World News In Brief

Chattanooga, Tenn., Aug. 1 (AP)—Southern Bell workers here returned to their jobs today after a hot-weather strike of approximately 750 employees.

The work stoppage began Tuesday when 100 operators said the company's main exchange was too hot to work in.

W. A. Carmichael, president of the Communication Workers of America (C.I.O.) local, said that "local traffic management will meet with local union officers and work out something for traffic operator's relief during the excessive heat periods."

San Francisco, Aug. 1 (AP)—Australia and New Zealand are ready to contribute 1,000,000 fighting men to the defence of Japan, the United States, or the Philippines if the Soviet Union attacks in the Pacific, the Australian ambassador to the U.S. said today.

Sir Percy Spender told members of the Commonwealth Club the obligation to supply a fighting force is in the terms of mutual defence pact among Australia, New Zealand and the U.S.

He said the minute U.S. arms went into action in defence of Japan or the Philippines the pact would go into effect.

Sir Percy and Lady Spender will leave Friday for Honolulu where he will take part in the first summit meeting of the pact. The meeting starts Monday.

Bombay, India, Aug. 1 (AP)—The Inspector-General of Police in Bihar State today denied a newspaper report that Pandit Ramachandra Sharma had died during a hunger strike protesting the slaughter of India's sacred cows.

The police official said Sharma, now in the 26th day of a 65-day fast, still is alive but weak. All Indian papers reported on their front page yesterday that he had succumbed.

Sharma, a minor politician in Patna, northeastern India, is opposing local laws allowing the killing of old or sickly cows.

Castel Gandolfo, Italy, Aug. 1 (AP)—The Pope today sent best wishes to the British people and their Royal Family today while receiving the Duke and Duchess of Windsor in private audience.

The Windsors, who spent 20 minutes with the Pontiff, were accompanied by Sir Walter Roberts, British Minister to the Vatican.

Boulogne, France, Aug. 1 (Reuters)—A wartime torpedo dragged from the mud of Boulogne Harbor today sank France's biggest dredger, the 1,289-ton Pas de Calais II. Eleven crew members, including the captain, were killed.

The Pas de Calais was working in the harbor roads when the torpedo appeared, jammed between two of the dredgers. A member of the crew climbed out to try to defuse it, but it fell and exploded.

A large lying alongside picked up the six survivors, none of whom was seriously injured.

Declare Canadian Post-War Progress Long-Term Affair

New York, Aug. 1 (AP)—Canada's post-war prosperity has a long life expectancy but the short run prospect is not quite so good, Fortune magazine says in its August issue.

In an editorial accompanying 10 pages of articles and pictures on the Dominion's new industries, the magazine of business management says there has been some skepticism lately about Canada's boom—whether it will last when rearmament tapers off.

The answer, Fortune says, is that Canadian prosperity is based "not on gross inflation and promotional bubbles, but on the national development of her magnificent endowment of low-cost natural resources—resources that the western world and particularly the U.S. will need more and more as the years roll by."

More than half the articles in the issue are devoted to Canada's "revolution-in-progress" the 12-year boom that Fortune finds "restrained, well balanced, a model expansion."

An article by Gilbert Burck says the boom has had two contradictory effects on Canada. One is that it has increased her economic dependence on the U.S. The other is to encourage Canada's political nationalism.

"And political nationalism, often blind to a nation's long-term interests, usually begets economic nationalism," the article says. "Industrial expansion, moreover, often runs into difficulties for which economic nationalism means an easy way out. Canada thus is approaching a critical stage whose outcome will powerfully affect the

Naguib Demands Continued Corruption Purge As Army Quits Civil Administration

New Cabinet Is Expected In B.C. Today

Victoria, Aug. 1 (AP)—The Social Credit party is expected to be asked today to form a minority government in British Columbia, ending more than 1½ months of "caretaker" administration.

This move, which will formally end the Liberal administration, crushed in the June 12 election, became imminent after an appeal-court decision yesterday erased faint C.C.F. hopes of riding into power on a recount.

The decision, in effect, cleared the last roadblock remaining in the path of Social Credit.

The C.C.F. wanted a recount in the Vancouver-Burrard riding, where C.C.F. candidate Grant MacNeill lost by 248 votes to Social Credit Bert Price.

A C.C.F. victory in Vancouver-Burrard would have reversed the present strength of the two parties, giving the C.C.F. 19 seats to 18 for Social Credit.

Three justices of the B.C. Court of Appeals agreed yesterday that they did not have the jurisdiction to hear a C.C.F. appeal from a County Court decision which ruled against the C.C.F.'s request for a recount in the vital riding.

Chief Justice Gordon Sloan said the lower court decision "can be appealed only in the case of a recount." As there was no recount, there could be no appeal.

The oral judgment said that the tenor of relevant sections of the Elections Act "clearly indicates that it was the intention of the Legislature that an appeal could only be brought after the completion of a recount."

(In this case) the recount was never entered upon by the County Court Judge (J. A. McGeer), much less completed. Therefore the appeal is quashed.

Judge McGeer earlier this week dismissed the C.C.F. application on a technicality. The application designated the riding as "Burrard" instead of Vancouver-Burrard.

The party standing in the Legislature is: Social Credit 19, C.C.F. 18, Liberals seven, Progressive Conservative and Labor one.

Former-Designate W. A. C. Bennett arrived in Victoria yesterday, saying he hadn't been summoned by the Lieutenant-Governor and smilingly insisting he was simply on a holiday.

But he did say he believed B.C.'s next government should be seated as soon as possible "for the welfare of the people."

There was one other election development yesterday. Progress Conservative Reg. MacDougall, Q.C., announced he will appeal the recount which Tuesday cost him re-election on Vancouver-Point Grey's "A" ballot.

Mr. MacDougall, declared the winner after the original count, lost out to Liberal T. R. Burnett in the judicial recount supervised by County Court Judge Bruce Boyd.

future of politics and business in North America.

This Canadian nationalism could work out badly, the article says. "The boom, well balanced and un-nationalistic as it may be, is making Canada more vulnerable than ever to problems beyond her control. In relying on experts for a quarter of her income, she puts herself at the mercy out of the outside world."

"As a Royal Commission once phrased it, she is like a small man in a big poker game: When he wins he wins a lot by his standards, but when he loses he loses nearly all. Canada can win a lot and lose a lot too."

Balancing the pressures being exerted for and against low tariffs, Fortune sees Canadian labor, agriculture and a part of industry on the protectionist side, with business, government, consumers and another section of industry backing up free trade.

Meanwhile, "until Canada's home market develops, she is crucially dependent on the American market." And it is through foreign trade, Fortune adds, that Canadian living standards can be kept high enough to attract the people needed for a bigger home market.

The U. S. market is described as "promising" over the long run for newsprint, pulp, lumber, aluminum, iron ore, many metal products, furs, fish and meat.

But over the short run, trouble could come if U.S. demand fell off in a recession, and if U.S. producers thereupon pressed for protection. What happens, Fortune says, depends not only on the U.S. market but on the farsightedness of U.S. tariff policy.

Wafd Party Demands That New Government Halt Talks Over Suez Canal and Sudan.

Cairo, Aug. 1 (AP)—Gen. Mohammed Naguib, leader of the military coup which ousted King Farouk from Egypt's throne, today announced the army's withdrawal from politics but warned that corruption must be purged from the country.

Meanwhile, the powerful Wafdist party called on the country to stay out of the Western-proposed Mid-East Defence Pact and to refuse negotiation of its Suez Canal and Sudan disputes with Britain.

The strongly-Nationalist Wafd, which dominated the Lower House of Parliament before its dissolution last March, also asked the revival of the old Parliament. The new government already is considering such action because Parliament must approve the Regency Council which will rule for infant King Fuad II.

Naguib sounded his call for a complete clean-up of Egyptian private and public life at a press conference shortly after the army commander-in-chief made public the text of his abdication ultimatum to Farouk July 26.

The General said the army "now had fulfilled its duty of crushing tyranny and corruption and of giving a solid basis to the constitution."

"We hereby assert that henceforth we will leave all political matters in the hands of the government which is governing under the constitution—a government for whose establishment we have struggled."

Urging all citizens to follow the army's lead in cleaning up their private lives, Naguib said the military demanded that all political parties and societies take similar measures.

Naguib said the army's ultimatum to Farouk claimed the playboy monarch's "misbehavior" provoked chaos and anarchy in the administration and made continuation of his reign impossible.

Isle of Capri, Italy, Aug. 1 (AP)—Retired former King Farouk of Egypt, who claims he is "no longer a rich man," dined richly with his family last night at one of this pleasure island's most exclusive night clubs.

