CHINA AND COREA COME TO AN UNDERSTANDING.

How the California Legislature Adjourned. --A Desperate Struggle for Life.

London, March 23—The Standard's Shanghai correspondent says:—Negotiations between Li Hung Chang and Mr. Denny, have resulted in an amicable understanding between China and Corea.

The election in the Gorton division of Lancashire to fill the vacancy in the House of Commons caused by the death of Richard Peacock (Gladstonian) resulted in the return of William Mather (Gladstonian), who received 5,155 votes against 4,309 for Earnest Hatch, Conservative and Liberal-Unionist. At the last election Peacock received 4,592 votes, and Lord DeWelton, Conservative 4,135.

Count Herbert Bismarck is stopping at the residence of Lord Rosebery. He declares his visit to England is of a private nature.

Though the reports of the House of Commons debate on Sir Richard Cartwright's reciprocity motion are very inadequate, some comment is made here and opinions generally seem to coincide with the Manchester Guardian, Liberal, which says to-day that the Canadian decision against the motion blocks the United States proposal to obtain exclusive commercial privileges on her northern frontier, just as the new treaty between England and Mexico excludes for ten years the chance of such exclusive privileges on her southern frontier. It adds that it is difficult to see what Canada or Mexico would gain politically or commercially by closer relations with their vast neighbor than with the old world, while it is clear that both would sacrifice much worth preserving.

Dr. John Rae, the Arctic explorer, has been seriously ill of bronchitis and still far from recovered.

The "Vancouver" sailed on Thursday with a full complement of passengers, including a party of trained children for Ontario and Manitoba farmers.

The annual Hudson's Bay fur sales next week will make an excellent display. There is an active demand, and as the market is greatly improved a good advance upon last year's prices is expected.

The details of the Canadian Pacific loan bill have been well received in the city. The Financial News says this materially changes the aspect of the measure and removes, or at least mitigates what was a serious danger to the relations of the Canadian Pacific with the Grand Trunk.

Paris, March 23—A banquet was given in honor of M. Antoine last evening. Among those present were forty deputies and senators. In a speech M. Antoine said:—"Cease to torture yourselves and the Republic, and preserve the liberty which will permit you to hope for everything and render impossible adventures which are hazardous and deadly for the country. Alsace-Lorraine suffers from your dissensions and will perish through your fratricidal conflicts over the division of party lines."

Cherbourg, March 23—A French torpedo boat foundered off here in a hurricane. Her captain and fourteen of her crew were drowned.

Berlin, March 23—Germany has acceded to the request of France for permission to transfer the remains of Generals Carnot and Marceau to France.

St. Petersburg, March 23—The Grazdania says the budget surplus in 1888 was sixty million roubles, and that the revision of the Customs tariff has been postponed.

AMERICAN.

Guy'nore, W. Va., March 23—Four boys, sons of farmers living near the foot of McLane Mountain, Wyoming County, were out squirrel hunting yesterday, and when returning home one of them shot a squirrel, which fell into a deep fissure in the mountain side. When they descended the fissure to get the squirrel they saw four pairs of yellow eyes glaring at them from a recess in the rock. Only two of the boys had guns, and when they fired at two pairs of eyes, shutting them, the owners of the other two pairs, who proved to be enormous catamounts, sprang at the lads. With the empty guns and clubs the boys finally succeeded in killing the catamounts, but not before one boy had been terribly torn from his neck to his hips, another had his cheek and one ear laid open, while a third was badly bitten through the right arm and scratched across the chest by the sharp claws of one of the catamounts. After the battle was over the only one of the quartette unhurt climbed to the surface and managed to haul and drag his companions one by one after him. The boys are all doing well and will be out again in a few days. The largest catamount measured four feet six in length; the other three were full grown females.

New York, March 23—The French steamship "La Champagne," which sailed for Havre to-day, took out the contributions of American artists to the Paris Exposition. The value of the paintings is over $200,000.

San Francisco, March 23—The sugar crop of the Hawaiian Islands will be about 125 000 tons, the largest in the history of the Islands.

Rouse's Point, N. Y., March 23—The Hon. Henry Mott, of Alburgh Springs, Vt., got his team into the ice here to-day. His wife was drowned and also the team. Mr. Mott was badly cut by the struggling horses, but physicians have hopes of his recovery.

Sacramento, Cal., March 23—The Bee yesterday, referring to the adjournment of the Legislature, says: "The session displayed more brazen rascality, more shameless disregard of every shred of principle, more outright barter of every remaining fragment of honor, more reckless and open immorality on the part of members than have ever before disgraced a Legislature. Honest members were like angels' visits—few and far between. Any vile measure, with money at its back, could be assured of a numerous contingency of voters. The session closed amid orgies that would have put to shame the Bacchanalian feasts of the Romans, and would have made even the painted visitors to the Jardin Mobille blush in shame. The underground restaurant and saloon, with its private rooms, was the scene of outrageous debauchery, and when the Senate was deliberating in its last hours a member was drinking champagne with female companions in a little room adjoining, singing 'White Wings' so boisterously as to drown proceedings inside. It was veritably a most humiliating, degraded and disgraceful scene throughout."

G EAT BRITAIN.

London, March 23—Dr. John Rae, the Arctic explorer, is seriously ill with bronchitis.

March 24—The Statist considers that the Paris crisis has crippled the producing and consuming power of France. It says that large numbers of workmen will be thrown out of employment who will generate discontent, throwing discredit on the Government and increasing Boulanger's chances, which the new repressive policy is not likely to counteract. The effect abroad will also be great, with the leading powers of France crippled, Russia will be less friendly to France and the aggressive policy of Russia will be checked, Russia, Austria and Italy will find greater difficulty in borrowing, and the prospects of peace will be thereby increased. The inevitable crippling of trade in France will injure trade in all Europe and disturb Eastern and South American commerce.

The town of Pinsk, Russia, has been destroyed by fire. Six persons were burned to death.

It is reported at The Hague that Minister Heimskerk has been appointed Regent of Holland.

England has demanded of Morocco £50,000 indemnity for the massacre and pillage at the Mackenzie factory at Cape Juby, in 1888.

Cholera has broken out at Zamboonga, in the Philippine Islands. There have been 500 deaths so far.

Mr. Gladstone left London for Scotland to-night.

Mr. John Bright has had a serious relapse. He was attacked to-day with a shivering fit. A doctor is in constant attendance.

Mr. Lewis, solicitor for the Parnellites, writes to call attention to an amazing and important misstatement with reference to Pigott which was made by Attorney-General Webster in the House of Commons on Friday. He says the letter referred to by Mr. Webster as having been placed in Sir Charles Russell's hands five days before Pigott's appearance in the witness box was a letter from Mr. Soames, solicitor for the Times, to Pigott, and two other letters from Pigott to Mr. Soames, in which Pigott admitted that he feared to undergo a cross-examination, were withheld by the Times' lawyers. Mr. Lewis says it is a fact that neither counsel nor the solicitor for the Parnellites had notice of the existence of these two letters until Pigott had decamped.

Mr. Soames' letter to Pigott contained a promise that no harm would come to Pigott through the latter's testifying before the Parnell Commission. There was no allusion in the letter to the character of the evidence to be given by Mr. Pigott.

Attorney-General Webster replying to Mr. Lewis, writes that he believes that he handed to Sir Chas. Russell the letters to which Mr. Lewis refers, but that he will have to refer to his shorthand notes for confirmation. In any case, he says the matter is not important, because none of the letters would have justified the withdrawal of Pigott from the witness box, and further Sir Charles elected not to have the letters read until Pigott was in the box.

The Chronicle states that there have lately been sixty sudden deaths in an hospital at Florence, all preceded by intestinal disturbance. Some papers attribute the deaths to bad food, others to cholera.

Liverpool, March 23—The new steamer "City of Paris," built by Thompson, of Clydebank, for the Inman Steamship Company, arrived here to-day. She ran at an average speed of 21 knots per hour in the face of a strong wind and an adverse tide.

FRANCE.

