No-tax-boost budget seen as prelude to early vote

QUEBEC (CP) — The Union Nationale government Tuesday night laid the political foundation for an early general election, offering Quebecers the benefits of a budget without tax increases.

Promised was a Quebec medical care insurance program, to start July 1, 1970, on the condition that the federal government accept Quebec's request to opt out of the national program.

Liberal Leader Jean Lesage said Finance Minister Paul Dozois' budget address in the national assembly amounted to the announcement of an election later this year.

Separatist Leader Rene Levesque, who says his Parti Quebecois should reach a peak in popularity this fall, contended that the budget "does all it can to keep the door open for a fall election."

PROVIDES FOR DEFICIT

The budget provides for a deficit of $218,600,000 for the 1969-70 fiscal year, compared with a deficit of $116,800,000 in the last fiscal year.

Estimated revenues for 1969-70 are $2,957,800,000, an increase of 10.4 per cent or $278,500,000 over 1968-69.

Estimated expenses for 1969-70 are $3,176,400,000.

Budget benefits included increased financial aid to both rural and urban municipalities and a measure to make most inheritances in the province free of Quebec succession duties.

The government will also help finance extension of the subway system in Montreal and help cover the cost of a metropolitan system of public transit in the Quebec City region.

Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand, campaigning for the leadership of the Union Nationale party, smiled when questioned about the possibility of a fall election.

"It's an excellent budget," he said. "I am convinced of it."

PLANS NEGOTIATIONS

Quebec will begin negotiations immediately with Ottawa, seeking a fiscal transfer of $135,000,000 a year to help cover the estimated $285,000,000 annual cost of medical care.

It also seeks the estimated $165,000,000 the federal government will collect here prior to July 1, 1970, under a federal tax Quebec says was imposed for federal medical care.

Mr. Levesque said the medical care program is "a disgusting fraud because it amounts to nothing more than a promise for the next election campaign, a promise made by the Union Nationale in the last election campaign."

Several opposition politicians feel that the government will call an election either for September or October, taking electoral advantage of the publicity generated by the party's leadership convention here June 19-21.

The government avoided tax increases with plans to borrow $488,000,000 on the money market to cover both its budgetary deficit and extra-budgetary expenses such as financing of the Expo 67 deficit.

Quebec budget highlights

QUEBEC (CP) — Highlights of the Quebec budget tabled Tuesday night in the national assembly:

No tax increases.

Quebec plans to establish its own system of medical care health insurance by July 1, 1970, seeking to opt out of the national program.

Financial aid to municipalities is increased, including special measures to help Montreal extend its subway.

Tax-exempt ceiling on estates left with the immediate family is lifted to $75,000 from $20,000 effective midnight Tuesday night, April 29.

To help finance medical care, Quebec asks Ottawa to grant the province $135,000,000 a year in fiscal compensation, starting in 1970.

Quebec also asks for the estimated $165,000,000 Ottawa will collect in the province prior to July 1, 1970, under its "social development tax."

Individuals and employers would pay $150,000,000 in medical care premiums towards the program's estimated annual cost of $285,000,000.

Both rural and urban municipalities will get a bigger share of the province's eight-per-cent sales tax.

More than 300 rural municipalities will benefit from a minimum $5-per-capita grant.

Municipalities with a population between 50,000 and 100,000 will get a special annual grant equal to five per cent of the municipal share of the sales tax paid in their territory during the previous fiscal year.

For municipalities with a population of more than 100,000 this special grant will correspond to 10 per cent of the municipal share.

The government will assume responsibility for interest and capital payments on loans required to finance building of tunnels and stations needed in the extension of Montreal's metro.

Fifty per cent of interest and capital refund on loans required to organize a metropolitan public transit system in the Quebec City area will be paid by the government.

Changes to Quebec succession duties mean that "the vast majority of estates will not be liable to Quebec succession duty."

No succession duty will be levied on capitalized value of incomes derived from pension funds or registered retirement pension savings bequeathed within the family.

And to lighten the succession tax load within family business, payment of succession duties may be spread over a four-year period if at least two-thirds of an inheritance consists of property or shares.

Four eye French presidency race

PARIS (AP) — Four veteran politicians were flirting with the French presidency today, and more may be in the offing.

President de Gaulle's former premier, Georges Pompidou, staked his claim as heir-apparent Tuesday, announcing he is a candidate.

Shortly after, Socialist Gaston Defferre renewed his search for a third force between Gaullism and communism and sought his party's endorsement to run. And the Communists, rebuffed in an attempt to form a coalition with the Socialists, prepared the nomination of Senator Jacques Duclos, a party workhorse.

On the extreme right, George Bidault, the wartime resistance leader who later turned against de Gaulle over independence for Algeria, declared his availability.

De Gaulle was in seclusion at his home in Colombey-les-Deux-Eglises. Gaullist leaders said he would remain silent until a new president has been selected, and would neither support nor repudiate Pompidou's candidacy.

This seemed to be enough for such Gaullist "barons" as Foreign Minister Michel Debre and Premier Maurice Couve de Murville. They "acclaimed" Pompidou's move at a party caucus, informed sources said.

Alain Poher, the Centrist Senate president acting as interim president, went about his business and appeared undecided about joining the contest. Informants said several Centrist leaders want him to become a candidate.

Poher's principal task is to organize presidential elections. A date will be decided Friday by the cabinet left by de Gaulle when he quit last Monday

Israelis hit Cairo services

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli commando units struck 120 miles inside southern Egypt Tuesday night, blasting a dam across the Nile, a bridge and electric lines supplying Cairo, the Israeli army announced.

An Egyptian communiqué disputed the Israelis, claiming there was "absolutely no damage." There was no evidence of a power shortage in Cairo.

The Israelis also announced that a heavy artillery battle erupted during the night along the entire length of the Suez Canal. A spokesman said the Egyptians started the shooting.

The raid into Upper Egypt was in retaliation for recent Egyptian artillery and commando attacks on Israeli forces occupying the east bank of the Suez Canal. It was almost an exact copy of the first commando penetration into Egypt six months ago and struck at two main areas of the Upper Nile, north of the Aswan High Dam.

REPORTS ON RAID

Presumably, helicopters flew the commandos across the Gulf of Suez or the Red Sea to the targets and brought them back, but the army did not say. It gave this report on the results of the raid:

Two high tension cables, 100 yards apart and carrying 500 kilovolts of power to Cairo, were cut. The lines were 300 miles south of Cairo at Isna Langhamadi. Four transformer stations 19 miles to the north were hit in the earlier attack.

