Playground At Garden City Put To Good Use

The above is a view of some of the equipment in use at the new and first playground recently erected at Garden City, Huntingdon, for the use of the children of that area. Since it was first erected it has been in continual use by the children and does much to keep them off the streets. As will be seen a number of children are enjoying the facilities. Take a look in the right hand corner at the two youngsters who are evidently having an argument about who is to be king of the sand pile. These arguments do occur from time to time, but they soon get smoothed over and the play goes on. Other playgrounds will be erected in other parts of Town in due time.

New Exchange Buildings And Dial Telephone Service For Ormstown And Franklin

All telephone numbers in Ormstown and Franklin Centre will be completely changed when dial telephone service goes into operation in both communities during the spring of 1960.

J. L. Rivest, Bell Telephone manager for this region, announced this week that, simultaneously with the changeover to dial, telephone numbers in the two centers will be changed to conform to the standard two-letter five-figure numbering system which is rapidly coming into use throughout North America.

Under the new system, Ormstown telephone numbers will consist of the exchange designation TAlbot 9, followed by four figures, while those in Franklin Centre will feature the exchange name TAlbot 7, followed by four figures.

Meanwhile, work on the Franklin Centre conversion program is slated to get under way shortly following the awarding of a contract to W. Keddy & Sons, Limited, of Hemmingford, for construction of a one-storey dial exchange building there. Work has already started on the Ormstown building.

The Franklin Centre building, which will be located on St. Antoine Road, is expected to be completed around the end of the year. Then skilled telephone craftsmen will begin the complex task of installing the dial switching equipment.

Initial installation of dial switching equipment in the Franklin Centre exchange will be sufficient to serve 400 telephones, but the building will have an overall capacity of 500 terminals — each representing a telephone number.

Although scheduled to take place at the same time, the Ormstown and Franklin Centre conversions are separate projects. Local calling arrangements between the two communities will not be affected by the changes.

Brief Being Presented On School Bus Operation To Minister

The following is a brief being submitted to Hon. Antoine Rivard, Q.C., M.P.P., Minister of Transport and Communications and Attorney-General of the Province of Quebec, by the Province of Quebec Safety League Inc., on the question of safety for school buses.

In view of the fact that school boards in this area have a particular interest in this matter and that they have worked together with a view to obtaining such safety, the contents should prove of great interest. It might also be that school boards would want to go on record and send in letters of support for this belief. All of which should have the effect of getting something more concrete on the statutes of our Province with regard to this important matter. The brief contains much that has been proposed by the school boards from this area and shows the need for more control of school buses.

Brief on School Bus Operation

The Province of Quebec educational system provides everyone with an outstanding opportunity for a well rounded education. With only a few exceptions, a good school with modern equipment and enriched curriculum is within commuting distance of every family.

Of the many factors that make this comprehensive educational system possible, pupil transportation must be given a lion's share of the credit. Today in the Province of Quebec more than 175,000 pupils of our elementary and secondary schools are transported to and from school mostly at public expense. In many of the predominantly rural counties, better than fifty per cent of the total enrolment depends on public transportation.

We agree that a great deal of credit must be given to public school officials for the efficient manner in which they have executed their responsibilities. However, like other aspects, the efficiency and safety of our pupil transportation system depends on the extent to which that efficiency and safety are emphasized by each administrative unit.

Unfortunately, they are many public school officials who do not consider pupil transportation as one of their primary responsibilities. Are we doing all we can to protect our children? Are we ignoring hazards that could be removed? What are the greatest danger points in our present school transportation systems?

The answers to these questions give cause for both optimism and pessimism. The cheerful news is that many school authorities are fully aware of the school bus safety problem and are meeting it with vigor and imagination, generously backed by dollars; others are becoming aware of the hazards and are organizing to meet them. On the gloomy side, we found that in many communities the full nature of the problem is not yet realized and that very little is being done. In some communities, considerations other than safety — such as local politics or the desire to save a few dollars — are being given priority.

A greater degree of safety and efficiency can be accomplished through the following provisions:

The School Bus Driver

The most important figure in safe school transportation is the man who drives the bus. To say that a school bus driver does not need training is not only a dangerous assumption but a violation of our safety rules. The man who drives a bus load of children to school every day, in all kinds of hazardous highway and weather conditions, is charged with grave responsibility. Precious human lives depend upon his experience, skill and good judgement.

Yet despite the increasing dangers of highway travel, many communities pay minimum attention to the dependability of their school bus drivers.

Driving a school bus requires special skills and this cannot be acquired by experience alone. Contrary to the advice of safety experts it seems that a man can become a school bus driver without a stiff medical examination and without knowing much about driving a bus. The indifference of many school boards often adds to the inefficiency of their bus drivers. The sad fact is that too often the employment of the school bus driver is made in a haphazard manner. It is often a part-time job taken by a person who works in a garage, in a store, on a farm, or on shift work.

We must remember that the school bus driver has responsibilities not only to school officials but also to passengers and their parents, and to the community. The health of the school bus driver is an important factor, yet only a few provinces, such as Alberta and Nova Scotia, insist on annual medical certificates. A mature age is also important; that is why the National Safety Council sets 21 as the minimum age for a bus driver. A school bus driver's temperament and his attitude toward children are also important considerations.

In practically every part of Canada, school bus drivers lack adequate training in the operation of a heavy vehicle. Most of the time, the bus driver holds only a chauffeur's license and has experience only with passengers cars. For one thing, there's quite a difference between carrying two or three young passengers in a family car and carrying several dozen lively — if not rowdy — younsters who are temporarily free of any parental or teacher discipline.

What can be done to ensure that our children are not entrusted to unqualified drivers? First and foremost, we should be stricter in the qualifications required for school bus drivers. Each year, the school bus driver should be tested for vision, hearing, muscular steadiness and strength, fast reaction time and freedom of physical conditions which might make him faint, such as heart disease, high blood presure and epilepsy.

Psychological tests should establish that he is a stable, self-disciplined, patient person. A number of highly regarded local citizens who know him should attest to the fact that he is a person of good habits.

The Standardization of the School Bus

No matter how competent and well trained the school bus operator, he can not provide safe transportation if his vehicle is in poor mechanical condition. Unfortunately, many school buses are of substandard quality. In Nova Scotia, which has better regulations than most provinces, every bus is carefully scrutinized every six weeks.

Mechanical defects have already been responsible for many accidents. Safety authorities across Canada list defects found in school buses as follows: badly worn tires, deteriorated brake linings, smashed headlights, broken windshield wipers, rusted emergency doors which would not open, and flimsy, makeshift plywood cabooses built on light trucks.

This may appear economical but they are expensive in the long run in terms of crippled bodies and loss of lives.

How can the presence of so many sub-standard vehicles be explained? We must admit that the 'tender system' used in many parts of Canada, is to blame. Many schools boards, instead of running their own transportation service, call for tenders from private operators. In an effort to save money, school boards sometimes let their con-

A Message From The Canadian Legion

Canada has lost over 100,000 men in wars. On November the 11th, the anniversary of the armistice which ended World War I, Canadians from coast-to-coast will pay tribute to these dead. Out of respect to their memory, wreaths will be laid at war memorials and two minutes of silence will be observed.

The Huntingdon Branch of the Canadian Legion will commemorate the Remembrance Day services on Sunday November the 8th. at 3 p.m. at the Cenotaph in Prince Arthur Park from where they will proceed to the Roman Catholic and Protestant cemetery.

