Johnson ready for Sharp

QUEBEC (CP)—This week's meeting of Canada's tax structure committee, following so closely upon Finance Minister Sharp's rejection of demands by the provinces for a bigger share of taxes, may be the occasion for the sharpest-ever clash between Quebec and Ottawa since Confederation, Quebec government sources said Sunday.

They recalled that Premier Daniel Johnson of Quebec said Friday his team at the talks will be a "very aggressive one."

Mr. Sharp announced last week that the federal government will be forced by the financial situation in the years ahead to turn down the demands from those provinces seeking a bigger share of taxes
gleaned from their inhabitants.

Premier Johnson replied to this by comparing the federal government to a hockey team which had launched an attack before the other team was on the rink.

He said: "Play starts only Wednesday, when the teams of other provinces will be on the ice. Quebec is well-prepared for the game. We have a very aggressive team."

STUDY ARRANGEMENTS
The tax structure committee meeting Wednesday and Thursday is due to examine fiscal arrangements for the period from 1967 to 1972.

The tax policy of the Johnson government is based on the recommendations contained in the report of the Tremblay Commission—published in 1956
—which was set up by the former Quebec government of the late Maurice Duplessis.

The Tremblay recommendations called for Quebec to retain 100 per cent of income tax gathered in the province, 100 per cent of corporation tax, and 100 per cent of the deductions for social security.

At present, Quebec retains 47 per cent, ten per cent, and 75 per cent respectively of these taxes.

Wilson responds to demands for tough Rhodesian action

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Wilson responded today to Commonwealth demands for tougher action against white-supremacist Rhodesia amid indications that the future of the multi-racial organization is in the balance.

The conference of 22 Commonwealth leaders adjourned
after a 75-minute morning session in an atmosphere of tension.

The so-called African caucus went immediately into session at Marlborough House, Commonwealth headquarters, to decide on whether to accept Wilson's policy, which apparently envisages that rebellious Rhodesia might one day get legal independence before majority rule—that is, Negro rule.

Arnold Smith, Canadian secretary-general of the Commonwealth, summoned reporters to state that "there will be no disclosures at this stage of anything said today by any delegation."

Canada's Prime Minister
Pearson said Wilson's 50-minute

speech was "a very comprehensive and, I thought, quite helpful review of the British position."

"The conference agreed, however, that nothing should be said about the substance of the statement until it has been discussed by the conference."

US Senate studies water plans despite Canadian opposition

WASHINGTON (CP)—Despite Canadian coolness about the whole idea, a U.S. Senate subcommittee has taken a preliminary look at a privately proposed project to divert huge quantities of water from northern and western Canada and Alaska to the western United States and Mexico.

Sponsors of the project,
known as the North American Water and Power Alliance, estimate it would cost at least $100,000,000,000. The sponsors, the Los Angeles engineering firm of Ralph M. Parsons Co., have shown their plan in Vancouver, Calgary and Ottawa.

The Canadian government has said, however, it has no intention of considering any export of water until an inventory of Canada's water resources has been taken. This will require several years to complete.

British Columbia's water resources minister, Ray Williston, has expressed completed opposition to Nawapa. The state of Alaska is also against it.

Nevertheless, Senator Frank Moss (Dem. Utah) plans to introduce a resolution in the U.S.
Senate calling for a joint Canadian-American study of whether the two countries should undertake the project.

Astronauts off on space chase

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — A Titan II rocket thundered away today, hurling the two Gemini II astronauts in hot pursuit in space of an Agena satellite after three days of frustrating delay.

U.S. Navy Cmdr. Charles Conrad Jr. and Lt.-Cmdr.
Richard F. Gordon Jr. rode inside a tiny capsule atop the flaming rocket, hoping to catch the Agena in the first orbit to start a three-day space adventure, as the Titan II roared to life at 10:42 a.m. EDT, the Agena streaked over Cape Kennedy 185 miles up at the end of its first orbit.

The Titan climbed slowly at first gradually gaining speed as its first-stage engines hungrily consumed fuels at the rate of 156 gallons a second.

Conrad and Gordon, who endured two disappointing scrubs last week and a 16-minute delay this morning, planned to catch the Agena over Hawaii in 80 minutes. That would be two orbits and nearly three hours faster than any previous space rendezvous.

Ten minutes later they hoped to latch on to the 26-foot-long satellite, speeding at 17,500 miles an hour.

They couldn't see the fiery departure of the Atlas because their cramped capsule faced straight up. But they were given radio reports and, were told that the 7,000-pound Agena had raced into orbit.

The space agency said initial tracking reports indicated the Agena's orbit ranged from 183
to 189 miles above the earth, near the 185-mile-high circular orbit that was planned.

HAD SOME TROUBLE

Just two minutes before the Atlas-Agena was to lift off at 8:49 a.m., a 16-minute delay was forced by a balky hatch over Command Pilot Conrad in the Gemini II spacecraft.
Checks showed it hadn't sealed properly.

Technicians reopened the hatch, then closed it again and finally got the problem whipped.

Besides the trouble with the hatch, there were two other minor problems.

A countdown clock on one rocket had to stop momentarily to become perfectly timed with another clock entering the countdown, and a sliver of metal was found in a fuel line that feeds Gemini II's Titan II
rocket.

The sliver was "noticed, isolated and ignored," officials said, because two filters stood killed yesterday when his bicycle collided with a car.

The boy, whose family has the accident occurred.

The accident happened when the boy's bicycle was struck by a car driven by Maurice Villeneue, 26, of Cowansville. The victim's sister managed to swerve in time to avoid the car.

The coroner's inquest is scheduled for 5 p.m. on Friday in combined passenger and freight train on the outskirts of

SAIGON (CP)—Premier Nguyen Cao Ky said today that 80 per cent of South Viet Nam's voters had turned out for the general elections which spelled
"the beginning of the end for the Communists."

The general in charge of the elections said some of the voters cast blank ballots of protest.

"We now have the conditions for final victory," the premier said at a press conference at which all members of the ruling military council appeared.

The new assembly of 117 representatives elected to write a new constitution will meet Sept.

26 and Ky said they should finish their work "as soon as possible."

The new assembly, as announced by Maj.-Gen. Nguyen Duc Thang, who was in charge of the elections, included 22
teachers, 20 military men, 18 civil servants, 17 provincial councillors, 15 professional people, eight farmers, three judges and three others.

Only one woman, of 18 female candidates, was successful. The average age of the assembly is 40.

Thang said that on election day there were 5,289,652 eligible voters. Of this number 4,274,812

went to the polls.

Thang admitted that among the voters some cast blank ballots of protest, but said the number was far smaller than the 15 per cent who cast defaced ballots in the 1953 provincial elections. He gave no figure, however.

Ky said "never before have the Communists tried as hard to sabotage anything as they did yesterday. Never before have they failed as miserably."

"This announces the beginning of the end for the Communists,"

Chief of State Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu said: "The final victory over the Communists is drawing near."

Ky's military government proclaimed the voting a "smashing victory" because of the big turnout despite a Communist terror campaign.

There was evidence that some provincial and district officials—under pressure from Saigon — had reported some padding totals.

The government spokesman said, however, that rechecked tabulations would show a final percentage of about 75 per cent.

The government said the Viet Cong made 147 attempts to interfere with the election Sunday.

In the capital, the northern military zone and the central highlands, the election passed
free of terrorism or sabotage.

This may have been partly due
to the massive mobilization of government forces to protect the polls.

Officials said 67 per cent of the registered electorate turned out to vote in Saigon.

Three prominent South Vietnamese civilian politicians won seats in the election. They were among 16 victors in Saigon, including city councillors, businessmen, teachers, a chemist, a newspaper man, a doctor, an engineer and a lawyer.

IS BEST KNOWN

The best known successful candidate in Saigon was Phan Khac Son, 61. South Viet Nam's last civilian chief of state, who held office during a succession of military - backed governments in 1964 and 1965.

The voters chose 108 members of the constituent assembly. Nine others are to be filled by mountain tribes who will use their traditional selection procedure. There were 520 candidates. Known Communists or neutralists were banned from running.

The assembly will have six months to draw up a new constitution after it meets Sept. 26 to replace the one which was abrogated after the overthrow of Diem.

Then more elections are to be held to fill whatever offices the constitution sets up. Almost certainly the country is expected to end up with a presidency and a balancing legislature.

A booby - trap evidently set to go off election day, exploded today near a voting place in Saigon wounding five people.
Another grenade attack possibly prompted by the elections badly wounded a textile executive and his driver.

In the capital, the northern
military zone and the central
highlands, the election passed
free of terrorism or sabotage.

This may have been partly due
to the massive mobilization of government forces to protect
the polls.

Show Business

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The black-and-white movie is becoming as extinct as the nickel cup of coffee.

Every feature film being shot in Hollywood this week is in color and with one or two exceptions, all American films in production abroad are in color. A survey of major companies discloses only six black-and-white movies among those in current release, completed or in production.

Not too many years ago, film companies made a big thing of advertising that a movie was in color. Nowadays it's taken for granted that virtually all except art house movies will be tinted.

What caused the decline and fall of the black-and-white movie? One of the principal causes is the same factor that has brought other changes to the film industry: Television.

Says a TV official: "All three networks are in complete color this season, and one major entertainment is feature movies—five of them on prime time each week. Our viewers would feel cheated if we played a black-and-white movie."

Color advocates argue that life itself is in color, and that black-and-white photography is unrealistic. They also point out that the once-brilliant tones of color film can now be muted for effects of mood.

Producers-director George Seaton cites other reasons for the swing to color: "In Germany, a color film automatically draws a 45-per-cent rental while a black-and-white film gets only 43 per cent. The same formula applies in other countries, and it can make a big difference in a total gross."

