In Middle East Peace pact appears assured

JERUSALEM (AP) — Approval of the new Israeli-Egyptian agreement by the Israeli parliament today appeared assured after the ruling Labor party and two of its allies endorsed it.

Observers said acceptance of the pact by Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin's Laborites and by the National Religious Party and the Independent Liberals promised Rabin the support of 69 or 70 of the 120 members of the Knesset, Israel's parliament.

Tentative plans were being made Tuesday for representatives of Israel and Egypt to sign the agreement in Geneva Thursday.

Opposition to the agreement in the Labor party's central committee was led by former defence minister Moshe Dayan. But the committee voted 370 to 4 with four abstentions to approve the accord.

Former prime minister Golda Meir made a rare public appearance at the meeting. Although she voted in favor of the agreement, she warned against "rejoicing and the tendency to exaggerate its achievements."

Meanwhile, U.S. State Secretary Henry Kissinger was winding up his latest Middle East peace mission with visits to Saudi Arabia, Jordan and Syria.

In Amman, he assured King Hussein that the Sinai accord is "only one step" toward an overall Middle East peace settlement. Prime Minister Zaid Rifai warned him that Jordan is "anxiously awaiting" progress on further peace moves and on other issues between it and the U.S.

SALE BLOCKED
Hussein is pressing for the U.S. government to carry out its promise to supply 14 Hawk missile batteries Jordan ordered from the U.S. Congress blocked the sale, but the Ford administration plans to try again to get its approval.

A similar reception awaited Kissinger today in Damascus, where the Syrian government is insisting that Israel return the Golan Heights captured in the 1967 war and recognize the rights of the Palestinians to establish their own state on the West Bank of the Jordan River.

U.S. officials said that Saudi Arabia gave a "broad endorsement" to the Sinai pact. King Khaled and Crown Prince Fahd reiterated the late King Faisal's demand that Israel relinquish the Arab sector of Jerusalem, but they did not press the point, one said.

Kissinger left Saudi Arabia convinced that oil prices will go up this fall, probably about 10 per cent, reporters traveling with him said.

Elsewhere in the Middle East, Israeli warplanes raided a suspected guerrilla base in southern Lebanon, the Israeli military command reported. A spokesman said all planes returned safely. There was no word on the attack from Lebanon. The raid was apparently in retaliation for a shelling attack from southern Lebanon earlier in the day on an Israeli position.

State department officials in Washington said President Anwar Sadat of Egypt is tentatively scheduled to visit Washington in October in return for former president Richard Nixon's visit to Egypt in 1974.

PC leadership contender knocks party

TORONTO (CP) — James Gillies, potential contender for the Progressive Conservative national leadership, criticized the party today as lacking direction and discipline.

Mr. Gillies, 51, MP for Toronto-Don Valley and a member of the so-called Conservative shadow cabinet since 1972, said the party fails to win elections because of a "lack of party philosophy, party discipline and most of all internal party organization."

"The Tories are perceived by the public and the press in Ottawa as a body of individuals rather than a well-run, well-organized, well-structured team that knows what it is doing and where it is going."

Mr. Gillies said in an interview before his speech that he decided to criticize the party publicly in the hopes of raising "some pretty fundamental questions" before a new leader is elected next February to replace Robert Stanfield.

An opposition finance and economic critic before being appointed the party's energy critic, Mr. Gillies said he is considering running for the leadership.

He also said "the Tory party has seldom been blessed with leadership at the national level which can make the party a national force over a long period of time."

LITTLE EXPERIENCE
The single unique factor that characterizes the leadership of the federal Tories in the past 40 years is that, except when the party has won, it has been led by a person whose experience in politics is that of a provincial premier."

"I believe premiers fail because of the nature of government at the federal level is so different from what it is at the provincial level that a man finds it extraordinarily difficult to make the transition from one to the other," he said.

In reference to the party's shadow cabinet, he said:

"In the period prior to the 1974 election when the PC's thought themselves to be close to governing the country there was literally no organization of members to act as an executive wing of government. There was no continuing record of what the party's basic position on issues was, how daily approach to the question period matched such a philosophy or how an ad hoc decision might relate to general policy."

He said the party now accommodates members who would feel equally at home with the New Democrats or Liberals "as well as those who think that the John Birch Society is too far to the left."

Rain helps Granby

GRANBY, Que. (CP) — Two days of intermittent rain have brought a measure of relief to this drought-stricken city 45 miles east of Montreal.

Although the rainfall has helped, it "wasn't steady enough and strong enough" to provide more than temporary relief, Mayor Paul Trepanier said Tuesday.

"We need a strong, continuous rainfall lasting 24 hours," he added.

The water level at Lake Boivin, Granby's main reservoir, rose 11 inches in the last week.

The question now facing municipal engineers is whether there will be enough water in Lake Boivin at freezeup to supply the city through the winter.

"We need another 36 inches of water in the lake by the end of September," Mr. Trepanier said.

Granby's city council has also asked for bids to transport one million gallons of water daily from the St. Lawrence River by rail and an equal amount from Brome Lake by truck.

Escapee taken in Ontario bushland

SUDBURY, Ont. (CP) — Although they had accused killer and jailbreaker Donald Kelly back in custody, police were no closer Tuesday to knowing why he led them on a 31-day chase through the northern bush country.

"I don't know what was going through his mind," said Det.-Insp. W. C. Craig of the provincial police. "Normally an escapee tries to leave the area. He stayed."

Kelly, who escaped from North Bay district jail Aug. 2 while being held on a double-murder charge, was captured Monday evening in a hunting cabin about 15 miles northeast of here.

He was taken without resistance following a gun battle after police had tracked a man to the cabin. During the shootout, a provincial police tracking dog was killed and Kelly, 36, was seriously wounded. He stumbled off into dense bush. The dog's handler and another policeman retreated and called in reinforcements.

About 150 officers were ordered to the scene. Police surrounded the cabin, lobbed in tear gas and found Kelly wrapped in a blanket and lying on the floor.

CONDITION SERIOUS

Kelly remained in serious condition Tuesday in Sudbury General Hospital with a bulletshattered right arm and buckshot wounds to the left chest and back. He was expected to be there for two weeks.

Three armed provincial police officers guarded the section where he was being kept and hospital security guards patrolled floors and entrances amid bomb threats received by the hospital.

Monday night, the hospital received two calls in which the callers said the hospital would be bombed if anything happened to Kelly.

During the search, which was concentrated in the North Bay-Sudbury bushlands, a man took a total of 23 hostages in three separate incidents, but did not harm any of them.

Kelly was arrested in Edmonton last April and charged with murder following a 5½-year investigation into the shooting deaths of Carol McWilliams, 20, and her brother-in-law, Jack McWilliams, 27.

Human error caused Que. power failure

MONTREAL (CP) — Human error caused the power failure which blacked out most of Quebec province Saturday night, a Hydro Quebec official said Tuesday.

Gaston Desroches, systems director for Hydro, said the power failure occurred because a technician forgot to turn off a grounding switch before testing a new circuit-breaker on a 735, 000-volt line from the Manicouagan powerhouse, in north-eastern Quebec, to Levis, a Quebec City suburb.

When the test began, said Mr. Desroches, the line's entire energy load was grounded, causing an overvoltage—or sudden power surge—throughout Hydro's system.

He said the overvoltage set off a series of safety devices on other main lines of the system, resulting in the province-wide blackout.

A second technician responsible for checking the actions of the first "made the same mistake" and forgot to deactivate the grounding device, said Mr. Desroches.

CHECKING PROCEDURES
A Hydro spokesman told reporters that an internal investigation is continuing to see if some procedures require modification to prevent further blackouts.

But Mr. Desroches said that such human errors "are extremely rare."

The blackout, which occurred at 5:03 p.m. EDT Saturday, left all but the Abitibi and Lake St. John regions of the province without power.

In Montreal, police reported more than 60 calls to free people trapped in elevators. Hospitals, major stores, hotels and Montreal International Airport managed on auxiliary generators while smaller public places had to close their doors.

Police said no fatalities resulted from the blackout.

English-only air traffic supported by pilot group

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Owners and Pilots Association announced Tuesday that it supports demands by the Canadian Air Line Pilots Association for air traffic control communication in English only.

Russell Beach, president of the association, said in a statement his association, which represents 10,000 pilots, believes that air control communication should be in English alone to ensure safety.

But French should be allowed anywhere in Canada for advisory communication such as weather information.

The airline pilots association has announced plans to halt all flight operations for 24 hours Oct. 17 unless the government ends experiments in bilingual traffic control. And Jim Livingston, president of the Canadian Air Traffic Control Association, has said that pilots who speak French only should be limited to areas where the government is testing bilingual air traffic control.

He said the air controllers might strike in support of the airline pilots if the government does not limit the licences of unilingual French-speaking pilots.

How does it feel to be in the jaws of a 400-lb. bear?

MONTREAL (CP)—John Legault, 23, said he "didn't feel a thing," when his head was in jaws of a 400-pound polar bear two weeks ago at a campsite 40 miles south of Resolute Bay, N.W.T.

In an interview in his Montreal apartment Tuesday, Mr. Legault said: "It all happened so fast, all I felt was grinding and crunching of teeth on my scalp."

Mr. Legault, a student of fresh water systems, was one of eight field members sent by the Geological Survey of Canada this summer to study beach erosion on the northern coast of Somerset Island.

Both he and the party's leader Bob Taylor, 27, were flown to a Frobisher Bay hospital after being mauled by a polar bear.

Mr. Taylor returned to his home in Ottawa and Mr. Legault to his home in suburban Dorval last Sunday to recuperate.

"We'd all gone to bed early on that particular night," Mr. Legault said. "At 3 a.m. my tent-mate Ross Cameron and I were awakened suddenly by a flapping sound outside.

PAWS BLOODY
"We thought it was a fox and Ross went to check," he said. "The bear immediately began to chase Ross."

"I decided to run also and when the bear saw me he changed directions, loped towards me and started pawing me. He got a grip on my head with his mouth and pulled me."

"I could see his paws were dripping with blood. While all this was happening I had three main thoughts."

"Firstly, my parents aren't going to be too pleased if I die up here. Then I thought of all the people I'd never get to see again."

"And finally I thought: 'I don't want to die up here!'" Mr. Taylor came out of his tent when he heard the commotion, holding one of the party's three rifles. He tried firing the gun but it would not go off.

By this time, the bear dropped Mr. Legault and attacked Mr. Taylor biting him about the head and shoulders.

Finally another member of the party, Jim Saville, 25, shot and killed the bear.

A radio dispatch to a Dew Line station in the western Arctic alerted the RCMP at Resolute Bay who sent help.

When the bear's stomach was opened, nothing was found but seaweed, an indication the bear had eaten nothing substantial for some time.

Mr. Legault, who received over 50 stitches to his scalp, neck and back, suffered no permanent damage and said he would go on a similar expedition again.

