Quebec sets new road safety standards

QUEBEC (CP) — Legislation was tabled in the Quebec national assembly Tuesday to make the wearing of seatbelts compulsory for front-seat occupants of cars and other pleasure vehicles.

Passengers under five years of age will be exempt, but whether they sit in the back seat or the front they must be restrained by an adequate safety device.

The bill, an amendment to the Highway Code, provides for fines of $50 to $100 for persons who remove, alter or put out of service car seatbelts or for the driver of a vehicle in which the seatbelts have been tampered with.

Drivers or front-seat passengers who do not wear seatbelts will be liable to a $10 fine.

The bill also sets speed limits of between 40 and 70 miles an hour on autoroutes.

Maximum speeds set for other throughfares include 55 miles an hour on roads other than autoroutes which lie outside cities and towns, 45 miles an hour for gravel roads outside cities and towns and 30 miles an hour on city streets and in school zones.

All future municipal bylaws governing speed limits will have to be submitted to the transport minister for approval.

The bill also stipulates that persons 16 and 17 years old must take a driving course to qualify for a driver's permit.

In case of transfer of ownership of a motor vehicle, no registration will be granted until the owner presents a certificate stating the mechanical condition of the vehicle.

The bill, which will become effective upon proclamation by the cabinet, also stipulates that a person must be at least 14 years old to be able to drive a moped, or cycle equipped with an engine on a public road.

Moped drivers between 14 and 17 must have a written authorization from their parents or guardians to drive on a public road.

ONE HAMBURG STAND TO GO—A new twist in take-out food occurred yesterday in Magog when a moving company took the whole restaurant. The quick-lunch stand, formerly located at 510 Sherbrooke St., was moved to this new locale at the corner of Sherbrooke and Fontaine Streets yesterday.

PCs French Power

MONTREAL (CP) — Progressive Conservative Leader Joe Clark called Tuesday for Quebec support and outlined a plan to broaden the party's base in the province.

"Give me a bit more time and you will see the PCs will also have its 'French power,'" he told 1,000 prominent businessmen and politicians at a packed Montreal Chamber of Commerce luncheon in his first political address in French.

Among those present were unsuccessful PC leadership candidate Brian Mulroney and former provincial Liberal cabinet minister Jerome Choquette, founder of the Parti National Populaire.

Speaking smoothly, but with a marked English accent, Mr. Clark sharply criticized the federal Liberal party for not being an effective national party and representing the diverse interests of all provinces, particularly in the west. He said he would not follow the Liberals' example and would immediately set up a basis for gaining support in Quebec, the PC's weakest single area.

Bus or train?

MONTREAL (CP) — Subsidization of rail passenger service inhibits the development and expansion of a passenger bus industry through artificially low fares, a Montreal-based bus company told the Canadian transport commission Tuesday.

The railways are charging artificially-low rates for their passenger services because the federal government subsidizes 80 per cent of their deficits on those services, Provincial Transport Enterprises Ltd. said in a brief to a hearing investigating the trans-continental railway system.

And because passenger buses are forced to compete with the railways on certain routes, they must therefore also charge artificially-low rates, the brief said.

Provincial Transport Enterprises owns two subsidiaries, Voyageur Colonial Ltd. and Voyageur Inc., which provide passenger bus service in Ontario, Quebec and New Brunswick.

Teacher walkout

MONTREAL (CP) — About 5,400 English Catholic teachers across the province are expected to stage a half-day walkout today following the breakdown of contract negotiations with the government Monday.

Bob Dobie, a spokesman for the Provincial Association of Catholic Teachers (PACT), said the teachers will also meet to decide "if we want to stretch this thing out to 1½ days or even 2½ days."

Talks broke down Monday after government negotiators demanded that union members call off their current harassment campaign while talks are in progress.

The teachers belong to a 175,000-strong common front of public service workers embroiled in a contract dispute with the provincial government.

Sheldon Phaneuf, a spokesman for the Provincial Association of Protestant Teachers (PAPT), said he expected no disruption of classes in Protestant schools as negotiations with the government continue.

Mr. Phaneuf did not indicate what progress has been made in the talks, but said everything "seems to be peaceful."

In Quebec City, the Quebec Teachers Federation (QTF) Tuesday asked for a reopening of negotiations which broke off last week, provided the provincial government has new contract offers to make.

New energy policy means price boost

OTTAWA (CP) — A government policy on energy calls for all-out development of northern petroleum resources and price increases during the next two years that will add as much as 25 cents on a gallon of gasoline and heating oil.

The policy statement, presented in the Commons Tuesday by Energy Minister Alastair Gillespie in advance of a federal-provincial meeting next week on oil prices, also says the country will continue to rely on oil imports.

While saying the country should consider the social and economic costs of developing northern petroleum resources— an apparent bow in the direction of native and environmental doubters—the 170-page policy statement prepared by the federal energy department nevertheless calls for double the development efforts in the North to bring Arctic oil and gas to market.

To encourage oil companies to carry out such development, the policy proposes increasing the price of oil and gas during the next two years by up to 60 per cent—towards the world price of about $13 from the present $8 a barrel for crude oil.

The aim is to hold the line on oil imports, the statement says.

But it also abandons the two-year-old federal policy goal of self-sufficiency in energy resources, switching instead to a target described as self-reliance.

Primary puts Carter up front

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Jimmy Carter has almost wiped out his active opponents for the Democratic presidential nomination, and now he is ready to confront Senator Hubert Humphrey if it comes to that.

It may not, if Carter can keep rolling at the rate he managed in Pennsylvania's presidential primary election. He won Tuesday's popular vote with 36 per cent and a landslide margin over Senator Henry Jackson of Washington.

And he held a surprising lead today as the ballots were counted in the separate election of national convention delegates.

Carter beat the field, and he also beat the union leaders and organization Democrats who had tried to stop him for Humphrey's sake.

It was his seventh primary victory in nine tries, and it may have been his most important because it came against the odds and the organizations. Furthermore, it gave him new momentum to carry into a hectic six weeks in which 22 states will hold their primary elections leading up to the Democratic national convention in New York City July 12. The convention will choose the Democratic candidate for the November presidential election.

ENTERED IN TEXAS

Carter is running again Saturday in the Texas primary, and he hopes the Pennsylvania outcome will bolster his cause there. He is entered in four states next Tuesday.

This is not to say that Carter has the nomination won; he acknowledges there is a long way to go, and he said in advance that a Pennsylvania win would not make him unstoppable.

But everybody who has tested him so far has lost, and if the former Georgia governor is going to be stopped now, it apparently will have to be done by challengers who have not yet been in the arena.

Jackson can't do it. He had everything going for him in Pennsylvania, but he ran a distant second. He chose the state for a major test against Carter, and got beat on his own territory.

Representative Morris Udall of Arizona ran third. Udall's campaign is heavily in debt, and he is still looking for his first victory against major competitors.

Nonetheless, Udall, like Jackson, said he means to keep running and will campaign all the way to the convention.

COUNT INCOMPLETE

With 85 per cent of the 9,638 voting districts counted, the Pennsylvania vote read:

Carter 417,271 or 36 per cent.

Jackson 292,026 or 26 per cent.

Udall 222,053 or 19 per cent.

Alabama Gov. George Wallace 127,204 or 11 per cent.

37 dead in jet crash

ST. THOMAS, Virgin Islands (AP) — American Airlines today reported 37 persons dead or missing in the crash of a Boeing 727 jetliner on a runway that officials say is dangerously short.

The Knud-Hamsen Hospital said it treated 57 persons injured in the crash Tuesday afternoon. There was still some confusion, but it appeared that 51 of the injured were aboard the plane and six were bystanders on the ground.

The hospital said it was holding 19 of the injured for further treatment. Two others who were badly burned were flown to Puerto Rico. The rest were released from the hospital.

The airline said there were 81 passengers and a crew of seven aboard the plane, including three infants. It said the dead or missing included 35 passengers and two flight attendants. It withheld their home addresses, but the Knud-Hamsen Hospital made public those of the injured. No Canadians were listed among the injured.

The big jet was arriving on a flight from Providence, R.I., and New York. Most of the passengers were vacationers from the U.S. East Coast.

OVERSHOOTS MARK

Witnesses said the plane overshot the landing mark at the Harry S. Truman Airport and tried to regain full power but was unable to get in the air again.

They said it hit a four-foot embankment at the end of the runway, skidded 300 yards across the road that connects the airport and Charlotte Amalie and slammed into a Shell gasoline station and the St. Thomas Bay Rum factory.

The tail section ripped off and turned over. The fuselage skidded several hundred yards further. Its nose smashed into a palm tree. The right wing and landing gear were thrown 50 feet.

A huge ball of fire shot hundreds of feet into the air. Heavy black smoke covered the scene as survivors scrambled from emergency exits.

The wreckage burned for nearly two hours. Firefighting efforts were hampered by a lack of water, and private water trucks responded to an emergency call.

The plane also brought down telephone and electrical lines, blacking out a third of Charlotte Amalie for several hours.

PILOTS COMPLAIN

Pilots have complained for years that the airport's 4,650-foot main runway is too short. "We have a very short runway," Fire Chief Rudolph Jennings said. Another fire department official said it is "extremely short and they know it is critically dangerous."

The pilot, Arthur Bujnowski, 53, of Huntington, N.Y., and his first officer and flight engineer were among the survivors who were released after treatment. They refused to talk with reporters.

Provinces evaluating bilingual programs

OTTAWA (CP) — Secretary of State Hugh Faulkner said Tuesday the provinces have not supplied detailed studies of the effectiveness of bilingual education programs financed with federal grants. But he added that the grants are working.

He told the Commons broadcasting committee this lack of evaulation and accountability is not satisfactory but evaluations of the programs are being prepared by such provinces as Manitoba and Ontario.

The federal government provides about $110 million a year to the provinces to pay part of the costs of second-language teaching and teaching minorities in their own language. About 60 per cent of the money goes to Quebec.

Mr. Faulkner said he was encouraged by what was happening in Manitoba, where bilingual schools are being extended. Four years ago teaching in French there was not allowed, he said.

In Regina, English-speaking children are taking immersion classes in French and the number of primary school students in British Columbia studying French also has increased.

But Mr. Faulkner said he is dismayed by the decreased number of English-speaking high school students who are studying French. The number of these students decreased from 55.4 per cent of the total in 1970-71 to 41.6 per cent in 1974-75.

This is because French courses have been made optional. A second language no longer is required for university admission.

Mr. Faulkner said this was a retrograde decision by the universities.

The committee was studying the department's 1976-77 spending estimates.

Changes foreseen in gun control law

OTTAWA (CP) — The government is firmly committed to a licensing system for rifles and shotguns but is ready to bring extensive amendments to a bill now before the Commons justice and legal affairs committee, Solicitor-General Warren Allmand said Tuesday.

Mr. Allmand told the committee, during its first session on the so-called peace and security bill, that he is prepared to bring the following gun-control changes as a result of criticisms of the bill by the public:

—Anyone residing in an area where hunting and trapping are a way of life and who must hunt for food will get a licence free. Other Canadians would pay $25 to $30 for a five-year permit required under the proposed legislation. Anyone buying guns or ammunition would have to have such a permit.

—Efforts were being made to find a way to allow "bona fide and responsible" gun collectors to have machine-guns, which would become prohibited weapons.

—The age below which no person might possess a firearm would be reduced to 12 years from 14 as a result of criticism by wildlife and sporting groups. A Criminal Code section that enables parents to instruct children in use of firearms would be amended but not repealed.

—The definition of ammunition, which in the present bill includes "any component, element or part such as a bullet, pellet, cartridge case, primer or propellant powder," would be amended, but the object would continue to be to prevent people from making ammunition without a licence.

Eldon Woolliams (PC—Calgary North) had said that under the proposed law, he might have to get a licence for his grandfather clock, which had pellets in the pendulum. He also has a loaded ash tray.

Mr. Allmand told Mr. Woolliams he does not have to worry, but admitted that redefining ammunition is a task still puzzling justice department officers.

The minister rejected the assertion of firearms groups that a competency test, similar to those carried out in four provinces now, is the same as the fitness test to be required under the federal system.

"Lee Harvey Oswald was certainly competent as a qualified marksman to use a firearm, but no one would consider him fit to possess such a firearm," Mr. Allmand said of the alleged assassin of U.S. President John F. Kennedy in 1963.

The system would screen out the unfit without interfering with fit hunters, target shooters and collectors, Mr. Allmand said.

The gun controls also would enable police to seize firearms without warrant in threatening situations, such as domestic disputes.

Criminals using forearms during commission of an indictable offence would be subject to a term of one to 14 years, to be served consecutively to any other sentence. Mr. Allmand said he thought it would become the only clause in the Criminal Code to require a consecutive sentence.

Gun owners would be subject to jail terms if they were careless in handling or storing firearms. This does not mean they would be charged with the crime committed by a person who stole their gun, he said.

It was designed to help prevent incidents such as a shooting in Vancouver in which a store clerk was shot by a juvenile with a firearm taken from an unlocked rack in the store.

Mr. Allmand reviewed other sections of the bill covering police wiretaps, dangerous offenders, crime inquiries and new parole provisions.

Around Town

SHERBROOKE (GA) — POLITICS... RELIGION... SEX. These three topics are bound to get someone's attention and are in the news daily and are covered in such great depth by newscasters, reporters, photographers and columnists, that they are becoming commonplace. The entertainment around town this week also offers smatterings of these three attention-getters.

TONIGHT, April 28: At the Carrefour de l'Estrie's Cinema II, a sequel to "True Grit" entitled "Rooster Cogburn" stars John Wayne and Katharine Hepburn.

THURSDAY, April 29: At the Carrefour de l'Estrie's Cinema II (see Wednesday). At the University of Sherbrooke's Cinemafeus in the Maurice O'Bready Hall will be the film, "Le Mouton Enrage", a French-Italian production. Showtime is 7:30 and 9:30 p.m. There will be a Susato Concert at the Chapel at Bishop's College School at 8 p.m. This concert led by John Pille features medieval and renaissance music played on ancient instruments, such as the Garklein, Cornett, Cornamuse, large bore recorders and Krummhorn, playing such ancient music as the estampie, ductia, pavane, almand, bransle and ronde.

FRIDAY, April 30: At the Carrefour de l'Estrie's Cinema II starting today: "The Man Who Would Be King" starring Sean Connery, Michael Caine and Christopher Plummer. At the University of Sherbrooke's Maurice O'Bready Hall, Cinemafeus (see Thursday). Opening the Derby Port Drive-In in Derby, Vermont will be the film, "Brannigan", starring John Wayne. Friday night is Chevrolet Night. The driver of every Chevrolet will be admitted free.

SATURDAY, May 1: At the Carrefour de l'Estrie's Cinema II (see Friday). At the Derby Port Drive-In Theatre (see Friday). At the Norton Drive-In Theatre in Norton, Vermont "French Connection II" stars Gene Hackman and Fernando Rey. At the University of Sherbrooke in the Maurice O'Bready Hall, the Neil Simon hit play, "Le Dernier Des Don Juan" a French-language adaptation stars Yvon Dufour and Marjolaine Hebert.

SUNDAY, May 2: At the Carrefour de l'Estrie's Cinema II (see Friday). At the Derby Port Drive-In Theatre in Derby Vermont, a family film entitled "The Hills of Home" stars Lassie, Tom Drake, Edmund Gwenn and Janet Leigh. At the Norton Drive-In Theatre in Norton, Vermont (see Saturday). At the University of Sherbrooke's Maurice O'Bready Hall, the Glenn Miller Orchestra under the direction of Jimmy Henderson presents a concert.

MONDAY, May 3: At the Carrefour de l'Estrie's Cinema II (see Friday). At the Derby-Port Drive-In Theatre in Derby, Vermont the film "Aloha Bobby and Rose" will be shown.

