WINNIPEG QUIET AFTER A DAY OF PUBLIC PARADES

POSSIBILITY OF TROUBLE FEARED BETWEEN OPPOS- ING SOLDIER FACTIONS

Winnipeg, June 4.—Winnipeg tonight was quiet after a day of parades and demonstrations that on several occasions threatened to end the tranquillity that has marked the general strike of union workers in force for twenty days. Fifty additional policemen were sworn in during the day by municipal officials.

Soldiers veterans of the European War who did not sanction the general strike, marched two thousand strong to the provincial House of Parliament, where speakers told Premier T. C. Norris that they stood for law and order and for recognition of the constitutional government. The anti-strike marchers then paraded to the City Hall where Mayor Charles F. Gray announced the Central Strike Committee had taken steps to curtail the milk and bread supplies.

"They will rescind these orders, or we will tear the trades and labor temple to pieces," shouted a marcher. A roar of approval followed.

Another parade of strikers, strike sympathizers and a few returned soldiers also paraded the streets but the two factions did not meet. Leaders of both the pro and anti-strike marchers announced that they would repeat the demonstrations tomorrow. The city council arranged to open milk and bread depots throughout the city after bakers and dairymen declared they would attempt to operate their plants despite the strike orders.

Railway brotherhoods executives, attempting to mediate the differences between the metal trades workers and the industrial employers, said they had no announcement to make. Strike of the metal trades several weeks ago was followed by the sympathetic walkout.

Soldier Factions

Possibility of trouble between returned soldiers factions over the question of approving the general strike became apparent today. After the majority factions, which has condemned recent boisterous parades, in which some returned soldiers participated, arranged for a parade today, leaders of the minority faction declared they also would march in a separate demonstration.

Executives of the Great War Veterans' Association declined to recognize the action of about 700 members who passed resolutions last night approving the sympathetic strike of Winnipeg unions. It was pointed out that there are about 10,000 members of the Winnipeg association and that an overwhelming majority of the members declined to attend the gathering.

A number of returned soldiers were seen on the streets this morning wearing Canadian flags on their coats. Strike sympathizers who figured in the recent parades objected to the wearing of the Dominion emblems and forcibly tore flags from the coats of several men.

After a brief halt at the parliament the strikers parade continued to Victoria Park for a mass meeting. The two parades did not meet. Leaders of both said similar demonstrations would be held tomorrow. Hundreds of men in workmen's clothes were in the parade which first visited the Parliament. With British and Dominion banners snapping and the marchers whistling a military tune,

ADMIRALTY IS CONCENTRATING UPON DIRIGIBLE

COMMANDER HORTE'S FLIGHT IN HANDLEY-PAGE REGARD- ED AS CANCELLED

St. Johns, Nfld., June 4.—Announcement tonight by Major Partridge, R.A.F., special agent for the British Admiralty in connection with the proposed trans-Atlantic seaplane flight of Commander John Cyril Horte that he had been summoned home, was construed by the British Aviators here as an indication that the Admiralty had cancelled Commander's Horte's flight and was concentrating all its efforts on the proposed flight of the dirigible C-34 from England.

Advices received here indicate that the C-34 will start later than June 20. It is understood that the big ship will fly first from England to Labrador, then south over Newfoundland, Nova Scotia, New England to New York. After stopping at New York for inspection, it is understood the C-34 will proceed to Florida, where atmospheric conditions will permit of her being moored in the open until future direction and scope of the cruise has been determined.

Major Partridge also was serving as official starter here for the Royal Aero Club of the trans-Atlantic flights by the crews of the Handley-Page, Vickers-Vimy and Martinsyde planes, now being assembled here. His departure however, will not affect the plans of these crews, all of them are rushing preparations in the hope of "hopping off" before the C-34 leaves England.

SENATE ADOPTS WOMEN SUFFRAGE

Washington, June 4.—The Women Suffrage resolution was adopted by the Senate late today and the proposed constitutional amendment now goes to the Senate for ratification.

