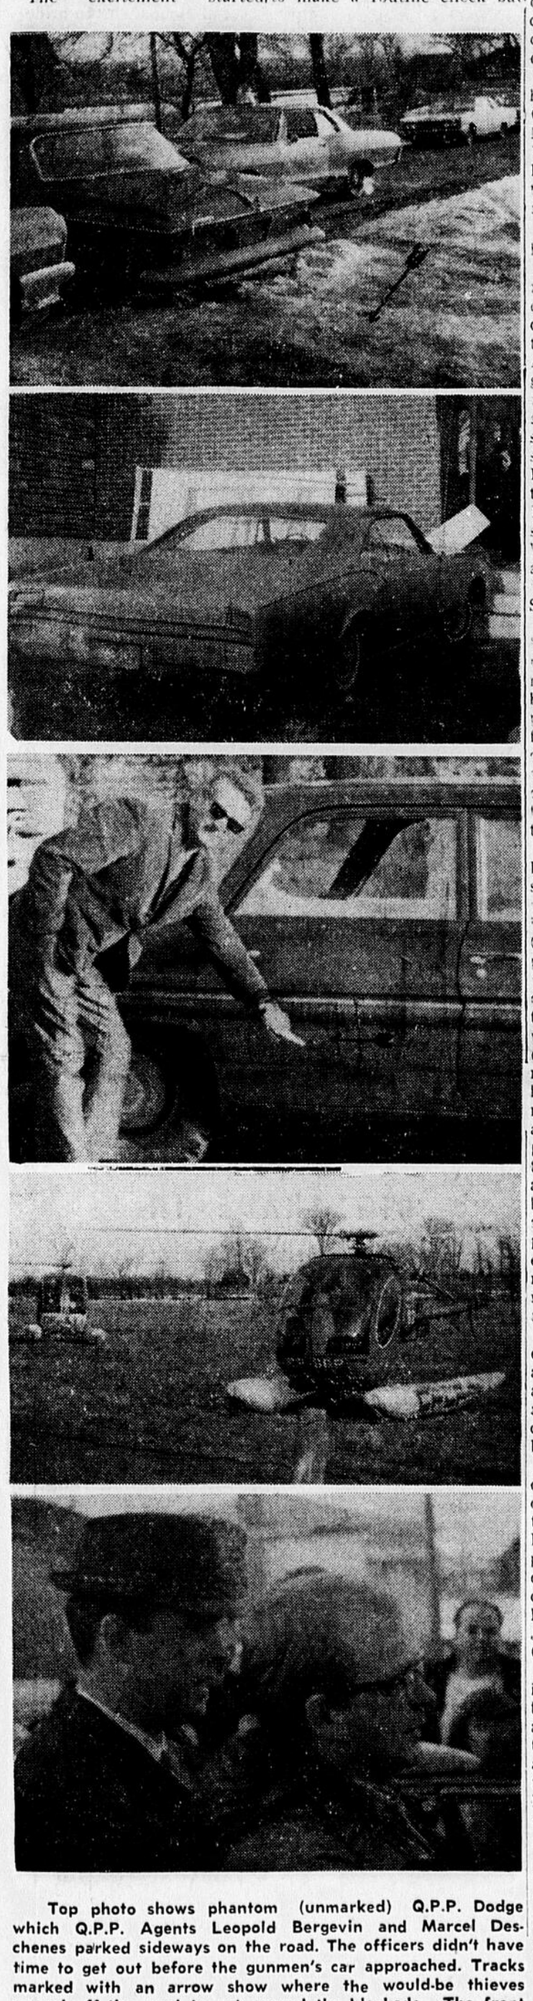
Ormstown, St. Antoine Areas Scene of Exciting Manhunt Early Monday Afternoon

Three heavily armed gunmen suspected of planning to rob the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce at Ormstown early Monday afternoon had their ambitions foiled, but not before one Quebec Provincial Policeman was shot in the right hand.

The excitement started shortly after two p.m., when three men dressed in overall-type light blue snowsuits commonly used by sportsmen parked their 1965 Oldsmobile Jetstar two-door hardtop near the bank. An officer, probably alerted that the trio were strangers, approached the car to make a routine check but before he got close, the car gunned off in the direction of St. Antoine.

The QPP officer gave chase at the same time radioing for additional QPP help from Ste Martine. Reaching St. Antoine in a chase at speeds up to 100 m.p.h., the gunmen's car turned left and the chase continued. A "phantom" QPP cruiser (unmarked Dodge sedan) in the St. Chrysostome area received the message for help and this car, manned by Officers Leopold Bergevin and Marcel Deschenes of the Ste Martine detachment, reached Bourdeau's corner at Russelltown Flats just ahead of the alleged robbers' car.



Bergevin and Deschenes had just enough time to swing their car sideways across the road. Before they could get out, the gunmen's car bore down on them, swinging to the left to avoid the roadblock As they passed, two of the gunmen fired at the police car, shattering the windows and putting holes in the sides of it. One of the shots struck Agent Leopold Bergevin in the right hand, taking one of his fingers off The gunman driving couldn't swing his car back onto the highway, nor could he stop it and the car rammed into the west wall of the Bourdeau Store.

Evidently unharmed, the trio jumped out, firing at the police car and also at a late model Pontiac sedan owned by a Mr. Brown who is employed at the H. L. Gilmore farm, nearby. One man ran off between a garage and a grocery store on the opposite corner while the other two took off in a southerly direction.

Chief Joffre L'Heureux of Huntingdon was in St. Chrysostome, two miles away, when all this occurred. He immediately phoned The Gleaner who dispatched a reporter to the scene. On arrival, at 3:15, the usually quiet corner was humming with activity. At least a dozen police cars had converged and officers with semi-automatic rifles were everywhere. Two helicopters from Montreal arrived and police were taken aboard. Shortly after, two police cars sped off and returned in a few minutes with a plump, baby-faced, brown-haired man about 25 years of age. The gunman looked composed and his hands weren't even shaking as he lit a cigarette. He was put into the rear of a QPP car, handcuffed and taken away.

The search for the two who escaped continued, from the air and on the ground. Several tips were chased down but as darkness approached it became evident the pair wouldn't be caught that night.

The search continued at daybreak Tuesday, but at time of writing (two p.m. Tuesday) the escapees were still at large. It is believed accomplices are attempting to make contact with the gunmen because a car turned onto a little-used sideroad near St Johns but sped off when a QPP car approached.

The police have released information to the effect that the man apprehended Monday afternoon is from Bedford and that he has a previous criminal record. They also know the identity of the two at large, both reported to be ex-convicts.

Next picture shows the 1965 Oldsmobile Jetstar where it went out of control and struck the west wall of the Bourdeau Store. The culprits left a .22-calibre revolver, a .22 rifle and a sawed-off .12 shotgun in the car. They took rifles with them when they ran off. The get-away car is believed to be a stolen vehicle.

Third photo shows an officer pointing to where a bullet struck a police car. Arrow also points to spot.

Heavily-armed police officers, tracking dogs and the two helicopters shown in the next picture were all used in the search.

The sandy-haired suspect shown being prodded along by a Q.P.P. officer was found cowering knee-deep in water in a creek about a mile from where the trio made their break on foot. He surrendered without resistance and greeted the police with "Bonjour" when he was found. He appeared to be a callous cuss and merely looked bored when a set of handcuffs were locked on his wrists. Standing almost shoulder-to-shoulder with the gunman for the best part of a minute, your reporter asked him his name. He smiled and was about to make an answer (maybe we couldn't print it) but the police broke up the brief interview.

Echo of Past Parolee, Back In Court

Condemned to death in 1949, freed four years ago, a man was brought into court in Montreal last week under a charge of assault on an officer.

The accused, Gavin Patenaude, 33, had resisted arrest early on Saturday morning in a cabaret on St. Laurent St. When the officer tried to talk to him, he swung his fists at him.

He denied his culpability to judge Hébert, on Saturday morning, all present were surprised when they learned that he had previously been condemned for murder.

In 1949, Patenaude, then 16 had killed a taxi driver father of seven children, of Huntingdon. The death penalty was commuted to life imprisonment; he was released in August 1962, on parole.

Less than 4 years later, he is again appearing before Justice.

Excellent Amateur Show Put On at H. H. S.

On Saturday evening, an amateur show was staged in the auditorium of the Huntingdon High School, by a committee of the students Attendance was not up to capacity and this was probably due to the fact that a number of the surrounding roads leading into town were flooded. Water was rising quite fast in some places and people felt it would be better to watch things than to leave them. Those who were in attendance however, were given a very good concert.

The program consisted of individual numbers, musical vocal and dancing and some short skits in between. There was variety and it was quite modern in parts. For instance two dance numbers featured "Go-Go" girls on stands with colored lights around the edges as footlights for the individual stages. In one there were three girls, while in the other there were two. The latter wore tights, while the former were in type of "Go-Go" dresses. Music was by recordings and the girls kept perfect time to the rhythm in all their actions.

A skit on "Little Red Riding Hood" was quite good, it actually was a take-off on the popular children's story and produced a lot of laughter "Baptiste Hunts the Bear" was another comedy skit that was well done.

Miss McCullough and her French Canadian Folk Singers were listened to with rapt attention. The girls and one boy sang very well in French and the words were quite clear. Miss McCullough was the director. She was also staff advisor for the Program, etc.

"Tax and How the West Was Won" was another skit by Diana Salter and the audience was very much amused by it. The Salter Sisters gave a number of vocal selections and these were all very good.

Barbara Smith gave the only piano solo, playing two selections that were well received.

A ballet dance by three dancers was quite well done and won a round of applause.

Folk Singers Pat McNaughton and Judi Kahn received a nice applause for the two numbers they sang.

At the intermission the drawing for the door prize was made and this went to a lady in the audience. In presenting this two characters appeared on the stage from out of the audience and one picked a ticket to which there was no claim. The other made a draw and this one brought forth the winner. There were a number of antics by the two characters and they escorted the winner to the stage to receive the prize. It provided something different in the presentation of a prize and helped out the intermission period. Alo during this time the C.G.I.T. held a sale of candy and we understand they added quite a sum to their funds.

All in all it was a very good concert and all in attendance seemed to enjoy it.

Principal of Ecole Jean XXIII, Ormstown Killed In Accident

Ormstown has lost another leading citizen in the person of Mr. Gerald Quenneville, 30-year-old principal of Ecole Jean XXIII in that town and father of five children. Mr. Quenneville was instantly killed shortly after seven p.m. on Route 14 about two miles north of town when his car struck the rear of a parked truck.

Mr. Quenneville was born at Ste. Agnes de Dundee on July 21st, 1935, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elie Quenneville. He attended Ste. Agnes School and later at Huntingdon, where he graduated from St. Joseph's School. He obtained his Bachelor of Arts at Ecole Normale Jacques-Cartier in Montreal and was studying for his Bachelor of Science at Valleyfield Seminary. When the tragic accident occurred, he was on his way to attend a lecture there.

The deceased taught school in Herdman and Beauharnois before taking up residence in Ormstown seven years ago. He had been principal at Ecole Jean XXIII for the past five years and also taught Grade Seven in that school.

Gerald Quenneville, bilingual and blessed with a pleasing personality, was respected and popular with all people of all ages in Ormstown and vicinity. He was active in sports and community work and his loss creates a void in the hearts of many.

Besides his wife, the former Beatrice Guerin of Ormstown, the deceased leaves his children, Diane 9 years old, Daniel 7, Francois 6, Helene 4 and Roger two; his parents Mr. and Mrs. Elie Quenneville of Huntingdon; his sister Jeannine (Mrs. Eric Sedgwick of Huntingdon); his brothers, Alexis of Beloeil, Desmond of Malone, N.Y., Leon of Lachine and Jean Marc, at home.

The funeral will be held Friday morning with Reverend Father J. Larocque officiating. Interment will be in Ormstown.

Town Council Discusses Plans For Centennial Project

The regular monthly meeting of the Town Council was held on Monday, March 7th., with all members present.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

Also the bills for February.

A representative of the "Villains" hockey club asked the council for help. The team was awarded a $50 grant.

A letter from the Catholic School Board of Huntingdon asking the Council to support them in a resolution that was sent to the Minister of Education was read. Also the resolution, which was published in this paper last week. The Council agreed to give them their whole support.

The organizers of the snowshoe activities which will take place on Saturday and Sunday in our town were granted $100 to help them with their work.

The Chateauguay Valley Music Festival also asked for a contribution stating that last year 116 children from Huntingdon had entered the competition. They expect an even greater number of entries this year from our town. The Council voted $100 towards this organization.

Mr. Ronnie Lalonde presented a letter from the Department of Transport which said that the government is willing to grant extensive help to municipalities that would be interested in a landing strip, providing such municipalities can provide the necessary land. The matter was discussed at length but no decision was arrived at. One of the members is to study the possibilities. Mr. Lalonde seemd to think it would be a good thing for Huntingdon due to its location and to the fact that it is a customs entry port.

An extra policeman is to be hired for ten Saturdays throughout the year to enable the regular officers to have five Saturday evenings off each in that period of time.

The Mayor then proposed that our town get going on a centennial project. Time is running short and he feels that we should do something to

$500 Bequest From Late Mrs. J. C. Moore For School

There was very little business of public interest at the meeting of the Protestant School Commissioners, in the library of the Huntingdon High School on Thursday evening. All members were present. A number of bills were passed for payment.

From the correspondence it was learned that a cheque for $500 had been received from the estate of the late Mrs. J. C. Moore to help toward the upkeep of the Sick Room, a project that Mrs. Moore looked after for many years in memory of her late husband, Dr. Moore.

The Board decided to make an investment of the capital amount and to use the interest gained each year toward the upkeep of the Sick Room. The money will probably be invested in Province of Quebec Bonds.

Principal Brockman gave his usual report, much of which is not of public interest. School will dismiss for the Easter recess on April 1st, and reconvene on April 12th. The W.I. Public Speaking will be held in the School, on March 25th. A Military Whist is being held on March 10th by the Home and School in aid of the Library fund. Examinations will be held from March 10th to the 16th for Grades 7 to 11.

A recommendation has been made to have the classroom libraries integrated into the general library. This is gradually being done.

The Board then went into committee on staff matters.

Annual General Meeting W.A. of B.M.H. Shows An Excellent, Busy Year

The annual general meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of the Barrie Memorial Hospital took place on Monday, February 28, at 8.15 P.M., in the recreation room of the Nurses' residence. The President, Mrs. Mervyn Barrington, opened the meeting by welcoming all the members. The minutes of the October meeting were read by Mrs. Clifford Moore and translated into French by Mme Eugene Sauvé.

Mrs. Barrington then addressed Mr. Norman Simms, who as chairman of the Board of Governors of the Hospital wished to address a few words to the meeting.

He first remarked his constant amazement as he made tours of the hospital at the quantity of equipment which over the years the Women's Auxiliary has supplied. He also congratulated the organizers of the pre-Christmas sale of the Hospitality Shop, saying that he enjoyed it, and remarking on its obvious success.

Finally he asked the Auxiliary if they would nominate a representative to serve on the Board of Governors so that some knowledge of the policies and plans of the hospital would be available to the Women's Auxiliary.

Reports of the Committees followed: first, the Treasurer's report, given by Mrs. H. J. McMahon.

Hemmingford News

HEMMINGFORD VILLAGE COUNCIL

The regular meeting of the Hemmingford Village Council was held in the Town Hall, on Tuesday evening, March 1st. Mayor Walter Smith presided. Present were Councillors R. Tobin, E. Keddy, A. Germain and R. Poissant. Absent were Councillors R. McNaughton and B. Wallace.

Fire-Chief Harry Warner and Mr. Gaetan Fortin attended to discuss with Council the purchasing of a truck for transporting the equipment required at fires but which they are unable to carry on the Fire Engine. It was explained that the truck in use at the moment, second-hand and of an early vintage when purchased, is now becoming unsafe. Following a detailed discussion it was moved that Councillors Tobin and Keddy enquire into the cost of a new truck. This action was taken in view of the fact that an application to the Quebec Fire Commissioners office for a grant towards the purchase of a truck at a cost of $7,500 had been refused.

Moved by Councillor Tobin seconded by Counc. Keddy that Counc. Germain fill the vacancy on the Joint Council Fire Committee caused by the resignation of Mr. Walter Keddy from Council.

The Secretary read a quotation received, after enquiry from Hydro-Quebec for the lighting of the car park at the rear of the Town Hall. It was recommended that two Sentinaire lights (20,000 lumen Mercury Vapour lights) be installed. These would efficiently light the entire area at a cost of $13.25 per month. Moved by Counc. Germain seconded by Counc. Keddy that these lights be installed.

A letter from the firm of Chemical Leaman Tank Line Inc. U.S.A. was read. The writer expressed the thanks of the Company to the Fire Brigade for the stand-by services rendered at Blackpool when one of their tank-trucks carrying an inflammable liquid was damaged in an accident and the contents were being transferred to another tanker. Enclosed with the letter was a cheque for $100. Chief Warner informed Council that the services of the Fire Engine and men had been requested by the driver of the damaged vehicle and also by the Canadian representative of the Company at Blackpool. He had, therefore prepared a statement of equipment and man-hours used as is customary. This bill said the Secretary, was much in excess of $100, and he had already forwarded it to the Company before receipt of their letter. It was moved and seconded that a registered letter be sent to the Company drawing attention to this bill and informing them that payment of the balance would be appreciated.

A letter from the Sherrington Council stated that the resolution concerning fire protection (recently returned to them by the Hemmingford Council as being unacceptable), had been rescinded and Council had reverted, by resolution, to the original agreement.

A letter was received from the Champlain Fire Brigade inviting the men of the Hemmingford Brigade to attend a course in fire-fighting to be held in Champlain early in April providing there is sufficient response from firefighters in Clinton and Essex Counties to warrant same.

It was moved by Counc. Keddy, seconded by Counc Germain, that a donation of $25 be forwarded to the Chateauguay Valley Music Festival.

A letter was read from Mr. Robert Piquette of Valleyfield, who is preparing an up-to-date history of the area. It asked for historical data of the village and details of the amenities of this area. The Secretary was asked to prepare a reply.

Councillor Ross McNaughton was appointed, by resolution, Pro-Mayor for the coming three months.

Moved by Counc. Poissant, seconded by Counc. Keddy that further consideration be given to the plan submitted by Hydro-Quebec for changing the street lights in the village.

Moved by Counc. Germain seconded by Counc. Keddy that a donation of $10 be made to the Hemmingford Centennial Committee.

It was unanimously approved that the Secretary write Judge Dugas, Quebec Liquor Board, urging him to render a favourable decision on the request for a license for the Hemmingford Golf and Country Club, pointing out that a number of prospective members are delaying joining the Club as it cannot, at present, offer all the services customary in such Clubs and there is the possibility of losing them to another near-by Club in the United States. Council feels that the Hemmingford Golf and Country, formed entirely of local citizens who have devoted much time and effort to its success, will, when completed, with all facilities, be of much benefit to the community.

The following bills were approved for payment:— K Johnson $45; D. Hughes $25; Huntingdon Gleaner $39.71; $58.53; W. Keddy & Son $1,091.22; Fortin Frère $114 61; J. R. Priest $489.46; Bell Telephone $27; Auditor $300; Social Welfare $33.66; J. R Priest $101.21; Regional Construction $63.50; Hydro-Quebec $83.34; McKough's Super Market $1.82; R. Hebert $74; I. Poissant $35.96; H. Giroux $87.50.

Due to the lateness of the hour, several items on the agenda were postponed until the adjourned meeting on Tuesday, March 8th.

summer when the trees are leafed out. It is then that the danger is more apparent not only to the pedestrian, but to the drivers of cars and trucks. It is true these vehicles do have lights (some good, some poor) but with what we have now just creates shadows, and there is where the danger is.

The present day standard of street illumination does cost more money, but what in this present day and age does not? We feel that irrespective of cost, the protection of the lives of citizens and drivers is of prime importance and therefore money well spent.

Hinchinbrooke Volunteer Fire Brigade

Jim Hutchings appeared before the Council in regard to matters pertaining to the Hinchinbrooke Volunteer Fire Brigade. At the Council's last meeting he asked for hats, coats, boots, etc. The prices on the order form submitted at that time were taken from a catalogue of one supplier. It is the request of the Fire Commissioners Office in Quebec that prices be obtained from three suppliers.

This of course will be done with as little delay as possible.

Chimneys

At a meeting of the Hinchinbrooke Volunteer Fire Brigade Monday evening the members will be asked to pass a resolution to present to the Council, requesting that if there is a by-law respecting the cleaning of chimneys that same be enforced, and if there is no such by-law that one be drafted "that all chimneys on dwellings and industrial establishments in the Municipality of Hinchinbrooke be cleaned at least once each year".

An example of how necessary this is to eliminate this fire hazard was best illustrated when a fire of that nature broke out in the dwelling owned by Mr. Real Taillefer and occupied by Mrs. Henry Patenaude at approximately 1 p.m. on Tuesday, March 1st., in a chimney that had not been cleaned for many years, and was in such a condition that the cap and brick could be picked off the top.

Fire extinguishers were all that were necessary to bring it under control, but with the wind that was blowing at that time if the fire had reached other portions of the building considerable damage would have been the result.

With this in mind, "dirty chimneys are a fire hazard", and the only way of ascertaining that all are clean is for the Municipality to have a chimneysweep.

We are sure that the insurance companies will agree with us in that respect.