DRIVE-INS COUNT
Also, drive-in theatres prefer color films, which show up more clearly on outdoor screens. Dark, moody black-and-white films tend to become obscure in drive-ins.

Critics long have argued that the garish hues of film color mitigate a gaudy dramatic mood. It is significant that the year's biggest dramatic hit, Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf? is in black and white.

Producer Ernest Lehman explains the reasons: "I felt that the drama would have played differently in color; it would not have had the same power and realism. Dialogue somehow sounds different when the film is in color."

"Since the action took place entirely at night, there seemed little reason for color. Also, I think Elizabeth Taylor would have looked quite real in color; the makeup we had to use to age her would have showed."

Color advocates argue that life itself is in color, and that black-and-white photography is unrealistic. They also point out that the once-brilliant tones of color film can now be muted for effects of mood.

About
Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—The audience which seeks to escape the problems and tensions of life via television should have tuned in on NBC Thursday night for the premieres of two series.

They could have had one of two reactions to the new Tarzan series: hysterical laughter or simple incredulity. There was Ron Ely, the latest model of the ape man, in his loincloth and swinging on vines even when it would have been easier to walk.

All the trappings seemed pretty silly even for a children's show but there was also the plot. It seems there was this pretty, blind girl who had been living comfortably in a forest loaded with tigers and crocodiles with the help of her—get this, Daktari fans—devoted seeing-eye lion.

The lovable lion unfortunately had a bad twin and a whole tribe of natives were out to get him. Naturally the natives confused the good lion with the bad lion, and the girl was in danger when Tarzan arrived by vine just in time to save everything.

SPACE SHOW FOLLOWS

This soul-searing adventure was immediately followed by Star Trek, which had the captain and medical officer of a 21st-century space ship landing on a decaying planet for a routine health check on an earthling archeologist and his wife who were studying the artifacts.

It turned out that she wasn't the scientist's wife at all, but a "thing" from the dying planet with enormous ability who was trying to survive.

The sight of the thing may have sent little science fiction fans off to interesting dreams. But then we elders were able to switch channels to ABC to see how Danny's girl, Marlo Thomas, was making out in the premiere of her comedy series, That Girl.

The answer is that she made out very well. Miss Thomas is a very pretty young woman who handles comedy like a pro.

Hawk, the new ABC police story that followed, is a colorful, slick production with lots of sirens, fighting, running and shooting. Burt Reynolds plays the detective, a Mohawk Indian, in a tense, almost hostile manner. But the trappings were not able to conceal the familiar plot—running down a madman-turned-murderer because he hated automation.

The show ought to prove a worthwhile addition to the network lineup.

GRANITEVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. Reg Eryou and son, Kevin, and Mrs. J. McAlister spent a few days with Mrs. Andrew Moore, Webster, Vt. They also visited Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Robinson at Curtis Pond, Vt.

Miss Elsie Henderson is spending a two weeks' vacation visiting friends in Montreal and Mrs. Grace Peacock and Mother, Mrs. D. MacLennan, of Springfield, Vt.

Mr. and Mrs. Murray Ward, of Montreal, were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lyell Hand and family at their cottage at Harvey's Bay.

KINNEAR'S MILLS

Mr. and Mrs. Allan Learmonth and family, Cobourg, Ont., Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Learmonth and daughter, Marianne Inverness, were visiting Mr. and Mrs. James Bailey.

Mrs. Annie Lowry, Mrs. Geo. Rothney and Mrs. John Kinghorn were among those who attended the funeral of the late James Hutchison at Lennoxville.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

HARD TO LOSE,
BUT SOUTH DID

North and South both bid their hands with reckless abandon. North had a mere ten points for his two diamond response but was still able to find a second bid while South with a complete minimum opening and a fair six-card suit jumped to game.

West opened the king of hearts. East played the queen and won the second lead of a low heart with his jack. South ruffed the third heart and led a spade to dummy's king.

As you can see the hand is a cinch from this point on. Trumps and diamonds break to work. South will lose a diamond but can't lose another trick. Or can he?

South, an unlikely expert type, managed to find a way to go down.

He started by taking the club finesse. He decided that play was more likely to work than to try to establish diamonds for a discard. Then he played his ace of trumps. West dropped the jack and South looked at it carefully. Then he played his ace of clubs, entered dummy with the king of clubs, led the last heart and ruffed. East let his queen of clubs go on that fourth heart.

Then South played a diamond to the ace and played a low diamond from dummy. East dropped the seven on the first diamond lead and won the second with the king.

Then East led his eight of spades. South had played the whole hand to reach this position.

Heathton

Mrs. Roy Aldrich, Lennoxville, and Mr. Orvis Aldrich, Alberta, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Avery Davis.

Mrs. Henry Ashman and sons have returned to their home in Woodstock, Conn., after spending a week with Mrs. Ashman's mother, Mrs. O. A. Davis. Her brother, Mr. Earl Davis, returned to Woodstock with them for a brief visit.

Miss Dianne Davis, Westfield Vt., spent a week with her aunt, Mrs. John Smith and Mr. Smith, Mrs. John Burnine, Metrose, Mass., and Mrs. F. D. Gibbers, Way's Mills, recently called on Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Davis.

Separatist MP speaks to 50

Separatist leader Gilles Gregoire speaking here last night in a series of discussions to establish his party more firmly in the province said that independence from the rest of Canada is based on economic, social and political factors.

Mr. Gregoire stressed that his party is ready for the next election, envisioned in 1970, because his party would be a centre party. He would have the good qualities from both the left and the right wings he told some 50 listeners.

Mr. Gregoire said that the job would not be easy but with an objective attitude it could be done.

Mr. Gregoire said that once the people of Quebec realize the goal he has set the people will stand behind him.

Mr. Gregoire said that people are stronger than finance, than older parties and favoritism. The statement was greeted by loud applause.

In a continuing campaign to organize his new party Mr. Gregoire asked that regional director be appointed from among those present.

Nominated were Philippe Lord of Sherbrooke, Gerard Houle of East Angus and Jean Baptiste Cote of Granby. Mr. Cote, who gave a short speech emphasizing that he would only accept if those present would sign up to put their dollars towards the $2,000 party support fund set for last night, was elected as director. The two others were given associate capacities.

After the 30-minute speech Mr. Gregoire was interviewed by reporters.

Commenting on the proposed visit of the Queen he said that last year when he went to England he had to produce documents which included a passport and health certificates. "If she is doing the same I see no objection," he said. He added, however, that he saw her visit as that of a head of state similar to French de Gaulle, or U.S. President Johnson.

He also said that he expected the goal of $20,000 to be reached by September 25 would be met. "As a matter of fact it will go beyond our expectations," he said.

Once the state of Quebec is set up as an independent nation, Mr. Gregoire said, a president and a prime minister would be elected.

Lennoxville has best ever tombola, bar-b-q

Sleepy, sunny Saturday ended with a flash thunder storm which drowned out the last few hours of the Lennoxville Optimists' Club's Annual Tombola and Chicken Barbecue, churning the grounds into a sea of watery mud.

The pounding rain, which came with very little warning, killed the projected fireworks display and sent the remaining crowds scurrying for shelter in the main tent, under the stall tarps, and on the bandstand.

It didn't end the evening, however, and Optimist Wes Nichol, oblivious to the rain, kept the crown and anchor wheel turning until well after 10 o'clock, at which time, even the most intrepid gamblers felt it was time to go home.

Optimist President Gerry McKindsey said that yesterday's tombola and barbecue was the best in the annual event's history, despite the rain.

"If it hadn't rained, he said, 'we could probably have made a few hundred more dollars, but other than that it was perfect.' When the clouds had cleared and the crowds had plodded home, the Optimists found that there wasn't a chicken left on the spits, and unofficial estimates put the attendance at about 1,000.

Until the storm broke loose, the fun seekers and workers had enjoyed sunny skies and wandered about the grounds in warm temperatures, ruining their appetites for the chicken supper with hot dogs and great wads of sticky candy floss.

"This is Lennoxville" was the theme of the opening parade, which stretched for a mile along the streets of Lennoxville, one of the biggest the Optimists have organized yet.

With horses entered from as far away as Foster, the parade featured floats and cars representing just about every organization in Lennoxville, including the Women's Institute, the Boy Scouts, the Wolf Cubs, the Girl Guides, the Little League Baseball League, and, of course, the Optimist Club.

Prizes for the best floats went to Calf Club, whose mobile menagerie included a Hereford, a Jersey, and a lamb; and more solemn Army, Navy, Air Force Association Float with its crosses and representatives of all three armed forces; and to Nelson Anderson, who entered a 1927 Model T Ford, still running perfectly and carrying his two grandchildren, dressed appropriately in vintage styles for a vintage car.

The Lennoxville High School Band, mounted on the back of a truck, battled for control of the parade, with the marching musicians of the Eastern Townships Highland Pipe Band.

Optimist Johnny Mitchell organized the parade, with the help of John and Dave Watson. The man who handled the midway was Charles Cobell, assisted by Colin Huff. The midway featured this year a rifle range, set up by the Rifle Club, a Fire Department Display Booth, and the ever-popular Bingo Tent, set up by the Fire Department.

Beside these, the Optimists had five booths going, and other booths were set up by Army, Navy, Air Force Association, the Rebekah Lodge, the St. Monica's Guild, the Atto Beaver Club, and the Girl Guides.

Among the hundreds of youngsters who threw balls, chucked darts, tried the rifle range, and experimented in gambling, were 24 children from the Maple Mount Home in Cookshire.

The children, aged between two and 15, were taken to the tombola in a bus supplied by the Optimist Club, given supper, and driven back.

