F. C. Whitaker Welcomes Visiting Rotarians in Address in fluent Spanish

Distinguished Visitor Signs Montreal's Golden Book

Senor Carbajal Links Peru's Flag With the Union Jack

All Rotary roads on the island of Montreal led on Tuesday to the Mount Royal Hotel, where an enthusiastic reception was accorded Fernando Carbajal, president of International Rotary, of Lima, Peru, on the occasion of his official and first visit to the Rotary Clubs of Montreal, Westmount and Montreal Westward.

Not the least feature of the ceremony was F. C. Whitaker's address of welcome in fluent Spanish, as a compliment to the distinguished visitor, to the visiting Rotarians. Mr. Whitaker is the president of the Westmount Rotary Club. J. Lorne Pickering, president of Montreal Westward Rotary Club, introduced the visiting Rotarians.

Visiting Hours Are Restricted At Homoeopathic

Owing to wartime conditions and the shortage of nurses, it has been necessary to curtail visiting hours at the Homoeopathic Hospital as follows:

Private rooms: 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. daily.
 Maternity (private): 2.30 p.m. to 4.00 p.m., 7.00 p.m. to 9 p.m.
 Semi-private wards: daily, 2 to 4 p.m., 7 to 9 p.m.
 Maternity: 2.30 p.m. to 4.00 p.m., and 7 p.m. to 9 p.m.
 Semi-public and Public wards: Friday, 7 to 8 p.m., Sunday, Tuesday, 3 to 4 p.m.

No more than two visitors will be allowed to any patient at one time.

All visitors must leave the Hospital by 9 p.m. in order to allow the night nurses time to care for patients.

Visitors are asked to make their visits short. Long visits to patients usually do more harm than good.

Children are not allowed on the Maternity floor, and their visits to other floors are not advisable. These regulations will not apply in cases of emergency or serious illness.

P/O A. M. H. Robertson Is Prisoner Of War

A grandson of the founder of the firm of James Robertson Company, Pilot Officer Robertson is reported officially to be a prisoner of war in Germany. Pilot Officer Robertson is a son of the late A. A. Robertson and of Mrs. Robertson, of 52 Academy road, Westmount. He was born in Montreal 31 years ago and studied at Selwyn House, Lower Canada College and McGill University before joining the James Robertson Company. He enlisted in the R.C.A.F. in August, 1940 and has been overseas for a year. He was noted as a skier and swimmer.

Police and Fire Chiefs Pack Toys for Ailing Children

Santa Claus has evidently not suffered from any lack of manpower in Montreal district, either for the manufacture and repair of toys of every description, or for the packing and parcelling of the playthings and their ultimate distribution to the youngsters of the members of the Province of Quebec Police and Fire Chiefs' Association.

The great old man's artisans and assistants, the police and fire chiefs, while they may not be numerous, make up in energy, strength, vigor and devotion to extra charitable duty what they may lack in actual numbers.

They have been hard at work ever since last Christmas, at the association's work shop at 701 Marlowe avenue, the home of R. N. O. H. Harrington, secretary of the Police and Fire Chiefs' Association of Quebec, and some of the playthings they have turned out are equal, if not better, than those produced by professional toy-makers. They have one great quality, they are the output of a true "labor of love." If the dolls, wooden soldiers and other figures, manufactured by the "chiefs" could actually talk, they would tell the kiddies who will get them at Christmas, a tale that would delight even their youthful and still wondering little minds.

Since Friday last the "beardless Santas," as the police and fire chiefs have come to be known, have been toiling like "navvies" in one of the upper rooms of No. 23 Police Station here, wrapping and packing assortments of playthings of every description.

On Saturday several large trucks will gather in front of No. 23 Station to be loaded with the parcels which will be taken to the various hospitals, orphanages, institutions and other establishments where crippled or underprivileged children are taken care of, and Santa's understudies will distribute the gifts with a smile and a few words of good cheer and Christmas greetings.

Lieut. Tellier Is Now Home On Brief Furlough

Lieutenant William Tellier, R.C.N.V.R., who for "courage and coolness in the removal of a time bomb in London" received the George Medal from His Majesty the King at an investiture at Buckingham Palace, is now home on a month's furlough.

Lieutenant Tellier is the son of Mrs. H. J. Tellier of 358 Redfern avenue.

Newspapers Are To Be Collected For War Salvage

Citizens Are Asked to Tie Their Newspapers In Bundles

The City of Westmount War Salvage are pleased to announce that they are again in a position to collect any newspapers which the citizens may wish to donate to the war salvage. Citizens are kindly asked to tie their newspapers up in bundles and place them alongside their garbage cans on collection day, with any other salvage they might have; only newspapers that are tied up or packed tightly in carton boxes will be collected for salvage. Householders who have accumulated a large quantity of newspaper can put small quantities out on each collection day, or call FI. 8531, War Salvage, where arrangements will be made to have them taken away.

Citizens will please note that newspapers only are required. Other items of great importance to the war effort are as follows: scrap iron and steel, rubber, aluminium, lead, zinc, copper, brass, bottles, fats and bones, rags, also miscellaneous articles, such as old boilers, batteries, bed springs, carpets and mattresses. For information or special collection, please call FI. 8531, war salvage.

West End Citizens To Speak On CBM

Dr. Pitts and Professor Gifford Chosen

Rev. Dr. John Pitts and Professor W. A. Gifford of the United Theological College, are two West End residents among the ministers chosen to take part in the devotional broadcasts at 8.15 every week-day over CBM until January 2.

The broadcasts are arranged by the interdenominational committee of morning devotions. Dr. Pitts began this morning and will speak tomorrow and Saturday. Professor Gifford will speak on December 31 and January 1 and 2.

THE NEW ORDER

Prized possessions, pitifully few though they may be, are being hawked on Marseilles streets by Frenchmen in the hope of obtaining a pittance with which to buy food. The French, under Hitler's heel, face a winter of desperate privation.

POLICE CLEAR UP JEWELRY STORE THEFT

Most of the Stolen Property Recovered By the Police

The efficiency of Westmount's police department was again demonstrated on December 10, when following a break into a local jewelry store in the early morning—and discovered shortly after by a city constable policing his beat—five arrests had been made before noon the same day.

All five were charged with shop-breaking and receiving stolen goods. Claude Lantaigne, 19, 4649 Henri Julien avenue; Henri Smith, 18, 4225 Laval avenue, and Jean Messier, 18, 98 De Montigny street east, pleaded guilty and will be sentenced today. Paul Beaudoin, 29, 4110 St. Urbain street, and Roland Provost, 30, 4649 Henri Julien avenue, pleaded not guilty and elected for a jury trial. These two were formally arraigned in police court in Montreal and are now awaiting trial.

Most of the property, to the value of $2,500, stolen by the robbers has been recovered by the police.

Stores Open at Night To Assist Shoppers

Despite an impression to the contrary, largely the result of the dim-out, most merchants in the city are open in evenings for the convenience of local shoppers. The Examiner is informed that all the stores which in past years have kept open in evenings during the Christmas holiday season are continuing to do so this year.

K. H. Murray Addresses St. Maurice Valley Teachers' Ass'n.

Pupil Adjustment or Guidance as Carried on Today Is Much Broader Than Vocational Guidance

Some time ago whenever guidance was mentioned one immedately thought of vocational guidance, said K. H. Murray, M. Ed., guidance counsellor, Westmount Intermediate School, a valiant crusader for better schools and a guidance counsellor, whose keen and discerning counsel is ever followed by a host of young people, who was the guest speaker recently at a meeting of the St. Maurice Valley Teachers' Association in the Laurentide Inn, Grand'Mere, Que.

Mr. Murray said that pupil adjustment or guidance as it carried on today is much broader than vocational guidance. Vocational guidance is only one part of counselling. It does not include enough to be considered alone. Guidance or adjustment must include more than that. We must assist pupils in such a way that they receive the greatest possible benefit from their stay in school. In this way we can build for success. Continuing the speaker went on to discuss the following questions to which he provided a preparatory background for the discussion.

Is my child well adjusted? asked Mr. Murray. Does he mix well with other children and what do they think of him? Does he spend much of his time reading or does he do a fair amount of playing with other children? What would I do if my child is not doing well in school? Whom should I see? Is my child working up to his ability? How can I find out? What can I do about it?

Mr. Murray said that there are three main headings under the general term counselling or guidance. There is vocational guidance to assist pupils to prepare for a job most suited to them, guidance in securing the job and guidance on how to make a success of it after the job has been secured. Educational guidance could possibly be included under vocational guidance, said Mr. Murray, but it is so important in school work that we leave it in a category by itself. Educational guidance includes everything that goes to make a success of the school life of a pupil. You can see this is a very large field. Is the child falling? Why? Is it because of lack of ability? If he has the ability to do the work, why the failure? What is the cause? Is it poor eyesight? Is it poor reading ability? Are there faulty study habits? Were among the many questions asked by Mr. Murray in the course of his address.

There are many reasons for failure and the causes should be investigated for each pupil, said Mr. Murray. Too often, he added, the reason for failure is put down as lack of ability. There are many other reasons and in fairness to the children we should find out what they are. A good counsellor, as a result of his specialized training, can often diagnose the trouble and recommend remedial treatment.

In addition to vocational guidance there is a guidance to secure adjustment, continued Mr. Murray. It is quite possible for the average school to get along without noticing anyone needing special help, when in that same school is often different and special attention has to be paid to those new pupils until they find themselves.

Some pupils do not get along well with others, added Mr. Murray. (See K. H. MURRAY on Page 3)

Christmas Rites Fixed for Sunday In Churches Here

All Branches of Christian Church To Celebrate Advent of Christ As Outlook for Preservation Of Civilization Improves

Eucharist, sermon, pageant, choir and carol-singing will mark the advent of the Christmas season in churches of the West End on Sunday. Although the services will vary in accordance with the practices and beliefs of the different sections of the Christian Church in this district, the note of joyful recollection of the Saviour's birth will predominate in all. The new note of hope in our national and international situation will also affect the ceremonies, with thankful recognition of the lessening of the peril to Christianity and civilization resulting from the triumphs of Allied arms in Africa, Asia and the islands of the South Pacific. Christmas this year will be the happiest the United Nations have known since the outbreak of war. Men are already talking of peace on the European front, at least, by next Christmas.

At Dominion-Douglas Church, next Sunday morning, the choir will render appropriate music and Dr. Lloyd Smith will speak on "Has This World Room for Jesus?"

The Sunday School will meet in the Auditorium at three o'clock for their Annual White Gifts Service and to witness a beautiful Christmas Pageant. The public are invited.

At seven thirty, the Church Auditorium will be lit with candles and the service will be largely musical. The choir will sing a number of Christmas Carols and in the familiar ones the congregation will join.

Credit Standing Terms Explained

Wyatt E. Carter Talks To Westward Rotary

Eighty per cent of the people at large are reasonably reliable, and can be depended upon to pay their bills, Wyatt E. Carter, credit investigator informed Montreal Westward Rotary Club in an address at last week's luncheon.

Mr. Carter's home is at 52 Academy Road.

Mr. Carter's talk disclosed that in the last analysis a man's credit standing depended entirely upon his character rather than on his financial position. A man of character, he said, will not undertake obligations which the state of his finances will not allow him to meet.

Mr. Carter was introduced by J. Lorne Pickering, president of the club and was thanked by Gordon Hatcher, a former school teacher of the speaker's.

Thomas Haugland introduced arrangements made for the annual Christmas party sponsored by the club at William Trenholme school which is to be held tonight.

Westward Rotary was well represented at the meeting of the combined Rotary clubs of Montreal in the Mount Royal Hotel on Tuesday when the speaker was Fernando Carbajal of Lima, Peru, president of Rotary International. Mr. Pickering was one of the guests at the head table and introduced visiting Rotarians.