TUESDAY, May 4: At the Carrefour de l'Estrie's Cinema II (see Friday). At the Derby-Port Drive-In Theatre (see Monday).

FOR ART LOVERS: At the University of Sherbrooke Art Gallery a display of engravings by Albert Dumouchel ends Friday. In the Pavilion Center Hall just outside the Art Gallery a display of computer art will be shown until the end of May. Starting Monday there will be a showing of work by Quebec photographers.

BRIEFLET

SHERBROOKE

The Carry-On Club will hold their Spring Tea and Sale on Thursday May 6th at 3 to 6 p.m. at St. Peter's Church Hall. Everyone welcome.

CAMPAIGN COUNTDOWN — Reporting results of calls made on behalf of the YM-YWCA for the capital fund campaign are from left to right: Leon Beaudry, Lorenzo Dube and Hubert Latendresse. The campaign for funds for a new swimming pool will run to May 15th, 1976.

Y campaign continues to May 14

SHERBROOKE — At the third report meeting of the Big Gift Division in the current capital fund drive, David Belton, YM-YWCA President, said. "The success of the current campaign hangs on making the case that a new swimming pool makes sense in light of other pools in Sherbrooke."

Mr. Belton explained that the original decision to build a pool as opposed to building a new gym first, was based on the experience of other Y's both in Canada and in the States that a new pool would have a special appeal to boys, girls, and their parents.

Classes are small and expert instructors make learning to swim fun and exciting. The Y has graded skills program that moves a child forward from beginner to an advanced life saver. The Y invented drawn-proofing, a method of staying afloat for hours if need be.

Since one of the goals of the Y is to conduct programs which improve the quality of life and to improve family relationships, the new pool will provide an exceptional opportunity for the family to swim and play together.

Mr. Belton went on to state that the pool is the first step in a complete modernization plan and that the Y considers the building as only a tool to develop Christian character and good citizenship.

The 44-year-old structure is completely inadequate for modern programs for youth and adults, according to Belton.

Jacques Lemieux and Dean Bishop are co-general chairmen of the overall campaign for funds. Dean Bishop commented, "Providing therapy for mind and body, the Y has long been a leader in bridging the gaps between people which are often caused by age, language or culture. The YM-YWCA stands as a living monument to the idea that citizens, working together, can build and continue to support a building that brings out the best in everyone.

"True, the Y invented basketball, volleyball and developed the idea of learning in small groups, but the work done through teaching swimming skills stands out as the Y's most important contribution.

"In Sherbrooke, there are two outstanding reasons for keeping the Y strong. One, financial support of this venture will demonstrate an adult concern for youth. Secondly, this organization can do much to improve the understanding between people in a dual cultural environment."

The campaign will continue to May 14th and the campaign leaders have expressed the hope that citizens will make contributions to this important venture even if the workers are not able to make a personal call.

Federation to protect waterways

MONTREAL — The Federation of Associations for the Environmental Protection of Lakes is holding its first general conference on Saturday and Sunday, May 1 and 2, in the Salon Maricourt of the Holiday Inn, Longueuil.

The federation now numbers 285 member lake associations from across the province which have joined together with the common purpose of protecting the natural environment of Quebec lakes and waterways.

During the weekend conference, which is open to the public, environmental specialists will be discussing not only the many pressing problems involved in protecting the lake environment, but also the measures that citizens and governments can take to solve them.

For instance, water pollution is now widely recognized as a danger. But less understood is how land-fill, land-clearing and overdevelopment of lake shores can seriously affect, and sometimes destroy, the lakes' biological life.

Conference topics will cover anti-pollution methods, land-fill effects, country zoning, shoreline management, reforestation and citizen-government cooperation in lake protection programmes, how to repair damages and how to prevent them.

The basic aim of the federation — and the purpose of the conference — is to encourage a greater understanding of the nature of lakes and to impress upon citizens and governments alike that unless we learn how to "work with nature", we're going to destroy our countryside.

RIBBON-CUTTING CEREMONY — Sherbrooke's latest industry, "Amiante of Sherbrooke Limited", cut the ribbon to start production at a ceremony at its new plant in the industrial park last week. The new asbestos textile mill will be among the most modern and safe mills presently operating. The mill meets government health standards, thus not endangering the 70 people who will be operating the modern machinery when the plant reaches full production. Left to right above are Sherbrooke Mayor Jacques O'Bready, Bob Pilmer, President, GarLoc Industries of Canada, B.H. Cook, Chairman of the Board, Garloc Industries, Sherbrooke industrial commissioner Alex Baptist, and Irenee Pelletier, MP for Sherbrooke County.

Global education workshop planned

STANSTEAD (IH) — Stanstead College facilities have been rented for three days for the Global Education Workshop and reservations are now being received by Duncan Graham in Stanstead.

The workshop is held annually and this year will start the evening of Tuesday, June 22 with registration and introductory remarks.

The three days will include a full agenda with speakers, discussions and social activities. Topics include "Human Values and Women's Rights presented by Betty Reardon." Theodore Gochenour, Director, Division of Programs from Brattleboro, Vt., will speak on Experiment in International Living.

"Language and Human Rights" will be directed by Paul Duncan, Head of the French department at Stanstead College. Dr. Paul de Gruchy, of the Humanities Department, Champlain College, Lennoxville, will present "Futuristics", philosophical questions which face students in an age of rapid technological change. Duncan Graham, Humanities Department, Stanstead College, will introduce "Planetary Georgraphy in the Social Studies."

The full program will include film and audio-visual presentations to make it all a worthwhile stay in June in Stanstead.

Long-time resident dies

KNOWLTON (KT) — A long time Knowlton resident, Mrs. Luther (Belle) Pibus, died Saturday, April 24. Mrs. Pibus had been a patient at Brome Missisquoi Perkins Hospital at Cowansville six weeks and was most happy when able to return home two weeks ago to the residence of Mrs. Shirley Finlayson where she died early Saturday after a few hours of illness.

She would have observed her 94th birthday on May 22nd. She will be mourned by many friends and former associates of the St. Paul's Church organizations. The funeral was at St. Paul's Church, Monday afternoon, April 26 at 2 p.m.

Lockout at company

DRUMMONDVILLE (SB) — The Celanese Company of Drummondville, presently involved in contract talks with its union, organized a lockout Monday to stress their position.

The union reported yesterday after the lockout had been announced that they didn't understand the company's move and that they had presented to them their counter-proposal. The union negotiations committee is trying to define clearly the possibilities of a negotiated agreement.

The union has declined to strike, because of the feeling that a strike would not hasten an agreement and would only prolong negotiations.

Some 1,500 workers are involved in the dispute.

For over a year now the union representing the Celanese workers has been negotiating a new contract for salary and working conditions.

Waterloo council

To support summer festival

WATERLOO (BS) — Waterloo town council agreed at its April meeting to again support a summer festival during the week of June 21 by granting $1,000 towards the organization of the event.

The festival is organized by a recreation group headed by Ronald Gravel. Activities will be centered in the Waterloo arena.

BUDGET

March accounts totalling $29,874.56 were approved by council. The 1975 municipal budget has been presented to the Municipal Housing Corporation which has already approved the figures. A $85,643 deficit was recorded, with expenses totalling $193,087 and revenues, $107,444.

FIRE TRUCK

Council agreed to pay the first balance of $14,723 for the $22,404 new fire truck purchased by the town recently.

NEW CLUB

Permission was given to form a new recreation club named Quebec Trail Riders Club (Club des Randonnees Hippiques du Quebec). Address of the headquarters will be 113 St. Joseph St., Waterloo.

Request to form such a club came from: Camille Breton, president, of Granby; Andre Piette, vice-president, of Adamsville; Roger Giard, treasurer, of Granby, Claire Rouillard, secretary, of East Farnham, Leo-Paul Leclerc, of Waterloo, Maurice Dupre of Granby; Real Larcochelle of Adamsville; Gordon Goul, of St. Paul d'Abbotsford; Roger Catudal of Valcourt, Francois Boulais of Marieville; Marcel Benoit of Marieville; Bernard Cote, of St. Liboire, Gerald Page of Brome; Normand Plouffe of Magog; Marcel Dubois of Waterloo; Raymond Rouillard of East Farnham, and Guy Mercier of St. Jean Baptiste.

ROBINSON PARK

Council agreed to grant a 15 to 20 feet piece of land to a neighbouring property owner, due to the fact that the town park extends that same amount on one part of his property.

DERAGON STREET

Municipal council wil request permission of the ministry of urban affairs to set the following rates for various town services effective Mar. 1, 1976; $3.00 for an accident report; $2 for any type of town certificate; 25 cents for a photocopy page; $2.50 for typed or manuscript page; 50 cents for a town map; seven cents per line for a copy of the town evaluation role; 75 cents a page for copies of by-laws; $7.50 for the financial statement; and one cent per name for lists of residents.

RECREATION

Council decided to send the director of recreation to the May 20-23 congress at Granby of the Association of Quebec Recreation Workers.

ROADWORK

Tenders will be called for roadwork on Des Erables Street to Taylor St., estimated to cost $146,400. They will be received until Fri., April 30 at 4 p.m. for the construction of water and sewage pipes for about 1,500 feet on des Erables St.

TRUCK

Council will offer for sale an unclaimed Dodge truck which has been in the municipal garage parking lot since 1970.

REPAIR PERMIT

A repair permit granted Mrs. Rachel Dagenais last October for renovations to 21, 23 and 25 Lewis Street have not been undertaken. Council, therefore, is revoking the permit for the house which is in very bad repair and will notify Mrs. Dagenais that it must be demolished.

VACANT LOT

The owner of the vacant lot at the corner of Clark and Courville Streets will be advised that debris there must be cleaned up since it is creating a fire hazard. If the clean-up operation is not undertaken, the town will do so at the owner's expense.

COOKSHIRE

Mrs. E.S. Heatherington

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Standish of Ottawa, were weekend guests of Mrs. A.W. Standish.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Allan of Leeds were supper guests of Mrs. R. C. Muir recently.

Consumer Chronicle

By GUY DESROSIERS
(Department of Consumer and Corporate Affairs)

To keep food costs down, consumers need to take action. Here are some positive ways you can counter-attack on the price front:

— If you think an item is overpriced, don 't buy it if there is a reasonable alternative.

— Be on the lookout for bargains such as loss leaders or specials and read the advertisements carefully.

— If you can do it, avoid too many convenience foods such as frozen dinners or fruits and vegetables, casserole mixes or ready-made desserts. They have a place but the convenience costs money.

— Cultivate careful shopping habits by comparing prices and making use of unit pricing to get the best buys.

— Buy items in bulk if you can; generally (but not a-always) larger sizes and larger quantities can save you money in the long run.

— Plan your shopping carefully and use a list. Impulse buying may be fun but it is hard on the pocketbook.

— Experiment with different types of food and don't feel bound to serve high-priced foods just because you are used to them.

— Make a point to buy fruits and vegetables which are in season. Out-of-season foods may be a taste sensation but they are usually expensive.

— Gourmet cooking doesn't always call for expensive or rare ingredients. A mixture of herbs and imagination can serve as a base for some good grub.

— Check carefully the quality and prices of private label merchandise versus nationally-advertised brands. There may be some bargains to be found.

— Don't be prejudiced about the extremities of a carcass, or the innards either. The higher you go on the torso the prices will be even more so.

— Don't let husbands loose among all the fancy and exotic foods. Their little tidbits may wreck the budget.

Berlinger ante portas

The next Italian election will probably be held on June 13 or June 20. Whatever the date, the public opinion polls have already established that the combined Socialist-Communist parties will poll well over one half of all votes, thus emerging with an absolute majority. Strangely enough, this is something the Communists do not want. As Luigi Barzini wrote in a prophetic article published in Encounter of July, 1969: "What a spectacle for the dialectic philosopher-Marxist being carried forward by their locomotive of History and worrying whether to stay on or get off."

The bugaboo that today haunts the Italian Communists is the Allende precedent. This is why the Communists insist on a broad coalition that would include the Christian Democrats, a coalition that would spare the Communists the fate of the Chilean Marxists. Easy does it. Yes, but easy does what? What are the long-term goals of this reformed Communist congregation? There has been no specific answer to this vital question, one that affects the Italians, all of Western Europe - West Germany's Chancellor Helmut Schmidt minced no words about the danger of a Communist participation within a NATO government - and North America. Whatever Enrico Berlinguer, the leader of the Italian Communist party, may say his entry into the Rome cabinet would drastically alter the balance of power in the Mediterranean and, soon after, on the Central Front. It is even a problem for Yugoslavia, and indeed Mr. Berlinguer recently visited Belgrade to mend his fences with Marshal Tito. He reassured the marshal that Italian Communists would insist Italy remain in NATO since neither they nor Marshal Tito want to upset the regional balance of power.

This, however, is mere whistling in the dark. What is to happen to this balance after Marshal Tito's death? As Peter Nichols, The Times of London correspondent in Rome and the author of a penetraing book on Italy, writes in the current issue of Foreign Affairs, in such an event a powerful Soviet squadron in the Mediterranean would be coming nearer to Italy just as the Italian Communists were trying to put more space between themselves and the Soviet Union.

Whether or not Mr. Berlinguer wants all this distance from Moscow is a moot question, and some of Mr. Nichols' despatches from Rome tend to lead to opposite conclusions. As already mentioned, we do not know what is the Communist program for Italy. Mr. Berlinguer no longer speaks of the dictatorship of the proletariat, but there has been no party congress to endorse any new program. The Communist goal has always been the nationalization of all means of production, trade and agriculture. Is this still the program? And if so, how is private enterprise to be eliminated without the employment of a powerful secret police - particularly in a country as individualistic as is Italy? In 1968 a Prague Communist told a British reporter that one cannot have socialism without terror, and in the end only the terror remains. Nor can one have state control without censorship, and the omens are anything but favorable.

VOTERS ENTHRALLED BY HIS CANDOR

Brown is loved for his doubts

SACRAMENTO, Calif. — (NEA) — A metropolitan newspaper publisher was asked at a public gathering about the governor of California. He answered simply, "The man is nuts."

The governor's father, who finds his son's politics puzzling, has to wait his turn to see him.

Frank McCulloch, a discerning Sacramento editor, described him as "the new kid in the fifth grade spoiling for a fight." He is also called humorless, cold, arrogant.

He is a 37-year-old bachelor with monastic habits who spent three and a half reclusive years in a Jesuit seminary. He is also into Eastern religions. Among his political idols is Ho Chi Minh.

He shunned a $1.4 million new governor's mansion to live in a small, spare apartment. He eats junk food. He also has a scenic home in the hills above Los Angeles and has been seen with exotic actresses in posh restaurants.

He works until 2 a.m. sometimes and makes his staff do the same. He has also strolled into his office in the State Capitol at noon.

The sign at the west entrance of the old domed structure reads: "The state architect has determined that this building is structurally unsafe. Persons entering this building do so at their own risk."

The Governor's Office is in the new, safe East wing on the other side of the cupola. Young people come in off the street to the receptionist's desk and ask to see the governor. They might get lucky if he saunters by.

"You never know," said Dave Jensen, a press aide "who he might drag in on one of his walks to the office."

On this day, Jerry Brown's face poked through the doorway to Jensen's room, as casually as peering over a neighbor's backyard fence. He just wanted to say that he was available for talking.

He didn't send any emissary. All you had to do was walk across the hall, into the Office of the Governor.

The white fringe on the sideburns, the aquiline nose, the heavy, pursed eyebrows, the slim, almost slight figure identified him quickly. He is, in his own way, the most fascinating politician in America.