Paris, March 24—The Alsace-Lorraine Society held a meeting here on Saturday to decide whether to give a banquet in honor of M. Antoine. The president protested that M. Antoine sought political ends and no longer represented Alsace-Lorraine. A great row followed. Finally the society decided not to give a banquet.

MM. DeLoulay and Gerault Richard fought a duel to-day. The former was slightly wounded in three places. M. Richard had attacked M. DeLoulay in a newspaper article, charging him with plagiarizing a work of M. Duquel.

While dining in the cafe Durand to-day, Gen. Boulanger was suddenly seized with a fainting fit and had to be conveyed to his home. No serious results are reported.

GERMANY.

Berlin, March 23.—Count Herbert Bismarck's visit to England following so closely upon that of Sir Edward Malet, the British Ambassador, has given rise to all kinds of political speculations. The rumor that England is about to join the Triple Alliance may however be dismissed summarily, as may also the statement of the official press that the Count is merely making a holiday visit. The fact is that the visit has a double object, the most important part of which is the arrangement of details for the Emperor's visit to England during the coming summer, and to ascertain the wishes of Queen Victoria as to whether the visit shall be merely of a domestic nature or shall assume a state character; if it is to be the latter, Prince Bismarck is anxious to arrange imposing accompaniments. It is even stated in some quarters that the Chancellor himself will attend the Emperor.

The Cologne Gazette says that owing to the attitude of America, it is natural that Germany should seek a full agreement with England before the Samoan Conference meets, but this is doubtful. During the past week Count Herbert has had a series of long interviews with the Emperor at which the matter of His Majesty's visit was fully discussed. In the second place Count Herbert will take the opportunity to discuss with Lord Salisbury matters affecting the two nations. It is not improbable that some kind of an agreement will be arrived at embodying the principles of a future colonial policy where British and German interests come in contact.

The Post to-night announces that the Samoan conference will be postponed probably till the beginning of May. This may be regarded as a desire to await the outcome of Count Herbert's mission. Prince Bismarck's reprimand of Dr. Knappe is much commented on. The Freisinnige Zeitung points out that Dr. Knappe was really driven into a state of furor consularis by Count Herbert Bismarck's despatch of January 8th, instructing him to effect the necessary reprisals against the rebels, who, he said, by attacking had brought about a state of war.

The seizure by the police authorities of the Valks Zeitung has created a great sensation, and a legal decision upon the right of the police to suppress the paper is awaited with interest. Even the National-Liberal press have not a word to say in defence of what is generally rated as a rash and imprudent procedure on the part of the police.

A meeting of the Colonial Society was held here to-day. Prince Hohenlohe made an address in which he attributed the rebellion in East Africa to the unlimited importation of arms and ammunition. He urged that the Powers combine to prevent the real source of the trouble which was affecting all alike.

DENMARK.

Copenhagen, March 23—A committee of the Lower House of the Rigsdag has advised the ratification of the convention between Denmark and the United States, providing for the arbitration of the claim of Mr. Butterfield against Denmark for compensation for a number of vessels lost near St. Thomas, many years ago. It is doubted, however, whether the reference of the claim to a court of arbitration will be necessary.

AUSTRIA.

Vienna, March 23—The Lower House of the Reichsrath to-day adopted a bill prohibiting the sale of foreign lottery tickets in Austria, the Finance Minister declaring that the fears that such action would give offence to Greece were unfounded.

In July last Mahommed Beraivi, accompanied an expedition of 6,000 Mahdists which proceeded in steamers and barges against Emin Pasha. He states that Emin defeated the Dervishes near Bor, killing most of them and capturing their steamers and much ammunition.

Mahommed Beraivi, who brought the news of the victory of Emin Pasha over the Dervishes, says it was reported that Emin was in good health and that all his people and some European travellers were with him in Bahr-el-Ghazel.

Lisbon, March 24—A Portuguese anti-Slavery Society has been formed with King Luis as honorary President.

UNITED STATES.

New York, March 24.—Thirty stonecutters from Scotland arrived at Castle Garden on the "Etruria" to-day, and were detained on suspicion that they came here under contract. The men admitted they were in the habit of coming to this country early in the spring and returning to Scotland in the fall. They are bound for the stone quarries in Maine, Massachusetts and Connecticut. Their cases will be investigated to-morrow.

San Francisco, March 24—Advices from Sydney announces that the Australian wheat crop has fallen short of the estimated product for the season, and that stocks are being firmly held owing to the probability of the imposition of a protective tariff by the Colonial Government at Melbourne. The total yield amounts to 6,200,000 bushels from an area of 2,000,000 acres, more than one fifth of which is not worth reaping. The total surplus for exporting will be less than 2,000,000 bushels, compared with 10,000,000 bushels last season. The wheat shipments from the Pacific Coast ports alone this season to the Australian colonies promise to exceed those of any previous year.

Hon. Mr. Abbott on the Jesuit Question.

A SCOUNDREL PROPERLY SENTENCED.

The Third Party Convention in Toronto.

SHOOTING ACCIDENT IN WINNIPEG.

(Per C. P. Telegraph Line.)

QUEBEC.

Montreal, March 23—The Hon. J. J. C. Abbott was in town this morning from Ottawa. He says he believes the indications are that the session will be a short one, and he hopes the adjournment will take place for Easter. He thinks the debate on the Jesuits' bill next week is likely to be a very hot one." I cannot understand the action of the Protestants in this province at all." said Mr. Abbott, "They never protest until the mischief is done. When legislation inimical to English Protestants is proposed for Lower Canada, they remain perfectly calm until it is passed and then they kick. While this Jesuit bill was before the legislature, the newspapers and preachers hardly made a remark upon it, but no sooner does the bill become law, than meetings are held, sermons preached and a general agitation made, but it is too late." "What do you think will be the result of the Jesuit debate?" "Oh, nothing. The whole machinery of the Dominion is not going to be upset for a few thousand dollars a year, which is all the Jesuits will get."

Mr. D. Girouard, Q.C., M.P., expressed it as his opinion this morning, that not more than 20 members at the outside will vote for Colonel O'Brien's motion in re the Jesuits question. It is not expected that the debate will be long.

Andre Mainville was sentenced in the Court of Queen's Bench this morning, to be lashed for criminal assault on an eleven-year-old girl. On March 2, Mainville saw little Agnes Miron picking pieces of tin out of a heap of refuse in a lane off Dubord street and attacked her, but was interrupted by the advent of the girl's stalwart brother, who happened to pass that way and heard her cries.

The Club National met last night and unanimously passed a motion approving the stand taken by the Hon. Geo. W. Ross and the Ontario Cabinet, on the teaching of French in the schools of that province. It was resolved to hold the annual banquet at the Windsor Hotel towards the end of April, when the Hon. Messrs. Laurier and Mercier will be present. Mr. F. X Choquet gave an address on the new electoral law, and the meeting adjourned.

A meeting of the Hon. J. A. Chapleau's friends has been called for Monday evening, to organize a committee for his reception on the 8th April.

Samuels & Son, Montreal.

Peter Ryan, the well-known Liberal politician, and Roman Catholic member of the board of license commissioners, will in a letter to the Globe to-morrow express approval of its call for the disallowance of the Jesuits' Estates' act. The various branches of the Orange order have determined to hold another mass meeting in regard to the Jesuits Estates' bill. It will come off on Monday evening at the Pavilion.

MANITOBA.

Winnipeg, Man., March 24.—Mr. W. H. Evans was accidentally shot in a bed-room of the new Douglas House this afternoon by his companion, C. Harker, the bullet entered Evans' cheek below the eye and lodged near the ear, making a dangerous and perhaps fatal wound. Both young men recently arrived from England. Evans is the son of a prominent surveyor in Liverpool, and Harker is the son of a minister of Bolton, England. Harker was playing cowboy when the accident occurred.

Meredeth, a tea merchant and his wife and child were poisoned by acid from the solder in a tea pot. All are in a fair way of recovery.

A letter has been received by a leading merchant from Lockwood Bros., Sheffield, England, in the course of which they say:—"We are glad to see that trade prospects are good with you for the coming year. Our advices from Australia report that there will be slight, if any, surplus of wheat for export this season, owing to prolonged drought which has caused enormous losses both in crops and stock. From the Argentine Republic, which is coming to the front very shortly as a wheat exporting country, our friends write us that wheat crops have been more than half ruined by heavy floods, but that the maize crop is expected to be very large indeed, but should the wet weather continue their hopes may be falsified."