The unemployed monarch, who said at a press conference yesterday he will "live simply" now that he has lost his throne, was a guest of singer Gracie Fields at her sumptuous "Canzone Del Mare" restaurant.

Gracie, an old friend of the deposed ruler, invited Farouk and his family to her villa for cocktails. Later, the party—which included former Queen Nourmahad and Farouk's three daughters by his previous marriage—joined regular customers at the restaurant.

It was learned Nourmahad brought only four pieces of luggage when she followed her husband into exile on twelve hours' notice.

Nourmahad revealed this when she asked her hotel to have her white suit cleaned "as soon as possible."

"I couldn't salvage much," she confided.

Cairo, Egypt, Aug. 1 (Reuters)—The well-informed Arab Daily Al-Ahram said today the captain of the Royal Yacht Mahroussa had received radio orders while taking Farouk into exile to search the former King's baggage and prevent him landing jewelry, gold ingots and Egyptian antiques.

The order came from the Cairo headquarters of Gen. Mohamed Naguib, who led last week's coup and forced Farouk off the throne, the paper said.

When the captain sent a reply that Farouk had objected to a search of his family belongings, contained in more than 200 pieces of luggage, Naguib's headquarters instructed the captain not to allow him to land.

The captain then sent a message saying the yacht had already approached the Italian port of Naples and that large crowds had gathered on shore.

He was then told to allow Farouk and his party to land without baggage and added that the Egyptian Minister in Rome would attend to the Royal belongings.

The newspaper did not unfold the last round of the incident—whether the luggage was searched—but Farouk's baggage has been landed.

Bereaved Man Plans Return

Liverpool, Aug. 1 (Reuters)—R. W. King, whose bride of two weeks vanished mysteriously from an Atlantic liner early Wednesday, said today he plans to return immediately to Canada.

"I want to get home as soon as possible," said the Edmonton electrician whose dream honeymoon was turned into tragedy. "This has been a terrible shock."

No explanation has been advanced for the disappearing of Vienna-born Benita King, 22. Her dress, shoes, handbag and sunglasses were found on the deck of the Cunard liner Ascania after her husband awoke to find her missing from their stateroom.

Coronation Tradition To Be Preserved

London, Aug. 1 (Reuters)—David Eccles, Minister of Works, promised today that all the tradition and splendor of the past will be scrupulously observed at the Queen's Coronation next year to make it "the most glorious and moving pageant in the world."

Eccles, in charge of public arrangements for the Coronation, told a press conference his ministry had been busy for months on the design of fabrics and carpets for Westminster Abbey, where the Queen will be crowned June 2.

He said it is his responsibility to set the stage and build a "theatre" inside Westminster Abbey, to provide seats and standing room, decorations along the processional route (on Crown property), flood-lighting, fire-works, and "those other expressions of public rejoicing."

He said that in 1937 it took five months to prepare the abbey for King George VI's Coronation. In 1937, seating was erected in the abbey for 7,000 guests. "We cannot squeeze any one more in this time," he added.

Eccles recalled that when the King was crowned no one was allowed to bring in a coat because of space restrictions.

"This afterwards proved very inconvenient because it was raining," he said.

Executives And Workers On Ungava Line Restless Men

(One of Canada's "new frontiers" is the Labrador-Ungava area, site of some of the world's richest iron deposits. In this story, one of a series Business Editor Forbes Rhude of the Canadian Press writes of the men who are opening the north so its riches can be fed into the steel mills of North America and Europe.)

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

What sort of people do you meet in that wilderness of Labrador-Ungava which is being turned into a land of iron mines, railways and modern settlements?

First, take the executives running the job for Iron Ore Company of Canada, associated companies and the contractors.

They are the most restless men I have ever seen. They never seem to sit down for more than five minutes, and rarely seem to relax.

That's understandable. A lot of money can run away if supplies and men are not kept co-ordinated in a job that runs for 360 miles.

Something unexpected is always happening. Men are lost, or hurt, or killed.

One Saturday Maurice Taschereau, a young Quebec geologist, lost his way northeast of Wacouana Lake. If he had been working for himself or a small concern, he'd likely be there yet.

But Iron Ore Company was able to turn out Indians, canoe parties, planes and a helicopter. Even then, Taschereau wasn't found until Tuesday, exhausted, able to last perhaps six hours more—cold nights, although it was summer, and no food.

J. M. Knowles and C. L. Hawkins, two supply experts from West Virginia, were visitors when I was there. For an outside opinion, I asked them about this restlessness I found. Knowles replied: "That's the way construction men are. They go in, do the job and get out. What impresses me most up here is their willingness to help you even before they know who you are."

In a construction camp, one Saturday afternoon, I saw a poker game that would raise your hair; but the only real relaxation I saw was on a Saturday evening at the swank new yacht club at Seven

Bevan Denies Attlee Charges Of Breach Of Confidence Concerning Cabinet Talks

London, Aug. 1 (AP)—Aneurin Bevan, leader of the Labor party's left wing, today threw back party leader Clement Attlee's rebuke yesterday in the House of Commons.

Bevan hotly denied he had committed a breach of constitutional propriety by referring in a speech during Wednesday's economic debate to a confidential discussion that took place in a meeting of the former Labor cabinet.

Attlee, in the first serious open breach with Bevan, yesterday criticized the Welshman's action, saying there was a well-established rule against government members revealing confidential cabinet discussions.

Armed with several huge volumes of records, Bevan said in the House today, "I plead not guilty to constitutional impropriety. On the contrary, what I have done is strictly in accordance with precedent."

Attlee made no reply. He had objected to Bevan's contention that several precautionary words in one of his speeches had been inserted at Bevan's insistence.

Bevan's statement presumably closes his clash with the official leader of the Labor party. No other member of the party sought to involve himself in the controversy.

The fresh row was an echo of the clash which resulted in Bevan's quitting Attlee's cabinet in 1951. Bevan and two supporters resigned because they considered the Attlee government's arms drive was too big and too fast for the wobbly British economy.

Churchill won Parliament's approval yesterday of his plan to stretch out the £4,000,000,000 arms program from three to four years and change the whole pattern of defence to have the country free from bankruptcy.

Bevan reminded Parliament of his long-time position and claimed he personally had persuaded Attlee to insert escape clauses into Britain's rearmament undertakings. The escape clauses were designed to release Britain from her commitments if the United States did not come along with certain kinds of aid.

Attlee claimed this was a cabinet secret and he would not confirm or deny anything Bevan had claimed.

Further Delay
In Peron Rites

Buenos Aires, Argentina, Aug. 1 (Reuters)—President Juan Peron has decreed that the remains of his wife, Eva Peron, shall lie in state at the Ministry of Labor until Aug. 9, it was announced today.

They will then be moved to Congress to lie in state for 24 hours before being placed in the headquarters of the General Confederation of Labor, where they will remain until a mausoleum is built.

The country is gradually beginning to return to normal after the great display of grief following Eva's death Saturday, aged 33, from an undisclosed disease.

With people back at work, the vast queues which earlier congregated around the Labor Ministry to pass the hier where "Evita" is lying in state have dwindled to more manageable proportions.

Army reinforcements were called in to control the crowds after five persons were crushed to death and 2,000 injured Monday.

U.S. Planning For Atomic Powered Ship

By FRANK CAREY
Washington, Aug. 1 (AP)—The United States, reporting progress on atomic-powered submarines and aircraft, today launched a new project: Development of giant atomic-powered warships.

The Atomic Energy Commission announced it had asked the Westinghouse Electric Company to develop an atomic engine capable of propelling "large vessels such as aircraft carriers."

This immediately revived speculation that atom-powered battle-wagons and giant commercial liners such as the Queen Mary and the United States could easily make 100,000-mile cruises at top speed—and without refueling.

Such estimates are based on the fact that a pound of fissionable uranium or plutonium could generate as much power as 1,500 tons of coal or 200,000 gallons of fuel oil.

The A.E.C. announcement came only a few hours after release of its 12th semi-annual report, telling of progress in the development of nuclear-powered aircraft and two different types of atomic engines for submarines.

The fact that A.E.C. awarded the contract for the large-vessel project to Westinghouse indicates it believes that at least one submarine engine project is definitely assured of success.

This appears likely because Westinghouse is building an atomic submarine engine at Arco, Idaho, scheduled to be installed in the navy's projected atomic submarine, the USS Nautilus.

Evidently the navy, too, has no doubts that the engine will work, because the service has already laid the keel of the Nautilus.

Meanwhile, another projected atomic submarine engine is being built by General Electric at West Milton, N. Y.