The two minutes of silence is a custom which began in 1919. The late King George V asked that all normal work and other activity cease for a period of two minutes, starting at eleven o'clock in the morning.

You will notice that many Canadians wear red poppies during the Remembrance Day period. Canadians first came to associate the poppies with the war dead during the bloody 1914-1918 campaigns in Flanders. Each spring, poppies sprang up over the graves of the dead, like a silent word of remembrance. A Canadian soldier-physician, Lt.-Col. John McCrae immortalized the poppy in his poem, "In Flanders Fields". John McCrae pleaded with the living to remember the dead and what they had done. He himself died in France but his plea, and the poppies he wrote about, lived on.

In 1926, the poppy was adopted as the symbol of remembrance. These poppies are manufactured by disabled veterans. Funds raised by their distribution go to help other needy veterans and their dependents. So today the poppy serves two very important purposes: it is a symbol of remembrance and a symbol of help to those in need.

You are earnestly invited to join other citizens at the monument at Prince Arthur Park, Sunday, Nov. 8th, at 3 p.m. as they pay tribute to those who died for freedom. You are also asked to wear a poppy, and observe a two-minute silence for the dead of all nations who fought for freedom.

Lawsuits Against Two Local Corporations Dismissed

Two judgments have been handed down the past week in favor of two municipal corporations against whom lawsuits were made.

In the case of the Town of Huntingdon and Mr. Albani St. Jean, the judgment rendered was in favor of the Town and the case was dismissed. A second case against Mrs. Phil Lefebvre in the same connection was awarded to St. Jean with a payment of $200 and costs of the case to be paid by the defendant.

This case stems from a sewer which goes under Mr. St. Jean's property and which broke and burst through his basement floor. He made claim agaist the Town of Huntingdon and the Town made good the damage. Later he asked for the removal of the sewer and the lawsuit was instigated on those lines.

Mrs. Lefebvre sold the lot to Mr. St. Jean and his case with her was on that account.

Later a new sewer was made by way of Cemetery Street and a branch on Wellington Street, but Mr. St. Jean's property was too low to drain into this sewer unless a pump would be used. This was refused and the old sewer was used.

The action against the Town of Huntingdon was brought about a year ago and the decision has only just been handed down. The case against the town has been dismissed and there are no costs to be paid.

A second case in which Elzear Girouard of Godmanchester claimed damages against the Township of Godmanchester for damage done to his crop on account of a ditch not being cleaned.

This case was heard before Hon. Justice R. Ouimet, at Valleyfield, in the early part of the summer and the judgment has just been handed down. The total amount of the damages claimed on two lawsuits against the Corporation amounted to $5,851.20 which covered the ditch not being cleaned, and the damage to his crop as a result of not cleaning. J. P. Cossette of Valleyfield was the lawyer for Township of Godmanchester.

The judge handed down his decision and dismissed both lawsuits against the Corporation of the Township of Godmanchester.

Echoes From The

Federation Of Charities

of the Diocese of Valleyfield

To The Industries and the Public of the Diocesse of Valleyfield, P.Q.

The Canadian National Institute for the Blind, Valleyfield District, is now a member agency of the Valleyfield Community Chest and wishes to advise the Industries and commercial establishments, professionals and the public in general that it will not conduct any further campaign for the blind and that such a campaign will be made by the Federation.

The Institute, through its Field Secretary, Mr. J. A. René Corbeil, wishes to advise the population of the Diocese that an error was committed in the publication of the leaflet, i.e., that the name of the Institute was written L'Institut Canadien des Aveugles instead of L'Institut National Canadien pour les Aveugles. I therefore wish to rectify this error in der that the public be made aware that other organizations for the blind in Montreal or the Province may wish to take advantage of the publicity undertaken for the campaign of the Federation and may solicit funds throughout the Diocese especially in the Counties of Chateauguay, Huntingdon and Vaudreuil-Soulanges.

If, by chance, a solicitor should approach you for funds in the name of the blind without proper identification from the Federation, we would advise that you refuse to donate and contact immediately the organizers of the Federation in your District.

The blind have no right to solicit funds as the Institute will see to their welfare and, in the Diocese of V'field., we will continue to serve the blind as a member agency of the Federation.

The Canadian National Institute for the Blind.

J. A. Rene Corbeil,
Field Secretary.

The member of Parliament is, in effect, the guardian of our tax dollar. Here lies one of the most important jobs of Parliament, as we see it. The individual M.P., we know, is a busy man. But he was not sent to Ottawa by the voters for a holiday.

Very Successful Fur Fashion Show Staged At Grove Hall

A large group of ladies attended the two showings, French and English, of the Fur Fashion Show held in Grove Hall, on Thursday afternoon, Oct. 15th, and sponsored by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Huntingdon County Hospital.

Mrs. Bernard Sauve, president of the Auxiliary, gave a few words of welcome and thanks to all responsible for this event. Mrs. Gordon McCrimmon, Convener of Ways and Means, introduced the representatives from Morgan's of Montreal, who staged the fur show.

Mr. Dodman addressed the ladies giving some brief remarks and advice on furs. He especially stressed that furs, like diamonds, are in a class by themselves, neither product being purchased cheaply and at the same time obtaining quality. Canadian furs are of the best in the world due to our ideal climate to produce this quality and our own Quebec Province producing otter, beaver and mink at their best. On his first trip to the continent in connection with furs he was made doubly sure of this fact by the kingly treatment he received from the famous continental fur couturiers who have such great respect for the prestige of Canadian furs which are known the world over.

After Mr. Dodman's remarks the fabulous fur parade of coats, stoles, and jackets, modeled by Morgan's professional models, brought delight, possibly along with a certain amount of longing, from old and young alike. No discriminating, style-conscious woman could help but admire the beauty of design and workmanship of the furs that were modeled along with, of course, the quality displayed.

There were models of Canadian muskrat, airseal, a new soft silken fur from off the coast of Newfoundland, grey, black and brown lamb, sheared beaver, Alaska seal, Russian ermine, sheared raccoon, sheared muskrat, Canadian beaver, possum, Chinese mink and fabulous Canadian mink. The styles ranged from mannish type with large pockets, double breasted to soft evening sleek lines. Large shawl collars were featured on quite a number of the models, many with slim lines yet comfortable fullness of fit. A great deal of shirring was noticed which gave beautiful lines to the longer coats and hug-fitting to the stoles that were shown. Sleeves were, as a general rule, amply cut allowing for ease of wear.

Black is the most important colour this year, followed by browns and greys, the lengths of the coats ranging from 15, 16 to 17 inches from the floor.

One Canadian beaver long coat with large collar weighed but four lbs. The beauty of design of the possum coat especially took the eye of some of the younger in the group. The three-quarter length brown Persian lamb with cape collar of sable which could tuck up for evening was a beautiful number. The mink stoles, Schiaparelli design, with set in collars and the form fitting shirring were stunning. A ten skinned sable stole also was shown with a look reminiscent of yesteryear. The minks, of course, in all the styles and shades, especially the Autumn Haze, were beyond description.