"They took us down here," said Housemother Mrs. E. Schmidt, "at about 3 o'clock, gave the children some pocket money and let them loose on the booths." The children were also allowed to guess the weight of the prize, was Earl Stronach.

Another lucky winner for the day was F.W. Graham of Pointe aux Trembles, who won the draw for the television set.

The man in charge of the dinner operation was Optimist George Povey.

A popular attraction on the midway was the bullring, where self-made beef experts thronged around John Nichol's Hereford bull prodding it, feeling it, testing it, trying to guess its weight.

The man who came up with the right answer 1,680 pounds, right on the nose and walked away with the $10 prize, was Earl Stronach.

Another lucky winner for the day was F.W. Graham of Pointe aux Trembles, who won the draw for the television set.

Many Quebec farmers, when taking over new land, find that it has many ridges, and some deep drainage ditches.

These are relics of a type of plowing which was popular fifty years ago, when all the plowing was done by horses.

Known as "Labour Rich" this type of cultivation was wasteful, cut down on the area on which crops could be grown, and made the crop uneven in maturing.

Today's farmers, using only tractors, aim to get rid of these ridges, to level out the whole field and make a uniform seed bed.

At the same time, to get rid of weeds and the trash left over from the previous crop, tractor plowing must turn over a uniform furrow, exposing new soil to the sun and frost.

Today's tractors, with their two, three and even four plow hitches, do a splendid job when properly adjusted.

To help Quebec farmers do an effective plowing job, the Provincial Plowmen's Association in Canada, the Sherbrooke Plowmen's Association, whose 8th annual Plowing Match will be staged on the Experimental Farm at Lennoxville, where preparations are being made for their biggest event in many years.

This year the local and regional Plowing Matches will be held on Wednesday, September 28, and the Provincial Championships on September 29.

Bear shot in city

A 200-pound bear who was frolicking in an open field within the Sherbrooke city limits early Sunday morning will grace the home of Michel Vallee as a bear rug.

The animal was reported nonchalantly making his way through an open field near Duvernay Street in the north ward early Sunday morning by C. Wilkie who warned his neighbor, Lorenzo Gagnon of the peculiar sight.

Mr. Gagnon's son Richard and a friend Michel, both 17, decided to go hunting.

"They just went out and shot it, that's all," Mrs. Gagnon said of her son and the neighbor's boy.

The young hunters used a 30-30 to kill the animal who has been reported roaming around the Gagnon farm near the corner of Duvernay and Prospect Streets.

Tries to strangle policeman; lumberjack to appear in court

COATICOOK — (Staff) — A Quebec Provincial Police officer was attacked near here Saturday when he tried to disarm and arrest a Way's Mills lumberjack accused of assaulting a Rock Island man.

With the help of farmers, Stanstead QPP officers finally arrested and took to jail Eddy Blais, who had fought with and tried to strangle one of the policemen.

Blais was to have appeared in Court this morning on three charges.

It was reported that Lionel Cote, a Rock Island man returning home from his hunting camp, picked Blais up to give him a ride.

While driving, Blais is alleged to have turned on the driver.

Mr. Cote, unable to overcome his attacker, left the car and went for help.

Meanwhile, Blais found a rifle on the back seat of Mr. Cote's car, took it and left.

The QPP caught up with him near a farm belonging to Gilles Provencher, RR 1 Coaticook. When they attempted to disarm him, Blais jumped one of the men and seized him by the neck.

The officer was forced to back up and had to jump into the moving patrol car to escape his attacker.

A few minutes later, however, local farmers came to the aid of the police, and the QPP were able to pile the lumberjack in the patrol car.

QPP officers weren't the only police to run into trouble with armed assailants over the weekend.

Conrad Roy of Rock Island was scheduled to appear before the Court of Session in Sherbrooke today, on charges of assaulting a member of the Rock Island Municipal Police.

It is alleged that Roy assaulted a municipal police constable with a .22 caliber rifle on Saturday afternoon.

Pinard seeking fifth term as alderman in West Ward area

Ald. Antonio Pinard, chairman of the Parks and Recreation Committee of the City Council, made it official Sunday afternoon that he would seek his fifth three-year term as alderman for Seat No. 1 of the West Ward.

He made his official announcement to a large delegation which waited upon him at his Champlain Street home requesting that he seek another term.

Petitions containing over one thousand signatures were presented to Ald. Pinard by Ernest Darby.

Speaking in support of the petition were Louis Paul Gauvin, Rene Hebert, Ald. J. M. Jeanson, and two former aldermen for the Ward, Armand Fiset and Conrad Cayer.

Mr. Hebert in his remarks said the rapid development of the West Ward made it essential to have a man of ability and experience at the City Hall and he was especially laudatory of the accomplishments of Ald. Pinard as head of the Parks Committee.

He also suggested the City Council could put the $250,000 proposed outlay on the illuminated fountain in the Magog River to better use by undertaking special capital expenditures in the parks system.

Mount Bellevue was an asset for which many cities would give millions of dollars, Mr. Hebert said, and its development would provide an outstanding service to the youth of the city.

In confirming his decision to stand for another term, Ald. Pinard thanked the citizens for the confidence shown in him. He promised that with the cooperation of Ald. Jeanson he would work for the continued development of the West Ward without neglecting the interests of other sections of the city.

Nominations for the three Council seats which become vacant this year will close officially on Wednesday, Sept. 28, with elections in the event of contests being held the following week.

The other retiring aldermen, Ald. Everett Nicol in the North and Ald. Marcel Savard in the Centre, have announced their plans to seek re-election.

To date there has been no indication of opposition being forthcoming in any of the three seats.

Crash cuts off power

ROCK ISLAND — (Special) — The Boundary area was left without electric power after a truck smashed into and uprooted a high tension, Quebec Hydro pole Saturday.

Gaston Roy, of Rock Island, struck a high tension pole situated near the Butterfield plant in Rock Island at about 7:30 on Saturday night.

Circuits were shorted and the maintenance crew had to be called in from Drummondville to correct the damage and restore power to the area. The men arrived from Drummondville at about 10 o'clock and worked through the night and Sunday morning.

Municipal police estimated that damage to Quebec Hydro installations and electrical appliances, especially in the West Park district of the town amounted to between $1200 and $1500.

No crying at demise of fountain

Indications by Mayor Armand Nadeau that Sherbrooke may abandon its plans to construct an illuminated fountain in the Magog River as its Centennial project and replace it with another project will bring few tears to local residents.

Most citizens were at the best lukewarm over the merits of the fountain when it was first broached at an estimated cost of $150,000 — two-thirds of which cost was to be born by Ottawa and Quebec. But with the estimated cost more than doubled indifferent toleration has grown to marked opposition.

To expect the federal and provincial governments to increase their pledges at this stage of the game — especially in light of Finance Minister Sharp's anti-inflation announcement — is too much in the way of wishful thinking. To have the city bear the increased cost by itself would mean an outlay of $250,000 instead of $50,000 by the municipal treasury.

This increased figure alone is sufficient to justify scuttling the plan.

Then there is the maintenance cost involved, a figure which no one seems able to estimate accurately. But debt charges alone will be in the vicinity of $25,000 a year on the basis of the revised cost figures.

Citizens will be anxious to learn just what the mayor now proposes as a suitable monument to Canada's 100th anniversary.

So many ear-benders talk only about themselves you wonder if they know anybody else.

Actions to test value of proposals

At long last some sense of reason appears to have entered federal government thinking, as reflected in Finance Minister Sharp's address in the House of Commons.

He admits that Canada already is suffering from a severe case of inflation and that the disease likely will become more acute in the near future unless drastic medicine is applied.

Like many of the really effective drugs, the cure he proposes has a bitter taste in the citizens which cannot be removed by the application of a thin coating of powdered sugar to the pill.

The prescription is a bitter brew, being compounded of increased taxation, voluntary curbs on increasing prices and wage rates and a cutback in government spending, especially on the introduction of new social welfare programs.

As the first step, the Finance Minister announced that the effective date for the implementation of a nation-wide medicare program has been put back a year to July 1, 1968.

This is in marked contrast with repeated past declarations by cabinet spokesmen that the July 1, 1967, deadline for medicare was almost sacrosanct, that it must be applied by that date at all costs.

However, the deferment of medicare is not as drastic as it seems from first reading.

The plan calls for co-operation of the provinces who are called upon to pay 50 per cent of the cost. And many of the provincial premiers have indicated that as far as they are concerned the plan is not acceptable at the present time.

Aside from his indication that the provinces could expect no increase in the financial assistance from the federal treasury, Mr. Sharp's remarks were rather vague and their real importance can be judged only by the actions of the Government in the future.

What tax increases does it propose and how will they affect the individual? What will it do about the demands of the postal workers and the armed services for pay increases? How far will it go in withstanding the demands from pressure groups for special privileges for themselves?

These and many other questions must be answered before it can be determined just how much leadership the cabinet is giving the country in the fight against inflation.

Will it be able to transfer its words into deeds?

Little Joey carries it off again

Return of Premier Joseph Smallwood's Liberal Government in Newfoundland in Thursday's general elections need cause little surprise, except to some observers who went as far as to predict that the Opposition forces would be eliminated entirely from the provincial legislature.

The reduction of the Conservative and Independent strength from eight members in the last Assembly to three in the new House indicates, however, that their predictions were not too wide of the mark.

Apparently the people of Newfoundland still regard Little Joey as a superman, at least insofar as the affairs of the Island Province are concerned.

And they have little reason to believe otherwise.

The practical benefits of Confederation to the average Newfoundlander are so great that most of the original opposition to the idea of fusion with Canada have disappeared.

Directly the average family, especially those outside the few cities, receives far more in welfare payments — old age pensions, family allowances and the like — in a single month than they earned in an entire year previous to Confederation.