The designed power of the engines has not been disclosed, but President Truman gave an idea of it when, speaking at the keel-laying of the Nautilus, he said the sub would cruise underwater at "more than 20 knots." Unofficial observers have speculated that atom-powered subs would be able to achieve 35 knots.

Atomic-powered ships could not sail the seas forever—like the storied "Flying Dutchman"—because uranium-fueled atomic furnaces must have their ash dumped, somewhat like a coal furnace at home. And spent fuel would have to be replaced.

But for all practical purposes, their cruising ranges would be unlimited.

Washington, Aug. 1 (AP)—Coast Guard headquarters today made public a photograph of "unidentified aerial phenomena" taken by a Coast Guard photographer.

The photo clearly shows four round objects. Each appears to have two identical shafts of light extended across its centre and protruding at the forward and rear ends. The lights are in a "V" format.

The Coast Guard said Alpert sighted several brilliant white lights through the air station's photo lab window at 9:35 a.m., July 16.

Alpert watched the lights, which "seemed to be wavering" for five or six seconds before attempting to photograph them. By the time he had focused his camera the lights were "considerably dimmed down."

$75,000 Stock Lost In Blaze At Savard Store

Yesterday's noonday blaze at J. A. Savard Limited, department store located at 55 King Street West, sent three local firemen to hospital for treatment and destroyed merchandise worth approximately $75,000.

Director W. P. Donahue and H. N. Brien ambulance rushed Capt. Eugene Fortier, Lieut. L. P. Harton and temporary fireman Jean-Paul Fournier to the Hotel Dieu.

The three members of the Brigade were overcome by smoke but two of them are now back on the job. Capt. Fortier is staying at the Hotel Dieu for a short rest.

Gerard Savard, manager of the store, says damage to stock would run to $75,000.

The entire goods stored in basement of the store which has been serving Sherbrooke for almost 25 years was destroyed.

The ladies department, on the left hand side of the store was badly burned and lesser damage was inflicted on the men's wear department.

The smoke was so thick that dense billows of it went out to the street and a number of stores closed their windows and doors to escape the dense smoke.

A number of other firms adjoining the Savard store were unincapacitated by the blaze.

Office buildings on both sides of the store and above it were affected by smoke and water.

Rouillard Florist's got quite a bit of water but are doing business as usual today. Boudrias photo studio is available for pictures but cannot promise to have them ready before Monday or Tuesday. The barber shop of Coue and Codere, located in the basement, suffered water damage but is open today.

The Bank of Commerce branch, which owns the building, formerly known as the Blue building, was not affected in the fire.

The clothing store of N. Scheib was saved by the alley which separates it from the burning building but so dense was the smoke that the store was forced to close its door.

The J. A. Savard firm hopes to have its men's department functioning again in five or six days. But so badly burned out was the ladies' section that Mr. Savard figures it might take as long as two weeks to open that department.

Furs, dresses, suits and other apparel were lost in the fire which broke out in the basement and cause of which is still unknown.

First word of the fire was spread by Annette Bernier, manager of the ladies' department, who ran up to Mr. Savard and told him there was a fire in the basement.

Mr. Savard quickly alerted about a dozen customers, chiefly women, who were forced to the street, along with six clerks.

An unofficial estimate of damage to the entire building places the figure at about $5,000 although insurance estimators will be around today. The Savard store will have to replace the entire floor space in the main floor and the basement which was in ruins.

Firemen from stations number one and five, commanded by Director W. P. Donahue, responded to the alarm at 11:34 o'clock in the morning and were not able to return to their posts until two o'clock in the afternoon.

The firemen used a new technique in fighting the fire and the very dense smoke.

Three lines with two and one-half inch fog and solid nozzles were employed and two one and one-half inch lines with combination fog nozzles and solid stream.

Director Donahue says the technique was highly successful in combating the fire and smoke and that the fire was really under control by 12:15.

The flames spread so quickly that within three minutes the basement was lost and the store was filled with thick, black smoke.

The loss is partially covered by insurance.

East Angus Man Is Held Responsible In Crash Death Of 20-Year-Old Girl

A coroner's jury at East Angus yesterday found 28-year-old Ovide Godbout criminally responsible for the death of Carmen Gosselin, 20, in a road mishap Wednesday morning.

Dr. Louis Gagnon, district coroner, presided at the inquest. Three persons who appeared as witnesses testified that there were no cows on the road at the time of the tragedy and that Godbout had been drinking.

Godbout had told Provincial Police that he swerved the auto in order to avoid a group of cows on the road and that the car had overturned and landed in a ditch.

Miss Gosselin, who resided at 62 St. John Street in East Angus, died in St. Vincent de Paul Hospital two hours after the crash. She suffered a fractured arm and a cerebral hemorrhage. She was described by Police as Godbout's fiancée.

Godbout, whose address is 33 St. Francis street in East Angus, escaped injury. His car, a 1942-model Dodge sedan, was heavily damaged in the mishap.

The investigation was carried out by Provincial Police detective Andre E. Labbe and Traffic Officer Maurice Lecours.

"Our" Worm Dies But Replacement Is Forthcoming

It seems the Record office will always have live proof that Sherbrooke's water system is in need of filtration.

About an hour before the newspaper went to press, Mrs. F. P. Gingras, who resides at 410 Vimy street, apt. six, phoned to say that a worm came through the tap of her bath tub last night.

What's more, she is bringing it to the Record as an exhibit.

That's fine with us since the bloodsucker bequeathed us by Albert Bradley of 108 Montreal street died during the night. He appeared to be in his fifth or sixth week.

The "thing," as Mrs. Gingras described the 1 1/2-inch worm is the third she has found either in her sink or tub in the last six months.

"The first one," she says, "was a little green snake. The second was a worm. This one puzzles me. It is almost black, even though he is now well-washed with Tide."

"I absolutely refuse to have worms accompany me in the bath," Mrs. Gingras states, adding that she doesn't know what action she can take to remedy the situation.

Development Of Playgrounds Is Urged By Nicol

The improvement of the recreational facilities for Sherbrooke citizens, especially for the children, is one of the most important questions facing the City Council today, declared Everett Nicol, who is seeking election to the City Council in Tuesday's election in the North Ward.

The extreme heat of the present summer has provided ample proof of the need of giving the children adequate parks and playgrounds where they can enjoy themselves in safety during the period of their school vacation.

"A few years ago, the City Council embarked upon the Jacques Cartier park project," he continued, "which was designed to meet the needs of Sherbrooke residents, and especially those of the North Ward, as a centre for summer recreation."

Mr. Nicol declared that if elected he would press for the continued improvement of Jacques Cartier Park and would also work for the improvement of existing playgrounds in other parts of the city.

"The death toll by drownings and street accidents, the large number of injured during the summer season in traffic mishaps indicate that the existing parks and playgrounds are not adequate for the needs of the people," stated the candidate.

Better means for enjoying winter sports are also a prime need, he said, and pledged himself to work for the construction of additional skating rinks, toboggan slides and other means for safe winter amusement.

"Sherbrooke is growing rapidly," he concluded, "and our recreational system must keep pace with the growth of our city. What good is it to have our population increase by two or three thousand people each year if our youngsters cannot find safe and proper places to amuse themselves?"

Mr. Nicol said that he was fully aware of the valuable work done by the present chairman of the Recreation Committee, Ald. Carl Camirand, and by Ald. Sylvio Rousseau, who had headed that committee for several years.

"These men have done a great job," he said, "but I feel that there is a tendency to look upon parks and playgrounds as a sec-

A message from EVERETT NICOL

YOUR CANDIDATE FOR ALDERMAN IN THE NORTH WARD.

In my first message, I stressed my determination to work towards a solution to the water problem existing in Sherbrooke. My attitude remains the same and will remain as long as I represent you, the citizens, in the North Ward.

I will also concentrate my efforts toward the building of more recreational parks for our youngsters. The young ones need good amusements under favorable conditions and I will always be their defendant and their friend.

A sound administration in the interest of the people from my ward and the city of Sherbrooke, the necessary amendments for the progress of our city, economy in all civic departments . . . these are the principal points that I intend to work for at the City Hall.

THE INSECTS ARE ON THE MARCH

This has been quite a year for insects. Grasshoppers in certain areas of the prairies. Tent caterpillars in Ontario and Quebec. Spruce budworms in the Maritimes. Locusts in Brazil, North Africa and southern Europe — let alone the mosquitoes, house flies and black flies which seem always with us.