In a study of Gov. Edmund G. Brown, Jr., it is important to stress that he is a politician. There is a cultish insistence that Jerry Brown — ascetic, zen Buddhist, loner — is nonpolitical, and that portrait, at a time when politicians are suspect, helps account for his amazing approval by the people of the state after more than one year in office.

(The popular figure is 84 per cent approval by Californians. Mervin Field of the California Poll notes that it actually breaks down to 50 per cent who rated his performance as good, 34 per cent who assessed him fair. Seven per cent rated him poor, with 9 per cent voicing no opinion. That low figure for "poor" was phenomenal. For comparison, predecessor Ronald Reagan, at his best in 1968, registered 42 per cent good, 36 per cent fair, 15 per cent poor, 7 per cent no opinion.)

"Politician" is tricky nomenclature. A basic facet of its meaning is perpetuation of self; otherwise, one ceases to be a politician. And Jerry Brown is out there to remain a public figure.

His recent announcement that he would be a favorite son candidate — or as he put it, "native" son — in the Democratic race for presidential nominees reinforces his commitment to political life.

I saw him operating one night at a convention of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, where he made all the moves that were supposed to be anathema to the private Jerry Brown. It was a $100-a-plate dinner at the St. Francis Hotel in San Francisco. He came into the grand ballroom at 7:55 p.m., with everybody seated, and he went around the room clockwise, trailed by a Sun Gun and a Boom Mike and assorted cameras filming segments later used on the "60 Minutes" show over CBS. He stopped at each table for small talk and took 15 minutes to get to the dais.

There he made a 15-minute speech — the governor is not long-winded — and concluded: "I see tremendous vitality of people ready to try new ideas. What we lack is inspiration and leadership... We must save a ship that's not moving through the water."

Then he exited, trailed by lights and mikes, stopping for an impromptu press conference on Post Street (at exactly the same spot where a bullet missed President Ford), before climbing into his light blue Plymouth Satellite state car — and another political appearance that night.

POLITICAL PRESSURE

Ford drops anti-trust bill

WASHINGTON -- President Ford dropped his support of legislation to curb corporate mergers after his most prominent campaign fundraiser complained about the bill to top White House and Treasury officials.

The decision to scuttle the consumer measure was reached at a secret White House meeting after fundraiser Bernard Lasker intervened. Lasker, an investment banker and former head of the New York Stock Exchange, has been a key member of Ford's executive campaign finance committee since November.

The amendment which so infuriated Lasker would have given the government a better chance to block major corporate mergers which often strangle competition and run up consumer prices.

But the legislation could also cost the client's of Lasker's internationally known investment firm hundreds of millions of dollars.

So, a few weeks ago Lasker began calling his friends in Washington to object to the anti-trust bill as "inflexible." He spoke with Treasury and White House officials, including the President's top economic aide, William Seidman.

Almost immediately, the matter was brought up at a closed meeting of the White House's powerful economic board. There, the Treasury officials whittled away at the arguments of the Justice Department's anti-trust chief Thomas Kauper. Finally, the Lasker view prevailed.

To avoid making Kauper publicly back down, the White House had his boss, Deputy Attorney General Harold Tyler, convey the bad news to Senate Anti-Trust Chairman Philip Hart, D-Mich.

"The Administration," wrote Tyler, "does not support enactment of the pre-merger stay provision." The letter all but sounded the death knell for the bill because of the implicit threat of veto.

Seidman, who acted as a fair-minded

Jack Anderson's Washington Merry-Go-Round

mediator in the matter, confirmed he had spoken to the powerful fundraiser about the provision. Treasury officials also conceded they spoke with Lasker. Lasker did not return our call.

Footnote: President Ford also flip-flopped on a previous anti-trust measure. After pressure from business groups, Ford reversed himself on a bill to allow states to file anti-trust suits on behalf of their consumers.

Booze and Bombs: High-ranking officers of the Navy's Flagship carrier Saratoga, on at least one occasion, used the ship's nuclear storage spaces to smuggle whisky and furniture past U.S. customs.

The gold-braid smugglers correctly guessed that the customs inspectors, lacking nuclear clearance, wouldn't try to check the nuclear areas for contraband.

For more than two years, the Saratoga crew, disciplined to protect nuclear secrets, has been even more tight-lipped about the booze that was stashed in the bomb spaces. The secret might never have leaked out if the top brass hadn't revoked the liberty privileges of scores of enlisted men for drunkeness.

The indignant sailors got in touch with us to complain that their alcoholic trespasses were trivial compared to the escapades of certain top officers, including an admiral who turned out to be the secret owner of some confiscated spirits.

We have carefully verified the complaints from eyewitnesses and Navy files. Here are the fascinating facts:

Just before the Saratoga pulled out of the Tonkin Gulf in winter 1973, some Navy bigwigs loaded crates of whisky into a nuclear storage room on the third deck below the hangar bay. Some rattan furniture from the Philippines was also hidden in the secret nuclear area, according to our sources. The contraband, safe in its nuclear hiding place, was sneaked into the United States, duty free. The commanding officer of the Saratoga at that time was Capt. James R. Sanderson.

Last year, some Filipino stewards were also caught smuggling a load of booze aboard the Saratoga off the shores of Rota, Spain.

An alert Master at Arms spotted the stewards in the act of lugging the heavy crates and confiscated the bootleg liquor. He described the incident, in accordance with Navy regulations, in an investigative report.

But the report was quietly discarded after Rear Adm. Forrest Petersen angrily told Saratoga officers the booze belonged to him. In fact, he ordered the Saratoga's executive officer to personally return the liquor to the admiral's spacious cabin.

Petersen, incidentally, likes sports almost as much as booze. For when the Saratoga anchored just off Casablanca during that same tour, he loaded his golf clubs into one of the carrier's helicopters for a game with the Pasha of Mohammedea. Naturally, this didn't go over very well with the enlisted men, who were left behind to swab the decks.

Footnote: Sanderson denied any knowledge of efforts to avoid the payment of legitimate import duties on furniture or liquor. He says he declared about $2,800 worth of goods to customs inspectors. Petersen said the stewards were bringing him only "two or three bottles of cooking sherry." He added that his helicopter trip to the golf course in Casablanca was for an official function.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Teacher fasts after Bill 23

Editor,
Sherbrooke Record

Bill 23 has suspended rights guaranteed to me by the Labour Code and some have even argued that it interferes with my right to free speech. But unlike most teachers I have come to feel that Bill 23 might be a good thing.

Through advertising, press releases and stands taken at the bargaining table the Government has made it clear to me that I (and all other teachers in Quebec) am asking for too much. In the light of my situation I found it impossible to understand this point of view (in fact, I still find it impossible).

You see, for the last two years teachers in my school have been cautioned against using too much paper (we keep hearing rumors of a paper shortage).) Similarly chalk is a scarce commodity-it is rationed.

Requests for more specialists and guidance counselors have been ignored. And this coming year (1976-77) high school libraries are going to be working with a budget of one dollar per student ($1 - student). This dollar is to replace lost and worn books and to purchase new ones.

This might seem like a good sum of money until the cost of books is taken into account: the average hard-cover book costs $8.00, reference books (dictionaries, encyclopedeas, atlases) cost between $20.00 and $50.00 per copy. All of this makes me feel like a carpenter who, given a hammer, a saw and a pound of nails is told to build a barn.

I also find it hard to understand that my contribution to society should be judged to be so much less in Quebec than in Ontario or Nova Scotia. I earn but a fraction ($\frac{1}{2}$ and $\frac{5}{8}$ respectively) of what teachers in those provinces earn.

But the purpose of this letter is not to complain for I fear the law. (I belong to ETAT, one of the two unions that chose not to strike against Bill 23.) No, I don't want to complain at all. The government in a democratic country always holds the interests of the majority at heart and if I cannot agree with government policy, the fault lies with me. It is in an effort to make myself see the error of my ways, in an effort to convince myself that I do not deserve large supplies of paper and chalk, or specialists, or good reference books or a fair salary that I am undertaking a fast. Yes, I am going to fast. Fasting, I hope, will exorcise my base materialistic attitudes. Perhaps after several days without food I will be glad to accept the working conditions the Government is offering.

And, without suggesting anything, perhaps other teachers discontent with their attitude towards the Government might also consider the implications of a fast.

CIVIC LEADERS CHARGED

SEPT-ILES, Que. (CP) — Four members of Sept-Iles city council pleaded not guilty Monday to a total of 57 charges of fraud, attempted fraud, forgery and use of false documents.

Judge Yvon Mercier of sessions court set preliminary hearing for May 18.

Accused are Alban Blanchard, Claude Saint-Pierre, Ghislain Fournier and Arthur Levesque.

The charges, laid following an investigation by a special squad of the Quebec Provincial Police, are in connection with the expense account submitted by the councillors on their return from a meeting of the Quebec Union of Municipalities last October in Quebec City.

Blanchard faces 16 charges of fraud, 16 of use of false documents and 11 of forgery.

Saint-Pierre faces four fraud charges, four concerning use of false documents and four of forgery.

Levesque is charged with fraud, while Fournier faces a charge of attempted fraud.

Sept Iles, which has a population of 25,000, is 400 miles northeast of Quebec City.

Summer '76 look is wearable, contemporary

STRIPED SKIRT by FOUKS and immaculate blazer by CALVIN KLEIN is modelled during a recent Eaton's Fashion Show.

The superb French, Italian and American imports shown during Eaton's Fashion Show advertise the fact that this summer's "look" is eminently wearable, comfortable, young and contemporary and will do no less than please everyone to the nth degree.

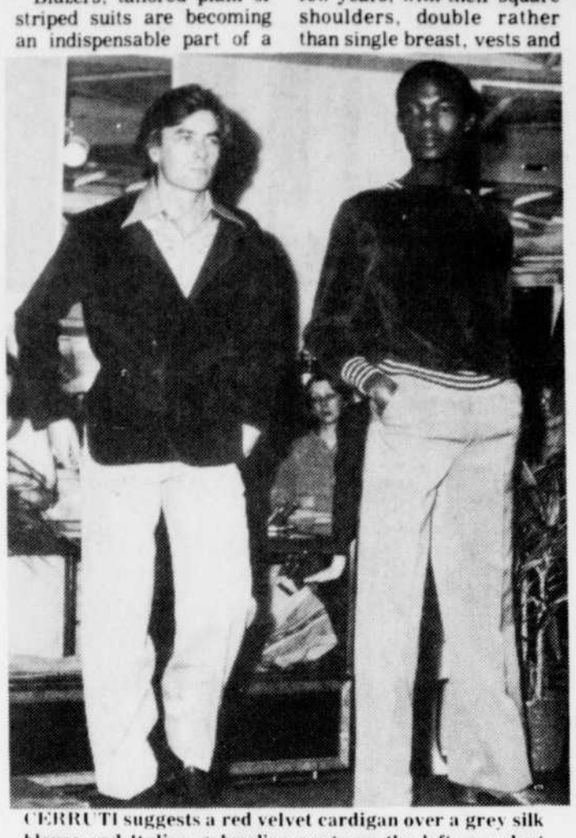

There is no doubt that milady's basic and otherwise wardrobe has been beautifully put together by 15 or so famous designers, including Jap Kenzo and Roberto Cavelli. Featured were French creations labelled Hechter, Rech or St-Laurent, American fashions signed Stephen Burrows or Calvin Klein and the Italian look of Sant'Angelo.

ARTFUL TOUCHES

The very latest can be associated with the famous Kenzo creations, so unique, they may be copied but still remain inimitable, and with Cavelli's masterpieces... Two couturiers definitely influenced by Oriental, Balkan and Indian cultures. "Homespun" fashions have become characteristic of Cavelli. Note his beautifully embroidered or painted designs on plain jeans fabrics, his delicately striped or finely patterned designs in various shades of pink that feature thread trimming as a finishing touch.

FASHION "MUSTS"

Blazers, tailored plain or striped suits are becoming an indispensable part of a wardrobe. It can be said that they give a more masculine appearance than in the past few years, with their square shoulders, double rather than single breast, vests and jackets... all signed Georges Rech, Fouks or Calvin Klein.

CERRUTI suggests a red velvet cardigan over a grey silk blouse and Italian gabardine pants on the left; a velvet frieze green pullover with a cowl neck on the right.

The strapless tops and low-cut T-shirts worn under blazers are seen everywhere this year. Multi-colour and multi-fabric jump-suits, Bermudas and tunics were put to the fore, with Mic Mac, Stephen Burrows and Calvin Klein caftans, as well as Daniel Hechter and Dejac raincoats. Vertical, horizontal and diagonal stripes of every width and colour and enchanting flowery designs were displayed time and time again.

Elegance and feminity were the keynote in the navy blues, whites, reds, light browns, beiges and even pale greys featured repeatedly in this Import Show.

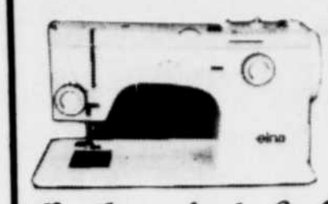

TO BE PRECISE

Judging from these enchanting fashions, skirts will be narrower this Summer, especially when worn with blazers or "chemisiers"; pants will remain straight with perhaps a tendency to narrow down at the heel; high-heeled shoes tied with narrow straps will be extremely popular, as well as Giusti's various styles of Italian sandals, some with straps criss-crossed around the calf; enormous straw bags or day-time purses, in fine supple leather and remindful of large envelopes, will complete the picture.

EVENING SPARKLE

A woman who is truly a woman, has a desire to be admired and to feel utterly feminine. What could be more conducive to fulfilling this legitimate longing than evening wear by Trell, Sant'Angelo, Ulrique or Complice. The greatest in the French, Italian or American pret-a-porter will gratify her every wish. These are to be found as of now in large numbers in Eaton's boutiques.

A souffle to warm the heart

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

A cold souffle presented in a handsome souffle dish or casserole will bring the cook only praise. Such a souffle, unlike a hot counterpart, is held firm by a gelatin base. Therefore, the finished dish is easier on the cook's nerves since it will not fall in the middle. Hot souffles tend to fall when there is too much time between removing them from the oven and serving. Since chocolate fanciers appear to have the fastest spoons in the country, here is a very special chocolate souffle to meet their challenge.

CHOCOLATE SOUFFLE

- 2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
- 2 cups milk
- 1 cup sugar, divided
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 4 eggs, separated
- 1 12-ounce package or 2 six-ounce packages (2 cups) semi-sweet chocolate pieces
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 2 cups heavy cream, whipped

Sprinkle gelatin over milk in saucepan to soften. Add one-half cup sugar, salt and egg yolks. Mix well. Add chocolate pieces. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until gelatin is dissolved and chocolate melted, 6 to 8 minutes. Remove from heat.

Beat with rotary beater until chocolate is blended. Stir in vanilla. Chill, stirring occasionally, until mixture mounds slightly when dropped from spoon (about 20 minutes in refrigerator). Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Gradually add remaining one-half cup sugar and beat until very stiff. Fold into chocolate mixture. Fold in whipped cream. Turn into 2-quart souffle dish or casserole with two-inch collar*. Chill until firm. Garnish with additional whipped cream. Makes 12 servings.

*To make collar, fold foil into four thicknesses three inches wide and long enough to go around souffle dish with generous overlap. Attach to dish with sealing tape, leaving one inch of the foil around dish to make collar two inches high. Carefully remove foil collar to serve.

COLD CHOCOLATE souffle looks as rich as it tastes.

Listing leftovers stops food waste

By Polly Cramer

Inflation Fighter

DEAR POLLY — I keep thinking of all the starving people in the world as I throw away leftover food. Much of it was put in plastic containers and shoved to the back of the refrigerator only to be forgotten. I usually discovered it two or three weeks later when it was too late, and this made me sick. That is why I now attach a piece of paper to my refrigerator with a decorative magnet and label it LEFTOVERS. Each time I wrap any leftover food I list it and date it. Now when planning dinner I first check my list before opening anything new. — MARGIE.