Hospital Seeking Rooms For Nurses

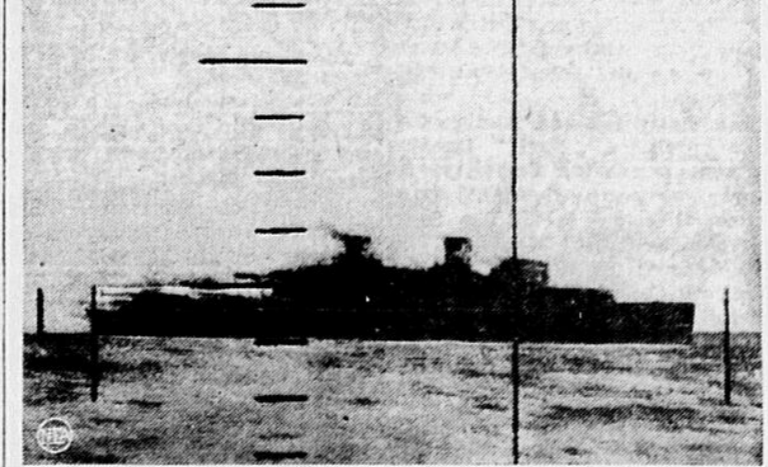

Homoeopathic Classes To Be Increased

It has been found necessary, due to the increased class of students entering for training at the Homoeopathic Hospital in January, to obtain rooms for housing nurses. Therefore, those wishing to be placed on the preference list of rooms available, are advised to submit in writing their accommodation available and rental of same, to the secretary of the hospital, 2100 Marlowe avenue. Preference will be given to rooms in the immediate vicinity of the hospital, also where it is possible to obtain double rooms with twin beds.

Public Library To Close

The Public Library will close Thursday afternoon at five o'clock and will remain closed until Monday morning, December 28, at ten o'clock.

Next Issue of Examiner On Tuesday, Dec. 22nd

Due to the fact that Christmas Day and New Year's Day fall this year on Fridays, changed schedules are necessary during the last two weeks of this year.

The next issue of the Examiner will appear on Tuesday, December 22, replacing the edition that ordinarily would be distributed on Thursday. The edition of the following week will come out on Tuesday, December 29, instead of on Thursday of that week.

Correspondents and advertisers are asked to note these changes and govern themselves accordingly. Deadline for copy of all kinds for next week's issue is noon on Monday, December 21. Deadline for the week after is noon on Monday, December 28.

WESTMOUNT, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 17, 1942

CHRISTMAS SHOPPING

THE WAR HAS BROUGHT great changes in the habits of our people, particularly noticeable at this season of the year. In normal times, downtown Montreal is at its brightest during the Christmas shopping period. Stores are busy, windows brilliantly decorated, streets crowded. Today, there are few lights in evidence—power is needed for our war industries. The big stores are all closed in the evenings. And, for the first time, they will close for the entire Christmas and New Year week-ends. This represents a big sacrifice on their part, particularly the loss of two busy Saturdays.

Local business men have also curtailed their activities in the interest of the war effort. While it is essential that they remain open for a time in the evenings because most local purchasers are away from the district all day, they have remained closed in the evenings until today. It is usual for local stores to open in the evenings from early in the month right up until Christmas. This year, their night schedule has been curtailed to the seven shopping days immediately preceding Christmas, and this only as a convenience to local residents desiring to make some last-minute purchases. It should be noted, though, that dim-out will be observed; there will be few lights in the store windows. A word to shoppers: please carry your parcels home with you wherever possible, and do your purchasing as early as possible.

CHRISTMAS OF THE FUTURE

WE WILL CELEBRATE Christmas this year under much happier conditions than in any Yuletide since the war started. We are no longer fighting to save ourselves from destruction—we fight now to win. This victory, however, must not end with the defeat of the enemy nor even with his just punishment. We've got to go far past that and endeavor to mould a new world closer to that which the Prince of Peace preached. Britain has gone a long way along this road. The work of Sir William Beveridge is an example of what Britain is going to do for her people. We in Canada are considerably behind Britain in this respect, and the United States is considerably behind us. But the many controls we have set up in war time will greatly facilitate the economic and social progress of the mass of the people and enable us to follow England fairly closely on the road to reform if we don't get into a jam with our balkanized provincial legislatures.

But changes—tremendous changes—must come no matter who or what stands in the way. Security, education, health, leisure and opportunity must be made the right of everyone. We shall have to take many leaves from Russia's book, for example, in providing such things as medical and dental services, rest resorts and sanatoria free of charge for everyone who has need of them, and in choosing our candidates for university on merit and merit alone and paying them a salary while they are studying. We can take a leaf from pre-war Norway's book in establishing maximum salaries based on a ratio of, say, ten or twelve times the salary of the lowest paid employee in the same industry. We can take a leaf also from pre-war Czechoslovakia and provide modern living quarters for our workmen in the form of huge apartment communities with gymnasium, hospital, library and playgrounds. Industry must be made the servant, not the master of humanity.

Measures such as these, together with a suppression of nationalistic tendencies and a development of a larger internationalism will help international concord in this constantly shrinking world. The better we know one another, the more progress toward a fuller life we'll all make.

This is the only road to the fulfilment of that peace on earth and good will among men that the angels proclaimed on that Christmas day nearly two centuries ago. It is the only road to that kingdom on earth in which the golden rule will guide the conduct of men and nations.

What will Christmas be like twenty-five years from now? Will parents still be going into debt for months to make Christmas happy for their children, and then constantly worrying in fear of sickness which might involve them in hospital and medical expense which they can't afford? Will the happiness of many homes still be marred by loss of employment, and will other homes still have to depend on charitable organizations for a little bit of Yule cheer? Will the Christmases of the aged still be saddened and embittered by the thought of their declining years spent in the drabness of so-called "homes," or dependent upon their children who in most cases need all their money to meet their own expenses. Will hospitals still be asking "Who is going to pay for it?" when an ambulance is called in an emergency? Will the common stock dividend still be the supreme gauge of human progress?

Can we really break away from all this and make future Christmases what the primitive Christianity of the New Testament tells us they should be? Without any benefit of Christian preceptors, save what they read in Tolstoy, Gorky, Blok and other writers who, in some of their works, have dealt with elemental Christianity, Russia has made a pretty good effort which in other hands would be considered practical Christianity. If a nation, many of whose leaders are atheistic, can do this why cannot nations which profess Christianity do as well, or better.

The Examiner's Hidden Titles Contest

The Westmount Examiner's Hidden Titles Contest is run with the kind co-operation of Mr. Godel, manager of the Westmount Theatre. Each week twelve passes are given to the six lucky winners who comply with the following requirements:

Simply find the two "ads." in the current issue of The Westmount Examiner in which the names of the two feature pictures being shown at the Westmount Theatre during the first half of next week are hidden. Submit all answers to The Contest Editor, The Westmount Examiner, 2191 Hampton Avenue, using the special coupon provided in each issue for the purpose.

Contestants must be over 16 years of age. Residents of Westmount, only, are eligible. All answers must be in this office not later than Wednesday, and the names of the winners will be published in Thursday's issue.

A convenient coupon will be found elsewhere in the paper. The winners are drawn from among those who submit the correct answers, and, unfortunately, it would be impossible to give passes to every one submitting the right answers.

The winners of last week's contest are as follows and their passes will be received in Monday's mail: Mrs. T. H. Hackett, 93 Hallowell Ave.; Miss M. Heeron, 4560 St. Catherine West, Apt. 38; G. Wilson, 35 Bruce Ave.; Mrs. H. A. Rowlands, 25 Windsor Ave.; Miss Marian Howard, 10 Anwoth Road; Mrs. Alice Eaton, 4941 Sherbrooke West, Apt. 1.

In Which Subjects of General Interest Are Discussed

The opinions expressed in this Forum are not necessarily those of this newspaper, and it does not accept responsibility for them.

Lieut. Gen. Sir William Dobbie, who is now in England after having fame as the indomitable defender of Malta, has told a Second Day Adventist convention in London that the second coming of Christ is near at hand. During the darkest days of the Malta siege, Religious News Service reported Gen. Dobbie as having said he was "unfailingly conscious" of the Lord's impending return.

Prime Minister King received congratulations on September 4 on having equalled the long tenure of office as prime minister achieved by his predecessor as Liberal leader, Sir Wilfrid Laurier. Sir John A. MacDonald held office for a longer period. Mr. King now needs to remain as premier less than four years to break Sir John's record. Nearly 68 years of age Mr. King is in good health and can if he desires to do so, remain in office until the middle of 1945 without calling a general election.

A Lawyer on Law

Book Review by Howard S. Ross, K.C., D.C.L., Member of Montreal Bar Association

Common Law

"But what was the English common law in 1776? It is to be remembered that in those days there were no law schools, no law professors. And there were no libraries containing all the reports to which judges and practising lawyers had easy access. Under these circumstances, Blackstone was the answer to a lawyer's prayer. His Commentaries were just what was needed. They were an exposition of the whole of the common law, written a few years before the Revolution (it was largely the timing that did it) and written by a person so learned in the law, and so qualified to administer it, that he had been doubly honored by being made the first professor of law at Oxford and by being made a justice of one of the principal courts. No wonder that our legal ancestors thought the Commentaries were manna from Heaven. Moreover they were so readable; Blackstone set the law to music, cathedral music, serene, sonorous, stately.

"Blackstone became the American legal Bible, and remained so for decades. Abraham Lincoln, poring by candle-light over his Blackstone, will always be a beloved part of the American picture. Thousand of American judges and lawyers have derived their conceptions of choses in action and the unassignability thereof from Blackstone."

At Cornell University Law School, Blackstone (with American notes) is a much used text book and probably in some other U.S.A. law schools.

Of the doctrine of stare decisis he wrote:—"Here is a rule. — reason or no reason, let it stand. It has been said that for centuries nobody thought of questioning the rule. We challenge that. The remarks of Mr. Justice Buller, just quoted, demonstrate that no such sweeping statement may properly be made. We concede that very frequently judges took the attitude that, reason or no reason, such was the law. There were judges in England who would no more have thought of questioning unassignability of debts at law (unless evidenced by negotiable instruments), than a Victorian rector would have thought of questioning the established doctrines of the Church of England. Such a judge might be unable to produce a reason for the rule but there was a halo of sanctity about the head of the rule. And many an American judge, putting the rule through the muddy conduit of Blackstone, also threw up his mental hands. Not his to reason why; his but to know and apply.

"Not to waste vain regrets upon the past, is it not clear that at least the time has now come to put an end to this sort of thing? 'Yes, yes,' says someone, 'But it is for the legislatures, not the courts, to deal the coup de grace.' We challenge that. Such an attitude is a confession of judicial impotence.

"The author concedes that it is a function of the judges—their highest function—to develop the law in accord with modern needs. Let there be no passing of the buck to the legislature."

Lord Mansfield

Of the great Mansfield he wrote:—"This brings us to Mansfield (1704-1793). He was a Scotsman who did very well for himself in England (as many a Scotman had done. He was a great power in politics in the latter half of the eighteenth century. He was a warm advocate of an enlightened and considerate policy toward the American colonies. For over thirty years he was Chief Justice of the King's Bench, and, as such, Lord Chief Justice of England. More than once, he waved away the Lord Chancellor's crown. Said the County Member: "What is greater than to be Lord Chancellor?" Said the City Member: "To decline to be Lord Chancellor and to be Lord Mansfield." Mansfield loved his work. He was never more in his element than when presiding at Nisi Prius in the Guildhall with a special jury of London merchants. He was learned, but he kept learning in its place.—It was his servant, not his master. He was clothed with Olympic serenity, as with a garment. He was dignified without being pompous, considerate without being condescending. He was a master of lucid, persuasive exposition. He seems to us to have been just the right blend of the conservative and progressive.—the perfect judge, without fear and without reproach, reliable, shrewd, wise.

"No other judge, English or American, has had such an effect upon the author's legal thinking as has Mansfield. He is a disciple of Mansfield.

"Now, in dealing with business questions, Mansfield always sought to learn what were the customs, usages and understandings of business men. And he inclined to confirm them. He did not always confirm them. There might be some reason in public policy which blocked confirmation. But he inclined to confirm. His thought was: Let business men generate their own law, so long as what they generate does not offend public policy.

"Therefore let the good work begun by Mansfield be extended. The law is moving that way, and with an increasing momentum.

Lieut. Gen. Sir William Dobbie, who is now in England after having fame as the indomitable defender of Malta, has told a Second Day Adventist convention in London that the second coming of Christ is near at hand. During the darkest days of the Malta siege, Religious News Service reported Gen. Dobbie as having said he was "unfailingly conscious" of the Lord's impending return.