At one time the insect hordes pretty much had their own way. They stripped bare great areas of forest land and chewed up food crops on which millions of people were dependent. In their wake marched poverty, starvation and disease. It seemed that insects would eventually inherit the earth.

But it is encouraging to note that Man is starting to outsmart the insects. He has developed a wide variety of chemical insecticides which are able to control most species. The simple hand sprayer has developed into great power sprayers capable of covering large insect-infested areas. For coverage of forests and jungles he uses fleets of airplanes and helicopters.

The counter offensive against insects has merely begun. The successful spraying this summer of 200,000 acres of budworm infested forest in New Brunswick to save 2,000,000 cords of pulp wood is indeed encouraging. Almost $2,500,000 was spent in the last three years in the states of Washington and Oregon to save $63,000,000 worth of timber (Douglas fir and white spruce) against the same scourge.

Lessons from these pioneer ventures in large-scale pest control indicates that careful planning, preparation and co-operation are necessary to achieve successful results. If this is done, there need be little fear of devastating insect plagues in Canada.

ALBERTA CONSERVES OIL

Alberta has frowned upon the fast-living oil well. Gone is the day of the Hollywood gusher which ran wild and uncontrolled as it came in, marking the birth of a new well.

There was a time not so long ago when whole oil fields died prematurely because they literally lived too fast. That was when oil wells were allowed to produce at maximum rate, with gas pressure caps dissipating their tremendous oil-lifting energy into the open air and leaving enormous oil pools trapped in the ground forever.

The Alberta Petroleum and Natural Gas Conservation Board, set up in 1938 to guard the Province's underground treasure-house by conserving energy and avoiding excesses, put a stop to all this.

One of the first major problems faced by the Board was the situation at the Turner Valley oil field southwest of Calgary. Tremendous withdrawals of gas, then incidental to the recovery of oil, had been made there during the previous fifteen years.

Wastage reached as high as 500,000,000 cubic feet daily in 1929 alone, reducing the gas pressure needed to bring the oil to the surface. Gas was burned off in big flares, causing a continuous red glow in the sky for miles around and earning the valley the nickname of Hell's Half Acre.

The Board stepped in to preserve the oil field's life. Each well was assigned monthly production quotas based on its productivity, formation, pressure and gas and oil ratio.

At first, many operators resented these strict measures but by the time of the great Leduc oil discovery was made in 1947 conservation was accepted as a blessing to the oil industry along with the spacing of wells to one producer in each 40 acres.

To ensure maximum ultimate recovery of oil from a field, it is necessary to make the most efficient use of gas pressure that drives oil through the rock pores to the well. This pressure is principally due to natural gas which is dissolved in liquid petroleum or is in the form of a gas cap above the fluid level in the formation.

If the oil flow is uncontrolled, gas pressure soon is dissipated. Water rises, blocking off the oil.

The importance of pressure maintenance is obvious when it is considered that under ideal conditions, seldom encountered, only about 80 per cent of any oil deposit can be recovered from the earth. Under modern control methods, the usual recovery ranges from 25 to 75 per cent.

Dissolved gas drive by itself is a very inefficient carrying medium. In oil fields that relied on this process alone, a mere 10 to 30 per cent of the oil was recovered. Thus, in a field that produced 100,000,000 barrels of oil, as much as 900,000,000 barrels might be left unrecoverable.

Today natural gas related to oil recovery is collected at the surface as it escapes and forced back into the ground to maintain pressure or it is separated from the liquid in gas processing plants and marketed.

Under modern conservation practices, new oil wells flow freely only for a brief time just as they are coming in, to flush drilling mud up out of the formation. They they are "choked" off.

THERE'S TOUCH OF OLD GUARD IN LIBERAL NIXON'S RECORD

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington. — (NEA) — The great surprise in the Republican National Convention continues to be the selection of young Sen. Richard M. Nixon of California as vice-presidential candidate. He was General Eisenhower's personal choice. But behind that are a number of circumstances requiring fuller explanation.

Senator Nixon was a California delegate and cast his vote for Gov. Earl Warren as the state's favorite-son candidate for the presidency. But throughout the pre-convention maneuvering, Senator Nixon was Eisenhower's contact man with the Californians and was influential in trying to get pledges for Eisenhower votes to be cast after the delegation should be released by Governor Warren.

Senator Nixon's interest in the Eisenhower movement stemmed from a poll of California Republicans he conducted earlier in the year. To a mailing list numbering over 10,000, Senator Nixon sent queries on preferences for presidential candidates. The replies came back overwhelmingly in favor of General Eisenhower, with Senator Taft a poor second and Governor Warren third. That is what supposedly converted Senator Nixon to General Eisenhower—and vice versa.

The publicly announced reasons for Senator Nixon's selection as vice-presidential candidate were first, his possible appeal to youth, and second, his calculated appeal to the voters at large as a cleaned-up foe of communism.

Held To Eisenhower Foreign Policy

As a bright and starry-eyed young progressive Republican, however, a careful examination of Senator Nixon's voting record in Congress reveals his qualifications as a knight in General Eisenhower's new crusade against the Old Guard.

On foreign affairs, since he got into the Senate two years ago, Nixon has voted pretty consistently in support of the Eisenhower point of view. In 1951 he voted against cuts of economic aid to Europe. He also voted against cuts in military aid. He was for the bill on final passage.

This year he voted five times against cuts in the Mutual Security program and was for the bill on final passage. He voted to add $22 million to Voice of America funds. He voted to limit U. S. troops in Europe to four divisions. But he voted for universal military training and against limitations on the draft. He voted against cuts in U. S. defense and Air Force appropriations.

Previously, as a congressman in the lower House, he had voted against aid to Korea and voted for cutting arms aid to Europe. He was absent and not recorded on the original Point Four bill to give aid to underdeveloped countries. He voted for all the "crippling" amendments to the reciprocal trade agreements program, but he voted for the bill on final passage.

Less Progressive On Domestic Issues

It is on domestic issues that Senator Nixon's voting record shows his affinity for the Old Guard Republican causes.

On farm legislation he has voted consistently for cuts in the soil conservation program. He has voted to cut Rural Electrification loan and administration funds. He was against raising school lunch programs. He sponsored an amendment to cut Department of Agriculture information programs.

On labor legislation, he voted for the Taft-Hartley law, voted for use of this law in the steel strike and voted for abolition of the Wage Stabilization Board. He voted for the Knowland amendment allowing unemployment compensation funds to be used against strikers.

On Social Security he voted to make public the names on relief rolls. In the House he voted against expansion of Social Security. He was for increasing grants to the states for child health this year.

He was against the slum clearance act of 1949 and against financial aid for housing co-operatives the next year. He was against increasing defense public housing programs this year. He has voted consistently to curb and limit rent control authority.

On six votes to close tax loopholes, he voted against four and was absent on two.

He voted for nearly all amendments to cut Department of Interior funds for power and reclamation projects, but voted for the bill on final passage. But he voted against cuts in Bureau of Land Management funds, which would have affected California.

URGE TO DESTROY

Sydney Post-Record

You never find a vandal mutilating anything that is ugly or harmful. Whether it is in destroying gardens—as reported recently to the Gloucester Police—or damaging a statue in a London park, the vandal seems determined to rid the world of grace and beauty in so far as he is capable of doing so.

The savage is latent in everyone but so also is an instinct for good. It is when the beast gains ascendancy over the angel in man, whether in childhood or in the adult who has never matured, that the urge to destroy gets the upper hand.