DEAR POLLY — I have a great way to save on drawer and shelf lining. I have several sets of vinyl plastic place mats, so I decided to use the extra ones in the bottom of my kitchen drawers. They are easy to clean, stay put because of the foam rubber backing and are attractive and more durable than paper lining. —MRS. E.M.

DEAR POLLY — I use a lot of grated orange peel for cakes, sweet rolls, etc. and save quite a bit by grating my own. Before using an orange I wash it and grate the skin thinly, spread it on a plate to dry and then store in a covered container ready to use. The flavor is stronger than what I used to buy. —SOPHIE.

DEAR POLLY — Blouses are so expensive today that many of us have to think twice before buying one. While cleaning out my closet I found three tailored shifts that were on the short side so I cut off the tops to make blouses. The cut off pieces were used to make skirts for grand-daughters. They have elastic waisbands in their new skirts. Quite a few pennies were saved by doing this. —MARGE.

DEAR POLLY — My wife is an invalid and I am retired, so I have done all our household shopping for five years. I wonder how many shoppers are aware of the price spread on food necessities at different food stores. I have checked and compared prices at different stores and find differences from five to fifteen cents on staple items. It behooves one to beware of being taken to the cleaners on staples. It pays to shop around and compare prices. This is the only realistic way to get the most for your shopping dollar.

Also approach with caution those check-out counters with the new computer system. One day my bill was $46 which seemed terribly high. When I arrived home I checked the sales slip against the items bought and found I was charged with one 37 cent item 38 times, making a mistake of $14.06, and I had not even purchased an item at that price. I returned to the store and showed the manager who repaid the over charge. But we have to be on our guard at all times and stop, look and compare. —WILLIAM D.

Seafood sans seasonal limit

The American taste for and use of fish and seafoods for years could have been diagrammed as an upside down funnel — with the spout of the funnel generally in mid-America. A certain amount of fresh water fish caught locally and some seasonal use of fresh shrimp and oysters were the norm. Those living on the coastal waters grew up with a wider, year-round availability to seafoods. However, better techniques for shipping the highly fragile crab, lobster, oysters or shrimps and a wider variety of salt water fish mean more sampling of these appealing, high protein items in daily dishes.

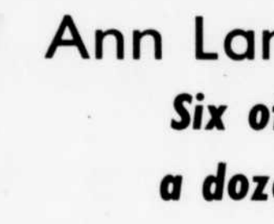

In many instances, a frozen or canned seafood product fulfills the culinary needs of home cooks throughout the country. A perfect example is the Alaska King crab, that behemoth of the crab family which provides shoppers with a hearty meat for a variety of hot and cold dishes.

CRAB CORN CRUNCH

- 1 (10 ounces) package frozen peas
- 1 (7-½ ounces) can Alaska King crab or 1 (6 ounces) package frozen Alaska King crab
- 1 (10-½ ounces) can mushroom soup
- 1/2 cup milk
- 3 cups corn chips
- 1/2 lemon, sliced very thin

Cook peas according to package directions until almost tender; drain. Drain and slice canned crab or defrost, drain and slice frozen crab. Combine soup and milk. Add peas and crab. Spread 2 cups corn chips over bottom of one and one-half quart baking dish. Spoon half the crab mixture over chips. Layer with lemon slices. Spoon remaining crab mixture over lemon. Crush remaining cup of corn chips and sprinkle over top. Bake in 350-degree oven for 30 minutes. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

IF ACCIDENT STRIKES AND YOU CAN'T TALK
MEDIC ALERT

Ann Landers says:

Six of one, half a dozen of other

Dear Ann Landers: For years I've been too embarrassed to ask other parents. Will you please do it for me?

We had a large family. Fifty per cent of the children to whom we gave college educations have cut us out of their lives completely. They are no longer speaking to us.

Is this normal? How many children who have not had college educations still love their parents? While I'm sure there are no accurate statistics would you please express your personal opinion? — Outside Looking In

Dear Out: Your letter suggests that you believe there is some correlation between a college education and a child's love for his parents — the conclusion being that the better educated the child, the less likely he is to love his mother and father.

I don't agree. My guess is that it's six of one and a half dozen of the other. If anyone out there has evidence to the contrary please let me know.

Dear Ann: I've been keeping a scrapbook of your best columns for several years. Some are hilarious — others deal with life's problems that have hit very close to home. Many are in support of my position on teen-age behavior. You know when Ann Landers says it, the kids pay attention because they think she is "cool."

Why don't you put out a book that contains a collection of your favorite columns? I'd love to have such a book and I'll bet a good many of your readers would, too. Please consider it, Ann. — An Admirer In Seattle

Dear Admirer: The book you want went on sale last week in bookstores and airports all over the world — wherever paperbacks are sold. It is called, "Ann Landers Speaks Out" — price $1.50 (published by Fawcett).

It's more than a collection of columns. I've written an essay for each chapter and added bits and pieces of my personal philosophy. Thanks for providing me with the perfect opportunity to plug my own book — for a change.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I have been married for 28 years. In all that time we have been alone exactly six months. We've had his parents, his sister, our married children, nieces and nephews or a grandchild with us. Now both my parents have moved in and they are driving me crazy.

My mother and dad pay us $150 a month for room and board. (The food they eat and the medicine they need costs at least that much.) My mother fights with the neighbors and insults everyone who comes to the house.

I can't ask them to move because Mom isn't able to handle Dad alone. He has had several strokes and she refuses to put him in a nursing home.

My husband goes directly to a bar after work to "kill a few hours." I'm a nervous wreck. What should I do? — Going Out Of My Mind

Dear Friend: I believe in the commandment "Honor thy father and thy mother," but this doesn't mean you should let them ruin your marriage and wreck your life.

Where were your parents living before they moved in with you? Their own apartment or home, I'll bet. That's where they should be now. Start to find other quarters for them at once, even if it means helping them financially. It's cheaper than a mental hospital, dear. What's more, it's time you and your husband enjoyed some privacy.

There is a big difference between cold and cool. Ann Landers shows you how to play it cool without freezing people out in her booklet, "Teen-Age Sex — Ten Ways to Cool It." Send 50 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Bulky knit has denim airs

The addition is simple. Denim plus bulky equals super-sweater. It's the perfect matchup. The result is a sweater that works over jeans and pants, T-shirts and skirts, casual sportswear of any kind.

Denim has its roots in work clothes. It answered the need for a tough, strong fabric that would stand up as the cowboy and the farmer went about their chores. Today it's the worldwide choice. City kids and suburbanites, young and middle-aged, wear the familiar washed blue of American jeans as a symbol of youth, fun and the good life.

To translate the symbol into easy-wearing reality, we've chosen Malina's Denim Look yarn — a Wear-Dated Acrilan knitting worsted. The easy-to-crochet sweater is styled like a tailored shirt with rounded tails and breast pockets. It's edged in red for contrast, at the collar, front tab, pockets and cuff.

You'll need seven 4-ounce skeins of Malina's "Denim Look" yarn, Blend 3, scraps of red worsted-weight yarn for edging, 8 military-style buttons and a Size H or I crochet hook to make this super-sweater.

For easy to follow instructions, please send 50 cents to Stitchin' Time, care of this newspaper, Radio City Station, Box 503, New York, N.Y. 10019. Ask for leaflet S446 and enclose your name, address and zip code.

TAILORED shirt sweater in Denim Look yarn makes a perfect topper for jeans, pants, skirts, other sportwear.

Executive meeting of Historical Society

COOKSHIRE — An executive meeting of the Compton County Historical and Museum Society was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lionel Hurd in Sawyerville, with seventeen present.

The president, Mrs. A.H. Banks, chaired the meeting. Following the reading of the minutes and their approval, the business arising from the minutes was discussed and acted upon.

The chairman of the program committee, Mrs. Bernard Hodge, stated that there will be a general meeting for the public, to be held on Sat., May 22nd at 8 p.m. in the Town Council Building at Eaton (across the street from the museum).

The speaker will be Mr. Lionel Hurd and his topic will be the "Railways of Compton County."

Tentative plans have been made for the June, September and October meetings.

Mr. Stokes stated that he had bought ten show cases from Mr. Hart for the museum, as he had been authorized to do.

Mrs. Lois Callan described what her committee had in mind for re-arranging the articles in the museum, now that it is in the process of being re-decorated.

The secretary stated that she had sent out two sympathy cards and one convalescent card.

Mrs. Muriel Prescott gave the treasurer's report, which showed all bills paid up to date, with a fair balance on hand.

The secretary read a large amount of correspondence, which dealt with questionnaires to be filled out, letters re membership in various societies, information wanted on historical research and projects, etc.

The society decided to take orders for the reprinted book of Channel's History to Compton County. Those wishing to procure a copy should contact Mr. Waymer Laberee.

Following adjournment, Mr. and Mr. Hurd served refreshments.

En route home, the members visited the Museum to see what renovations had been completed to date, and were very pleased with the results.

+++

Miss E. Farnsworth entertained the Bible Study group at her home.

Mrs. Stanley McVetty, Miss Esther Farnsworth, Miss Aleta Mackey, Mrs. R.B. Learned and Mrs. Heatherington attended the Quebec-Sherbrooke Presbyterial U.C.W. meeting held in Plymouth-Trinity United Church in Sherbrooke.

UCW meeting

AYER'S CLIFF — The April meeting of the U.C.W. was entertained at the home of Mrs. Ruth Clough with Mrs. Opol Smith assisting hostess on Tuesday, April 13.

The meeting was conducted by Miss Webster and opened with the U.C.W. Purpose and Prayer.

The devotions were taken by Mrs. N. Pierce who read an article entitled "Easter bells" from Decision Magazine, followed by prayer and the Lord's Prayer.

Routine business was handled and several items of correspondence was read. Mrs. de St. Croix reported that it was hoped to have a pulpit light in time for Easter and this will be dedicated later. It was decided to have a bulletin board made to be placed in the church entry. This is to be investigated further after Easter.

It was agreed to send food to a member's home to assist her.

All plans were finalized for the food sale which was held April 15, and was most successful. It was decided to have a "Bee" April 27th, to house clean the cupboards in the church kitchen. Several members volunteered to help with this.

All committees were appointed to take charge of the hot dish supper to be held May 15. The planning committee is Mrs. L. Piercy, Mrs. E. Whitcomb and Mrs. C. Mitson. It was agreed to charge $2.00 for adults, children 10 years and under, $1.00.

The quilt that has been quilted during the winter months was on display and was greatly admired. Several plans were discussed for having a "coming out" tea some time early in July to display this beautiful quilt to the public. Further plans will be made for this at the May meeting.

Five people planned to attend the U.C.W. Presbyterial meeting on April 22 in Sherbrooke.

At the close of the business session the hostesses served delicious refreshments to 17 members and a pleasant social hour was enjoyed.

Crystal Rebekah Lodge

ROCK ISLAND — The members of Crystal Rebekah Lodge No. 14, held their bi-monthly meeting in the IOOF hall, Rock Island, the evening of April 13, with 19 members present.

The Noble Grand, Sister Louise Rolleston, opened the session in form. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. The correspondence was read and tabled for further discussion.

Sister Hilda Hyatt reported on the April 9th 500 card party of eleven tables. A basket of fruit was raffled which added a nice sum to the total proceeds.

Letters were received from the Community Senior Citizens Home project. Sister Hilda Hyatt was appointed to represent the Rebekah Lodge at a meeting to be held on May 11 in Pierce Hall at Stanstead College at 8:00 p.m.

Additional raffle tickets were received from the Assembly Exchange table committee and members took books to sell.

There being no further business, the Noble Grand closed the meeting in form.

Sisters Hattie Eryou and Beryl Brosseau served refreshments and everyone enjoyed a social hour around the tea table.

St. James Guild meets

FOSTER — Mrs. Kaye Foreshaw entertained the April 8 meeting of St. James Evening Guild at her home on the Bondville Road.

Mrs. Muriel Whitehead called the meeting to order and welcomed members and visitors.

The secretary read the minutes of the March meeting and the treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Dot de Solla.

Margaret Davson, Corresponding Secretary, had sent out several cards and all present signed "Get Well" cards for Mrs. Esther Honey, who is a patient in the Sherbrooke Hospital and for Mrs. Molly Price, who is ill at her home.

The President reported on repairs which will be done on the Church Hall.

Mrs. Doreen Gibbs offered her home for a "500" card party held on Saturday evening, April 10.

The President reminded members that St. James Church will re-open for services on Sunday, May 2.

Mrs. Molly Price offered to entertain the May 13 meeting at her home.

Mrs. Doreen Gibbs won the lucky drawing.

As there was no further business the meeting was closed and the hostess served a delicious tea.

Mrs. Whitehead thanked Mrs. Foreshaw for a very enjoyable evening.

+ + + +

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Gibbs entertained at a "500" card party for the benefit of St. James Evening Guild, when cards were played at seven tables.

Prizewinners were Lawrence Marsh, Wendy Grenier, Doreen Gibbs, Kaye Foreshaw, Bern de Solla and Russell Lawrence. Barry Heatherington won the Lucky Drawing.

On behalf of those attending, Mrs. Muriel Whitehead expressed thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Gibbs for opening their home for this event.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Simcock of Oshawa, Ont. and Mr. and Mrs. Grant Bell of Verdun were calling at the Whitcher home on Sunday.

Special Services held

COOKSHIRE — During Lent, Wednesday evening services were conducted in St. Peter's Anglican Church, and special services during Holy Week.

On Good Friday evening, a celebration of Passion; on Saturday evening, a Vigil service.

On Easter Sunday there was the sung Eucharist at the 11 a.m. service, and at evensong, the benediction of the blessed sacrament.

Flowers were given by the Baker family to the glory of God, and there were also a number of potted plants and lilies used for decoration.

A sanctuary lamp was burning in memory of Mr. Cecil Maskell, and a Paschal candle was given to the glory of God by St. Peter's Ladies Guild.

The Rev. A. Fairbairn based his sermon on the text, "Why did God raise Jesus from the dead?"

+ + + +

Trinity United Church was beautifully decorated with Easter lilies given by the United Church Women, and after the service they were taken to shut-ins.

The minister, the Rev. Gordon Simons, based his message on the death and resurrection of Christ, who paid the price for the propitiation of the sins of all people.

A beautiful tapestry, depicting the Lord's Supper, was dedicated to the glory of God, by the Rev. Simons, and was given by a member of the Official Board.

The organist provided special Easter music and Mrs. Marie Nutbrown sang a solo, "Come, Ye Saints, Behold, and Wonder".

Following the dedication, a communion service was held, which was very well attended.

WI meeting

SAWYERVILLE — The April meeting of the Women's Institute was held in the school with eleven members present.

The Roll call was Bring a pot holder or pay 50 cents. Later these were judged and sold. Mabel Mackay won first prize and Idell Griffin second.

Minutes were read and approved and treasurer's report showed a satisfactory balance of $265.72 on hand.

A thank-you note was read from Idell Griffin for a plant given her while a patient in hospital.

Education - Mrs. Callan reported on a letter received from Mr. Lynn Forgrave in connection with a Diploma Farm Programme and exchange of students. He believed the students were more apt to learn more on other farms than those of their parents.

Home Economics - a paper was read on food prices.

Publicity - stated the March report had been sent to the County convenor and also to the press.

There was an error in the names of the ones who had won prizes for perfect attendance. The winners were Mrs. D. Laroche, Mrs. Alfred Robinson and Mrs. A. Nugent.

A card was signed by all to go to a member Mrs. E. Watt who was a patient in the Sherbrooke Hospital.

A letter was read from the Compton County Historical and Museum Society requesting that if anyone had any old articles, especially dishes, old wash stands etc. prior to 1900, also if anyone could give some time in helping to arrange these articles later on, it would be appreciated.

