U.S. ROADS BALK AT FIXING WAGES IN JOINT MEETING

Decision Throws Outcome of Controversy to Railroad Labor Board

DO-OR-DIE FIGHT

Unions Will Try to Make Federal Control Rules Stick

CHICAGO, Feb. 19. — (United News).—The railroads will not accept the proposal of the railroad unions for joint conferences to settle differences regarding wages of unskilled labor and working rules.

This decision was announced here Friday night at the conclusion of a conference of railroad presidents representing practically every big carrier in the country. The roads announced, in declining the offer of President B. M. Jewel, of A. F. of L. department of the railroad unions, that they would continue "to try to get the opportunity to deal with our own employes so as to restore the efficiency of labor on these railroads, and, if possible, to avoid non-employment and defer serious wage reductions."

This decision throws the outcome of the struggle between the roads and the Unions representing 1,500,000 shop and unskilled employes back to the Railroad Labor Board.

RAISE MAINTENANCE ISSUE.

"The leaders of the labor unions, by the position they have taken, have directly raised the issue whether the maintenance and increase of the power of the national labor unions shall be placed above the public interest in the efficient and economical operation of our transportation system," declared the report issued by the executives at the conclusion of the conference.

The decision makes it apparent that the railroads will accept nothing short of abrogation of the national working agreements put into force by the Federal Railroad Administration, unless forced to do so by a decision of the Labor Board.

That the Board intends to speed up the hearings on this question as expeditiously as possible, was announced in a resolution made public Friday night.

President Jewell was given until March 10 to present his argument carrying the employes' side of the controversy. In the meantime, the other employe representatives will appear so that no time will be lost in coming to a decision.

CONTROVERSY KEEN.

So keen is the controversy between the carriers and the unions becoming that President E. S. Grable, of the Maintenance of Way Employes, formally petitioned the Board to issue a statement "explaining to railway workers that pay reductions cannot be forced upon them until new rates have been established by law."

W. W. Atterbury, Vice-President of the Pennsylvania Road, who is directing the fight by the carriers, declared that railroad earnings have dwindled to "practically nothing."

"The net operating income it was estimated on an annual six per cent. basis should be $86,000,000 in December," he said. "The amount the railroads did earn was $17,000,000, in September, the earnings were 4.1 per cent., in October 4.6 per cent., in November, 3.8 per cent., in December only 1.4 per cent. Telegraphic reports show that January was even worse than December."

IN DO-OR-DIE FIGHT.

Briefly, the situation in this all important controversy at present is this: The unions are engaged in a do-or-die fight to make national working rules on all railroads, given under Federal control, stick. The Government gave them these national rules, they say, and the transportation act perpetuated them.

On this issue they are willing to sink or swim. Frank P. Walsh, General Counsel and President Jewell, have made this clear. They put the proposition that the roads act collectively in dealing with the government. But, they say in dealing with the employes the roads want to toss the collective idea overboard, and ask to deal individually with the employes of each road. They insist upon national recognition of collective bargaining. The roads put it this way. "When the Government took over the railroads, the unskilled labor on each carrier was unorganized. When they got them back, every employe was working under highly organized conditions—and more important, under national union leadership. The Government promised to give back the railroads "the way it found them." This is not the way it found them. Federal control is over. Working agreements should be cancelled.

To date, no inroad has been made by the railroads into the war agreements sanctioned by McAdoo, and later railroads administrators. All depends on the decision of the labor board when a decision is reached, probably some time in April.

The principal speakers were Senator John Stanfield and Mr. Frank Stanfield.

ANGLO-AMERICAN UNITY DOMINANT

Canadian Camp Dinner at Astor Hotel Notable Function

INTERESTS IDENTICAL

American and Canadian Speakers Emphasis Friendly Spirit Essential

NEW YORK, Feb. 19. — (Special to the Star.)—The cultivation of Anglo-American friendship was the dominant note sounded by both Canadian and American speakers at the nineteenth annual dinner of the Canadian Camp, held at the Astor Hotel last night. A long list of distinguished guests included the Rev. Dr. Henry Vandyke, former United States Minister to the Netherlands; Hon. John S. Ewart, K.C., of Canada; Captain Milton State, of the Canadian National Railways; F. H. Kitto, D.L.S., of Ottawa; Neil McDougall, of the Canadian National Railways; Dr. Frank R. Oastler, the explorer; W. Harry Allen, President of the New Brunswick Guides Association; Capt. F. E. Kleinschmidt, of the Carnegie-Alaska-Siberia expedition, Herbert W. Gleason, of the National Park Service, the Rev. W. Warren Giles, D.D.; Lieut. L. A. Kloor, the balloonist and numerous other prominent men and women. Over 600 guests sat down to a banquet in which the results of the Canadian chase were an appetizing feature.

Dr. Vandyke, in entering upon his duties as toastmaster, said that 60 years ago the letters "G. T. C." (Gone to Canada) had a degratory meaning. They inferred that a man had gone there to dodge service in the American army. Seven years ago the letters had an honoristic meaning. They meant that thousands of young Americans had gone to Canada to fight with Canadians for the cause of liberty until the time when their own country should enter the fray.

ANGLO-SAXONISM.

Turning to "Anglo-Saxonism," Dr. Vandyke said that the friendship of the English-speaking people was the only hope of peace for the world. That friendship was to be developed by Americans going to Canada. It was a friendship more real than any treaty or written document could be. And it was based on four things. First, a common language, the noblest of all languages. Secondly, by a common literature. Thirdly by a community of moral ideas as expressed in common law and fourthly a common love of outdoor sports, which he thought was worth as much as the three other points put together. Britain and America, said Dr. Vandyke, must be friends. Otherwise the world would crash.

"If we differ," he said, "let us say so frankly, as gentlemen should. One of the finest things in this world today is that three thousand miles of boundary line between Canada and the United States without a fortress, without a gun, without a warship to defend it."

SECURITIES AGAINST WAR.

Hon. Mr. Ewart declared there were two great securities against disagreement and war—identity of interest and popular friendship. It was his opinion that the interests of the United Kingdom and the United States could never be identical. Britain's interests must be in western Europe. America's lay elsewhere. He was inclined to think that America's problem lay 6,000 miles across the Pacific. He could see a climax coming in the Asiatic situation. Britain and America could not be expected to see eye to eye various problems, some already present, such as the Mesopotamian oil situation. These problems were not to be passed over lightly, but while the interests of the two countries might not be identical, popular friendship must prevail and must be cultivated.

INTERESTS IDENTICAL.

Canada, said Mr. Ewart, had many identical interests with the United States. In the past many had thought these interests were so identical that they just lead to union. Today, however, the majority of government-makers on both sides of the line were agreed that unlimitable damage would be done by the removal of tariff walls at the border. How much more impossible would it be to remove the boundary itself. At length Mr. Ewart discussed Canada's new status as a sovereign nation. Canada had gained it through the war. Her dead had made her an entity in international affairs. Canada had signed the peace treaty herself. She was a charter member of the League of Nations. She consulted with other nations, but was not dictated to by any nation. He concluded with a strong plea for still closer relationship between the people of the Dominion and the people of her southern neighbor.

Lieut. Kloor gave some interesting side lights on the balloon flight which landed him and his companions in Northern Canada, and paid warm tribute to the hospitality of the Canadians.

TRIBUTE TO BRITAIN.

Dr. Warren Giles, in a speech that roused his hearers to great enthusiasm made a forceful appeal to Americans not to forget what Britain had done in the war. For three and a half years her fleet had protected the shores of America. The 60,000 dead American left on the field of battle had helped in port to repay the debt, but there was such that could never be repaid. Dr. Giles paid sterling tribute to Lloyd George, terming him the "Theodore Roosevelt of the British Empire," and "real man."

W. Harry Allen, president of the New Brunswick Guides Association gave an interesting talk on the sporting attractions of that province, illustrating his remarks with some excellent motion pictures.

Midnight had passed before a series of colored motion pictures had been run through, and Captain Milton State, Herbert Gleason, Captain Kelinschmidt, and Mr. Kitto were then still to be heard.

WAVING RED FLAG IS LESS POPULAR IN OLD ENGLAND

Bromley's Warnings Attract Little Attention Among Greater Problems

COMING ELECTIONS

Cardigan and Woolwich Hold Stage's Centre on Coalition

LONDON, Feb. 19.—(Star Cable by Windermere. Copyright.) — "Wave the red flag" is proving less and less an attractive policy, both in and out of Parliament. Two days ago, Bromley speaking for the executive of the Locomotive Engineers' and Firemen's Union, boldly warned Lloyd George, that unless this, that, and the other change was made forthwith in the Irish policy, "we shall carry on with a strike." He further talked mysteriously of a "secret date," on which the strike was to begin. Now Bromley finds to his dismay that the National Union of Railwaymen, which is the rival trade union to his own, will not support him. Much the same attitude is adopted by the conference of the Parliamentary Labor Party, in its national executive and Parliamentary Committee of the Trades Union Congress.

WHAT BROMLEY FORGOT.

What Bromley forgot was that the British locomotive engineers and firemen, much less the great body of British workingmen, do not like the Sinn Feiners' republican notions, and realize, also, that no political cause can flourish on murder and outrage.

Hardly less significant have been the happenings within the House of Commons this week during the debates on unemployment. The gravity of the problem is admitted by all hands. Already there are over one million unemployed, and the number will be greatly increased within the next few weeks. The main cause is the collapse of the British markets in Europe and the total disorganization of international exchange.

GOVERNMENT'S PROPOSALS.

The Government's proposals, therefore, include the establishment of credits in European countries, with the co-operation of British bankers and fiscal measures, which, however, officials find it most difficult to draft to protect British trade from the worst effects of the depreciated German mark. The difficulty with the credit proposals is, that the bankers want the Government to take the whole risk, while the Government will not go beyond 80 per cent of the risk on the cost price of the article exported, leaving the risk of 20 per cent to the private trader, this 20 per cent being advanced to him. Further as palliatives, the Government is spending $50,000,000 on arterial roads and other relief works, and are paying one pound per week under the unemployment insurance, which covers 12,000,000 working people. "Tragically inadequate" is Labor's Parliamentary reply." Nothing will suffice short of forty shillings per week as a Government maintenance to each unemployed householder, the money being provided from capital levy of 4,000,000,000 pounds sterling on a higher range of capitals." Little was, however, left of this Labor alternative when Lloyd George ended the two days' debate for no Labor speaker could locate this vast horde of 4,000,000,000 pounds of cash, or liquid assets. The more practical politicians turn to the by-elections at Cardigan and Woolwich. Cardigan is really the test of Lloyd George's personal leadership.

The Coalition candidate is his favorite private secretary, Evans, while opposed to him is Llewellyn Williams, K.C., leader of the Welsh anti-Coalition Liberals. The Prime Minister himself never engages in by-elections, but Mrs. Lloyd George has put up a valiant fight, and the expectation is that Lloyd George's candidate will triumph.

WOOLWICH ESPECIALLY INTERESTING.

Woolwich is especially interesting, because it is the great naval and military arsenal, and the anti-Coalition candidate is Labor Leader Ramsey MacDonald, who lost his seat in the last general election. Opposing him, the Coalition has put up a working man, born in the workhouse, who became during the war an army captain, and won the Victoria Cross. This is his favorite slogan: "Which is it to be, the Union Jack, or the Red Flag?" To which MacDonald makes this kind of a reply: "Coalition has put you arsenal workers on short time. Labor can keep arsenal workers employed all the time. We will make it a hive of industry, producing peace time necessities—waggons, engineering implements." Woolwich is a Labor seat, and MacDonald's victory seems probable.

ZEPPELINS PROVED GREAT WAR FAILURE

German Statistics Showed 66 Out of 83 Were Destroyed

PARIS, February 19. — The utter failure of Zeppelins to make good under actual tests of war is proved, French army authorities say, by figures recently made public by the Germans themselves as to casualties on that type of aircraft during the war.

Eighty-three Zeppelins were sent out altogether, and sixty-six of them were destroyed, a larger percentage than even the Allied general staff estimated. Of the sixty-six, thirty-four were destroyed by the Allied armies, two demolished while entering their hangars, thirteen were burned, ten smashed while landing, four fell because of accidents to the motors, one was struck by lightning, one broke loose from its moorings and one disappeared and one fell into the sea.

ITALIAN DEPUTIES CAN'T FIND ROOMS

ROME, Feb. 19. Several members of the Italian Chamber of Deputies applied to the President of the Chamber today for assistance in finding living quarters in this city. They declared that, after vainly applying at dozens of hotels and pensions, they had been obliged to sleep on sofas in the library of the Chamber. They said that unless given assistance they would be unable properly to exercise their legislative mandates.

The president urged the Government to order twenty hotels to keep five bedrooms each at the disposal of deputies during sessions of the Chamber.

BRITISH PREMIER SMASHES ATTEMPT TO DISCREDIT GOV'T

House Stirred by Lord George's Plea for Loyal Support

GERMAN POLICY

Lloyd George Implores Parliament to Weigh Factors of Enforcement

LONDON, Feb. 19.—(By Percy Sarl, United News Staff Correspondent).—Answering a typical arraignment of the Government by Horatio Bottomley, in which Lloyd George was asked pointed questions concerning his election pledges as they dealt with the British Foreign policy, the Premier on Friday smashed down the attempt to discredit his Government and emerged once more victorious.

Bottomley's attack pointed out that since the armistice the people of Great Britain have had no opportunity to express an opinion on the peace treaties, the Ministerial policies regarding indemnities, or the projected trial of those guilty of the war itself.

Lloyd George in a characteristic defence, delivered a speech which stirred the whole House.

He declined that his only promise had been to "make Germany pay to the limit of her capacity" and never to pay the whole cost of the war.

"No country in the world could pay that," the Premier said, Lloyd George pointed out, with some sarcasm, that all the paper marks in Germany would be of no value in England, even if they could be collected. He added that the Allies wanted no undignified "bluff" of Holland regarding the ex-Kaiser, nor did they want any hostile action merely for the purpose of securing Wilhelm Hohenzollern for trial.

"However," he added, "those guilty of the war must be tried."

PREMIER'S APPEAL TO HOUSE.

Mr. Lloyd George implored the members of the House who thought greater things could have been accomplished to exercise a deep sense of responsibility, and not give impracticable advice.

"It must not be forgotten," he declared, "that deliberate failure by Germany to carry out her obligations means action by the Allies to enforce the Treaty."

The Prime Minister declared that before any Governments could take the responsibility of calling on their respective countries to take stern steps, those Governments must be satisfied that the failure of Germany was due to a deliberate attempt to defy the Treaty.

Alluding to the trial of the former German Emperior, Mr. Lloyd George said that in view of Holland's refusal he would say it was no good insisting that the Kaiser be handed over. France was as strong as Britain in the demand for punishment of the Kaiser, the Prime Minister asserted, but even France did not think the Allies should risk anything in the nature of hostile action against Holland. He declared he would insist on trial of the other war criminals.

GOV'T TO SPONSOR TRUSTS CONTROL

Will Introduce Legislation Against Combines to Trade's Detriment

OTTAWA, Feb. 19.—(Star Special) —An intimation that the Government would probably introduce Legislation for the control of trusts and combines, later in the session of Parliament, is understood to have been given the supporters of the Ministry in the Senate and Commons, at their caucus yesterday, the Combines Act placed upon the statute books, in 1910 did not prove an altogether effective measure for the prevention of combinations in restraint of trade. It was consequently repealed when the Board of Commerce Act and the Combines and Fair Prices Act were enacted in 1919. The jurisdiction of the Dominion Parliament to pass legislation to control or limit prices of commodity was challenged in the courts, the Supreme Court of Canada divided evenly on the question, and the case has been carried to the Judical Committee of the Privy Council. The tribunal in England has not yet given its decision. In the meantime the Board of Commerce, its powers brought into question, has ceased to function. In framing new legislation to control combines, the Government will have regard to the experience gained in the efforts to enforce the old statutes.

BUSINESS IN CANADA SHOWS IMPROVEMENT

Reports from Various Provinces of Encouraging Nature

WINNIPEG, Feb. 19.—Trade reports from many parts of Canada mostly show a general improvement in business, states the weekly report of the Canadian Credit Men's Trust Association.

Ontario and Toronto advices state that dry goods houses are feeling the improvement in a decided manner and that wholesale grocery trade is more satisfactory. Retail reports are contradictory.

Montreal and Quebec province advices say dry goods houses report general improvement; boots and shoes likewise. Hardware reports are satisfactory and wholesale grocery houses find little change. No change is reported in retail conditions. Manitoba, and the west is feeling the improvement. Wholesale boot and shoe houses have had a "very good week."

WEST INDIES 'CESSION'

Resolution Regarding Matter Introduced in U.S. Senate

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—A resolution requesting the President to ascertain whether Great Britain "is willing to consider the cession by it to the United States of all or any part of its possessions in the West Indies," was introduced yesterday by Senator Reed, Democrat, Missouri. Trinidad and Bermuda were especially named in the proposal which was not discussed but allowed to go over for further consideration.

NEW DUBLIN RAIDS MOST EXTENSIVE YET CARRIED OUT

Small Army British Troops With Armored Cars are Employed

CORDON OF STEEL

Hundreds of Suspects Held-Up and Documents Seized

LONDON, Feb. 19.—(United News) —The most extensive house-to-house raid yet conducted in Dublin, was set on foot early Friday morning and is expected to last for at least 36 hours.

Preceded by tanks and armored cars, and followed by field kitchens, a small army of British troopers marched into the Mount Joy district and threw a cordon of steel around the five mile area. Establishing a headquarters in the centre of this district, the soldiers began their systematic search of every street, every alley, every building in the area, holding up hundreds of suspects and seizing vast quantities of documents.

It was rumored—and this rumor received at least partial substantiation later—that the whole demonstration was conducted for the purpose of capturing one man, a prisoner named Teeling who has escaped from Kilmainham.

TEELING'S ESCAPE ANNOYING.

Announcement was made by certain officials in the Irish Office that Dublin Castle is deeply chagrined at Teeling's escape, and that General Sir Neville Macready has sworn to recapture him if he is in Ireland. It is announced that a military court will hold an inquiry into the escape, and that disciplinary action will be taken against the officers concerned.

The Dublin raid was conducted in similar fashion to that in Capel street recently, except that it was on a far greater scale. Machine guns commanded the entrance to every street, roofs of houses were occupied as strategic points, certain buildings were requisitioned as barracks, and all residents were ordered to remain indoors.

It is officially announced that the tracks of a railway line in County Donegal were on Wednesday diverted from their permanent way to run into a lake between Cashennagar and Gweedore. The outrage was discovered, however, before a mishap occurred.

A large quantity of arms and munitions was discovered by the military and police last night at the asylum of St. John of God, near Stillorgan, County Dublin. Two arrests were made.

In the weekly summary of police and military activities issued at Dublin, the Government states that the present "display of lawlessness represents the maximum effort of the Sinn Feiners," and that their resources are constantly being weakened through the arrests of members and the seizure of war material. This should result, the communique says, in an early and sensible improvement.

Sir Hamar Greenwood, Secretary for Ireland, announced in the House of Commons Friday night that a new inquiry into the shooting of the railwaymen at Mallow would be begun Saturday.

U. S. RELIEF ON DELICATE GROUND.

Administrators of the American Relief Funds in Ireland find themselves in an exceedingly delicate position as between the British Government and the people they are seeking to aid. It is obvious that the greatest care must be taken in order to avoid the slightest implication that they are acting as a sort of "Sinn Fein Treasury." It is equally obvious that direct relief afforded actual "rebels" against Great Britain would arose the Government and might result in shutting off aid to those who, although not in arms against England, are suffering through the conditions of war.

The United News learns authoritatively that the Government will strenuously oppose the provision of relief to the numerous class of dependents in Ireland, whose men folks are—in Government phraseology—on the run, since it is believed that in many such cases funds and food will reach suspects who are fleeing from justice. In any event, it is pointed out, aid tendered to families of such fugitives, would encourage them to remain in hiding, knowing that their wives and children were being cared for. And this would again, from the official standpoint "encourage rebellion."

Thus far, from reports received from relief officials, it is believed that they and the Government are co-operating. No untoward incidents have been reported, and it may be said that the American relief is actually accomplishing some good work.

There is some apprehension, however, in London, particularly in Government circles. The chaotic conditions and inability to foretell what effect the Government program will have frankly lead to some doubt as to the ability of the American officials to proceed very far without becoming involved in an extremely delicate situation.

MUNSTER ARCADE AWARD.

CORK, Feb. 19. — An award of 213,000 pounds has been made by the Recorder of the city to the Munster arcade, as compensation for the burning of the premises on the night of December 11. The amount is to be levied on the city.

NEW POLITICAL GROUP.

DUBLIN, Feb. 19.—A new political organization to be called the "National Centre Group" is to be formed here. Its provisional chairman will be General O'Gowan, who commanded a division in the war. The object of the organization as announced will be to promote candidatures for the Parliament in southern Ireland, and to work for the Home Rule Act with a view to its ultimate amendment. Support is expected from ex-service men who are organizing with a similar purpose.

TAKEN FROM BED AND SHOT.

CORK, Feb. 19. — Seven armed men forced an entrance to the hospital attached to the workhouse here last night, and taking an inmate, Michael Walsh, from his bed to the yard of the building, shot him. His body was found with a card reading: "Caught at last." Informers beware!"

CLEARLY EVIDENT MEIGHEN GOVT'S MANDATE PROPER

DISTINCT ANOMALY

In Indicting Gov't, Liberal Leader Indicts Own Followers

PRESS GALLERY, HOUSE OF COMMONS, Ottawa, Feb. 19.—(From Our Own Correspondent.)—The thirteenth day or hard luck day, Parliament has turned the first week of its fifth session.

The dull infant in the baby class of political scientists emerges from the week with one observation which promises to be of as much interest to Parliament as the Einstein theory is to the wider world, in fact insomuch as it deals with light, it becomes a sort of co-efficient of said theory. True, the light is mental rather than ocular.

But, on the observation, according to the Liberal membership (vox Mackenzie King) the present Government has no reason or right to exist. That is not the observation which strikes home. It is merely the association which is the foundation leading to the observation.

It is the time-honored, constitutional practice that the party returned with a majority of members to Parliament shall name its leader and that the leader shall name his Cabinet.

GOVT'S RIGHT AFFIRMED.

The debate on the reply to the Speech from the Throne has fairly well-borne out the fact that Mr. Meighen and the present Government have in no way transgressed this practice in either spirit or in letter.

Wherefore, Mr. King goes further and insists that the Government is improperly erected because those who erected it hold no mandate from the people to continue as members of the House of Commons, now that the war is happily ended. No one in the House has mentioned it yet, but the unassailable fact is that Mr. King has some eighty-three members sitting beside and behind him who were elected —taking them all in all—at the same moment and on the same issues as were the 130 members who backed Mr. Meighen's election to the Premiership.

Yet Mr. King (openly and not gently declaring that the 130 have no business to function as legislators for the Canadian people) has cast no breath of suspicion on the legitimacy with which his 83 supporters continue to function as his active aides in the House and as critics of the other 130.

All of which suggests a distinct anomaly.

If the 130 who back Mr. Meighen in his Ministry are usurpers of the rights of democratic government, what becomes of the 83 and Mr. King.

KING'S BOOMERANG.

The criticism which he directs to the Governemnt benches at once becomes a boomerang. When he indicts the Government he indicts himself and quite obviously believing as he does in the honesty of his indictment, there is now absolutely nothing left for him to do but to insist that every member who supports him resign from the House at once and seek a new mandate from the people.

Until he does this, supporters of the Government seem to have excellent justification for declining dissolution. For are they not reasonable in assuming their mandate as good as that possessed by Mr. King's followers. And if Mr. King's followers regard theirs as good enough to continue them as members of the House—well, thats an end to it.

If Mr. King feels that need of an election he can have one (in 84 seats) as fast as he likes. Perhaps he has never thought of it. Perhaps this suggestion is all that is needed to show him how he can right his half of what he conceives to be a great wrong.

But then Mr. Burnham had a notion somewhat along the lines laid down, and what happened to Mr. Burnham in carrying it out, may cause Mr. King and his followers some hesitancy.

And, of course, this has nothing to do with what has just been written, but,—Page is just saying something about lately increased indemnities.

CARPET SLIPPERS AND SLEEPING CAPS.

The House has, metaphorically speaking, followed the precedent set down by Sir Herbert Ames during the naval debate of 1913, when he introduced his slippers and sleeping cap to the August assembly. When Mr. King and Mr. Meighen concluded their addresses the general feeling was that about everything that could be said on the mandate and tariff issues had been voiced. Parliament settled back comfortably to give everybody a chance to break into Hansard that all necks-o-the-woods should have a fitting pride in their representation. And so the good work goes on. There are all kinds of speeches. Some are differentially delivered, as though the performer were addressing his board of directors, others which make the witness wonder if the speaker imagines he is trying to use a telephone in "No man's land" during a bombardment or endeavoring to portray Hamlet for the movies.

Twice something has happened that prodded the lethargy of the House. The first occurred Wednesday, when Mr. Devlin (Wright) delivered his peroration and sat down at a point where he was suspected of just getting decently started. The "division" cry went up so suddenly with the Government at a distant numerical disadvantage that the party whips have since guarded their positions more zealously.

GAUTHIER'S RENUNCIATION.

The other chief incident was Mr. Gauthier (St. Hyacinthe) in his denunciation of the Liberal party. It is still the talk of the corridors. In its completeness, from both personal and parties standpoints, Mr. Gauthier's speech left absolutely nothing to conjecture. It would be far more simple to weld the wooden handle to the pewter spoon than to recompose Mr. Gauthier and the Liberal party or vice versa.

At this writing it appears that the Liberal party proposes to impress on Mr. Gauthier sufficient punishment to deter any other Grits who may waver before a breeze but the blows Government-wards.

SOCIAL EVENTS FEATURE WEEK.

Social events have begn an outstanding feature of the first week. Monday saw the official and fully formal opening. It was not as largely attended by the public, but society was present in brilliant array, and it was quite as impossible as usual to hear a word of the Governor-General's address while members murmured their greetings to fellow members.

Speakers of both Houses and their ladies held the customary reception following the opening, and Wednesday night the Prime Minister and Mrs. Meighen were host and hostess to members and society at Parliament Hill. Tonight the Governor-General and H.R.H. the Duchess of Devonshire are holding a reception at the buildings.

WHAT IS IN THE OFFING.

Major interests and much speculation attach to the political outlook. Illness on the part of the Government members may reduce the majority to the neighborhood of ten, provided farmer members vote the King amendment. The latter are awaiting Mr. Crerar's arrival before announcing their decision, but they are popularly described as supporters of the King amendment.

It is problematical whether or not the debate will close next week. If the Farmer members decide to participate to any extent in it the vote is unlikely to come before Friday at the earliest.

Talk of Cabinet reconstruction fills the air. It is coming, but not, according to opinion of members, en masse. The Government requires its House strength too pressingly to look after a number of sessional by-elections.

Malarial Scourge Sweeping Russia

LONDON, Feb. 19.—(Associated Press.) — There are 10,000,000 cases of malignant malaria in Russia, says a Moscow despatch to the Herald, organ of Labor, quoting Prof. Martzinovsky, an eminent specialist.

The mortality is said to be three per cent of those stricken by the disease. The despatch states there are but 5,000 pounds of quinine in the country.

SAY DOMINIONS TO BE ASKED TO DECIDE ON EGYPT

London Report States Question of Self-determination Goes to Conference

ON MILNER REPORT

Some of His Cabinet Colleagues Reported to Oppose Views

LONDON, Feb. 19 (Associated Press.)—Representatives of the British Dominions, who will meet here next summer, will be asked to decide upon the recommendations of Lord Milner, former Colonial Secretary, that negotiations for the conclusion of a treaty according self-government to Egypt be begun, says the Daily Mail.

Lord Milner's recommendations were included in a report presented to Parliament yesterday, and it was urged that the negotiations should be entered upon without undue delay.

"Granting self-government to Egypt under the provisions of Lord Milner's report," says the newspaper, "is a departure of highest constitutional interest. Since Dominion troops fell while fighting to preserve the Suez Canal and the Egyptian hinterland, it is probable the Dominions may have decided opinions on the subject."

It is known, the Mail asserts, that Lord Milner's ideas are not approved by all his former colleagues in the Cabinet, especially Winston Churchill the new Colonial Secretary.

Makes Getaway with Haul After Shooting Clerk

MINNEAPOLIS, Feb. 19. — The mail car on the Northcoast Limited trans-continental train on the Northern Pacific Railroad, was held up shortly before 11 o'clock last night at Baileys, Minn., 35 miles northwest of here, by a bandit who held three postal clerks at Bay. C. C. Strong, of Minneapolis clerk, was shot when he disobeyed orders of the bandit. He is in a serious condition at a hospital here.

Amount of the loot cannot be estimated for several days but postal officials said it may reach several thousand dollars.

AZERBAIJAN HAS ATTACKED GEORGIA

Eleventh Soviet Army Reported to Have Occupied Tiflis, the Capital

CONSTANTINOPLE, Feb. 19.—The Republic of Azerbaijan has declared war on Georgia.

It is believed that the eleventh Soviet army has occupied Tiflis.

The Georgian Government and the Allied representatives have arrived at Batum. The United States torpedo boat destroyers Barker and Whipple are at Batum, and the destroyer Boris probably is proceeding thither from Samsun.

Two British battleships, part of a squadron of five vessels which have just arrived here, are proceeding from Batum to join the cruiser Calypso.

FRANCE TO RAZE ST. LAZARE PRISON

PARIS, Feb. 19—The famous prison of Saint Lazare, the penal institution for women situated in the heart of Paris, whose tragic and sinister history dates from the eleventh century, is to be demolished by the French Government. The ancient prison, harboring within its dark and sombre embrace the most dreary dungeons in the world, has outgrown its usefulness and will be entirely destroyed.

RED CHIEFS LAND HARD ON GEORGIA, CAPTURING TIFLIS

REPUBLIC FAILS

Georgian Government Weak and Fled When Red Troops Moved

CONSTANTINOPLE, Feb. 19—(Associated Press)—Soviet troops have occupied the city of Tiflis, capital of the Republic of Georgia, lying on the southern slopes of the Caucasus Mountains. Advices received here indicated that three Russian divisions marched up to the "Paris of the East" from the flat, desolate and frozen plains of Armenia, while other Bolshevik forces crossed the eastern shoulder of the mountain range and invaded Georgia from that quarter. Belief is expressed here that Moscow desires to hold Tiflis as a base from which the Soviet Government can direct the advance of troops through Persia.

Advices received here state that members of the Georgian Government, Allied representatives and workers with the Near East relief have arrived in Batum.

The advance upon Tiflis was ostentibly caused by a controversy over a neutral zone in the Borchalon district between Georgia and Armenia. Demands were sent by Armenia to Georgia, asking that the latter withdraw its forces from the neutral zone on Feb. 14, it being declared Georgia was bound to do this under an old agreement. Georgia refused to meet this demand, and then the Armenians advanced a few troops, which were attacked by the Georgians. The Russian Soviet Government then ordered its forces forward to assist its ally, Armenia.

The Georgian Government was not composed of men with the fighting temperament, it is said, and mobilized its troops in an inefficient manner. When the Soviet forces advanced the Government fled, abandoning Tiflis to the Bolshevik elements.

Experts on the Near Eastern situation declare the Caucasus question is very involved, Turkey claiming both Batum and Baku.

N.Y. TRAGEDY WAS RESULT OF ERROR

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—(By Associated Press.)—Suspicion that Charles T. Davis, wealthy Brooklyn surgical instrument maker, who yesterday shot and killed Detective Joseph Bridgetta and wounded two others, had withheld $1,000 insurance collected on a stolen automobile, afterwards recovered, has been removed by Assistant District Attorney Caldwell. An investigation disclosed, Mr. Caldwell announced, that Davis absentmindedly had given to a motor car company the number of the stolen car as the number of another machine he had bought, and which he traded for one of the company's cars.

Through this confusion of numbers, the detective had gone to Davis' office, in ignorance of the facts, intending to question him about the transaction, and possibly to arrest him. The motive for the shooting remains a mystery, as Davis and the slain man were alone in the manufacturer's office fully three minutes before the detective called to his companions for help. The assistant district attorney said Davis' car was stolen in 1919. He reported the theft to the police, collected $1,000 insurance and bought another car. This machine he traded to an automobile company in part payment for one of its cars, and when the salesman asked for the number, Davis gave the number of the stolen machine by mistake. The number of the stolen car, the district attorney explained, then was placed without verification on the records of the motor company's sales agency. An employe of the company later bought the machine Davis had traded, and used the same number when he applied for a license. When the police discovered the number of the stolen car on the motor company's books corresponding to the number of a car Davis had traded Mr. Caldwell said, the apparent conclusion was that Davis had regained possession of the stolen car and had sold it again. Police suspicion was aroused when the insurance company stated that Davis never had made a refund.

It is believed that Bridgetta called on Davis to question him on the transaction, when a quarrel ensued and the shooting followed.

EXPRESS FAITH IN BRITAIN'S INTENTIONS

WEYBURN, Sask., Feb. 19.—Unanimous approval was given a resolution expressing implicit faith in the British Government's intentions and fairness, and deploring the fact that, on the Irish question, influences were at work in Canada to corrupt the minds of the people and arouse racial and religious hatred, at yesterday's session of the Saskatchewan branch of the Great War Veterans' Association Convention here.

Approval was also given a resolution which urged that the term "settler" should be amended to include the widowed mother or dependent of a deceased soldier in the case of privately owned or Dominion lands. The Soldier Settlement Board was urged to make an effort to secure the land at present held by Mennonites in the neighborhood of Hague and Swift Current for the purpose of soldier settlement.

STEEVES TRIAL IS ON AT COVERDALE

Father of Burned Woman Tells of Husband's Abuse

BUILT THE HOUSE

Describes Dwelling in Which Nine Lost Their Lives

COVERDALE, N.B., Feb. 19. — (Star Special) —The evidence of the father of the victim that his daughter frequently had complained to him of brutal treatment by her husband was the feature of the first session of the preliminary hearing in the case of O. Gaius Steeves, of Niagara Road, Albert County, who was arrested in Moncton, on Thursday, charged with the alleged murder of his wife. The charge was laid by the father, after it became known that Mrs. Steeves and her eight children had perished according to the story of the husband and father, by being burned to death in their home while he was in the barn attending to the stock.

The hearing opened here yesterday afternoon before J. W. Gaskin, J. P., the accused having been brought from Moncton where he had been confined in the jail since his arrest. Union Hall in which the proceedings took place, was filled to capacity with spectators. James Sherrin, of Moncton, and B. Lester Smith, clerk of the peace for Albert County are prosecuting, and James Friel, K. C., of Moncton, appeared for the defence.

OTHER WITNESSES CALLED.

Besides Mr. Steeves, father of Mrs. Steeves, evidence was given by Peter Roberts, Albert Munro, and James Stover. At the close of the afternoon session, the court adjourned until eleven o'clock this morning.

Joseph Steeves, father of Mrs. O. Gaius Steeves, was the first witness. He testified as follows:

"I am the complainant. I reside in Moncton, and am a carpenter. Mrs. Lucy Steeves was my daughter. She was forty years of age, was married and had eight children. Curtis the oldest boy, would be seventeen or eighteen years old. My daughter had been living in Pine Glen, about two or three miles from this court. I have not been a frequent visitor, but had no particular reason for not visiting them so far as I was concerned. Mr. Steeves did not speak to me. I knew of my daughter, Mrs. Steeves, coming to my house, badly abused. She often had complained of being abused on different occasions. She had shown me bruises which she said had been inflicted by the accused. I think it was a few days before Christmas when she last came to me and complained. I did not see her again before the fire. While working in the C. N. R. shops, on Tuesday morning, I heard of the fire and called up Mr. Ryan, who lives near them, and he told me that the house was burned and also that Mrs. Steeves and all her children were burned."

DESCRIBES ILL TREATMENT.

In reply to a question by Mr. Sherren, the witness said, "My daughter told me of all the treatment she received, and that I was taking my life in my hands if I went out in Moncton alone."

Continuing the witness said that he had built the house in which his daughter resided, and drew a sketch of it. It was, he said, sixteen by twenty feet, with tarred paper roof, tinned on the outside walls. Inside the walls had been lathed but never plastered. There was a dugout underneath for a cellar. There was but one room downstairs and one upstairs. He did not know how many beds there were. The stairs were unfinished and the stove when, last he was there, last summer, would be about six feet from, and not near nor under the stairway. The witness said that he had put in frames for four windows, sixteen by twenty inches, upstairs.

The front window was boarded up, and he thought the others were nailed. There were two doors in the house.

The witness told of the location of the barn, and said that he thought any person in the barn could have seen that the house was on fire by the reflection through the window.

The witness was allowed to stand down. But Mr. Sherren said he would have other questions to ask him later.

Peter Roberts, of Moncton, next called, swore that he had known the accused quite a few years, but had not lived near him for several years. He saw accused, on Monday last, in the yard of his house in Moncton, when Steeves called and asked for the loan of witness's horse, saying that he wanted to drive to his home to get some things. Steeves left with the horse between seven and eight o'clock. The witness saw him the next evening and spoke to Steeves about the fire, and the latter remarked that he had had hard luck.

STEEVES' NEAREST NEIGHBOR.

Albert Munro, the nearest neighbor to the Steeves home, was sworn and told of seeing the fire. His house was across the road and almost opposite the Steeves barn. On Tuesday morning, when he arose from bed he saw that the Steeves house was on fire. Looking from the window he saw Steeves in the road walking away from his house. Steeves did not seem to be in a hurry. At that time flames were coming from the roof of the lean-to, but he saw no fire in the main house. Steeves turned in at Munro's gate, making a noise, and appeared to be repeating: "My God! My God!" but did not appear excited. When witness was dressed, he looked out and saw Steeves walking away from the house. He next saw the accused in front of his own house, with two men whom he thought were the Melishes. The fire was getting bigger, but as he saw no chance of saving the house he did not go down until an hour later when it was in ruins. As Steeves was fully dressed when he first saw him, he had supposed that all the family were out of the house.

Munroe, continuing his evidence, said that the lower windows were not boarded up, and were big enough to permit persons to escape. The doors were ordinary and a man could kick them in. At the time of the fire he heard no voices other than Steeves'.

After the fire he had seen bodies in the ruins. There were three close together in the west end of the house, and he supposed they had been in bed at the time of the fire. He also noticed two bodies nearer the rear of the house.

Witness had heard Mr. and Mrs. Steeves quarrelling so often that he never paid any attention to it. If they were not fighting, then he began to look around. On the night before the tragedy, the witness noticed a light in the Steeves house until 11 o'clock, when he retired. He thought it would be from a lamp.

WILSON HAS MADE LAST STATEMENT

No Further Utterance as President to Congress or People

PLIGHT PITIFUL

Now Rises from Chair Slowly and Walks Uncertainly

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19. — (By Robert J. Bender, United News. Copyright.) — President Wilson, according to those immediately about him, has uttered his last statement to Congress or the people as Chief Executive of the nation. His prime interest now is in his fight to recover his health. He will make no statements and do no writing for some months at least. To the repeated urging of his friends during the last few days, that he give some indication of his mental reflections on his administration and a word as to the political and economic outlook for the next four years, he is quoted as having consistently replied: "I have said my final word. What has been done or said must stand as it is."

Charles Swemm, for many years confidential stenographer of the President and who, it was thought, would remain with him after March 4, to assist him in his literary work, will not be retained. He has accepted a position in Chicago.

It is stated positively the President will not enter into any contemporaneous discussion of either local or international issues, at least for a considerable time after he leaves office. He will continue then, as he is doing now — devoting a maximum of attention to getting well and a minimum to work.

PRESIDENT'S PITIFUL PLIGHT.

Only those who, in the past, have had continuous opportunity to watch the President actively at work, his rugged appearance and strong and rapid walk about his office and home, can appreciate to what a pitiful extent his illness has marked him. Four years ago he would conclude a conference with his cabinet or Senators by rising suddenly from his chair, saying, "Well, Gentlemen, I guess that is all today," and stride rapidly out of the room.

Today, he lifts himself slowly and carefully from a sitting posture, his face drawn with the lines of suffering and worry, and supported by his cane, walks slowly, almost uncertainly, from the room. The once erect figure, which made him appear even taller than he was, is now noticeably stooped. When he walks, he puts one foot slowly ahead of the other, taking short, careful steps. An attendant follows him and it is necessary to support him when he mounts any steps, however low.

He frets at the restrictions his health has placed upon him. And he worries. But he tries to maintain at most times a resigned attitude of cheerfulness.

"Tragic," is the comment most frequently heard now among those of all political faiths, friends or foes of the President, who have observed him recently at the theatre.

RESTFUL ROUTINE NOW.

A restful routine today has succeeded the driving energy he displayed in his work before his illness. He arises later, has breakfast in his own room, and goes to his study for his limited day's work about 10:30 o'clock. The great mass of letters that in former years had to be carefully sorted, and of which he could personally answer only a relatively few, has given way to a limited correspondence, almost of all which he now can take care of by dictation to his stenographer.

Before luncheon, generally for about an hour around 11:30 or 12, the President sits with Mrs. Wilson in the East Room and enjoys some movies, a mixture of drama and comedy. After luncheon, he takes a nap, following which Mrs. Wilson reads to him — poetry, detective stories, and other literary works he long has favored. Generally a ride in his automobile tops off the afternoon. He is negotiating now for his own car, necessitated by the fact that after March 4, the big cars provided for the President by the Government will be inherited by Mr. and Mrs. Harding.

Rapidly the White House is being stripped of the personal belongings of President and Mrs. Wilson.

"Well, only two more weeks," say attendants who came into the executive offices eight years ago with the Wilson administration. That expresses, too, the whole atmosphere about the place today. Crowded corridors, filled with eager politicians and statesmen for many years, have given away virtually to deserted corridors at the executive offices. The exodus of the administration will be accomplished quietly, apparently almost unnoticed. Before the Inauguration ceremony the President and Mrs. Wilson will have left the mansion for ever.

CHANGE IN QUEBEC'S GOOD ROADS POLICY

Municipalities to Pay Share of Maintenance Under Supervision

QUEBEC, Feb. 19 (From Our Own Correspondent.) — An important change in the good roads policy of the Government was put through the Legislature yesterday by Hon. J. A. Tessier, Minister of Highways. The provincial or main highways are maintained by the Government who collect half the cost from the municipalities affected, but the roads in municipalities have been maintained by the local authorities and they have been receiving a grant from the Government up to $400 per municipality, irrespective of the mileage they have to maintain.

Under the new scheme the municipal roads will be classified as regional or district roads, and the work of maintenance will be undertaken by the provincial road department, the municipalities being compelled to pay to the Government a contribution not exceeding fifty per cent of the cost of the work done on such roads.

The advantage of the new policy is not only that the municipalities will be saved a lot of money, but what is more important, that the district roads, like the main highways, will be maintained under the direction and control of the Provincial Government, and thus uniformity be secured in improved highways.

Dr. Desaulniers, M.L.A. for Chambly, the president of the Good Roads Association, who strongly approves of the new scheme, emphasized in the House the importance of maintenance of all improved highways, and accordingly welcomed the progressive step now being taken by the Government.

SPRACKLIN TRIAL OPENS ON MONDAY

Bitter Legal Battle Expected in Trumble Shooting Case

WINDSOR, Ont., Feb. 19 (Star Special).—With the arrival from Toronto last evening of A. Munro Grier, who will act for the Crown in the trial of Rev. J. O. L. Spracklin, Methodist pastor, of Sandwich, charged with the slaying of Babe Trumble, Sandwich Hotel proprietor, and an announcement that Sir Wm. Mulock, Chief Justice of Ontario, will be here Sunday, the stage appears to be set for what promises to be one of the most bitterly contested legal battles in the history of the province.

The Assizes are scheduled to open at 1.30 p.m. Monday, and the afternoon will be taken up by the session of the Grand Jury. On the one side are the many friends and associates of the slain man, who, through eminent counsel, propose to introduce into the court-room at the crucial moment the black-robed widow of Trumble and her two young children, made fatherless by the bullet fired from the revolver of the erstwhile liquor license inspector, with the confident expectation that the sympathies of the jury will be swayed.

On the other are the forces of the Attorney-General of Ontario, who has already announced that the costs of Spracklin's defence are to be borne by the Provincial Government.

Spracklin, a minister of the Gospel, but wholly untrained in the detection of crime or criminals, was made a provincial license inspector, endowed with autocratic powers, was permitted to carry about with him loaded weapons, and was, upon his own representations, furnished by the Government with a costly automobile and a fast gasoline launch, so that he might more effectively run down the liquor smugglers along this border.

A short time after this came the attempt of Pastor Spracklin and two of his aides, the Hallam brothers, both of whom are now in jail and facing serious crime charges, to force their way at three o'clock in the morning into the quarters of Beverley Trumble, who conducted the Chappell House in Sandwich. Trumble resented the entry of the preacher-inspector and his men into his home at that hour, threatened to shoot Spracklin if the latter did not leave, and Spracklin, according to the story he related on the witness stand at the formal inquest, fired to save his own life, Trumble dying within a few minutes from a wound in the abdomen.

Despite the declaration of Spracklin and his aides that Trumble carried a pistol, none could be found at the time of the killing, and so far as the police are aware none has been found since.

CLEVELAND TEACHERS' MURDER UNSOLVED

No Clue Yet Found to Identity of Perpetrator

CLEVELAND, Feb. 19.—The double murder of Miss Louise Wolf and Miss Mabel Foote, Parma Heights high school teachers, whose mutilated bodies were found Thursday morning, remained unsolved last night. An all day search by posses failed to reveal a clue to the murderer. Several suspects were questioned by Sheriff Charles B. Stannard, but all proved alibis and were released. In the hope that the murderer might return to the scene of the crime, Sheriff Stannard and five deputies continued the search throughout the night.

A trail of footprints which led from the spot where the bodies were found tend to confirm the belief of the searchers that the crime was committed by one man. The trail led back to a shanty where the murderer is believed to have been hiding, and thence into the woods where it was lost.

FOUR ALLEGED LIQUOR VIOLATORS ARRESTED

Two of Them Canadian—Accused at Plattsburg, N.Y.

PLATTSBURGH, N.Y., Feb. 19.— (Star Special) — Leo Gauvin, elder brother of "Buck" Gauvin, who was arrested here last week on a charge of public intoxication and fined $10, following his sensational ride down Peru street when the large automobile in which he was riding crashed broadsides into a tree narrowly missing Miss Ida Nash, a school teacher, and Conrad Labelle, of Champlain, and two Canadians giving their names as Charles Newell and Thomas Guilbalt, were taken into custody at the city limits here this afternoon by Sheriff Coffey, United States Deputy Marshall Murray and Customs Inspector Washburn, of Rouses Point. All four of the men were taken before United States Commissioner Gilliland and charges of conspiracy in transporting liquor into this country from Canada were made against them.

Two cars and about 20 cases of alleged liquor were confiscated by Marshall Murray. Labelle and Gauvin were released in $500 bail, and the two Canadians were committed to jail in default of $1,000 bail each. Their examination will be today. According to the police, this is the second time Labelle and Gauvin have been caught. They were recently tried, convicted and fined in the United States District Court.

OLIVER SHEDS LIGHT ON LIQUOR CONTROL

Premier Discussed in Committee Various Phases of Policy

VICTORIA, B.C., Feb. 19. — (By Canadian Press.)—Further light was shed upon the coming liquor control bill in the Legislature here yesterday afternoon when Premier Oliver discussed in committee some of the salient features of Government control, and gave his views with regard to the best method of handling certain features of the question. The Premier said the municipalities will be obligated to enforce the Act, and failing this, the commissioners would have power to enforce the laws; that in his opinion fifty per cent of the revenue to the municipalities would be a fair division; that a commission of one or three, subject to removal for the cause would be appointed with full powers and control of the operations in the liquor department.

A uniform price for liquor sold by the Government will prevail all over the Province, but he did not state how many Government stores there would be. It was made as easy as possible, however, for anyone to take advantage of the provisions of the Act, the Premier said. Every town will not necessarily have a liquor vendor but the price of Government liquor will be the same to all, with express charges paid by the commission where necessary.

Special regulations will be made governing the use of liquor by doctors, dentists, veterinaries and manufacturers.

HUDSON BAY ROAD

Early Completion Indicated in Premier Norris' Report

WINNIPEG, Feb. 19.—Early completion of the Hudson Bay Railway is indicated by assurances which have been received from the Dominion Government, states Premier T. C. Norris, in his annual report as railway commissioner of Manitoba, which was submitted to the Legislature yesterday afternoon. When completed, the line will no doubt be operated by the Federal Government as a portion of the Canadian National System, he states. Proposals for the development of the mineral belt in the northern portion of the province and the construction of a 65 mile railway tapping the Flin Flon area are outlined by the commissioner.

MOTHER AND BABY PERISH.

SASKATOON, Feb. 19.—Two lives were lost in a fire which started early yesterday morning in the residence of Ted Baker, situated on Hawk's farm, about four miles west of Melfort. The fire is supposed to have caught from the kitchen range while the family was still asleep. Mr. Baker managed to escape and succeeded in rescuing four of their children. Mrs. Baker handed them out of a window, before Mrs. Baker and the baby were able to get out the roof fell in and they were burned to death. The bodies have not yet been recovered.

FREIGHT TROUBLE NOT YET SETTLED

Administrative Commission and Tramways Co. Exchange Letters

DEADLOCK

Chairman Decary Would Permit Transportation Pending Regulations

The deadlock between the Administrative Commission and the Montreal Tramways Company over the question of the haulage of freight by the company continues, and according to letters written yesterday by Chairman Decary, of the Commission, and Col. Hutcheson, manager of the company, neither side is willing to withdraw from the position it has taken up. One concession, however, has been made by Mr. Decary, and that is that the company be permitted, in the public interest, to carry freight as usual for a period of a week or a fortnight pending the issuing by the Tramways Commission of the necessary regulations.

The letter of Mr. Decary, addressed to the Montreal Tramways Commission, follows:

"I received this morning a letter from your commission declaring that you have decided, after due consideration, to give instructions to the Tramways Company to continue the carrying of freight as in the past, with the exception, in order to remove all cause of complaint, that the company shall not unload such freight in the streets of Montreal.

"This permission on your part is altogether contrary to the contract entered into between the city of Montreal and the company. According to article 12 of our contract, it is stipulated that the commission shall render no decision before having notified all those interested to be heard. Besides you told me this morning that your decision was without appeal. According to article 15 there is an appeal for all the parties in the case, by the company and by the city, to the Public Utilities Commission of the Province of Quebec on all questions of law.

"It seems to me under the circumstances, that before rendering the decision contained in your letter of the 17th inst., you should have at least heard the city, which would be perhaps the easiest manner of regulating the present difficulty.

"However, provided your commission decides to issue the regulations, etc., according to article 83 within a week or a fortnight from the present date in the general interests, we have no objection that in the interval the company continues to carry freight but if it is the intention of the Commission simply to set aside the obligations it has in virtue of article 83, we must insist that the carrying of freight cease, until you shall have conformed to the said article."

COL. HUTCHESON'S LETTER.

The Tramways Company's letter, which is also addressed to the Tramways Commission, reads:

"I acknowledge receipt of your letter of the 17th, by which you advise that the Commission have taken communication of all correspondence on the above subject, and, after due consideration, instruct the company to continue the carrying of freight as heretofore, but with the proviso that, in order to remove cause of complaint by the city authorities, no unloading of freight will be permitted on the public streets.

"As the position does not seem to be well understood, I wish to point out to the commission the exact facts as to the carrying of freight by the Tramways Company on its system.

"At the request of the city of Montreal, surrounding municipalities and contractors executing work for the city of Montreal, and other general contractors the company started to carry freight in the year 1907.

"A few years ago the city of Montreal objected and, went so far as to take suit against the company because it was carrying freight. The company then decided to stop, but on the representations of surrounding municipalities and contractors, an understanding was arrived at between the then administrators of the city and the company to the effect that the company would for the time being, continue to carry freight as in the past.

"The company has never applied to the commission under Article 83 of the contract, for permission to carry freight, but has continued its practice for the convenience of the city of Montreal, surrounding municipalities and of the general public.