Miss Hammill and Mr. J. Morrison. The prettily decorated table was centered with the three-tiered wedding cake which had been made and decorated by the bride's sister, Mrs. David Shaw. Mr. Leslie Keddy proposed the toast to the bride and the groom responded and, in turn, proposed a toast to the Maid-of-Honour. Later in the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Hebert left on their wedding trip, motoring to Quebec. The bride travelled in a suit of mint-green wool tweed. With it she wore a pill-box hat in black — with the black accessories and a corsage of white carnations. Out-of-town guests attending the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. R. Leddingham of Pte. Claire, Mr and Mrs. David Clark of Roxboro, Mr. and Mrs. R. Furey and Wendy of Ormstown, Mr. and Mrs. A. McGregor of Cowansville, Miss Barbara Warner, Mr. Jim Morrison of Montreal, Miss May and Mr. Joe Hebert, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Clark of Greenfield Park were unable to be present but their absence was caused by a very pleasurable event, the arrival, a few hours previously, of a baby son. Congratulations and best wishes were sent by all the guests present.

Prior to their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Hebert were guests of honour at several enjoyable parties. On Friday evening February 10th, at the Frontier Inn, a very well attended mixed party was held and, during the evening, a well-filled wallet was presented to the happy couple. At the offices of the Bell Telephone Co. in Montreal, where the bride was employed, the staff presented her with a Mix-Master and she was also the surprised guest at a kitchen shower. In Hemmingford Mrs. Leslie Keddy, Mrs. Donny Reid and Mrs. Glen Clark held a shower at the home of Mrs. Keddy. This was attended by twenty-four guests, who showered Wilma with a delightful assortment of miscellaneous gifts. Mr and Mrs. Hebert will reside on Champlain Street in Hemmingford.

Rev. R. H. DeLorme Inducted At Valleyfield

On Tuesday, March 1, at the Valleyfield United Church the induction service of Rev R. H. DeLorme was held. The service was conducted by Rev. P. W. E. Jones, chairman of the Montreal Presbytery and minister of Dorval United Church.

The Scripture was read by Rev. J. Ralph Watson, secretary of the Montreal Presbytery. The Prayer of Thanksgiving and Intercession were given in French by Rev. Jacques Beaudon, minister of L'Eglise St-Jean, Montreal. The anthem "Come Holy Spirit" was sung by the choir. The sermon was given by Rev. J. R. H. Corbett, minister of Christ Church, Two Mountains. The steps leading to the Induction were related by Rev. Howard C. Fraser, interim minister and minister of St. Andrew's United Church Chateauguay. The induction of the minister followed.

The benediction was pronounced by Rev. De Lorme.

A reception was held in the Church Hall following the service.

The regular meeting of the C.G.I.T. was held in the United Church Hall on Monday February 28. Guests for the evening were Rev. R. H. DeLorme, Mrs. C. McCuaig, president of the U.C.W., and the mothers of the C.G.I.T. members. The meeting opened with a sing-song, following which a ceremony was held to present white lanyards to three senior girls, Lyn Riley Donna Carson and Wendy Watson. These were presented by leaders Mrs. M. Anderson and Mrs. Lola Lambert. A brief business meeting followed. Donna Carson introduced the guest speaker for the evening, Rev. DeLorme who spoke on the theme "This Call Is For You". The speaker was thanked by Nancy Molyneaux. The evening closed with the singing of taps.

Mr. and Mrs. D. MacMillan and daughter were week-end guests at the home of her brother-in-law and sister, Mr and Mrs. M. Anderson.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Kerr and Mr. and Mrs. Norman McWhinnie are at home again after a three-week trip which took them to West Palm Beach, Florida, where they visited with Mr. and Mrs. Edson McWhinnie. They went sightseeing daily and saw sugar cane fields and mills, orange groves, a marble mansion museum, Whispering Tower, etc. Going down there was snow as far as North Carolina, but nothing beyond Washington on the return trip. They are slowly warming up to that early morning alarm clock that was silent for three weeks.

Ormstown Scout Activities

By Scout Correspondent Ray Chartrand

In the above photo can be seen the tents set up on the ice near the bridge in Ormstown. This was done as part of the Ormstown Scouts and Cubs activities for Boy Scout Week.

This has undoubtedly been the most active Boy Scout Week in the history of the First Ormstown Troop.

Each year the boys try a little harder to have displays which are interesting to all and readily seen. For a start a display of uniform, (Souts secured the use of a dummy which the boys quickly converted into a Scout). There was a display of ham radios, aqua lungs, models and other articles too numerous to mention, carefully arranged in the window of a local store on the main street. Many favorable comments were heard about this display. Not being ones to bask in our own glory, we decided that the old standbys wouldn't suffice. A suggestion for a blood donor clinic operated by the Scouts was thought to be a good one but a little too complicated. If we couldn't help the needy in one way, then we would find another, so it was decided to once again have our annual coffee and doughnut sale, but this time donating the proceeds to the "March of Dimes".

Now for something different. You will recall that 2 years ago, we set up camp in the park at this time of year — while this was a new experience for all of us, this year the trend of winter carnivals decided us on what to do. We would hold our Carnival on the Chateauguay river in Ormstown, just beneath the bridge on Bridge St. Checking with those in the know on currents of the river, etc., we found that it was safe and that we could proceed. Our first project not out of distrust, but out of curiosity, was to check the depth of the ice. Chopping a hole showed us that the average thickness was about 18 inches. Next up went half a dozen tents — this in itself was a new experience for all of us for we had never set up tents on ice before. Our flamingo colored tee pee attracted much attention from passersby on the bridge. We then chopped two holes in the ice and set up flagpoles with flags at half mast in honour of Paul Comtois Lieut. Governor of Quebec.

Our winter Olympics started in teh afternoon with all Scouts participating in sports of all types. There was skiing, tobogganning, hockey and tug of war on the ice which proved great sport.

The real eye catcher was a sign stamped in the snow in ten foot letters and dyed a brillant metalic blue saying "BOY SCOUTS". The message was more effective than planned as temporary traffic jams resulted on the bridge.

Evening brought a large bonfire, sing song and wiener roast. Though originally intended as a Scout activity many non-Scouters partook also. The fire was somewhat of a challenge for amateur firemakers, as experience was short for building on the ice. As far as the ice activities went, they were a huge success.

Trying always to better themselves, the Scouts had two church parades this year, one in St. Malachy in Ormstown and the following Sunday one an St. Malachie in Ormstown brother Scout, who hails from that district. Two Scouts served the Mass and another two took up the collection. The parish priest welcomed the Scouts and spoke a few words on Scout Week.

Our Annual Father and Son banquet was held this year at the Presbyterian Church Hall, on Thursday, February 24th. Members of the district staff were on hand to add their views on Scouting today. A turkey supper was served much to the delight of all the youngsters. More songs after dinner and then the presentation of film on Defensive Driving was supplied by Bell Telephone. Everyone, even the younger Cubs thought this film to be most enlightening.

In conclusion I would like to recall a few of our activities throughout the past year. Extensive work was done on our campsite at Powerscourt. The first major task was clearing a road to our campsite which is situated in the thick of the woods. No less than a dozen major stumps were pulled and countless smaller ones, in order to make a decent road. Next we built a log bridge over a small brook surrouding our campsite. Trimming trees and cleaning rubble has produced one of the nicest campsites on the grounds, but it called for hard work, which neither the boys nor their leaders turned from.

Locally we cleared away the dead underbush in the Old Church Cemetery and we are available for any further work required to restore the grounds.

Our most recent good deed was to scurb the walls from top to bottom for our Senior Citizens Club and helping to make it ship shape.

Onwards and upwards to greater goals while always doing our best is the aim of the FIRST ORMSTOWN SCOUT TROOP.

Presbyterian Young People's Society

ORMSTOWN — The monthly meeting of the Ormstown Presbyterian Young People's Society was held in the church hall, on Wednesday, with sixteen members present. The President, Nancylyn Cullen called the meeting to order. After the devotional period, which was conducted by Keith Tannahill and Betty McEwen, the President introduced Mr. Ken Aldridge. Mr. Ken Aldridge said he was very happy to speak to the Society, he then gave a most interesting history of tele-communications from its inception to the present time. His illustrated talk was received with a great entusiasm by the members and a question period followed. Keen interest was shown in the number of wires inside a plastic cable and in the copper tube which is capable of sending more than 200,000 messages simultaneously.

The business meeting followed with plans being made to hold a variety concert the last of March, a sugar party early in April and a paper drive on April 16th. A letter was read from the Korean child whom the Society has adopted. Letters were read and a thank-you message from Barrie Memorial Hospital for scrap books sent to the Children's ward. It was suggested that some French books be made and sent to BMH.

Ormstown Bonspiel

The mixed Bonspiel for the Osmond Trophy held at the Ormstown rink, on Saturday, saw one of the most interesting Bonspiels ever held in the rink. For the first time a Knock-Out and Consolation method was used, resulting in the very best calibre of curling being displayed, especially in the finals. Twenty-eight rinks participated with representation from Cornwall, Lan-

Aubrey-Riverfield

The Annual Meeting of the Aubrey-Riverfield W. I. was held at the home of Mrs. William Allen last Wednesday afternoon.

Fifteen members answered the Roll Call with payment of fees and written suggestions for next year's programme. There were two visitors present and one new member joined. Several thank-you letters were read as well as one from Mrs. Palmer, Publicity Convener, giving many good suggestions for Expo projects.

An interesting account of the Provincial Semi-Annual held in Montreal in February was given by Mrs. Harold Robertson, County President.

The secretary reported twelve meetings had been held during the year with an average attendance of 13.8 members. One member, Mrs. Math McKell, had attended every meeting. An active year under all the conveners was reported. The treasurer, who began the year with a balance of $109.94, reported $114.77 on hand after having expended $245.54 during the year. The Finance Committee was responsible for having raised $108.14 of the funds. The collection amounted to $2.15.

The retiring president, Mrs. Robert Templeton, thanked the officers and every member of the branch for their cooperation and willingness to do whatever they were asked and hoped the new president would receive the same support. Mrs. Janet Reddick then took the chair for the election of officers. Mrs. Lydia Orr read the following slate:

Pres. — Mrs. Math McKell; 1st Vice-Pres. — Mrs. Harold Robertson; 2nh Vice-Pres. — Mrs. Osborne Orr; Sec. — Mrs. Finlay Milne; Treas. — Mrs. Robert Templeton; Conveners: Agriculture — Mrs Geo. Kees; Citizenship — Mrs. Gordon Easton; Education — Mrs. Harold Robertson, Mrs. Everett Orr; Home Economics — Mrs. Osborne Orr; Welfare and Health — Mrs. Melbourne Stacey; Publicity — Mrs. Harry Johansson; Finance — Mrs. Wm. Allen, Mrs. H. Reddick, Mrs. T. Walsh and Mrs. J. Hamilton.

Mrs. Wm. Allen reported she had sold the quilt for $15. so a good start is made for the new year. Mrs. Janet Reddick read a poem: "I ain't dead yet" which had been sent from Calgary. Mrs. Harold Robertson read the report from the School Cafeteria which shows a good balance on hand after having provided over 5000 meals since last October. She also asked the members to note the date for the speak-offs in Public Speaking in Howick High School when all interested were asked to be present to encourage the pupils in this worthwhile project of the Women's Institute.

Refreshments served by hostesses Mrs. Allen, Miss Berta Orr, Mrs. Janet Reddick and Mrs. Finlay Milne were enjoyed during the social hour.

Three teams entered the District Moore Bonspiel held at Valleyfield, Git Jasmin and her rink were runners-up in the Main Event.

Legion News

A successful Saturday night party was held in the Legion Hall, on March 5. Several drawings were made including the monthly drawing for the fifty dollar prize which was won by Mr. Lionel Vaillancourt. It is of interest that this drawing which has taken place for twenty-five consecutive months has seen a new winner each month, with no one person having won the second time. The Legion members extended their thanks to all present for contributing to the evening's success.

Mr. and Mrs. Caldwell Scriver left last week for a three-week vacation in Daytona, Florida.

ORMSTOWN HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

Well, we tried! Our junior and senior girls basketball teams played against Chateauguay on Friday, March 4th. Since the games were played in two different schools, Mr. Mielke coached the juniors, Mr. White, the seniors.

The junior teams were pretty evenly matched, and we all hoped that our girls would manage a victory. They almost made it, but not quite, they lost by only two points!

The seniors too, played an exceptionally close game. It was a most nerve-wracking battle and when Chateauguay finally broke the long standing tie of 18 - 18, and succeeded in scoring three consecutive baskets, the girls were distressed to say the least. It was nearing the end of the game, and the girls tried to catch up, but the final score was 28 - 24 in Chateauguay's favour. The game wasn't a total loss however, we were reassured by the fact that we had played well.

We hope to receive a grand attendance at our, "Drama Night", festival, March 18th and 19th. The performance will be most interesting as we are presenting such a variety of plays that you are sure to find at least one of them most suitable to your liking. We promise you a truly enjoyable evening. Please come!

Back at home base .....

It seems fashionable this year for everyone, high school students included, to recognize 'Lent". When the demands are reasonable, the students do quite well. Some of the students who take "Lent", quite seriously are as follows: Romeo Rowe — has given up talking to his father; B. W. — refrains from losing his temper; G. B. — has given up writing letters; B. G. — promises not to bite any more dogs; H. W. — no longer leaves her more intimate apparel about; Munro has given up curling; And last but not least — D. D. & M. Y. have sacrificed peppermints for forty long days and forty long nights.

A new club has recently been formed. They call themselves members of the C.S.O.T.C.F. I've given up guessing what these letters stand for, any suggestions?

Ormstown Bank was not Robbed

According to reports during the Police chase on Monday, it was erroneously stated that the Bank at Ormstown had been robbed. This was not so. Police gave chase to a suspect car which was speeding through the town resulting in the car being stopped by a blockade near Havelock. A police detective L. Bergevin was shot in the hand and is at present in the Barrie Memorial Hospital. One suspect was captured, at the time of writing two other suspects are still at large. The captured man who has a criminal record is a resident of Bedford, Que.

Liturgie — "L'Esprit du Seigneur est sur moi. Il m'a envoyé porter la bonne nouvelle aux pauvres, annoncer aux captifs la délivrance et aux aveugles le retour à la vie, rendre la liberté aux opprimés, proclamer une année de grâce du Seigneur." (Luc IV...) Ne savez-vous pas que les injustes n'héritent pas du Royaume de Dieu? Libérés du péché par le Christ, nous devons grandir chaque jour dans la liberté des enfants de Dieu. Ma vie est-elle vraiment faite d'amitié, de confiance, au service joyeux du Père? Ma vie est-elle une marche virile sur la route de la liberté, faite de bonté, de justice et de vérité, à l'égard de tous? Ma vie est-elle une lutte généreuse, appuyée sur le Christ, contre mes "démons" intérieurs: égoisme, susceptiiilité, laisser-aller, esprit de jouissance? Est-ce que je considère les contrariétés, les épreuves, les tentations comme des grâces nouvelles de libération?

Liturgy — Preface, O Lord, Holy Father, almighty, eternal God, it is truly fitting and just, right and helpful towards our salvation that, in all circumstances, we give thanks to you. On this feast of holy Joseph, a righteous man whom you chose to be the spouse of the Virgin Mother of God, we extol you with due praise, we bless and acclaim you. A faithful and wise servant, he was set over your Family in order that with a father's care he should guard your only-begotten Son, our Lord Jesus Christ who was conceived by the Holy Spirit. Through Jesus, the Angels praise your Majesty, the Dominations adore you, the Powers stand in awe. Through him, the Heavens and the Virtues of the heavens join the blessed Seraphim in jovous celebration. We entreat you: let our voices blend with theirs as we humbly sing your praise.

Raquettteurs en visite

C'est dimanche que plusieurs groupes de raquetteurs doivent se rendre à Huntingdon pour participer à des courses en raquettes et autres activités qui dureront toute la journée.

Espérons qu'ils trouveront assez de neige pour pratiquer leur sport favori.

Préparation au mariage

Pour les jeunes gens qui songent à se marier et qui n'ont pu s'inscrire aux cours qui se donnent actuellement ici, une autre série de cours commencera dimanche prochain au Centre Le Royer à Valleyfield. Les intéressés n'ont qu'à s'adresser à cet endroit pour toutes informations.

Souper des Filles d'Isabelle

C'est dimanche prochain qu'aura lieu le souper annuel des Filles d'Isabelle de Huntingdon. Ceux qui ne manquent pas de s'y rendre chaque année vous diront qu'ils y trouvent toujours une occasion de passer quelques heures agréables. En plus d'y rencontrer de nombreux amis ils se délectent d'une nourriture de choix tout en faisant une bonne oeuvre. A dimanche donc, à la salle Chez Tex.

Notes sociales

M. Claude Galipeau de Valcartier était en visite chez ses parents M. et Mme Sylvain Galipeau pour la fin de semaine.

M. et Mme René Carrière et leurs enfants étaient de passage chez M. et Mme Elphège Poirier dimanche.

La petite Lise Ringuette est de retour chez ses parents après un séjour de deux semaines au Children's Memorial Hospital. A la suite d'une opération à la colonne vertébrale subie en octobre dernier, la petite était dans un plâtre. Au cours de sa dernière visite à l'hôpital, on a remplacé par un plâtre plus léger qui lui laissera plus de liberté. Nos meilleurs voeux pour une guérison complète.

Devant le tribunal

Samedi dernier comparaissait à Montréal Gavin Patenaude, sous une accusation d'assaut sur la personne d'un policier. L'accusé aurait troublé la paix aux petites heures du matin dans un cabaret de Montréal. Lorsque l'agent Hamette, voulut le rappeler à l'ordre, Patenaude lui aurait asséné une série de coups de poing.

Il nia sa culpabilité devant le juge Hébert en cour municipale; au cours de l'interrogatoire, les spectateurs ont sursauté quand ils ont appris qu'il avait déjà été condamné pour meurtre.

On se souvient que lui et un complice avaient été condamnés à mort pour le meurtre d'un chauffeur de taxi de Huntingdon. Leur peine avait été commuée à l'emprisonnement à vie. Le 14 août 1962 il était libéré sur parole. Moins de quatre ans après, on le retrouve de nouveau aux prises avec la Justice, cette fois pour avoir assailli un policier.

Concert sacré

Les amateurs de beau chant sont priés de prendre note qu'un concert sera donné en l'église St-Joseph le 3 avril par le Choeur Vaudreuil-Soulanges.

A l'aréna

A cause du temps doux de la semaine dernière, plusieurs joutes de hockey qui avaient été cédulées ont dû être remises.

Le Concile oecuménique Vatican II
Une grande page de l'histoire de l'Eglise
11 octobre 1962 — 8 décembre 1965

Pendant quatre ans, Rome vit cette assemblée d'Evêques de toutes couleurs et de tous continents se pencher sur les problèmes touchant l'homme d'aujourd'hui. L'Eglise "MERE ET MAITRESSE" se mettait à l'écoute du monde, afin de chercher ensemble une réponse à ses aspirations. "Rien de ce qui est humain ne lui fut étranger."

Promouvoir un accroissement de vie chrétienne et un renouveau salutaire de la discipline ecclésiastique, était une des optiques de cette rencontre. En d'autres termes, il s'agissait de rendre le visage de l'Eglise plus attrayant en le débarrassant des rides qui l'avaient vieillie au cours des siècles.

L'Eglise de "Vatican II" s'est sensibilisée à tous les problèmes humains. Une vie d'ensemble des travaux élaborés, démontre une pastorale consciente, adaptée à la pensée et aux exigences de l'homme moderne. Qu'il nous suffise de signaler la Constitution sur l'Eglise "LUMEN GENTIUM", le décret sur la liberté religieuse, sur les Moyens de Communication...

Donnant l'exemple d'une fraternité conciliante et attentive aux besoins des hommes, elle fit les premiers pas. Jérusalem, Bombay, New-York — autant de gestes qui sont des "signes des temps". L'Eglise ne veut plus s'imposer en dominatrice, mais plutôt à se présenter comme servante: "Que celui qui est le plus grand parmi vous, soit comme celui qui sert" (Matth.)

Vatican II a élargi notre vision du monde qui ne doit plus s'arrêter aux limites de notre paroisse, de notre communauté, de notre diocèse; il doit embrasser l'Eglise du Christ — vision vraiment universelle et ecclésiale. Le chrétien d'aujourd'hui ne doit plus se contenter du "quant à soi", pas oeuvrer de façon dynamique à rendre présent — le Christ parmi les hommes. Dans la pensée de Jean XXIII, l'un des buts du Concile était le rapprochement des Eglises. Les Pères ont été fidèles à cette orientation. Le désir d'union et de rapprochement a toujours dominé les débats; la présence des observateurs aux Sessions en fut le signe tangible. S.S. Paul VI, en donnant le baiser de paix au représentant du Patriarche Athénagoras, lors de la levée des anathèmes entre Rome et Constantinople, a engagé l'Eglise du XXe siècle sur un chemin de confiance et d'estime mutuelles dans l'humilité et la vérité.

Beaucoup de choses ont été dites et écrites sur le Concile et on continuera d'en dire et d'en écrire bien davantage. Le sujet présente de nombreux aspects qui feront l'objet des travaux d'exégètes, d'historiens et de théologiens.

"Il faut maintenant cultiver ce que l'on a semé et recueillir de bons fruits." (Paul VI).

C'est le Concile qui a semé à nous maintenant de cultiver et de porter à maturité ses fruits.

En collaboration.