A gift that had been purchased for the P.E.I. convention was passed around for the members to view.

A motion was made to purchase a book for the Sawyerville school in memory of Mrs. Julia Hunt.

With no further business, the meeting was adjourned and a demonstration on cake decorating was given by Leah Goode. She also gave directions on how to bake an Easter Basket cake by using a large size Pizza Pan and cutting it in a certain way to form a basket for the cake to be baked in, after which it was to be decorated in a weave design. Colored pipe cleaners used for the handles and spring flowers and Easter eggs for the decoration on the top.

A delicious lunch was served by the hostesses, Mrs. Donald Laroche and Mrs. Harold Chute.

Choral pageant is held at Derby Line

DERBY LINE (IH) — The Multi Purpose Room of the Derby Elementary school, Derby Line, was recently filled to capacity for the presentation by the 530 students of the school of the choral pageant, "Our Country 'Tis of Thee" by Michael Brent Publications.

Tuesday evening, Norman Lewis, Superintendent of Schools, and Wednesday evening, Norman Lewis, co-ordinator, introduced the program. The fantastic presentation was in three parts after the Flag Salute.

The Beginning Primary, Middle Primary and Upper Primary, sang these songs between the narrated story of the History of America by "Uncle Sam" who was the school principal, David Elwood.

"Our Country 'Tis of Thee," was the opening selection. This, read Mr. Elwood, depicted Land of New England meadows, Southern cotton fields, of county fairs and ticker - tape parades, barefoot boys with fishing rods and Ladies Day at the baseball park; A land of steel, industry and invention, with a heart as big as Texas and dreams as tall as the great Northwest. The youngsters sang "There was a Man."

"Are you for Independence?" was a song by country people of liberty and freedom, words that thundered in a revolutionary sky. And Yankee Doodle America was ready to fight for them. To the roll of battle drums the armies of farmers, carpenters, wheelwrights, blacksmiths and coppersmiths rallied. In 1781 a new nation had been born in revolution. The law and order had to be established, differences settled and a representative government formed.

Then came the Constitution of America, freedom of speech and religion.

"That's What It Means to be Free" was sung about the Bill of Rights. Men like George Washington, Thomas Jefferson and Benjamin Franklin were pointed out.

In covered wagon by mule, America was then on its way to the vast unexplored west. Blazing trails across the mountains, cutting through the unbroken forests, working - singing - whoopin' and hollerin' across the entire continent.

This group left the stage to be replaced by boys and girls of the Fourth grade. With an Empty Jug and a Musical Saw was the song they sang as a group of boys and girls danced a square dance depicting Saturday night fun after days of ploughing, planting, raking, churning, weaving, spinning and sewing.

Wagons crossed the many states. The Homestead Act of 1862 did the rest. One hundred and sixty acres of free land were granted by the United States government.

The frontier had come of age; its nostalgia was never to be forgotten. Abraham Lincoln became the 16th president of the United States, a Kentucky born country lawyer.

The system of slavery was declared immoral and the students sang "Unknown Bugle Boy of Cemetery Hill." This was about the Battle at Gettysburg between the Yankees in Blue and the South in gray.

Grade 4 boys and girls left the stage and the Fifth and Sixth graders took their place. This was a period of train whistles, wheels chugging, the train had come to joining of the two great railroads, the Central Pacific from the West and the Union Pacific from the East. This was on May, 1869. At Promontory Point the last rail was laid, the last spike driven and America had its first transcontinental railroad. Cities were rising, factories were humming, industry was growing and there were skeptics. A four wheel carriage run by an engine? a contraption that flies through the air like a bird? but there was no stopping the Nation.

"The Inventors song," was sung, Progress, new people coming from everywhere, almost every country in the world to America, all becoming New Americans. Teddy Roosevelt, who set the style in politics. Booker T. Washington built schoolhouses. Susan B. Anthony fought for Women's Rights and a bright new Twentieth Century of Progress.

It was the beginning of a new interest in human rights, in new freedom and liberty at home and in far away places, the Sound of the Wireless. Dateline America 1917 and We must Make the World safe for Democracy. The song was sung "The Whole Wide World in my Home."

Armistice day, November 11, 1918, the end of World War One, the home coming and celebrations of the boys. But the war had taken too long, killed too many, cost too much, and left a weary President Woodrow Wilson.

The Roaring twenties and the song "Opus 1920" sung. These were the years of the Jazz, the Charleston dance, the flappers, Barney Google, Babe Ruth, Al Jolson, then came the Market Crash, October 1929. Homes mortgaged, all get rich quickers had to now pay the piper. The depression was the worst in the Nation's history. Ten million unemployed, bank failures, bread lines, can you spare a dime. The election of Franklin Delano Roosevelt who rolled up his sleeves and went to work.

"New Deal" the youngsters on stage sang. The start to a big recovery. Eleanor Roosevelt, the First Lady, Joe Lewis, the Heavyweight Boxing champion of the World - Irving Berlin melodies - the voice of Marion Anderson - Pearl Harbor - Guadalcanal - V for Victory - An atom bomb that could shatter the world - A united Nations that could keep it together. Then President Harry S. Truman - President Dwight D. Eisenhower - The Reverend Martin Luther King - President John F. Kennedy - a wonderful new world of space, new frontiers, new vigor, and suddenly muffled drums - tears for a fallen president.

Lyndon Baines Johnson who took the pledge of president of the United States. Richard Nixon, and the song "Finale" sung by the boys and girls, Our Country 'Tis of Thee - That's What it Means to be Free - The Unknown Bugle Boy of Cemetery Hill - The Whole Wide World in my Home Town - and America Goes On.

Ms. Judy Kirchoff, music director, was director of this historical pageant; Ms. Patricia Walsh, the pianist, Maura Dowd, played the Flute; Randy Flood, the drum; Tom Palin, the trumpet; every adult and every boy and girl in the school had a part of this production. Parents and friends assisted.

The costumes were beautiful and in keeping with the eras. Loudly sound the praises of the many hundreds of people who attended the two night performances.

Bicentennial committee makes celebration plans

DERBY LINE (IH) — The Derby Line Village Bicentennial Committee and members of the Village Improvement Society met on Wednesday evening, April 14 in the vestry of the Universalist Church, Derby Line to plan activities.

At the Village annual meeting on April 5 a sum of money was voted to the Bicentennial committee so tentative plans could become a reality. Richard Wright, the chairman, conducted the meeting Wednesday evening.

The first event will be at Baxter Park on Monday, May 31, to commemorate Memorial Day. Senator Robert T. Stafford will be the guest speaker at the outdoor service, providing the weatherman cooperates. Otherwise it will be held in St. Edward's Parish Hall.

A new flag pole has been ordered and will be set up in the Park. This will fly the Stars and Stripes flag that was presented to the Village trustees by the late Senator Winston Prouty a few years ago. At one time this flag flew from the White House in Washington. The new Bicentennial flag will be presented and raised with the flag of America.

It was decided the Memorial service should be at 4 p.m. on May 31 because of Senator Stafford's heavy schedule that day. The Sacred Heart Band from Newport will be in attendance, local clergy will be invited to participate in the service and afterwards a reception will be held.

There are several minor details to be worked out. Village Moderator Dalton Downing will look after a platform in the park for the service. Trustee Benoit Blais and Mr. Downing will arrange the reception.

Another meeting of the committee will take place the evening of May 10 when final details will be reported. Also at the May 10 meeting plans will be further discussed for a celebration to commemorate The Battle of Bennington Day, August 16.

This was discussed at the recent meeting and preliminary planning done for the event to be held Saturday, August 14 at Baxter Park. At the May 10 meeting representatives from every organization in Derby Line Village will be invited to send representatives to bring ideas and suggestions for the day long celebration.

Mrs. Trudy Stevens and Dalton Downing agreed to contact different groups regarding the meeting in the Vestry of the Universalist Church at 7:30 p.m.

Edwin Earle reported on progress to date on the park landscaping program and on the Village Bicentennial leaflet that will include a map, history and pictures.

Mr. Earle said he hopes these will be ready for distribution by Memorial Day. Although no charge will be made for them, contribution boxes will be placed with them in public places.

FIRST AID TIP

ST JOHN AMBULANCE

IF SOMEONE IS CHOKING

● Remove any obvious obstructions such as food, gum and false teeth by sweeping the finger around inside the mouth and throat ● If the casualty is an infant, hold it up by the legs and smack it smartly 3 or 4 times between the shoulders. It should dislodge any foreign body ● Give artificial respiration if necessary ● If the casualty is a child, lay it over your knee head downwards. Give it 3 or 4 slaps between the shoulders to dislodge the obstruction. Apply artificial respiration if necessary. Use the same method on an adult except make the "slaps", "sharp blows" instead.

Obituary

MRS. G. McREYNOLDS
of Maple Grove

Mrs. George McReynolds, nee Lucy Nugent, passed away in the Sherbrooke Hospital on April 2, 1976, in her 90th year.

She was born in Maple Grove, Que., on January 12, 1887, the second daughter of Robert Nugent and his wife, Alice Gill.

As a young lady she was employed in Groveton, N.H. and Lyndonville, Vt., until her marriage to George McReynolds. They spent their married years in Maple Grove. She was a devoted member of Holy Trinity Church and its affiliated organizations there.

Aunt Lucy, as she was affectionately called by everyone who knew her well, lived the years since her husband's death in 1932, with her sister, Mrs. Jasper Dinning and Mr. Dinning.

Aunt Lucy leaves to mourn, her sister, Mrs. Jasper Dinning of North Hatley, a brother Albert Nugent of Hatley and many nieces and nephews. She was predeceased by an older sister, Janie in 1975, a brother George in 1971 and a brother Grant in 1972.

Funeral service was held in St. George's Church, Lennoxville, the Rev. K. Perry-Gore officiating.

Burial took place in Holy Trinity Cemetery, Maple Grove, the Rev. G. Marston officiating.

Bearers were nephews Hubert Nugent, Harris Nugent, Chester Nugent and Alvin Nugent, her great-nephew Willie Dinning and Norman Winslow.

"When I am dead, my dearest
Sing no sad songs for me..."

St. Paul's Guild

SHERBROOKE — St. Paul's Ladies Guild met in the Church Hall on McManamy St. April 20.

The meeting was a busy one as there was many things on the agenda.

A rummage sale will take place on April 30, in the Church Hall at 10 a.m.

Confirmation will be held on May 2, at 11 a.m.

Raffle books were given out, the raffle to take place on June 19 at the Strawberry Fair which is held every year.

The card party of March 25 was very successful, the door prizes went to Mrs. Ed Lynch, Belvedere Heights and Mrs. I. Richards, Cambrai St, Sherbrooke.

After the business was finished, the meeting closed and tea was served by the ladies. Mrs. M. Fearon brought in a lovely birthday cake, trimmed with silver leaves and horse shoes, also lighted candles in holders, for Florence Lord, who celebrated her birthday recently and all sang the birthday song.

The next, meeting will be held on May 4.

Card of Thanks

ARMSTRONG — My sincere thanks to Drs. Dykeman and Taylor, also the nurses and aides of I.C.U. and 3rd floor of the Sherbrooke Hospital. To my many relatives and friends for their visits and cards; every card a joy to receive and each person a pleasure to see. Special thanks to those sending and bringing flowers, as well as other needed items. Thanks in full measure to the clergy who came to me with prayers and words of cheer. All this kindness is much appreciated and will be long remembered.
IRENE ARMSTRONG

CROMWELL — I would like to express my sincere thanks to Dr. MacLeod, Dr. Dougan and all nurses and staff on the 2nd floor of the Sherbrooke Hospital for the wonderful care given me while I was a patient there. Also thanks to all who visited me and sent cards. Your thoughtfulness and kindness was very much appreciated.
AYTON CROMWELL

Peter Marsh ready to go, Remparts here tonight

By LEN O'DONNELL

"There is definitely no friction on the club, contrary to the rumors circulating, and the team will be out tonight to pick up a win of the current series. We are down 2-0 in the best-of-seven but I am confident we will pick up our first victory this evening," stated coach Ghislain Delage at a press conference held at the Holiday Inn yesterday afternoon.

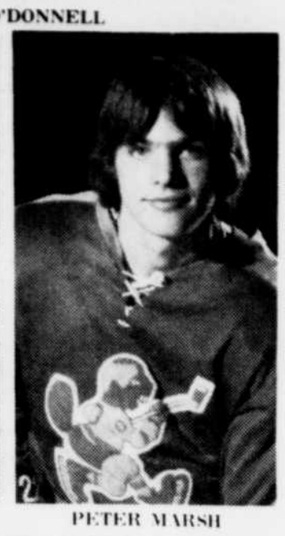

"As for Peter Marsh he will be in uniform tonight ready to help the cause. He has been having trouble in scoring and this has changed his whole attitude. He was discouraged but after a long talk with him he is all set to go," further added Coach Delage.

"The club has the desire to win and that is what we can expect them to do this evening. If the fans do their part in giving the boys a good hand at the start things will get rolling. They have the impression that the fans are down on them but a good game will put matters back on an even keel," stated Georges Guilbault, general-manager of the Beavers.

"The question of Marsh signing a pro contract no one knows and there is nothing in the agreement that prevents a player from doing so. It is their privilege and we aren't [illegible] but if it is so we hope he got a good contract," stated Manager Guilbault.

FERN LEBLANC

PETER MARSH

The club will be gunning for a victory to get in their old stride which swept them through the league and into the finals. The fans have their part to play as well as the players themselves and help them along when the going is tough, such as at present.

"We may have been lacking determination and have forgot our second effort but I am sure they will be going all out tonight. We had no trouble with the Remparts all season but we changed our style letting them roam at will but tonight it will be different, we will be going after them from the start and won't allow them to run all over the ice," stated Coach Delage.

Benoit Perreault will be in the nets for tonight's game with Richard Sevigny on the sidelines ready if in case he is required. He has been given a temporary rest, which he has earned, and Perreault, who is older and more experienced, will take over.

The attacking lines will remain intact, as well the defence duos, and with everybody doing their share the Remparts are going to be in a tough battle. "I can't see any reason why we can't stop the Remparts if we played sixty-minutes both ways. Tonight is a must and we must come up with the style we have used all winter," stated Coach Delage.

Toronto seeking general manager for new club, owners flooded with applications for all jobs

TORONTO (CP) — The owners of Toronto's new American League baseball team have half a dozen candidates for the general manager's job.

Team spokesman Dave Cashen said Tuesday the organization has been flooded with applications for every job from batboy to radio announcer, but the owners are concentrating on the hunt for a general manager.

Cashen, Ontario sales manager of Labatt Breweries of Canada Ltd., would not name any of the prospects, but speculation is that Cedric Tallis, executive vice-president of New York Yankees, is one of the candidates.

Don McDougall, president of Labatt's, has said that the whole operation will be placed in the hands of a chief executive officer—the general manager.

McDougall said the club will have some administrative staff at work within 10 days and a general manager hired within five or six weeks.

TEAM NEEDS NAME

Labatt's and Montreal financier R. Howard Webster each own 45 per cent of the still-to-be named team.

The air was cleared Tuesday when the National League effectively rejected commissioner Bowie Kuhn's proposal to place expansion teams in Toronto and Washington.

Ladies release dates for '76 golf tourneys

The executive of the Ladies Eastern Townships Golf Association released the dates for the 1976 season.

The first Field Day will be held at the Lennoxville Golf and Country Club at Milby on Wednesday June 16. The lady golfers will then switch to Asbestos for their second event which takes place Tuesday, June 29.

The Ladies Eastern Townships Golf championships will be held at the Sherbrooke Golf and Country Club on Aug. 4-5. On the second day the seniors will compete for their crown.

