Ladies' Auxiliary Prepare For Poppy and Armistice Days

Decide to Hold Tag Day Once Each Month for Casualty Ditty Bags

The Ladies' Auxiliary of Canadian Legion held their November meeting on Thursday, with a large attendance. First attention was given to arrangements for Armistice Day activities. The Remembrance service this year is to be held at the Monument in the park at 10.00 on Sunday morning, Nov. 12th. All members of the Ladies' Auxiliary are requested to meet at the Court House at 9.45 in order to proceed in a body to the Monument, where places will be reserved for them. The ceremony will be short and will close in time for those who wish to attend the unveiling of the Honour Roll in the United Church at 10.30, to do so.

On Saturday night the Committee of young members will be in charge of the sale of poppies. It should be well understood that the Poppy Fund for the Canadian Legion is used entirely to assist disabled Veterans who are in need. This collection is taken up just once a year by the sale of poppies. Incidentally the poppies and wreaths are made by disabled veterans in their homes or in work shops.

The Casualty Committee reported that $30.00 had been spent for filling ditty bags for those reported wounded and in the hospitals overseas. The following were remembered: Willis Anderson, Otto Bulow, Charles Cahill, Douglas Paul, Ian Macintosh, G. A. Laframboise, A. Garayt. Those who have been reported wounded recently are: Wesley Leahy, Allan Talon, Pte. N. J. Ritchie. Parcels are going forward immediately to these three. Mrs. Perkins and Mrs. McDermid conducted a tag on Saturday night, from which they realized $30.00 to be used for Casualty Ditty Bags. It is now decided to hold a tag once a month, as many people are anxious to donate specially to this cause. In the meantime, any one wishing to contribute may phone Mrs. Stata, 944, who will give particulars of requirements. News of casualties should be reported to Mrs. Stata as soon as received so that parcels can be mailed promptly.

Rotary Club Told of Aims and Objects

Horace Lamberton, Malone Addresses Newly Formed Club

Rotarian Horace Lamberton, Malone, and a Past Governor of Rotary, in 1942, was with the newly formed Club in Huntingdon, on Thursday. Rotarian Jean M. Lachance of Montreal Rotary Club, who was the principal organizer of the local Club was also present.

- The development of acquaintance as an opportunity for service.
- High ethical standards in business and professions; the recognition of the worthiness of all useful occupations; and the dignifying by each Rotarian of his occupation as an opportunity to serve society.
- The application of the ideal of service by every Rotarian to his personal, business and community life.
- The advancement of international understanding, good will, and peace through a world fellowship of business and professional men united in the ideal of service.

In Rotary one member is selected from each line of business or profession with some modification arranged such as naming honorary members. One might ask why such classifying of memberships? The idea is that it tends to produce a good cross section of community people within a Club.

The committees of a Rotary Club are many, a Club Service Committee is expected to promote good fellowship amongst its members and guests. Arrange programs, music and keep an eye out for acceptable members to be enrolled.

Vocational Service committee would endeavour to have business relationship improved in the community and on the whole better business ethics adopted. Community Service committee would work for the betterment of youth problems, recreation for both young and old and then again toward improving the relationship between rural and town folks. It so often happens that rural folks feel the town people are only interested in them for their trading dollars and that is not as it should be. Rotary can do an inestimable service toward overcoming such an attitude if it so exists in Huntingdon.

Well Attended Meeting In Interest of Loan at Howick

There was a very good attendance at the Temperance Hall, Howick, on Thursday, when a Victory Loan meeting was held in support of the Seventh Victory Loan Campaign in Chateaugay West. The meeting was conducted in the French language and a representative of Victory Loan headquarters in Montreal was present and presented Mr. Simeon Beaudin, joint chairman of Chateaugay West War Finance Committee, with a plaque of the Seventh Victory Loan insignia. The presentation was made on behalf of the National War Finance Committee in appreciation of the good response to past Victory Loans and in support of the Seventh Victory Loan, made in the Chateaugay West Unit. Mr. Beaudin expressed his thanks on behalf of the committee for Chateaugay West and also his admiration of the beauty of the plaque.

The speaker for the evening was Lt. Andre Marcel, R.C.N.V.R., who gave a very interesting insight of convoy duty from Gibraltar to Malta. During the trip his ship was attacked by five enemy planes, causing great damage and loss of life among the officers and crew. The audience listened very attentively to the account of the attack and were noticeably affected by the vivid description given by Lt. Marcel.

Isidore Jenneau, one of the canvassers, spoke a few words, in which he asked the people to support the canvassers by being ready to make their purchases of Victory Loan Bonds and to buy all they can. Some very good war films were shown and provided plenty of food for thought. Cur J. W. Downs spoke and asked the people to do their utmost in supporting the Seventh Victory Loan.

Remembrance Day Plans Made

On Saturday, the Canadian Legion is conducting the annual sale of Poppies, in Huntingdon, and an appeal is sent out to all to buy and help the Poppy Fund for Veterans and their dependents.

The banquet which had been proposed for the night of the 11th, has been cancelled due to unfortunate circumstances over which the Legion had no control.

On Sunday, a Remembrance Day programme has been planned to take place at the Cenotaph, at Prince Arthur Square. Legion members will assemble at Chateaugay Barracks at 9.30 a.m. on Sunday, and march with the Cadet Band, Cadets and a unit from Chateaugay Barracks to the Memorial, where a service will be held. The service will be in charge of Rev. W. S. Hatcher, Chaplain of the local branch of the Legion, and will commence upon arrival of the parade. Hon. Capt. Lavoie, of Chateaugay Barracks will make the address and Rev. J. B. Maclean, D.D., will give the prayers. The Cadets' Band will play the accompaniment for the hymns. ### By-law No. 250 to Establish Liquor Store in Huntingdon Passes Readings at Council

Local Clergy Attend Meeting to Oppose Passage of By-law—Address Aldermen and Declare Intention to Influence Vote Against

Huntingdon Town Council met on Monday evening, at the County Building, with all members present and Mayor W. E. S. McNair presiding. Minutes of the last regular meeting and all those of the adjourned meeting were read and passed. Bills presented were read and ordered.

D. Boileau asked the council if it would be possible to have water connected to his dwelling. As the dwelling is situated on private property, some distance from the Town sewer and water mains on Somerville Street, the council said they could give consideration if Mr. Boileau could make arrangements to meet the town line.