M. Gérald Quenneville tué accidentellement

Un accident qui s'est produit lundi soir sur la route entre Ormstown et Valleyfield a coûté la vie à M. Gérald Quenneville d'Ormstown. D'après les informations reçues il semble que l'auto de M. Quenneville ait frappé un camion chargé de bois de pulpe stationné en bordure de la route.

M. Quenneville était le directeur de l'école Jean XXIII d'Ormstown. Il laisse dans le deuil son épouse et cinq enfants. Il était le fils de M. et Mme Elie Quenneville de Huntingdon. Quatre frères et une soeur lui survivent aussi. Les funérailles auront lieu à Ormstown vendredi à 10 heures, suivies de la sépulture au même endroit.

St. Anicet

(Carmella Sanders)

Bonjour,

Je ne sais, qui est en charge du chemin de planche (plank road) qui conduit à Huntingdon, peut-être est-il si étroit qu'on a oublié qu'il existait !

Par son état présent, on est à se demander, si on ne serait pas plutôt vers 1930 avec ses chemins de roches et ses immfenses trous. Je sais que ce n'est pas un boulevard, mais tout de même, d'une extrêmité à l'autre, c'est un peu fort.

Pendant que j'y suis, que pensez-vous du pont chemin Laroque? Pourtant, il me semble qu'on travaille souvent sur ce fameux pont, j'espère qu'on n'attendra pas aux vacances pour le remettre à neuf, il ne faudrait pas oublier que ce pont ne sert pas seulement pour les camps d'été. Il y a des gens qui le traversent de janv. à décembre afin d'aller travailler, visiter au magasinier dans la Venise du Québec. Je crois bien qu'un certain effort devrait être fait aussitôt que possible afin que ce pont qui relie beaucoup de gens à l'année longue, soit au moins passable et s.v.p. n'attendez pas à l'été, on serait donc porté à croire que seulement les gens qui possèdent des "villas" de ce côté-ci font pression sur vous, alors qui vivra, verra...

NOTES SOCIALES

M. Wilfrid Primeau de St-Anicet et M. Donald Hooker d'Ormstown étaient de passage à Winchester Ont., en réunion pour la campagne de machines agricoles James Way.

Bonne Fête à M. Maurice Phibanet du P.T.C. de la part de son fils Jean, de son épouse ainsi que de tous ses passagers.

M. Yvon Latreille est de retour parmi les siens, prenant la vie aussi aisé que possible, vu les circonstances.

LUNE DE MIEL

J'ai bien aimé, l'article "Lune de Miel" de Lyse Després sur la gazette de Valleyfield la semaine dernière tout n'était que trop vrai Le premier quartier de la lune de miel, ne parle que beauté et rose, le dernier quartier ne parle que laideur et épines, j'ai trouvé ça bien comique par bout, tout était très "cute". Peut-être que nous qui en sommes probablement à notre dernier quartier pourrions-nous arrondir le bout de ces épines parfois, elles seraient moins piquantes, et ces mots doux, sont-ils réservés seulement aux jeunes tourteraux, sans doute pas pensons-y bien et essayons de changer notre tactique, un pigeton quoique petit est tellement plus joli qu'un éléphant, n'est-ce pas? Sur ce une pensée de P. Geraldy:

"Nous devons nous trouver contents d'être les êtres que nous sommes: des amoureux intermittents qui sont fous l'un de l'autre, en somme de temps en temps...

Vendredi, messe du 1er vendredi du mois. Nos enfants s'entrainent aux chants et aux réponses de la messe, ils sentent que la messe c'est leur affaire. Nous les invitons à se grouper le dimanche afin qu'ils puissent chanter fort et aussi entraîner les Parents à chanter avec eux.

Avec l'apparition du printemps (si j'ose dire) les billes ont aussi apparu, toute la semaine, elles ont roulé favorisant les uns et dévalisant les autres.

ASSOCIATION

Mardi dernier, les dames du Cercle des Fermières tenaient leurs assemblée régulière. Ce fût une soirée très intéressante, Mme Arice Quenneville, démontra comment s'y prendre afin de faire une pièce murale à l'aiguille. Le travail manuel est toujours si apprécié et tellement joli aussi Parmi nous à notre assemblée, quatre dames de Huntingdon se trouvaient présentes, ces dames nous visitaient afin d'étudier un peu ce qui se passe à nos réunions car elles vont commencer prochainement une nouvelle branche du Cercle des Fermières à Huntingdon.

Bon Succès !

Assemblée régulière du Conseil de Huntingdon lieu lundi soir, le 7 mars à l'heure et l'endroit habituels Tous les membres étaient présents.

Le secrétaire fit la lecture des minutes de la dernière assemblée; elles furent approuvées par le Conseil.

Les factures du mois ont ensuite été étudiées avant d'être approuvées.

Un représentant du club de hockey "The Villains" demanda et se vit octroyer la somme de $50 pour aider ce club de la ligue de la ville.

La Commission Catholique de Huntingdon demande au Conseil d'appuyer leur résolution envoyée au Ministre de l'Education demandant de hâter la construction de l'école régionale de Huntingdon. Le Conseil a approuvé cette demande.

Les organisateurs des activités sportives qui auront lieu en fin de semaine. Le Club des Marcheurs Inc. s'est vu octroyer la somme de $100 pour aider cette organisation.

Les organisateurs du festival de musique de la Vallée de Châteauguay ont aussi fait appel au Conseil, disant que l'an dernier 116 enfants de Huntingdon avaient participé à ce festival et qu'ils attendent un nombre encore plus grand d'entrées venant de notre ville. Un montant de $100. fut octroyé à cette cause.

M. Ronnie Lalonde présenta une lettre du Ministère des Transports qui offre son aide aux municipalités qui seraient intéressées à préparer une L'assemblée régulière a eu piste d'atterrissage à la condition que la ville puisse fournir le terrain nécessaire. La question fut discutée longuement mais aucune décision ne fut prise. Un des membres du Conseil étudiera les possibilités. M. Lalonde est d'avis que ce serait un avantage pour Huntingdon, vu sa situation géographique et le fait que c'est un port d'entrée de l'immigration.

Un policier sera engagé pour dix samedi soirs au cours de l'année pour permettre aux agents réguliers de bénéficier de cinq samedi soirs libres chacun au cours de la même période.

M. le Maire suggéra ensuite qu'il serait temps de songer à un projet pour marquer le centenaire de la Confédération. Selon lui, la construction d'une piscine municipale serait une bonne décision puisque le besoin d'une telle chose se est un fait connu de tous. D'autres suggestions ont été faites par d'autres membres du Conseil, mais la question devra être étudiée plus à fond avant qu'une décision soit prise.

L'assemblée fut ajournée au 4 avril.

✓ Perhaps you remember the last Hairstyle and Fashion Show by Claude, well a second gala event is scheduled for March 21st. Now the men are invited to this one and it is hoped there will be a number who will accompany their lady friends on this occasion. A part of the plan is to aid the Retarded Children, so everyone will be helping a worthy cause as well as learning something too. This is a joint enterprise by Claude and Elite Dress Shoppe, two well known local businesses.

Studebaker of Canada Limited announced on Friday that it is permanently discontinuing the manufacture of automobiles. Owners of this well-known make need have no worry, however, as the company's parts and service operation will be maintained for some time. One of the oldest of large U.S. corporations, Studebaker still consists of nine other wholly-owned, non-automotive subsidiaries.

The announcement by Studebaker that their cars will no longer be made will not be received here in the Chateauguay Valley with too much concern, except for a wistful look in the eyes of some who remember when Studebaker was a big name in the automotive field. It's like being told that a childhood friend who moved far away while he was still in knee pants, has passed away... we hadn't heard much about the childhood friend for a long time and the same can be said of Studebaker.

It was a different story in yesteryears, however. Studebaker started making wheeled vehicles in 1852 and automobiles in 1902. For many years the company turned out a line of trucks, too. At one time, Studebaker was a prestige car and the make was popular. Some Gleaner readers may remember the huge and ponderous touring model that the late Gordon Dunn of Ste. Martine once owned...there must have been at least two dozen switches, buttons and other gadgets on the dashboard ... or the big brown 1930 sedan with sidemounts that the late Dr. J. C. Moore drove... or the late Dr. O. E. Caza's sporty two-tone sedan that was one of the first with parking lights mounted on the fenders and which featured teardrop shaped headlights.

About 1940, or the start of World War II, Studebaker veered from heavy cars to lighter models and their Champion line was a good seller in some parts of the country. Late in the 1940's, their Starlight models featured advanced styling and were probably the forerunner of some of the more popular hard-top models that started appearing in the 1950's. The firm's 'Golden Hawk' and 'Avanti' sports models of recent years were serious efforts to regain Studebaker prestige, even to the plaque on the dash, 'This automobile manufactured expressly for '(name)' that was a part of each car. Most probably one of these sports models, if stored for the next 40 or 50 years, will become the prized possession of some vintage car buff in years to come.

Other makes once sold in Huntingdon include Overland and Willys-Knight, as well as Studebaker, by A. A. Lunan; Hudson and Nash, F. C. Moore and Max Arthur; Brisco and Maxwell, M. Caza; Dort, B. W. Allen and Jack McCracken; Essex and Graham-Paige, Charlie Kyle and Emerson McNair. There may be others, but they don't come to mind, except for Whippet, which was also distributed by A. A. Lunan. (We at The Gleaner were once familiar with the prowess of the Whippet when our late foreman, Albert Antoine, used to reminisce about the days when he used to drive from Huntingdon to the ferry at Caughnawaga in 45 minutes. Ab, before working at The Gleaner, was foreman in the A. A. Lunan garage for some years. Incidentally, Mr. Lunan was President of Studebaker in Montreal at one time when head office there was at the corner of Park Avenue and Sherbrooke).

When one stops to think that Studebaker attributes much of the reason for its shutdown of cars to lack of publicity, one wonders that such a large concern didn't look after their advertising better.

Constable Leopold Bergevin of the Ste. Martine detachment of the Quebec Provincial Police was wounded about 2:30 p.m. Monday by one of three men suspected of planning a bank hold-up in Ormstown. (See photos and story elsewhere).

CONFIDENTIAL to Joan Smythe who wrote direct from Hollywood on March 3rd asking for at least "a short hint" about the identity of the local businessman who dog trots from his residence to office every day: if he ran across the bridge he'd be gasping so hard he'd probably swallow his corn cob pipe.

Okay steno? Just for you. Anybody else we'd have said go ahead and die of curiosity.

The sudden mild spell over the week-end coupled with the heavy deluge of rain that started late Friday afternoon caused considerable flooding in low-lying areas. Around Cazaville, several cars stalled in the high water and tractors and trucks were used to tow the cars to dry road. Near St. Anicet, water covered fence pickets along one farmer's lane. West St. in Huntingdon looked like a river and sump pumps ran continually in many homes around the countryside. The ice in the Chateauguay River at Huntingdon rose to about a foot from the floor of the new Henderson St. bridge, but did not break up. Cooler weather that started Sunday afternoon slowed the thawing and by Monday there were fields of ice everywhere. While the level of water in the rivers and streams is still far above normal water is getting away and serious flooding is not expected to occur. At Chateauguay Basin, where flooding was once a dangerous annual condition, workmen have been blasting and cutting the ice for the past two weeks and no problem is expected.

The Gleaner printery is busy these days making syrup labels for various producers, to date little syrup has been made. Trees have been tapped on the Rod Arthur farm near Rockburn and there are sap buckets hanging in a couple of maple bushes around Covey Hill, but the right time isn't here yet. Most producers anticipate a good season and today (Wednesday) there is a warming trend that just may be the start of it.

For quite some time, two carloads of St. Francis Sea Cadet Corpsmen have been going to Montreal on Saturdays where they have been learning parade drumming. For further information, we suggest contacting Dave Zabitsky.

The curling bonspiel sponsored by the Huntingdon Rotary Club will be held at the local rink on Saturday, with the first games starting at 11 a.m.

CBC COLOR TV SET FOR OCT. 1

OTTAWA — The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation announced that up to 30 hours of color telecasting a week will start on the English television network Oct. 1.

The CBC will produce a third of the total, including studio production, National Hockey League games and out-door sports events, via mobile equipment.

The remainder will be imported network and film color series. The color programming will be carried by Vancouver, Edmonton, Winnepeg Toronto, Montreal, Ottawa, Halifax and St. John's Nfld.

How does Sunday voting, scheduled for the forthcoming provincial election, appeal to you? The idea behind it all is said to be that more people will turn out at the polls. With age of eligible voters reduced to 18, there will no doubt be a heavier vote, but we aren't convinced that it will appeal to everyone. When the day has come and gone, the answer will be known, in the meantime there's plenty of time for objectors to ponder if they haven't often committed worse offences.

A tragic car accident claimed the life of a prominent Ormstown citizen Monday evening in the person of Gerald Quenneville. Principal of Jean XXIII School. (see elsewhere).

The weekly meeting of Valleyfield Toastmasters' Club was held at the Chateau Huntingdon Monday evening when about twenty local businessmen were invited guests. We predict at least a dozen new members for the Valleyfield Club in the near future.

Ormstown's idea for a Senior Citizens' Club is taking seed in Huntingdon too. We're informed the United Church sponsors meetings for senior citizens the first and third Thursdays of each month in the Church Hall, from 2 to 4:30 p.m. Eight people attended the first meeting, twelve were at the second and the most recent "club" had an attendance of 17. The Reverend H. Lowenberger tells us that all senior citizens are welcome and transportation will even be arranged if requested. So, if you've graduated from middle age classification and want fun and companionship, we suggest keeping the dates in mind. Remember, everyone is welcome, the same as at Ormstown, regardless of race or religion.

The mystery word wanted to describe 'Cliffs and caverns, millions went, an enemy embellishment' was CORAL. The contest was sponsored by a Montreal Radio Station. We're only mentionning this because so many local people were going to guess 'Highway 4!'

People on both sides of the border will be pleased to learn that the dining room in the Chateauguay, N.Y. Hotel is again open. Mr. and Mrs. Rexford Thomson, above, recently purchased the Hotel from Mr. and Mrs. Reed who became well known to many Huntingdonians after they bought the hotel in July 1963. The Reeds are now living in Malone.

Rex Thomson and his charming wife have been in the hotel business for many years and were proprietors of "St. Regis Inn" and "Sunbeam Lodge" at Dexter Lake, St. Regis Falls until acquiring the Chateauguay Hotel in February. The couple are holding "open house" on Sunday when buffet refreshments will be served (see advt.) Starting Tuesday, the dining room will be open daily.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomson are retaining former employees and they themselves have taken up residence in the hotel. Renovations are expected to be completed this week.

That's All For This Meal! — An electronic device, no larger than a hearing aid, may enable feeders to feed their cattle automatically and at the same time regulate the feed intake of each animal. The device can be clipped to an animal's ear. It was designed at the Constantine College of Technology, Middlesbrough (northern England). In most conventional feeding systems, it is possible for more aggressive animals to push weaker ones out of the way. The electronic device would be adjusted to a predetermined amount of feed and when each animal had eaten its share, impulses from the device would activate and close off an electronic valve attached to the automatic feeder. If an animal attempted to eat from another feeder, the valve there would not open, thus overeating would be prevented.

It cost a Huntingdon businessman five dollars to park his car five minutes in a restricted area in Montreal a couple of weeks ago. With the streets in the Bigtown switching from one to two-way and vice-versa, to say nothing of those completely closed, we poor country hicks who have to do business there every few days are in need of street maps. True, the daily press carries a list of most of the changes, but then the pre-drawn edition that we get in the evening isn't always of too much use. We've said it before and we'll say it again now: unless business takes you to Montreal, do your shopping at home. Prices are invariably better locally and one isn't as likely to have his pockets picked or be short-changed; nor is he as likely to get a parking ticket or have the side of his car scraped by some joker who hasn't the patience to back his car out of the lot in a civilized manner.

And talking about gimmicks and prices in the Bigtown: remember about a month back the daily press carried a story about the price of used cars dropping? Then did you take note that used car advertising was almost tripled? Finally, did you also notice that the prices seemed much the same, if not higher? Again, we say deal at home. Each town here in the Chateauguay Valley has several reliable franchised car dealers... if they don't give you a better car and a better deal, we miss our guess.

And some of the bigger chain stores thrive on the gullible grocery buyers, too. Ever checked some of the prices on goods right next to the advertised specials? Add it all up when you get home and we think most small-town stores give a better deal all around.

Vi. Lallemand of Ourtown, a member of the North Country N.Y. Outdoor Club, tells us that two machines, each with two people aboard, were attacked by a pack of wolves near Lake Titus recently. (Four-footed). Seems the Club is enforcing the rule that members refrain from long trips alone.

With a provincial election looming in the near future, we doubt if we'll see a decent Route 4 from the border to the intersection of 3 and 4 at Chateauguay in time for Expo '67. But then, there are those who don't look for the election until fall, so there may be a chance for a few miles yet.

Cleyn & Tinker Will Take Part In Textile Display At Expo

MONTREAL — Quebec's vast textile industry will play a prominent part in the Quebec Industries Pavilion at Expo '67.

A total of 15 textile companies have contracted for space in the provincial showplace which will be built at the Cité du Havre at a cost of $1.5 million.

Canadian Textiles Institute said today that it was fitting that the industry be so well represented. "Quebec's textile mills provide employment for 51,000 people—about 60% of the industry's national total — and annual value of production of about $700 million.

"The industry is the second largest employer of manufacturing labor in the province, exceeded only by the clothing industry, and, as such, fits well within the context of the prominence that Quebec is providing for its industries."

Textile companies participating are: Associated Textiles, Blackwood Morton & Sons Bruck Mills, Burlington Industries, Canadian Celanese, Cleyn & Tinker, Collins & Aikman, Consolidated Textiles, Dionne Spinning, Dominion Ayers, Dominion Textile, Hafner Fabrics, Rubyco, Thor Mills, and Wabasso Cotton.

In announcing the pavilion The Minister of Industry and Commerce, Hon. Gérard D Lévesque, said that the theme "The Saint Lawrence: Industrial Reservoir", would stress the importance of manufacturing to Quebec, rather than display the products of the various industries participating.

He praised the initiative taken by business in accepting responsibility for the project, which will be administered as a co-operative by the Corporation of the Quebec Industries Pavilion. For this purpose a group of 15 directors, representatives of the various industries, will be selected.

Color programming on the CBC's French-language network will start this fall with 15 hours weekly. Most programs will be produced by the corporation.

Total cost for the first stage of the CBC conversion was set at a maximum of $15,000,000 by the Federal Government last June.

Officials said CBC rebroadcasting stations and off-network relay transmitters serving smaller communities can not be converted to color until more money is available.

Pomona Grange Meets At Maple Leaf

The regular meeting of Pomona Grange was held at the Grange Hall, Kensington, on Thursday afternoon, March 3rd. The session opened at 2 p.m. with Worthy Master David Dunn presiding.

As the Publicity Secretary was unable to be at this meeting there is no report to date.

At 5:30 the ladies of the host Grange served a hot turkey supper to 30 visitors, and then later the members of Maple Leaf were there in the form of a dues-paying supper as advertised.

At 8 o'clock, the Pomona Lecturer, Eunice Jones of Malone opened the programme at which time W. M. Dunn welcomed the gathering. The meeting was honored to have our State Grange Princess, Linda Burke of St. Lawrence Co., with them. The Lady Assistant presented her to the Master. Linda Burke told us of the different things she had to do in preparation for the contest and after being chosen Princess, of the many events she had been called on to take part in. She was also privileged to attend National Grange at Topeka, Kan. She closed her message with sincere thanks to all Granges for the assistance they had given her and making it able for her to go.

Miss Bonnie Johnston treated the meeting to two solos — "Meet Me In St. Louis" and "Won't You Come Home, Bill Bailey", and by request sang a third item, "Hello Dolly. Loud applause was given Bonnie.

Maple Leaf Master Rupert Hawley introduced the speaker of the evening. Mr. Michael Wood, a representative from Expo '67, spoke and showed slides (mostly colored) of the progress being made. A very interesting story of the work was given by Mr. Wood. Being very efficient in his official capacity, has was also very humorous at times. The slides showed us the start from when St. Helen's Island was as before this project started, then the bridges that had been built and the highlight was the showing of the different pavilions that have been erected. Mr. Wood told us that to date, 71 countries have signified they will take part. Mr. Wood was thanked by Eunice Jones.

Maple Leaf presented two skits and a recreational number, Musical Love Letters, was led by Grace Thomas who was pianist for the evening. Mrs. Burke, Linda's mother, favored with a piano solo.

Dundee

Dundee W.I.

DUNDEE — The annual meeting of the Dundee W.I. was held last Wednesday in the home of Mrs. Hugh Ferguson.

After the opening exercises a minute's silence was observed in memory of Mary Gardiner, a valued member who has just left us. Roll call was answered by the ladies naming an outstanding W.I. member. Several letters were read, one of which was a letter from Mrs. Robertson asking that each branch look after the printing of its own programs. Mrs. Ferguson has consented to print them again this year. After much discussion it was decided to use $10 from the general funds to purchase articles for the Save the Children Christmas stockings or ditty bags which are so gratefully received. Each member is to make at least two bags and donate anything towards the bags that she wishes. The Federated News is to be renewed.

A spray of flowers was ordered for our departed member. Mrs. A. B. Fraser and Mrs. T. Stowell were named as auditors.