A four-ball, best-ball tournament will be held at Farnham on Tuesday Aug. 24. There still remains the site for the junior championship and this will be decided in the near future.

Habs rally to nip Islanders 3-2

MONTREAL (CP) — The opening game of the New York Islanders-Montreal Canadiens National Hockey League Stanley Cup semi-final playoff was more or less what everybody expected—a low-scoring, tight-checking affair.

And those following the best-of-seven set can expect more of the same as the series progresses.

The Canadiens edged the Islanders 3-2, coming from behind with goals by Larry Robinson and Yvan Cournoyer 84 seconds apart in the third period. Steve Shutt scored the other Montreal goal in the second period with Eddie Westfall and Bill MacMillan scoring for the Islanders.

"We know how the Islanders play and we expected a tough game from them tonight," said Canadiens coach Scotty Bowman. "They played the same way during the regular season. There won't be many goals scored in this series. Both teams have lines which are conscious of their defensive play."

New York coach Al Arbour said he expected a close game. "We know what kind of club they are and they know what kind of club we are. That long layoff didn't bother them at all."

HAD LAYOFF

The Canadiens, returning to action after a nine-day layoff, appeared to have trouble getting untracked early in the game.

Westfall opened the scoring with 3:40 gone in the middle session on a rather weird play as he picked up a rebound off the back boards and beat Montreal goaltender Ken Dryden from the right wing.

Dryden moved well out of the net to clear the loose puck, then changed his mind and reversed his field.

"I saw (Denis) Potvin shoot it in," said Dryden. "It was going in on an angle that would usually bring it close to the net. . . . The puck got further away from the net than I anticipated. I thought I had the angle on Westfall, but I didn't."

Shutt tied the score with his first goal of the playoffs with 8:05 gone in the middle session, beating Islanders' netminder Billy Smith on the short side from the left wing after taking Guy Lafleur's pass but MacMillan shot the Islanders into a 2-1 lead with 6:59 gone in the third, tipping in Potvin's shot from the right point.

MOVED IN

Robinson tied the game as he moved in to poke in a rebound after Smith had made a save on a shot by Doug Jarvis from the left wing.

"There was a scramble in front and they left me uncovered," Robinson said.

Smith was unhappy with his play on the tying effort.

"I lost the puck," he said. "It hit the palm of my glove and then bounced out. Then they come right back and get the puck to (Yvan) Cournoyer in the open and he scores."

The series resumes here Thursday night before shifting to Uniondale, N.Y., for games Saturday and next Tuesday.

* Bruins upset Flyers

PHILADELPHIA (CP) — Boston Bruins dumped Philadelphia unceremoniously on home-ice Tuesday night in the opener of their Stanley Cup playoff semi-finals and Flyers coach Fred Shero conceded that "maybe we were due to lose here."

A pair of third-period goals by veteran defenceman Dallas Smith and centre Gregg Sheppard gave the Bruins a 4-1 victory over the Flyers in their best-of-seven National Hockey League playoff series. Game two is scheduled here Thursday night.

After the hard-fought match Shero and coach Don Cherry of the Bruins said the series may go the full seven games.

Boston and Philadelphia went the distance in eliminating Los Angeles Kings and Toronto Maple Leafs respectively in the best-of-seven quarter-finals and the two survivors were exhausted after the opener.

Boston put the pressure on the Flyers almost from the start and got an early first-period goal from defenceman Gary Doak, his first point in 39 games. Orest Kindrachuk tied the score for the Flyers 11 minutes later.

HODGE SCORES

In the second period, veteran Ken Hodge drilled a low, long shot during a power play to give Boston a 2-1 lead and then Reg Leach tied the game for Philadelphia when the puck skipped past Flyer goaltender Bernie Parent after hitting Leach's skate after a Bill Barber shot.

Parent, who appeared shaky at times, said he never saw the first two Boston goals. He also didn't have much of a chance on Smith's game winner at 4:29 of the third period and Sheppard's shot from a faceoff at 6:17.

But, Shero said the Bruins deserved the victory which ended two Flyer records.

Philadelphia had won 24 consecutive games on home ice—20 in the regular season and four in the playoffs—and had an eight-game playoff-winning streak over two seasons snapped by Boston.

"You have no right to win a playoff unless you win in the other team's rink," Shero said, noting that's what happened last season when the Flyers won their second Stanley Cup against the Sabres on Buffalo ice.

HAD LETDOWN

Defenceman Joe Watson and other Flyers felt the club was suffering from the strain of the tough and controversial series against Toronto.

"We had a little emotional letdown after the Toronto game Sunday, and it was hard to get up for the game against Boston," said Watson.

Captain Bobby Clarke of the Flyers, tired and disappointed, agreed with the theory that Philadelphia is in the throes of a letdown.

"We'll be back," he said. "They just outworked us. I don't think there is much difference in the club.

Coach Cherry praised the work of defenceman Brad Park, just recovered from a recent knee operation.

"He looked almost 100 per cent to me," he said. "That's about the best game he's played so far."

Bruins goltender Gil Gilbert came up with the big saves when they were most needed, making a total of 25 while Parent had 20.

Scotch Hill Shooting Club to open season Sunday 2nd

DANVILLE (MF) — The Scotch Hill Shooting Club will resume its activities for the summer on Sunday, May 2nd at 10:00 a.m.

As last year, there will be shooting every Sunday from 10:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. and every Tuesday at 6:00 p.m., weather permitting.

TROPHIES AND CLASSES

There will be three trophies awarded at the close of the shooting season in each of the three classes: EXPERT, INTERMEDIATE and NOVICE. To qualify for a given class each shooter will have to shoot at least 15 rounds of 25 shots during the year.

The rules and regulations, concerning the class system will be posted at the club and copies are available from the secretary.

INTER-CLUB SHOOTING

The club has contacted other clubs in the region about setting up an Inter-Club Trap Shooting League and we have received positive answers from some of them. We will be able to give you more information within the next few weeks.

The club officials are: President Earl Blair, 8 Frazier, Windsor, (845-4924); Vice-president Len Johann, R.R. 1, Melbourne, (826-5254), and Dennis Castonguay, secretary-treasurer, 101 Bergeron, Asbestos, (879-7880.

Cards dump Giants, Expos rained out

As far as San Francisco Giants are concerned, Lynn McGlothen's suspension didn't last long enough.

Returning from a five-day suspension for last week's beanball incident with New York Mets, McGlothen was nicked for 10 hits but only one run Tuesday night in pitching St. Louis Cardinals to a 7-1 victory over the Giants in a National League baseball game.

His audience included National League president Chub Feeney—the league offices are in San Francisco—who meted out the suspension that delayed McGlothen's scheduled start by two days after the pitcher admitted throwing at New York's Del Unser.

"To tell the truth, I was up a little more for this one than usual because the last thing I wanted to do was look bad," McGlothen said. "I figured he (Feeney) would be there to see first-hand what was going on."

In Tuesday's other games, Los Angeles Dodgers downed Pittsburgh Pirates 5-3, Cincinnati Reds trimmed Philadelphia Phillies 7-3, New York Mets nipped Atlanta Braves 6-5 and Chicago Cubs defeated San Diego Padres 4-2.

FALLS BEHIND

McGlothen fell behind on Von Joshua's leadoff triple and Derrel Thomas' single in the first inning. But the Cardinals bounced back with four in the second off John D'Acquisto, who was wild. St. Louis collected two hits and five walks in the rally.

"Ordinarily, I would have pitched Sunday in San Diego," McGlothen said. "The delay gave me a chance to work on some stuff on the sidelines."

Doug Rau, with last-out help from Charlie Hough, hurled his ninth successive victory for the Dodgers over two seasons. The Dodgers now have won four in a row and six of eight.

Cincinnati pounded Tom Underwood for five runs in the first inning, two on Johnny Bench's double. When the Reds added two runs in the second inning the game became a breeze for Jack Billingham, who scattered eight hits until giving way to Will McEnaney in the eighth.

YELLS AT TUG

The game had a near-fight when Philadelphia reliever Tug McGraw knocked Rose down with a pitch in the ninth. As the Reds took the field for the bottom of the ninth, Rose began yelling at McGraw from his third base spot.

"I threw my hands up," said McGraw, "as if to say, 'What's your beef?"

At that point, Rose made an obscene gesture toward McGraw, who stepped to the top of the dugout. Rose then charged toward the dugout and had to be held back by Bench. The Phillies came out of their dugout, but no punches were thrown.

Rookie Bruce Boisclair drilled a two-run, two-out double off reliever Pablo Torrealba in the ninth inning to cap a three-run rally for the Mets.

Robinson and Belanger team up to give Orioles victory

First Robinson broke up Nolan Ryan's bid for a no-hitter and then the light-hitting Belanger broke up the American League game—and the result was a 3-2, 10-inning victory for Baltimore Orioles.

"I don't have many game-winning hits," said Belanger, whose bases-loaded single in the 10th knocked in the winning run. "In 10 years, I've had two, maybe one."

The game-winning hit came off an "up and in hummer" from reliever Dick Drago.

"He struck me out on a ball up there last time and I was looking for something inside," said Belanger, a .257 hitter this season. "I got it and the ball landed where nobody was."

GOT FIRST HIT

Robinson, also known more for his glove than his bat, got the first hit of the game off the hard-throwing Ryan—a one-out, run-scoring triple in the seventh inning. Robinson was batting .116 at game time.

Ryan, who has thrown four no-hitters in his career, had struck out 11 batters and walked eight before giving up Robinson's bloop triple into the left field corner that cut the California lead to 2-1.

In Tuesday's other American League games, Detroit Tigers routed Oakland A's 10-2, Cleveland Indians trimmed Minnesota Twins 7-5 and New York Yankees nipped Texas Rangers 1-0. Rain and cold weather prevented games between Milwaukee Brewers and Chicago White Sox and between Boston Red Sox and Kansas City Royals.

The Orioles tied the game 2-2 in the eighth on a run-scoring single by Royle Stillman. Andres Mora opened the Baltimore 10th with a single and raced to third when Drago fielded a bunt by Ken Singleton and threw wildly into centre field attempting to force Mora.

Following an intentional walk to load the bases, Drago got Tim Nordbrook to hit into a force at home and then retired Robinson on a short fly to centre, but Belanger singled sharply over the head of third baseman Dave Chalk.

Jean Gagnon, Peter Lee and Bernie Federko nominated for Junior Player of Year Award

MONTREAL (CP) — Bernie Federko of Saskatoon Blades, Peter Lee of Ottawa 67s and Jean Gagnon of Quebec Remparts have been nominated for the Canadian junior hockey player of the year award, it was announced Monday.

The players, nominated by sportswriters and broadcasters across Canada, were selected based on the players qualifications off and on the ice. The players proficiency and productivity as a hockey player, his participation in activities other than hockey, his standards of gentlemanly conduct and good sportsmanship, evidence of his leadership among his teammates and friends, his ability to communicate and scholastic standing were all taken into account.

The winner of the award will be announced May 13 during the Memorial Cup playoffs which are set for the Montreal Forum May 9-16 and will feature Canada's three major junior hockey leagues - the Western Canada Hockey League, the Ontario Hockey Association Major Junior Hockey Leagues and the Quebec Major Junior Hockey League.

Federko, a 19-year-old centre, was chosen as the WCHL's most valuable player and was a first-team all-star. He scored 72 goals and added 115 assists for a league record 187 points in 72 games. The previous record was 168 points set by Bobby Clarke of Flin Flon Bombers during the 1967-68 season.

WAS CAPTAIN

Lee, 20, the all-time OHA points champion with 445 points, during his four-year career, scored a record 81 goals this season, breaking the old mark of 71 set by Richard Martin of Montreal Junior Canadiens in 1917.

Lee, Ottawa's team captain, also won the Red Tilson Trophy, given annually to the outstanding player in the OHA and the Jim Mahon Trophy, given to the right winger with the most scoring points in the OHA. Lee was the only unanimous pick to the OHA's first all-star team this year.

Gagnon, a 19-year-old defenceman, was team captain of the Remparts this season. He scored 14 goals and 36 assists for 50 points in league play.

Meanwhile, the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association announced the Memorial Cup round-robin tournament will get under way May 9 with the Quebec champion playing the Ontario winner. The next night, Quebec will play the WCHL titlists while on May 12, Ontario will play Quebec.

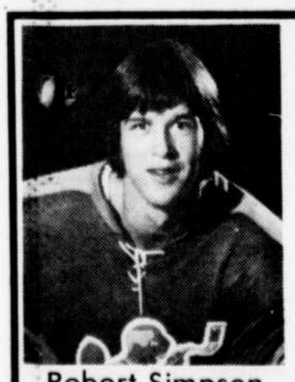

The second - and third-place teams in the tournament will meet in a semi-final game May 14 with the winner taking on the first-place finisher for the championship May 16.

Last year's winners, Toronto Marlboros of the OHA, will not be back to defend their title. Hamilton Fincups and Sudbury Wolves are battling for the Ontario title, New Westminster Bruins and Saskatoon are involved in the WCHL final while Sherbrooke Beavers and Quebec are in the midst of the Quebec championship series.

Farm income stabilization plan due soon for Quebec

SHERBROOKE (BS) — Details for Quebec's farm income stabilization plan legislated last June will soon be spelled out, provincial government economist Gilles Lavoie told participants at Friday's beef seminar held at the Le Baron Motel.

The day-long seminar was followed Saturday by a beef show and sale, both having been sponsored by the Quebec Beef Cattle Association.

Aiming to set up a guaranteed annual income for efficient farmers, the plan's first phase is to bring farmer's income on a par with the specialized worker in Quebec, Mr. Lavoie said.

The bill was passed in June, 1975 as a result of government and agriculture organization aims to increase agricultural revenues. First to participate in the plan will be producers of beef, potatoes, apple and pork. Final regulations of the plan are expected to be approved within a month, he said.

General aims behind the bill are to reduce fluctuations of farm income; to insure a net profit enabling farmers to efficiently produce the required amount of products for consumers; to assure farmers of being able to improve operations; to provide greater stability of production; to equalize opportunity for farmers in the various farm regions of the province; to respect and improve the mechanism of price fixing in agriculture products; to have consumers share the cost of a guaranteed income for farmers since they will also benefit from more stable prices of farm products; to avoid times of crisis in agriculture when the government must take extreme measures to aid farmers; to supplement funds from the federal government when they are considered insufficent; to allow farmers to better plan operations due to more stability.

To participate in this program the farmer must raise type A beef cattle in a herd of at least 10 cows. The maximum herd that can be insured will be 200 cows.

The cattle can be sold for feeding or butchering. Price stabilization will be on a par with the animal's weight. Participation in the plan is voluntary but if a producer decides to take part he must insure all his production, Mr. Lavoie explained.

Once final details are announced, farmers will have about three months to decide whether or not to participate. All participation will last a minimum of five years and dues will vary from year to year within a certain margin to insure a certain base of funds at the end of each five year period.

NEW VARIETIES — Dr. J.M. Molnar of Ornamentals Research Service displays two new begonia varieties he developed - an example of how Agriculture Canada is helping the fast-growing greenhouse floriculture industry.

Support level for hogs detailed

OTTAWA — The support price for hogs under the Agricultural Stabilization Act from April 1, 1975, to March 31, 1976, has been calculated at $46.44 per hundredweight (Index 100) Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan announced recently.

The average market price for hogs was above this support level during the year.