The Naj Hamadi dam—also hit last year—was attacked and "heavily damaged." The dam stretches 800 yards across the Nile and is 20 yards wide, the statement said. A shipping lock in the same area was damaged.

Seventy miles north of the dam, commandos blasted the Afdan bridge and again caused heavy damage. The bridge is an important junction for the highway from the Red Sea south along the west bank of the Nile.

VERSIONS DIFFER

Egypt said the raid was made by two Israeli bombers which it said were driven off by anti-aircraft fire before they could hit their targets. But an Israeli army spokesman emphasized that the attacks were by commando units and "they met no resistance whatsoever."

A communiqué earlier said all the Israeli units returned safely. Once again the Aswan High Dam, President Nasser's pride, was spared. But an informed source commented that the raid was "a clear warning Israel is capable of, and will not refrain from, choosing any target it sees fit along Egypt's main artery, up to the Aswan High Dam itself."

Curb placed on Creditiste talk

OTTAWA (CP) — The rules of relevancy were invoked in the Commons Tuesday night to rein Creditistes who are waging a tenacious debate against the proposed new law on abortion.

Speaker Lucien Lamoureux took the chair for an hour and cut seven Creditiste MPs short as they spoke in rambling fashion on amendments to the abortion proposals.

Deputy Speaker Hugh Faulkner then took the chair. The proposed law would allow abortion where a hospital committee of three or more doctors certifies that the mother's life or health would, or might be, endangered by continuation of pregnancy.

The abortion clauses are part of an omnibus bill to amend the Criminal Code and have been before the House, at the report stage, since Monday. More than a dozen amendments to the proposed law have been proposed.

ACT CALLED MURDER

Creditiste MPs, speaking to their full time limits, argued that human life begins at conception and thus makes abortion murder. The House heard an amendment by Gaston Clermont (L-Gatineau) to limit abortion to cases of direct threat to a mother's life or health.

Mr. Clermont's amendment, which was deferred, would do this by removing the phrase "or would be likely to endanger" life or health.

He added, however, that he was speaking in general terms and not specifically of Canada, which has announced it will start troop reductions in Europe next year.

Gen. Lemnitzer was on his farewell visit here as NATO's military chief in Europe. He will retire July 1 after 6½ years in the post.

History seemed to be repeating itself here Tuesday.

Temper of government and opposition members began to wear as debate on the omnibus bill entered, by government count, its 14th day.

Donald S. Macdonald, the government House leader, who gave the debate figure accompanied it with a statement that the rate of progress on the legislation made him wonder whether Parliament will deal with anything else before the summer recess late in June.

DENY DELAY

Later, Eldon Woolliams (PC Calgary North) charged Mr.

Macdonald with misrepresentation and fraud in implying that the Conservatives were dragging their feet in the debate.

All speakers from his party had been brief and to the point whether the house was discussing sections of the bill on homosexuality, abortion or anything else.

Also Tuesday, the Commons committee on procedure and organization tabled a report in the Commons giving its blessing to a novel scheme for a politician internship program.

The report followed a Commons motion by Alfred D. Hales (PC-Wellington) that a group of interns—recent graduates in political science or from studies that relate directly to political institutions—be given assignments on Parliament Hill.

PASSAGE LIKELY

The Commons itself must still approve the report and this is considered likely.

In the Senate, second reading was given a bill aimed at preventing a feared takeover of Nova Scotia Savings and Loan Co., but only after opposition from both sides of the House.

Opponents of the bill, presented by Senator Earl W. Urquhart (L-Nova Scotia), allowed it to go to committee today for detailed study despite their reservations.

Backs medicare

VAL D'OR, Que. (CP) — The president of the Quebec Medical Association said Tuesday a majority of the province's doctors are in favor of a medical care health insurance program.

Dr. Germain Bigue said in a telephone interview that rural areas would benefit greatly from such a program and doctors thus will accept it "with good will."

The Union Nationale's 1969-70 budget, presented Tuesday by Finance Minister Paul Dozois, provides for the creation of a medical care health insurance plan which will come into effect July 1, 1970.

News in brief

Montreal blast

MONTREAL (CP) — Two minor explosions shook the washrooms of the east-end Maisonneuve junior college Tuesday evening hours after 45 students were expelled for activities stemming from the firing of several teachers.

Police say the explosions, believed caused by chemicals thrown into toilets, resulted in slight damage to washrooms on two floors.

Fear strikes

LONDON (CP) — Scattered but widespread disruption in British industry is expected Thursday—the traditional May Day of the Communist party—in a leftist-inspired series of strikes.

Aimed at the government's proposals for toughening anti-strike legislation, the prospective walkouts in a wide range of industry are designed as the first big politically-motivated stoppages since the country's 1926 general strike.

Quebec growth

QUEBEC (CP) — Finance Minister Paul Dozois said Tuesday night the economic expansion of Quebec will almost match that of all of Canada in the 1969-70 fiscal year.

Mr. Dozois, in his budget speech, said that a 7.5-per-cent increase in the gross national product is forecast for Canada. He said that in Quebec, the prospects of certain industries—notably paper, wood and textiles—have greatly improved.

Seek uranium

SELBORNE (AP) — Canada's minister for trade, industry and commerce, Jean-Luc Pepin, strongly hinted today that Australia might be on the verge of buying a nuclear power generating plant from Canada.

Troops maintain comparative calm

National Guard troops and tightly enforced overnight curfews brought relative calm today to Winston-Salem, N.C., and Cairo, Ill., after the two cities had experienced several nights of racial disturbances.

Heavily armed police patrols and a 9 p.m.-to-5 a.m. curfew brought order also to Linden, N.J., after two days of clashes between Negro and white teenagers.

The 185 guardsmen sent into Cairo by Illinois Gov. Richard Ogilvie were posted at strategic locations including the city gas works, electrical power station, St. Mary's Hospital and a public housing complex.

Thirty state troopers and the city's 16-man police force patrolled through the night to prevent a recurrence of the gunfire and firebombings that took place the three previous nights. The curfew was ordered Tuesday.

Ulster Unionists split

BELFAST (AP) — Northern Ireland's divided Unionist party split down the middle on finding a successor to Prime Minister Terence O'Neill today.