The economy of the province has been expanded and employment opportunities widened through the aggressive policies of the Smallwood Government.

The Conservative Opposition had little to offer, except that they could do better what Mr. Smallwood already was doing effectively.

This is a poor policy to present to a people experiencing the greatest prosperity in their history.

In one respect Joey runs counter to most politicians.

He does not believe in hanging around too long.

He has announced he will relinquish the Premiership before the next election.

Thus he can retire at the peak of his career, thus obviating the risk that some unforeseen event might bring him into disfavor with the electorate.

Other papers say:

Need straight talk by union heads

The Labor Day weekend of 1966 will go down as a sorry chapter in the history of organized labor in Canada.

Its chief distinguishing feature was the refusal of striking railway workers to obey an explicit order from Parliament and end a railroad tie-up which was inflicting serious damage on the national economy.

As the weekend concluded, there was evidence that the strike finally was petering out and most rail services were getting back into operation. But some die-hards seemed determined to draw out the stoppage as long as possible, even though it had become obvious to everyone, when the back-to-work legislation was passed by Parliament, that the struggle was at an end.

It has to be remembered that, in failing to respond immediately to the governmental order to restore the country's vital transportation services, railway labor was not reacting as a united force. Most of the 118,000 workers, despite some grumbling, accepted the inevitable. But their commendable intentions were thwarted by militant groups here and there across the country in various of the different unions and in certain locals of those unions. It took only several thousand strikers to delay the return to normal operations. Reportedly, the younger employees, those with the least seniority, the least to lose and the least bound by the proud traditions of the railroad industry, displayed the most eagerness to flout the law and fight to the last ditch for an unrealistic wage target. Naturally, there were inflammatory words, railings against the government and against union leaders, and wild claims about the downtrodden workers and the selfish capitalists.

It would be unrealistic to expect that this particular strike issue has been settled as yet. There is talk of work slow-downs and, of course, new contracts have yet to be worked out.

The five-day work week is coming to Russia

MOSCOW (CP)—The five-day work week is coming to Russia. To judge by the advance buildup, it is an institution that falls just short of possessing marvellous powers.

"The five-day working week makes it possible to make broader use of the salubrious forces of nature for an active overcoming of fatigue, for accumulating energy and vitality," wrote an eminent medical scientist recently.

Such unrestrained testimonials reflect the unbounded enthusiasm of those who are preparing the way for the new arrangement, scheduled to take general effect next year.

The five-day week doesn't mean a cut in the number of hours worked. This will remain at 41, the same as in the present six-day week. Instead of working five days for seven hours and one day for six, as is the general rule now, a man probably will work four days at eight hours and one day at nine.

Most Soviet factories are scheduled to be operating under the new plan by November, 1967, the 50th anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution.

Indications are that it will be widely publicized as a landmark in the development of Soviet society under the revolution.

Characteristically, the five-day week did not come about as a result of open agitation by organized labor, as would have been the case under capitalism, but as a result of ivory-tower intellectual debate and experiments approved by the Communist party.

Communist party boss Leonid Brezhnev finally announced adoption of the five-day week as official policy earlier this year. Transition to the new scheme would be gradual.

By JOHN BEST

In good Marxist fashion the changeover has been dissected and examined from every conceivable viewpoint by learned scholars and analysts.

These investigations turned up some attributes of the five-day week that workers in the gion—plants where the five-day week has been in effect for about three years now—indicated that it has a positive effect on workers' general disposition.

Two days off a week are "an important health factor," said one report. "As a result such a schedule leads to reduced sickness rates and heightened labor productivity."

HELPS BEAT FATIGUE
Dealing with the problems of construction workers, it said crane operators and welders are supposed to show prompt reflexes and intense concentration.

"These qualities of the nervous system manifest themselves much better in a five-day week than in a six-day week. After two days off the builders get down to work without any residual fatigue phenomena, as a rule."

A two-day rest was particularly valuable for "brain workers."

"After all, the cells of the brain cortex require more time for their restoration than any other cells."

Another study indicated that women, particularly, stand to benefit from the switch to a five-day week. With only one day off from their jobs, women spent most of it working around the house.

With two days off, they could devote the second one chiefly to rest and relaxation.

This is important in the Soviet Union, where a high proportion of married women work outside the home.

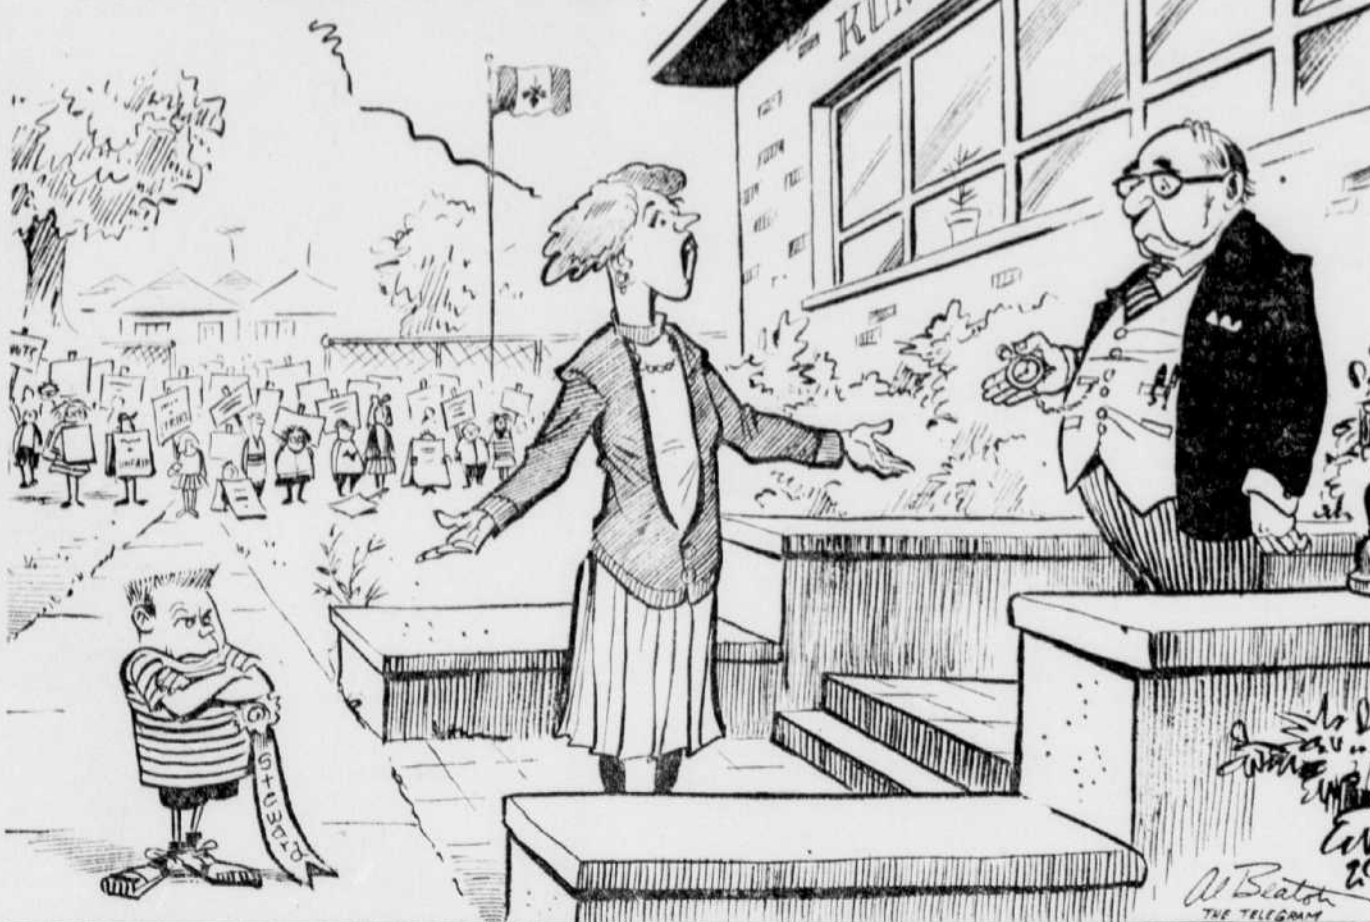

The same study found that, with two days off instead of one, workers can save up to 150 hours a year in time spent travelling to and from their jobs.

Background to the news

West, who have enjoyed it since not long after the Second World War, probably never dreamed it possessed.

For instance, a poll carried out at a cotton factory and a worsted mill in the Moscow re-

"THIRTY PERCENT LONGER RECESSES, BIRTHDAYS OFF, A SHORTER SCHOOL WEEK, NO AFTER-CLASSES OVERTIME, EXTENDED LUNCH HOURS, AND GUARANTEED PASSING GRADES OR THEY WON'T COME BACK!"

Bygone days

TEN YEARS AGO

The opening of the Fall Court Sessions, an annual event, took place in the presence of church and state dignitaries including Archbishop Georges Cabana, Mayor Armand Nadeau, Senator C. B. Howard, Rev. Guy Marston, Msgr. Rosario Moisan and Canon Gerard Cambren, newly appointed vicar general of the arch-diocese.

Justice William Mitchell, speaking for his fellow judges, outlined the progress which had been made in Superior court in the last year and said that from Sept. 10, 1955 to June 20, 1956 an average of 85 cases a month had been disposed of by way of judgments of settlements.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

Featured by an address by J. A. Blanchette, Member of Parliament for Compton County and Parliamentary assistant to the Minister of National Defence, the "Ladies Night" staged by the members of the Sherbrooke Lions Club proved an unqualified success.

