Quebec business leaders worried over Bill 1

Grenier insists local brief be heard

By DAVID SHERMAN
(Record Reporter)

QUEBEC — It seems unlikely the Eastern Townships will have a say in the parliamentary commission hearings into Bill 1. Rumours abound that the hearings could adjourn as early as today, without having heard any local presentations.

Fernand Grenier, Union Nationale MNA for Megantic-Compton, has pledged his party will fight to have the almost 200 remaining briefs presented. With the help of three liberal MNAs, he has appealed in writing to Camille Laurin, Minister of Cultural Development, asking that at least one local brief be heard, that of the Eastern Township's Citizens' Association.

The $3,000 ETCA brief, tracing the roots of the Anglophone settlement in Quebec, has also received support from The Positive Action Committee and Real Rancourt, PQ MNA for St. Francois.

The Positive Action Committee sent a telegram asking the ETCA brief be heard while Mr. Rancourt, unable to plead his claim before Minister Laurin, brought the matter up in his party's caucus and visited with the Minister's aids.

Mr. Grenier interrupted Tuesday's hearings with his demand that the ETCA document reach the commission.

"Many briefs were without merit, but this one was excellent," Mr. Grenier said yesterday in Quebec City. "It sheds a different light on the Anglophone situation outside of Montreal."

Mr. Grenier, whose written demand was signed by Liberal MNAs Therese Lavoie-Roux, L'Acadie; Noel St-Germain, Jacques Cartier; and Fernand Lalonde, Marguerite-Bourgeoys, is expected news today from Minister Laurin.

Charles Bury, president of the ETCA, said yesterday that he was not confident his brief would be heard.

"They're listening to all the usual lobbying groups and power brokers, like the Royal Bank, the Conseil des Patronats, and the bill's supporters but absolutely no briefs from the people have been heard. We're very disturbed."

Mr. Bury said press room scuttlebutt in Quebec leads him to believe the hearings will finish today. Government members have been murmuring for an early adjournment, pleading they have been sufficiently informed.

According to Mr. Bury, who spent Tuesday in the capital lobbying on behalf of his association, Mr. Laurin's top aid told him "it was highly unlikely the brief would be heard." He said he is considering another pilgrimage to Quebec to hold a ceremonial "brief burning" on the lawn of the National Assembly.

MONTREAL (CP) — Quebec business leaders now are more worried about the province's language policy than about inflation, says a poll released Wednesday by Quebec's largest employers' association.

The poll, the fourth by the Conseil du Patronat du Quebec since January, 1976, cites the economic atmosphere in Canada and Quebec's economic and labor policies as the chief causes behind a marked deterioration in business activity in the province.

It places concern over language policy in third place, displacing inflation from the position it held in January. The Parti Quebecois government's language policy proposes to make French the language of work in Quebec and limit enrolment to English-language schools.

In releasing the poll results, Conseil president Pierre Des Marais said 112 firms, employing 186,000 Quebecers or 10 per cent of the private-sector work force, contributed information to the poll.

The results indicate a substantial deterioration in the province's economic conditions, the social climate and the political environment during the last six months, but they reveal a greater degree of optimism about the future.

In a poll last January, 63 per cent of the respondents said economic, social and political conditions would deteriorate during the next six months. The new poll indicates only 44 per cent predict deterioration between now and December.

Sixty-four per cent described the current economic climate in the province as bad, compared with 37 per cent in January.

Both 1977 polls rate the general economic climate and Quebec economic policies as the factors that pose the most immediate threat to the province's economy, while on a long-term basis the order is reversed.

The new poll also indicates that 88 per cent of Quebec businessmen feel economic conditions in Quebec are not as good as those elsewhere in Canada.

Des Marais said the total loss of investment in the province could amount to $600 million in 1977.

He admitted that the poll was not entirely scientific, but he maintained the results were accurate.

He blamed the Quebec government for its lack of clear direction in its economic and labor policies and referred to the continuing uncertainty surrounding the Parti Quebecois's proposed "anti-scab" law.

CNTU brief to be heard

QUEBEC (CP) — Opposition members of a legislature committee studying proposed language legislation quit their delaying tactics after two hours of procedural motions Wednesday when a union group threatened to walk out.

A delegation from the Confederation of National Trade Unions (CNTU), who had been waiting three days to be heard by the committee, interrupted proceedings to ask if the Opposition wanted to hear their brief.

The demand came after Opposition members had paralysed the hearings with a series of dilatory motions to protest the fact the committee was sitting on a Wednesday night.

Quebec national assembly committees generally do not sit Wednesday nights.

The committee studying the language bill first sat on a Wednesday evening on June 22 and the Opposition managed to tie up proceedings for the whole session.

It also sat last Wednesday, but the regular work of hearing briefs was allowed to continue because the committee did not sit Thursday night, Therese Lavoie-Roux (L'Acadie) said.

The procedural wrangle was interrupted for the first time when CNTU vice-president Andre L'Heureux called Fernand Grenier (UN—Megantic-Compton) a "jerk."

Grenier had presented a motion calling on the committee to hear the Union of County Councils to find out their views on the language bill.

Grenier objected to being called a jerk, saying he was only doing his duty as a parliamentarian.

The union delegation walked out of the committee room to discuss strategy and when they returned CNTU vice-president Francine Lalonde interrupted the debate again to ask whether the Opposition intended to hear their brief.

Mrs. Lavoie-Roux said she would have no objection to suspending debate on the procedural motion but when her proposal led to another debate on whether to drop the motion the union members prepared to walk out.

Mrs. Lalonde stood ready to leave when the committee invited the labor group to present their language position.

Reading the union's brief, Mrs. Lalonde said the government could count on the CNTU's support for the language bill. While the bill would not solve all the problems faced by Quebec workers, it would guarantee them the right to work in their own language," the CNTU said.

But, the union said, people who do not yet speak French should be given a chance to learn the language.

However, the CNTU, which adopted a position favoring unilingualism in 1969, said it did not approve the bill's position that English-speaking Quebecers be allowed to continue to be educated in English.

The union's position is that all children be educated at the primary level in their mother tongue, but that high school college and university education be in French only.

Prince Charles surprised by big kiss

CALGARY (CP) — Prince Charles was given a big kiss Wednesday after being told earlier by Indian leaders that the Blackfoot confederacy had been betrayed since the signing of Treaty 7 a century ago.

The chiefs told the heir to the British throne that they had become a forgotten people, their traditional way of life destroyed, and they lacked job opportunities.

Later, as the Prince watched tribal dancing, a Calgary lawyer also made an unscheduled speech on behalf of two American Indian Movement members. The organization has been involved in militant native protests in the United States.

Webster Macdonald said Don Chiniquay and Don Rider of the Stoney Indian band, wanted the Crown to consider returning a large tract of land west of Calgary to the Indians.

The lawyer, in an interview later, said Chiniquay, whose great-grandfather was a chief, and Rider, whose great-grandfather was Chief Bearspaw, a signatory to the 1877 treaty, were considering taking their case to Canadian and American courts.

Macdonald was the lawyer who helped the Indians force a $250,000 settlement with the federal government four years ago for ammunition money promised under Treaty 7, but never paid.

GETS KISSED

Later, while Prince Charles was attending an Alberta government barbeque in his honor at Calgary's Heritage Park, retired farmer's wife, Exilda McKeveit, 70, jumped from the crowd and planted a big kiss on the royal cheek.

"I did what a million girls would like to do," said Mrs. McKeveit. "It was completely impromptu—just one of those things."

Slightly flustered, the Prince asked: "what was that for?"

However, Mrs. McKeveit had retreated to the arms of her husband, Albert, 71, and was too embarrassed to reply.

Earlier, at the treaty signing re-enactment at Blackfoot Crossing, 60 miles east of here, the Prince, 28, sat on a buffalo robe and took three puffs on a peace pipe before he heard of the chief's bitterness.

Chief John Snow of the Stoney Indians said: "We have become a forgotten people surrounded by the complex technology and political bureaucracy of an aggressive, competitive and individualistic white society."

NO RESPECT

Chief Snow said there is no respect for treaty rights, hunting rights, fishing rights and aboriginal rights, from the incomprehending larger society.

Quebec's Protestant School board appeals for delay of new proposed regulation

MONTREAL (CP) — Quebec's Protestant school boards, teachers, and administrators appealed Wednesday to the education department to delay proposed regulations for the registration of pupils until next spring. Spokesmen said requirements that parents obtain their elementary school records to prove a child's eligibility for English-language education will create "nothing less than a procedural nightmare and disruption" because schools have closed for the summer.

Robert Krause, Quebec Association of Protestant School Boards spokesman, told a press conference that for years the education department has recognized registration must be carried out five months prior to the start of the school year.

At the department's request, registration was delayed until April 1 this year and later carried out under regulations applying to the former Liberal government's language legislation.

The boards were informed in a letter from the department dated June 14 that a new registration system would be implemented.

The spokesmen said they were angered by the fact that Cultural Development Minister Camille Laurin, responsible for the legislation, assumes Bill 1 will be passed as it stands at present.

The province's two largest school boards have already passed resolutions saying it is administratively impossible to comply with the government's directive to register all students, using new forms and collecting proof of parents' education, between June 15 and Aug. 15.

David Wadsworth of the Quebec Association of School Administrators said most of the other 21 Protestant school boards have also said the directive would be impossible to comply with.

Prime Minister welcomes Schmidt

VANCOUVER (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau and a three-piece oompah band welcomed West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt to Canada on Wednesday at a chaotic airport ceremony that preceded informal meetings between the two leaders today.

They plan to meet briefly for discussions on world economic and nuclear policies before getting together for a state dinner and going on their separate ways.

Schmidt will then rest. Trudeau will campaign, touring a city industrial project, lunching with community leaders and attempting to convince Justice Minister Ron Basford that he should stay in politics for another election.

On his arrival, Schmidt emerged from his Luftwaffe 707 beaming and bellowing: "Pierre, how good to see you."

"Welcome," replied Trudeau, who had spent 90 minutes waiting for the 58-year-old chancellor in a dowdy military airport building.

The prime minister arrived from Ottawa earlier, opening a four-day western swing that will include announcement of $170-million federal provincial development project for British Columbia, his talks with Schmidt and a later trip to Alberta.

VISITS RELATIVES

Schmidt will be formally welcomed to Canada later, when he visits Ottawa as part of an eight-day tour that will take in the Calgary Stampede and a trip to Duluth, Minn., where he has relatives.

His greeting here obviously caught the chancellor by surprise, and he commented on the disorganized nature of Canadian reporters.

When the chancellor's jet stopped, the plane's rear door opened first, releasing a swarm of West German photographers who dashed to the front of the plane where Trudeau and the welcoming party waited.

"Why do you have to stand so close?" Trudeau asked the photographers. "Don't you have any wide-angle lenses? You must be using those crummy German cameras."

The photographers, meanwhile, jostled and shoved for their lens-eye view of the event.

After leaving his plane, Schmidt and Trudeau milled about in a crowd of local and diplomatic officials, then struggled through the greeters trying to find their car.

BAND PLAYED ON

Nearby, the three-piece band belted out German songs. But neither leader noticed the tuba, accordion and saxophone players who stayed discreetly away from the crowd.

External affairs protocol officials said the problem with the Vancouver arrival was to ensure that it did not upstage Schmidt's official welcome to Canada, scheduled in Ottawa next week.

Canadian and US reporters still alive

NAIROBI (Reuters) — A Canadian journalist, a British-born executive and a British tea planter, all reported missing in Uganda, have been seen recently in the cells of Mackindye Barracks in Kampala, informed sources said here today.

But Canadian diplomat Gar Pardy, who went to Kampala this week to seek information on Toronto Star reporter Gerald Uting, returned to Nairobi on Wednesday night without official word on his fate.

Pardy said Ugandan foreign ministry officials told him his request for information would be passed to appropriate government agencies.

The informed sources, however, reported that Uting, who flew into Entebbe airport more than two weeks ago, was detained at the headquarters of the state research bureau at Nakasero in Kampala for two days and then moved to Mackindye Barracks.

House still debating national unity

OTTAWA (CP) — As the House of Commons begins its third consecutive day of debate today on ways to foster national unity, MPs continue to squabble over the causes of dissatisfaction with the federal system.

The governing Liberals see the major threat to Confederation springing from Quebec separatist sentiments and say that English-Canadians must be willing to let French-Canadians share power and enjoy language equality.

French-Canadians will not feel at home in Canada unless French schools and other services are provided in all regions, the government says.

The opposition parties agree that language problems cause discontent but that solutions to economic issues should take priority if Confederation is to remain intact.

The debate was to have ended Wednesday but several unexpected events in Parliament eroded the allotted discussion time and MPs agreed to continue the debate for two hours today.