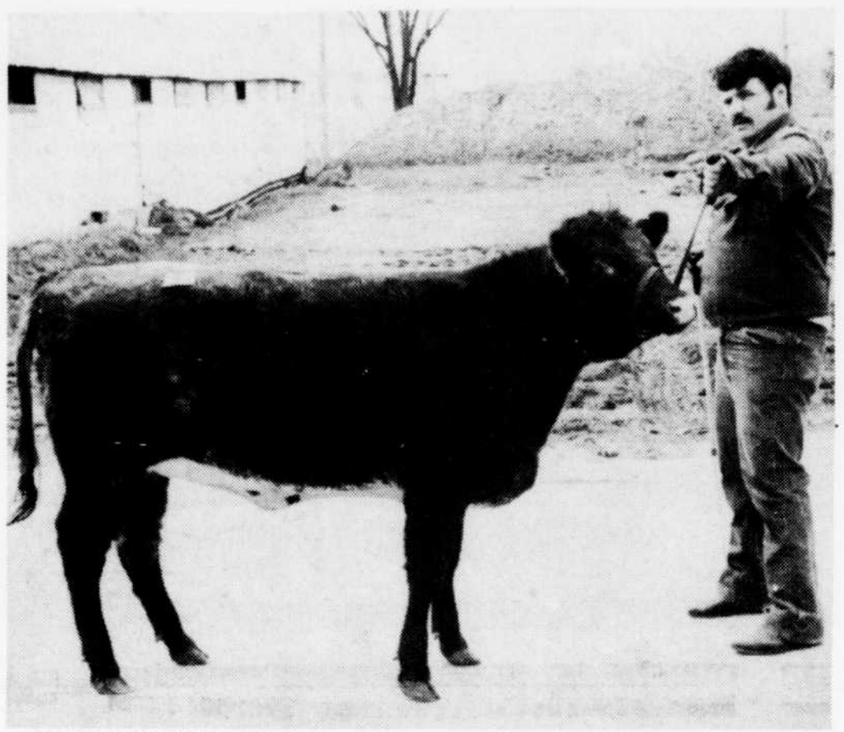

"Although there won't be a stabilization payment on hogs this year, I think hog producers should know the support level and how it is calculated," Mr. Whelan said.

Hogs are one of the nine named commodities under the Agricultural Stabilization Act as amended last year. The Act guarantees a minimum support level for the named commodities of 90 per cent of the average market price in the previous five years, indexed to reflect changes in producers' costs of production.

The average market price for hogs since 1970 was $39.12 per hundredweight, so the minimum support level starts with 90 per cent of this, or $35.21. Then, the national average cash costs of hog production for 1975-76 are compared with the national average cash costs during the previous five years. Current cash costs are $11.23 a hundredweight higher than the five-year average and this amount has been added to the $35.21 figure, giving the announced support price of $46.44.

"If we were still using the minimum of the old Agricultural Stabilization Act of 1958, the hog support price for the past year would be only $28.43. The old Act used 80 per cent of the market price from the previous 10 years as a base, and didn't take costs of production into account at all," Mr. Whelan said.

"The new Act gives farmers a better deal. We recognize that farmers' costs have been rising. We are adding in the full difference between the farmers' present cash costs and what those costs have been in the past five years."

Sugar on snow party is planned

HATLEY (IH) — "In the spring a young man's fancy turns to love," so goes the old saying. But thoughts of everyone these days turns back to the "good old days" when the community was invited to sugaring offs at the sugar bush of maple farmers.

That, of course, was in the "good old days" when syrup sold for less than a dollar a gallon and maple sugar bricks of a pound sold for 25 cents. Then there were many maple sugar bushes and the older people of today fondly remember those tood times. times.

On Sunday afternoon, May 2 people will have the opportunity to relive some of those days of fun in the spring because the Stanstead County Horticultural Society is sponsoring the annual sugar on snow party at the sugar bush of Clifford Curtis and Mrs. Curtis at Hatley starting at 2 p.m.

There, one will be able to take a short walk from the roadside where cars will be parked through the maple tree field land, maybe stopping en route to hear the joyful song of birds and pick a few wild flowers that spring up from under last year's autumn leaves.

At the sugar house Mr. Curtis will be attending to the boiling of syrup to the right consistency for taffy on snow. He'll stop and chat as he stokes his wood fire under the sugar arch. Mrs. Curtis will be there too, welcoming all who come as will members of the Society.

Mr. Curtis sugars each year. He never has enough syrup to satisfy all who would like to buy his syrup which is exhibited each year at fairs including the Quebec Maple exhibition. He has been Maple Sugar King several different years.

This party is open to everyone and last year people even came from the cities to attend this annual event. None were disappointed. See you there, rain or shine.

New plant varieties developed by research

OTTAWA — Plant lovers may soon be adding a new Rieger begonia to their window sill collections.

Developed at Agriculture Canada's Central Experimental Farm here by X-ray radiation of an older variety, the begonia has salmon-rose, semi-double blooms. Easily propagated by leaf cuttings, it is suitable for year-round production as a pot plant and grows well in semi-shade in the garden. It was named Northern Sunset by its originator, J.M. Molnar, chief of the Research Section, Ornamentals Research Service.

The new begonia is only one example of the ways Agriculture Canada is helping this country's fast-growing greenhouse floriculture industry.

The farm value of greenhouse flower and plant crops totalled $88.3 million in 1974, a 24 per cent increase from the 1973 total and twice the value of the 1968-72 average.

Because of higher production costs, some growers are converting from cut flowers to potted plant production. Potted plants give a higher return per square foot of greenhouse bench space and consumer demand for house plants has increased.

"Our aim is to find superior ornamental plant varieties and improved management practices," Dr. Molnar says. "We are looking for plants with short growing periods from seed to bloom and for those that thrive in cool greenhouses."

In addition to developing new varieties, the Ornamentals Research Service tests varieties originated by other breeders. Dwarf European hydrangeas and 12 new varieties of poinsettias were among the plants evaluated in 1974-75.

"Conscious of the energy shortage, we have been testing plant material for cold greenhouses (minimum night temperature of 12.7 degrees C), with no supplementary lighting," Dr. Molnar says. "Heating accounts for the large part of production costs and these costs in many areas of Canada have recently doubled."

Several varieties of greenhouse stocks were tested this year. A one time common cut flower crop, it is now rarely seen in Canada. Its main attributes are its ability to grow at cool temperatures and its pleasant fragrance. Another cool temperature cut flower crop is Freesia. Current research is focussed on determining optimum planting space for flower size.

Ornamentals Research Service has tried to introduce Alstromeria or Peruvian lily to Canada — another cool temperature crop. The new cultivars are available only from European producers under a leasing arrangement. It has good keeping qualities and has good potential. The most serious production problem with Alstromeria is that it does not tolerate warm Canadian summer temperatures. Research is being carried out to overcome this problem. The full potential of this crop will be realized with better control of flowering periods and availability of more cultivars.

Artificial insemination of hogs improved

OTTAWA — Artificial insemination of swine surged forward last year with the development of a boar semen freezing process.

"Fresh semen remains effective for only 72 hours," says Hans Grieger, swine specialist with Agriculture Canada's Production and Marketing Division.

"Now, with frozen semen that can be stored and transported, extensive use of AI for swine has become practical in this country. Canada is also in an excellent position to develop export markets for boar semen."

The Ontario Swine AI Association at Woodstock, Ont., is setting up frozen semen distribution centers across the country. A second swine AI establishment operated by the Quebec government at La Pocatiere, Que., is using fresh semen to service hogs in that province.

All boars in the two units have been provided by Agriculture Canada on a lease basis under the Sire Loan Policy. The boars have been leased to the two AI swine establishments to aid the development of a program that has great potential in the genetic improvement of swine. The boars purchased under the policy have been selected from a small percentage of top-performing boars in tests conducted at the federally operated Record of Performance stations across the country.

"Agriculture Canada is in an excellent position to locate the best boars, because we operate the ROP test stations across the country and co-ordinate the Federal-Provincial ROP Swine Home Test Program," Mr. Grieger says.

Farm Credit Corporation tightening lending budget

OTTAWA — The Farm Credit Corporation has $370 million left to lend farmers in 1976-77, Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan said this week.

This results in part from a decrease of $20 million in the Corporation's capital budget, but the main reason for the limited budget this year is last year's unusually high demand for loans. About $190 million of the 1976-77 budget was already committed prior to April 1, 1976.

Because of this limited budget, the FCC has introduced a more restrictive lending policy to assist those farmers with the greatest need.

"The Corporation will continue to follow the policy of supporting efficient family farms in Canada," Mr. Whelan said. "The first priority is to assist competent farmers to acquire, develop and maintain viable family farms.

"Those farmers who are now operating a viable farm and who can provide a good living for their families will be asked to delay their loan applications or to borrow from other sources," Mr. Whelan said.

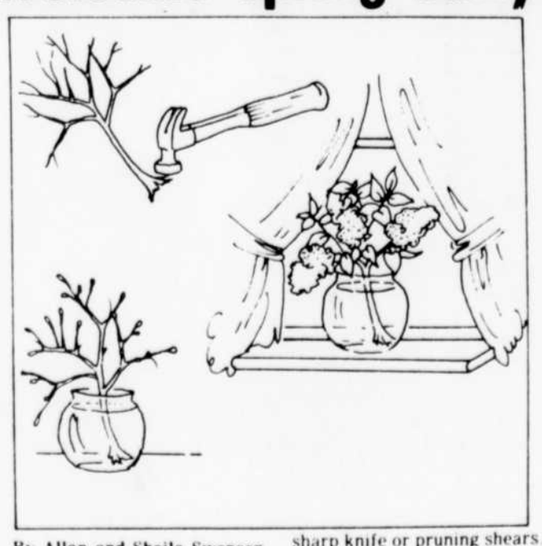

He also noted there had been an unprecedented demand for loans in 1975 following the amendments to the Farm Credit Act that were approved last May.

Under the amendments, farmers under 35 years of age can borrow up to $150,000. Previously, the loan limit for all farmers was $100,000. Another change in the Act allows young farmers to phase into full-time farming over a five-year period. Capital requirements are also reduced for young farmers.

In 1975-76, the FCC lent $641 million to Canadian farmers. This represents 9,945 loans — an increase of 1,852 loans from 1974-75. The average loan last year was $64,449 compared with $49,279 the previous year. Abouty 66 per cent of last year's loans were to farmers under 35. This compares with 52 per cent the year before.

The Farm Credit Corporation interest rates were increased effective April 1, 1976, to 9¾ per cent from nine per cent. The interest rate is reviewed each year on April 1 and October 1 and is based on interest rates for government bonds and investments.

Welcome spring early

By Allan and Sheila Swenson
NEA Garden Columnists

You can fill your home with color and perfume long before your outdoor plants are blooming. It's fun and easy to force flowering shrubs and trees into beautiful blooming indoors.

Many plants can be encouraged to burst into flower. Forsythia, quince, redbud, flowering crab are a few that work well. Pussy willow is a favorite. Fruit trees, too, will give you blooming fun weeks before they usually flower outside. Lilac, spirea and honeysuckle can be coaxed as well.

The trees and shrubs that normally bloom early outdoors also respond most quickly indoors. Yet you can experiment with many plants and decorate with their blooms in just a few weeks.

Look for branches that have plump buds. Cut them with a sharp knife or pruning shears. Cut selectively so you don't destroy the appearance of your outdoor landscaping. Actually, most shrubs and trees can be improved by winter pruning. They'll send out new branches to make them bushier in the future. And, that gives you more branches for forcing in years to come.

Cut branches on a slant. Pick those that will provide graceful lines and profusions of blooms from many buds. The flowers for this year were formed last fall. They are resting quietly, ready for the first warm blush of spring. You can quite easily duplicate that blush on a sunny windowsill.

Make cuttings on a warm day. Place branches in a deep container filled with warm water. Keep in a cool room, 50 to 60 degrees. By cutting on a slant more plant tissue is exposed to take up the water faster.

Helping nature along

By Janet Tara

Providing proper care for plants does take some time and effort. But knowing the reasons for what you are doing may help develop your patience and determination.

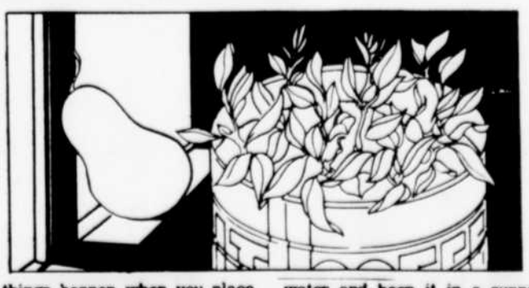

Why bother to drain the excess water into the sink when it seeps through the bottom of the flower pot? Because this rids the soil of toxic salts and minerals that build up from tap water, natural soil changes and the necessary fertilizers that are added. Leaving the water in the saucer to evaporate doesn't do the job. The water containing the salts collects in the dish and rises back up into the pot as the soils dries.

Why give plants a weekly shower, especially since hanging plants are so difficult to move? Not only does this raise the humidity level, but it has indirect benefits. Bugs and diseases are encouraged by dusty, dirty leaves. House plants are not in their natural environment; gentle breezes don't keep the surrounding air moving and rain never washes the leaves. The once-a-week bath is really a necessity, not a luxury, although it calls for gentle handling of plants with long runners and leaves.

You should change a plant's soil approximately every two years whether or not it needs repotting to a bigger container. The earth gets "tired" and many of the nutrients washed away in watering are never replaced, even with fertilizing.

Plants and kids

By Janet Tara

Here are a few quick and easy growing projects that will hold a child's attention and put to good use their desire to "help their plant along" by watering it every day.

Windowsill Orchard: It's easy to grow a miniature orchard right on your window sill. Just put some seeds from a favorite fruit, such as apple, orange, grapefruit or pear, between two layers of paper towels. Keep the towels wet for three or four weeks and the seeds will begin to sprout. Then, plant them in a coffee can filled with soil. Place your miniature orchard in a sunny window and water it regularly. Transplant into small individual pots when the plants reach three or four inches in height.

Tiny Forest: Surprising things happen when you place lentil beans in water. Spread a single layer of the beans in a saucer and then add just enough water to make them wet, but not to float them. Keep them in a light place with this much moisture for about 10 days and they will begin to sprout. Your saucer will soon look like a tiny green forest.

Grassy Field: Moisten a sponge and roll it in grass seed. Put the sponge in a saucer of water and keep it in a sunny window. Be careful not to let the sponge dry out. Bright, green grass will begin to grow in just a few days.

Inevitably the question comes up: Will my grapefruit, apple, avocado or sweet potato plant produce fruit? Sorry, the answer is no. Plants started this way won't bear fruit. And the asparagus fern, a cousin of the asparagus we eat, will not bear fruit either.

BRITISH FIGHT NEW "INVASION"

Squatter's rights may be denied under law

LONDON (CP) — For hundreds of years, British law has been largely on the side of squatters, people who take over and occupy property that does not belong to them.

It began in 1381, when the Forcible Entry Act was passed so the King's Court could control land disputes, punishing anyone who forcibly entered a property—whether owner or trespasser.

The number of squatters has fluctuated since the Middle Ages—hitting peaks following the two world wars—but in recent years record numbers have caused a public outcry leading to emotional clashes with the law.

Now the Law Commission, in a recent report on law reform, has proposed that squatting, traditionally a civil offence, be brought under criminal law.

A small minority of Britain's army of squatters operate legally, under a licence from local authorities to occupy vacant properties. But the majority simply take over property, some even invading homes while the owners are on vacation. It is the volatile few among this vast number of illegal squatters who have been the main source of tension.

FACE JAIL TERM

Under the commission's proposals, squatters would face up to six months' imprisonment if they refuse to leave occupied residential premises.

It would also become an offence to use or threaten violence against anyone on premises while trying to get in, to resist or obstruct a sheriff or bailiff enforcing a court possession order or for a trespasser to have an offensive weapon without lawful authority.

Squatting flourished immediately after the two world wars when returning servicemen faced drastic housing shortages. Many families took over dilapidated Nissen huts, turning them into "first-class homes—something to be proud of."