A report on the fire hydrants in town proved that most of these are in real good condition and have good pressure. There are some that require repairs made to them and some which need to be replaced. The council suggested that a further check be made and necessary repairs made after which another report is to be given.

A piano duet opened the program of the evening. Distribution of certificates to the five graduates, and a special prize, a souvenir from Rev. Mother Saint Ignace, superior general of C.N.D., to each of them. A French song followed. Prizes and Certificates were distributed to the pupils of the High School. ### Poppy Day and Armistice

ON Saturday, November 11th, we celebrate the memory of an emblem and the close of another war, while still in the midst of the present conflict. This conflict, in which we are presently engaged, might almost be called the continuation of the 1914-18 war and the period between might be considered just as an armistice. The call to cease fire came at the 11th hour, on the 11th day, of the 11th month. The 11th hour is also known as that which precedes a final decision of great importance, such as the reprieve on a man's life before he is to be hung, or the last minute averting of some major catastrophe. So it seems that the armistice in 1918, was really the 11th hour reprieve of the war which is now with us. That reprieve lasted for 21 years and the continuation commenced in greater ferocity than it was thought possible it ever could in November, 1918. We had the Germans on their knees asking for mercy, and then about six months later peace terms were signed.

The poppy which will be on sale on Saturday, is the emblem of the fields in which so many Canadians and others of the Empire laid down their lives that there would be no more war. The torch was thrown to us to hold it high and the poppy became the emblem of remembrance of the bloody sacrifice made in Flanders Fields.

Today, our men are back again in Flanders Fields, not the men who were there before, but many of them sons of the men who fought and who died, or were wounded there. With the memory of that conflict of 1914-1918 so fresh in our minds and the horrors of the present war being constantly thrust before us, we cannot ignore the appeal that will be made on Saturday—"To Buy a Poppy". The money realized from the sale of these little imitation flowers goes to help the men who came back maimed or permanently sick, after that great four-year struggle. The poppies are made by these very same men as a means of their own support and they make this appeal once a year on or near the day that marked the ending of the hostilities.

This year the appeal comes on November 11th, the date that the armistice was declared. For awhile, it looked as if the end of the present conflict was almost at hand and may come before the end of this year, but indications seem to point to many more months of the struggle yet. There is this much that can be said, we are driving the enemy back into his own country and we are carrying the war onto his own doorstep. It is not likely that this war will end with just an armistice and it is hoped that the enemy will be cleaned up for all time. We have had proof positive that the German people are not satisfied with just an armistice, but merely required such to regain renewed strength to strike again. This time there must be no let-up in our determination to see this war through to the very end, the only armistice that Germany will get is when she is willing to put down her arms in unconditional surrender. When this has been done, we will have fulfilled our pledge to take up the torch and hold it high. The sacrifice made by the men who died in Flanders Fields will not then have been in vain. The present sons will feel that they have avenged the scrapping of the treaties that Germany chose to do in 1939, thus plunging the world into the continuation of World War 1.

When you are approached on Saturday, November 11th, to buy a poppy, don't hesitate, remember its significance, remember the day, remember those who fought before and those who are fighting today.

Repercussions to Bracken's Speech at Ormstown

THE Hon. John Bracken's speech on the occasion of the Progressive-Conservative convention held at Ormstown recently, has received wide comment across the Dominion. In the light of other events of the past week it also has its significance. According to a Toronto Daily Star editorial and to use the words—"If Mr. Bracken meant what he said at Ormstown, Que., on Saturday, he read Premier Drew of Ontario out of the Progressive-Conservative party. For he declared 'There will be no preaching of 'hate Quebec' in this party, and there will be no intolerance of any race or creed. What will be preached is constructive doctrine, the doctrine of equal responsibilities for all, as well as equal rights for all.' And it was only last August that Col. Drew said in a 'hate Quebec' speech that Quebec must not have equal rights, such as the children's allowances act provides, because Quebec 'refuses to bear its full share of the burden of the war.'"

It would seem from the trend of the several editorials we have seen that Mr. Bracken, like most political speakers, has a policy for Quebec and one for the rest of Canada. That is that wherever a point may be contentious, then that point is softened to suit the occasion. Mr. Bracken is fully aware that there are differences of opinion on Quebec's stand on war matters as compared with that of the rest of Canada. He speaks in one voice that he will not tolerate racial differences and that he is for unity all over Canada, when he is in Quebec—but changes this theme when he is in some other part of the Dominion. The purpose of course, is to catch the possible odd vote when the time comes. Such was the case when Mr. Bracken mentioned the Home Defence Army, the men of which he said were doing what the government asked them to do, but that they had earned the name of Zombies. He agreed that the men could no more than comply with the regulations set down by the government and that it was a shame that these men should be shunned because they had complied with the regulations.

In his speeches elsewhere in the Dominion, Mr. Bracken was demanding to know what the government intended to do with the men of the Home Defence Army. He was accusing the government of keeping these men at the expense of the country at a useless occupation. However, knowing this to be a contentious matter in the Province of Quebec, Mr. Bracken tells the people that the men are doing the right thing and complying with government regulations. It is quite evident therefore that Mr. Bracken would change this state of affairs and it might not be acceptable to the people of Quebec, whom he is trying to win over. Recent events concerning this very matter would seem to indicate that all political parties are trying to appease Quebec on the matter of the Zombies.

If Mr. Bracken would wish to create unity among all the peoples of Canada and Quebec included, it would seem that he should have a policy that is acceptable to the whole of Canada and equally fair to one province as another. Such a policy would be more in line with the name Mr. Bracken has earned in some circles, that of "Honest John". When this country can find a leader that will take over the government of Canada for the express purpose of doing what is right by the people as a whole and not for the party of which he happens to head, then we shall have more unity of purpose and action. In past few years there has been an ever widening rift between Quebec and the rest of the Dominion, and the policies of the political parties are a whole lot to blame for the situation. Politicians have told people in one part of Canada one thing and something entirely different in another—what are the people to believe? It is only natural that suspicion should be aroused, and once aroused, it does not take long for any rumor to take root. In this latter fact, Mr. Bracken was right when he said it was the partisans who were to blame, but unfortunately he is pursuing the same tactics in a slightly different manner.

If Mr. Bracken or any other political leader would wish to have unity with all peoples in Canada, it is necessary that a complete study of the situation be undertaken. That the root of the trouble be found and then the remedy applied. Apeasement never made for unity, that has been proven in this war; it merely serves for a time only, then fresh demands are made. Education is the only way to straighten out the difficulties, the wrong teachings must be substituted for the right teachings. The wrong teachings have resulted in misunderstandings that have become deep-rooted and they will be hard to eradicate. Preaching a "hate Quebec" will only serve to increase the misunderstandings and more deeply impress that the people of Quebec are really being imposed upon.