One of the causes for the lost time was an argument between the Progressive Conservatives and Government House Leader Allan MacEachen over whose idea it was to have the debate.

The emotions generated by the argument appeared to remain when debate finally began.

CRITICIZE TRUDEAU

The Conservatives, led by former leader Robert Stanfield, attacked Prime Minister Trudeau for polarizing Quebecers into separatist and federalist camps.

"You either followed Trudeau's conception of federalism or you were stigmatized," the former Nova Scotia premier said amid hearty applause from his Conservative colleagues. Although Stanfield re-affirmed a strong commitment to bilingualism across the country, he said the maintenance of two languages has divisive aspects.

National unity would only be fostered when the differences between the two linguistic groups were sublimated and goals were established that would add cohesion to a divided nation.

Secretary of State John Roberts, the Liberals' main speaker Wednesday, criticized Opposition Leader Joe Clark and NDP Leader Ed Broadbent.

The Conservatives should not play down the importance of bilingualism in preserving national unity, Roberts said.

"(Bilingualism) is at the heart of our idea of Canada. It is something to be appreciated."

Roberts attacked Broadbent for saying that Canada was composed of only two cultures.

The Liberal government, Roberts said, believes that Canada was a nation of two languages and many cultures.

Two bombs hit Cairo

CAIRO (CP) — Two bombs blasted an open air cinema and a music institute Wednesday night, wounding 10 people, three seriously, police said today.

Nobody has claimed responsibility for the blasts but police sources said two Iraqis were arrested near the cinema after the explosion.

Police would not rule out the possibility that the Moslem extremist organization which kidnapped and brutally murdered former cabinet minister Dr. Mohammed Hussein Zuhairi was responsible.

The battered corpse of the former minister of religious endowments was found Wednesday, blindfolded and shot through the left eye. The body was pierced by multiple stab wounds, indicating torture.

He was to be given a state funeral today, starting from al-Azhar Mosque, the world's oldest seat of Islamic learning.

President Sadat has ordered a military tribunal to try the members of al-Takfir

Was Hijira—Society for Repentance and Flight from Sin—which have been accused of Zuhairi's murder.

Meanwhile, about 135 members of the sect have been rounded up to face trial in connection with the murder. At least nine were alleged to have been directly involved in the abduction and killing. They face death by hanging if convicted.

Zuhairi's decomposing body was found in a shabby house in Cairo's nightclub district near the Giza pyramids with a scarf wrapped around his head and neck.

DISCOVER NEW PLANS
Police discovered plans for fresh assassinations and for the bombing of two newspaper buildings and two arms depots in their swoops on the hideouts of the banned sect.

Although no direct link has yet been established, it appears likely the Egyptian government now is facing a concerted offensive by the Moslem right wing, banking on the country's economic problems putting the government in danger.

Canadian construction industry enjoy increase in work volume

TORONTO — Canadian construction companies enjoyed a 24 per cent boost in contract award volume in May as compared to April. The May total was $1.44 billion up 14 per cent over May 1976. Reinforced by the dollar volume reflected in the May 1977 contract award statistics, the cumulative total for the first five months of this year recorded a gain of 6 per cent over that for 1976. For the month of May, three national categories showed gains in 1977 as compared to 1976. Cumulative totals for all categories were up over 1976 five-month figures. Details of this construction activity have been released by CanaData, a construction information service of Southam Business Publications Limited.

Residential, commercial and engineering were the three categories that recorded gains in May. This year's total for the residential category gained 13 per cent over the May 1976 figure as larger dollar volumes for apartments and detached and semi-detached houses were added. The 21 per cent gain in the commercial construction category resulted from more projects this year for hotels, motels, restaurants and clubs; office buildings; motor vehicle service buildings; stores; personal service buildings; recreation and theatre structures; and warehouses and storage facilities. The May 1977 engineering figure was 34 per cent over last year's and construction classifications included in this category were bridges and overpasses; marine projects; waterworks and sewerage installations; roads and airfields; and communication installations. The institutional category suffered a 15 per cent drop in volume and the industrial category was down 7 per cent.

Three of five geographical regions which make up the national total for May 1977 recorded gains over the same month last year. Ontario, with an increase of 43 per cent over May 1976, led with a dollar volume of $494.3 million. The best percentage gain for the month was registered in the Atlantic region (66 per cent) and much of the region's strength came from a healthy 160 per cent gain recorded in the province of Nova Scotia. A gain of 17 per cent was recorded by the British Columbia-Yukon region. The Quebec region was down 13 per cent and the Prairies-Northwest Territories region was just a shade below last year's level.

When comparing national five-month cumulative totals for 1977 and 1976, all construction categories have recorded gains. Residential and industrial categories lead with gains of 9 per cent each. Engineering was next at 5 per cent, followed by institutional at 3 per cent and commercial with a 1 per cent gain.

Four of five regions have gained in 1977 when five-month regional cumulative totals for this year are compared with last year's figures. The Prairies-Northwest Territories recorded a 16 per cent gain. The Atlantic region had a 21 per cent gain. Quebec and Ontario each show a 3 per cent gain. The British Columbia-Yukon region was down 7 per cent.

Five-month cumulative totals by census metropolitan areas across Canada show that Toronto, at $742.6 million, was the volume leader. Montreal was second at $631.5 million and Vancouver was third at $376.7 million.

Trends to watch: From a strong first quarter position, the Quebec region appears to have weakened in the past two months. Most noticeable is the fact that industrial and commercial, the two categories most sensitive to investment by the private sector, are both currently down in volume by over 40 per cent each. The same trend is evident in the census metro area of Montreal where the industrial category is down 50 per cent from last year. By contrast, Ontario has a 76 per cent gain in industrial and a 17 per cent gain in commercial. And census metro area Toronto is up 57 per cent and 7 per cent for the same categories.

Projects expected to generate investments of $1,366,900

Seven more firms accept DREE incentive offers

MONTREAL (TELBOC) — The honourable Marcel Lessard, Federal Minister of Regional Economic Expansion (DREE), recently announced that, this week, seven firms in Quebec have accepted development incentive offers totalling $341,440. It is expected that these projects will create 67 jobs and generate investments exceeding $1,366,900.

The firms assisted by DREE are the following: I.P.I. Designs Ltd., which will operate a facility at Saint-Hyacinthe ($189,165); Victo Frames (1975) Inc. of Victoriaville ($54,850); Raymond Industries Inc. of Sept-Îles ($40,000); Equipement Forbo, of Valcourt ($29,625); Beauce Sportswear Inc. of Saint-Come, in Beauce ($14,200); St-Fabien Industrial Inc. of Saint-Fabien, near Rimouski ($7,000); and Les Armoires de Cuisine Decorene Inc. of Sainte-Odile, also near Rimouski ($6,600).

I.P.I. Designs Ltd. has accepted an incentive offer of $189,165 for a new facility, at Saint-Hyacinthe, to manufacture plastic plates, dishes and other kitchen articles and steel castings used in this industrial sector. This project is expected to create 15 jobs and generate investments exceeding $690,000.

Victo Frames (1975) Inc. of Victoriaville has accepted an incentive offer of $54,850 for a new facility to manufacture furniture frames, at Princeville. This project is expected to create 10 jobs and generate investments exceeding $219,400.

Raymond Industries Inc. of Sept-Îles has accepted an incentive offer of $40,000 for the expansion of its facility which manufactures various metal products. This project is expected to create 10 jobs and generate investments exceeding $200,000.

Equipement Forbo Inc. of Valcourt has accepted an incentive offer of $29,625 for a new facility to manufacture ornamental steel products. This project is expected to create four jobs and generate investments exceeding $118,500.

Beauce Sportswear Inc. of Saint-Come, in Beauce, has accepted an incentive offer of $14,200 for the expansion of its facility which manufactures clothing. This project is expected to create 20 jobs and generate investments exceeding $71,000.

St-Fabien Industriel Inc. of Saint-Fabien, near Rimouski, has accepted an incentive offer of $7,000 for the expansion and the modernization of its facility which manufactures custom-made furniture. This project is expected to create three jobs and generate investments exceeding $35,000.

Les Armoires de Cuisine Decorene Inc. of Sainte-Odile, also near Rimouski, has accepted an incentive offer of $6,600 for the expansion of its facility which manufactures kitchen cabinets. This project is expected to create five jobs and generate investments exceeding $33,000.

These incentives to manufacturing enterprises are part of various DREE initiatives to foster industrial growth in Quebec.

Shipbuilding industry goes under state control

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain's shipbuilding industry has come under state ownership against a background of acute crisis in the world's shipyards.

The nationalization of the industry was achieved after intense political battles and cliff-hanging votes in the House of Commons.

Although the state corporation, British Shipbuilders, marked its debut by immediately launching a cargo ship, Capetan Markos, into the River Wear in northern England, the omens for the new corporation are not auspicious.

The world shipbuilding industry will have an annual production capacity of about 30-million tons gross against expected demand of about 12-million tons in the next five years.

And Britain's share of the world market has fallen dramatically in recent years.

The country's shipbuilders were having problems even before the collapse of the tanker market and the world trade recession.

The first big test for the new nationalized industry may come in the heartland of Scottish shipbuilding, on the River Clyde, where about 1,000 workers could lose their jobs if new orders do not come in by next month.

So far this year the industry has attracted new orders amounting to about 250,000 tons gross, or approximately a quarter of the annual capacity.

The corporation's chief executive, Michael Casey, has said: "Our policy is for an all-out drive for orders."

The new organization is exploring the market for fast offshore patrol boats.

Insulation loan program

Recommending numerous changes

HALIFAX (CP) — The Nova Scotia Housing Commission is recommending a number of changes in the government's insulation loan and grant program to broaden its application and speed up processing.

Walter Fitzgerald, minister responsible for housing, said in a recent interview the changes will be considered by the federal-provincial management committee and he expects to have a reply in early July.

The minister said while applications for grants through Central Mortgage and Housing Corp. (CMHC) have surpassed expectations, the demand for loans is "extremely slow." Many applicants complain about the time it takes to process applications, he said, and this results from a cumbersome handling procedure.

Fitzgerald said the changes he is recommending include:

—Substantially reducing or eliminating the eight-per-cent interest rate on loans.

—Increasing the amount of individual loans to $3,000 from $1,500.

—Diversifying the coverage under the loan program to include such things as siding and furnace improvements.

—Inclusion of apartment buildings and condominiums of more than three storeys and various institutions such as churches and non-profit clubs.

Fitzgerald said he also is suggesting that loans be approved for conversion from electric heating without the electrical equipment being removed. Under present regulations electrical heating equipment must be removed before a conversion loan is approved.

The minister said some people want to retain their electric heating equipment on the chance that it may become more economic to heat with electricity in the future.

Architect likes to draw on public opinion

HAMILTON (CP) — Architect Don Moffat likes to draw on public opinion when he designs buildings.

Moffat is a partner in the Hamilton firm of Moffat, Moffat and Kinoshita, which is planning an addition to the Royal Ontario Museum in Toronto.

Since the museum is a public place, the architects invited public participation in the planning process.

"Public approach surveys were carried out and liaison was established with local citizens groups," Moffat said. "We received a landslide of ideas, many of them worth while."

"People for example complained that they were not seeing enough of the collections that the museum had in storage."

"There were even complaints about simple things like the inadequacies of the washrooms in the existing building—but no matter how small the ideas were they all added up to a meaningful contribution."

Moffat said the public approach worked successfully in other projects which his team had undertaken. These included the Mohawk Gardens residential redevelopment here and a Humber College building project in Toronto.

OPINIONS VARY

The architects took a similar—if less public—approach in designing a detention centre in Toronto.

They sought the opinions of former prisoners and got some interesting results, Moffat said.

"How you feel when you're in a little locked-up cell versus how you feel when you're looking at that situation from a design basis are two different things."

"You start to feel for the people who are locked up, but you also have to feel for the people who have to look after them."

In the case of the museum, the main problem is how to blend modern expansion concepts into an old building.

Major renovation to the existing structure is also part of the $42.5-million project and the work must be done without interfering with public access to the building.

Construction is to be started next year and the project completed in late 1981.

Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto stock market was mixed at the close of record high trading Wednesday despite a 15-point gain in pipeline issues.

The TSE 300 index was down 34 to 1,031.42 with declines in three of its four most heavily-weighted groups.

Analysts said activity centred around pipeline-related stocks for the second consecutive day following the National Energy Board's approval of the Foothills route for transporting northern gas to southern markets.

The sharp drop at New York where the Dow Jones index fell 5.86 to 907.73, its lowest since June 6, failed to affect Canadian trading, they said.