The vote was 54 for adoption and 25 against, or two more than two thirds majority required.

GENERAL SEMENOFF CALLS CONGRESS

London, June 4.—General Semenov, leader of the Cossacks in Eastern Siberia, has called a congress which declared the autonomy of Mongolia, according to a Russian wireless despatch from Moscow. The Congress, the Bolshevik message adds, elected Semenov "Grand Duke of Mongolia."

this parade move through the downtown section without the slightest opposition. One banner said: "To Hell with the Alien enemy, God Save the King."

Despite the tenseness of the general situation reports were received from several places that small groups of employees who had been on strike were returning to work.

A number of operators at the commercial offices reported for duty. Commercial business was being accepted by the telegraph companies and some press despatches were handled. From the beginning of the strike up to last night the only press wire in continuous operation was that which carried the report of the Winnipeg situation to the Associated Press.

Railway officials announced that a considerable number of machinists and carmen had returned to work "despite intimidation by pickets and strike agitators."

GOVERNMENT WILL NOT REINSTATE POSTAL WORKERS

THIS IS MADE CLEAR IN TWO TELEGRAMS BY SIR ROBERT BORDEN.

Ottawa, June 4.—That the Government is determined not to reinstate Post Office employees who went out on sympathetic strike in the West and declined to return to duty when requested to do so, is made clear in two telegrams sent by Sir Robert Borden, one to R. Sincks, Secretary of the Central Strike Committee, Calgary, and the other to V. Hollingsworth, Secretary of the Alberta Methodist Conference. The Prime Minister's telegrams were in reply to messages received by him. The message from Mr. Sincks to the Prime Minister conveys a long resolution passed by the Brotherhood of Dominion Express Employees condemning the announcement by Postmaster-General Blondin, that postal employees on strike would be considered dismissed.

The telegram concluded: "The Central Strike Committee notes in passing that the Dominion Government after having been appealed to settle present crisis in manner satisfactory to labor has answered the appeal by taking up an antagonistic attitude. The people's government is once more asked to stand behind the people, not against them."

The telegram from the Alberta Methodist Conference covered a resolution passed by that body expressing the view that the action of the Government "cannot but perpetuate rather than alleviate the social unrest and to be subversive of the principles enunciated by the Commission on labor legislation accepted by the peace conference in the preparation of which, Sir Robert Borden is said to have had a leading part." The telegram called upon the Government to repeal its action and expressed the opinion that employees of governments, Municipal, Provincial and Dominion must be guaranteed the right of effective protest against wrong conditions.

Sir Robert Borden's reply to the Secretary of the Central Strike Committee was as follows:

"It is desirable that your attention should be called to facts which your committee has not taken into consideration. The Government has always been prompt to give its best consideration to the demands of all public servants. In doing so it has no purpose to serve other than the public interests. It can only act under the mandate of the people's representatives in Parliament and always as trustee and guardian of the public interests. The postal employees were bound by obligation and by oath faithfully to serve the people of Canada. They went out on strike in Winnipeg not in respect of any grievance of their own but in alleged sympathy with employees of private companies. They were given three days within which to return to their duty and they were distinctly informed that they must make a choice between directions received by them from the Strike Committee and the duty which they owe to the people of Canada. Some of them returned. Those who persevered in the strike took their course deliberately and with notice of the consequences which would inevitably follow. In other Western cities before any strike took place a most distinct and positive intimation was given to postal employees that abandonment of their public duty, obedience to the directions of another authority and participation in a sympathetic strike would mean their permanent retirement from the public service. The people of Canada cannot tolerate the proposal that under such circumstances civil servants shall be permitted to violate their engagements, to dislocate the public service, to occasion intense public inconvenience and suffering and to put aside all respect for public duty. The Government cannot reinstate men who have deserted their posts under such circumstances, unless it is prepared to abandon all effective attempts to maintain the national service."

"(Signed) R. L. BORDEN."