Nominations for the post closed at 11 a.m. with two implacably opposed contenders, former deputy premier Brian Faulkner, 48, and former agriculture minister James Chichester-Clark, 46. Last-ditch attempts to unite the party behind Faulkner were a failure and the issue goes to a vote of the party's parliamentary caucus Thursday.

Political sources said the issue could produce near stalemate unless Faulkner succeeded in attracting defections from the pro-O'Neill faction supporters.

day after firebombs were thrown at eight buildings Monday night and firemen were driven off from their work by gunfire.

The incidents Monday in the southern Illinois city of 8,400—40 per cent Negro—reflected a buildup in tensions during the last month after charges a white vigilante group had been harassing Negroes.

In Winston-Salem, police reported only a few arrests for curfew violations and some scattered attempts at looting and arson. About 150 guardsmen helped enforce the 10 p.m.-to-6 p.m. curfew.

Gov. Bob Scott ordered the curfew after a night in which young Negroes broke into several business places and shots were fired at firemen extinguishing a blaze.

Ulster Unionists split

porting Chichester-Clark.

Chichester-Clark is a kinsman of the outgoing prime minister and shares his policies of concession to the restive Roman Catholic minority. He shares, too, O'Neill's background of an English education and aristocratic upbringing, both drawbacks in attempting to ease the year of the Unionist party's restive home-grown right wing.

Both Faulkner and Chichester-Clark turned their backs on William Craig, the powerful right-wing leader who is detected by leaders of the Catholic-supported Civil Rights Campaign. Both let it be known that they would not ask Craig to join in government.

ARSON SQUAD INVESTIGATES — Detective Leo Paul Lavigne, right, of Quebec Provincial Police is one of the team called in to investigate the fire at the C. J. Brown

Clothes Pin factory in Danville. Chief Leo Gagnon and Gerald Anthony, an employee of the plant, look on. (Record photo: Wm. H. Lunan Studio)

Police follow leads in suspected arson

DANVILLE — (Special) — With a case of arson suspected in last week's fire at the C. J. Brown Clothes Pin factory, when some 125,000 damage was caused to the building and machinery, the Montreal detachment of the Quebec Provincial Police arson squad has been called into the investigation.

Chief of Police Leo Gagnon said that this is the third break-in of the premises in the course of the past two months. March 8, a small amount of money was stolen, after a forced entry, and, again April 16-17 a larger amount of $140 was taken from the office quarters. On all three occasions, the entries were made by breaking in through the windows and leaving by the shop doors.

The present investigation has turned up several important factors which may lead to the arrest of the culprits, police say. They have questioned a number of persons but as yet no one has been held.

In the last break-in the office safe had been tampered with.

"Still, we are satisfied with what we accomplished with what we had," he said. "1968 was a successful year."

The report tabled at a general meeting last night showed the council's 15 agencies helped Sherbrooke area residents in field ranging from helping families budget to orientating immigrants to Quebec life.

During 1968 1,700 men, without jobs, money or shelter were put up at Maison St. Georges until they could get back on their feet.

More than 200 girls in the same situation were given help.

Among the agencies co-ordinated by the council are the Little Sisters of the Assumption and the Victorian Order of Nurses. The Little Sisters helped 400 families to prepare budgets and to housekeep in 1968.

The Victorian Order of Nurses visited over 5,000 homes, offering medical help, medicine and instructing the sick how to care for themselves.

About 125 new Quebecers were orientated during the year to the life in the province and to the potential for jobs in the city and surrounding area.

Agencies found 20 jobs for handicapped people and helped many people from broken families.

Over 600 families who were in want were given food to help them through the holiday seasons and hundreds of families undergoing internal problems were given counsel by experts to help hold them together.

Counsellors also advised newlyweds and engaged couples to get them off on the right step.

The council is particularly happy with the progress of the protected workshops

Unknown hero rescues child from river

A four-year-old boy might have died yesterday beneath the icy waters of the St. Francis River, but for the actions of an unknown passer-by.

The boy was rescued from the waters near his home by a man who had decided to use the railroad crossing bridge to shorten his journey to the West Ward.

The boy is Normand Lamontagne, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Julien Lamontagne, of 364 Chataleine street, in Sherbrooke.

Mrs. Lamontagne said that when the boy's rescuer entered her apartment with her son, she was too nervous to remember his name.

She would like the unknown rescuer to come and see her, so that she could thank him properly.

Mrs. Lamontagne said her son was playing on the side of the river, throwing rocks, when suddenly he fell into the river backwards.

At the moment of the accident, little Normand was accompanied by his play companion, Mimi Rousseau, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacques Rousseau, of 350 Chataleine Street.

The young girl, unable to rescue her friend, ran off to warn her mother of the incident.

Mrs. Rousseau met the rescuer with the boy in his arms.

Mrs. Lamontagne said her son remained afloat, using whatever knowledge he had the incident that nearly cost him his life, yesterday afternoon, when he was rescued by an unknown person from the St. Francis river. The boy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Julien

Neither Junior A, nor clock, nor track repairs to come

City council decided Monday Sherbrooke needs neither a second professional caliber hockey team nor a Montreal Forum type clock.

Acting on a recreation committee report, council decided against acquiring a Junior A hockey team.

The report recommended against the project because it thought Junior A hockey, which it considers professional caliber, could not survive financially competing with the Beavers.

Mayor Armand Nadeau led an attack against the committee report which recommended the city spend $360 to convert the Sports Palace clock so it showed the time left instead of time expired.

Mayor Nadeau said the rink was trying to imitate the Forum.

The Forum is spending a private business' profit money while the Sports Palace is spending the taxpayer's, he said.

retained from swimming courses he had taken the previous summer. She said her son ended up on a nearby rock, clinging to it, until somebody rescued him from the river.

The boy came home soaking wet, trembling, and scared, but medical attention was not needed.

Mrs. Lamontagne had warned her son previously not to play near the river, nevertheless, he went back.

She feels she did not thank the rescuer properly, but would do so if he would return to meet the parents.

96th birthday

RICHMOND — (Special) — Congratulations are being extended to Mrs. Mary Bean, of the Wales Home, Richmond, who is observing her 96th birthday on Thursday, May 1. Mrs. Bean is formerly of Beebe, Que.

City council decided Monday Sherbrooke needs neither a second professional caliber hockey team nor a Montreal Forum type clock.

Ald. Nicol said the city should donate the $555 it cost for policing the area in 1966 and not a penny more.

Ald. Roy said he thought the estimates could be cut in half if city engineers inspected the site. He said the races have played a big part in attracting people to Sherbrooke.