In addition to the address by Mr. Blanchette the members and their guests enjoyed a short musical program presented by some of the students at the Quebec Musical Summer School held at Knowlton this year. The soloists were Florent Garand, of Sherbrooke, and Jacques Pronovost, of Cowansville, with Jack Lenaghan, of Sherbrooke, acting as accompanist.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

W. J. Singleton, general manager of Associated Screen News, in introducing an industrial motion picture depicting the history and uses of Oxygen before members of the Sherbrooke Rotary Club last evening brought to the attention of his listeners the value of moving pictures in all phases of business, educational and industrial life today.

Seated at the head table were: Rev. Fred Williams, Neil Dinning, President W. S. Sutherland, A. A. Munster, Francis Hoyer, J. Joslin, W. L. Dixon, J. A. Metivier and two guests, Hector Langis and Jim Blake, both of Sherbrooke.

conservatives even more solidly.

The strengthening of this extremist element could damage South Africa's investment image and increase the vocal anti-South African campaign by neighboring African states.

Verwoerd's concept of a common market among southern African states, including independent or near independent British protectorates is now endangered.

A week before his death, Verwoerd and Basutoland Premier Leabua Jonathan held an historic Pretoria meeting to set a good neighbour pattern which may be difficult to maintain, and which Verwoerd believed was vital for the future development of southern Africa.

The one-antagonistic business-orientated English community swung in support of Verwoerd as profit and living standards soared since the economic setback caused by the 1960 Sharpeville rioting.

The returning confidence brought a return of foreign investment after a long absence. Initial foreign nervousness about investment is likely but sterling weakness and international currency scares activate against long-term non-investment.

Adverse effects are not immediately serious with anti-inflationary state restrictions retarding growth and lessening immediate need for capital.

A new strong premier would have a strong emotional weapon to justify continued heavy defense spending at a time when the state is heeding business warnings that this is a major contribution toward inflation.

One aftermath of the assassination could be a renewed determination to build up South Africa against the outside world, thereby making inflation more difficult to contain.

The murder solves nothing politically and has unfortunate economic ramifications.

Stephen Day, for whom the popular type face is named, was a locksmith and not a printer, although he is popularly credited with being the first printer in the early English American colonies. He did set up the first printing plant in the English colonies in 1638 and began publishing books. The plant eventually became the forerunner of the Harvard University Press, considered the oldest in the United States.

Cobwebs in the classroom

Good grammar — isn't

By FRANK TUMPANE

English Grammar is a device that enables any 12-year-old schoolboy to decide that Shakespeare erred in not avoiding the double superlative when he wrote: "This was the most unkindest cut of all."

A news report says a revolution in English grammar is just around the corner and when the barricades are mounted, I'll be skulking around waiting to commit treachery against both sides.

The folks who say it don't matter if you don't know nothing about English grammar or if you can read and write good have always impressed me as a group of condescending hypocrites. Most of them, you'll notice, are academics, and their own English is impeccable.

On the other hand (and most of the time there is one) a bristling devotion to usage simply because it has prevailed for 70 years has never struck me as sensible; yet you'll find people who are more concerned with preserving niggling, little rules than in writing that is lucid and forceful.

If I had my way, I'd abolish the word whom from the English language and its passing would be mourned only by those who have learned to apply it in those rare instances when its use is proper and who, as a result, have a vested interest in perpetuating it.

And I'd throw out the rule that says you can't use contractions like I'd or can't in written English. Why cannot you? The only possible answer is that written English ought to be stiffer than spoken English, and it often is. I know people who speak wittily and well and who, as soon as they sit down to write something, feel that the mantles of Addison and Steele have descended upon their shoulders and come up with prose that is about as zestful as a platter of sago pudding.

Whole generations of kids have had to do dreadful things in learning English grammar, things like "parse the italicized words," and "classify the italicized adjectival expressions," and "select the subordinate clauses and state the kind and relation of each."

I couldn't follow those instructions myself yet I've made a living by writing for years. I'm not advocating verbal anarchy; I'm simply saying that tradition to any value, must serve the present, and to preserve a form merely because somebody in 1840 thought it should be put that way is nonsense.

One of the most revered edicts is that which forbids the splitting of infinitives, yet I have seen many examples in which the flow of the sentence as well as its meaning, was enhanced by splitting an infinitive. Why is it wrong to write: "They told the boys to quickly dash from the burning building?" Does it detract from the meaning to split the infinitive? I say it does not.

Why, again, should "whose" refer only to persons? You are not supposed to write: "They rushed to the streets that day to buy newspapers whose columns were filled with reports of war and rumors of war." To satisfy the purists, you must say: "To buy newspapers, the columns of which were filled with reports of war and rumors of war." As far as I am concerned, the first example has the virtues of clarity and force which the second lacks. Even such a linguistic bourgeois as the venerable H. W. Fowler conceded that "whose" is often better than "of which" in such cases.

But having said all that, I'll also say this: there have to be rules. The notion that the illiterate and the ill-educated are in some way better equipped to express themselves than those with a knowledge of English usage is a romantic absurdity. I have seen the prose style of the unlearned and, believe me, it is dreadful. Not only are they unable to convey their precise meaning; it is often difficult to decide whether their writing has any meaning at all.

Finally, one of the chief glories of English is that it has always accommodated itself to change; the English that is written and spoken now is different from what it was a century ago; it is different from what it was 50 years ago; it is even different from what it was 20 years ago.

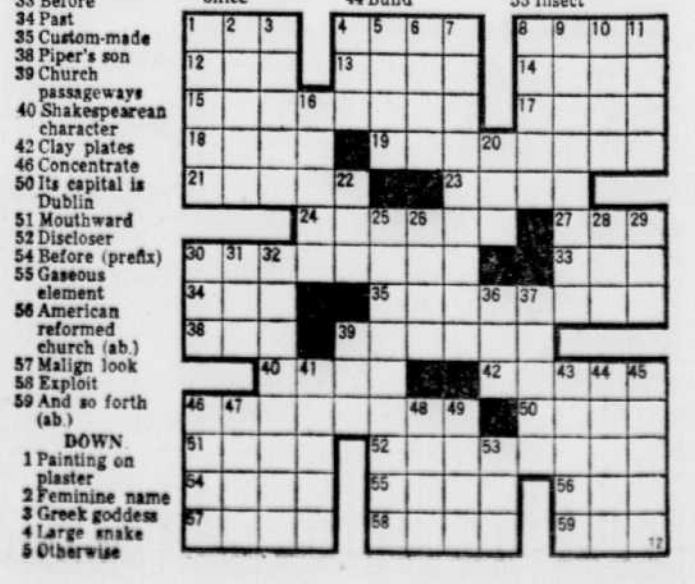

But the tools for teaching English need a housecleaning because there is a lot of dust up there in that attic.

Extra-special treatment promised Queen on visit

MONTREAL (CP) — About 200 delegates to the Commonwealth Parliamentary Association's annual conference are fanning out today through the Atlantic provinces at the start of a nationwide tour.

They left Montreal Sunday following a meeting of their association's general council and a statement by the council chairman, Senator John Connolly at Ottawa, that Canada still feels strong attachment for the Commonwealth.

The reception received by the Queen on her 1964 visit to Quebec City did not represent the strength of Quebec's feeling for the monarchy, the senator told reporters Saturday.

Mr. Connolly, government leader in the Senate and a federal minister without portfolio, said the Queen enjoys special status in Canada and would receive "extra-special treatment" if an expected visit by her to next year's world's fair in Montreal materializes.

In their October, 1964, visit to Quebec City, part of a larger Canadian visit, the Queen and Prince Philip were heavily guarded.

SOME WERE ARRESTED
Some youthful Quebec separatists were arrested during the royal stay as demonstrations protesting the visit erupted along the Queen's route through the provincial capital.

Last week, Premier Daniel Johnson said the Queen would be invited to the fair "just as all heads of state will be invited to it."

Mr. Johnson also said: "There is no question of her being invited to Quebec City." Asked whether he thought the premier's remarks were unduly aloof, Mr. Connolly said: "I don't think Danny will stick hard on this."

Rhodesia shapes up as a prime topic for discussion by the delegates when they assemble in Ottawa Sept. 25 for the nine-day conference proper. Sen. William Fulbright, prominent Arkansas Democrat, is scheduled to lead a United States delegation participating in the conference's discussion of international affairs.

Aid rural MD's

LEVIS, Que. (CP)—Dr. Laurent Lizotte, deputy minister of health, said Saturday the department is prepared to co-operate with general practitioners to bring more medical care to residents of remote rural areas of the province.

Dr. Lizotte was speaking at the annual meeting of the College of General Practitioners of Canada. He asked the GPs for suggestions to solve the problem.

Dr. John Murray of Sherbrooke, outgoing president of the college's Quebec section, said rural practitioners suffer greatly from isolation. He suggested periodic dispatching of consultants to remote areas.

Former Cowansville couple go to Uganda for Witnesses

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kaczmarek, formerly of Cowansville, have just completed a five-month specialized course in Bible instruction and missionary training at the Watchtower Bible School of Gilead in New York City.

Mr. and Mrs. Kaczmarek are shown with Karna Mertens of Germany discussing notes from a lecture delivered by the president of the school entitled "Neutrality and Problems Connected with This."

This lecture, one of over 80 heard by them during the term, contained practical principles of peace that a missionary can follow to maintain a peaceful position in a war-torn world.

This instruction was shared by a class of 106 selected ministers of Jehovah's Witnesses who were gathered from 12 lands around the world and who are now equipped to take their mission of peace to the 36 different lands to which they are assigned.

The course provided each day for a half-day classroom activity and a half-day of practical training. Academic studies included a chapter-by-chapter study of the entire Bible, the relation of world history to the history of the Bible as well as Bible-teaching techniques. A very practical feature of the missionary training was the intensive instruction given to every student in one of the following languages: Spanish, French, Portuguese, Japanese and Chinese.