The accessories, hats and gloves to complement each model were a delight for the feminine eye and heart. Most of the hat styles being of the mannish variety, both severe and softened, along with a number of head-hugging small type very feminine hats which tastefully added to each costume. A few dresses were shown, one a cocktail black, a Christian Dior copy made especially for Morgan's, very stunning. A red and gold lame two piece cocktail suit was a popular number. It was truly a show that interested young and old alike and the Ladies' Auxiliary are to be complimented for arranging such a delightful afternoon.

Over 150 former pupils and a few sisters, who taught or graduated here, were happy to renew old friendships. Monsignor David presided over a delicious luncheon in the Parochial Hall. He congratulated especially those who had come some distance to do honor to their teachers of yesteryear and asked them to continue to show their loyalty to their Alma Mater. At 2.30 p.m. all retired to the school auditorium to enjoy a short program. The sisters of the school and the executive of the Alumni wish to thank all who contributed in any way to make the day such a success.

tracts not to the most reliable bidder but to the lowest one. They hire transportation at a price which makes it impossible to provide sound vehicles and good quality maintenance.

Since school transportation contracts last for only one year, this discourages contractors from making heavy investments. Many competent bus operators have been forced out of business by price-cutting competitors. In one province, an operator, after years of satisfactory service, failed to get a renewal of his contract because an inexperienced newcomer had underbid him a few cents a mile. Another contractor who had driven children to school for over ten years without a single accident, lost his contract because he was fifty dollars per year above the successful bidder.

Obviously, the one-year tender system is in need of revision. Safety, rather than price, should be the main consideration in granting contracts. Perhaps the contract period should be extended to three years, on condition that the operator continues to provide competent drivers and maintain his vehicles in good condition.

We feel that the best way of promoting school bus safety is to place the buses under the control of the Transportation Board. This Board has done in the past, a great job under your able leadership.

A certificate of operation could be granted by the Board upon receipt of the following documents, properly completed:

a) Application for school vehicle license accompanied by a motor vehicle permit for the current year.

b) A public passenger vehicle insurance certificate.

c) A photograph of the vehicle and a certificate of mechanical fitness, signed by an authorized representative of a licensed garage.

A continuous program of traffic safety education is needed among our school bus operators and we recommend that:

a) Uniform provincial standards should be established for school buses.

b) Provide minimum standards consistent with constant safety, economy and efficiency.

c) The construction and use of unsafe buses should be eliminated.

d) A training course should be oragnized for all school bus drivers.

e) A better awarding method than letting bus routes to the lowest bidder should be introduced.

f) A clear-cut set of rules and safe operating procedures that define clearly the driver's duties, responsibilities and liabilities should be adopted, printed and properly distributed to make sure that every driver knows what his job is.

g) A clear-cut set of rules for children passengers should be adopted, printed and distributed to parents who would then know in advance what the rules are.

h) The school bus 'Stop Law' should be enforced requiring motorists to stop when approaching from either direction a school bus that is loading or unloading children on the highways. (We know, however, that any school bus driver who depends on all motorists to adhere to the law is headed for real trouble).

i) Uniform colours should be adopted for school buses and signs.

j) Thorough and regularly scheduled school bus inspections should be made by competent mechanics.

k) The responsibility of supervising the testing and certificating of vehicles and drivers should lie with the local Chief of police or his representative.

l) Continuous survey of all school bus routes should be made with a view toward eliminating hazards.

m) Periodic spot checks of the loading and unloading areas on or near school grounds should be made in order to minimize hazards.

n) Prov. authorities should cooperate with law enforcement and other agencies in issuing specific information to the motoring public regarding school bus transportation.

Home And School Discusses Kindergarten And Cafeteria

The Huntingdon Home and School Association held a regular meeting in the cafeteria at Huntingdon High School, on Wednesday evening, with a good attendance.

A short business meeting was held at the opening, when reports were received and a letter of thanks was read from a former student, who is now training to be a teacher and received financial help through the Home and School Loan Fund.

The gathering then adjourned for visits to the various classrooms where the teachers were in attendance for discussions with the parents on any problems.

During the refreshment period, the meeting was resumed and two items of new business were discussed. The present facilities in the Kindergarten were considered and a committee was formed to investigate possible means of improvement. A meeting has been called for Thursday evening to give all parents with an interest in the Kindergarten, an opportunity to express an opinion.

The possibility of getting the cafeteria into operation was discussed. The kitchen facilities are not yet complete and a considerable sum of money would be required to purchase the necessary equipment. A committee was formed to study other school cafeteria operations in the area and to determine what proportion of the parents wanted to see the cafeteria in operation.

It is hoped there will be a good representation out to Thursday's meeting.

Braithwaite Bros. Hold Successful Demonstration Of Appliances, Paints

The demonstration of G.E. Electrical Appliances and "Rolliflecks" paints held at Braithwaite Bros., store on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of last week, was well attended. An account of this appears elsewhere in this issue.

A representative from General Electric Co., was on hand to explain the many features of the various appliances which were on exhibition. In connection with this a quizz was held whereby the people in the audience were asked to tell what a certain appliance had which other makes did not have, or a similar type of question. If they answered the question correctly and had a ticket, they won a prize.

The people were quite interested in the appliances and some sales were made as a result.

Two shows were held in connection with the Fashion Show, one for English Speaking and one for French Speaking. Each was well attended and prizes for each were won as follows:

Another bicycle was awarded to the purchaser of an appliance and Mr. Hugh Blachford won this on the purchase of G. E. Deluxe Range.

The whole program was well carried out and all who visited the demonstration have a much better idea of all the products and their advantages. The demonstrations of appliances and Fur Fashion Show by Morgan's, Montreal, were held in Grove Hall at the rear of Braithwaite Bros.' Store. The demonstration of the "Rolliflecks" was held in the store itself. This latter showed the ease with which this new paint can be applied to give most pleasing effects. Shell-out For UNICEF in Howick

Hallowe'en night is on Saturday of next week and in one locality of this valley, children will be not only enjoying themselves in getting treats, but will be collectig coppers, nickels and dimes to help feed some of the millions of neglected children in other countries.

Last year, the Howick School children collected over $152.00 for the United Nations Children's Fund during the course of their rounds on Hallowe'en night. Again this year, they will be ringing the doorbells in Howick hoping that each and every householder will be generous with their loose change and contribute to the worthy cause of UNICEF.

With UNICEF pennies, what you spend for a comic book will give a child 50 glasses of milk in India; an ice cream cone will protect ten children from tuberculosis in Chine. A candy will cure a child of yaws in Nigeria. Thus, you should help UNICEF so that this organization can go on helping all the world's children.

We are very fortunate this year to have Mr. H. Gordon Hatcher of Lachine, a former Superintendent of Protestant Schools and now connected with the United Nation's Association of Quebec and very interested in UNICEF work, come to the school, on Thursday afternoon, Oct. 29th, to show a film "Assignment Children", featuring Danny Kaye. He will also show this film to the Home and School Association the same evening.

Mrs. W. E. Logan attended the Montreal-Ottawa Synodical of the W.M.S. in Brockville, on Tuesday, as a delegate for the Children's Work Committee. Mrs. Logan is secretary of this committee.