Proposed renovations call for a guard rail along 700 feet of the Magog River and a 300 foot rail along Marcell Street. Several lamps and electric posts would have to be moved and $2,000 worth of repaving on neighboring streets would have to be done.

THUMBS DOWN ON TRACK REPAIRS

Council yesterday turned down a bid for $7,000 to renovate Jacques Cartier park for car racing but agreed to meet with course representatives to see what help the city can give the promoters.

Ald. Everett Nicol said the city couldn't afford the amount needed to erect guard rails and make general repairs, despite Ald. Gaston Roy's contention that the racing brought tens of thousands of tourists to Sherbrooke every summer.

HEALTH TALK—Sherbrooke Rotarians and their wives visited the University of Sherbrooke Medical Center last night. Seen here talking are:

MEDICAL CENTRE Seeks to suture science-service gap

Doctor Jacques G. Susset, professor of urology and public relations director of the University Hospital Centre, conducted a tour of the Centre by members of the Sherbrooke Rotary Club and their wives last night.

The centre includes a school of medicine, with all the departments of biological sciences, and a university hospital. This organization is the first of its kind in Quebec, and is designated to answer the needs of modern medicine, Dr. Susset explained.

The ultimate objectives of the centre are, first, improve the Health services offered to the people in the region, and secondly, to assure the progress of health sciences.

A recent statistical study made at Harvard University demonstrated that improvement of care services to the sick was parallel with scientific progress, the doctor said.

Child mortality rate reflects well the level of health of the population. The United States, which is the first in medical discoveries is in 18th position, as far as child mortality is concerned.

For example, Dr. Susset said, only 14 children out of 1,000 born each year die in Sweden, while 25 out of 1,000 die in the United States, and 24 out of 1,000 children die in Canada. This would mean that services are better in Sweden than they are in Canada and the United States.

To improve these statistics, it would be essential that the population become better informed of health care, and, on the other hand, that the medical world become a well-organized family, with doctors bringing their full co-operation.

Certain traditional barriers should disappear; all doctors, all the hospitals, and the medical centre should unite in one great campaign to fight against disease, he said.

It is evident that doctors in the region are conscious of the problems, and are working side by side in improving general health in the Townships, Dr. Susset said.

Doctor Susset remarked on the enthusiasm of clinicians at the centre, who are contributing to make it an excellent treatment center, remaining faithful to the tradition of quality care that has always been offered in other Sherbrooke hospitals.

Indian must have say in legislation change

The National Indian Brotherhood makes a strong point when it suggests that the Indians and not the federal government should be charged with the task of rewriting the Indian Act.

In a submission to a national Indian conference in Ottawa this week, the last in a series of meetings to consider changes in the act, the Brotherhood said consultations so far have been weighted heavily in favor of the government.

An inevitable result of this situation is that any changes in the laws affecting the aborigines must be on the basis of what the government thinks the Indians want and not what the Indians have found out, from bitter experience, to be their real needs. It seems only logical that the Indians should consult among themselves on their needs and then tell the government what they want.

The result of the present system has been, according to federation vice-president David Courchesne who prepared the brief, that the consultations had not dealt with the real priorities of the Indians.

There can be no gainsaying the argument that the basis of the present difficulties being experienced by the Indians is that government policy is to regard them almost as infants in arms, placing them in the strait jacket of federal government tutelage. Their needs have been decided by officials in Ottawa who, even with the best of intentions, cannot think like an Indian.

The time has come when the Indian must be regarded as an adult member of society, capable of playing a full role in the future development of Canada.

Pancakes are an ancient food, and we had some of the originals at the local beanery this morning.

Price for "priceless"

Those who have never been bitten by the bug will never understand what makes the true collector run.

The one common denominator appears to be that one era's discards are certain to end up as the treasures, for some people at least, of a later time.

Everything is fair game, from buttons and stamps to disintegrating documents bearing signatures of history's great and not so great.

And the prices paid for choice collectors' items in this affluent age can border on the fantastic.

But one news story recently reported on high-priced sale that made more sense than most.

A first printing of the United States Constitution, one of the eight known to exist and annotated by signer Pierce Butler of South Carolina was knocked at an auction sale in New York for $155,000, the highest price ever paid for a historic American document.

It would, of course, have been a bargain at any price, for to citizens of that country and lovers of democracy anywhere the Constitution of the United States is, in the truest sense of the word, priceless.

There's nothing busier than an idle rumor.

Public reaction endangers two language bill

OTTAWA OFFBEAT

OTTAWA — This is what Parliament's really for — to reflect the image and echo the mood of the country.

And Parliament right now, like the nation itself, is in a great sweat over the government's hotly controversial Official Languages Bill.

This is the provocative piece of legislation that will equate English and French in the federal sphere in all parts of the land.

While most of the agonizing is being done under cover of closely-guarded party caucuses, the anguish is plain to see on a great many parliamentary faces.

Especially Prime Minister Trudeau's and Conservative Leader Stansfield's mirror deep concern over the rising revolt among both Liberals and the official Opposition against the bill.

Both leaders are bucking what they have chosen to term a backlash, but the members of both parties opposing the bill insist they are simply responding to public pressure of overwhelming majority opinion.

And that majority opinion could be strong enough to compel a re-writing or even an indefinite delay of the bill.

HOSTILITY

As self-proclaimed "moderates" on the languages issue, the prime minister and the Conservative leader have been committed to the political proposition that the bill is an essential part of the process of shoring up uncertain national unity.

Opposition to it, slowly rising on the Prairies, has lapped over the Rockies into British Columbia, seeped into the Maritimes, and currently is cresting on Parliament Hill. The public backlash from the constituencies across the West and the Maritimes has been one of hostility and resentment.

In Ontario where public opinion, until now, supposedly went along in a mildly understanding if not wildly enthusiastic way with the bill, there has been a hardening.

In Ottawa and Eastern Ontario, headquarters of the nearly 400,000-strong federal civil service, from the very outset there has been concern, deepening into fear.

In Quebec — for whose basic benefit the bill was tailored — there was and still is little but apathy.

"It changes nothing," says a leading French-Canadian journalist representing one of Quebec's biggest and most influential dailies.

Public pressures in Ontario are changing swiftly and strongly enough that James Walker, Toronto Liberal MP, parliamentary secretary to Prime Minister Trudeau, spoke out publicly the other day of his concern.

At a Liberal rally in the National Capital, he warned that the language issue was becoming "critical," because some departments of government were going too far too fast with bilingualism.