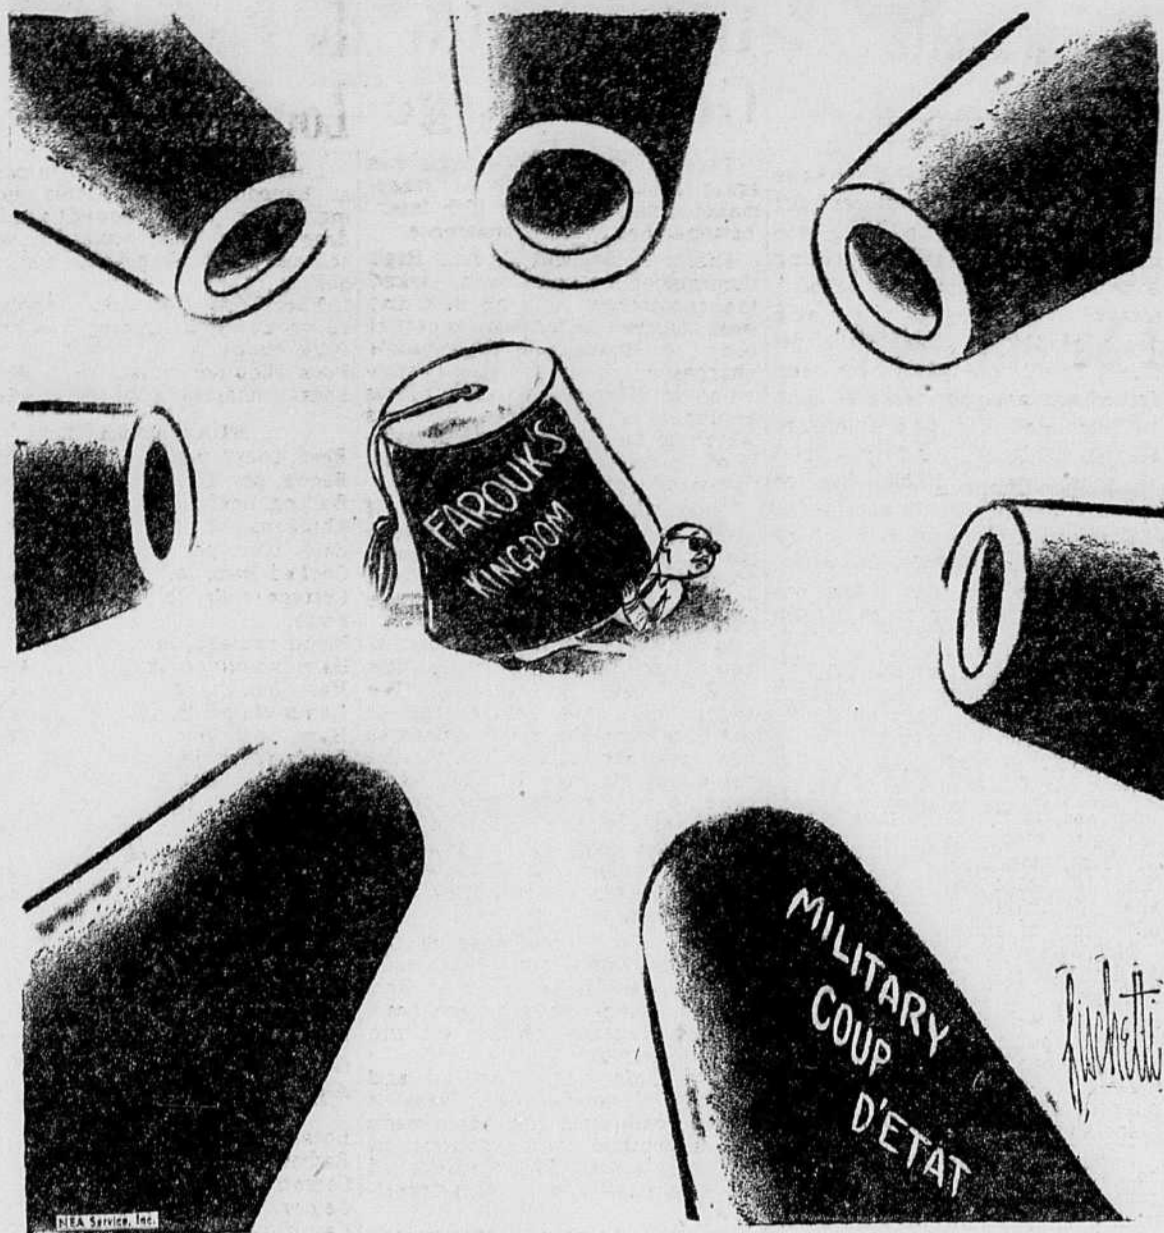

Those having responsibility for the guidance and instruction of children have the obligation of developing them into civilized creatures. But a grown-up vandal sometimes seems beyond redemption. His is a deranged mind and the fit place for him a mental hospital.

Glimpses Into The Past

By BERTHA WESTON PRICE

CHURCHES OF OLD

The building of churches in the Eastern Townships during the past half-century has played an important part in the growth of religious life in the new homeland, especially in rural districts. There have been many changes in the life of churches and when we by accident find an old newspaper, we find news of churches and their doings just as we do of other things. For years our pioneers went to a Sunday service held in a cabin home in the newly-cleared land. They sometimes walked miles, other times rode on an ox-sled, but Sunday was observed as they had been taught in the homes they left behind and the love for Church and all it implied lived in their hearts.

The spirit of Unity was evident in many ways. There were different denominations but they worshipped the same God, and when looking over old papers one may find a news story that gives a glimpse into the past life of churches and their congregations.

In a copy of the News and Advocate of February 5, 1909 we find a little story that will be of interest to those who remember happening as far back as 1909. It tells us that a new Presbyterian Church at Asbestos, Richmond County, was recently dedicated by Rev. H. Carmichael assisted by Rev. C. Woodly, of Danville, and the regular pastor, Rev. J. N. Brunton. For this occasion Rev. Mr. Carmichael was the preacher, who delivered a brilliant and appropriate sermon.

The evening service was conducted by Rev. H. C. Sutherland, of Kingsbury, and Rev. Paul Pergau, of Danville, when their earnest and practical addresses earned attention. Attendance at both services were most encouraging.

On Monday evening a supper and entertainment was held in the basement of the church, an excellent supper being served by the ladies of the church. A meeting of praise was held in the church. Mr. James Pearson presided with ability and Mr. Alex MacLeay, of Danville, read a resolution passed by the trustees of the church praying to other denominations the privilege of using the church for their service subject to mutual arrangement. Mr. H. J. Williams read a statement of the contributions received.

Songs were contributed by Miss Mowat and Mr. Lodge, while the chief feature of the evening was Rev. Whyllie Clark's fine reading of the delightful story, "The Sky Pilot."

AT ORMSTOWN

An important event in the religious and social life of Ormstown was the annual meeting of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church on Feb. 20, 1909. The attendance was good and the financial statements were read showing that the year had been one of progress and one of religious activity.

The chief entertainment of the evening was an address given by Mr. Robert Munro, of Montreal, who spoke on the "Forward Movement." Mr. Munro is an extremely busy man in the city of Montreal, yet has time to devote to his church, Presbyterian, and is a generous contributor. He spoke on the fact that while work for foreign missions are going good the world over, yet there is still much to be done and the Christian Church at large must increase its efforts. Mr. Munro's attendance and practical

DEFENSE IS PLANNED IN TOURNAMENT GAME

One of the advantages of playing against experts in a national tournament is that you know what to expect in the way of defense. You can't afford to base your campaign on the hope that the opponents will blunder if you can find any more reasonable line of play.

In the hand shown today, played by Samuel M. Stayman in last year's championship, the winning line of play is very hard to find. West opened the jack of spades, and Stayman played low from the dummy. East won with the king of spades and returned the suit in order to knock out the entry to dummy's long diamonds.

Declarer led a low diamond from dummy and played the king from his own hand, hoping, but not expecting, that the opponents would take the ace at once. When East played low and West carefully played the deuce of diamonds, Stayman realized that the suit could not be brought in.

West's play of the deuce of diamonds indicated that he held exactly three cards in the suit. (With two, or four, diamonds West would play high-low instead of following suit with his lowest diamond.)

Against ordinary players declarer might lead another diamond in the hope that the player with the ace would hold off once more. Since this could not be expected of experts, Stayman looked for a better plan.

After some thought he found a way to make his contract. Just for the fun of it, look the hand over carefully and see if you can find the right line of play.

Stayman led a low heart from his hand, East won with the nine of hearts, cashed the ace of diamonds, and led his last spade. South won with the queen. Now Stayman hopefully cashed the top

The Record Short Story

SECOND HOMECOMING

By ISABEL JOHNSTON

Curt stepped off the train, an ordinary citizen again. His civilian suit hung loosely on his long frame. Sweating it out, waiting for his discharge, he'd grown thin.

When he came back from World War II, there'd been a band to meet him. This time there was no one. He had not let anyone know the hour or day he was arriving — not even Marna. He didn't want Marna to put on a show of happiness she did not feel. He certainly didn't want any brass band welcome. It would be pretty thick to have a band to celebrate his return to a broken home!

He'd check in at the hotel across from the station. That would be easier until he found out how things stood between Marna and himself. In her letters Marna never mentioned divorce. While he was away in service, she was too good a sport to suggest it. When she wrote, she still began "Darling Curt" and signed off "With much love," but that didn't mean anything. A form she kept up because it was embarrassing to change. The last six months her letters had been short, unsatisfactory, less frequent, with silly excuses about being so busy. It was obvious she was keeping something from him. He could read between the lines. No doubt it was that Ben fellow she'd mentioned casually without ever explaining him.