In his reply to the Alberta Methodist Conference, the Prime Minister after remarking that the conference was imperfectly acquainted with the facts sketched the circumstances of the strike and concluded: "The people of Canada cannot tolerate the proposal that under such circumstances, civil servants shall be permitted to violate their engagements, to dislocate the public service, to occasion intense public inconvenience and suffering and to put aside all respect for public duty. The Government cannot reinstate men who have deserted their posts under such circumstances, unless it is prepared to abandon all effective attempts to maintain the national service."

CUSTOMS RECEIPTS DOWN.

CANADIAN PACIFIC "FLYING EXPRESS" IS PAST CALGARY

PASSENGERS THOROUGHLY DELIGHTED WITH RECORD TRANSCONTINENTAL RUN.

(Special to The Chronicle.)

Calgary, Alta., June 4.—The new C. P. R. transcontinental service which will for the future be known as the Trans-Canada Limited, if the first westbound train that arrived at Calgary on Wednesday morning is any criterion is destined to be intensely popular. The train reached Calgary on the dot of time and the passengers expressed much satisfaction at the excellent speed that had been maintained throughout the run, which averaged 45 miles an hour. The train arrived here at 9:30 a.m., leaving for the west fifteen minutes later. "Absolutely the best service on the North American Continent," was the way one enthusiastic Montreal merchant put it to a representative of the Calgary Herald, who was present at the depot when the big locomotive and its eight cars arrived. "You can assure the public that the enterprising policy of the C. P. R. in saving business men a whole day in the run from coast to coast will be thoroughly appreciated."

Other passengers state that notwithstanding the high speed there was actually less vibration noticeable than with ordinary trains.

Twenty Calgary passengers boarded the new "Flying Dutchman" for the coast.

At Moose Jaw.

(Special to The Chronicle.)
Moose Jaw, Sask., June 3.—Sharply on time the new Canadian Pacific Railway transcontinental train, the Trans-Canada, arrived here tonight at 8:25, enroute to Vancouver. There were one hundred and thirty-five passengers aboard and on arrival a number of others entrained here. George Ham and F. W. Fox, C.P.R. officials were on board, the former going through to the coast, whilst the latter will leave at Calgary en route for England.

A considerable number of citizens greeted the arrival of the new train in which much interest was evidenced. These new trains which will run daily and will clip off 24 hours on trip from Montreal to Vancouver, are made up of nine coaches. The new service has cost the company nearly six million dollars and added to this are the wages of the train crew, which number twelve, and a large number of men who are also required to handle the trains on their three thousand mile run. There are 69 sleepers, valued at $2,475,000; fifteen fully equipped dining cars valued at $750,000; 12 observation cars valued at $180,000; and in addition there are five compartment cars, 12 baggage cars, and 24 locomotives.

Both Mr. Ham and Mr. Fox reported that the trip had been highly successful and every stop had been made on time. Quite a large number of Americans are making the trip and reported that the journey had been most enjoyable. As there is considerable traffic from this point to the coast, it is expected that the new service will prove very popular and be largely used.

MUNICIPAL RIGHTS TO CONTROL THEIR OWN CITY STREETS

COMMONS DEBATED CON- TENTIONS CLAUSES OF CON- SOLIDATED RAILWAY ACT.

Ottawa, Ont., June 4.—Until the early morning hours the Commons debated the contentious clauses of the consolidated railway act relating to the rights of municipalities to control their streets.

The special committee of the House, it will be recalled defeated the efforts made on behalf of Toronto and other municipalities to have returned to the bill the clause struck out by the Senate relating to the rights of the Toronto and Niagara Power Company which deprived that corporation of privileges granted when it was given a special charter by the Dominion Parliament in 1902. The bill as passed by the Senate left the matter in the hands of the Dominion Railway Board, but this was not satisfactory to Toronto and other municipalities concerned. The fight being for complete control by municipalities of their streets.

The debate today hinged upon an amendment moved by Mr. Mowat of Parkdale, restricting the power of companies even if authorized by special act to invade municipalities for any purpose whatever, without their consent. The opponents of the amendment maintained that the Toronto and Niagara Power company should be dealt with by a special act and not by a general act which might affect the rights of other corporations.