The present squatter movement started about seven years ago to help solve the growing problem of homeless families.

The movement, which gained public sympathy, progressed in an organized way with the aim of forcing local authorities to hand over for temporary, rentfree use their empty properties awaiting demolition or rehabilitation.

MAINTAINED PROPERTY

In return, the squatters carred out essential repairs, paid property taxes and electricity and gas bills and left when work on the buildings began.

There are an estimated 30,000 squatters in England and Wales today, about 25,000 of them in London, mostly in publicly owned buildings. But only an estimated 2,000 properties are occupied by squatters under licence.

Within the last few years a new breed of squatter emerged. These include single people whom local authorities do not accept responsibility to house, those who prefer cheap accommodation and politically-motivated young people demonstrating against government housing policies.

These squatters break agreements with local authorities and resist attempts to evict them by barricading themselves in.

Public sympathy has turned, following newspaper reports of wanton damage and organized squatting practices such as running 'estate agencies' where registers of empty properties are maintained.

Recently, there was the exposure of the "rent-a-kid" system where children were "borrowed" to ensure rehousing on eviction—thus getting around long waiting lists.

Unless owners seek a court order—often a costly, cumbersome process taking up to six months—nothing can be done to remove the squatter.

Police are only obligated to intervene when a breach of the peace occurs or criminal damage, forcible entry, theft, unlawful assembly, or abstraction of electricity is proved.

And although the owner has the right to take the matter into his own hands, providing he uses no more force than is reasonably necessary, this course is seldom taken because of the disturbance that might follow.

The law commission urges property owners to use the civil courts wherever possible. But if its proposals are accepted, court orders would have the authority of the law, backed where necessary by police, to shift the treaspasser.

Several organizations, including the National Council of Civil Liberties, Squatters Action Council and the Campaign for Homeless and Rootless, oppose the commission's proposals.

Although they agree that the "archaic" laws of forcible entry should be abolished, they object to jail sentences for squatters who offer only passive obstruction.

They also oppose the suggestion that trespassing with an offensive weapon be a criminal offence, since almost anything could be regarded as an offensive weapon—kitchen implements, household tools.

They contend that squatting is not a criminal problem but one of non-availability of rented and subsidized council property, accentuated by the public scandal of more than 700,000 homes lying empty in England and Wales.

There should be no sanction against people who make use of property that would not otherwise be used, says Howard Levenson of the National Council of Civil Liberties. What is needed is reform of housing policies.

IF CONVICTS MOVE IN

There goes the neighborhood

MONCTON, N.B. (CP) — Penal reformers contend that mentally ill criminals who can be treated belong in hospitals, not prisons.

And many have said for years that the maximum-security penitentiary at Dorchester, 20 miles from Moncton, should be replaced.

But efforts by the Canadian Penitentiary Service to meet both demands have run into what has been called an "attitudinal problem" and a "natural protective instinct" among all of us.

Nobody seems to want deranged convicts, treatable or otherwise, as neighbors.

John Bennett, first Maritime regional director of the service, indicated in an interview that his office is learning some hard lessons in public and community relations as it seeks a solution to the dilemma.

Dorchester prison, built in 1875, is on the way out. Three, possibly four, new institutions are planned for Nova Scotia and New Brunswick at a total cost of more than $30 million.

A $10-million maximum-security prison for 180-200 prisoners is expected to open in 1982 on virtually the same site as the forbidding, fortress-like structure that houses more than 300 of the 800-odd federal convicts in the region.

MAY BUILD ANOTHER

The penitentiary service are studying the need and possible location of a second such institution.

A medium-security prison also is to be built near Saint John, N.B., for about the same number of prisoners at about the same cost and the service wants to build a 100-bed psychiatric treatment centre in the Halifax-Dartmouth area.

This last facility, which would be the third of its kind in Canada, is causing more headaches than all the others combined.

Offer a small municipality a $10-million federal government investment project, about $100,000 a year in grants in lieu of taxes and about 200 high-paying permanent jobs and watch the eyes widen with interest.

Then add that the outlay is for a place to put mentally ill convicts and watch the change in facial expression.

The service apparently escaped controversy when it built the first centre recently at Matsqui, about 35 miles outside Vancouver.

OPPOSED BY COUNCIL

But a local uproar developed concerning the second, being built in Saskatoon, and the reaction to a suggested site for the third in Dartmouth, across the harbor from Halifax, was a city council vote of 13 to 1 against having it anywhere within its jurisdiction.

Mr. Bennett said his office has gone "right back to square one" and expects to hire a consulting firm this spring to study all possible locations in the metropolitan Halifax-Dartmouth area in an effort to find a compromise between local feelings and the stated need to be near the law and medical schools of Dalhousie University.

Should such a study say the south Dartmouth site still is best, Ald. Lauchie Fredericks, a leading opponent of the project, says his constituents still won't accept it. "They've made quite clear that they don't want that place in their back yards."

SEEKS GUIDANCE

The penitentiary service hopes to get from the consulting firm, besides suggested sites for the centres, some general hints on how to approach local officials in order to avoid the negative reactions of Dartmouth council.

There are some selling points.

The centre would make a portion of the bed space available for use by provincial officials, for instance, when a provincial court judge requires a pre-trial or pre-sentence mental examination.

Currently, the Nova Scotia Hospital in Dartmouth is the point of referral in the region. Nobody contends it is as secure as the centre the penitentiary service wants to build.

"The centre will have the best security system that modern technology can devise," Mr. Bennett said. There would be double barbed-wire fences, guards, perimeter lighting and all the other features of a maximum security prison.

Mr. Bennett said the centre is not a hospital for long-term detention of the criminally insane.

It would be only for those who can respond to treatment and stays would be comparatively short. Likely, the normal treatment would average no more than a few months.

But Ald. Fredericks said the proposal would take up 40 acres of a 100-acre site on which there are firm plans for housing development and might throw the whole housing scheme into question.

He said real estate people in Saskatoon had predicted property values would drop there as a result of location of the second centre in that city. He also emphasizes that "children are playing in their back yards and going to school" within a mile of the proposed Dartmouth site.

He said—and Mr. Bennett appeared to agree it might be a basis for compromise—that the centre should be at least two miles from the nearest houses and, since the penitentiary service emphasized the need to be near Dalhousie—within 10 miles of that campus.

Mr. Fredericks admitted the opposition was largely instinctive—"the protective instinct comes out in all of us now and again."

Professor W. T. Ortgeo of Dalhousie's law school agreed.

"The attitude is that they should receive treatment, but not here," he said.

"It wouldn't bother me but it would bother many people."

Here is why.

Every supermarket claims to offer the lowest prices every week. They all claim they have the best quality. But here's something only Steinberg can say: Every week over 1 million people come to Steinberg to do their shopping. 1 million people. And that says a lot.

It says a lot of people like the way we do things at Steinberg. Straightforward. Instead of giving you special low prices on some things some of the time, Steinberg gives you everyday low prices on everything all of the time. So you know where you stand from one week to the next. You save a little at the meat counter, a little in the grocery department, and by the time you've filled up your basket, you end up saving a lot on your total order.

Why don't you join over one million shoppers and discover that, week after week you save money on your total order at Steinberg.

Sanctuary flowers at St. Paul's Church on Easter Sunday were in loving memory of Mrs. Lily Walsh, Dr. and Mrs. Douglass, Pilot Officer David William Roberts, James Anthony Awde, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Turner, Charles N. Turner, Donald Taylor (of Foster), Mr. and Mrs. O. N. Irwin, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Chance, Maude and Walter Taylor.

At Knowlton United Church, flowers were placed by Miss Flora George in memory of the George Family and two baskets of flowers by Mrs. Rose McLean in loving memory of the late John McLean and of James and Agnes Duncan.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Pettes of Crawford Park were guests Easter week-end of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Spencer.

Mrs. Rose McLean will celebrate her coming to Canada 50 years ago on April 26. On May 10th, she will leave for Scotland to help celebrate there, the 50th wedding Anniversary of her aunt and uncle.

Mr. and Mrs. Louise N. Page, accompanied by Mrs. Mary Foster were calling on Mrs. Page's mother Mrs. H. Irwin at The Regal Nursing Home in Cowansville at Easter.

Mrs. May Hinves, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Mosley and Mrs. Colleen Crowse with her sons Robbie, Kevin, Trent and Trevor, spent Easter Day at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gardner Booth at Foster.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Inglis of Sherbrooke were Easter Day guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Battley.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Duboyce and Timmy arrived Thursday to spend Easter with the former's parents Mr. and Mrs. Ray Duboyce, returning to Ottawa Easter Monday. Dinner guests at the same home on Easter Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hinves of Dorval and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Marsh.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Hinves entertained their children at dinner on the evening of Easter Sunday. Present were Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hinves, and Mr. and Mrs. Dale Hinves, all of Dorval, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hinves and their two children, of Pierrefonds.

Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Newey of Pincourt, were Friday guests of Mrs. Marshall Miller.

Miss Christene Miller spent Friday with her sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Crotty in Sherbrooke.

Miss Sharon Miller of Chateauguay Terrace was a guest of her grandmother, Mrs. Marshall Miller for Easter.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Roberts of Maitland, Ont. with their sons Paul and Steven, arrived Thursday to spend the Easter holidays. Other guests on Easter Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Roberts were Mr. and Mrs. Brian Dyball of Cowansville, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Burcombe of Bondville and Mrs. Margaret McGovern of Cowansville with her three children.

Residents learned with regret of the death in Malaga, Spain, of Alfred R.B. (Reg.) Taylor youngest son of the late Reverend E. M. Taylor. Interment was in Spain. A memorial service was held on Saturday, April 17 at Mount Royal United Church. Sympathy is extended to Mrs. Taylor, also to his cousin Mrs. Claire Duval of Knowlton.

Mrs. Percy Roberts recently spent a week-end with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Roberts at Maitland, Ont.

A suggestion to St. Paul's Church parishioners: Check the bulletin board for current notices. At the moment there are postings of a week-end for one parent families, a celebration for women in the Diocese of Montreal, a Diocesan mixed retreat and a summer Youth camp.

Steven Walter, infant son of Murray and June Call was christened at the 11:00 a.m. service at St. Paul's Church on Sunday, April 11.

Congratulations are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Byrne Mulvihill on the birth of their second son, Dana Byrne, at Ottawa on April 9. Also congratulations to the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Miller.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Beaudoin, Daavid and Nancy of La Salle, spent four days at Easter with Mrs. Beaudoin's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Taylor. Callers at the Taylor home on Easter day included their granddaughter Miss Carolyn Taylor of West Brome, Mr. Brian Perry, also of West Brome, and Mr. and Mrs. J. Inglis of Sherbrooke.

Mr. Ray Mosley left Tuesday morning following Easter for his work base in Calgary after spending the past month here with Mrs. Mosley and her mother Mrs. May Hinves.

The Sunrise Easter service held at 6:00 a.m. at The Creek Church was well attended. Those who were willing to trade a comfortable bed for the church pew enjoyed a marvellous land and skyscape, good fellowship, good food and the Easter message.

At the Knowlton United Church, prizes were given to the children for the best decorated eggs. The traditional Easter egg roll could not be carried out due to no one bringing along any eggs!

Mr. and Mrs. John Syberg returned home from Daytona Beach on April 10. While away they met with a number of local residents who were also enjoying a Florida holiday in that area. They were overnight guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Harvey at Laguna Beach and were calling on Mr. and Mrs. Claire Adams at Port Orange and on Mr. and Mrs. Archie Page at Cooper City. Before returning they toured Florida extensively including Key West and the Everglades.

The death of Mrs. May Patch at the Waterloo Hospital on April 12, was learned with regret by residents here and deep sympathy is extended to members of her family. The funeral service was held at St. John's Church in Brome on April 15.

Mr. and Mrs. John Syberg were in Montreal on April 14 to attend a reception at the Mount Stephen Club given by the Consul General of Denmark, Mr. Berger Abrahamson and his wife on the occasion of the birthday of Her Majesty the Queen of Denmark.

Mr. and Mrs. John Syberg were Saturday evening dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Greig at Dunham. Bruce and Susan have moved to their new home which they recently built.

While here at Easter, Mr. Paul Beaudoin was calling on his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Paige at the Glen.

Thought for the Week (St. Paul's Church bulletin): "The values of Easter can be computed only when the congregation is counted on the first Sunday after Easter."

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Once in a while some nasty opponent interferes with your Blackwood call by bidding over it.

There are lots of ways to handle this sort of interference. The one we like to use is to double to show no aces, pass to show one ace and bid to show more.

What do you do if your opponent interferes at such a high level that you have to bid seven if you bid at all? In this case you simply double to say: "Partner, I don't think we can make seven". Pass to say: "Partner, I think we can make seven." Of course, if you are sure you can make seven you go ahead and bid it.

West's three-club bid was one of those nonvulnerable bids that some players try on occasion. North's Blackwood four notrump was a slight overbid, but he liked his distribution. East's seven-club call put a lot of pressure on South but South was ready.

South studied his hand carefully. His heart suit was good. He had both minor suit aces and the queen of spades. It was just unthinkable for North to be Blackwooding without ace-king of spades and ace of hearts so South bid the lay down grand slam.

Ask the Jacobys

A Wisconsin reader wants to know what he should bid with: ♠ A ♥ x x ♦ K Q J 8 5 2 ♣ x x x x after his right hand opponent opened one diamond.

The answer is that he should pass. A double would be for takeout, a two-diamond call would be a cue bid of sorts and a three-diamond bid might be really hurt.

For Thursday, April 29, 1976

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your material resources are in good aspect today as long as you don't rock the boat. Let matters proceed naturally and all will go well.

TAURUS (April 20-may 20) Do your own thing today. You have a feeling of self-power that is lucky for you. You must, however, avoid erratic associates.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Behind the scenes happenings favor you today because your hunches are good. Have faith, too, in the unseen and the unknown.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You're good at manipulating groups today. This is where influential contacts prove helpful. But don't take your opportunities lightly.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Big rewards are in store if you keep your goals realistic. Others will be willing to assist as long as you don't spring last-minute changes.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Today you should have a broad outlook that will add impetus to your bright ideas. Be just and fair, and keep promises at all costs.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) It's a good day for joint ventures, but work with the resources of others. You're not being selfish, just very realistic.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Others can do more for you than you're able to do yourself, so let them take the lead. Agreements made today are extremely promising.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your career will get a big boost today if you finish what you start. Burn the midnight oil if necessary. Treat co-workers with respect. They'll help you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Social success is yours today. You can be the most popular person at the party. You'd be wise to pay more attention to old friends.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) For you, it's live for today, and let tomorrow care for itself. You should give family matters priority. You're especially fortunate in that area.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Good news is in the offing today, but analyze the best way to use it without being too obvious. Don't depart from proven methods.

Your Birthday

April 29, 1976

Select associates with care. They could have a crucial bearing on your accomplishments this year. Once you've decided collectively, stick to your course.

UCW meeting

CLEVELAND — The regular meeting of the New London Group of United Church was held at the home of Mrs. Wm. Harris, with Mrs. Dally Sloane as joint hostess, on April 14, with nine members and one visitor present.

The President opened the meeting by welcoming the members and visitor.

The devotion was taken by Mrs. Dolly Sloane in the absence of the secretary, Mrs. Ralph Healy.

Mrs. Clarence Pease read the minutes and correspondence, including thank-you notes from Mrs. Gladys Perkins, Mrs. Wm. Harris and Mrs. Percy Tozer who were remembered during their illness.

Food was donated towards the supper held at the Richmond United Church on April 21.

Mrs. Orvis Taylor gave a report on the general meeting held in Richmond.

Next meeting to be held with Mrs. Clarence Pease on the regular day.

The meeting closed with the Benediction and refreshments were served by the hostesses.