"NO INFORMATION"

State Secretary Gerard Pelletier, more of a bilingual activist than a moderate, and Justice Minister John Turner, essentially a language pragmatist, have both returned from first person situational surveys.

Turner, who represents a civil service riding in the Capital here, has come back to Parliament Hill to counsel caution coaxing the country to swallow the bill.

Some of the sharp edges will have to be rounded off, he has advised, before the legislation will go down without choking too many taxpayers.

He has been trying to comfort westerners that the bill won't hurt a bit.

But going against him are the words of James Walker, and of federal civil service leaders such as Leslie Barnes who say it already is hurting in the government's own labor market.

In another two or three years, bilingualism will be a condition of federal employment in Ottawa — which happens to be where most if not all the better paid government jobs are.

Not helping at all has been the arrogant attitude of some of the government departments.

Just the other day, Maritime MP Robert Coates asked, in the Commons, this question:

"How many Canadians have been informed they were ineligible for civil service appointments because they were unilingual in the last six years?"

And that is the gut of the issue: federal jobs, pay and influence.

Answering the concerned Coates' question, State Secretary Pelletier brushed it off with a tart:

"The information is not available from the records of the Public Service Commission." Hardly a response, that, to smooth ruffled language feathers.

Describing self as fatalist, Pompidou career is meteoric

PARIS (AP) — Georges Pompidou describes himself as a fatalist, a man whose destiny is determined by events beyond his control.

Grandson of an Auvergnat peasant and son of a rural school teacher who later became a university professor, Pompidou at 37 is on the threshold perhaps of France's highest office.

He is a candidate for the presidency, made vacant Sunday by the resignation of Charles de Gaulle.

His rise, in a country where birth and position still count, has been meteoric. Several years ago he told an interviewer that "destiny, after all," decides everything.

In 1963, the year after de Gaulle named him premier, Pompidou was asked about his plans.

"I have no specific plans," he replied, "and I don't think I ought to have any."

"I have noticed that those who do have them never fulfil them."

However, he makes an important distinction between fate and luck. A hard worker, he pays meticulous attention to detail and leaves as little as possible to chance.

MOLLET PRAISES HIM

Guy Mollet, former Socialist premier and a shrewd judge of the men he opposes politically, once said of Pompidou: "He's the most intelligent of the men in de Gaulle's braintrust."

Pompidou adopted his teacher-father's advice on the value of education, and from the time he entered elementary school in the southwestern town of Albi until he earned degrees at two of France's top schools, he remained at the top of his class.

After graduating from the Ecole Normale Supérieure, Pompidou went directly into teaching. He served briefly as an infantry lieutenant until the fall of France in 1940 and was active in the resistance during the German occupation.

He met de Gaulle shortly after the liberation when the general was looking for bright young men, untainted by collaboration with the Nazis, to help organize his new administration. Pompidou, then 33, was introduced to de Gaulle by associates from the Ecole Normale and was taken on. He remained a loyal, energetic associate of the general during the "passage through the desert" when de Gaulle was out of power for 12 years.

DIRECTOR OF BANK

Though Pompidou stayed in the government after de Gaulle's first retirement in 1946, he resigned after five years to go to work for Baron Guy de Rothschild at Rothschild Freres. In 1954, he became the first person outside the Rothschild family to be named the bank's general director.

When de Gaulle returned to power in 1958, Pompidou was called away from the bank for seven months to serve as the general's chief of staff and administer the details of the Gaullist revolution. Then Pompidou officially left the government, but de Gaulle used him as a secret contact man with the Algerian rebels during the negotiations for Algerian independence.

In 1962, without ever having held an elective office, Pompidou was appointed to succeed Michel Debre as premier.

Pompidou, who regards patience as his chief virtue, gradually gained the confidence of most of his government associates and began carefully exercising authority wherever de Gaulle left an opening.

ENDED THE STRIKE

This process continued until the premier emerged from last spring's student-labor upheaval as the only public man, in or out of the government, whose stature had not been diminished. To him went the credit for ending the general strike, calming the students and restoring a measure of confidence.

Under Pompidou's direction, Gaullist candidates returned from the post-crisis legislative elections with the first majority ever won by one party in the National Assembly. Less than a month later, de Gaulle dismissed him without explanation, saying only that he planned to keep Pompidou "in reserve for the Republic."

Some Gaullists said the president decided Pompidou had become too much of an independent force in the government.

Questions Quebec stand on airport site

The Editor:

Dr. Goebels, Minister of Propaganda during Hitler's reign, used lies quite frequently to place the blame for the shortcomings of the Nazi Party on other groups believing that if a lie is told often enough people will come to believe it. It worked quite well in Germany; the ends justifying the means. Are we now being subjected to the same thing by our provincial government?

A statement issued by our Premier, following the decision on where Montreal's new International Airport was to be built, said in effect that the federal choice of Ste. Scholastique was a power-play designed to go against the best economic interests of Quebec.

The Quebec government should keep in mind that this airport is being built to serve Canadians from coast to coast and is being paid for by these very same people. One of the main factors which determined the choice of this site was the report which was prepared by a task force under the chairmanship of Prof. Benjamin Higgins of the University of Montreal. This report was accompanied by a statement from the Minister of Regional Economic Development, Jean Marchand, pointing out that Prof. Higgins has often worked for the Quebec government and acts as an advisor to the provincial planning office. Mr.

Marchand went on to say, "He is, therefore, a man who has the confidence of the two governments." It seems hardly likely that a man of his calibre would go against the best interests of his employer. With estimated jobs for 75,000 people and their annual income of $750 million from the operation of this airport by 1985, it stretches the imagination to believe this will have an adverse effect on the economic interests of Quebec.

Quebec Industry Minister, Jean-Paul Beaudry, in replying to Liberal member Robert Bourassa who understood that the Ontario government was using industrial terrorism to lure industries from Quebec, said that while he did not believe the government was doing so it had been established that some industrial agents of municipalities situated near the Quebec border had been using such methods.

Stanley Randall, Ontario minister of trade and development, is to meet with Mr. Beaudry in mid-May and one of the matters for discussion is the mailing by "Quebec" of 12,000 letters to Ontario industrialists in an attempt to entice them to Quebec. I hope Mr. Beaudry has an answer to that one.

Our provincial government is in the driver's seat now but it should never lose sight of the fact it is we, the people, who buy the gasoline.