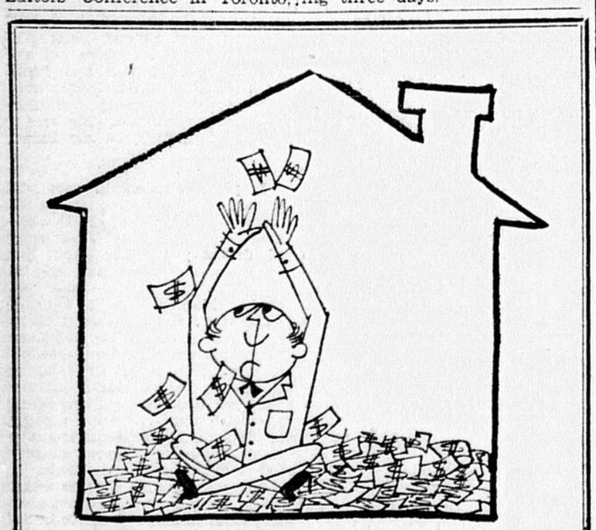

Mrs. Ellen Carmichael spent two weeks in Toronto the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Lavigne.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Craig and family of Lakeside, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Reddick and family of Valleyfield and Mr. and Mrs. Wilburn Anderson and family spent Thanksgiving Day with Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Anderson.

The Sunshine Mission Band of the Howick United Church held its Thanksgiving meeting on Sunday, Oct. 18th. The theme of the meeting was "Thanks". Mrs. Donald Chisholm told a story of the magic word, stressing that we should give thanks for what we have, rather than asking for more. Several of the children assisted her by reading Bible verses and prayers.

A Word Again On School Buses

FROM time to time the question of the safety and operation of school buses arises and creates discussion. At a recent school board meeting this matter was under discussion. The discussion while on one topic at the start developed into a number of topics before the end. All of the discussion was sound and showed an interest on the part of the members to insure safety and the well-being of the pupils being transported. However, the board is limited in what it can do under the present system and only if it owned all the buses, could it implement the control it would like to maintain.

This week, in the news columns we are publishing a brief being submitted to the Government with regard to operation of school buses, which we feel contains much of meat that is interesting. The intention of the brief which is being submitted by the Quebec Safety League, is to have the law amended to cover a wider range of control. Such is very necessary if practices now indulged by some car drivers are to be stopped. It would also be to the mutual benefit of the School Board and the Bus Driver and Owner.

It is rather strange, but sometimes it happens that way, but as this newspaper received this brief, a very concerned person called our office to point out some dangers to school buses and the passengers they carry, which are occurring in our own locality once again. This person mentioned he had written his fears to the same centre as the brief is being submitted. He felt that a further appeal through the columns of this newspaper could also have a beneficial effect.

This person, has his home in Montreal, but he reports that he has nine grandchildren and six of them travelling on the school buses which have their route along the Ridge Road. He is fearful for the safety of his grandchildren and therefore urged this newspaper to make one more appeal to all motorists, truck drivers, the bus drivers themselves, the school boards and the police, to see that stricter safety measures are enforced.

Despite all the warnings that have been issued, despite the fact that the police make periodic patrols of the bus routes, there are still those of the motoring public who pass the standing school bus. This grandfather has noted that this happens on the Ridge Road and that truck drivers are big offenders. He says he dare not think of what might happen if the children should attempt to cross the road at these times. He also says that drivers of private cars are not entirely blameless and he saw one car pass at excessive speed when it should have stopped. With regard to the bus drivers themselves, he reports that some of them do not stop at the railroad crossings on this route, when they are obliged by law to do so. Whether the law prevails or not, he said, they should stop at all railroad crossings in the practice of safety. This man is, or has been, in charge of a large transportation service in Montreal and he said if any one of its drivers failed to stop at a railroad crossing, he would be immediately fired. He feels particularly uneasy in regard to the safety of his grandchildren and also for all the others who are travelling in the buses which use this route in our locality. The recent accident near this centre has aroused his fears still more and he therefore got in touch with this newspaper to publicize what is taking place and have more safety measures effected.

We believe that it is not hard for anyone to realize the feelings this man has when he sees these things taking place, while on a visit to his daughter and son-in-law. Then again, what are the feelings of the parents who endure the fear all the time. Their children leave in the morning, will they return safely at the end of the day?

We once again issue an appeal to all motorists, truck, car or any other type of propelled vehicle, to observe the rules of safety at all times. You are required to stop no matter in which direction you are travelling, when you meet a school bus that has stopped for loading or unloading its passengers. It is unlawful to pass a stopped bus.

Every parent, every grandparent, love their children, when they are entrusted to travel on the buses, or on their own, it is the hope and trust of the parents that others will do their best to protect the children from danger. There is always the chance that the child you maim or kill, may be your own. Exercise care at all times. Bus drivers stop at those railroad crossings and look and listen, though they may be little used, there is always the chance that a train may be approaching. The children who are your passengers are also in your care — you must do your utmost to protect them.

School Boards, if the bus drivers who drive your buses, no matter whether on contract or not, do not obey the rules laid down for safety, their contract should be cancelled forthwith.

Something Should Be Done

IT is a most puzzling thing to everyone who is asked about it, why do so many accidents occur at the intersection of the Plank and Ridge Roads? This intersection does however pose a dangerous hazard in this community.

It is a clear view crossing when approached from the town side and a look to the left and to the right shows a clear view of the Ridge Road both ways for several hundred feet. Coming from the opposite direction, the view is not so good. Over the years there have been a large number of accidents and a number of deaths from these accidents at this point and one might almost say this intersection could be marked as highly dangerous. It is not dangerous from the actual traffic hazard if the drivers would obey the law with regarding to stopping here. This being the case, just what is it that does make it dangerous. The only other hazard is the driver of the vehicle. Then what happens to him? All these questions well up in the mind every time an accident occurs at this intersection.

A question asked is, are the stop signs on the Plank Road and Lake Street visible enough? It is not a question of the accidents happening at night only, for they have happened at all times of the day, and on bright and clear days. The Ridge Road is a through road and has rightaway at the intersection on account of that. That being the case, it requires that all drivers stop at this point in either direction when travelling on Lake Street or the Plank Road. Unfortunately, all drivers do not obey the signs and this may be the cause of a number of the accidents at this point. It has been suggested that larger stop signs be placed either way and that glass button reflectors be placed around the signs to show them up better at night.

Our suggestion is, that a yellow, blinking, warning light, which can be seen from all four directions be placed at this point. A suggestion from another source is that the light from the Lake Street and Plank Road directions should be red, and yellow in the other directions. It would seem to us that this light system might prove the most effective. It could be fairly easily placed here as the power line is nearby. Just recently railroad crossing signals have been placed on Lake Street to remove another dangerous hazard, if a light system could be placed at the intersection perhaps this would lessen the number of accidents there.

It is certain that something ought to be done to try and make this intersection less accident prone.

Hallowe'en And UNICEF

A vogue that has got started in this area as in many other parts the past few years, is Shell-Out for UNICEF, at Hallowe'en. It tends to turn a useless objective into a useful one while at the same time providing a little fun and frolic.

Children and adults too, have organized into groups for the purpose of calling on the homes in their communities at Hallowe'en and asking for donations to help unfortunate children in other parts of the world. They dress up in their Hallowe'en costumes and try to hide their identities and this adds some fun to the proceedings. Thus the Shell-Out program forms a part of the theme for Hallowe'en and while being carried through in this spirit keeps the groups occupied with a work that is worthwhile. The funds so raised go to help unfortunate children and even a small amount of our money will provide a great deal of relief per individual.