Among the four most heavily-weighted groups within the 14-unit TSE composite index, financial services rose 77 to 940.54, a high dating back to Nov. 4, 1976. Metals and minerals declined 3.15 to 1,044.65, industrial products 3.08 to 928.06 and oil and gas issues 1.67 to 1,179.86.

Pipeline issues and management companies led the six gainers among the other 10 groups, while paper and forest products were the biggest of the four losers.

"Like the Holy Trinity with two extra people"

Hydro-Quebec's five man governing body

MONTREAL (CP) — For 33 years since its creation in 1944, Hydro-Quebec has been run by a government-appointed panel of five commissioners, a group described by Energy Minister Guy Joron as "like the Holy Trinity with two extra people."

"The commissioners are many but they are supposed to speak magically with one voice," Joron says.

In recent years the most potent voice has been that of Roland Giroux, the one-time president of the Levesque Beaubien investment house who sits as a commissioner but doubles as Hydro's president.

Described by Joron as a "financial wizard" and much less charitably by those who resent his power, Giroux consolidated his position in 1971, two years after assuming the presidency, when he thwarted an apparent attempt by then Premier Robert Bourassa to make an end run around Hydro in developing the James Bay hydro project in northern Quebec.

Bourassa had recruited

Pierre Nadeau, one of Quebec's most influential businessmen, to head James Bay Development Corp., the Crown corporation that one paper had control of the enterprise the premier called "the project of the century."

IGNORER BY GIROUX — Nadeau indicated afterward that he found out how much power he really had when he accompanied Giroux to New York to discuss an engineering contract with an American firm.

Upon their arrival, Nadeau later recalled, Giroux disappeared for a private dinner to discuss the deal. Nadeau was not invited.

Exactly one year after taking the James Bay job, Nadeau left for his current post as board chairman of Petrofina Canada Ltd. He made the move, he told a legislature committee, because he refused to be a "puppet" for Giroux and Hydro.

Giroux built a formidable reputation on such coups but with his retirement scheduled this year it seems unlikely any future president of Hydro-Quebec will enjoy such unfettered authority.

During a bitter strike which saw 10,000 Hydro employees walk out in the midst of last fall's election campaign, Rene Levesque promised the Parti Quebecois would curb the utility's autonomy.

WOULD CREATE BOARD — At the time, Levesque spoke of creating a board of directors including representatives of the government, the legislature opposition, consumer groups and Hydro employee unions, to oversee management.

Robert Boyd, Hydro vice-president who has seen reforming governments come and go since he joined the utility as a young engineer in 1944, says some changes are needed in the archaic five-commissioner system "but I'm not so sure about the board."

"In a private company, the people on the board are chosen by the company itself for their business contacts and their knowledge. How should a Hydro-Quebec board be selected and what would be its aim?"

The cabinet is still discussing details of the plan but Joron says the government remains committed to creating "a more normal corporate structure," including the board promised by Levesque.

"We haven't made a final decision and the reforms will probably include a transition period of some time," he says.

"But everybody, including the five commissioners, realizes that the commission is not the best way to run a business of this size. It's far too great a burden for five men."

Quebec will lead the way in manufacturing investment

QUEBEC (CP) — Quebec's industry and commerce minister says his province, Alberta and British Columbia will lead the way in manufacturing investment in Canada this year.

Rodrigue Tremblay has predicted that investment in manufacturing will increase about 28 per cent in Quebec in 1977, despite a decrease of more than six per cent in the last two years.

He made the statement in the national assembly after opposition Liberals attacked the government's economic policy, saying the Parti Quebecois was responsible for a drop in new investments in the province's manufacturing sector.

Investment in Quebec's manufacturing sector declined 4.7 per cent in 1976 and 1.5 per cent in 1975.

Opposition economics critic Andre Raynaud (L.-Outremont) said there were indications the decline was continuing in the Montreal area in the first five months of 1977 while Toronto surged ahead.

From January to May, Raynaud said construction investment declined 50 per cent in Montreal while increasing 57 per cent in Toronto. He added investment by other firms decreased 20 per cent in Montreal while increasing 119 per cent in Toronto.

Tremblay attributed the decline in construction to a post-Olympic slump similar to that experienced in Montreal after Expo, the 1967 international exposition.

He expressed hope that the trend would be reversed by the federal department of regional economic expansion, which recently designated Montreal as a special zone, and by his department's program to aid small- and medium-sized companies.

Finance Minister Jacques Parizeau blamed the lack of construction and manufacturing investment on the inertia of the former Liberal government, especially in the housing sector.

Tremblay also argued that unemployment was stable in Quebec while increasing in other provinces.

New York

NEW YORK (AP) — Prices slumped in the stock market Wednesday amid speculation about a possible slowing in the economic growth rate later in the year.

Autos, papers and other basic-industry issues whose fortunes are closely linked to the business cycle led the retreat.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials fell 5.86 to 907.73, marking its lowest close in a month. It finished at 903.07 on June 6.

Losers outpaced gainers by a 5-3 spread among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

NYSE volume increased to 21.23 million shares from Tuesday's five-week low of 16.85 million. The Dow had managed only a 94 advance on Tuesday despite widespread expectations that the June wholesale price index, to be issued on Friday, would bring some good inflation news.

The speculation was prompted by recent declines in the prices of many commodities, notably farm prices.

Analysts said traders were discouraged by that sluggish showing by the market, as well as forecasts that business expansion might slow as the second half progresses.

Evidence of that concern was provided by weakness in many of the cyclical "smokestack" stocks.

What stocks did:

In the paper group, International Paper was down 1¼ at 48¾ as of the 4 p.m. close of the NYSE, and Union Camp fell 1¼ to 51½.

U.S. Steel dropped ¼ to 39¾ and Bethlehem Steel slipped ½ to 30¾. Du Pont, the biggest of the chemicals, gave up ¾ to 115¾.

Auto stocks suffered as well, despite record June car sales figures. By price-earnings ratio and dividend yield measures, investors have been appraising the auto stocks extremely conservatively of late.

General Motors, which carries an indicated yield of more than 9 per cent, dropped 1¼ to 68¾, and Ford Motor lost 1¼ to 45¾.

Standard and Poor's index of 400 industrials posted a 64 decline to 109.59, and S and P's 500-stock composite index was down .51 at 99.58.

Cowansville cancer campaign sets record

COWANSVILLE — The Canadian Cancer Society representative for the Cowansville region, Mrs. Walter P. Perkins, is pleased to announce to all those who were interested in or contributed to, the recent campaign, that the result surpassed all hopes. In effect, the amount received up to date is $8,665.56, as follows: Cowansville, Adamsville, East Farnham -

$2,719.41; Knowlton, Brome - $2,560.86; Sutton, Abercorn - $2,995.29; Miscellaneous - $390.00.

This result exceeds largely that attained in the past and represents a tangible proof of the interest and importance that the people of our region attach to the social and humanitarian work of the Canadian Cancer Society. The public understands more and more that this disease will be beaten only if a combined effort is made by everyone.

The Canadian Cancer Society needs all available resources to meet the numerous requests it receives. The first of which, and maybe the most important, being financial help to researchers and specialists who contribute their knowledge, experience and even their life to the ultimate goal, that is the comprehension of this complex disease, its progression and the discovery of preventative and curative techniques. Their labor has improved greatly the situation which existed in the past and, no doubt, complete victory will be theirs one day.

In the name of the Canadian Cancer Society, Mrs. Perkins wishes to thank first, all the generous donors of our region and Mrs. Jehane Benoit, this year's campaign honorary president. Special thanks are extended to the volunteers who contributed without counting their time and talent for the organization of the campaign in their respective sector. She wishes to mention the Daughters of Isabella of Cowansville; Mrs. Jean Pergau and Mr. Rupert Taylor from Sutton and Mrs. Gray Donald-Gray and Mrs. Alan Webster from Knowlton.

ADMIS names new president

SHERBROOKE — The Sherbrooke Association for the Mentally Retarded has named Mr. Gilles Bilodeau as its new president, at the recent annual meeting held at the Atelier Daisy.

Mr. Bilodeau was a member of the administrative council in charge of specific activities and was involved with the Jeunes Amis service.

Mr. Bilodeau succeeds Mrs. Gisele Petitclerc for the one year term.

Besides the president, the administrative council of the association includes vice president Roger Cormier; executive secretary, Aurelien Painchaud; treasurer, Jean Paul Duclos; and directors Rolland Campagna, Francois Geoffrey, Louise Bertrand, Marielle Lamontagne and Rheaumont. It is probable that several others will be added in the future.

The Association is hoping to develop what they term is a "new dynamism" in their goals for the upcoming year, which include, a Saturday day care to allow parents a little free time, to improve the job situation for retarded adults and to help smaller cities like Asbestos, Lac Megantic and Magog to provide local services for their population.

The Association, with the help of the federal Canada at Works program, has launched a 52 week project. Five staff members will work to raise money to keep their activities going at the termination of the federal grant and do promotion work for the mentally retarded to allow a more successful integration of the retarded into society.

The Sherbrooke Association is now in a new office at 636 Quebec St. Telephone 567-2227.

July 1 in East Farnham

EAST FARNHAM (NW) — This tiny Eastern Townships community marked Canada Day with fun and games enjoyed by everyone who attended.

Children's games such as sack-races occupied a large part of the afternoon with prizes being given out to the youngsters who competed. Following this, there was a parade with brightly decorated bicycles and floats, including one all decked out with flags from Canada's provinces.

Area residents were then treated to a mouth-watering barbeque with hamburgers made from ground beef supplied by Hans Steingruber. Organizer Donald King told The Record that approximately 650 hamburgers were sold along with 500 Swiss sausages "so that gives you a kind of idea of the size of the crowd we had."

A bonfire and fireworks display came after, along with the music of two bands, led by Leonard Lickfold and Jeff Turnbull, respectively. Another highlight of the day was 150 small table flags, donated by Brome-Missisquoi Member of Parliament Heward Graffey, which were distributed to the youngsters and the senior citizens in attendance.

Mr. King said that the Canada Day celebrations in East Farnham was "a real community event" with a "super turnout". He also wished to thank those involved and those who donated items for the festivities.

TOWN OF BROME LAKE

Hot on the heels of the nationwide three million dollar extravaganza that marked Canada's 110th birthday, the Town of Brome Lake staged a fun-filled Canada Day celebration on Saturday in the Lion's Park, which boasted a parade and a number of games for both adult and child that were enjoyed by all.

Sponsored by the Knowlton Lion's Club with assistance from the Brome Lake Trailriders, the Pony Club, the Brome-Bolton Fish and Game Club, the Lakeview Hotel, the Royal Canadian Legion Ladies' Auxiliary, the Oddfellows and Rebekahs and local merchants and businessmen, the activity-packed day began at 10 a.m. with the children's games.

"The thrill of victory, the agony of defeat" was how one area father jokingly described the youngsters' competitions. Children of all ages took part in events ranging from Potato-on-a-Spoon races to Three-Legged Races and Sack and Wheelbarrow races.

Following the children's games were refreshments for the youths and the judging of the Poster Competition. The winners from St. Edouard's School in the seven to eight-year-old bracket were Roger C. Choiniere (first prize) and Kim Lightbody (second prize). In the nine to 10-year-old age group, the winners were Sophie Giroux, first, Heather Stanway, second, Louise Brouillette, third and Eric Thompson, fourth. In the 11 years old and up age group, Lisa Johansson came first, Caroline Johnston, second and Michael Lennon, third.

Those who won prizes from the Knowlton Academy were, in the five to six year-old age group: Kim Badger, first, Kim Soule, second, and Renee Parker, third. In the seven to eight-year-old age group, Sally MacArthur came first, Steven Norris, second and Timon Deichman, third. Winners in the nine to 10-year-old category were Sandra Olsen, first, Simon MacArthur, second and Billy Miller, third.

The winners in the 11 years old and up age group were Ralph Mason, first, Sue Roper, second and Vivian Michalik, third.

The judges were Mrs. M. Turcotte, Mrs. Mireille LeMaitre and Mr. Frank Johnston - Main.

Shortly after one o'clock, the skirl of bagpipes was heard through the city streets as the Pierrefonds Pipe Band set out from in front of the Clairmont plant on Main Street. The Band, which later put on a number of concerts with an exhibition of Highland Dancing at the Lion's Park - the main center of the festivities - were joined en route by many colorfully decorated bicycles and some antique cars.

The bicycles were part of a "Fancy Bike Contest" held later in the afternoon. The winners in that competition were (in the four to six-year-old age group): Cindy Royea, first, Michel Parker and Renee Parker, tied for second, and Curtis Trevor-Barr, third.

Stephanie Blanchette came first in the seven to eight-year-old age group with Renee Lavigne winning second place and Mark Grenier getting third. In the nine to 10-year-old age group, Jeff Page was first with Peter Smart, second and Jeff Blanchette, third.