A long discussion followed concerning the Brief for the Royal Commission of Inquiry on Agriculture in Quebec. The results are to be forwarded to the chairman, Mrs. Geo. McGibbon, in Brownsburg. Mrs. Ferguson reported on the coming year's program which she and Miss Thelma MacMillan had prepared. Annual reports were given followed by the election of officers. The only change made was that Mrs. E. J. Cameron is to be convener of citizenship. Mrs. Ferguson, with the help of her three boys, served a delicious supper. Just before sitting down to the meal Larry and Dale Ferguson entertained the ladies by playing selections on the trumpet and trombone.

The World Day of Prayer was observed in Zion United Church February 25th., with ladies from Elgin, Kensington and Dundee Churches participating. The meeting was led by the presidents of the three ladies' groups — Mrs. Arthur Macfarlane, Mrs. W. D. Brown and Mrs. Clarence Platt. Organ music was rendered by Mrs. E. J. Cameron.

What Is Ormstown Doing

Bernice Cullen

Mayor Bruno Beaulieu of Ormstown, with the Honorable Robert Smellie, Minister of Municipal Affairs of Manitoba.

Last week we printed information relating to the retaining wall on the river bank in Ormstown. It has occurred to some, that a railing, bordering the embankment, with three or four benches placed on a stoned, or paved walk would enhance the appearance of the wall and give pleasure to those who would make use of it, to enjoy the scenic beauties of our portion of the Chateauguay River.

We learned from Mayor Beaulieu, that Government Geologists will make a survey in the near future, to test the quality and quantity of the spring water. It is believed that the secret source of the springs which once served Ormstown with all its water supply, may be found. In the event that the spring source is not adequate, or indeed whether or not, it is found new water lines will be installed to replace the badly deteriorated and rusted pipes which now carry water to householders. This will come as welcome news to frustrated housewives who have to cope with the present situation.

Ormstown was put on the map in a tangible way recently. Last September, Mayor Beaulieu was elected to the Board of Directors of L'Union des Municipalities de la Province de Quebec. This is an honor for Ormstown, since previously the Directorate was comprised solely of representatives from cities and not from rural areas. Area 12 of which Mr. Beaulieu is a member includes Vaudreuil-Soulanges, Huntingdon, Chateauguay, and Beauharnois, it having the largest representation in the province, numbering 28 municipalities. Mayor Beaulieu is a member of the Centennial Planning Commission and is officially authorized to speak to groups which would like to know more about Municipal Centennial Planning or to hear information concerning Centennial Projects, both federal and Provincial.

It was at a recent meeting of L'Union des Municipalities de la Province de Quebec when our Province was host to Manitoba, that Mr. Beaulieu met a person with whom he found he had much in common. During a conversation on Municipal Planning, centennial projects and proposed plans in general, Municipal Representative Beaulieu of Quebec and Municipal Representative and Secretary Treasurer of the township of MacGregor, Manitoba, Mr. A M. Hay discovered that they each represented dual municipalities, situated on mixed farming areas. Each township has two councils, (town and parish), using one town hall and one Fire Brigade. Each Municipality has a Lions Club a Senior Citizens' Club, (MacGregor has a Senior Citizens' Home), each has a hospital and a yearly fair. MacGregor has a newspaper, but then Ormstown likes to think it too has two newspapers, since our local Gleaner and Le Journal serve us well. The population of each area is approximately 4000 with MacGregor having the edge. The Manitoba township is situated about 70 miles n.w. of Winnipeg on the CPR line. Mr. Beaulieu was introduced to the Honorable Robert Smellie, Minister of Municipal Affairs for the Province of Manitoba. After discussing the similarities of their respective areas, the two men thought that excellent Inter-Provincial Relations could be promoted by twinning the townships. This important contact with another Province might well pave the way for greater understanding among Canadians, especially between Quebec and the rest of our great land. We will be hearing more from the Honorable Robert Smellie, and now that he and Mr. Hay have an interest in our area, we will look forward to mutual benefits for both communities.

● We are still on the Board of Trade Lick. Is there no need of a Board of Trade in Ormstown? Perhaps the name is objectionable. Would Chamber of Commerce or Chambre de Commerce sound more pleasing to the ear? Can Ormstown or any other town function just as well, industrially, commercially and socially without a Board of Trade? These are questions the Mayor and Councillors would like to discuss. A town or Parish Council can do many things to promote progress, but advice and support or Parish Council can do Closer contacts with our Government, from Municipal to Federal is of the utmost importance for a progressive community. We have men of position who are progressive let's give them all the support they deserve.

BOY SCOUTS in the COMMUNITY

By Thomas Wm. Hargrave, President, District Council of Chateauguay Valley

1966 will mark the 59th year since Robert Baden-Powell, the Founder of the Boy Scout Movement, put forward his ideas for training boys in initiative, self-reliance and citizenship. "B.P." was born in London, England, on 22nd. February 1857, and from 1907 gave 34 years full time service to the founding and promotion of the Scout Movement, in all parts of the world. Scouting rapidly caught on in other countries, and in a few years had become an International Movement, until today membership in the Great Brotherhood of Scouting is approaching 10 million boys, and holds to a policy laid down by "B.P." that Scouting will not regard sectarian, political or colour differences.

The program which "B.P." introduced for the development of initiative and self-reliance was unique in that it was essentially a "Doing" program. He believed that boys will learn by doing, and whether at Cub age or at Scout age, activity is the keynote – tests to learn, badges to earn, camps and hikes to take part in.

When approaching the end of his life "B.P." wrote to Scouts of the world, what he referred to as his last message to them – a portion of which now quoted reveals the simplicity and directness of his philosophy – " I believe that God put us into this world to be happy and enjoy life. Happiness doesn't come from being rich, nor merely from being successful in your career, nor by self-indulgence. The real way to get happiness is by giving out happiness to other people. Try to leave this world a little better than you found it – and God help you to do it".

Further Details On Proprietors' League Protest To Chateauguay Centre Council

By Fergus Horsburgh

As reported in last week's Gleaner, some 200 members of the Proprietors' League of Chateauguay and ordinary citizens of Chateauguay met on Monday, February 28th, to draft a resolution to the Mayor and Council of the Town of Chateauguay Centre

Chairman of the meeting was League President Mr. Fred Berry, and principal speaker was League Vice President Mr. Franz Hasenhuendl. Text of Mr. Hasenhuendl's key-note speech follows:-

Tme Proprietors League of Chateauguay Centre has called to-night's emergency meeting for the sole purpose of keeping you informed of developments in our municipality.

We are very concerned about recent developments and feel that our tax-money is being mismanaged.

The Proprietors League of Chateauguay Centre has made it its business. to watch every move our municipal representatives make.

The Proprietors League has the interest of the community at heart, and has assumed the role as watchdog for you — the tax payer.

The Proprietors League needs your support.

I know, that some of you might say that these are a lot of big words and nothing behind it; and you are right, —

They are big words, and they are big ideas, and with a strong and solid support, — your support, we may succeed in keeping both, the big words, and the big ideas effective as such.

Who owns the Town of Chateauguay Centre?

The Mayor? No, The Aldermen? No,

Who are the owners? Who are the shareholders?

Who is and who makes the Town of Chateauguay Centre?

You, and you, and you — yes, all of us,

Without us, who would pay for the business ventures of our municipal council?

Who would pay for their mistakes? Nobody, for without you there would be no town called Chateauguay Centre.

The majority of our municipal representatives have been elected by acclamation No opposition — and now they are united in their decisions on how to spend our money.

Lately our representatives of the municipality have passed by-laws to borrow money for projects, prior to the receiving of tenders. How do they know how much such a project will cost? — They don't know, — they just pass a by-law, in their estimation high enough, to be left with a surplus, and hope, that the tendering firms will take the hint, and tender below the amount approved.

Do you want to pay interest on surplus?

We will introduce a resolution to be voted on, the results of which will be forwarded to the municipal council of Chateauguay Centre and, or the Minister of Municipal Affairs.

Text of the resolution, which was adopted unanimously by the 200-odd members present, follows: —

RESOLUTION :

1.) WHEREAS the Board of Directors, and Executives of the Proprietors League of Chateauguay Centre, shall be authorized herewith, to call upon the Municipal Council of Chateauguay Centre, to explain their actions as outlined hereinfater.

2.) WHEREAS it is the contention of the Proprietors League of Chateauguay Centre, that the Municipal Council of Chateauguay Centre, has recently passed, at least one By-Law to borrow money for a project, prior to the calling, and or receiving and opening of tenders for the said By-Law.

We, The Proprietors League of Chateauguay Centre, object vehemently to any such practices, as they may be unethical and influential, but in any event and definitely inviting unrealistic tenders from the tendering firms.

We understand, that the approved amount of the By-Law referred to hereinabove is in accordance with, and corresponding to an estimate submitted by the Town Engineer, which estimate has been considerably higher than that of the lowest Tender who possibly might have tendered at a yet lower price, had he not been guided by such an extreme estimate.

What is happening to the surplus? — Is such a surplus used for any other project or projects? If so, does the Municipal Council rightfully feel that such practices are democratic and within their rights? — Does the Municipal Council feel, that such actions are to the benefit of the Tax payers they represent? If so how can a Tax-payer benefit from borrowed surplus?

3.) WHEREAS it is the contention of the Proprietors League of Chateauguay Centre, that every individual Tax-payer should receive a detailed statement, from the Municipality, outlining any and all improvement taxes, the Tax payer is required to pay, and furthermore, detailed explanation of the principal amount the term and interest rate of

18 - Hole Golf Course For Chateauguay Area

By Fergus Horsburgh)

Beauchateau Country Club this year celebrates its 10th anniversary, and last Thursday evening held a reception in honour of some of the founding members and others associated in a decade of progress for the social, curling and golfing club at Maple Grove, on the outskirts of Beauharnois.

The Beauchateau's $250,000 property just off Lery Boulevard operates on a non-profit basis, and membership is drawn largely from the Beauharnois - Chateauguay - Montreal area.

President Mr. Robert Trudeau announced last Thursday that the present 9-hole golf course will be enlarged to 18 holes this Spring. Much of the preliminary grading and cleaning has already been accomplished, and the Beauchateau has engaged the services of Mr. Don O'Doherty as club professional for the coming year.

Born and raised in Arvida, Quebec, the site of the giant Alcan aluminum smelter — the largest in the world — Mr. O'Doherty learned his golf in Arvida, and was assistant golf professional at the Sagenay Country Club. A prominent amateur golfer for many years, Mr. O'Doherty turned professional in 1965, and hopes to compete in golf tournies across Canada this year.

The Beauchateau started its existence as the Beauharnois Curling Club, and has achieved a wide renutation as the scene of many bonspiels for curlers from the Montreal area.

Office-bearers for the current year are: — President, Mr. Robert Trudeau; Vice-President, Golf, Mr. Fred Boucher; Vice-President, Curling, Mr. Camille Laperle; Secretary, Mr. Yvon R. Comire; Treasurer, Mr. George Bouchard; Directors, Messrs. Stew Taylor, Max Davis; Assistants to the Board Past President, Mr. Doug. Lang and Mr. Roger Mathieu, legal advisor.

President Robert Trudeau, justifiably proud of the Club's facilities, was enthusiastic about Beauchateau's plans for an 18-hole course for the Chateauguay area — a first for the Chateauguay Valley — and paid tribute to the devoted efforts of old Club members such as senior golfer Gene Brault, Willie Pouliot, Marcel Hebert and Fred Boucher.

The Chateauguay Gleaner wishes the Beauchateau Country Club every success as it enters its second decade.

Bilingualism At The Pre-School Level

by Martha Strike

The Seigniory Park Co-operative Pre-school is fortunate in having a teacher who is bilingual. Mrs. Malvina Chart has always integrated the teaching of French into her nursery school program. This term, there is sufficient enrolment of French-speaking children that both French and English are spoken in the school all morning long. The children whose first language is English are learning French and the French-speaking children are learning English. There is a lesson here for all of us. Bilingualism at this level works beautifully!

Mrs. Chart was fluent in both French and Flemish before she started school in her native Belgium. Years later when she was a young woman, she went to England. There she learned English for the first time. As she herself put it, it was easy for her to learn, because she had to. Conscious mental translation is not necessary for her in any of the three languages she speaks.

This bears out Dr. Wilder Penfield's findings. Dr. Penfield has found that, if, while at two to three years of age learning his native language a child learns a second language, understanding the meaning of the words, he will be able later to learn to speak that language without an accent. This applies even if the knowledge extends to only a few simple words, such as those for mummy, daddy, dog, cat, and the sort. Also, he will be able to think in that second language, without consciously translating first in his mind. He will be able to switch, for example, from English to French or vice versa without any interruption in his thought processes.

What is even more significant is that this ability to switch languages will work for a third or fourth language learned later in life. Which of course, explains the fantastic linguistic ability of people from small European countries which border on several others.

Dr. Penfield has also found that only a few years later when a child is five or six (school age!) and learns for the first time even a few words of a second language he will always speak with some accent and will never learn to think in the second language.

How fortunate then, are the twenty little children who are learning French or English at the nursery school level! Mrs Chart introduced French songs to the children before Christmas. Since then she has gradually added the days of the week, counting, colours, and parts of the body, as a daily language exercise for both English and French children Every change of activity is announced a few minutes in advance and instructions are given in both languages. Vocabulary is increased at the rate of two new words each day. The English-speaking children have now reached the point where they can listen to stories in French. All this in the five and a half months since school opened the first of October!

When one thinks of the fine French Canadian theatre to be seen in Montreal, the freshness and originality of French television (even when one cannot keep up with everything that is said), or the marvelous restaurants (even when one's French is not up to the whole of the menu), or the redoubled delights of foreign travel with the advantage of two languages one can be moved to sinful envy of these lucky little people.

May a kindly Providence grant that they grow up to live together "la vie en rose."

Kennedy, Chat. Historical Soc. Join St. Patrick's Celebrations

(By Russ Faughnan)

Georges Kennedy, M.P.P. has announced his acceptance of an invitation to join Chateauguay's delegation to the big St. Patrick's parade in Montreal, next Sunday.

The Chateauguay Historical Society has announced its intention to provide a float for the parade. It will depict the "Battle of Chateauguay".

The Irish Trade Commissioner and the President of the new Irish Airways have announced that they will appear at a dance in Chateauguay which is scheduled to start the week of the "Big Day".

These are only three incidents in the ever growing band wagon of Chateauguay's St. Patrick's Day celebrations. If all goes as planned, it will not only be a great day for the Irish but one calculated to promote the district in a very big way. And The Gleaner helped.

It all started with the formation of a Committee to make the local St. Patrick's effort a Community one, rather than a strictly parish affair. A story in The Gleaner asked for aid from interested organizations. Among the calls received, was one from Tom McDade, President of the Chateauguay His-Battle of Chateauguay. He then helped to secure the support of Mr. Kennedy. Couple this with the active support of Mayor Richard Sutterlin of Chateauguay Centre and Mayor Joe Laberge of the Town of Chateauguay (including financial grants from both towns), and you have the best possible official support for a Community project.

Irish Trade Commissioner John Carey and President Frank Phillips of the Irish Airways will be the honoured guests at a dance (to which everyone is invited) which will be held on Friday, March 11th., at the Church Hall, Our Lady of Perpetual Help Church, on McLeod St. We are told that Mr. Carey can swing a mean fiddle and it is hoped that he will demonstrate his musical talent. There will be an orchestra, John Peacock and Troubadors, plenty of Irish music, fantastic decorations and, refreshments will be available.

The parade itself will take place in Montreal on Sunday, March 13th. Grand Marshal will be Des Harwood, assisted by Tom Kavanaugh and Harry Maguire. Free transportation will be available from Our Lady of Perpetual Help Church and Harvey's Drugstore, in the Shopping Centre. Buses to leave at 1:30 P.M. Those who wish to get to the parade on their own, can join the Chateauguay group on Guy St., just South of Dorchester, no later than 2:30 P.M. What with Father Belanger, Mayor Sutterlin and Laberge, M.P.P. Kennedy and, we hope, the entire population of the Chateauguay area, this could be a great day for the Irish and for Chateauguay. In fact, there has already been some talk of staging the 1967 parade through our local streets. And then wouldn't Montreal turn green .... with envy.

From The Heart of The Commonwealth To The Heart of The Chateauguay Valley

Mr. G. S. McDougall, British Overseas Airways Corporation, Manager for Canada, examines a piece of Canadian Rock Elm with Mr. Tom McDade, Chairman of the Battle of Chateauguay Memorial Committee. The historic wood was brought to Canada in the inaugural flight of the Super VC10. (Photo by Ed. Bermingham (B.O.A.C.)

On Monday afternoon February 28th, at 2:40 p.m. a gleaming new Super VC10 landed at Montreal International Airport; flight No. 567 had brought back to Canada a priceless link with the past.

The story had its beginning over a century and a half ago, around the time of the Battle of Chateauguay. A shipment of Canadian Rock Elm was taken under sail to England. It was used as piles and sunk into the Thames River to support Waterloo Bridge in London. Built by the Scottish civil engineer John Rennie and originally called the Strand Bridge.

When the bridge was replaced by the new Waterloo Bridge in 1936 the old piles were removed and stored at the timber firm of W. W. Howard & Company Limited. The ancient timber looked waterlogged and worthless. However, one was cut open and it was discovered the piles were perfectly sound inside and had a beautiful silver-grey sheen unknown in natural wood.

This extraordinary transformation was due to the chemical reaction of the Thames mud in which the piles had been immersed for 125 years

The annex doors in Westminster Abbey were made from the wood in 1937 in time for the coronation of King George VI, the same doors through which Queen Elizabeth passed en route to her coronation.

The elm has been used in a few stately homes and for furniture in the Queen's private saloon. It was also used as paneling in the aircraft that flew Queen Elizabeth to Canada in October of 1957.

Last year the Battle of Chateauguay Memorial Committee learned there were a few pieces of Rock Elm remaining unused. The Canadian High Commissioners Office in London on behalf of the Committee negotiated with the owners to obtain the Rock Elm.

The Memorial Committee is indebted to Mr. Cyril I. Rooke, Commercial Officer, Office of the High Commissioner for Canada, and to Mr. H. C. Brooker, Managing Director of W. W. Howard Brothers Co. Ltd., for the generous act of preparing and donating the material. A special note of thanks is given to B.O.A.C. for transporting the shipment to Canada.

A panel bearing Colonel de Salaberry's coat-of-arms will be fashioned from these lengths of Canadian Rock Elm and placed in the Battle of Chateauguay Memorial at Allan's Corners.

It will be a direct connection with the city where de Salaberry received his commission and to the battlefield where he won his place in the history of Canada.

Car Strikes House

(By Fergus Horsburgh)

In the early morning hours of last Monday, an auto driving east to west on St. Francis Blvd. (near Vanier) skidded, the driver lost control and the car hit the side of a house situated at number 89.

Both the house and car were considerably damaged. The driver, a 46-year-old Chateauguay Centre resident was taken by ambulance to Lachine General Hospital.

Alone in the car at the time of the accident 2.05 a.m. March 7th., the woman suffered undetermined injuries.

C.H.S. Reports

By
Heidi Pemoller

Hi, well another week gone. Last Wednesday the C.H.S. Senior Boy's basketball team played Rosemere High for the first game of the playoffs in the Montreal Championships. Our boys won that game 61 - 59. There was great school spirit at the event.

Then Friday night C.H.S. played at Rosemere, but unfortunately we lost with a score of 62 - 49, so in the total points of both games Rosemere won the championships. The best of luck next year, Boys!

The auditions for the Drama Club play will be starting soon since Mr. Howes has been away for several weeks now.

Friday night — there's a dance. This is the last reminder. The Haunted are playing, so let's see everyone there!

For the $5,000-a-year Canadian earner who is married and has two dependents, the recent 10 per cent income tax reduction will mean $30 in a full year.

DISCUSS AMALGAMATED SCHOLASTIC SYSTEM

Chateauguay Personalities On Television

(By Fergus Horsburgh)

Three Chateauguay men, Mr. Russ Mosher of the Protestant School Board of Chateauguay Valley, Rev. Gavin Barnett of St. George's Anglican Church and Father Belanger of the Church of Our Lady of Perpetual Help, have been interviewed by television station C.B.M.T. The interview, part of an educational series, will be shown on Channel 2 next Sunday at 1:15 p.m.

The subject under discussion will be the recently signed contract between the Catholic Youville Regional School Board and the Protestant Regional School Board of the Chateauguay Valley.

The programme will discuss plans for finding a logical sensible solution to the problems of educating the children of different languages and religions under the same administration. The fears and objections of the various groups will be discussed, with the plans for providing appropriate religious instruction under an amalgamated scholastic system.

This airing of one of the most controversial and vital issues of our times is sure to attract a wide viewing audience in the Chateauguay Valley.

Chateauguay News Notes

By Fergus Horsburgh

✓ The Montreal Mandolin Ensemble, a group of singers mostly of European origin, will give a concert for Chateauguay Centre United Church on May 3rd. The Ensemble is well-known in Montreal church circles, and have performed before an audience of 700 at Town of Mount Royal United Church.

✓ The new Post Office is open for business — at long last! In case you are wondering where it is — corner Vanier and Marquette Streets. Part of Vanier Street is still named Third Avenue; however steps are being taken to have the whole named Vanier — which will avoid much confusion. Incidentally the Chateauguay Medical Centre is at the corner of d'Anjou Blvd. and Third Ave. News of official opening ceremony will be published here in the near future.

✓ Parents of both Protestant and R. C. children — please read the "Education in the Valley" article this week. It is especially informative and should clear up some doubts you may have concerning your children's religious education. See elsewhere.