"The company would not, at this time, when it is so important that building operations be resumed and when extensive municipal works are to be carried on all over its system, have refused to carry freight, but as the administrators of the city seem to take a view that cannot be accepted by the company as to conditions or otherwise, the company has nothing to do but to stop carrying freight, which it will do at once, leaving to the city of Montreal the responsibility of the situation created by it.

"Yours very truly,

(Signed) J. E. HUTCHESON,
"General Manager."

SAYS GOVERNMENT CAN SAVE MILLION DOLLARS ON LIQUOR

Predicts That Dominion Government Will Raise the Tax, and if Quebec Acts Quickly it Can Get Its Supply in

There are in the hands of the ten licensed importers of liquors in Montreal stocks worth between ten and fifteen million dollars. According to the new law now being formulated at Quebec, these firms, some of them the oldest in Canada dating back a half a century or so, have until May 1 to get rid of their supplies. On that date they must make a return to the new commission of what stocks they have, and the commission will take over what it wants and let them keep the rest either for private consumption or "for watering the lawn," as one in the trade expressed himself.

It is impossible for them to get rid of such huge stocks by May 1. Accordingly they hope that the all-powerful commission will allow them to stay in business, for export trade only, long enough for them to get their cellars clear.

"I feel sure that the commissioners will give us a sympathetic hearing," one of the dealers said to The Star. "They will realize the impossibility of our getting rid of everything, and as they want to have their own supplies they will not object to our staying in for a few months longer when none of the liquor will be sold in Quebec So far as I am concerned, the commission can put a man in my store to see that none of the goods finds its way into Quebec and I will be prepared to pay him whatever salary the commission names. I have thousands of dollars worth of broken lots that the Commission will not want to take over, and if I am not allowed to sell it outside the Province what can I do?"

DUTY TO BE RAISED.

An expression of opinion was sought from Lawrence A. Wilson, one of the oldest in the trade. He stated that he was making preparations to have a complete inventory made of all goods intact and unbroken, in bond or in his cellars, so that he will be able to hand it to the new commission on April 1. He was then asked:

"What about goods ordered on the other side before the bill was introduced in the House by the treasurer, and not yet shipped, or on the water?"

"As far as we are concerned," he said, "we immediately cabled all our shippers to cancel all orders, and we believe every other firm did the same. You will see very few shipments coming in after the 15th of March, and I am sorry for this, as the goods ordered by the agents of all standard and high grade brands, could have been cleared at the customs before the new duty is put on at Ottawa, when the budget comes down, and which may be ten to twelve dollars per case more than at present."

"The tax or duty in England is now £5.10.6 or $27.50 per case," he pointed out. "In the United States it is about $18 per case, whereas here it is only $8.75 per case on imported goods and $6.25 on Canadian whiskies. You will therefore see that our duty is at least $18 per case less than in Great Britain, and it is quite clear that the duties will be heavily increased on liquors, in order to help pay off our heavy war debt.

COULD SAVE MILLION DOLLARS.

"The Government could have obtained these goods at the old prices, and probably saved a million dollars or more, which would have been a good start for their new venture, and in which I sincerely wish them every success. Perhaps Mr. Mitchell will reconsider this question—he generally sees things—and allow imports to come in, conditionally that he secures them on the basis of the present duties. This would evade the speculation suggested."

"What about your broken cases, odds and ends?"

"These remnants which will no doubt comprise five to six thousand bottles of good old Ports, Sherries, Clarets, Burgundies, Champagnes, Scotch and Irish Whiskies, Ryes, Gins, Brandies and Liqueurs. We intend distributing them amongst hospitals, homes, employes of the firm and friends, and I believe I have a few friends even in Quebec and Ottawa. If they inspect our cellars after that, they may find a reserve of our 'Chateau La Pompe', an old reliable brand of mine."

BIG BUILDING NEEDED.

A question that is puzzling men in the trade is where is the Commission going to set up in business? If it does only a tenth of the trade of the combined importers it will need a structure twice the size of the court house and city hall combined. Mr. Wilson was asked if he had any knowledge where the Commission would locate and what size building it would need. He answered that he had no idea where they would have their headquarters and as to the size of the structure needed he invited The Star to take a trip through his premises remarking that his was only one of many others scattered throughout the city.

The stretch of the cellars was a revelation. They are two deep, running far to the east and far to the west of the store's outside dimensions and stretching from St. James street to Fortification lane. The lower cellar, dates back three centuries at which time it was used by the French army as a storage magazine for munitions and war weapons. It has been altered scarcely at all since that time and some of the wines and liquors found here in huge containers are almost as ancient as their resting place. It seemed an endless maze of casks, pipes, hogsheads, and cases of Ports, Sherries, Alicantes, Muscatelles, Malagas, Cognac, Liqueurs and dozens of others not so well known.

In the five upper floors were tier after tier and case after case of every variety of Scotch, Irish, Canadian whiskey, gins, ales an dthe rest. Altogether there are over two hundred employes.

"Some of them have been with me for thirty-five years," said Mr. Wilson, "I wonder where they will go when the new regime starts?"

It is further forbidden for the finder to retain possession of such a lost plate. The penalty for infraction of the by-law is a fine of not less than $40 or two months imprisonment.

ALLEGED SUICIDE ATTEMPT.

Suffering from a gash made in his throat with a razor, Gideon Brown was taken to Montreal General Hospital last night and operated on. He was worried by illness, the police stated, and is alleged to have attempted to commit suicide by cutting his throat.

SIX FAMILIES ARE WITHOUT HOMES

Fire Does Over $100,000 Damage in Machine Shop and Vicinity

The fire, which consumed the top floor of the Montreal Machine Shop Limited, 481 and 483 Ontario street east, and certain adjacent dwellings, has made six families homeless, and threatened twenty-four operatives of the Montreal Machine Shop Limited with unemployment. The blaze lasted over six hours, interrupting the street car service on Ontario street and Amherst street for nearly five hours.

In hurrying to respond to the call, a hose truck collided with a coal waggon at the corner of Mansfield and St. Catherine streets, and was delayed for a short time. A singular circumstance connected with the fire, was the ringing of an automatic alarm in the shoe factory of Messrs. Aird and Son, owing to the sudden difference in water pressure caused by the diversion of so immense a stream on the burning buildings. No damage was sustained in Messrs. Aird's plant.

The first alarm was turned in at 6:24 o'clock, followed by a second, and subsequently telegraphed instruction for more apparatus, mostly pumping engines. Finding on their arrival that the flames were on the top floor, and were rapidly spreading to the entire building, the firemen laid streams on each frontage, and on the roofs of houses on the east side of Labrecque lane. An attempt to fight the fire at close quarters was frustrated when the firemen were driven out of the ground floor by the ferocity of the flames. Later, when they had mounted ladders on the Ontario street front, the blaze became so furious that the wall began to buckle, and the firemen were called down and fought the flames from the street.

About nine o'clock, the fears entertained for the adjacent buildings were realized, and three roofs in Labrecque lane caught fire. Similarly the roofs of three dwellings on the corner of St. Andre and Ontario streets were lighted, and the water used in extinguishing this latter outbreak caused severe damage to the stock of P. E. Dery, grocer, on the ground floor.

Fireman Gaston Colini, who with his family have been driven from their home by the fire, is on day duty this week, and happened to be at his house when the fire broke out. He turned out immediately and assisted his comrades at their work.

Considerable losses have been sustained by the Dominion Platinum Company in the same building. A. Lamarche, 14 Park Lafontaine, owner of the building, estimates the loss at $75,000, and damages to the structure at $30,000.

Considerable dislocation of the electric power and lighting as well as the isolation of about 150 telephones on the East Exchange resulted.

STOVE EXPLOSION

Montreal West Girl Severely Burned This Morning

Amelia Charette, aged 20 years, of Mayfair avenue, Montreal West, was admitted to the Western Hospital this morning, suffering from severe burns. About eight o'clock this morning she was lighting a gas stove, and an explosion took place. Dr. Perrin, of Sherbrooke street west, was called in, and states that the girl is very seriously burned, practically the whole of her body having suffered from the flames.

ATTACKS CHESTERTON.

Rabbi Max J. Merrett struck back vigorously at Gilbert K. Chesterton in Temple Emanu El last night, principally regarding Chesterton's recently published book, "The New Jerusalem."

Rabbi Merrett described Chesterton's attack as "weak, shallow and immorally vicious," and pointed to the numbers of Jews of British and American nationality who had served in the war, to refute the charge that they were not patriotic.

LEAVES THE STAR

Herbert K. Newman, night editor of the Montreal Daily Star, has severed his connection with that paper, and will in future entirely devote himself to the interests of his printing business, the St. James Printing Company, St. James street.

NO EXPLANATION OF FIRE ORIGIN

The fire which broke out at 11.49 a.m. on Wednesday at 36a Notre Dame street west, originated on the top floor according to the testimony of witnesses called by the Fire Commission yesterday.

Max Spivak, a cutter, employed by the New Idea White Wear Co., suddenly noticed flames rising from a part of the room occupied by empty boxes, wrapping paper, rolls of dress goods and other highly inflamable articles. He immediately gave the alarm and the shipper and the five girls, who were the only other occupants of the floor at the time escaped in haste.

Nicholas Saad, bookkeeper, said he had left the office a few minutes before. He was not smoking. The origin of the fire was a mystery to him.

George Lazar, proprietor, was lunching at the time the fire broke out. He was unable to advance a theory regarding the cause of the outbreak. The stock, which was almost an entire loss, was valued at $47,000, with an insurance of $24,000 on stock, and $1,000 on machinery.

Samuel Kalman, doll manufacturer, occupying the floor below, swore that the fire did not originate on his floor. The damage sustained by him, was entirely due to smoke and water.

DEATH OF MISS I. GRANT.

After a long illness, the death occurred yesterday of Miss Isabelle Grant, daughter of the late Thomas Grant, of Huntingdon, at her residence, Stanley Court Apartments, Stanley street.

The late Miss Grant, who was a teacher at the Westmount High school for 21 years, resigned three years ago on account of ill-health. She is survived by two sisters, Miss B. Grant, of Montreal, and Mrs. Dunsmore, of Huntingdon; and two brothers, Dr. A. S. Grant, of Toronto, and J. Grant, of Portland, Ore.

H. BAILLIE DIES.

The death occurred yesterday of Henry Baillie, 75 years of age, at his late residence, 2396 St. Urbain street. The late Mr. Baillie, was an old resident of this city. He was born in Aberdeen, Scotland, but came to Montreal when ten years of age. Mr. Baillie was a master plumber, but retired four years ago. He fought in the Fenian raid of '66-70. Forty-eight years ago he married Miss Elizabeth Wright, of this city, who survives him. He is also survived by two sons, three daughters, one brother and three sisters.

CHARGED WIDOW $2.50 FOR LEASE

Patriotic Fund Finds Many Families Suffering with Increased Rentals

A case where a landlord charged a soldier's widow $2.50 for the privilege of signing the lease has just come to the attention of the Patriotic Fund. The woman claims that he also demanded the same sum for last year's contract, and that she paid it, but that this February she refused. He insisted, however, and the Patriotic Fund are taking the matter up with a lawyer.

Instances where suffering and hardship are brought about by the increase in rents continue to come in, as the questionnaires prepared by the Fund are filled out by the visitors. A family which had a fairly commodious flat in 1919 of four rooms, for which they paid $11 a month, was obliged to move the next year as the rent had become prohibitive. After considerable searching they secured three small rooms for $13, which were raised $16 this year. The bath has been out of order for eighteen months, the chimney smokes, and in mild weather the water drips down the wall of the bed-room because of the leaky roof. Thus the family are paying more than forty percent over the old rent, and are now in more cramped and less comfortable quarters, and this has been found true in many cases, since pensioners of the Fund can only afford to pay a certain sum for lodging and must move into less and less desirable homes.

WALLS WERE SATURATED.

Another report states that the walls of the house were saturated with dampness, but that nevertheless the landlord increased the rental. A case where the tenant paid $9 for two rooms was reported to the City Hall, because of the lack of sanitary conveniences for this and other tenements which adjoined the same court. A house in Verdun with bad ventilation and little light has had the rental increased as follows:—

1914	1919	1920	1921
$9.50	$13.00	$14.00	$16.00

Another dwelling in the same municipality has gone up exactly 50 per cent in two years, while a third instance is reported of a family who pay $20 this year instead of $15 in 1919, but now have only four rooms instead of six.

PROVINCIAL CREDIT FOR COMMISSION

Amendments to Metropolitan Commission Bill Will Be Accepted

Amendments to the Metropolitan Commission bill are to be made, with a view to enable the Commission to raise money to assist temporarily municipalities now in financial difficulty, said Mayor P. W. McLagan of Westmount last night, adding that the suggestions of Westmount City Council to the Hon. L. A. Taschereau, Premier of Quebec, had been cordially received. The council which was received by the Premier and the Hon. J. E. Perrault on Thursday, received further assurances similar to those given to the delegation from Montreal municipalities several weeks ago, that there were no Government plans for annexation, and that annexations would not be forced on municipalities.

It was agreed that there should be a provincial credit for the Metropolitan Commission, continued Mayor McLagan, to enable it to advance money temporarily to those towns on Montreal Island now in difficulties, so that they can pay their debenture interest. Meantime enquiry would be made as to their assets. These would be placed in two divisions, one to show those which give service to the whole of the community, such as trunk highways and sewers, and those which serve the municipality only. The expenses of the first division would be levied on the whole of the community, and of the other on the local municipality; if necessary, money to be lent to them, but it was not proposed to relieve them of any debt. These suggestions, explained the mayor, will be embodied as amendments to the Metropolitan Commission bill.

WILL PROSECUTE SAUSAGE MAKERS

Many Complaints Received of Adulteration by Manufacturers

Many complaints on adulteration of sausages by manufacturers having been received recently, the Federal Department of Health has been conducting investigations, and has had a large number of analyses made. As a result, some thirty or more makers and vendors are to be prosecuted, states J. J. Costigan, Federal Inspector of Foods and Drugs, within the next few days, on the charge of having made and sold an adulterated product.

The adulteration usually consists, Mr. Costigan added, of an excess of water, and of dyes to improve the apparent quality of the sausages. As laid down by the Federal Act, sausages are much better and more reliable food than popularly believed. This regulation being complied with, they are made from the meat of swine or horned cattle, or a mixture of such meats, either fresh, salted, pickled or smoked, with added salt and spices and with or without the addition of edible animal fats, cereals, blood and sugar, or subsequent smoking. It contains no larger amount of water than the meats from which it is prepared contain when in their fresh condition, and not more than ten (10) per cent of its weight of cereals; and if it bears a name descriptive of kind composition or origin, it corresponds to such descriptive name. All animal tissues used as containers, such as casings, stomachs, etc., are clean and sound and impart to the contents no other substance than salt.

INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS CLAIMED HOUSE INTEREST

Hon. N. W. Rowell Says World Already Influenced by League

QUEBEC'S STATUS

Premier's Attitude to Province Sincere, Speakers Declare

PRESS GALLERY, HOUSE OF COMMONS. — Ottawa, Feb. 19.— Parliament feathered oars yesterday. Members discussed pride and politics, the League of Nations and the plague of notions—person and political. But nothing that was said jolted the membership out of the state of semi-coma into which it sunk following Mr. Gauthier's address.

Train time-tables, restaurant menus and old folks at home appeared to engross the major degree of attention. The only thing that seemed to meet with general approval was the occasion upon which it was pointed out to Mr. Speaker that the hands of the clock had folded up into something suggestive of a holiday until Monday. At that time those who had not gone over to see McGill students practice the manly art of self-defence on the flower of Ottawa's mit-wielders had climbed aboard the night "rattlers" for home, sweet home, or had tossed a nickel overboard to see the roulette wheels or the African golf games of Hull in animated progress.

During the flux of time, which was called a day, many speeches were delivered but scarcely heard. At almost any juncture any honorable member could have broken up the assembly by pointing out to Mr. Speaker that the House lacked a quorum. But there seemed to be mutual consent that this deficiency should be over-looked. Some of the folks just wanted to get into hansard and the House had no objection to making hansard work last night to accommodate them.

ROWELL URGES LEAGUE SUPPORT.

The chief contribution to a very desultory debate was a non-controversial one by Hon. N. W. Rowell devoted to the League of Nations. He paid his respects in vigorous language to the League of Nations, as the road over which the world was marching toward the uplands of democracy, and gave it as his opinion that Canada's position as an integral unit of the British Empire was one which Canada could ill-afford to sacrifice.

The League of Nations, Mr. Rowell declared, was establishing the fact that such a thing existed as public rights and public wrongs in international affairs. It was organized for the public prosecution of public wrongs. It was not a relation of super-states formed to prevent war, but a relation of all states to promote mutual interests of all nations.

He entered into an elaborate analysis of the last League meeting, and for half an hour had the House jumping with him from Commission No. 6, to Commission No. 3, and back to No. 5, etc., so rapidly that it grew impossible to tell just which Commission he was attending at the moment and to decide whether it was Brazil nuts, Paruvian gum or the Pedja kingdom that had been admitted de jure—if at all.

But as soon as Mr. Rowell left the maize of committees hansard was able to resume work. There still lingered a doubt as to whether British or continental rules of procedure had been followed, but a conference later successfully eliminated the Marquis of Queensbury, Graeco-Roman and catch-as-can conveyants and decided that the British and continental limitations were blended for the occasion.

LEAGUE'S VALUE TO CANADA.

The whole progress of the League meeting, Mr. Rowell said, was striking proof to him of the value of Canada of its place within the British Empire. In the fullness of its status as an autonomous Dominion its voice was heard and its opinions respected as an integral portion of the Empire in a manner, and to a degree that would be otherwise impossible.

Dr. Beland querried Mr. Rowell as to the admission of Germany to the League. The latter replied that Germany had not made application for admission, but that her admission had been mentioned several times at sittings. The concensus of opinion seemed to be that Germany would be welcomed when she gave satisfactory proof of her intention to meet her just obligations, thereby qualifying to undertake the responsibities which membership would place upon her.

QUEBEC NOT ISOLATED.

Fernand Rinfret (St. James, Montreal), followed Mr. Rowell with a vigorous political address that abounded with epigrams. "Quebec is not isolated," he declared. "Quebec stands today with the rest of Canada against an isolated government."

He had heard only two speeches in support of the Government. One was the Prime Minister's, the other that of Mr. Gauthier. In the words of Mr. Rinfret, "one because he does not want to get out, and the other because he is very anxious to get in."

He quoted the meeting held by the Prime Minister at Sherbrooke to show the overtures attempted to bring the French people behind the new Government. The thin humor of that comedy, he claimed, was soon disposed and the Province refused to forget what he termed the malicious insults that had been hurled at her for three years. The Premier had been fishing in Quebec, he said, but the people were not in biting form. He declared that fourteen seats had been carried by the Government in 1917, through the manipulation of overseas soldiers' votes, and that if these were placed where they should be the Government majority would be completely wiped out. It had been suggested that the Liberals were not speaking in good faith when they urged an election. He taunted the Government to call the "bluff."

LIBERAL LEADER QUESTIONED.

Dr. Edwards (Frontenac) carried on for the Government. He opened by asking Mr. King if he favored the removal of duty from apples at the same time indicating the Liberal leader with his index finger.

Mr. Speaker ruled that such a question at such a time was most unusual and Mr. King, who was about to speak, sat down.

Dr. Clarke (Red Deer), asked for a ruling as to the constitutionality of indicating a party at the point of the compass. His wing had been referred to as the North-east party. He was denied the ruling, but the apple enigma disappeared.

At the night sitting only 25 per cent of the members seemed to remember that the mace was on the mound and within ten minutes this percentage had dwindled to 17. Mr. Meighen was sitting with the Opposition and so was Mr. Ballantyne. Mr. Meighen had moved over with Mackenzie King and Mr. Ballantyne with Dr. Clarke in the agricultural zone.

Dr. Edwards resumed his diacision and declared that the Opposition was afraid to move a vote against the Government on any definite issue. It was afraid to move a free trade resolution. The attitude of the Opposition would make a snake turn green with envy. The Liberal leader was like Mahomet's coffin suspended between heaven and hell and no more fit for one than for the other.

FIRST ADDRESS IN FRENCH LANGUAGE.

J. E. S. E. Danjou (Rimouski), gained the honor of delivering the first address which the House has heard this session in the French language. Eight Liberal members, two Government members, four members of the Press Gallery and Hansard were his auditors. But M. Danjou was not deterred. He discoursed eloquently. Some one inquired if it was the Empress of Ireland or Dr. Crippen that had made Rimouski famous, but he did not halt to reply. He said he was glad to see the Government kneeling to Quebec. Quebec could forgive, but it could not forget. He was glad to be the first French speaker in the debate and deplored the fact that the Government did not find a speaker to second the reply in that language. He was glad that in the Senate such a speaker was found.

Nobody, he declared, had any confidence in the Government. West Peterboro had shown this fact. He repeated M. Rinfret's observation that 14 members on the Government side had been elected by the manipulation of soldiers' votes.

DECRIES SECTIONALISM.

F. B. Stacey (New Westminster), followed for the Government side. He declared that there was no place in Canada for sectionalism, that Canadianism should count first. Much had been made of by-election results. He had experience only in two. One of these was in Victoria and the other in Yale-Caribou. In both instances all forces opposed to the Government had united and had been snowed under. The members of the House held their seats and the Government held its position by virtue of popular sufferage, which was the constitutional manner, and in the face of this fact the Liberal declaration that the Government members were usurpers was a policy of children, not of statesmen. He urged all to work together to advance the interests of Canada as a whole rather than the interests of sectionalism or party.

Onesiphorere Turgeon (Gloucester, N.B.), replied to the effect that the fish in the sea off New Brunswick were as big as those of the west coast. He paid tribute to Mr. Meighen and recalled his prophesy that the present Prime Minister would rise high. He had risen and would bring to his party the rare talents which he had displayed when he came to the House.

Mr. Turgeon regretted that he had not been called to a better destiny and recalled some of the measures with which he said the present Prime Minister was given the credit of intimate identification in years gone by.

The Day in Parliament

IN THE COMMONS.

Hon. N. W. Powell, continuing debate on the address, devoted his attention to the League of Nations.

Other speakers: Fernand Rinfret (St. James (Montreal), Dr. J. W. Edwards (Frontenac), J. E. d'Anjou (Rimouski), O. Turgeon (Gloucester), F. B. Stacey (Westminster).

Select standing committees appointed.

Government supporters, at a two-hour caucus, decided to enforce attendance. No action was taken on the "no pair" rule of the Liberal Opposition.

No sitting of the House Saturday. House will re-assemble on Monday at three o'clock.

IN THE SENATE.

Third reading given Bill to Amend the Elections Act to adapt it to the Ontario prohibition referendum.

First reading given Bill providing for revision of a criminal sentence by the Appellate Court.

Senator J. A. MacDonald took his seat for the first time.

The Senate adjourned until Tuesday at three o'clock.

STRONG FEELING AGAINST EMBARGO

Reliance Placed on Lord Ernle's Pledge by Canadian Statesmen

LONDON, Feb. 19.—The expressions of opinion by Canadian statesman and by Canadians in this country which have been published in The Times recently have shown how strong is the feeling that the embargo on the importation of Canadian cattle should be removed. Reliance is generally placed on the pledge given by Lord Ernle, then Mr. Prothero, and concurred in by Mr. Long, at the Imperial War Conference in 1917.

At that conference Lord Ernle, after expressing doubt whether the outbreak of pleuro-pneumonia in 1892 on which the embargo was founded really was pleuro-pneumonia at all, said:—"At the present moment, and for many years past as far as I can make out, Canada has been free from the disease, and on these grounds therefore we should receive the present suggestion for the removal of the embargo very sympathetically. As far as I am personally concerned and so far as the English Board of Agriculture is concerned—after the war is over, of course, because it is not an economical mode of bringing meat to this country during the war to bring over live animals—we should, I consider, be wise to remove the embargo."

Lord Ernle pointed out that the home demand for store cattle in the Eastern Counties had been rather imperfectly met for many years. There had been a considerable increase in breeding in this country; but if we had, as he thought we should have, a large extension of arable farming we should want to increase our reservoir for store cattle. He saw signs of a falling off in the supply from Ireland, and the fact that we could turn to Canada for store cattle would be of great advantage to us.

"I can assure you," he added, "that so far as the English Board of Agriculture is concerned we are in favor of the removal of the embargo. We do not believe that there is now, or has been for a good many years past, the slightest ground to exclude Canadian cattle on the score of disease."

Mr. Long, who was in the chair at the conference, and whose views were of particular importance in view of the part he had played in connection with the embargo, said: "As far as I am concerned, as my name has been brought into it, I can only say that I entirely agree with Mr. Prothero's policy. I think the time that has elapsed has shown that Canada has had a complete and clean bill of health during that time."

"There was some discussion, which made it clear that the embargo should not be removed until after the war. Summing up, to prevent misunderstanding, Mr. Long said: "The position is that the restriction is to be removed, and the Board of Agriculture will take such steps as are necessary for this purpose, but upon the understanding that, there being no tonnage, there cannot be any arrivals."

ONTARIO HOUSE

KAPUSKASING BILL IS BEFORE HOUSE

Premier Drury Introduces Measure for Town's Early Incorporations

OTHER NEW BILL

Several Proposals for Legistion Sponsored by Members

TORONTO, Feb. 19. — (Canadian Press.) — Premier Drury introduced Legislature incorporating the townsite of Kapuskassing, on practically the site of the old soldier settlement. It provides that against the town's debentures the Government may raise funds to the extent of $400,000 for the purchase of land and the erection of highways, and $100,000 for the construction of sewers. The Council will consist of a mayor and six members, W. K. Kelb, of O'Brien, is named as mayor, and the councillors will be W. G. McNaughton, J. A. Stewart, E. W. Hardman, Douglas Stewart, W. W. Mills, and C. F. Lair.

ACCOUNTS IN TIMBER INQUIRY.

Hon. W. E. Raney yesterday afternoon informed the Legislature that up to date accounts amounting to $69,519 had been received in connection with the Riddell-Latchford timber enquiry. R. T. Harding, K.C., former Crown Counsel at the inquiry, had received $2,000 on account for fees as counsel. Hon. Mr. Raney stated that no arrangement had been made with Justices Riddel and Latchford regarding their per diem allowance. Each of these commissioners, he said, had received $2,000 on account. The Attorney General pointed out that since these amounts had been paid, the Dominion Government had passed legislation preventing judges accepting payment for services on commission. This being the case, no further payments would be made, he added.

The Ontario Public Service Commission, according to Hon. N. E. Raney, has cost $15,037 to date. The commissioners have received remuneration as follows: W. D. Gregory, chairman, $2,240; Norman Summerville, $2,000; Dr. H. L. Brittain, $820; Albert Hellyer, $1,000, and E. A. Pocock, $1,180. Expenses have been paid as follows: W. D. Gregory, $605; N. Sommerville, $373; Dr. H. L. Brittain, $338; A. Hellyer, $457, and E. A. Pocock $720. The expenses of reporting the proceedings were $2,231. The commission sat 55 days.

THEATRE ELECTRICIAN.

W. A. Crockett, South Wentworth, introduced a bill providing that in a theatre of a seating capacity of 1,000 or more persons there should be a competent electrician to take charge of all lighting during performances. After a short discussion on the bill in which Provincial Treasurer Smith suggested that it would be difficult to draw the line between different sized theatres, and Premier Drury and Hon. W. R. Rollo gave the bill a measure of favorable notice, it was sent to the Municipal Committee.

Another bill sent to the Municipal Committee was that of Dr. H. A. Stevenson, of London, to provide special election polls for commercial travellers, such as are now provided for railway men. The Premier said he was not personally in favor of the bill. However, the measure received enough support to warrant it being sent on.

Hon. Thomas Crawford's bill to amend the Municipal Act by providing for municipal inspection of all hot water and steam heating plants was given a second reading. A bill to amend the Mechanics' and Wage Earners' Lien Act, fathered by W. E. N. Sinclair, North Ontario, was introduced in the House by H. H. Dewart, K.C., Liberal leader, in the absence of Mr. Sinclair. Among other things the bill provides that the whole contract price for any building or erection should be held in trust by the owner until all labor and material expended upon or furnished for the building had been fully satisfied up to the amount of that contract price. It also provides that fictitious contracts at prices which the owner knew, or ought to have known, were not sufficient, should be subject to review, and the owner held liable for the true value of the work done and material supplied.

NOTORIOUS BANDIT SHOT.

HARRISON, Ark., Feb. 19. — Henry Starr, notorious Oklahoma bandit, was probably fatally wounded yesterday, when with two companions, he attempted to rob the People's Bank, of Harrison.

When the robbers backed employes of the bank into the vault, a bank officer seized a rifle that had been hidden there and shot Starr down. He then opened fire on the other two, but they escaped.

THE SOLUTION OF DAYLIGHT SAVING

The demand for daylight saving is most insistent in Eastern Canada and the Eastern States. The reason apparently is that the so-called standard time in force in the area in question varies considerably from the mean sun time upon which the actual length and intensity of daylight is based. On Eastern standard time as at present maintained in Quebec and New England, the sun rises from May to September two to three hours before the average man is about in the morning and sets at an equally unserviceable hour. Hence the natural demand for daylight saving legislation in these parts. If New England and Quebec and the Maritime Provinces were to adopt Atlantic standard time, which is their natural specific time, they would save thousands of dollars all the year round for fuel and light and incidentally the agitation for daylight saving would be buried.

LOOKING ON AT OTTAWA

GOV'T OPTIMISTIC AFTER THE CAUCUS

Confident of Safe Majority —Premier Meighen Eulogizes Borden

KING'S AMENDMENT

If it Passed, Would Mean Dissolution—Craftily Drawn

OTTAWA, February 19. — (From Our Own Correspondent.)—At the end of the first week of the Parliamentary session, and particularly after yesterday's caucus, Government supporters take a very optomistic view of the political outlook, the party is the victim of a peculiar misfortune in the absence of more than a dozen of its members, and the condition is accentuated by the refusal of the Liberals to give official pairs, but some of those who are delinquent in arriving, will be here for the vote, and there is no question but that Mackenzie King's amendment will be defeated by a substantial majority. The caucus was the initial one of the session, and the Premier was received with great acclaim. He delivered a long address, considerable of it being devoted to his distinguished predecessor, whose activities and public service came in for a glowing eulogy. Sir Robert Borden was unable to be present, as he is confined to his bed, but the expression of esteem in which he is held was most impressive.

PREMIER'S CAUTION.

The Premier reminds the caucus that while there are growing evidences of the favor of the Government in the minds of the thinking people of the country, it is very essential that the Parliamentary party should do its part, and fully keep up its end. It has suffered some defections, and also from adversity in certain by-elections, but the view of the Government is that all that is needed is a campaign of education and a clear exposition of its policy.

The present session will afford many opportunities in that respect. If there is one outstanding characteristic of the Prime Minister, it is straightforwardness. While searches to establish the exact location of the Opposition on the question of the tariff have proved somewhat abortive, Mr. Meighen has not only proclaimed his policy on the shuntings from coast to coast, but seized the first opportunity of affirming it in the speech from the Throne. If he sought to draw out the leader of the Opposition, the effort has been futile. Mr. King has come around with an amendment, craftily drawn, in which he declares the Government to be a band of usurpers without mandate to revise the tariff or do anything else but dissolve. The amendment says nothing about an election, but that is what is called for in reality. It is a no-confidence declaration, and if adopted could have no other result than dissolution. Mr. Crerar will arrive on Sunday, and the attitude of the Farmer's party on the amendment will soon be made known. So far, not a word has been uttered in that quarter. Although Dr. Clark shows evidences of suffering from the enforced restraint. The party will largely line up in support of the amendment, although they will affect the role of independence by incidentally taking a slam at the Liberal leader. In any event, the Government will have a fair majority, although the absence of a dozen of its supporters will necessarily be felt acutely.

COMPLAIN AT RESTAURANT CHARGES.

In the caucus, it is understood that there was considerable complaining over the prices charged in the new and elaborate restaurant which has been fitted up, although they compare favorably with those charged elsewhere. There was also considerable dissatisfaction over the civil service question, and a demand for such reforms as were suggested in the resolution which Sir Sam Hughes has on the order paper. An absolute return to party patronage is not favored by many, but there are numerous members who insist that in local appointments they are entitled to have a say.

Considerable resentment is expressed over the situation, and some of the Government members are strong for reprisals, such as keeping the House in session early and late, but no conclusion was reached by the caucus.

The Gauthier incident is of great interest not only for the personal change of heart of a strong Opposition member, but for what it may indicate as an expression of Quebec feeling. The coming vote will show whether or not Mr. Gauthier will be followed by others. He may not be the coming division, but it is very conceivable that the situation will be different and his cue will be taken when the budget proposals are before the House.

SENTENCED FOR FIRES.

LONDON, Feb. 19.—The men arrested when an attempt was made on January 15, to set fire to the Vacuum Oil Company's plant, at Wandsworth, Southwest London, were sentenced today. Two of the prisoners, O'Sullivan and Moran, were sentenced to eight years' imprisonment, and Patrick Kenney was given a term of four years.

The men were convicted of attempted arson, being acquitted of the charge of attempting to murder the policemen who arrested them.

TOLEDO P. O. CHECKS EMPLOYES.

TOLEDO, O., Feb. 19.—Unable to find a clue that would lead to the arrest of the five men who early Thursday morning held up three railway mail clerks at the main post office and escaped with mail sacks containing registered mail estimated in value at between $300,000 and $400,000, post office inspectors began a check up of all former employes who have left the service within the year.

NORRIS SUCCEEDS IN FIRST DIVISION

Labor-Farmer Resolution to Release Strike Leaders, Defeated

VOTE 26 TO 22

Conservatives Decide With Gov't—Men Must Ask for Themselves

WINNIPEG, Feb. 19.—(Star Special.)—In the first division of the House since the opening of the session, the LiberalGovernment assisted by the Conservative group Friday, succeeded in defeating a Labor-Farmer combination who sought to release the jailed strike leaders, on unconditional grounds, by a vote of 26 to 22. It was decided that if the strike leaders wished to free themselves in order to attend sessions of the Legislature they must ask for a parole first of all, as their terms expire in nine days. It is unlikely that the matter will go any further.

The vote brought to an end a five days' debate which brought up again the issues of the general strike of 1919. Members of the Government and Conservative parties saw in the resolution of release introduced by F. J. Dixon, the Labor leader, an attempt to censure the courts for the conviction of the strike leaders. Mr. Dixon and his lieutenant, W. D. Bayley, in closing the debate confirmed this view.

Mr. Bayley's speech was an impassioned defense of the strike and the men who had led it. He declared that he would have worked hand in hand with them if he had been in Winnipeg at the time. In the midst of a preoration on liberty his gaze fell upon a statue of Moses in the chamber.

"There is the man," he said, "who advocated direct action, who killed at sight when he saw an injustice done. You should put him in jail and release these men who all through the strike were preaching law and order."

The trial of Christ reminded the speaker of the recent strike trials. In Biblical times it was the Herodians which were put to the task of getting convicting evidence but in modern times it was the mounted police, he said. In both cases, sedition was the crime alleged, he averred. He charged that the juries were hand-picked in order to manipulate the machinery of justice.

N.B. WOMAN KILLED WHILE AIDING HUSBAND

J. A. Jagoe Found Unconscious and Wife Crushed to Death

BATHURST, N.B., Feb. 19.—(Star Special)—With her husband lying unconscious a few yards away, the body of Mrs. John A. Jagoe, lying crushed beneath a heavy gasoline engine, was the tragic discovery made by neighbors at the doors of the Jagoe home at Clifton, a few miles from Bathurst. The details of the accident never will be known and can be reconstructed only in theory.

Mr. Jagoe had visited Bathurst to make some purchases and was returning home with an engine as part of his sled load. As he was entering the driveway of his farm he was stunned, apparently by a board knocked from the fence by the sled colliding with it, and fell clear of the vehicle.

It is believed that his wife, coming to his assistance with a lighted lantern, in some manner startled the horses and they, with a sudden start, upset the sled, allowing the heavy engine to fall on the woman. Whether she was killed by the accident or was frozen to death as she lay in agony, could not be determined.

When neighbors arrived on the scene, several hours later, the husband still was lying unconscious in the snow, but the heavy wraps which he had worn while driving had prevented him from freezing, and it is expected that he will recover.

CANADIAN SENATE

BILL TO AMEND ELECTIONS' ACT

Given Third Reading in Senate Without Amendment

ONT. REFERENDUM

War-Time Measure Attacked as Being Very "Unfair"

OTTAWA, Feb. 19.—(By Canadian Press).—The bill to amend the Elections Act to adapt it to the referendum to be taken in Ontario on prohibition was given third reading in the Senate yesterday without amendment. Senator McMeans, Winnipeg, introduced a bill which aims to permit of the application of a judge of the Appellate Court to bring before the Appellate Court the revision of a criminal sentence and to confer authority on the Appellate Court to increase or decrease the penalty.

When the debate on the address was resumed Senator Crosby, who had moved the adjournment, asked that owing to the absence of Senator Dandurand, to whom he wished to reply, the debate be adjourned until Tuesday. It was agreed that Senator Power should resume the debate, Senator Crosby to speak on Tuesday next.

Senator Power maintained that the present Government was in power solely by the War Time Elections Act, the "most unfair and objectionable measure ever adopted in an English-speaking country." He had no doubt the Government would hang on to office, as a bear robbed of its cubs was milder than Conservatives out of office. The Government promises of economy had been violated from the moment they took office. They had lately augumented the Civil Service and had increase expenditure in every department. From 1911 to 1921 there had been exhibited the greatest government incapacity since Confederation. Senator Power complained of the cost of meals on the Intercolonial, where grapefruit costing five cents had sold for twenty-five cents for a half, and where fish costing ten cents a pound sold for fifty cents for a quarter of a pound.

The Government, he said, was inactive in office and active in attaining it. He was opposed to Old Age pensions and unemployment insurance, and concluded by congratulating the Canadian delegates to the Geneva Conference for their efforts to eliminate Clause Ten from the covenant of the League of Nations.

SENATE COMMITTEES.

Most of the standing committees of the Senate have elected their chairmen, preparatory to the work of the session. Senator Bostock heads the Committee on Standing Orders, Senator Foster presides over that on banking and commerce and Senator Blain heads the Railway Committee. Senator Proudfoot is chairman of the Divorce Committee; Senator Nicholls heads the Finance Committee; Senator Daniel that of Internal Economy and Accounting, Senator Belque that of Miscellaneous Private Bills and Senator Dandurand that of Debates and Reporting.

METROPOLITAN COMMISSION TO HAVE BIG POWERS

Re-drafted Measure Reveals Wide Scope of the New Board

FULL SAFEGUARDS

Check on Annexations, Borrowing, Highways and Other Problems

QUEBEC, Feb. 19.—(By a Staff Correspondent)—The revised draft for the incorporation of the Metropolitan Commission of the Island of Montreal was received by the Prime Minister on Friday, and it is likely that it will be considered in conjunction with the Montreal Charter Commission Bill in its later stages, although unless some radical changes are made in regard to the system of government for the city, the Metropolitan Commission will be an entirely independent body from the City Government.

As the Bill is drafted it does not entirely meet the desires of those who want to ensure that the finances of the score or more municipalities on the Island shall be placed on a sound basis, and that capital expenditures shall be carried out under the strictest supervision, but the necessary amendments to the scheme will be presented later on in the committee stage.

ARGUMENT FOR COMMISSION.

The preamble of the Bill sets forth that without unduly limiting or affecting the rights of self-government enjoyed by the various municipalities on the Island of Montreal it is expedient that a system of financial control by a central authority representative of all such municipalities including the City of Montreal be established for the future.

Under the scheme as at present proposed the Commission will consist of eight representatives of the City of Montreal including the City Comptroller, elected by the governing body of the city, four representatives of the cities of Lachine, Outremont, Verdun and Westmount, and three representatives of other municipalities, one appointed by the western municipalities, one by the Eastern and the third by the remaining municipalities these three being appointed at a meeting held at the Montreal City Hall within eighty days after the coming into force of the act.

INDEPENDENCE IS SAFEGUARDED.

No members of the Commission may form part of the municipal council of any municipality represented on the Commission and they will get a salary of $20 for each meeting they attend, the chairman receiveing an additional indemnity of $2,000 a year. The chairman is to be elected by the members of the Commission from among themselves, and he will have a casting vote as well as his vote as a member, in case of a tie.

All members of the Commission will hold office for four years with the exception of the City Comptroller, who shall remain a member as long as he holds that office. In order, however, to enable a change in the personnel every year of the Montreal members, the members will draw lots, so that one will retire at the end of the first year, and two each succeeding year till the fourth year, each being eligible for reselection. For the other municipalities one shall retire every year by the same process, and at the end of four years all the members will have a four year term retiring in rotation.

HAVE WIDE JURISDICTION.

The commission will have jurisdiction and authority over the whole island; have power to regulate and control all plans or proposals for the opening and construction of roads, streets and drains that affect more than one municipality; see that they properly connect with each other and no municipality can undertake any public works that affect another municipality without the written consent of the commission.

The commission must have a survey of the island made and a general plan prepared, indicating all trunk highways that may be constructed for future requirements which shall be binding on all municipalities and persons making sub-divisions of building lots.

CONTROL OF UTILITIES ALSO.

No public utility or other franchise can be entered into by any municipality without the consent of the commission and no annexation take place without their approval. This approval cannot be given unless a by-law approved by a majority in number and value of the proprietors of immoveables in the territories concerned has been passed by referendum in the municipalities interested.

The commission will ascertain the cost and construction of main highways used by the general population and apportion the cost to the municipalities concerned.

HOLD BORROWING POWERS.

All borrowing powers held by municipalities will be transferred to the commission and all loans upon capital account will only be obtainable through the commission, the interest and sinking fund charges for such loan being assessed on the municipality interested.

No stocks or bonds issued by the commission for loans shall be for a longer period than 40 years and they can only be sold by public tender unless previously authorized by the Minister of Municipal affairs. When making any loan for works of capital expenditure the commission must hold a public inquiry as to the necessity of such undertaking, and if it is approved fix the term of the loan.

APPEAL PROVIDED FOR.

Any municipality shall have the right to appeal to the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council from any decision of the Commission. The accumulated amortization of sinking funds of all municipalities will be subject to periodic examination by the Commission and any municipality may transfer its sinking fund to the Commission and it thereafter shall remain subject to their control.

If the Commission find the sinking fund of a municipality is insufficient they may take control of such funds until they are in proper shape but these municipalities whose sinking funds are sufficent may retain control of them and levy the necessary assessments provided they make a return to the commission each year.

ASKS PARLIAMENT TO SEND TAPLEY BACK TO HIS CELL

Notice of Motion to This Effect Given at Ottawa Today

WOULD CANCEL

Resolution Advocates That Ticket-of-Leave Be Withdrawn

OTTAWA, Feb. 19.—(Star Special)—The House of Commons is being asked to urge the Government to withdraw the ticket-of-leave granted W. H. Tapley, of Montreal, loan shark, and send him back to the penitentiary to finish his term.

Notice of a resolution to this effect appears on the order paper this afternoon. It reads:

P. F. Casgrain, (Charlebois) to move:

"That, in the opinion of this House the Governor-in-Council should cancel the privileges extended to one W. H. Tapley, of Montreal, under provisions of the Ticket-of-Leave Act and that he should be re-arrested and sent back to the penitentiary to finish the term of the sentence imposed upon him, in the best interests of justice and the community."

The resolution is not likely to be discussed until the conclusion of the debate on the Speech from the Throne.

SHE IS AMUSED.

"Now you know that you, a jazz baby, never intend to marry a college professor."

"Maybe not."

"Then why let him make love to you?"

"Aw, it's such fun to hear a college professor converse in gurgles."—Courier Journal.

MILNER ADVISES NEGOTIATION ON EGYPT'S STATUS

Home Government Should Take Up Direct Pourparlers, He Says

REAL OPPORTUNITY

Favor Self-Government With All British Interests Safeguarded

LONDON, Feb. 19. — (Associated Press).—Negotiations with the Egyptian Government for the conclusion of a Treaty according self-Government to Egypt, are strongly advised in the long-awaited report by Lord Milner, former Colonial Secretary, on the Egyptian question, presented to Parliament Friday.

The negotiations should be entered upon by the British Government without undue delay, Lord Milner declares.

The self-government grant, according to recommendations of the report, would be accompanied by the necessary reservations upholding the essential British interests and protecting the rights of foreign residents.

The report expresses the opinion that it would be a great misfortune if the present opportunity were lost.

Viscount Milner, who retired recently as secretary for the colonies had formerly been connected with the Egyptian administration and on entering the colonial office in 1919 took up the troubled Egyptian question with energy. Last spring he went in person to Egypt, heading a commission of inquiry, and later formulated the recommendations looking to the independence of Egypt, with suitable safeguards for British interests, embodied in the report now made public.

The British protectorate over Egypt declared in 1914, has been bitterly resisted for some time past by Egyptian Nationalists and numerous disorders and outrages have been an outgrowth of this situation. The Milner plan seemed to meet with favor at the start, but later met with obstacles and it has been reported that Lord Milner's retirement from the Cabinet was largely, if not solely, due to differences with colleagues over the Egyptian policy.

MRS. DOUGHTY HAS ENTERED ACTION

TORONTO, Feb. 19. — Acting for Mrs. Constance Doughty, who is suing her husband, John Doughty, former Secretary of Ambrose Small, missing theatrical magnate, J. A. Macintosh appeared before Justice Mulock to file general particulars of the allegations made by Mrs. Doughty. G. T. Walsh, who represented Doughty, offered to file an affidavit.

In the statement of claim Mrs. Doughty sets forth she was married on June 11, 1917, living with her husband until May, 1919, when she was compelled to leave him. Mrs. Doughty charges her husband with giving to the newspapers the reason of his absence following Mr. Small's disappearance as domestic troubles, placing the responsibility upon his wife. She denies this.

HISTORIC PICTURES FOR PUBLIC VIEW

Incidents and Personages from Canada's Historic Past

WOLFE'S DIARY

Paintings of Churches and Landmarks of the Island

Much progress has been made toward assembling for public view the finest collection of paintings in Canada, depicting scenes, incidents and personages famous in this country's historic past. These canvases, most of which have already been moved into the McCord National Museum, at 425 Sherbrooke street west, from Temple Grove, the residence of David Ross McCord, are not yet hung, but it will not be many more days before they are permanently placed; and then Montrealers, for the first time, will have free access to a pictorial survey of the country's history which is remarkably complete. History students will here find an abundance of interesting and accurate material.

VARIOUS RELICS.

These oil paintings, supplemented by engravings and sketches, form only a portion of the actual material that Mr. McCord has acquired by a lifelong and tireless quest, and which he is passing on to the museum, the whole to form an important nucleus to a far greater museum of the future. Apart from the picture galleries there will be costumes, war relics, old weapons, armour, furniture and in fact all manner of exhibits characteristic of an enthusiastic collector.

The picture galleries will be the first, no doubt, to be set in order. There will be at least four rooms devoted to these. The pictures will be numbered and indexed. Mr. McCord has imbued his helpers with the spirit of painstaking correctness; so that a sharp division will be drawn at all times between mere surmise and ascertained fact in the descriptions given.

Famous among the oil paintings already in the museum, though not yet hung, is a panoramic view of the Plains of Abraham as they appeared within a short time after they had become historic. The altitudes and contours are correct, having been drawn to scale from the plans of the Royal Engineers. The view extends from Levis to the Isle of Orleans; the heights and declivity scaled by the British troops in their final successful action are vividly realized on the canvas. Wolfe's monument is clearly shown in the foreground, and behind it is seen the tiny stone well, from which water was brought to the dying hero. Sillery church, Beaucourt church, and that of St. Foy are quickly recognized, while Lorette is vaguely discerned in the distance. The hornwork, the great redoubt constructed by the French to the north of the St. Charles River and east of the little River Lairet, is at once identified by persons informed in history. It was in these precincts that Jacques Cartier wintered on his second voyage to Canada in 1535-36, while his third visit to this country saw him housed at Cap Rouge, 1541-42. The site of Wolfe's first unsuccessful attack, on July 31, 1759, at Beaucourt Flats, on the St. Lawrence, near Montmorency, is easily found. On that occasion the great general was unable to make a landing against strong French opposition; his efforts were crowned with success, death and glory just forty-four days later.

WOLFE'S DIARY.

This canvas is one of the most historical on the continent; and the McCord Museum also holds the priceless treasure of General Wolfe's diary, which is complete up to the day of his death. These two objects alone would make a visit to the museum well worth while; but they are only two out of many exhibits here dealing with the Montcalm-Wolfe period. Many of the famous spots included in the picture of the plains are again found in large detail on separate canvases; so that the visitor can work from the general to the particular.

Easily recognized from its frequent reproduction in art periodicals is the original of Jeffrey, First Lord Amherst, who took command upon the death of Wolfe; became Governor of Canada, but soon returned to England, and was succeeded by Sir James Murray. Among other interesting portraits are those of General John Small in the uniform of the 84th Highlanders, and Louis Luc de Chapt, St. Luke de la Corne.

LOCAL PAINTINGS.

Montrealers will find many paintings of churches and other institutions on this island which are still standing, and others which have only recently been destroyed. Many will recognize the little church at St. Annes, de bout de l'isle, where at one time the voyageur would offer up his prayer and contribute his mite as he left civilization behind him and propelled his frail bark up the "Riviere des Outrauais," past Canada's present capital city, where he often counted each day's journey as a step nearer to the Grande Portage.

Martello towers, convents, fortified mills, ruins of forts and many other easily recognized objects, are to be seen among this splendid collection. The fortified mill at Senneville will be spotted by many who have seen it when passing by train. Fort Cullerier, at Lachine, on the Lower Lachine road will be known to many, as will also the fortified house at La Prairie, with loop holes for muskets and a view of Montreal seen in the distance.

The pictures mentioned form only a fraction of the whole array, and, as previously pointed out, the paintings represent only one division of the museum. The date of its opening is not yet decided, nor has any announcement yet been made as to whether illustrated guide books will be obtainable, the compiling of which is a lengthy and arduous labor.

PRETTY WEDDING.

The wedding took place Wednesday evening in the Blue Room of the Ritz-Carlton, of Miss Etta Kellnor, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Kellnor, 458 Elm avenue, Westmount, to Mr. Abraham Applebaum, of New York.

The ceremony was performed by Rabbi Dr. H. Abramovitz.

The bride wore a gown of duchess and rose point lace lined with flesh colored georgette. The bride's tulle veil was caught with orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of white roses and orchids showered with sweet peas. Miss Dora Kellnor, sister of the bride, was maid of honor.

The bridesmaids were Miss Muriel Goldstein, Miss Viola Levy, of New York, Miss Jessie Bloomfield and the flower girls were Miss Marjorie Albert and Martia Lehrer. The groom was supported by Archie Applebaum and and the ushers were Melvyn G. Jacobs and Barney Albert.

The bride and groom will spend their honeymoon in Atlantic City.

TOBACCONISTS TO THE PRINCE.

A Royal Warrant as tobacconists to H.R.H. the Prince of Wales has been received in Montreal by the Imperial Tobacco Company of Canada, Limited. The Imperial Tobacco Company had the honor of manufacturing the cigarettes supplied to His Royal Highness during his tour through the Dominion in 1919.

Black-and-White Works Exhibited; Attractive Contrast

The exhibition of black-and-white work by representative British and Canadian artists, which is on view at Johnson's art galleries, is one that well repays study. It is the first attempt that has been made here to bring an all black-and-white collection from England, before the Montreal public, with the aim of introducing to Canadian art-lovers the best black-and-white work of the leading English artists who use the etching and dry-point mediums.

For instance, we have had no opportunity before now in Montreal to see any public exhibit of the etchings of Mr. H. W. Sweet, who is much to the fore in England today. This display includes some exquisite Devonshire scenes. That of Tintern Abbey is one of rare richness and depth of tone—masonry done so solidly as to give the illusion of time-defying stone, and yet the whole touched with the spirit of romance and by-gone days. The scenes of Exeter are delicate, but etched with strength, and the glimpses of historic spots possess a beauty that grows upon one.

Turning from these to the work of a Canadian etcher, Mr. Gyrth Russell, we find views of Oxford that challenge comparison with the best work done on the same spot by the leading American etchers. Particularly notable are the two views of High Street and that of Merton College Chapel. Mr. Russell, too, seems to be able to convey a very potent sense of the beauty of old stone work. A series of war sketches, slight but suggestive, is also included in the work Mr. Russell shows.