Prime Minister King received congratulations on September 4 on having equalled the long tenure of office as prime minister achieved by his predecessor as Liberal leader, Sir Wilfrid Laurier. Sir John A. MacDonald held office for a longer period. Mr. King now needs to remain as premier less than four years to break Sir John's record. Nearly 68 years of age Mr. King is in good health and can if he desires to do so, remain in office until the middle of 1945 without calling a general election.

William Allen White, veteran editor, recently stated that a new world order of nations living in peace under mutually respected control by a super-order dedicated to friendly relations of nations and peoples is to be. He declared it is not an idle dream but the only reality by which an orderly world can survive this war. We cannot live in this world alone. There can be no freedom for us (the U.S.A.) unless we share it with the world. He spoke of the terrible toll the war will exact and fears that after it is over the world will face the toughest job since Adam and Eve came out of the Garden of Eden.

The John Milton Society, 156 Fifth Avenue, New York, requests the names of blind persons to whom they may send one or more of their two magazines, which are printed in Braille and sent to children free.

As the Ottawa Journal noted before, the United Church is not asking for prohibition. That has been tried in Canada, and the result was not happy. What is proposed, and with the backing of large numbers of men and women who are by no means cranks on the subject, is simply an adjustment of the national drinking bill to the urgent needs of these times. A liquor bill of $250,000,000 a year is a great deal more than this country can afford, and the Dominion Government must take responsibility for cutting it very substantially.

Specifically the committee was set up to consider a petition from the General Council of the United Church which asked for a sharp curtailment in production of alcoholic beverages in Canada, a reduction in their alcoholic content, a cut of one-third or one-half in spirits released from bond, prohibition of liquor advertising and shipments overseas, and an educational campaign for temperance.

Dominion-Douglas Church Notes

The music chosen for use at the Christmas services on Sunday and on Christmas Day is as follows, the service on Sunday evening being a Christmas Carol service by candlelight.

Sunday, morning service, 11 a.m. Organ preludes,

CHRISTMAS RITES

o'clock, there will be a Service of Worship for one hour. The minister will preach. Subject: "The Day Spring."

Calvary United Church

The service in Calvary United Church, Dorchester street, will be in keeping with the approaching Festival. The minister, Capt. the Rev. T. W. Jones, M.A., D.D., will be in charge of the services.

The usual morning Sunday School at 10 o'clock has been withdrawn in order to allow for a complete attendance of teachers, officers and scholars at the 11 o'clock service, when Dr. Jones will preach on the theme "On Tuning in to Christmas." A special Christmas ceremony will be enacted at the Mission Band from 11.15 to 12 o'clock under the direction of Mrs. A. Malkin.

At the evening service at 7.30 p.m., a beautiful pageant of Christmaseide will be presented in the church auditorium. A well-trained group of young people will present the entire Christmas story with all the attendant scenes of shepherds, angels and wise men, supported by the choir rendering Christmas carols.

White Gifts, including canned goods, toys, books, and clothing may be brought at both morning and evening services. These will be used in the social service ministry of the church.

All groups in the church School and Young People's Department are participating in special Christmas gatherings and in helpful forms of service for other groups.

The Christmas services will be continued on Sunday, Dec. 27th. At the evening service on that day the choir will present the inspiring Christmas cantata "Bethlehem" by J. H. Maunder.

Westmount Baptist

Westmount Baptist Church will, as usual, mark the Advent Season by special services, when the church's pulpit will be occupied by Rev. Dr. H. H. Bingham, of Toronto, the able General Secretary of the Baptist Convention of Ontario and Quebec. At the morning service, Dr. Bingham will take for his subject, "The Spell of Christmas," and at 7.30, "The Sign of the Star."

Under the direction of Hibbert Troop, the choir will render a goodly number of Christmas selections. Among other numbers to be sung at the morning service will be Solo and Chorus by E. E. Friendship taking the solo Tours, "Sing, O Heavens" with part, and a solo "The Infant Jesus" (Gesus Bambino), Pietro Yon, sung by Miss Norma Bull. The evening election will include, "Three Kings" by Healey Willan, and a women's quartette, "Tyrle, Tyrle," also by Willan.

Melville Presbyterian

On Saturday, in the Church hall from 4 p.m. until 7 p.m., the Melville Presbyterian Church Sunday School will hold its Christmas tree and party under the direction of Miss Wilma Baird, Miss Jean Baird, Miss Olive Ferguson and Miss Bertha Ferguson. On Sunday, in addition to the usual classes at 11.30 a.m., there will be the White Gift Service for all Sunday school groups at 3 p.m. All gifts will be sent, as is customary at Melville, to the children of the Alexandra Hospital.

Christmas services at Melville will be characterized by hymns, anthems and sermons appropriate to the season. The choir under the direction of Mrs. Grace Forrest has prepared a well balanced service of worshipful music and praise which will make the services happy and helpful occasions for all who attend. Two brief sermons will be preached by the Rev. Dr. Mulligan. In the morning sermon he will deal with the power of a person and an ideal in contrast with the present day stress on the masses and organizations. In the evening sermon he will deal with certain phases of the church's praise as shown in the Christmas hymns and carols.

The Red Cross and Ladies' Aid Societies have concluded their work for this year and will not meet until January. They have had a splendid record for 1942.

The Church of the Advent

"Fear not!" was an essential part of the first Christmas message; "Fear not!" is a message to be proclaimed far and wide today. A large proportion of the troubles of mankind are due to fear; many human beings, when they are faced with anything new or startling, are filled with fears and forebodings. But the dominant note of the Gospel of Jesus Christ is—"Fear not; I bring you good news."

Don't be afraid of what is going to happen in the world, because all things work together for good to them that love God. Don't be afraid of sickness, because Christ, the Good Physician, can heal you. Don't be afraid of loss or taxation, because God will supply all your need. Don't be afraid of loneliness or neglect, because He will never leave you or forsake you. Don't be afraid of death, because our Lord Jesus Christ has abolished death, and brought life and immortality to light through the Gospel.

WESTMOUNT PARK CHURCH NOTES

Mr. Goth for some years has, in advance of the selection by Time magazine, preached a sermon on "The Man of the Year." This will be the theme in Westmount Park Church on Sunday night. The choice will be made upon the basis of Christian standards. Why do we have to wait for secular magazines to appreciate the worth of our genuine leaders? This sermon should prove of interest to all who are searching for standards by which to measure themselves and others. Perhaps, too, there is an element of surprise in the choice.

Both services in Westmount Park Church will feature special Christmas music by the choir. The Young People's Society is sponsoring a Fireside Hour following the evening service. A Special Christmas Service will be held in the Church School at 3.00 p.m., to which all parents and friends are cordially invited. On Tuesday night at 8.00 o'clock, the young people, under the leadership of Mr. Goth, will discuss the subject, "Love and Judgment."

The mid-week service meets on Wednesday at 8.00 p.m. A special Christmas service will be held in Westmount Park Church on Christmas Day at 11.00 a.m. Attend the Church of your choice on Christmas Sunday. The Church needs you. You need the Church.

BRODA GOLFER TOO

Not only is he one of the greatest net-minders in hockey, but Walter "Turk" Broda is a golfer of merit too, one of the best in the National Hockey League. At Toronto Leafs' training-camp, Broda won the Ostrander trophy with a 79, shooting on a rainy day, under bad conditions. The prize for low net went to Bucko McDonald, hard-checking Leaf defenceman, who was 47-45-92 for the eighteen. A seventeen handicap left him with a seventy-five and the low net prize. Captain Syd Apps with an eighty-five captured second low gross.

Sutherland, Hawkesbury; President Frank Whittaker, Westmount; President Emmett J. Roach, Plattsburg; Governor Horace Lamberton, Vice-President C. Hugh Hanson, Norman Foster, Director, Rotary International for Canada; General S. Escobar, President of the Canadian Inter-American Association.

To Mr. Carbajal went the honor Tuesday of being the first to sign the Golden Book at the City Hall following Mayor Adhemar Raynault's re-election Monday. Accompanied by Norman Foster, a director of Rotary International, A. E. K. H. MURRAY ray. Their classmates pick on them and they have a very miserable time. They need some counselling. There are pupils in every class who are of the shy retiring type. Many of them have a very few friends and they make little effort to develop any. They usually spend their time on individualistic activities such as reading. They never give any trouble and they are not often noticed but they are one of our most serious problems from a mental hygiene standpoint.

Continuing Mr. Murray said we have too, the other extreme, the noisy troublesome pupils who are always in the limelight. Certainly the idea is not to make these pupils all alike but being a little different also has its possible dangers.

Others have home troubles. Perhaps there is a lack of money. The death of a father or mother, creates a problem, more for some than for others. There are many possibilities for help here. Mr. Murray said that any good teacher can do effective counselling. The teacher is well acquainted with the pupils and he or she can do very valuable work. All conscientious teachers probably do quite a bit of it, Mr. Murray said. They are interested in their pupils and they see the individual child with the rest of the class as a background.

They are in an excellent position to help. The class teachers are doing good work but in the rush of marks, overcrowded classes and other requirements, many teachers are unable to do all they would like to do, continued Mr. Murray.

Mr. Murray said that the principal of the school, at least in small high schools, often acts as special counsellor. In larger schools a specially trained counsellor is being appointed to coordinate the counselling in the larger unit. This counsellor carries on the specialized work that arises.

LISCOMBE'S "DAY OFF"

His recent 7-points-in-a-game feat that broke the National Hockey League's 13-year-old record, was just a "day off" for Carl Liscombe, of Detroit Red Wings. He's a tool, and die maker of the Metal Moulding plant in Detroit. He's been working a regular 12 noon to 6 shift while practicing and playing with the Wings.

Lots of bowlers waited all season for Thanksgiving so they could get a turkey.

THREE-YEAR-OLD TRAINED PLAN HAILED AS SUCCESS

December 16, 1939, Australia, New Zealand and Canada signed the agreement which launched the Commonwealth's answer to the Luftwaffe's threat. Now entering its fourth year the vast British Commonwealth Air Training Plan is pouring out the trained men who are gaining mastery of the air. Men trained in Canada, most of them Canadians, form the crews of Britain's biggest bombers like the Stirlings above. The terrific lambasting of Nazi industrial centres tells the best story of the training plan's success. Its graduates are serving on every front, in Britain, the Middle East, the Far East, Australia and Alaska.

King's School Pupils To Give Xmas Concert

Under the auspices of the association, and with the kind co-operation of the principal and teachers, the pupils of King's School will present a Christmas Concert tomorrow at 7.30 p.m., in the Auditorium of the Intermediate School, Academy Road.

The facilities of the Intermediate School have been placed at the disposal of the association, through the kind offices of Mr. Kneeland, superintendent of schools, and its principal, Mr. Savage, in order to provide better seating accommodation.

The organizing committee is under the direction of Mrs. R. V. Gregor-Pearse, Mrs. Colin Forrest, pianist.

Obituary

All ranks of society were represented at the impressive funeral rites for the late Lieut-Col. H. J. Trihey, K.C., conducted Friday morning in the Church of the Ascension of Our Lord.

Col. Trihey, who was a leading Montreal lawyer, a senior officer of several industrial and financial concerns, and active in promoting charitable welfare work, died here on December 9, after a brief illness. He was officer commanding the 199th Battalion of the Irish-Canadian Rangers when it went overseas in 1916.

Relatives attending the funeral as chief mourners were the widow, Mrs. Elizabeth M. Trihey; Henry O'Neill Trihey, R.C.N.V.R.; Col. Trihey's son; Mrs. Morris A. Janin and Mrs. Arthur Graham, daughters with Mr. Graham; Mrs. G. Ernest Hall, sister; M. T. Burke, nephew; W. J. Hart and Patrick Mullin brothers-in-law.

Toulon

Patriots they; those tough men of the sea, Who died to live and cleanse their country's name, They sank their ships; they could not live by shame, So France's soul blazed forth in loyalty.

Britons they did not love, but heartily They hated Huns of ancient, brutish fame, Whose infamies that fouled the sea proclaim Their league with hell's cold-blooded butchery.

The anguish of their act they counted gross; Husbands, fathers, brothers, sons and joes, they Calmly talked with death, and kissed the Cross, For honor's plighted word they must obey.