It is expected that immigration this year will reach between thirty and fifty thousand, and appearances indicate that there will be at least the former number of actual settlers in the district west of Lake Superior.

The fire investigation into the arson case at Roberts store was continued yesterday, when evidence showing the financial standing of the tenants and others connected with the building was giving. The case was remanded till Monday to allow an expert in the examination of accounts and stock sheets being secured.

Theodore Child in Harper's Magazine for April says that "in Paris there is not a single man, except the Secretary of the Academy, who knows by heart the names of the forty 'Immortals;'" that "glory is a vain word," and that "the devil and Sarah Bernhardt are perhaps the only two celebrities universally known." Alas! this may be true.

QUEBEC, MONDAY, MARCH 25, 1889.

HERE AND THERE.

In the absence of the Hon. A. CHAUVEAU, who has gone to Europe, Mr. DENIS MURRAY has been charged with the important trust of Judge of the Sessions. That Mr. MURRAY will discharge his duties faithfully admits of no question. He is well versed in the law, and he has great common sense. We presume that though he holds the office tentatively, it will not be long before the local Government names him joint Judge with Mr. CHAUVEAU. This appointment we were led to understand was to have been made some months ago. The Parliamentary session being over, it only remains for Mr. MERCIER to keep his word with Mr. MURRAY. Mr. MURRAY is a popular man, and he will make a painstaking and useful Judge. He is familiar with the manifold duties of office, having served a long apprenticeship. The Premier is expected back in about a fortnight's time. His first act on his return, we believe, will be the appointment of an associate Judge of the Sessions.

If ever there was a session of the Legislature worked by boorishness and discourtesy, the last session of the Legislature of Quebec is entitled to take the lead in that respect. The Lieutenant-Governor, with fine irony, however, congratulated the members in his closing speech, on the courtesy which distinguished their discussions. None within sound of his voice refrained from smiling, saving of course, the Ministers ranged alongside of him, who looked as dignified as possible. It was rather good on the part of the Premier to put such a sentence into the mouth of Mr. ANGERS. But the humour of the thing must have tickled His Honour immensely.

The Toronto Globe did not deign to notice Mr. BLAKE and his decision regarding the Jesuits bill, the other day. It prefers to pin its faith on the Ontario Law Journal's article. Mr. BLAKE, the old leader of the Liberals, is referred to by the Globe as "a gentleman of importance." This is strikingly funny, look at it as you will. In the meantime, we hear that Mr. BLAKE is picking up his health. He only practices his profession now and then, these days. His parliamentary life is not irksome, for he is not working hard. He is, in fact, husbanding his resources for next year, when, we are informed, he will return to the leadership of his party, and we trust to the perpetual chieftainship of the Opposition. Mr. MACKENZIE is a little stronger than he was at the beginning of the session. But he will never again take a prominent part in Canadian public life. He is too much broken up for that, which every one learns with sorrow.

To-morrow, Colonel O'BRIEN brings up his anti-Jesuit resolutions. Popular interest is on the tiptoe of excitement as to what the gallant Colonel will say when introducing them. The resolutions themselves, will not be very strongly worded, but they will induce some strong talk. The vote will be mixed, but no one fears that the Government will be censured for not disallowing a bill which so many legal lights on the Opposition side, including Mr. LAURIER, Mr. BLAKE and Mr. LANGELIER, declare to be perfectly constitutional in all respects, and quite within the right of the Province of Quebec to pass.

NOTES FROM THE CAPITAL.

At a recent meeting of the Mayors of the county of Bonaventure, Mr. J. Enright was unanimously elected Warden for the County. This is Mr. Enright's second term.

Mr. R N. Hall, M.P., President of the Quebec Central Railway and Mr. Frank Grundy, the new manager of the road are at the St. Louis Hotel.

The Hon. L. O. Taillon, Hon. A. Turcotte, Hon. H. Archambault, and Messrs. Cardin, M P.P., and Bourbonnais, M.P.P., M.P.P., left town for Montreal on Saturday afternoon.

Inspector Drayner, of the North-West Mounted Police, and A.D.C. to His Honor Lieut.-Governor Royal, and formerly of this city, has arrived in town to spend some days with his friends. The Lieut.-Governor is expected here during the week.

Beware of the Swindler.

A young aristocratic sort of an Englishman, bearing the name of Harry W. Cooke, has been swindling a number of Hamilton clergy and citizens this week and, under pressure of the police, decided to leave for other pastures. The public, and especially the clergy of the English Church, are warned to put no confidence in him. Harry came here holding letters from the Bishop of Quebec and several ministers, and while here succeeded in obtaining similar documents from Bishop Hamilton and Canon Curran. These, however, he returned at the request of the police. He speaks with an affected drawl, and has the appearance of a rich young Englishman. His plan of campaign is to inquire for work, but to take money in preference, when he can wheedle it out of his victim. He is accompanied by a handsome girl, claiming to be his wife.—Toronto Globe.

The Bridge.

The following resolutions were adopted by the several Municipal Councils of the County of Portneuf, and presented to the Government by Dr. St. George, member for the County:—

Resolved,—"That this Council deems it its duty to give its most hearty support in favor of the construction of a railway bridge over the St. Lawrence near Quebec. That the necessity of such a bridge has always been admitted and recognised by the different Governments of Canada. That this Council considers the immediate construction of this bridge of vital importance to the commercial development of this locality. That all the extensive and costly railway bridges in Canada have been built out of the public funds, either by the Government itself or by companies subsidized by the Government; such as the bridges at Niagara, Ottawa, St. John, Fredericton, and the two bridges at Montreal, and this Council hopes that the Government of Canada will give to the construction of the bridge at Quebec such material assistance as the inhabitants of this part of the Province have the right to expect. That at present the inhabitants of this part of the Dominion are deprived of all direct communication by rail with the South bank of the River St. Lawrence. That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the member for our County at Ottawa, with a request to present them to the Federal Government, and to assist the Quebec Bridge Company in obtaining such help and assistance from the Government as they may require."

St. John's Ward.

In St. John's ward, Councillor Matte has declined to be a candidate for re-election, and a lively contest is likely to ensue between Mr. S. Bussiere, merchant, and Dr. E. Morin.

Dr. Morin is an active and intelligent young man, and would doubtless make a good representative. L'Evenement says of his candidature:—"We regret that the electors of St. John's ward have not been able to escape the disagreeableness of a municipal fight. They are now embarrassed to choose between two men equally honorable and well known, Mr. Bussiere and Dr. Morin. Mr. Bussiere is a true citizen of Quebec, of whom we can think nothing but what is good. Dr. Morin is one of our most active and most enterprising young men. By his own energy he has made for himself an enviable position in business. A member of the Board of Trade, he has been remarked for his assiduity and love of work. This war between two of our friends afflicts us, but, as we can do nothing to prevent it, they will have in this paper justice and fair-play. We warn the ratepayers not to be deceived by rumors and false reports. People say for example that Mr. Morin is the instrument of Mr. L. J. Demers. This is absolutely false. It is natural enough that Mr. Demers should sympathize with Mr. Morin, who is his brother-in-law and friend from childhood. This should not be a crime."

Mr. S. Bussiere's friends also appear certain of success; Mr. Bussiere's address to the electors running as follows:—"I accept with pleasure the honor you do me when you ask me to represent your fine ward in the City Council. The very large number of signatures accompanying the requisition which solicits me to be a candidate for this important charge, is already of a nature to make me believe that the cause which you have taken in hand is a popular one, and that nobody can longer doubt that it will be crowned with victory. Thanks, gentlemen, for the confidence that you repose in me, thanks for your efforts and work, thanks in advance for the votes that will be cast in my favor. In return, rest certain that my recognition of your confidence will be proved by the care that I shall take to protect and defend your municipal rights, and to promote the onward march of our city in the path of success and of progress."

Both parties are holding nightly meetings in the ward.

After the Session.

NOTES AND REMINISCENCES.