* * *

Frank Baldwin's war work has already been seen in Montreal, in part. His etchings are those of a supreme master of his medium, a man of tremendously vivid imagination and directness of vision. Few who see it will soon forget such a scene as his "Cambrai," for instance.

Mr. Ernest Fosbery, a Canadian artist whose reputation is steadily growing, sends widely diversified work, covering an exceptional range for etching. "The Storm" is a gem of atmospheric illusion. The "Cafe in Paris" might have been etched from a Meissonier; the "Child's Head" is delightful in its delicacy.

* * *

Other artists represented are C. H. Barraud, whose war views possess a ruggedness and a vitality that are sometimes almost disconcerting; G. de Witt, another vigorous executant; Caroline H. Armington, a facile draughtswoman; and W. J. Phillips, a Canadian artist and art teacher of Winnipeg, whose forte is woodcuts printed in color from the original block, and whose work has been reserved for exclusive sale overseas, is also represented.

* * *

An exhibition like this is educative in a double sense. Captain Percy Godenrath, who was formerly Officer in charge of the Canadian War Memorials Exhibitions, has made a new and praiseworthy departure in assembling these works, closer acquaintance with which cannot but open up new spheres for the study of what is beautiful and noteworthy in the world of art.

INJURY NOT DUE TO COMPANY'S FAULT

Mr. Justice Maclennan deciding that plaintiff's son was responsible for his injury through imprudence in taking hold of a broken live wire, dismissed the action yesterday afternoon, in the Superior Court, which Georges Cauchon dit Laverdiere had taken against the Montreal Public Service Corporation, for $4,549.26.

On August 19, 1919, Romeo, son of plaintiff, ten years of age, caught hold of a live wire on Rosemount Boulevard, and as a result had the first finger of his right hand amputated; the second finger was paralyzed and other injuries followed.

The cause of the accident, Mr. Justice Maclennan said, was not due to any fault or negligence of the company. It was due to a severe wind storm which had broken down wires the night before the accident. On the following day, when the company became aware of the trouble, it at once dispatched their workmen to repair the damage. It did not discover, and had no notice of any break in its wires until a few minutes after plaintiff's son was hurt.

Flamand and Robert for the plaintiff; and Perron and Company for the defence.

TO COLLECT FUNDS TO HELP IRELAND

Money Given in Montreal to Be Distributed Irrespective of Creed

For the purpose of relieving the distress, caused by the recent war, amongst all classes and creeds in Ireland, a fund will be collected here, and a committee has been formed to handle it. A lengthy statement was issued by the committee in which it was stated that whatever our sympathies are in the Irish rebellion and however we condemn one party to it as the instigator, we are agreed that the recent war in the Emerald Isle has caused great suffering in Ulster and the rest of Ireland alike to Protestant and Catholic. It is said that similar bodies to that now being formed here are in existence in the homeland and they include some of the leaders of the kingdom in every walk of life.

It is stated that the fund will be distributed in Ireland by Cardinal Logue; the Protestant Bishop of Meath, and Hon. B. J. Plunkett, D.D., who form a committee there for this purpose. The organization is to be called The Irish Relief Fund (Montreal.)

The executive committee is composed of: Henry Kavanagh, K.C., chairman; A. R. McMaster, K.C., M.P.; Rev. Gerald J. McShane; John Thompson, A. E. Murray, Capt. W. M. Weir, Mrs. W. B. Somerset, W. E. Walsh, Lt.-Col. H. J. Trihey, K.C., Prof. H. A. Smith, Mrs. G. A. Brown, Miss Madeline Sheridan, Oscar P. Dorais, K.C.; T. Taggart Smythe, and Hon. A. Knatchbull-Hugessen, honorary joint treasurers; Major E. H. Knox-Leet, honorary secretary.

The public is warned that no one is authorized to collect for this fund unless he is in possession of receipt books signed by the joint honorary secretaries. All subscriptions should be addressed to the Irish Relief Committee, Room 103, St. Lawrence Hall, 145 St. James street, Montreal.

The following have expressed approval of the plan and are prospective subscribers: Rt. Hon. Lord Shaughnessy, K.C.V.O.; Rt. Hon. C. J. Doherty, P.C.; Rev. Dr. Dickie, pastor Knox Crescent Presbyterian Church, chairman, Protestant School Board; Zeph. Hebert, Lt.-Col. Clarence F. Smith, Senator Dandurand, Miss Helen R. Y. Reid, Mr. Justice Guerin, Rev. George Hanson, pastor Erskine Church; His Grace Archbishop Bruchesi; Rev. W. H. Davison, rector of the Church of St. John the Evangelist; Prof. J. A. Mackay.

DECIDES BAILIFF HAD JURISDICTION

In a judgment rendered in the Admiralty Court yesterday, Mr. Justice Maclennan decreed that a bailiff is a competent official to serve any process in the Admiralty Court jurisdiction.

Some time ago the Lake steamship, Samuel Marshall, was arrested as a result of proceedings taken by members of the crew for wages, and in the present action the owners of the ship moved to set aside the warrants for the arrest and sale of the ship on the ground that Real Robillard, bailiff of the Superior Court had no right to make the arrest.

Judge Maclennan, in deciding the question, said that the Exchequer Court in its admiralty jurisdiction for the Quebec Admiralty district was a court in the province. Robillard in making the arrests and selling the ship Samuel Marshall acted as a sheriff's officer and under the rules the sheriff was a marshall of the court. The arrest and sale of the ship, therefore were properly and legally made, and defendant's motion to quash was dismissed with costs.

ILLNESS WENT IN TWINKLING OF EYE

Testimony that one at least of Mrs. MacPherson's cures has proved lasting has recently been forwarded to The Star from Miss Morahan, 508 Seigneurs street. Miss Morahan writes that for the past seven years she suffered agony, although she said little about it and few of her most intimate friends knew that she was sick. Nothing seemed to relieve the malady and she had given up hope of ever obtaining benefit from medicine or drugs, when Mrs. MacPherson arrived in the city, and reports of her wonderful cures were circulated. Although she had previously had no connection with the Pentecostal Movement Miss Morahan attended the second healing meeting at St. Andrew's Church, and while praying for the afflicted who crowded round her, says that in a twinkling of an eye she was herself cured, and from that day until the present she has not suffered in the least.

LLOYD GEORGE HAS MANY TROUBLES

S. K. Ratcliffe Reviews British Situation at Canadian Club

As long as grave industrial crisis was avoided British labor would be constitutional and anti-revolutionary, said S. K. Ratcliffe to the members of the Canadian Club at a special luncheon in the Windsor Hotel yesterday. The subject of Mr. Ratcliffe's address was "Government, Parliament and Labor." Mr. Ratcliffe is the American representative of the Manchester Guardian.

The Government of Lloyd George was unique, in that it was the only war Government surviving, said the speaker. It was, as in Canada and other countries, a coalition Government, being accorded in 1918 an unexampled majority, yet it was continually in hot water, with an Opposition of extraordinary variety, comprising not only Liberals and Laborites, but also Conservatives. Mr. Ratcliffe touched on the results of bye-elections in England, some of which had gone against Lloyd George. He considered these in relation to three main questions, the European situation, Ireland and Labor.

With regard to the first, Mr. Ratcliffe contended that Lloyd George was hampered by election promises and by his policy of extreme concession to France. He further provoked antagonism from his Parliamentary majority whenever he showed a realistic policy in relation to Europe.

The position in Ireland the speaker classed as a tragic one. He instanced the growth of terrors since 1918. Lloyd George had evidently been convinced that a policy of systematic repression could win; that Sinn Fein could be broken. Was that true? asked the speaker. This question was the greatest danger to the Government, and the final solution might rest with a Cabinet that could make peace.

Dealing with labor, Mr. Ratcliffe declared that as unemployment grew the danger of revolutionary strikes increased. He mentioned the recent demands for unemployment pay and a national standard of maintenance from the public funds. The miners were at present better off, owing to recent settlement; but fears of a wage reduction were bringing railway matters to a crisis. Public control of them was inevitable. This did not mean a bureaucratic management, and all parties were opposed to departmentalism.

ENDS INSPECTION OF MILITARY UNITS

Sir H. Burstall Visits R.M.R., V.R. of C. and Carabiniers

Inspection of the militia units of Montreal was completed last night by Lieut.-General Sir Henry Burstall, Inspector-General of the Canadian Militia, when he visited the headquarters of the Royal Montreal Regiment, the Victoria Rifles of Canada and the Carabiniers de Mont Royal. He was entertained to dinner by the officers of the last named unit in the officers' mess. There was a large attendance of civilians who watched the inspection from the galleries.

In the case of the Royal Montreal Regiment, Sir Henry congratulated the commanding officer, Lieut.-Col. C. B. Price, D.S.O., on what had been accomplished in the face of inadequate training and recruiting headquarters. The brass and bugle bands, under the direction of Lieut. H. G. Jones and Sergeant-Major H. L. Davies, were specially mentioned by Sir Henry in his remarks to the regiment.

Out of a strength of 170, 150 Victoria Rifles paraded under Lieut.-Col. W. W. Burland, D.S.O., and gave a very efficient show in drilling.

The provisional school, under Major M. K. Green and the No. 4 Cyclist Company, Corps of Guides, under Major Jules Duchastel, were also inspected.

TWO REFUSE.

Reports of inspectors on trains coming from Ottawa for February 18, show that out of 646 passengers, 514 produced certificates, 46 were vaccinated on trains, 34 were passed on visual evidence and two refused to comply with the vaccination regulation and were landed at the quarantine posts.

Westmount Council has agreed to give the use of Victoria Hall for a lecture by Capt. Mullineux on the work of the Graves Commission in identifying and tending the graves of men killed in action.

BULL-DOG DRUMMOND

By CYRIL McNEILE, "SAPPER"

SYNOPSIS

Comte de Guy proposes to two German and one United States millionaires a scheme to ruin England. Captain Hugh Drummond, British officer, finding peace tedious, advertises for an exciting job. The advertisement is answered by a girl. Drummond meets her at the Carlton and is introduced to Lakington, a master criminal, of whom Phyllis Benton, the girl, is in terror. While motoring he encounters Lakington and Peterson, alias Comte de Guy. He visits Phyllis and her father, who live in the house next to that occupied by Peterson. While having dinner with them a cry rings out. Drummond at night looks into a room in Peterson's house. He shoots out the light, bursts into the room and rescues a man who was in a dazed condition, and whom Peterson and Lakington had just compelled to sign a paper. He takes the rescued man to London and finds that he has been drugged and that one of his thumbs had been crushed with a thumbscrew. Petersen calls on Drummond and demands that the rescued man be returned to him. Armed men break into Drummond's apartment and carry him off to Peterson's house, and with him an ex-soldier whom they suppose to be the man rescued by Drummond. During the night Drummond explores the house and encounters Peterson. Next morning Drummond is permitted to return home.

"Precisely, my stout fellow," he remarked, "but I'll lay a small amount of money that they were newspaper men. Now, I'm not. And I think that if you will have this note delivered to Mr. Potts, he will see me."

He sat down at a table and drew a sheet of paper towards him. Two facts were certain: First, that the man upstairs was not the real Potts; second, that he was one of Peterson's gang. The difficulty was to know exactly how to word the note. There might be some mystic pass-word, the omission of which would prove him an imposter at once; he would have to change it.

"Urgent. A message from headquarters."

He sealed the envelope and handed it with the necessary five shillings for postage to the man. Then he sat down to wait. It was going to be a ticklish interview if he was to learn anything, but the thrill of the game had fairly got him by now, and he watched eagerly for the messenger's return. After what seemed an interminable delay he saw him crossing the lounge.

"Mr. Potts will see you sir. Will you come this way?"

"Is he alone?" said Hugh, as they were whirled up in the lift.

"Yes, sir. I think he was expecting you."

"Indeed," murmured Hugh. "How nice it is to have one's expectations realized."

He followed his guide along a corrider and paused outside a door while he went into a room. He heard a murmur of voices, and then the man reappeared.

"This way, sir," he said, and Hugh stepped inside, to stop with an involuntary gasp of surprise. The man seated in the chair was Potts, to all intents and purposes. The likeness was extraordinary, and had he not known that the real article was at Goring he would have been completely deceived himself.

The man waited till the door was closed; then he rose and stepped forward suspiciously.

"I don't know you," he said. "Who are you?"

"Since when has every one employed at headquarters known one another?" Drummond returned guardedly. "And, incidentally, your likeness to our lamented friend is wonderful. It very nearly deceived even me."

The man, not ill-pleased, gave a short laugh.

"It'll pass, I think. But it's risky. These cursed reporters have been badgering the whole morning. . . . And if his wife or somebody comes over, what then?"

Drummond nodded in agreement.

"Quite so. But what can you do?" "It wasn't like Rosca to bungle in Belfast. He's never left a clue before, and he had plenty of time to do the job properly."

"A name inside a breast-pocket might easily be overlooked," remarked Hugh, seizing the obvious clue.

"Are you making excuses for him?" snarled the other. "He's failed, and failure is death. Such is our rule. Would you have it altered?"

"Most certainly not. The issues are far too great for any weakness. . . ."

"You're right, my friend—you're right. Long live the Brotherhood." He stared out of the window with smouldering eyes, and Hugh preserved a discreet silence. Then suddenly the other broke out again. . . . "Have they killed that insolent puppy of a soldier yet?"

"Er—not yet," murmurer Hugh mildly.

"They must find the American at once." The man thumped the table emphatically. "It was important before—at least his money was. Now with this blunder—it's vital."

"Precisely," said Hugh. "Precisely."

"I've already interviewed one man from Scotland Yard, but every hour increases the danger. However, you have a message for me. What is it?"

Hugh rose and casually picked up his hat. He had got more out of the interview that he had hoped for, and there was nothing to be gained by prolonging it. But it struck him that Mr. Pott's impersonator was a man of unpleasant disposition, and that tactically a flanking movement to the door was indicated. And being of an open nature himself, it is possible that the real state of affairs showed for a moment on his face. He that as it may, something suddenly aroused the other's suspicions, and with a snarl of fury he sprang past Hugh to the door.

"Who are you?" He spat the words out venomously, at the same time whipping an ugly-looking knife out of his pocket.

Hugh replaced his hat and stick on the table and grinned gently.

"I am the insolent puppy of a soldier, dear old bird," he remarked, watching the other warily. "And if I was you I'd put the tooth-pick away. . . . You might hurt yourself——"

As he spoke he was edging, little by little, towards the other man, who crouched snarling by the door. His eyes, grim and determined, never left the other's face; his hands, apparently hanging listless by his sides, were tingling with the joy of what he knew was coming.

"And the penalty of failure is death, isn't it, dear one? He spoke almost dreamily; but not for an instant did his attention relax. The words of Olaki, his Japanese instructor, were ringing through his brain: "Distract his attention if you can; but, as you value your life, don't let him distract yours."

And so ,almost imperceptibly, he crept towards the other man talking gently.

"Such is your rule. And I think you have failed, haven't you, you unpleasant specimen of humanity? How will they kill you, I wonder?"

It was at that moment that the man made his mistake. It is a mistake that has nipped the life of many a promising pussy in the bud, at the hands, or rather the teeth, of a dog that knows. He looked away; only for a moment—but he looked away. Just as a cat's nerves give after a while and it looks round for an avenue of escape, so did the erouching man take his eyes from Hugh. And quick as any dog, Hugh sprang.

With his left hand he seized the man's right wrist, with his right he seized his throat. Then he forced him upright against the door and held him there. Little by little the grip of his right hand tightened, till the other's eyes were starting from his head, and he plucked at Hugh's face with an impotent left arm, an arm not long enough by three inches to do any damage. And all the while the soldier smiled gently, and stared into the other's eyes. Even when inch by inch he shifted his grip on the man's knife hand he never took his eyes from his opponent's face; even when with a sudden gasp of agony the man dropped his knife from his fingers which, of a sudden, had become numb, the steady, merciless glance still bored into his brain.

"You're not very clever at it, are you?" said Hugh softly. "It would be so easy to kill you now, and, except for the inconvenience I should undoubtedly suffer, it mighn't be a bad idea. But they know me downstairs, and it would make it so awkward when I wanted to dine here again. . . So, taking everything into account, I think——"

There was a sudden lightning movement, a heave and quick jerk. The impersonator of Potts was dimly conscious of flying through the air, and of hitting the floor some yards from the door. He then became acutely conscious that the floor was hard, and that being winded is a most painful experience. Doubled up and groaning, he watched Hugh pick up his hat and stick, and make for the door. He made a frantic effort to rise, but the pain was too great, and he rolled over cursing, while the soldier, his hand on the door-knob, laughed gently.

"I'll keep the tooth-pick," he remarked, "as a memento."

The next moment he was striding along the corridor towards the lift. As a fight it had been a poor one, but his brain was busy with the information he had heard. True, it had been scrappy in the extreme, and, in part, had only confirmed what he had suspected all along. The wretched Granger had been foully done to death, for no other reason than that he was the millionaire's secretary. Hugh's jaw tightened; it revolted his sense of sport. It wasn't as if the poor blighter had done anything; merely because he existed and might ask inconvenient questions he had been removed. And as the lift shot downwards, and the remembrance of the grim struggle he had in the darkness of the Elms the night before came back to his mind, he wondered once again if he had done wisely in not breaking Peterson's neck while he had had the chance.

He was still debating the question in his mind as he crossed the tealounge. And almost unconsciously he glanced towards the table where three days before he had had tea with Phyllis Benton, and had been more than half inclined to believe that the whole thing was an elaborate leg-pull. . . .

"Why, Captain Drummond, you look pensive." A well-known voice from a table at his side made him look down, and he bowed a little grimly. Irma Peterson was regarding him with a mocking smile.

He glanced at her companion, a young man whose face seemed vaguely familiar to him, and then his eyes rested once more on the girl. Even his masculine intelligence could appreciate the perfection—in a slightly foreign style—of her clothes; and, as to her beauty, he had never been under any delusions. Nor apparently, was her escort, whose expression was not one of unalloyed pleasure at the interruption of his tete-a-tete.

"The Carlton seems rather a favorite resort of yours,' 'she continued, watching him through half-closed eyes. "I think you're very wise to make the most of it while you can."

"While I can?" said Hugh. "That sounds rather depressing."

"I've done my best," continued the girl, "but matters have passed out of my hands. I'm afraid."

Again Hugh glanced at her companion, but he had risen and was talking to some people who had just come in.

"Is he one of the firm?" he remarked. "His face seems familiar."

"Oh, no!" said the girl. "He is—just a friend. What have you been doing this afternoon?"

"That, at any rate, is straight and to the point," laughed Hugh. "If you want to know, I've just had a most depressing interview."

"You're a very busy person, aren't you ,my ugly one?" she murmured.

The poor fellow, when I left him, was quite prostrated with grief, and—er—pain," he went on mildly.

"Would it be indiscreet to ask who the poor fellow is?" she asked.

"A friend of your father's, I think," said Hugh, with a profound sigh. "So sad. I hope Mr. Peterson's neck is less stiff by now?"

The girl began to laugh softly.

"Not very much, I'm afraid. And it's made him a little irritable. Won't you wait and see him?"

"Is he here now?" said Hugh quickly.

"Yes," answered the girl. "With his friend whom you've just left. You're quick, mon ami—quite quick." She leaned forward suddenly. "Now, why don't you join us instead of so foolishly trying to fight us? Believe me, Monsieur Hugh, it is the only thing that can possibly save you. You know too much."

"Is the invitation to amalgamate official, or from your own charming brain?" murmured Hugh.

"Made on the spur of the moment," she said lightly. "But it may be regarded as official."

"I'm afraid it must be declined on the spur of the moment," he answered in the same tone. "And equally to be regarded as official. Well, au revoir. Please tell Mr. Peterson how sorry I am to have missed him."

"I will most certainly," answered the girl. "But then, mon ami, you will be seeing him again soon, without doubt. . . ."

She waved a charming hand in farewell, and turned to her companion, who was beginning to mainifest symptoms of impatience. But Drummond, though he went into the hall outside, did not immediately leave the hotel. Instead, he button-holed an exquisite being arrayed in gorgeous apparel,and led him to a point of vantage.

"You see that girl," he remarked, "having tea with a man at the third table from the big palm? Now, can you tell me who the man is? I seem to know his face, but I can't put a name to it."

"That, sir," murmured the exquisite being, with the faintest perceptible scorn at such ignorance, "is the Marquis of Laidley. His Lordship is frequently here."

"Laidley!" cried Hugh, in sudden excitement. "Laidley! The Duke of Lampshire's son! You priceless old stuffed tomato—the plot thickens."

Completely regardless of the scandalized horror on the exquisite being's face, he smote him heavily in the stomach and stepped into Pall Mall. For clear before his memory had come three lines on the scrap of paper he had torn from the table at the Elms that first night, when he had grabbed the dazed millionaire from under Peterson's nose.

The Duchess of Lampshire's pearls were world-famous; the Marquis of Laidley was apparently enjoying his tea. And between the two there seemed to be a connection rather too obvious to be missed.

III.

"I'm glad you two fellows came down," said Hugh thoughtfully, as he entered the sitting-room of his bungalow at Goring. Dinner was over, and stretched in three chairs were Peter Darrell, Algy Longworth, and Toby Sinclair. The air was thick with smoke, and two dogs lay curled up on the mat, asleep. "Did you know that a man came here this afternoon, Peter?"

Darrell yawned and stretched himself.

"I did not. Who was it?"

"Mrs. Denny has just told me." Hugh reached out a hand for his pipe, and proceeded to stuff it with tobacco. "He came about the water."

"Seems a very righteous proceeding, dear old thing," said Algy lazily.

"And he told her that I had told him to come. Unfortunately, I'd done nothing of the sort."

His three listeners sat up and stared at him.

"What do you mean, Hugh?" asked Toby Sinclair at length.

"It's pretty obvious, old boy," said Hugh grimly. "He no more came about the water than he came about my aunt. I should say that about five hours ago Peterson found out that our one and only Hiram C. Potts was upstairs."

"Good Lord!" spluttered Darrell, by now very wide awake. "How the devil has he done it?"

"There are no flies on the gentleman," remarked Hugh. "I didn't expect he'd do it quite so quick, I must admit. But it wasn't very difficult for him to find out that I had a bungalow here, and so he drew the covert."

"And he's found the bally fox," said Algy. "What do we do, sergeant-major?"

"We take it in turns—two at a time—to sit up with Potts." Hugh glanced at the other three. "Damn it—you blithers—wake up!"

Darrell struggled to his feet and walked up and down the room.

"I don't know what it is," he said, rubbing his eyes, "I feel most infernally sleepy."

"Well, listen to me—confound you . . . Toby!" Hugh hurled a tobacco-pouch at the offender's head.

"Sorry, old man." With a start Sinclair sat up in his chair and blinked at Hugh.

"They're almost certain to try and get him tonight," went on Hugh. "Having given the show away by leaving a clue on the wretched secretary, they must get the real man as soon as possible. It's far too dangerous to leave the—leave the——" His head dropped forward on his chest; a short, half-strangled snore came from his lips. It had the effect of waking him for the moment, and he staggered to his feet.

The other three, sprawling in their chairs, were openly and unshamedly asleep; even the dogs lay in fantastic attitudes, breathing heavily, inert like logs.

"Wake up!" shouted Hugh wildly. "For God's sake—wake up! We've been drugged!"

An iron weight seemed to be pressing down on his eyelids; the desire for sleep grew stronger and stronger. For a few moments more he fought against it, hopelessly, despairingly; while his legs seemed not to belong to him, and there was a roaring noise in his ears. And then, just before unconsciousness overcame him, there came to his bemused brain the sound of a whistle thrice repeated from outside the window. With a last stupendous effort he fought his way towards it, and for a moment he stared into the darkness. There were dim figures moving through the shrubs, and suddenly one seemed to detach itself. It came nearer, and the light fell on the man's face. His nose and mouth were covered with a sort of pad, but the cold, sneering eyes were unmistakable.

"Lakington!" gasped Hugh, and then the roaring noise increased in his head; his legs struck work altogether. He collapsed on the floor and lay sprawling, while Lakington, his face pressed against the glass outside, watched in silence. . . .

"Draw the curtains." Lakington was speaking, his voice muffled behind the pad, and one of the men did as he said. There were four in all, each with a similar pad over his mouth and nose. "Where did you put the generator, Brownlow?"

"In the coal-scuttle." A man whom Mrs. Denny would have had no difficulty in recognising, even with the mask on his face, carefully lifted a small black box out of the scuttle from behind some coal, and shook it gently, holding it to his ear. "It's finished," he remarked, and Lakington nodded.

"An ingenious invention is gas," he said, addressing another of the men. "We owe your nation quite a debt of gratitude for the idea."

A guttural grunt left no doubt as to what that nation was, and Lakington dropped the box into his pocket.

"Go and get him," he ordered briefly, and the others left the room.

Contemptuously Lakington kicked one of the dogs; it rolled over and lay motionless in its position. Then he went in turn to each of the three men sprawling in the chairs. With no attempt at gentiness he turned their faces up to the light, and studied them deliberately; then he let their heads roll back again with a thud. Finally, he went to the window and stared down at Drummond. In his eyes was a look of cold fury, and he kicked the unconscious man savagely in the ribs.

"You young swine," he muttered. "Do you think I'll forget that blow on the jaw?"

He took another box out of his pocket and looked at it lovingly.

"Shall I?" With a short laugh he replaced it. "It's too good a death for you, Captain Drummond, D.S.O., M. C. Just to snuff out in your sleep. No, my friend, I think I can devise something better than that; something really artistic."

Two other men came in as he turned away, and Lakington looked at them.

"Well," he asked, "have you got the old woman?"

"Bound and gagged in the kitchen," answered one of them laconically. "Are you going to do this crowd in?"

The speaker looked at the unconscious men with hatred in his eyes.

"They encumber the earth—this breed of puppy."

"They will not encumber it for long," said Lakington softly. "But the one in the window there is not going to die quite so easily. I have a small unsettled score with him. . . ."

"All right; he's in the car." A voice came from outside the window, and with a last look at Hugh Drummond, Lakington turned away.

"Then we'll go," he remarked. "Au revoir, my blundering young bull. Before I've finished with you, you'll scream for mercy. And you won't get it. . . . . ."

Through the still night air there came the thrumming of the engine of a powerful car. Gradually it died away and there was silence. Only the murmur of the river over the weir broke the silence, save for an owl which hooted mournfully in a tree near by. And then, with a sudden crack, Peter Darrell's head rolled over and hit the arm of his chair.

AMAZING RUN OF LUCK AT CASINO

NICE (By Mail).—As a result of an amazing run of luck, Mr. Robert ("Bob") Slevier has in three days won more than £40,000 at chemin-de-fer at the Casino here.

This is a record for chemin-de-fer, although a similar amount has been won at baccarat.

The maximum single stake allowed this year is $800, although last year the maximum was limited to $400, so it is not difficult to imagine the persistent run of luck that attended Mr. Slevier.

In one night he won £20,000, and left the Casino at 3 a.m. to drive back to Cap d'Ail, a distance of seven miles, where he has a villa, but several robberies having taken place on this road, he took the precaution of depositing his £20,000 in the safe of a Nice hotel before starting.

DECLARES JAPAN ERRED IN SIBERIA

Backed Wrong Horse—Country Said to Be All Red

TOKIO, Dec. 28.—(Special Star Correspondence by Dr. J. Ingram Bryan.)—The fall of Kotchak, Denikin, Wrangel, and now Seminoff, all in slow but sure succession, and the establishment of a Republican Communist regime at Chita seems, in the eyes of some Japanese, to suggest that Japan has been backing the wrong horse in Siberia, as foreign interference has but intensified the feeling of the Russians against the Japanese and all foreigners. The nature of the new government at Chita, under Krasnochekoff, is a further proof that all Siberia is going Red, since it consists to a large extent of Communists, and the principles enforced differ very little from those customary at Moscow. And this is all in spite of Janan's attempts to establish a buffer state on democratic lines. The fact that the Chita authorities already show a disposition to ignore Japan and her Russian colleagues at Vladivostok is another interesting development of the situation that may lead to action on the part of Japan.

The delegates which Vladivostok sent to the Chita conference returned with very disappointing reports of what went on there. A general diversity of opinion marred the deliberation of the conference, the Socialists especially creating an uproar; and the delegates from Vladivostok were prevented from communicating with Vladivostok during the session. They aver that Krasnochekoff rules as despotically as Lenin and Trotsky, and that tyranny everywhere prevails. In fact, Bolshevik methods are dominant at Chita, notwithstanding the agreement with Japan to the contrary, and such practices as unwarranted searching of domiciles and the terrorizing of citizens are common features of the new regime. Mercenaries from Hungary and China are being used for the requisitioning of necessities for the new government. Krasnochekoff has sent a despatch to the Japanese authorities to the effect that as no more than 50 per cent. of the Chita government is Communist, there is indication of a disposition to co-operate with the moderates, and that he is ready to consider Japanese plans for the unification of Siberia. The Japanese authorities, however, refuse all official intercourse with Chita, and announce that if the Russian authorities at Vladivostok do so, Japan will reserve the right to take independent action. It is reported that remnants of the armies of General Kappel and Ataman Seminoff are gathering at Grodekovo and Nicolsk, which may interrupt the plans of Krasnochekoff at China.

Exactly what Japan will now do remains to be seen; but it is clear that the Japanese authorities have determined to give no recognition to a Communist regime. A positive announcement to this effect has been made. While many Japanese at home advocate in the press the complete withdrawal of the nation's troops from Siberia, the military authorities deny the possibility of this move. They contend that Japanese blood and treasure expended in Siberia constitute a llen on all enterprise in that country, a theory of rights that is apt to be overstrained.

EXHIBITION MAY AID CANADIANS

British Manufacturers to Show Over a Hundred Different Lines

A permanent exhibition of over a hundred thousand samples of products and manufactures collected from all over the world has been established in London, England, according to information just received by Capt. Evan J. Edwards, Senior British Trade Commissioner. This exhibition is to show British Manufacturers, which Capt. Edwards adds includes manufacturers in the Dominions, what their competitors are doing, and the requirements of overseas markets.

Examination of the hundred odd classifications of exhibits shows that practically every kind of manufactured article has been included, and Capt. Edwards considers they will be of service to Canadian manufacturers, who could have their British agents, or the Canadian High Commissioners' office, examine and report on required lines.

In connection with the exhibition is a foreign trade catalogue library of 15,000 volumes, which can be borrowed to supplement information gained from inspection of the samples. The index of these catalogues is divided into two main divisions, one of German and Austrian catalogues, the other of those of all other nations.

The Twenty-third Psalm

ONE OF THE MOST BEAUTIFUL OF THE PSALMS OF DAVID

"The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want.

He maketh me to lie down in green pastures: He leadeth me beside the still waters.

He restoreth my soul: He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for His name's sake.

Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil: for thou art with me; thy rod and thy staff they comfort me.

Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies; Thou anointest my head with oil; my cup runneth over.

Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life; and I will dwell in the house of the Lord forever."

WOMEN'S WORK

Personal Statement By Premier on the Suffrage Question

That J. S. A. Ashby, member for Jacques Cartier division, is welcome to introduce his extension of suffrage to women bill this session was affirmed by the Hon L. A. Taschereau, Premier of Quebec in a personal reply to the appeal addressed to him by Mrs. John Scott, head of the Franchise Committee of the Montreal Women's Club, asking him to suggest a way out of the impasse created by the shelving of the Franchise bill. In her appeal Mrs. Scott had reminded the Premier that he had signified to the sponsor of the bill, J. S. A. Ashby, his willingness that it should be brought forward this session, and she also recalled Mr. Ashby's recommendation given to a delegation of women who waited upon him that petitions should be signed and forwarded to members of the Government. His advice had been followed and petitions sent up from all parts of the Province. Now that, in spite of assurances given, the bill had been shelved, it would be difficult, Mrs. Scott had affirmed, to convince the women of the Province that they had not been tricked.

In his reply, addressed from the Prime Minister's office, the Premier wrote: "I still fail to understand how you can charge the Government with a breach of good faith on account of the situation that has been created through the action of Mr. Ashby. As you well remember, I explained to the delegation which waited upon me on the 4th of October, that you would better attain your object by carrying on an educational propaganda. The members of our Legislature might thus be brought gradually to change their views, since at the present time they are almost unanimous in their opposition to your request. When Mr. Ashby, the member for Jacques-Cartier, announced that he would bring at the present session a bill that would give the women of Quebec the Provincial vote, I could not but tell him that he was perfectly free to do so, and that I would not raise any objection to such a bill being introduced. In so doing I was simply following a rule that will always prevail as long as I am Premier of this Province, that is, to give every member full liberty to act according to his own convictions and place before the House any proposition which he may deem to oe of benefit to the Province. This did not mean any change of mind on my part, and should justify in no way your implying that you have been the victim of trickery. Mr. Ashby is welcome as ever he was to introduce his bill at the session, and to place before the members of the House every one of your petitions. This bill might serve to test the opinion of our Legislature and I need not assure you again that every member will be free to express his personal views."

Educational propaganda on the suffrage question, Mrs. Scott told The Star, is being and will continue to be carried on in spite of the present setback.

Women Want Drastic Amendments to Criminal Code

Important questions affecting women figure on the agenda of the meeting of the Executive of the National Council of Women, to be held at Niagara Falls on February 22, 23, and 24. Those attending from Montreal will be Dr. Ritchie England, who will have charge of the Committee on Laws, and Mrs. Arthur Drummond, vice-president of the Montreal branch of the Local Council. Mrs. E. A. Stone, national convenor, who has been resident in Montreal for some weeks, will also attend. One of the most important items will be the consideration of amendments to the Criminal Code, in the discussion on which Dr. Ritchie will take a prominent part. This question has engaged the attention of the Montreal branch of the Local Council for some years, a definite list of desirable amendments having been drafted for the Council by W. Hibbard, K.C., who undertook to revise the entire Criminal Code to the end of making it serve as a reformative system, and whose recent death was deply deplored by the Council. The suggestions include a definite place on the Statutes for the indeterminate or conditional sentence, power to commit to the reformatory at the magistrate's discretion, application of reformatory sentences to persons over the age of 16 the absolute removal of the option of a fine for keepers and inmates of disorderly houses, and an amendment to close more effectively the road to appeal, so that no loop-holes will be left for the unscrupulous to slip through.

Other important matters to come up for discussion are the endowment of motherhood—a recommendation forwarded by the International Congress at Christiana—provision for aged parents (Quebec has already a law on this point), wife desertion, naturalization of women, film supervision, consideration of a system of state medical attendance for maternity cases, formation of Girls' Auxiliaries to Local Councils, health certificates before marriage, the question of the enforcing of the Cold Storage Act of 1914, and the problem of objectionable printed matter, chiefly magazines, coming into Canada by express. After full ventilation of these subjects, resolutions will be put and voted upon and those passed will be taken back to the Local Councils for inclusion in their Political Organization President.

Mrs. Henry Joseph, recently elected president of the Women's Branch of the National, Liberal and Conservative Party, Montreal District, is eminently fitted by education, ability and experience to take a leading place in the political arena into which women are now entering. Her activities along patriotic, philanthropic, political and social lines rave been many and varied. At the present time Mrs. Joseph is Vice-Regent of the Municipal Chapter of the I. O. D. E. and Regent of the Wolfe and Montcalm Chapter. She is on the board of directors of the University Settlement, and was for a number of years president of the Sanctuary Guild of the Church of St. James the Apostle and hon. vice-president of the Housewives' League. During the war Mrs. Joseph made recruiting speeches on Dominion Square, and a Red Cross Circle which she organized met regularly at her home, while in the Victory Loan campaign she captained one of the teams. She has always taken a keen interest in politics, and belonged to an arganization which in 1911 secured 30,000 votes against reciprocity. In the 1917 campaign Mrs. Joseph rendered valuable assistance to Union Government candidates by her platform speeches and recitations.

Mrs. Joseph belongs to a family whose annals are embodied in the history of Canada. Her grandfather, Charles Walkem, R.E., was sent out by the British Government in 1848 to settle the boundary line between Canada and the United States under the Ashburton Treaty. Her father, Dr. R. T. Walkem, K.C., was an intimate friend of Sir John A. Macdonald, and for many years held the position of Chancellor of the Diocese of Ontario. Her uncle, George A. Walkem, was Premier of British Columbia for several terms and was noted for his brilliant leadership. Major George A. Walkem, R.E., and Lieut.-Col. H. C. Walkem, D.S.O., Mrs. Joseph's two brothers, served with distinction in the Great War. Mrs. Joseph is a gifted elocutionist and has used this talent on many occasions to help worthy objects.

BEYOND THE HORIZON.

At Friday's meeting of the Dramatic League of the American Women's Club, held at the Windsor Hotel, Harcourt Farmer gave a dramatic reading of Eugene O'Neill's three-act play "Beyond the Horizon," to a large and appreciative audience. "Beyond the Horizon" is described as one of the best of the American folk dramas and Mr. Farmer did full justice to the many strong situations.

Capital and Labor pulling together, create the prosperity of the Present.

GERMAN THOROUGHNESS.

IT will surprise few of those who have followed the course of events in modern Germany to learn that Herr Hugo Stinnes, Germany's outstanding figure in the world of industry and finance, is organizing the economic forces of the Fatherland for the purpose of carrying on a war to the knife in the industrial markets of the world. A few months ago Herr Stinnes succeeded in affiliating two of the largest industrial organizations in Germany, and later news announces that he has acquired more influential papers to add to his present string. The total capital of the last merger which he is said to have effected is over 500,000,000 marks. The object of his latest trust, as announced in his own newspapers, is "beginning with raw materials not only to improve but to cheapen the process of manufacture." Recent experience showed that the electrical industry in Germany could not count upon a continuous and an adequate supply of raw materials and uncertainty in this respect made the price of the manufactured output hard to determine.

Hugo Stinnes is typical of the new Germany. His actions show that Germany has not abandoned her old policy of commercial thoroughness. Europe seems surprised that this fallen country can dump goods on foreign shores at a price to compete with the home market. The blame is generally laid upon the rate of exchange.

German efficiency is being disregarded. It is time for every industrial nation to probe its own business system and its methods of distribution.

THE ACCIDENT RECORD.

ACCORDING to statistics published in "The American City," two hundred and twenty-two persons were killed every day in the United States last year by accidents of all kinds. The following striking comment is added: "During the nineteen months this country was engaged in the World War more Americans were killed here at home than on the battlefields of Europe."

The assertion is made that at least three-fourths of all accidents are due to causes under the control of victims or by those associated directly or indirectly with the accident, and that about one-fourth of the accidents are chargeable to the failure of materials, lack of proper mechanical guards, etc.

An important organisation in the United States is adopting widespread methods to lessen the number of accidents. It will educate the people of the country in safety principles and practices so as to bring about a substantial reduction in the number of accidents. The organization, it is interesting to note, will conduct its activities by means of various committees, and function through the schools, homes, churches and industries.

After all, life is the most precious asset of individuals, and at the same time the greatest asset of the nation. It is astonishing that carelessness should be so universal.

There is a lesson in this that should be useful to Montreal. More than once juries here have deplored the fatal accident record and have passed recommendations demanding stricter vigilance from the police and urged greater caution on the part of pedestrians.

Our public schools might very profitably follow the example of schools in many other great cities where scholars are instructed in precautions to avoid accidents. It is a foregone conclusion that the greater the agitation and education against accidents the less will be their number. As to the human suffering caused by accidents, it is beyond all computation, and nothing should be left undone to lessen it.

Doctors tried to cure a Pittsburg man of his mania for theft by removing a bone that was pressing against his brain, and chances are they will not be contented with taking only one bone away from him.

The U. S. Public Health Service declares, after investigation, that the bedbug is not a disease carrier. Will the persecution of this innocent household pet go on?

German police have arrested a big gang of counterfeiters. Some of the patriots may have been starting a movement to pay the indemnity.

Von Tirpitz says the British battleship fleet won the sea warfare. He admitted that first before the armistice.

EQUALITY.

(By the Most Reverend F. H. DuVernet, Archbishop of Caledonia.

THE claim of equality for all men needs to be carefully stated. It cannot mean equality in all things, but only equality in human rights.

Equality in all things is a physical impossibility, for all men are not equal by nature. They differ in age, constitution, temperament, aptitude and ability. The man naturally unfit for a certain occupation cannot claim as a right to be given the same work as one who is naturally qualified for it.

Equality in all things is a social impossibility, because the principle of division of labor is necessary to the welfare of society. Some must work higher up, planning, inspiring, directing; others must work lower down, carrying out the details of what has been planned by others. Equal honor is due to him who does his duty at the bottom of society as to him who does his duty at the top, but there cannot be equality in position so long as there is division of labor.

Equality in all things is a moral impossibility, because all men are free, within certain limits, to choose between things which differ. Some may choose to learn; others to remain ignorant, and so there cannot be equality in the possession of knowledge. Some may choose to be honest, trustworthy and persevering; others to be dishonest, unreliable and indolent, and so there cannot be equality in the possession of virtue. Some may choose to be thrifty and economical; others to be thriftless and wasteful, and so there cannot be equality in the possession of wealth.

Equality in general is impossible, but equality in human rights is fundamental.

Every man has an equal right to life, for all human life is sacred, even that of the unborn babe.

Every man has an equal right to liberty, for life and liberty are closely related. The slave of ancient days, forced to live in filthy quarters and driven like a mule to his work, is a glaring example of the violation of this right of liberty, at which we shudder with horror, forgetting it may be that there are modern slaves, the product of our industrial system.

Every man has an equal right to justice. Social justice requires that each man be given his own, but by his own we may mean two different things. We may mean his own by universal right, or we may mean his own by personal service. The first is an absolute value, the same for all, and so easily defined. The second is a relative value, peculiar to the individual, and so more difficult to calculate, but in each case every man is equally entitled to receive his due.

Every man has an equal right to the opportunity to live a life that is worth living. This implies the opportunity to have decent shelter, sufficient food, adequate clothing, the possibility of family life, support in sickness and old age, and a reasonable time for recreation, education and inspiration. This must be the first mortgage on the wealth of the world.

It must be remembered, however, that opportunity offered is one thing and opportunity used is another thing. Each man is individually responsible for the use which he makes of his opportunity. Any social system which destroys this sense of responsibility by rewarding all men equally, whether the opportunity be used or abused, is doomed to failure so long as men remain men and are not turned into machines.

Social Justice requires society to render to each man according to his capacity and to each capacity according to its work, but this does not lessen the equal right of all men, worthy or unworthy, to opportunity. The opportunity to live a life worth living.

It is the special privileges which are being so freely given to the few through political influence or the power of wealth, irrespective of the value of the service rendered mankind, which are rousing the anger of the multitude.

"Equal rights for all, special privileges for none," is a cry, which apparently rings true, but if this cry is raised in the heat of passion and hatred the very principle so loudly enunciated will be shamefully violated, as fellowmen, equally entitled to life, liberty, justice and opportunity will be ruthlessly trampled under foot by an angry mob.

This is why it is so imperative in the present crisis that all men of every class should with calm and reasoned thought weigh well the true meaning of Equality.

It has often happened in Greece, and sometimes in Rome, that those very men who have contributed to shake off a former tyranny have, instead of restoring the old constitution, deluded the people into a worse and more ignominious slavery. Besides, all great changes have the same effect upon commonwealths that thunder has upon liquors, making the drugs fly to the top.—Swift.

If there are two things not to be hidden—love and a cough—I say there is a third, and that is ignorance when one is obliged to do something besides wagging his head.—George Eliot.

For everything there is a season, but neither days nor seasons did ever come amiss to faithful prayer.—Jeremy Taylor.

Pessimism is a losing game. It is the art of suffering in advance from evils that may never come.—E. Legouve.

Fortune! There is no fortune; all is trial, or punishment, or recompense, or foresight.—Voltaire.

Unless a tree has borne blossoms in spring, you will vainly look for fruit on it in autumn.—Hare.

We could never have loved the earth so well if we had had no childhood in it.—George Eliot.

Rascality has its limits; stupidity is boundless.—Napoleon I.

THE WORLD'S PRESS

Unearned Increment Too.

Boston Transcript: In divorce proceedings in Connecticut, a newspaper reporter is asked to pay his wife $250,000, but care is taken to explain that he has an income in addition to his salary.

An Eye to the Future.

Baltimore Sun: A community which possesses an intense feeling of local pride of the proper sort will not neglect its past nor its future merely because the problems of the present are so pressing and so important.

Who Pays Ultimately.

Cincinnati Times-Star: It seems to cost eight times as much to lay bricks as it used to, and when the bricklayer moves into a new house he discovers with the first month's rents that the landlord is going to get his money back.

Back to Mediaevalism.

London Daily Mail: The Army Council has issued an order which is to take effect on the appropriate date of April 1 that from that day our unfortunate officers shall wear swords on the same conditions as before the war. This is a new move of the "bow-and-arrow" school of the same character as the attempt last year to restore the useless and costly scarlet uniform and the decision a few weeks ago to alter staff officers' "tabs."

Democracy and Youth.

Boston Globe: It was as children at school that most of us discovered the grim fact that the goods of this world are apportioned very unevenly. The boy in the ragged jacket and the girl in patched frock feel the iron enter their souls when they meet a group of children who never want for anything. And the situation is not any more helpful to the little miss who wears silk stockings, or to the boy whose clothes are made to order, who somehow get the idea that they are superior beings.

Sunday Theatres.

London Times: A one-day week for the actors out of work would inevitably become a seven-day week for all the rest. It is true that the Act by which the observance of Sunday in this country in these respects is controlled is 140 years old, but it does not follow that it is, therefore, out of tune with modern conditions and ideas. As a matter of fact, like many of the enactments in the still more ancient codes of Napoleon, Caesar and Moses, it agrees with them very well. Every one needs a day of rest, even actors, scene-shifters, programsellers, and dramatic critics.

The Value of Geography.

Brockton Times: The specialization of geography is the platform of the recently inaugurated president of Clark University. That sounds odd as subject for university emphasis, but the oddness all lies in the attitude of the public. Most persons think of geography as an elementary school study, connected with painfully drawn maps and beautiful charts pasted all over with diminutive representations of the chief products of different sections of the world. Very few people look upon geography as a serious subject, a thorough knowledge of which would materially benefit the nation's foreign commerce, the diplomatic service and industrial progress.

Waterwheels and Turbines.

Scotsman: Marvellous has been the revolution of faith and practice during recent years with regard to water-power. The motive force which had been thrust aside as antiquated and comparatively worthless in the service of industry and commerce has been coming back to more than its earlier vogue and prominence. Applied to the generation of electricity, it has been leaving its old rival and victor, steam, far in the rear, in those regions at least where nature favors its use and transmission. One singular and as yet insufficiently appreciated result of the development of water-power is that it promises, or threatens, to shift the centres and alter the distribution of human activities, and along with this of wealth and population.

Quality Not Quantity in Talk.

Brooklyn Daily Eagle: The chief trouble is not that we are too voluble. There cannot be too much of the right kind of talk. But conversation should be governed more or less by the rules that prevail in drama. A simple test is whether dialogue advances action. Ordinarily we dangle a topic along until we get within a measurable distance of a conclusion, when we invariably change the subject. It is absurd to imagine that this is due to any overscrupulous regard for the other fellow's point of view, since we do not spare him during the battle of words and only let up when Old Conclusion looms up, as a sort of Nemesis, to remind us that if we do not check our argument we may arrive at a point where a settled conviction would preclude our ever resuming our favorite arguments.

Ode on a Grecian Urn.

Thou still unravish'd bride of quietness,
Thou foster-child of Silence and slow Time,
Sylvan historian, who canst thus express
A flowery tale more sweetly than our rhyme:
What leaf-fringed legend haunts about thy shape
Of deities or mortals, or of both,
In Tempe or the dales of Arcady?
What men or gods are these? What maidens loth?
What mad pursuit? What struggle to escape?
What pipes and timbrels? What wild ecstacy?

Heard melodies are sweet, but those unheard
Are sweeter; therefore, ye soft pipes, play on;
Not to the sensual ear, but, more endear'd,
Pipe to the spirit ditties of no tone:
Fair youth, beneath the trees, thou canst not leave
Thy song, nor ever can those trees be bare;
Bold Lover, never, never canst thou kiss,
Though winning near the goal—yet, do not grieve;
She cannot fade, though thou hast not thy bliss,
For ever wilt thou love, and she be fair!

Ah, happy, happy boughs! that cannot shed
Your leaves, nor ever bid the Spring adieu;
And, happy melodist, unwearied,
For ever piping songs for ever new;
More happy love! more happy, happy love!
Forever warm and still to be enjoy'd;
Forever panting and forever young;
All breathing human passion far above,
That leaves a heart high-sorrowful and cloy'd,
A burning forehead, and a parching tongue.

Who are these coming to the sacrifice?
To what green altar, O mysterious priest,
Lead'st thou that heifer lowing at the skies,
And all her silken flanks with garlands drest?
What little town by river or seashore,
Or mountain-built with peaceful citadel,
Is emptied of its folk, this pious morn?
And, little town, thy streets for evermore
Will silent be; and not a soul to tell
Why thou art desolate, can e'er return.

O Attic shape! fair attitude! with brede
Of marble men and maidens overwrought,
With forest branches and the trodden weed;
Thou, silent form! dost tease us out of thought
As doth eternity. Cold Pastoral!
When old age shall this generation waste,
Thou shalt remain, in midst of other woe
Than ours, a friend to man, to whom thou say'st,
"Beauty is truth, truth beauty,—that is all Ye know on earth, and all ye need to know."

—John Keats.

CENTENARY OF JOHN KEATS

John Keats died one hundred years ago on the twenty-third of February, 1821.

He was without question one of the most inspired poets in English literature, and is only to be matched in his own wonderful age by Shelley and Wordsworth.

He was twenty-five at the time of his death. He had been late in discovering his poetic genius. He lost more than a year at the end in wasting sickness. Yet what he wrote in the three years which were given him for great production has put him "with Shakespeare."

He was the son of a London livery-stable keeper—another example of the democracy of genius. But his parents were fairly well to do, and they sent John and his two brothers to an excellent school, at a time when boys of the lower middle classes were not by any means always given a chance for a good education.

WAS NORMAL BOY.

John was a healthy, normal boy, alert, popular, and above all pugnacious. He was quick with his temper and with his fists. There was none of the namby-pamby about him. When he was grown up, his brother said of him that he "was the very soul of manliness and courage." He was not as a boy even notably a "grind." But he learned to know the usual classics at school, the classic stories of which he later made such use, and the English poets.

At fifteen he was made apprentice to a "surgeon"—not the highly trained person we think of by that name in our days— and stayed with him for four years. Then he went into the London hospitals for further training.

But poetry had suddenly become his passion. An acquaintance, ripening into friendship, with Leigh Hunt, a distinguished man of letters, and with Benjamin Haydon, a well known painter, fired him to lead "the life poetic."

Fortunately, Keats had a little money, which he had inherited, to live on, and his rare faculty for making devoted friends always brought him extra help when it was needed.

His life was not a particularly happy one. His brother Tom slowly died of consumption, and John did much of the nursing. His brother George whom he loved with deepest affection married and emigrated to America, where he settled in Louisville, Kentucky. He himself was often ill, even before his final fatal consumption declared itself. In the years from 1816 to 1820 he wrote busily, and in the last of these years, genius literally burned.

In 1817 he published his first volume—he printed but two in his lifetime—his "Poems." It showed much promise, and one or two splendid accomplishments. Perhaps the most perfect is his great sonnet, "On First Looking into Chapman's Homer."

Much have I travelled in the realms of gold,
And many goodly states and kingdoms seen;
Round many western islands have I been
Which bards in fealty to Apollo hold.
Oft of one wide expanse had I been told
That deep browed Homer ruled as his demesne;
Yet did I never breathe its pure serene
Till I heard Chapman speak out loud and bold:

Then felt I like some watcher of the skies
When a new planet swims into his ken;
Or like stout Cortez when with eagle eyes
He started at the Pacific—and all his men
Look'd at each other with a wild surmise—
Silent, upon a peak in Darien.