Now, when for future days great deeds are told, Their deed will shine in splendor, carved in gold. —R.L.D.

Cheerio!

The Stableman's Story

Strange things occur! Three decades since that time, When I, in early manhood, faced the world, Possessed of brain and blood and sturdy brawn, But otherwise the poorest of the poor; Right glad for hire to tend my master's stalls, And gladder still that one, unfilled, was there. In which, on clean, sweet straw, my bed might be. One night, the town—'twas down at Bethlehem— Was thronged with people who must there be taxed, And officers and soldiers to enroll, Till every place was full,—and still they came. Outside my stable door I idly stood To watch the passing throng, when near me paused A donkey led by anxious, dust-stained man And ridden by a woman. Strangers, they! What chance had I to know just who they were? The man bespoke me, Nowhere could he find The needed shelter, I described the Inn. He had been there, and had been turned away. Had he no friend in all the town? Not one, Nor where that he could go. A quick thought came Of time I had such need. 'Tis hard to tell What made me bold, I offered what I had— A stall with bed of straw.

Ere midnight passed A babe slept in the manger, and ere dawn Some shepherds, hurrying, came down from neighboring hills, And begged to see the child, in haste they told A wondrous tale of vision they had seen, And song angelic heard, I thought them crazed.

The years passed on, and I, of Israel's God, Was blest in time with home and wife and child, Then, like a thunder-clap, there came the blow, When I was forced from home,—a leper!—cursed!— And all the world seemed dark!

Last night, I came All clean and well, to tell of One whose touch Shrank not from the vile soreness of my flesh, But gave me life and left me pure and whole! And more,—the Man who healed and sent me home Was that same Babe who came as my own guest.

And, strangest yet,—some say He is the Christ, Messiah, long foretold! Of David's Line I knew Him then to be, How could I know He was the Christ?—they seemed as poor as I— Or that one day He'd give me back my life? And He was guest of mine!—slept in my stall! Jehovah works great things in Israel. Perhaps the shepherds were not crazy as I thought.

—Sally Neil Roach.

WATER, VENTILATION TWO VITAL NEEDS OF HOUSE PLANTS

Watering and ventilation are two important factors in the management of houseplants. Watering is one of the simplest operations and yet many plants die as a result of improper watering. A little water coming through the drainage hole at the bottom of the pot shows that the soil is saturated. Ventilation is as necessary for plants as for human beings. Fresh air should be admitted regularly into the room containing the plants. If the day is warm and balmy the window containing the plants may be opened. If it is cold or windy, some other window should be opened, care being taken that no direct current of air from outside is blowing on the plants. Humidity too low provide a moist atmosphere for the plants. These hints and many others will be found in the circular on "Management of House Plants", which may be obtained free by writing to the Publicity and Extension Division, Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

He'd been away from the village quite a while, so he was very interested in hearing all about everybody. "Then, there's young Bill Jones," he asked. "Oh, he's doing not so bad," he was told; "got married just a week or so ago."

"And what's his earning capacity?" asked the returned traveller. "Fairish, but it doesn't begin to keep up with his wife's yearning capacity."

Mrs. Roosevelt has said that Americans could shorten the war if they all did more. But it is hard to imagine packing more into her day.

Judges who served in the Plantagenet period (1154-1485), and ascertain the average intellectual ability as X, and then take all the Judges of the English and American courts (excluding inferior courts) at the present time, and ascertain the average intellectual ability as Y. X would be found to be not less than Y. Many of the rules that they laid down were probably excellent rules for the conditions of their time. What we are arguing is that the law is a growth; that all that was good in Plantagenet days is not good "for all time". Deam Ames to the contrary notwithstanding; that the law builds on its dead selves; that the time came long ago, and certainly is now come, to put way some (not all) Plantagenet conceptions; that "ownership" (as that term is popularly used) should be given first place and that to possession should be given an important, but second, place.

"The persons who arouse feelings in the author which he must admit are not wholly free from contempt are those who cling to old rules with which they have long been familiar, and, reason or no reason, cling on and on with almost Chinese worship for the past, and verily resent attempts to show that such rules no longer serve a useful purpose. They act as though they were threatened with a deprivation of mental property without due process of law. But we realize that one ought to be gentle with such persons. After all, self-preservation is the first law."

He mentions a number of Canadian and English cases and refers to the fact that in some important judgments by English Courts, Story, Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States and Professor of Law at Harvard, was quoted at length.

He added: "England has exported many ideas to America; but has maintained a rather stiff mental tariff against importation of ideas. But Story's ideas were so good, that they were imported, tariff or no tariff. This tended toward balancing."

He does not favor codes or quasi-codes, but admits that if confined to fundamentals and drawn by adequate draftsmen, they may be helpful as a means of rendering the law more certain and more clear. And then he makes a statement, mentioned by him many times but not in the same words, namely: "But the law is a living thing; it is, or ought to be, constantly developing, giving due consideration to new facts affecting the law of the community. No codifying Canute should assume to stay the tide. We are strongly in favor of giving such power to judges as will enable them to guide the development of the law (but always attempting wholeheartedly to carry out any policy which the legislature may from time to time adopt)."

This is the first legal work this reviewer has read which has a plot which absorbs the interest of the reader. The dialogues between the learned antagonists is a most effective method of legal scholarship.

The book is dedicated to the author's wife.

THE WESTMOUNT EXAMINER, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 17, 1942

"Westmount's Home Newspaper"

Social and Personals

Lieutenant John S. Galt, R.C.N.V.R., and Mrs. Galt, are in town for a few days, and will return to Halifax this week-end.

Mrs. W. T. O'Donnell arrived recently from Port Worth, Texas, to be the guest of her daughter, Mrs. John L. Cains, and Mr. Cains for several months.

Miss Hilda Galt spent the week-end at the Royal York Hotel, Toronto, where her pupils took part in the entertainment for the Shriners held in the ballroom of the hotel.

Mrs. Campbell Budge, vice-president of the Women's Auxiliary, Montreal Children's Hospital, has accepted the chairmanship of the budget committee for the coming year. The members of the auxiliary are soliciting support from the public at the present time for their annual Christmas party.

Among those who have entertained in honor of Miss Mona May Borrie, whose marriage to Sgt. Robert Alexander Holland, R.C.A.F., will take place on Thursday, December 24, have been: Miss Barbara Minchell, who gave a shower; Mrs. J. C. Russell, who also gave a shower; a tea and presentation were given at the home of Mrs. J. M. C. Duckworth by Miss Borrie's H-

Y Club friends, and her mother, Mrs. William H. Borrie, was hostess at a trousseau tea.

Mr. J. J. Weatherseed, F.R.C.O., organist of St. George's Church, gave a talk on "Carols" at the Christmas dinner party held last evening by the Montreal Branch of the Canadian Women's Press Club, in the Vice-Regal suite of the Ritz Carlton Hotel. Mr. Weatherseed brought with him some of his choir boys to sing upon this occasion. Ditty bags, which members contributed, were handed to a representative of the Montreal Sailors' Institute for direct distribution.

Assistant Section Officer, Meredith Henderson, R.C.A.F., W.D., stationed at R.C.A.F. No. 2 Training Command Headquarters, Winnipeg, arrived in Montreal recently and will spend the holiday season with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Henderson, returning to Winnipeg at the end of the month. Prior to receiving her commission last August, Assistant-Section Officer Henderson was stationed at St. Hubert, S. F. T. S.

WEDDINGS

Hecht-Kobayashi
The marriage of Mary Campbell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Kobayashi, and Sergeant Maurice Hecht, R.C.A.F., son of Mr. N. Hecht and of the late Mrs. Hecht, took place quietly on Friday afternoon.

Miss Betty Kobayashi was her sister's only attendant, and Pilot Officer C. G. Gifford, R.C.A.F., was best man for Sergeant Hecht. The bride is a graduate of the Montreal General Hospital, winning the highest honors in the Provincial Registered Nurses Examinations, class '41.

Sergeant Hecht is a graduate of McGill, receiving his degree of Master of Science at the last fall convocation.

Gould-Costello
The marriage of Yvonne Antoinette, daughter of the late Richard R. Costello, of New York City, and of Mrs. Costello, of Westmount, to Probationary Sub-Lieutenant Graham Gould, R.C.N.V.R., son of Dr. and Mrs.

GIFTS FOR WALES SENT BY U.S. GROUP OF WELSH ANCESTRY

Somewhere, packed away in the hold of a good ship bound from New York to the other side of the Atlantic, are hundreds of warm knitted garments, together with toys and gifts, that will be distributed bright and early on Christmas morning to little boys and girls in Wales. Winter won't be quite so cold for these children just because some girls in the United States whose forebears used to live in Wales have been knitting the past months with their minds set to bring some comfort to children who have lost their parents or their homes.

Wales today has not only its own quota of native-born orphaned children, but, as well, many others evacuated to its countryside from Belgium, Holland, France and Norway.

Started in 1941, Miss Alvena Evans of 524 Riverside Drive invited a dozen girls to her home one evening. All had a blood heritage from Wales, and then there was organized the Hand-Knits for the Children in Wales Committee. Every Tuesday evening this group, now much enlarged, meets in one of the rooms in Riverside Church and its members, most of whom have worked all day in office or shop, spend several hours together, knitting needles in hand. One of their rules is that only wools of the brightest colors can be used, to the end that the children shall be happy.

To date 5,000 items have been completed and sent to Wales. Miss Evans' idea spread and more than forty similar groups, all under the organization name, have been formed in different parts of the country.

A. Fur Gould, of Westmount, took place on Saturday afternoon at Congress Hall, St. Patrick's Church, Rev. Father Hector Daly, S. J., officiating. Mr. William Doyle played the wedding music, and the hall was decorated with sprays of fir trees and silvered evergreen.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Jules R. Timmins, wore light ivory satin, with full length sleeves and a long train. Her veil of tulle illusion fell from a tiny bonnet of lace, and she carried white carnations.

Her cousins, Miss Pauline Timmins and Miss Madeline Raymond, were bridesmaids, being gowned alike in street length frocks of sapphire blue rosalba crepe, having yokes and long sleeves of pale pink velvet. They wore clusters of pale pink carnations on their heads, and carried muffs of the same flowers.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, 52 Sunnyside avenue, and later the bridal couple left for their wedding trip, the bride travelling in a frock of bois-de-rose wool crepe with mink coat, hat to match, and brown accessories.

If people landed on Mars they could leap 10 feet easily, says a scientist. And that might solve the traffic problem.

Try Gifts Instead of Diplomacy To Spruce Up "Dowdy" Male

Fighting men are asking for toilet articles as gifts with a frequency that ought to dispel any notion lingering at home that there's something sissy about showing an interest in a man's good looks.

New gift items intended primarily for service men are mighty fine for them and for civilians, too. So if the head of your house is apathetic toward grooming measures, try presenting him with some preparations and gadgets done up for the warrior.

UNUSUAL RAZOR INCLUDED IN KIT

For instance, there's a light pigskin kit which often is used on airlines, and is offered now for soldiers. The razor in it is interesting. There is a pastel plastic handle, a narrow blade which slips into place without any necessity for taking apart the handle and guard. Shaving cream, pocket comb and razor strap are packed into the astonishingly small case. Nice for a man to keep at work, especially if he rushes from work to social engagements... nice for keeping any man's shaving things ever handy and tidy at home.

Another is of cardboard which is so sturdy it seems like wood. This is covered with water-repellent paper printed in herringbone pattern—a double for tough Scotch tweed.

Inside the metal snap-cover box are after-shaving lotion and talc and cologne with a wonderful no-trace-of-sweetness scent. Fact, the fragrance is that of mixed Scotch heather and a little Scotch fern. Lotion and cologne are in handsome stone jars inspired by ancient Scotch whisky jugs.

Equipping a man with pleasant

This compact shaving kit, designed for service men, also makes a welcome gift for the civilian who rushes from the office to social engagements, or who just likes things neat and handy at home.

and beneficial essentials of grooming is a much more effective way of persuading him to guard his manly charm than just talking to him about it, however diplomatic and tactful you fancy yourself.

TOY RESTRICTIONS NEED NOT CURTAIL KIDDIES' PLAYTHINGS

Many materials that formerly went into Christmas toys have been diverted to war purposes during past months with the result that this year's stocks are very much restricted.