Yours truly,
H. K. DAMANT

Keep Don Messer show

The Editor:

Sir:

Thanks for space in your paper for this letter.

Dear Friends, hold your breath. I agree with The Hon. John Diefenbaker! Like millions of other Canadians, we would like to keep the Don Messer Show on the air. Not just because it is Canadian, but because it is a real good show.

When we compare it with some of the drivel that we see on television, we can see that The C.B.C. is completely out of touch with the average Canadian. The Don Messer Show is possibly the only one that is watched for, and tuned in by so many Canadians of different ages, and backgrounds, from coast to coast.

Now I am sure we can have this decision reversed, but we, "and this means you", must do the work. The Government does not, and will not tell the C.B.C. which shows to put on the air. However if we shower them with letters, I am sure they will reconsider.

Now it doesn't need to be a long letter. Only a dozen words. (We wish to have The Don Messer Show kept on the air.) Address it to C.B.C. Halifax, N.S.

Even if you have already signed one of the petitions which are being circulated, please write also. Let us pour it on.

Thanks for reading this letter.

Backs handicapped home

The Editor:

Sir:

Is it possible to have the following letter written in the paper to encourage two handicapped people?

We, the 40 members of the Auxiliaries of d'Youville Hospital, wish to bring to your attention the proposal now being presented to civic and provincial authorities for a home for the handicapped in the Sherbrooke area.

This plan for a small homelike residence for wheelchair patients, administered by them was the inspiration of two bright and courageous patients at Youville Hospital: Mr. Gaston Lessard and Mr. Jean Racicot.

We feel that it merits the full support of anyone who could help in some way.

Thanking you in advance for any assistance you might render.

Gratefully,
MRS. JEANNINE TURCOTTE, sec.-corr.

People asked not to play with fire

By STEPHEN MORSON
(Record Correspondent)

KNOWLTON — This is the time of the year that all communities seem to be plagued with an epidemic of grass fires, some serious, and many small ones that, without the calling out of the fire department concerned, would be in many cases disastrous.

In many towns there is a bylaw prohibiting the burning of leaves, grass or anything else within town. This is a good bylaw and should be rigidly enforced.

However, in many smaller communities no such law exists, and thoughtless people, young and old, pay no attention to wind factors and start up their own conflagrations. Finding them out of control, they have to call for help, which is expensive, and takes the time of firemen away from more serious calls.

Fire Chief Norman Page, of the Knowlton Fire Department, is one chief who has had many years of experience fire fighting, and grass fires in the spring and fall of every year.

He makes a special appeal to parents to warn their children of the danger, and ultimate expense of experimenting with matches and fires out in the open, or anywhere else for that matter.

With the co-operation of all citizens, especially parents of small, and not so small, children, the perennial danger to life and property through the burning of grass may be this year considerably reduced.

Bedford curlers hear year report, elect new slate

BEDFORD — The annual meeting of the Ladies Branch of the Curling Club was held in the club rooms, with the president, Mrs. Charles Fontaine conducting the meeting. The financial statement, which showed the club to be in a prosperous condition, was given by the treasurer, Miss Lorraine Demers, minutes were read by the secretary, Mrs. Russell Blinco.

In the absence of Mrs. Douglas Traynor, Miss Margaret Cockerline gave report of meetings attended by the club representatives, Mrs. Traynor and herself of the L.C.A. in Montreal. For the first time this year a new event has been added, that of the Maple Leaf awards for which were presented at the course of the season at Howick. Great interest was displayed in this event in which 56 rinks participated. Two rinks were entered from the local club, the one skipped by Mrs. Douglas Traynor being one of the winners, the prize for which was $50 with the proviso that some piece of equipment be purchased for the winners' club. Bedford will buy a food warmer.

One of the stipulations of the new event, is that as many rinks as desired may participate from each club. Bedford is in District No. 3. The advisability was discussed of having a group of central clubs, owing to the size of the district designated, host the Maple Leaf's play. A vote on the question will be taken at the fall meeting of the L.C.A. in Montreal and each club is to instruct its representative as to the course to follow. Center clubs are to be asked to take the final meetings of the season which was held this year at Howick. In the future the Coronation games will be played in different clubs, not in Montreal as in the past. It was felt that the new system would generate more interest.

Reports dealing with different club activities were given by Mrs. M. S. McCaw, Miss Lorraine Demers, Mrs. Russell Blinco, Miss Marjory Steel and Mrs. Harry Jones.

The Ladies Branch had 42 members this season. It was decided that, if possible, playing night would be changed from Wednesday to Thursday evening. A sum of money was voted for the purchase of prizes, while $300 was voted to the men's division of the club.

Mrs. Lennox Ames then took the chair for the election of officers. She expressed the thanks of the club to the retiring officers for their excellent work during the past season.

Mother's Day, An old, gentle custom

Today's Mother's Day celebrations reflect a custom which goes back to the 17th century.

Now almost universal in scope, this tribute to mother started in Europe as "Mothering Sunday" to honor mother and the home, according to the research department of Coutts Hallmark Cards.

On the fourth Sunday of Lent, boys and girls were expected to travel to their homes, if absent, and to assume all household chores for the day.

If they were unable to make it to their homes, they resorted to carefully written letters, the forerunner of today's greeting cards.

On the North American continent, the custom really became established because of the interest and determination of a West Virginia spinster, Anna Jarvis, who conceived the idea of establishing the second Sunday in May as a memorial to her own mother and mothers everywhere. Her mother had died in Philadelphia in 1905, an event which had a deep impact on the sensitive girl.

She started her campaign by persuading the city fathers of Philadelphia to hold a city-wide Mother's Day observance. In 1912, at her urging, West Virginia made Mother's Day a state-wide holiday and Pennsylvania followed suit the next year.

In her crusade to make this a national event, she corresponded with editors, businessmen, ministers, industrial leaders, politicians, governors, mayors, clubs and service organizations. In the United States her efforts were crowned with success when President Woodrow Wilson signed a joint resolution from Congress establishing Mother's Day as a national holiday and citing mothers as "the greatest source of the country's strength and inspiration."

Strike faces building trades

MONTREAL (CP) — Negotiators continued their efforts Tuesday to work out a new industry-wide agreement covering about 75,000 Quebec construction workers, with the possibility of strike action less than 48 hours away.

Neither management nor union spokesmen would comment on progress in the negotiations, which stalled Monday night on two key issues—money and hiring arrangements.

The bargaining is being conducted at the provincial level under legislation adopted by Quebec's national assembly last year.