Hon. F. B. Carvell, Minister of Public Works, was one of the strongest objectors to the amendment declaring that its adoption would amount to "confiscation of property." Mr. Mowat's amendment was carried by 56 votes to 52. All the cabinet ministers present voted against the amendment, namely Hon. N. W. Rowell, Hon. Dr. Reid, Hon. A. L. Sifton, Hon. F. B. Carvell, General Mewburn and Hon. C. C. Ballantyne.

Mr. Mowat then moved another amendment to the effect that any other company purchasing the Toronto Electric Light Company would be in the same shoes. This carried in the same division.

A motion by Hon. Dr. Reid to bring the employees of the railway commission under the civil service commission was carried unanimously. The bill was then adopted.

It is practically certain that morning and Saturday sittings of the Commons will commence next week with the fixed determination of winding up the session before the end of June. In view of the fact that a fall session is almost certain to be held and that the franchise act will go over until then, it is believed to be possible to bring about prorogation in three weeks.

Ottawa, Ont., June 4.—The conduct of Allyn Taschereau, formerly registrar under the Military Service Act at Quebec was raised at question time in the House today. In reply to Mr. Morphy, Hon. Arthur Meighen, acting Minister of Justice, said that Mr. Taschereau's conduct was called in question in respect to his handling of public money.

Mr. Morphy—"Were instructions given for his prosecution?"

Mr. Meighen—"Yes."

Mr. Morphy—"Why has he not been prosecuted?"

"A warrant was applied for by representatives of the Department of Justice. An inquiry was held by the Magistrate at Quebec who refused to issue a warrant. All information was sent to the Attorney General of the province of Quebec, calling attention to the matter and asking him to take such steps as might be necessary in the interest of justice."

On the orders of the House, Dr. Michael Clark asked the Prime Minister, in the event of there being any truth in the newspaper rumors to the effect that the franchise bill would go over until next session, to take up with the cabinet the question of proportional representation during the recess.

Sir Robert Borden promised to consider the matter.

Hon. Chas. Murphy asked the government if it had any news from the strikers.

Sir Robert Borden replied that he had nothing to add to the statement made by Hon. Arthur Meighen on Monday.

Mr. D. D. MacKenzie asked whether newspaper reports that railway men were acting as mediators were correct.

The Premier said that he believed that members of the great railway unions had offered to act as mediators. He did not know whether they were actually doing so.

QUEBEC, JUNE 5, 1919.

LET REASON RULE.

The Protestant High School controversy is now of such long-standing, it has engendered so much heat, that the danger exists of a public meeting on Tuesday next that will fail to shake the pre-conceptions of anyone who attends. So much has been written and said on the question from every angle that little new light can now be cast and the main efforts of those who lead public opinion should be to clear away the mists of prejudice in order that reason alone may rule.

From the very nature of the case it is inevitable that the tendency should be to base decision upon feeling rather than on facts; the difference is between two school boards, each of which has its own supporters, right or wrong; the rate-payer is principally impressed with the onerous taxation, while the plea of cheaper and better education is calculated to enlist the sympathies of the parent. We therefore think it well to set down certain considerations for the reader's study during the next few days and, in doing so, we hope to avoid anything that appeals to prejudice or passion.

In the first place, it must be clearly understood that there is no criticism of the standard of education provided by the Board of School Commissioners; the sole issue is that the programme to which it has committed itself involves an avoidable expenditure greater than the present situation warrants and involving serious consequences for the future.

On their side, the Commissioners maintain that the policy they have adopted is the only one left to them to pursue, that the taxation is not only reasonable but essential to attaining a modern standard of efficiency.

Now it is an undeniable fact that the Protestant population has been stationary, if not decreasing, for many years; who does not know of at least two or three families that have migrated quite recently? but how many families are known of coming in to replace them? Nor is there any evidence at present to justify belief in a marked increase for the future. If this is true there can be only one safe policy to pursue: that of conservation rather than expansion or, in other words, existing facilities should be made use of as far as possible in preference to scrapping them for new ones necessitating increased expense.