✓ Noted author and teacher (Chat. High School) H. Gordon Green to be guest speaker next week in St. George's Church Hall.

✓ Town Police have had many calls during the past week, reporting flooded cellars, etc. Very little else happening. Shoplifting still a headache to both the shop-keepers and the Police. We hear that they get younger and younger — the offenders we mean.

✓ At a recent Committee meeting at Town Hall, a discussion with the Roman Catholic School Board concerning an agreement for the construction of a school park was held. The park would be situated adjacent to Notre-Dame de l'Assomption School in the Station area. Many considerations are still to be worked out — however Council has approved the agreement. To be named Jeanne d'Arc Park, the Mayor and Sec.-Treas. have been authorized to sign the agreement (or contract).

✓ The zoning by-law is still being studied, page by page. It will be some time before completion.

✓ Over to Chateauguay Centre now some items from the March 1st Council meeting.

✓ Council accepted with regrets the resignation of Mr. J. Sarto Blais Secretary-Treasurer.

✓ Tenders for the Civic Centre were opened and referred to the Architects, Gagnon and Archambault.

1st tender. Rod L'Ecuyer $999,999.00 outside pool $75,606.00
2nd. Duroc Const. Inc. $1.006,226.00 outside pool $36,823.00
3rd. Goineau Enterprises Inc. $1,027,000.00 outside pool $64,368.00.
4th. Mont-Royal Const. Ltd. $1,057,223.00 outside pool $73,672.00.

✓ Tenders for by-law 461 for the construction of three park chalets were also opened.

1. For Sutterlin Park ONLY Jean Paul Lefebvre $24,850.00.
2. For the three Parks (Sutterlin, Maple and Chat. Park) Ovide Asselin $30,500.00 EACH chalet.
Fernand Murphy $31,800.00 EACH chalet.
These tenders have been referred to architects, Lemay, Leclerc and Trahan.

✓ Tenders on by-law 395 Surface drains on Morin Street and street number 146-171 were opened. Five tenders were received and referred to the Town Engineer:

1. Marier & Fils	$10,440.00
2. Marcel Lefebvre	$13,650.00
3. Baillargeon & Fournier	$15,600.00
4. Brault & Theberge	$16,500.00
5. Lery - Howick	$17,300.00

✓ Accounts approved by Council were:

administration	$200,178.97
salary a/c	$ 21,033.47
capital a/c	$ 39,065.80

✓ The Valuation Roll prepared by Service d'Evaluation Generale was deposited by Mr. Monette to Council. Said roll is open to all for inspection at the Town Hall up until April 1st. The Town Hall will be open on Saturdays from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Non-taxable value is $2,821,865.00 and property of taxable value $43,438,542.00.

✓ Following a recommendation by the recently resigned Sec-Treas., Mr. Blais, the position of Town Clerk will be filled by Mr. Laurier Legault (to whom we are indebted for our news items from the Centre).

✓ The sale of property on which taxes have not been paid will be held on April 12th in the Town Hall on Richard Crescent — beginning at 9 a.m. Public notices have been published accordingly.

✓ Alderman Marcel Reid gave notice of motion that he will prepare a by-law changing the name of Third Avenue to "Vanier."

✓ Council adopted by-law 545 providing for curbstones and asphalt paving on Beurling from Real to St. Mary's and on Cartier — cadastre no. 121 and on St. Aubin cadastre no 121-60 and a loan of $39,000.00 to that effect. The public meeting will be held in the Town Hall, on March 11th, from 7 to 9 p.m.

✓ A pass-way between Dube and Viau Streets will be reported on by Mr. George Desparois, Municipal Inspector. He is required by Council to make arrangements and report at the Tuesday, March 8th meeting.

✓ Good reading habits depend on the pleasure a child receives from his early books. Educators realize this and are working towards getting the very best teaching methods available for our schools. With this in mind, St. Paul's PTA have arranged a most interesting evening for March 16th. Mrs. Stokowski, reading consultant for the Protestant School Board of Chateauguay, will give a talk on her work and the reading curriculum used in the Protestant Schools.

✓ Mr. Russ Mosher, Father Belanger and Rev. Gavin Barnett appear next Sunday at 1:15 p.m. on a channel 2 discussion programme probing controversial aspects of co-operation between the Catholic and Protestant School Boards.

✓ The Committee of the Winter Works Programme is holding an informational meeting at Ste. Martine Secondary School next Wednesday evening at 8 p.m. Films will be shown, and an open discussion will follow a progress report on the success of the Winter Works programme throughout Canada.

The small but enthusiastic crowd who attended the Barn Dance at St. Andrew's United Church, on Saturday night really had a wonderful time — and actually learned a great deal about Barn Dancing.

Monday: 7:00 p.m. — C.G.I.T. Meeting: girls 12-17 under the leadership of Mrs. Helen Malone.

Wednesday: 7:45 p.m. — Choir Practise — Everyone most welcome — the only requisite is a love of singing.

Every Sunday: 9:00 a.m. — Church School — New Curriculum.

Every Sunday: 11:00 a.m.— Regular Morning Worship — at which time there is a Nursery Department in the Hall.

Minister during the waiting period of the appointment of a resident minister is Rev. Ronald Mahabir, B.A., B.D.

Church and Hall are located at 161 Parkview Blvd. where a warm welcome awaits all.

The Montreal Mandolin Ensemble will give a concert for the Church on May 3nd. Locale of the performance will be announced later.

ST. ANDREW'S NOTES

(By Fergus Horsburgh)

Hymns at last Sunday's service included "All hail the power of Jesus' name." "Once again dear Lord we pray", and "Tell me the old, old story". The Choral Anthem was "Under the shadow of the Almighty".

Rev. Howard Fraser's sermon was based on the theme "I believe in Jesus Christ". Mr. Malcolm Johnston, B.A., Principal of Julius Richardson Elementary School and Mr. Jerry Klemba, a teacher at Chateauguay High School commented on Education Week as part of the morning service. This week, March 6th - 12th is being observed across Canada as Education Week. The theme "Education — Gateway to Progress" is again being used as a national slogan.

A meeting of the Official Board, i.e., Elders, Stewards and one representative from each Church organization was scheduled for last Monday evening.

The Junior Choir (ages 9 - 15) meets every Saturday at 9.30 a.m. in the Sanctuary. A nursery service is provided every Sunday, during Morning Service for children too small to attend church service.

MAPLEWOOD NOTES

(By Ediith Bate)

Flowers in the Church on Sunday, March 6th, were in loving memory of Mr. Reagh Burns, from the Family.

The Sacrament of Baptism will be administered D.V. on Sunday, March 13th.

Copies of the "Family Altar" for the month of March are now available in the Church:

Photograph of the model of the new Church Offices now being constructed in Toronto, was featured this week in the Church Sunday bulletin.

Administrative offices, the Women's Missionary Society and Presbyterian Publications will all be housed in the new building, expected to be completed this coming summer. Funds for the construction were a gift from the late Col. Walter Gow, Q. C. a Toronto lawyer and life-long Presbyterian.

Bon Appétit Mon Ami

I have often heard people say that Montreal was, "the eatinest place in Canada". Well, I have been in such places as "The Lobster", and "Little Vienna" in Toronto; "The Pink Flamingo and "Purdy's" in Vancouver; "The Farmhouse" and "Chateau Frontenac" in Quebec; and many more in between. But it seems every week there is a new place to appease the appetite appearing in Montreal. Since the great surge began to create anew the oldest part of the great city, those with the backing, etc., seem to specialize in an eating house. Each one of the places I have mentioned above, I visited for a special dish or it was recommended to me for that reason. But perhaps these folks are trying to bring back in these quaint out of the way places where you can actually relive those olden days.

Happy March Birthday to: Derek Jones, March 12th., Grandson of Mr. and Mrs. W. Hulshoff; Janice Golden, more than just a restaurant. An intimate quiet dinner or a Sunday out with friends who like to dine in quiet elegance in muted surroundings are found Nanny Edna was out to see and look after her grandchildren Patricia and David Smith for the week-end.

An enjoyable evening was the fare for the Ladies of West End Westview Terrace and Project 700, last Tuesday evening. Thirty-seven were present and the door prize once again was won by Mrs. Adelard Proulx. The conveners, Mrs. Lowe and Mrs. Legault certainly did a good job and everyone seemed to enjoy themselves. Thanks go out to all who answered their call for donations, and to Mr. Aldwin Lampitt whose company donated also. The tables for our use are all ready and they certainly are a pleasure to use. No more sore, bent backs. All that remains is the staining and finish. Mrs. Gilbert and Mrs. Mitchell are the next conveners.

How did your indoor bulbs do this year? My hyacinths are finished blooming and we certainly got a lot of enjoyment from them, even if I bought yellow and got white, the scent was still lovely.

Kindgarten — The Chateauguay Catholic School Commission is planning the opening of kindergarten classes for September 1966. To help them in their plans they are asking parents of children who will be five (5) years old before October 1, 1966, to register them at the school of their sector before March 15 1966. A birth certificate is required for each enrolment.

In last week's paper I erroneously stated that the coffee party held at the municipal Hall on Thursday morning, February 24th, was put on by the Chateauguay Group of the Ladies Auxiliary to the Lachine General Hospital. The coffee Party was put on by Mrs. Sylvia Richey in aid of the Chateauguay Group and Mrs. Richey wishes to thank all the friends and neighbours of the group who attended as well as the members who assisted her in the preparations and serving the refreshments.

SEIGNIORY PARK

The first reported crocus in bloom in Seigniory Park, is in the garden of Montmorency's Mr. and Mrs. Swann. The Horsburgh's have half a dozen daffodils two inches above the ground, so spring is at least around the next corner.

The first adult art class under the auspices of the Y.M.-C.A. was held at the clubhouse last Wednesday. This is a triumph for the small group within Seigniory Park who have worked so patiently on bringing the Y. to Chateauguay during the last year. Further details of this enterprise are to be found elsewhere in this Gleaner. Congratulations to Mrs. Rhoda Rowntree, Mrs. Pat Bedard, Mr. Leo Robitaille and others who have helped in placing another feather in the Home Owners Association's cap.

It is now official that John McKay and family will be leaving Seigniory Park this coming Spring. The Mackays were among the very first settlers in Seigniory Park, arriving here late in 1961, when only a few houses had been built on St. Francis Boulevard. John has been transferred to Ottawa by Bell Telephone and Northern Electric. The first elected Vice-President of the Home Owners Association, John held the fledgling organization together as Acting President during the summer of 1962. At every annual Home Owners Association meeting since then, John has conducted election proceedings with despatch and aplomb — I wonder who will take his place next September? The best wishes of their many friends will go with John, Joyce and the rest of the McKays. Many were the week-ends when news was sparse that John came to the rescue of this column. Frankly, I just don't know how I'm going to keep abreast in rat-extermination developments without John's help.

Someone who had better be nameless has corrected me for recording that the first exploratory meeting of the Home Owners was held on a warm summer's evening. My recollection was that it was a hot, sultry evening — his that it was unseasonably cold and he was impatient to be home and wrap himself around a potion of Duggan's Dew o' Kirkintillock. I wonder which is the correct version?

Seigniory Drive's Mac Johnson spoke to the St. Andrew's United congregation at morning service last Sunday on Education Week, now being observed across Canada.

Is that collar worn by Hazel held a special meeting to plan their strategy for next Friday against the Wasps?

Imagine! Only six weeks of regular bowling left and two weeks of playoffs. Banquet arrangements have been made by President Dave McCarthy at the Chateauguay Motel — with a lovely sit-down dinner planned. All bowlers put a big mark on May 21st. — that's the big night.

the loan, as well as the amount to be collected per annum for the duration of such a loan, including the portion of interest to be paid per annum. Furthermore every Tax-payer should be given the option to pay any one portion of improvement tax in full, within a reasonable delay, upon receiving such a detailed statement from the Municipality of Chateauguay Centre, if he, the Tax-payer so chooses.

Since approximately fifty per cent of the amount paid towards improvement taxes consists of interest, it shall be for the individual Tax payer to decide, whether he wishes to pay his improvement taxes by annual installments with interest, or if he wishes to pay cash.

4.) WHEREAS it is the contention of the Proprietors League of Chateauguay Centre, that the Municipality should, in the event of changes in the valuation roll inform every Tax-paver affected by such a change, by mailing a statement of the revised valuation to his place of residence, at least sixty days prior to the date, which has been set for the adoption of any such changed valuation roll, and the Tax-payer should be entitled to register, with the Board of revisions of the Town of Chateauguay Centre any and all objections, which he has, or which he might have, within a delay of thirty days from the date, that he in fact has been duly notified by the Municipality, of any and all changes in the amount of his valuation.

5.) WHEREAS it is the contention of the Proprietors League of Chateauguay Centre, that the Tax-payers of the Town of Chateauguay Centre have been denied, directly or indirectly, their rights, to reject or approve the adoption of By-Laws, due to improper notification. It might be legal, to post notices for Tax-payers meetings at the Town Hall, Post Office and the occasional Church but such poorly publicized notifications, are definitely inadequate. We shall therefore request herewith, that any and all Tax-payers meetings to be held by the Municipal Council, for the purpose of adoption and or rejection of By-Laws, must be duly advertized in the local News Papers, at least two weeks prior to the date of any such meeting.

It is our contention, that we have been deprived of our rights as Tax-payers on many occasions in the past, by reading notices for Tax-payers meetings in a newspaper which actually has been printed, after such a Tax-payers meeting took place.

6.) WHEREAS it has been resolved, that the Municipal Council of Chateauguay Centre shall be asked, to abandon at once, any and all plans, and or discussions in regards to the erection of a Civic Centre, pending amalgamation of greater Chateauguay, or consult the Municipal Council of the Town of Chateauguay, with the request to participate in the planning as well as in the financing of such a project, which should be designed to serve the combined population of greater Chateauguay.

7.) WHEREAS it has been resolved, to present a copy of this resolution to the Municipal Council of Chateauguay Centre, with the request, to receive within thirty days from this date a detailed reply, outlining, what corrective steps the Municipal Council intends to take, as a result of, and or in consideration of this resolution.

In the event however, that the Municipal Council of Chateauguay Centre refuses neglects and or ignores to act in accordance with the terms of this resolution, then the Executives and Board of Directors of the Proprietors League of Chateauguay Centre, shall be authorized herewith, to forward a copy of this resolution to the Minister of Municipal Affairs for the Province of Quebec, with the request to investigate into the practices of the Municipal Council of Chateauguay Centre.

Letter To The Editor

Letter to the Editor,
Chateauguay Gleaner
Dear Sir,

On Friday, March 4th, between 8:30 and 9: a.m., travelling on Highway 3 and 4 to the Mercier Bridge, there was a large truck owned and operated by Desjardins Ornamental Iron Works of Chateauguay loaded with a very large fabricated Iron Work being transported to some job site.

The material was of such a size that it extended on all sides over the body of the truck and as you are no doubt aware, the highway code calls for the hanging of a red danger flag on such over size loads.

The owners had met this requirement by using as their danger signal — a Canadian Flag — knotted on one corner of the load. This in my opinion hits a new low. Our recently authorized new flag should not be subject to such indignities and as Chairman of the St. Andrew's Group Committee of the Boy Scouts Association. I strangly protest the use of our National Emblem for such purposes. We are endeavouring to teach our children respect for Government at all levels and our time and efforts are wasted if such incidents are allowed to pass without comment.

I trust you will print this protest and send a copy of your publications to the Owners of Desjardins Ornamental Iron Works of Chateauguay as a guide for the future.

Yours truly,
C.H. Grimes
Chateauguay Heights.

Cooks' Corner

By MARY FABIO

A special thank you to Mrs. B. Trueman, a former resident of Primeau St., who sent me a couple of recipes last week. Am passing one of them on to you today and I'm sure you will enjoy it. It's for those old fashioned oat cakes that no doubt many of your mothers used to make.

Mrs. McLeod's Oak Cakes

1½ cups rolled oats (or oatmeal if you prefer)
1½ cups flour
½ cup white sugar
1 teaspon salt
½ teaspoon baking powder
½ cup lard
¼ cup butter
5 tablespoons cold water

Method — Add all dry ingredients together then add the lard and the butter. Blend like pastry then add the water. Roll out fairly thick, cut in squares and bake at 325 until lightly browned.

Also this week I'd like to give you a recipe which I told Mrs. Bate about some time ago for Magic Modelling Goop. It's uneatable but it's the most delightful discovery since mud pies. It's white, leaves no mess on hands, clothes or furniture and grown-ups get a bang out of working with it — just like kids. Best of all it requires only three simple household ingredients: corn starch, salt and water. Food coloring can be kneaded right into the hot mixture and it will keep for months when sealed in plastic wrap. You can achieve an expensive ceramic look by flowing on three coats of shellac, letting each dry well before the next is applied. Here is the recipe (I found it in an ancient issue of Better Homes and Gardens).

Magic Modelling Goop

2 cups table salt
⅔ cup water
1 cup cornstarch (loose)
1½ cup cold water.

Method — Mix salt and 2/3 cup water in saucepan, stirring until mixture is well heated 3 to 4 minutes. Remove from heat and add cornstarch which has been mixed with 1½ cup cold water. Stir quickly. Mixture should be consistency of stiff dough. If mixture does not thicken, place over low heat and stir, about one minute, until it forms a smooth pliable mass. Leave the mix a natural white, or divide into portions and add regular food colors till desired brilliance is achieved. Modelling objects may also be painted or decorated when dry to give surface colour. Makes 1¾ pounds. No refrigeration is necessary.

How to dry: Modelled objects will dry and harden at room temperature in approximately 36 hours depending on the thickness of object. Place models on wire rack or screen to allow free air circulation.

If you'd like more information about Magic Modelling Goop do give me a call.

Handy hints for homemakers

Spray your artificial flowers with hair spray — not only gives them gloss but makes them less vulnerable to dust.

If you have a parakeet that is tame enough to have the run of the house, you can provide him with a portable perch that he'll appreciate. Simply use the suction-cup type of dart from a game, and stick this on a mirror where the pet can spend hours admiring his reflection.

When cutting meringue pies, to prevent the knife from sticking to the meringue, first dip your knife into cold water.

Education In The Valley No. 11-5

Religious Education in the Schools

Several queries have been made concerning the cost of increased facilities and the effect upon Protestant students of the provision for religious education for Roman Catholic students in the Protestant regional schools. I shall attempt, in some measure, to answer these queries. It should be noted that the opinions and comments expressed are my own.

The high school course in religious education for Roman Catholic students is a course approved by the Roman Catholic Committee of the Superior Council of Education. The text is prescribed by the Committee. The instruction is given by a regular class teacher in an average of two class periods per week.

In a large high school under subject promotion every subject offered is treated as an option, whether compulsory or elective. Every group of students must at all times have supervision. There are sevent teaching periods per day. If we presume an enrolment of 1200 students and an average of 30 pupils per class this would represent a total of 280 (1200/30 x 7) class periods per day for the whole school. While any particular class is being given religious instruction (by a qualified teacher) another teacher is being freed of this particular class to teach an other subject. In other words, the introduction of a religious option on the course of study does not require an increase in the number of the teaching staff. It does require that one of the teachers engaged must be of the Roman Catholic faith "with training and experience in the teaching of Roman Catholic religion." That same teacher may also complete his / her teaching schedule by teaching other subjects.

It is to be noted that the teaching of a religious option will be done by a trained teacher. It will be conducted in a classroom assigned for this purpose but not necessarily used exclusively for this purpose. While a class is using this room for instruction in a religious option it is vacating another room for occupancy by another class group. The number of classrooms is, therefore, not enlarged by the addition of an option in religious education.

A chaplain appointed to a school would, I believe, be appointed by the Parish Priest in Charge. He would, in fact, be only a visitor to the school. It is the board's intention that such a person should be given the courtesy of the use of a guidance counsellor's office when he is at the school so that he may conveniently meet with students for individual counselling and guidance. Again, this does not really necessitate even an increase in the number of counsellors' office though it would be practical to do so in schools where there is a substantial enrolment of students taking an option in religious education. The net cost for one additional such office, after federal and provincial grants, would be in the neighbourhood of $150.00 spread over the whole period of a bond issue. This cost, distributed on a per ratepayer basis, would be a very small fraction of a cent per annum.

Instruction in religious for Protestant (non-Roman Catholic) schools is governed by the Protestant Committee of the Superior Council of Education. The prescribed course in Bible Study is generally handled as an integral part of the literature course. There is, in addition, a substantial section on comparative religions included in the high school history course. Particular problems exist with respect to religious education of non-Roman Catholics in so-called Protestant schools in that these schools include a broad range of Protestant religious sects, as well as Jewish students. Any revision in the existing course must take this factor into account. The appointment of a Protestant chaplain would seem to present a particular problem unless this were handled through a Ministerial Association on a rotational basis. It should be noted that Protestant clergy do have an official status as school visitors in Protestant schools, a right which they have enjoyed since the creation of our public school system.

It may be assumed that the privileges given on behalf of Roman Catholic students in Protestant schools will not be greater than the privileges afforded Protestant (non-Roman Catholic) students. It is most important, however, to bear in mind all of the problems that exist and, above all, to realize the primary functions of our schools.

R. D. Mosher,
Director General.

Ann Landers...

Answers your problems

Dear Ann Landers: Sometimes it is hard to express what one feels, especially to those who are dear to us. I would like to say something to my parents—through your column.

Thank you, Mom and Dad, for loving each other and for letting me know you love me. Thanks for not letting me have my own way when I thought you were old-fashioned and narrow-minded. I'm glad now that you had the strength to say no and to make it stick.