"Only this time I'd bring a bigger gun," he said.

Hurricane Doris

MIAMI (AP) — Hurricane Doris gained strength Tuesday as it continued to drift northward in the Atlantic Ocean far from the U.S. coastline, the National Hurricane Centre said.

Satellite weather pictures showed Doris was about 1,200 miles northeast of Bermuda, with highest winds estimated at 110 miles an hour, forecasters said.

Doris posed no immediate threat to any land areas.

Freighter burns

WHANGAREI, New Zealand (Reuter) — Four persons died and 11 others were still unaccounted for after fire swept through the 3,614-ton French freighter Capitaine Bougainville today off New Zealand's northern coast.

The ship, carrying 36 passengers and crew, radioed for assistance only about 10 hours after sailing from Auckland, New Zealand, bound for Sydney, Australia.

More than five hours later the vessel was still ablaze, and had drifted to within a mile of the shoreline.

Twenty survivors struggled ashore in gale force winds. Local residents lined the shore waiting to help them.

Rescuers said two bodies had been recovered, and the bodies of an adult male and a child could be seen in the surf.

First reports said four of the passengers travelling aboard the Capitaine Bougainville were children.

The ship, carrying general cargo, had come from Suva with a Fijian crew.

New Cabinet

LIMA (AP) — Peru's new military government says all news media operations closed by the government it overthrew can reopen and all political exiles can return.

This was the substance of the first statement issued after President Francisco Morales Bermudez installed a 17-man cabinet Tuesday. Gen. Morales ousted another military president, Gen. Juan Velasco Alvarado, last Friday in a bloodless coup.

Velasco closed several publications, including the bi-monthly magazine Caretas, the weeklies Oiga and Marka, and the English-language Peruvian Times, another weekly.

The president's statement warned that the "principle of authority" must be respected and there must be no attempt "to distort, brake or frustrate the revolutionary process."

Gen. Morales was premier and army chief of staff in the Velasco government. In the new cabinet, Gen. Oscar Vargas Prieto succeeded him as premier, and Gen. Jorge Fernandez Maldonado, the former minister of mines and energy, took over the army command.

Drive increases

LISBON (AP) — The drive to keep pro-Communist Gen. Vasco Goncalves from taking command of Portugal's armed forces continued to gather support today.

Unconfirmed reports said that despite a personal appeal from Goncalves, about 240 army officers ended a 15-hour emergency meeting at a barracks 80 miles north of Lisbon by voting against his installation as chief of staff of the armed forces.

Goncalves was to have been sworn in Monday, but this apparently is being delayed until after a showdown meeting Friday of the Armed Forces Movement, the group of officers responsible for the overthrow last year of the fascist dictatorship.

Reporters were barred from the army meeting at a barracks in Tancos. It was attended by influential opponents of Goncalves who had been the driving force behind President Francisco da Costa Gomes' decision Friday to replace him as premier.

The dissidents fear Goncalves will use his new position to increase Communist influence in the armed forces.

Chrysler pays big for "high polluting" cars

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — The Chrysler Corp. said Monday it paid under protest a $328,200 emissions control fine for selling what was called "high polluting" cars. It plans to settle the dispute in court.

The payment was announced earlier Monday by Tom Quinn, chairman of the California Air Resources Board (ARB). He said the cheque, delivered to his home during the weekend, was written in the amount of $328,400. The company had previously been cited by the ARB for some of its cars sold in California, which has the strictest anti-smog laws in the United States.

There was no immediate explanation for the discrepancy in the announced total of the cheque.

In Detroit, Chrysler issued a statement saying: "In our judgment, the ARB has taken Chrysler's emission test results and blown them way out of proportion. The accusation that our engines are high polluters is a vast exaggeration."

Chrysler said it delivered the cheque "only after the ARB agreed beforehand not to endorse the cheque but to set it aside in a joint escrow account until the legal issues are settled in court."

The Chrysler spokesman said less than 200 engines have failed to meet California's standards.

The fine, at $50 for each car, was levied on Chrysler, Dodge and Plymouth models powered by the firm's largest engine, which has a displacement of 440 cubic inches.

At the same time that it levied the fine, the ARB also forced Chrysler to halt the California sales of unsold models containing the 440 CID engine until they can be repaired and given expensive anti-smog tests. Quinn said the tests might cost Chrysler $500,000.

Rain and fashion put umbrellas up

TORONTO (CP) — Umbrellas, once considered dull but necessary rainy-day accessories, are selling faster than ever, borne on a tide of high fashion.

Manufacturers report sales are up about 20 per cent from this time last year.

Marjorie Stewart, an umbrella buyer for Simpsons Ltd., of Toronto, says that as clothing has become more casual and colorful, so have umbrellas.

One manufacturer explains that umbrellas give convenience and elegance whereas raincoats cover up stylish clothes.

One area of fast sales growth has been in men's umbrellas.

RETURN TO FASHION
"We tried off and on for eight to 10 years to sell more fashionable men's umbrellas," says Miss Stewart. "But only in the last year have they sold well."

In Toronto, women are still outbuying men by two to one, she said, but "men generally go for more expensive umbrellas."

"They're more interested

Shell claims consumers getting "excellent value"

TORONTO (CP)—Shell Canada Ltd. claimed before a provincial inquiry Tuesday that even with high prices the consumer is receiving "excellent value" for a gallon of regular gasoline compared with purchases 20 years ago.

George Bevan, Shell vice-president of marketing, told the one-man royal commission of Claude Isbister that the question is not whether gasoline prices are excessive but whether they can "even be considered adequate."

Mr. Isbister began hearing testimony Monday from oil companies on whether they should be allowed to increase in gismos and like to buy $12 to $16 telescopic umbrellas."

Jack Sibulash, president of Atlas Umbrella Manufacturing Ltd. of Toronto, said men's umbrellas account for about 30 per cent of the market.

Four or five years ago, they never took more than 10 per cent.

PRICE RESISTANCE
While sales have risen, there was some consumer buying resistance in the last year to sharp price increases, manufacturers say.

Prices of some umbrellas jumped 25 per cent in two or three months, partly as the result of the declining value of the Canadian dollar.

Costs have risen for the industry too, and Canadian manufacturers face stiff competition from low-priced umbrellas from the far east.

Umbrellas, of course, are still sold for their usefulness.

"As our cities grow larger and you have to walk from subway and bus stops, you can really get drenched," says Mr. Sibulash.

"Umbrellas are becoming a necessity in our cities."

prices after the provincial freeze ends Oct. 1.

Mr. Bevan, who called for national policy guidelines on oil pricing, said in two briefs that price changes for gasoline in the last 20 years compare favorably with other frequently-purchased items such as milk, butter, public transit and beer.

For example, he said it took 16.4 minutes of work to buy a gallon of gasoline in 1955, but only 8.5 minutes to make the same purchase today.

NOT INCONSISTENT
Return on funds was not inconsistent with those earned in other industries.

Antifreeze to be in adequate supply, with prices stable

TORONTO (CP) — Manufacturers expect antifreeze supplies to be adequate and prices stable this winter despite an earlier fear of shortages, a spokesman for Union Carbide Canada Ltd. of Toronto said Wednesday.

"Motorists will have no trouble this year," the spokesman said, adding that retail prices should remain in the $6 to $7 a gallon range.

Owen Elliot, vice-president of Dow Chemical of Canada Ltd., of Sarnia, Ont., said that demand and supply will be well-balanced and prices stable.

The two companies produce about 90 per cent of the ethylene glycol-based antifreeze for the domestic market, the remainder supplied by imports. The spokesmen attributed the softening of the market to reduced new car production and lower demand for polyester fibre, made from ethylene glycol.

New York

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Stock Exchange, uneasy over New York City's financial difficulties and the latest U.S. budget deficit figures, took a sharp downward swing in light trading Tuesday.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials edged upward briefly at the opening, but then lapsed into a steady slide that left it with an 11.65 decline at 823.69 by the close.

The average had climbed 30.58 points last week. Declining issues outstripped gainers 992 to 399 among the 1,748 traded.

NYSE volume shrank to 11.46 million shares from 15.48 million on Friday before the three-day holiday weekend.

The NYSE's composite index fell 74 to 45.55, and Standard and Poor's 500-stock index lost 1.40 to 85.48.

ward tilt at the outset appeared to stem from encouragement over a continued rise in factory orders reported by the U.S. commerce department for July.

But the rally attempt soon yielded to uncertainty over New York City's financial trouble and its potential impact on the markets.

Governor Hugh Carey called the New York state legislature into special session for Thursday, one day before the city's treasury is due to run out of the cash it needs to meet expenses. Carey described the city as "at the edge of a precipice" financially.

Brokers said the market was also depressed by the news that the U.S. federal budget deficit in July swelled to $11.05 billion, the second largest negative reading on record for a calendar month.

Gold stocks encountered selling pressure, following along with the steep drop in London bullion prices that followed agreement by an International Monetary Fund group on a plan for gold sales to aid poor countries. The London price dropped below $150 for the first time in nearly a year.

School fair planned for Stanstead County

AYER'S CLIFF (IH) — The annual school fair will be taking place for Stanstead County schools and Alexander Galt Regional School at the Ayer's Cliff Fair grounds Sept. 10 and 11. This 59th annual fair will be different this year. Women's Institute representatives of the County Branches met Monday evening, August 25 at the home of Mrs. Lillian McFaul in Ayer's Cliff to discuss the fair.

September 5 has been set as the deadline for any entries of exhibits and for the talent show. These will come to the fair grounds and be placed in two or three buildings on the grounds for judging and display and will be brought in Wednesday morning, September 10 with each school responsible for transporting them; also for picking up the exhibits after 2 p.m. Thursday afternoon. Judging will be done on Wednesday and the Institute people agreed to arrange for the judges with several to be contacted. At noon Wednesday a chicken pie dinner will be served by the Ayer's Cliff Branch in the Beulah United Church Hall.

There were 900 packages of seeds distributed to students in the spring and it is anticipated the vegetable and flower exhibits will be numerous. In addition there are categories such as handwork, cooking, needle work, ceramics, pottery and many other items. The official opening of the fair for the students to be accompanied by teachers will be at 8:30 a.m. with all events taking place on the grandstand and stage. Opening ceremonies will be followed by public speaking, one from each school and by the talent show, again one from each school.

By this time it should be 10 a.m. and sports will be on the program to include field day activities and a visit to the exhibits, each class group at a time.

The Ayer's Cliff Women's Institute will serve quick lunches and from 1:30 to 2 p.m., there will be the presentation of trophies and square dancing. W.G. MacDougall will also speak a few words.

At the opening parade in the morning it is anticipated several dignitaries will be in the review box on the grandstand. The over-all theme of the fair is Agriculture with the following schools depicting aspects of the theme as follows: Ayer's Cliff, Lumbering; Coaticook, Harvest; Magog, Planting; North Hatley, Produce; Sunnyside, Rock Island, Dairy.