But the volume brought little fame, he next turned to a long poem, "Endymion." This is a version of the old classical legend of the love of Cynthia, the goddess of the moon, for a mortal, Endymion. It begins with the famous line, "A thing of beauty is a joy forever," and is full of rich and lovely passages. As a story it is, not well told; as a store-house of gorgeous phrases and poetic pictures it is very wonderful. Thus, for brief example:

For 'twas the morn....rain-scented eglantine
Gave temperate sweets to that well-wooing sun;
The lark was lost in him; cold springs had run
To warm their chilliest bubbles in the grass;
Man's voice was on the mountains; and the mass
Of nature's lives and wonders pulsed tenfold,
To feel this sunrise and its glories old.

This poem was published and was greeted savagely by the important Blackwood's Magazine and Quarterly Review. A stupid legend has grown up that their attacks upon "Endymion" were the indirect cause of Keats' death three years later. But it is untrue. In his letters he frequently declares his indifference to public praise and blame. And in one place he says:—"My own criticism has given me pain without comparison beyond what Blackwood and Quarterly could possibly inflict." He was too vigorous a person to be "snuffed out by an article."

Then followed the "Wonderful Year," with its "Eve of St. Agnes," "Hyperion" and the great odes—"On a Grecian Urn," "To a Nightingale," and other perfect things which did not see the light until after his death.

DOOM WAS SEALED.

Meantime he fell in love with Fanny Brawne and his passion almost swept him away; it certainly rather hindered than helped his poetry. Then in the winter of 1819-20 he spat blood, and he knew that his doom was sealed. "That drop of blood is my death warrant," he said to his friend who was with him at the time, "I must die." All that could be hoped was to delay the end; and he was ordered to go to Italy.

Fortunately his faithful friend, Joseph Severn, agreed to go with him and they took a sailing ship in September for Naples. It proved to be a four-weeks' voyage and very uncomfortable. At one time the ship was held up off the coast of Devonshire, and Keats and his companion were able to have a farewell walk on English soil. After getting back to the ship he wrote his last lines of poetry—the following beautiful sonnet.

Bright star, would I were steadfast as thou art—
Not in lone splendor hung aloft the night,
And watching with eternal lids apart,
Like Nature's patient sleepless Eremite,
The moving waters at their priestlike task
Of pure ablution round earth's human shores,
Or gazing on the new soft fallen mask
Of snow upon the mountains and the moors—
No—yet still steadfast, still unchangeable, breast,
Pillowed upon my fair love's ripening
To feel forever its soft fall and swell,
Awake forever in a sweet unrest,
Still, still to hear her tender taken breath,
And so live ever—or else swoon to death.

His health had utterly gone, and when he reached Rome he was confined to his room and bed until the end. Severn was a devoted nurse, and did not leave his side until the poet "ceased to be" on February 23, 1821.

He died in a room on the Piazza di Spagna, fronting the stairs to the church of the Trinita del Monti. The house is now a museum in memory of Keats.

He was buried in the beautiful Protestant cemetery at Rome, under the shadow of the old city wall and the noble pyramid of the Roman Cestius. There he lies beside the body of his friend Severn and his great elegist and contemporary, Shelley.

On his headstone is carved the words which he chose for himself, "Here lies one whose name is writ on water." But he was mistaken.

BEAUTY AND TRUTH.

His work was poetic to the core. "I have loved the principle of beauty in all things," he wrote once; and as Arnold says, "to see things in their beauty is to see things in their truth." In the Ode on a Grecian Urn, Keats again declares,

"Beauty is truth, truth beauty—that is all
Ye know on earth, and all ye need to know."

His greatest poetic virtue was a fascinating felicity of expression, a "perfect loveliness" of phrase, equalled only by Shakespeare himself. Take for example that famous stanza in the Ode to a Nightingale:

"Thou wast not born for death, immortal bird.
No hungry generations tread thee down;
The voice I hear this passing night was heard
In ancient days by emperors and clown:
Perhaps the selfsame song that found a path
Through the sad heart of Ruth, when sick for home,
She stood in tears amid the alien corn;
The same that oft-time hath
Charmed magic casements, opening on the foam
Of perilous seas, in faery lands forlorn."

He was richly sensuous. He looked upon "fine phrases like a lover"—a fault or virtue of the young poet. He died before he had reached his full stature. But he was moving toward an even finer intellectual and spiritual beauty, as his "Ode on a Grecian Urn" and other late poems show. How far he might have gone no one can tell.

It was Keats' friend Shelley who wrote his fit elegy—"Adonais"—one of the most marvellous memorial poems in any language. And Shelley himself within a few months followed Keats into the unknown, where,

"The soul of Adonais like a star
Beacons from the abode where the eternal are."

INHUMAN GERMAN COMMITS SUICIDE

LONDON (By Mail)—A tragic fate has overtaken Captain Niemeyer, the notorious ex-commandant of the prisoners' camp at Holsminden, who earned a sinister reputation during the war on account of his ferocious treatment of British officers captured by the Germans. The brutal Niemeyer has been so pestered recently by the inhabitants of Hanover, where he has lived since the revolution, that he has blown out his brains.

The German people applauded the harshness of Niemeyer and his associates during the war, but after the armistice they began to change their tune. They have realized that it is mainly due to such men as Niemeyer that the Germans are in such bad odor throughout the world at the present time. Feeling in Hanover against Niemeyer ran very high, and he was jeered at whenever he appeared in the streets. His life latterly became so unbearable that he was driven to commit suicide.

Niemeyer was in America when the war broke out. He crossed over to Europe in 1915, and on the plea that he was over military age, was allowed to land at Liverpool. He passed through England and reached Germany by way of Holland. His brutal work in prison camps began within a few weeks of his arrival in the Fatherland.

SHANNON SPREADS OVER LOW LANDS

River Floods Country for Miles Causing Much Distress

FIND OLD WELL

Builders Discover Ancient Derry Watering Pit—Still Holds Together

DUBLIN, Feb. 16.—(Special Star Correspondent).—The River Shannon has risen to an abnormal extent this month, owing to very heavy rains, and the country for miles north and south of Banagher is a sheet of water, causing much hardship and inconvenience. The Boyle has overflowed its banks, and flooded the low-lying country. Also many of the places of business in the town are under water.

Workers clearing ground in connection with building operations at the corner of London street, Derry, came upon one of the ancient Derry wells. The well is 26 feet deep, and 8 feet in diameter. It is circular, and built with rought ashlar masonary. A few feet from the bottom two wooden beams run across supporting a wooden platform. The well which is many centuries old, has water in it about six feet deep.

The late Mr. David Martin Currie, a brother of the late Sir Donald Currie, by his will has left five thousand pounds to the Belfast Infirmary. The money is in New Zealand 3½ per cent. inscribed stock.

Patrick Pluck, of Kingstown, an ex-navy man was sentenced to twelve months' imprisonment with hard labor by the Recorder at the Dublin Sessions, for having caused serious bodily harm to a boy named Lawless. It appears Pluck threw a stone which struck Lawless in the eye, the sight of which was lost.

BANKS SHOW PROSPERITY.

The close of the banking year, or half year in Ireland, has produced further evidence of the country's prosperity. The growing increase in amount of deposits and current accounts shows practically no slackening. Gross profits have shown a big rise, but expenditure runs a good seccond. Dividends remain unaltered. The Munster and Leinster heads the list with 20 per cent.; the Provincial 13½ per cent.; the Bank of Ireland, and the National 12 per cent., and the Hibernian 8 per cent., with all increases in profits appropriated to meet investment depreciation or reserves, and increase somewhat balances carried forward.

The discovery of a case of foot-and-mouth disease on the premises of Mr. J. C. Ruskell at Ballrickard near Arklow, has caused considerable uneasiness among farmers. The Department of Agriculture, however, appear to have taken every precaution to prevent the spread of the disease, and have prohibited the movement of cattle, sheep, pigs or goats within a radius of fifteen miles of the infected place.

At the annual meeting of the County Meath Association of the Irish Farmers' Union, the Chairman stated that the Association was in a healthy condition. The Farmers' Association, he said, was the strongest and most important body in Ireland at present, and was the only body that was absolutely free from politics. It would remain so. Mr. R. A. Butler, President of the Irish Farmers' Union in a brief address, said he hoped that the Land Purchase Bill would become law in the next session. They had succeeded in having Ireland excluded from the Agricultural Bill, as the National Executive decided, after careful consideration, that the advantages would be more than counter-balanced by the disadvantages which the bill would entail on the farmers of Ireland.

IRISH LINEN FALLING.

The price of Irish linen napery, which has been quite prohibited to the ordinary person for some time, shows signs of falling. News comes from Belfast that there is to be a free market in yarns, instead of the fixed prices agreed upon in November last between the different spinners, for the class of half finished materials, makes a fall in price almost certain and it is hoped that in the near future, the best linen will be procurable at comparatively moderate prices.

A strike of grave-diggers started last week at Mount Jerome and Glasnevin Cemeteries with the result that some bodies had to be buried by relations and friends, and others had to be placed in the vaults. The trouble started in October last when the grave-diggers demanded an increase of 10 shillings a week on their wages of 52 shillings and 6 pence. Negotiations failed, and strike notices were served, but they were ignored, and finally the strikers were called out by a delegate of the Transport Workers' Union. The grave of Mr. McGarth, K.C., (who was murdered recently) had been dug before the men were called out, and his remains were lowered and covered by friends. At a conference of the authorities of the cemeteries held recently it was stated that the men were paid 175 per cent over pre-war wages, and it was decided not to give the increase asked for. Later those in authority at Dean's Grange Cemetery decided to pay the increase in the understanding that in the event of a lower wage being given to the workmen in the other cemeteries, the same should apply in this case.

EGG AND PIG PRICES.

There was a big fall in the price of eggs and pigs at Castlerea market last week. Pigs which three or four weeks ago fetched £20, were sold for £12. The price of eggs fell from 42 shillings to 20 shillings per 120. In one week. Eggs are becoming plentiful and the cross-channel demand is weakening. So it is expected that there will be a big fall in price in a week or two.

Annadale Hall, one of the most historic residences in Belfast, was almost completely destroyed by fire recently. The house had not been occupied for some time, and when a policeman on duty discovered the outbreak the place was well alight. The fire brigade was soon on the scene, but a strong gale handicapped them and it was impossible to save the building. Only a couple of rooms at the rear, including the ball-room escaped.

There was a novel display at Newry last week on the occasion of the marriage of a local bread server. When the happy pair left the Cathedral they found that all the motor and horse bread-vans were in waiting to do escort. The motor vans led the way followed by the horse-drawn ones, then came the happy pair in a more orthodox vehicle. The procession attracted great attention, and on arrival at the home of the bride, each driver made an offering of "Caps" rolls, loaves, etc.

Owing to the continued depression in the Belfast linen trade, it is said that a number of spinning mills, which were closed down for four weeks about Christmas time will not re-open again until further notice.

RUSSIAN REFUGEES PUZZLING TURKEY

Problem is What to Do with 100,000 in Constantinople

WRANGEL'S ARMY

Once Best Blood and Brains, Now Beggars and Menials

CONSTANTINOPLE, Feb. 18.—(By A. E. Johnson, United News)—Final disposition of more than one hundred thousand Russian refugees in Constantinople, Scutari, Gallipoli, and nearby villages is one of the most difficult problems that is facing the Turkish Government and the inter-Allied Commission here. Already the Wrangel horde, once containing practically the best blood and brains of Russia, is reverting to near savagery.

Suffering and privations have transformed hundreds into beggars. Few of the more fortunate are able to live by strict economy on the proceeds of the sale of jewellery and valuables which they brought with them from the Crimea. Others, including members of the former Russian nobility, have obtained mental positions by which they earn enough to pay for their daily bread and miserable lodgings. Former university professors peddle papers, former duchesses serve as waitresses.

Until early in January, although the streets of Constantinople were crowded with refugees, few could be seen begging. Insufficient as it was, the relief furnished by the American Red Cross, the Near East Relief, and Allied governments, and private charities, permitted the Russians to keep body and soul together. Today even this relief is being withdrawn or curtailed.

As a last resort, many of the refugees have turned to begging. Others, revolting against the conditions imposed on them are turning to crime. Down in the bazaar district, along the Galata-Stamboul bridge, one can purchase anything from a pair of boots, or a tin of condensed milk, to a diamond ring. Where the starving refugees obtained these wares no one seems to know, and even the Turkish police do not ask questions.

SELL THEIR VALUABLES.

While many members of the old aristocracy came away from Sebastopol with the Wrangel army, actually penniless, they have been taken in by more fortunate Russians in Constantinople, who left before the debacle. These Russians brought jewels and other valuables with them, which have since been converted into cash. The money was then invested in small business ventures—chiefly restaurants. Two of the best eating places in Constantinople, and one of the best in Athens, are owned and managed by ex-members of Russian royalty.

In former peace times absorption of the refugees by the various Balkan States would not have been difficult. Today, however, the Near East is like a super-saturated sponge. Hardly a single country can care for its own unemployed, let alone harboring outsiders.

Furthermore, fears of Bolshevism keep the doors of Europe locked against the unfortunates. Of the hundred thousand Wrangelites it is estimated that at least five percent are Bolshevik, while fully 25 percent are potential Communists. Hunger and privation, officials fear, will make them a menace to whatever country they may enter.

It is Difficult to Foresee What Moves to Be Made

TOKIO, Jan. 15.—(Special Star Correspondence by Dr. J. Ingram Bryan)—Refugees escaping into Japan from the regime of the Reds in interior Siberia report a reign of terror on all sides, especially in the Amur region. Internal conditions in the Amur province are being wholly reconstructed on Soviet principles. All power is in the hands of the Communists. While issuing decrees and documents purporting, on the one hand, to be democratic, the officials are engaged on a campaign of plunder under excuse of requisitioning for the Government. The inviolability of private property and private houses is proclaimed, while homes are being constantly entered without legal warrant and many persons arrested without charge and shot. Business is crushed and trade practically at a standstill. Owing to the devaluation of money and the uncertainty of law the peasants will not risk bringing their produce to market and raise only what they can themselves consume. The privations of the population are intense. Private enterprise and individual initiative are anathema to the new regime. The only way to get enough food, or to become fairly free from molestation, is to join the Communists. The Soviet system of education is being introduced into all schools, co-education being the rule. Disorganization reigns.

HARDSHIPS OF WOMEN.

A Russian lady who escaped with the refugees reaching Japan affirms that the sufferings of her sex under the rule of the Reds is something beyond description. Permission to travel is almost impossible. Women are constantly under suspicion, especially the wives of army officers. Arrests are steady and numerous, and few of those taken to prison are ever seen again. Shooting is the most humane of the Soviet methods of execution. But when information has to be extracted the most unprecedented tortures are adopted, such as placing the victim naked on blocks of ice and leaving him there till he is ready to satisfy his tormentors, the result being that he usually freezes to death.

Women, with the exception of those who have children below the age of four, are forced to work from 9 to 4 daily; but on labour weeks they must work from 6 to 10 at night, in addition to the regular hours. The work is alloted by the Soviet officials and there is no choice. A trained nurse may be sent to a laundry and a laundry girl to do the nursing. Refusal to acquiesce, is punished by imprisonment and starvation. To obtain a comfortable home is only to invite its seizure by the officials. Spies are everywhere, and detectives make frequent raids and ransack the people's belongings.

The Communists have divided all the population into three kinds: chiefs and commissioners, clerks and those not doing physical labor, and manual laborers. Money is not given to any. But those of the first-class receive so much food a month, the second-class a lesser amount or a inferior quantity, while the third-class receive a still more inferior quantity. As the quantity is not sufficient to sustain life adequately, the next has to be obtained by barter. Those fortunate enough to possess surplus clothing exchange it for food. But owing to the fear of confiscation among the farmers food is not produced and is becoming gradually more scarce. Doctors are scarce and the sick are neglected. People are dying in hundreds of typhus and exposures. Many have gone mad simply from fear of the horrors perpetrated by the Soviet police.

In the meantime Japan is awaiting new developments. But just what military activities are being carried on in Siberia is very difficult to define with exactitude. All one knows is that Japan is ready for any emergency. No military preparations is allowed where Japanese troops are stationed; and, as has been reported before, the local militia is being disarmed. Kozevnikoff, Vice-Minister of Foreign Affairs under Krasnochekoff of Chita, has visited Vladivostock and informed the Japanese that there is no reason why the new order should not be recognized, and he affirms that the declaration of General Oi, Japan's Commander-in-Chief in Siberia, to the effect that Japan positively can never recognize a Communist regime in Siberia, must not be taken seriously, as it is too unreasonable. This Communist official is offering mining and other concessions to those ready to negotiate with him satisfactorily, but hesitation prevails. The Vladivostock Assembly, having cast in its lot with Chita and the Communists, inconsistently maintains that it desires to be democratic. But Japan will not have the wool pulled over her eyes in this way. Kozevnikoff insists that the Chita Government is quite independent of the Moscow Soviet. On the whole Kozevnikoff is very optimistic. What Japan now watches carefully are the proceedings of the Chita representatives sent to Pekin; for if China should act independently in regard to recognizing Chita, it would be very awkward for Japan. Indeed it is a question whether Japan could permit it.

MUSIC

MARY GARDEN is taking singing lessons again!

This startling piece of information is contained in an interview which she, now artistic director of the Chicago Opera Company, has given to the Chicago Sunday Tribune. The Tribune article says:

"She has gone back to her first vocal instructor and back over many of the steps and missteps of her climbing of the operatic ladder.

"'There were many missteps,' she said frankly, 'had a general inkling of some of my faults, but I was not sure of their extent until last year, when I got a letter from my old singing teacher. It was a brutally frank letter. It was long and it was a list of the sins I had committed at a performance which my teacher had attended. "You do so-and-so wrong; so-and-so you overstress. So-and-so you oversing." The so-and-so's were pages long. I read the letter attentively. I went to bed with a headache. I reread the letter with my next breakfast. Then I telegraphed my teacher, "I am coming for lessons."'

The teacher is Mrs. Sarah Duff-Robinson, who lives in New York and, for twenty years, has stuck strictly to her vocation of turning out voices. She was Garden's first teacher. She guided her for two years in Chicago when Garden was new into long skirts. Then she took Mary to Europe and dropped her into the studio of the Paris master who prepared her for the stage.

"But it was Mrs. Duff, Garden says, who created the organ with which Garden, after many strenuous years, is still singing. Now, every morning, Garden is in the uptown house of her teacher, going through the rudimentary exercises of jaw dropping, syllable-bleating and finely calculated breathing with which untaught throats are made into musical instruments and with which, if the artists be wise, the taught throat is kept musical.

"The return of Garden to the source of her first learning is one of the finest romances of student faith the world of art has."

Students who fondly imagine the business of singing can be learned almost as quickly as typewriting, or shorthand, might ponder over the move Miss Garden is making. Long after Melba had become famous, it was recorded that she went back regularly to her teacher, Mathilde Marchesi, for coaching in the mechanism of her art, and that no master ever had a more willing and docile pupil.

The program which Jacques Thibaud, leading French violinist, will give next Monday evening in Windsor Hall, is as follows:—

Concerto, Saint-Saens; poeme, Chausson; Andante, Mozart, Saint-Saens; Minute Caprice, Rode, Thibaud; Les Cherubins, Couperin-Salmon; Gavotte, Bach, Kreisler; Evening Song, Schumann; Slavonic Dance, Dvorak, Kreisler; Spanish Dance, Granados, Thibaud; Polonaise, A major, Wieniawski, Chas. Hart, accompanist.

* * *

In view of the fact that Jacques Thibaud's violin recital takes place next Monday evening in Windsor Hall, the following extract from the Boston Post, relative to a concert of Mr. Thibaud's in that city, is of interest:

"Mr. Thibaud gave what was, in the estimation of the writer, by far the greatest performance of a solo violinist heard this season. He has the purest emotional force, tempered by the high intellectuality of a great artist. Mr. Thibaud's tone is not surpassed for warmth and nobility, nor do we know of a violinist who unites so impressively the fire of the virtuoso and an inalienable sense of esthetic values. He gave one of the most memorable performances in the history of the seasons in Symphony Hall."

Four Lenten programs, beginning this afternoon at 4 o'clock, are to be given in Christ Church Cathedral under the direction of Arthur H. Egg. The program for the first of these includes the overture to "Athalia," Handel, and the Fantasie in F minor, Mozart, as organ solos, and excerpts from Parts 1 and 2 of "The Creation," Haydn, sung by the choir, with Miss L. Madge, A. E. Perrins and L. Gould as soloists.

* * *

Miss Ada Tyrone, the American soprano, will sing the following songs at the concert to be given in March by the Apollo Glee Club:—

"By the Window," Tschaikowski; "Over the Steppe, My Native Land," Gretchaninoff; "The Rose Has Charmed the Nightingale," Rimski-Korsakow; "Phyllis Has Such Charming Graces," H. Lane Wilson; "Messages," Frank Grey; "How Do I Love Thee," Stahlschmidt; "I Passed By Your Window," Max Brahe.

Marcourt Farmer will give impressions from Shakespeare at the same concert, and George Brewer will play piano solos by Debussy and Rachmaninoff. The Glee Club will sing part songs by Sullivan, Franz Abt, Schubert, D. Christmas Williams, Burleigh, Nevin, Bossi and Bridge.

* * *

William B. Murray, writing in the Brooklyn Eagle about a recent Flonzaley concert, said:—"Brahms's great quartet in C minor stood first on the Flonzaley's list. The master of chamber music left us nothing more significant than these pages, but it takes an organization of supreme artists to give them full eloquence. The Flonzaley combination was alive to the task; the result was transcendent."

An effort to raise money for a scholarship fund for the McGill Conservatorium of Music is being made by past and present students, who have a committee of which Miss Jessie Hannah is chairman, and Hugh McEachran, the honorary secretary. The project had its origin in the desire of many students that the name of the late Sir William Peterson should be perpetuated in some way through the Conservatorium, in which he always took a keen interest. The money subscribed will form the nucleus of a Peterson Memorial Scholarship Fund, and the interest on the capital sum will be devoted to scholarships which can be competed for annually. Those in charge of the movement are anxious that the Conservatorium may have at least one or two scholarships available for next winter session, but while making a vigorous appeal at the present time for subscriptions the committee would like to point out that the fund will always be requiring augmentation if it is to serve the purpose expected of it, which will be that of providing means whereby talented students who would be unable otherwise to do so may be helped to study seriously.

* * *

Among the interesting novelties that Stanley Gardner has placed on the program which he is playing in the Ritz-Carlton next Wednesday evening is the "Juba" Dance of Nathaniel Dett, a composer of Canadian birth. This little dance depicts a scene peculiar to negro life, "Juba" being the stamping on the ground of the foot, followed by two staccato pats of the hand as an accompaniment to the dancers. At least one-third of the dancers keep time in this manner, while the others dance. Sometimes all will combine together in order to urge on a solo dancer to more frantic and fantastic endeavors.

Modern piano literature finds a ready place in the repertoire Benno Moiseiwitsch, the young Russian pianist, who gives a recital in Windsor Hall on February 28; but it by no means encroaches upon the territory of the older and classic order. Mr. Moiseiwitsch admits that much of the ultra-modern music fails to impress him at all; many of the 20th century writers, he says, seem to compose entirely for effect, and not because they have something musical to record. In fact, so he believes, they are continually attempting to be "smart," to invent strange impressions which do not ring at all true. In England Mr. Moiseiwitsch was an enthusiastic member of "The Fresh Air Society," which had as its object the promotion of sane, legitimate art, both in music and painting, and at its frequent semi-public gatherings the members introduced numerous new works which they considered were the results of real inspiration and worthy of serious attention.

* * *

Under the auspices of St. David's Welsh Society, a St. David's Day concert will be given in Windsor Hall on the evening of March 1. The musicians will be Merlin Davies, tenor; Gustave Labelle, 'cellist; J. E. F. Martin, accompanist, of Montreal; and Miss Phoebe Crosby, soprano; and Carl Rollins, baritone, of New York.

* * *

The aria which Mozart wrote for the Queen of the Night in "The Magic Flute," an aria which few singers attempt because of the high F's contained in it, will be sung by Miss Charlotte Bergh at the afternoon concert today in the Imperial Theatre. Miss Bergh's engagement is being continued another week, and no one interested in good colorature singing should miss hearing her.

* * *

"Trail o'Dreams," is the title of a new song from the pen of a Montreal musician, Armand Meerts to which William Eckstein has added a lyric. It is published with both French and English words; and, in 3-4 time, has a running melody that is pleasantly varied and that appeals at once to the singer.

* * *

There is a possibility, according to J. A. Gauvin, of the great tenor, Lucien Muratore, coming to Montreal next season. This is indeed good news. Since the days of Jean de Reszke no other tenor has so combined vocal accomplishments and dramatic genius as has Mr. Muratore, his style, diction and general vocalisation being accepted as models. Mr. Gauvin has just been in New York, where he heard Mr. Muratore and says his was the most perfect singing he ever heard.

* * *

A concert will be given in the Knights of Columbus Hall on Thursday evening, March 3, by Lucien Lachance, pianist, assisted by Miss Blanche Gonthier, soprano, and Albert Chamberland, violinist.

* * *

The choir of The Church of St. Andrew and St. Paul will sing "Via Crucis" by Cowie at the evening service tomorrow. The soloists will be Mrs. Mills, soprano; Miss Denault, contralto; R. A. Diplock, tenor; J. C. Freer, W. H. Barry and F. H. Rowe, baritones. The choir will also sing "The Seven Last Words of Christ," by Dubois on Palm Sunday, March 20th, and "The Messiah" by Handel on Good Friday, March 25.

* * *

An interesting group on the program which Stanley Gardner is playing in the Ritz-Carlton next Wednesday evening is the set of four Grovlez pieces. These, like the Gossens sketches with which Mr. Gardner delighted audiences last season, are short and quaintly humorous. "The Donkeys," in particular, with its "hee-haw" accompaniment, is certain to cause much amusement.

* * *

The last concert of the season by the band of H. M. Canadian Grenadier Guards will take place tomorrow afternoon at His Majesty's Theatre, at 3 o'clock. The soloists will be Miss Blanche Gonthier, soprano, and Emile Gour, tenor. The complete program follows: Overture, Patrie, Bizet; aria, La Belle Arsene (1773), Monsigny; La Farandole, Dubois, Miss Gonthier; Suite de Ballet, Coppella, Delibes; C'est donc bien vrai, Fourdrain; Aria from Werther, Massenet, Mr. Gour; Marche Slave, Tschaikowsky; Duet from Le Roi d'Ys, Lalo, Miss Gonthier and Mr. Gour; Cortege du Sirdar, Caucasian sketches, Ippolitov-Ivanoff; overture, Tannhauser, Wagner. At the piano, F. H. Blair. Conductor, J. J. Gagnier.

Musical Appreciation Implies Active Attention

Written for The Star by SEPTIMUS FRASER

No. 15.

But some may ask, "Upon whom does responsibility rest for the condition of things, now so widespread and still extending, of which we have been speaking?" In our opinion musicians themselves are largely to blame. For, had they sounded a note of warning a quarter of a century ago as to the ultimate effect of this distraught form of so-called music upon the music sense, we feel confident such protest would have then had a powerful influence upon popular opinion, which now, alas, will be much harder to check. It is like a fire which, once fairly under way, is difficult to subdue and sometimes has to burn itself out, destroying everything in its path.

* * *

Signs of this destruction are not hard to find. Time was when our music shops were replete with stores of good and wholesome music and those in attendance, were well-fitted to advise when asked to do so. Now it is quite different. So filled are these stores with rag time that good music is reduced to the vanishing point and the minds of the assistants so burdened by the multitude and variety of trash that any sober counsel is simply out of the question. It is here, as elsewhere in business, a case of demand and supply, and a very convincing evidence as to what the public demands. The economic phase, too, is too often lost sight of, viz.: the extravagance thus induced. Time was when this cheap form of music was sold cheaply, but not so now. Its cost largely exceeds that of good music, and as it never satisfies and its votaries are constantly craving for change, the lamentable waste goes on, a waste of money and, what is far worse, of musical taste and judgment as well.

* * *

But some will question our fair-mindedness and accuse us of bias. That this is not so the press of the country clearly shows. Mr. Krehbiel, the noted music critic, writing in the New York Tribune recently said in part: "The death of the Musical Art Society of New York is in accordance with the frivolous, superficial, degenerate spirit of the times towards the things in music which make for real gentleness and refinement." He scoffs at the reported "extraordinary uplift" which the public is experiencing through automatic music machines. And, again, Sir Hugh Allen, principal of the Royal College of Music, London, Eng., in a recent address, said, in part: "Infinite time and patience are spent in teaching children music and then they are allowed to go about and run the risk of hearing beastly tunes to vitiate their taste and to wipe out what they have learned. Bad music is far worse than the measles and is much more serious disease. To educate the children without educating the parents is like trying to carry water in a bucket with a hole in it." He would have a school which parents should attend until they could detect one good tune out of a lot of bad ones and give a reason for liking jazz music in preference to folk songs or dance tunes. Another New York critic writes: "There should be sympathy for Sir Hugh Allen in his plea for good music in place of the jazz now furnished. Of all disintegrating social influences, there is none to compare with the barbaric suggestion of the rhythms that flood the modern dance floor. The more refined the society, according to existing codes, the more unabashed the orchestral assault on the walls of individual decorum. The shattering attack is too much for any Jericho. Too much at least for the youthful resistance. Our dances become bacchanals. Music has charms to soothe the savage breast and also power to make savages of us all."

New Method Makes Music Amazingly Easy to Learn

Learn to Play or Sing—Every Step Made Simple as A B C.

TRY IT ON APPROVAL

Entire Cost Only a Few Cents a Lesson—and Nothing Unless Satisfied

How often have you wished that you knew how to play a violin or piano—or whatever your favorite instrument may be—or that you could take part in singing.

How many an evening's pleasure has been utterly spoiled and ruined by the admission, "I can't sing," or "No, I am sorry but I can't play."

And now—at last—this pleasure and satisfaction that you have so often wished for can be added to your daily life.

No need to join a class. No need to pay a dollar or more per lesson to a private teacher. Neither the question of time nor expense is any longer a bar—every one of the obstacles that have been confining your enjoyment to mere listening have now been removed.

My method of teaching music—in your spare time at home, with no stranger around to embarrass you—makes it amazingly easy to learn to sing by note or to play any instrument.

You don't need to know the first thing about music to begin—don't need to know one note from another. My method takes out all the hard part—overcomes all the difficulties—makes your progress easy, rapid and sure.

Whether for an advanced pupil or a beginner, my method is a revolutionary improvement over the old methods used by private teachers. The lessons I send you explain every point and show every step in simple Print-and-Picture form that you can't go wrong on—every step is made as clear as A B C.

My method is as thorough as it is easy. I teach you the only right way—teach you to play or sing by note. No "trick" music, no "numbers," no makeshifts of any kind.

I call my method "new" simply because it is so radically different from the old and hard-to-understand ways of teaching music. But my method is thoroughly time-tried and proven. Over 250,000 successful pupils—from boys and girls of 7 and 8 to men and women of 70—are the proof.

Largely through the recommendations of satisfied pupils, I have built up the largest school of music in the world.

To prove what I say, you can take any course on trial—singing or any instrument you prefer—and judge entirely by your own progress. If for any reason you are not satisfied with the course or with what you learn from it, then it won't cost you a single penny. On the other hand, if you are pleased with the course, the total cost amounts to only a few cents a lesson, with your music and everything also included. When learning to play or sing is so easy, why continue to confine your enjoyment of music to mere listening? Why not at least let me send you my free book that tells you all about my methods. I know you will find this book absorbingly interesting simply because it shows you how easy it is to turn your wish to play or sing into an actual fact. Just now I am making a special short-time offer that cuts the cost per lesson in two. —send your name now, before this special offer is withdrawn. IN THE WORLD OF BOOKS

A NOTABLE LONDON NOVEL

MANY people develop a habit of shunning an anonymous novel. They profess to consider that it would not be published anonymously if it were not that the author feared for its success. Such an attitude of mind is difficult to understand,—the more so when one reflects how many of the most significant works of English fiction first reached the public as anonymous, and also how many tricks have been played upon the public famous authors who sent stories to publishers over unknown pen-names. However, since it is a habit that exists, there is good reason for warning any who usually indulge in it that they will be making a very regrettable mistake if they do so in the case of "Marqueray's Duel," by Anthony Pryde.

This book was published anonymously in London, and the name "Anthony Pryde" does not connote any well-known or established author. The quality of the novel, however, proves it to be the work of a singularly gifted and in many respects brilliant writer with a wide knowledge of humanity and a keen insight into the workings of men's minds, whether they be politicians, statesmen, adventurers, or knaves. It is one of the outstanding books of the moment, and it is rich in material that lovers of fiction of the first class will be quick to appreciate.

The author has drawn a portrait of a man of strenuous temperament, rich, unfettered, a rebel by instinct and an adventurous being by choice, who finds himself fighting a three-cornered duel to win a man's friendship, a girl's love, and control over himself. This portrait is painted against a background of high political life in London, with the dominating figures in the political world of the Metropolis after the war as the leading characters outside the hero of the story.

None but a man who knows much of the inside of politics could have written such a book. None but a man of the broadest sympathies and a wide knowledge of the ways of masterful men under the influence of strong passions could have drawn Marqueray. He is a figure of immense strength, even when he is weakest; and at his best he is herculean,—but intensely human through all. His struggles against his baser nature are depicted with a vivid dramatic power that makes them very real. His character is so appealing that he enlists our sympathies even when we realize that he is not doing himself justice. He literally lives through the pages of this book, a vehement being of hot blood, iron nerve, deceptive calm, and a fine breeding that in the end gains the upper hand and leads him to victory over self.

• • •

The figure of lovely little Phylida, the Irish girl, moves through the book like that of some fascinating portrait from the walls of an old baronial Irish hall. Phyllida is a genuine Irish girl,—not the customary fiction counterfeit. The type is clear-cut, deeply etched, as it were, into the fabric of the romance. And in all things, even her strange inconsistencies, touched with a wistfulness and a purity that hold fascination and appeal.

• • •

There is a regular portrait gallery, apart from these two. Aubrey West, the quiet, self-contained, high-principled young Parliamentary secretary; Yarborough, the ruthless, driving, dominating Foreign Secretary; Robert Vere, the aristocratic uncle of Marqueray, a diplomat of the old school, disdaining emotions, loyal in friendships, unforgiving betrayals; Valentine Yarborough, a fine type of modern English girl; Lord Marchmont, a cringing cur; Mrs. Fielden, West's housekeeper; his parents in Cambridgeshire—these and many others all fit into the picture, and not one is limned carelessly or with lack of definition. Indeed, it is such a portrait-gallery as one rarely finds in a modern novel.

• • •

The finest thing about this book, however, is its author's faith in humanity. He never preaches, but one can read it in the development of his leading characters, and in the insight he shows into the mentality of the men and women he draws for us. Marqueray, I imagine, will rank high among the heroes of modern novelists, and he deserves to do, for he is real flesh and blood. Whoever Anthony Pryde may be, he has given us liberally of the substance instead of the shadow, and if we are not grateful for the gift, we ought to be ashamed.

"Marqueray's Duel," by Anthony Pryde: J. M. Dent & Sons, Ltd., Toronto. Robert M. McBride & Co., New York.

Two New Volumes Of Modern Verse Of a Dainty Mould

"Morning, Noon, and Night," by Glenn Ward Dresbach. The Four Seas Company, Boston, Mass. "Pearls and Pomegranates," by Dorian Hope; G. P. Putnam's Sons, New York and London.

The outpouring of minor verse is a torrent nothing can stop. Often one wishes it could be stopped, but occasionally there are reasons which make one glad, after all, that it is still flowing. Now and then, digging in the pile of semi-precious stones, we discover a jewel of rare beauty which repays us for our labors.

These two little volumes which have just come to hand contain something of the inspiration of dawn, something of the glow of noonday, or the tremulous beauty of starlight. Mr. Dresbach possesses in ample measure the gift of narration. He is also a man of peculiarly fervid imagination, and his imagery is rich and at times inclined to over-opulence. Yet he can, when he is so minded, strike a clear chord on his harp that echoes and re-echoes with thrilling beauty.

His "Goodnight Song" is rich in lyric charm. "While the Caravan Rested" is pure narrative verse of a high order of merit. "Chains" is touched with passionate tenderness. "Songs After the War" contains much that is full of the splendor and glory and pathos of remembrance; much of its anguish, too. Mr. Dresbach is in tune with the voices of Nature, but he is too red-blooded to forget that he is a man. There is nothing of the weakness or the tepid warmth of lotus-laden sentiment in his work. It is virile, and it is independent, free from formalism, and endowed with something of inspiration.

* * *

Dorian Hope is a singer of a different type, but not less interesting, not less to be commended. There is about this verse a shyness and a daring at once paradoxical and easy to understand. The personal note is more in evidence. For vigor, there is daintiness, save in an occasional vehement outburst; for passion, there is tenderness. Here is a dreamer, touched by this world's pain, in sympathy with its sufferers, with sympathies broad enough to embrace the depths, and running through this verse there is a wistful beauty, a charm of unshed tears, that enhances its refinement of feeling and lends to it a dim loveliness, as of moonlight upon a half-closed rose.

Louis Couperus, who in his native Holland is regarded as the greatest living Dutch author, is rapidly gaining a wide reading public in England and America. It is just over thirty years since, at the age of 24, he published his first novel, a psychological study of a modern girl living in the fashionable set at The Hague. "Ecstasy," an exquisite love story, was the first of Couperus' works to be rendered in English by his accredited translator, Alexander Teixeira de Mattos. After two more novels, and a succession of prose-poems embodying much symbolic thought and philosophy, came the four novels of "The Small Soul Series" that firmly established Couperus' fame in America—"The Small Souls," "The Later Life," "The Twilight of the Souls," and "Dr. Adriaan."

An interesting question has been settled by the decision of the Appellate division of the Supreme Court, says the writer of the Tabloid Book Review in the Chicago Sunday Tribune—a book column well worth watching. "Mlle. de Maupin," on sale at a book store in New York, was purchased by the hard working John S. Sumner—who jerked "Jurgen" from joy readers. Mr. Sumner found it indecent and in violation of the famous section 1141 of the penal code. There was much bandying of trials back and forth. Mr. Sumner was sued for damages as a malicious prosecutor, and there were appeals. The final verdict was that "Mlle. de Maupin" belonged to the class of books which, because of their unquestioned merit, are not obscene. Meanwhile the "Jurgen" trial goes untried. By the way, do you know what becomes of the books and pictures and magazines—like the Little Review with "Ulysses" in it, for instance—which the Society for the Suppression of Vice confiscates. Ironic, rather, the fact that they are given to the Salvation Army, which has them torn to bits by "fallen women" who are in the process of being reformed.

THE CURTAIN.

Like some seraglio of an Eastern king,
Secret and screened from prying eyes,
So is the soul of many a friend we know,
And as some gazer hidden 'mong the palms,
In some fair garden by the water, sees
A dark sultana for a moment stand,
Dreaming, behind the casement curtain-folds,
The red glow gleaming on her dusky brow;
And gazes, dreaming, from some well-known eyes.

"Letters From the Front" Record of Bank of Commerce

"Letters from the Front, 1914-1919. Being a record of the part played by officers of the Canadian Bank of Commerce in the great War." (Printed for private circulation only.)

Among the various professions whose ranks contributed in force to the personnel of the Canadian forces during the Great War, non acquitted itself with greater credit than that of the banks. With a considerable number of youths of the best fighting age, the Canadian banking institutions found themselves steadily depleted of their staffs until, towards the end of the conflict, a very large proportion of the clerical list had been replaced by girls.

* * *

It is but natural that the banks should seek to give some permanent form to a record of the achievements of those young men who went forth to fight for their country. The Canadian Bank of Commerce has undertaken to do this in the form of collated letters, made up of the various pamphlets entitled "Letters from the Front," which were originally printed under the supervision of Charles Lyons Foster for the employes of the bank who were compelled to remain at their banking duties, to keep them posted as to the doings of their colleagues at the Front. These letters have been supplemented and incorporated in the present handsome volume by William Smith Duthie.

* * *

An introduction by Sir John Aird pays an eloquent and dignified tribute to the loyal manner in which the staffs of all the Canadian banks heard and responded to the call to duty, and also praises the work of Mr. Foster, the bank's staff inspector, in collating the letters and other records the volume contains. Of the 1701 members of the staff who enlisted, 258 laid down their lives. Portraits of all of these are published, and also of all who were decorated or mentioned in despatches. The complete list of enlistments and the letters themselves make up the bulk of the volume.

* * *

Handsomely bound, beautifully printed, this record constitutes such a volume as will be treasured by all the relatives of the dead, as well as by those whose lives were spared, and by their colleagues whose duties compelled them to remain behind. It is an effective tribute to all those who fought for Freedom's cause.

Romance of West Told in Charming Form for Children

"Knights Errant of Wilderness," by Morden H. Long; The Macmillan Company of Canada, Ltd., Toronto.

The story of the pioneers who opened up the great Canadian West is, in essence, the history of the land. No part of the Dominion is richer in romance, none repays better peeps into its storied past. The trail has been followed by several writers whose imaginative faculties and sympathetic understanding well qualified them for the task of recording the achievements of the heroes of Canadian exploration, but these records are mainly for grown-up folk. Now comes Morden H. Long, a well-known Western writer, and in a simple, straightforward manner, eschewing elaborate descriptions, speculative passages, and involved explanations, tells the story of Canada's West for children of the upper public school grades.

• • •

The book is written specially for the young, yet those of older years will find it strangely interesting reading, too. You can go with Hudson on that last fateful voyage of his, when he was destined never to return; you can follow the hard-blazed trails of Radisson and Grosseilliers; you can wander over the Iroquois country in the days when the Red Man was a power; you can journey with Kelsey and Hendry, sharing alike their trials and their triumphs; you can wander with the redoubtable Samuel Hearne; and you can accompany a much more modern explorer, Sir Alexander Mackenzie, through the land which the courage and the endurance and the determination and the pride of these great pioneers has made into that great national heritage known to the world as The Canadian West.

* * *

It will do you good, whatever your age. It is a good thing for us to be reminded now and then of what manner of men paved the way for the Western settler of today. It ought to make us humble. It cannot but make us proud,—proud to be citiens in a land that has known such heroes as are named on this great roster from the unforgettable past.

A thing that is typically British has caused considerable gasping on the part of horn-blowing press agents connected with New York's motion picture industry. Captain Michael Fielding, of England, is working every day at the Glendale studios on a series of motion picture productions. He is not making these pictures for any American film concern. His interests are with a British corporation. Says the Morning Telegraph:—

"It is rather amusing to think how quietly the English company arrived without any fan-fare of trumpets or bulletins to say 'Here I am!' We do not do things that way when we send a foreign company abroad. We always believe it pays to advertise—and the world fails to take this into consideration—that this is the reason America gets what she wants when she wants it." Well, sometimes, but not always!

Down in the States an English Earl is working as a film director. They have nothing on us in Quebec. We've got a French marquis as film censor.

Edwin Stevens, playing with Wanda Hawley in her new movie production, is a direct decendant of John Alden. Furthermore, he has the proof of this relationship in the shape of a massive gold seal with the Alden coat of arms. The heirloom is over four hundred years old. Stevens is perhaps best known as the creator of "The Devil," a character and play that had tremendous vogue on the stage a decade ago. In Miss Hawley's new picture, "The Snob," he has the role of an oil millionaire who is badly henpecked.

Eight or ten pugilists whose names are familiar to followers of the fistic games take an active part in Thomas Meighan's new picture, "The Frontier of the Stars." All appear in the Bowery barroom scene in which buck Leslie, a gangster and gunman, portrayed by Mr. Meighen, engages in a desperate battle against overwhelming odds. In the fight are such well-known pugilists as Kid Broad, Abe Attell, Ole Anderson, Eddie Kelly, "Kiddo" Horton, Micky Macfarland, "Sledgehammer" Nally and Dan Duffy.

In a "Motion Picture Producers' 'Credo'" for the coming year J. Parker Read declares: "I believe that the producer and the exhibitor are the joint guardians of the greatest medium known to the world for influencing the thought of the people—the motion picture. I believe that this guardianship should be held as an expression of a National confidence, and that we be able to give a worthy account always of that trust reposed in us. I believe that everything in human nature that is sincere and worthy merits our most earnest efforts of portrayal. I believe that since the world is our stage, we should be unhampered by narrow prejudices."

Detroit is aiming at a film censor board. I hope they will be luckier in their choice than Montreal.

CANADIENS MUST STAY ON ICE--LOCAL BALL DECISION TODAY

CALEDONIA LEAD HEATHER IN M. A. A. A. TROPHY STRUGGLE—MONTREAL WEST DOWN TO ST. LAWRENCE.

More fine battles in the M. A. A. A. Trophy series, with Heather for the first time taking second place in the scoring, featured curling last night. Caledonia curlers undaunted by Heather' notable victories got into the game again yesterday afternoon and evening and on both occasions downed the Heather skips by small margins.

When the balance of the games are played off this afternoon Caledonia will have a 14 point majority in hand. One of the biggest battles of the year is hoped for, and in consequence the luncheons at both Caledonia and Heather today are expected to be crowded with members.

Both clubs turned out fairly strong rinks last night and while there are Heather rinks in reserve for today, the same is also true of Caledonia. Throughout the play yesterday there was hardly a difference of three points. What Caledonia lost at Heather was always more than recovered on the home ice.

NICHOLSON'S FINE PLAY.

In the evening at Burnside the games were watched by a packed gallery. Spectators saw George Nicholson skip against Art Smith's Jubilee Trophy winners, and have him down most of the way in a close battle. It almost looked as if Smith were going to tie his game when the finest play of the evening was pulled off.

Nicholson played a heavy draw through an almost impossible port on the two-foot circle and faced the two Heather stones on the button with sufficient strength to remove them. This netted Caledonia four valuable points. Nicholson came down with his second and last shot of the match with a tee draw, which brought another round of applause and increased the count to 5.

James Griffin had a close game throughout with Taylor, of Heather, and at the finish had hard lines not to count a nise end and win. His heavy draw lost its turn when at the two-foot circle sailed past the button shots.

St. Lawrence curlers last evening maintained their advantage over Montreal West and earned their right to play in the M. A. A. A. finals by eliminating the strong Montreal West rinks. St. Lawrence will prove a hard nut in the final stages of the play, and on recent form are liable to beat the best of the other rinks.

N. MACFARLANE WINS.

Norman Macfarlane, a leather medal veteran, again added to his collection last night at Thistle rink. He skipped through a fast leather medal series to the final, when James Cleghorn gave him a great battle. Macfarlane won by a single shot. Prior to this Cleghorn had been winning his games by big margins.

Today the finals of the M. A. A. A. will be played off, and club competitions at the other rinks. Montreal Thistle, Caledonia and Heather have all got big Saturday luncheons arranged for.

TO FIND OUT AMERICAN STAND RE SQUASH ASSOCIATIONS COMBINING—TOURNAMENT FOR OTTAWA NEXT

For the present, at any rate, there is no definite decision whether or not the Canadian Amateur Squash Racket Association will combine with the American Association to form one international body.

At the annual meeting of the Canadian organization held at the Montreal Racket Club here last night, it was decided that the secretary should write to the American Association and make inquiries regarding on what basis they would take in the clubs from this country and what standing the Canadian association would have if merged with the American one, therefore the issue has been postponed, and until a reply from the Americans is received here nothing can be done.

The election of officers of the Canadian squash body was deferred until another meeting could be arranged, as the fact of a meeting going on in the midst of a tournament upset matters to some extent.

However, one important matter was settled, and that was the decision of the executive to hold next year's championship play in Ottawa. The Capital has several strong players here at the present tournament, and as the game has a large following in that city it is thought that no place could make the events more successful.

The following are the late results of yesterday afternoon's matches:

Bickford and Des Rivieres, of Quebec, defaulted and the match went to Powers, who defeated Wendell 3-2, by default.

Peabody won from White 3-1.

Lavoie, of Quebec, and Harvey, of Ottawa, won their matches by default.

O'Donahoe, of Montreal, defeated Tessier, Quebec, 3-0.

Pulford, Ottawa, defeated Leclair, Quebec, 3-0.

Hayward, Montreal, defeated Creighton, Boston, 3-0.

The play will be concluded today, when the remaining preliminaries will be played off in the morning and the rest of the matches in the afternoon.

DRAW FOR THE CONSOLATION ROUND.

Robinson vs. winner of Hempsted-Lavoie match; winner of Nellson-Tessier match vs. winner of D. Robinson-Lebreque match, and the final.

GOLFING NEWS AND GOSSIP FROM NEAR AND FAR

The Kanawaki Golf Club, at its annual meeting at the Windsor Hotel last night, decided to increase the annual subscription from $50 to $60, and to have an entrance fee of $200.

George Ayton, who was with the Redan Golf Club last season, had been engaged to replace Albert Murray as the club's professional. Ayton is well recommended and will reach Montreal early in the spring to prepare for the season.

The question of holding the open championship tournament next summer has been handed over to the executive to deal with. Officers elected:

President—E. Alexander.
Vice-president—J. H. Birks.
Honorary treasurer—P. C. Harrison.
Honorary secretary—H. W. Phillips.
Executive committee—J. D. Baille, G. Ferrabee, Jas. Buchanan, C. C. Kippen, E. P. Flintoft, W. G. Ross, S. R. Saunders.
Captain—Jas. Buchanan.

TORONTO, Feb. 19. — The annual meeting of the Toronto golf club was held with a large number of members in attendance. The report of the year showed the club was in a sound position financially, with a small balance to the credit of operating account. The New Nine Hole Course for which additional acreage was purchased last year, is about completed and will be ready for play in the early part of the summer and several improvement have been made to the 18 hole course.

Audit Rates Winners in G.T.R. League

In the second game of the weekly fixture at the Coliseum Rink, in the Grand Trunk Hockey League, between Audit Rates and the fast Auditor of Revenues teams, the Rates, through their newcomer, Howard, furnished one of the most thrilling exhibitions of hockey for the season, when he battled his way through the herculean Revenue's defence and drew out the invincible McCabe, and scored the only and winning goal of the night in the first few minutes of the first period. From then, until the finish, Rates went at it with hammer and tongs determined to maintain the lead given them, in which they were successful. There was much rejoicing in the Rates' camp when the referee blew the final blast for cessation of hostilities.

Howard, Beechy and Merrigan played a wonderful game for Rates, while Stitt and O'Keefe were easily the pick of the Revenues' team. Referee Putman handled the game in big league style, it being kept clean throughout.

Arrangements are also under way to take an all-star aggregation to play an exhibition game with the fast Cornwall team in the near future. McGowan Heads the Pro Skaters

LAKE PLACID, N.Y., Feb. 19.—Everett McGowan, of St. Paul, held a five-point lead at the end of the first day's skating for the American professional speed skating championship yesterday. McGowan had a total of sixty points and Ed. Lamy, of Saranac Lake, and Arthur Staff, of Chicago, each had fifty-five.

Brennan Defeated Soldier Boxer

NEW YORK, Feb. 19. — Bill Brennan, the Chicago heavyweight, defeated Bob Martin, of West Virginia, who holds the A. E. F. championship in that class, in a fifteen-round bout at the Madison Square Garden. The bout went the limit and the judges agreed on Brennan as the winner.

The former soldier, although beaten, gave a very good account of himself. Inexperience in the ring, combined with the ineffective use of his left hand, was largely responsible for his defeat.

PRO. BOXING

Willie Herman steps from the preliminary stage to the feature bout. He has been fighting around here for some time in six round fistic encounters, but now he is to fight in a fifteen period mill on Monday night at Troy, New York. Herman, who has been training hard of late is feeling in fine shape and expects to make an impression in "the place where half the boxers come from."

NEWYORK, Feb. 19.—Jimmy Wilde, world flyweight champion, is returning to the United States in the near future, according to a letter received here. He will doubtless seek a match with Joe Lynch for the bantamweight title. Matches with Abe Goldstein, Patsy Wallace and others are also in prospect.

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—Billy Defoe, of St. Paul, and Sam Sieger, of New York, boxed fifteen rounds to a draw at Madison Square Garden.

A ten round bout between Lieut. Earl Baird, of Seattle, and Freddy Jacks, of Brooklyn, was decided a draw by the referee. Each weighed 127 pounds.

"Young" Green's next opponent will not be "Midget" Smith after all, for the Panama battler has a New York engagement the day before he is scheduled to arrive here. On this account his meeting with the local youngster is postponed. In Smith's place O'Gatty, a New York featherweight will be brought on here for Green's next fight.