The hotel room was dreary, but he found himself wanting to postpone the showdown. He didn't blame Marna. When they got married, she was so young, fun-loving and extravagant. Why, she couldn't even add. He'd been the one who insisted on budgets and saving. When he felt they couldn't afford dining and dancing out, she made him dance with her at home. When he was too tired to dance, she turned on the radio and danced by herself for him. They'd never even had a honeymoon. He kept telling himself that some day he'd give her a bang-up good time with all the trimmings. The struggle was tough. At last he owned a home, a car and his own business. The garage did well. Most of his debts were paid, but they never had that bang-up party he'd promised to Marna.

Before he got around to it, he'd been called back into service. Marna had rebelled against his selling his business, his own garage. He hated to sell and have to come back and start all over again. But the sale of the garage would mean foolish, spendthrift Marna would be taken care of while he was away. There hadn't been time for him to wind things up himself. He'd been forced to leave it to Marna to sell everything. She'd stalled along. Finally he'd written her sternly to sell at any price. Then she could join him at the post. Soon afterwards she wrote the business was sold. But she never did join him. Maybe it was just as well. Soon after that he'd been sent to Germany. His suspicions first started because she was so vague about the price she got for the business. She didn't answer his questions. He stopped asking. He didn't know whether she'd been rooked and didn't want to admit it, or whether too much cash had sent her into an orgy of spending. He told her to keep the money for herself, and try to make it last. Of course, he sent her an allotment, too. Ben was helping her with the budget, she said. He never did learn the fellow's last name. Angriely he demanded who on earth was Ben!

"Didn't I tell you about him?" "All right," she agreed. "Curt couldn't get into the party spirit. He couldn't find much to say. Marna made up for it, laughing and chattering about nothing. Just as he had promised for so long, they had a bang up party with all the trimmings. They dined at the most expensive place in town. They danced. They drank champagne. The party fell flat. It wasn't as much fun as the evenings they spent at home, dancing to the radio. Of course, Ben hadn't come into the picture in those days. As the evening wore on, Curt managed to laugh and talk about nothing. But the more they laughed and talked without saying anything the worse the tension grew. At last it got too much for Marna.

"I've got to tell you," Marna said. "I didn't want to tell, until you came home." "I've suspected all along," Curt cut her short. "But if you want to marry Ben, I won't stand in your way." "Marry Ben?" She gave a nervous laugh. She put on a good show of being amazed. No doubt, she was amazed that he had guessed. "I'm not blaming you, Marna," he went on. "You were a good little sport through all those tough struggles, pinching and saving so I could run my own business. I don't blame you for not wanting to go through it all over again with a man who hasn't even a job."

She stared at him, then suddenly seemed to make up her mind. "Look Curt, this place is too noisy to talk in. Let's go over to the diner connected with your old garage. It will be quiet there."

"You think the guy who bought it might give me a job?" he couldn't help saying bitterly. "I know he will!" she said with enthusiasm.

On the way over, she hummed, actually humming. She seemed to think a job for Curt would make it all right to accept the divorce. No doubt she felt pretty happy, getting a divorce so easily. The diner was quiet and attractive. They sat down in a booth. The fat old waiter came hurrying with coffee. Somehow it hurt Curt the way Marna smiled so radiant, now that she was getting what she wanted.

Then Marna was saying something, introducing the old waiter. "This is Ben," she said loudly. "Ben," Curt repeated stupidly. Ben was bald and fat, but hardly a banker.

"I'm so hopeless at business, I knew you'd worry. So I lied. I didn't sell the garage at all, but Ben here helped me." Marna explained happily. "We couldn't do repairs, but we kept the filling station going and with this diner, we made it pay."

WATCHFUL RESTRAINT

It is a bulwark of our democracy that the party in power should be subject to the watchful restraint of opposition. This affords protection for the electorate and frequently has been a salvation of the administration itself. Top-heavy governments are sometimes their own undoing—Indian Head (Sask.) News.

Family Drama Featured By Knowlton Group

By MARGARET DOHERTY Knowlton, Aug. 1—The Brae Manor players scored another success this week with their offering of Lesley Storm's "Black Chiffon," a psychological drama written around the sudden strange behaviour of a supposedly normal middleclass Englishwoman.

Not a great play, it nevertheless has a goodly amount of suspense and definite audience appeal, if one is to judge from the enthusiastic reception it received at the Knowlton Playhouse.

The production was the first in this part of Canada, although the drama was acclaimed in London a few years ago and its star, Flora Robson, introduced it later on Broadway.

Black Chiffon is the story of Alicia Christie, middleaged mother of two grown-up children who—on the eve of her son's wedding—wears a black chiffon nightgown from a local store.

Her not too understanding husband, played in convincingly pompous style by Filmore Sadler, is of course upset when he hears that the wife to whom he claims to have given everything must appear in court charged with common theft.

A psychiatrist, endeavouring to help the distraught woman who can offer no reason for her unusual act, learns that all is not well between the son, Roy, and his father, and that the latter has shown unreasonable jealousy of his child since birth.

He also discovers that, because of the father's antipathy, mother and son have grown closer and that there exists between them a strong bond of affection.

A subconscious rebellion against the boy's marriage and the severing of that bond, although she is not the motive for Mrs. Christie's strange act, and the theft is committed after she sees Louise, the bride-to-be, wearing a black chiffon nightgown.

The Doctor is sympathetic, and seeing Mrs. Christie as a normal woman with a mother's natural affection for her child, plans to use the story for her defence. The husband with the eyes of the world, however, views the situation in a different light and Alicia, fearing that her son's future will be ruined if the public is made to believe the relationship between them was an unnatural one, refuses to defend herself and as the play closes, starts a three months' prison sentence.

Extra Drilling At Lafayette Mine Planned

Montreal, Aug. 1—J. C. Rene Martin, consulting engineer for Lafayette Asbestos Co. Ltd., estimates that the diamond drilling done so far has partially blocked a total of 31,328,000 tons of ore at a depth of 300 feet below the pit floor. Twenty-one holes have been drilled and assayed, one hole is to be completed and five holes are actually drilling. This form a total of approximately 13,500 feet of drilling.

Diamond drilling to date proves that all holes are of commercial grade as to quantity. The ore formation actually blocked is 485 feet wide and 2,700 feet long; some 104,760 tons of ore per vertical foot are partially blocked within this zone and the average of the ore, excluding granite, is 7.7 per cent.

To complete the diamond drilling program for blocking operations and, at the same time, prove the total width, shape and dip of the formation, it is recommended that 14 holes, spaced 200 feet apart, be drilled. This will require 6,200 feet of additional drilling.

Mr. Martin considers that, if the drilling program recommended is approved, a large tonnage of good grade ore will be fully blocked in a short period. Meanwhile, the area between the ore body and the main road will be surveyed for the purpose of laying out the crusher plant and mill site.

The president, Henri Crepeau, has announced that the final program of diamond drilling and the immediate purchase of a bulldozer to speed up mining operations have been approved by the board of directors.

The unfortunate fact is—and no man of goodwill will deny it—the conference has been made into a political forum, political in its worst sense. The presence of the Communists made this inevitable.

At the conference preliminary hearings last week, each Chinese delegation protested the presence of the other. Conference heads decided to seat both groups.

There was little activity during yesterday's sessions as more than 600 delegates visited Niagara Falls to tour a $300,000,000 expansion project of the Ontario Hydro Commission.

Dr. J. Heng Lieh, head of the delegation, told a press conference he was leaving because the Red Chinese delegation had been seated and because of its attitude since it arrived.

India Urges Inquiry Into Germ Charge

Toronto, Aug. 1—India has again adopted the role of peace-maker, this time at the 18th International Red Cross Conference.

Shari R. Sakena, India's High Commissioner to Canada, asked the conference to bring east and west together to form an impartial body to investigate Communist charges of United Nations atrocities in Korea. He said he was confused by conference meetings which so far have consisted mainly of Communist charges and hastily-passed votes ignoring them.

One of the main centres of attack by the Soviet bloc has been the International Committee composed of 25 Swiss citizens. Communist delegates have termed the Committee a tool of the west.

"It is not sufficient merely to pass resolutions endorsing the I.C.C.," said Mr. Sakena. "We should have taken advantage of the presence here of delegates who are not satisfied with the operations of the I.C.C., and tried to reduce their grievances."

One of the first effects of the Communist propaganda appeared yesterday when the Chinese Nationalist delegation withdrew from the conference.

Dr. J. Heng Lieh, head of the delegation, told a press conference he was leaving because the Red Chinese delegation had been seated and because of its attitude since it arrived.