Students are being encouraged to make band instruments to play, costumes, banners and so forth to illustrate the theme. The schedule is very tight and the general public attending must come early 8:30 to see what takes place throughout. Exhibit rooms will be open to the public on Thursday.

This year it was agreed that the boy and girl to have the highest aggregate will be recipients of two large trophies which will be engraved with their name. Then it will be placed for the year in their school. Four individual trophies for the first and second highest aggregate winners, boys and girls, will be presented for them to keep. Also last year's winners will be presented their miniature cups.

The Institute agreed upon five public speaking prizes. This two day fair and program is on a trial basis for this year and will determine future Stanstead County School Fairs.

Grant goes to U of S for science research

The National Research Council of Canada, under its Negotiated Grants Program, has awarded $370,000 to the Department of Biology of the Science Faculty at University of Sherbrooke. The grant, spaced over four years, will allow the university to continue its program of gastrointestinal research.

Purpose of the NRC Negotiated Grants Program is to allow a Canadian university and NRC to support groups of highly-qualified researchers in their quest for increased knowledge in broad areas affecting Canada's scientific, economic and social development.

The team of scientists, headed by Drs. J. Morisset, J. Dunnigan and A. Beaudoin, are members of the Gastrointestinal Research Unit at Sherbrooke University, a unit which has recently been designated as an Interuniversity Center. They will first study the capacity for function of nervous and hormonal stimuli which control the secretion and synthesis of enzymes and biological liquids involved in the digestion process.

The primary role of the exocrine gland of the digestive tract is to regulate and secrete the enzymes and digestive liquids which facilitate the digestion of foods.

Current as well as future research will concentrate on the mechanisms of secretion and synthesis of these products. The secretion of enzymes and biological liquids is promoted at the cellular level by digestive glands through stimulating agents which act on specific receptors. The linkage of the

Grants go to libraries

QUEBEC (BP) — Provincial grants to libraries and road work were announced recently by local members of the National Assembly.

Jean-Paul Pepin, MNA for Sherbrooke, announced that the Ministry of Cultural Affairs has granted $44,329 to the Sherbrooke Public Library. Meanwhile, St. Francois MNA Gerard Deziel announced $985 grant to the Lennoxville Public Library. Both grants are for the current fiscal year, but will not be made until early 1976.

Both men stated that the financial aid indicated by the Ministry of Cultural Affairs shows the importance the government is placing on such important institutions like libraries.

Glen Brown, MNA for Brome-Missisquoi County, announced two road contracts for his constituency. The larger of the two, for $141,262.27, was given to Comet Construction of Cowansville Inc. for recovering 10.1 miles of road along routes 139 and 104.

The other contract from the Ministry of Transport, worth $37,843.21, went to Comet Construction also. It was for preparation and laying of a concrete retaining wall along Range 5 road. The work will be done in the Town of Brome Lake, covering a distance of 1.78 miles.

ET firms get grants

OTTAWA — Don Jamieson, Minister of Regional Economic Expansion, recently announced that 14 firms across Canada have accepted development incentive offers from his Department. An estimated total of 267 jobs are expected to be created by these projects.

In the Eastern Townships Mark E. Kurtz, on behalf of a company to be incorporated, has accepted an offer of approximately $111,000 for a new facility at Granby to manufacture exchange resins. This product is used in water treatment by the chemical, oil and food industries. The project is expected to create an estimated 21 jobs. The offer is based on a rate of 25 per cent of the approved capital costs, estimated at $320,000, plus 15 per cent of the approved wages and salaries, estimated at $207,000.

Robert P. Millette, acting on behalf of a company to be incorporated, has accepted an offer of approximately $78,000 for a new facility in Granby to manufacture dressed sheet metal for incinerators, air conduits and light structures. The project is expected to create an estimated 13 jobs. The offer is based on a rate of 25 per cent of the approved capital costs, estimated at $242,000, plus 15 per cent of the approved wages and salaries, estimated at $118,000.

Stowe-Woodward Co. Ltd. has accepted an offer of approximately $796,000 for a new facility in Sherbrooke to manufacture roll coverings for the pulp and paper and textile industries. The project is expected to create 78 new jobs. The offer is based on a rate of 12 per cent of the approved capital costs, estimated at $4.5 million, plus $3,700 for each eligible job created.

Former Sherbrooke man dies

Leo H. Liddell, a former resident of Sherbrooke, passed away suddenly at his home in Ste. Therese de Bainville, Que. where he acted as caretaker for the United Church and lived at 22 St. Charles Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Liddell were noted for their generous hospitality and interest in church and community, belonging to organizations such as the Victorian Order of Nurses, the Horizon Association and Church Boards. Many tributes were paid by the citizens of Ste. Therese and newspapers of the Montreal area including La Presse and La Voix des Milles Illes on the occasion of the celebration last year of the Liddell's fiftieth wedding anniversary and Mr. Liddell's recent death, particularly on account of his association with and interest in French Canadians.

The largely attended funeral on August 5th was held from the funeral parlors of Maurice Savaria Ltee. to the United Church. Following the service interment took place at the Community Service Centre described at Bolton Center

BOLTON CENTER — On August 14, 22 people attended a meeting held in the United Church at Bolton Center. Those in attendance were from Bolton Center and South Bolton.

The meeting was called by Neil Wallace, a theological student from McGill University, who was hired by the Yamaska Valley Parish Council to research the requirements for a CLSC (Centre Local des Services Communautaires) or Local Community Service Center. He has been active with the project throughout summer months in other areas in the district. The purpose of the meeting was to provide information regarding the benefits of a CLSC and to examine the medical needs of the area.

The following questions and answers were given:

1. What is a CLSC? CLSC means Local Community Service Center. It is a Center for providing health services.

2. Who finances a CLSC? The Provincial Government of Quebec provides the funds.

3. What are the criteria for establishing a CLSC? (a) minimum population requirement of 10,000 persons for a rural population; (b) distance between different points in regard to time and transportation; (c) the availability of resources in the region.

4. What are the steps leading to the establishment of a CLSC? (1) community information meetings; (2) forming of a community committee; (3) consolidation of local committees throughout the whole area; (4) forming of a Provisional Committee; (5) communication and negotiation with the Government.

5. What are some of the services which are needed and might be available under a CLSC? (a) emergency care and transportation to hospital; (b) mental health programmes;

(c) services for the elderly; (d) family life education; (e) referral services and coordination of existing services.

6. What region will be covered by the CLSC? Most of the Brome and Missisquoi counties.

7. Where would a CLSC be located? A CLSC in the Brome-Missisquoi region need not be confined to one location. Centers from which services might be coordinated will be decided by the Provisional Committee in consultation with the local committees.

Following a brief discussion a local committee was nominated: Sydney Williams, Kathen Peasley, Mrs. Phyllis Terrio, Mrs. Elsie Paige, C.A. Randall, Mrs. Myrtle Davis and Mrs. Hilda Cousens.

Before adjournment, Mr. Wallace asked that a close look be taken at the specific needs of the community and that a report be presented at the next meeting.

Sweetsburg Court

SWEETSBURG WARD (JM) — Larry Westover, 18, of Clarenceville, was remanded in custody pending preliminary hearing, September 10, on a count of theft of an undisclosed amount of cash from the Larocque Hotel, Noyan, August 14, 1975.

Judge Bernard Legare upheld Crown Prosecutor Claude Noisieux' request for preventative detention at a bail hearing following Westover's plea of no guilt to the charge. Mr. Noisieux told the court the accused had been cited to the next term of the local assizes following preliminary hearing on a count of discharging a firearm dangerous to the public peace, and had been bound over to keep the peace pending his trial.

Westover was represented by Jean Paul Couture.

Judge Legare handed Serge Villeneuve, 21, of Chicoutimi Nord, a one year suspended sentence and placed him on probation for the same period. He then sentenced Pierre Jean-Louis, 20, of Laval to 10 consecutive weekends in jail from Saturday at 9 a.m. until Sunday at 4 p.m., and placed him on one year's probation upon his release.

Both men pleaded guilty to two counts of breaking and entering dwellings in Granby at their arraignment April 16. Crown prosecutor Noisieux asked for a jail term at the discretion of the bench.

Gilles Mercure, Legal Aid Office, who represented the two men, said they had obtained work as promised when they were released in April, and cited the probation reports which suggested they should benefit from suspended sentences.

Judge Legare noted Villeneuve had no prior record, while Jean-Louis had been convicted of simple theft and receiving stolen goods, prior to rendering his sentence. Both men must report to probation officers monthly for the next year.

Ms. Colette Jalbert, Granby, changed her option and pleaded guilty to two counts of breaking and entering dwellings, and theft of a dog, in Granby. Her sentence was adjourned to September 15 at the suggestion of her lawyer, Rejean Choiniere. He told the court she had other charges to answer to and would plead guilty. Ms.

Cecil Wallis, Mansonville, was found guilty of two counts of hit and run. He was fined $75 and costs in default 15 days on the first, $100 and costs, in default three weeks on the second, and was allowed two months to pay the fines and costs.

Trial in the cases of Pierre Major and Rosaire Larose was continued to September 15 by Judge Legare. The continuation was ordered when the person who called the Town of Brome Lake police to say the young men were bathing in the nude near Fulford, failed to appear as a witness.

Jalbert was allowed her freedom pending sentencing.

Judge Legare continued sentence in the case of Maurice Hevey to December 8. Hevey, of the Town of Brome Lake, pleaded guilty to assault causing bodily harm and to having threatened the life of Jeannot Ouellette at his arraignment during April, 1975.

Crown Attorney Noisieux suggested continuation of the sentence, and Judge Legare continued Hevey's probation which stipulates he must not contact his victim in any way and must refrain from entering establishments where alcohol is served for consumption on premises.

Gaetan Daigle and Marc Marois, both of St. Joachim, who had been cited to the upcoming assizes following preliminary hearing on counts of breaking and entering dwellings, changed their options and pleaded guilty to the counts.

They were remanded in custody pending preparation of probation reports and sentencing September 15.

Steve Johnson and Michel Lessard, both of Mansonville, pleaded guilty to counts of simple theft of automobile wheels. Crown attorney Noisieux suggested the men be fined, placed on probation, and forbidden to enter establishments in the County of Brome where alcohol is sold for consumption on premises.

Judge Legare fined Johnson, who committed two counts to $75 and costs. Lessard, $50 and costs and placed them on probation for one year with the condition they refrain from entering any licensed establishments in Brome county during that period.

CDC

A high-powered campaign is now under way to sell Canadian shares in the Canada Development Corporation — a government-sponsored and (to date) — funded corporation designed to "help develop and maintain strong Canadian controlled and managed corporations in the private sector of the economy" and to "give Canadians greater opportunities to invest and participate in the economic development of Canada." How the public is reacting to the campaign is not yet definite; but the corporation itself is running into criticism from a number of quarters, including former Liberal cabinet minister Eric Kierans. Mr. Kierans opposes the corporation because, he says, it does nothing for the long-range development of the economy and, furthermore, investors can do better with their money elsewhere — and with less risk.