THE FATE OF INTERNATIONAL LEAGUE BASEBALL FOR MONTREAL HAS BEEN DECIDED TODAY

Frank Shaughnessy received a wire from Akron last night stating that his offer for the Akron franchise had been accepted. This means that Montreal will definitely be in the International league this summer. The news came as a surprise as Akron had already announced that they would remain in the league. It is understood that the offer made by the local club was of such magnitude that it was more profitable for the American city to sell its franchise than to try and make the club pay in a town where baseball had not been carried off successfully last summer.

Now that a franchise has been secured for this city, in the International league, work will be commenced at once getting a first class team together and in training. As the training season will open in the South within the next month there will have to be some quick work done by the manager of the club.

The club is backed-by some of the most influential citizens of Montreal and they intend to have a team that will not take second place to anything in the league. With Frank Shaughnessy at the helm, the team should not suffer from poor management and it has been announced that money will not be spared in collecting an aggregation of topnotchers to play for the club. It is estimated that it will take over one-hundred thousand dollars to place the team on the field this year.

Atwater park has practically been abandoned as a possibility for the club grounds owing to the fact that it is impossible to play games there on Sunday. It is expected that some suitable grounds will be secured in a central location where the team will be able to play every day of the week. The management of the club announced that accommodation for crowds much larger than ever attended the game at the old park will be provided this summer. Work will be commenced on the stands and clubhouse as soon as possible.

There were scarcely any players of any ability given to Montreal with the franchise and an entirely new team will have to be formed. Frank Shaughnessy has been in communication with managers of many of the big league clubs, with whom he is personally acquainted, and feels that he will be able to secure enough first class men from their teams to form a winning outfit.

As an evidence of the popularity of the sport in this city, it is stated that applications have already been made for reservations for the season in the new ball park to be constructed.

McGILL EARNED RIGHT TO PLAY IN CITY LEAGUE FINALS BY DEFEATING THE SHAMROCKS LAST NIGHT

Old McGill was "all right" again last night when the college team defeated Shamrocks by 7 to 5 score. The hard working outfit from the Sherbrooke street institution took the offensive at the opening of the game and they did not let up on the green-shirts throughout the full sixty minutes. The Shamrock team made a spurt in the last period when they scored two goals in succession but they lost any chance they had of winning the game when three players were sent to the penalty bench in succession for dirty work.

The games on Thursday and again last night should teach amateur teams the folly of trying any rough work, as penalties figured prominently in the results of both games. It is not too much to say, however, that McGill would have won no matter what mode of play the Shamrock team adopted, as they outplayed them on the offensive and held a large margin as far as defensive work was concerned.

Flanagan and Gallery took turns at bottling up Desbiens so that he was practically useless for the Shamrocks and the rest of the forward line was not of sufficient quality to cope with McGill. Mallen did a horse's share of the work for his team and played a clean game, but could not make up for the deficiencies of the rest of outfit, especially of the defence whose chief object seemed to be to wear down the McGill men by cross-checking and heavy-bodying. In the last period, Musgrove drew a penalty for bodying Cully headlong into the boards so viciously that the big defence man nearly went out for the count. While one defence player was serving a penalty Spriggins gave Behan a bad cut over the head with his stick when the little forward was trying to work his way in on the nets.

Cully was the most effective man on the McGill team. He scored three goals himself by boring through the defence on individual rushes and blocked so effectively that the Shamrock men were unable to get through. Flanagan showed some sensational stickhandling when he scored the first two goals for McGill on individual play, while Dineen, Gallery, Anderson, and Behan all played stellar games. Lukeman made some pretty saves when his team had blown up, while Stenson's work, in the nets for McGill, was spectacular if not as safe as that of the opposing goaler.

McGill secured a two goal lead in the first part of the first period when Flanagan went through twice. His tallies had come after McGill had held the edge on the play but were unable to get anything past the goaler. Mallen put in the first tally for Shamrocks towards the end of the first period, when he picked up a loose puck from a rebound and put it behind Stenson.

McGill again outscored their opponents in the second period when they secured three goals to one for their opponents. Behan went through for the first after a pretty display of stickhandling and Shink scored the only goal for Shamrocks when he put a pretty shot past Stenson from the side. Flanagan came back in thirty seconds for another goal and Cully went through once again on a lone rush to beat out the goaler.

Shamrocks outplayed McGill by a wide margin in the early part of the final twenty minutes and, for a short time, Stenson was bombarded with shots. Campbell drove in a hard shot from the side after a few minutes of play and things looked bright for his team when Spriggins poked the rubber just inside the posts from a scramble in front of the nets. Desbiens scored the only other goal for Shamrocks, while Cully added two more tallies to his scoring list before the game ended.

On the play last night, McGill should have an edge on Nationals on Monday night in the final play-off, but they will have a harder man to score on when they try to put the rubber past Gervais in the Frenchmen's nets. Teams and summary:

WINTER CLUB FIGURE SKATING RESULTS

The annual figure skating competitions for the members of the Winter Club, Montreal's exclusive skating organization, began yesterday.

The Junior and Intermediates had their innings last evening, and the Senior Singles, and Connaught Cup Fours will be held on Monday.

The results last night were:

Juniors — Miss Margaret Rawlings, first; Master Miller Rawlings, second.

Intermediates — Miss Ruth Wilson, first; Miss D. Molson, second.

The competition in the intermediate class was so close, that the victory was only gained by fractions of points.

Queens intermediates defeated the McGill seconds at the Mount Royal Arena yesterday afternoon by a 3-0 score. The Presbyterians are a fast team and backchecked so effectively that they did not give the local college players a chance to get started. In the first period Queen's secured one goal and added two more in the final session, the second period going scoreless. From the showing made yesterday the Queen's intermediates should be able to hand out a defeat to their senior squad.

WELL-KNOWN LADY SWIMMER MARRIED

Word has just reached Montreal swimming circles that Mrs. Aird has been married at Sedro Wild, Washington, to Patt. Soren, of Hamilton, Wash. Mrs. Aird, who is now Mrs. P. Soren, will be remembered as a polo player of note, as well as a diver, swimmer and an exponent of life saving methods. Mrs. Soren has the distinction of being the mother of a large family of expert aquatic stars. Her boys and girls, together with herself, all took an active part in the patriotic meets which were held here during the big war.

BOSTON DEFIES RULING C.A.H.A. ABOUT DUFRESNE

BOSTON, Mass., Feb. 19 (Star Special).—The following telegram was sent from here:

"W. A. Hewitt, chairman of Ontario Hockey Association."

The reply sent to Hewitt follows:

"Boston Arena has no control over hockey. Dufresne was barred from game last night because Haddock notified Kanaly that Dufresne was ineligible. Kanaly finds Dufresne held card last year in Eastern Hockey Association. If he obtains a card from Haddock, we have no power to stop his playing. Your threat to outlaw Boston Arena appears ill-advised. If the Aura Lees come to Boston they will play against only registered amateurs in the United States Amateur Hockey Association. (Signed.)

Can. Vickers' Cricket Club to Hold Dance

The Canadian Vickers Cricket Club will hold a Whist Drive and Dance at the C.P.R. Hall, 1009 Mount Royal Ave. On Friday evening next Feb. 25 at 7.30 p.m. It is hoped that a good number will turn out at the second annual gathering of this kind and a most enjoyable evening is assured.

During the night the presentation of prizes to the winners of batting and bowling averages for the past season will take place.

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—(United News) Bill Brennan, the Chicago heavyweight, who held Jack Dempsey for 12 rounds recently, was awarded the judge's verdict over Bob Martin, Inter-Allied and A. E. F. heavyweight champion at the end of fifteen rounds at Madison Square Garden Friday night.

IF CANADIANS STAY ON THE ICE AND PLAY THEIR BEST VICTORY OUGHT TO BE THEIRS TONIGHT

The team that stays on the ice ought to have the best chance this evening at the Mount Royal Arena.

Canadiens have been warned of this, and against going up in the air.

Ottawas, in view of the strange actions they indulged in during their last appearance here, are likely to be on their best behaviour, but there are one or two on the team who are famous for their taunting "asides" to opposing players, and their tricky way of breaking the rules with the butt-end of the stick, or the curve at the other end, without the referee seeing them, and these are the particular people Canadiens must guard themselves against.

If the home team keep their tempers, and play their best there is no reason why Montreal should not be treated to a play-off game for the season's championship.

The Ottawas have been practicing under wraps this week and it will be only when they are on the ice for the first five minutes, that anyone will be able to figure how good they really are.

Harvey Sproule, who understands the game, and the tricks and twists of the average player thoroughly will be the referee.

The teams will line up as follows, with the number of substitutes in favor of Canadiens.

Canadiens.		Ottawa.
Vezina	goal	Benedict
Corbeau	point	Gerard
Mummary	cover point	Boucher
Berlinguette	right wing	Darragh
Lalonde	centre	Nighbor

Substitutes—Canadien: Arbour, Wilson and Odie Cleghorn; Ottawa, Bruce and McKell.

M'GILL BOXERS WON TWO BOUTS IN OTTAWA

OTTAWA, Feb. 19. — McGill boxers won two bouts and local fighters three in the Inter-City contests here last night. The largest attendance of the season witnessed the program.

Brewer, of McGill, a clean hitter and clever fighter, made a big hit with the fans and well deserved the decision he received over Probel, of the Ottawa Firemen.

Dogerty, of the Fire Fighters was too aggressive for Mirsky of McGill, having a decided advantage of every round.

Edelburg, of McGill won the decision over Dore, of Ottawa on a foul in the second round. The fight had been fairly even until Dore accidently struck too low.

Nichol, of St. Pats, Ottawa, was awarded the decision over Schakell, of McGill, although many of the fans thought the Montreal man was at least as good as Nichol and gave the visitor a great ovasion.

The main bout, that of Badger, of McGill against Connell, of Ottawa had a very unsatisfactory ending. Badger claimed a foul in the first round and was given a rest to recover in the second round he claimed another foul and left the ring. Connell was awarded the decision.

DIED FROM EXHAUSTION.

BROOKFIELD, Mo., Feb. 19. — Overexertion during a bout here caused the death of Harry Hamilton, a local lightweight boxer, a coroner's jury found yesterday. Hamilton was knocked out.

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

By JAMES J. MONTAGUE

THE PURITANS.

Samuel Elliott of Boston says that the Puritans were merely vulgar, ignorant uneducated men.

We learn with a pang of regret,
Which cuts to our innermost quicks,
That the men of the Mayflower set
Were merely a parcel of hicks.
Though History pictures the Puritans' lives
As steeped in a roseate glamour,
The fact has come out that they ate with their knives
And used the most terrible grammar.

The men, when they'd dug out the rocks
That the soil they had cleared might be tilled,
Would sit round the house in their socks
And brag of the bears they had killed.
They never disputed as smart people do
On Gilbert K. Chesterton's fallacies;
They never read Main Street, and nothing they knew
Of Bergson or psychoanalysis.

If Bradford came back here today,
And happened by curious glance,
To go to a gilded cafe
On the night of a Puritan Dance,
A bouncer of wiry and muscular build
Would pick up a handy decanter,
And the founder and head of the Puritan guild,
Would land on the car tracks instanter.

A small town and commonplace lot,
The Pilgrims lacked culture and charm,
Like thousands of Reubens we've got
On many a back county farm.
It's hard to conceive how they ever won out,
Their manners, you'd think would forbid it;
And yet it's conceded, beyond any doubt,
That somehow or other they did it.

LOOKS LIKE POLITICS.

MEDAL WINNERS IN CANADA FOR JANUARY SHOOTS

HARTFORD, Conn., Feb. 19.—Peter Carney, shooting expert, writes: More than 2,000 boys and girls won medals in the Winchester Junior Rifle Corps competition in the United States and Canada during the month of January. These medals went into every state and the Canadian provinces. Last year 16,432 medals were awarded to boys and girls for proficiency in marksmanship, but with its 76,000 members, it is more than likely twice that number of medals will be awarded in 1921.

The highest award is an expert medal. 10 of these were won in January by these boys: Henry Buck, Hartford, Conn.; Milton Schmidt, Evanston, Ill.; Emil Malquist, Larchmont, N.Y.; William Galloway, London, Ont.; Bennett Aubrey, Fresno, Cal.; Irving Johnson, Hadley, Kans.; Lawrence Heath, Whitewater, Wis.; Ernest Hewitt, Evanston, Ill.; Louis La Garde, Washington, D.C.; John Kaylor, Juniata, Pa.

GAME PROTESTED.

BOSTON, Feb. 18.—The Game in which Boston Athletic Association won the championship of the eastern section of the United States Amateur Hockey League last night was protested today by Captain Raymond Skilton of the Shoe Trades Club. The protest was based on the debarment of George Dufresne, a Canadian member of the Shoe Trades team, who had failed to establish his amateur status, and on a delay of more than two minutes to allow a Boston A. A. player to obtain treatment for an injury. Boston won the game after two ten minute overtime periods, 5 to 3.

THE PASSING HOUR

The other day Jones heard a conundrum and decided to try it on his wife.

"Do you know why I am like a mule?" he asked her when he got home.

"No," she replied promptly. "I know you are, but I don't know why you are."

Pat O'Dowd met Mike Casey coming out of the local police court.

"Oi, had a most illigant toime on Saturday, O'Dowd —sure 'twas the toime av me loife!"

"Indeed, Casey, and how was that?"

"Why, Oi was at the Blue Pig and divil a thing do I remimber after about 7.30."

"But if ye can't remimber anything, Mike, how do ye know that ye had such an illigant toime?"

"How do Oi know?" repeated Casey. "Well, Oi've just overheard a dirthy policeman telling the magistrate all about it!"

Mrs. Dolan always liked to give her husband a little present at Christmas and as she had given him a watch she wished to buy him a chain. But, being short of cash, she didn't know how to get it for him.

However, she thought of her hair and, calling on a hairdresser, offered to sell it to him. He paid her $25, and, with her head close-cropped, she returned home with the chain.

When Pat came home he got a fright. She told him her experience and handed him the chain, with the usual good wishes.

"Isn' that too bad, now!" exclaimed Pat. "Why I've just pawned the watch to buy you a pair of side combs."

WALL ST. CONDITIONS---PAPER STOCKS CREATE LOCAL STIR

BREAK IN ABITIBI UNSETTLING FACTOR AMONG PAPER STOCKS AND WHOLE LIST SHOWED NERVOUSNESS

The past week in the local market was essentially a nervous and uncertain one. Several influences developed in the period, and might have proven seriously troublesome to the market had not prices been pretty well deflated.

Early in the week the assignment of one brokerage house set the Street to thinking, but when it was learned that there was little involved in the matter which could have much market effect, a crisis, if not serious selling, was averted.

Later came the liquidation in Abitibi. This selling forced the price of the issue down sharply and the decline extended to about 10 points on Friday morning. From there it rallied a few points, however. Brompton later came in for some selling, with the result that this issue was also forced down, but at the lower level seemed to be receiving support. Other paper issues were depressed for a time, but the lower levels always seemed attractive to buyers.

The reduction of the price of export paper for the second quarter of 1921 seemed to have little effect. In fact, when it was realized that this second-quarter price is still above the average received in 1920, the price reduction seemed to clear the air and remove much uncertainty.

Other issues on the market were of divided trends. The utilities were less active this week, but, for the most part, maintained fairly well their recent high prices. Industrials showed little activity. Dominion Steel was one feature, falling from above 48 to 46¼ at last night's close. Other issues were about steady, with here and there a decline to be noted. The break which occurred in Steamships and carried the price of the issues down sharply ended left the issues steady at slightly better than the low points on the break.

There seems to have been a general improvement in sentiment during the past week, and while this is not directly reflected in the market, underlying sentiment seems to be making its way to the surface, and with the removal of many overhanging factors this condition may become still more evident.

As a general thing, New York market has been of a dull nature, with little of a kind to unsettle conditions here.

Prices on the local market for the past week and up to Friday's close ranged as follows:—

MARKING TIME FOR INCOMING OF MR. HARDING

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—(By Walter H. Brown. Copyright.) — The commercial, financial, industrial and political world all seem to be marking time until after the inauguration of President Harding on March 4. It seems an unnecessarily long time to wait between the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, and the fourth of March for the mandate of the people to go into effect. The retiring administration does not care to do much, and the policy of the new administration is only tentatively announced. It is a relic of the old stage coach days when ample time had to be allowed for the delays and uncertainties of travel.

Since amending the constitution has now gotten to be a habit, it might be just as well to bring the business of electing a President up to date by abolishing the electoral college which is now a mere matter of form, and electing the President by direct vote of the people, to say nothing of making the date of inauguration more nearly coincide with the date of election. The new Congress does not hold a regular session for more than a year after it is elected, although in recent times it has been pretty regularly called into special session.

These changes would certainly make it easier for business, especially where there is a change in party. No one really expects that inauguration day will bring the millenium, but it is likely to furnish a new starting point, especially if President Harding's inaugural address carries a constructive note. The country has been going along without leadership too long a time, and the business interests of the country have turned to Harding in the expectation that he will furnish that leadership. President Wilson's long absences from the country, and his later physical breakdown, wholly apart from the antagonism existing between him and Congress, have muddled things up to an extent that has not only deranged domestic business, but has affected conditions in Europe to a degree that no one can estimate. No one will deny that if the United States has determined upon a foreign policy in which there had been an accord with the other powers, many of the economic problems of Europe would at least be presenting themselves at this time in much simpler form.

As to our immediate domestic problems, the depression in business overshadows all else. Some insist on calling it a panic. It is not a panic, and has none of the earmarks of a panic. There has been a crisis, but there has been no floundering and loss of reason. The whole proposition has been clearly understood from the first. The business world knew what it was in for, and the cause that led up to it. Hence, there was an effort to adjust itself to it from the outset. Everybody knew what had to be done to meet it. It has been a period of depression—not of excitement—depression, either. The amount of unemployment has been singularly small in comparison with those still at work. The resumption of employment has come about in many lines much faster than expected. There are still many weak spots, points where it cannot be noted that the tide has turned, but it does not need unusual vision to note that the main current has already set in the other direction, even if it is as yet moving very slowly.

In the textile trades the improvement is distinctly noticeable, and re-employment has proceeded to a point where the prediction is now confidently made that the mills will be running to full capacity by summer. This is as it should be. There are already evidences that the retail trade is taking hold in good shape, and there has been a long enough interval of non-buying to leave stocks in many lines. Many retailers have not yet placed their orders for summer goods, and some are even behind with their spring purchases. It may be, and probably will be, that the public will this year make its purchases on a more conservative basis, but even so, the manufacturing end is still far behind where it ought to be. Manufacturers have not been inclined to take chances by anticipating orders, and have been just as careful in waiting for an assured outlet as the retailers have been, and still are, with respect to public buying.

The steel trade is furnishing the most anxiety just now, although those who are capable of taking a long range view realize that the present unsettlement of prices is merely a transitory period. The independents have cut prices and wages, and have succeeded in stimulating a little more business, but not to the extent expected. In the meantime the United States Steel Corporation has held steadily to its policy, and has reduced neither prices nor wages. It is in most of its plants operating to 80 per cent of its capacity, whereas the independents in many instances are either closed down altogether or are not running to more than 25 per cent of capacity. It is a vindication of the policy of the steel corporation in maintaining its price schedule while the independents were asking premiums during the boom. They have unfilled orders enough on hand to run at a capacity for another six months, a sufficient period to allow for consideration recovery in business condition.

The annual report of the Federal Reserve Board just made public is a most encouraging document from the present point of view. While we think we have been rather badly off the report points out that we are far better off, economically and financially than the other countries. The expansion of the total volume of currency has been much less than in other countries and that increase in total circulation has been far less than in other countries, except Spain, Japan, Sweden, Holland, Denmark and Switzerland. The foreign trade of the United States has been maintained on a higher and more stable level than any other country. Prices in the United States have been relatively lower than in other countries, while recent declines have been less drastic. Nevertheless the Board warns that "the country's expenditures during the war and the very profound modifications which have occurred in its economic system have had such far-reaching effects as to make it imperative that the utmost care be taken to preserve our credit and protect the basis of our prosperity if we are to avoid the existing conditions which prevail in other countries. Upon the United States in large measure, the solvency and financial stability of many other countries depend. The present is not a time for resorting to empirical remedies, which merely deaden unpleasant sensations temporarily, and which, instead of restoring the patient to health, undermine his health and destroy his vitality."

The responsibility of the United States to the rest of the world is understood by financiers and by economists and by statesmen of whom we have altogether too few in Congress.

JITNEY EXODUS IS RAPID UNDER REGULATIONS

Development of jitney regulation in American cities has been accompanied by exodus from the competitive transportation field of a great number of jitneys. At present there are estimated by reputable sources to be only 2,000 to 3,000 jitneys operating in the U.S., approximately three-fourths of which are charging fares in excess of five cents.

As illustrative of disappearance of the jitney, the following figures, taken at random for different sections, are significant:

	1915.	At present.
Philadelphia, Pa.	1,000	75
Milwaukee, Wis.	1,200	27
San Francisco, Cal.	650	280
Providence, R.I.	900	90
Terre Haute, Ind.	200	40
Houston, Tex.	800	100
Spokane, Wash.	700	5

The jitney's disappearance has been almost as rapid as its entrance.

The jitney has proved itself to be nothing more than a parasite, and economically unsound as a means of supplying adequate urban transportation.

This competition has been very expensive for many communities and traction companies, and it is well to record briefly what this costly experiment has taught. The conclusions are summarized as follows:

1.—That street railway service and jitney or bus service cannot both exist for any length of time as competitors in the same field.

2.—That with jitney or bus competition the whole or a large part of a community pays a higher fare than would be necessary if the total traffic were handled by the street railway company.

3.—That when operated under conditions similar to the street railways, the jitney cannot meet the transportation requirements of a community as satisfactorily or as cheaply as the street railways.

4.—That the jitney or bus cannot supplant the street railway as a means of supplying urban transportation.

It will undoubtedly help to a clear understanding of the significance of the above conclusions if they are further amplified.

It must be admitted that with a number of jitneys operating so as to take the cream of the street railway company's traffic without sharing the latter's burdens, the revenue of the street railway company will be greatly reduced. If the street railway is to continue to function, this deficit must be paid by the remainder of the people who ride in the cars, thereby resulting in most cases in a fare of from one to two cents higher than would be necessary if the street railway handled the total traffic of the community.

COAL EXPORTED FROM BRITAIN HAD 1920 GAIN

Great Britain's coal exports in 1920, exclusive of bunkers, coke and patent fuel, were valued at £99,627,146. This sum was £16,500,000 greater than the value of corresponding exports in 1919, and £49,000,000 above the value of coal exports in 1913. In tonnage exported, however, returns for 1920 were almost one-third less than in 1919, and equalled only about one-third of the total for 1913.

The official figures in detail, which have just been received by the Bankers' Trust Company, of New York, from its English Information Service, are as follows:

BRITISH COAL EXPORTS.
(000 Omitted.)

Tons	73,400	35,249	24,931
Value	£50,727	£83,213	£99,627

Including bunkers, coke and patent fuel, the exports in 1920 were 42,703,255 tons. The corresponding figures for 1919 and 1913 are 50,471,405 tons and 97,712,139 tons respectively. In amount of coke and patent fuel, 1920 exports exceeded those of 1913 and 1919. Bunker exports were also 1,800,000 tons in excess of corresponding exports in 1919, but were 7,000,000 tons less than in 1913.

Export statistics by months show that January led in 1920 with an export tonnage of 3, 358,572 tons. Coal exports fell off markedly after the first quarter and reached a low level, for the year, of 1,360,724 tons in November in the wake of the coal strike. Increased coal output thereafter was followed by a jump in exports to 2,302,076 tons in December. The months which had the lowest exports, October and November, corresponded with the months having the lowest output.

The official figures indicate that Great Britain shipped 8,300,000 tons less coal to European countries in 1920 than in 1919, and 37,200,000 tons less than in 1913. Germany and Belgium were the only countries receiving a larger tonnage than in 1919. Shipments to France dropped from 16,200,000 in 1919 to 11,700,000 tons last year, but the latter figure was not far below the total of British exports to France in 1913.

There was a decrease of more than 400,000 tons in British coal exports to South American countries last year compared to 1919, and over 6,000,000 tons compared to 1913.

PROSPERITY IS NOW LOOKED FOR BY GOLD MINES

PORCUPINE, Feb. 19.—(Star Special)—All evidence points to general prosperity in the gold mining districts of Northern Ontario. In an interview with A. P. Brigham, the representative of The Star was informed that at last the gold mines were beginning to emerge from the adverse conditions caused by the recent war. Mr. Brigham declared the power shortage was still hampering activity, but this would be relieved with the spring break-up which is now not far off. The proposed increase in provincial taxation, he referred to as one of the adverse factors. Labor is abundant in the Porcupine district, it being necessary to turn away as many as a hundred men in a single day from one of the leading mines. Following the spring break-up an additional one thousand men will be added to present working forces in the Porcupine camp alone, while Kirkland Lake will add at least three hundred to the present number.

For the last half of the current year, the output of gold promises to utterly eclipse all previous records in Ontario's history. Indeed, with the exception of a few banner years, the last half of this year promises to set a higher record than the yearly output heretofore.

It has been reported this week that the McIntyre-Porcupine is making preparations to proceed with the installation of additional milling equipment, and increase its mill so as to treat at least 1,000 tons of ore daily.

All is in readiness to launch out into operations at full capacity at the Dome Mines just as soon as the break-up comes. The underground developments are highly favorable, and the enterprise is living up to expectations which promise to elevate the mine to a position where it may ultimately approach the Hollinger Consolidated for place of leadership. The low capitalization on the Dome, namely, 476,000 issued shares, makes possible a high percentage of net profit. For instance, what is equal to 13 per cent on the Hollinger Consolidated, would amount to about 66 per cent on the Dome.

For the year ended November 30th last, the Lake Shore mine at Kirkland Lake had an income of $528,023.38. Operating expenses amounted to $236,792.62. Administration and depreciation brought the total deductions up to $293,035.79. Of the balance, $130,000 was written off for exhaustion and war taxes, leaving $104,-992.54 to be carried to surplus.

FOREIGN BUTTER FORCING PRICES LOWER AT N.Y.

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—1921.—The New York market is almost overwhelmed by the great quantities of butter coming here, and prices have been dropping rapidly during the past month. Foreign butter is helping to grease the toboggan, making it easier to slip from high to lower prices. In discussing the effects of competition from abroad a writer in the "Produce Review," speaking to creamery men, says:

"The first thing that comes into one's mind is foreign butter and what a tremendous influence it has had on our market all the fall and winter. Forgetting the large quantities that came here last summer, much of which was carried in the freezers here for months, the importations in the four months from September 1 to January 1, were 45,479 casks, 31,048 boxes and 205 tubs, a total weight of approximately 6,843,156 lbs.

BANKING DRIVE AIMS TO SECURE GERMAN TRADE

NEW YORK, Feb. 19. — (United News.) — Paul M. Warburg, formerly chairman of the federal reserve board at Washington, has announced the organization of the International Acceptance Bank, Inc., which will "devote itself primarily to financing America's foreign commerce and world trade."

Revealing as its officers and members of its board of directors some of the leading financiers and business men of the country, the new institution embodies foreign banking connections which would seem to assure a tremendous drive for international trade.

At the same time it is learned that Max Warburg, a brother to Paul N. Warburg, has organized a similar institution at Hamburg, Germany, which would imply future Americo-German trade relations of large proportions.

In the announcement of the new banking house Sunday night it was explained that there was no intention of competing with the $100,000,000 Foreign Trade Finance Corporation now in the process of organization. The latter, it was explained, contemplates the issue of debentures while the International Acceptance Bank primarily will do its business by the granting of acceptance credits and has no power to issue debentures. Nevertheless the new bank is the first completed organization aiming at support of U. S. firms in the markets of the world.

The new bank will be incorporated with a fully subscribed capital of $10,000,000 in common stock, $250,000 in special stock and a subscribed surplus of $5,000,000. Warburg is to be the chairman of the board, P. A. Goodhue, vice-president of the First National Bank of Boston, being president, and P. J. Vogel, of the Chase National Bank, N.Y., and E. W. Davenport, of the First National Corporation, N.Y., vice presidents.

American stock holders will maintain a two-thirds control over the institution while a third of the stock has been subscribed to by foreign interests, among them the Nederlandsche Handel-Maatschappij of Amsterdam, the Swiss Bank corporation of Basle, N. M. Rothschilds & Sons, of London, the Credit Suisse of Zurich and others. In France the new bank will work in close co-operation with the French-American Banking corporation and the Comptoir Nationale d'Escompte de Paris.

There will be an European advisory council made up of stock-holding banks and firms, which will give the American officers the benefit of their counsel and co-operation.

In addition to the First National Bank of Boston, which is one of the three leading stockholders in the new bank, there are represented on the stock list, the Old Colony Trust Company of Boston, First National Bank of Birmingham, Alta., First National of Chicago, the Cleveland Trust Company, Fidelity National Bank and Trust Company of Kansas City, Mo., First National of Los Angeles, Franklin National of Philadelphia, First National of Portland, Ore., Wells-Fargo Nevada National of San Francisco and the Seattle, Wash., National Bank, in addition to New York, Detroit, Providence and St. Louis institutions.

The organizers and first board of directors of the new bank include Newcomb Carlton, Walter E. Frew, C. B. Seger, L. N. Shearman, William Skinner, Hans C. Sonne, Felix M. Warburg and Paul M. Warburg, all of New York; E. W. Clark, Detroit; F. H. Goff, Cleveland; F. A. Goodhue, Robert F. Herrick, Philip Stockton and D. G. Wing, of Boston; J. R. McAllister, Philadelphia and Thomas West, Jr., of Providence.

Because of the family connection between Warburg and his brother, Max, of Hamburg, exporters and other business interests here, see in the new bank a move designed, indirectly at least, to assure America getting the jump on the most-to-be-desired trade of Germany. It will be recalled that it was this same family tie that caused Warburg, during the war to voluntarily resign from the Federal Reserve board giving as his reason a desire not to embarrass President Wilson. The President, at the time, accepted the resignation with a glowing tribute to Warburg's work and undoubted loyalty.

BRITISH TRADE RECOVERY SEEN IN PORT RECORDS

Official figures of the Board of Trade covering the entrance and clearance of vessels with cargo at British ports in 1920, show an increase of nine million tons net over similar returns for the year 1919, and a gain of almost 24 million tons over the figures for the year 1917. Details of British port recovery from war-time depression are disclosed by statistics, which have just been received by the Foreign Information Department of the Bankers Trust Company, of New York, as follows:

BRITISH SHIPPING (FOREIGN TRADE).

Net tonnage, all vessels with cargo.
(000,000 omitted.)

	1917	1918	1919	1920	1913
Entered ..	23.2	23.2	29.6	36.5	49.0
Cleared ..	26.1	22.7	34.5	36.6	67.8
	49.3	45.9	64.1	73.1	116.8

Of the total entrance and clearances in 1920, approximately 40 million tons were British ships, compared to 44 million tons in 1919; 36 million tons in 1917, and 72 million tons in 1913.

Norwegian tonnage again led the foreign entrances and clearances in British ports in 1920, with American tonnage second. But United States shipping made the greater gain in the year. The comparative figures are: Norway, 1920, 4,750,476 tons; 1919, 4,490,579 tons; United States, 1920, 3,599,304 tons; 1919, 2,234,518 tons. American tonnage with cargo in British ports in 1918 was only 613,022 tons, while Norway entered and cleared more than 3¼ million tons.

German entrance and clearances with cargo totaled 450,494 tons in 1920, compared to 11,004 tons in 1919.

In value of foreign trade Liverpool, at the end of 1919, was again the leading British port. The official figures show, however, that London made great gains over 1918. The returns are:

	1919	1918
Liverpool	£627,966,112	£632,907,552
London.. ..	810,864,980	541,709,302

The totals represent all imports and exports.

EARNINGS—PURPOSE OF ISSUE—MANAGEMENT

Detailed statement indicates earnings of over $7.00 per share on the Common Stock, the conservatism of which can be judged best by the fact that other hotels in the United Chain are paying from 10% to 25% on their Common Stock.

To meet the urgent demand on the part of the residents, transportation and other business interests of Montreal, commercial travellers and tourists, it is proposed to construct upon the most desirable site in the city, a modern fire proof hotel of 1,036 rooms. This hotel—The Mount Royal—will be operated as a link in the chain of twenty hotels in Canada and the United States which are managed by the United Hotels Company of America. The personnel of the local Board of Directors together with the fact that "The Mount Royal" will be operated by the United Hotels Company of America insures its success.

Interim certificate will be issued by the Montreal Trust Company pending delivery of definitive Debentures. Application will be made to list the Preferred and Common Shares on the Montreal and Toronto Stock Exchanges.

ALARM OVER EGYPT'S COTTON INDUSTRIES

CAIRO, Feb. 19.—Alarm over the present situation of Egypt's cotton growing industry is expressed in a memorandum to the Council of Ministers from the cotton research committee. Should the diminution in the yield of cotton continue, the committee says, the result would be a veritable disaster for Egypt.

It was just over 100 years ago that Mohammed Ali introduced the cotton plant into Egypt, and the value of the crop steadily increased every year until last year, when it passed the sum of £100,000,000. In spite of all efforts, however, the return per feddan (1¼ acres) has in the past twenty years constantly diminished. Although there has been a considerable increase in the area under cultivation, it is stated, the total yield last year was less than it was ten years ago. It was only the exceptional prices ruling in 1920 that produced the record value of the crop. Pointing out the difficulties met with in grappling with the problem, the committee declares that during nine years the administration has been confined to no fewer than seven Ministers and, therefore, it is not surprising there had been no continuity in the study of the problem.

CANADA WATCHING FOR TRADE-NAME ADOPTION

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—Doubt having arisen among manufacturers as to the term of the Canadian Customs Act relating to the importation of goods bearing a trade-mark name identical with the name of a place used to describe goods produced in the United Kingdom, Canada, or any other British country, the jewelry and silverware division of the Bush Terminal Sales Co. inquired of the Dominion Customs Department regarding the wording and interpretation of theAct.

In this case the question was whether American-made Sheffield silver, bearing the trade-mark "Sheffield, made in U.S.A.," would be admissible to Canada. It was found that silver thus marked would be admissible, while American-made goods bearing the name "Sheffield," but not stamped with the words "made in U.S.A.," would be prohibited entrance to Canada.

As a general rule there is no requirement in the Canadian law that goods shipped into Canada shall bear thereon any indication of the foreign country of origin. An exception to this is to be recorded in the instance given, where the foreign-made goods bear the name of a British place without indicating that the goods are not made in British territory.

A letter from R. R. Sarrow, of the Commission of Customs of Ottawa, states in effect, that any goods manufactured in any foreign State or country which bear any name or trademark of any manufacturer, dealer or trader, in the United Kingdom, or in Canada, or in any other British country, unless such name or trade-mark is accompanied by a definite indication of the foreign state or country in which the goods were made or produced, would be forfeited.

What is your dollar worth?

45 cents or 121 cents?

The answer depends entirely upon what you buy.

The dollar of 1914 will purchase only about 45 cents' worth of to-day's merchandise. The dollar of 1914 would purchase about 88 cents' worth of bonds—to-day it will buy 121 cents' worth.

Bonds invariably rise in value as living becomes cheaper. To-day, when the cost of living is at its summit, you should invest to the limit in long-term bonds.

We will help you to seize this opportunity by means of our systematic investment plan. A small sum invested each month will start you on the road to independence.

PASSED DIVIDEND

Shareholders in the Nova Scotia Underwear Company received notice this week that the quarterly dividend of 7 per cent. on the cumulative preferred stock had been passed. The explanation given was that in view of the general slowing up of business which has resulted in greatly decreased demand for manufactured products, particularly in textile goods, and of the fact that the outlook for the present year cannot yet be determined because of delay on the part of buyers in making their customery commitments, the directors considered it essential in the intersts of shareholders to conserve the resources of the company by passing the dividend due on February 1.

Moderate Wool Demand With Prices Firm

BOSTON, Feb. 19.—The Commercial Bulletin says: "There has been a moderate demand for wool this week and prices are firmly maintained. The feature of the week's news is the clean-up of about 1,200 bags of noils by the American Woollen Company which are thought to be for overcoating purposes. The passage of the Emergency Tariff Bill by the Senate has made the market a little nervous, although the consensus of opinion is that the Bill will not become a law. Some orders sent abroad, however, have been recalled in consequence. "American competition has been less pronounced in the foreign primary markets and prices have sagged somewhat, especially in Australia. The goods market is cheerful, but not especially active."

Earnings - Purpose of Issue - Management

PURPOSE OF THIS ISSUE.

The Cosgrave Export Brewery Co., Limited, has been incorporated for the purpose of acquiring and operating the plant of the Cosgrave Brewery Co., Limited, of Toronto, one of the oldest Breweries in the Dominion of Canada.

The machinery is modern and the plant in general is up-to-date in all respects. A reliable estimate of the value of the land, buildings, machinery, and equipment as a going concern, is $1,500,000.

MANAGEMENT.

The Cosgrave Export Brewery Co., Limited, have secured the services of the late Master Brewer, his assistant, the Chief Engineer, and the necessary help of the old "Cosgrave Brewery Co., Limited." The Master Brewer was in full charge of the Brewery for the old Company for twenty-five years.

MARKET.

Owing to the shutting off of supplies from the U. S. A., there is an insistent demand for the products of this Company from Cuba, the West Indies, Central and South America, which is greatly in excess of the output of the plants operating in Canada.

Negotiations are now under way and will likely be concluded during the next few days, for the sale of the entire annual output to a New York exporting house under conditions most advantageous to this Company. In this way the Company will be relieved from all selling expenses and from the dangers of fluctuation in foreign exchange rates.

EARNINGS.

The ordinary output of the Brewery is 100,000 bbls. per year. Should the Company confine its operations entirely to Draught Beer, on which $2.00 per bbl. is a most conservative estimate of profit, it would show earnings equivalent to 20% on the stock.

It is expected that the actual output of the plant will considerably exceed 100,000 bbls. per year, in addition to which the Company is in a position to handle the bottle trade, for which the plant is fully equipped.

During the year 1913, which is taken as the last year of normal business, the old Company earned a net profit of $218,118.13 from local business. These earnings were made in the face of keen American competition in the bottle trade.

LOCATION.

The buildings of the Company are situated in the heart of the City of Toronto, with a frontage of 214 feet on Niagara Street, and depth of 291 feet on Clifford Street, and are readily accessible by the Company's trucks to all the railway and steamboat lines.

GENERAL SUMMARY.

Alterations now in progress at the Brewery are expected to be completed and the whole plant running smoothly by March 1st (1921).

There is a broad market for the Company's product in South America, Cuba, etc.

The operations are in charge of an experienced and efficient management.

The plant and equipment as a going concern show a large surplus over the entire capitalization.

There is no bond issue or preferred shares.

Legal details have been passed upon by Messrs. Vipond & Vipond, Barristers, Montreal.

The issue appeals to us as one of unusual attraction, in which the principal is amply secured, and on which actual earnings are likely to considerably exceed the estimated 20 per cent.

We offer the shares as an investment on which quick returns may reasonably be anticipated.

Application will be made in due course for the listing of the shares.

CANADIAN WOMEN ORGANIZING CLUB

Business and Professional Ladies Unite in Association at N.Y.

GOVERNOR'S BOMBS

Miller is Creating Consternation in Many Camps —Even Jersey

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—(From Our Own Correspondent.)— The Canadian Business and Professional Women's Club of New York is now an actuality. The Club was brought into being last week, at a meeting of organizers, when Mrs. K. Macauley was elected president, Dr. Mary Lee Edward, vice-president, and Miss Gertrude Graydon, secretary.

According to the constitution adopted, the object of the club is to promote social gatherings to further in any possible way the interests of Canadian women in the United States. There will be three classes of members: resident, non-resident, and associate. Women are eligible for membership who are Canadian born, or daughters of Canadian citizens, and actively engaged in business, or one of the professions.

For some time, the need of such an organization has been felt. A surprising number of Canadian women are engaged in business in New York, quite a lot of them in nursing, dentistry, etc., but heretofore there has been no institution through which they could get together. The Canadian Club, of course, has ladies' nights and ladies' auxiliaries. But strange as it may seem, all Canadian ladies in New York are not married, and the Canadian Club, with its handsomely appointed quarters in the Hotel Belmont is only for he-Canadians and their wives. It is hoped that the new organization will become more or less connected with the Canadian Club. For the time being it will meet monthly at the Belmont, but the charter members are looking forward to the time when its membership will be strong enough to warrant clubrooms exclusively devoted to the Canadian Business and Professional Women's Club of New York.

THOSE URIAH-HEAPY GENTS.

Few people who have visited New York fail to recall those Uriah-Heapy gents who glide out of doorways and whisper in one's ear that they are in a position to supply a three-dollar seat for that night's performance of "She Murdered Her Grandfather" for the modest sum of eight dollars. It can be readily realized, then, that no flags are being flown at half-mast, because a bill has been passed by the State Legislature making it a misdemeanor for any person to engage in sidewalk speculating in theatre tickets. For many years New York's theatre-going public has been subjected to piracy and highway robbery, when, failing to secure tickets at the box office, it has been compelled to go to a "hole-in-the-wall" speculator. Now the latter will either have to go out of business or get a license and conduct a legitimate agency whose service charge does not exceed fifty cents additional on each ticket.

Round about St. Patrick's Day the circus will come to Madison Square Garden, and after the "greatest show on earth" has departed, the old amphitheatre will be transformed beyond recognition. According to plans now well underway, the arena will be converted into a titanic swimming pool.

Despite its countless hotels, some of them large enough to house populations of small towns, New York is cramped for bedroom space. Unthinking visitors who bound into town on the spur of the moment, without reserving a room six months' ahead, often find themselves compelled to spend the night riding up and down in the subway. It only costs a nickel, to be sure, but the seats are hard.

In an endeavor to relieve the situation somewhat, the Hotel Plaza is to have a seventeen-storey addition for which the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company has advanced $2,800,000.

THE GOVERNOR'S BOMBS.

New York's new Governor in one short month has thrown more bombs into the political camps than were expected in a decade. Politicians and newspapers are now working themselves into a frenzy over Governor Miller's plan to vest in a commission full control over all New York's transit systems, especially as the bill provides that such a commission will have power to raise or lower fares. Naturally nobody thinks the fares would be lowered. All sorts of dire happenings are forecasted if the Governor should have his way, not the least dreadful being (as many people think) that it may lead to the re-election of Mayor John F. Hylan, known to the proletariat as "Red Mike." But all the bomb pieces have not fallen over Manhattan and Brooklyn. Some have dropped in New Jersey and caused quite a commotion—oh, quite a commotion. The Governor, it seems, thinks that where a port the size of New York is concerned, there is no room for "provincialism or narrow-mindedness" in its control. Therefore, it seems to him that the most efficient way to control this port would be to put it under a single controlling factor; in other words, to unify the New York State and New Jersey State commissions. The Governor had scarcely said "amen" than several Jersey Senators were yelling about "rights" and "usurping of powers." Governor Miller's regime is going to be an interesting one.

Labor agencies estimate that there are 200,000 men out of work in New York City. For many men who are willing to handle a shovel this has been a hard winter in that there has been no snow. On the contrary, there is every evidence that spring has arrived. And as the spring is supposed to turn a young man's fancy, etc., let us announce that in 1920, there were 268 more divorce suits started in New York than in 1919, and 358 more divorce decrees granted. Which doesn't seem to fit in with the forecasts of what domestic bliss prohibition was going to bring.

NAPIER MOORE.

HE WAS AN "ORNERY" GOAT.

Uncle Tom arrived at the station with the goat he was to ship North, but the freight agent was having difficulty in billing him.

"What's this goat's destination, uncle?" he asked.

"Suh."

"I say, what's his destination? Where's he going?"

Uncle Tom searched carefully for the tag. A bit of frayed cord was all that remained.

"Dat ornery goat!" he exploded wrathfully. "Yo' know, suh, dat ignorant goat done completely et up his destination."—American Legion Weekly.

QUEBEC CONTROL OF ASBESTOS INDUSTRY

QUEBEC, Feb. 19. — (By a Staff Correspondent.)—The Government, it is reported, is considering the question of putting the asbestos mining industry of the province under control, in the same way as it has the pulpwood industry, providing that in the development of the asbestos mines it shall be a condition of the leasing of rights that plants be established in the Province of Quebec for the manufacture or partial manufacture of this material.

At the present moment the Province of Quebec supplies 85 per cent of the asbestos requirements of the world, but very little of it is manufactured in the Province, most of the plants being established in the United States or else the raw material is shipped abroad.

During the year 1919-20 the total shipments of asbestos amounted to 174,521 tons, valued at $11,753,234, which is equal to more than fifty per cent of the total mining products of the whole Province.

It is felt in Government circles that a great deal of employment could be ensured in the Province by the enforced establishment of plants for the manufacture of asbestos and asbestic in Quebec, and that this would not only encourage the industrial development of the Province but be more effective than any tariff imposed on the exportation of the raw material.

GERMANS HAVE PAID MANY CLAIMS MADE

LONDON, Feb. 19.—During the past four months about 30,000 claims of British creditors against German debtors in respect of war debts, have been settled, involving payments amounting to £12,000,000. In addition about £5,000,000 has been paid to English creditors in respect of the proceeds of the liquidation of property in Germany (i.e., businesses, &c.), making a total of £17,000,000.

The total of the claims which the ex-enemy Clearing House expects to deal with in the course of its career is estimated to number 300,000, involving an aggregate sum of about £100,000,000, including interest, and compensation; so that it will be seen that 10 per cent. of the number of claims have been dealt with. These claims represent not only English claims, but claims from all parts of the Empire.

SUNNY ALBERTA

EXPECT CRISIS IN ALBERTA'S COAL

Opinion Expressed Will Be Revealed Over School Board Action

ACCIDENT FUND

City Will Pay in $19,189.49 Under Workmen's Act

CALGARY, Feb. 16.—(Special Star Correspondence).—A crisis is rapidly approaching in the coal mining industry of Alberta, according to opinions expressed by a number of the leading coal operators. In their opinion, this will be reached at an early date by the action of the Calgary School Board in refusing to pay an additional 60 cents a ton, as authorized by W. H. Armstrong, director of coal operations.

Despite reports to the contrary, the Alberta Government will not proclaim the act passed by the legislature two years ago, establishing a new division of the supreme court.

F. W. Stirling, for sometime district freight agent of the C. P. R. at Edmonton has resigned his position and intends entering business for himself in Vancouver, B.C.

Declaring that his client has already been offered $50,000 for his claim in the Fort Norman oil fields, counsel for Captain J. Williscroft asked that the court compel William Nicholson, the plaintiff in the action, to enter into a bond of $200,000 to answer the damages which might be caused by the continuance of the injunction restraining him from dealing in the lease. The action is being closely followed by those interested in the oil leasing game.

The City of Calgary's proposal to have Alberta Legislature enact a Provincial law requiring all gas transmission lines to be "common carriers" in the same sense as railways, will, according to the most reliable sources, meet with short shrift if it ever gets into legislative halls.

Total emolument in the Calgary high and public schools during the month of January totalled 10,821. Increases are shown in the attendance at both.

UNEMPLOYMENT STATIONARY.

Unemployment conditions in the city still remain stationary, and with no indication of any immediate change according to Wm. Carnill, superintendent of the Calgary office of the Alberta Government Employment Service. During the past week more than 200 men were placed in permanent employment.

Tourist traffic over the C. P. R. western lines at least, assume large proportions even at this time, according to J. E. Proctor, general passenger agent in this city, who has returned from Quebec where he attended a conference of passenger agents of the entire system. The holding of numerous international conventions of the Pacific Coast accounts for considerable of the expected tourist trade.

The latest count on the signatures to the new Moderation League petition, which is being circulated throughout the Province in an effort to have the Government bring in a more sane liquor policy, numbers more than 10,000.

That the age limit under the Provincial juvenile act should be raised from 16 to 18 years and that this Province is urgently in need of a Provincial institution for delinquents, is the opinion expressed by Mrs. R. R. Jamieson, police magistrate. In her opinion such an institution would give delinquents a better chance to acquire good habits, and thus become better Canadian citizens.

Canadian members of the Society of Elks intend making this city their Mecca during the coming summer, the occasion being the holding of a monster Elk convention. In addition to Elks from the cities of the Canadian West being present, hundreds of American brothers intend taking advantage of the big event while on their way by special train to the American convention being held on the Pacific Coast.

Calgary school children attending the public schools and who bring their lunches will hereafter be supplied with milk, following the action taken by the school board.

Tired of the strife that has disrupted their native heath, several farmers from the vicinity of Dublin, Ireland, intend coming to Western Canada during the coming spring, according to information that has reached the Board of Trade.

EXCELLENT QUALITY DEMONSTRATED.

The continued excellent quality of last season's wheat and oats is again demonstrated in the returns of inspections just issued. For the month of January there were 24 cars inspected as no grade as compared with 120 for the 1919 period. The same applies to oats, the comparison being 3 cars as against 313 for the corresponding period of 1919.

An average of $450 per head was secured by the Curtice Cattle Company of Alberta from their registered sale in the International Sales Pavilion at Chicago. More than fifty head of Herefords were disposed of which did not include two prize show and herd bulls.

An early spring is looked for by W. J. Carlyle, manager of the Prince of Wales E. P. ranch at High River. Mr. Carlyle bases his opinion upon the word of Nosk Dickson, an aged Indian who resides in the vicinity of the ranch "In about one month, spring will be here," the Indian declared. "The seeding will be an early one, and the crop should be a good one."

The system adopted by the police department in tagging automobiles whose owners contravene the Motor Vehicle Act by leaving them standing longer than the specified time in the business districts, is working out most advantageously. Upon the receipt of a tag, the owner is compelled to appear before the desk sergeant who explains thoroughly the various sections of the act. The second offense means a fine, but police records for January show that only 32 motorists have appeared before the court as compared with 146 the previous month.

Calgary's land assessment roll has approached the almost absolute minimum of reduction. The total assessment on lands in the city reached in 1920 $522,576,694. This year it is anticipated the assessment will be lowered 10 per cent. This is a far cry from the assessment of 1913 which reached $120,801,588.

A total of $19,189.49 will be paid by the city treasury to the accident fund under the Provincial Workmen's Compensation Act. This is considerably more than the city officials were anticipating.

A new company with a federal charter has been reformed—the Royalite—capitalized at a million dollars; of which, it is reported, $800,000 of stock is held by the Imperial Oil Company, and $200,000 by the Dingman interests. It is the intention of the new company to start development work in both the Okotoks and Black Diamond fields immediately.

NOVA SCOTIA NOTES

HALIFAX MAY BE SOLDIERS' CENTRE

Civil Re-establishment Considering Making it Base for Provinces

TO AUSTRALIA

N.S. Rotarians to Go to Commonwealth to Establish Clubs

HALIFAX, Feb. 17.—(Special Star Correspondence.)—Plans are now underway, it is rumored, to centre the Soldiers' Civil Re-Establishment for the Maritime Provinces at Halifax. Colonel Wetmore, who was in charge at Fredericton, has been transferred to Halifax as director of B Unit and very shortly the New Brunswick office will be closed. The patients in the Fredericton Hospital will be taken to St. John and the hospital closed in the former centre.

At a recent meeting of the eastern section of the American Chemical Society held at the Union College, Schenectady, N.Y., another Dalhousian was honored, when Dr. J. M. J. Mackay, of the research laboratory of the General Electric Company, Schenectady, was elected president. Dr. Mackay is a graduate and ex-instructor in chemistry of Dalhousie, and a son of Dr. A. H. Mackay, Superintendent of Education for Nova Scotia.

TECHNICAL CLASSES BEGIN.

The evening technical classes recently opened at Kentville are making an admirable showing already in the branches chosen, namely, business, English and commercial arithmetic, stenography and typewriting and dressmaking. In the first named group the instructor is Mr. L. Logan Trask, principal of the King's County Academy, who also acts as secretary of evening technical schools. Kentville Miss Helen Burgess, formerly instructor to the returned soldiers at the Nova Scotia Sanatorium, has the shorthand and typewriting, of which there are now twenty-four girls in the class. The dressmaking class is under the direction of Miss Phoebe Smith. Both married and single women are taking a keen interest in the last mentioned class. It is an art every woman should master and it is not everyone who can get the opportunity. Kentville is doing well to establish there free technical schools.