This doesn't mean that any child need go without toys that will bring as much delight as gifts on which substantial sums are spent in normal times. This year, money, formerly spent on gifts, will be diverted to war savings by every citizen who wants to help get this war over.

Toy-making can prove a fascinating pastime in evenings between now and Christmas. Here are a few suggestions:

Doll's clothes that come on and off, — jackets, bathrobes, sweaters, undies, dresses, muffs and caps.

Doll's beds which can be contrived from anything from a matchbox to an oblong fruit basket, complete with pillow, pillow case and sheets, blanket and comforter. Doll's trunk and furniture or a doll house can be built.

"Silhouette" Toys
Toys of wood in silhouette cut out with a jig-saw and painted or enamelled with non-poisonous paint are fine for younger children. Nests of blocks, peg board with large pegs, ring toss, puzzles cut in large pieces, stool, chair and table set, tool chest will all be welcome on Christmas morning.

Small children love furry or cloth animals for which patterns can be purchased at small cost. There are innumerable versions of the rag doll including Indians made from brown cotton with hair from black yarn, Pickaninny dolls with hair from ravelled wool, Dutch dolls, prim in white

Apples, Pine Cones Attractive Holders For Yuletide Candles

Christmas and New Year's always seem more festive with candles used somewhere about the house, particularly if there are get-togethers planned for that time. But candle holders need be no problem. Nothing is more colorful or effective than rosy red apples with just enough of the centres scooped out to hold candles. Use the apples whole, or cut in half. Lay the cut side on a plate, surround with green, and place the candle in upper half where a hole has been made.

Pine cones make pretty candle holders also, and are nice to use during the winter months. Simply scoop out holes large enough to hold candles, using the wider part of the bases.

Oranges may be used in the same way as apples and homemade candles can be made from melting all odds and ends pouring them into jelly molds. When nearly hard, insert short pieces of wick. These burn a long time and are similar to Vigil Lights. The more colors used, the prettier the resulting candles.

Apron and bonnet and many other character dolls for which the scrap bag will provide materials.

FATHER J. STANFORD ADDRESSES C.W.L.

"The Farce of Pretence" was the subject of a talk given by Rev. Father J. J. Stanford, on Friday afternoon at the social service day meeting of the Westmount Subdivision, Catholic Women's League.

Referring to the years previous to the "crash" of 1929, Father Stanford said that people who had made easy money in the stock market lived a life of pretense until the "crash" brought them back to normal again. The speaker punctuated his address with poems by Edgar Guest and Sister M. Madeleva.

Mrs. E. Foster was chairman, and Mrs. E. A. Kelly sang, accompanied by Mrs. J. Shea. Mrs. Edgar Reynolds thanked Father Stanford, and the artists were thanked by Mrs. P. Melvin.

War-time refreshments were served by Mrs. J. Colford.

A GRAND SAUCE

Equal portions of canned cream of tomato and cream of mushroom soups, heated together, make a grand sauce to serve covering meat loaf, broiled meat cakes or breaded chops. The meat can be cooked right in the sauce mixture or the sauce used as a last-minute covering.

Children Have a Good Time At Westmount Club's Party

With snow outside to bring hopes of a White Christmas and an air of expectancy within, Victoria Hall transformed Friday afternoon to a gala scene when about 170 children, pupils of the School for Crippled Children and the School for Handicapped children, were entertained by the Westmount Women's Club at their annual Christmas Party.

Gayly decorated Christmas trees and multi-colored ornaments added a festive note to the occasion.

The hall was decorated effectively, the background of the stage being formed of a huge letter "V" in evergreens, dotted with red, white and blue lights. Small Christmas trees were placed at each end of the platform, and tiny snowmen and crackers were fastened on the curtains.

The complete entertainment was provided by the Betty Speirs School of Dancing. Miss Betty Speirs was mistress of ceremonies. A wedding procession was put on by a group of the younger ballet pupils. Little three-year-olds held the spotlight with their natural and amusing antics. A great deal of varied talent was shown by many of the young performers. One feature of the program was presented entirely by youngsters ranging in age from two to four.

One of the highlights of the afternoon was the performance of Nancy Telfer who has appeared more than 200 times before soldier audiences and who gave several duos with Peter Miller, her teacher.

Little Miss Eileen Hogan gave readings, and Grace Ford sang two solos.

The numbers were too numerous to be mentioned but the program throughout was excellent. Pudgy and Joan Regele in Swanee River, The Dying Swan by Valerie Beacom, The Little Teapot by Shirley MacDonald, Three Little Gray Mice, and many other numbers were admired by the large audience.

To the great joy of the kiddies Santa Claus took time off from his many chores to pay a surprise visit, and there was great excitement when he arrived brushing off the snow, and accompanied by a group of dancing gnomes, who as soon as they reached the stage, started an animated snowball fight with cotton balls which they threw at the children in the audience, who needless to say returned them in good measure.

The president Mrs. R. M. Macaulay greeted the little guests and wished them a Merry Christmas, and Mrs. Whitmore thanked Miss Betty Speirs for the splendid performance.

The arrangements for the party were made by Mrs. R. M. Whitmore, Mrs. Louis de Saroye, Mrs. J. A. Gillespie and Mrs. J. C. McKeane.

Edith Head Designs "True-to-Life" Gown

Miss Edith Head, who designs stunning gowns for Paramount feminine players, can stand up and take a little bow for really dressing a star in character.

Miss Head designed a one-piece, black-and-white checkered working dress for Betty Hutton to wear as a movie studio telephone operator in "Star Spangled Rhythm".

Today, when Betty did her first switchboard scenes, Director George Marshall summoned Claire Martin, the studio's head telephone operator, to the set to be technical advisor on how to manipulate the board.

Miss Martin was attired in a dress that was almost a duplicate of Miss Hutton's.

Telephone Employees Donate Many Articles To Women's Groups

Six local women's auxiliaries received a total of 284 articles knitted and donated last month by members of the Auxiliary Aid Association. Telephone employees of Montreal Fund.

In her November report of the soldiers' comforts committee, Miss Helen Elishoff records the following contributions: 88 articles to the R.C.A.F., of which 37 were knitted from their wool; 104 to the Royal Canadian Navy; 39 to the Victoria Rifles of Canada, and to the Canadian Grenadier Guards and the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals, 16 and 17 respectively. In addition to 20 knitted articles, the telephone A.A.A. collected and contributed scraps of fur and leather to the local I.O.D.E.

Cosmetics and War Bonds Are Teamed Up for 1942 Christmas

By ALICIA HART

PATRIOTIC INFLUENCE NOTED IN GIFTS

Christmas cosmetics, ever stimulating and personal, are more practical this year. This makes them the obvious choice for a modest filip without which no woman's stocking seems adequately filled, even in wartime. And there are enough of them to go around and then some.

The appeal of patriotism is widespread. One house stamps all its products as free of any material requested for war production. Others invite the giver to tuck a war bond or stamps into the gift package.

One Fifth Avenue expert, for example, packs her gift set of dusting powder and toilet water in a removable tray, and she suggests the place underneath that tray is just right to carry a war bond.

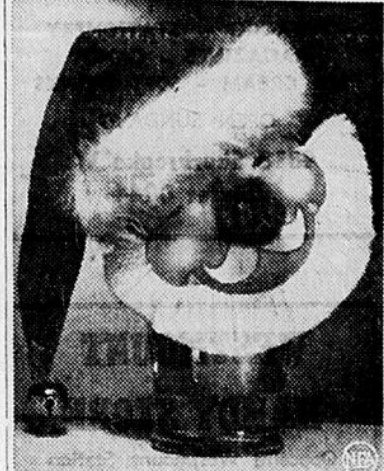

Stocks of pre-war things like metal vanity cases are uncertain. At comparable prices, however, there are supplementary ones which are novel, often better: beautiful sturdy plastic cases and sterling silver compacts and lipsticks such as a middle-bracket shopper wouldn't have thought of asking for, formerly.

COLORFUL PACKAGES

Gay packaging distinguishes many toiletries. Even such a homely item as soap is done up as a whiskered Santa Claus. One

Just what she wanted—and for good reasons. For this beauty kit includes a welcome array of necessary items—from the Santa-Claus box of dusting powder to a compact and lipstick set.

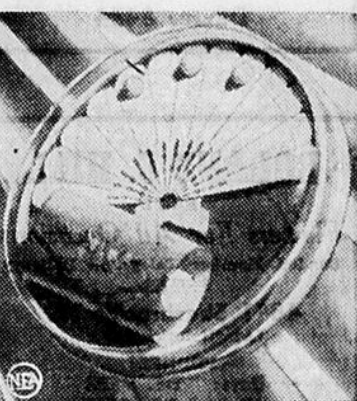

Even soap becomes a special gift when dressed up as a beaming portrait of Santa Claus.

house has a poinsettia flower pot with a fresh Christmas look, with red and green acetate leaves, and a center, formed by the knob-like stoppers of a dram bottle of perfume.

There's a "choir" of soap in the shape of six angels, and a beauty birdcase of pink-bowed white wire holding generous containers of beauty and bath accessories.

Beauty kits in every shape and combination are about the most popular single thing you can name. You can find them at comfortable prices—there's even a pretty pasteboard beauty box with cleansing cream and powder at the price of a good cotton handkerchief.

Here are two novelty packages that will make their gift of perfume all the more pleasing. The dram of scent on the left comes with a fan-puzzle. (The trick is to roll the beads into perforations on the fan's edge.) The flower pot holds poinsettias of acetate leaves, with a bottle stopper forming the center of the petals.

Now that hand grooming is a real problem for many women who are working with their hands for the first time, manure items are particularly pertinent gifts. And there's an abundance of these.

One noted house wraps them up in attractive combinations, varying from traveling kit of smart red and red-plaid monk's cloth, holding nail enamel, remover, orangewood stick and emery boards, to a complete and elegant saddle-stitched leather case.

Gift boxes by this house also include a cornucopia of dusting powder, soap, lipstick, rouge, sachet; a full-sized white mandolin with hand-painted white roses on it, and inside, dusting powder; a book of sachets, complete with appropriate Victorian "mottos."

PRE-CHRISTMAS DAYS DEMAND GOOD MEALS EASILY PREPARED

Something good to eat—but quick. That's the problem the homemaker faces these before-Christmas days.

The answer is to plan main dishes which can be prepared in advance and quickly reheated.

While doing up the breakfast work, the homemaker can make rice creole: To serve 4 or 5, simmer 5 minutes in 4 tablespoons fat, heated in a frying pan, 1/3 cup each chopped onions, celery and green peppers, add 2 tablespoons chopped parsley and 3 cups left-over boiled rice. Cook 5 minutes, stirring frequently. Add 1 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon pepper, 1/4 teaspoon chili powder or poultry seasoning and 2 cups tomatoes. Boil slowly 5 minutes. Pour into buttered baking dish and when cool put in refrigerator, until time for dinner, when it can be popped in the oven.

Meat Vegetable Soup

Meat vegetable soup contains a heap of nutrition at low cost, and can be cooked the evening before it is needed. Select a large soup bone with meat on it. Place in a large kettle. Cover by 4 inches with cold water. Add 2 teaspoons salt and cover. Simmer 2 or 3 hours or until the meat is very tender and falls off bone. After the meat has been cooking an hour, add 4 chopped celery leaves, 4 sprigs parsley and 1/3 cup diced onions.

The vegetables for meat soup are usually improved in flavor and texture if they are cooked separately and then added during the last part of the cooking, which occurs in this case when the soup is reheated for serving. So cook together 1 cup diced carrots and turnips in water to cover, slightly salted. Drain and save the stock for some later soup, stew or escalloped dish. Mix with 1 cup cooked peas, green or lima beans and 1/2 cup diced cooked celery and put into the meat soup. Also add 1/2 cup rice or barley. Boil quickly for 10 minutes, then lower heat and simmer 25 minutes.

SLEEP WELL AT NIGHT

If you do not sleep well at night, try taking a warm bath followed by a tall glass of unsweetened fresh grapefruit juice or orange juice. Either will have a soothing effect on the nerves.