The appeal of the corporation is to national pride; but whether an emotional appeal of this kind can match the appeal of dollars and cents remains to be seen. The brochure put out by the corporation goes out of its way to stress that the securities of the CDC are not guaranteed in any way by the government of Canada; but there may well exist a feeling in the public's mind that because the corporation is the child of the government, which put up the initial money and which will always have majority control of the CDC, the public somehow can't lose.

When the CDC was established by an act of Parliament in 1971, after ten years of talking about it, a number of questions were raised — questions which seem as pertinent now, when the public is being asked to invest its money directly (the original capitalization came from the federal government which, of course, means from the public also — but indirectly) as they were then.

The CDC is designed to act as a private corporation, free of political influences (although Ottawa will retain majority control). That is a noble intention. But undoubtedly there will, in future, be a danger that when the CDC is designing its investment program and approving projects for its corporate investment, plans may be tailored to suit the policies of the government of the day. Certainly the corporation will be under pressure in this area, where political values may be allowed to override sound business reasoning.

When the government comes to consider policy matters such as trade and tariffs, business restrictions, consumer interest, taxation policies, it will be most surprising if it is not sympathetic toward this corporation which it has created. For example, if some of the industries under the CDC umbrella find themselves in difficulty in the market place, there will be a tendency for the government to step in to help it out through protection of some kind. This will have to be paid for by the public which will then, in effect, be helping to maintain the dividends going to CDC shareholders.

The public has too often seen what happens when the government gets its hands on businesses which have had to be refinanced, reorganized and subsidized out of the public purse after initial statements about how these would soon be financially independent and profitable. One can only hope that the pattern is not about to be repeated.

Portuguese premier hangs on despite odds

WASHINGTON (CP) — The amazing tenacity of Portuguese Premier Vasco Goncalves in clinging to office far longer than most observers anticipated seems to be a direct result of the ominous divisions which split his angry opponents.

And to most experts, the depths of these schisms and the intense bitterness they have generated appear far more threatening for the future of embattled Portugal than does the eventual fate of Goncalves.

The confusing array of anti-Goncalves forces are united in knowing what they don't want — his brand of authoritarian communism based on Eastern European models — but seem to have no clear idea whatever of what they can agree on as a replacement.

The political ideologies now motivating the various rioting factions in Portugal range in bewildering numbers from the far right to the far left and even within each extreme there seem to be serious conflicts.

Many of the groups existed underground prior to the April, 1974, military coup which overthrew the former dictator, Marcello Caetano, and have since emerged in strength to begin consolidating their grip on various parts of the society.

WANT REVOLUTION

The most significant of these are Marxist-oriented pro-Peking groups who present themselves as alternatives to the more traditional Communist and Socialist parties and seem to be gaining strength among soldiers, workers and peasants.

Basically, they want an immediate transfer of power to the workers without the formation of any parties.

The Communist party, which managed to gain only 12.5 per cent of the popular vote in April elections for a powerless constitutional assembly, is modelled along Soviet lines but it has been trying to move in step with more moderate elements and appears less intent on a quick switch to workers' control.

The extreme right is represented in the Social Democratic Centre and includes elements from the old Caetano regime. It is reported to be maintaining close links with highly-conservative groups in other Western countries and is an avid supporter of continuing Portugal's membership in the NATO alliance.

DIVISIONS THREATENING

Somewhere in the middle of the ideological spectrum are the Socialist and Popular Democrat parties which are stridently opposed to the revolutionaries, the Communists and the right-wing bloc.

These divisions are serious enough in themselves but they are given dramatic added importance by the fact they are reflected in the 240-man Armed Forces Movement charged with setting over-all government policy.

The vacillation of President Francisco da Costa Gomes in dealing with the Goncalves problem during the last week, observers believe, has been a direct reflection of his fear that a hasty move in almost any direction now runs the risk of sparking a coup by one of the military factions.

But the most serious issue is that this fear has created a kind of paralysis in all fields of policy, adding to the pressures on the fragile and battered social structure and casting even more gloom over predictions for the future of Portugal.

Letters to the Editor

Hold death penalty referendum

(Ed. Note: The following letter was sent to all Members of Parliament in Canada.)

Dear Sir:

We wish to present to you our concerns regarding the enforcement of laws in our country and the safety of its citizens. The tragic death of four children in this community has prompted us to do this. We realize that any action at this time cannot change the results of this case should this murderer be put on trial in the future.

We would ask that a national referendum be held on the question of the reinstatement of capital punishment in Canada and the enforcement of this law, and that any ensuing legislation be based on the results of this referendum.

Two recent events in British Columbia have resulted in policemen fatally shooting suspects while investigating situations. One policeman is being charged with murder punishable by life imprisonment. If our policemen feel they must pull their guns to protect themselves because our laws will not offer enough protection, then these laws should be changed and strengthened.

A recent newspaper article by Peter Worthington of the Toronto Sun states that "most of those M.P.s who said they were total abolitionists, didn't give a damn about their constituents' wishes and voted only according to their own consciences." We feel we cannot accept this. An issue such as this which involves a proposed change in the laws should reflect the wishes of Canadians.

We ask that you, as a representative of the Canadian people, discuss this with your constituents before you return to Ottawa for the Fall Session of Parliament, and learn their feelings on this very important issue.

We would appreciate hearing from you.

Yours sincerely,

Why insure automobiles?

To the Editor:
I would like an explanation as to why I should insure my car? There are many reasons to doubt the necessity of insurance —

1. The cost last year to insure my car was $130.00.
2. This year the cost is approximately $220.00, also one way.
3. If I should have a claim for $400.00 I am obliged to pay $250.00.
4. The insurance company will pay $150.00 but this will be added onto my yearly total of $220.00 until the difference is paid back to the insurance company.

I have never had a claim that was my fault. I think it is about time that our Government, or rather the people, should say "No more RIP OFF."

When an individual receives his or her license, there is no fault insurance included, consequently everyone pays!

I would like to ask one more question. Why is it, that the cost of insurance in the province of Quebec is so much higher than elsewhere? Does the answer lie in Quebec's big problem with — "those damned English".

Sincerely,
John Luce

Defense chief in a fog

WASHINGTON — Defense Secretary James Schlesinger, whose duties include leading the Navy, got lost in a fog off the Rhode Island coast a few days ago.

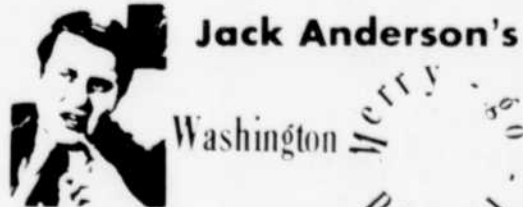

He ventured out to sea, it seems, in hot pursuit of two rare seabirds. Splashing through a churning sea in a 23-foot motorboat, he gave chase to a shearwater, a bird that shears the tops of the waves with its wings. Not only did the Pentagon chief lose his bearings but he became slightly seasick.

The ruffled, amiable Schlesinger, a professional type given to pipe puffing and bird watching, happens to be one of America's most dedicated bird fanciers. He has compiled a list of hundreds of birds he had beheld, each one verified as meticulously as his Pentagon inventory.

But until last month, 10 New England species had managed to elude his sharp eyes. Then, while visiting Newport, R.I., he learned that two of the elusive waterbirds had been spotted in the vicinity.

Rhode Island naturalist Lee Gardner confided where the tiny Wilson's Petrel and the larger Cory's Shearwater might be observed. Schlesinger couldn't have been more excited if the Glomar had located another sunken Soviet submarine.

The nearby Newport naval facility offered to provide him with a suitable boat to pursue the rare birds. But the scrupulous Schlesinger wouldn't hear of it. Instead, he accepted an offer from his friend and assistant, Bing West, who possessed a 165-horsepower motorboat adequate for bird chasing.

for one sure look. But the defense secretary insisted upon a close inspection.

So the great chase began, both bird and boat whipping over the waves at speeds up to 30 knots. If the shearwater knew where it was going, Schlesinger did not. A fog closed in before the crew could take reliable sightings.

At first, they thought they were headed for Block Island, R.I., but soundings indicated otherwise. Although there was a two-way radio aboard, Schlesinger didn't want to call the Block Island Coast Guard radio station for fear of setting off an air-sea search.

Instead, he told his companions, tongue in cheek: "I know we can find the U.S. as long as we continue north. My only concern is whether it turns out to be New York or Newport."

For 45 minutes, they tried to figure by charts, compass and soundings where they were. They solved the mystery by asking a sailboat skipper who happened by. They were less than a mile away, it turned out, from their target, the familiar Point Judith, R.I. landmark.

Once ashore, Schlesinger had much to say about the two rare seabirds. He didn't bother to mention to his top admirals that he had spent 45 minutes floundering in a fog.

The wasted postage has been estimated between $73,000 and $621,000. In his isolation at San Clemente, ex-President Richard Nixon has spoken contemptuously of western Europe. Our European allies, he grumped, "can no longer carry their share of the load."

National Symphony executives, who traveled to New York City for contract discussions with famous Russian musician Mstislav Rostropovich, were startled when the maestro answered their knock wearing his wife's flowing Tosca opera wig. White House and Justice officials, meeting behind closed doors to bolster the nation's antinarcotics battle, unaccountably selected two young novices to handle the planning. They are White House budget officer Ed Johnson and Justice policymaker Jonathan Rose. The latter's main qualification is his father's friendship with Richard Nixon.

The CIA not only tried to cover up its efforts to salvage an obsolete sunken Soviet submarine but is now covering up its peculiar handling of the story. Intelligence experts believe that the Soviets will keep a low profile in Portugal as long as Leonid Brezhnev is in charge of the Kremlin. However, the Kremlin has secretly funneled money and arms to the Portuguese communists.

Contingency plans have been developed for the emergency evacuation of U.S. military personnel and dependents from Turkey in case Congress refuses again to lift the arms embargo. The brass hats believe this would be the last straw for the Turks who might turn angrily anti-American. One reason Israel resisted a pullback in the Sinai is that its Army had installed a complex, multimillion-dollar network of barbed wire and minefields across the desert.

Famous painter turns home into masterpiece

One of Canada's most prominent painters Arthur Villeneuve has turned his Chicoutimi, Quebec residence into a personal masterpiece.

A picture book atmosphere has been created in the 90-year-old house with brightly colored frescos covering the outside and virtually the entire interior including walls, ceilings, stairway.

Scenes depict everyday life in a manner which has been described as childlike simplicity. However, his critics recognize the depth in his work. It tells the story of man through the ages.

Sliding panels in the entrance between the kitchen and the living room are decorated with stylized urban scenes. Upstairs, tiny rooms contain further treasures. Canvases worth thousands of dollars decorate the walls and complement beautiful furnishings and bedspreads. Colors are violent. Subjects express a simplified reality described close to the abstract.