Winners in the 11 to 14-year-old category were Joan Lavigne and Donna Bobrick tied for first, Phillip Scott and Randy Gautier tied for second and Francois Dagenais winning third.

The adult and teen games followed the children's games and in many cases there were mighty tests of strength and speed in events such as the Log Sawing Contest and the Tug-of-War.

The Women's Tug-of-War proved to be a real family outing as one girl was heard to call over her shoulder at the start of the competition, "Are you ready, Mom?"

Following the concert and Highland Dance exhibition by the Pierrefonds Pipe Band, the Girls All Stars baseball team met once again with the Lion's Club in a challenge softball game. The girls were unable to retain last year's title and the Lion's emerged victorious.

Following this, the happy crowd adjourned to a delicious barbeque and another performance by the Pipe Band.

With all the enjoyment being shared by the people in the Lion's Park that day, not even "man's best friend" was left out. A Dog Show for the pets of children from one to 15 years old was held in the early evening. Whether named "Fido", "Spot" or "Rover", the decisions of the judges on all the dogs were final and they were entered in such categories as training and obedience, funniest costume, and being the biggest, smallest, fattest and funniest.

Approximately 600 people took part in the festivities with a great deal of enjoyment. Angus Larocque, a Cowansville native now residing in Victoria, British Columbia, told The Record that the Town of Brome Lake celebrations had a "refreshing, genuine quality with participants ranging from three years old to 73 years old."

Mr. Larocque continued, saying that he saw people of all races present that day who were proud to claim that they were Canadians. He concluded emphasizing that it was a very enjoyable day with a "typical Eastern Townships atmosphere - and a good one!"

Red Cross to demonstrate water safety

SHERBROOKE (JC) — Monitors from Red Cross Water Safety Quebec Division will give safety demonstrations at 2 p.m., July 13, at Jacques Cartier beach.

The demonstrations are being held throughout the province to educate and encourage Quebecers to exercise proper safety rules. Six vital areas will be covered: boating safety; survival; rescue; artificial resuscitation; swimming safety and rescue apparel.

Over 200 persons drowned in Quebec last year, seven in the Eastern Townships. Major causes of drownings were children left unattended, swimming alone and swimming at night.

The Canadian Red Cross

encourages everyone to attend the free demonstrations in the hopes of preventing tragic and unnecessary drowning deaths.

Make it a safe summer

Summer is in full swing and thousands are thronging to Quebec's plentiful lakes and rivers. Whether headed for the cottage, the campsite, or the beach, they'll soak up the sun, and enjoy a little swimming, fishing or boating. But, for many, the holiday will end in tragedy. Over 200 Quebecers are expected to drown this summer.

Seven people drowned needlessly in the Townships last year. Carelessness and ignorance induce almost all drowning deaths. In an area like the Townships, where people spend as many hours in the water as out, it is crucial that all safety rules be understood and exercised. Caution and awareness of proper first aid, rescue, and safety procedures could greatly reduce, if not eliminate, drowning deaths.

No one, regardless of experience, is free from danger in the water. That last late night swim, the child left alone for "only a moment", that extra person in the boat may appear very harmless, yet prove to be so fatal.

Attend one of the many water safety courses available for children and adults in the Townships: if not for yourself, then for someone you care about. Make a point of explaining rules and techniques to your children. Familiarize them with the water and its possible hazard area. Be sure to always set a good example, for children are great mimics.

Take those few extra minutes to make sure, and make it a safe summer.

Israeli-US relations tough test for tender Carter administration

WASHINGTON (CP) — With less than six months in office, Jimmy Carter is fast making his mark as a U.S. president who is willing to take tough, controversial decisions and slash through complex political stalemates.

Apprehensive governments now are wondering whether he intends to apply that damn-the-torpedoes approach to the Middle East by considering the possibility of setting up a major U.S. military base in Israel.

Press secretary Jody Powell has been quoted as saying that may well be one of the many ideas being "tossed around" in the White House as officials review U.S. policies in preparation for a visit later this month by Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin.

The dangers in any such move would be numerous: hostile reaction by Arab states; resurgent Soviet influence in the Middle East; a divisive and intense domestic controversy in the United States; a crippling of Carter's ability to get other programs through Congress; and even greater arms race in the region.

Years of U.S. diplomatic effort would go down the drain if the Arab states and supporters turned again to the oil weapon or decide to attack Israel before the U.S. presence could be established.

REWARDS GREAT

But if the risks are great, so are the potential rewards. A formal U.S. commitment to Israel and the presence of U.S. forces might induce Israel to yield enough territorial and other concessions for a peace settlement with their neighbours.

One supporter of a U.S. military commitment to Israel, representative David Obey (Dem. Wis.), described the basic problem last January: "It is critically important that Israel faces the fact that there simply will be no peace without withdrawal (from occupied territories) and that the United States faces the fact that no Israeli government is likely to have the strength to endorse withdrawal in the absence of a formal U.S. military commitment."

Carter has said this is a key year to push for a Middle East settlement and to try to defuse the still-volatile confrontation there.

In a succession of controversial remarks, he has outlined his view of what such a settlement should include: defensible borders for Israel, a homeland for the Palestinians, a recognition of Israel's right to exist and perhaps compensation for the Palestinian refugees.

As with previous U.S. administrations, the Carter White House has tried the carrot-and-stick approach to prod and lead Israel into concessions.

Recently there has been unusually direct U.S. criticism of Begin for his refusal to negotiate over the occupied West Bank, but Carter has also approved in principle a $115 million sale of 700 armored personnel carriers and 200 wire-guided anti-tank missiles to Israel.

Before that, Carter blocked an Israeli purchase of the powerful CBU-72 concussion bomb and forbade Israel to sell its Kfir jets to Ecuador with U.S. engines. But he approved a Kfir sale to Austria and put Israel in a favored category for weapons sales.

But such mixed U.S. approaches have traditionally encountered the Israeli conviction that withdrawal from occupied territories would leave it extremely vulnerable to Arab invasion.

With Carter's demonstrated tendency to rational, "clean" solutions, the idea of a straightforward U.S. military guarantee to Israel may be at least superficially appealing.

He has deliberately violated political and diplomatic protocol before, with varying results: his announced terminations of water projects brought him a political storm but also seem to have killed some of the projects; his cancellation of the B-1 bomber has produced substantial praise; and his arms-reduction proposals have met blunt Soviet rejection.

Such lessons and the complexities and dangers of the Middle East could well deter Carter from a full guarantee to Israel, but still leave him with the option of using U.S. forces in a more limited way, such as posting them along Israel's borders as a buffer force that would deter both Arab and Israeli attacks under a multilateral agreement. Some 170 U.S. technicians have been acting as an unarmed, early-warning buffer between Egyptians and Israelis in the Sinai with success.

One question Carter may pursue in his talks with Begin is whether Israel could accept such a force. While not as much of a guarantee as a formal U.S. military commitment direct to Israel, it should still be considered more reliable by Israel than the United Nations peace-keeping forces that earlier left Arab-Israeli borders at Arab insistence.

Kissinger encouraged oil price gouge

WASHINGTON — In sheer dimensions, the Watergate scandal will take a back page in history to the oil scandal. We now have evidence that Richard Nixon and Henry Kissinger could have prevented the spectacular oil price increase, which has dislocated the world economy and sent all prices spiraling.

The evidence is contained in secret documents, which we have studied closely. We have also interviewed key Nixon Administration officials familiar with the backstage developments. Here is the incredible story:

Saudi Arabia, the world's largest oil producer, wanted to hold down prices. The Saudis foresaw the ruinous effect high oil prices would have on the western world. But they were under intense pressure from the other oil powers to join in the oil price squeeze.

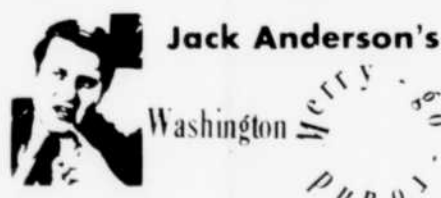

The Saudis appealed to the United States, therefore, to help them keep the lid on oil prices. They realized that Washington had the leverage to restrain the shah of Iran. For the shah literally owed his throne to the United States, which has also been the source of his power since World War II.

The Saudis, quite logically, tended to judge U.S. intent by the shah's attitude. They were puzzled, therefore, over his clamor for exorbitant oil prices. All it should take, they reasoned, was a little U.S. pressure to bring the shah into line.

The Saudis repeatedly urged then-U.S. Ambassador James Akins, according to Akins' own secret account, "to put pressure on the shah to cooperate with Saudi Arabia and reduce the oil prices." Yet the shah kept calling for outrageous price increases.

Finally, the late King Faisal took up the problem directly with Kissinger in 1974. According to a secret account of their conversation, "the king urged him directly to take up oil prices with the shah, and the secretary agreed to do so."

Kissinger reported back to King Faisal on Feb. 15, 1975, that he had tried to persuade the shah to reduce oil prices. Sources close to Kissinger have told us this was a lie. The Secretary of State made no attempt, they say, to restrain the shah.

Later the shah himself told the Saudis that Kissinger had not brought up oil prices with him. Adding another jigsaw piece, Ambassador Akins offered this secret intelligence:

"The Iranian had told (the Saudis) we were completely unconcerned about any price rise. The shah has also told this to numerous oilmen as proof that the U.S. is at least indifferent to an increase in oil prices. In any case, the Saudis have seen no account from any American source that we in any way tried to pressure the shah to back off his extreme position on oil crisis."

Ultimately, the Saudis became convinced that the Nixon Administration secretly favored the oil gouge. They gave up their attempts, therefore, to stand alone against the greedy oil potentates. The Saudi oil minister, Sheikh Ahmed Zaki Yamani, later explained this to then-Treasury Secretary William Simon in a letter dated Sept. 3, 1975, and marked "strictly personal."

"I would like you to know," wrote Yamani, "that there are those amongst us who think that the U.S. Administration does not really object to an increase in oil prices. There are even those who think that you encourage it for obvious political reasons and that any official position taken to the contrary is merely to cover up this fact."

An alarmed Simon wrote a six-page memo to Gerald Ford who had replaced Richard Nixon in the White House. The Saudi royal family had informed him personally, wrote Simon, that "Saudi Arabia would press OPEC for lower prices" but that they "need the U.S. to help turn the shah around."

Simon added that the Saudi oil minister had also "written me several times along the same lines. Yamani and others have said they wonder whether, in fact, we want lower oil prices since we never even raise the subject with the shah."

We can't say whether Ford ever asked Kissinger to speak to the shah. But as long as Kissinger remained Secretary of State, our sources say, he never brought pressure on the shah to hold down oil prices.

The Saudis, meanwhile, waited for Kissinger to be removed from power and then made another attempt to hold the line on oil prices. They refused to go along with the full price increase and threatened to boost their production to 10 million barrels a day. This would be sold on the world market, they announced, at no additional price.

But bad weather, a rash of fires and technical difficulties prevented the Saudis from reaching the 10-million-barrel goal. The other oil powers, with the shah leading the pack, also hounded the Saudis to raise prices.

The shah howled that the Saudi action was costing Iran $6 million a day in lost oil revenues. Any increase in Saudi production at Iran's expense, he warned, would constitute "an act of aggression."

This was followed by an exchange of delegations between the two countries. In Saudi Arabia, the Iranian representatives urged the Saudi government to reverse its policies. In Iran, the Saudi emissaries let the shah know that the royal family didn't appreciate his intemperate outbursts.

The shah quieted down, and the Saudis began behind-the-scenes negotiations. They finally agreed to raise their prices another five per cent, bringing them equal to the world price, if the other oil powers would cancel an announced five per cent rise, our sources understand.

Meanwhile, many nations have been forced to borrow money to pay their staggering oil bills. Now they are running out of credit, yet the price of crude is continuing to climb. This has caused grave alarm in the backrooms of government. Troubled strategists fear the international financial system may break down, with a crash that could plunge the western world into chaos.

Letter to the Editor

Mr. C.W. McVetty sent the following editorial along with his comments.

ONE STEP at a time, Rene Levesque hauls Quebec out of the body of Canada while Parliament politely backs away, like a mildly-interested audience that doesn't want to get involved in the fuss.

Secretary of State John Roberts conducted the latest federal retreat when he said Ottawa "reluctantly" accepts Quebec's one-language policy, deliberately making the province an alien country to English-speaking Canadians.

Mr. Roberts explained that the government understood the concern in Quebec about the state of the French language in that province, therefore would not defend English-speaking Quebecers' right to have their children educated in their own language which is, nominally, one of Canada's official tongues.

In all, the Trudeau government has shown remarkable understanding for concerns expressed in Quebec but not very much for Canada's primary concern — survival.