CHILDREN UNDER-NOURISHED.

That one-third of the children of Dartmouth are not properly nourished was the assertion made at the first meeting held in the Dartmouth Health Centre, when members of the Massachusetts-Halifax Health Commission met the Dartmouth Health Board and representatives of various Dartmouth organizations, to discuss the best methods of conducting the work of the commission in Dartmouth. The various members of the Halifax centre spoke on the work and pointed out the importance of having clinics in Dartmouth. This Dartmouth branch is now being organized by the Halifax Commission and will shortly be in running order.

It is understood the school estimates of Halifax for 1921-22 will show an increase of about $50,000 over the current year, largely for maintenance of the four new school buildings and increases to the teachers. Halifax is gradually weeding out its old school buildings and replacing with new and modern structures, which were badly needed in this city. The teachers' wages also have been advanced greatly the last few years—another move in a good direction, as the low salaries were driving the competent instructors away.

CITY COUNCIL MEETS.

The City Council met this week to discuss various important matters, of which one was the Bill to prohibit undue rent-raising by landlords, which legislation is to be sought, and one to extend the jurisdiction of the city civil court, whereby the amount for which suits may be tried there shall be increased from the present $80 limit to $400 or $500. Halifax landlords have been taking the high hand again this year and raised rents regardless of value. Although not as bad as in former years, it has been hard on many householders paying more than they can afford now.

Milk prices in Sydney are due for a reduction on March 1st. This statement was made recently by one of the Sydney dealers, who stated that on March 1st milk would be sold to the householders in Sydney at 17 cents per quart, or a drop of 3 cents per quart in the present quotation. Sydney is at present paying 20 cents per quart.

It was announced at the Halifax Rotary Club luncheon this week that Rotarian Col. J. Layton Ralston, of Halifax, had been elected with Rotarian Davidson, of Calgary, to visit Australia in the interests of the establishment there of Rotary Clubs. The Rotary is but sixteen years old, but has already achieved international significance and is established in many South American Republics, England, and some European countries. Australia has heard of the Rotary idea, which started in the brain of a Chicago attorney sixteen years ago. The work of promoting Rotary in Australia is being done by the Canadian clubs. The Rotarians felt in choosing Colonel Ralston his personality which found so effective a vent in his overseas service would be equally efficacious in this Rotary service, which is likewise of a voluntary and not professional character.

OVER THE ROCKIES

B.C. TRADE BOARDS HOLD CONVENTION

Over 150 Delegates Assemble in Vancouver for Session

DRASTIC STEP

Get Associated Organizations Agree to Boycott American Railways

VANCOUVER, B.C., February 15 (Special Star Correspondence).—Over 150 delegates, representing 62 boards of trade in British Columbia and a total membership of over 5,000, attended the second annual convention of the Association of B. C. Boards of Trade held here this week. From every standpoint the three days' deliberations were regarded as highly important and successful. Many important topics were discussed, and a large number of resolutions passed. For the second time the association went on record as demanding that the Federal Government should appoint a customs officer in New York, for the purpose of allowing Eastern Canada products, etc., to be shipped via New York for furtherance to the Port of Vahcouver, duty free. The resolution further stated that, failing this action, the authorities in Ottawa give British Columbia the same treatment as Eastern Canada, that is, of shipment under the in-transit manifest, which would be satisfactory to this province.

Another resolution demanded the abolition of the Business Profits War Tax Act as detrimental to the welfare not only of business, but the country as a whole. The Provincial Government was urged to grant sufficient sums of money to wipe out the existing deficits of the public hospitals of the province, and to enact legislation providing for the better financing of those institutions. More adequate mail service between Vancouver and the Orient was insisted on in another resolution, as well as the energetic construction of the British Columbia section of the Trans-Canada Highway, in order to connect the coast and the interior. The establishment of foreign trade areas in all suitable ports in Canada was endorsed. A request will be sent to the Federal Government to appoint a commission to investigate the possibility of utilising the Indian reserves near cities for industrial purposes. This was proposed by the North Vancouver representatives, there being two very valuable stretches of waterfront on the north shore tied up by being reserves and on which only a very small population is found. Endorsement was also given to the "Made-in-B.C." campaign, which was inaugurated in Vancouver, and will be carried out in other parts of the province. An interesting resolution declared in favor of Armistice Day, November 11, being made the permanent Thanksgiving Day in Canada.

Many of the leading lumber firms in this city have decided to put their plants again on the ten-hour day basis and to reduce the basic wage scale to 35 cents an hour. They give as the reason the increased railway rates and the competition of southern pine, which have caused a severe reduction in the market and the necessity of selling on much closer margins. Most of the mills throughout the province were closed down for a few months, owing to being overstocked, but within a few weeks most of them will be again in full blast. While there has been pronounced stagnancy in the prairie demand for some time, the foreign orders have been coming in satisfactorily.

VANCOUVER FACES DEFICIT.

Vancouver is faced with a deficit of slightly over a million dollars, according to the tentative estimates prepared by the chairman of finance. Ald. Owen estimates the total expenditure for this year at $7,370,961. Where the extra amount is to come from no one knows, unless the Legislature confers broader powers of taxation. All present sources of taxation are now utilized practically to the limit. The mill rate is almost as high as allowed by the charter. There is the possibility of taxing improvements to the full amount of the assessed value, instead of only 50 per cent, as at present, but the burden already carried by the property owners makes it very improbable that the City Council would entertain the idea of adding to their burden. The city is again demanding that the province turn over the revenue from the amusement tax and motor tax collected in this city, but even with this included the total revenue would be far short of what is needed. The Legislature will have to come to the relief of the cities and municipalities in a much more substantial form.

According to political rumor, both here and in Victoria, there is considerable bad feeling in the Government ranks over the selection of Mr. Alex Manson, of Omineca, as Speaker. One section fought vigorously for the elevation of Mr. Manson from the deputy-speakership, while another insisted that Mrs. Smith should be given the honor. Included in the latter group was Premier Oliver. On the other hand, Mrs. Smith refused to accept the honor, on the ground that she felt she would be more useful on the floor of the House in promoting social legislation, in which she is much interested. It is no secret that she would like a portfolio, but the Premier is still in an economical mood, and is averse to creating any more portfolios. The chief topic of the session will be the Moderation Act. The Prohibition Association has called a mass meeting to discuss the question, and the Moderation League will also present its views to the Cabinet. Already there is considerable lobbying going on over the personnel of the forthcoming liquor commission, which will enforce the act. Three men will be appointed and the salaries should be fairly high.

For the past two years the Vancouver Board of Trade has been agitating against the arbitrary rate of eight and a half cents on west-bound freight to this province from the eastern and southern United States. The campaign has not met with any success, but the board has succeeded in inducing the Associated Boards of Trade of British Columbia to join in the movement, which will take the form of a boycott against the American railways. In the most drastic resolution passed at the recent convention here it was decided that until the American roads removed the arbitrary British Columbia business interests will give preference to Canadian lines in the routing of freight to and from British Columbia points. The resolution covering the matter which carried unanimously after an interesting discussion was as follows:

"Resolved, that as the American railways have had more than reasonable time to accede to the application made by the Vancouver Board of Trade, that the arbitrary rate of eight and a half cents on westbound transcontinental freight against British Columbia be removed, this conference of the Associated Boards of Trade of B. C., representing sixty-two boards of trade, recommends that until such time as the application be granted, that in every case where at all practicable, the business interests of British Columbia have preference given to Canadian lines in the routing of freight to and from British Columbia points."

WHY NOT GET SOME LAUGHS IN THE INAUGURATION SPEECH?

By RING W. LARDNER

"So the main idea is to bulge out with a bran new style that Woodrow never monkeyed with."

MR. W. G. HARDING,

Dear Sir:

I wrote you a letter last wk. to apply for the position of your private secy. and promised that if I was give this position I would write all your speechs and messages and etc. and also promised to write your inauguration address so as you can judge for yourself if I have got a gift along these lines and I said you was at liberty to use this address whether you give me the position or no. Well, W. G., here is the sample address like I promised and I guess they's no doubt about you useing it as it will knock them dead but maybe I better exclaim why I have wrote this kind of an address witch is so different than the cut and dry inauguration addresses other presidents has sprang.

Well, W. G., what ever else people thinks about Pres. Wilson they can't nobody deny that he is the Duke when it comes to disgorgeing the mother tongue and if you was to follow him in with a regular cut and dry speech, why the people that had been use to hearing Pres. Wilson's speechs and then heard yours would think they had either elected a deef mute president or a immigrunt that hadn't been over here long enough to pick up the language.

So the main idear is to bulge out with a bran new style that Woodrow never monkeyed with and that is why I have wrote this kind of a speech with a lot of gags in it and at the same time I have followed the rules layed down by all the presidents since Lincoln and touched on all the big questions of the day without saying nothing about them, and most of the gags I have used I found in a book called "Toasts and After Dinner Stories" witch is published here in N. Y. and if you appt. me your private secy. I will bring the book along to the White House and you can memorize a few of the gags so as you won't be at a loss if Co. ever comes wile I am not there to keep them in a uproar.

INAUGURATION ADDRESS.

My fellow men and ladies of the opp. sex: And speaking of the ladies, I would be a fine bum if I didn't open up this speech with a toast:

Here's to our wives,
They keep our hives
In little bees and honey.
They darn our socks,
They soothe life's shocks,
And how they spend the money!
(Laughter)

But I suppose you men folks will be jealous if I don't toast you also, so:

Here's to man. He's like a kerosene lamp. He is not very bright. He is often turned down. He generally smokes. And he frequently goes out at night. (Laughter)

Me being here today reminds me of the story of the old gentleman that seen a little newsboy carrying a big bundle of papers under his arm. The old gentleman felt sorry for the boy and said, "Don't all them papers make you tired, my boy?"

"Naw," replied the lad, "I don't ream them." (Laughter)

Now ladies and gentlemen I suppose you will want to know how I stand in regards to the situation in Europe. Well, friends, that reminds me of a story I heard about an American millionaire that was traveling in Europe in a hired automobile and the driver was a speed demon. Finely the scared millionaire got up courage to ask, "Where are we?"

"In Paris," shouted the man at the wheel as they tore along.

"Never mind the details," said the millionaire, "I mean what continent." (Laughter)

Now my friends, a great many people has ast me when I think the war will be over between this country and Germany. I will answer them by telling a story about a woman that went into a photograph gallery.

"Do you take pictures of children?" she ast.

"Yes," was the reply.

"How much are they please?" ast the woman.

"Three dollars a dozen," said the grop.

"Well," said the woman with a sigh "I will half to come back later. I only got eleven." (Laughter)

HOW I STAND ON IRELAND.

Now my friends you will wish to know my stand in regards to England and Ireland. Well, friends, I maybe better tell you the story about John Bull and Pat. The Englishman was boasting about British possessions.

"The sun never sets on them," he said proudly.

"No," replied the Irishman, "the Lord's afraid to trust England in the dark." (Laughter)

You have probably read a lot in the papers lately about the R. R. problem and what would I do about it when I get in office. I think I can best make my position clear by telling you a little story. They was 2 women setting near the other one in a parlor car, and one of them ast the porter to open the window and the other one protested and says:

"If you open that window I will freeze to death."

So the other one says, "If you don't open that window I will suffocate."

So Geo. didn't know what to do so he ast a man what to do and the man says, "Take them in turn. Open the window and freeze one lady and then shut it and suffocate the other." (Laughter)

Well ladies and gentlemen you ask me how about the league of nations? That brings to my mind a story about 2 guys that was traveling in the foot hills of Ky. and they have been driveing for 2 hrs. without seeing nobody, but finely they come to a cabin in a clearing. They was a long, lean man leaning vs. a tree and one of the travelers says to the other, "Look at that funny looking man I wonder if he can talk."

"Try him," says the other.

"How do you do?" says the 1st traveler.

"All right," says the man in a drawl.

"Nice country you got here," says the traveler. "Have you lived here all your life?"

"Not yet," says the man. (Laughter)

Now my friends they has been a lot of talk about the money France and England owes us and how are we going to get it? I can best exclaim our chances with a little story about a home talent performance of Hamlet.

Everybody in town went to the show and they all liked it except the editor of the weekly paper who was a wise cracker. Here is what he put in the paper about the show:

"They was a home talent performance of Hamlet in the town hall last night. For a long wile people has been wondering if Shakespeare or Bacon wrote it. Well you can find out easy now. Just open up the graves of the 2 writers and the one that turned over last night is the author." (Laughter)

Well friends I got to make this joke book last 6 yrs. so I will close for this time and I suppose people will think that because my inauguration address has got so many gags that my whole administration will be a joke. But friends things like this works opposite. For inst. you take Pres. Wilson's last inauguration speech and they wasn't a funny line in it.

ONTARIO'S STATUS IN FINANCE SOUND

Balance or Deficit as Statement is Read—But Safe

ON COAL PRICES

Anthracite Drops $4 on Ton —Mild Winter One Cause

TORONTO, Feb. 17.—(Special Star Correspondence)—Depending upon the way you look at it, Ontario is financially in a poor position, or a fairly sound one with every reason to expect that investment of capital now being made will give satisfactory returns. With an increase in ordinary expenditurs of $4,000,000 for the year, and $30,000,000 in capital expenditures, and a debt of $128,191,754 Ontario ought to be satisfied that it has raised and spent a lot of money. The frank admission of its Treasurer, Peter Smith, that there is, moreover, a deficit on the last year's transactions of $800,000 helps the public to understand the situation a little better. If they don't appreciate it, then the announcement of a tax on all real estate transfers, on bank reserve funds, on billiard parlors and pool rooms, an increase in railway taxation and increased taxes under the Mining Act, all of which are expected to give an additional revenue of $1,500,000 per year, may help to awaken them.

However, the same Peter Smith was quite optimistic. He declared in his budget speech that Ontario was absolutely sound. By a juggling of figures in the sense of putting this, that, or the other in different columns, a surplus could have been shown like previous administrations used to show. But Provincial book keeping now was intended to show the facts at a glance. There was also the point that some $29,000,000 of the capital expenditure is for hydro extensions and works. Last year's ordinary expenditure of $25,880,842 will be exceeded this year.

LOTS TO WORK ON.

As important in the minds of many as the existent state of finances, is the revelations still continuing as to the necessity of placing all the departments of the Government on a proper basis.

Ontario's pride, of which it has a reasonably good measure, has been bumped severely of late. It is not helped by the blunt statement of Albert Grigg, Deputy Minister of Lands and Forests, that the accounting system in that department has never been changed, since Confederation, and would be a disgrace to a country grocery store. It was impossible to say whether the department had been or was operated at a profit or a loss. That looks like another chance for a commission of inquiry of which the Government still has a number floating around, though at present the timber inquiry is held up because the Spanish River people have taken the unique action of questioning by legal steps the jurisdiction of the commissioners. The company hasn't the slightest objection to opening up everything for the legitimate needs of the inquiry, but it has a good deal of sympathy in its contention that public delving into private papers and transactions is a bit too thick.

UNIVERSITIES WANT AID.

At this moment those interested, directly or indirectly, are awaiting the report of the commission which has been inquiring into the needs of the universities of this Province. Speaking at Hamilton, Sir Robert Falconer said that the University of Toronto needed some four million dollars for buildings. He also stated that the mid-winter classes for students, from rual sections inaugurated this year, had been a wonderful success. This marks the beginning of a movement in education which could not but have a tremendous influence on the life of the Province. It emphasizes a point recently made in a discussion on the universities of Ontario, namely that the attendance of farmers' sons was constantly increasing, and that, as a class, they were in the majority. It is believed that the Drury Government is anxious to deal generously with the universities.

MIGHT GIVE PROFIT.

Perhaps the Government would turn over its own pulp mill profits to the universities, as well as some more of the succession duties. The mill which was acquired when the Province took over the Central Ontario Hydro system, is in the township of Bruton. It is reported to be making $40,000 net per month or at the rate of $480,000 per year. The purchase cost of the limits and mill was $400,000. It is not likely that the recommendation of an auditor that the Province sell the mill will be adopted just yet.

BRANTFORD LABORITES FIRM.

Brantford Independent Labor Party is more concerned about M. M. MacBride, M.P.P., being read out of the Provincial I.L.P. by the executive of that body, than the redoubtable MacBride himself. At a meeting in that bright little city, the I.L.P. passed a vote of confidence in their representative who, it will be remembered, recently cut himself loose from the Labor party in the Assembly. MacBride is already criticising very warmly some government proposals.

E. J. Rutledge, who has been reappointed town constable of Streetsville, will have very little spare time. He is now road overseer, sanitary inspector, bread inspector, truant inspector, truant officer and pound keeper of the village. He receives a salary of $200 a year and probably spends it all.

SOMETHING DROPPED.

Chatham coal dealers report a drop of $4 a ton in anthracite coal, bringing the retail price down to [illegible]. Not so long ago it was $24. But if Ontario has another winter like this, most people will decide that they can get along with one-half the normal supply of coal and the coal barons will come down some more.

Newmarket may have cheaper coal, but water is going to [illegible] more. It doesn't come from the famous Newmarket canal, either, that piece of work still being the [illegible] attention of politicians. Nor has the price of water in the town anything to do with prohibition. The Council has at last [illegible] in a sensible way with the [illegible] there has been a succession of deficits in the waterworks department, which for 1919 totalled $12,000. The [illegible] has therefore been raised from 75 cents to $1 and the meter rate from 20 to 26 cents per 1,000 gallons. On the other hand hydro power [illegible] at $10,000 since 1916.

WINNIPEG MAKES BID FOR FUR MART

First Sales are Scheduled To be Held on March 14

RECORD CROP

Conditions Right in Manitoba for Bumper Yield Next Year

WINNIPEG, Feb. 16—(Special Star Correspondence.) — Winnipeg's first attempt to get a place in the fur market sun is set for March 14, when the premier sale under the auspices of the Winnipeg Fur Auction Sales Company will be held. Hitherto buyers from all parts of the world turned to St. Louis, Montreal and New York for the choice wares in pelts.

The surprising thing, according to H. W. Lethbridge, western executive of John W. Peck & Co., manager of the new organization, is that the idea was not adopted years ago. Winnipeg, the gateway to the great Northwest, which produces the bulk of fine furs, is the logical, the only logical place, for the great primary market of furs, he contends.

"In the past, northern furs have been to a considerable extent shipped to the fur auctions of St. Louis and New York, there to be mixed with lots of southern furs in order to raise, by their quality, the standard of these lots," he says. "This practice has reacted against our traders receiving the prices to which they were entitled.

"We hope and believe that the operation of a market here will establish a standard for the furs of this country just as the Winnipeg grain market has established in No. 1 Hard, a wheat standard that commands a premium the world over." Although starting in a small and modest way, it is the opinion of the men in touch with the fur trade that it will not take many sales to establish definitely this market in competition with the sales of New York, St. Louis or Montreal, to which furs worth millions of dollars annually go from Western Canada.

A bonded warehouse has been established, where valuation receipts can be obtained by traders, which can be used for credit purposes, precisely as inspection certificates on wheat are used.

The announcement of the organization is over the signatures of the leading wholesale houses of Western Canada, including R. J. Whitla & Co., Ltd., John W. Peck & Co Co., Ltd., Western Grocers, Ltd., Robinson, Little and Co., Ltd., Greenshields Ltd., and Gongdon, Marsh, Ltd.

EXPECT RECORD CROP.

Manitoba and the West generally look forward to a record crop year. Hopes are well founded in as ideal fall and winter weather as the West has ever experienced.

The late freeze-up and perfect ploughing weather last fall resulted in preparation of nearly 3,000,000 acres for crop in Manitoba alone. This will enable farmers to get a good start in the spring. Unusually heavy snows will provide the seeds with ample moisture for the rapid spring growing.

Stock wintered exceptionally well owing to warm weather and prospects of an early grass inspire predictions of a remarkable year in dairying.

"I cannot remember in all my experience when prospects were so good," said Hon. G. H. Malcolm, Manitoba Minister of Agriculture, a veteran farmer himself. "Farmers should be able to get in their crops this spring under better conditions than for many years. The crop acreage, helped by unusual fall ploughing weather will, I expect, set a record.

Agricultural and stock conditions this year are almost the reverse of 1919—1920. The price of cattle was low and feed was very scarce and dear. The winter was exceptionally long and severe, and many farmers preferred to slaughter their animals than to pay for their upkeep. Feed is plentiful this year and farm animals are in good shape.

Proportional representation is favored by the Norris Government for all constituencies in Manitoba, where more than two contend for election, it was announced. If the Government can get a sufficient number of the Opposition to ratify the proposal, a Bill will be put through this session.

The new balloting system was first tried out in Winnipeg, where 41 candidates sought election on ten seats allotted to the city, at the Provincial election last year. It proved exceptionally successful, though at the civic elections, shortly after, the results were disappointing.

TO MANUFACTURE BRIQUETTES.

The briquette plant at Bienfait, Sask, which is subsidized by the Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Federal Governments, will begin the manufacture of lignite briquettes early in May, it is announced. The buildings are practically completed and installation of the last pieces of machinery will begin at the end of February.

Before the briquettes are placed on the market, several tests will be carried out, but it is expected these will be completed early in April. The price of the product will be $11 a ton, as against $22 a ton of hard coal in Winnipeg. Experts aver that the heating qualities of the lignite will equal anthracite.

The plant cost $500,000. Of this sum, half was borne by the Dominion Government, while the balance was paid by Manitoba and Saskatchewan. It is the first plant of its kind in the world.

The supposedly barren wastes in Manitoba, north of the 53rd parallel, which a few years ago might have been bartered for a bottle of whiskey and a few trinkets, produced $2,754,000 in minerals, lumber, fur and fish last year, it was reported by Prof. R. C. Wallace, Northland Commissioner.

Gold and copper ores shipped from The Pas district reached $2,000,000 in total value. Thirty five millions feet of lumber, valued at $250,000, were produced. The fish catch of 3,300 tons, a low year, was worth $60,000, and furs obtained around $300,000.

In addition a cattle business is growing up which will become one of the most valuable assets of the newly opened territory, according to Prof. Wallace. The value of cattle grazing in the Saskatchewan River Valley is estimated at $15,000,000.

NEW LIQUOR LAW CAUSES ANXIETY

Some Speculation as to How Commission's Operation Will Function

DAYLIGHT SAVING

To Be Decided Early This Year by Plebiscite on Question

ST. JOHN, N.B., Feb. 17—(Special Star Correspondence)—Just what effect the establishment of a Provincial Government Commission to act as wholesale vendors of liquors will have upon the general situation is a question which is causing a certain amount of anxiety in some circles. Under the system which has been in force since prohibition was introduced, the man who wanted something to drink, without the delay or importing from Montreal, seems to have been able to satisfy his desires. How this has been possible has not been fully established in the courts, but it may be said with safety that the system left some loopholes through which the illicit supply may have leaked out. The Commission which has been appointed will be the only source through which the licensed retail vendors will be permitted to secure their stocks, and this arrangement should make it much easier for the enforcement officials to find evidence of law violations.

The Commission consists of three members: Hon. R. J. F. Tweedale, formerly Provincial Minister of Agriculture, who was defeated at the last elections, will be the chairman, and will devote his whole time to the work. Martin McGuire, of St. John, formerly was head of the wholesale and retail liquor firm of McGuire Brothers, one of the most highly reputed in the business. His knowledge of the business will aid the Commission in its duty of seeing that only pure liquors are dispensed. A. F. Bently, of St. Martins, lumber operator and general merchant, a former member of the Legislature and a defeated candidate at the last elections, will be the third member of the board. The two latter will act in an advisory capacity, giving what time is required for the work. The headquarters of the Commission will be in Fredericton, and storage facilities for the stocks will be provided there. The Commission will begin operations so soon as arrangements can be completed.

INTEREST CENTRES IN DALHOUSIE.

Political interest this week centres in Dalhousie, the shiretown of Restigouche County, where the hearing in the election protest opened today. The protest was made on the grounds that the nominations of the two independent candidates in the general elections, were not properly filed. Their vote had the result of upsetting the constituency, and giving the two seats to the Opposition. If the election is declared void and the seats vacated, the result will be to give the Government a clear majority of two in the Legislature until another election is held. Under the circumstances, it would not be expected that the Government would be in any great hurry to insist on holding the new by-election, at least until there was some fairly definite assurance as to the probable result of the contest.

R. B. HANSON'S NOMINATION.

In York-Sunbury, the nomination of R. B. Hanson, K.C., as candidate of the Federal Government party in the by-election, which will be held to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Lieut.-Col. H. F. McLeod, M.P., is regarded by his supporters as equivalent to his election. So far, neither the Liberal Party nor the United Farmers party has indicated what its attitude will be, and it is not known whether Mr. Hanson will be opposed. The Government standard bearer is regarded as a strong man, and well able to take care of himself in a fight if there be one.

The visit of Lieutenant-General Sir Henry Burstall, Inspector-General for Canada, has noticeably stimulated interest in the militia throughout the province. In his inspections of the various units, Sir Henry expressed surprise and gratification that they were so strong, and showed evidence of such good training. The fears expressed that the veterans of the Great War have had all they wanted of military life and experience has been shown to be without foundation, as the Vets are proving the backbone of the new militia.

Although it is estimated that the lumber cut on Crown Lands in the Province during the present season will be little more than half the quantity cut last year, the revenue, it is expected, will be only about twenty per cent. smaller, owing to the increased stumpage rates which went into effect last August. The cut this year will be about two million feet, as compared with three hundred millions last year, and the revenue from this source will be about $1,000,000. Encouraging reports of the outlook in the lumber markets in the United States give promise that the worst of the depression in this, the Province's most important industry, has passed.

AIR PATROL FOR CONSERVATION.

In the interests of forest conservation, the Provincial Government has decided to establish air patrols for the detection of forest fires. The work during the coming season will be experimental, but is the intention to secure and operate two or three machines and increase the number if the results are found to justify such action.

The question whether the city of St. John will observe daylight time this year will be settled by a plebiscite which will be held on February 28. Each time since the change first was introduced, there has been so much uncertainty until the last moment that it was decided this year to take a vote on the matter early enough to prevent any complications when the time for changing the clocks—or leaving them unchanged, as the decision may be—arrives. Several large organizations have declared in favor of daylight plan, but the Trades and Labor Council again is on record against it.

AUTHENTIC NEWS OF THEATRES AND FILMS

By S. MORGAN-POWELL

WHAT CANADIANS WANT

ALMOST coincident with the news of the attempted boycott of "The Maid of the Mountains" because it is an English musical comedy presented by English artists, comes a complaint from New York that antipathy to American shows is reported throughout the Dominion. This complaint says that cases are being cited where an American show followed an English show or an English star, and the English company did big business, while the American drew hardly anything. A specific instance is quoted in regard to "Maytime."

* * * * *

It is highly desirable that the truth should be stated in this connection. There is no antipathy in Canada to American shows as such, so far as I can ascertain, or so far as reports indicate. Any American show, or any American artist, gets a fair chance in any town in the Dominion. But if an American show comes into Canada and tries to draw the public by extravagant advertising and falls down in the attempt, the blame does not lie with the Canadian theatre-goer, nor should the latter be blamed for the collapse. If American shows following Mr. H. V. Esmond and Miss Eva Moore, or Sir John Martin Harvey and his company, have failed to do good business, the fault will be found to lie with the show itself, and not with the public.

* * * * *

Take "Maytime," for example. It is nothing to cause surprise if that musical comedy failed to do business on its fourth visit to Canada, especially when that fourth visit was made by a company inferior to the three preceding companies which have played it in this Dominion. Nor is there anything astonishing about the failure of any second or third-rate American company to do big business in Canada.

What a good many people in New York still fail to realise is that the Canadian theatre-goer has graduated above the "boob" class,—to use a choice American expression,—and can no longer be imposed upon. He is willing to pay a fair price, even a stiff price, for first-class theatrical entertainment, but he is not willing to pay a cent for second or third-rate stuff which is misrepresented to him as being first-rate.

* * * * *

Canadians are sick and tired of reading in theatrical advertisements that a show is coming with the original New York cast and production, and then discovering, after they have purchased their tickets in this belief, that neither the New York production nor the New York cast has come. The blame for this lies wholly with the New York producer, for the local theatre manager drafts his advertisements upon the statements supplied him from New York.

* * * * *

Canada wants to see all the first-class shows and all the leading actors and actresses America has to offer, and is willing to pay at least as much as the American pays in order to do so. In many instances, in fact, Canadians are more willing, for a number of road shows have closed in the States since the opening of the present season because big towns would not pay the price asked to see them.

What Canada does not want, and will not pay for, to-day, is the cheap play, the dirty drama, the brainless musical comedy, the obscenely suggestive comedy, designed by unscrupulous producers to catch flies with, sent out from New York to this Dominion with a second-rate production and an nth-rate company, flamboyantly heralded by lying advance notices as a "super" something or other, and in reality a bit of contemptible bluff, lacking either ingenuity or the excuse of smartness.

* * * * *

The sooner the producers get this fact firmly planted in the rear of their brains, the sooner we shall have their best, and they no cause for future complaint. Till then, however, they will probably continue to find that it is harder sledding to trail a poor play or a poor company through Canada than it is to bluff a Broadway audience into accepting tinsel for gold. There are no "boob" cities in Canada today.

Latest News of the New York Theatres

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—Special to The Star From Our Own Correspondent.—The Messrs. Shubert are very much like a conjuror who says, "Hi, presto!" and changes a turnip into a bowl of goldfish in less time than it takes to eat a fifty-cent meal on a dining car. Six-teen weeks ago the Shuberts got hold of a piece of ground on Forty-ninth street. They invited a nice contractor to go up and help them. Last week Lee Shubert waved his hand, and lo and behold there was the Ambassador Theatre, complete to the last carpet tack! A beautiful place is this latest addition to New York's playhouses. Much wider than it is deep, the auditorium gives one a sense of intimacy with those on the stage, no matter where the seat may be. And there is nothing missing in the way of equipment.

* * *

"The Rose Girl," the Ambassador's first production, is a tuneful romance, lacking originality in the way of a book, but handsomely, costumed and staged, happily casted and, on the whole, thoroughly entertaining. Wm. Carey Duncan wrote the book and lyrics and Anselm Goetzl the music, but two of the three cheers go to Hassard Short, who staged the piece. The Rose Girl happens to be a beautiful Riviera miss who "falls in love with a bankrupt youth of nobul burth." But she hath a guardian who wouldst wed her. Therefore, she hits upon a wonderful idea for a new fashion in perfume, brings fame and "fortoon" to everybody concerned, and falls into her hero's arms a few minutes after 11 p.m.

* * *

In telling his story Mr. Duncan has resorted to the use of jokes and puns that were probably heard in the roof garden shows of Ancient Babylon. But this is more than compensated for by the dancing. Verily, but the terpsichore is splendid. Lydia Lopokova, brought from Europe especially for this production, is altogether charming in "The Ballet des Perfumes," arranged by Michel Fokine himself. But the applause she wins is equalled, and, be it whispered, often excelled by that won by the other nimble-footed principles and choristers, who, while not so classic, can certainly whirl their limbs about.

Charles Purcell brings his light tenor to bear on the role of Victor Marquis de la Roche, and makes him a likeable chap. Mabel Withee, pretty and a sweet warbler, is the Rose Girl. And very nice, too. Marjorie Gateson and Fred Hillebrand staged the only near-riot of the evening with a topical duet. Zoe Barnett and a score of others do commendable work. The scenery is effective and the ensemble numbers tastefully offered. "The Rose Girl" will take her place with the lot of other girls who, while not able to jolt the world off its taxis, are pretty and entertaining enough to make three hours pass pleasantly.

* * *

After an interval of seven years, the New York run of "Peg o' My Heart," which was interrupted in 1914, was resumed this week with Laurette Taylor in her old role of Margaret O'Connell. Miss Taylor seems to have added a hundred and one little touches to her characterisation since she last played it on Broadway. Among the newcomers to the company is A. E. Matthews, the English comedian, who, after playing Jerry for 1,037 times in London and on tour, has come to the Cort Theatre in the role of the affable Baronet.

* * *

The Drama League of New York is evidently influenced by other considerations than art. It has solved a problem to its own satisfaction by writing a letter of appreciation to Charles Gilpin, the negro actor (whose success in "The Emperor Jones" started the Provincetown Players on the road to affluence), in lieu of inviting him to the dinner in honor of last year's ten biggest contributors to dramatic art. The league directors evidently foresaw that a vote taken to determine the personnel of the leading theatrical benefactors would place Gilpin high, and they apparently had reason to know that such a result would not be pleasing to certain stage-folk of lighter hue.

At any rate, the league's directors decided that Gilpin should not be included among the dinner guests because his acting, if you please, "although distinctive, had shown his own race to bad advantage, and therefore was not in his favor." They would, therefore, write Gilpin a nice little note assuring him of the Drama League's esteem and informing him of the honor accorded him in the receipt of so many votes, which placed him third. So Gilpin will have to buy his own dinners.

John Barrymore has signed a contract which places his services in the motion picture world at the disposal of F. J. Godsel. The new organisation which Mr. Godsel will form will be known as the "John Barrymore Company." The contract lasts for five years.

A. H. Woods intends to launch a $5,000,000 circuit of photoplay houses at which only big feature films will be shown at regular theatre prices. The success of such films as "Way Down East" is said to have tempted Woods.

NAPIER MOORE.

TO WINNIPEG.

By
Frank B. O'Neill,
Manager Sir John Martin Harvey's Tour.

A week—and all too short a stay—
Your hospitality I beg.
Then I must go—the Players' way,
O wide-wayed, windy Winnipeg.

I love your hockey and your sport,
Your dancing toe and skating leg.
I like you—you're a real good sort,
O wide-wayed, windy Winnipeg.

I'd pledge you deeply, if I might,
The double Scottish-whisky-peg,
But Parliament has pinched my right,
O wide-wayed, bone-dry Winnipeg!

What You Can See Next Week in Films

ALL next week at the Imperial there will be shown the first picture in which George Arliss, the famous English actor, has ever appeared. It is a screen version of "The Devil," in which Mr. Arliss made a sensational hit some years ago. This feature is dealt with elsewhere.

At other picture houses there are some attractive bills promised also. The feature at the Strand is "Down Home," a simple story of simple New England rural life, with a healthy, thrilling love-story against a background of natural scenery. The Regent will make a specialty of Lionel Barrymore in "The Master Mind" for the first half of the week, with Alice Calhoun, a dainty new featured picture player, in "Princess Jones," a pretty story of a girl who wanted to be a Princess. The Allen (Westmount) Theatre will afford its patrons an opportunity of seeing "Unseen Forces," with the charming Australian artist, Sylvia Breamer, playing the leading role, on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, together with "A City Sparrow," in which Ethel Clayton appears; "Hold Your Horses," with Tom Moore, Wednesday and Thursday, and Mary Miles Minter in "Sweet Lavender," for the balance of the week. At the Dominion "The Palace of Darkened Windows," a study of East and West, will be feature of the opening of the week.

* * *

At the Mount Royal Theatre today and tomorrow Owen Moore will be seen in "The Chicken in the Case," and Olive Tell in "A Woman, A Business." The double bill at the same house, starting Monday, is Dorothy Gish in "Little Miss Rebellion" and Lyons and Moran in "A Shocking Night."

* *

To-morrow, Monday and Tuesday at the Belmont, there will be seen "The Sage Hen," with Gladys Brockwell in the leading role. This is a strong story of a woman's sacrifice for her home, her honor, and her child. It is a first-run film. "Half a Chance," featuring Mahlon Hamilton, will also be shown.

At the New Grand all week the attraction will be Charles Ray in "Nineteen and Phyllis," a comedy of youth, replete with amusing situations, including Mr. Ray's capture of a burglar. Clara Horton, only sixteen years old, plays opposite Mr. Ray in this film.

Orpheum Players to Have New Leading Lady from Next Week

With the opening performance of "The Wonderful Thing" next Monday afternoon the Orpheum will introduce a new leading lady, Miss Grace Carlyle. Those who have followed with any degree of discrimination the various types of successful actresses will recognize in Miss Carlyle the typical leading lady. Experience and talent have been evidence by Miss Carlyle in the course of nearly seven years on Broadway, during which time she has been associated with such prominent artists as John Drew, Elsie Ferguson, Lou Tellegan and Mme. Nazimova.

Among some of the engagements which Miss Carlyle won success prior to coming to Montreal were two entire seasons in "The Thief." Her first Broadway appearance was in "Fires of Fate," which production later proved a remarkable success in London. Associated with Lou Tellegan in "Blind Youth," she also scored a triumph by her artistic portrayal of the leading feminine role, and her last Broadway engagement was with Louis Mann in "The Unwritten Chapter."

Miss Carlyle is said to possess rare talent as an emotional actress, and the list of plays scheduled at the Orpheum during the balance of the present season should provide her with an excellent medium for the display of this talent.

In the filming of some scenes in many productions, like those which take place on a mountain side or other spots high up from the level of the ground, it has been necessary to build platforms on which to set the cameras to avoid distortion. This has heretofore eliminated many otherwise good "locations." Marshall Neilan, in the filming of "Bob Hampton of Placer," hit upon a solution of the difficulty by employing a "pony blimp" airship. This permitted transporting players to spots inaccessible in any other way, and then anchoring the airship directly opposite, from where the scene could be taken with the proper perspective. Airplanes have been used in a somewhat similar way in the past, but it is obvious that they cannot be held stationary at one spot as the lighter than air machine can, hence their field of usefulness is limited.

Notes and News of The London Theatres

THE revival of "Milestones" at the Royalty Theatre has been highly successful. This is the second revival of the Bennett and Knoblock play at that house.

* * *

Neil Curtis, a former Montreal man, has been playing juvenile roles at the Old Vic. repertory theatre in Shakespearean revivals. He has made a specialty of designing costumes for the performing and has met with marked success, his work having been highly praised by discerning critics.

* * *

J. L. Sachs has secured the English rights to George M. Cohan's musical comedy, "Mary." The newly formed partnership of Hicks and Sachs executed the rights over it. Much is expected of the operetta in London.

* * *

Henri De Vries, a well known protean artist, who scored tremendously in New York, is now making his first London appearance at the Victoria, where he is presenting his sketch, "A Case of Arson."

* * *

Haddon Chambers, the well known playwright, was married recently to Penitia Bonbadilla, a popular favorite last seen at Drury Lane in "The Garden of Allah." Mr. and Mrs. Chambers will postpone their honeymoon until after the conclusion of the London run of the revival.

* * *

"Thy Name is Woman," now at the Play House, New York, will be produced in London by William A. Brady, on May 17. Mary Nash will be starred in the new production. Miss Nash will remain in London only during the summer months, as plans have been made by Mr. Brady to present her on Broadway in the same play in the autumn.

* * *

The curtain-raiser seems to be coming into its own again here, following in the footsteps of the Parisian producers. Iris Hoey is presenting a brief sketch called "The Woman and the Apple" in front of "Priscilla and the Profligate," and preceding "The Right to Strike" is "A Case of Arson," the play in which Henri de Vries, a Dutch protean actor, well known here, plays seven parts.

* * *

The list of eminent Shakespearian actors shows a steady decrease. A. E. George, former pupil of Sir Frank Benson and long familiar in productions of Shakespeare on the British stage, recently died after a lingering illness. His last part was that of valet to Mosscwitch's Paurel in "The Great Lover."

* * *

Marie Lohr is to do a revival of "Fedora," Sardou's famous drama, which Fanny Davenport first played. Others in the cast are Ellis Jeffreys, Basil Rathbone and Allan Aynesworth.

* * *

Edna Best is the new Peter Pan at the St. James's. This young actress has been conspicuously successful in "Brown Sugar" and "Uncle Ned."

Coming Attractions

A COUPLE of centuries ago, to be quite accurate in 1728, Mr. Gay produced in London "The Beggar's Opera," and recently it was revived in London where it was declared to be Pinafore's ancestor, so Gilbertian in tone did critics and theatregoers find it. The popularity of Mr. Gay's ballad opera may be judged from the fact that it has passed away over two hundred performances in London and is yet as popular as when the arrival was first produced. Many requests having been made for a capable English company to be sent to Canada to present "The Beggar's Opera," arrangements were completed between the management of His Majesty's Theatre and Ye Old Master's Producing Company for Mr. Nigel Playfair's London production, from the Lyric Theatre, Hammersmith, London, to be given for one week, commencing Monday next. It is assured that a notable cast will be seen here, as we are promised that the artists who appeared in the original London revival will come to Montreal, and will sing here by permission of Sir Thomas Beecham, Bart. In the cast will be Arthur Wynn, Charles Magrath, Percy Heming, Alfred Heather, George Tawde, C. C. Lewis, Lena Maitland, Sylvia Nells, Fedora Roselli, Nonny Lock, Edith Bartlett, Charlie Tobin, Edward Cianelli, James Wolff, Walton Macafee, Mario Carboni, S. Rossmussen, Meg Mellors, Jessie Stuart, Gladies Johnson, Julie Meo, Vera Hurst and Enid Lindsay. New settings of the airs and additional music have been given Mr. Playfair's production by Frederick Austin, and some especially interesting dances have been arranged by Marian Wilson of London. The story of the origin of "The Beggar's Opera" is an interesting one. Dean Swift, we are told, had observed to John Gay what a pretty sort of thing a Newgate pastoral might make. Gay was very much inclined to try his hand at this, but afterwards thought he might better write a comedy along the same lines. This is what gave rise to "The Beggar's Opera."

* * *

At the Princess Theatre, "On Fifth Avenue," the most recent of the season's musical revues, with Eddie Borden as guide, will be the feature act. The party strolls from place to place for six scenes, each of which calls for attractive setting and costuming and introduces a varied assortment of songs, dances, dialogue and humor. Other features, include Joe Rome and Lou Gaut, eccentric dancers who vary their dance routine with songs and stories, in a new skit, "When Extremes Meet"; Eddie and Birdie Conrad in a little musical offering, "Honey Songs"; "A Vaudeville Seance," presented by Miss Edna Dreon, a stylish and pretty girl, with a rich lyric soprano voice; Dave Roth, the entertainer, in "Versatility"; Davis and Pelle, novelty gymnasts, in a display of acrobatic feats; and Miss Robbie Gordone, who will make her first appearance here in "Character Studies and Poses from Old Masters and Original Designs." She is not only an artist but a beautiful woman as well. Miss Gordone is giving twelve art poses.

The Orpheum Players next week present "The Wonderful Thing," a comedy-drama dealing with modern society. "The Wonderful Thing" has never before been played in this city. It is the story of two brothers, one of whom unintentionally becomes entangled in a scrape. Although members of the aristocratic circle, the family is financially on the verge of insolvency, but the idea of work has been so foreign to their education that none of the children knows how to put a shoulder to the wheel in their emergency. Into their lives comes a young girl, daughter of a millionaire who has made his money in the packing business, and with her all of them at last realise is the most wonderful thing in life.

* * *

Heading Loew's bill, Cantor and Yates present C. Wesley Johnson and Company in what they call "A Classical Harmony Jazzalogue," introducing H. Sutton, C. Foster, Fred Weaver, Norman Thomas, colored syncopators. Arthur Frazer and Harry Bunce will present a skit, "The Fellow That Looks Like Me"; B. H. Murray and Betty Lane will offer the sketch, "Hubby's Holiday"; Nell and Elsie Gilbert will be heard in "Gems of Joy," and Bollinger and Reynolds will appear in versatile comedy novelties, "A Tip on the Line." The main picture will be "The Right of Love," by George Fitzmaurice, featuring Mae Murray and David Powell. The comedy will be Mr. and Mrs. Carter de Haven's latest entitled "Kids is Kids."

* * *

Harry Lander and his brother, Willie, come to the Gayety Theatre next week with the "Jack Singer Show." Lovers of burlesque will remember Harry Lander, the man who created a sensation along the Columbia wheel last season with his funny tramp character, one of the classics of comedy and burlesque. Jack Singer succeeded in landing the biggest sensation on the wheel when he paid $5,000 for the privilege of having Tarzan, "the human ape," with this season's attraction. This amount of money was paid to Tarzan's agent, Charles Bannhaupt, to secure release from the Orpheum Circuit. Tarzan was the sensation of the New Winter Garden Show, "Cinderella on Broadway," and is one of the highest paid specialties in burlesque.

Next week's bill at the St. Denis will feature Brown, Gardner and Barnett classical dancers. Comedy songs, patter and dances will be offered by Dunham and O'Malley, and The Brightons will present their own act, "Rag-Pictures." The Musical Maids, eight young ladies, will contribute vocal and instrumental solos. "An Amateur Devil," a screen comedy-drama featuring Bryant Washburn, will be the main picture. The usual Mack Sennett comedy, Travelogue and St. Denis Weekly will be on the program.

CAPITAL OF AUSTRALIA.

Q.—Will you please inform me if Melbourne is still capital of Australia; or have Parliament buildings been erected at Canberra?—C. R. G.

A.—At present the Federal Government of Australia has its seat at Melbourne, pending the building of the new capital city of Canberra.

WORDS OF JULIUS CAESAR.

Q.—Who used these three Latin words and on what occasion: Veni, vidi, vici?—A. C. C.

A.—Julius Caesar is credited with the saying, which means, "I came, I saw, I conquered," in connection with his victories in Pontus, a kingdom of Asia Minor, B.C. 47. The historian Suetonius states that the words were displayed before Caesar's title in his public triumph, to indicate the rapidity with which the campaign was concluded. Plutarch, in his life of Caesar, says the latter, in the account he gave one of his Roman friends of his victory over Pharnaces Pontius at Zela in Pontus, used the three words as a concise summary of the expedition.

THE UNION JACK.

Q.—Would you kindly publish a full description of "The Union Jack?"—W. A. R.

A.—The Union Jack is formed by the union of the Crosses of St. George, for England, St. Andrew for Scotland, and St. Patrick, for Ireland. Before the United Kingdom came into being, and when the three kingdoms were separate, the flag of England was the banner of St. George, a red cross on a white field. In 1603 King James the Sixth of Scotland became also King James the First of England. Three years later, on April 12th, 1606, the banner of St. George was amalgamated with the banner of St. Andrew, a white diagonal cross on a blue field. This combination obtained the name of Union Jack, in allusion to the union of the Crowns of England and Scotland. The word Jack is usually considered a corruption of the word Jacobus, Jacques or James, but this is quite fanciful, as "Jacks" were used before the Union. Upon the parliamentary Union of England and Scotland, May 1, 1707, the Union Jack became the flag of the United Kingdom of Great Britain. This arrangement continued until the parliamentary Union with Ireland, on January 1, 1801, when the banner of St. Patrick, a diagonal red cross on a white field, was amalgamated with it, and the Union Jack as we now know it became the flag of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland. The Union Jack may be flown by all British subjects, private or official, everywhere on land.

SIR HENRY IRVING.

Q.—Will you be good enough to tell me the date of Sir Henry Irving's death?—Constant Reader.

PROFESSOR J. H. ROBINSON.

Q.—Is Professor James Harvey Robinson, of Columbia University, who wrote "Medieval and Modern Times," (the history used in most of the Ontario High Schools), a Roman Catholic or a Protestant?—J. H. M.

A.—He is a Protestant.

"WHERE IGNORANCE IS BLISS."

Q.—Will you kindly tell me the author of the saying: "Where ignorance is bliss 'tis folly to be wise."—M. F. F.

A.—"The words, "Where ignorance is bliss 'tis folly to be wise" are by the noted English poet, Thomas Gray (1716-1771), best known for his beautiful "Elegy in a Country Churchyard." They are to be found in a poem entitled, "On a Distant Prospect of Eton College."

WIRELESS TELEGRAPHY.

Q.—Will you please inform me as to whom I must write in Montreal or elsewhere in applying for a position as wireless telegrapher on ocean-going vessels; also to whom I must apply in reference to position on Great Lake vessels?—Q. R. M.

A.—For this information write to Mr. A. L. MacCallum, manager Marconie Wireless Telegraphy Company of Canada, Limited, 111 St. Sacrament street, Montreal.

SCOTTISH BIRTH RECORD.

Q.—Will you please let me know where to write to get the correct age of a person born in Argyleshire, Scotland; about the year 1785 or 1750, and what it will cost?—D. A.

A.—Write to: The Registrar-General, General Registry Office of Births, Deaths and Marriages, Edinburgh, Scotland. We are unable to say what this will cost, but the Scottish officials will give you full information.

"LEAD, KINDLY LIGHT."

Q.—What prompted Cardinal Newman to write "Lead, Kindly Light"?—W. P. C.

A.—It was written in 1833, while he was exploring the coasts of the Mediterranean in an orange boat. He gave the following explanation of the circumstances: "I was aching to get home; yet, for want of a vessel, I was kept at Palermo for three weeks. I began to visit the churches, and they calmed my impatience, though I did not attend any of the services. At last I got off in an orange boat, bound for Marseilles. Then it was that I wrote the lines, 'Lead, Kindly Light.' We were becalmed a whole week in the Straits of Bonifacio. I was writing the whole of my passage. When the popularity of the hymn was mentioned later, he said: "But, you see, it is not the hymn, but the tune, that has gained the popularity. The tune is by Dykes, and Dr. Dykes was a great master." The words of this famous hymn first appeared in "The British Magazine" for March, 1834.

A WOMAN'S FURY.

Q.—Please say where I can find the quotation, "Hell has no fury like a woman's scorn," with the name of the author.—G. W. S.

A.—The passage, "Heaven has no rage like love to hatred turned; nor hell a fury like a woman scorned," is to be found in a play entitled "The Mourning Bride," by William Congreve (1670-1729), the English dramatist. In a play by Colley Cibber (1671-1757), another English dramatist, these words occur: "We shall find no fiend in hell can match the fury of a disappointed woman."

WORLD SCRIPTURES.

Q.—What Scriptures are there, besides the Christian Bible and the Koran? Where can such be purchased?—L. C. La Z.

A.—If you have access to the Harvard Classics, edited by Dr. Charles W. Eliot, you will find two volumes entitled, Sacred Writings, including selections from the Sanskrit, Hebrew, Christian, Buddhist, Hindu and Mohammedan writings. The "Sacred Books of the East" series are to be found in some public libraries. The Bhagavad Gita, or Song Celestial of India, is available in several translations, and in quite inexpensive form.

TO TREAT STUTTERING.

Q.—Can you tell me a good remedy for stuttering?—A Stutterer.

A.—The treatment for stuttering or stammering consists almost entirely of education in proper voice production. The stutterer, if a child, should be removed from the others from whom he is learning to stutter. Later on, the cure depends upon the amount of care with which the person strives to regulate his organs of speech. He must strive to recognize the difference between those syllables and letters which are produced with full voice and those which have little voice. For instance, in "Peter" and "Beater," the first letter is hardly sounded in the first, the stress going upon the "e," while in "Beater" the "b" is given its full sound. The stutterer's difficulty, in many cases, arises from a reversal of the process, and disappears when he learns to recognize the difference. The particular care to do, before starting a course of treatment, is to remain absolutely silent for a week, with a view to losing the faulty method of speech. A perfect cure is only to be obtained by the practice of deliberate, measured speech. Reading aloud is to be recommended to this end.

GLASGOW'S POPULATION.

Q.—Will you please state what the population of Glasgow, Scotland, is and oblige?—Mrs. M. D.

A.—Glasgow's population in 1920, was officially estimated at 1,114,656.

A.—Write to The Census Bureau, Department of Trade and Commerce Washington, D.C.

"THE GREAT CITY."

Q.—Will you please give me the correct form of the saying to the effect that the greatest city is that which contains the greatest man?—M. W. W.

A.—In the "Song of the Broad Axe," in "Leaves of Grass," by Walt Whitman (1819-1892), the great American poet, these words are to be found: "The great city is that which has the greatest man or woman."

ECLIPSE OF SUN IN 1856.

Q.—Was there a total eclipse of the sun in 1856, the year that witnessed the end of the Crimean War? If so, will you please give the date of it?—E. W.

A.—There were four eclipses in the year 1856, two of the sun and two of the moon. A total eclipse of the sun occurred on April 5th of that year, as an application of the Saros will show. This, however, will not furnish the exact time nor the precise degree of totality. This answer is furnished by the Rev. W. T. H. Cromble of Kingsbury Que., secretary of Montreal Branch of the Royal Astronomical Society of Canada.

MOUNTING A BIRD.

Q.—To mount a bird, what preparation should be used to dry up the flesh?—F. M.