In 1972, the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts organized a retrospective exhibition of Villeneuve's paintings. Exhibitions of his work were afterwards taken to Quebec City, Ottawa, Vancouver and France. The work of this artist — 3,200 canvasses — is mentioned in the Art populaire du Canada catalogue.

Villeneuve's work is also in display in the Quebec City Museum and Ottawa's National Gallery. Numerous publications in Canada have dealt with his artistic creations and a book concerning them will soon appear in the U.S.

Villeneuve reflects a personal view of the world around him.

TORONTO — Lorenzo Lamontagne, 24-year-old swimmer from Sherbrooke, concluded practice today for the Canadian National Exhibition marathon swim across Fiddle Lake Ontario. Over the weekend, the French-speaking stalwart will rest in preparation for the 32-mile jaunt on Labor Day, in which 35 marathoners will compete.

Swim-wise, observers pick a former Canadian, Tommy Park, now living in Lakewood, California to become the first man to conquer the rough waterspan.

Odds are 2-1 on Park, 3-1 on Toronto's Cliff Lumsden, coached by Gus Ryder, the man who piloted the little girl of the lake, Marilyn Bell, to her triumphant crossing, and 25-1 on an unknown swimmer named Lamontagne. (These by Toronto experts of the bookmaking trade.)

SHERBROOKE — Whether the City of Sherbrooke will or will not buy a piece of land situated at the corner of Council St. and Bowen Ave., in the East Ward, for the purpose of improving this dangerous corner, still remains as indefinite after two hours of discussion as it did when the matter was first introduced into City Council at its regular session last evening.

The Road Committee report recommended to the Council that a plot of land at this intersection be purchased immediately from Mr. Charles Daigle for the sum of $6,000, together with an additional $1,200 as the cost of demolishing the buildings on the said site. The acceptance of this report was duly moved by Dr. L. Forest, chairman of the department, and seconded by Alderman E. Fortier, when Alderman S.R. Newton arose to his feet and asked if the city was in a financial position to make the purchase.

International Dressage Competition to be held at Bromont on Sept. 5-7

MONTREAL — Approximately 40 riders from at least four nations, accompanied by more than 50 horses, will compete in the International Dressage Competition at the Olympic Equestrian Centre, Bromont, Sept. 5-7.

Mrs. Gillian Wilson, COJO co-ordinator for dressage, says the presence of numerous world-renowned riders will make the event the most significant of its type ever held in North America.

Particularly outstanding entries are Harry Boldt, a member of the German team that won a gold medal at the 1975 world championships in Copenhagen, and Karen Schluter of the silver medal team in the 1972 Munich Olympic Games.

France is also sending a strong representative, Dominique d'Esme, who has won numerous European contests.

The Grand Prix competition on Saturday, Sept. 6, will decide the new Canadian champion. The only freestyle event, the Kur, is set for Sunday afternoon, and like skating, involves a freely designed pattern set to music.

Tom Clements gets nod against Als

MONTREAL (CP) — Tom Clements, who came on to spark Ottawa Rough Riders to a win over Saskatchewan Roughriders 10 days ago, will be Ottawa's starting quarterback tonight when the Rough Riders take on Montreal Alouettes.

"Condredge (Holloway) is all right now," Ottawa coach George Brancato said Tuesday. "But Tom did a job for us in Regina. He deserves the chance to start."

Clements, a graduate of Notre Dame University, made his first professional start Aug. 24 replacing Holloway, injured in a game against Calgary Stampeders Aug. 21. He completed 12 of 23 passes for 154 yards as the Rough Riders defeated Saskatchewan 23-16 for their first win in the western city since 1961.

In preparation for tonight's contest, Montreal coach Marv Levy has been working on the possibility of either Holloway or Clements starting at quarterback for the Rough Riders.

The Alouettes got a last-play field goal by Don Sweet to down Ottawa 34-31 in their first meeting of the season Aug. 12 in Ottawa. In that game Holloway was the Riders starter and performed well despite the loss.

SOME RIDERS LIMPING
 Ottawa coach George Brancato said both guard Bob Neece and defensive tackle Bruce Smith are limping but should be in tonight's lineup. Neece has ligament trouble and Smith is being bothered with a hamstring that has already sidelined him.

With running back John Bledsoe on the injury list, Brancato plans to use Art Green and Jim Foley as his

Beavers pack power, Quebec here Friday

By LEN O'DONNELL

Two thousand eight hundred and thirty-four (2,834) hockey fans journeyed to the Sports Palace last evening to see the Whites tangle with the Blues in an Inter-squad feature.

The weather was anything but good for a hockey game but the fans saw forty-four players battling for a post with the Sherbrooke Beavers. It was slow in getting under-way as the newcomers weren't just sure about things in general. Several fights were tossed in for good measure and this was just what the crowd was looking for. Nobody was injured but at one time at least six players were rolling around pulling at each other.

The outcome of the game didn't matter much but to the players it was, for some, their final opportunity of showing their wares and they were going all-out. Time after time they came up with some good plays but they seemed just a little out of place as they weren't accustomed to their mates.

General-manager Georges Guilbault along with Coach Ghislain Delage and Jean-Guy St. Pierre, chief scout, watched activities from the stands and following the tilt went into conference to decide just who they would retain. It must be remembered that the boys have been skating for only three days but despite this they were going all-out. They seemed to be in good physical condition and several hard body checks were tossed around.

Following the game the late news was that Peter Marchuk and Pierre Bedard had been given their outright releases by the Beavers. This permits them to try for a position with any other club in the league, stated

Coach Delage.

Along with Bedard and Marchuk a total of 14 players were released but the majority of them will be reporting to the Granby Vics, the Beavers' farm club. In this manner the Beavers will still have their hands on them if anything should happen, especially in the case of injuries.

Peter Marchuk and Floyd Lahache staged the best battle of the evening and several good blows were struck in this encounter. Lahache had come to the help of Tony Casale, who first clashed with Marchuk.

The fans gave some of their favorites a hearty round of applause when they were introduced. Jere Gillis, Floyd Lahache, Fern Leblanc, Brendan Lowe and Bob Simpson led the parade.

The Beavers seem to be well packed with weight on the blue line with Ken Johnston, Bruno Bertrand, Tony Casale, Mich Bradt and Larry Monsour. They were dishing out some hard checks and didn't seem to worry too much about anybody. Coach Delage will be well strengthened in that department.

The team will practice for the next two days before meeting Ronnie Racette and his Quebec Remparts Friday evening at the Sports Palace. Game time 8:00.

Red Sox dump Yanks 7-4 to hold lead, won't blow it this time, says Yastzremski, meet Orioles Boston Red Sox won't be the Boston Red Faces this year, if they can help it.

"We'll be all right now," Carl Yastzremski said Tuesday night after the Red Sox whipped New York Yankees 7-4 in an American League baseball game. "We're going to hit and our pitching looks good."

The Red Sox, mindful of last year's flop when they blew a big lead in September, begin an eight-game road trip tonight against their chief antagonists—Baltimore Orioles.

The Orioles, who caught the Red Sox in last year's stretch run in the American League East, can cut off some of Boston's six-game lead in their two-game series.

"We'd like a split in Baltimore," said Boston third baseman Rico Petrocelli. "Everyone feels that way. The pressure is on them more than us. They can't afford to lose."

PREFERS SWEET
 Baltimore manager Earl Weaver, quite naturally, would not prefer a split—rather a sweep.

"We'll have to pick our self up," said Weaver, whose team split a doubleheader with Cleveland Indians Tuesday night. "If we can pick up two against Boston, we'll close it pretty good. Of course we can't afford to go eight out."

The Orioles beat the Indians 3-2 in the 10th inning of the opener Tuesday before losing the second game, 2-1.

In other American League games Tuesday, California Angels defeated Oakland A's 4-1, Kansas City Royals trimmed Chicago White Sox 4-1 in 12 innings, Minnesota Twins stopped Texas Rangers 5-3 and Milwaukee Brewers nipped Detroit Tigers 6-5.

FISK RETURNS
 Carlton Fisk, returning to the regular lineup for the first time in 10 days, drove in three runs with a pair of singles to help Boston snap a three-game losing streak.

Fisk, who suffered a split finger when hit by a foul tip on Aug. 23, lined a bases-loaded single to centre to cap a four-run third inning. He added a run-scoring single in the fifth.

Boston right-hander Reggie Cleveland, 10-9, allowed the Yankees a 1-0 lead on Chris Chambliss' ninth homer in the second inning. The Swift Current, Sask., native needed relief help after giving up a three-run homer to Thurman Munson in the eighth inning.

Bobby Grich singled home a run with two out in the 10th inning, giving Baltimore its first-game victory over Cleveland. Rico Carty's home run in the eighth inning gave the Indians the second game.

"We've put some pressure on the Red Sox by playing .667 ball since the all-star break," said Weaver. "If we hadn't done that, it would've been a cakewalk for the Red Sox."

PALMER FACES WISE
 Weaver will pitch 20-game winner Jim Palmer tonight against Rick Wise, Boston's 17-game winner.

Frank Tanana struck out 14 batters and pitched a five-hitter, leading California over Oakland.

Expos do it again, win 4-3

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Manager Danny Ozark shrugged his shoulders, held out his hands in a gesture of helplessness, and admitted that he just doesn't know what has happened to his Philadelphia Phillies.

The Phillies lost to Montreal Expos 4-3 Tuesday night, the fourth consecutive defeat for the faltering National League baseball team.

Ozark refused to buy the theory that the pressure of a close pennant race had gotten to the players in his regular lineup, who have never been through a National League stretch drive.

"We've made some bad plays—not because this is September," Ozark said. "We just haven't played well."

The Phillies have been playing poorly since the night in August when they beat Atlanta and tied Pittsburgh Pirates for the lead in East.

They're now five games behind the Pirates with 25 games left to play.

"We can win 20," Ozark said rather weakly.

The Phillies' dressing-room after Tuesday night's loss was like a morgue.

STRATEGY FLOPS
 Ozark feels his club is just snakebitten. Everything, including the strategy is back-firing.

For example, in the ninth inning Tuesday night the Expos led 3-2. Tim Foli doubled off reliever Tug McGraw. Barry Foote followed with a pop fly to short left.

Consistency to decide winner in National — Willie Stargell

Sluggo Willie Stargell of Pittsburgh Pirates says consistency will determine the outcome of the four-team pennant scramble in baseball's National League East.

Philadelphia Phillies are developing the kind of consistency that could take them right out of the race.

Philadelphia suffered its fourth consecutive loss and ninth in the last 12 games Tuesday night, dropping a 4-3 squeaker to Montreal Expos. First-place Pittsburgh, meanwhile, opened up some breathing room by pounding out an 8-4 triumph over New York Mets.

"Going down the stretch you need all the consistency you can get," said Stargell. "The team that is the most consistent this month is going to win it."