By carrying out this plan, there is less of mischief done and which after all serves no real purpose, while the collections made help on a widespread scale the needy children. Many schools and local groups have adopted this means of celebrating Hallowe'en throughout the Chateauguay Valley and have found it to be most effective in all ways. As an instance of the rise to favor, Quebec's contribution in 1955 was $972 and this rose in 1958 to $41,737,50. A good part of this is due to the greater interest in the Shell-Out program carried on at Hallowe'en. It is hoped that even more groups will adopt this method of celebrating this annual event. In place of causing annoyance by foolish tricks, they will be doing a worthwhile service for their fellowmen.

The Week In Quebec

QUEBEC (CP) — The Quebec Liberals are sharpening their battle irons and tightening their ranks for the next provincial election generally expected to be called for next June.

The Fifth Annual Convention of their group—the Quebec Liberal Federation—was held here this week and studied ways to beat the Union Nationale, in power since 1944.

Provincial Leader Jean Lesage said the Liberals must be well organized to defeat Premier Sauve's Government. The main task in the coming months will be to perfect County Organizations across the Province, he said.

Various committees at the disposal of candidates had been placed on war footing to help the Liberal Organization honestly fight and effectively beat the Union Nationale Government.

The Liberal chief said $20,000 had been collected during a recent public subscription campaign. He said it is hoped that by the end of the year at least half the party's candidates will have been chosen.

"Never has our party been so alive", he declared, "never has it been more united; never have its structures been more solid and so widespread".

Among the more important platforms for the next election will be the establishment of a hospital insurance plan for Quebec and development of natural resources.

Lesage in the last two years has visited every County in the Province to explain the Party's policy in these two matters. He has categorically announced himself in favor of a hospital insurance plan. He has said Quebec needs a firm policy of developing natural resources "which would be to the best advantages of Quebecers and not outside interests".

One unexpected problem was the advent of a new premier, Paul Sauve, to replace the late Premier Duplessis who died of a brain seizure last month.

Mr. Lesage said at the convention that the same old regime continues to administer the province. "There are no new men in the Union Nationale, only one man less", he said.

Meanwhile Premier Sauve was out of town attending the Federal-Provincial Finance Conference in Ottawa.

The convention this week was the biggest the Quebec Liberal Federation has had yet. This was explained in part by the fact that for the first time the party has organizations in every county.

A Fraser clan, mostly French-speaking, prepared for a family reunion in Beaumont across the St. Lawrence River from Quebec.

These Frasers are descendants of Augustin, one of more than 1,000 Frasers who made up the 78th Regiment of Highlanders in the British army that conquered the French at Quebec in 1759.

Augustin, like some other members of the regiment, stayed behind and sired a French-speaking clan. He married a Canadienne from Beaumont and settled down to farming after being a merchant in Quebec City for a few years. There are about 1,000 descendants of Augustin in North America today. Most are in Quebec Province but some are found in New England, Chicago, Toronto, and Windsor, Ont.

About 300 are gathering for the family reunion at Beaumont.

Trading stamps were in the news again this week.

Representatives of the Quebec Branch of the Canadian Association of Consumers met with Attorney-General Antoine Rivard to protest the practice of stores issuing premium stamps.

The Attorney-General advised them to see the Federal Government to obtain legislation banning the practice. He said the Provincial Government cannot make amendments to the Criminal Code — under which the stamps are governed — because it would be exceeding provincial jurisdiction.

The Criminal Code, he said, does not outlaw stamps; it only outlines conditions under which they may be used.

Mrs. E. H. Piper of Montreal, President of the English Section of the Provincial Branch, said goods sold with stamps cost more than if stamps were not included. Also many small retail stores are forced to use the stamps, she said. Instead of benefitting from them they had become dupes of large commercial interests.

Some World War II Impressions By A Field Marshal

Sir Winston Churchill was a poor military strategist, Stalin and General MacArthur great ones, and Eisenhower "no real commander at all, but a past-master in the handling of allies", writes Field Marshal Viscount Alanbrooke in the second volume of his World War II diaries, now being published in condensed form in a popular magazine.

Alanbrooke, who headed the British Commonwealth's armed services in the war, also reveals:

Angered by reports of Canadian soldiers rioting at Aldershot, Churchill wanted to send in British troops to restore order, but was restrained by Alanbrooke who insisted the Canadians deal with their own nations.

Stalin, a brilliant tactician at all times, sometimes supported Allied proposals he knew were unsound because the squandering of British and American lives would better serve his political ambitions.

In Alanbrooke's opinion, Chiang Kai-shek led the American "down the garden path. He and his Chinese forces never did much against the Japs and he did not even succeed in keeping his country from becoming Communist after the war. Yet the Americans never saw through all his shortcomings, pinned their hopes on him and induced us to do the same."

The Allies made no great strategic mistakes while under British leadership. After the summer of 1944, however, the Americans assumed leadership and made several blunders which not only delayed victory and exacted a heavy toll in human life, but sacrificed some of the fruits of triumph.

Shortly after the end of the war, General MacArthur expressed himself as believing the Russians to be a bigger menace than the Nazis. He felt that Russia should be met with force, not by conciliatory methods. "MacArthur was the greatest general and best strategist that the war produced. He certainly outshone Marshall, Eisenhower and all other American and British generals including Montgomery. As a fighter of battles and a leader of men Monty was hard to beat, but I doubt whether he would have shown the same strategic genius had be been in MacArthur's position."

On his dismissal of Canada's General McNaughton, Alanbrooke wrote: "I have had to get rid of Andy McNaughton, give Crerar sufficient war experience in Italy and get Monty to accept him with very limited active experience. All has now been accomplished with much anguish and many difficulties, but I have full confidence that Crerar will not let me down. However, I am afraid I have lost a very good friend in the shape of Andy McNaughton . . ."

On the Canadians in France: "It has been a difficult task to get the Canadians finally assembled as an Army in France. In the early stages McNaughton's opposition to the splitting of the Canadian forces had to be overcome. Then a portion had to be sent to Italy, when I had difficulty with their lack of trained commanders."

On the Commonwealth Prime Ministers' Conference: "I suppose this all serves some purpose in welding Imperial bonds, but I doubt it at times. All these speeches strike me as being so much hot air or alcoholic vapor which goes to everybody's head, produces a beatific and complacent attitude of understanding, but how much remains the morning after?"

Alanbrooke pictures Churchill as a cantankerous, sometimes abusive leader who often permitted his impulsive nature to over-ride his judgment. "Winston's lack of width and depth in the examination of problems was a factor I never got over. He would select individual pieces of the vast jigsaw puzzle in front of us and concentrate on them at the expense of others." The American generals, he says, admired Churchill as a man but not as a strategist and were intently suspicious of him.

Oil Pollution Of Canadian Waters Can Destroy Many Ducks

Pointing out that one major incident of oil pollution of Canadian waters can destroy as many ducks as are saved by the restrictions on Canadian hunters in many years, Messrs P. F. Osler, Chairman of the Migratory Birds' Committee and A. Maddison Wood, President of the Quebec Federation of Fish and Game Associations, have appealled to Federal Ministers of Parliament, with constituencies in the Montreal District, to do all in their power to have this situation corrected. Their request is made in letters to Hon. Davie Fulton, Minister of Justice, Hon. Francis A. G. Hamilton, Minister of Transport, Mr. John Pratt, M.P., Mr. Egan Chambers, M.P. and Hon. Wm. Hamilton, Postmaster General.