The opposition, if it still deserves the name, has shown no more determination to defend this country from destruction. The Conservative and New Democrat reaction to the government sell-out of its own bilingualism objectives in Quebec and its double standards — one for Quebec, one for the rest of Canada — gave no reflection of Canadian public opinion. Quebec's Bill 1 is not acceptable to Canadians in general but not one of the party leaders in the House of Commons mentioned that.

The Trudeau government has made an appalling mess of bilingualism and has carried the same brand of irresolution and incompetence into the bigger struggle for national unity.

Instead of encouraging the growing movement among English-speaking Canadians to learn French, the Trudeau government hit the nation with a multi-million dollar bilingualism program, complete with threats, rules and regulations that were bound to incur resentment.

The federal Liberals evidently learned nothing from the experience. They gave Canadians in the English-speaking provinces no credit for any ability to understand Quebecers' worries about preserving their culture. Instead, Ottawa has gone along with the Quebec language measure deliberately designed to separate that province from the others culturally, if not politically.

Clearly there is no powerful feeling of determination within the government to hold Canada together. The government's attitudes and actions have done anything but support national unity.

Many Canadians would agree with Robert Stanfield's observation that leaving the Quebec separation issue to the Trudeau government is like sending an arsonist to put out a fire. Unhappily, there is no effective opposition leadership to voice Canadians' concerns over the disintegration that is taking place with the government's consent, sometimes with its active support.

To The Editor:
While in Hamilton recently I read an editorial in the Spectator issue of June 23rd last, which in my opinion, gives the reader a true picture of the political situation in Ottawa, and would be pleased if you would give this editorial the publicity it deserves.

We now see that the Secretary of State "reluctantly" (?) accepts Quebec's one-language policy. Where is Mr. Trudeau and his much-vaunted bilingual legislation now? Is this a policy to be accepted by nine Provinces, and to be sneezed at by one Province, Quebec?

Personally, I cannot see why Mr. Trudeau is reported to be gaining in public opinion polls when all he is doing is saying that Quebec will not separate - yet he obviously supports the one-language policy in Quebec by referring to allow a test case of the constitutionality of such a measure before the Supreme Court of Canada — especially so, when he, Mr. Trudeau, helped provide financial assistance to the Inuit of the James Bay area to have a test case of this problem placed before the same Court. To longer ignore the plight of the English-speaking minority in this Province smacks of bias.

As for other Federal political leaders, Clark, and Broadbent, I sincerely hope that our fair Country will be long spared from their guidance in the future. Truly, we English speaking minority in this Province are in the same state of mind as an egg on a hot griddle — debating whether to remain there or jump into the fire.

Thank you.
C.W. McVETTY,

You cannot teach a man anything; you can only help him to find it for himself. — Galileo, Italian astronomer.

The unspiritual man does not receive the gifts of the Spirit of God, for they are folly to him, and he is not able to understand them because they are spiritually discerned. — I Cor. 2:14

Great men are they who see that the spiritual is stronger than any material forces; that thought rules the world. — Ralph Waldo Emerson.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilder E. Hatch

Silver wedding anniversary

TOMIFOBIA (IH) — Mr. and Mrs. Wilder Hatch of Tomifobia were the guests of honor at a reception held on Saturday evening, June 25, at the Canon Gustin Hall in Fitch Bay, which was arranged by their children and relatives of the family.

The hall was attractively decorated in pastel colors and inflated balloons with silver '25' numerals within a wreath.

Upon arrival of the couple, a niece, Miss Wendy Stuart of Montreal and North Hatley, played the Scottish Bag Pipes, followed by their attendants of the 1952 wedding, Mrs. Joyce Probert and John Stuart, sister of the groom and brother of the bride and by Mrs. Robert Vinet, the former Bonnie Stuart, niece of the bride who was flower girl at the wedding.

After circling the hall floor, Mr. and Mrs. Hatch, Mrs. Probert and Mr. Stuart, were escorted to four special chairs reserved for them. Mrs. Vinet was carrying a wicker basket containing corsages and boutonnieres of silver sprayed white carnations and these she presented the foursome.

Jack Keeley was Master of Ceremonies for the program and on behalf of the Hatch family, welcomed everyone to the reception. He then went on to tell a tale, mostly factual, "This is Your Life", of the bride and groom of the silver years and when he came to the courtship of Wilder Hatch and Catherine Stuart and their marriage on June 7, 1952, a mock wedding was enacted that was humorous in script and costume. The cast were: Minister, Mrs. Gordon (Frances) Stuart, North Hatley, bride, Wynn Dustin and groom, Mrs. Jack (Marjorie) Keeley, Tomifobia, best man, Miss Gail Probert, Montreal, bridesmaid, Bill Stuart, Sherbrooke, flower girl, Miss Cathy Gilbert, Tomifobia, bride's father, Gordon Stuart of North Hatley, Miss Wendy Stuart piped the wedding party into the hall and out again after their performance, also to stand back of the four chairs for picture snapping.

Mr. Keeley continued with the life story and noted the first arrival of their family, and the others that followed. As each was named they came to their parents and presented their mother with a carnation, the girls carried pink and the boys, blue, and with a kiss and handshake extended their best wishes. Then each took their place back of the four people. They were David, Judy, Brenda, Stuart, Cindy, Shelly, Pamela and Chris. Then their son-in-law, Norman Kerwin, was introduced as he entered upon the arm of his wife, Judy, then Micheline (Fortin), wife of David, to stand with the family and more photos were taken.

Later Wilder, Catherine, Joyce and John formed the receiving line, after which punch was served from a table having a silver anniversary cover with a punch bowl at each end, and centered with an arrangement of flowers and lighted silver candles in crystal. Mrs. John Stuart and Mrs. Arthur Gosselin, sister-in-law of the bride and sister of the groom presided at the bowls.

A toast to the couple was proposed by John Stuart.

The Western Caravan orchestra from Vermont, played dance music until 10:30 p.m., then it was refreshment time. The bride and groom's table was arranged with a silver wedding anniversary cover centered with the triple anniversary fruited cake decorated in white and topped with double wedding bands, silver 25 numerals and tulle, a gift of Mr. and Mrs. John Stuart of Shawbridge. This was flanked by 25 mixed color carnations in pinwheel crystal vases, gifts of Mrs. Joyce Probert and family.

Seated with Wilder and Catherine were his dad, R. A. Hatch, who earlier in the program had been invited to take a bow; Mrs. Etta Bullock, Mr. and Mrs. John Stuart, Mrs. Joyce Probert, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Vinet.

For the guests a refreshment buffet table centered the floor. Wilder deeply thanked everyone for the wonderful evening, memories of which he and Catherine will never forget, and to their children for undertaking the reception and to all for the gifts and for coming.

Guests to sign the book in charge of Mr. and Mrs.

Douglas Putney, brother-in-law and sister of the groom, from Rock Island, came from Shawbridge, Sherbrooke, Compton, Magog, Lennoxville, Ayer's Cliff, Hatley, North Hatley, Verdun, Kingsbury, Melbourne, Huntingville, Beloeil, St. Hubert, Mississauga, Ont., Tomifobia, Amherstview, Ont. and Boundary Villages.

During the evening the guest book and a silver covered box containing cards and currency were presented with appropriate words by Mr. and Mrs. Putney to Wilder and Catherine. Dancing continued until after midnight.

On the actual anniversary date, June 7, the family enjoyed supper in Newport and attended the Derby Port Drive-In. Later Wilder and Catherine were guests of their family for supper and upon returning home were presented with a color television as a family gift. The couple were recipients of many other gifts, silver, silver anniversary china and crystal, a W. Dewey hand painting, a pair of antique lamps, linens, and many other items for their home, and over 100 cards.

STRAWBERRY biscuit shortcake has a honey cream topping.

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

Strawberry biscuit shortcake is so good, strawberry fanciers may make a complete meal of it. This version includes added flavor with the use of orange peel and orange juice in the biscuit batter and a topping of a Honey Pour Cream, which is heavy cream sweetened with honey. This dessert is at its best when the biscuits are served warm and the strawberries are chilled.

STRAWBERRY BISCUIT SHORTCAKE
2 pints strawberries, sliced
1 teaspoon grated orange peel
Honey
1 1/4 cups unsifted all-purpose flour
2 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1/3 cup solid vegetable shortening
1/2 cup plus 2 tablespoons

2 milk
tablespoons orange juice
Butter or margarine, melted
Honey Pour Cream*

Combine strawberries and one-half teaspoon grated orange peel. Sweeten to taste with honey (about one-fourth cup). Refrigerate 30 minutes. In large mixing bowl, combine remaining one-half teaspoon orange peel and dry ingredients. Cut in shortening with pastry blender or 2 knives until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Add milk and orange juice. Mix quickly with fork until mixture forms a soft dough.

Turn onto lightly floured surface and knead about 6 times. Roll or pat dough to one-half inch thickness and cut into 3-inch biscuits. Place on ungreased baking sheet and bake in 450-degree oven 12 to 15 minutes, or until golden brown. Split hot biscuits. Brush inside with melted butter, then spoon on about 1 teaspoon honey per biscuit.

Fill with sliced strawberries and replace biscuit tops. Spoon additional berries on top of shortcakes. Serve shortcakes warm with Honey Pour Cream. Makes 8 individual shortcakes. (*Honey Pour Cream: Combine 1 cup heavy cream with 1 tablespoon honey.)

Ann Landers

— If her why. If that doesn't produce results, write her off. She would be a continuing source of embarrassment.

Dear Ann: I disagree with your response to the college sophomore who was in her eighth month of psychoanalysis. You said the goal of therapy is to get the patient to the point where he can function without therapy. You then suggested three years as a termination point.

This might be true for someone who is mentally unstable, but many people, including myself, are in therapy to improve the quality of our lives.

This means more than solving a specific problem. It means developing the ability to face anxiety rather than retreat behind defenses out of fear. In fact, day-to-day problems are secondary to the more basic issue of living life to the full and having open and honest relationships with others.

I am a woman who, to all outward appearances, has a successful career and a rewarding family life. Yet after five years of therapy I still find myself retreating from close relationships for fear I will become a "non-person."

I can certainly function without therapy, yet therapy is gradually permitting me to trust and care and to overcome my fear of being "overwhelmed" by love.

I suggest you rethink your answer, Ann. Therapy can do a lot more than you give it credit for in your column.

Becoming Me

Dear Becoming: If you can afford the luxury of six or seven — or ten — years of therapy to "improve the quality of your life," you are more fortunate than most people. The vast majority of patients who are seeing psychiatrists go because they are depressed, insecure, handling the conflicts in their life poorly and need to ventilate frustrations and anxieties.

Your last sentence does me an injustice. I've been a strong supporter of therapy for many years. I've seen human wrecks restored and broken lives rebuilt through therapy. But I have also seen patients spend too many years with a doctor who should have turned them over to someone else long ago. And that was the thrust of my argument.

Dear Ann Landers: I predict a stronger response (even bigger than the meatloaf recipe fiasco) to your statement, "Everyone should bathe or shower once a day — morning or night."

You failed to add a qualifying statement explaining that U.S. cultural habits call for such. But prepare to hear from thousands of second-generation Americans who will tell you that daily bathing destroys essential body oils and makes a person susceptible to colds. Get ready to learn that Laplanders do not find it necessary to bathe daily, nor do certain Australians, nor

Bridal Shower

BIRCHTON — When Kathy McComb of Eaton Corner, in her dainty party attire, carrying a prettily wrapped parcel labelled "Best Wishes to Debbie Taylor", entered the door at the Richards' home, she was confounded to see Mrs. Gary Richards, with a corsage in hand, greet her, and then pin on her the dainty bunch of posies.

Kathy was then escorted to an originally trimmed chair, with white bells, on and around, umbrellas, and streamers. In front of the guest of honour had been arranged the delicately colored parcels, all sizes, shapes and colors.

Kathy, with the mothers, Mrs. Everett (Joe) McComb, and Mrs. L. Shaughnessy, on either side of her, also her maternal grandmother, opened the gifts, which were circulated around the large double-room.

When no more parcels were forthcoming, Kathy very graciously expressed her appreciation of the gifts and to her hostesses, Mrs. Nelson Richards and Mrs. Gary Richards, for the shower.

The pink and white shower cake was shown to all the guests, and after the other refreshments had been served by the hostesses, assisted by Gail and Carol Richards, the cake was cut by Kathy and served. This dainty creation of Kay's, represented two hearts, with dainty umbrellas to protect the hearts from the showers of life, original indeed!