The construction workers are represented by the Quebec Federation of Labor and the Confederation of National Trade Unions, and employers by five construction industry associations.

The current agreement expires Thursday, May 1, and one of the unions involved, the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, has voted to strike on that date unless an agreement is reached. This would pull about 5,000 electrical workers off construction sites.

OFFERS PAY RISE

Management has offered a pay increase of 5½ per cent effective this summer and another of four per cent effective Jan. 1, 1970. For the electrical workers, these increases would bring hourly pay to $4.80 and $4.99.

The union approves of the increases but wants them to take effect earlier—on May 1 and Oct. 1.

The second stumbling block is the issue of union hiring halls. The two major union organizations have been unable to agree on a system of joint hiring halls acceptable to both sides.

International building trades unions affiliated with the QFL have charged that the CNTU is trying to gain jurisdiction to hire men for trades in which the international unions now have a monopoly.

Both Miss MacDougall and Mrs. Bowen have been loyal members of the W.A., now the A.C.W. Mrs. Clifford Curtis succeeds Miss MacDougall as treasurer.

MONTREAL (CP) — Left winger Dick Duff who scored a second-period goal Tuesday night to help Montreal Canadiens to a 3-1 win over St. Louis Blues, doesn't think the hometown fans will help the losers.

The win left Montreal with a 2-0 edge in the best-of-seven Stanley Cup final, with the third and fourth games scheduled for St. Louis Thursday and Sunday.

"The fans can't go on the ice and win the game for them," Duff said when asked about the help the Blues will get from their fans. "They had some pretty good fans in New York and Boston, too, and we beat them."

Montreal knocked out New York Rangers in four games and Boston Bruins in six to reach the final against the Blues.

However, Montreal coach

Claude Ruel had reservations not shared by some of his players.

"I'm glad we're going to St. Louis up 2-0 instead of 1-1 or with no wins," Ruel said. "St. Louis had a much better record this season than they did last year when we beat them four straight for the cup."

"We must respect them because every game against them this year has been tough."

HAPPY WITH VACHON

The Montreal coach said he was pleased with the goaltending of Rogation Vachon who almost didn't make it for the game. He was struck by a shot from John Ferguson in the pregame warmup and played the game with a pressure bandage wrapped around a bruised right arm.

Vachon's first playoff shutout was spoiled by Larry Keenan who slid a shot underneath the Montreal goalie in the third period.

"I got a piece of the first shot with the side of my pad, but I couldn't get up in time to stop the second one," Vachon said.

Ferguson, meanwhile, was flabbergasted when told he had set a pair of playoff records Tuesday night.

THE CLINCHER — St. Louis Blues' Gary Sabourin failed to stop a shot by Montreal Canadian John Ferguson that put Canadiens ahead 3-1 in third period of Stanley Cup playoff game in Montreal Sunday. Blues' had pulled their goalie in favor of an extra attacker in attempt to tie the score but Ferguson put in the clincher. (CP Wirephoto)

Calgary stampedes into hiding after decisive second loss

GALT, Ont. (CP) — Galt Hornets unleashed a 45-shot assault to trounce Calgary Stampede 9-3 in Allan Cup play Tuesday night, a defeat that sent the Western champions into hiding.

Coach Roy Kelly barred the Calgary dressing room to the press and visitors after the defeat before 2,400 fans and offered only a disgruntled "no comment" when reporters finally got to see him.

Galt now leads the Canadian senior hockey championship series 2-0. The third game of the best-of-seven round is scheduled here Thursday night.

Joe Hogan, team captain and veteran of Galt's last Allan Cup triumph in 1961, led the Hornets with three goals. Centre Vance Millar struck twice for the winners with Fern Belanger, Pete Brennan, Pete Panagabko and Howie Dietrich scoring once.

Ted Demchuk collected two goals for the Stampede—one a brilliant individual effort early in the second period—and Warren Hicks scored the other.

LOST EARLY LEAD

The Stampede, who dropped the opening game 7-2 here Sunday, started aggressively Tuesday. They split four goals with the Hornets in the first period and grabbed a 3-2 lead early in the second—the only time they have been ahead in the series.

But then the Hornets built up a 5-3 lead going into the final 20 minutes.

Calgary's defence fell apart when Hogan scored his second goal of the game to tie it 3-3 at 11:27 of the second period.

Hogan scored what turned out to be the winning goal later in the period.

Demchuk's second goal was the most spectacular one of the game. He split Galt's defence, was pulled down from behind, but was still able to bat the bouncing puck past Boat Hurley while sliding along the ice.

FACED 36 SHOTS

Hurley, a veteran of several world hockey tournaments, faced 36 shots in the Galt net.

Calgary again was hampered by a shortage of players and Kelly used six different line combinations as he juggled his eight forwards.

The Stampede, who arrived with 13 players for Sunday's game and were able to dress only three defencemen, got an addition in Mike Orman Tuesday, but were back to three defencemen when team captain Frank Arnett was injured.

Arnett, a former professional, was crashed heavily into the boards in the second period and sat on the bench throughout the third.

The Hornets stepped up the pressure in the last 20 minutes, scoring four goals, two of them in the last 90 seconds of play.

Referee Jim MacAulley of Montreal assessed seven minor penalties, four of them against Galt. None of the penalties figured in the scoring.

Barber trims Angel into high flying Pilot; Astros fade

Since Marty Pattin went to see The Barber he's been a menace to his former teammates, California Angels.

Pattin, picked up by Seattle Pilots from California in the American League expansion draft, pitched a two-hitter Friday as the Pilots nipped the Angels 1-0 on an eighth-inning homer by catcher Larry Haney.

The victory was Pattin's second in two appearances against California. The complete game was his first in the majors.

"Give the credit to our pitching coach, Sal (The Barber)

Maglie," said the right-hander, who held the Angels hitless for 7 2/3 innings and finished with 11 strikeouts. "He changed my delivery and gave me a couple of other suggestions during spring training."

"Before, I had a lot of wasted effort. I was rearing back and winding up. Sal got me to take less of a windup and to stop rearing back."

Maglie, who pitched a no-hitter 13 years ago for the old Brooklyn Dodgers, watched his protege stop the Angels cold until Tom Satriano singled with two out in the eighth. Jim Fregosi singled with two out in the ninth, but Haney cut him down trying to steal second, nailing Pattin's third victory against one loss.