Financing of Medical Care Inadequate, Says Doctor

The present method of financing medical care in Canada is inadequate, according to Dr. Basil Cuddihy, who addressed the St. Mary's Ladies' Auxiliary in the Ritz Carlton Hotel recently. The speaker told his audience that a national plan of compulsory health insurance is likely to be put in operation somewhere in Canada within the next two years.

The insurance would be made up by contributions to a fund by all employees, employers and the Government. The payments would be compulsory. In the case of employees they would be deducted from the salary.

Dr. Cuddihy discussed a number of principles which the Canadian Medical Association had published, and which it was hoped would be embodied in any legislation on the matter.

Care For Indigents

Medical care for the poor would be provided under the plan, the Government paying the premium for these indigents, who would then receive medical care under exactly the same condition as other insured persons.

It was also suggested that the plan be compulsory for persons having an annual income below a level which proved to be insufficient to meet the costs of adequate medical care, and that dependents of insured persons be included in the medical benefits.

"Compulsory health insurance for wage-earners who earn less than $3,000 a year and free health insurance for the indigent is the answer to the problem of the proper distribution of medical services," he declared. The president, Mrs. Leo O. Reynolds, introduced Dr. Cuddihy, who is connected with the Royal Edward Institute and St. Mary's Hospital. Mrs. Henry C. Bussiere thanked the speaker, also Duncan Stace, who sang, accompanied by G. H. Craig.

Reports were read by various committees. Mrs. Vernon Cardy reported that 11,519 surgical dressings had been made since the last meeting.

A display of 195 articles of sewing and knitting was held at the meeting, these articles having been made by a Teen-aged group, the Thimble Club, which is under the convenship of Mrs. Edward Quinn and is composed of pupils of St. Madeleine's Academy, Outremont. The work done by these young girls helps the Pediatric ward of the hospital.

By this time, you have read all sorts of articles about Christmas and heard much talk on the subject, too. You have been warned not to go in for a "big splash" this year. You have been urged to "make it a really memorable Christmas." You have been instructed how to make neat gadgets to please your friends, and one day later have come across another article telling you that there's a war on, and that there is no time to waste on hand made presents.

Months of country riding had made us forget sidewalks, and besides the snow was all over everything. We got our fat horse off, though, parked him with a companion and walked up to the front door as though it were the most usual thing in the world to bring one's horse for a visit. It was reminiscent of the good old days when people had nothing to do but ride around paying elegant calls—and it was fun to be leisured for one day!

War Work Committee Plans Catering For New Year Event

As a means of raising money to purchase materials for conversion into garments of all kinds for men on active service, Canadian Red Cross, V Bundles, Scottish War Relief, Beaver Club, London, and W. V. S. London, Eng., the ladies of the War Work Committee of the Westmount Women's Club will this year undertake to serve New Year's suppers for from 600 to 700 young people at the Johnnie Holmes Dance and Supper in Victoria Hall.

A large committee of ladies will assist in the supper preparations. It is expected that many of those attending will be young men on active service who will be home for the holidays.

The large hall will be reserved for dancing only, and the suppers will be served in the three smaller rooms known as the Oak Room, the Green Room, and the banquetting hall.

The ladies who are assisting are: Mrs. Harold Mills, chairman; Miss S. Gardiner treasurer; Miss Rose Greenway, secretary; Miss K. McCarthy; Mrs. Claude Gaudin; Miss Muriel Dennis; Miss Edyth McCarthy; Mrs. B. S. Scott; Mrs. T. Holmes; Mrs. J. Holmes; Mrs. W. F. Worfolk; Mrs. T. de G. Stewart; Mrs. F. de Gruchy; Mrs. N. S. "Winter White" Seen In Hollywood Styles

The popularity of "winter white" is gathering momentum and many Hollywood fashionables have included it in their wardrobes.

Claudette Colbert, ever tastefully groomed, has a stunning winter white ensemble. She wears a casual tuxedo in white fleecy over a white wool shirt-maker frock. The coat features a wide border of mink that is matched to a mink muffin-beret. Dark brown alligator pumps and bag form her suitable accessories. Miss Colbert will soon be seen in Paramount's "Palm Beach Story."

NEW FRYING PAN

If new potato peelings are rolled with a little water in the new frying pan for a few minutes, food cooked afterwards in the pan will not be so apt to stick.

Hospital Auxiliary Appeals For Workers

The Women's Auxiliary of the Jewish General Hospital is appealing for voluntary workers to assist in carrying on its daily work. The help problem is becoming more acute each day as more and more men and women are being absorbed in war industries, and the only way in which institutions can function normally is by voluntary workers coming to their aid.

Any woman who can offer her services for several hours a week is asked to communicate with EXdate 2113 for information as to how she may best serve.

Children Thrilled When Allowed To Trim The Christmas Tree

Child development experts say that children will enjoy Christmas more if they help in getting the house ready for the coming of old Saint Nick. One of the most important duties, especially to a child, is that of decorating the tree.

A little boy or girl will love the opportunity to cut out cardboard stars, then dip them into a thick mixture of water and laundry starch and finally, sprinkle them with artificial snow. Small gourds, seed pods and pine cones can be treated in a like manner, after they've been painted with a quick-drying enamel, or with aluminum paint.

Much pleasure will be derived by a child if he or she is allowed to make strings of cranberries, popcorn or small pieces of stale bread to hang on a special Christmas tree for the birds. Later children can string them about a shrub or tree in the front yard, and watch the birds enjoy Christmas, too.

BUY WAR SAVINGS STAMPS TO STAMP OUT HITLER

Simple Gifts Made by Hand Are Cherished by Everybody

The click-click of Red Cross knitting needles, and the sewing in war work rooms has brought out many latent abilities in the handwork line. These will stand us all in good stead now at Christmas time, when money is needed for war bonds and manufacturing effort has gone into war supplies. For, though this is no year for fabulous celebration or lavish giving, we need more than ever to mark the day with a loving spirit and with simple, thoughtful remembrances symbolic of all the things we're fighting for. So homemade gifts are doubly appropriate in this war year, and there is still time to make gifts.

If the lord and master of your home has his nose a little out of joint because of your enthusiastic war activities, make him a painted stand for reading his newspaper at the table, just to show him your heart's in the right place and you don't really find his morning newspaper habit. A piece of plywood with molding across the bottom and an easel back can be painted with bouquets of hearts and a jaunty Good News design.

Make A Hassock
Make him a hassock for solid comfort of an evening—out of a stout wood box padded well and slip-covered with tweed from a discarded suit or with fabric to match his pet chair.

For the woman with a cherished home, your busy fingers can devise a two-color organdy luncheon set, the runner in deep brown with turquoise applique monograms. Or have mats and runner of peach with broad bound hems of faded blue, then napkins of blue.

Something to Hope on
The bride on whom the sun is not shining any too brightly these days, with her very new husband off to the wars, will be happy if you give her a hopeful something for that home of the future. She'll like fine guest towels with her still-new married initials, a quilted tea cozy, huge chintz envelope folders for keeping her nice linens fresh and smooth when not in use.

Then there's Great-Aunt Tabitha, who has everything but always expects something really special from you. Make her something to prove that your heart really goes along with your gift, such as a shadowy organdy breakfast tray set, a throw of flowered challis with inches-long fringe, a huge padded satin sachet in envelope shape big enough for keeping her lingerie fragrant and elegant. Or get an unpainted drawing board or a plain piece of plywood and decorate with a free-hand flower design or a stencil for her to use as a lapboard for writing, reading, sewing.

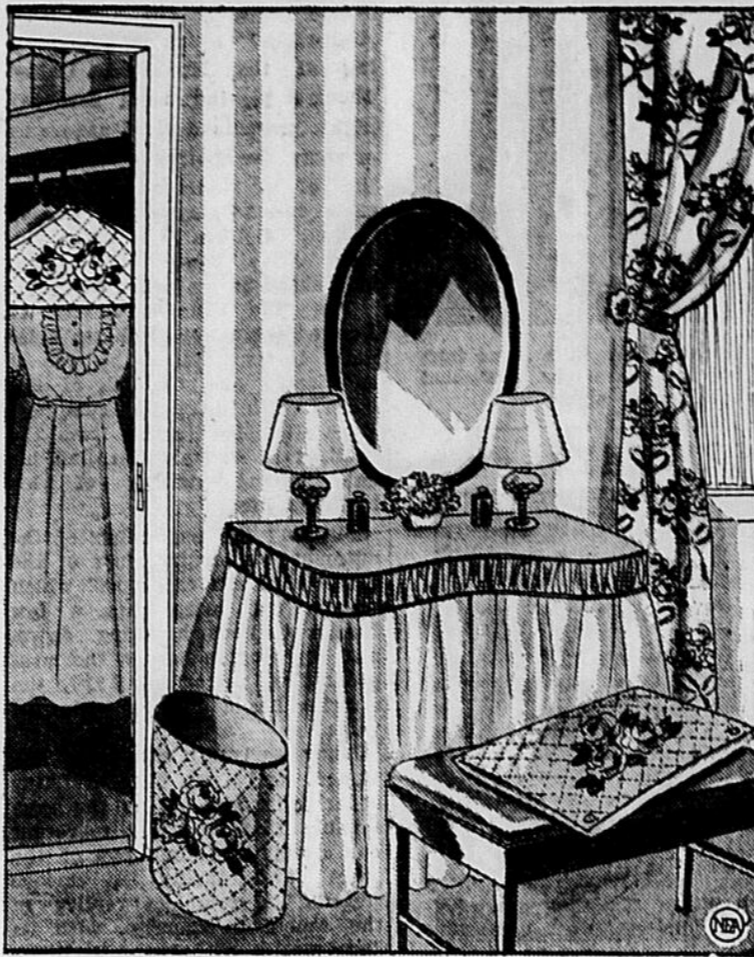

For Pins and String
For the string-savers and pin-pickers-up, who are now in high repute, make gifts to encourage their good habits. A covered tin kitchen container, painted brightly and with "A Piece of String" written on it and a hole in the top would be fine for keeping that ball made of stray pieces of string. The end of the string can poke out the hole, ready for use.

With production of pins and needles cut way down, because of their consumption of metal, it is going to behoove us all to revive the sentimental old custom of the pin cushion on the bureau. Bits of pretty silk and scraps of fine lace make beautiful pin-cushions or make plain satin cushions with flower designs outlined in fancy headed pins.

Above all, remember that time is too precious, materials too hard-come-by to waste energy and fine handwork on knick-knacks and novelties that will never find a useful role. The mere fact that a strange out-of-this-world gadget is "handmade" will not add glamour nor lend distinction to something that is a fad or trinket in the first place. A gift should be worthy of your fine seams, your hours of work.

Homemade Boudoir Accessories Are Low-cost Christmas Gifts

Sewing Machine's Quilting Attachment Will Give Them a Professional Finish

An ideal Christmas present for any woman you know is this attractive easy-to-make boudoir ensemble which includes a scrap basket with quilted case, a matching case for lingerie and a clothes-hanger cover that protects shoulders of garments from dust.

The woman who intends to stay within her Christmas budget without crossing off any names doesn't wait another minute to begin making gifts for some of the women on the list.

She considers, for instance, scrap baskets with quilted cases. Mingerie cases, both quilted and plain, and clothes hanger covers. Whether she is an experienced seamstress or not, she'll find it no trouble at all to learn to use one of the new sewing machine attachments which does a professional-looking quilt job in record time.

MAKING THE BASKET COVER

The quilted case for the scrap basket requires about 1 yard of material. For the quilted hanger cover use about 1-3 of a yard. For the lingerie case use about 2-3 of a yard. For all three pieces, no more than 2 yards of 36-inch material and the same amount of cotton padding are required.

The scrap basket cover is simple to make regardless of the size of the basket to be covered. Simply measure from top to bottom and around the circumference. Cut a strip of fabric that length and width, allowing 1-2 inch for seams. Cut another strip of thin cotton padding the same size.

Baste this padding to wrong side of the chintz. Next cut out the motif to be used to decorate the basket. Baste this motif in place, and with the zig-zagger attached to the sewing machine, stitch around the edge of the motif. Now with the cording foot, attach a zipper to the open ends, the full width of the fabric strip. The zipper fastening is concealed at the back.

Next, cut a piece of chintz the size and shape of the bottom of the basket. Stitch the side and bottom piece together on the wrong side 1-4 inch from the edge. Turn right side out. Apply a 1-inch bias strip at the top and bottom side with the edge stitcher attachment.