Minister of National Defence Resigns

CONSTERNATION rocked the whole Dominion, on Wednesday, when it was officially announced that Col. the Hon. J. L. Ralston, Minister of National Defence, had resigned. It was known that many cabinet meetings were being held on the question of the Home Defence Army and reinforcements for overseas, it was also known that difficulties were arising as to agreement on many matters. But as there were no reports given out as to what progress was being made, no inkling of trouble was known until the resignation of Col. Ralston. Even after the resignation, no report as to why Col. Ralston had resigned was made known.

It is known, however, that Col. Ralston has recently returned from a trip to the troops in England and the battlefronts, and that he obtained first hand knowledge of the feelings of the fighting men of the Canadian forces. Apparently the men at the front made their views perfectly clear on the matter of the Home Defence Army (Zombies). Large numbers of them were of the opinion that these men should be used for reinforcements and to provide relief for the men who have been overseas for many years. These men are fully trained and could be used without delay, while new recruits will have to be trained before they can be sent overseas. Meantime the casualties have been greater since the invasion of Europe started, than was expected they would be. Some of the men presently engaged in fighting the Hun were asked if they would be willing to go to the Pacific Area, but most of them were opposed to this while the Zombies were still being kept in Canada as a useless army. Another question was who would be first demobilized after the end of the present hostilities. This apparently proved to be a very contentious question and caused the Defence Minister some upset of mind.

It is quite apparent that the Government's policy with regard to the draftees and the reluctance to pass an Order in Council to use these men wherever needed, is the underlying cause of the rift that led to the resignation of Col. Ralston, although no official statement has been made on the matter. The Government was released from its pre-election promise that no man would be conscripted, by the plebiscite some considerable time ago. It was decided that an Order in Council would be made if the need ever arose that the draftees would be wanted for other than Home Defence. From little hints dropped here and there, it seems that the need is now here. Voluntary recruiting has not come up to the expectations of those in charge and casualties have exceeded estimates. The question of reinforcements is vital to the men on the battlefronts and to the relatives of these men, it is therefore the duty of the government to do something and do it fast. There are approximately 75,000 draftees fully trained, some of whom are being employed on railway projects and other building projects at home in Canada, in safety, while the influx for reinforcements is declining.

Col. Ralston, who knows the full story, evidently was unable to convince his colleagues to his own satisfaction and therefore decided to resign in protest and in fairness to the men he had interviewed.

While Ottawa reports that all is now quiet on Parliament Hill, the people are waiting for an explanation of what actually happened and just what the situation is with regard to reinforcements for the Canadian Army Overseas. The people have a right to know this and to be assured that the men overseas are not being neglected so that a zombie army can stay in this country as a useless asset that is becoming an increasing liability. It is not a matter that can be lightly brushed over by the appointment of another minister with no concrete policy defined. It is the duty of the Premier to tell the people the truth and clear the air.

Education Week in Huntingdon

One hears today much comment on what education means to the world of tomorrow. Nazi Germany has demonstrated what education can do in a destructive way, let us in this country demonstrate what education can do in a constructive manner. There is no doubt whatever that education is vital to the children of any country and that it is necessary to everyone. Thus this week—November 5 to 11—we are celebrating Education Week in our schools across the Dominion and also it is being observed in the States. A varied programme is being carried out in different parts of the Dominion with several radio broadcasts. Among those to broadcast, who are known to the people of Chateauguay Valley are Mr. D. C. Munroe, of Ormstown; Mr. J. A. B. McLeish, of Valleyfield, who will broadcast over C.F.C.F. on Saturday evening; and Mr. J. G. Lang.

At the Huntingdon High School, Thursday has been set apart as visitors day, when the parents and friends of the pupils will be cordially welcome to visit the school during school hours and see the various classes at work at their studies and other activities. On Friday, a special Remembrance Day Service is being held at the school. We are also informed that a special issue of the School Newspaper "The Tattler" will be distributed this week as a memorial number. On Thursday also, the Cadet Band will render special numbers. On Sunday, the school band will participate in a service at the United Church. All these activities are in connection with the observance of Education Week.

While the school will be open for visitors on Thursday, Mr. J. B. Macmillan informs us that this need not be an exclusive feature for Education Week alone, but visitors are welcome at any time during any week of the year to see the way the school is conducted. Such visitation should be in reasonable numbers at these other periods so as not to disturb the pupils to too great an extent. Let us take a greater interest in our schools and make a point of visiting them at least during Education Week. Remember it is our children who are being taught in the schools and we want to know that they are receiving the best that education can give. Criticism is apt to be given on some matters that are not fully understood, but a visit to the school gives an opportunity to see at first hand what is being done and how it is done. Make it a record visitors day on Thursday.

A Final Reminder

ON Saturday, the campaign for the sale of Seventh Victory Loan Bonds ends, and from reports on hand there is still a large sum required to meet the objectives in both Huntingdon County and Chateauguay West. It is just as imperative as it ever was that everyone that can should purchase at least one Bond in this Seventh Victory Loan. The objectives are higher than ever before, but this only goes to show that there is an urgent need for more money to finance the war. We are getting nearer the end of the road to victory and we cannot afford to let up now.

While hopes were held a few months back that the war would soon be over, it has now become plain that it may be some time yet before Germany is beaten. It must also be remembered that the Japs have to be reckoned with and that Canada is pledged to help in this matter. Canada declared war on Japan as well as Germany. The States has been a staunch ally and we cannot let her do all the fighting with the little yellow men. Mr. Churchill says the war with Japan may take 18 months after Hitler has been beaten, and that Hitler will not be beaten until well into 1945 at least. The war is now going into the fiercest phase of the fighting, when materials will be used up faster than has been the case in the past. These materials cost money to produce and that money must be forthcoming from the people of Canada. That means that you, you and you, must be prepared to buy Victory Bonds in as large a quantity as ever you can.

Such buying aids the buyer in saving money for the peace era, helps to keep down inflation, as well as to provide cash for the war effort. It is important to control inflation because that will aid in the peace era, it will keep our bonds a good asset and staple. Why then hold back from buying all the bonds you can? There is no better investment today than Victory Bonds, they yield a greater interest on your savings than you can obtain from savings in a savings account and they are perfectly safe. Those who bought First Victory Loan Bonds will find that they are now worth $104 for the $100 bond, this in addition to the coupon interest that may already have been received on them. Thus it will be seen that the longer one keeps a Victory Bond, the more valuable it becomes. Such an investment is well worth while for anyone and a great help to our fighting men and the war effort generally.