Students were also given an opportunity to study and participate in the United States Branch's supervision of its 5,240 congregations and 336 traveling ministerial supervisors in addition to sharing in the operation of the Society's printing plants. The entire student body participated in the actual production of the year's output of 16,000,000 Bibles and Bible study aids as well as 141,412,715 copies of the Society's two magazines.

News Flashes from around the world

LONDON (CP)—There is a growing feeling—fear on some sides and hope on others—that Britain's often-troublesome labor relations will never be the same after the current six-month pay-and-prices freeze and the further six months' of near-freeze that is to follow.

Many trade unionists see the freeze as the start of policies which could cost them their hard-won bargaining rights and make the government a third party to every union-management contract.

Others see it as a chance to end the chaos of old-fashioned bargaining and strikes, and add a new tool in the socialist policy for planned economic growth.

Richard Crossman, the government's House of Commons leader, raised a stir in Labor party ranks with a speech in which he hinted wage restraints may be here to stay—and not as an unwelcome guest.

The pay freeze was introduced in July in response to a worsening balance-of-payments problem.

ROCK ISLAND — Mrs. Murielle Masse, president of Our Lady of Mercy Council, C.W.L., held a meeting of the executive at her home the evening of Aug. 25 to discuss the plans for resuming the monthly meetings after the summer recess.

The October tea and sale was also discussed and the date changed from October 22 to October 29. The tea will be held at the Del Monty Hotel from 3 to 5 p.m. A $50 bond will be drawn at the event.

The first autumn meeting of the League will be held on September 13 at Our Lady of Mercy Parish Hall.

Mrs. Lyman Morrill has returned from Lennoxville, where she spent a few days with friends.

Friends of Mrs. Jacques Marcotte, formerly of Danville, are sorry to hear that she is a patient in the Ottawa Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray McMorine and Miss Janice McMorine were entertained by the members of District No. 5 of the I.O.O.F. on Sept. 1, when the members arrived with the makings of a Cook-Out, preparing it on the spacious lawn of the McMorine summer cottage at Mirror Lake, Bishopton. The event was planned by the members to honor Bro. Ray McMorine, who is the Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Quebec.

between it and the Titan II rocket, eliminating any chance that it might have caused a problem. No countdown hold was called.

The start of the three-day flight was delayed Friday when a pinhole leak was found in the Titan fuel system. It was plugged with a goosy seal worth less than a penny.

CAUSED BY WIND
Another postponement was called Saturday when engineers got a faulty signal from the Atlas that performed so flawlessly this morning. The signal indicated trouble in the automatic pilot. But an all-night check showed it was only a high wind and a sensitive amplifier and nothing was replaced in the rocket.

As the astronauts climbed into the cramped spacecraft today, they were greeted by a sign that said: "This is your last chance."

Pad technicians said it was placed there by the backup crews to remind Gordon and Conrad of the two delays.

Conrad and Gordon, both 36, planned to execute several complex orbit-shifting manoeuvres designed to overtake the target high over Hawaii in just 80 minutes after an 18,000-mile chase. They hope to link with it about 10 minutes later over the United States near the end of their first orbit.

That would be two orbits and nearly three hours faster than any previous space rendezvous has been achieved. Gemini 9 holds the record of four hours, overhauling an Agena during the third orbit after a 75,000-mile pursuit.

Seeks merger

ALMA, Que. (CP)—Auguste Choquette, Liberal MP for Lotbiniere, suggested Sunday that the Liberal Federation of Canada study the possibility of fusion with the New Democratic Party.

Mr. Choquette said fusion would avoid the current dispersal of political energy in Canada. He was speaking to the executive of the four northwest counties of the Quebec section of the federation.

He quoted former prime minister Louis St. Laurent as having said: "Neo-democrats are Liberals in too much of a hurry."

Fusion could be possible, Mr. Choquette said, if based on reciprocal concession.

W.I. members are entertained at Sutton home
SUTTON — For the September meeting of the Women's Institute members were pleasantly entertained at the home of Mrs. H. L. Laine, with Mrs. Lillian Milne and Mrs. Dorothy Seaman as co-hostesses.

Plans were made for the semi-annual convention at Austin, Sept. 28. A pot luck lunch will be served and each was asked to bring an article for the auction sale to be held at the convention. Proceeds will be added to the County Funds.

An interesting paper was read by Mrs. Westover, citizenship convener on the work of the Institute in Nova Scotia. Mrs. Laine agriculture convener, gave helpful information on the harvesting of garden vegetables. An outline on publicity was given by Mrs. H. Woodard. It was decided to give a donation of $10 for social welfare work in Bromley County. It is hoped that enough money will be raised to employ a full time social worker, as one is badly needed.

A luncheon was served by the hostesses and a social time was enjoyed.

In the afternoon all visited the Flambeau Home, where they were welcomed by the staff and conducted on a guided tour of the buildings.

At the close, tea was served and each one had an opportunity to ask questions. Mrs. G. Patton expressed thanks for the delightful afternoon.

Sapphires favored for blondes, born in September

TORONTO (CP)—Blue is the color for blondes, fashion experts say. So if you're blonde by nature or inclination and born in September, you're double sapphire-prone.

Wear a cornflower blue sapphire and confound the popular saying that blondes are dumb. However, all sapphires are not blue. If you are dark-haired, you can choose white or near black, as well as green, violet and yellow. But the most highly prized is the blue and this is the color in which synthetic sapphires are made.

These synthetic stones are used in costume jewelry. True sapphires are much too expensive. This fall, for example, you can use pseudo-sapphires for your important dangling earrings and big matching pins. Trifari features all the pseudo-gems in a series of pins in orbital shape, such as shooting stars, bursting rays and star wheels. You can use sapphire eyes for the amusing animal pins that most jewellers like for casual wear or for the teen-age set.

True sapphires have always been popular with kings and princes. The most famous set of sapphires is probably the necklace owned by ill-fated Marie Antoinette. It was rescued and became an heirloom in the French royal family, handed down to the Duc de Guise, the pretender to the throne of France.

Sapphires were the choice of another tragic queen, the last czarina, a German princess of Hesse.

For and about Women

FRESH CAULIFLOWER-TOMATO SCALLOP

5 tablespoons butter or margarine
 1/2 cup finely chopped fresh celery
 1/4 cup finely chopped fresh onion
 1/4 cup finely chopped fresh green pepper
 3/4 teaspoon salt
 1/4 teaspoon ground black pepper
 1 cup flour
 2 cups milk
 1 1/2 cups shredded sharp Cheddar cheese
 3 large firm-ripe tomatoes, sliced

1/2 cup soft bread crumbs.
 Break cauliflower into florets. Cook in 1-inch boiling salted water about 5 minutes or until crisp-tender. Lift cover occasionally to allow steam to escape. Drain. In saucepan melt butter, add celery, onion and green pepper and saute until onion is limp and transparent. Blend in salt, pepper and flour. Add milk and cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until thickened. Add cheese and stir melted. Remove from heat. Arrange a layer of cauliflower in shallow baking dish or casserole. Top with a small amount of cheese sauce. Cover with sliced tomatoes and more sauce, top with remaining cauliflower and sauce. Sprinkle with bread crumbs. Bake in 400° F. 25 minutes or until brown.
 Yield: 6 servings.

Questions readers ask

Q — Please tell me what is real French dressing and what goes into it. It is always pink?
 A — Real French dressing is never pink or never creamy. Here are authentic French instructions: two to three parts olive, peanut or vegetable oil, one part wine or herb vinegar, a suspicion of Dijon mustard, freshly ground pepper and salt to taste. That's all there is to authentic French dressing.

The French will insist that olive, walnut and peanut oils imported from France are exceptionally fine. French vinegars are made with red, white or rose wines. There is also a French tarragon vinegar. In the United States, as well as in parts of France, freshly squeezed lemon juice is used sometimes instead of vinegar.

Q — I am confused about what is meant by dehydrated garlic. Please explain. We use a lot of garlic in cooking in my family.

A — There are three forms of dehydrated garlic powder, salt and mined. Instant garlic powder is just what it says. Use it in either hot or cold dishes. Garlic salt is garlic powder mixed with common table salt. If you look quickly at mined garlic, you think you're seeing sesame seeds. Hot mixtures release garlic flavor more readily than cold. Instant mined garlic can be used in cold mixtures, too, but it should be allowed to stand for an hour for full effect.

Polly's Pointers

DEAR POLLY—The following Pointers have been a great help during our vacation travels. If you take a dog along keep an ice bag for his comfort. Keep it filled with ice or ice water and let him lie on it.

Place two one-half inch-wide rubber bands on the sun visor of the copilot's side, one on each end. These keep maps, pencils, spare glasses and cigarettes within easy reach but out of the way and not constantly falling.

A clipboard holds our daily log, current road map, pencil and mileage chart handy. Use small magnets to keep the magnifying glass handy for easy map reading. The clipboard can hang inside the door.

Our easy way of keeping a diary of a trip is to buy a roll of four - and five-cent stamps. Address a stack of envelopes to yourself at home. En route, you can date and insert printed travel material you want to save, colored cards of the area and comments on activities. Mail each day. When you get home your diary will already have been written.—VIOLET

Arnold Baker wins ET Amateur golf crown

Rallies to walk off with honors, issue settled on 54th hole as Country Club wins Record Trophy

By LEN O'DONNELL
(Record Sports Editor)

Arnold Palmer seems to have slipped in the World of Golf but there is nothing wrong with Arnold Baker's game and the lanky club-swinger came through with another of his famous rallies to cop the Eastern Townships Amateur golf championship at the Sherbrooke Country Club Sunday.