The session of the Local Legislature which closed last week lasted for exactly ten weeks and two days. All the sessional employes have now been dismissed, the various sessional offices have been dismantled and cleaned up, and the Speaker himself will shortly close up his apartments and leave town with his estimable family for his home at St. John's, P.Q. The departure of the Ministers and of the members of the two branches of the Legislature has been already noticed by the CHRONICLE.

It would be no more than simple justice to place on record the generous aid rendered during the session to the working members of the press gallery by the Speaker of the Assembly, the Clerk of the House and his assistants, the Sergt-at-Arms, and in fact all the employes with whom the journalists came into contact. The chief messenger, Mr. Robitaille, proved himself also at all times ready to do all in his power to lighten their task.

BLACK ROD.

The Province of Quebec never had a proper Black Rod until the end of the late session. The Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod was all right, but he has hitherto carried a little black baton tipped with a battered piece of brass that would have looked quite shabby in the hands of the conductor of a third class brass band. During the late closing ceremonies, however, Mr. Hatt carried a regulation Black Rod, of which the design and workmanship were objects of deserved admiration. Instead of the very ordinary piece of wood that has hitherto done service as a Black Rod, the new emblem of authority, bearing on its lower end the seal of the Legislative Council of the Province, is a handsome staff, chased around in a couple of places with handsomely designed and cut wreaths of maple leaves in gold, the whole surmounted with the lion—not designed like the rat-like figures in the stone work around the clocks in the Parliament House, but the British lion itself, wearing the Crown, the whole designed with real artistic taste and executed in admirable workmanship. This piece of metal work is really very admirably done, and well repays inspection. It is a copy of the Black Rod used in the House of Lords and in the Senate at Ottawa, and was manufactured for the Government by Mr. Cyr. Duquet of this city.

A FUNNY SCENE.

Reference was made a day or two since to a ludicrous scene that occurred during one of the closing days of the session, when Mr. Picard, M.P.P., after an attack upon the Nationalists, was confronted by Mr. Champagne, M.P.P., with a letter written by him in November, 1885. Mr. Picard explained to the satisfaction of his friends that he wrote in the fullness of his heart when he framed the letter in question, and that he subsequently set his face against the Nationalist movement when he found that the death of Riel was being used as a political platform. The letter, however, caused such a furore in the House, that though crowded from our report at the time, we give it in full below:—

WOTTON, November, 1885.

To the organizers of the religious and patriotic demonstration at Weedon on the occasion of the requiem services for the repose of the soul of Louis Riel.

GENTLEMEN,—I regret exceedingly to find myself, on account of sickness, in the impossibility to be at Weedon to assist at the requiem services which you are having celebrated for the repose of Riel, who died a martyr for having loved too much his fellow-countrymen, the half-breeds of the North-West, and who had labored constitutionally to aid them to obtain the redress of grave injustices which the several Governments at Ottawa, since 1884, had allowed to be committed against them.

In any case, if I am not with you in person, tell the friends who sympathize with the cause of Riel (I am sure all the people of Weedon are unanimous) that I will be with them in heart and spirit. I would have been truly happy to find myself with you, and particularly on that day, to express my opinion before the people of Weedon who always supported me so loyally, and to show them once more that their representative in the local House does not fear to blame his leaders when they do wrong and to even repudiate them when they commit too serious faults. I consider, gentlemen, that the crime of the execution of Louis Riel should be interpreted by all true-hearted French-Canadians as being an outrage and a humiliation thrown in their face by the Government of Sir John.

It is for this reason that the whole French-Canadian people should rise as one man in a union of heart and action, to prove by means of the press and public demonstrations that they resented the injury and the outrage done them by the execution of Riel.

To succeed effectually in this great National movement, let us be energetic, but also, let us be moderate and prudent, and above all, let us be persevering in following the idea which gave birth to this patriotic movement. Let Liberals and Conservatives join together to form in a frank and honest manner a great National party to overthrow the Government of Sir John Macdonald.

I conclude by wishing you success and by telling you that if we French-Canadians, are united, that if we work all together hand in hand, we shall soon rise from the painful position in which we are placed to-day, because we shall certainly have to aid us the help and alliance of all good English citizens; of all those who desire as we do, to see peace, concord and harmony reign between the divers races which compose this Dominion; the latter are yet numerous enough to make us hope for decided triumph before long. That is my hope.

I have the honor to be, gentlemen, with the greatest consideration &c., yours

(signed), J. PICARD.

P.S.—I suffer presently with fever caused by vaccination which I had operated on me about ten days ago.—J. P.

I authorize you, to read this letter publicly, if speeches are made.—J. P.

A Case for the Coroner.

MYSTERIOUS DEATH IN THE SUBURBS.

The coroner was notified on Saturday night of a somewhat mysterious death that had occurred at No. 20 St. Michael street. The deceased was one though she frequently passed under other names. She has been in the habit for some time past of going out as seamstress to many of the ladies of Quebec. She claimed to have come from Fox River, Gaspe, her mother having been a French-Canadian and her father Irish. She was married when young to one F. Bond, who according to her own story, was convicted with others of having robbed a wrecked vessel, and was sentenced to the penitentiary for ten years. This was about twenty years ago, and although she claimed to have used every effort to ascertain whether he was still living, she had heard nothing from him since. Some time ago she claimed to have been offered marriage by a party in town with whom she was so intimate as to be sometimes called by his name. The offer was declined, however, in consequence of the uncertainty as to her husband being still in the land of the living. In course of time the woman's former admirer married another party, and Mary O'Connor formed a new friendship and took to liquor.

On Saturday, the 16th instant, she fell down stairs, presumedly under the influence of liquor, and sustained serious injuries. Dr. Falardeau attended her during last week, but on Friday set in with vomiting, &c. The doctor advised that a priest be sent for, and this was done on Saturday, the woman making her death-bed confession and dying a few hours afterwards.

Dr. Belleau had the body removed to the morgue, the deceased having no relatives in the city. The property of the deceased has also been taken possession of by the coroner. Meanwhile the detectives are endeavoring to work up the case, and efforts are being made to ascertain whether the husband of the deceased is still living. Several parties in Gaspe have been telegraphed to, and if anybody in the city has any knowledge of the woman's friends, it would be an act of charity to communicate it to the coroner, as there is property to be disposed of. In this connection it may be said that a young man of St. Roch's who was on friendly terms with the deceased, claims that she made a will in his favor.

To-day being a legal holiday the inquest will be held to-morrow, when the cause of death will be established by Doctors Verge and Falardeau. It was rumored last night that the post mortem showed that death had probably resulted from a fall, but no report has yet been made to the coroner.

The scene of the accident was directly in the passage of the basin gate. The driver and two other men accompanying the load came near meeting the same fate. They were walking ahead of the sleigh which went through first, pulling the horse in after, the men having just time to get out of the way. The iron was for the steamer "Brothers," undergoing repairs in the harbour.

A Sketch of the Premier.

(Wm. Campbell in New York Scottish World.

In private life Sir John has a large circle of friends. He is frank and genial in his manner, and "a very prince at his own board." Those qualities which win for him so many friends in political life show out with even more lustre in the social circle. No man has exercised a stronger influence in shaping the destiny of Canada than has Sir John Macdonald. He has been closely identified with every political movement affecting the country within the past forty-five years; and who dare assert that his influence and his work, as a whole, have not been highly conducive to the best interests of the land of his adoption? As a statesman he has no peer to-day in any of the British colonies and he has had few equals in the mother land, either in these days or in times more remote. Apart from his superior mental qualities, Sir John possesses a winning, persuasive manner, and his capacity for making friends is marvelous. Another of his characteristics is that he can retain his friends when once he has won them to himself; and so strong is the influence he possesses over his followers that they all but idolize him. Sir John's power, therefore, as a leader does not spring alone from his ability as a statesman, nor from the unbounded admiration which his able statesmanship naturally inspires, but is largely due to the magnetism of his strong personality. His friendly look and smile, his courtly bow, the twinkle of his eye, his keen and ready wit, and the meaning shake of the head, with which those who know him are familiar—all these outward signs indicate the manifold workings of the great spirit within.