Let's not spoil the fine records of Huntingdon County and Chateauguay West by neglecting to buy one more bond than before and putting the objectives over the top. There is still time to buy that extra bond and there is still time to see that the objective is reached so that success may be achieved.

Opinions of Others ...

MUST HAVE NAME BEFORE PUBLIC

(Collingwood Enterprise-Bulletin)

Successful advertisers know that carefully developed, continuous advertising is the best and usually the only kind that produces good results for the advertiser. Every ad can't be fire sale or going out of business ad. One advertisement isn't advertising. It's a gamble. But continuous, intelligent advertising is no gamble providing it reaches the consumers... as it does in home newspapers. If you doubt that argument, consider the door-to-door seller, operating in peace time. Nearly 50 per cent of the salesmen made only one call, 25 per cent made three calls. Only 127 per cent made four or more calls. Yet 60 per cent of all sales were made after the fifth call. Reach your buyers regularly, effectively with newspaper advertising, most efficient advertising available. A business man in one of the smaller cities said to us a day or so ago, "We advertise because we believe we should keep our name before the public, and at the same time help the patriotic effort of the community. We will want business after the war and do not want our name to be lost sight of by the public."

Beware Carbon Monoxide Poisoning

Motorists are urged by the Province of Quebec Safety League, to beware of carbon monoxide poisoning.

This gas is colourless, odourless and tasteless and therefore especially dangerous. It silently makes its own way through the body where it performs its deadly work. It can be identified when causing headache or faintness which generally result in insensibility.

All necessary precautions should be taken against such an insidious enemy. The most important one is to never start the engine of a car or truck while all garage doors and windows are closed. So as to avoid carbon monoxide, persons entering garages are urged to leave doors wide open. If headache or faintness is felt, step out immediately for fresh air.

While on the road, one car window should always be kept partially open, to allow fresh air to enter the car. Drivers should make sure their cars are in good order, and that there are no leaks in the exhaust system, the bulletin concluded.

require one-third less space inside the truck and save much work and time to the driver. Grocers and retailers say that they can put 36 square quarts on a refrigerator shelf that held only 25 round bottles.

The Times does not consider square milk bottles an innovation. Square milk cans were used by local farmers years ago. They were discarded due to cleaning difficulties. Bacteria lodged in the corners defying all efforts to remove. Round milk bottles are now cleaned with automatic circular brush with excellent results. It is doubtful that similar results can be obtained with automatic labour-saving devices used on a square milk bottle.—Picton Times.

QUEBEC ENGLISH

There has always been much humour to be found in the Toronto French and Quebec English frequently to be found in translations in this province.

One of the choicest bits was found on a circular issued by the Granby Police and Fire Department recently, which started off with this sentence, "All landlords, renters, or occupants are advised to get themselves or with a help to sweeping and cleaning of chimneys."

"...Keep Him Safe and Bring Him Home Soon!"

Day after day you pray that he may soon come safely home to you again. You long for the day... you wives and sweethearts, you mothers and dads... when you will hear the ring of his joyous laughter again.

Every Victory Bond you buy helps him along the road to final victory. Your Victory Bond sends tanks and planes to smash down resistance when he attacks. Your bond helps cripple the opposing air forces and makes him and his fellow airmen masters of the skies. Your bond helps to remove the menace of mines and submarines during his lonely vigils on the deep.

So you will work towards his home coming by buying Victory Bonds. This time buy one more bond than in any previous loan.

Letters To The Editor

Montreal, Que. Oct. 24, 1944

The Editor,
 The Huntingdon Gleaner,
 Huntingdon, P. Q.
 Dear Sir:

Mr. Allan L. Smith, in your issue of September 11th, goes into a long song and dance about the beauties of socialism. For example, he says that the great C. N. R. is an example of where socialism succeeded and capitalism failed. Well the C. N. R. is a poor example of socialist success. It has piled up total deficits running into billions. It charges no less freight rates and passenger rates, and pays no higher wages than the C. P. R., which costs the taxpayers nothing. It has never made a profit -- even in the War boom its so-called profits would not exist, if it paid income tax like the C. P. R. If this is socialism as Mr. Smith wants it there are lots of Canadians who prefer something else.

Then Mr. Smith goes on to prove Karl Marx was right, as he points out that there were no strikes in his time, so the strikes which we now have show that he was a very wise man. There may be a difference of opinion on this point for many people realize that we might not have these strikes if Karl Marx had not poured out his socialist poison. Of course there were strikes in his day. There are many strikes now, partly as a result of his efforts.

However, Mr. Smith really reaches the heights of absurdity in his statements that the Soviet system in Russia has created in Russia, and is now saving our civilization from total destruction. If Mr. Smith thinks that the people of Britain, U. S. and Canada are not as manly as those in Russia, he should say so flatly. There can be no greater insult to any Canadian than to argue that our young men do not fight as bravely and as well as the Russians.

As for saving civilization from destruction, Mr. Smith might be ready to give a little credit to the British, Canadians and other Dominionions, who with France were alone in taking up arms against Germany. Russia actually remained in alliance with Germany, furnishing her with war supplies, until the very day the Germans attacked Russia.

The Russian people deserve praise for the courage they have shown in the defence of their own country, but to praise them as saviours of civilization, as though Britain, Canada and U. S. had done nothing, is an offence to every decent Canadian.

Yours truly
 John O. Wyse

Editor Gleaner

In your lengthy Editorial in reply to my article of previous date there is much that a liberal could take exception to but space and time does not permit this. I am however interested in this paragraph, "In some instances the Amalgamation of small firms into one large concern has saved several small firms from bankruptcy such saving has meant to the workers jobs who would otherwise be unemployed."

This proves just two things that I have often stated before, viz: competition brought them to the edge of bankruptcy, and second they were saved by capitalistic monopoly in its usual method of work. The fact is they were not saved at all they just went bankrupt, just what is happening daily in the capitalistic world at the moment.

You further state, "Mr. Smith favors state control. Unfortunately when government takes over any public enterprise to run the expenses of operation are usually increased considerably and the loss has to be made up by a further tax on the consumer." This sir has not been the general rule up to this date in any place where it has been given a fair trial.