A.—The main principle is to remove all the flesh from the skin of the bird so that the preservative may be applied to every part of the inner surface, where it will act directly on the roots of the feathers. In the case of very large birds it may be necessary to soak the unfeathered part of the legs and feet in strong pickle for twenty-four hours to prevent decay and damage from insects. After skinning the bird, powder on the inside of the skin with a small brush a mixture of equal parts of powdered white arsenic and powdered alum. If during skinning and cleaning the skin has dried so the powder will not stick, moisten inside of skin with water before applying the mixture. If preferred, the following arsenical solution may be used: Commercial arsenic, one pound; bicarbonate of soda, one half pound, and water, five pints. Boiled until the arsenic and soda have dissolved, stirring frequently. Use a vessel at least twice as large as necessary to contain the quantity as it foams up while boiling. Pay particular attention to the bones, wings and legs, skull and root of the tail. If the bird is not to be mounted immediately the skin may be kept soft in a solution of glycerine, two parts and carbolic acid one part. Keep the poison well labelled and well out of the way of children.

ISLAND OF ANTICOSTI.

Q.—1. Can you tell me who owns the Island of Anticosti? 2. What happened to the Anticosti Company incorporated in 1872, capital $2,500,000? 3 Are stocks in this company of any value today?—Baldwin.

A.—1. Anticosti is an island in the Province of Quebec. In 1896 it was purchased by M. Henri Menier, the French chocolate manufacturer, who is now represented by his son, M. Gaston Menier. 2. We cannot say. 3. We cannot say.

IMMIGRATION TO CANADA.

Q.—Was there any European immigration to Canada last year? If so, what are the official figures?—"Ignorance."

A.—Returns of immigration to Canada during the calendar year 1920 show that 75,805 immigrants arrived from Great Britain, 48,866 from the United States, and 22,704 from all other countries. The figures for 1919 were: British, 57,251; United States, 52,064; and other countries, 8,318.

SEVEN WONDERS OF THE WORLD.

Q.—Would you please publish the answers to the following questions: What are the seven wonders of the world? Are there any more than seven now. Would you please give a description of each?—School Scholars.

A.—The seven wonders of the ancient world were: The Pyramids of Egypt, the Pharos of Egypt, the Hanging Gardens of Babylon, the Temple of Diana at Ephesus, the statue of Jupiter, by Phidias, the Mausoleum of Artemisia, and the Colossus of Rhodes. The seven wonders of the Middle Ages were: The Coliseum of Rome, the Catacombs of Alexandria, the Great Wall of China, Stonehenge, the Leaning Tower of Pisa, the Porcelain Tower of Nanking, and the Mosque of St. Sophia in Constantinople. The seven modern wonders of the world are given as: Wireless telegraphy, the telephone, the aeroplane, radium, antiseptics and antitoxins, spectrum analysis and X rays.

SUBMERGING THE SUBMARINE.

Q.—Would you kindly explain, how is a submarine submerged? Is there any difference for the merchant submarine?—A. S. J.

A.—The following quotation from the Encyclopaedia Britannica will explain the principle of submersion: "In 1875 Mr. J. P. Holland produced his first plan for a submarine vessel, and in 1877 he constructed a small experimental boat, which embodied features now accepted as essentials in American design. His plan enquired that when, for the purpose of diving, water was admitted into compartments of limited size, the total weight of the boat and its contents should still be a little less than the total buoyancy. Immersion was maintained by the action of horizontal rudders, which gave a downward tendency so long as the boat had any forward motion, and there always remained enough surplus buoyancy to bring the boat to the surface on the stoppage of her propelling machinery. Any weight consumed on board was automatically compensated for by admission of water, so that the total weight remained fixed and constant; while the confinement of water to small compartments further secured a fixed centre of gravity." The principle is the same for all submarines.

PSYCHICAL RESEARCH.

Q.—Please give me some information concerning the American and London Societies of Psychical Research—how they were originated and the results of their work.—A. B.

A.—The British Society for Psychical Research was founded in 1882. Its presidents have included Prof. Balfour Stewart, the Right Hon. Arthur Balfour, Prof. William James, of Harvard, Sir William Crookes and Lady Rayleigh. The American Society for Psychical Research was founded later. Both societies have published many volumes of "Proceedings." They were founded "for the purpose of making an organized attempt to investigate that large group of debatable phenomena, designated by such terms as mesmeric, psychical and spiritualistic." The secretary of the British society is Miss I. Newton, 20 Hanover Square, London, W. 1. Regarding the American society, address the Secretary, 44 East 23rd street, New York. Generally-speaking these two societies have worked along the following lines: 1. An examination of the nature and extent of any influence which may be exerted by one mind upon another, apart from any generally recognized mode of perception. 2. The study of hypnotism and the forms of so-called mesmeric trance, clairvoyance and other allied phenomena. 3. A critical revision of Reichenbach's researches into certain alleged organizations called "sensitive." 4. A careful investigation of any reports, resting on strong testimony, regarding apparitions at the moment of death or otherwise, or regarding disturbances in houses reputed to be haunted. 5. An inquiry into the various physical phenomena commonly called spiritualistic, with an attempt to discover their causes and general laws. 6. The collection and collation of existing materials bearing on the history of these subjects.

MRS. GEORGIE SHELDON.

Q.—Could you give me a short life history of Mrs. Georgie Sheldon, writer —where she was born, educated, etc., and oblige—A. W. F.

A.—"Mrs. Georgie Sheldon" was Mrs. George Sheldon Downs. She was born at Wrentham, Mass., June 5, 1843, the daughter of Edwin A. Forbush and his wife Malvina F. Ware. She was educated at the Ladies' College Institute, Worcester, Mass., and in 1868 married George Sheldon Downs. She became noted as a writer of fiction, first of serials, later of books. Altogether she published a total of fifty or sixty titles. Among her novels are: "Brownie's Triumphs," "Earle Wayne's Nobility," "A True Aristocrat," "Audrey's Recompence," "Betsy's Transformation," "Katherine's Sheaves," "Step by Step," "Gertrude Elliot's Crucible," and "Redeemed."

VISCOUNT MORLEY.

Q.—Would you please give a brief sketch of the life of Viscount Morley?—A Reader.

A.—John Morley, First Viscount Morley of Blackburn, was born at Blackburn, Lancashire, England, December 24, 1838, the son of Jonathan Morley, surgeon. He was educated at Cheltenham College and Lincoln College, Oxford, and was called to the Bar at Lincoln's Inn in 1873. He began his career in London journalism on the Morning Star and became editor of the Fortnightly Review and the Pall Mall Gazette. An ardent Liberal, he sat in Parliament as member for Newcastle-on-Tyne from 1883 to 1895 and as member for the Montrose Burghs from 1896 to 1908. He was twice Chief Secretary for Ireland, with a seat in the Cabinet, 1886 and 1892-95. He became a Bencher of Lincoln's Inn in 1891, and a Trustee of the British Museum in 1894. From 1905 to 1910 he was Secretary of State for India and from 1910 to 1914 Lord President of the Council. The meantime, in 1908, he had been created a peer as Viscount Morley of Blackburn. He resigned from the Cabinet on the outbreak of the European war, in August, 1914. Lord Morley is a great writer on political philosophical and biographical subjects, and his published works include: "Edmund Burke," 1867; "Critical Miscellanies", 1871, second series, 1877; "Voltaire," 1871; "Rousseau," 1873; "The Struggle for National Education," 1873; "On Compromise," 1874; "Diderot and the Encyclopaedists," 1878; "Burke," 1879; "The Life of Richard Cobden," 1881; "Studies in Literature," 1891; "Oliver Cromwell," 1900; "Life of Gladstone," 1903; "Recollections," 1917. The famous library collected by Lord Acton was presented to him by Andrew Carnegie and passed on to Cambridge University. A bust of Lord Morley was presented by Indian friends to the National Liberal Club in 1918. He is a member of the Order of Merit, a Fellow of the Royal Society and has received honorary degrees from the Universities of Glasgow, Cambridge, St. Andrews, Edinburgh and Oxford. He has been Chancellor of Manchester University since 1908, and is a member of the Royal Historical Manuscripts Commission.

AUSTRALIAN SETTLEMENT.

Q.—Where have I to write to in order to get information regarding persons desiring to become settlers in Australia or in South Sea Islands as planters?—A. R.

A.—Regarding Australia, write to the Right Hon. Andrew Fisher, High Commissioner for Australia, Australia House, Strand, London, W.C., England. Regarding the South Sea Islands, write to Hon. Sir Thomas Mackenzie, K.C.M.G., High Commissioner for New Zealand, 413-416 Strand, London, W.C.

STEVENSON AND SCOTLAND.

Q.—Will you be kind enough to republish the piece about Robert Louis Stevenson saying "The greatest thing on earth is to be born a Scotsman?"—T. M.

A.—"The happiest lot on earth is to be born a Scotchman," is a saying to be found in the fourth chapter, entitled "The Scot Abroad," of "The Silverado Squatters," by Robert Louis Stevenson (1850-1894), a work first published in 1885. The famous writer — then in the days of his apprenticeship—is describing the longing of the Scot abroad for his native land, and proceeds: "There is no special loveliness in that gray country, with its rainy, sea-beat archipelago; its fields of dark mountain-side; its unsightly places, black with coal, its treeless, sour, unfriendly looking cornlands; its quaint, gray, castled city, where the bells clash on a Sunday, and the winds, equalls and the salt showers fly and beat. I do not even know if I desire to live there; but let me hear, in some far land, a kindred voice sing out, 'Oh, why left I my hame,' and it seems at once as if no beauty under the kind heavens and no society of the wise and good can repay me for my absence from my country. And though I think I would rather die elsewhere, yet in my heart of hearts I long to be buried among good Scots clods. I will say it fairly, it grows on me with every year: there are no stars so lovely as Edinburgh street-lamps. When I forget thee, Auld Reekie, may my right hand forget its cunning. The happiest lot on earth is to be born a Scotchman. You must pay for it in many ways, as for all other advantages on earth; you have to learn the paraphrases and the shorter catechism; you generally take to drink; your youth, as far as I can find out, is a time of louder war against society, or more outcry and tears and turmoil than if you had been born, for instance, in England. But somehow life is warmer and closer; the earth burns more readily; the lights of home shine softer on the rainy street; the very names, endeared in verse and music, cling nearer round our hearts. An Englishman may meet an Englishman tomorrow, upon Chimborazo, and neither of them care; but when the Scotch wine-grower told me of Mona Meg, it was like magic.

"From the dim shieling on the misty island
Mountains divide us, and a world of seas;
Yet still our hearts are true, our hearts are Highland,
And we, in dreams, behold the Hebrides."

"And, Highland and Lowland, all our hearts are Scotch."

THERE seems to be a growing tendency here to condemn motion pictures that receive general endorsation elsewhere. It is, of couse, one way of being peculiar.

There sometimes is logical sequence in photoplay titles. As a case in point Owen Moore will follow "The Chicken in the Case," with "A Divorce of Convenience," now in the finishing process.

* * *

Max Reinhardt, having relinquished control of the Grosses Schausplelhaus in Berlin, is about to come to America to produce the Viennese play, "Gitana," for one of the moving picture concerns which carries the drama as a sideline.

* * *

Lowell Sherman, who has the role of the villain in the Griffith picture play of "Way Down East,"—condemned as unfit for Montreal, most likely because it has been endorsed by the clergy everywhere else, — was engaged by George Cohan to head the cast of the company giving "The Tavern," that Mr. Cohan sent to Chicago.

* * *

Mabel Normand, heroine of "Mickey" and one of the most celebrated of screen artists has been engaged by Mack Sennett for a series of productions on a contract involving a million dollar motion picture. She thus returns to the studio where her initial fame was won and where she began, but a few years ago as extra girl.

* * *

Dagmar Dalgren recently brought in a sure-fire story for the Vanity Fair Girls to giggle over. Dagmar and a party of friends were making a midnight return to Los Angeles from the famous "Ship Cafe." At the outskirts of Venice they noticed a "tired" man in full evening dress seated on a corner curbing. They stopped their machine to see if they could be of any assistance. "S-s-sure you can do me f-f-favor," said the unsteady mariner. "Hic—drive me back to the Prohibition Banquet."

* * *

Mme. Nazimova has practically completed the supporting cast for her forthcoming production of "Camille." Rudolph Valentino, who recently played the leading male role in "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," will act Armand, the lover. Arthur Hoyt, Zeffie Tillbury, Ruth Miller, Rex Cherryman and Consuelo Flowerton have also been selected. Ray Smallwood will direct.

"The County Fair" of other days is now on the screen. Edythe Chapman is seen as Aunt Abbie, the part which Neil Burgess immortalized. "The County Fair" on the screen has a great deal that the original version couldn't have. For instance, it has Wesley Barry, who catches the greased pig and climbs the greased pole at the fair, and then puts his $10 on Cold Molasses at 10 to 1. The racing scene is made the real thing on the screem; on the stage the horses merely worked on a sort of treadmill.

* * *

Robert McKim famous screen villain who plays in Ben Hampton pictures, says that the villain role is better than the hero role any day. Here's why: "Villains sin blissfully and triumphantly for six reels, and during that time have all the best of it," says Mr. McKim. "The seventh reel is where they get it in the neck. Hero gets it in the neck for six reels and has the best of it in the last. Now who wouldn't be best man for six rounds out of seven.

"Earthbound," the great spiritualistic photoplay, prohibited for Montreal, has been already booked by over one hundred cinema theatres in London and the home counties. "Earthbound" is a film-sermon, based on the words "How do you know that the battles you have so often had with your conscience are not really with some one begging you to do right—from the other side of the Veil?"

A new Broadwest film which will be released in Canada in the near future by Anglo-Canadian Plays, Ltd., is entitled "The Romance of a Movie Star." It carries a great cast headed by Violet Hopson as Anna George, the Movie Star, and it includes Stewart Rome, Gregory Scott, Cameron Carr, Mercy Hatton, and Violet Elliott. It shows the picturegoer what life in film land is really like.

"Aylwin," a Hepworth picture play produced by Henry Edwards, the famous British producer, is a screen version of the classic by Theodore Watts-Dunton. It presents Chrissie White in a most difficult and unique role, and Henry Edwards plays the part of Hal Aylwin. Other Hepworth favourities, including Gwynne Herbert, Gerald Ames and John MacAndrews, have important parts in this picture play. All the rugged beauty of the Welsh mountain district, including some wonderful pictures of Snowdon, is a feature of the picture. It will be released in Canada by Anglo-Canadian Picture Plays, Ltd.

The speeding up of British film production has been particularly noticeable during the past year, and one of the busiest companies has been the Broadwest. For the current year the Broadwest Company have some excellent stories to be adapted to the screen. Among them are "Levity Hicks" by Tom Gallon, and "The Penniless Millionaire" by D. C. Murray, both of which lend themselves admirably for film production.

I wonder how many Montrealers know that Mack Sennett is a native of Canada, born January 17th, 1880, in the Village of Danville, Quebec. As a lad, he was gifted with a voice of unusual beauty and power—typically a Celtic voice that took him into unusual choir experience and later into musical comedy and vaudeville, in which, as a very young man, he enjoyed a substantial and encouraging success. Mack Sennett was one of the first to appreciate the importance that motion pictures were to assume in the amusement life of the world, and in the early days of screen activities, when most persons looked upon the "game" as trivial and transient, he cast his fortunes in with a small group of players who, like himself, believed that "the motion picture industry was just in its infancy." He became prominently identified in the Biograph Company with D. W. Griffith, Mary Pickford and others now celebrated as players, or producers or both.

* * *

In order to safeguard the morals of our young people in Montreal, our local censorboard passed for exhibition during the past week a film so redolent with murder, assassination, thuggery, and general violence that even the operator found himself desirous of going home, sick. It is just as well to be quite thorough, while you are about it, in these matters, after all.

New British Company Under Trans-Canada to Appear Here in Stock

Local theatregoers will find more than ordinary interest in the announcement that for the week of Feb. 28th, a new trans-contintental production will visit this city, with the presentation at His Majesty's Theatre, of Trans-Canada's English Players, a new organization of prominent London artists, in the famous romantic drama, "The Midnight Wedding," direct from London where it has played to capacity houses at the Garrick Theatre for many months.

Consonant with the announced policy of Trans-Canada Theatres, Ltd., of giving the Canadian theatregoers the best English plays by the best English artists, this company has been assembled with the object of presenting throughout the Dominion a repertoire of the most popular English successes, both in romantic dramas and other plays.

Among the leading artists will be found Mr. Lonsdale, for many years a prominent member of the Lyceum company; Mr. Norman Gannon, who has played leads both in London and South Africa; and Mr. Frederick Ross, the brilliant actor who played the title-role in the great production of "Drake" at His Majesty's Theatre in London under the late Sir Herbert Tree's direction.

The company will be under the joint direction of Trans-Canada Theatres, Ltd., Mr. Walter Howard, the popular English actor-author, and Mr. Percy Hutchison, the well-known actor-manager, whose work is already widely known throughout the Dominion.

George Arliss in "The Devil" at the Imperial Theatre

A MOTION picture of quite unusual character and merit will occupy the screen at the Imperial for the coming week, opening tomorrow. It is entitled "The Devil," and the producers were fortunate enough to secure as the artist to portray the title-role the distinguished actor, George Arliss, who created that role in the play from which the screen drama has been prepared. The result, combined with the utmost care in casting and an elaboration of detail in production that indicate lavish expenditure directed by a master-hand, has been a picture which comes very close to realizing the ideal that the screen shall convey to the beholder an impression of absolute conviction.

* * *

There is no deliberate or obvious attempt in this picture to lend verisimilitude to the personal appearance of Dr. Muller as the Devil. It was apparently deemed wiser to let Mr. Arliss's art make the identity of the suave, polished personification of Evil clear, without any adventitious aids of make-up or disguise or facial likeness. The decision was a wise one, for it placed upon Mr. Arliss a tremendous burden which he carries with masterly ease. He draws for us a portrait so sharp-set, so clearly defined, so rich in subtle detail, that he conveys the central idea of the story to us without any need of spoken words. It is a veritable triumph of what I must describe, for want of a better phrase, as pictorial acting. Yet it is achieved with a minimum of obvious effort. At no time does Mr. Arliss appear to be producing any studied effect; yet we cannot but realize that every expression, every fleeting change that sweeps over his features, every gesture, every movement, is being studied with meticulous care, and with the keen insight of a great stage artist.

* * *

I am not at all sure that the conventional ending of the picture is worthy of the artistry that characterizes the action, staging and photography up to that point. Yet it is likely to meet with popular approval, and may well be taken as satisfactory to the general public, in sentiment at all events.

The cast includes such distinctive artists as Miss Sylvia Breamer, Miss Lucy Cotton, Mrs. Arliss, Mr. Edmund Lowe, and Mr. Roland Bottomley. The staging is magnificent, and the photography remarkable, even in these days of film extravagance and technical surprises. "The Devil" is certainly not a picture to be missed.

Montreal Junior League to Give New Review Soon

Members of the Montreal Junior League who expect to appear in the Review called "Looping the Loop," to be produced by the League at Easter time at the New Empire Theatre for the benefit of the Griffintown Girls' Club, met at the studio of the producers in the King's Hall Building last night to cast the various parts. Over forty members filled in blanks stating what parts they wished to play. The review will consist of fourteen numbers, including songs and dances and one-act plays. The music for the production has been written by Keith Handyside, and the book and lyrics by Hamilton Harrower and H. P. Toler.

After glancing at some of the movie publicity matter which reposes in our handsome wickerwork w. p. b., we are inclined to think that in the case of the British pictures the realization will be better than the anticipation. Which could never be so in the case of the films to which the aforesaid publicity refers. If it wasn't John Bunyan it was someone else who said that empty barrels make the most uproar.

When Your Thoughts Turn to Home — See
"DOWN HOME"
One tensely gripping situation follows another in this stirring "heart interest" picture—and through it all, like a silken skein, runs a charming love tale.

Each one of these men played a part in the life of little Nancy.—Dabney Todd, with his quaintly humorous philosophy.—poor, weak Joe, her father. —"Cash" Bailey, with his sage advice, — the Shaynes, father and son, who plotted against her, and Chet, the sturdy youngster with whom she found her ultimate happiness.
So true,—so vivid is the picture that is drawn that her adventures and misadventures will hold you engrossed, for the production seems to throb and pulsate with the very breath of life.

MARGARET CURRIE'S CHATS

SILENCE IS GOLDEN.

Paragraphers all over this continent have expended their stores of alleged wit on the case of the small girl who talked for eight days, practically without stopping. Perhaps the comment that has been used most frequently is that she was merely "precocious."

We are all somewhat used to the charge that women talk too much and I'm inclined to agree with it. I think we do.

"The gods are silent; only monkeys chatter," was a Chinaman's rebuke to a talkative woman, and really, when you listen to some women, you can forgive even the severity of the rebuke.

One is often irresistibly reminded of the fairy-tale in which the princess was so afflicted that every time she opened her mouth, toads fell out of it, when one hears the disagreeable things that some women say about others. The tactful woman often makes no comment when she could say a great deal and uses silence to save a situation that might otherwise prove disastrous. I'm sure I would be right in saying that more than half the quarrels between women are due to indiscreet speech.

Silence, used properly, can express disdain, disgust, disagreement or annoyance. It can be more cutting than words, and it is the most infuriating weapon you may use against an antagonist—for how can you answer silence? The silent insult is usually the deadliest and the most difficult to forgive.

Silence often expresses emotion better than words, as that which follows the announcement of some great news, the dumbness of deep sorrow, or the absolute inarticulation of deep anger.

Actors realize this and often make use of the dramatic pause.

The woman who rambles on, like the brook, forever and does not know where to stop, is quite the most tiresome of all the bores who could be inflicted upon us. You long to shriek at her, "Do stop" when she is pouring forth a mingled stream of platitudes and gossip, all alike uninteresting and some of us know the rare joy of the friend who does not need to be entertained nor does she think it necessary to entertain us but sits in silent companionship with us.

Women would be kinder to each other with silence than with speech, would make themselves more lovable and more to be desired by men if they could know when to speak and when to keep quiet.

Study the advantages of silence and I'm sure you will agree that though speech may be silver, silence is golden.

MARGARET CURRIE'S MAIL

All correspondence in this department should be addressed to Margaret Currie.

All communications must have name and address signed, and must be written on only one side of the paper.

Please address legal and other questions to Editor, Notes and Queries, and not to this department. Medical questions are to be submitted to Dr. Huber, care of The Star, and if a private reply is required a self-addressed and stamped envelope must be enclosed.

Theatrical and motion picture questions should be addressed to the Dramatic Editor

IN DOUBT.

(1) I am sorry, but I do not discuss questions dealing with religion in my columns. (2) The lemon should be squeezed over the fish.

TOO YOUNG.

Do you think a boy of twenty and a girl of nineteen are too young to be engaged? MUSHY.

Ans.—I think they are rather young.

HE GETS TIRED.

I am a fellow considered to be an all-round sport, no matter where I go, either with lady friends or gentlemen friends. I am also good-looking, even if I do say so; but what I would like to know is this: Why is it, no matter which girl I go out with, I soon get tired of her? Now I am going around with a sweet little girl, but somehow or other I can't seem to get along with her, and I would be very grateful if you would kindly answer my question. Because I am getting along in age I am considering settling down.

GENUINE BLUES.

Ans.—You haven't "struck the right combination."

THE DAUGHTER'S HOME.

Will you help a despairing mother? Our daughter is twenty-five years old. Lately she has ceased to bring her friends to her home. She accepts hospitality from her other girl friends, but she never brings them home. We have a nice home, as nice as theirs. She always seems to feel injured, is always thinking and looking for slights. Says her father and I, and her brothers slight her friends. We do nothing of the sort. We would do anything to make her happy. She goes to her friends' homes, and pours out a tale of woe, and they pet her and make her think she is a martyr. She seems to enjoy being miserable. What can we do? Will you write some words of help and guidance for us? Wishing you a happy new year, and with many thanks.

A DESPAIRING MOTHER.

Ans.—There must be some reason for such an attitude on her part. Can't you find out just what it is and try to remove it? Why not give a surprise party for her? Ask all her friends, tell them not to tell her, arrange a nice little supper and show her in every way possible that her friends are yours.

THEATRE PARTY.

I would be very much pleased if you would tell me how to arrange a "theatre party" for girls about eighteen. LETTY.

Ans.—Invite the girls, secure the necessary number of seats, ask an older woman to act as chaperone, and arrange to have afternoon tea or supper after the theatre. Ask the girls to meet at a certain time, either at the theatre or at your house.

"THE THREE SISTERS."

Madame Virtue and Miss Genius,
With their sister, Reputation,
Travelled once through distant countries
On a tour of observation.

Ere they started Genius hinted
That by some unlucky blunder
As they travelled through the kingdoms
They might chance to drift asunder.

Virtue said: "If I am missing,
And you deem me worth the trouble,
Seek me at the courts of monarchs
Or the dwellings of the noble.

"If among the high and mighty
You should fail to find me present,
You may meet with better fortune
In the cottage of the peasant."

Genius said: "If from my sisters
I should chance to prove a roamer,
Seek me at the tomb of Shakespeare
Or before the shrine of Homer."

"Ah!" said Reputation, sighing,
"It is easy of discerning,
Each of you may freely wander
With the prospect of returning.

"But, I pray you, guard me closely,
For despite your best endeavor,
If you miss me for a moment,
I am lost and gone forever."

From FLUFFY ETHEL.

CARDS.

(1) Will you kindly tell me (to settle an argument), if it is correct to send cards of good wishes to people living in the same town? Ours is a very small one. (2) A month ago my sister and I visited a friend for the first time, and on leaving, we invited her to do the same as we did. She said she would. At New Year's we both received a card from her. It seems to me it means that she does not care to pay back the visit, and by sending cards we owe her a visit. What I want to know is: Should we render the visit, and was it correct of her to send cards? I love your page very much, and admired "Divine Youth" in last Friday's Star.

AVONLEA.

Ans.—(1) Yes. (2) I would wait either until she invites you, or returns the visit before calling again.

DOES HE CARE?

I am writing to seek your advice as many others have done. I am a young girl of twenty-one, and kept company with a young man just before the war. When war broke out he enlisted in the First Contingent, and whilst overseas wrote m... ...rly until just before Armistice was signed, and then all correspondence ceased. I didn't hear from him until a few days ago, and he called on me, offering for his excuse that he had been away in Detroit until just recently. Do you not think that if this man cared as much as he professed he would have written me before? Might say I care for this man a great deal, but my parents object to my keeping company with him. "AVOLON."

Ans.—I would think he might have written you before, but you must remember that many returned men have been almost dazed since they got back, and are just beginning to pick up the threads of their lives again. I would not be too hard on him if I were you.

EXCUSES.

I have a young girl friend whom I think a great deal about, and she has been keeping company with a boy for the past four years. This gentleman seems to care a great deal about her, but recently she has found out that she does not care so much about him. A few nights ago whilst walking along the street with her we met this boy going into a pool-room instead of keeping an appointment he had made with her for that evening. He did not phone her, nor offer any excuse for this behaviour. Do you think this would be sufficient reason for her to give him up, as she has no other excuse? "PEGGY."

Ans.—If she doesn't care about him, that is sufficient excuse.

BANKS.

(1) Why is it that when writing out a cheque one has to cross out the words "or bearer," and write out "order" up above? (2) Also, what is the meaning of 1-106 on a cheque? Is it the Bank of Montreal only who uses this mark, or have other banks also got it? (3) Is the author William J. Locke, still living? If so, does he still write, and what is the name of his latest book? Is he an Englishman? (4) Do you find my handwriting very hard to read? "BABS."

Ans.—(1) One has to write "order" above, which is equivalent to endorsing the cheque. (2) The number on the cheque is entered into a book and thus it is kept track of. All banks don't use it. (3) Yes, his latest book being "Balthazar." He is an Englishman. (4) No.

"OSCULATION."

May I reply to letter by "Old-Fashioned Twenty" of November 30? Although I am over twenty—but was that age once upon a time—I cannot recall a single instance in my earlier days when I desired to kiss any girl at first sight unless it should have been I was given unmistakable signs that she was willing and desirous to osculate. That, of course, was a few years ago. Things, as well as people, have changed, especially those charming up-to-date young women—excuse me. I hate that word lady, or even gentleman, I like the good old Biblical words—Man and woman. To continue, times have so changed, for now when we see those sweet creatures flitting about with their high heels and tight pointed toes, transparent stockings—should I say hose? short skirts, so cute and tight, open waist front with a dinky piece of fur over the shoulders, or perhaps, for preference, carried in the hand; a hat coquettishly tilted to partially conceal that curl just above the eye, the face gotten up with such perfect care with powder and paint—regardless of present expenses and future results—it is hardly to be expected that any man would not wish to hold that same piece of delicacy to his heart, if only for one single second. If the girls do not like to be made much of—why do they "fix-up" in such a manner?—not one of them, but nearly all these days, with ages ranging from fourteen to forty, and then some.

Now Miss Currie, can "Old Fashioned Twenty" solve the reason why she is approached. It must be her own fault. If she paints, powders and bedecks herself as above she is inviting such attention to some. If it is she is not one who follows the present day's vulgarity (excuse the force, I can't help speaking my mind), it is for that very reason she is admired by a class who consider her far above the make-ups, and even then would not approach her in such a manner if she were not to give him inducement to do so. Any woman of culture can protect herself from a man's insults if she so desires it. DISGUSTED.

FASHIONS FOR TODAY.

New Blouses Ideal Between-Season Garments.

No Patterns Are Sold With This.

As a between-season aid in freshening up the wardrobe, nothing can quite take the place of a few new blouses. A suit that has ceased to be or to feel new will take on quite an air of distinction if it is accompanied by a charming frilly blouse, other new accessories such as veil, neckwear, gloves, perhaps a bright new bag, and certainly well kept shoes.

Blouse styles have been so stable for several seasons that there is no trick at all about taking care of that part of the wardrobe. Novel trimming touches, pretty fabrics and color combinations, etc., are about the only features that require much thought. Blouse length has remained practically unchanged for several seasons and the coming spring is not offering any revolutionary suggestions. Hip length as to blouse proper, a trifle below the elbow as to sleeves, and collarless as to neck, may be taken as the style guide.

The sketch shows a modish blouse recently displayed by a high-class designer. It was made of heavy crepe de Chine in a rose pink and trimmed simply with embroidery in black. The motifs are so clearly defined as to give the suggestion of applique work on the neck and front of bodice. The bottom is finished with three folds covered thickly with a line embroidery in black so as to almost simulate fringe. A black velvet ribbon is inserted through slot arranged for it and tied in the back. Green and black, henna and gray, or blue and orange might be combined in this blouse with good effect.

The all-lace blouse, fashioned very much like the hip-length fabric blouses and sometimes finished with edgings of crystal beads, is also a late winter and early spring favorite in the line-up of rather dressy blouses.

TABLE TALK.

After the mistress of the house has done all she can to have her dining room furnished properly, to have her meals well-cooked and well-served, to have her children healthy and well-mannered, she has not even then fulfilled the whole duty of woman in her dining-room.

She is the presiding genius of the table, and what she says there is likely to determine the tone and substance of what others say. Good health, good appetite and good digestion are of course closely connected, and depend more than we realize upon the state of mind in which we take our food. Good food at a pretty table in a pretty room may fail because those who take it are angry, or unhappy.

The family is hardly ever all together, in our strenuous lives, except at table. Thus the social life of the family as a whole centres round the table. Test your home atmosphere by the average daily table talk, and you are lucky if you do not get an unpleasant shock.

Table talk should not be gossip. Envy, malice and all uncharitableness are not only bad for the soul—they are very bad for the digestion. Table manners must of course be taught, but not by constant fault finding at the table. Rather tactfully, by example, and by a quiet warning before a meal or after it, a wise mother comments on them to a child alone, so that he is not made self-conscious and more awkward than ever.

Above all, silence is rarely golden at the table. People need cheerful diverting talk at their meals. Save your fun, your cheerfulness, your interest in living for the give and take of talk at the table. It will do you and your digestion as much good as it does the children.

HEALTH TALKS.

By JOHN B. HUBER, A.M., M.D.

THE CONSERVATION OF VISION.

Among the many things in modern civilization that tend to impair the human vision is improper illumination, natural or artificial.

Poor lighting is bad; at least equally bad is too intense light. Dr. Ellice M. Alger, of New York, reminds us the human eye is but an expanded portion of the brain; also that vision is an exceptionally tender and complicated function. Any organ exercised well within its limits, tends to increase in power and facility, whilst if over-worked it becomes less and less fitted for any work at all.

A man habitually using his eyes in strong light decomposes his "visual purple" faster than it can be regenerated. Even normal, healthy eyes are strained by over use, especially under unfavorable conditions and in lowered health; and as most eyes are abnormal, or at least, not normal, the individual has to cope with not only a bad environment and lowered health, but also his inherent optical defects.

With the many modern methods of commercial lighting by gas and electricity, the composition of light as well of its intensity, has become important for the ophthalmologist to consider. In the days of oil and candle light, the question was simply one of quanity, the quality being generally soft and benignant. But modern lighting, whether of gas or electric is often so intense as to be extremely fatiguing, and worse.

These means of illumination also contain many more of the violet and ultra-violet rays of the spectrum, which are useful in light therapy and in radiography, but are certainly amiss for illuminating the printed page or the object upon which the artisan must work. Lights that are sufficient to tan and "sunburn" the skin, and perhaps to induce baldness, are no doubt responsible for much of the present day asthenopia (defective vision).

Nor can one doubt the pernicious effect of such illumination upon the deeper optical structures; how much cataract results from this cause, who can say? Certain it is that stokers, glassblowers and the like, who are continually exposed to intense light and heat have an enormously increased liability to cataract.

LITTLE STORIES FOR BEDTIME BY THORNTON W BURGESS

SAMMY JAY HAS A CHANGE OF HEART.

There's no one ever quite so bad
That somewhere way down deep inside
A little goodness does not find
A place wherein to creep and hide.

It is so with Sammy Jay. Yes, sir; it is so with Sammy Jay. You may think that because Sammy Jay is vain, a troublemaker, and a thief he is all bad. He isn't. There is some good in Sammy Jay, just as there is some good in everybody. If there wasn't, Old Mother Nature never, never would allow Sammy Jay to go his mischievous way through the Green Forest. He dearly loves to get other people into all kinds of trouble, and this is one reason why nobody loves him. But if you watch out sharp enough you will find that hidden under that beautiful blue and white coat of his there really is some good. You may have to look a long time for it, but sooner or later you will find it. Johnny Chuck did.

Sammy Jay had already made a lot of trouble for Johnny Chuck. You see he had been the first of the little forest and meadow people to find Johnny Chuck's new house. And then, just to make trouble for Johnny Chuck he had told Reddy Fox about it, and after that he had called Bowser the Hound and Farmer Brown's boy over to it. Now he had discovered Johnny Chuck's greatest secret—that Johnny had a family. What a chance to make trouble now! Sammy started for the Green Forest as fast as his wings could take him. He would tell Reddy Fox and Redtail the Hawk. They were very fond of young Chucks. It would be great fun to see the fright of Johnny Chuck and his family when Reddy Fox or Redtail the Hawk appeared.

Sammy Jay chuckled wickedly as he flew. When he reached the Green Forest and stopped in his favorite hemlock tree to rest he was still chuckling. But by that time it was a different kind of a chuckle. Yes, sir; it was a different kind of a chuckle. It was a better chuckle to hear. The fact is Sammy Jay was no longer chuckling over the thought of the trouble he could make. He was laughing at the memory of how funny those three little baby Chucks had looked sitting up on Johnny Chuck's doorstep and trying to do just whatever Johnny Chuck did. The more he thought about it the more he laughed.

With That Off Flew Sammy Jay to Hunt for Some Other Mischief.

Right in the midst of his laughter along came Redtail the Hawk. Sammy Jay opened his mouth to call to Redtail and tell him about Johnny Chuck's secret. Then he closed it again with a snap.

"I won't tell him yet," said Sammy to himself, "for he might catch one of those baby Chucks and they are such funny little fellows that that would really be too bad. I guess I'll wait a while." And with that off flew Sammy Jay to hunt for some other mischief. You see he had had a change of heart. The little goodness way down deep inside had come out of hiding.

But of course Johnny Chuck didn't know this, and over in his new house in the far corner of the old orchard he and Polly Chuck were worrying and worrying, for they felt sure that now every one would know their secret, and it wouldn't be safe for the dear little baby Chucks to so much as put their funny little noses outside the door.

NEXT STORY: JOHNNY CHUCK IS KEPT BUSY.

OUR YOUNG PEOPLE

AUNT JANE'S LETTER

Dear Boys and Girls:

The prospects do not look very promising for a debate at present as not one boy and only one girl has said she would take part in one, so I fear it would be a very one-sided discussion. Cassie McNeil has suggested that Bert Smith, Eloise Martin, George Kerbealdy and Marjorie Atkinson should be chosen as debators. Let us know if you would be willing to take part if we have one.

Peter hinted that I might criticize the valentine letter he wrote last week, if I did not like it. What did you think of it?

Do you think he can be a fraud
Fishing for a compliment broad?
For his letter surely he knows
Was very good both verse and prose.

Brown Eyes, Washington, has sent a clever drawing, which I hope to have room for on our page today. I have also received an interesting letter from her which I hope to print next week. Peter and I are always glad to get original contributions and to publish as many of them as possible.

I am sorry Morris I cannot send you a copy of The Star in which your story appeared as we are unable to supply back issues of the paper. Will Billy, who wants correspondents, send her address again, as somehow it has disappeared?

Aunt Jane

My Dear Aunt Jane:

Last week I went tobogganing. It is certainly great fun. When you go down the mountain with the wind whistling around your ears, then suddenly you come to earth again when the toboggan turns turtle and yet get a terrific bump. I love all forms of athletic sports and can skate well. My cousin who was in the cavalry promised to teach me to ride a horse.

I am going to describe myself now. That doesn't take very long. I am a girl, terrible disappointment I assure you. I am sixteen years of age. I stand five feet one inch in my stockings. I have brown hair, Dutch cut, and have blue eyes. I am a Girl Guide, but have only recently joined. My greatest ambition is to be a lawyer, although it does require a great deal of study. Here is a little verse about Latin which some of my cousins will agree is true:

Latin is a dead language,
Dead as dead can be,
First it killed the Romans,
Now it's killing me.

I would like to correspond with some of my cousins, either girls or boys, about my age. Wishing you all possible success in your much appreciated page.

BILLY.

Miss Laundri Tubb stayed too near the window one night this week, and as Nellie had forgotten to empty out the water, she got badly frozen. Miss Washboiler was so mad over Nellie's neglect of her friend that she boiled right over; but the paints all rushed up and painted a nice, warm fireplace near Miss Tubb so that she soon thawed out and recovered.

When one of the black checkers got crowned king in the game Harry was playing with Bill yesterday afternoon he felt very proud of it and called out to the other pieces, "Now I shall make all the rules and laws of this game to suit myself." But presently he made a foolish move, and one of the red men advanced without a word and took him. The copy book with mottoes in was looking on, and remarked "Pride goeth before a fall."

THE MONKEY'S PUZZLE

The thoughtful expression worn by the monkey is due to the fact that his master has ordered him to visit the twelve windows and return with his crop of pennies as speedily as possible. Joko is figuring out the shortest route that will take him past all of the windows and back to his master's shoulder. Now, if you were in Joko's place, in what order would you visit the sociable looking residents?

"No, Pat; did it really thunder?"

"Yes; it thundered as if hivven and earth would come together."

PETER'S LETTER.

My Dear People:—

Contributions specially to be acknowledged have come from Hyacinthe 1, Harry Halpenin, the Pickles, and Stuart Lochhead. Contributions are always gladly received, as I've said before, and we publish what we can, so keep on sending, you never know when something you've done may not be standing up on the page as big as life and twice as natural.

Some time ago I spoke about a puzzle on Ann's age. Remember? It happened in this way: The Editor came along with a letter from Mr. Sam Loyd, the puzzle-maker we get our puzzles from now, and at the top of the letter, in one corner, was the puzzle about "How old was Ann?" The Editor said that when he was the age of Our Young People, people used to go about sort of chanting: "Marylstwiceasoldas Annwas whenMarywashalfasoldasAnn." He didn't know then that Mr. Loyd made the puzzle, but when he got this letter from Mr. Loyd, there was the puzzle about Ann with a nice little picture showing Johnny talking to the census man. So he said: "Why not print this puzzle on The Page and tell Our Young People that the Ann puzzle people have puzzled over so many years was made by the same man who makes their puzzles now. So here's the puzzle:

Johnny had a working agreement with his sisters covering the suppression of family history, so when the census man inquired as to the ages of Mary and Ann, Johnny clouded statistics in the following truthful statement: "The combined ages of Mary and Ann are 44 years, and Mary is twice as old as Ann was when Mary was half as old as Ann will be when Ann is three times as old as Mary was when Mary was three times as old as Ann."

How old was Ann?

To get the full effect, you want to draw a long breath, and rattle it off like this without a comma anywhere till you finish: "Mary-is-twice-as-old-as - Ann - was - when - Mary - was-twice - as - old - as Ann - will - be-when - Ann - is - three - times - as - old - as Mary - was - when - Mary-was - three - times - as old - as - Ann. —HOWOLDISANN?"

But there won't be any "answer next week," because we don't know the answer, so you'll have to work it out for yourselves. I wish you (and your families) good hunting with it.

Peter.

People are born with two eyes, but one tongue, in order that they should see twice as much as they say.

Brown three large tablespoonfuls of finely chopped onion in two tablespoons of butter or rendered suet. When light colored, add half a dozen sausages; cover and cook very slowly for ten minutes. Add half a pound of "Oriole" Rice which has been washed and cooked in boiling water for ten minutes, one teaspoonful of salt, one-fourth of a teaspoonful of pepper and one pint of boiling water. Cover and cook slowly until rice is tender. Never attempt to cook rice until it has been well washed in three changes of cold water.

Be sure and ask for "Oriole" Rice—put up in 5 lb. bags.

Wolf Cub Rally — The first wolf cub rally ever held in Montreal will take place on Monday, February 21, at 7:45 p.m. in St. George's Hall, 15 Stanley street. This rally is being held as a demonstration of what the cubs really do and it is expected that there will be a large attendance of scoutmasters. Many of us are very ignorant concerning our younger brothers in scouting. Here is the opportunity to see them in action.

Banquet Figures—Some figures regarding the banquet held last Wednesday will be of interest. The attendance totalled 854, representing 34 troops of the Montreal District. There were 13 representatives of troops outside Montreal, 7 Wolf Cub officers, and 9 proficiency badge examiners, 195 Patrol Leaders were present.

Hobby Show Entries—The one P. L. from each troop who has been appointed to look after the entries from his troop for the Hobby Show should not forget the meeting to be held at the headquarters' office, 115 Stanley street, on Wednesday, Feb. 23, at 8 p.m. Every troop should be represented on this occasion, as important announcements will be made by the Committee on Hobbies. Only nine weeks remain before the exhibition.

Chief Scout's Birthday—Every loyal Scout will remember that Tuesday, February 22, is the birthday of the Chief Scout of the World, General Sir R. S. S. Baden-Powell. We may celebrate this occasion in different ways, but inasmuch as B. P. is the inventor of the good turn game, what better method of honoring him is there than to do an extra special whopping big good turn on that day?

Camp Committee—The Camp Committee met on Tuesday and are getting plans under way for this summer, which will be the tenth season of Camp Tamaracouta. Remember the Campers' Reunion on March 14.

Minden Cole Memorial Trophy — The trophy presented by Mrs. F. Minden Cole in memory of Col. Cole, was on view at the banquet. It is a handsome brass cartridge case for the 8½ inch Howitzer used by the Germans which was picked up by Col. Cole at the time of the capture of Vimy Ridge in April, 1917. It is mounted on a black wooden stand, and the inscription reads as follows: "The Minden Cole Memorial Trophy. A German shell from Vimy. Athletic Competition Montreal Boy Scouts. In memory of Lt.-Col. Frederick Minden Cole, D.S.O., 1859-1920. Montreal District Commissioner 1911-1915. A true friend to the Boy Scouts, whose life exemplified the Scout Promise."

GIRL GUIDE NEWS

The Rally. — The competition was won by a patrol under the command of Lieutenant Miss Adelaide Marler of the 4th Montreal Company. Their work was excellent and showed careful training reflecting great credit on the officers concerned. The runners up, the Montreal (The Study) Company did very good work and ran the winners close which is all the more creditable seeing that they have only been in existence for a few months. The 7th Montreal Mountsie Company lost a lot of marks through their competing patrol having to be changed just before the contest. They made a creditable display for a young company and had the misfortune of changing the personnel of the competing patrol not overtaken them, they would have been closer in marks to the other competitors. They were only organized a few months ago and have lost their first captain since organization which was another difficulty. We look forward to seeing them in the leading companies next year.

Several hundred people witnessed the rally and from all there was nothing but praise for the work done and many comments on the smartness and keenness of the Guides. It was regretable that owing to the re-organization the 1st Company were not all in uniform.

The Irish Reel danced by two of their members was heartily applauded. Lady Meredith donated a silk Union Jack which she presented to the winners, thus showing her kindly interest in the Girl Guide movement.

1st Montreal Iverley Company.—This Company will meet Monday at their headquarters. There is still room for a few recruits but the company is rapidly filling up and application should be made early.

Y.W.C.A. NOTES

The Rainbow Club of the Central Association has challenged the Bluebird Club of the Park Avenue Branch to a debate on Monday next. The subject is "Resolved that a Teacher is of More Value to the Community than a Nurse." The Rainbow Club is entertaining the Bluebird to supper, and after the debate a party will be held.

The Excelsior Club held a party for their boy friends Friday evening. The arrangements were in charge of Miss D. Deery, club leader, and a committee of club girls, and the hostesses were Mrs. McFhail and Mrs. (Dr.) Cleveland. The rooms were prettily decorated and refreshments were served at little tables decorated in the club colors.

A new gymnasium class for Junior girls has been started on Wednesday evenings from 6:30 to 7:15. Any girl wishing to join should apply as soon as possible. Bloomers may be bought at cost price from the Girls' Work Department.

Junior Millinery. If you wish to make your own spring hat put in your application for the junior millinery class. Only 10 girls will be admitted to one class, so that each girl will receive individual attention.

Mrs. J. A. Claque gave a talk on "Some Essentials of a Good Business Career" to eighty girls from the Mount Royal Business College at their weekly luncheon on Thursday at the Central Branch. Mrs. Claque's talk was most helpful and much appreciated by the girls, as most of them are preparing to go into business. Miss Janet Hogg, of Westmount, sang two songs and was heartily applauded.

DELAY OF TRUCK MEANS MONEY LOST

Driver Should Be Kept Warm for Efficient Operation

WINTER DIFFICULTIES

Good Priming Device Saves Much Loss of Time

With a motor truck time means money. Delays of any sort in making deliveries or returning for reloading are costly, and winter is the time of year when the truck labors under the greatest difficulties. Some causes of winter delays are, of course, beyond remedy by the operator, but others—for instance, those caused by hard starting—can be prevented by a little care beforehand.

Perhaps the most frequent delay in motor truck operation during the cold weather is hard engine starting. Not only does this waste a varying number of minutes every time the vehicle makes a stop, but the actual labor of making a sluggish engine get down to business time after time has a bad effect on the driver or helper on whom the task falls. The most helpful thing in this connection is a good priming device, which can be operated from the dash.

AVOID OVERPRIMING.

Drivers should be carefully instructed in the methods of starting when the motor is cold. They should be shown how the choke should be applied when the engine is being started and should be warmed up to throw off as soon as the vehicle is under way. In case the truck is fitted with a starter the driver must be warned not to keep using this for long time after time. If the engine does not fire with normal cranking, the starter should not be used further, instead, the cause of difficulty should be ascertained. Again the operator must be warned against the danger of overpriming. Just a little of the lighter fuel should be fed at a time. The greater difficulty in getting the fuel to vaporize in cold weather means that there must be a good hot spark at all times for starting, and this calls for careful maintenance of the ignitiontected, even if this means buying him system. This system must be in the best of shape all the time.

There is much virtue in covering the bottom part of the radiator of the motor truck for a while after starting. The colder water in the cooling system lies at the bottom of the radiator, and, protecting this part from the wind, serves to keep this water warmed. With pump-cooled engine in long-distance runs it will be necessary to remove the covering after the engine is warmed up, but with the thermo-syphon system it had best be covered all the time in really cold weather. Experiment with the individual engine will be needed to determine just how long the cover should be kept in place.

ANTI-FREEZE.

The question of using anti-freeze mixture is for individual decision, though many believe that every truck engine should have the mixture in during the winter. In cases where the stops are at brief intervals perhaps the mixture may be dispensed with, but even here no one can tell when the engine may be stopped for some purpose or because of accident, and it doesn't take long for a freeze to set in. The question of what anti-freeze to use is somewhat complicated this year because of the high price of alcohol, usually the base employed for this purpose. Pure kerosene has been used, but there is some objection to this—the fumes if nothing more. Calcium chloride is claimed to attack the metal of the radiator, but this is not always so, depending largely on the metal used. Perhaps the best solution of the problem is the use of one of the patent and guaranteed preparations that are now on the market. These in most cases comprise salts, which lower the freezing point of the solution, and which do not evaporate as alcohol does, for instance. Often, however, the boiling point of the solution is lowered and overheating of the engine may result on occasion. In the use of these salt solutions, be sure there are no leaks in the water system, as some of the solutions may get out and on the engine parts, where the heat evaporates the water, leaving the salts. If this salt gets on ignition parts it may cause trouble.

KEEP DRIVER COMFORTABLE.

Among experienced truck operators it is an axiom that a comfortable and satisfied driver is a paying investment. During the cold weather the comfort of the driver should be provided for. It is not always possible to have a neat cab with sliding doors and a floor heater inside, but this is the ideal to be striven for. Cabs may now be had for almost any make of truck. Where a cab cannot be provided it should be seen to in other ways that the driver is properly warmed and protected, even if this means buying him suitable clothing. A man who is cold and uncomfortable is bound to shirk his work and reduce the period of exposure by any means at hand. This is human nature.

By all means trucks should be equipped with an anti-skidding device for use on the slippery pavements in winter. Truck chains may now be had of very efficient design, and they are just as necessary as on the swifter-moving passenger cars. In addition to preventing accidents chains help the truck to pull out of many snowbanks where the wheels would otherwise spin helplessly.

THOROUGH INSPECTION.

The wise truck owner will give the chassis of his vehicles frequent inspection. The gear cases should get a winter grade of oil, which is lighter than the summer grade. Grease should be removed from all parts as far as possible, because in cold weather it gets very hard and does not perform any lubricating function at all. The braking and steering systems should receive minute inspection and careful adjustment. Be careful to have the brakes equalized, as uneven adjustment here produces a tendency to skidding. Finally, it is an excellent plan to have new drivers given a course of instruction on handling their trucks on icy pavements, on getting out of snowbanks and general winter operation. Many big truck operators make a practice of this winter instruction, and it pays dividends.

Do not cut the corners in turning, but keep well to your side of the street and look both ways before you make the turn.

LICENSES ISSUED BY MOTORISTS' LEAGUE

Local motorists can obtain their car and driving licenses any time on and after March 1, at the offices and headquarters of the Montreal Motorists League in the Windsor Hotel. Secretary-Treasurer T. C. Kirby will personally be in attendance to assist applicants to fill up the necessary forms and to issue the licenses on the spot. The officials of League have engaged an extra staff specially for the work in connection with the issue of the 1921 licenses. This will prevent the tiresome waiting necessary at license offices in past years.

THE PSALM OF THE STORAGE BATTERY

I have strength and power at your disposal; your obedient servant; I am your light; I lead the way in the darkness; your friend in need, but you are my enemy; I give you your start, but you forget me; I am strong for my size and you need me, use me, abuse me and kill me.

You overload me with work and don't feed me; you overfeed me and let me remain idle; you raise my temperature from your ill-treatment until I die.

The opposite side of my constitution rebels; my positive sides ache until they break; you cause me to conflict with my negative side and ruin me; you let me go weeks without water until I die of thirst; you borrow and you do not pay back; you charge me and do not let me balance the account.

With you as my master, my days are numbered. I cannot and will not stand it; I will die first.