But Philadelphia has been displaying the wrong kind of consistency.

"I don't think it's pressure, we just haven't played well," said Phils manager Danny Ozark after his club's latest loss. "We're not swinging the bats any differently. It beats me what's happening."

In Tuesday's other National League games, Chicago Cubs beat St. Louis Cardinals 5-3, Cincinnati

They didn't get another run. Montreal starter Dennis Blair struck out pinch-hitter Tony Taylor, and got Dave Cash and Larry Bowa to end the inning.

Expos second baseman Pete MacKanin made a fine play on Bowa's grounder, throwing to second from a sitting position for a force-out.

As usual, Levy would not say whether Jimmy Jones or Sonny Wade would start at quarterback for Montreal.

Tonight's game will be carried on CTV's eastern network beginning at 8 p.m. EDT.

They didn't get another run. Montreal starter Dennis Blair struck out pinch-hitter Tony Taylor, and got Dave Cash and Larry Bowa to end the inning.

The Pirates belted six extra base hits, including home runs by Bill Robinson, Manny Sanguillen and Rennie Stennett, in beating the Mets and Kent Kulver turned in 3 1-3 innings of one-hit relief work.

Pittsburgh now leads St. Louis by four games, the Mets and Phillies by five.

"One of the real big things the Mets have is their Big Three: (Tom) Seaver, (Jerry) Koosman and (Jon) Matlack," said Stargell, referring to the Mets' ace pitchers. "We love to swing the bat, so it's power against power."

Seaver stymied the Pirates' power with a four-hit shutout Monday, but the Bucs' bats won out Tuesday. Tonight it's Matlack's turn.

A bloop by Barry Foote dropped in short right field for a double in the ninth inning, driving in Tim Foli to give Montreal a 4-2 lead. That proved to be the difference as Philadelphia rallied for one run in the bottom of the ninth but could not draw even.

TO YOUNG FARMER — Right, Reg Conner who started showing his first calf in the 4-H Heifers Club 51 years ago is now a retired farmer but keeps up his interest in the Ayer's Cliff Fair board and is one of the directors. He presents his annual donation to a winner of the Young Farmers 4-H club. Here Bernard Gagne is seen receiving the calf halter from Mr. Conner.

Young Farmers hold judging competition

AYER'S CLIFF (IH) — Friday, August 22 at Ayer's Cliff Fair the young farmers were in a judging competition. That evening they were guests of Agronome Narcisse Derby at a banquet held on the fair grounds.

Mr. Dery was M.C. and introduced the head table guests, each of whom spoke later. He also thanked the dining-room people for serving such an excellent turkey dinner.

Jean Paul Verpaest, fair board president, in his remarks of welcome said he is pleased to see so many young people still interested in the farm and said he hopes they will continue and participate in Ayer's Cliff Fairs of the future.

Mr. Charland of Sherbrooke also expressed pleasure to see the youth of today still interested in the good life of farming.

"The judging done today was good," were comments of Mr. Dery's assistant agronome, Denis Brouillard.

Jean Paul Lebel, of the Department of Agriculture of Quebec, spoke briefly on the same subject and congratulated everyone on their efforts.

retired from farming, exhibited his Holstein and Ayrshire cattle at the fairs for many years.

"I believe in the work the agronomes are doing for us with government money; I believe in the future, in you as farmers and the girls as farmer wives," he said. He concluded by presenting a calf halter (given annually) this year to Bernard Gagne. The Dale Miller halter was presented to Micheline Prevost.

Mr. Dery with assistants from the head table presented the following awards: Fair Board trophy for top place to Paul Rouillard, who scored 177 points; Bernard Gagne's were 175 and Micheline Prevost's 170.

Also to place were Luc Trepanier, 168; Ghislaine Leblond, 163; Gerard Trepanier, 162; and Lorraine Letourneau, 161.

In the junior division Claire Letourneau scored 162 points; Rachel Guay, 161; J. Pierre Huot, 160; Yvon St. Laurent, 155; Mario Genest, 151 and J. Francon Prevost, 144.

Each year Edward Hyatt of Stanstead donates cash prizes for the youngest boy or girl judging from one of the clubs. This year the winners were Helene Genest and Renald Guay.

Trophies were also presented by the Magog Dairy to Bernard Gagne and Lorraine Letourneau.

Size of farm loans on the increase

OTTAWA — The Farm Credit Corporation lent slightly less money to farmers last year than it did in 1973-74. But the average size of all loans increased.

In the fiscal year ending March 31, 1975, the Corporation approved 8,093 loans, a decrease of 948 from the previous year. The total amount approved decreased from slightly more than $400 million in 1973-74 to about $399 million in 1974-75.

The average size of loans increased to $49,279 from $44,317 in 1973-74. The increase reflects the rise in the price of farms and the costs of production, said Dr. Baldur H. Kristjanson, chairman of the FCC.

The reason for the decrease in the number of loans, Dr. Kristjanson said, was a record lending rate of 9 1/4 per cent and a less optimistic economic climate in agriculture. However, the amount lent in 1974-75 was the second highest since the creation of the Farm Credit Corporation in 1959, being surpassed only in 1973-74.

to emphasize loans to young farmers — those under 35. About 53 per cent of all loans last year were borrowers under 35, compared to 46 per cent in previous years.

Changes made this spring in the Farm Credit Act raise the maximum amount available to young farmers from $100,000 to $150,000. Other changes permit loans exceeding 90 per cent of the productive value of farmland and chattels, and permit young farmers to phase into full-time farming over a five-year period. The Corporation will also accept second or subsequent mortgages, allowing the borrower to retain an existing mortgage secured earlier on favorable terms.

Only 36 per cent of the funds approved in 1974-75 were for the purchase of land to add to established units, compared to nearly 47 per cent in 1973-74.

"The FCC is placing more emphasis on increasing net farm income per acre rather than increasing acreages," Dr. Kristjanson said.

In 1974-75, 21 per cent of all loans were made to businesses with more than one farmer-owner. The trend toward joint and multi-ownership has been apparent for some time, Dr. Kristjanson said.

Ontario topped the list of borrowers in 1974-75 with 2,030 loans granted to farmers in that province. They borrowed a total of $107,604,600.

The number of loans made to farmers in other provinces and the total amounts borrowed are: Saskatchewan, 1,932 ($88,193,200); Quebec, 1,530 ($74,500,500); Alberta, 1,526 ($78,923,800); Manitoba, 682 ($28,136,900); British Columbia, 243 ($15,043,400); Prince Edward Island, 73 ($2,968,400); New Brunswick, 63 ($2,632,700); Newfoundland, 9, ($710,000) and Nova Scotia, 5, ($100,600).

Farmers' repayment record was good. Of the $40.5 million principal due during the year, 91.1 per cent was paid. In addition, $46.3 million was paid on principal not due.

Interest due during the year amounted to $90.8 million, of which $87 million, or 95.8 per cent was paid. At the end of the fiscal year, the Corporation was holding two farms, with a total value of $33,745, for sale.

The Corporation also administers the Farm Syndicates Credit Act which was passed to overcome the high cost of individual ownership of machinery, buildings and equipment.

Statistics Canada reports 18 per cent fewer hogs on Canadian farms at July 1, 1975, compared to a year ago, with farmers reporting intentions to maintain last half farrowings well below 1974 levels. Some highlights of the report follow.

Total pigs on farms at July 1, 1975 were placed at 5.3 million head, down 18 per cent from a year ago, and the lowest number since 1965. Western numbers were down 32 per cent, with all three Prairie Provinces off by almost one-third. Eastern numbers declined seven per cent.

At July 1st, market pigs over three months were 23 per cent below a year ago. These are the hogs that comprise the bulk of July-September marketings.

Western numbers were down 37 per cent, led by the 45 per cent decline in Saskatchewan.

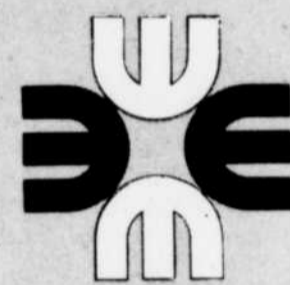

A reflection of marketings for the quarter, October-December, is gained by review of market hogs, under three months, at July 1st. In this category numbers were down 28 per cent in the West, off five per cent in the East for a national decline of 15 per cent.

Looking further ahead, the report indicates farmer intentions to farrow eight per cent fewer sows, compared to a year ago, in the last half of 1975. Farrowings in the summer quarter, July-September, are expected to be nine per cent below a year ago.

In analyzing the report it should be kept in mind that this record of farmers' farrowing intentions was made prior to the most recent surge in hog prices and when feed price prospects were not quite as buoyant as at present. It is difficult to speculate as to producer reaction to these changing factors.

Based on the report it appears hog marketings through the next 8 to 10 months, and maybe even longer, may run below year earlier levels resulting in relatively high prices. With current record hog prices, over $80 per cwt. basis Index 100 Toronto, it becomes necessary to give important consideration to consumer response at the retail counter when appraising the many factors having a bearing on market price direction.

40th Anniversary

STANBRIDGE EAST (KDT) - Mr. and Mrs. Lyall P. Rhicard of this town celebrated their 40th Wedding Anniversary on Aug. 24 at the Rhicard home, much to the enjoyment of some 160 friends and relatives from far and near.

This Open House surprise party really was a complete surprise to Lyall and Doris as they arrived home from Enosburg, Vt., having been enticed there for lunch by Mrs. Rhicard's sister, Mrs. John Hixon (Arlene) and husband, of Springfield, Mass.

They had attended church at the 10:30 a.m. service on Sunday and were afterwards invited out for lunch by the Hixons.

On arriving home in mid-afternoon they were taken completely by surprise to find their home hemmed in by so many cars. It was only then that they realized what was taking place. They most graciously adapted to the occasion and entered their home to the strains of "Here Comes The Bride" lustily sung by all of the guests. Before Mrs. Rhicard could fully regain her composure she was presented with a silk "Bridal Garter", which, by the way, fitted perfectly.

After congratulations had been extended individually by everyone present, the buzz of conversation reached its momentum as old friends reminisced.

Punch was then served to everyone, after which a delicious lunch was partaken of. Mr. and Mrs. Rhicard proceeded to cut a lovely three tiered wedding cake beautifully decorated, which was made by Mrs. Homer Yates after the same recipe as used by Lyall's aunt, Mrs. Minnie Borden many years ago and was decorated by Mrs. Ben Monette.

Guests and relatives were present from Springfield, Mass., Lincoln, R.I., Richmond and Franklin, Vt., Ottawa, Montreal, Macdonald, Moe's River, Bedford, Cowansville, Dunham, Frelighsburg and many other nearby towns.

They were also very pleased to receive a cablegram from Mrs. Rhicard's sister (Brenda) Mrs. G.B. Appleby, Nelson, New Zealand.

Lyall and Doris Rhicard are held in high esteem in this community as attested to by the many guests present and sincere good wishes extended by all for many more years of happiness for this worthy couple.