By Oswald & James Jacoby

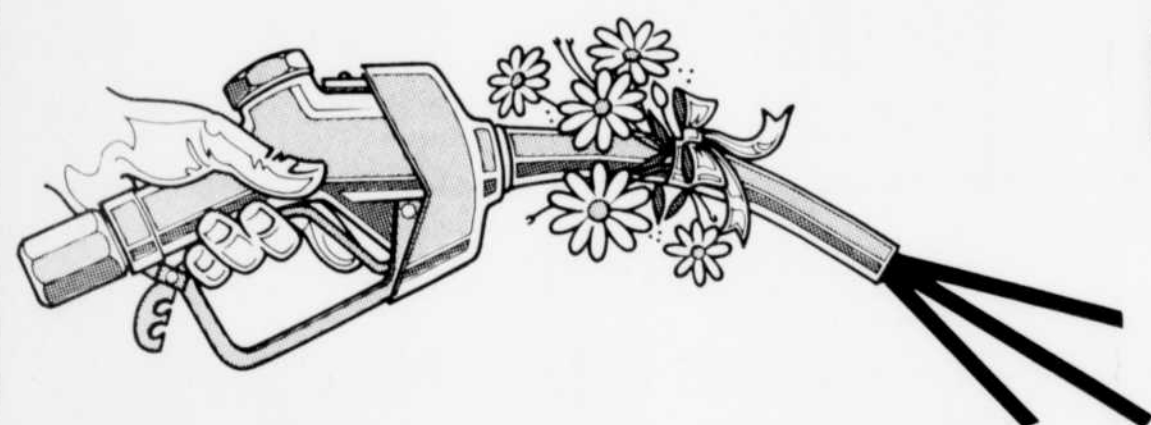

Jim: "After several weeks of articles on play it might be a good idea to get back to bidding for a while."
Oswald: "Way back in the very early days of contract, I produced something called 'The rule of the ace and king.' It was primarily for slam bidding, but it also works for deciding between stopping at a part score, inviting a game and actually bidding a game."
Jim: "For below game purposes it comes down to responder should make some move to game with eleven or twelve points or even ten good ones since a normal minimum response is seven points while with thirteen he should insist on game."

Oswald: "North only has ten high-card points, but eight are in aces and he holds a ten and two nines. So, he can afford to raise South from one to two notrump. South continues to game because he likes the looks of his jack-ten of spades."
Jim: "The game makes easily. East's jack of diamonds falls to South's king. He goes right after spades and is sure of three spades, three diamonds, one heart and two clubs."

An Oregon reader wants to know the correct opening bid with:
▲ 9 8 5 4 3 ♥ A K 10 7 6 ♦ A K ♠ 2
The correct opening bid is one spade. You plan to bid hearts later on unless your partner raises you in spades. In that case the ace-king of hearts will still be tricks for you.

St. Francis Kennel Club show

BROMONT (NW) — This Eastern Townships Municipality literally went to the dogs recently as canine fanciers from across Canada and the United States gathered in the town's Equestrian Centre for the St. Francis Kennel Club Dog Show.

Kennel Club President Gunilla Koraen told the Record that an estimated 1000 people had attended the show since it opened early Friday morning. A large number of varieties of dogs were present, ranging from terriers to dobermans and were entered in many different classes.

This was the Show's first visit to Bromont, having been in Sherbrooke the previous year. Ms. Koraen said that Bromont was chosen for this year's site because, with the contestants coming from such scattered directions, Bromont appeared to be the most central location.

The Club President added that Bromont was a favourable setting because of its scenic surroundings.

The Show, which ran over a three-day period, was also comprised of Specialty Shows sponsored by the River Valley Working Dog Club, The Montreal Toy Dog Fanciers, the Saluki Club of Canada, and the Great Dane Club of Quebec.

Three all-breed Championship Shows and licenced obedience trials as well as a Lure coursing fun meet for sighthounds and a Booster show Borzoi were part of the Show.

Contestants were given a chance to relax Saturday night by attending a "Soiree Quebecoise", staged in the Equestrian Centre, revelling in the music and square dancing.

St. Francis Kennel Club President Koraen told the Record that she felt that the Dog Show had been "definitely successful" and a "very nice show." She continued, saying that there had been "good competition".

The St. Francis Kennel Club is based in Granby and has approximately 30 members from the area. Dog Show Associates Ltd. of Ottawa, Ontario, supplied the superintending and secretarial services for the show.

RICHMOND — Olive Branch Rebekah Lodge No. 9 held its regular meeting with the Noble Grand, Sister Fowler in the chair.

The meeting opened in usual form and visitors were welcomed from Maple Leaf No. 3, as well as a good attendance from our own lodge.

Sister Christina Henderson, P.D.D.P. introduced the two Assembly Officers who were present, Sister Margaret Horan, Assembly Treasurer, and Sister Viola Noble, Assembly Secretary. These two Sisters were welcomed with honours and Sister Horan was seated to the right of the Noble Grand, while Sister Noble returned to her regular office as Treasurer.

The usual form of Lodge business was carried on and then under Good of the Order the Noble Grand called a short recess.

Sister Nellie Hills, P.N.G., escorted a very bewildered Sister Noble out of the Lodge room and then everyone else rushed around getting decorations in place in order to surprise Sister Noble when she was brought back into the Hall. This was a very special occasion as Sister Noble has been a member of the Lodge for 50 years, and all of us found her a very difficult Sister to keep a secret from, but we managed, and when she was brought back into the Lodge room she was a very surprised lady to find a decorated chair awaiting her, as well as a corsage, with a fan made of money, attached to it. She was also presented with a beautiful plant, which was donated for the occasion by Richmond Florist. Then a beautifully decorated cake was brought in with 50 lighted candles for her to blow out. Sister Noble was also much taken back when her sister, Mrs. Hazard was escorted into the hall and presented with a corsage and seated by her.

The degree team under the leadership of Sister Findlay put on very impressive floor work honouring Sister Noble and her many years of faithful service to the Lodge.

Following this, Sister Horan presented a gift from Maple Leaf with their best wishes. Sister Noble expressed her thanks for everything and then she and Mrs. Hazard were escorted out of the room, and Lodge resumed, with remarks from Sister Horan.

Business concluded and Lodge closed in ritual form, followed by a delicious lunch and a social hour.

Chit-Chat Club meet

BEEBE — Mrs. Erma Lepitre entertained the June meeting of the Chit Chat Club at her home in Rock Island, when nine members and one guest attended.

A short business session was conducted, to be followed by playing the "corny" game. Marathon winners were Mrs. Pearl Crawford, Mrs. Mable Crawford, Mrs. Opal Johnston and Mrs. Elsie Bronson, who also claimed the door prize.

Refreshments were served from an attractively arranged table, centered with a lovely arrangement of red roses and mock orange from the flower garden of Mrs. Mable Crawford, being a gift to the hostess.

A very pleasant evening was enjoyed.

The July meeting will be held on July 27, at the home of Mrs. Opal Johnston with Mrs. Gertrude Sharkey as hostess.

Sodium chloride causing Niagara fruit growers problems

VINELAND, Ont. — Although salt is used to preserve many foods, Niagara Peninsula fruit growers are struggling with a harmful side of sodium chloride.

Dr. John Northover, a scientist at Agriculture Canada's Research Station here, says fruit trees bordering major roadways (which were more heavily salted last winter than usual) are showing serious damage and crop reduction.

In a study carried out by the scientist on fruit orchards along the Queen Elizabeth Way between Niagara Falls and Hamilton, the damage was found to be mostly confined to the north side of the road because of strong southwest winds. The winds spread the salt that had been stirred up by passing vehicles, particularly large trucks. On north-south roads in the vicinity, damage was more extensive on the east side.

Peach trees were found to be the most susceptible to salt damage.

"Some peach trees, closest to the highway, were killed by sodium chloride damage. Trees were affected up to 120 yards from the highway," the scientist says.

"Peach canker, a disease of peach trees, has aggravated the problem because it attacks the weakened portions of damaged trees."

Apple trees were also found to be moderately sensitive to salt, as were sour cherries. Pears and grapes showed a high tolerance.

"Conditions this winter were so severe even the more tolerant fruits showed evidence of injury in the rows closest to the highway," Dr. Northover says.

"Future research will concentrate on the difference in salt tolerance levels in fruit plants. We will also study loss in production of the damaged trees. Evidence suggests crop loss is directly proportional to the amount of salt damage."

To alleviate the problem in future years, the Ontario Ministry of Communication and Transportation is reviewing the salting rates for roads in the area. It may be possible to use less salt and still maintain ice-free roads.

Dr. Northover suggests fruit growers should plant the more tolerant trees next to salted roads.

"Orchard growers could plant pears or grapes in the rows bordering on roadways to help cut their losses. Further research on tolerance levels should help to show which plant varieties will best withstand sodium chloride damage."

Japanese killer disease hits six Nova Scotia children

MONTREAL (CP) — A killer disease first identified in Japan, which affects toddlers, has been found in six Nova Scotia children, a Halifax doctor has said.

Dr. Roderick Bird told the Canadian Pediatric Society that Kawasaki disease usually clears up in about a month but it can affect a child's heart and be fatal.

Bird said the disease is quite different from other childhood diseases.

The patient has a fever, swollen hands and feet with blisters that start at the tips of the fingers and toes and spread up the hand or foot, a tongue that looks "like a raspberry" and feels like sandpaper, a rash on the face and trunk that lasts several days and enlarged lymph nodes.

Families of the children were interviewed by doctors from Dalhousie University in Halifax.

Bird said there have been 8,900 cases in Japan and 150 deaths. Cases of the disease also have been reported in the United States and Greece.

CAUSE UNKNOWN

Bird said in an interview

the cause is not yet known.

"The answer might be found in Canada if it shows up only in certain parts of the country," he said. "If it is something in the environment it must be in all Japan and be harder to track down there."

The disease does not respond to antibiotics, Bird said, but headache tablets clear up symptoms. The symptoms return when the pills are stopped.

Another Halifax physician told the society that chemicals used in pesticide sprays to protect forests are super foods for some viruses, making them grow faster and stronger.

Dr. J. F. S. Croker of Dalhousie University said this might explain why some children infected with a common flu virus develop a serious, long-lasting disease.

He said a cluster of such cases in the Maritimes led to a study of forest spraying by scientists in Halifax, the Netherlands and Guelph, Ont.

The cases had all occurred in areas where there had been forest spraying, he said.

Cowansville to stage "Fiesta"

COWANSVILLE (NW) — Citizens here will once again be able to frolic in the streets as the Summer Fiesta '77 gets underway on Wednesday.

Running over a period of four days, from July sixth until the ninth, the Fiesta will open with a parade through the city streets and for the following days will feature sidewalk sales, stagecoach rides, an Artisans' Boulevard, Folk Dancing demonstrations and popular dancing. There will also be a number of contests, including arm twisting, log cutting and a 15 mile marathon race.

The Summer Fiesta, held in Cowansville over the past number of years, is rapidly becoming a local institution. If past attendances are any indication, there is little reason to doubt that this year's festivities will be a success.

The Summer Fiesta '77 is organized in co-operation with the member merchants of Main and South Streets, the Domaine du Parc Shopping Centre, The Guide newspaper and Labatt Breweries Ltd.

WI meeting

DENISON MILLS — A meeting was held Saturday, June 25, at the home of Mrs. Donald Smith with a good attendance of ten members and one visitor present.

An outdoor picnic lunch had been planned but poor weather prevented this, so all enjoyed the delicious lunch provided by the members. Several men joined the ladies for lunch.

The meeting was opened by the President, Mrs. Smith, by all singing the Opening Ode with Mrs. Smith at the piano.

The members decided to combine the June and July meetings at this time. The June roll call was to give a flower to your left hand neighbor, after which the members decided to continue the meeting outdoors, as the weather had become quite warm.

All joined insuring O Canada, it being the beginning of Canada Week.

The members were reminded that the motto was — A goodly thing it is to meet in Friendship's Circle Bright. The July roll call was — Tell of a shut-in or elderly person you have visited.

Mrs. Boreham, in charge of the used books project, turned in $10.00 she had collected for Pennies for Friendship.

Mrs. Patrick, Education Consumer, reported the prizes had been given in the schools at the close of the year.

Mrs. Smith, Agriculture, gave a hint on preserving the life of plant pots by painting the inside with aluminum paint.

Mrs. Potts, Welfare and Health, had been given material to be made up into handbags for the Cancer Society in Drummondville. She had also knitted a very pretty afghan, and other articles were also donated.

Mrs. Mary Mace, a visitor presented the branch with a very pretty cushion. Mrs. Smith thanked Mrs. Mace for her generosity and it was decided to have a drawing at a later date, with proceeds for handbags. To date, 16 handbags have been filled for the Save the Children Fund.

The mystery prize was won by Mrs. D. Rief and $2.06 realized for the Sunshine Fund.