Yet there is lots of good in me, if you will try and understand me. Study my requirements or pay for your ignorance. When I am full, I refuse to take more. My life circuit is complete, yet you spoil its contact; you let me get dirty and dusty, even my face cracks from your mistreatment.

I AM YOUR STORAGE BATTERY.

TO PREVENT GAS LEAKAGE.

At a time when gasoline is expensive and the producers are straining every resource to keep the supply equal with the demand, each owner should guard against leaks in his carburetor. With the Ford car a shut-off valve in the fuel line is provided by the maker, but to reach it involves crawling under the car or lifting the floorboard and dirtying the coat sleeve. To obviate this difficulty, a motor magazine advises: It is a simple matter to lead a stiff wire rod through the floorboard to the shut-off valve, bending one end and drilling it for a cotter pin, and looping the other for a finger hold.

SPRING SEAT LUBRICATION.

Many present-day cars are fitted with springs mounted on seats that oscillate. These spring seats usually have some means of lubrication, but many car owners never take the trouble simply to turn up the grease cup provided. While it is not necessary to turn the cup each day, it is advisable to give this part a little attention now and then. In cantilever suspension the centre bearing of the spring should be well oiled, usually this bearing operates upon a small steel shaft, extending out from the frame. In some cases a tube running transversely of the frame is used, and either a grease cup or an oil hole will be found.

SECRETARY AGAIN IS BACK AT POST

President J. D. Chesney, of the Montreal Motorists League, announces that T. C. Kirby has returned to Montreal from the management of the 1921 National Motor Show of Western Ontario, which closed on February 11, and which was a most successful exhibition in every way.

Secretary-Treasurer T. C. Kirby will now resume his official position with the Montreal Motorists League and members are invited to bring their motoring troubles to his attention. The directors are out for a 5,000 membership during the coming year and present prospects are that this number will be easily reached.

ALIGNMENT TEST.

A rough and ready method of testing the alignment of the front wheels is to jack these wheels up an equal distance from the ground and spin them. While they are revolving draw a line on the centre of the tires with a piece of chalk. Measure the distance from the line on one tire to the corresponding line on the other tire, at the height of the hub, and both before and behind the front axle. The approved gather will work out at about three-eighths of an inch.

SPRING REPAIR.

When the spring hanger of a cantilever spring breaks, the car is very difficult to steer; in fact it will not keep the road at all. When this happens on the road an emergency repair is possible. Place the lifting jack under the forward end of the spring, and raise the part so that it can be wired against the frame. This will hold if the car is driven slowly. The wire may even be purloined from any near-by fence.

TESTING WHEELS.

Every car owner ought to make a practice of testing the wheels for side play at least three or four times a year. Side play performs a doubly vicious role, for it causes excessive bearing wear and tire wear as well. If the motorist will jack up each wheel in turn, and, grasping it firmly, push and pull it, any side motion will be readily apparent. In many cars wheel bearings are adjustable to care for just such trouble.

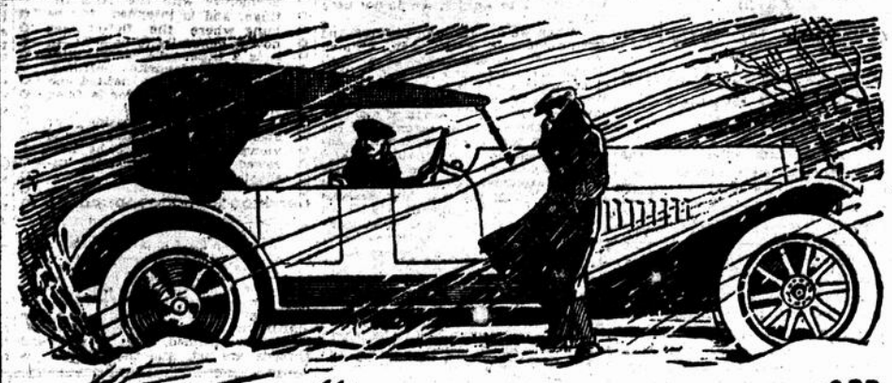
FORD PRODUCTION EXCEEDED MILLION

December 16 Ford production bounded over the million mark for the year. Midnight saw the figure at 1,002,515, the day's run having been 4,134 cars. Ford officials say more cars were produced during the last three months than any other quarter of the year, notwithstanding the fact that there were fewer production days. While the figures for November and December will be lower than those of October, which was a record-breaking month, yet the average daily output will be greater. The estimated production for next year is based on the output capacity of 1,250,000 cars and trucks.

The motor vehicle has broadened the sphere of the usefulness of the physician, and has actually saved thousands of lives as the result.

USEFUL CLAMP.

A very useful article to have in the tool box is the type of clamp variously known as a C clamp or a U clamp. There are numberless uses for the part, but possibly its greatest value is to hold a large monkey wrench to the running board, the wrench acting as a vise. The clamp takes up little room in the tool box, costs so little, and is very useful when its time does come that every car owner ought to have one.



"Never again!"

There is no need for you to go through this or a similar experience. Dreadnaught Chains will prevent it.

Tire chains are a necessity for every motorist. Dreadnaughts are the best value for every motorist.

The "Just as Good" argument will not get by, if you want service and efficiency. Insist on Dreadnaught—The Master Chain.

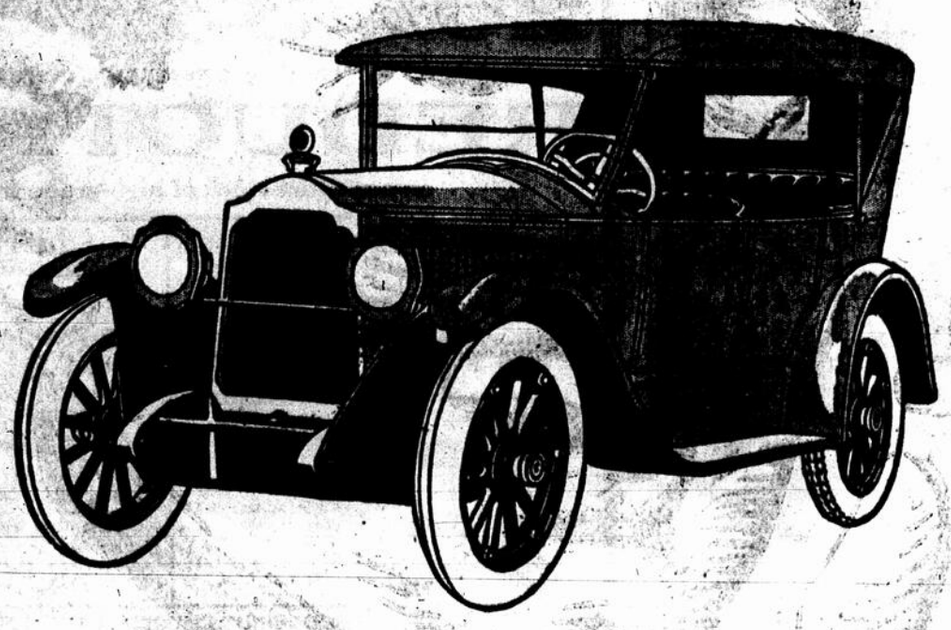
PACKARD



In developing the Packard Single-Six, our aim was a car of moderate size embodying traditional Packard quality. We priced it when completed at $5,215.00, f. o. b., Montreal, knowing that it was an exceptional value at that figure. By anticipating this year's manufacturing economies, we have since reduced this price to $4,500.00. Built alongside the Packard Twin-Six and by the same experienced organization, this car affords a new measure of value and of economical service.

EVEN GRANARY IS HAULED BY TRACTOR

Not Single Horse on a Nine-Thousand Acre Farm

NO HELP IN WINTER

Would Take Four Hundred Horses to Replace Tractors

No "lowing herds wind o'er the leas" on the horseless, cowless, hogless, and sheepless farm of 10,200 acres owned and operated by Schaal & Schaal, twenty-five miles southwest of Winnipeg. Not a single domestic animal has been used on this land in the last four years. The Schaals, father and son, do all of their plowing, seeding, harvesting thrashing, and transporting of grain with tractors.

Mr. Schaal, senior, says that they do not need horses on this grain farm. He and his son operate 8,800 acres of the land, and rent the rest. An investment of $105,000 in small buildings and machinery is required to run the home place, and $95,000 worth of equipment is used on the rented farm.

GROW ONLY SMALL GRAINS.

Only small grains are grown on the farm included in a rotation of two crops of wheat, and one crop each of flax, wheat, oats and barley, in the order named. All of the land is under cultivation, except one section.

No attention is paid to the fertility of the soil, which is a silt loam, averaging about six feet in depth. Chemical tests have shown, according to Mr. Schaal, that crops could be grown for a whole century without exhausting the fertility of this land, making exclusive power farming possible.

When it comes time to plow the land twenty-six tractors are used, pulling 100 fourteen inch bottom plows. One acre of land is turned over every two minutes, or thirty acres an hour. The tractors are again used in discing the soil, geting it ready for the grain drill. The seeding is done at the rate of 640 acres a day, using twelve twelve foot drills.

THRASH 8,000 BUSHELS A DAY.

An average of thirty-five men are employed on the farm during the year. As soon as the grain is sown in the spring the men are released. Two are kept to repair the machinery. When harvest time comes an army of seventy men is drafted into service, and with twenty-four binders the grain is put into the shock at the rate of a section a day.

In about a week after the binders are started three large thrashing outfits begin and the grain starts pouring from the "horn of plenty" at the rate of 8,000 bushels of wheat a day. Each thrashing rig, with its necessary accessories, costs $25,000, or a total of $75,000 for the three outfits owned by this farm.

SHIPPING TO MARKET.

This grain is hauled directly from the thrashing machine to the railroad and shipped to market. Thirty grain wagons are used. They are built especially for this work with a capacity of 125 bushels each. Three of these loaded with grain are drawn from the field to the railroad with one tractor.

As the grain is thrashed it pours through a pipe into a portable granary that holds 700 bushels, which was originated by the Schaals. The granary is mounted on a heavy truck, and is so constructed that the three wagons drawn by a tractor can be loaded in five minutes, loading a total of 375 bushels of grain.

With the portable granary the work of backing into the spouts that carry the grain directly from the separator into the wagons is eliminated, thus avoiding the backing in and out and the tying up of an extra engine. Another advantage of the granary is that the grain is protected when it rains. Tarpaulins are used over wagons loaded with bundles of grain.

ENORMOUS GASOLINE EXPENSE.

"We used more than $40,000 worth of gasoline and lubricating oil in 1920 running our tractors and other machinery on the farm," remarked Mr. Schaal. "My son and I are said to be the first farmers to hitch a tractor onto a sheaf loader. We tie all of our grain into bundles except the flax, which we rake up in windrows. We use two of the sheaf loaders and eight stook, or shock wagons, as you call them here in the States. With three men on one of the sheaf loaders we are able to load four acres of flax in five minutes. It would take twenty-four men to do this work with pitchforks.

"All of the transportation of men to and from the farm is done with automobiles. We use eight cars for this purpose. It is possible for us t otake our men to any part of the farm in fifteen minutes.

RELEASE MEN DURING WINTER.

"Within thirty days after we begin thrashing we are through and have all of the grain disposed of. Then we start the plows and prepare the land for the following spring. Today 8,000 acres of our land are ready for the grain drills in the spring. For about four months during the winter, from December 1 to April 1, we do not need any help.

"When we are through plowing and discing we release the men, keeping two expert mechanics who go over all of the machinery and have it in first class order when it is needed again. We have our own garage on the farm, equipped with $4,000 worth of machinery. At the end of a season all of the machinery that needs repairing is assembled here to be overhauled."

This is one of the largest, if not the largest, exclusive power farms in the world. During the last four seasons it has cost an average of $14.50 an acre to operate the farm, excluding taxes and interest on the investment.

NO LABOR TROUBLES.

"Since we employ labor irregularly through the year," continued Mr. Schaal. "I am frequently asked by farmers if we have trouble with the men. I find that men like to be where things are accomplished. Only one engineer actually quit his job on the farm last year.

"We use the same crew year after year. In fact, many of the men have been with us for several years. They are supplied with the best food that can be bought, and every man is given a good bed with comfortable springs and mattress to sleep on. We hire our men by the month for the season in which they are needed, and when the work is completed we recommend them to other men, and help them get new jobs.

"In the Shanawan and Spurling district of Manitoba, where our farm is located, the land is level. At thrashing time this last season I stood on the top of a small barn and counted 131 thrashing outfits running at one time. With such level land we do not need horses, and power farming in my section has surely come to stay.

"Four years of experience without a single head of live stock on the farm has convinced me that power farming, on such land as we have, can be done successfully. It would take 400 heavy horses to farm our home place of 8,800 acres. Imagine the barns that it would take to house that many work horses, and the hay and the grain it would take to feed them. Besides, it would take a huge army of men to care for these animals."

CUTTING RIVETS.

The proper tool to use in cutting out rivets that hold together thin metal parts is a sharp chisel. The head of the rivet should be backed up with a weight of some kind so as to prevent tearing of the adjacent metal. An acetylene torch is the quickest method of cutting off rivet heads.

PERFUME BURNER FOR LIMOUSINE IS LATEST!

The latest motoring novelty to appear in this country is a perfume burner, which enables milady to scent her limousin with the subtle odor of her favorite perfume. It is a slender vessel of soft silver or gold finish, exquisitely wrought to harmonize with the car's fittings, and is intended to be hung where the flower case now is generally to be seen. In it is a little tube, to be filled with one's favorite perfume. Then the wick is lighted and soon the car's interior is filled with fragrance.

This latest blessing (or abomination, depending on the viewpoint) is said to be borrowed from French motor enthusiasts.

EMERGENCY STARTING.

In cases where the starter is out of business and the crank handle is not available, it is possible to start the engine by jacking up the rear wheels, blocking the front wheels and then shifting into high, after which the cylinders are primed, the spark and throttle are set, and the engine is cranked by turning a rear wheel. In doing this the operator should take hold of the tire rather than the spokes, and must be careful not to get caught when the wheels start to revolve.

BURNING RUBBER.

Often a little attention to the tire pump will make it more effective when the time comes for a tire to be inflated. The most common pump trouble is leakage of the air past the plunger, usually due to the worn condition of the leather washer, or to the fact that the leather is dry and out of shape so that it does not fit closely to the pjump barrel all around. It badly worn, the only thing to do is to replace it; if merely hardened soften it with some neatsfoot oil. Plain lubricating oil will do almost as well if the other kind is not available.

BROKEN CHAINS.

When the cross pieces of the anti-skid chain break, so that the chain strikes against the fender in passing, it is poor practice to wire the broken piece across the tire, as the wire will quickly be worn through. By wiring under the felloe a more permanent repair will be secured.

The Willis-Overland Limited have made a collection of signs which attracted special attention at the recent New York Motor Show. The maxims and slogans will be published from time to time in the automobile pages of the Montreal Star.

MOTOR GOSSIP

The Automobile is as necessary to country life as any other farm equipment.

A vast national building program assures prosperity for the automobile industry and you.

With its quickness and flexibility the automobile is an absolute necessity to the farmer's business.

Fifty million citizens are made healthier, wealthier and better by the automobile.

The automobile: 10 per cent pleasure, 90 per cent utility, 100 per cent interest.

The man who regards the automobile as luxury cannot consistently ride in a Pullman car.

Hon. B. Wilson, United States Secretary of Labor, says: "No new enterprises in the history of this generation has made a more notable contribution to the improvement in living conditions of people who work than the development of the automobile."

President-Elect Harding says: "The tendency to supplement our transportation facilities by more extended use improved highways and motor vehicles is so apparent that it cannot be doubted that we will more and more rely on this mode of transportation.

Every business will prosper as soon as the greatest building program we have ever known gets under way.

Prosperity ahead, but the work cannot be done without automobiles.

The automobile insures delivery of fresh food free from harm by broiling sun and poisonous flies.

Prosperity ahead. Men, money and material are ready.

Prosperity coming. Railroads should be rebuilt. Highways will be improved and extended.

Do you realize how little you use your car for pleasure, how much for business?

Prosperity ahead. Work cannot be done without automobiles.

Can you imagine this city without automobiles? Think about it.

IS THE COST OF BUILDING HOMES ON DOWN GRADE?

What Various Cities Say—Some Reductions in Price of Materials But Complaint is Made Against High Wages Demanded

ARTICLE V.

News that will be hailed with joy by builders and those who have been looking forward for months and years to owning their own homes is published below, to the effect that the cost of construction is coming down. The despatches show the trend of things in the East and the West. They will be followed up with the views of local people in a subsequent issue.

Undoubtedly building has been held up in and around Montreal by reason of the cost of materials and the high wages demanded by artisans of all sorts. And it is just as certain that building will be re-commenced on the old scale as soon as costs come down to anywhere near the pre-war level. Hundreds of Montrealers who own lots have been deterred from building during the past four years, and just as many are deterred now from making the initial step.

Conditions throughout Canada are explained in the following despatches:

LABOR DEPARTMENT SHOWS A DECLINE

OTTAWA, Feb. 19.—(Special to The Star).—The cost of building is coming down gradually and the tendency already indicated is expected to be more pronounced between now and Spring.

The Labor Department keeps a check on 48 of the principal materials of construction and in over half of them a decline was noted in December or January. Lumber is down about $5 a thousand, and also paints, oils, builders' hardware and miscellaneous material. Brick remains firm.

Wages show some indication of coming down though in all the trades new wage agreements will be negotiated before May 1. Lack of employment, however, is causing winter labor to be secured at less than the prevailing union rates.

There have been many changes of lowered efficiency by workmen but this is not substantiated by inquiries made by the Minister of Labor. Out of four thousand questionaries to employers, 63 per cent. reported that their men are normally efficient while 37 per cent. reported that there had been a decline.

NORMAL BUILDING SEASON IN TORONTO

TORONTO, Feb. 19.—(Star Special)—Of several builders and officials of various associations connected with the trade who were interviewed, one summarized the view of all in this way:

"Building costs are coming down, but rather gradually. The reductions will last for a period of three or four years. There may be fluctuations, but the general tendency will be downward. The whole question hinges on labor production."

At present the outlook here is considered to be such that a normal building season may be looked for. This will be made possible it is thought, by the erection of a considerable number of houses, several new schools, and some government buildings. J. B. Carswell, whose investigation into all matters pertaining to the building trade have made him an authority on the subject, was of the opinion that the normal activity in building would be reached in the late spring or early summer.

The chief point made by Mr. Carswell and others, in discussing the cost of building was that production efficiency in the building trade had dropped from 100 per cent. in 1914 to around 64 per cent., on the average, for all trades concerned, in 1919. During the last few months owing to the scarcity of work in the building industry this production effeciency had jumped back again to 100 per cent.

LABOR'S BIG PART.

An analysis of the entire costs of building, according to these authorities showed that fully 80 per cent. is represented by labor, either in the manufacture of the material or on the building itself. The recent increase in efficiency has meant a material change in the actual labor on the work, but it will be some time before this change is reflected in the cost of materials. Furthermore, it will be a considerable time before this increased efficiency can be brought home to the public and until the public is fully convinced of the present state of affairs they are not going to build.

Mr. Carswell put the matter in this way, in so far as it related to the situation up to the last few months. With an efficiency of 100 per cent. in 1914 the standard in 1914 ranged from 53 per cent for plasterers to 68 for bricklayers, and 75 per cent. for sheet metal workers. The general average of all trades on building worked out on the 64 per cent. previously mentioned. He illustrated it more concretely in this manner. A $10,000 building in 1914 was made up of $500 potential values, $1,500 contractors' profits, and $8,000 in pay envelopes. By 1919 labor had doubled, broadly speaking, and presuming that the contractors' profits had also doubled, a $10,000 building worked out in the following way:—Potential values unchanged, $500; contractors' profits doubled, $4,000; pay envelopes doubled, and labor efficiency decreased from 100 to 64 per cent., making the cost of labor $25,000, a total of $29,500, whereas if labor had been working at 100 per cent. efficiency, the total would have been $19,500.

To quote Mr. Carswell again, "The public, labor leaders, and labor itself must realize the truth that 80 per cent. of the entire cost of building lies in the hands of labor, and it alone can bring down the costs to a reasonable basis. In doing so it is quite unnecessary to bring back "sweat" conditions. All that is required is an honest day's work for an honest day's pay."

At the present time it is worth noting that the City Council of Toronto has before it a project for the loaning of $1,000,000 to builders who will undertake to build a stated number of small houses at a reasonable rate, to be purchased by citizens. The indications are that the project will be favorably dealt with.

COST OF LABOR ALSO PROBLEM IN WEST

CALGARY, Feb. 19.—(Star Special)—Calgary and every other centre in the west needs more buildings for living, business and agricultural purposes, but activity will be absent unless there is a break in the cost of materials and a break in the cost of labor.

This condition is recognized thoroughly by the lumber producers and by the lumber retailers, and at their recent conferences in Calgary and Winnipeg they cast about for means to meet the emergency. They admitted freely that a crisis threatened their businesses unless the consumers could be persuaded to buy and build, and to give an impetus to the buying campaign the retailers agreed to absorb the losses on the stocks in their yards by selling these at replacement values. A large part of these supplies were acquired when lumber prices were at their peak last year, and the difference which the vendors will have to make up out of their own pockets will be considerable. However, they figure that they will ultimately profit if they can induce the people of the prairies to start the building operations that are really necessary, but that have been deferred pending the expected smashing of prices.

MILLS CAUGHT IN DROP.

In Alberta there has been no dumping of lumber to speak of, and prices have been maintained consistently, whereas at the coast some of the small mills that were caught with big stocks when prices suddenly sagged had to sacrifice their holdings in order to meet their banks' demands. These mills do not ship much to the Prairies owing to the long haul and the high freight rates. Alberta is supplied by its own mills and by those of the Mountain Lumber Manufacturers' Association whose members operate in the interior of British Columbia. This organization has held together pretty well, so that prices have been reduced rather slowly—not slowly enough, by the way, to attract as many buyers as the producers expected.

So at present the interior mills are idle, and they are not logging to their usual winter maximum. They have heavy stocks, got together when labor and other costs were the highest in the history of British Columbia's lumber production, and they will get rid of these before plunging to the extent of logging and milling supplies for this year's trade. Financially they are in fair shape, for they had two good years, although these must be balanced against almost ten lean years.

The 1,500 or more prairie lumber yards are marking time, too, for they are not anxious to stock up until they see the effect of the readjustment that is expected this year.

This readjustment will consist of new wage scales in different departments, with which the lumber trade is directly or indirectly associated, and of altered prices for other building materials.

First of all, the labor unions must be consulted. If they refuse to modify wages, then building will be limited so far as the average citizens are concerned, for in the last analysis labor costs amount to 90 per cent. of the entire cost of building. This, of course, means that the labor in the preparation of the materials as well as in the actual erection of the building is included.

Labor, as a body, has not been sounded out in respect to lower wages, but some of its leaders, such as Ald. Fred. White, of Calgary, and President T. B. Riley, of the Calgary Trades and Labor Council, have intimated that they will urge a strong fight against a reduction of pay.

The fact is—and it will have to be recognized—if wages are not cut down, employment will be scarcer, and an embarrassing industrial situation will be created. They claim that the cost of living generally has not been cut enough to justify a lower standard of wages. Most of the agreements expire in March and April, and it is quite possible that there will be a stiff battle between employers and employes before the issue is finally settled.

Building contractors who recently held a convention decided that it would be left with the individual members whether to run open or closed shops, but the sentiment was expressed that the majority of them would operate on the open shop policy.

FURTHER REDUCTION LOOKED FOR SOON

QUEBEC, Feb. 19.—(Star Special.) The cost of building material is on the downward trend, and the building contractors in the city and district are looking forward to an even greater reduction before the month of April, which will give added stimulus to the building trade and industry in the city and district of Quebec. Cement has dropped to one dollar a bag, and further change in price on the down grade is looked for. This class of material sold for 65 cents a bag before the war, when it commenced to soar in price until it touched around $2.25 a bag. The drop in price is a welcome one, and is heralded with joy by all contractors in the city.

Nails, which are almost indispensable in construction, were reduced by forty cents a keg this week, but they are still away above normal, and the trade is looking to a very great drop in price before the end of the month. Glass is another thing that is falling into line with other prices and taking a tumble, and a merchant in this city stated to The Star today that he would not be surprised to see glass selling at pre-war prices by the spring. This would be another very welcome drop, and cannot come any too soon.

Lumber is also very much easier in price, and it will be still easier before many weeks are out, or present indications are wrong.

As a matter of fact every building cost is showing signs of reduction, and the only thing missing is labor falling into line and lowering the present scale of wages to meet the situation. Should this happen and wages also take a tumble, people inclined to invest money in the building of private residences may be induced to do so in the late spring or early summer, and thus reduce the present scarcity of housing that exists in the city of Quebec.

What Others Say.

After inspecting many houses in N. D. de G., a Bank Manager bought one of these houses recently completed by Wilder & Roberts on Hingston Avenue, just above Sherbrooke Street, and remarked that they were "The best houses he had seen in Notre Dame de Grace." Have you seen them? We would advise you to do so before finally deciding. They are delivered to the buyers absolutely complete and ready to move into, decorated and fitted with electric fixtures; have oak floors and finish and many other attractive features, and are arranged as follows:

"Concrete basement divided for furnace, laundry, etc. Ground floor: Tiled vestibule, large entrance hall, cloak room, large living-room with bay, open fireplace and beamed ceiling, connecting doors to large dining-room, pantry and kitchen; selected oak floors and trim. First floor: Four attractive rooms, tiled bathroom and enclosed sleeping porch.

The prices, $11,000 to $12,000, constitute the best value that is being offered today in a well-built home—one that will last. Do yourself justice to see them before you decide elsewhere. Representatives will be on the premises on Saturday and Sunday afternoons—or better still, 'phone Plat. 240-241, and make an appointment.

POULTRY AND EGGS.

VITALITY, STAMINA & STRAIN

Langlois Poultry Farm, St. Jerome. Owing to my continued ill-health, I have to give up my tenancy of this beautiful island and farm in the North River, which is now for sale on very easy terms. This necessitates the dispersal of one of the best laying flocks in Canada at a very great sacrifice. The Leghorns are all raised from the justly celebrated Pennsylvania Poultry Farm Leghorns, and have proved their claim that they are of the best. Last year in the Dominion egg-laying contest at Cap Rouge, Que., and open to all Canada, my pen of ten Leghorns won second prize for most eggs laid during the year; first prize for greatest prize for most eggs during the five winter months; first prize for most eggs laid before January 1; first prize for the months of November, December, March and April, and four of the ten birds qualified for Government tested record of performance. All the birds are from the same celebrated strain. Consider what it would mean to introduce such layers into your flock—eggs and plenty of them all winter. Order now and hatch early. Prices: Hatching eggs from Pennsylvania Farm strain of White Leghorns, $2 per 15, $10 per 100, contest pen eggs, $3 per 15; breeding hens and pullets, $2.25 each; pen of 10 females and one male, $25; Rhode Island Reds, Sunnyside Farm strain, Vermont, eggs, $2 per 15; pullets, $3; cockerels, $4; Plymouth Barred Rocks, eggs, $3 per 15, pullets $3, cockerels $5; one pen 5 pullets and one cockerel, raised and valued by Dominion Government at $30, will be sold at this price. A few Barred Rock cockerels, raised at Ottawa Experimental Farm, $8 each. The stock is guaranteed pure, and over 70 per cent. are now laying big two-ounce eggs. Cash with order, and every buyer satisfied. Thos. A. Moir, Box 164, St. Jerome, Que.

VACANT LOTS AND TEMPORARY HOMES

The Editor, Montreal Daily Star.

Sir,—In view of the shortage of houses and high cost resulting therefrom, of suitable dwellings, would it not be well, to relieve the temporary difficulty to allow lot owners to use the vast number of vacant lots, in erecting temporary shelters, or inexpensive wooden camps as I have seen them in some fast growing U.S. cities, and in reconstructed France for the summer months.

They can be put up at a very small cost, the lumber can be used again when they are torn down.

HORACE GAGNE.

STRAIGHT TALK FROM A REAL AMERICAN.

The Editor, Montreal Daily Star.

Sir,—With what pleasure must every patriotic American read your excellent editorial on British-American relations! No one not a madman can dream for an instant of war between the great peoples of the Anglo-Saxon race. There is not enough money in existence to justify such a war; there is not enough oil in the world to pay for the blood of at the hands of his kindred; there is no torment dreadful enough to punish the men who would bring about so wicked a strife.

The writer is a native American and his maternal ancestors have been Yankees since 1634, and courageously fought for Anglo-Saxon rights against the Hanoverian kings, but he and his family bless God for the peace that has existed for 105 years, not only across the seas, but across our borders. There are irritating questions troubling Britain with which we Yankees have no concern, and saving the baser sort of cheap political demagogues, wish to have no concern. A real American would not care a red cent if Ireland were forty feet under the unremembering waves of the Atlantic so far as our peace and happiness are concerned here at home, and we would wish her forty thousand feet under the sea ere her disturbances became an important factor between the countries.

We are not unmindful of the gallant sons of the Empire, whether they wore the Maple Leaf or the turban that kept back the Hun line from civilization, and no thoughtful American claims to have won the war in the sense that the glory is ours alone. We tried to do our share and we thank the martyred dead of Britain and her Dominions who died as much for us as they did for Canada, for their high heroic valour.

Don't misunderstand us down in this part of the United States. We, like all of you Canadians and the rest of the white man's crowd, wouldn't annex you on a bet, and are only sorry there are not more of you up there to keep us company on this side of the earth.

WALTER SCOTT MacAARON,
Commandant Kemper Military School.

THE ST. LAMBERT BILL.

The Editor, Montreal Daily Star.

Sir,—May I just point out two dangers (among others) found in the Bill for the Charter Amendments for the Town of St. Lambert.

The request to be able to spend one hundred and fifty thousand dollars for a fire hall seems pretty large. But as the plans before the Council call for a hall to cost a quarter of a million, it will be even worse. Ex-Ald. Deschenes found fault with the idea of asking the voters to pass the former figure, and bluffing them into believing that to be the whole cost.

The other danger is the surrendering of the power of the proprietors into the hands of the Council entirely. Granting that the present Council is above suspicion, why put unlimited powers into the hands of men who may yield to the temptation put in their way of boodling?

HARRY BRAGG.

REAL ECONOMY.

The Editor, Montreal Daily Star.

Sir,—The statement made lately in The Star by "Plutocrat Pensioner," who has supported himself and his wife on an income of $390 per annum, ought to make those grumbling recipients of salaries ranging from $25 to $35 per week sit up and start their thinking boxes in operation.

A single person, male or female, who cannot live comfortably, even in this day of H. C. of L., on $25 per week, must be a poor manager, or else be somewhat extravagant.

The writer has been paying $16 per month for rent, and has sustained himself and his wife comfortab'y until last June—when the problem beat him—on an income of a fraction less than $14 per week.

Of course luxuries were avoided, all extras tabooed, only substantial food used, and such clothing and household necessities as were absolutely necessary procured.

The result of this careful method of living has been satisfactory in the extreme. The avoidance of luxuries in the way of diet has transformed a confirmed dyspeptic into a vigorous septuagenarian who has resumed active work, and barring sickness or accident, he feels at present as though he might mete out the century span. If those poor young creatures who are whining about being forced to eke out a miserable existence on $25 per week would only learn how to economize and live as the early settlers of the country did, take pointers from, and copy example set by those thrifty pioneers, who more than half a century past, learned the trick of making ten cents do more to support themselves than the modern spendthrifts of today can do with five times that amount.

SENEX.

A BLINDED SOLDIER.

The Editor, Montreal Daily Star.

Sir, — I have had read with great interest the many letters written on the question of rent-raising in this city. I am a soldier who was disabled in the Great War, which was supposed to have been waged in the cause of justice and with the supposed idea of making this world a better place for all to live, but when one comes to consider all things we must all come to the same conclusion and ask ourselves the fatal question, was it worth while? Things seem to be as bad as ever, and indeed in some cases even worse. Take this question of rent-raising; my own case is only one of thousands.

I came to this country from England only a few weeks ago to try and get a living. I am not a native of it, but came over here to join a daughter who had married a Canadian soldier, who has also done his bit. He was badly gassed and wounded, while I was blinded, and neither of us were able to return to our old occupations, and have, in consequence, had to seek other means of keeping the home fires burning. My son-in-law is now in hospital suffering from the effects of gas, and has very little hope of ever doing any serious work. He has no pension, but has got to do something to keep his wife and child, and has the worry of shortly expecting an addition to his family. I have three, 4, 5, and 13 respectively. Take these two cases as a sample of what this war has done and the hard time that we have to look forward to, and then think what can these landlords be who will place such hardships upon those who fought to protect his property, while in a good many cases the landlord stopped at home and did nothing but make money. In my own case; I came here in October from England, after spending two years in St. Dunstans Hostel for blinded soldiers, where I was trained as a boot repairer. I rented a store in December, 1920—the store was sub-let to me by the present occupier of the rooms attached at a rental of $10.00 per month. The occupier of these rooms previously had this store and failed to pay the business tax which was due last May, 1920. Now the city authorities have come upon me with a special notice that I must pay this tax within 15 days or they will seize my goods, and on top of this I am informed that the landlord has raised the rent from $19.00 to $25.00. This is, of course, for the whole premises, rooms and store. It was my intention to take the whole house as soon as the present tenant moves in May, but this sudden change has upset all my plans, and I am in a dilemma as to know what to do. According to the city laws this business tax is for 12 months, and this one should have been paid last May by the previous occupier of the store. This he has not done, and they have the cheek to come on me for it. This only goes to show the rotten state that the world has got into, and then the powers that be wonder that there is so much unrest among the people. I contend, for the rule that is in force in England that landlords should only be allowed to raise rents according to extra taxes that they are called upon to meet, and then they should be compelled to produce to the tenant clear proof of the extra tax, and just how it affects their property. This, I think, would put a stop to all this undue raising of rents, and prospective tenants would be protected against these profiteering landlords.

BERRY CONCLUDES G.T.R. TESTIMONY

Commenced to Feel Ordeal After Seven Days in Witness Box

WILL GET INFORMAT'N

Another Legal Battle at Start of Finlay R. McQueen's Evidence

Under continued cross-examination by Pierce Butler, counsel for the Canadian Government, J. B. Berry, witness at the Grand Trunk Arbitration Board, was pressed to a point of impatience on one or two occasions yesterday afternoon. Closely questioned as to deferred maintenance, Mr. Berry put it to the board that this did not necessarily mean neglected maintenance. Some minor repairs had frequently to be left over for a year or two, but urgent repairs ought to be, and, in the case of the Grand Trunk, always were done immediately.

Pressed for several details regarding the company sources of supply of ballast, gravel, etc., Mr. Berry declared he could not furnish off-hand all the information asked of him. He would prepare a statement on the subject for today's hearing, although he could not see what the motive was in asking for it.

CROSS-EXAMINATION OVER.

When Mr. Butler announced at 3:30 p.m. that his cross-examination was over, the witness congratulated him on the fine effort by which he had got through the task within one day. He would endeavor to produce all the supplementary information Mr. Butler asked for at today's hearing.

After some further questioning by F. N. Phippen, K. C., on technical points, Mr. Butler raised the question of the prospect of the traffic growing on the Pont Levis and other lines. While Mr. Berry insisted that he could not prophesy as to the traffic prospects, Mr. Butler endeavored to deduce from the witness' statements that he was not prepared to recommend expensive improvements to the bridge at this point, an admission that the traffic was not likely to grow sufficiently to justify this. Mr. Berry however, stoutly resisted every attempt to draw him into such an admission, maintaining that the present density of traffic was the basis of his opinion.

FINLAY R. MCQUEEN TESTIFIES

Mr. Berry was then released after seven days in the witness box, and was replaced by Finlay R. McQueen, of Minneapolis.

Mr. McQueen had no sooner started giving evidence under examination than the validity of evidence regarding reproduction costs was called in question by W. N. Tilley. Mr. Phippen argued that the G.T.R. interest in the elevators was an asset they had a right to sell or dispose of, but Mr. Tilley maintained that if that were the justification for bringing in reproduction values evidence to that effect should first be brought in.

The legal battle between opposing counsel was still in progress when the Board adjourned till this morning at 10.30.

WANT NEW ROUTE TO MOUNTAIN TOP

Baby Welfare Week Will Be Held Middle of May

A resolution demanding immediate action by the city to force the Montreal Tramways Company to furnish a car-line to the mountain-top other than that proposed along Shakespeare road was passed at the monthly meeting of the Baby Welfare Committee held in the Drummond Building yesterday afternoon. The Company's willingness to construct a single track line connecting with the Guy street cars on Cote de Neiges road was thoroughly discussed, and the members were unanimous in their opinion that such a line would benefit mothers and babies of the west end only, for the many transfers would make it a considerably undertaking for a mother from the north or east to bring her baby to the mountain top by that roundabout route. Nevertheless it was a disgrace to Montreal, it was said, that its fine natural park should not be accessible to the many hundreds who would throng there, were there any way of reaching the top other than by walking. The resolution passed by the Association will be sent to the Chairman of the Administrative Commissionn and copies will also be despatched to the Tramways' Commission and the Montreal Tramways Company.

Plans were discussed for the holding of Baby Welfare week which commences May 15, and the wisdom of holding exhibits in several stores in different sections of the city instead of one large Welfare Exhibition was considered, but not decided. Moving-pictures will be used to draw public attention to the necessity for child hygiene, the aid of the children in the schools will be enlisted and every pulpit will be requested to emphasize the movement on Child Welfare Sunday. The selection of the spacious front office in the Blumenthal Building as headquarters of the new executive was approved, and there the association will establish itself on May 1 surrounded by about ten other organizations with which it is constantly working. J. R. McBride, chairman of the Committee presided at the meeting.

HOSTEL CAMPAIGN BROUGHT TO END

Over Fifty-one Thousand Subscribed and More Expected

A distinct note of optimism sounded at the formal closing of the Julia Drummond Hostel campaign in the Synod Hall, University street, yesterday when the total funds of the association were announced at $51,141.05. The majority of the district managers announced that additional subscriptions had been promised and would be forthcoming shortly. The rural districts in particular will be delayed in sending in returns owing to the greater difficulties of carrying on the campaign. Only 8 of the 24 promising assistance have yet reported.

Although the objective of $150,000 had not been reached at the time of the formal closing, it was felt that there were many encouraging aspects to the campaign which made it a success in more ways than one. Mrs. W. G. Macnaughton, in a brief address expressed her conviction that the objective would finally be reached, so many people having been aroused to interest in the hostel and its aims. The campaign, she felt, had been a spiritual as well as a material success, having brought the workers into close touch with one another, women of different denominations together, and all into touch with the business girls for whom the hostel was planned, and whom, she said, were doing their part in building a greater Canada and a greater Montreal. The public, and particularly the business men, she felt, had been awakened to the claims of the business girls with small salaries for comfortable places to live in the city.

Votes of thanks were passed to the district directors, local managers, speakers and team workers, and appreciation of the services of Mrs. L. E. Dodwell, Mrs. H. Pratt, Mrs. C. deWolf Reid, Mrs. A. R. G. Howard and other members of the campaign executive was expressed. A picture donated by Mr. DeBel and the autographed letter of Sir Walter Scott, donated by Miss Carruthers, were exhibited, and it was announced that it was hoped to raise $400 through the former, and $500 by the latter for the benefit of the hostel. Several organizations and friends of the association have expressed their intention of assisting the hostel by giving entertainments for its benefit.

Total subscriptions reported by various teams up to date were as follows:—Mrs. A. E. Abbott's team, $19,645; Miss Bowie's district, $6,162.33; Mrs. Farthing's district, $4,050; Mrs. K. C. Campbell's team, $3,143.98; Mrs. Fenwick Williams' district, $2,324.20; Mrs. J. E. Ardon's district, $1,819.35; Business Girls, Mrs. Liddell McLean, $1,236.68; Mrs. Alec Robertson's district, $1,062; Miss Ritchie's district, $761.19; rural districts, Mrs. H. B. Mackenzie, $717.50; Mrs. Peterson and Mrs. Beagley's district, $704.95; Mrs. C. T. Saunders, $596.25; Miss Avice Meeker, $547; Mrs. C. S. Saunders, $500.60; Machine, Mrs. H. Dinning, $3472; Montreal vocational classes, Miss Irwin, $363.57; Mrs. Ireland's district, $275.75; Mrs. Emo's district, $275.05; Store, Dr. Ritchie, England, $213.32; Ste. Anne de Bellevue, Mrs. Roe, $208.25; Mrs. J. Johnson, $141; Unsolicited, $130.50; Mrs. W. S. Campbell's district, $100; Pointe Claire, Mrs. F. Mills, $43; Ahuntsic, Mrs. Ingram, $21.10.

ARCHBISHOP CLUNE'S VIEWS ON IRELAND

Reported Saying Interested Persons Blocking Efforts for Peace

LONDON, Feb. 19.—Great Britain's campaign against the Irish Republican movement was denounced yesterday by the Right Rev. Patrick Joseph Clune, Archbishop of Perth, Australia, upon his return to that city from Europe, says a despatch to the London Times. While visiting in Ireland, Archbishop Clune took part in unofficial negotiations looking to the restoration of peace between the British Government and leaders of the Sinn Fein.

After declaring that he subscribes to every word of a recent statement issued by de Valera in which extravagant charges were made against the British Government and declaring that the British policy has embittered moderate Irishmen, the Archbishop acknowledged that he had been shown the greatest kindness from leaders on both sides and declared that many upholders of Great Britain's policy had felt Mr. Lloyd George was anxious for a peaceful solution of the Irish problem.

"Interested persons," he added, "have found a way, however, to frustrate such schemes by working in the high places."

HIGHWAYS' PROBE DRAGS FORWARD

Counsel Claims Provincial Board and Not Minister Responsible

HALIFAX, N.S., Feb. 19.—(By Canadian Press.)—Hon. A. K. Maclean, K.C., representing the Provincial Government, closed yesterday's proceedings in the investigation by the Royal Commission of the expenditure of road money in Nova Scotia, under the provisions of the Canada Highways Act, with an argument that held the Provincial Highways Board primarily to blame for the exaggerated returns of two resident engineers, T. J. Morrison and W. Chisholm, which he conceded, and absolved the Minister of Highways, Hon. H. H. Wickware, of all blame in the purchase of machinery.

Mr. Maclean sketched the development of highways legislation in Nova Scotia and emphasized the radical nature of the damage brought about with the introduction of the present system of road construction and maintenance. He contended that the powers of the Board were absolute under the Act, and that the members as a body had failed to realize the magnitude of the task to which they had addressed themselves, or the extent of their responsibility in the matter. On the subject of machinery purchased, he urged that the minister had had the approval of the Board at every stage in the series of negotiations and transactions.

Mr. Maclean was preceded by C. H. Cahan, K.C., counsel for members of the Opposition in the Provincial Legislature, who held that the Minister of Highways, the chairman of the Highways Board, W. G. Clarke, the chief engineer, John W. Roland, and the provincial auditor, W. H. Studd, must be held responsible, in the order named, for what he termed the breakdown in the program of construction. Mr. Cahan urged that under a strict interpretation of the Act the minister was directly responsible for the operations of the Board, and in the last analysis should be held responsible for the mistakes made. The chairman of the Board he accused of duplicity, in the light of the conflicting letters he had written, contemporaneously, to different members of the Board, and charged that he was a member of a self-constituted committee of three, of which the minister and the chief engineer were the remaining members, and which had abrogated to itself the functions of the Board as a whole. He spoke with some delicacy, he said, regarding the chief engineer, a victim, he believed, of overwork and the circumstances of an election year, but an official at the same time who had been guilty of grave errors of judgment. He had been much impressed with the integrity and ability of this official in his capacity as an engineer, but he contended that the evidence demonstrated his incapacity as a business administrator. The provincial auditor, he urged, should have insisted on the setting up of a proper accounting system in the office of the Highways Board.

Caughnawaga Claims Sanscranite Couple Were Taken Care of

Further information relative to the case of Pieree Sanscrainte, 75 years of age, who died of starvation and exposure at Caughnawaugna, Que., on Tuesday, February 8 last, has been given to The Star.

At the coroner's inquest on the day following the death, testimony was given in writing by doctors who performed an autopsy on the body, that starvation and exposure had caused the death of the old man. Letters denying the fact that the septuagnarian was forced to beg for his livihood from door to door in Caughnawaugna and that he eventually died of starvation, have been received by The Star, however, one of these being from J. K. Jocko, chief constable of the Indian village. Mr. Jocko states that Sanscainte did not die of hunger or of exposure. The old couple, Pieree, and his wife, moved into Caughnawaugna about five months ago, the chief constable says, and they rented a house there. Far from being broken down shack, it was a warm house and the rent was never charged to them. The chief constable states that the couple never went in need of food as they were taken care of by the Indians of the village, who provided them with fuel also. He claims that even the funeral expenses were paid by the Indians, and the widow was looked after until Saturday last when the Montreal authorities took her in charge.

Another letter, from a resident of Caughnawaugna states that baskets of food and fuel were often left at the couple's door. Thus the evidence given at the Coroner's Court and that of residents of Caughnawaugna are contradictory.

The letters shed new light on the supposed pitiable state of the deceased and his wife. They do not, however, explain the fact that Sanscrainte died, according to the statement of the doctor, from exposure and starvation.

Umbrellas are not of modern invention, as they are found sculptored on the monuments of Egypt and in the ruins of Nineveh, and were used in China and India in ancient times, while in Greece they had an important part in funeral services.

ANNIVERSARY MASS

MORNINGE—Anniversary Mass will be sung in St. Anthony's church, Monday, February 21st, at 8 a.m., for the repose of the soul of the late Peter Mornings, died Feb. 20th, 1920.

O'MORE—Rory, first Anniversary High Mass for the repose of the soul of Ellen Greenan, beloved wife of Rory O'More, will be sung on Tuesday, February 22nd, in St. Gabriel's Church, Montreal, at 7:30 a.m. The following verses were composed and inserted by her sorrowing husband, Rory O'More, 278 Richmond st., Montreal:

'Twas when her heart was all aglow,
With hopes of seeing her native shore,
Then her dear head went lying low,
My Darling, My Darling.

Twenty married years we roamed through space,
Through the lands of strangers of every race,
But Erin she could not forget,
My Darling, My Darling.

She's now beyond the light of sun or star,
Where there's no Tyrants' chains or prison bars,
She's where the sinless angels are,
My Darling, My Darling.

Now Christ's sweet Mother look on me,
You stood beside salvation's tree,
My Nelly now I offer thee,
My Darling, My Darling.

BANKS READY TO ASSIST FARMERS

C. A. Bogert Addresses Ontario House Agriculture Committee

TORONTO, Feb. 19.—Speaking before the Agriculture Committee of the Ontario Legislature yesterday, General Manager C. A. Bogert, of the Dominion Bank, representing the Canadian Bankers' Association, gave his opinion on that matter of rural credits.

He said there was no class of people in the Canadian community who were more anxious to serve the Ontario farmers than the bankers. If the Government thout fit to establish rural credit society the bankers would be willing to co-operate and work out the details.

He claimed that no country in the world was as excellently served by banks as Ontario. Mr. Bogert said that that in 1918 the banks advanced in Manitoba to rural creditors to the sum of $89,000, and if this $20,000 is still outstanding. In 1919 he said $841,000 was advanced and $205,000 in still outstanding. He said the banks had lost huge sums by loans to farmers in the Prairie Provinces.

"Are conditions more favorable here for the successful operation of such a scheme?" Asked Premier Drury.

"Yes, conditions are more stable here," said Mr. Bogert. Gain might come through the extension of the short term credit system to finance seasonable operations."

"Yes, but any farmer can get credit from our banks. We don't ask for chattel mortgages."

"Is the getting of short term credits widely spread enough?"

"Yes."

"Would the farmers benefit by using more credit?"

"No."

EGG-LAYING TEST KEEPS UP EVEN PACE

Duplicates Work of Last Week—Leghorns Leading

OTTAWA, Feb. 19.—(Special Star Correspondence).—The total for the 15th week of the Second Canadian Egg Laying Contest differs but slightly from that of the foregoing week. The figures show a small loss of seven eggs in the seven days' work.

The birds are not putting forth efforts which go to make high pen totals, and, as this week results show, only a bare half dozen pens reach the thirty mark.

Good steady work is, however, being performed, and this week the lead comes from a direction where credit is due.

The pen of White Leghorns which with 36 eggs pull the weekly lead to their side, have for fourteen weeks made creditable scores and done consistant work. These birds headed the table also in the third and fourth weeks.

Two pens of barred Rocks are close up in second place with 35 eggs each and the third place is occupied by another pen of White Leghorns with 32.

For the first time during the run of the present contest a change takes place this week, in the pen leading to date. Fourteen weeks of leadership is decidedly an enviable record to possess, but the "far from home" White Wyandottes with this record must retire to second place.

The contest started November 1st and continues for 52 weeks. Each pen in the contest contains ten birds and the birds in each pen are numbered from 1 to 10.

The following table gives the production for the individual birds for the week. Column "W" gives the total weekly pen production and Column "T" the total number of eggs for the pen to date.

DOMESTIC HELP AT PRE-WAR FIGURES

Prediction of New York Employment Bureau Officials

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—(United News.)—Domestic help at something like pre-war figures is at hand, Miss Henrietta Rothstein, of the State Employment Bureau declared here yesterday.

"Immigrant girls now command $25 to $30 per month, but according to the present trend that soon will be the salary of experienced help," Miss Rothstein said. "When that happens immigrant help should be available at from $15 to $20."

The help market has "softened" she said. Immigration and closing down of factories have brought young women back to housework with the result that wages have been cut from 20 to 40 per cent. Applicants for help are supplied without trouble now where a year ago long waits were necessary.

"A year ago maids demanded almost anything," Miss Rothstein said. "They got $60 or $80 a month and almost anything they wanted, even automobiles. Just now the average wage is around $50 a month with every indication that it will drop soon to $30 and $40.

"Applicants show more eagerness for positions now. Undoubtedly they will make better servants than before.

"Another indication of changing conditions is that the day worker will give eight hours service now for $2. A year ago she was getting $4 to $6 and choosing her clients.

"So far as I can see there has been no falling off in the demand for help."

Independent employment agencies reported much the same condition. The maximum wage now, they said, is about what the minimum was a year ago.

STRATHCONA TRUST ANNUAL MEETING

OTTAWA, Feb. 19.—(By Canadian Press.)—The annual meeting of the executive committee of the Strathcona Trust will be held in Ottawa on February 26th. This is the first meeting of the executive to be held since the year 1913, no meetings having taken place during the war. The Strathcona Trust was founded by Lord Strathcona, who donated the sum of $500,000 for the encouragement of physical training and military drill in the public schools of Canada. The interest from this sum, amounting to $20,000 per annum, is divided bbetween the various provinces according to their school attendance. Fifty per cent of the amount is expended upon physical training for the school children, the remainder going for military training and rifle practice.

WOODSTOCK BANDITS HELD.

WOODSTOCK, Ont., Feb. 19.—Norman and Denton Garfield, two young alleged automobile bandits were today committed for trial on the charge of murder in connection with the death on January 20, of Ben Johnston, who was shot in his confectionery in this city. The committal was made after sundry circumstantial evidence has been presented by detectives and others.

ANOTHER SKELETON OF MASTODON.

BISBEE, Ariz., Feb. 19.—Discovery of the skeleton of a mastoden near Charleston, thirty-five miles west of this city was reported today by members of a surveying party. The discovery is the second of its kind made within the last two weeks, the first mastodon skeleton having been found about ten miles from Charleston.

Makes a Family Supply of Cough Mixture

Really better than ready-made cough syrups, and saves about $2. Easily and quickly prepared.

If you combined the curative properties of every known "ready-made" cough remedy, you probably could not get as much real curative power as there is in this simple home-made cough syrup, which is easily prepared in a few minutes.

Get from any druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a 16-oz. bottle and fill the bottle with syrup, using either plain granulated sugar syrup, clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, as desired. The result is 16 ounces of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made and saves easily $2. Tastes pleasant and never spoils.

This Pinex and Syrup preparation gets right at the cause of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the phlegm, stops the nasty throat tickle and heals the sore, irritated membranes so gently and easily that it is really astonishing.

A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough and for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma, there is nothing better.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations to break up severe coughs.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full direction, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded.