If what you say is true it would mean the failure of public utilities under public control everywhere. And the daily press which is largely controlled by monopolistic capitalism would never tire of singing this song to the public.

Practically all the cities in the United Kingdom have long ago owned and controlled all public utilities and many other enterprises that lends itself to such control under present conditions. In many places such as Glasgow or Birmingham profits are so great that taxes have been lowered from time to time.

Further nearly all things of common human need are handled by co-operatives. This could be called a monopoly for the people and by the people, the success here both in management and profits have been phenomenal, we need not dwell upon it here, it is well known wherever people read.

It is at the moment getting serious attention from Labor Unions all over the civilized world, we might say however that latest figures show 500,000 people in Britain own shares in limited liability companies while 8,000,000 are owners of co-operative stock, the profits of course in both cases go to the share holders. I do not know what this would be in the

Cereals Play Stellar Role In Recipes

Imagine trying to prepare a days meals without using cereals! There would be no porridge for breakfast, dinner's soup would be thin and there'd be no rich brown gravy for the meat. No cookies or cake for dessert and, of course, no bread.

Meal getting would certainly be complicated but fortunately in this cereal-rich land it's a complication no housewife has to contend with. This useful group of foods provides Canadians with about one-third of their total food energy; almost one-third of their protein, one-quarter of their iron and one-fifth of their vitamin B1.

In main dish, dessert, cookies and muffins, cereals play the stellar role in today's recipes from the Consumer Section of the Dominion Department of Agriculture. For further information on cereals and a collection of grand recipes get a copy of their section's folder, "Cereals and Their Uses", free from the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Dahlia's Whatnots

Mrs. — cannot decide whether she just had a dream or whether her subconscious mind went on a peculiar excursion into the region of the psychic. She woke, at least, partially, to the sound of music from the radio in an automobile. So sweet, so strong, so smooth was that harmonious chord that it thrilled and uplifted her in a mysterious way. The earthly plane of ordinary existence was lost to sight and the global form of our planet was perceptible. Rising triumphant through God's universe it cast off all life's petty meannesses. The little jealousies, spite, and suspicions, like the flies, gnats and mosquitoes of the soul's domain, small but harassing, failed in their efforts to cling to the new and purified earth, fell away, and were left below. The watcher ascended exultantly to hold ecstatic communion with the good and great of every age and race. The Kingdom was come, right was might, life itself was harmony. Had some echo of "The Lost Chord" come filtering through the Adirondacks?

We miss you, neighbour, since you moved away. We miss the spirals of smoke from your chimney, the light in your windows which cheered the chill of dawn and dimmed the lightning's lurid flash. We miss your lines of snowy washing, your blooming plants, your bustling black pullets. We miss your golden-haired girls going to, and coming from, school, laughing, singing, romping, and your sturdy son, swift messenger and sure. We miss the arrival and departure of your uniformed husband and your many friends, and the mail-carrier's calls when we hoped that letter you got was the one you wished for from your boy in England or Africa or Italy or Georgia, wherever he was then. We miss the mutual exchange of neighbourly favours and courtesies. Yes, we do miss you.

If you are one of the people who enjoy reading something that sends the chills running up and down your spine you should read Robert Louis Stevenson's "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," if you have not read it. A woman told me that after having seen the picture she was too horrified to endure the book. A very cool-headed, matter-of-fact man seemed pretty badly shaken after reading it. Personally, it does not affect me, so, if chosen, I consider it in the light of an allegory with a warning, to wit: If a man gives way repeatedly to his evil propensities he will eventually find himself powerless to do anything better. I think it not unlikely that Stevenson had this thought in mind when he wrote the story. Another thing, you will learn some telling expressions from the work, e.g. "odious joy." Did you ever see "odious joy" on a human countenance? Of course, you did, but it takes a writer with Stevenson's gift of words to draw a picture of such a face.

Last Sunday evening Dorothy Thompson surpassed herself in her magnificent tribute to the magnificent strategy and action of our Allied leaders and the men under them. She spoke of how the American schoolboys of the future would look on the latest naval victory just as British boys look on Trafalgar, of how a little known man would be known to history for the meticulous plan he prepared of the invasion movements for Mr. Churchill, of how British naval engineers invented the scheme of constructing piers for the landing in a part of Normandy where there were no ports, and of the fact that the different Allied forces now converging towards Berlin were all strikingly about the same distance from that city. It was a heartening message, but we needed it before we heard less reassuring things of the Chinese situation and our Canadian manpower problem, also the menace in the St. Lawrence.

Dogs Shared National Destinies
 The destinies of nations often depend upon the bare threads of chance. Even the vigilance and devotion of a dog can at times indirectly shape the course of national destiny—and receive soant credit from the pen of the historians.

A bloodhound once saved the life of Robert the Bruce in a skirmish with a patrol of English soldiers. When Bruce was disarmed in a hand-to-hand fight, the dog attacked its master's nearest assailants and held them at bay until he could reclaim himself.

The dog's action undoubtedly influenced the course of Scottish history. Bruce, who was then a fugitive from the English, escaped capture or death because of the alertness of his canine companion. Afterwards he rallied the Scots anew, raised an army and won their national independence on the fourteenth century field of Bannockburn.

This is no incident colored by legend like the tale of Robert Bruce and the spider. It is backed by the full weight of historical evidence. The barking of an alert spaniel has been credited with a similar share in shaping the course of a nation. It happened during an intended surprise attack in one of the sixteenth century campaigns that were fought in defense of the Netherlands and its sovereignty.

The dog's barking awakened the camp of William, Prince of Orange, in the darkness of night. As a result, the Netherlands successfully repelled what might otherwise have been a disastrous engagement with the Spanish troops under the infamous Duke of Alva.

The American patriot who declared "Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty!" never reckoned upon the vigilance of a dog ever alert to its master's needs and safety.

Howick Fourth Blood Clinic Reaches 208 Donors

Very Successful Clinic in All Ways 27 New Donors—Many Buttons Given Out

No evidence of waning interest in support of the Voluntary Blood Donor Service was seen at Howick, when the Red Cross travelling clinic made its fourth visit on Monday, November 6th. On the contrary, the number of blood donors during the day reached the figure of 208, well ahead of the 150 of the previous clinic here. On other occasions it had been hoped to reach the 200 mark, but each time the number had fallen a little short. But on this fourth clinic, when the school teaching staff, just off duty, arrived at the last group of donors, Howick was able to go "over the top." This was attained because there were 27 new volunteers, donating for the first time; offsetting the fact that a number of donors who had previously come from Howick had recently had a clinic in their own centre. A few donors continued to arrive from Covey Hill, Russelton, Franklin Centre and St. Louis.