Thank you for insisting that I do certain things even though I didn't want to. You gave me a sense of responsibility that will make me a better person.

Thank you for being kind to each other. I know that my chances for making a good marriage are better because I learned from you how married people ought to treat one another.

And thank you, Ann, for letting me give credit where it is due. Please do not print my initials or my hometown. I would like ALL parents to think their child wrote this. — PROUD TEEN-AGER.

Dear Teen-ager: I'm grateful for your wonderful letter. Unfortunately, some parents will know their teen-ager could not have written it — parents, for instance, who are separated or divorced, or those who have knock-down drag-out fights in front of their children.

Then, of course, there are the collapsible types, parents who let their kids talk them into everything and anything. They'll all know this letter did not come from their teenagers.

I hope young parents particularly, will read your letter carefully. There is much to be learned from it.

Dear Ann Landers: My friend is in love with a man whose religion is different from hers. She was reared in a very strict home and her parents are devout.

Several weeks ago, the man said he would not marry her unless she converted to his religion. She is now taking instruction and the date is set.

Three weeks ago this girl developed a hoarseness in her voice. The doctor said she had a case of "bride's nerves" and that there is nothing organically wrong with her. She insists the doctor is incompetent and is going to try another doctor "who knows something about medicine." I asked if she had told her doctor about the religious problem and she said it was none of his business. What do you think? — INTERESTED NOT MEDDLING

Dear I But Not M: I am no physician, but I can tell you that guilt can and does produce some severe physical ailments.

The notion that a patient's personal problems are none of the doctor's business is absurd. It is a very important part of his business. In fact it can be the clue to the diagnosis.

I hope your friend will not shop around until she finds a quack who will sell her an operation. She should level with the first doctor about her emotional problems so he can give her the help she needs.

Confidential to What's The Matter with Them Anyway? What's the matter with YOU? Why did you write six solid pages of petty criticism of people who have been so kind and generous?

Robert West said it best: "Nothing is easier than fault-finding. No talent, no self denial, no brains and no character are required."

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Chateauguay Hockey Highlights

W are now in the middle of our playoffs but we have run out of ice. So until we are able to obtain some ice time at some other arena we are at a standstill.

Last week our Midgets' team took on Verdun Midgets and were defeated 8 - 0. But again we were out of our class. The boys did their best and they did a good job. Half way through the second and all of the third periods, tempers were a little high and fighting broke out at nearly every drop of the puck. Well outside of a couple of minutes in the third period both teams played with only four players on each side.

I was not able to attend our Mosquito game which was played in Greenfield Park, but I can gather it was the same as the rest of the games we played inside. Our Mosquitoes were beaten 15 - 1 I was told. Don't feel bad, Herb, just put it down to experience and hope that some day, in the not too distant future, we will have an artificial rink of our own to play on and practice.

Well this week I have put down the boys in the Atoms, Mosquitoes and Midgets scoring race. The Mosquito list is East and West combined. I have checked the score sheets and this is the way it stands. (It does not include playoffs). If anyone has a different opinion, call me at 691-2056 and we'll try to iron it out. Maybe, you have played more games and you have more goals or more assists. But I just go by the score sheets and I can only go by what's marked on them. C.T.R.A. Atoms, I know played 8 games but I only have 7 score sheets. Well boys, ask your coach, where score sheet No. 162 is, I didn't get it and I know it was played. Now this is Atoms with boys with 2 points or more.

ATOMS

Now the Mosquito which is combined East and West, I must say Heights Mosquito lost two games by default. Now these are the Boys with 5 points or more, there are a few more boys with 4 and 3 points but I don't think I would have room to put them all in the paper.

Jehovah's Witnesses To Hold Assembly At Chateauguay

Mr. M. Kowalenko, spokesman for Jehovah's witnesses in Huntingdon, Ormstown and Hemmingford, said today that most of the local witnesses are planning to attend a three-day Assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses scheduled for March 11 to 13, at the Mary Gardiner School, 70 St. Hubert St., Chateauguay, Quebec.

According to Mr. Kowalenko, the convention theme "Make Disciples of People of All Nations", highlights a challenge to all Christians namely, to meet the pressing need for more Christian ministers. As a result of regular ministerial home visits and free home Bible study service Jehovah's Witnesses in Canada have been able to train nearly 5000 persons during the past 5 years to become teachers and to have a regular share in the public ministry of 'making disciples of people.'

"However," he said, "the need is particularly great here in Quebec. There is unusual interest in the Bible in our region. There are many people who want answers to their Bible questions and who want comfort and help from the greatest source of encouragement in the universe. Hence the convention program will not only encourage Jehovah's witnesses to continued zealous activity but will demonstrate the apostolic methods of disciple-making that are proving to be as successful in this twentieth century as they were in the first one."

Mr. L. Lees, district supervisor for Jehovah's witnesses will preside over the 13 congregations taking part in this convention. As the climax of the assembly he will deliver the public address, "Does God Have Influence in This Twentieth Century?"

The Family Unit

by C. J. Harris

Great changes are stirring in the relationship of the family to the state in our so-called egalitarian — the wealth-redistributed, equal shares-to-all — society. They are changes that can do with thoughtful examination.

The family unit — as church, state and body politic all acknowledge — is both the keystone of our social structure and the instrument that almost exclusively satisfies some of the most important of human needs. It is the principal agency for personality formation, for transmission of culture and education, for the preservation of religious values, indeed for the progress of civilization.

Protection of the stable, integrated family unit has been the genesis of much of our custom and law — for example, the statutes concerning marriage and divorce, child care, acceptable sexual practices, and the wide-ranging principle that a man's home is surely his castle. Laws and customs in this area are virtually impregnable. Change is long debated and then occurs only in terms of decades, not years. But changes in the inter-relation of the family and the state changes that may vitally affect the stability of the family are occurring abruptly and almost unquestioned, unquestioned perhaps because they seem to promise that the state can be our brothers' keeper and, into the bargain, deliver to each of us some bargainrate material gain.

The most recent example of this philosophy is a proposal made to Parliament by Mrs. Grace MacInnis, daughter of CCF founder James Woodsworth and newly-elected New Democratic Party member for Vancouver-Kingsway. "I should like to suggest," she said in her maiden speech in the Commons "that women who desire to make a full time good career of motherhood — and I think that for many women no career would be considered as fine as that — the time is coming, if it has not already arrived, when we we should consider providing suitable and adequate wages for that kind of occupation."

Aside from the economic implications — and the enormous cost of having the government pay an "adequate" wage to every mother would first have to be deducted from the working population's output of wealth through higher prices or higher taxes or both — the social implications are far-reaching. If the state is to be even more of the great provider, sharing even the responsibility of the father and husband as the family breadwinner, what would this do to the relationship between husband and wife or parent and child, and to the ability of the family to be self-sustaining, self-disciplining?

There is no progress in any course of events that could threaten the stability of the family unit.

Response To Federated Charities Appeal Is Good

Red Feather canvassers for the annual Federated Charities campaign, this week and next, in the upper Chateauguay valley are experiencing generous response from individuals and business firms.

They are finding freedom of giving in direct relationship to knowledge and understanding of the work and function of the agencies whose work is supported and furthered by the funds thus gathered through voluntary subscription.

Perhaps least appreciated by citizens of the Valley is that a single Welfare Council embraces a broad range of counselling and direct services to people of all races, creeds and circumstances in the area.

There is no question, for instance, of duplicated organizations to cater separately to the needs of English or French, or to Roman Catholic, Protestant, Jewish or other faiths.

The drive currently being conducted in this area is for co-ordinated agencies embracing the geographical boundaries of the Roman Catholic Diocese of Valleyfield, regardless of religion or race.

The various Welfare Council agencies function from head offices in Valleyfield principally. But such has been the growth of need and use of their services that offices and workers are located in other centres.

For instance, the principal agency, the Social Service or Service Social, its French name), has for some time maintained an office in Huntingdon to serve the people of the upper Valley. And the bilingual, multifaith character of this local operation is demonstrated by the two professional social workers here, Mr. André Egli and Mrs. J.W. Sancton, who between them counsel their clients in both languages and without regard to denomination.

Another aspect of these services which canvassers often find, among donors, not thoroughly understood is that all of the agencies, and particularly the main Social Service or Service Social, provide service, not money.

In other words, donations to Federated Charities each year at this time go to finance principally the services — counselling, advice, guidance, referral placement of both children and adults for social or medical reasons. Your donation goes to provide the professional and skilled assistance to those in need of it.

As more government participation develops in direct welfare needs of the population, the role of the agencies under the Red Feather banner does not diminish but grows, because advice and help increasingly are needed in a growing and complex society by persons in most walks of community life.

Birthday Parties

When two friends, of the same age, in the same Grade have a birthday the question of a celebration sometimes becomes a little complicated. However the Mothers soon came up with a solution, a tea-party one day and a morning luncheon party the next. The idea met with approval from the 'celebraters' and so on Friday evening Miss Bonnie Elvidge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Elvidge celebrated her 8th birthday with a tea-party to which were invited some 15 or so of her little friends. Games and dancing were enjoyed, topped off with all the delightful party 'eats'. Then on Saturday morning Miss Nell Woolley held her party, (early so that it would not interfere with the dancing class which several attend on Saturday afternoon!). To keep the fun going Nell had the assistance of older sister Meg and friend had by all. They saw the movies which were taken at last year's party (my! how those youngsters grow) and performed before the camera for this year's movies. End result — expressed by another Grade 2-er, 'Oh, isn't it lovely to have a party every day'. Any comment, Mothers!

WEDDING

Simpson - Enderle

The wedding of Shirley youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rupert Enderle of Fisher Street, Hemmingford, and Mr David M. Simpson, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Simpson of Hemmingford, took place on Saturday morning, February 26th., at St. Roman's Parish Church. Canon L. Corriveau officiated at the double-ring ceremony and during the signing of the Register three ladies of the choir, Mrs. Marcel Fortin Mrs. Gerald Ouimet and Mrs. Roy Holmes sang one of Shirley's favourite hymns, accompanied by Mrs. J.H. L'Esperance at the organ.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a street length dress of white lace, designed with an oval neckline and full skirt over taffeta. Her shoulder length veil was held with a small pill-box hat of the same lace as her dress and her only ornament was a single drop pearl on a gold chain. She carried a cascade bouquet of red carnations. The maid of honour, Miss Denise Duquette, wore a dress of loden green trimmed with white lace and carried a bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums.

Mrs. Enderle, mother of the bride, wore a dress and matching jacket of turquoise crepe trimmed with lace of the same shade and matching hat. Her accessories were black and she wore a corsage of white carnations.

The groom's mother, Mrs. Simpson, wore a dress of bouclé crêpe in a pale aqua shade, with a hat of white fur felt and black accessories. Her corsage was of pink carnations.

Mrs. Furthenbaker, grandmother of the bride, wore a dress and matching jacket of navy crepe with white flower design and navy hat to match Her corsage was of red carnations.

The best man was Mr Charles Hill and the ushers were Mr. Peter Simpson, brother of the groom and Mr Roy Kulzer.

After the ceremony a reception for 130 guests was held at the Frontier Inn Baskets of spring flowers decorated the lounge and white tapers flanked the three-tier wedding cake which had been made by the bride's mother and beautifully decorated by her sister-in-law, Mrs. Joe Enderle. A toast to the happy couple was proposed by Mr Hill to which the groom replied and, he in turn proposed the toast to the maid of honour. During the afternoon Mr. Gerald Smith, M.C. for the occasion, asked the guests to join him in extending birthday wishes to Mrs. Enderle, the bride's mother, who, on Friday, not only celebrated her own birthday but was rejoicing in the news of the arrival on Friday morning, of a baby son to Mr. and Mrs. V. Smith Inée Madeline Enderle) at Hartford, Connecticut.

After cutting the cake, the happy couple left for a short honeymoon, motoring to Hartford. For travelling the bride wore a double-knit two-piece suit in turquoise with straw hat to match and black accessories, her corsage being of turquoise carnations. Out-of-town guests included Mr and Mrs. Andrew Enderle and Mr. and Mrs. R. Kulzer of Montreal, Mrs. Shirley Smith of Chazy, Mr. and Mrs. H. Gray of Brampton, Ont., Mrs. Kay Ross and Mrs. Jim Ross of Montreal, Mr. and Mrs. H. Wormald of Chateauguay, Mrs Catherine Furtenbaker, St. Hubert, Mr. and Mrs. Byron Baker, St. Albans, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Paré Jr., Montreal.

On Shrove Tuesday, at the Frontier Inn upwards of 200 friends of David and Shirley gathered to celebrate their forthcoming wedding. During the evening the Master of Ceremonies, Mr. Gerald Smith presented the young couple with a well-filed wallet and extended the best wishes of all present for their future happiness. Fire Chief Harry Warner, on behalf of himself and the men of the Hemmingford Fire Brigade, of which David has been a valued member for the past five years presented David with a cheque and all good wishes from his fellow firefighters. On behalf of his future wife and himself, David thanked every one most sincerely and invited his friends to visit them in their new home.

D. W. Burns Tells Rotarians About Estate Taxes

It was also reported that the Club has a few wheel chairs available at this time if there should be a need for them.

The guest speaker was introduced by Rotarian John Harriman, who explained that he had prepared an elaborate introduction, but since coming to the Club had discovered that the speaker was well known to everyone. He dispensed with the introduction and just said, I give you Doug.

The speaker was D. W Burns, Taxation Officer, Bank of Montreal, Montreal, and his talk was on Estate Taxes. The following are excerpts from his talk and give a general outline of his subject.

I propose to talk to you on two subjects, namely, death and taxes. As you are probably aware sweeping changes have taken place during the past few years at various levels of government. Many of these changes were made for the purpose of providing additional revenue for the public coffers. One area which has attracted the attention of the legislators is the estate tax and succession duty field. In 1959 the federal government replaced the old Dominion Succession Duties Act with the up-dated Estate Tax Act. Then in 1963 the Province of British Columbia felt that it was not receiving its fair share of the succession duty pie so it re-entered the succession duty field. At the present time in Canada we have four governments competing for a share of everyone's estate These are the federal government and the provinces of British Columbia, Ontario and Quebec.

I think it is essential in these circumstances to counsel every person who has not already done so, to give the matter of how he intends to distribute his assets, either before or after his death, the most serious and immediate consideration. The manner in which distribution is to be effected should be developed under competent legal guidance such as is provided by your notary or solicitor and should result in a reduction of taxes payable to the governments.

Estate planning is a comparatively new field of endeavour. Until recent years little concentrated attention was paid to the problem of reducing the incidence of taxation of estates and the preservation of the assets for those who are left behind However, since the Second World War numerous and, at first glance, seemingly unrelated developments have taken place creating the need for keeping the estate tax and succession duty levies within reasonable bounds.

Since the advent of the Estate Tax Act, areas which were either dealt with on a more favourable basis or excluded from the tax net altogether are now subjected to the full fury of the estate tax collector.

The starting point of an estate plan is the analysis of the individual's financial position. To properly assess the balance sheet a full description of all assets and liabilities must be made. From this basic information a plan is devised whereby the tax liability may be minimized However, in taking these steps which may result in a tax saving, one must be on guard against defeating or perverting his real desires.

The first aspect with which I shall deal is the use of trusts. Lawyers tend to regard a trust as the keystone or foundation of estate planning.

A trust is essentially a three party arrangement. The maker of the will is known as the testator, who, by creating a trust in his lifetime becomes the settlor. The second party is the trustee who must receive the property and carry out the wishes of the settlor. It is preferable to name an incorparated trustee such as one of the trust companies, rather than an individual to act in this capacity. This eliminates the possibility of collusion between the trustee and the third party to the trust, the beneficiary.

As you well know, the laws in Quebec are sometimes rather different from those in the other provinces. While a trust created in Quebec may not be essentially different from one created under common law, the application of special rules is a matter about which only a qualified Quebec practitioner is capable of speaking.

The function of a trust is twofold. It is primarily a means of disposing of property when something more complicated than an outright gift is intended. A second function of a trust is to reduce the payment of death duties.

The usual type of family trust is one where the father leaves the bulk of his assets in the hands of the trustee with the income going to the widow during her lifetime and at some given point following her death the capital is distributed among the children. On the husband's death, estate tax and succession duties, if applicable, are payable on the entire value of the estate However, on the death of the widow there is no further tax payable. Let us assume that a man leaves an estate of $200,000 in Quebec the tax would be $34,300 if all the assets are left outright to the widow. At the time of her death, assuming there was no reduction in taxable assets, an additional tax of $34,300 would also be assessed. Let us assume again that a man had made a trust will, the taxes at his death would have been exactly the same namely $34,300, but on the death of his widow no further tax would be payable because she had not acquired ownership of the assets. Total tax saved in this way amounts to some $34,000.

Turning now to another aspect of estate planning, I should like to dwell for a few moments on the subject of life insurance. As you well realize, life insurance forms the bulk of assets in a great many estates. Consequently it behooves the planners to find a means of eliminating the life insurance from the taxable assets. To accomplish this it becomes necessary to find out just what is taxable in the way of life insurance. The Estate Tax Act provides that life insurance which is owned by the deceased, i.e., under his control to the extent that he can change the beneficiary, pledge the policy as security, cancel the policy, etc., must be included in the assets of the estate.

Disregarding the control aspect let us assume that someone such as the wife or children owned the life insurance on the breadwinner the face value would not be included in the estate provided the policy was maintained out of their personal funds. In all provinces other than Quebec the husband may make gifts to his wife and she may use the gift to pay the premiums. Of course, these gifts must have been made 3 years prior to death to escape estate tax — but only on the value of the gift and not the face value of the policy.

Now the Province of Quebec is rather sticky on this aspect. Gifting is not permitted between those couples in community of property. Of course, a gift channelled through a third party such as a parent or child would not likely be too suspect.

The third major area I should like to discuss is the orderly distribution of one's estate during his lifetime by way of gift. With the possible exception of some of us who live in this Province the inter vivos gift, or gifts between living persons, is possibly the most indiscriminately used device in estate planning There have been occasions for example, where an estate's liquid position has been sacrificed solely for the purpose of minimizing taxes.

In conclusion I should like to offer the following bit of advice:—

1. Look at your estate as it is today. List what you own add up the value of assets and deduct your liabilities. We, in Quebec, should make a special point of determining what the husband owns and what the wife owns.

2. Find out what your taxes will be. In My Bank's Taxation brochure there are many examples of the combined estate tax and succession duties.

3. Make sure that your executor has adequate liquid assets with which to pay these taxes.

4. Last, but equally important, make sure your will is up to date. If you have not made a will, have one drawn up with the help of your notary. Homemade wills often leave trouble in their wake.

The speaker was thanked by Rotarian George Thompson, who recently retired from local branch of the Bank of Montreal.

To your GOOD HEALTH

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D

Dear Dr. Molner: I am 19 and have very bad menstrual cramps. Neither prescribed nor patent medicines help. Can you suggest anything? — MISS J. A.

About 50 per cent of women have some discomfort with menstruation, but only a few have disabling cramps.

There is no certain remedy for such cramps that will suit all cases, but when one does not help, often another will. You might benefit by reading my leaflet, "Pre-Menstrual Blues," which you may obtain by sending 5 cents in coin and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me in care of this newspaper.

Reducing the amount of salt you consume prior to your period, (say for a week ahead) may help. Along with this one of the water-releasing drugs helps relieve congestion which can contribute to cramps.

Simple pain medication makes the cramps more tolerable, but narcotics should be avoided.

Here's one thing that has proved successful in tests with a large number of college women — exercise! It may surprise you to know this, but experience bears it out. The type of exercise is not important anything that increases physical activity — calisthenies, cycling, bowling brisk walking, seasonal sports from swimming to skiing.

If such measures fail, hormone treatment of the type used in birth control pills and continued for seven or eight months has provided considerable relief. The medication is given on the same schedule used for birth control— daily starting on the fifth day after the beginning of a period, and continuing for 20 days. Obviously this must be done under supervision of your doctor. (It will not alter your ability to have children later).

Dear Dr. Molner: Can anything be done for pre-menstrual headaches? They start from three days to two weeks before, and continue through my period. They are usually the "hangover" kind, but sometimes are quite severe I am taking thyroid tablets and don't want to take anything that would interfere. — MRS. M.R.A.

My answer to the preceding question would apply to you too, the headache being a different sympton. Some imbalance of hormones prior to the period can cause fluid retention, producing temporary weight gain; stuffy feeling and headache.

Restriction of salt and perhaps a diuretic, to rid the system of fluid, if your doctor thinks it advisable, is one suggestion. Depending on the nature and severity of the discomfort, your doctor can prescribe other methods of relieving it. The use of thyroid alone sometimes helps but this evidently is not true in your case.

Since you are taking thyroid, you are (or should be) under a physician's care now Discuss these headaches with him.

Dear Dr. Molner: My 18-year-old son has glandular fever. What causes this? What care can be taken rather than rest? How long after fever subsides do the glands become normal? Are there any after effects? — MRS. G.B.

Glandular fever (also known as infectious mononucleosis) is caused by a virus. It is self-limiting. Like a cold, it cures itself in time, and there isn't any really effective way of speeding things up. Rest nutritious meals (but no special diet) and precautions to prevent secondary infection are the only sensible treatment.

Full recovery eventually comes; it may be several weeks, it may be longer and is unpredictable other than such an estimate.