Smuggling Case Set For Thursday

The case of Armand Omer Roux, 29, of Princeville, has been postponed until next Thursday. Roux, who was found in possession of 162,000 U. S. cigarettes on which duty had not been paid and a quantity of U. S. tobacco, appeared in local court yesterday.

R.C.M.P. officers arrested him at St. Malo d'Auckland after a chase of several miles. His car overturned in a ditch and he was arrested then. He is out on bail of $500.

POLIO'S CRIPPLING EFFECTS CUT BY PROPER EARLY TREATMENT

By Edwin P. Jordan, M. D.
It isn't always easy to identify polio early and yet this is one of the most important things to do if treatment is to be effective as present methods permit.

One reason for this is that the early signs of polio are almost exactly the same as those of many other acute infections or virus diseases.

Actually, it is stated, probably correctly, that when the nervous signs of polio become evident, the disease has already existed for several days.

Furthermore, no two patients with the disease show exactly the same symptoms. As a result, even when a definite diagnosis has been made, skilled judgment and experience are necessary in order to choose those methods of treatment best suited to that particular patient.

It should be said also that good care by the physician is not the only important aspect of treatment. There are few diseases in which good nursing and physical therapy are as important in getting good results as in polio.

The muscular paralysis which comes on after the first few days of the disease is accompanied by painful muscle spasms. These can be greatly relieved by hot wet packs, properly applied, and by nursing care. The skin tenderness which is so common is also helped by such treatments.

At the time when the disease is acute every effort has to be made to keep the muscles in the best possible condition so that they will respond to the later treatments and training. Bed rest is, needless

Fund Equips Hospitals
Many hospitals are now well equipped to handle patients with polio. Much of this has been made possible by the funds made available to them through the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, to which so many generous-hearted citizens throughout the country have contributed.

Medical science is constantly searching for new methods of treatment. Several drugs are used for certain aspects of the disease with moderate success. Although a sure cure for all victims of the disease has not been discovered, proper treatment given early enough eases pain and lessens the chances of crippling complications.

Aussie Army Has Enough Regulars, Lacks Reservists

By LIONEL HUDSON
Melbourne, Australia—(Reuters)—Australia, with more volunteers for Korean duty than it can use, has no shortage of manpower for its regular armed forces but lacks men for the reserve forces which would comprise the bulk of its troops in any future full-scale war.

Defence authorities face the prospect that their plan to have a backlog of 184,000 trained fighting men ready by the middle of next year may misfire. That is the minimum level of preparedness set by the federal government for 1953.

Recruits have been flowing in according to plan for the permanent elements of all three services. But defence leaders say that these regulars are not backed by anything like sufficient volunteer reserve forces for rapid expansion in an emergency.

Lt.-Gen. Sir Horace Robertson, Australia's director-general of recruiting, has warned the country that if war broke out in the near future, it would be forced to go through the same dangerously slow procedure, followed in other wars—raising, training and equipping expeditionary forces after the war started.

In the last 15 months, the Royal Australian Navy, air force and army have enlisted nearly 20,000 regulars. This is considered to be the most they can absorb and train without over-draining industry's manpower.

As for the war in Korea, the army now has a bigger bank of recruits than it will need to reinforce Australia's two battalions operating with the United Nations forces for some time to come. Well-informed sources say a decision will have to be made whether recruiting for Korea is to be halted or a third battalion raised.

Two thirds of the target of 184,000 trained fighting men for general defence were scheduled to be drawn from the citizen military forces, the R.A.A.F. active reserve and the R.A.N. reserve—part-time servicemen who could undergo training without affecting national economy.

But few of the 500,000 men in the 18-to-25 age groups have volunteered for service on these conditions. A citizen army-volunteer has only one 14-day continuous camp a year, plus regular evening parades and occasional week-end camps. Active reservists in the R.A.A.F. train for a minimum of 28 days a year; navy reservists are called up for 13 days a year and spend a week at sea. They also attend training classes at night.

At present, 16,800 18-year-old Australian youths are undergoing compulsory training each year but unless they volunteer to do so they need not serve outside Australia.

Australia so far has opposed conscription for overseas service.

The bride was the former Miss Audrey Bradshaw, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Bradshaw, of Bedford. The groom is the son of the late Mr. R. L. Craighead and Mrs. Craighead, of Bedford.

MARRIAGES

CRAIGHEAD—BRADSHAW

Bedford, Que., Aug. 1. — The marriage of Audrey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Bradshaw, of Bedford, to Mr. Richard W. Craighead, son of the late Mr. R. L. Craighead and Mrs. Craighead, of Bedford, took place on Saturday afternoon, July 26, at half-past four o'clock, in St. James' Anglican Church, Bedford, the Rev. F. W. Gedy of St. John's Church, Beauce, officiating. Mrs. H. W. Jones played the wedding music and Mr. Alexander MacArthur sang during the signing of the register. White gladioli were used to decorate the church.

The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a gown of white lace over tulle, having a moulded bodice with a Peter Pan collar, long fitted sleeves and a full skirt. Her veil of tulle illusion was held by a small lace cap and she carried a bouquet of baby's breath, Pinocchio roses and white heather, sent from Scotland.

Mrs. John Ewing, as matron of honor, and Mrs. William Jackson, sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. J. F. Davidson and Miss Elizabeth Bradshaw, sisters of the bride, as attendants, wore frocks of net over tulle, the matron of honor being in hyacinth blue and the attendants in pale mauve, dusty pink and buttercup yellow respectively. They wore small caps caught with large tulle bows to match and bracelets of sweet peas. Little Miss Pam Davidson, niece of the bride, as flower girl, was in a short frock of white nylon, smocked in pale pink and blue. She wore a matching bandeau and carried a nosegay of rosebuds and cornflowers.

Mr. Eric Jones acted as best man for his cousin, and the ushers were Mr. William Jackson, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, Mr. W. MacIntyre Bradshaw, brother of the bride, and Mr. Fred Gilman. Mrs. Bradshaw, the bride's mother, was gowned in grey lace tulle and wore a large black hat and a corsage bouquet of Pinocchio roses.

Mrs. Craighead, mother of the bridegroom, wore a gown of rose chiffon and lace with a small pastel blue feather hat and a corsage of sweet peas and Pinocchio.

The reception was held in the Masonic Temple Hall, decorated with sweetpeas in pastel shades. Later Mr. and Mrs. Craighead left for Cape Cod, Mass., and the Maritimes, the bride travelling in an off-white gabardine suit and wearing a natural color straw hat with brown accessories and a corsage of gardenias.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Dow, Mrs. M. Safford, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Safford, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Blackwood, Sutton; Mrs. Alex Meldrum and Miss Elspeth Mel-

Taking his tin can, a spout and handle from an old metal tea pot, he contrived to solder them together and with a good polish presented a very useful household article. Swimming Records Set As U. S. A. Gains 2 Points On Leading Russia

Helsinki, Aug. 1.—The Olympic point-scoring race between Russia and the United States came almost to a full stop today although the two leaders moved into the basketball final for another crack at each other and swimming records went tumbling into the Olympic pool.

Joan Harrison of South Africa won the only swimming final of the day—the women's 100-metre back-stroke. Records were cracked repeatedly in preliminaries of other swimming events.

Barbara Stark, 15-year-old swimmer from California, placed fifth behind Miss Harrison and that position gave the United States two points—the only points scored by either the United States or Russia

Davis Cup Draw Set For Today

The stage is set for the second round of the North American Davis Cup tie between Canada and Mexico. Lorne Main and Pedro Vega meet in the first match this afternoon while Brendan Macken takes on Mario Llamas in today's second singles match.

Feeling around the Mount Royal Tennis Club after the draw yesterday was that the pairings were the best possible from a spectator point of view. Main is confident he can take Vega. Both players are considered to be their team's No. 2 men.

The Macken-Llamas match will be the key match. Should Macken defeat Llamas it is reasonable to assume that he will not have too much trouble with Vega while the same holds true for Llamas in respect to Main.

The doubles team for Mexico will be Llamas and Manuel Galeana who many thought would play singles instead of Playing Captain Vega. The Canadian team was not announced although Macken and Main, barring long five-set battles today, will probably go for Canada. In the event that Canada loses a single match today, Henri Rochon may be pressed into service for the doubles.

Vega would have liked to meet Macken today rather than Main. He prefers playing against a hard stroke over his match with Macken.

The names were pulled out of a sombrero by Dr. A. Mana, Mexican consul general.