Adding to the list of those who had received bronze buttons at the previous clinic for three donations, a further 46 donors received their third-time donation buttons on this occasion.

A pleasant interlude near the close of the clinic was the recognition of the 200th donor for the day. This honour fell upon Mrs. Henry Helyar, who, as she was arising from the clinic cot after giving her quota, was presented with half a dozen bottles of Coca Cola as symbolic of the credit which all blood donors deserve for their voluntary service on behalf of those risking their lives overseas. Rev. K. H. Woodruff congratulated Mrs. Welpburn and Dr. Quintin added spontaneous comments to the amusement of all. Mrs. D. Black presented the "Cokes," which were part of the supply which the Coca Cola Company had again donated for use during the clinic.

Nurses who assisted at the fourth clinic were Mrs. T. Quintin, Mrs. M. R. Stalker, Mrs. G. E. Bingham, Mrs. D. Munroe, Miss L. McKell, Miss I. Muir, Miss M. Muir, Mrs. W. Kerr, Miss E. Kerr, Mrs. F. Burton, Miss Sullivan and Miss F. C. Morrison. Medical supervisors were Dr. T. Quintin and Dr. Martel. ## Vote on Liquor ...

allowed to say a few words, but was interrupted by Ald. Cappiello who wished to speak to the clergy first. He explained that he expected there would be opposition to the by-law but that he was acting for the people as their representative. A petition had been circulated signed by some 70 ratepayers and he felt that some consideration should be given to the matter. Rev. Knowles differed with Ald. Cappiello.

In his remarks to the members of the council, Rev. Knowles wanted to know why it was necessary to have another place at which the young people and others to spend their money in obtaining liquor, when it was a time that all should be making some sacrifices. A victory loan campaign was on and men were fighting to have their blood money spent on the war effort. He felt that it was not right to encourage the young people to spend their money in beer by having another place at which they could do so. If the Chateau is not keeping the law, why is it not looked into and checked up, he asked. He was a confirmed prohibitionist and would fight to have the law strictly enforced. He remembered the men who were pouring out their life blood, and those who were here being encouraged to buy beer and wine and spirits. He was sure that God would not be pleased at their promoting this thing and that they would be brought to account by the Almighty with full responsibility for all those who may go astray.

Rev. Father Pigeon said it was the first time that he had appeared before the council in eleven years, but he felt compelled to come at this time. It has been said that the liquor question is not a moral one—but a practical one. He felt that the spiritual leaders should have been consulted and if they had met with the civil leaders, it would have been much better for this moral question. It is by the way that he thought, for he noticed that a grocery beer license was not being asked for in the proposed by-law, and this had been cut out of the original motion. He would not lead his congregation from the pulpit to vote against the establishment of a liquor store in Huntingdon, when such vote is taken. As the pastor of St. Joseph's Church he would be in favour of a liquor store. He came to the meeting because it was a moral question. He asked the question if the vote would be for Yes or No. The Mayor answered that it would be. Rev. Father Pigeon asked "What was the result if a Yes vote was polled?" The Mayor, "It would mean that a liquor store would be established."

Rev. J. B. Maclean said: "We come as citizens of the town and also as the spiritual leaders of a great majority of the people of the town." He felt he had a right to appear before the council and express his opinion and that of the people whom they all represent. He was in favour of a liquor store. The town should rather seek to curtail the sale of liquor than to increase it. He referred to the tragedies on the highways and in the home of the town and the abuse of liquor. He was for himself and he would like to see all teetotalers, but he had to bow to the majority. It was a democratic system under which we were living and the majority ruled. He was sorry that the by-law should seek to increase the opportunity to a greater extent of obtaining liquor. He would like to see the people vote against it.

Rev. Knowles asked the question—"If the vote is No, does that mean that there will be no liquor for sale?" The Mayor: "No, would leave things as they are."

Mayor McNair thanked the clergy for coming and expressing their views on the matter. The council in the two years it had been in office had the good support of the people. He was willing to abide by a majority vote of the council. He thought the Liquor Commission had their own police for enforcing the law, but he was not an authority on the subject. He did not believe that the Town of Huntingdon was any worse or as bad as other towns of its size. He would not hold a big stick over the people of the town to make them obey the law, he believed the strength of good order lies with the citizens themselves and that the spiritual leaders had helped in this matter. There was nothing done in council that was not open and above board. He had a copy of the by-law and he would like to see the clerk write down all he said and that perhaps he had said enough and had better leave it at that before he said something he shouldn't.

The clergy thanked the Mayor for the opportunity afforded them to speak and then left the meeting.

A complete copy of By-law No. 250 appears elsewhere in this issue.

In a matter of extra hours being worked by the men employed at the Filter Plant was brought before the Council. Mr. Munro had returned his cheque as he felt he had not been paid a sufficient amount, and Mr. Sandy applied to have his raise in his monthly salary. The extra work was caused through the sickness of Mr. Perkins, which required the remaining men to work 12-hour shifts. The council decided that the extra work should be paid for and that the raise should be in line with the other men and that during the time of Mr. Perkins' sickness his wages would be divided pro-rata between Mr. Munro and Mr. Sandy.

Mr. McWhinnie made application to build a bridge over the ditch near his property. No decision was made on this.

A request was received for the extension of the sidewalk on Hunter Street. Messrs. Fox and McGerrigle. The council will try and put in some gravel for the time being.

Mr. F. Braithwaite complained that the water from the street was dripping across his property on Chateaugay Street. He stated he was willing to contribute a portion of the cost to raise the sidewalk. The council decided to raise the sidewalk in front of his store in consideration of Mr. Braithwaite offering $25.00 as part cost.

Ald. Cappiello was appointed pro-mayor for the next three months.

Mr. A. Fawcett was delegated to take a wreath on behalf of the Town, on the Memorial, on Nov. 12.

A bill was received from Mrs. Blackman for stone blocks broken and also one from Mr. Macdonald for stone blocks broken, as an aftermath of Halloween. No action was taken.

Ties Across The Border

By Adam L. Sellar, Huntingdon, before the House of Commons, Revolution, Chapter House, Malone, October 31, 1944.