There is not another man in Canada to-day who enjoys an equal popularity with Sir John Macdonald. Some few there are who have won an enviable local reputation, but no one commands the universal esteem of Canadians at large in such a marked degree as does the present Premier of the Dominion. It may be safely said, moreover, that his popularity will remain with him while life lasts; and when he dies, a nation will mourn the loss of one of her ablest men.

They Were Bound to Get Married.

"Did you ever witness a double wedding in which there was an exchange of brides and grooms at the altar?" asked John Moran, a well-known Walnut street man.

"No, sir; I never did," replied the scribe.

"Well, I can tell you of an event of that description. It happened in this way: One afternoon, not long ago, two young men whom I had known in Streator, Ill., came to me and informed me that they had induced two sisters to elope with them from a town in Central Kansas, and that it was necessary that the nuptial knot be tied without delay. They were, they said, expecting the irate father and the grown up muscular brothers of the girls to arrive in this city on the next train with 'blood in their eyes.' As the 'boys' were old schoolmates of mine, of course I told them that they had but to command me and I was at their service. We hired a carriage and drove to the hotel where the young ladies were awaiting the return of their to be husbands, whose names are William B—— and Charles W——. It was then nearly 5 o'clock p.m. As soon as we could get the girls into the carriage we hurried to Recorder Hinde's office where William and Charley presented themselves before the marriage license clerk and requested that they be given the documents necessary to entitle them to wed their girls. As I remarked before the girls are sisters. Their given or Christian names are Lillie and Lidie. After obtaining the licenses the young men and their ladies and myself went to the residence of a preacher, whose name I have forgotten. His church is on the east side of the city, and not more than six blocks away from the Journal office. Handing him the licenses, William and Charles requested him to join their loving hearts in the bonds of matrimony at once. Now Lillie was the intended of William and Lidie the intended of Charles. Don't forget that. You can better imagine the consternation of the members of the wedding party than I can describe it when the discovery was made that the young man who had issued the licenses had assigned Lillie to Charles and Lidie to William as life partners. In their haste to put their necks into the hymeneal halter the young men had thrust the licenses into their pockets when they were handed to them by the license clerk, without inspecting them to see if they were rightly made out. They did not discover that a mistake had been made until after they had joined hands and the parson began the double ceremony by saying:

"'Do you, William——, take Lidie—— for your lawful, wedded wife—'

"'Stop!' exclaimed William. 'I am marrying Lillie, not Lidie.'

"'No, sir,' retorted the parson, 'you are not. You are licensed to wed Lidie——.'

"'The——you say—beg pardon, sir, ejaculated William. 'Let me see the document!'

"The license was shown him, and there sure enough, was Lidie's name coupled with his own. The proceedings were immediately suspended, the parson informing the young men and the ladies that he could not marry them until their licenses were in proper form. Lillie and Lidie began weeping and nearly wept into hysterics. William and Charles and I assured them that we would have the mistakes in the licenses rectified. Leaving the young ladies in the parson's parlor we rushed out of the house and jumped into our carriage, in which we were driven at a rapid pace to the Court House, Second and Main streets. Great was our disappointment and vexation when we found the Recorder was not at home and was out of the city. Knowing nothing else to do we returned to the parson's residence. They sorrowfully told the young ladies that they had failed to obtain new licenses. They urged the parson to marry them, and told him they would have the necessary alterations made in the documents the next day. But the parson firmly refused. He pointed out to them the fact that the Recorder was bound by his records and they must show that the marriages took place in accordance with the licenses. By this time the young ladies had ceased weeping. Retiring to a corner of the room they held a whispered consultation, at the end of which Lillie called William to her and informed him that she and Lidie had decided that they would not leave the house except as the wife of himself and Charles. 'But the preacher won't marry us,' said William. 'Yes, he will,' retorted Lillie, 'and you and Charlie have got to agree to it.' William said he didn't catch on, whereupon Lillie nearly took his breath away by informing him that she and Lidie had agreed to let the licenses stand as they were and get married according to them. 'If you and Charlie don't do that we will take the first train and return home,' said she, and never marry either of you.' It was then William and Charles' turn to consult. After talking the matter over for ten minutes they arrived at the decision that, as a mistake in the licenses had been made which could not be corrected in time to enable them to have the double wedding come off as intended, and as the girls had decided to swap one for the other, they would make the best of a bad matter and go ahead with the ceremony. If they couldn't get the life partners selected they would not remain wifeless. The parson was informed of the new aspect the affair had taken on and he began again the ceremony where he left off. The result was that Lillie became the wife of Charles and Lidie the wife of William, and I stood up as best man for the couples. It wasn't exactly according to the programme, but I guess all parties concerned are satisfied."—Kansas City Journal.

A New and Successful Treatment for Ataxie Locomotrice Progressive.

PARIS, March 22—Who is there that has not met in the street tottering along, supporting himself on a cane or on the arm of an attendant, some unfortunate victim to that strange disease to which physicians have given the name of tabes dorsalis, or—as it was called by Duchene, who was the first to describe it—ataxie locomotrice progressive?

About five years ago a young Russian physician, Dr. Motschutkowsky, of Odessa, hit on an altogether new treatment which is now attracting the attention of the medical profession on both sides of the Atlantic. His treatment aims at curing the curvature of the spinal column—which is believed to be the true cause of the disease—by means of suspension, with the aid of an apparatus invented by Dr. Sayre, of New York, for the treatment of spinal diseases. The object of suspension is to produce regular and continual traction on the patient's spine.

THE MACHINE DESCRIBED.

The Paris Figaro, in an exhaustive article on the subject of ataxie locomotrice, on the 19th inst., illustrated by cuts, shows how the head is supported by the chin and occiput in the apparatus in the manner which precludes all danger of strangulation. The essential parts of the apparatus consist of a horizontal bar of about the same length as the breadth of the patient's shoulders, suspended by means of a hook and pulley from the ceiling or any other elevated point. The bar has at each end a hook, from which hangs a padded strap forming a hoop. The patient's arms are passed through these straps, which serve to carry a large part of the dead weight of his body. This is necessary for the reason that were the whole weight allowed to bear upon the head and neck unbearable torture would result. At the same time it is important that this support under the armpits should not be too great, for then the traction would not be sufficient to produce the elongation of the vertebral column, which is the end aimed at by the treatment.

HOW IT WORKS IN PRACTICE.

When the apparatus is in place and adjusted to the patient the rope passing through the pulley is drawn down slowly and steadily until the patient is lifted from his feet. At first suspension is limited to a half minute at a time, but this time is gradually increased until it reaches a maximum of from three to four minutes, a result usually obtained on the seventh or eighth day.

While thus far the results are not sufficiently conclusive to allow it to be asserted that the treatment is an absolute cure for the disease, it is certain that in the great majority of cases very marked and considerable amelioration of the worst symtoms of the disease have been obtained. Since October 7 last ninety-one cases have been treated by suspension at the Saltpetriere Hospital under the supervision of Dr. Charcot. All of these, with the exception of those who have not been under treatment long enough for the results to be apparent, are very much better.

Professor Charcot says:—"Hitherto we have not known what to advise for unfortunates afflicted with this disease, but until we have proof to the contrary I shall unhesitatingly tell them to go and hang themselves."

Meissonier's picture, "The Game Lost," was sold to C. P. Huntington at the Stebbins sale for $26,300. The next highest priced picture sold was "L'Eminence Grise," by Gerome. It was purchased by M. B. Mason, of Boston, for $13,700. M. H. Arnot, of Elmira, paid $7,100 for Meissonier's "The Stirrup Cup," and W. A. Keeler, jr., $6,500 for Fortuny's "A Spanish Lady."

Dress the Hair

With Ayer's Hair Vigor. Its cleanliness, beneficial effects on the scalp, and lasting perfume commend it for universal toilet use. It keeps the hair soft and silken, preserves its color, prevents it from falling, and, if the hair has become weak or thin, promotes a new growth.

"To restore the original color of my hair, which had turned prematurely gray, I used Ayer's Hair Vigor with entire success. I cheerfully testify to the

of this preparation."—Mrs. P. H. Davidson, Alexandria, La.