Mononucleosis is primarily a disease of young people. To learn more about it, send for my booklet, "Mononucleosis," enclosing with your request a long, self-addresssed, stamped envelope and 20c in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Molner is interested in all readers' questions, and whenever possible uses their questions in his column, but because of the great number received daily, he regrets that he cannot answer individual letters.

Take a look at the right-hand column of the above table and spot a bargain! It's called Family Calling Time, and it's now in effect all day Sunday for station-to-station Long Distance calls to any city or town in Ontario and Quebec. Here's how it gives you double value on your Ontario-Quebec Long Distance calls, and a relaxed opportunity to chat with out-of-town family and friends:

At any time on Sundays, you can talk for up to ten minutes for the price of five! In other words, once you've talked for five minutes, stay on the line! — there's no further charge for the next five minutes! After that, each additional two minutes are charged as only one...

ST. JAMES' NEWS

News of St. James' Anglican Parish Church, Ormstown

Christian Education is theme for Lent

The special theme in Lent at St. James' is Christian Education in all its phases: Home, daily life, school, Sunday School, and church.

Our rector, Rev. P.R. Stote, led off his seris of sermons on Sunday, February 27, with particular reference to Christian Education in school and with topical reference to details announced last week of plans for the new regional high school.

An Editorial:
DON'T WAIT FOR EASTER..

Eighty-seven copies of St. James' News are going in the mail this issue. That's 10 fewer than last month. Non-residents have been trimmed from the list. The News primarily is for informing those living in the Parish of the activities of their church.

Te be informed, it is to be hoped, is to be interested — enough to participate in the life of the church.

Local Anglicans probably number four or five times our average church attendance. It's a poor show.

There's nothing "holier than thou" about those of us who make it most Sundays at 9:30 a.m. For some it is a comfortable habit, for some a duty, for others a conscious effort.

Services at St. James' range for different persons all the way from deep religious experience to crashing boredom, let's make no bones about it. It can be true worship, or a social gesture. It can be worthwhile meditation or a waste of time.

You can be bored and waste time at home. There, too you can have religious experience and worship; but more easily in church.

Been to St. James' recently?

Don't wait for Easter; do it now!

Sunday School resumes on Sunday, March 6th

Sunday School will open again on Sunday, March 6 Mrs. Arthur Henderson, the superintendent has annnounced.

The system of awarding attendance gifts has been altered.

Those attending 33 to 35 Sundays will receive a pin, or a wreath or bar to add to pin previously awarded.

Those attending 30 to 33 Sundays will receive a book valued at $1.25; 20 to 30 Sundays, a book valued at 75c to $1; 10 to 20 Sundays, a 50c to $1 book, and 2 to 10 Sundays, a bookmark or other token.

Those attending another church or Sunday school or absent because of illness will be credited with attendance if they report to their class teacher the circumstances.

For the 1966-67 term, instead of using St. James' Lessons published in New York the Scripture Press course published in Ontario will be used. The latter is more in accordance with the New Curriculum. The Sunday School staff does not feel prepared to launch into the New Curriculum just yet.

The Late Mrs. Earl Gardiner

Mrs. Earl Gardiner, 73, of Dundee, who with her husband had gone to Bradenton, Florida to spend the winter, died in a hospital there Monday morning, February 28th., after a brief illness. She had been in the hospital a little over a week.

A prayer service was held at the Griffith and Cline Funeral Home in Bradenton and the body of Mrs. Gardiner, was sent by plane to Dorval Airport, Montreal, on Thursday.

Funeral services were conducted at 2:00 p.m. Sunday at the funeral chapel in Fort Covington, and at 2:30 at Zion Church, Dundee. Interment was in Elmwood cemetery Fort Covington.

Funeral services were conducted at 2:00 p.m. Sunday at the funeral chapel and at 2:30 at Zion Church, Dundee. Interment was in Elmwood cemetery, Fort Covington.

The Rev. Dorothy Bullard, pastor of the Methodist Churches of the Bombay charge, and Mr. Charles Carpentier, student pastor at Zion Church, officiated.

Mrs. Gardiner, the former Clarissa Mary Smith, was born in Dundee, on May 2, 1892, a daughter of the late Charles and Susan Kidney Smith. She received her early education in Dundee and was graduated from Fort Covington High School, later teaching in rural schools in Fort Covington and in Dundee.

On January 1, 1917 she was united in marriage to Mr. Earl Gardiner in a ceremony at the home of her parents. For years the couple operated the Gardiner family homestead in Dundee which had been in the family since 1821 when it was established by Alexander Gardiner, an immigrant from Scotland. They retired from operation of the farm in March of 1951 and moved to Dundee Lines when Mr. Gardiner became postmaster and rural carrier and she assisted.

The deceased was a member of Zion United Church, Dundee and the United Church Women; the Dundee Women's Institute and the Provincial Board of that organization. An energetic person and untiring worker, she gave generously of her time and efforts to all worthy causes and was always ready and most willing to assist her relatives and friends in times of need.

Besides her husband, she is survived by two sons, Brodie, customs officer at Dundee, and Charles of Huntingdon, one brother, William Smith of Hudson, Mich.; one sister, Mrs. Simon (Grace) Gleason of Fort Covington; and six grandchildren. Two daughters, Ruth and Grace and two sisters, Winona and Ruth, predeceased her.

The Late Robert Russell MacGregor

The sympathy of the community is extended to the family of the late Robert Russell MacGregor who passed away very suddenly at his home, on February 17th., in his 60th year.

The second son of the late John MacGregor and his wife Rebecca Carson he spent his whole life on the home farm where, following the death of his mother twenty-one years ago he has lived alone.

The funeral service was held in Riverfield Presbyterian Church on Sunday afternoon at 2.30 p.m. and was conducted by Rev. Wm. Brown.

In spite of the severity of the weather friends from far and near filled the church to capacity to pay their last respects to one who will be sorely missed in the community. During the past few years since he gave up dairying his services as a plumber have been widely sought. An ardent curler for many years his opponents found him a worthy contestant.

Surviving are six sisters and one brother who were all in attendance at the funeral — Mrs. James Anderson (Mabel), Ormstown; Mrs. William Allen (Martha), Aubrey; (Mrs. Hiram Reddick (Lizzie), Howick; Mrs. Robert Esdon (Isabel), Ottawa; Mrs. Stanley Keir (Luina), Montreal; Mrs. Lester Bell (Mina), Spencer, Mass.; and Melville MacGregor, Noranda.

Friends from Spencer, Mass.; Ottawa, Bainsville, Valleyfield, and Montreal were also in attendance.

Floral tributes came from several members of the family while others made donations to Barrie Memorial Hospital and the Heart Fund.

The pall bearers were three nephews and three neigbours — Kenneth Allen, Ralph Reddick, Robert E. Ness, Douglas Templeton, Merle McFarlane and Harry Angell.

British auto sportsman R. R. C. Walker (above) has had a life-long devotion to fine machinery. Obviously he knows something about cars . . . but one thing he didn't know was how remarkably quiet the 1966 Ford is.

"1966 Ford quieter than my Jaguar? Not jolly likely!" said Rob Walker

...then he drove the Ford.

Ford's Quiet Man, who recently demonstrated the extraordinary quality of the 1966 Ford to owners of some of the most expensive luxury cars, here discusses the '66 Ford LTD with Rob Walker at his family's estate in Wiltshire, U.K.

Compare your car with the quiet of Ford's solidly built body. Take a "Quiet Test" today.

British sportsman Rob Walker was skeptical about comparing the quiet of the '66 Ford with his hand-finished Jaguar Mark 10.

But then he drove both cars, and said, "This really is astonishing . . . I believe this Ford of yours really is quieter. Astonishing!"

Compare your car with the '66 Ford and you'll understand his astonishment. Ford's quiet ride is a direct result of more built-in quality—a strong, solid body that gives you quietness that compares with the world's most expensive automobiles.

This quiet quality means more value for you because today's Fords are built for years of dependable operation, years of owner satisfaction.

And with it all, of course, come Ford's wonderful new ideas for your comfort and convenience. Stereo Tape players. Silent-Flo ventilation. A "Magic Doorgate" on wagons that swings out like a door, and down like a tailgate. And a host of other features offered first by Ford.

Visit your Ford Dealer for a quiet revelation of the solid quality you get in a Ford.

News from Howick

By Mrs. Crawford

HOWICK — Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Anderson of Clear View Farm, entertained on February 23rd., for their daughter, Margaret for her birthday. This was also a "bon voyage" party, most of the family and relatives spent a pleasant evening. All brought lovely cards and gifts for the double celebration.

The final feature of the refreshments was a beautifully decorated cake, with one side, wishing Margaret a happy birthday, embellished with pink roses, the other side had a boating scene with a bon voyage message.

Margaret sails on the P. & O. Orsova from Vancouver on March 6th. She and her friend Jeannie Adams will visit with her grandparents at Victoria for 5 days prior to sailing to Hawaii, Figi Islands, New Zealand, landing in Sydney, Australia, where she and Jeannie plan to find work and visit uncles and cousins in Sydney, Melbourne and New Guinea.

The Late Mrs. Wm. Douglas

Mrs. Wm. Douglas of Spencer, Mass., died on February 22nd., at Worcester Hospital, following an illness of several days. The funeral was held at Kingston Funeral Home on Friday, February 25th.

Mrs. Douglas, the former Elsie Peddie, eldest daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Peddie, was well-known in this district having lived here until her marriage. She leaves to mourn her loss her husband Mr. Wm. Douglas, one son Lloyd Gilchrist, and a daughter Betty Douglas. Also two sisters, Mrs. Stewart Rutherford and Mrs. Wm. Nussey of Spencer and two brothers, Mr. Stanley Peddie and Mr. Peter Peddie of Howick.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Peddie and Mr. Stanley Peddie from Howick attended the funeral.

A number from Howick attended a meeting at Valleyfield of Lacordaire which has not been active for some time in this district.

A.U.C.C. meeting was held at St. Jean School on Wednesday of last week, when certain farm problems were discussed.

Meetings of the Federation of Chateauguay, have been held. Mr. Arthur Tellier is the President and Mr. J. M. Touchette, Secretary. Canvassing of the district, for this charitable organization will be held until March 14th, with both French and English speaking people taking part.

Miss Stella Bourgoin died suddenly at her home on Ayrness Rd. and the funeral was held at the Roman Catholic Church on Saturday, February 26th. Miss Bourgoin, 54 years ter-in-law Mrs. L'Evesque for ter-in-law Mrs. L'Eveque for several years, coming here from Montreal.

Howick Ladies' Curling Club entertained four rinks at a friendly bonspiel on Wednesday, March 2nd. They were from Hudson, Baie D'Urfé, Pte. Claire and Glenmore.

Following a 10-end game in the morning, members of the club and visiting curlers enjoyed a buffet, casserole lunch, and a leisurely visit before the guests left about 2.30 p.m. President, Irene McRae gave everyone a warm welcome and Gertrude Craig, chairman of the Match Committee presented the prizes to the Hudson rink of (skip) Betty Thompson, Peggy Richardson, Dot Lane and Bobby Bradbury.

The prizes were club glasses, a welcome souvenir gift as they are engraved with H.L.C.C. All were beautifully wrapped by Phyllis Letto, who used green, and gold paper and they resembled Irish hats.

Forty Senior Citizens attended the meeting last week. Winning rinks not mentioned have been Mervin Craig (skip), Melville Kerr, Wm. Guynan and Roy Younie. Also Willie Anderson (Skip), with Mervin Craig, J. Marsden and Wallace Elliot.

Eight ladies quilted busily all afternoon while others played cards and scrabble. Groups of 4 or 5 hostesses, take turns preparing and serving refreshments and washing up afterwards. Long tables are used, seating 12 or 14 each and how folk visit! Florence Crawford usually plays a few tunes on the piano to help the hostesses through the final phase of cleaning up — they say it helps!

The fire department was called out to the country one windy evening last week to put out a stove-pipe fire. The electric power was off and no water was available. While the mother called for help and did what she could inside, a resourceful little girl visitor decided to carry in snow, and that did the job. The fire reels were there within minutes and remained until all danger was past, which was deeply appreciated.

This is the time of year when such fires occur unless pipes are cleaned frequently, so take warning folk. Before another cold or windy day comes along Clean Those Pipes.

Mention was made last week about Jean Morrison's broadcast from Africa. Mrs. J. Crawford and Roy Cameron heard her and both were impressed by the quality of her reporting — excellent. We remember Jean as a tiny girl performing at Elsie Sellar's piano recitals. We were years apart in age but both played in the same programmes.

Mr. Robt. H. Tolhurst presided at the meetings of the Quebec Holstein Association held last week at Levis, Que. He was accompanied by Mrs. Tolhurst, and they were overnight guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Nugent, Kinnears Mills. Andy, Bobby, Kenny and Brent Tolhurst were visitors at the home of their aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Melville Brown during the three days their parents were away.

The C.V.T.A. held a meeting at Howick High School, on Thursday, March 3, at 4 P.M. Mrs. N. Furcall presided and reported on the Provincial Delegates Conference of P.A.-P.T. held at the Sheraton Mount Royal Hotel. Its main purpose this year is to consider the Briant Commission, which was set up to study the needs of the teachers' organization. The Commission stressed that teachers should take the initiative in working closer with the Home and School and School Boards for the purpose of presenting the Protestant viewpoints of education to the Quebec Government.

Mr. R. Mosher spoke of recent developments in Regional Schools and recent appointments. Mr. Earle Templeton a graduate of Howick High School has been appointed assistant to the Director, Mr. Mosher.

Coffee, and cookies baked by Mrs. Kenneth Lamb's Home Ec., classes were served before the business meeting started.

At 6.30 almost 100 teachers gathered in the cafeteria for a roast beef dinner which was an ambrosial feast, prepared and served by members of the Home and School under the direction of Mrs. Robert H. Tolhurst, Mrs. Jean Holland, and Mrs. Harold Robertson.

The school colours, white and blue, were used on the tables, while the head table had added decorations of silver, candles, and flowers.

Those seated at the head table were: Mrs. N. Furcall, Mr. R. Mosher, Mr. J. Murray, Mr. R. Greenbank, Mr. A. Henry and Mr. and Mrs. David MacFarlane.

The menu was: tomato juice, roast beef and mashed potatoes, turnips and vegetable garnishes, (which had been prepared by Mrs. H. Robertsen's Home Ec. Grade 9) pickles, homemade rolls, lemon pie and coffee.

Mr. Wesselow, well-known art teacher from Chateauguay, extended a vote of thanks to the ladies of the Home and School in which he mentioned the band of blue on the tables as representing the river that flows through the Chateauguay Valley; the delicious food, and service with a smile.

Another treat was in store for the C.V.T.A. when they gathered in the auditorium to hear Mr. David MacFarlane of the Montreal Daily Star speak on his trip and experiences at Easter Island. Slides and film were shown and a display of wood carvings. The barter system was used to get the carvings which created an amusing situation. Mr. MacFarlane was seen in the film throwing back his trousers from the boat in payment for the last carving. Mrs. MacFarlane assisted her husband with the showing of slides and film.

The human interest side of this unusual scientific expedition, as portrayed by Mr. MacFarlane provided a most enjoyable and educational evening programme for the C.V.-T.A. We believe many people in the community, young and old, would be interested in having Mr. MacFarlane return to Howick (to repeat this presentation). We hope it can be arranged.

The Professional Social Worker

Article 3 — The Professional Social worker in Canada.

If you are regular readers of this chronicle, you will have read in the precedent articles that Social Work is a profession which is active in many areas of human services dispensed in a professional manner. As a profession, Social Work is presently accepted by most as the equal of other professions with which it exercises its functions: this because these other professions (medicine, psychology law, education, etc...) have recognized that the Social Worker has certain skills which other professions do not possess.

In the Valleyfield region, there are fifteeen professional Social Workers. They are active in counties of Beauharnois, Chateauguay, Huntingdon, Vaudreuil and Soulanges.

The majority of the professional Social Workers of Canada, which counts more than 3,000 members, belongs to the Canadian Association of Social Workers. On the other hand Social Workers in three Provinces are legally incorporated. In Quebec, for example, the Provincial Corporation of Professional Social Workers was founded in 1959, and counts now more than 700 Professional Social Workers.

The Quebec Corporation of Professional Social Workers may be compared to the college of medicine for the medical profession, or the Canadian Bar Association for the lawyers. The aim of this association is first of all to group the Social Workers which have a recognized degree of competence. Thus, in Quebec, only those who hold a Master degree from an accredited School of Social Work may be members of the Corporation. This professional Association, at its beginning has accepted in its ranks those persons who have achieved an acceptable degree of competence and have a minimum of formal training after having practiced their profession for five years or more.

In Canada, seven School of Social Work dispense the course which leads to a Master degree in Social Work. Of these seven schools, five are located in Quebec and Ontario. They are the Schools of the Universities of Montreal and McGill, and Laval for Quebec; the Schools of the Universities of Toronto and Ottawa for Ontario.

The student in Social Work must first of all gain knowledge of the human person as it functions in interaction with its social environment. He also becomes cognizant of the different Social Services and of their relation to the human needs. The student must acquire familiarity with the methods of research which will help him to study social problems and to seek solutions to them. Finally the student in Social Work must learn to master the techniques necessary to his being successful when working with individuals, groups of communities. In his practice, he will respect the ethical principles based on the dignity of the humain being and aiming at preserving the rights of the client. All these principles and theories acquired while attending lecture sessions at the University, will be integrated and applied by the student while he has to practice under school supervision before being granted his degree.

The aims of the Social Work course is not merely to make a knowledgeable person of the student, but essentially to help him acquire certain principles and develop proper attitudes when faced with the values and needs of his clients. The student and the professional to be, is thus oriented in his practice by a framework of guiding principles. Relying on his personality assets, as well as on his formal training acquired through his two-year course, including theories and practice, the graduate in Social Work is ready to face up to the responsibilities of his profession.

Sympathy Extended

Our deepest sympathy to the family of the late Mrs. Earl Gardiner who died in a Bradenton, Florida hospital on Monday morning, February 28th, after an illness of one week.

She will always be remembered as a dear friend with a great zest for life. Her ready wit, kindly advice, sound judgment and able leadership will be sorely missed by all.

In spite of her seventy-three years, Mary seemed to possess that elusive gift of eternal youth which made her a favourite in any age group. While we mourn her untimely passing here, we have the happy consolation of knowing that she has gone on to a more glorious life in God's Heavenly Kingdom.

this past year had been insulated yet. And they ran into severe moisture and ventilating difficulties in the cold weather. This, in turn, affected animal health and caused off-flavours in the milk. Up to this point, milk inspectors were tolerant because they felt the system had merits and problems would be solved.

Mr. Hogan suggested four inches of insulation in the walls and six inches in the ceiling as minimum. He wondered, too, if artificial heat for the entire stable would perhaps be the practical answer. A furnace was already necessary to heat the calf pens, milk house and milking parlour.

Agricultural Engineer Howard Nodwell, speaking on the same program, foresaw an increase in the number of liquid manure systems. Shortage of labour was again the number one reason, but he saw other advantages as well. It was easier to handle, he said, and it was the best way to save fertilizer nutrients. It reduced the risk of water pollution; it reduced odours; there were fewer flies, and, not least, you had a cleaner barnyard.

Agitation was the greatest problem, Mr. Nodwell said. He advised building the storage tanks and the system around the agitation equipment. "If you buy a dual-purpose pump, buy it first for its agitation capacity," he warned.

Prof. F.H. Theakston of the University of Guelph, just back from a tour through north-west Europe, saw slatted floors here to stay. He said that they were proving successful in Europe for pigs beef, and sheep but not for dairy cattle.

The most satisfactory "slat", he said, was reinforced concrete. Each was four to five inches wide at the top, tapering to two and a half inches at the bottom, eight inches deep and eight feet long. The space between the slats was 1 ½ to 1 3/4" for cattle.

Editorial Notes..

It Is Time Someone Made Up Their Mind

IN our February 23rd issue, we published an article headed "Homeowners Escape Tax on Roomers" the opening paragraph read as follows: "QUEBEC — Revenue Minister Richard Hyde announced on Thursday that homeowners who rent rooms to tourists during Expo '67 will not be required to collect the six per cent sales tax."

In the February 28th issue of a Montreal Daily newspaper, the following appeared under this head "Full Hotels First Step for 1967" "Accommodation of visitors in private homes during Expo will be permitted only if there are no vacancies in regular hotels and motels, Dr. Alphonse Couturier, Minister of Fish Game and Tourism, said today." He was speaking at the annual meeting of the Montreal Convention and Visitors' Bureau.

He further went on, "Before any room in a private home can be rented without a license from our department, it is only fair that licensed rooms, which are subject to taxes, be fully occupied, and this should occur only in cases of emergency. Our hotel inspectors will be watchful, as they will be instructed to see that visitors find accommodation without hurting the established hotel trade."

Mr. Couturier told the luncheon gathering that, according to Loge-Expo, the branch of the exhibition corporation set up to organize accommodation, there are some 40,000 licensed rooms available for Expo visitors. The first item referred to did state that rooms could be rented "if there is not adequate hotel space available to accommodate all tourists."

When the first meeting was held with regard to this accommodation problem, it was stressed that at peak times there would not be enough hotel accommodation available to take care of the needs. Therefore this effort was being put forth to be in readiness and so that visitors would be able to secure accommodation. A questionnaire is being prepared that will answer all problems arising in the minds of those who would offer their rooms. This is a matter that was raised. It is to be hoped that those preparing the questionnaire will make this point quite clear so there will be no misunderstanding. Naturally people do not want to be doing a service and then run afoul of the law and bring trouble on themselves.