Swinging into the final round of the 54 hole tourney Baker was down three strokes to front-running Bert Desbiens of the Country Club and two to Duke Doucet, Jr. and his hopes seemed lost but those knowing Baker figured he would come through.

On the opening round of the final 18 holes Baker hit the turn still three down. Doucet posted an even par for his first nine while Baker went one-over and trailed by three strokes to the new leader. Desbiens ran into trouble and faded from the race.

At the turn Baker came through with 36 while Doucet, who seemed to have put his troubles, posted 39. The real battle then commenced and Baker stepped up the pressure. Doucet took a bogey at the 10th, while Baker came through with a par and another stroke slipped by.

The both players commenced to knock off par figures and stuck to regulation until the 14th when Baker slipped to a bogey and Doucet, quick to take advantage, got his par. At the next hole Doucet picked up another stroke when Baker slipped to a bogey.

Things didn't look too bright for Baker at this stage but then he took over. At the 17th he banged out a beautiful drive and slapped his second shot close and dropped his putt for a bird. Doucet, who was playing behind Baker, had his trouble and took a bogey.

On the final hole Baker's approach shot was just off line but he managed to get a bogey and then waited to see Doucet come up. He needed a birdie to tie the match but missed his shot and took a bogey also and Baker was the new ET Amateur champ.

George Beaulieu and Bert Desbiens both finished deadlocked with 227 while Pierre Lessard, of East Angus posted 228. Class A golfers were divided into two flights, championship and A.

Richard Pellerin of Windsor Mills won Flight A with 241 while Marcel Trepanier of East Angus was the runner-up with 244 and Aime Gagnon with Maurice Rheume finished deadlocked with 245.

L. Beaudoin of Lennoxville won the honors in Class B with 168, for 18 holes, while Gerry Doyon of the Country Club and A. Cabana of Windsor were deadlocked with 169.

Dr. J. Bergeron, also of the host club, won Class C with 181 while L. Bernier of East Angus finished with 184 and Denis Messier had 194, three strokes behind Maurice Beaudoin of Belvedere.

DUSTY MILLAR WINS SENIOR

Dusty Millar of the Granby Golf Club walked off with the honors for the Seniors with his 78. He just nosed out Art St. Onge by one stroke. Amedeo Roy copped the net honors with 83-10-73. The outcome was decided on the final round.

In the net section of A Flight Gilles Joncas won it 248-30-218 while Aime Gagnon of the Country Club was awarded the second net with 245-24.

Mena-Sen archers stage first provincial tourney Saturday

AIM AND FIRE! — Raynald Frechette, MPP for Sherbrooke County, tugs at the twine to officially open the archery tournament at the Club Mena-Sen held on weekend.

ROCK FOREST — (Staff) — Over 50 archers from the Sherbrooke, Three Rivers, Joliette, La Tuque, Montreal and Fanham areas participated in the first archery tournament staged by the Club Mena-Sen this weekend at the club here. The tourney, officially opened by Raynald Frechette, MPP for Sherbrooke County, was considered a great success by the organizers. Jules Desroches, secretary for the Province of Quebec Federation of Archers, addressed the gathering after the tourney and presentation of prizes.

Unmarked(?) champ returns

CHICAGO (AP) — Cassius Clay, fresh from his latest ring conquest, smiled at cheering fans and pushed back the right sleeve of his dark blue suit to exhibit his puffed right hand. "Maybe I got a fractured right hand," Clay told newsmen who were waiting Sunday at O'Hare International Airport when the unmarked, 24-year-old champion returned from West Germany. Saturday, Clay, stopped Karl Mildenberger at 1:30 of the 12th round to defend his heavyweight title for the sixth time. He said he will visit a doctor today to determine how badly his hand was injured in the third round of the battle with Mildenberger, who lasted as long with the fast, hard-hitting Clay as anyone except Canadian champion George Chuvalo of Toronto, who went 15 rounds before Clay won a decision. "If my right hand is okay and everything else — the usual money matters and such — are agreed upon, I will fight Cleveland Williams in Texas in a couple of months," Clay said. He was asked if any other fights were planned. "It's up to my manager, Herbert Muhammad, to decide," Clay replied.

READY FOR SOUTHPAW

Clay, who smashed Mildenberger to the deck in the fifth, eighth and 10th rounds, said he was ready for the German's southpaw style. "I had two left-handed sparring partners. I was prepared," he said. "My right hand is my main punch, and after the third round I didn't have it all there," Clay said. He said his fight with Chuvalo and the first Sonny Liston fight were tougher, but added, "I have to say Mildenberger was tough. I think the referee did right in stopping the fight when he did. That man was hurt real bad."

Piping hot water!

New Shell Home Comfort water heater gives 90 gallons of piping hot water every hour — costs about $3.50 monthly, installed.

90 gallons of hot water an hour is really phenomenal! It means one and a half gallons of piping hot water every minute. For all practical purposes that is a virtually unlimited supply. Let us install a Shell Home Comfort water heater and never again will you have to face a cold water shave or a shivering bathfull of cold water!

JET-AGE DEVICE

These Shell Home Comfort water heaters out-perform other types because they are built around a heat exchanger. This is a jet-age device that transfers heat from the flame to the water with maximum efficiency. Shell's patented heat exchanger is called the Turboflue®. It is totally surrounded by water. Only a small fraction of the total heat is wasted. The rest goes to giving you a gallon and a half of piping hot water every minute.

Argonauts snap a long streak; Riders become leaders in EFC

Toronto Argonauts and Ottawa Rough Riders of the Eastern Football Conference finally found hitherto elusive scoring touches and played the role of spoilers in weekend football action.

The Argonauts snapped a five-game losing streak Sunday, defeating Edmonton 34-14 in a Canadian Football League game.

that kept the Eskimos from gaining a first-place tie in the Western Conference.

Meanwhile, the Rough Riders walloped Hamilton 27-16 Saturday to break a first-place tie in the EFC with the Tiger Cats.

The Argonauts, who had scored only 32 points and only three touchdowns in their five previous starts of the season, broke loose behind veteran quarterback Eagle Day. They outscored the Eskimos 237 yards to 176 and piled up 214 yards in the air to Edmonton's 158.

Day, released by Calgary Stampeders of the WFC last week, was the key to the Toronto attack, throwing three touchdowns passes—a pair to Al Irwin and another to Bobby Taylor—and handed off to Bob Swift for the fourth.

Dave Thelan scored the other Toronto touchdown, while John Vilunas converted four of the five touchdowns.

SCORE FOR EDMONTON
Gary Lefebvre and Bill Redell scored Edmonton touchdowns. Tommy-Joe Coffey converted both.

The Rough Riders, victims of a 16-10 defeat at the hands of the Ticats last week, had scored only 74 points in their first five games compared to Hamilton's 86 points.

But Ottawa carried the ball 100 yards farther than Hamilton in recording 239 yards rushing Saturday and struck for 155 yards in the air, while holding the Ticats to 82.

Whit Tucker, Jim Dillard and Rick Black scored the Ottawa touchdowns, while Moe Racine converted all three and added two field goals.

Hamilton's touchdowns were scored by Willie Bethea and Dick Cohee. Don Sutherland kicked the converts and added two singles.

Day, who signed with Toronto Friday, came into the game late in the first quarter and left in the fourth with the Argos leading 27-0. Rookie Wally Gab-ler took over, handing off to Thelan for the final Toronto touchdown.

Gabler's effort boosted the score to 34-0, but the Eskimos struck for two touchdowns late in the game.

The Toronto defensive unit had been superb earlier in killing three Edmonton scoring threats. Marv Luster intercepted a pass in the end zone, Jim Rountree recovered a fumble on the Toronto two yard line and the Eskimos were thrown for two losses after they reached the Toronto 12.

Toronto also intercepted five of Randy Kerbow's passes, had 24 first downs to Edmonton's 15, and completed 13 of 23 passes. Edmonton had 11 completions in 23 attempts.

The Rough Riders won the hard way, trailing 16-10 in the third quarter. Black scored the first touchdown on a 22-yard screen pass from Russ Jackson. Tucker caught a 33-yard toss from Jackson for the second and Dillard, who alternated at fullback with Black, ran wide to score from one yard out.

Cohee scored the first Hamilton touchdown, going over from the four-yard line, and Bethea scored the other on a 38-yard pass from quarterback Frank Cosentino.

First place in the WFC is in Sask.

Dick Thornton fell down on the job, Eagle Day impressed a new boss and Peter Liske, who got Day's old job, couldn't produce a touchdown.

Those were the highlights of a weekend in which all five Western Football Conference clubs saw action.

Thornton, defensive halfback for Winnipeg Blue Bombers, was supposed to cover Hugh Campbell, flanker for Saskatchewan Roughriders.

But he fell down—before a sellout Winnipeg crowd of 21,655—and Campbell caught a touchdown pass with 64 seconds left to play for a 27-24 victory that moved Riders into first place.

For Campbell, it was the second touchdown reception of the Sunday game and 12th in eight outings against Bombers. He has 13 so far this season, three shy of the Canadian Football League record set by Winnipeg's Ernie Pitts in 1959.

Eagle Day, discarded by Calgary Stampeders, turned up in a Toronto Argonauts uniform Sunday. He threw three touchdown passes as Argos collected their first win of the season, 34-14 over Edmonton Eskimos.

Defeat cost Edmonton a share of first place but their 10 points from nine games was good for second place, two points ahead of Winnipeg.

An important milestone--50 years

Henry Crochetiere re-elected QAHA president for second term

MONTREAL — (Staff) — Henry Crochetiere, of Sherbrooke was re-elected president of the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association at the 50th annual general meeting held at the Windsor Hotel Saturday.

