and Burglar Proof Safes.
THE undeniable evidence of the superiority of the Safes manufactured by the Subscriber, is known and acknowledged by a discriminating public, who are assured that all Safes made and sold by him or his authorized agents, will be equal to the best, and superior to some of the many which have passed through the fiery ordeal for the last fifteen years, as published and commented upon by the press throughout the United States. They are secured with the celebrated Hall's Patent Powder Proof Lock—the subscriber being the patentee by purchase.
It is generally known all over the world that the Proprietor placed his Safe, in competition with about thirty others, at the WORLD'S FAIR, LONDON, in 1851, placing within it ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS in GOLD, as a reward to any one who could open the Safe, but not one of the operators was found sufficiently skilled in the art of Lock-picking to pick the Lock or open the Safe—the money remained secure for forty-five days. At the close of the Exhibition, the Jury on Safes and Locks very justly awarded separate medals for the Safe and Lock, which can be seen and compared with the one awarded for the same patents at the World's Exhibition in New York, in 1853 and 1854. They can be had of the Proprietor and his Agents in most of the cities in the United States and Canada.

SWAIM'S PANACEA has been for more than thirty years celebrated in this country and in Europe for its extraordinary cures, for the certificates of which reference is made to the directions and books (which may be had gratis) accompanying the Panacea.
It has been used in hospitals and private practice, and has had the singular fortune to be recommended by the most celebrated physicians and other eminent persons. Among others by

J. Chipman, Member Royal College Surgeons, London
Sir Thomas Pearson, Major General, British Army.
Gilbert Robertson, British Consul, &c., &c.
And also, the wonderful cures effected by Swaim's Panacea, have for many years made it an invaluable remedy. The Panacea does not contain mercury in any form and, being an innocent preparation, it may be given to the most tender infant.
The retail price has been reduced to one dollar fifty cents per bottle (containing three half pints), or three bottles for four dollars.
BEWARE OF IMPOSITION.
Swaim's Panacea is in round bottles, fluted longitudinally, with the following letters blown on the glass: "SWAIM'S—PANACEA—PHILADA:"
and having the name Jas. Swaim stamped on the sealing wax, and written on the label covering the cork; and a splendid engraving for the side of the bottle, composed of a geometric lathe work, combining nine different dies, which have been turned for the exclusive use of the proprietor, by Draper & Co., bank note engravers, of Philadelphia. In the centre is a portrait of the late Wm. Swaim, copyright secured.

CAUTION TO THE PUBLIC.—Persons wishing to obtain the genuine SWAIM'S PANACEA and SWAIM'S VERMIFUGE, should be careful to observe that the name SWAIM is spelled correctly on the bottles and labels, or they may be imposed on by medicines made in imitation of them, by a person bearing a somewhat similar name, well calculated to deceive.

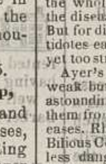
GOOD MEDICINES.



IT is estimated that AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL and CATHARTIC PILLS have done more to promote the public health than any other one cause. There can be no question that the Cherry Pectoral has by its thousand on thousand cures of Colds, Coughs, Asthma, Croup, Influenza, Bronchitis, &c., very much reduced the proportion of deaths from consumptive diseases in this country. The Pills are as good as the Pectoral and will cure more complaints.
Everybody needs more or less purging. Purge the blood from its impurities. Purge the Bowels, Liver and the whole visceral system from obstructions. Purge out the diseases which fasten on the body, to work its decay. But for diseases we should die only of old age. Take antidotes early, and thrust it from the system, before it is yet too strong to yield.
Ayer's Pills do thrust out disease, not only while it is weak but when it has taken a strong hold. Read the astounding statements of those who have been cured by them from dreadful Scrofula, Dropsy, Ulcers, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Dyspepsia, Internal Pains, Bilious Complaints, Heartburn, Headache, Gout, and many less dangerous but still threatening ailments, such as Pimples on the face, Worms, Nervous Irritability, Loss of appetite, Irregularities, Dizziness in the head, Colds, Fevers, Dysentery, and indeed every variety of complaints for which a Purgative Remedy is required.
These are no random statements, but are authenticated by your own neighbours and your own Physicians.
Try them once, and you will never be without them.
Price 25 cts. per Box—5 Boxes for $1.00.
Prepared by DR. J. C. AYER, Chemist, Lowell, Mass., and sold by all respectable Druggists in the U.S. and Canada.

RICH'S SALAMANDER SAFES,
WILDER'S PATENT.
FIRE AT KINGSTON!
A Safe Tested.—One of Rich's Salamander Safes was most satisfactorily tested here in the great fire of Friday night. It was stored in Messrs. Shaw's warehouse. The building all of wood, and constructed with very heavy timbers, fed the flames for upwards of six hours, and the heat of the burning mass was intense. On subsequently recovering the safe, and opening it, the the interior wood work was found uninjured, and paper wrapping on the keys, plate, &c. contained in the drawer, had undergone no change whatever. A safe could hardly have been put to a stronger test than in this instance, and we were pleased to see how great is the security afforded to books, papers, notes, &c., by this invention. Several of these safes are now in use in this city. —Kingston Daily News.

Mr. J. A. Page, Cashier of the Vermont Bank at Montpelier, under date of March 23rd, 1853, concerning this Company, writes:—
"It is now about three years since the Company commenced business, during which time they have issued 1022 policies, as appears by their books. All losses incurred, have invariably been paid promptly—all expenses to this date are paid, and they have now a cash capital of over $119,000, well and securely invested—$34,000 of which is the accumulated earnings, over and above expenses, losses and interest, on capital paid in. The affairs are, as far as I can judge, conducted with safety, economy and regularity, and I cannot conceive of any reason why the Company is not on a good and sure basis to be as permanent in its business as any other Company whatever. I think it entitled to the fullest confidence."