Stating that Federation is the representative of more than 60,000 Quebec sportsmen, who are organized into fish and game

The Week At Ottawa

OTTAWA, Oct. (CP) — Three months ago, those in charge of provincial treasuries converged on Ottawa in an attempt to pry more money from the federal purse. They were told in effect to come back later when the government knew where it stood financially.

They came back last week. But in terms of hard cash — if not in profitable discussion — they were disappointed. Finance Minister Fleming made it clear that with the government strapped by a deficit estimated to reach $393,000,000 by the end of the current fiscal year, there was no more money to share.

In addition to seeking a bigger slice of the taxation revenues, the provincial treasurers also wanted a full plenary conference between the premiers and Prime Minister Diefenbaker to negotiate an upward revision in the tax-sharing formula under the present federal-provincial agreement, which ends in 1962.

No Early Meeting

Mr. Fleming washed out that idea, too. While promising that a heads-of-government meeting will be called next year to begin hammering out a post-1962 tax deal, he said nothing would be gained by an earlier plenary conference as long as the present treasury situation lasts.

Premier Bennett of British Columbia, rapping the "inane" federal policies that led to the deficit, said bluntly: "They're not anxious to share their deficit — they've nothing else to share."

Finance Minister Fleming, noting that "we are not closing any doors at this conference," was able to make only one financial commitment to the provinces:

They will continue to get 13 per cent of the personal income tax collections, instead of 10 per cent under the original agreement. This increase was made two years ago on a year-to-year basis. It meant an extra $66,000,000 for the provinces last year.

In addition to this, the provinces also receive nine per cent of taxable corporation income and 50 per cent of succession duties. These help to make up the so-called 13-9-50 formula.

New Quebec "Tone"

Premier Paul Sauve of Quebec, successor to the late Maurice Duplessis, brought to the conference an indication that Quebec's attitude on fiscal and other matters may be mellowing. Among other things, he is trying to break the Ottawa-Quebec stalemate over the province's rejection of federal grants to universities. Mr. Duplessis had contended that these were a violation of provincial rights in education.

There are attempts to set up a hospital insurance plan in Quebec that would qualify for federal contributions. And Mr. Sauve said he is seeking a legal way to return to their rightful owners the invaluable Polish art treasures stored in Quebec, which his predecessor refused to release to Communist Poland.

On federal-provincial matters, Premier Sauve noted that there may be a "new tone" in Quebec's voice but that the province itself had not changed. Many in English-speaking Canada thought Mr. Duplessis had "hypnotized" Quebec into endorsing his no-deal stand on tax-sharing. Mr. Sauve said. But that was not the case. Quebec was and still is "different because of special factors."

Tight Credit

At the closing sessions of the conference there were proposals aimed at making it easier for provinces and municipalities to borrow funds in the current high-interest market. These suggestions included one that would declare interest coupons of municipal bonds exempt from income tax, proposals for Bank of Canada purchases of provincial bonds, federal loans to municipalities, and prior consultation between governments on their new bond issues.

Finance Minister Fleming turned aside this barrage of proposals. After the meeting, he was asked by reporters if he had accepted any of the proposals. "I didn't say I would put any into effect," he replied.

Instead, he told the provincial delegates that they might get help indirectly through the federal government's determination to reduce its deficit — "to bring our revenue and expenditures into closer balance, and reduce our demands on the market for new money".

Mexican Visitor

Adolfo Lopez Mateos, the easy-going 49-year-old president of Mexico, swept through a series of dinners, receptions and talks on his three-day goodwill visit to Ottawa. In talks with Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Governor-General Vanier, he described Canada as a great country, highly respected in international affairs.

President Mateos talked trade with Prime Minister Diefenbaker and invited the Canadian leader to visit Mexico. Mr. Diefenbaker said he would try to do so as soon as he could find time.

Mr. Lopez Mateos was accompanied by his wife and 17-year-old daughter Eva, following a similar informal visit to the United States.

No Pay Hike

Federal civil servants were told by Finance Minister Fleming there will be no general pay raise for them this fiscal year, which ends next March 31. He said the government, budgeting for a $393,000,000 deficit, just can't afford the outlay which he estimated would total $244,000,000 this year.

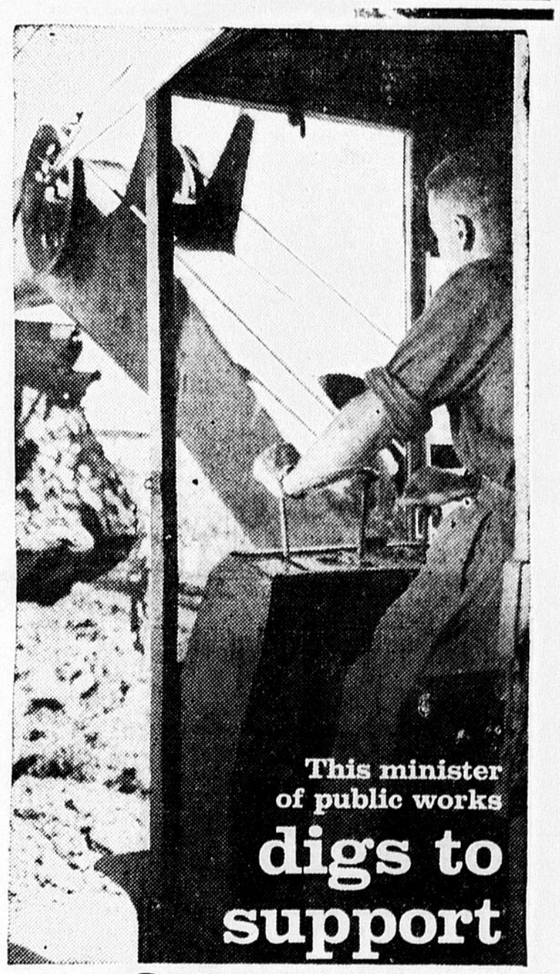

This estimate was based on the general pay hike of some 10-percent recommended by the government's personnel agency, the civil service commission. Federal employees got their last general pay increase, six per cent, 2½ years ago.

Irate heads of civil service organizations — there are some 275,000 government employees counting RCMP and armed services — afterwards accused the government of making them underwrite the federal deficit.

Surplus Butter

The government announced it has decided to dispose of some of its 100,000,000-pound stock of surplus butter by selling 10,000,000 pounds to Britain, where there has been a shortage, at below-cost prices. It cost the government 64 cents a pound, the federal support price, but will sell at between 45 and 50 cents a pound, the going price in Britain.

The government also is seeking agreement with Australia and New Zealand to keep their lamb and mutton off the Canadian market during peak production periods in this country. The Canadian sheep industry has been hurt in the past by the competition with imports during the August-to-March Canadian production period.

2 families!

One family he digs for will live in a unit of a housing project for which he is excavating the foundation. The other family is his own — and includes four children. He is a good "digger" for dollars and his wife manages them well. So their family expenditures are kept in line with the family pay cheque.

Public works cover a lot of ground. The budget of the Minister of Public Works at Ottawa is in the millions of dollars . . . and his department is only one of many.