President Crochetiere, completing his first term in this office, was acclaimed to the post for another year. The weekend meeting, bringing together representatives of all associated leagues under the jurisdiction of the QAHA, also elected five directors to the board. All other positions were filled by acclamations.

The five directors elected Saturday at the general meeting include Frank Daignault, Marcel Laviolette, D. G. MacDonald, and Paul Moreau, all of the Montreal District, and Marcel Robert, of the Saguenay District.

The vice-presidents of the five districts in the QAHA, elected earlier by their own associations, were approved formally at the annual meeting.

Robert Lebel, of Montreal, was voted as a life member of the Amateur Hockey Association.

REGISTRATION INCREASES
President Henry Crochetiere, in his report to the assembly, stated with satisfaction that the registration in both major and minor categories had increased. The number of minor teams in the Province of Quebec jumped to 1,401 in 1965, as compared to 946 the previous year, which provided hockey action for 21,015 players, an increase from 14,196 players.

In the major category, 249 teams were included in the program, a jump of 12 teams, raising the membership from 5,344 to 5,639.

In speaking of this important fifty-year milestone of the QAHA, President Crochetiere stated that the QAHA honored their Quebec Branch by holding their annual meeting in the province, earlier this year.

As well, eight of 12 QAHA rule changes were accepted.

"The most important of these," continued the president in his report, "were the change of dates for the minor and junior hockey, which will become effective in the 1967-68 season."

Commenting on the meetings between the NHL and the QAHA, the president termed the "entente" a shot in the arm for amateur hockey.

"Professional hockey has now given back to the amateurs, the operation of amateur hockey. It is now up to us to accept the challenge. If we do not set up immediately strong branches to administer amateur hockey then the professionals will be back and then all will be lost," concluded the president.

Mr. Crochetiere asked the association and district representatives for their help in the implementation of these important changes.

Vice-presidents of the various districts include Maurice O. Parsons, Eastern Townships; Roland Lemay, Quebec; Roger Landry, St. Maurice; Eddy O'Doherty, Saguenay; and Roger Gaudet, Montreal.

AMENDMENTS PASSED
Three of four amendments were passed at the general meeting. One, concerning the rates for referees, the last of the four, was referred to a committee for study.

With regard to By-law 8, Sec. C, the note should be added: "No vice-president shall be permitted to hold more than one position in his respective district."

With regard to Regulation 2, Sec. B: "All cards signed by players in Junior, Intermediate, Commercial and Senior categories must be forwarded to the Registrar's office through the vice-president, for approval."

With regard to By-law 5, Sec. A: "Any member of the Board of Directors who accepts an active position with a team registered in this Association, requiring the signing of a QAHA team card to be filed with this Association, shall automatically surrender his seat on the said Board of Directors."

The fourth amendment, after lengthy discussion and heated debate from the representatives of each league, was delayed and will be presented to a committee for study, considering the fees and arguments by each league.

The rate structure for payment of referees, as submitted by the Referees' Committee, brought the highest amount payable by the Quebec Provincial Senior Hockey League.

In voicing concern over this rate increase, Len O'Donnell, President of the QPSHL, stated that it would be satisfactory, provided the league received the best of referees. If we are to pay the highest, stated Len O'Donnell, we want the best.

The motion for a special study into this table of rates was quickly accepted.

The Giants rebounded 2-0 behind Bob Bolin's three-hitter to stay within range of the leaders in the second game.

Atlanta Braves whipped New York Mets 8-3 for their sixth straight victory and Philadelphia Phillies drubbed Cincinnati Reds 9-3 in other games.

Saturday, St. Louis edged Pittsburgh 6-5. Los Angeles shutout Houston 1-0 in 10 innings. Cincinnati edged Philadelphia 2-1 and Atlanta defeated New York 3-2.

Pinch hitter John Roseboro delivered a run-scoring single in the seventh inning of the night-cap, enabling the Dodgers to edge Houston's Chris Zachary.

Ron Fairly singled across the only run Koufas needed in the fourth inning of the opener, and Willie Davis' bloop double scored the last two runs in a three-run fifth.

McCarver's two-out bases loaded single wiped out a 3-2 victory.

After Koufas fired a six-hitter for his 23rd victory of the season, Joe Moeller, Bob Miller and Phil Regan scattered seven hits in the nightcap, completing a string of four straight shutout victories over the Astros. Claude Osteen blanked them 7-0 Friday night and Don Drysdale collaborated with Regan in Saturday's 1-0, 10-inning victory.

Royals advance in PL finals

GRANBY — (Staff) — The fourth, doing so on four final series of the Provincial Baseball League are just half-completed, as far as the Drummondville Royals are concerned, but if you ask the Granby Cardinals, it's just begun.

Drummondville Royals, defending playoff champions, took a 2-1 lead in the best of seven finals over the weekend, by winning 6-4 and 7-3 yesterday, after losing the first encounter in Granby 6-4 Saturday night.

The series continues tomorrow night, in Drummondville.

Chuck Foster, Carlos Thorne and John Self led the attack against the Royals in the first game, as Thorne's home run and double produced four of the six Granby winning points in their first game. Foster and Self, strong candidates on the Granby nine with Thorne, each collected three effective singles.

Only scoring action for the Royals Saturday night was a four-run inning in the top of the first.

The same game results were obtained in the only game played at Drummondville over the weekend, but this time the Royals picked up their first victory.

Chuck Hughes, shortstop for the Royals, slammed a home run in the bottom of the ninth, with two men aboard, to score three runs and break the hold of the Cardinals, ending the game.

John Elias, the 'hot-shot' pitcher for the Cards, was given the loss through the homer.

Back in Granby last night, the Royals pounded the Granby league champions with four runs in the top of the sixth, giving them a 7-3 advance. They had nine hits and were tagged with one error, leaving the Cardinals with eight hits and two errors.

Winner of the 1966 Provincial League playoffs will be awarded the MOLSON TROPHY for their achievement.

Kansas upsets Tigers 5-1 and are pushed from second

The American League race is tightening up, but not for the pennant.

Baltimore Orioles grip on that is as tight as ever. The battle is for second place, the only race in the league worth mentioning.

Detroit Tigers in second place since June 21, were dislodged Sunday, taking a 5-1 beating from Kansas City Athletics.

Minnesota Twins in the meantime, took a half-game edge over the Tigers with an 11-6 defeat over the Orioles.

Trailing 4-2 in the eighth inning, Minnesota sent 14 men up to the plate and nine of them crossed it.

Harmon Killebrew, the second man up, hit a two-run homer, his 35th, tying the game, then watched as Bernie Allen, and Al Worthington drove in two each and Tony Oliva knocked in one. Harmon came up again and singled in another one and Ted Uhlender added the final score with an infield single.

In other games, Chicago White Sox beat Washington Senators 4-1, California Angels crushed Cleveland Indians 8-2 and New York Yankees took Boston Red Sox 4-2 in 10 innings.

TWINS TRIUMPH
It was the second straight triumph for the Twins, who had walloped the Orioles 7-2 Saturday, while Chicago ended Washington 1-0, California crushed Cleveland 9-2, New York defeated Boston 5-1, and Kansas City shutout Detroit 5-0.

Lew Krausse set down the Tigers on three hits as Kansas City breezed to their fourth victory in a row. Danny Cater drove in two runs with a single, Roger Repoz knocked in another with a triple and Dick Green added one with a double.

Fred Klages, in his first major league start, drove in a Horton's homer. Gary Waslewski limited the Senators to two hits in the five innings he worked as the Senators dropped their sixth straight.

Norm Siebern hit a two-run homer in the California victory, breaking a 1-1 tie and dropping Cleveland, recently in the thick of that battle for second place, to sixth. Fred Newman, 4-7, was the winner and Gary Bell, 14-12, took the defeat.

Bobby Richardson led off the 10th inning with a homer and the Yanks added another on a wild pitch by John Wyatt.

Rookie outfielder John Miller, just up from Toledo, hit a homer in his first time at bat in the majors after Joe Pepitone had led off the second inning with a single.

Leafs open playoff title bid tonight
Toronto Maple Leafs, hot on the trail of their second Governor's Cup in two years, open a best-of-seven final against Richmond Braves for the International League baseball championship tonight.

The Leafs came back from a 2-1 deficit after three games of their best-of-five semi-final series to eliminate Columbus Jets with a 9-6 victory Saturday and a 6-1 triumph Sunday.

The Braves eliminated Rochester Red Wings 1-0 in the fourth game of their series Saturday.

Reggie Smith, whose missed bunt attempt may have cost Toronto a first-game victory, won the Saturday contest with a three-run homer in the ninth inning. It gave Smith, the League batting champion, nine hits and 10 runs batted in during the playoffs.

Toronto scored two unearned runs off Luke Walker Sunday and added two more off Tony Horton's homer. Gary Waslewski pitched the victory.

Bishop's seeking players for football squad, open to all

That phrase, well known to students returning to the classrooms after the lengthy summer vacations, carries a different meaning for the athletes at Bishop's University.

It's "Back to the Football Field for a number of students on the Lennoxville campus, and also an invitation to the newly-arrived freshmen to try their skills and match their wits, in preparation for the upcoming Ottawa-St. Lawrence Football Conference.

Bruce Coulter, athletics director at Bishop's University, has extended an invitation to all students attending Bishop's from the immediate area, to participate in the team work-out which began this morning.

"We expect 40 or 45 boys out to try for the Bishop's Gaitsers, and there will be two practices a day, one at 10 a.m. and the other at 4 p.m., for the first couple of weeks," says the football coach.

Anyone interested in trying out for the Bishop's G's, or just interested in watching the practices, are welcome to the camp.