Now for the hanger cover. Most hangers are 16 inches from shoulder tip to shoulder tip. The short cover should be about 17 inches across and ten inches from the hook to the lower edge of the cover. If the chintz is 36 inches wide, fold the 1-3 yard piece so that you have a piece measuring 18 inches by 10 inches. Cut padding the same size and proceed to apply the motif and quilt in the same way as you did the basket.

Next, cut the 18-inch sides so that a shoulder line is made to slant to the hook of the hanger. The slope can be estimated by laying the hanger on the material and cutting accordingly. Stitch the two pieces together at the 12-inch sides. Apply 1-inch bias tape around the edges, leaving a hole at the top for the hook to poke through.

MAKE LINGERIE CASE SAME WAY

The lingerie case when finished measures 18 by 9 inches. Cut the 36-inch wide piece of chintz which measures 27 inches in half, so that it is 18 by 27 inches. Cut a piece of cotton padding the same size. Baste the motif and the cotton padding to the chintz as you did for the basket and stitch. Then baste the second piece of chintz wrong side out over the quilted piece and stitch around three sides, beginning at the 18-inch side near the motif. Turn the case inside out, so that the quilting and the motif are on the outside. Stitch the fourth side. Fold this 18-inch edge up 9 inches and stitch so that it makes a pocket. The quilted end with the motif applique then forms a flap.

"Pirates" Well Performed By Lyric Operatic Society

Montrealers were given their yearly treat of Gilbert and Sullivan last week, with the performance of "The Pirates of Penzance," presented by the Lyric Operatic Society, under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Norris. The society's 14th annual production was sponsored by the McGill Chapters of Alpha Omicron Pi and Kappa Alpha Theta Fraternities. In aid of charitable work, and was given at The Hermitage on Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights. The role of Frederic, the "slave of duty," was well taken by Cpl. Kenneth Walker, R.C.A. P. Betty Allam, as the heroine Mabel, sang delightfully and acted with vivacious charm, and Maude Whitmore, as Ruth, the "pirate maid of all work," put true Gilbert and Sullivan humor and some fine singing into her role.

Social Service Meeting

The Women's Social Service Organization will hold its next meeting on Tuesday, at 2.30 p.m., at the Mount Royal Hotel, Corey Thomson, radio commentator and "answer man," will be the guest speaker. A door prize has been donated by Mrs. M. Levy. Mrs. R. Seigler, president, will preside.

TURNIP GARNISH

Turnips make an excellent garnish. Cook until tender, cool and scoop out the insides. Spread with butter and fill with cubed, seasoned beefs. Reheat and surround the fowl platter.

Henry Bloom, who took the part of the nimble-tongued Mayor General Stanley, acted and sang with ease; Harry Maude caused much hilarity as the sergeant of police, and, with his chorus of cohorts, was recalled several times to tell the audience, with varying gestures, how "A policeman's life is not an 'appy one.'"

Hugh Douglas, as the pirate king, and Matt Taylor, the pirate were Bernice Bryant, Margaret Gilmour and Phyllis Johnston, in the roles of Edith, Kate and Isabel, General Stanley's daughters.

The orchestra, directed by Harry Norris, did full justice to the light-hearted and melodious music, and the choruses of policemen, pirates and young ladies all sang well. The costuming was excellent and the scenery was attractive.

Jovial Dutch Santa Claus Visits Kiddies in New York

Sinterklaas, Jovial Christmas saint of the Dutch people, distributed gifts to 400 wide-eyed children recently at Madison Square Garden, New York City. Assisting him was the legendary Moorish servant, Pieter, depicted by a Netherlands East Indies Negro who hovered faithfully behind the scarlet-clad St. Nicholas.

The Queen Wilhelmina Fund, which arranged the program as part of the Women's International Exposition of Arts and Industries, had planned that St. Nicholas would ride a white horse to the stage. But that genial man apologized when he came on foot, explaining that it was his habit to gallop over the rooftops of Holland. He added that he was also afraid that his horse might not behave well in such a large crowd of children.

On the stage were twenty-one golden-haired boys and girls, all of them Dutch descendants. They sang in the language of the Netherlands to welcome St. Nicholas as he stalked with long strides up to the platform. Because the Dutch Sinterklaas is believed, according to legend, to have been a bishop in Syria in the third century and patron saint of sailors and children, he wore a bishop's robe covered with a bright red cape, a tall hat topped by a gilt cross and carried a staff.

Urges Better Department
The most excitement came when the saint, depicted by J.

H. Warning, of 4670 Waldo Avenue, Fieldston, Riverdale, who is managing director of the Java-China-Japan Shipping Line, gave out the presents. He astounded some of the children by warning that they must eat their spinach, behave better at school or improve at the piano. After the party, he explained to several adults that the mothers had cooperated by answering questionnaires on some of the ways that their daughters and sons needed to improve.

Bravery Rewarded
When St. Nicholas handed a present to seven-year-old Theo Doorman, whose father, Vice-Admiral Karel Doorman, was listed as missing after his Netherlands ship went down in the battle of the Java Sea, he said: "You were a brave boy when you helped your mother escape to Australia from the Netherlands East Indies while those Japanese were shooting at you. You look mighty fine in that sailor suit of yours, son. And because you have been such a good boy I have a present for you." Mrs. Isa Doorman, Theo's mother, was in the audience.

Little Girl Admired
Fellecia Guepin, four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. C. Guepin, 1000 Park Avenue, shook her yellow shoulder-length hair and spoke up saucily to St. Nicholas when he said she had been a good girl but must stop walking around at home without her bedroom slippers. She promised to remember what he

Mothers and Children Entertained By Club

The Catholic Mothers' Club of Westmount recently held a large-attended mothers' and children's day. The children were entertained by Mrs. J. T. Rogers, assisted by the following junior committee; the Misses Ann Martin, Hazel O'Brien, Ann Mulcair and Sheila Rogers.

Mrs. A. A. Pare presided in the Assembly hall of St. Leo's school. Plans for Christmas entertainments were discussed and new activities suggested and club elections were fixed for February. Refreshments were served by Mrs. John Leslie, assisted by her committee.

SOILED LAMP SHADES

If soiled silk lampshades are not too old or flimsy, they can be washed in lukewarm soapsuds. Use a soft brush on the pleated shades to remove the dirt. Rinse in clear water and allow to dry in a warm place.

had said if he would give her the present. St. Nicholas told other children to be more tidy, to behave better at home and school, and to give more time to their lessons.

The role of Black Pieter was played by Rechenel Kamp, of 978 Union Avenue, the Bronx.

Mrs. Hannah Johnson, seventy-five years old, of 222 East Sixty-fifth Street, won first prize in a darning contest sponsored at the exposition by the American Needle Arts Society. Marjorie Lawrence, of the Metropolitan Opera, appeared in a wheel chair and sang on a program arranged in connection with the British Commonwealth exhibit.

NEWS OF THE THEATRE WORLD

AT WESTMOUNT THEATRE

As timely as the headlines on the pages of this newspaper is the completely absorbing adventure film which opened yesterday at the Westmount United Theatre. Titled "Desperate Journey," it tells the story of five members of a British Flying Fortress crew who are shot down in Germany and their adventurous journey across Europe toward safety.

In the leading roles are Errol Flynn and Ronald Reagan, both of whom give excellent performances. The breeziness of Reagan combined with the dash of Errol Flynn lends the film a bristling quality that keeps one's avid interest throughout.

The other members (beside Flynn and Reagan) of the crew who are forced down in Germany are played by Alan Hale, Arthur Kennedy and Ronald Sinclair. They are taken to an intelligence officer, played by Raymond Massey, for questioning. Reagan plants a right on Massey's jaw, knocking him cold, and they all make a getaway. When Massey recovers he gives out orders which start a vast manhunt.

Errol Flynn, whose knowledge of German has gotten them out of many tight places, locates a doctor, through the help of a young German girl, portrayed by Nancy Coleman, who comes through with another grand performance and thus lives up to the heaps of praise she received for her "Kings Row" portrayal.

Another woman patient overhears the whispers between Nancy, who hates everything connected with the Nazis, and Flynn. She notifies the Gestapo, who lose no time in surrounding the place. Although Sinclair dies through the loss of time and blood, the rest get away.

Through the continued aid of Nancy, they manage to elude the Gestapo, even going so far as to steal their own car and driving across the Dutch border where they steal a reconconditioned British bomber and head for England.

At York Theatre

They did it before in Paramount's "This Gun for Hire" and they did it again last night at the York United Theatre in the Dashiell Hammett murder-mystery, "The Glass Key." "They" are those two highly charged, romantic movie personalities—Veronica Lake and Alan Ladd—who created a sensation in their first appearance together in "This Gun for Hire."

There is a third star in "The Glass Key" who fits perfectly into the dramatic picture. He is Brian Donlevy, who recently scored another great hit in the widely acclaimed "Wake Island." His characterization in the Dashiell Hammett film as the hard-boiled, slightly shady political boss, is pleasantly reminiscent of his portrayal of "The Great Gatsby."

Others in the cast of this highly recommended movie are Bonita Granville, Richard Denning and William Bendix.

At The Snowdon

Cary Grant, Jean Arthur and Ronald Colman are starred in Columbia's new romantic comedy, "The Talk of the Town" which is now showing at the Snowdon theatre. The film was produced and directed by George Stevens, maker of Woman of the Year and Penny Serenade from a screen story by the sensationally successful writing team of Irwin Shaw and Sydney Buckman who wrote Here Comes Mr. Jordan.

"The Talk of the Town" presenting its star trio with roles of equal and valuable merit, is reported to be a motion picture made for laughter and excitement.

Through it runs a thread of solid romance, delightful comedy sequences and a thrilling and unexpected climax as to which one, Grant or Colman gets Jean Arthur.

Special short subjects and the latest news events as received from Fox, Paramount and British Empire newsreel agencies, complete the program.

Power Behind Throne Jim, an aged Negro, who had seen service as a butler to a long succession of Governors of his home state, was endeavoring to accommodate himself to the requirements of the recently inaugurated incumbent.

One day, in the Executive Mansion, the Governor's wife, after waiting luncheon for half an hour while the Chief Executive busily occupied himself in his private suite, sent word by Jim that he was to present himself at the table without further delay. The Governor sent back word that he would first have to see a delegation which was waiting for him downstairs; whereupon his wife sent Jim back to say that the Governor could dine at once and let the delegation wait.

"Jim," said the Governor, "You know who's the Governor, don't you?"

"Yes, sir," replied the wise old servant, "I'll go down and tell the delegation to wait."

NOT SO DUMB (Birmingham Mail) She was "quite the latest thing" in wartime typists, and the chief clerk of a Midland firm was driven to exasperation by her repeated mistakes.

"Jove, Miss," he asked, "do you really know anything at all?" She carefully crossed a blonde curl with scarlet-tipped fingers. "Yes," she answered, her blue eyes flashing up at him from under pencilled eyebrows, "I'll bet I know more dances than you do, anyway!"

Also Studied the Japanese Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, as a youth, studied military science in Tokyo and was a member of the Japanese army.

Confusing Statements Mr.: "I suppose you realize this purchase represents indulgence in sheer luxury. You must have known that we couldn't afford it."

Mrs.: "But you see, dear, it had been a necessity we would have had to get it anyway."

Strategy The teacher inquired whether the pupils had any favorite songs they would like to sing. "The National Anthem," suggested one. "What made you think of the National Anthem?" "Because," replied the boy, "then it's time to go home."

STARTS SUNDAY AT THE WESTMOUNT

Brian Donlevy, Alan Ladd and Veronica Lake in a scene from the exciting film "The Glass Key," which opens at the Westmount United Theatre on Sunday playing until Tuesday night.

AT THE MONKLAND SUNDAY!

American pilots in the RAF are dramatized in the thrilling film "Eagle Squadron," which opens Sunday at the Monkland United Theatre playing until Tuesday night. The cast includes Eddie Albert, Jon Hall, Leif Erikson, Robert Stack, Diana Barrymore and Evelyn Ankers.

OPENING SATURDAY AT THE YORK

Cary Grant, Ronald Colman and Jean Arthur in a scene from the gay exciting comedy "The Talk of the Town," which opens at the York United Theatre on Saturday playing until Tuesday night.