"I was afflicted some three years with scalp disease. My hair was falling out and what remained turned gray. I was induced to try Ayer's Hair Vigor, and in a few weeks the disease in my scalp disappeared and my hair resumed its original color."—(Rev.) S. S. Sims, Pastor U. B. Church, St. Bernice, Ind.

"A few years ago I suffered the entire loss of my hair from the effects of tetter. I hoped that after a time nature would repair the loss, but I waited in vain. Many remedies were suggested, none, however, with such proof of merit as Ayer's Hair Vigor, and I began to use it. The result was all I could have desired. A growth of hair soon came out all over my head, and grew to be as soft and heavy as I ever had, and of a natural color, and firmly set."—J. H. Pratt, Spofford, Texas.

At Sea: A Revery.

BY LOUISE CHANDLER MOULTON.

Far on the gray sea glooms and glowers—
Far off the salt winds vaguely stray—
And through the long, monotonous hours
My thoughts go wandering on their way—

Go back to find that earlier time
When, lingering by a bluer sea,
A poet wooed me with his rhyme,
And all the world was changed for me.

The winds to music strange were set—
The sunsets glowed with sudden flame,
And all the shining sands were wet
With waves that whispered as they came,

And told a tender, low-breathed tale
Of love that always should be young;
Dear love that should not change or fail—
Such love as love-lorn bards have sung.

Pale roses bloomed by that far sea,
And shivered at the sea-wind's breath—
A bird flew low and sang to me—
"The end of love and life is death."

I left the pale rose where it grew—
I would not heed the warning bird—
Of all the world I only knew
How sweet the music I had heard—

How dear the love, how true the truth
My poet uttered in his rhyme;
And how it gave me back my youth
In that deep hearted summer time.

Then winter came—the pale rose died,
And to the south the wise bird flew;
And I—ah me, the world is wide,
And poets love while love is new.

OPINIONS OF THE PEOPLE.

(To the Editor of the Morning Chronicle.)

DEAR SIR,—Referring to the death of the pilot, Mr. Yves Sylvestre, who was buried today, (Thursday), you might insert in your paper that he was coming up from below late in the Fall with another pilot, Mr. William Lachance, and his son, who was then apprentice pilot, when the boat which carried the three of them was upset off Grosse Isle in 1842

Both Mr. William Lachance and his son were drowned, but Mr. Yves Sylvestre was saved by another pilot boat coming astern.

Mr. William was the father of Capt. L. H. Lachance, pilot and master of the tug "Lake," and Mr. Numa Lachance, one of the Allan pilots for over 25 years.

Yours truly,
CAPT. L. H. LACHANCE,
Tug "Lake."

St. Michel, 21st March, 1889.

Tug-of-War.

(To the Editor of the Morning Chronicle.)

DEAR SIR,—I would suggest as a truce to all the newspaper talk indulged in by the representatives of the "St. Louis" and "Thistle"-Quebec Snow-Shoe Club,—though I cannot understand the Snow-Shoe Club being introduced into the matter,—that the two Captains meet and arrange for a pull, the nett monetary proceeds of the "gate"—if any—to be applied to charity.

If my memory serves me well, I think I saw a similar proposition advanced by the "St. Louis" Club, upon the occasion of a former contest between the above two teams.

How Philip Welch Wrote Jokes.

(From the N. Y. Sun.)

It was amazing, and it will always remain amazing, how Welch wrote jokes. He made it appear the easiest work a pen could be put to, except addressing envelopes. Of course, he spent many hours in originating the matter in his brain, but all that anyone saw was the writing of them in this marvellous fashion. Day after day the editor to whom he turned in his "copy" used to hold up the little bundles of manuscript and say to his friends: "Look at this! I get as much every day. Welch fills his head and his pockets and bootlegs and gripsack with jokes every night, and comes over here and pours them out on my desk."

They could not all be accepted, of course, and by and by it came to be noticed that Mr. Welch wanted to have returned to him all that were not used; later still, that he wrote more than he turned out for the Sun. He was extending his market. It is a fact that he continued to extend it until he almost cornered the market. He became a gigantic joke trust all within himself. At the time of his last illness he was writing his exquisite paragraphs for the Sun, the Times, Drake's Magazine, Epoch, Puck, Life, Judge, Harper's Bazar, and a dozen lesser publications, some far out West. Every week he waited for the San Francisco Argonaut which copies its jokes from the Eastern press. He would run his eye over that borrowed column, and find week after week that every joke, or all except one, perhaps, was from his pen, though nearly every one was credited to a different paper. Some were credited to papers he did not write for. Such were stolen, of course. That column interested Welch as a barometer interests a sailor. If he had found less and less of his work in it as time went on he would have been alarmed, but as long as he lived that was his column.

But the wonders about Welch are yet to be told. When he was at his best, when he had a corner in humor and was making half the Continent laugh, a sore broke out on the back of his tongue, and for weeks it nagged and worried him night and day, walking and sleeping and joking—for it never stopped his flow of fun. The doctors declared the sore a cancer, so he announced between jokes at the office, and the next thing his friends knew he had gone to the hospital to have an operation performed. The doctors cut a large part of his tongue out. Incredible as it must appear, it is still the fact that beyond a shadow of pain in his face and a hint of sadness in his voice he was back again in a few days the same Phil Welch; no, not the same, but a lighter Welch than he had been before. He believed the cancerous element in his system had been eradicated. It was like sudden liberty to a man confined under sentence of death. He reappeared at his desk with his sober face and businesslike air writing his jokes as a canary sings—each one taking up the middle of half a sheet of note paper.

Something Electricity is Doing.

Under the title "Something Electricity is Doing," Charles Barnard writes in the March Century:

"To the student of social science the electric motor is full of suggestions for the future. If power can be subdivided and conveyed to a distance, why may not our present factory system of labor be ultimately completely changed? People are huddled together under one roof because belts and shafts are so publickly short. If power may traverse a wire, why not take the power to the people's homes, or to smaller and more healthful shops in pleasanter places? To-day we find sewing women crowded into a hot, stuffy room, close to the noise, smell, dust, and terrible heat of some little steam engine at one end of the room. The place must be on a lower floor because of the weight of the engine and the cost of carrying coal upstairs. Let us see how the work may be done with motors. We may take the elevator in a wholesale clothing warehouse on Bleecker street and pass through the salesrooms to the top floor. The building is lofty and of light construction, and yet we find in the bright and pleasant attic above the housetops a hundred girls, each using power. They are seated at long tables, each one having a sewing-machine, and secured to the under side of the table is a small electric motor, one to each machine. The operator has only to touch a foot-pedal and the motor starts, giving about one-tenth of a horse-power, at very high speed. If the speed is too fast it can be regulated at will by the pressure of the foot on the treadle. There is no heat, no dust or ill-smelling oil, and only a slight humming sound, the sewing-machine itself making more noise than the motor. The room is sweet, clean, and light, and it is in every respect a healthful workroom. If we look out of the window we see two insulated wires passing under the sash down to the electric-light wires on the poles below. There are people who carry out against the overhead wires, and would pull them all down. Some day they will be buried underground. Meanwhile, is it not an immense gain for these working girls to be placed in a quiet, sunny room, far from the maddening engine? In another shop on Broadway we may see a different arrangement. A two-horse power motor takes its current from an electric-light wire in the street, and redistributes its power to shafting placed under the work-tables. Each operator with a touch of the foot throws her machine into gear, and takes her share of the two-horse-power."

A MILLIONAIRE'S WHIMS.

LIFE STORY OF PHILADELPHIA'S GREAT PHILANTHROPIST.

How He Pinched the Coppers while Preparing to Give Away Millions—Economy that Many Would Call Meanness—He Always Haggled Over His Bills.

(Philadelphia Times.)