It was decided to give a subscription to one member of The Townships Sun and Mrs. Ruby Horan was the lucky one chosen, as she is especially interested in history of people and places.

A quiz by the citizenship convener was held — about a pig — such questions as a girl's hair-do; answer, pig tail; another applied to a stubborn person, answer — pig-headed, and so on. Mrs. Mary Mace, a visitor, was the winner.

Mrs. Hannan, Home Ec Convener, suggested a quilt be made during the summer holidays. As all were agreeable, she was asked to buy materials and decide on a pattern.

At the close of the meeting, the children, who had spent the afternoon enjoying the swimming pool, joined the members and gentlemen for an afternoon snack of Kool-aid and cakes.

As the Publicity convener, Miss Joline Stalker, is spending the holidays at her uncle's in Elliott Lake, Mrs. Boreham was asked to substitute for her until September.

The date for the August meeting will be decided later.

The members thanked Mrs. Smith for her kind hospitality to all and a most enjoyable and pleasant time was had by all.

INVERNESS C. W. McVetty 453-2266

Mr. and Mrs. John Fargey have returned home to Tweed, Ont., following a stay of more than two weeks at Reddale from which place they enjoyed calling on their many friends in this and adjoining areas.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Patterson, Ricky and Sherrie, have gone by rail to Victoria, B.C., to visit other members of their immediate family who reside there. We do hope that they will have a safe and pleasant trip.

The C. W. McVettys have returned home from a fabulous trip by air from Dorval to Calgary, Alberta, where, in Stettler, they spent three days with the Fred Walkers and family, who own a large ranch of more than two-thousand acres. They then returned by air from Edmonton to Toronto, where they were met by their nephew and niece, Keith and Patti McVetty, who piloted their guests around Niagara Falls.

Niagara-on-the-Lake, Fort George, and other points of interest. They next visited other relatives and friends in Dundas, and other nearby sections of the country, ending their visit with other relatives in Hamilton from which place Muriel and Vic Cletheroe insisted on driving their guests home. In each and every place visited, lavish hospitality was the order of the day, making the trip an unbroken series of pleasant memories. Our sincere thanks also go out to Dorothy and John Fargey who made this trip possible.

We are all sorry to learn of the disaster at the Freddie Bouffard home, in Lemesurier, when a freak windstorm destroyed his barn and other farm buildings. But in a move which politicians could well emulate, friends and acquaintances, of both ethnic groups, are rushing to his assistance, led by his neighbors.

HUNTINGVILLE

Marian Dewing

On June 22nd, Mrs. Marion Annesley of Huntingville entertained twenty friends to a "Surprise Farewell Tea", in honour of Mrs. Allan Crawford, who has sold her home on Campbell Ave., and will be moving to Sherbrooke soon.

Mrs. Crawford received several gifts and thanked them all for remembering her, also Mrs. Annesley for the lovely afternoon spent with her friends. All wish Mrs. Crawford the best in her new home, although she will be greatly missed here.

Mr. and Mrs. Reggie Dewing have returned from visiting their cousins, they were overnight guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Murns and Mrs. Shirley Benoit in Knowlton, also guests of Miss Glenna Murns and Mr. and Mrs. Andre Tetreault, Sutton, and spent several days with Mrs. Doris Fadden and son Bob, in Richmond, Vt.

We are sorry to hear Mrs. Dufferin Annesley is a patient in hospital, having undergone surgery. All wish her a speedy recovery.

Mrs. Louise Hunting, Atlanta, Georgia, is visiting Mrs. Bernice Sewell, and other relatives. While here, she attended the 60th Wedding Anniversary of her brother-in-law and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hunting.

Huntingville residents and many others wish Mr. and Mrs. K.W. Hunting many more years together.

Mr. and Mrs. Burton Randall, Escondido, Calif., motored here, and spent some time with Mrs. Randall's sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hunting and visited other relatives in the vicinity.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Carter were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Reg. Dewing on June 29 and called on Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hunting and Mr. and Mrs. C.H. Hunting.

Sympathy is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Richard Brown and Mr. Weston Nutbrown in the passing away of their father, Mr. Earl Nutbrown at the Wilkin Nursing Home on June 30, also to his sisters and other relatives.

Mrs. Allan Crawford was in Ottawa recently to attend the graduation of her granddaughter, Lynn Crawford, who received her B.N.

Friends of Mrs. Harold Hunting are sorry to hear of her fall, and fracturing her ribs. Hope you will soon be feeling better, Marjorie.

Mr. and Mrs. John Morrison called on Mr. and Mrs. R. Dewing. They are living on Church St. in Lennoxville now.

The trouble with most promising politicians is just that.

At the price of books today, who can afford speed reading?

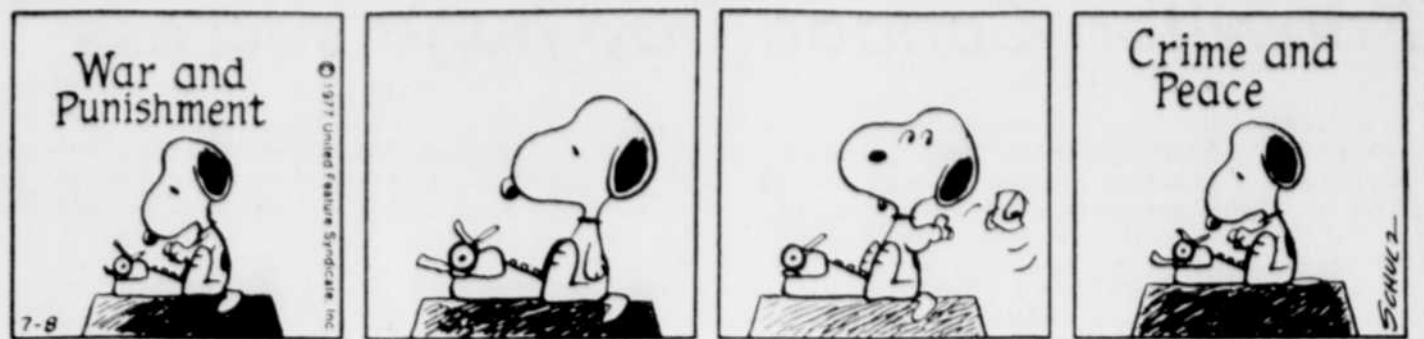

With all the motorcycles in the neighborhood, who's to tell the racket is supposed to celebrate the Fourth?

We're beginning to wonder if the paper which ran it as "Untied Nations" really made a typographical error after all!

Cubs salvage the final game of a four-game series

Expos squander five run lead in 8-6 loss to Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — Greg Gross knows he still would be waiting for his first major league homer if the wind was not blowing out at Wrigley Field on Wednesday.

But what his hit accomplished meant more to him than how he got it.

"I'm really glad I finally hit one," he said after his three-run blast gave Chicago Cubs an 8-6 victory over Montreal Expos. "The big thing is that I hit it at a point where it really helped the team."

The Cubs were trailing 5-4 before Gross's sixth-inning homer.

The victory enabled the Cubs, leaders in the National League East, to salvage the final game of a four-game series.

"I wish I could look into a ball and say this is going to do it," Chicago manager Herman Franks said when asked whether the triumph would lift the spirits of the slumping Cubs.

But Montreal manager Dick Williams took the comeback as a sign that the Cubs are for real.

"We had them 5-1," he said. "They could have quit, but they didn't. It shows they are not lying down."

Obtained from Houston before the season, Gross, who had a .298 batting average in his first four major league seasons, had played sparingly with Chicago. But with the team slumping, he started Sunday in a victory over St. Louis and in all four games against the Expos.

HIT OFF STANHOUSE

In two of those games, he almost drove the ball into the left-centre field bleachers but fell short twice and settled for doubles. On Wednesday, with a strong wind, he finally made it over the wall on a high, outside pitch by loser Don Stanhouse, 5-8.

The Cubs took a 1-0 lead on Larry Bittner's walk and Bobby Murcer's double in the first inning. The Expos went ahead in the second on a run-scoring single by Warren Cromartie and Stanhouse's grand slam homer, his first major league home run.

In the third inning, a two-run homer by Bittner and singles by Murcer, Jerry Morales and Steve Ontiveros moved the Cubs within 5-4. Gross then homered after an error by Chris Speier and a walk to Joe Wallis.

The teams traded runs in the seventh. Ellis Valentine hit his 16th homer of the season off Pete Broberg, who had relieved Chicago starter Bill Bonham, 9-7, in his first appearance since being called up from Wichita of the American Association.

The Cubs got that back on singles by Morales and Ontiveros and a sacrifice fly by Manny Trillo.

Down Toronto 9-5

Red Sox close in on Yankees

BOSTON (AP) — Boston Red Sox, boasting one of the most explosive teams in the major leagues, are doing things in a strange manner to compensate for ineffective starting pitching.

After burying Toronto Blue Jays with a major league record-tying eight homers and snapping a nine-game losing streak July 4, the Red Sox did almost a complete turnaround Wednesday night in a 9-5 victory before a packed crowd of 34,956 at Fenway Park.

The Red Sox bombers, leading the American League with 118 homers, didn't hit one. However, they drilled 17 hits, including 13 singles, while moving back to within one game of first place New York Yankees in the American League East.

Veteran Carl Yastrzemski and Fred Lynn led the Boston assault with four hits apiece, while Rick Burleson and George Scott had two each. Yastrzemski, who made two outstanding fielding plays in left field, had four singles to go with an intentional walk, raising his batting average to .311. He scored three runs and drove in two.

Lynn, batting only .221 as late as June 25, raised his average to .277 with two doubles and two singles, scoring two runs and driving in one. Scott drove in two runs, along with Carlton

Fisk, who snapped an 0-for-14 slump with a run-scoring single and also had a sacrifice fly.

"Yaz put on a great show and Lynn just proved that he's all the way back from that ankle injury he suffered in spring training," Boston manager Don Zimmer said. Starting pitcher Luis Tiant was touched for eight hits, including a two-run homer by Otto Velez, before being rescued by rookie Mike Paxton in the fourth with the score tied 5-5. Paxton hurled hitless ball until a single with two out in the seventh.

Relief specialist Bill Campbell then came in and retired the last eight Toronto batters in order, striking out three. He was helped to his seventh victory in 12 decisions as the Red Sox broke the tie in the seventh and then added three insurance runs in the eighth. "They're learning that when I get in the game they're supposed to get some runs," Campbell said jokingly, noting that the Red Sox unloaded four eighth-inning homers in a victory Monday night.

The Red Sox try for a sweep with the expansion Blue Jays tonight, sending rookie righthander Bob Stanley, 4-3, to the mound. Stanley, named to make his first start since June 3, is due to be opposed by Jesse Jefferson, 5-7.

No wind, easy driving conditions

Strange start for the British Open

TURNBERRY, Scotland (AP) — "It's a good thing they made the pin placements so difficult," said Johnny Miller. "Otherwise someone would have shot in the 50s out there."

It was a strange start to the British Open golf championship—no wind on Turnberry's Ailsa links, easy driving conditions, but cunningly-placed holes on the slopes of grassy greens.

"Those are the hardest pin placements I have ever seen in one round," Miller said. Today's second round began with a surprising leader in John Schroeder, the son of former Wimbledon tennis champion Ted Schroeder, who birdied the last two holes late Wednesday to post a four-under-par 66 on the 6,875-yard layout beside the Firth of Clyde.

Martin Foster, a relatively unknown Briton, was in second place with a 67.

Three American stars—Jack Nicklaus, Tom Watson and Lee Trevino—were at 68. Miller was at 69, along with Severiano Ballesteros of Spain and Indian-born Gaylord Burrows, who lives in the United States.

Schroeder's late charge came out of the blue, when most of the 17,600 spectators had gone home—and even some of the course marshals too.

"I think all players should have the same chance," Schroeder said. "If they tell us to start our round late, they ought to see there are marshals—just as there are earlier in the day."

Schroeder has won $53,000 this year and is 36th in the U.S. tour rankings.

He came to the 17th hole two under par and one stroke behind Foster. His second shot on the 17th landed in a bunker, but he blasted out to four feet from the pin and sank the putt.

The winds which can make Ailsa such a place of terror never came. And the rough beside the narrow fairways was so short it caused few worries.

Trevino kept hitting into the rough on his left.

"Honey, it's the way to do it," he told his wife Claudia who walked beside him. "You get a better lie in the rough than on the fairways."

"I hope it blows like hell for the rest of the tournament," Trevino said.

However, the weather forecasters are predicting the same freakish calm through Saturday.

To counteract the easy fairways, officials pitched the holes as awkwardly as they could.