The announcement of this anniversary was made as follows: Earle, Daniel and Terry Rhicard wish to announce the 40th anniversary of their parents, Doris Earle Kemp and Lyall Percival Rhicard on Sunday, August 24, 1975, at 2:30 p.m. Reception - Surprise "At Home" - Mr. and Mrs. Lyall Rhicard - (request of no gifts).

An unusual touch was added to this anniversary, as four other couples present had also celebrated anniversaries, namely Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Rhicard, their 40th, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Oakes, their 50th; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Tree, their 60th and Mr. and Mrs. Calno Primmerman, their 65th.

Mr. and Mrs. Rhicard are very grateful to all of those, who in any way helped to make their anniversary party such a great success, especially the immediate members of their family who worked so hard to bring it to fruition and a big "Thank-You" from the Rhicard family to all of you who kept the big secret.

Eryou-Ells united in marriage

A lovely summer wedding took place on Saturday afternoon, Aug. 2 at 2 p.m. at the Baptist Church in Sawyerville, Que., when Doris Elizabeth Ells, foster daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Coleman of Bury, became the bride of Darcy Eryou, son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Eryou, also of Bury.

Pastor Norman Plant officiated at the double ring ceremony and the wedding music was played by Mrs. Gordon Bowker. During the signing of the register, Miss Sandra Neal sang "I Believe." The guest pews were marked with white satin ribbon bows and baskets of mixed flowers decorated the church.

The bride was escorted down the aisle on the arm of her foster father, Mr. Ralph Coleman, who gave her in marriage. She wore a floor length gown of polyester crepe in a soft shade of yellow, the cape sleeves and bodice were of eyelet in the same shade. Her veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a coronet of flowers and she carried a bouquet of long-stemmed yellow roses, baby's breath and fern with yellow streamers.

Miss Nancy Olson, as maid-of-honor, wore a floor length gown of mint green polyester satin. The bodice was trimmed with white applique and white lace trimmed the sleeves and neck. She carried a long-stemmed yellow rose, baby's breath and fern with yellow streamers.

Miss Marjory Kirkpatrick, as bridesmaid, wore a floor length gown of Swiss dot polyester in a pale blue shade. The bodice was shirred, the scoop neck and puffed sleeves were elasticized and edged with white scalloped polyester lace. She wore a floppy polyester-sewn braid hat and carried a long stemmed yellow rose, baby's breath and fern with yellow streamers.

Little Miss Kelly Coleman was the flower girl and dressed in a yellow chiffon pant suit with white lace yoke and sleeves. She wore a corsage of yellow tea roses and carried a basket of yellow daisies and fern.

Master John Lowe was the ring-bearer and carried the rings on a white satin cushion.

Mr. Robert Coleman was the best man and the ushers were Mr. Bryan Morrison and Mr. Steven Reilly.

The groom wore a yellow and white boutonniere and the other gentlemen of the party wore white carnation boutonnières.

Mrs. Coleman, foster mother of the bride, wore a pale blue polyester double knit dress and her corsage was of yellow tea roses with silver streamers.

Mrs. Ells, mother of the bride, wore a blue and white checked dress of polyester double knit and her corsage was of yellow tea roses with yellow streamers.

Mrs. Milton Eryou, mother of the groom, chose for her dress a brown and white floral design and her corsage was of yellow tea roses with yellow streamers.

Following the ceremony a buffet supper was held in the Bury Town Hall, where the bride's table was centred with a three-tiered wedding cake made and decorated by the bride's sister, Mrs. Osborne Lowe. The white cake was trimmed with yellow roses and topped by Kissing Couple.

For going away, the bride chose a floor-length gown of polyester crepe in a bright tangerine shade, white lace trimmed the bodice and sleeves. Her corsage was of yellow tea roses with yellow streamers. Guests attended from Bangor, Maine, Fredericton, N.B., Whitby and Brantford, Ont., Montreal, Sherbrooke, Way's Mills, East Angus, Cookshire, Bishopton, and Bury.

Mr. and Mrs. Eryou will reside in Bishopton.

A brunch of bridal braid

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

Traditions continue to fall - for example, the month of June once was considered de rigueur for marriages. In the last few years the shift is to mor and more fall weddings with September rapidly overtaking both June and December as the time for couples to exchange vows. However, not changing is the custom of having bridal showers and bridal brunches. Usually coffee and dessert cakes or cookies are served to guests. Befitting such occasions is an apricot swirled bridal braid, a special yeast bread that also has a lemony tang and fragrance.

- BRIDAL BRUNCH BRAID
3 1/2 to 4 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 cup enriched corn meal
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 package dry active yeast
1 1/2 cups milk
1/2 cup sugar
1/4 cup butter or margarine
1 teaspoon salt
2 eggs
1 teaspoon grated lemon peel
1/3 to 1/2 cup apricot filling

- Cinnamon Glaze:
1 cup sifted confectioners sugar
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1 1/2 teaspoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons boiling water
1/2 teaspoon vanilla

In large mixer bowl combine 2 cups of the flour, corn meal, cinnamon and yeast. In saucepan heat milk, sugar, butter and salt just until warm (115 to 120 degrees), stirring constantly to melt butter. Add to the dry mixture in mixing bowl. Add eggs and grated lemon peel. Beat at low speed with electric mixer for one-half minute, scraping sides of bowl.

Beat 3 minutes at high speed. By hand, stir in enough of the remaining flour to make a moderately stiff dough. Turn out onto lightly floured board or canvas and knead till smooth and elastic, about 10 minutes. Shape into a ball. Place in lightly greased bowl, turning once to grease top of dough. Cover, let rise in warm place until double in size, about 2 hours. Punch down. Cover, let rest 10 minutes. Divide dough into thirds. On lightly floured board or canvas roll each piece to form a 16x6-inch rectangle. Spread each piece with 2 to 3 tablespoons of apricot filling. Starting with long end, roll up jelly roll fashion. Seal ends and edge. Place three rolls on greased cookie sheet. Pinch top end of each roll together. Braid

Apricot bridal braid makes handsome shower or brunch treat.

Ann Landers says:

Abandoned babies

Dear Ann Landers: Today in the Paducah Sun Democrat I read two heartbreaking articles - both were about Kentucky mothers (in different cities) who abandoned their newborn babies and left them to die, one in a garbage can, the other in a plastic bag beside the roadway. I am sure such incidents occur every day all over the United States.

We all realize the problems of a single girl who tries to raise a child alone, but they certainly don't justify attempted murder.

My husband and I have been trying for several years to adopt a child. We've had several foster children in our home and loved them all dearly. If one of the Kentucky mothers had given us her child we would have been in seventh heaven.

Please, Ann, you reach millions. Tell women who don't want their babies to take them to a foundling home where they will be assured of a good life with a family who will love them. - Blue Grass Reader

Dear Friend: Thank you for giving me an opportunity to say something again.

Open Plea to All Pregnant Women who Don't Want To (Or Cannot) Keep Your Babies: Please, for the love of God, for your own peace of mind, for the sake of the child and for the thousands of couples who desperately want a child - contact a foundling home, an adoption agency or any welfare organization and let them know.

You will receive prenatal care, counseling, and be given complete assurance that your child will be placed in a home where he will receive infinite love and the start in life he deserves.

Dear Ann Landers: A friend of mine gets plastered four or five evenings a week - and I mean really bombed out of his head. He insists he is not alcoholic because he never touches anything but white wine.

I say if a person gets stiff that often he has a severe drinking problem. Will you please deal with this in your column? Thanks in advance - Sad on the Sidelines

Dear Sad: Anyone who gets bombed out of his mind four or five evenings a week is alcoholic no matter what he drinks. It can be beer, "cough medicine", rot-gut gin or the most expensive champagne.

Many socially elite characters deceive themselves into thinking they are not problem drinkers because they drink only wine, which is anywhere from 12 per cent to 18 per cent alcohol. (Most whiskeys are about 50 per cent.) But if they drink until they are stinko four or five evenings a week, they are just as addicted as the wino who is lying in the gutter.

James Bay development project is unprecedented in Quebec's history

LA GRANDE, Que. (CP) — A siren screams; lights are extinguished; a dozen men dash for cover; dynamite disintegrates a few more feet of rock in a tunnel.

After the smoke clears, the process is repeated.

The setting for such daily explosions is one of four 4,000-foot-long tunnels which will eventually return water to La Grande River from the powerhouse at the world's largest hydroelectric project.

This is James Bay country, 35,000 square miles of bush, rock and lakes which Premier Robert Bourassa has earmarked for development unprecedented in Quebec's history.

Primarily, the region is going to provide 10,000 megawatts of hydro to help satisfy the insatiable energy requirements of consumers and factories in the south. Mineral and forest products await entrepreneurs while scores of lakes and rivers will attract tourists to spend their vacation pay.

Four gigantic earth-filled dams will be built along La Grande River which flows 300 miles westward into James Bay.

About half of the electricity generated will come from the 16 turbines at the LG-2 site (unofficially called La Grande), about 600 miles northwest of Montreal and 74 miles east of James Bay.

FLOOD VAST AREA
The reservoir behind the LG-2 dam will flood 1,095 square miles of scrubby black spruce forest.

The first turbine should be spinning by late 1979 or early 1980; the rest, two or three years later. The entire La Grande project is scheduled for completion in 1985 at a cost of at least $11.9 billion.

Once LG-2 is completed, an average of 117,000 cubic feet of water a second, falling from a height of 450 feet, will pass through the 16 generator groups, each having a 333,000-kilowatt capacity.

The water then will rush through four tunnels back to La Grande River, about six miles past the dam, which is 525 feet high and 8,300 feet long at the crest.

Two of these exit tunnels are already almost completed. Norman Cameron, an inspector with James Bay Energy Corp., expects the four tunnels, carved out of solid rock, to be completed in a few months.

TENDERS DELAYED

The awarding of the contract for the LG-2 powerhouse has been delayed a few months. A contractor, however, should be chosen by fall, say energy corporation officials.

The other three sites along La Grande are smaller and construction is less advanced than at LG-2.

Once the four powerhouses are functioning, only minimal maintenance staff will be required. Hydro-Quebec, which owns the energy corporation, will control most operations from its Montreal headquarters.

While the energy corporation supervises the hydroelectric project, its sister organization, James Bay Development Corp., has the mandate for mining exploration.

Already, along a narrow strip in the south of the territory, the combined production of copper, silver, gold, zinc, lead, nickel and asbestos has topped $1 billion in the last decade.

Matagami, a pleasant community of 4,000, began 14 years ago from this mining activity.

DOUBLE OUTPUT

Eight mining companies, operating 15 largely automated mines, expect in a few years to double output by starting to exploit 70 million tons of non-ferrous metal reserves, said Clement Bouffard, a development corporation spokesman.