Money for all departments of government comes through the Minister of Finance who gets it largely in taxes from Canadians such as you. When more money is spent than is collected in taxes, government must borrow from you . . . or else create new money. The creation of new money is one factor that leads to inflation . . . which means your dollar buys less and less.

The government has been spending more than you have been paying in taxes. To narrow the gap between income and expenditures, new taxes have been imposed.

The next step should be to reduce expenditures, or at least hold the line. Undertaking new commitments — adding new welfare or other services — will only make it that much more difficult to pay our way. Tell your M.P. at Ottawa that since you are trying to save, you expect government to do the same.

You also help when you save more by means of life insurance, savings deposits, and the purchase of government bonds. Your savings help to create a SOUND dollar; and this, in turn, helps to create job security for you and more jobs for other Canadians.

A SOUND DOLLAR MEANS A BETTER LIFE FOR YOU

GIVE YOUR ACTIVE SUPPORT TO THE FIGHT AGAINST INFLATION

A PUBLIC SERVICE MESSAGE FROM THE LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES IN CANADA

In connection with foolish tricks, or pranks, or whatever they be termed, we are reminded of one very bad one which occurred near Howick on Hallowe'en. The one to which we refer is when a tree was felled and blocked a road, which caused an accident to a car and injury to the occupants. Such is not a prank, it has nothing of the essence of fun, in fact it is dastardly. Innocent fun can be tolerated, but tricks of this nature which may mean injury or even death to innocent persons are not funny.

Shell out for UNICEF, it can be fun without any harm, in fact it can be most helpful.

Valleyfield

VALLEYFIELD — In our coverage of the Baux Art Exhibit in last week's issue, the name of one of the award winners was inadvertently omitted: We sincerely regret this oversight and now hasten to inform our readers that Mrs. Wm. Campbell, chairman of the exhibition was awarded 3rd prize in the class A Group for her work entitled "Still Life".

The Services in the United Church on Sunday were to celebrate the 105th Anniversary of the Church and were conducted by the Rev. W. Charles Pelletier.

The guest speaker was the Rev. Douglas R. Pilkey, B.A., Field Secretary of the Missionary and Maintenance Department of the United Church.

The church was nicely decorated with fruit, vegetables, flowers and Autumn leaves for Thanksgiving.

"Fine...I'll send them right home"

Welcome words at meal-time!

Usually a phone call or two among the neighbours rounds them up.

How many cold meals and frayed tempers and moments of uneasiness have you been spared because your telephone was handy?... How many "man-hunts" when small ones have wandered off?

The telephone helps make a neighbourly community—helps us all to live more securely, to get more things done, more easily.

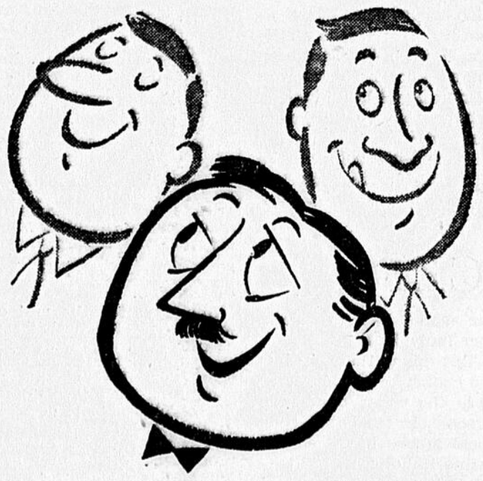

Yes, your telephone is a wonderfully low-cost, wonderfully efficient servant.

MORE AND MORE TASTES APPROVE OF O'Keefe ALE

People with a discriminating taste are creating a trend. Every day more and more people are discovering mild O'Keefe Ale. Next time you're thinking of refreshment try O'Keefe — your taste is sure to approve of its natural mild flavour.

THE O'KEEFE MILDNESS SECRET

Ever bitten into a grape seed? It's bitter, unpleasant. Grape growers found by experiment that they could develop seedless grapes with nothing to spoil the delicate flavour. It's the same with hops.

Ordinary hops contain seeds which give an unpleasant bitterness to ale. However, O'Keefe master brewers insist on costlier "Seedless Hops", result—there's no unpleasant bitterness, just the right, natural mild flavour.

Drink O'Keefe The Mild Ale!

Jean Nicolet

L'existence aventureuse des Français qui pénétrèrent au coeur des forêts de l'Amérique du Nord comme trafiquants, interprètes, missionnaires ou explorateurs a souvent l'allure d'une petite épopée susceptible de marquer longtemps l'imagination des jeunes. Jean Nicolet constitue l'un des plus beaux types de ces audacieux qui ne se lassèrent, tout au cours du régime français, de se porter au-devant du mystérieux inconnu que représentaient les terres de l'Ouest. Il découvrit le lac Michigan et la rivière Wisconsin.

Arrivé à Québec en 1618, Nicolet fut aussitôt dépêché chez les Algonquins de l'Ile aux Allumettes pour y apprendre la langue indienne. Ce fut le début d'une prodigieuse carrière qui le mena pendant vingt ans chez les Nippissings, les Hurons et les Wisconsins où il agissait comme commis de traite. Il se fit très rapidement, nous dit-on, à la vie indienne au point que les Nippissings, notamment, le considéraient comme un des leurs et lui permettaient de siéger dans leurs conseils. Souvent, il revenait à Québec ou aux Trois-Rivières avec une foule de précieux renseignements sur les moeurs des tribus de l'Ouest.

En 1636, il s'établit aux Trois-Rivières où sa présence est jugée précieuse à cause de l'ascendant qu'il possède, même sur les Iroquois. Il meurt en 1642 à la suite d'un accident survenu sur le Saint-Laurent. Nicolet mérite de figurer au nombre de ceux qui établirent les assises du Québec actuel dont les réalisations sont innombrables.

The Hemmingford Branch is outstanding with progressively excellent campaign returns. Campaigns consistently successful are due to the whole-hearted support given by all who participated but in particular to the Chairman and his committee.

We must also comment on the excellent manner in which you draw up your report on campaign. We wish all our Campaign Chairmen would follow your example.

We wish it were possible to thank all the fine people who lent their time and effort so unselfishly throughout this campaign. We hope there is some way in which our thanks and appreciation may be known to them.

With best wishes and again warmest thanks,
(signed) (Mrs.) B. Bourgon
Coordinator,
Provincial Campaign.

Oil Pollution

protective associations and fish and game clubs, the Federation officers said that the matter which requires immediate attention is the great increase in the quantities of oil being dumped in St. Lawrence Seaway waters, either accidentally or intentionally. A major incident of this kind, in Lake St. Peter, a few years ago, caused the loss of an estimated 30,000 ducks. Canadian and Quebec wildlife authorities, as well as sportsmen, who are fully aware of the danger of this type of pollution are greatly concerned with the effect of the vastly increased use of St. Lawrence and the Great Lakes by shipping.

Stating that these waters, particularly in the fall, are used by almost the entire waterfowl population of Eastern North America, the letter says that, in addition to cases of accidental spillage of oil, ships are known to have pumped oil-filled bilges in midstream, and that while such acts are already illegal, the machinery for the investigation of "accidents," and determination of responsibility, does not seem to be too well defined, and continues as follows:

"It is obvious that a stringent tightening of regulations and enforcement machinery is required if very large losses of waterfowl in inland waters are to be avoided in future—Federal Wildlife authorities are fully aware of the situation, and are using all the means in their power to take the necessary steps, and we also understand that they are receiving excellent co-operation from the Seaway authorities of the Department of Transport and from the R.C.M.P. The sportsmen whom we represent in this province, and they are numerous, as well as those affiliated with sister organizations in other provinces, are appreciative of the efforts of these officials and wish to commend them. However, we feel much further support is necessary, on the political level, and probably further and more stringent legislation, if Department officials who are responsible for the protection of our waterfowl, resources, are to be enabled to prevent major disasters from occurring.