Musical Sharps Flats and Naturals

by Frances Goltman

WE READ a very interesting item about Joseph Schuster, the first cellist of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra. His hands are more expensive to clothe than those of the ordinary person because he has to buy two pairs of gloves instead of one each time he buys them. Reason: one hand is two sizes larger than the other but this oddity of birth does not affect his wonderful cello playing.

ISN'T IT PECULIAR how some composers are remembered chiefly on account of the popularity of a certain number? The celebrated "Minuet" from a Quintet by Boccherini is an example but we are to hear his Quartet in A Major, opus 33, No. 6, tomorrow evening at the McGill String Quartet concert.

cert in the Prince of Wales Salon at the Windsor Hotel. Boccherini wrote no less than ninety-one string quartets which are somewhat in the style of his contemporary, Haydn. Other interesting works on the programme are Dvorak's Quartet in A Major, a quartet for oboe, violin, viola and cello and Robert McBride's Quintet for oboe and string quartet with the composer playing the oboe. Those who heard this very talented young musician last year as clarinetist are eagerly awaiting his oboe performance.

Those Were the Days

President Grover Cleveland, about to speak at the University of Virginia, was introduced by the famous Fitzhugh Lee, who said:

"Mr. President, we are honored in welcoming you to Virginia today, both as a loyal Democrat and as President of the United States. 'Tis a long time since we have had a President with us." And then, feeling that Mr. Cleveland should not be allowed to become too proud, and that he should be reminded that Virginia was known as the "State of Presidents," he continued, "But the time was, sub, when we could go out on this portico and holler Mr. President," and the woods would be full of them."

At The Monkland

Marking Orson Welles' second screen venture, "The Magnificent Ambersons," which is now playing at the Monkland United Theatre playing until Saturday night, presents a vivid panorama of some twenty-five years in the life of an Indiana town, with such noted players as Joseph Cotten, Dolores Costello, Tim Holt, Anne Baxter and Agnes Moorehead in its principal roles.

The film adheres closely to Booth Tarkington's Pulitzer Prize novel in its story of the rise of one family and the fall of another, with dramatic complications stemming largely from the spoiling of an only son, and his subsequent wrecking of his mother's life.

Marking the beginnings of the automobile industry, days of the first "horseless carriages" which seldom ran more than a few blocks without breaking down, and covering as late as the mass production period of 1913, the offering has a definite historical value.

Many early-day cars were obtained and put into running order for scenes laid in the huge settings that faithfully represent the streets and buildings of the little town during its various phases. A complete replica of the Amberson Mansion, with its four stories of baroque architecture and ornate furnishings, and 46 other settings, each built with perfect accuracy of detail, are features of the film.

The Second Case Two magistrates were summoned for exceeding the speed limit. When they arrived at court there were no other magistrates present, so they decided to try each other. Number one went on the Bench and the case proceeded.

"You are charged with exceeding the speed limit. Do you plead guilty or not guilty?" "Guilty!" "You will be fined five shillings." They then changed places and again the plea was "guilty."

"H'm," was the response. "These cases are becoming far too common. This is the second we have had this morning. You will be fined thirty shillings."

Always Did Wife: "I see by the paper that women are getting men's wages these days." Husband: "Humph — they always have, one way or another."

Our whole life should speak forth our thankfulness; every condition and place we are in should be a witness of our thankfulness.—R. Libbes.

INTERMEDIATE LEAGUE DECIDED TO MAKE AN EFFORT TO CHANGE THEIR PRESENT CLASSIFICATION

Plans Are Being Made to Open Up Loop by Having Dignitaries From the Municipality and the Services Present at the League Opening

The intermediate section of the Westmount Municipal Hockey League held a meeting on Monday evening in Victoria Hall, when the final details were discussed before the league play gets underway. The league schedule, with the opening double header slated for Monday, January 4th, was accepted and ratified. It was decided that the teams could use an unlimited number of players in any league game. Jack Lang, chairman of the War Services Co-ordinating Council, attended the meeting and stated that the organization he represented was ready and willing to help the service teams out in any way possible.

The league decided to make an effort to change their classification to Class B Intermediates instead of the usual Class C standard for outdoor rink teams. Plans are being made to open up the loop with some fancy frills by having dignitaries from both the municipality and the services represented at the league opening. The following is the league schedule:

Mon. Jan. 4—8.00 No. 4 Ordinance Corps vs. No. 1 Wireless School; 9.00—No. 3 Training Command vs. No. 14 Provost Corps.

Wed. Jan. 6—8.00 No. 1 Wireless School vs. No. 3 Training Command; 9.00 No. 14 Provost Corps vs. No. 4 Ordinance Corps.

Gallinger Makes A Fast Advance

Don Gallinger, a 17-year-old rookie with Boston Bruins, of the National Hockey League, can lay claim to a fast advance record almost as impressive as that of Gaye Stewart, of Toronto Leafs who in one season rose from junior amateur to major professional.

Two years ago Gallinger played for Port Colborne youngsters who won the O.H.A. midget championship. The next season he jumped to junior "B" ranks of St. Catharines at the age of 16. Now he's climbed again to play with Boston Bruins.

GOLDEN EAGLES PREPARE FOR A NEW TERM

Five Holdovers From Last Year Are Still Available

Westmount Golden Eagles, Q. H.A. Provincial Juvenile Champions, winners of the Honorable J. L. Bourque trophy, emblematic of the provincial champions, the Alcide Gagnon—H. Love trophy and the Gaunt Trophy, emblematic of the Island of Montreal title, are looking forward to another successful season and will hold a reunion dance at the Westmount Y.M.C.A. on Friday, December 18th. All supporters and friends of the club are cordially invited to attend. Tickets may be secured from any of the members of the club. Refreshments will be served in the form of sandwiches and soft drinks.

The Golden Eagles were one of the youngest teams, if not the youngest, to win the Provincial title, and of the eleven players who participated in the City and Provincial playdowns, nine are eligible for Juvenile ranks this year. However, the ranks were somewhat depleted when Kevin Kennedy and Don Mann were signed by the Junior Canadiens and Johnny Chénier left to play for Philadelphia, Falcons in the E.U.S.A.H.L. Another former Golden Eagle in the person of Sonny Provost, who is, however, too old to play Juvenile this year, made good when he was signed by the Verdun Caps of the J.A. H.A. Hugh Brodie, Provost's partner on the defence last year, is also too old for Juvenile this year.

Five holdovers from last year are still available, namely Adrian Lunny, Noel Romey, Eward Read, Stu Beaulne, and Johnny Potter. With this nucleus, the Golden Eagles have high hopes of staging a successful defence of their Provincial crown.

To replace these losses, coach Doug Alexander has Don Busiere, outstanding graduate of Bert Read's champion Victorias of last year, Lorne Cullinson for goal, Bob Bulger, Jim Macken, and Paul Peterson of last year's Rebels Juvenile squad. To round out the rearguard, Toots Provost of the disbanded Hawks Juvenile team, and brother of Sonny Provost, will add much defensive strength to the present champions.

minor hockey this winter will be held in the Queen's Hotel tomorrow evening. The meeting will be presided over by Alf Connolly, recently chosen referee in chief for the Minor Hockey Board.

SKIERS IN ACTION

Hundreds of enthusiastic skiers are shown in this bird's eye photograph taken from Hill "40", on the Ste. Adele Lodge Estate. Over three feet of snow already covers the slopes and the two ski-tows, shown in the picture, were operating last week-end.

Y's Chats

The two weeks of the Christmas holidays will be filled with special varied programme at the Westmount Y.M.C.A. Bob Beal and Ross will be working together during these weeks and they are planning to give the members a really fine holiday programme. It will start Monday 21st.

Morning programmes will start at 10.00 a.m. and will consist of sports, swimming and crafts. In the afternoons and evenings there will be special events as well as in the schedule below. Complete details of all programmes will be found in the Y's paper, the "Y's Talk" that is sent each week to all members.

The following is the schedule for the first week: Monday, 2:00 p.m.: Trip to 7-Up Bottling Company (bring two car tickets); 5:00 p.m.: Swim.

Tuesday, 2:00 p.m.: Jamboree! Fun with games of all kinds in the pool, in the gym and in the game rooms; 4:00 p.m.: Swim.

Tuesday, 7:00 p.m.: Full length talkie picture show.

Wednesday, 2:00 p.m.: Basketball game with Lachine Y. Come and support your Y team.

Wednesday, 7:00 p.m.: Candle light Carol singing.

Thursday, 2:00 p.m.: Swimming Meet, Christmas Tree, Surprise.

Morning programmes will include such games as "winter football," fox and goose and other games suitable to play out of doors.

Juniors

This Friday, the Juniors will go into action with their commando tests that had to be postponed last week. This contest will include feats of skill and daring and the three junior teams are out to win.

The Juniors are preparing for the special Christmas programme at the Y and a special Christmas edition of the "Y's Talk" will go out to members this week, containing the complete programme for the first week of the holidays.

Dave Binnore is picking a special basketball team to play Lachine Y next Wednesday afternoon. This is a Junior team, and swing legs back and forth twenty times. Keep knees straight, and back flat on the floor.

4. With knees bent, soles of the feet flat on the floor,—placing the tips of the fingers back of the head, raise the head and shoulders off the floor, keeping the elbows wide. Repeat ten times.

5. Lying on the back with arms and legs extended toward the roof, at right angles to the floor. Extend as high as possible and hold for at least one minute.

In all these exercises the knees should be perfectly straight in all the extended positions. The spine should be kept flat, with the abdomen contracted. On the initial trial, relax between each exercise. As strength is gained, attempt to complete the entire routine without a break.

PEE WEE TEAMS ARE ASKED TO ATTEND MEETING

Five Teams Have Signified Their Intention to Operate

The Prince Albert pee wee section of the Westmount Municipal Hockey League will hold a meeting this Saturday morning at the comfort station in Prince Albert park at 10.30 a.m. Teams intending to play pee wee hockey at Prince Albert rink are asked to have at least one representative at the meeting.

Up till the present time five pee wee teams have signified their intentions of operating in Skeletons and Flyers. This group this group. The four teams are the Aces, Hurricanes, Lancers, and for players weighing eighty pounds and under, but there is no age limit. Games are played on Saturday mornings.

Five teams in the Stuyvesant district are asked to attend a meeting to be held in the shack

SCOUT SECTION OF MUNICIPAL HOCKEY LEAGUE TO RAISE AGE LIMIT TO INCLUDE OLDER BOYS

It Is Said An Effort Will be Made to Organize a Junior Section for Players Thirteen Years of Age and Under

The Scout Section of the Westmount Municipal Hockey League held an organization meeting on Monday night in Victoria Hall. The same three teams that played in the group last year, 2nd Westmount, St. Matthias and the Sea Scouts were represented. The Rover Sea Scouts were also represented but chances are that they will fill in with the Sea Scout team.

It was decided to raise the age limit of the league one year, making it eligible for players fifteen years of age on September 1st to play. An effort will be made to organize a junior section for players thirteen years of age and under on the same date. Each team will be allowed to use one man over the established age limit.

The teams will be competing for the Roberts Trophy, presented to the section for competition by B. W. Roberts, the father of one of the boys who played for the championship 2nd Westmount team last year.

Present plans call for the games to be played on Tuesday and Thursday nights at King George Park.

The other scout troops will be canvassed in an effort to get more teams for the section, especially in the event a junior group is formed. The section will hold another meeting this Monday night, December 21st, at the Greenhouse. The meeting will start at 7.00 p.m.

Those attending Monday night's meeting were Walter Mittham, St. Matthias Troop; Alex Reaper, Sea Scouts; Pete Harling, Rover Sea Scouts; Bob Sproule, 2nd Westmount; and Jim McCormick, recreation supervisor.

Physical Fitness Through Exercise And Diet

This is another in a series of health articles by P. M. McFarlane, Physical Director at the Westmount Y.M.C.A.

It has been estimated that 90 per cent of all sickness has its origin in the abdominal region. The abdominal muscles are more discussed by the layman than any other group, and anyone who wishes to keep his body in good condition becomes alarmed when his abdominal wall begins to sag. He has every reason to be worried because once the four