"Sixteen pins out of the 18 were up on the hill of the green," said Nicklaus. "If you miss a pin on the wrong side, you might as well forget it, if you chip to the high side the ball slides down."

CHICAGO (AP) — Bob Pulford, says his first priority as general manager and coach of Chicago Black Hawks will be to build a competitive team based on a solid defence.

"I want a very competitive team," Pulford said Wednesday at a news conference held to announce his appointment to the twin post with the National Hockey League club. "The main thing to winning is a good defence."

"The one thing I would hope to do is get our goals-against average down," Pulford, 41, comes to Chicago after five seasons as coach of Los Angeles Kings. He led the Kings into the NHL playoffs the last four seasons and compiled a 178-150-68 record during his five-year tenure. However, he was reported to be unhappy with management's handling of day-to-day operations.

At Chicago, he replaces Bill White, named interim coach after the Black Hawks fired Billy Reay last December.

Plans for White were not announced, although it is reported he will be offered the coaching job at Dallas of the Central Hockey League, replacing Roger Neilson who was named Toronto Maple Leaf coach last week. The Dallas club is a farm team shared by the Hawks and Maple Leafs.

BRINGS NEW APPROACH Black Hawks president Bill Wirtz said Pulford's appointment "brings a new approach to our organization."

Before coaching the Kings, Pulford played 14 seasons with the Maple Leafs and wound up his playing career with two seasons at Los Angeles.

Wirtz also announced that

Tommy Ivan, the team's general manager for the last 23 years, was being promoted to vice-president and assistant to the president.

Jack Davison, with the Black Hawks organization for 19 years, will serve as assistant general manager and director of player personnel, Wirtz said.

Reports had been circulating that Black Hawks star defenceman Bobby Orr would accept an administrative position Wednesday, but no immediate plans for Orr were announced by team officials.

"I do not know as he does not know whether or not he will again be able to play," Pulford said of Orr, who has been slowed by recurring knee injuries in recent seasons. "He certainly wants to (play) and we certainly wish to have him, because I believe he is the greatest hockey player of all time."

However, Pulford said if Orr is not able to play again, "he can make a great ambassador for the Chicago Black Hawks."

QUAX SETS RECORD

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Dick Quax of New Zealand broke the world record for 5,000 metres Tuesday with a time of 13 minutes, 12.86 seconds. That electrical clocking will go into the record books as 13:12.9, one-tenth of a second faster than the world record of 13:13.0, set five years ago by Emil Pfitzenmeyer of Belgium.

GERMAN TAKES LEAD HANKOE, Norway (AP) — Will Kuhweide of West Germany, skipper of Darling, outsmarted his rivals Tuesday, winning the second race of the 1977 world Soling sailing championship by two minutes and taking a solid lead in the overall standings, 13.3 points ahead of Juha Puhakka of Finland.

FLAMES APPOINT KENT ATLANTA (AP) — Atlanta Flames said Tuesday that Bob Kent has been named president and chief operating officer of the National Hockey League team.

Hull meets with management to iron out problems

WINNIPEG (CP) — Veteran leftwinger Bobby Hull and general manager Rudy Pilous met Wednesday to iron out an apparent misunderstanding that prompted the latest report of Hull's departure from the Winnipeg Jets and the World Hockey Association.

Their meeting came less than two hours after the latest report surfaced in Winnipeg. It quoted Hull as saying he was no longer informed about the affairs of the Jets or who the club is seeking to replace coach Bobby Kromm.

"I haven't been told about who they're considering for the coaching job. But, if they don't consider me, then I guess I'm gone," Hull was quoted as saying.

But Hull left the meeting smiling and Pilous said there never was any real problem.

"I've been trying to reach him for three days, leaving messages for him. But, really, there's nothing to really discuss with him because we haven't even gotten close to deciding on a coach."

EIGHT CONSIDERED Pilous said the Jets have about eight names, including at least one suggested by Hull.

"I told him no matter where he is to call us collect every few days to talk," Pilous said.

Winnipeg's two previous coaches, Pilous, who later moved to general manager, and Kromm, who left this spring for Detroit of the National Hockey League, were both the choices of Hull.

Hull's contract has five years remaining and includes clauses that say he has to be consulted about coaching changes. The 10-year pact called for five years of playing and gave him the option of moving into a coaching or management position for the final five years.

Hull also said he has serious doubts a merger or accommodation between the WHA and the NHL, something he has campaigned hard for, will occur before next season.

"The NHL must get its own teams in order first before they take on us, and so far they haven't done anything to get their teams straightened out."

Reds down Braves 15-13

Atlanta rains baseballs

The climate at Atlanta Stadium was humid, but it was hotter for the pitchers than it was for the hitters, and that's nothing new.

"It's pitiful," said Cincinnati manager Sparky Anderson, talking about one of the best hitting parks in the major leagues. "It's strictly a launching pad and nothing else. It's tough on the pitching, tough on the manager and tough on everybody."

Line drives ricocheted around Atlanta Stadium with their accustomed ferocity

Wednesday night and after it stopped raining baseballs, the Reds had a 15-13 victory over the Braves.

"Whatever a guy does here, you can just take one-third off," said Anderson. "If a guy has an ERA of five here, he's a good pitcher. I can understand what Dave (Bristol, the Atlanta manager) has to put up with here."

Bristol sweated through the humidity and home runs, one of which was a grand slam by Dave Concepcion. "When Concepcion hit the homer, I thought there must have been 15 guys crossing the plate," Bristol said. "They just kept coming across the plate."

In other National League games, Chicago Cubs defeated Montreal Expos 8-6, Pittsburgh Pirates outscored St. Louis Cardinals 11-8, Philadelphia Phillies turned back New York Mets 5-3, Houston Astros nipped Los Angeles Dodgers 2-1 in 14 innings and San Diego Padres beat San Francisco Giants 7-5 in 12 innings.

George Foster broke a tie with a two-run single in the eighth inning and Concepcion followed with his grand-slam homer to secure Cincinnati's victory.

Pete Rose had four hits, including a homer, and drove in four runs as the Reds assaulted six Atlanta pitchers for 15 hits. Johnny Bench and Ken Griffey also homered, giving the Reds 10 home runs in the three-game series. Cito Gaston and Gary Matthews slugged homers for the Braves.

Fernando Gonzalez's three-run homer off Al Hrabosky in the seventh led Pittsburgh over St. Louis. Gonzalez's homer came after the Cardinals had taken an 8-6 lead with seven runs in their half of the inning. The St. Louis burst was capped by Ted Simmons's three-run homer off Pittsburgh relief star Rich Gossage.

Jerry Martin's bases-loaded single and a sacrifice fly by pinch-hitter Tim McCarver produced three sixth-inning runs, enabling Philadelphia to beat New York.

"We're not a good football team yet" says Riley

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winnipeg Blue Bombers coach Bud Riley is serious when he says despite winning all four pre-season games "we're not a good football team yet."

"We won four games not playing really outstanding football," Riley said Wednesday of his club that is rated as perhaps the one to beat in the Western Football Conference after winning 13 of its last 15 games going back to last season.

Winnipeg beat the Calgary Stampeders 28-11 Tuesday. "There's a lot of room for improvement and we've got to do it before next Tuesday."

Riley says his defence is solid and ready. The only change from last season was Elton Brown moving from end to tackle to replace the retired Dave Knechtel and rookie Canadian Lyall Woznesenky taking Brown's spot.

But while the defence is set, Riley is not pleased with his offence.

"We have to get it better tuned... better timing and more consistent in key situations. It's just bad play calling in some situations, poor play execution, dropping the football in key situations... mistakes that come up that have to be corrected."

PASSING APPROVED

But on the bright side Riley admits the Blue Bombers passing attack that was one of the best in Canada last year has improved.

Both quarterbacks, Ralph Brock and Harry Knight, have shown they can win in the WFC and Riley now says he "may play that situation by ear, maybe from game to game."

Gone is veteran receiver Bob LaRose who lost his job because of his lack of speed. Brought in for their speed were Joey Walters and Mike Washington and Riley now has to decide which one he'll keep at wide receiver.

Mark McDonald has shown tremendous improvement over last season and along with either Walters or Washington, Gord Paterson and Thommie Scott, Brock and Knight will have a handful of excellent receivers to throw to.

Riley has made a couple of shifts in the offensive line to replace Bill Frank who retired and the injured Chuck Liebrock.

He tried all-star guard Buddy Brown at tackle but in recent games the offence has performed better with Brown back at guard and John Bonk and rookie Ray Honey at the tackle spots.

Also gone, via retirement, is running back Steve Beaird. Riley never was satisfied with his play last season but said he didn't make the switch to Richard Crump because the Bombers were winning.

"But Crump is better than Beaird. He runs better, he blocks better and he catches the ball."

Paxton hurled hitless ball until a single with two out in the seventh.

Relief specialist Bill Campbell then came in and retired the last eight Toronto batters in order, striking out three. He was helped to his seventh victory in 12 decisions as the Red Sox broke the tie in the seventh and then added three insurance runs in the eighth. "They're learning that when I get in the game they're supposed to get some runs," Campbell said jokingly, noting that the Red Sox unloaded four eighth-inning homers in a victory Monday night.

The Red Sox try for a sweep with the expansion Blue Jays tonight, sending rookie righthander Bob Stanley, 4-3, to the mound. Stanley, named to make his first start since June 3, is due to be opposed by Jesse Jefferson, 5-7.

Chicago Black Hawks' coach

Wants to build a competitive team

CHICAGO (AP) — Bob Pulford, says his first priority as general manager and coach of Chicago Black Hawks will be to build a competitive team based on a solid defence.

"I want a very competitive team," Pulford said Wednesday at a news conference held to announce his appointment to the twin post with the National Hockey League club. "The main thing to winning is a good defence."

"The one thing I would hope to do is get our goals-against average down," Pulford, 41, comes to Chicago after five seasons as coach of Los Angeles Kings. He led the Kings into the NHL playoffs the last four seasons and compiled a 178-150-68 record during his five-year tenure. However, he was reported to be unhappy with management's handling of day-to-day operations.

At Chicago, he replaces Bill White, named interim coach after the Black Hawks fired Billy Reay last December.

Plans for White were not announced, although it is reported he will be offered the coaching job at Dallas of the Central Hockey League, replacing Roger Neilson who was named Toronto Maple Leaf coach last week. The Dallas club is a farm team shared by the Hawks and Maple Leafs.

BRINGS NEW APPROACH Black Hawks president Bill Wirtz said Pulford's appointment "brings a new approach to our organization."

Before coaching the Kings, Pulford played 14 seasons with the Maple Leafs and wound up his playing career with two seasons at Los Angeles.

Wirtz also announced that Tommy Ivan, the team's general manager for the last 23 years, was being promoted to vice-president and assistant to the president.

Jack Davison, with the Black Hawks organization for 19 years, will serve as assistant general manager and director of player personnel, Wirtz said.

Reports had been circulating that Black Hawks star defenceman Bobby Orr would accept an administrative position Wednesday, but no immediate plans for Orr were announced by team officials.

"I do not know as he does not know whether or not he will again be able to play," Pulford said of Orr, who has been slowed by recurring knee injuries in recent seasons. "He certainly wants to (play) and we certainly wish to have him, because I believe he is the greatest hockey player of all time."

However, Pulford said if Orr is not able to play again, "he can make a great ambassador for the Chicago Black Hawks."

ASTRO-GRAPH
Bernice Bede Osol

July 8, 1977

You should experience a lessening of responsibility this coming year. Some of the crosses you've borne could be transformed into crowns.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Intuition is likely to be more reliable than your intellect today. This is a time to depend on your hunches rather than logic. Find out more about yourself by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify your birth sign.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) This should be a pleasant day to hobnob with friends. One word of caution — overlook their minor failings if you want harmony.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) A sudden and fortunate shift occurs for you financially today. Lady Luck is taking a personal interest. The returns could be surprising.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Trading on your experience is far more valuable than advice from others today. Use techniques that have proven successful in similar situations.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't short-change the people you are working for today. Put forth your best effort. A good job promises a commensurate return.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Partners will be lucky for you today, but not in adding to your resources. In this area they could even cost you a few coppers.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Measure additions to your home today in terms of quality rather than price. A dollar saved may be a dollar wasted if you think bargains, not value.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You have the ability to keep things in proper perspective today. Little problems that break up others won't even faze you.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Today's the day to provide a small luxury that will please a family member. If the cost dents the budget, the appreciation is worth it.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your smaller projects may bomb out today. Don't despair. Your fortune lies in greater things. Direct your efforts towards them.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) If there is something substantial at stake for you today don't allow yourself to get caught up in petty details. It could stall your momentum.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) The magnanimous gesture scores for you today with people you want to reach. Pick up the tab first, even though your heart's not in it.