"We would further point out that hunters of waterfowl are being subjected to increasing restrictions. The great majority realize the necessity for restrictions, and are co-operative in this regard. Nevertheless, one major incident of oil pollution in Canadian waters can destroy, in a few days, as many ducks as are saved by the numerous restrictions on all Canadian hunters in as many years, and this naturally brings about great resentment among all sportmen, which is undesirable, from every standpoint."

The Marvelous Process Of Growth

Children today are some two or three and a half inches taller and correspondingly heavier than they were fifty years ago, according to Dr. Elizabeth Chant Robertson in a magazine article. The difference was due to better feeding and protection from many infections, she felt.

Advised parents who worry about their child's growth, Dr. Robertson said "some children are naturally slender and never will weigh — nor should weigh as much as the average child. Others are broad or stocky and consequently are heavier than the average."

As many tables of average weights and heights are out of date today, Dr. Robertson advised parents to keep a long-term record of their child's growth. The child should be weighed and measured about twice a year during the pre-school period and at least once a year from then on. In this way his progress could be compared with his previous record.

A healthy infant grew quickly in the first few months, Dr. Robertson said, but slowed up as he neared his first birthday and during the second year. In the third year most children gained weight relatively slowly.

From five to ten years of age both boys and girls grew some two to two and a half inches in height and about five pounds in weight each year.

At the onset of puberty there was a rapid increase in growth in girls. There was a similar but even greater spurt in boys, but it occurred about two years later.

Treasures of Canadian Silver

The work of early Canadian silversmiths is highly regarded by connoisseurs and commands high prices, yet it is the least known of our antique crafts.

Some of these treasures, which rank among the finest art of any kind that Canada has produced, are still in use in Quebec churches. Some are prized heirlooms in the families for whom they were made over two hundred years ago. But Patricia Clark charges in a magazine article, most people are unaware that this art ever existed. Even people who inherit it don't recognize it for what it is," she said.

The silver the experts praise was made between 1700 and 1830. While most of it came from Quebec, a little was produced in the Maritimes and in Ontario.

The work of the silversmiths was of very high calibre, Mrs. Clarke said, and pointed out that their development of the art to such a high standard was a remarkable achievement, considering the population of the country then numbered only about sixty thousand people.

According to F. St. George Spendlove, curator of the Canadiana Collections at the Royal Ontario Museum, "Nothing Canadian is undervalued today."

A chalice that the Royal Ontario Museum in Toronto bought years ago for two hundred and fifty dollars would bring twenty-five hundred today. One collector who turned down a piece at one hundred and twenty-five dollars as being too expensive, later bought it for six hundred, and values it today at fifteen to eighteen hundred dollars.

A Minister's Wife Talks Back

An impossible standard of perfection is demanded of a minister's wife by too many parishioners, charges Claire Jones, a minister's wife, in an article in an October magazine.

A preacher's wife is human, the writer pointed out, although many seem to feel she is a species apart.

"Because she is directly involved in her husband's work and, therefore, on constant view, the wife of a minister is judged as a mother, homemaker and co-worker in a way that the wife of no other professional or businessman is. What she says, what she does, how she dresses, the friends she chooses—all are observed and commented upon, and can have a great deal to do with her husband's success or failure," Mrs. Jones declared.

From her own experience when secretary of a large church she cited an instance where a member of the congregation resented the minister's wife being too pretty. "It just doesn't seem right," she complained.

In another case, the minister, an unusually gifted and hard-working man at the same church for seven years did not get an increase in his obviously inadequate salary because his wife was always so beautifully dressed. What the governing body of his church didn't know was that all his wife's clothes were hand-me-downs from a wealthy aunt, skillfully and painstakingly remade.

"If your minister's wife is attractive, if she is young and pretty, be glad that she is. Let her wear pretty clothes, and cut her hair to suit herself, and paint her nails if she likes" Mrs. Jones advised. "How she looks is not a fair way to judge her devotion to her husband's work, or her love for the church."

Announcing the new Plymouth

Solid comfort! Solid performance! Solid safety! Solid beauty! You'll find them all in this 1960 Plymouth, with rustproof and rattleproof Unibody, new inclined overhead-valve six-cylinder engine, and a whole car-full of other solid improvements new to the low-price field!

Here is a car with new Unibody construction that eliminates body bolts to give you a more solid, quieter ride than ever!

Here is a car that features the most complete rustproofing treatment in the entire automobile industry!

Here is a car that delivers up to 50 extra miles on every tank of gas, with a completely new kind of overhead-valve six-cylinder engine inclined like modern racing engines.

There's not a bolt in this Plymouth Unibody to spoil the solid quiet of your Plymouth ride. Body, frame, crossmembers and panels are all one solid piece of steel. Every Unibody is dipped seven times to prevent rust.

Not a bolt in the body

No car in Plymouth's class was ever built like this before. New "bridge truss" Unibody makes the difference.

The Plymouth structure is all one piece —frame, body, crossmembers and exterior panels—without a body bolt in it to spoil the solid silence of your Plymouth ride.

Unibody is one and one-half times stronger, end to end, than conventional types. It is four times as durable.

Most comprehensive rust-proofing of any car—ever

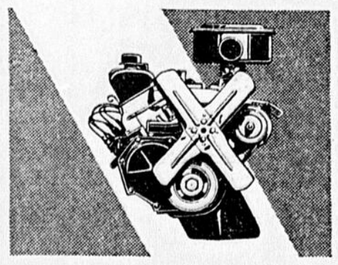

Not only is your Plymouth built to withstand wear and road punishment; it's designed to resist the ravages of weather, too. For this year, Plymouth introduces a completely new rustproofing process, more comprehensive than any rust preventive treatment ever known to the auto industry.

Unibody is dipped a full seven times to protect it for years to come!

New Six... new savings!

Just lift the hood on a Plymouth 30-D Economy Six. You'll see a totally new kind of engine as revolutionary in the way it looks as it is in the way it saves and performs.

It's inclined to the side—just like modern racing engines—at an angle of 30 degrees. This permits a straight air intake with no elbows or angles to impede engine breathing. And even more important, inclining the engine allows Plymouth to introduce a straight-line, individual-cylinder manifold system that feeds the right diet of gas to each cylinder independently.

Plymouth's new overhead-valve, six-cylinder engine inclined 30 degrees, delivers up to 50 extra miles per tankful! (Plymouth V-8's are money-savers, too!)

Plymouth makes the big changes the others overlooked

You've only begun to learn about Plymouth for 1960. Here are automatic door locks that lock all doors at the flick of a switch. Here are automatic swivel seats and a high-back Command seat for the driver. And here are Plymouth's own Torsion-AIRE Ride, push-button drive, Total-Contact brakes—all improved for 1960.

But why not see for yourself? Your Plymouth dealer has a new Plymouth awaiting your trial and inspection right now. Visit him today.