It will be the duty of those in charge of the booths giving out information, to make sure that all hotel type of accommodation has been used up, before recommending private homes. It would seem that then, the situation will become an emergency and the renting of rooms will be legal. In preparing advertising literature, this should also be pointed out and there can then be no chance of false impressions. Those offering their homes would also be protected when called upon to provide the accommodation.

Crime Busters

AT long last the Government is becoming aroused over the increase in crime and especially in this Province, Quebec. Of late a number of rackets have been turned up and gangs rounded up. One of the latest is in connection with car thefts. Several car parts yards have been raided by the police and stolen cars have been traced through the parts that have been discovered in these yards. Some of the personnel in charge of these yards have been doing a land office business selling the parts. It has kept crews busy dismantling the stolen cars and piling the parts ready for the buyers. Meanwhile some unfortunate car owner has lost his car and some insurance company has probably paid for a new one.

Another racket and one still having implications, is the bankruptcy racket. Several murders have turned up due to pressure being brought on this racket. Evidently there is also fear that someone will spill the beans which will lead to the arrest of the leaders of this racket. Just recently a lawyer was found shot to death and stuffed into the trunk of his own car. This murder has been linked to the bankruptcy cases. So far, the responsible parties have not been traced, but police are working and there is no telling how soon they may turn up clues that will help them crack the case.

These cases and other crimes in this Province have been the subject of debate in the Federal House of late and a Royal Commission has been asked for to investigate crime and what should be done to combat this growing menace. It used to be that Chicago got the high crime billing rate, but now today, there is great feeling that Montreal is fast becoming top billing.

There are a number of unsolved murders in this Province and on the other hand there are a number that have been solved, but altogether they make an alarming total. Claude Wagner of Quebec Province has done much to try and break the crime wave and he is determined to do more, but he wants more backing and assistance. The Montreal Police and the Quebec Provincial Police are all receiving special training and much new equipment to better enable them to fight the incidence of crime.

There is no doubt it is paying off, for a number of crime syndicates have been "busted" and their leaders brought to answer their parts played. But the real top brass has not yet been "hooked." There is a lie-low period and then another outbreak. Some of the law breakers have become particularly brazen, as witness the murder of this lawyer, who was not found for a day or two after his wife reported him missing. When found, his body was frozen in the trunk of his own car. It has been established he had something to do with bankruptcy cases.

The Members of the Federal Parliament are interested because some government officials have been involved in one or another in some of the cases under police investigation. There is a feeling that there is more behind all this than meets the eye and a Royal Commission has been asked for so that it can make a thorough probe into what is taking place.

With Expo coming up fast, it will be well that extra special effort is made to hold down crime of all kinds. Our visitors will not want to be the possible victims of car thefts, robberies and so forth.

This Is Education Week

WE, in this portion of Quebec, are steeped in education in the fact that we are about to take a further important step in conjunction with the overall Quebec situation of "Operation 55."

This, as most people should know by now, is the incidence of the coming of a regional school system to the Province. In this particular area we are involved by the prospect of there being three regional schools. Two for the Protestants and one for the Roman Catholics. The latter it seems will likely be built almost within the Town of Huntingdon. The other two, one will be an addition to another school in Chateauguay, while a new school will be built near to Ormstown.

The pace is quickening at this time as the deadline is rapidly approaching and there still remains much to be done. While plans for these buildings have been prepared for some time, frequent changes keep coming up that alter the plans and thus hold them up from being approved for final go-ahead. This has happened with the plans for the Catholic School several times. In the case of the plans for the two Protestant Schools the same thing has occurred. Applications have been received in their cases for further admission of students from the Catholic area. Some arrangements have now been made, but more are asking to be considered.

The new schools are supposed to be built and ready for occupancy by September, 1967. It was intended that building would commence this year by April at least. It does not look at this time that such will be the case as we are now into March. These schools will contain a considerable amount of territory, so they will take some time to build. There will have to be considerable thought given to their arrangement for they will be different to all past schools. Actually they will be two schools in one — academic and vocational, or trade.

This is Education Week all over the country, from March 6th to 12th. It will be observed in various ways throughout the country, but in Quebec we are totally conscious of Education and tremendous interest is being displayed at all levels in this Province at this time. We are looking forward to the time when these schools will go into operation with a great deal of apprehension as to the final results of all that is taking place. It is going to be a time of great change for students of all levels. It will mean that nearly all students will be required to travel to school and being away from home for most of the day. About the only ones not so affected, will be those close to the school of attendance. Eventually they too will join the travellers, so none will actually escape it. The problem of travel has yet to be worked out and a system evolved for the conveyance of students to the Schools.

SUGAR AND SPICE by Bill Smiley

THE MUSIC MADNESS

George is the Custodial Superintendent at our illiteracy factory. (It used to be called head janitor.) I congratulated him the other day. His wife had "done well", as we say, in a music theory exam.

He shook his head. He swore. Then, "It'd drive you up the wall. If I ever get married again, it won't be to a musician."

There isn't much chance of the former, as he's a grandfather. But I was deeply in sympathy with his conclusion.

It was obvious that George had had to help his wife prepare for her exam. It was on the history of music. They ask you questions like, "What instrument did Eli Schwartzkopf play in the Brandenburg Symphony Orchestra on April eleventh, 1801, when Napoleon Bonaparte was staying in the city overnight, with his second wife, on the way to the battle of Austerlitz?"

But this isn't the worst of it. A chap can stand a couple of weeks of helping his wife memorize such great universal truths, and weather it.

What really gets him on his knees is putting up with the old lady as the exams draw near. Kids go through examinations with the aplomb of ducks taking a bath. But middle-aged ladies don't, especially when they haven't written an exam in years.

About three weeks before the exam, they begin to neglect family, house and themselves. A week later, they become nervous. In the final week, they have moved from high C to hysteria. On the day of the exam, it takes tears, tea, tranquilizers, and sometimes a good shot of brandy, before they can be pushed into the examination hall, where they sit twitching like old fighter pilots until the papers are given out.

I don't know the details, but I suspect George went through something like the above, and I echo his sentiments, loud and clear. If I ever get married again, I want a girl who thinks a sweet potato is about the finest musical instrument that ever hit the market.

Do you know what a bane is? Well, that's what music has been in my life, for the past decade.

Oh, I know. Every family has its little problem, its skeleton in the recreation room, its dirt under the wal-to-wall. Drinking, health, poverty, divorce, insanity, stupidity, delinquents. With our family, it's music.

People think I am carried away by emotion when I start to sob at the symphony concert. They're right. But it's not the beauty of the music that makes me break down. It's the trouble it has caused, and the money it has cost in the last 10 years.

I used to love music, in a simple joyous, uncomplicated way. I used to whistle while I worked and walked. Everything from Greensleeves, through Ein Kleine Nachtmusik to Porgy and Bess. By ear. I liked Stardust and Stravinsky and I'll Be Down to Get You in a Taxi, Honey.

Then the kids started taking piano lessons. And I started trying to look intelligent when people talked about sonatinas and concertos and scherzos and dynamics and all that (you should pardon the expression) jazz.

We fight about the left hand being too loud. We scream at each other about the kids not practising. We go into tantrums about recitals and festivals.

Ten years and more than $10,000 later, nobody in my family can play the national anthem without three weeks of preparation. The record player rocks to The Beatles and Bob Dylan. We have to snatch the harmonica and guitar away from the kids. I would like to meet Johann Sebastien Bach on a dark night and strangle him. With a Beethoven sonata. G- string Minor.

HIGHLIGHTS OF A JOURNEY TO THE B.C. COAST AND ON TO SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA

by C. P. MacDonald

When my wife and I left Ormstown we left a country where winter still reigned supreme, — snowdrifts eight feet high lined the roadsides; and a week later we were in a land where "spring was busting out all over".

Baskets of daffodils and tulips decorated all the stores butcher shops, fish markets farmer's markets and super markets; all had masses of flowers on display in every available place.

In driving out into the surrounding country (with my nephew Gordon Stewart formerly of Howick) I met many dairy farmers; among them at least two who were directors of the Fraser Valley Milk Producers Ass'n. In talking to them about the Dairy Marketing Board which had been recently set up in Quebec — they lost no time in telling me that we were just wasting our time in placing any dependence on a government sponsored marketing board — they had been through all this and it had been proven useless. The only solution was to go into the business of processing and selling their products on a competitive basis; and this they have done in a big way Their investment now runs into millions; and they control a little better than 50% of the retail market. They have a milk canning plant (the Pacific Milk plant) and at that time were paying their suppliers $4.55 per hundred — thus effectively shutting out the big eastern canning companies who were getting their milk at about $2.85 to $3.00. They admitted that these eastern canners were getting some B.C. Government contracts for supplies to penitentiaries, jails, etc., but the retail trade was pretty well controlled by the Valley products. In response to an invitation from my brother Cameron, in Los Angeles, we now decided to extend our trip down through the American coast States — going down by Route 99 and returning by Route 101 — the coastal route. Leaving the bus terminal on the morning of April 12th — a typical wet and foggy morning; we crossed the Fraser by way of the high arched Patulla bridge — 130 feet above high tide; and took the highway leading to the international boundary at Blaine. A steady rain, and low lying clouds, obscured the nearby mountains as we passed through Surrey and Whalley; by passing Crescent Beach and White Rock on our right. Blaine is the site of the Canadian — U.S. Peace Arch, built to emphasize the friendly and peaceful relations existing between our two nations. This is the point where President Johnson and Prime Minister Pearson met to conclude the Columbia River treaty.

After a short delay at Customs we continued through a country very similar to the Fraser Valley, — mixed farming, dairying, and small fruits. Incessant rain had flooded the pastures; cattle stood on islands formed by the higher ground; and I could well imagine the damage they were doing to the sod with their tramping feet. Rain and fog had now reduced the visibility to Zero. Before reaching Seattle we had passed through the towns of Bellingham, Riverside, Marysville, and Everett. About this point the highway widened into a four lane system. Seattle is a modern and progressive city; with a fine harbour situated on Puget Sound, and is the principal export outlet for the lumber industry

It is a hilly city, making necessary a great deal of bulldosing and landscaping to prepare a building site. After having lunch in Seattle we again took to the highway and in a short time reached Tacoma, a city of considerable size, also on Puget Sound. Then came Camp Lewis, a large U.S. Army Camp, where we saw acres of military equipment parked in neat rows, and covered with olive drab tarpaulins pegged down securely. Barracks to accommodate 20.000 troops were also there — making a small city in itself. Olympia, the state capital next, followed by Centraia, Chehalis, Vancouver (Wash) and then Portland Oregon, where we arrived at six o'clock. We were advised to make reservations on an "express" bus which would be leaving at noon the following day, — this gave us all forenoon to look around the town, which is a very beautiful one, and the site of the annual rose festival; one of the attractions on the west coast From here on, the highway was a sixlane system; and we rolled along at about seventy miles an hour.

The countryside was a green paradise — apple, pear, and peach orchards — some of them in bloom, lined the roadway on both sides.

We will not quickly forget our approach to Salem, the capital city of Oregon. It was close to sundown, and a heavy 'sunshower' was falling — the level rays of the setting sun lit up the countryside with a peculiar radiance, and created two perfect rainbows arched over the city. Barley and other grain fields lined the road, — the barley headed out, but still green. The Capitol, or State Building is built of white stone and appeared to be a replica of the Capitol in Washington. South of Salem the country remained level, with more grain fields and orchards, and then began a slow rise toward Grant's Pass and the mountains seperating Oregon from California. A small river followed a winding course through the Pass, with saw mills and villages at intervals of a few miles. Logging was the principal industry. Huge diesel logging trucks were met frequently, loaded with logs 36 or in some cases 40 feet long, and about four or five feet in diameter. Three logs made a load. The slower pace and the heavy labouring of the engine made us realize that we were climbing a steep grade. At midnight we reached the height of land, with snow banks by the roadside reminding us of Quebec. The driver called out over the Public address system," we are now entering the state of California, — smoking will be permitted in the three rear seats". We now coasted down a very winding, but well engineered roadway until we reached Sacramento, where we had breakfast.

The sun had risen about 4.30 after a sleepless night but we quickly forgot our lack of sleep as the vineyards and orchards of the great Central Valley of California came in sight. This is historic ground in the fabulous history of the state, — gold was first discovered here; starting a gold rush that perhaps has never been equalled. The finest table grapes are grown here, further south are the great commercial vineyards which grow the wine and raisin varieties. The valley here is about 30 miles in width, — with the Sierra Madre mountains on the east and the coast range, much lower mountains, on the west It is 500 miles in length — equal to the distance between Toronto and Quebec City; and is one of the most productive areas in the world — when it is irrigated.

This is done with water from the snowclad Sierras; and from artesian wells. Irrigation ditches are cement lined to prevent seepage loss es. They are about six feet deep and are V-shaped — usually filled to the brim with slowly moving water which is diverted to the nearby vineyards or fields by smaller ditches. Barley and Alfalfa fields were seen occasionally — also cotton fields. Stocton was the next large town; a clean modern town — then came Fresno, a city of 130 thousand. The Valley here is 90 miles in width; and 17 miles to the south is the Del Rey ranch, owned by my cousins, the Smillie family who came originally from Ormstown; the Harold Williams farm east of the village being the old Smillie homestead. They have a 500 acre vineyard and I will have more to say about it later The next important town was Bakersfield, — the first oil field we had encountered. Oil derricks could be seen a few miles to the east; and large storage tanks stood close to the railway.

Storage basins bulldozed out of the hard earth were filled to the brim with 'black gold'. After leaving Bakersfield we encountered a stretch of road which reminded me of Saskatchewan highways — straight away to the horizon without a curve. This was leading us in the direction of an apparently impenetrable range of mountains — known as the Tellahachi Mts. We were told later that these mountains are the centre of the California earth quake zone. Herds of beef cattle ranged in the folds of the foothills — an example of erosion on a giant scale. Deep gullies and canyons cut deeply into the sides of these bare, sage covered mountains

As we came close to them we turned rather sharply to the east and around a shoulder of the hills to find a pass opening up ahead, a sign at the roadside giving the altitude as 2000 feet, and as the Greyhound purred effortlessly along another board announced the height at thousand feet intervals.

The summit was reached at 4800 feet, and we then began to coast down into the San Fernando valley, famous in song and story. A little distance back we had passed an old Spanish fort — a relic of the days when Spain held dominion over this region Next came Glendale, then Hollywood, then the bus terminal in Los Angeles, where we were met by Cameron and Mayfred; and in a few minutes were in their home on 28th St. Behind us lay 1500 miles of very interesting country, rich beyond belief in natural resources,—oil fields cattle ranches, vineyards peach and plum orchards, citrus fruits, cotton and alfalfa fields made up an intensive type of farming that results in high per capita income; and in fairness I must add high labour costs.

On the highways we met huge trucks with equally large trailers behind them,— hauling head letuce or other garden produce from the fields to the packing houses; all handled by one driver, an example of the American genius for efficiency. Oranges and other citrus fruits were handled in the same way. Strawberry fields covering hundreds of acres were seen between Los Angeles and San Francisco on our return journey. The straightness of the rows, and the general high level of cultivation were an eye opener to the visitor like myself. Water is the vital necessity — without it much of this country would be a desert; and the ever growing need for more is going to be a problem.

Their rivers are already practically dry for much of the year, and de-salting the sea water is perhaps the solution for some of their irrigation problems.

ROUND BYRE and RING

By Frank Napier

One day last week we had a pleasurable visit from Dean Hughes of the C.B.C. He had come to Huntingdon to interview Gilbert MacMillan, O.B.E.; likewise "tape" same in connection with a Film project which will be featured next year. A film, as we understand it will be a Centenary-year-factual record of the leaders, past and present, of the Canadian livestock and agriculture in general spheres. And, of course, Mr. MacMillan is "one of the top ten", so to speak, in connection with any such historical project.

Our forte, in a conversational but not on "tape" way, was to give Dean Hughes a few details about Gib MacMillan's outstanding career, record and achievements—as a Herdsman and Farm and Herd Manager extraordinary; as an outstanding breeder and judge, likewise authority on Ayrshires; as an outstanding Executive for many years of leading livestock and other agricultural organizations. In the latter instances, a three-time President of the Ayrshire Association; Chairman of Canadian National Livestock Records; President of the National Dairy Council (when same included both Processor and Distributor and Producer Sections; President for a great many years of Dairy Farmers of Canada; and President of Ormstown Exhibition, etc.; an', as the Scots say, "a' that and mair".

We were also pleasurably able to give a few details of the history and achievements of the Ness of Howick Clan, which has sometimes been dubbed as "The Royal Family" of Ayrshires in Canada. In that connection, Dean Hughes informed me that also on his list of notabilities were Douglas A. and J. Earle Ness. However, he said, my interview with Earle Ness will apparently have to be postponed, because I understand that he is now on honeymoon in Florida". (Incidentally, the first news this writer had heard of that happening.)

The Craigs

Incidentally, Dean Hughes was the originator and long-time producer and script writer, if that be the right term, of "The Craig Family", which was for so long one of the features of the C.B.C. noon-time Farm Broadcast. And which was suddenly dropped some two years or so ago.

We asked him: Why? But all the comment he would make in that respect was in effect, that the powers-that-be decided that it was of little or no interest to the younger generation.

We argued, on a one sided basis, without a yea or nay from him, that it surely couldn't be contended that the substitute program — of half baked or fanciful personal opinions — were of any more interest to the younger generation than they were to the oldsters.

What About It?

With further reference to the projected C.B.C.'s Centenary year agricultural, etc., film project. Getting on for a year ago, we stuck out our neck, so to speak, when we suggested that the respective purebred livestock Clubs get together to consider ways and means, whereby past achievements could be extolled as well as current herds and studs advertised.

This area, usually referred to as the Howick-Huntingdon Ayrshire Club area, or as the Huntingdon-Ormstown Holstein Club area, has a proud heritage; is still a great purebred livestock breeding centre; albeit a large milk producing area.

A good story could be told in print of such past, historic achievements and of the existing herds and studs, in an advertising way. In addition a series of Field-days and Barn Meetings could be arranged with as their objective the attraction of visitors to "Expo 67" from other parts of this continent as well as from overseas countries.

How about it Messrs. Secretaries and Presidents of the Ayrshire, Holstein, and Jersey Clubs; district representatives of the Aberdeen-Angus; Hereford and Shorthorn Provincial Clubs; likewise that new but very active group of light horsemen; also the President of The Huntingdon Gleaner Inc?

Here and There

An item in Farming News (of Scotland) headed "Plastered Organizer", reads, in part: "When the proposer of a vote of thanks at the West Area Y.F.C. (Young Farmers) Conference referred to the organizer, Miss Ellen Kerr, thus — "There she is, smiling and fresh; and there she was last night, plastered" — a few eyebrows were raised. However, it wasn't to a state of inebriation the speaker was referring to, but to the fact that Miss Kerr and her room-mate had awakened in the early hours of Sunday morning to find themselves enveloped in dust and rubble from a ceiling fall.

Also according to Farming News, the old country Ayrshire Society is naturally proud of that an Ayrshire cow won the Supreme Individual Championship (Inspection and Milk points combined) at the 1966 Scottish or Glasgow Dairy Show. That cow scored 125 points on Inspection and 184.3 points on milk production.

In that connection the Farming News also says: "As the Ayrshire breed was meeting with greater inter-breed success than last year and was winning its ninth Supreme Individual Championship, the talk of the show was not so much this fine achievement but the possibility that 5,000 Ayrshire cattle may be purchased by a Greek farming organization. The Secretary of the Ayrshire Cattle Society revealed that he had had 'a firm enquiry" from Greece for this number of cattle. If the deal goes through it will be the largest single order ever handled by the Society and could amount to the value of half a million pounds sterling (say the equivalent of $1,500,000. Canadian).

"COUNTRY NOTEBOOK"

BY WALKER RILEY

I was talking to Dr. John Bubar of the Agronomy Department this morning about spring seeding. "Pass along the news," he said, "that if you are planting timothy, this is the year to use pedigreed seed. Certified Climax is just about as cheap this year as common timothy — there was an exceptionally good seed crop last summer."

Dr. Bubar pointed out that even if the better seed cost 10 cents a pound more, and the difference is less than that, two extra bales of hay per acre in the first year would pay the extra cost.

"Point out also," John said "that we are going to see a lot more variety plantings in the next few years. If we plant good timothy varieties like Milton, Climax and Drummond that develop a week apart, each in a different field, we can spread our haying season out and still cut it when it should be cut. And that's just as the heads emerge from the boot."

I asked John if there was lots of Milton and Drummond seed also. "Unfortunately, no", he replied. "There was a fair supply of Drummond early in the winter but there isn't a pound left in the hands of the wholesalers now. Overseas buyers were after it. As for Milton — that's the earliest variety — it will be another year yet before seed supplies have built up to commercial quantities. But this is the year to get a field of Climax timothy established."

It seems our old friend timothy is back in favour again. And when the plant breeders succeed in developing a good pasture-type, we can expect to hear much more of it.

Last Friday, the Society of Agricultural Engineers met at the College. I sat in on some of the sessions. It's a poor way to get details, but you do have a rare chance to sense trends in farm buildings and mechanization.

For instance, we heard J. J Hogan of the Quebec Department of Agriculture say that there were now 17 free-stall dairy barns in the province He expected more to be built if for no other reason than the saving of labour.

But there were problems he said. Few of those built