END MEL'S STREAK

In other AL games, Boston Red Sox shaded New York Yankees 2-1, ending Mel Stottlemyre's winning string at five; Detroit Tigers topped Washington Senators 5-4 on Mickey Stanley's three-run double in the ninth and Minnesota Twins pounded Kansas City Royals 9-1 behind Harmon Killebrew's grand-slam homer.

The Baltimore-Cleveland game was rained out and Chicago White Sox and Oakland Athletics were idle.

Mike Nagy, making his first major league start, held the Yankees to three hits and an unearned run in 6 2/3 innings and Sparky Lyle finished up with a hitless relief job after the Red Sox scored twice in the seventh.

Tony Conigliaro doubled and scored the tying run on a single by rookie Syd O'Brien, who continued to second on the throw to the plate and took third on a wild pitch. Stottlemyre struck out George Scott and walked Rico Petrocelli intentionally before O'Brien scored as Joe Azcue bounced into a force at second.

The Senators took a 4-2 lead into the ninth and appeared headed for their sixth straight victory, but Bill Freehan poked a one-out single and Dave Campbell walked. Frank Bertalan replaced starter Joe Coleman and walked Dick McAuliffe on four pitches before Stanley cleared the bases with a double

McAuliffe homered for the Tigers in the first inning. Killebrew's eighth career grand slam sent the Twins ahead 4-1 in the third and they coasted to their fourth straight victory behind rookie right-hander Dick Woodson. John Roseboro paced Minnesota's 14-hit attack with four singles.

Houston Astros might have come out of the 1962 expansion draft in worse shape than this year's two new National League clubs, but it's seven years later now and the Astros still appear left out in the cold.

The Astros added another loss to their worst record in the league by dropping a 2-1 decision at Atlanta Tuesday night, their seventh consecutive defeat and 14th in the last 15 games. They are 0-12 on the road.

"I think we're better than this," was about all manager Harry Walker would say after his club fell to a 4-19 record.

Although Montreal Expos dropped a 2-0 verdict to New York Mets, and San Diego Padres lost to Los Angeles Dodgers 2-1, the two newest teams in the league had records Houston could envy. The Expos might be last in the East Division, but they have a 7-12 record, while the Padres are fifth in the West at 9-13.

San Francisco Giants remained tied with the Dodgers for first place in the West by beating Cincinnati Reds 4-3 in 13 innings and Chicago Cubs increased their East lead with a 10-0 rout over Philadelphia Phillies.

Cold weather postponed St. Louis' game at Pittsburgh.

Bland Diet Recommended
In Spastic Colitis Case

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q—What causes spastic colitis and what is the treatment?

A—Spastic colitis, irritable colon or mucous colitis is a by-product of a high-strung nervous system. Contributory causes include food allergies, the use of laxatives and overindulgence in fresh fruit and vegetables. Anyone who has persistently loose stools should have them examined for amebae or other disease-causing germs.

The victim must take a bland diet and antispasmodic drugs while efforts are made to eliminate all possible causes—not an easy task. A short course of tranquilizer may be helpful.

Q—I have a bowel movement about 30 minutes after every meal. What causes this and what can I do for it?

A—This is a sign of an irritable bowel. If a low-residue diet doesn't control it you should see a specialist in gastrointestinal diseases.

Q—I have been taking laxatives for about 15 years. I've gone to four different doctors who came up with four different solutions but I still have to take a laxative every night. My stomach is in a turmoil most of the time. How can I break the laxative habit?

A—The constant use of laxatives will put anyone's "stomach" (it's really your intestines) in a turmoil. The laxative habit is usually the result of misconceptions about the workings of the digestive system. First of all, your aim should be not necessarily one stool a day but a stool about two fingers thick and of firm consistency regardless of the elapsed time between stools. If you skip a day, then after 36 to 48 hours have a loose stool, you are nearer to having diarrhea than constipation.

Laxatives are harmful in that they sweep your food through the bowel too fast to permit complete digestion and they irritate the bowel, causing mucous colitis. With a little care, one can regulate the bowels by taking that amount of vegetable and fruit every day necessary to keep the stools firm. You must avoid the temptation to load up on your favorite fruit just because it is in season. Regularity of your roughage intake will give you regularity of stool output.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Another modern bidding gadget is the fragment bid. Almost every expert uses some form of it today. Some use it rather simply, others complicate it so far that they confuse themselves.

North's jump to four clubs was an example of the simplest form of fragmentation. His bid said, "Partner, the missing king would be in clubs.

The bidding was excellent indeed. We regret to report that expert bidder South played the hand like an apprentice. All he had to do to make the contract would have been to trump a club at trick two, come back to his hand with a trump, trump his last club, draw trumps and claim his contract. But South was in too much of a hurry.

Instead of using two of dummy's trumps that way South drew three rounds of trumps before counting to 13. Then he went after the spades but since East had hung on to all five of his, South could not set up dummy's last spade for a discard. He did get rid of one club on the king of spades and was still able to ruff the last one. When he finally went after diamonds, it turned out West had been unkind enough to hang on to all four of his, and the fine bidding merely led to a set.

hearts is our suit and I could have just bid four hearts but I want you to know that part of my strength is a club singleton."

Specifically this jump in the third suit when a simple bid in that suit would not have been passed shows exactly this. Game-going support for partner and a singleton in that third suit.

South used Blackwood to check aces and kings and bid seven even though he knew that one king was missing. The odds were that Final plans were made for the May 3 rummage sale in the Church Hall at 9 a.m., with a children's table, a speciality. If contacted Mrs. Tom McCune will pick up rummage in Rock Island, Mrs. C. Lee Wood or Mrs. W. B. Dustin, in Derby Line. Several members volunteered to work on Friday afternoon and again on Saturday morning at the sale.

Mrs. Merton Davis volunteered to take on the duties as sales lady for greeting cards, with proceeds going into the Circle treasury.

Cards were signed to be sent to Mrs. C. R. MacLean and Mrs. C. C. Blake.

There was discussion about the June Senior Citizens trip with several volunteering to drive cars so that all Seniors may have transportation. The trip will take place to Vermont.

It was decided to have a pot luck supper in the Church Hall at 6:15 p.m. on May 20, to be followed by the Circle's last meeting of the season. Mrs. Raymond Grow took over the chairmanship of the supper and planned the menu.

A social hour followed. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Lafoe from her lace-covered dining table, centered with an arrangement of spring crocus blooms and lighted candles. Mrs. Dustin and Mrs. Kenneth Baldwin served the dessert.