Brooklyn Dodgers Return To Form With 2 Wins Over Bucs; Giants Lose

Brooklyn Dodgers boosted their National Baseball League lead to six games yesterday by sweeping two from Pittsburgh Pirates while New York Giants lost to Chicago.

St. Louis polished off Boston 8-3, behind Vinegar Bend Mizell to move within four games of the second-place Giants in the tightening race. Fourth place Philadelphia and Cincinnati were idle.

Bobby Shantz' 19th win of the season was the big daytime news in the American where the Philadelphia Athletics swept a pair from Detroit, 2-1 and 3-2. Shantz won the first game with a four-hitter and the Athletics rallied with three in the ninth to take the second for Alex Kellner.

Cleveland shoved Boston Red Sox a little deeper into third place by scoring six in the eighth to win 8-2 for Bob Lemon's 12th win. That gave the Indians two out of the three from the Red Sox in the series. Joe Tipton's homer touched off the big rally in the eighth.

Jan Landrum, a rookie just recalled from Fort Worth where he had a 15-10 record with his first big league start for Brooklyn in the second game 4-1, after the Dodgers took the first 7-6.

Relief pitcher Paul Lapsalm walked George Shuba on four straight pitches to force Rocky Bridges across the plate with the run that meant the opening-game victory. Bridges' single, a sacrifice and passed ball and two intentional walks set it up.

Royals Star To Leave Other Behind

Montreal Royals are slowly but surely pulling away from the rest of the pack in the once-congested International League pennant race.

Montreal defeated Buffalo Bisons 4-3 last night to increase their lead to 5 1/2 games over the runner-up Rochester Red Wings. Royals also enjoy a nine-game "boss" column.

Royals opened a four-run lead in three innings and Gil Mills appeared headed for an easy victory. Mills weakened in the seventh and was relieved in the ninth by Johnny Podres. Charlie Thompson's two-run homer in the third turned out to be the winning blow.

Rochester dropped a 3-1 decision to Springfield Cubs as rookie Al Larry stunned Wings with a five-hitter. Larry retired 19 men in order in one stretch, fanned six and walked none. Rip Repulski accounted for Rochester's only run by leading off the game with a home run.

The defeat also endangered Wings' grip on second place. Third-place Syracuse pulled to within one-half game of Rochester by turning back Ottawa Athletics 4-0 behind the two-hit pitching of Jack Griffore. Griffore fanned seven and didn't walk a batter. Claude Cobbitt and Johnny Blatni with three hits apiece, and Fenton Molen with a two-run triple, led Syracuse's 10 hit attack.

Baltimore's climbing Orioles tied Buffalo for fifth place by trouncing Toronto Maple Leafs 5-2. Marv Rackley led Baltimore's hit attack against Leaf Ace Johnny Hetki with four hits.

The eight girls with the fastest times in the semi-finals qualified.

Cheer Russian Defeat
The United States sent five men into the boxing semi-finals but the greatest cheer from the American rooting section went to a gangling South African heavyweight.

He is Alfred Nieman, 23-year-old carpenter from the gold fields of the Orange Free State. He knocked out Algirdas Schockas, pride and joy of the formidable Russian boxing brigade, in the first round.

The Americans let loose with a mighty whoop and the Finns and others joined in when the left-handed South African, a 185-pounder, smashed the previously undefeated Russian to the floor for the full count in less than a minute.

The first half of the high diving event at Olympic pool found Major Sammy Lee of the United States well out in front with 86.33 points. Joaquin Capilla of Mexico was second with 78.46. Gunther Haase of Germany was third and Joan McCormack of the United States fourth.

But it was in the swimming race that the pool excitement centred.

Joan Harrison swept to the women's 100-metre backstroke championship in 1:14.3, a time that would have been an Olympic record but for the 1:13.8 made by Geertje Wielema of Holland in a trial heat two days ago.

Miss Wielema placed second today and Joan Stewart of New Zealand was third.

Portelance Makes It
Leo Portelance of Ocean Falls, B.C., caught 15th qualifying point—16 got by—in the terrific heat struggles in the men's 200 metre breast stroke event.

Fastest man in the heats was Jerry Holan of the United States, timed in two minutes, 36.8 seconds, a mark that broke the Olympic record of 2:39.3 made at London four years ago. Herbert Klein of Germany and Ludevit Komadel of Czechoslovakia also bettered the old mark and Bowen Stasforth of the United States tied it.

U.S. Women Divers Qualify In Top Spots

Helsinki, Aug. 1.—(AP)—All three United States women high divers qualified today for the women's championship round at the end of a preliminary series in the Olympic high-board competitions.

Paced by Mrs. Patricia McCormick, 22-year-old California housewife, the girls finished 1-2-3 among a field of 16 trying to qualify for eight places in the finals tomorrow.

Second was 17-year-old Paula Jean Myers, Covina, Calif., high school student. Third was Mrs. June Stover Irwin of Los Angeles.

Mrs. McCormick's official point total was 51.25, Miss Myers 44.22 and Mrs. Irwin's 43.60.

Other qualifiers were: Nicole Pellissard, France, 43.59; Tatjana Vereina, Russia, 43.26; Hylis Long, Great Britain, 43.25; Diana Spetser, Great Britain, 43.16; and Evgenija Bogdanovskaja, Russia, 40.67.

Hungarian Considered To Retain Sabre Title

Helsinki, Aug. 1.—(AP)—Hungary today places all three of its fencers in the finals of the Olympic individual sabre championship, with one of them tabbed as the favorite for the gold medal.

Jose De Capriles of New York was eliminated after winning two matches. He was the United States' only remaining competitor.

Aladar Gerevich, 41-year-old Hungarian, is considered the likely gold medalist after his four wins in the semi-finals today. He is defending champion, having won at London in 1938, and is last year's world titlist.

Other Hungarians to advance into the finals were Tibor Bercezzelli with three victories and Pal Kovacs with five triumphs.

France placed only one man, Jacques Lefevre, into the finals. Elimination of another Frenchman, Jean Levassasseur, who was regarded as one of the top choices in the sabre event, came as a surprise.

Italy's two best fencers, Gastone Dare and Enzo Pinto, breezed into the last round. Italian Renzo Noetini withdrew because of a stomach ailment.

Austria placed Werner Plattner and Heinz Lechner.

Dick Mayer, With 65, All-American Golf

Chicago, Aug. 1.—(AP)—Dick Mayer, 28-year-old pro from St. Petersburg, Fla., today led a par-crunching array of Pros into the second round of the $30,000 All-American golf tourney.

Mayer shot a seven-under-par 65 to take a one-stroke lead over Jim Turnesa, National Professional Golfer's Association champ.

Turnesa had four 67-shooters on his heels after yesterday's opening drive over Tam O'Shanter's Gay Acres. There were 45 scores under par 72, including the 71 shot by Stan Leonard of Vancouver.

You could take your pick among solid performers and dark horses as to who might be ahead when the 72-hole chase for top prize of $3,420 ends Sunday.

Knotted at 67, two strokes behind Mayer, were Ted Rhodes, hunting the first top-drawer win by a negro; Bob Gadjia, another lesser light; and two well-tried hands, the incomparable Sammy Sneed and Johnny Palmer, recent Canadian open winner.

Slugged Cage Referee Returns At Olympics

Helsinki, Aug. 1.—(AP)—Bulgaria today defeated France 58-44 to win seventh place in the Olympic basketball tournament.

The score was tied at halftime, 22-22.

Referee Vincent Farrell of Newark, N.J., returned to work for the first time since he was slugged and kicked by two Uruguayan players at the end of a game Monday. Farrell seemed to have a little difficulty in covering the court. He finished the game in good condition, however.

NEW CENTREPOISE POWER — Brings new smoothness, new freedom from vibration to your rest motoring; for the engine is now gently cradled between the mountings and cushioned in soft rubber.

POWER-JET CARBURETION — (with automatic choke in Powerglide models). Improved starting and smoother acceleration are achieved by better fuel flow and a fast acting accelerator pump.

SOFTER, SMOOTHER RIDE — Chevrolet's famous Knee-Action ride is now better than ever. All passengers, in both front and rear seats, enjoy a much smoother, softer, more comfortable ride, due to new and improved shock absorber action.

EXTRA-SMOOTH, EXTRA DEPENDABLE POWERGLIDE — Combined with 105-h.p. Valve-in-Head Engine with Automatic Choke — gives finest no-shift driving, at lowest cost. (Optional on De Luxe models at extra cost).

39-YEAR PROVED VALVE-IN-HEAD ENGINE DESIGN — Constantly improved and refined over the years, it brings you outstanding performance, reliability and economy; and as a result, it is setting the trend for the industry.