Important iron deposits also have been identified near the towns of Matagami and Chibougamau, the Great Whale River and the lakes called Duncan and Albanel. Many of the fast-flowing rivers of the area have the tell-tale reddish tinge of iron.

There also are indications of the existence of uranium deposits, said Mr. Bouffard.

The Quebec government, along with the Canadian and perhaps the French government, hopes to build a costly uranium enrichment plant in the territory.

No site has yet been designated, Mr. Bouffard said.

The development corporation also has the responsibility for creating a transportation and communications network, to promote activity in forestry and tourism and to administer the territory—one fifth of Quebec—as one large municipality.

To link the scattered communities and exploration camps, already hundreds of miles of roads have been built since 1971. Each mile costs about $250,000.

TIME TO CONQUER

In describing the necessity for developing the area, Premier Bourassa has written: "Our ancestors' courage and will must live again in the 20th century. Quebec must occupy its territory; it must conquer James Bay. We have decided the time has come."

The first time the area was conquered, by fur traders in the 17th century, the plundering almost killed off the beaver. The current exploiters of the area promise to be more careful with the ecology.

The energy corporation's 101-man environment department boasts a budget of $1.5 million for 1975. Much of that expenditure will finance an environment protection camp at Lac Denise, near LG-2.

Lac Denise is the only camp in the area where trees are left to shade the trailers and temporary buildings.

Abbas Moussawi, an employee at the camp, has been publicly critical of the ecological safeguards, which he termed a facade.

Energy corporation officials, however, maintain they adhere to the recommendations of their ecologists.

SITE MOVED

The site of the LG-1 dam, the closest to Fort George and other native settlements on James Bay, was moved because of complaints from the native population, which feared environmental damage.

Jean Rousseau, a construction mining specialist with the energy corporation, said there still is a possibility of serious flooding near Fort George.

He even foresees the necessity for relocating the town but is not entirely opposed to such an eventuality.

"At Fort George, there are 2,000 people," he said. "This project affects 100 million people."

Excess energy from the project will be exported to the United States, particularly New York.

Most of the people who live at Fort George are on welfare, Mr. Rousseau said. "If we can afford to support them where they are now, we can support them some other place."

Original complaints by natives to the entire development of the James Bay area were quelled by promises of $150 million in tax-free compensation from the Quebec government.

More than just a bistro

Paris toasts cocktail bar's return

By Rosette Hargrove

PARIS — (NEA) — There have been many changes in Frenchmen's customs in the last 40 years. One of these is the cocktail bar habit. Never merely a cafe, bistro, beerhall or hole-in-the-wall right up until World War II, a bar was a meeting place for the higher-income group, a refuge where the presiding genie, the barman, was a friend, as well as sometimes the confidante of his clients. He was sort of "nanny" for grownup children.

The heroic era of the Parisian cocktail bars started in the '20s and '30s, in the days of Scott Fitzgerald, Hemingway, Sinclair Lewis and hundreds of lesser-known Americans. Then it was "in" to drink dry martinis, white ladies, manhattans and cherry cobbles, although whiskey and absinthe were also available. Men had their favorite haunts where often, when funds were low, their credit was good until the next check came along.

After Paris was liberated, cocktails were ousted by whiskey and vodka. Soon the bottle of Scotch migrated to the humblest bistro in the suburbs, usually represented by a single bottle side by side with Pernod.

Talk to any of the barmen in the leading luxury hotels and they will say there seems to be a renaissance of the evening cocktail hour. Once the bar, more or less luxurious, was essentially a masculine domain. It was a haven where a man could forget business or family troubles. It was also a refuge for the lonely and bachelors.

And long before women's lib, there were actually bars where women were definitely persona non grata and others where they had to be accompanied by a man. The leading "women not allowed" bar was at the Hotel Chatham, a rendezvous for racing people and a block from the Paris opera.

Bars are still on the map but somehow the clientele has changed and women think nothing of crossing the sacred threshold alone or with a friend. The old type of barman, ready to lend a sympathetic ear to a habitue's problems or join in a game of poker, and more important still, remember everybody's name, is on the way out.

But there is always Harry's Bar ("sank roo domoo") where way back in 1919 Harry McElhone, the owner, was on the friendliest terms with the American intelligentsia living in, or visiting Paris. It still is the place where American students eventually turn up (they drink beer or a soft drink because the price of alcohol is prohibitive). It was also the rendezvous of every American journalist in or out of the city. But Scottish-born McElhone (and now his son) also welcomed French amateur and professional footballers and boxers. In the cellar a jazz pianist played tirelessly until the small hours of election night in the United States, and on New Year's Eve Harry's Bar never closed. Women were welcome.

Up on the Champs Elysees is Fouquet's bar and that famous restaurant was once known as the rendezvous of the movie world. Few if any are to be seen there today, unless an old-timer visiting Paris pops in for a drink for old times' sake.

Just off the Champs Elysees is the Ascot, a "real" bar in the old sense of the word — nothing in common with the noisy places that cater to girls and boys and often are short-lived. The Ascot is open to 4 a.m. with a pianist dispensing soft music in a cozy "decor" including deep club chairs and Victorian wood panelling.

Essentially "ritzy" are the two bars of the grandfather of luxury hotels, the Ritz, "liberated" by Ernest Hemingway in 1944 who established his headquarters there. They are not only a smart meeting place but provide a chance to catch a glimpse of some of the international VIPs who are guests there.

The bar at the Hotel George V proves true an observation by barman Nino Dallanegro that the cocktail hour, like the tango and jazz, is again fashionable if only because the crowd now spills into the great hall. At the Bristol, within a block of the presidential Palais de l'Elysee and one of the last of the few super luxury hotels in Paris, the head barman claims that he invents a new cocktail every week. It is here that many of the important international statesmen reside when here for a summit meeting or conferences.

The first skyscraper hotel in Paris, the Concorde-Lafayette, boasting 34 stories and situated south of the Arc de Triomphe, has a panoramic bar frequented by visitors which include hundreds of Japanese who have made this hotel their favored headquarters — even to the extent that all signs are written in Japanese as well as French.

There are, of course, a score of lesser-known but also attractive bars dotting Paris which cater not only to the lonely hearts but also offer discreet meeting places far from the madding crowd. They have their devotees just as over on the Left Bank the better known are the Montana and the Closerie des Lilacs, once patronized by Oscar Wilde, Lenny Modigliani and Hemingway, who have their "plaques" above the tables which they once occupied.

Mrs. Geo. U. Jewett 292-5245

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Jewett was the setting for an afternoon tea given as a surprise gesture for Janet Chandler and Glen Allingham, both of Montreal, in recognition of their forthcoming wedding.

Those present to extend their best wishes were Mary

Miller, Anna Gardner, Marion Atwell of Mansonville, Merton and Mary Bailey of Highwater, Martha Challis, Maude Mossa, Pearl Jewett and Janet's parents, Hector and Hazel Chandler.

The guest of honour received several mementoes of the occasion and was delighted to receive a country corsage of blue, white and yellow flowers, which Janet presented later to Glen's bedridden grandmother.

Recent guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Jewett were Mr. and Mrs. Roland Clark of Montreal and Gary and Murray Bailey of Highwater.

Mrs. Willis Willey 292-5785

Mr. and Mrs. James T. Young, St. Petersburg, Fla., were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Peasley on Aug. 15. Mrs. Young is Mr. Peasley's cousin and they had not seen each other for several years.

Mrs. Una Moffatt, Grensboro, Vt., was guest for a week of her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Peasley. While here Mrs. Moffatt and Mrs. Peasley were overnight guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lyndon Peasley in Sherbrooke.

Ziggy Stardust as Sinatra?

By Stephen Ford

NEW YORK (NEA) — The British are buzzing these days with a rumor now making its way across the Atlantic and into American record and movie industry circles. The story is that David Bowie has reportedly requested approval from Frank Sinatra to film the crooner's life story with Bowie portraying 'Ole Blue Eyes'.

Trying to confirm the rumor was more amusing than the rumor itself. Spokesmen for Bowie and Sinatra both pointed at each other as the rumor's perpetrators. An RCA representative (Bowie's label) said he had heard about the proposed flick and contacted Bowie on a movie set in New Mexico where he's currently filming a picture. Bowie said he considered Sinatra one of his favorite singers but had no plans for a cinematic biography of The King.

OLE' MASCARA EYES? Sinatra's famed blue eyes (right) may never be the same if what the rumor mills say about the androgynous Bowie is true.

The press rep added he believed the rumor was planted by overzealous publicists for Sinatra.

Sinatra's publicists said there was absolutely no truth to the gossip and that Bowie's people probably hatched it. Draw your own conclusions.

The much-publicized autumn tour of the States by Led Zeppelin has been indefinitely postponed after lead singer Robert Plant was injured in a car accident while on holiday in Greece. Plant and his family are currently under intensive care in a London hospital.

Top this, Elton: One rarely finds such rhetoric as "slim chic" "riding velvet" or "earthy sexuality" in the generally staid Congressional Record. That was until Rep. John Conyers of Michigan read into the Record an eloquent paean to a member of Motown's aristocracy, Gladys Knight & The Pips. Conyers lauded the Pips' talent, success and contribution to American music. All that glitters is not gold: Country rock star Charlie Daniels, whose latest album on the Buddah label just went gold, is somewhat peeved over Capitol Records' recent release of a solo album by him recorded five years ago.

"Capitol had paid me $7,500 not to record the second of a two-album contract," he huffed, "and now they release an LP without my present band just to make money on the name."

MCA Records reports a $1 million insurance policy was taken on Jim Dandy to protect his unique growl during the recording of Black Oak Arkansas' upcoming album. Why would anyone want to protect that voice? It's nice to see the recently televised Rock Awards maintained the tradition of such award programs being a crashing bore.

Disco-soul aggregate War was honored in Atlanta by Mayor Maynard Jackson during day-long ceremonies. Like all successful business conglomerates, Elton John is expanding his holdings — the latest being those Saturday morning sweethearts, the Hudson Brothers. John's own Rocket Records will release the Hudsons' next album with Bernie Taupin in the producer's chair.

Mini-Review

Racism is never funny but, shame to say, often provides convenient fodder for lowbrow comedians too dim to elicit laughter any other way. That's why Richard Pryor's latest LP, "Is It Something I Said?" (Warner Bros. 0698), is as appalling as it is disappointing. Pryor, up until last year, was one of the few thoroughbreds in the drab stable of America's contemporary humorists. That was before his clever comedic excursions became fetid sorties into the swamp of racism.

"Is It Something I Said?" has something to offend everyone. He mauls the English language with exaggerated ghetto jargon the likes of which haven't demeaned blacks as much since Stepin Fetchit rolled his orbs and shuffled. Pryor seems to revel in his ethnic ridicule and excessively vulgar cheapshots like a sow wallowing in slime.

Recorded before a live audience at the Latin Casino in Cherry Hill, N.J., the album's superfluous background laughter can only be attributed to the crowd's libation — certainly not Pryor's humor.