In 1837 or 1838 Mr. Williamson, who was satisfied with the fortune he had accumulated, retired. He was then worth $200,000 and was 35 years old, and the richest young merchant in Philadelphia, who had made his money by his own exertions. In those days he was a social lion. He had a wide circle of acquaintances and had the entree into the select society of the town. He attended the assemblies, fashionable balls, and theatres, and was quite a beau. He spent money liberally upon his dress and was not inclined to be charitable at that time. He took a notion that he would like to see the world and took passage on a packet ship for England. He remained abroad for two years, and visited the principal countries of Europe, including Russia. He returned to Philadelphia, intending to remain about six months and then go abroad again, but he got interested in some investments. He began to speculate in coal lands in Pennsylvania and in other solid securities and was very successful.

In less than ten years after his return from Europe, the then farmer's boy of Bucks County was one of the four millionaires in Philadelphia. He became engrossed in money-making entirely, and withdrew gradually from the social pleasures which had formerly been his delight. The dead millionaire, whose fortune is estimated at from $12,000,000 to $15,000,000, never married. For many years he seldom visited his relatives. After he had made a million his life began to change, and he had no time for anything except money-making. The days and nights were not long enough for him. Mr. Williamson began to get careless of his dress, and his head became white with age and care, and he developed into a character and became

VERY PENURIOUS.

Whether there was ever a love affair in his life is not known. Until he was 40 years of age he sought the society of women in a social way. In his younger years dancing was a great hobby with him. He was one of the best dancers that ever appeared at Saratoga, where he went every summer for several years. He frequently led the grand march at the hops at the fashionable hotels. He learned dancing from the best masters in Philadelphia. Before the change came in his life he was never known to lose his temper. He was always affable, obliging and polite, fond of a good story, a good laugh and a good dinner. He never kept house, although he was one of the most extensive owners of city dwellings on the tax list. He passed his life in boarding houses and hotels until he was assailed with feebleness last fall, when he went to board with his niece, Mrs. Denckla.

For many years he walked wherever he went to save car fare and hack hire. While he was giving largely to charity he was practising an economy that in most men would have been said to have approached meanness. It is related of him that a few years ago he had a room in an upper storey of a house on Chestnut street, above Nineteenth. He discovered that others were paying less money for similar privileges. He said nothing, but he packed his trunk and, like Longfellow's Arab, stole silently away. He afterwards indulged in the luxury of summer boarding at Bryn Mawr. A coach plied between the railroad station and the hotel. Mr. Williamson used it for a week. Then a bill was presented to him for coach fare at the rate of ten cents a ride. The old man glanced at the bill

IN MILD SURPRISE.

He paid it without a word of expostulation. The next day the driver of the coach bowed obsequiously and flung open his door as soon as the best form of his millionaire customer alighted from the train. It was raining at the time. Mr. Williamson raised his blue cotton umbrella, from which he was never separated, and, without even a glance of recognition at the astonished coachman, trudged on up the muddy road to the hotel.

In the memory of the oldest inhabitant Mr Williamson never appeared in a new suit of clothes. Generations of bankers on Third street were accustomed to see a little, thin, bent, shabbily dressed figure making its way painfully along the financial thoroughfare with eyes seeking the ground and hands behind the back clutching the blue cotton umbrella.

A second-class tailor, who had a shop on one of the alleys bisecting Third street, repaired and cleaned Mr. Williamson's suit of clothes. With him the director of a dozen powerful institutions and the possessor of millions of securities would haggle for a quarter of an hour over the charge of repairing a coat lining.

In his later years Mr. Williamson suffered so much from corns that he found himself compelled either to give up pedal locomotion or to submit to an operation at the hands of a chiropodist. On the recommendation of the officers of the Girard Bank he called upon Chiropodist Goldberg, who had an office on Chestnut street, and submitted to the excision. When Goldberg presented his bill Mr. Williamson paid it willingly and remarked:

"You are the only man who ever gave me the worth of my money."

Mr. Williamson never missed a day at his office, which was for many years located at 30 Bank street. He went there rain or shine, in summer and winter. Early in last year, when his infirmities began to tell upon him, he was reluctantly compelled to provide himself with a horse and

CARRIAGE AND A COACHMAN.

He bought a plain one-horse carriage and a very tame horse, and surprised his acquaintances by placing upon the panels of the carriage, "I. V. Williamson, private."

For years and years he was shaved in Blank's barber shop in Elbow lane. Barber Blank, in speaking of his millionaire customer, said:—

"He was generally the last customer of the day to come in, and no matter how hot the day might be he would insist upon having all the doors and windows shut tight. I believe he would have even stopped up the keyhole, so great was his dislike and fear of a draught. While being shaved Mr. Williamson never talked nor did he encourage it in his barber. He was never guilty, during the eight years that he patronised my shop, of a hair-cut. His niece, he told me, always cut his hair. I was always sure of my ten cents for my shave, but no more. And he never remembered me at Christmas, but I suppose he never thought of it. One evening about 7 o'clock he came into the shop, and was more feeble than usual. I had to hang his coat and vest up for him. As I placed the vest on the peg I saw a flat wad of greenbacks sticking out of the upper pocket, and there, staring me in the face, was

A THOUSAND DOLLAR BILL.

He must have had a very large sum of money on him that day. When he left and went into Elbow lane it was pitch dark, and I thought how easy it would have been for even a boy to have robbed him then."

About noon it was Mr. Williamson's custom to go to a saloon and call for a glass of beer. He would get near the free lunch and eat a good many crackers and some cheese. He never drank up the beer, and it was the supposition that he frequented the saloon for the lunch he got. After his cracker-and-cheese dinner he would frequently go back to his office and fill out a cheque for some charity. When he became so feeble that he was obliged to set up a carriage he ceased drinking beer and took to spirits, always sending his coachman into the saloon for a punch about noon.

For many years Mr. Williamson went to Mrs. Conant's little shop, at the corner of Exchange place and Carter's alley, to have his clothing repaired, his socks darned, and his underclothing patched. Mrs. Conant has a good many customers, but none, she says, like the old millionaire. "When he would bring his clothes to be overhauled," she says, "they were ready to drop off of him and just hung together. It was an awful job to fix them up. His underclothes he wore until there was no more wear in them, and they could be mended no further. When he would bring me his socks to be darned he would always bring along the yarn, and would want that counted in the bill."

He always haggled over the bills.

Mothers!

Castoria is recommended by physicians for children teething. It is a purely vegetable preparation, its ingredients are published around each bottle. It is pleasant to the taste and absolutely harmless. It relieves constipation, regulates the bowels, quiets pain, cures diarrhœa and wind colic, allays feverishness, destroys worms, and prevents convulsions, soothes the child and gives it refreshing and natural sleep. Castoria is the children's panacea—the mothers friend. 35 doses, 35 cents.

Milking Whales for Consumptives.

(From the Druggists' Bulletin.)

In London recently my attention was attracted by a huge sign on the opposite side of the street, and also by the number of people flocking into the building. The sign read as follows: "Whaloid, Infallible Cure for Consumption. Dispensing hours, 8 to 10 a.m., 3 to 5 p.m."

Entering the building I was at a loss what to make of the matter, as all I could see was the crowd and a large tank in the centre of the room. This tank was some seventy feet long, thirty feet wide, and, as I learned afterward, about thirty feet deep, having been constructed at a great expense. While waiting patiently for developments I found that the liquid was being lowered or let out by some means. Soon a smooth black surface appeared to view, and as the water continued to recede I became aware that a captive whale was on exhibition. Surprised at not having to pay any admission fee, I was soon made aware of the reason. A frame work had been constructed, on which the animal rested, and soon an expert milkman was engaged in extracting for the consumptives whaloid (or whale's milk), which was greedily absorbed at five shillings per glass. This plan seems to be identical with that of the milk-men in Naples, who lead a cow to the door and deliver the fluid in the presence of the consumer, so that the latter can be satisfied that no illegal dilution is indulged in. I had hardly recovered from my surprise at this unique idea of getting nature's own emulsions when I was to encounter a severer shock. Joining the throng who were leaving, I found myself drifting further down the street toward Southampton Row. The place of attraction proved to be, however, a smaller building, also labelled in a mysterious manner: "Codloids. Authorized agency protected by letters patent. Supplied to subscribers only. Specific for rheumatism and consumption."

Now what do you suppose codloids proved to be? Why, eggs of the codfish, and wonderfully large ones, too. They were retailed at two shillings per egg, and eaten raw with a little sodium chloride, which in plain English means salt!