PART I

Greetings and best wishes from Canada to the Daughters of the American Revolution. It was my intention to personally salute your national emblem, the Stars and Stripes and the Union Jack which today adorns this Chapter House. As we have unitedly saluted the Stars and Stripes, we will call that honoured duty performed. Had I individually saluted the Stars and Stripes, I may say that would have been my first time to do so, so from that you can take it that I am a dyed-in-the-wool "Canuck".

It is not a career diplomat. Hardly. I've been told I'm a bit of a "Canuck". But to me the so-called border between Canada and the United States has never seemed one bit more significant economically, politically or socially than the arbitrary division between Provinces of Canada or States in this Union. To-day we are free peoples, hardly exist even as a memory in the minds of us who have watched it buried beneath the weight of a common burden, obliterated by the urgencies of collective needs, washed away in the blood of mutual heroes. Regardless of what the past has been or the future may be, to-day we are free peoples on this great continent standing together as Americans.

Daughters of the American Revolution should naturally look back on the historical side of this great America. Sorry I am that your American histories too often speak highly of the United States and at the expense of Canada. At the time of the Revolution $600 from what is now British North America or Canada, aided the Northern Revolutionists and of that number 18,000 gave their lives for the union cause. Yet, it is not so that many Americans have been taught to believe that the sympathies of what is now Canada was with the South.

Four sections of the World's British North America as gully of burning Washington, but the same historians have not recorded the facts that it was a band of Americans who set fire to part of muddy York, now known as Toronto.

Commercially, Canada and the United States are bound up in one another to a greater extent than perhaps many of us realize. The United States with its 130,000,000 people has 4 billion dollars invested in Canadian enterprises, whilst the people of Canada who number less than 22,000,000 have invested one billion dollars in United States enterprises.

Your society, the "Daughters of the American Revolution," has most excellent motives at its back. Your society founded in 1890, couldn't help but be good, seeing it was born in the gay nineties. You strive to perpetuate the memory of the spirit of the men and women who achieved American independence and at the same time promoted knowledge thereby fostering true patriotism above country. To aim for a finer ideal would certainly be most difficult.

With what success have you as a local Chapter been successful? A direct challenge hurled at a man often makes his blood boil, yet challenges are commendable. You all know that my business is that of publishing newspapers and magazines and general printing. Following my chosen avocation for a life work, I assure you many a challenge has been hurled at me. Personally I like a fight, providing it is not the pugilistic type. I must admit to you that I have not been able to learn very much as to what your Chapter of the D.A.R. has accomplished for the general welfare of the objectives set forth in your charter. I don't say you are not doing things, for I know better. I know you are doing a very worthwhile work amongst the pupils attending schools in Franklin County. I did not learn that from any member of the D.A.R., but through seeking information from my friends in Malone. Perhaps you will say, if I wanted to know what the Adirondack Chapter of the D.A.R. is doing, why not interview Miss Channel or Mrs. Genaway? No! newspaper men can gather better stories from the masses, and after that is done interview the principals. I am sure you know better what to ask them to get a true and accurate report.

Now ladies, what I am driving at is that the D.A.R. in Malone is not as well known to the general public as it should be, therefore publicity is what your Chapter needs and from what I have gathered richly deserves.

The D.A.R. has strength at its back. Your membership in the United States, some 1,000,000, and 600 chapters and a membership of possibly 200,000. A lot of people, when one realizes that to be a member you must be a descendant of one who fought in the Revolution. Women's organizations I am inclined to believe, do not seek publicity through the use of the printed word, but what a lot of credit they get from the public through spreading thoughts through the word of mouth.

What binds all these people together is not only their common language and cultural tradition, but also their common subjection to a poverty and ignorance that knows no counterpart in the Western world. His Majesty's Canadian Ships

The Royal Canadian Navy has in this war bred a new tradition. It is the tradition of the corvette—the small ship which does a big job which has become a definite striking force in the battle of the Atlantic, sinking submarines, destroying aircraft, and protecting the 11,000 merchant ships which, since the outbreak of the war, have crossed the ocean carrying more than 125 billion pounds of war supplies to the battle fronts of the Old World.

These corvettes, and others like them turned out for the navies of Great Britain and the United States, are being built from stern to stern in Canadian shipyards, and fitted with engines and propellers, instruments and armaments, which are also produced in the Dominion.

But Canada's vast wartime shipbuilding programme is not concentrated on corvettes alone, or indeed, on naval vessels. The largest part of the programme is the construction of cargo ships. Orders for these large freighters now total more than $600,000,000, and every three days, a 10,000-tonner slides down the ways.

Prior to the war, Canada's shipbuilding industry was virtually at a standstill, specializing principally in repair and overhaul. But today, with more than 50,000 employees, it is turning out, in addition to cargo vessels and corvettes, several types of combat vessels including rugged minesweepers and swift patrol boats. Of these, Canada has launched nearly 300 since the start of the war. Two destroyers of the Tribal class are being built in Eastern yards. In addition, some 1,100 small craft, ranging from lifeboats to motor torpedo boats, have been delivered, and more than 2,000 are on the way. The small boat programme alone involves an expenditure of some $13 million. Rounding up the entire programme, the shipbuilding facilities which have been provided for ship repair and salvage, including a floating dry dock, new docking space, machine shop buildings and special repair tools.

But no matter what other type of ship is built in Canada, the corvette remains Canada's favourite warship. Wherever the tide of war may call them, steam the brave little ships that have helped in the writing of a new tradition—the tradition of the small ship which does a big job.

The spring like weather for a few days last week was certainly appreciated by all and many outside jobs have been done in comfort. The apples are all picked but packing not quite finished. A number of farmers report that apple stealing has been worse this fall than usual. In one orchard every apple was taken off some young trees just beginning to bear. No one knows the work and expense in connection with an orchard, but those who actually do the work in its various stages, then, after a wait of five or six years they would like to reap their reward and not have it misappropriated by pilferers. Apples are a man's personal property and his means of making a living as in other business.

Canadian Legion Notes

(This is the third in a series of ten weekly articles especially written for The Huntingdon Gleaner by Richard Hale, chief pensions officer of the Canadian Legion, Ottawa headquarters.)

By Richard Hale
Ottawa, (Special) -- One of the things that pensioners of this war are going to have to learn is that pensions are unobtainable as far as the business world is concerned. No pension can be charged, assigned, attached, anticipated, commuted or given as security.

The reason for this is very obvious. The state pays a pension for disability and wants to make sure that the pensioner gets full value for the pension.