Not Obedience but Soap.

The scholars in a girl's primary department of a Camden public school were in the habit of bringing small bottles of soap suds to school to use in cleaning their slates. The thing soon became a nuisance. The children neglected their lessons and spent their time in shaking bottles of suds. The teacher forbade them bringing any more. A few days afterward the teacher caught one of the little girls with a bottle which she was shaking.

"Didn't I tell you not to bring that here again?" she demanded.

"Yes'm," was the answer.

"Well, is that obedience?" inquired the teacher.

"No, ma'am."

"Then what is it?"

"Soap."

The teacher bit her lips to keep from laughing, while the other scholars joined in a general titter.—Philadelphia Press.

John Jacob Astor has all his life been a firm believer in the efficacy of pedestrian exercise as a means of health. A New Jersey bird dog went into a room where a parrot was at liberty, when he stopped and pointed. The bird approached, looked the dog square in the eye, and said, "You're a rascal!" The dog was so surprised at hearing the bird speak that he dropped his tail, wheeled and ran away, and from that day to this he has never been known to point a bird.

ELECTRICITY! THOMAS' ECLELSIOR ECLECTRIC OIL! WORTH TEN TIMES ITS WEIGHT IN GOLD.—Pain cannot stay where it is used. It is the cheapest medicine ever made. One dose cures common sore throat. One bottle has cured bronchitis. Fifty cents worth has cured an old standing cough. It positively cures catarrh, asthma and croup. Fifty cents worth has cured crick in the back, and the same quantity lame back, of eight years' standing. The following are extracts from a few of the many letters that have been received from different parts of Canada, which, we think, should be sufficient to satisfy the most skeptical:—J. Collard, of Sparta, Ont., writes, "Send me 6 dozen Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, have sold all I had from you, and want more now, its cures are truly wonderful."—Wm. McGuire, of Franklin, writes, "I have sold all the agent left, it acts like a charm—it was slow at first, but takes splendidly now.—H. Cole of Lora, writes, "Please forward 6 dozen Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, I am nearly out, nothing equals it."—J. Bestford, Thamesville, writes, "Send me at once a further supply of Eclectric Oil, I have only one bottle left. I never saw anything sell so well and give such general satisfaction."—J. Thompson, Woodford, writes, "Send me some more Eclectric Oil, I have sold entirely out. Nothing takes like it."—Miller & Reid, Ulverton, P.Q., write, "The Eclectric Oil is getting a great reputation here, and is daily called for. Send us a further supply without delay."

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.—Ask for Dr Thomas' Eclectric Oil. See that the signature of S. N. Thomas is on the wrapper, and the names of Northrop & Lyman are blown in the bottle, and Take no other. Sold by all medicine dealers.

Two ladies had an amusing experience in making a formal call the other day. The maid asked them to wait until she ascertained whether the persons enquired for were in. Presently she tripped down stairs and announced: "The ladies are not at home." One of the ladies finding that she had forgotten her cards said to her friend, "Let me write my name on your card." "Oh, it isn't at all necessary, Miss," put in the maid cheerfully, "I told them who it was!" Exit callers, with suppressed emotion.

The CENTURY

MAGAZINE IN 1889.

WHY has it such an enormous circulation Experts estimate that between two and three millions of people read each number.

BECAUSE whatever other periodicals may come into the family, the great reading world has found out that no household can keep abreast of the times without THE CENTURY. "Its success is explained by its contents.

BECAUSE THE CENTURY is above everything a leader. It set the development of wood-engraving in America and it has fostered American authors. It is alive to the issues of to-day. What it prints sets people to thinking and talking.

BECAUSE the greatest writers of the world like to have their work read by the greatest number, and therefore to such a magazine as THE CENTURY the best naturally comes. It was for THE CENTURY that Gen. Grant first wrote his reminiscences of important battles.

BECAUSE it is printing those remarkable articles on "Siberia and the Exile System," by George Kennan, which are attracting universal attention and are being reprinted in hundreds of foreign newspapers, but are not allowed to enter Russia. The "Chicago Tribune" says that "no other magazine article printed in the English language just now touch upon a subject which so vitally interests all thoughtful people in Europe and America and Asia." They are "as judicial as the opinion of a supreme Court tribunal,—as thrilling as the most sensational drama."

BECAUSE during 1889 THE CENTURY is to have a series of engravings of the greatest pictures of the old Italian masters, made by Timothy Cole, the leading wood-engraver of the world, who has spent four years in Italy on this work; a series of "Strange True Stories of Louisiana," by George W. Cable; occasional richly illustrated papers describing the scenes of the current International Sunday-school lessons; interesting illustrated papers on Ireland, and a series of humorous and pathetic Irish-American stories; a striking illustrated novelette, "The Romance of Dollard," by a new writer, and other novelettes to be announced later; supplemental war papers, untechnical and descriptive of special incidents; "Pictures of the Far West" by Mary Hallock Foote, etc., etc. We have not space here to announce all the new features. Let us send you (free) our "Catalogue of Special Publications," with original illustrations, containing full prospectus, special offer of back numbers to beginning of the Siberian papers, etc. The November number, which begins the new volume, is for sale everywhere after Nov. 1st. THE CENTURY costs 35 cents a number; $4.00 a year. Address THE CENTURY Co., 33 East 17th Street, New York.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE,

THE ORIGINAL AND ONLY GENUINE.

—ADVICE TO INVALIDS.—

IF YOU WISH TO OBTAIN QUIET REFRESHING SLEEP, FREE FROM HEADache, relief from pain and anguish, to calm and assuage the weary achings of protracted disease, invigorate the nervous media, and regulate the circulating systems of the body you will provide yourself with that marvellous remedy discovered by Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE, (late Army Medical Staff), to which he gave the name of CHLORODYNE, and which is admitted by the profession to be the most wonderful and valuable remedy ever discovered.

CHLORODYNE is the best remedy known for Coughs, Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma.

CHLORODYNE acts like a charm in Diarrhœa, and is the only specific in Cholera and Dysentery.

CHLORODYNE effectually cuts short all attacks of Epilepsy Hysteria Palpitation and Spasms.

CHLORODYNE is the only palliative in Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Gout, Cancer, Toothache Meningitis, &c.

From Symes & Co., Pharmaceutical Chemists, Medical Hall, Simla, January 5, 1880, To J. T. Davenport, Esq., 33 Great Russell Street, Bloomsbury, London. Dear Sir,—We embrace this opportunity of congratulating you upon the widespread reputation this justly esteemed medicine, Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne, has earned for itself, not only in Hindostan, but all over the East. As a remedy of general utility, we much question whether a better is imported into the country, and we shall be glad to hear of its finding a place in every Anglo-Indian home. The other brands, we are happy to say, are now relegated to the native bazaars, and judging from their sale, we fancy their sojourn there will be evanescent. We could multiply instances ad infinitum of the extraordinary efficacy of Dr. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne in Diarrhœa and Dysentery, Spasms, Cramps, Neuralgia, the Vomiting of Pregnancy, and as a general sedative, that have occurred under our personal observation during many years in Cholera Diarrhœa, and even in the more terrible forms of Cholera itself, we have witnessed its surprisingly controlling power. We have never used any other form of this medicine than Collis Browne's, from a firm conviction that it is decidedly the best, and also from a sense of duty we owe to the profession and the public, as we are of opinion that the substitution of any other than Collis Browne is a DELIBERATE BREACH OF FAITH ON THE PART OF THE CHEMIST TO PRESCRIBER AND PATIENT ALIKE. We are, Sir, faithfully yours, Symes & Co., Members of the Pharm. Society of Great Britain, His Excellency the Viceroy's Chemists.

CAUTION.—Vice-Chancellor Sir W. PAGE WOOD stated that Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE was undoubtedly the inventor of CHLORODYNE; that the story of the Defendant, FREEMAN, was deliberately untrue, which he regretted to say, had been sworn to.—See Times, 10th July, 1864

Sold in Bottles at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s 6d., and 11s. each. None is genuine without the Words, "DR. J COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE" on the Government Stamp. Overwhelming medical testimony accompanies each bottle.