However, it will be a surprise to a great many veterans already discharged to know that this rule also applies to War Service Gratuity. A great number of men and women plan to use this money in the acquisition of a home, or some similar undertaking and, knowing that the money is there, have gone ahead with plans that involve the gratuity they know they will get.

Builders, contractors and other business men are sometimes ignorant of the "no assignment" rule and complete a deal. The disillusionment doesn't come until the agreement is taken to the bank or loan company, whose officials are well aware of all the provisions.

This, of course, will mean a certain amount of hardship and may sometime involve the loss of money to the veterans concerned. The Rehabilitation Credit, too, comes under this ruling although the situation is a little different inasmuch as it must be used for certain specific purposes.

However, it still can't be given as security because the Department of Veterans' Affairs will have to give a ruling on the validity of the purpose for which it is to be used. Application forms for the credit will be available shortly and are expected to furnish more details than are at present available.

AT THE Movies

The author, "Elizabeth", a brilliant satirist and gallant lady, knew whereof she wrote. And this same feeling for authenticity and carefully shaded characterization is in exciting evidence in the Warner Bros. film version of "Mr. Skeffington", which shows at O'Connor Theatre, Sunday and Monday, November 12 and 13 with the celebrated Bette Davis in the starring role of Fanny Skeffington. The characters of the printed page come vigorously to life on the screen, capably and revealingly animated by a sterling cast.

"Mr. Skeffington" is properly the story of Mrs. Skeffington. Fanny Skeffington's ego is nurtured by the lavish attentions heaped upon her by a host of suitors who dog her tracks and literally camp on her doorstep, and with puppy-dog reverence revel in any crumb of affection she may throw them.

The Week at Ottawa

By D'Arcy O'Donnell Canadian Press Staff Writer Ottawa, (CP)—Controversy over the issue of reinforcements for overseas came to a head at the capital when Prime Minister Mackenzie King's veteran defence minister, Hon. J. L. Ralston, quit the federal cabinet and was replaced immediately by Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton.

Col. Ralston resigned Nov. 1 and the following day Gen. McNaughton was sworn in as defence minister. The fast-moving events proved to be the most serious faced by Mr. King since the start of the war and in the resignation of Col. Ralston he lost one of his oldest lieutenants and one of the most important figures in the Liberal party.

Gen. McNaughton, following his appointment, said that he had undertaken the task in order to serve Canada and for no other purpose and to "assure that the army overseas receives support in the fullest measure needed."

The late Mr. James Saunders Sleeth. Word was received on Saturday, by Mrs. E. A. St. Amand, of Bouchette Street, Huntingdon, to the effect that her father, Mr. James Saunders Sleeth, had died in the Jeffrey Hale Hospital, at Quebec City, on Friday, November 3rd.

Insect Enemy No. 1. The wheat-stem sawfly—cause of more than $18,000,000 damage to the 1943 wheat crop—has been called No. 1 insect enemy of the western grain-producer.

Strip farming operations, designed to check soil-drifting have encouraged the sawfly in recent years. Under this type of farming, all the adult sawflies emerging from the stubble have only a short distance to travel to reach new crop in which to lay eggs and the entire cropped strips become infested.

Losses in 1943 due to cutworms and wireworms in Saskatchewan were estimated at $13,580,000. Officials said that all losses caused by sawflies, cutworms and wireworms were overshadowed by the destru-

While the elevators paid income taxes, the three pool elevator companies in Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba, operating 40 per cent of the country elevators, had not paid income taxes in the last 14 years, said the brief.

The brief said the estimated tax liability of the three pool elevator companies now exceeded $15,000,000. They had claimed exemption from income taxes under a section of the income tax act which exempts certain types of producer-owned co-operatives from payment of such taxes.

Big Programme For Poultrymen

Getting bigger returns from the flock will be the theme of the Quebec Poultry Industry Educational Exhibition at the Mount Royal Hotel in Montreal, November 22-24.

Several internationally known authorities will be there to deal with the problems that bother poultrymen. Feeding, housing, brooding, fattening and every other phase of the industry will be covered.

cluding practical farm poultrymen, and hatcherymen, will be on hand to pass on what they have learned through years of experience.

For example, Prof. L. H. Hempel of MacDonald College will discuss poultry house construction. After his talk there will be a discussion period when farmers can ask the speaker why their poultry houses are so damp, or how much window space they should have, or any other housing question they may have run up against.

note the interests of all branches of the industry. There will be no charge for admission. For a free copy of the program write to the Quebec Poultry Industry Committee, Mount Royal Hotel, Montreal.

Rev. Dr. A. A. Scott Addresses Congregation At Ormstown
The service in St. Paul's United Church, on Friday evening was opened by singing the hymn "Oh Master, Let Me Walk With Thee." Rev. C. L. Taylor read the Scripture lesson, followed by a Hymn and a few remarks from Mr. Reid, a layman from Montreal, who explained about the Missionary and Maintenance Fund. The choir rendered an Anthem and Rev. Morrison from the Montreal Presbytery, who represents the Frontier Ministerial District, chose his talk from these words, "We do not well, this is a day of good Tidings and we hold our peace".

Some extracts taken from the address of Rev. Dr. A. A. Scott, principal of the Indore Christian College, India: It is quite possible that the missionaries will have more difficulties in the future than they have had in the past. In India they have what is called Caste, this division is a rigid form from which there is no escape. The one who belongs to the Caste don't believe in eating any food except it is cooked by themselves. Those who wash the clothes in India are called Dobbies, they wash their clothes in the river by pounding them on the stones till they are sometimes reduced to ribbons and the buttons all gone. The people who are lower than the Caste, have no rights but plenty of duties. Rev. Dr. A. A. Scott has spent the past 32 years in India in the Indore Christian College and says that only 14% of the Indian people have an education, not because there is a lack of schools and teachers, but because they do not wish to be educated. In forty years India will be changed, it will take a long time but it can be done. Dr. J. Wilkie started the first College in India, after five years it became a first Class College. The voluntary army of India is two hundred and fifty million people. Idolatry is putting your own business first and not Gods, God is pure abstraction far away from everything, this is the belief of the Indians, they have built small enclosures and in this is an image made of stones, sometimes a cow or some kind of an animal, painted red and they never pass this but they clasp their hands and bow down and pray in their own way. You must sympathize with the Indians if you wish to win them over and teach them about Jesus. Mr. Ghandi is paid reverence everywhere in India and tries to influence the people to follow him. The British people are loved and honored by the Indian people but they do love self Government. Those who attended this service appreciated the informative address given by Rev. Dr. Scott about his work in India.