There are already two high-school buildings, one for boys and one for girls, both of which with slight alterations will amply meet every need that can be reasonably foreseen but, if one of these is to be done away with, the remaining one can only temporarily be made to accommodate the entire high school population of the city and new premises of some kind or other will have to be provided. The proposals of Dr. Paré would have ensured the retention of both but were rejected by the Commissioners for various reasons, one of them being the continuation of two independent governing bodies. As a consequence they adopted an alternative plan which means the elimination of the Boys' High School and the creation of a new High School for Girls and Boys.

Apart from the somewhat theoretical issue of co-education, the parents are entirely unaffected by the merits of the two plans, since each of them offers the same education at the same cost to themselves. It is with the rate-payers alone that the Commissioners have to deal unless it can be shown that the standard of the Boys' High is inadequate to modern needs and that their own schools offer the only efficient training.

Although difficulty may be experienced in persuading the rate-payer that the plan adopted is not considerably more expensive than that rejected, this is likely to trouble the parent very little; all that he wants is the cheapest education without inquiring who has to pay for it. Of course the landlord passes on as much of his increased taxation as possible to the tenant but the latter only connects inflated rentals with the former's rapacity whereas nominal tuition fees are credited to the ability of the School Commissioners.

But here in Quebec there is a much more important aspect of the situation that the parent cannot wisely ignore. If the Protestant population tends to decline it is still more true that the Protestant rate-payers are gradually dwindling away. At the present time almost all property held by Protestants is either in the hands of estates or of men who are past middle age and, as these die out, the properties fall to those who are not Protestants. It is not so long ago that practically the whole of St. Louis Street—to name only one of a number—was owned by Protestants, but today the situation has been reversed. Hitherto the process of diminution has been a natural one but, with a total taxation of $2.73—of which 80 cents is for school purposes—there is little inducement for the Protestant to become a property-holder and the time may not be so far distant as imagined when Protestant rate-payers will cease to exist.

If there is cheap education or free education it has to be provided by the rate-payer. This year not more than five hundred of this class have been asked to furnish $50,000 and this figure is not likely to decrease. As the property-holders disappear, therefore, the rate will have to be increased to $1 and upwards to yield the same revenue, until eventually the parents have to shoulder the entire burden themselves. Today they are finding some $3,000 but, if they have to find $60,000, the tuition fees will be, not $1 a month, but $20; otherwise the standard of education must be allowed to deteriorate.

Because of all these things, we earnestly caution the parents against killing the bird that lays the golden eggs; some may believe that the taxes will make no difference to the action of the property-holders but we know whereof we speak and give our assurance that the danger is a stern reality. For the present they may be able to enjoy excellent educational facilities at other people's expense but later on they will have to reap the harvest that they have sown and the matter is not one to be decided lightly.

DR. SPENCER RE-APPEARS.

Le Soleil yesterday devoted nearly three columns to a very proper and natural protest against an incendiary address recently delivered by the Reverend Dr. Spencer in Sudbury, Ontario, during which he insisted upon the necessity of amending the British North America Act to settle the bilingual question in the Province of Quebec, by teaching only the English language in the schools, and further asserted that "Quebec is fifty years behind the other Provinces."

"If peace and harmony are to flourish in Canada," our confrere inquires, "is it not time for the English press to intervene in protest against this propaganda?" but, if Le Soleil followed some of the Chronicle's editorial utterances as minutely as it does others, he would know that we had already broken a lance with Dr. Spencer on this same subject and were only crushed by the reverend gentleman's reminder that he had been a student of constitutional law before the editor was born.

Every praise must be given to Dr. Spencer for the work that he accomplished for the Baptist Church in Quebec but it is lamentable that, as a man, he should have worked only discord and mischief in the city and among the community where he has been a brief sojourner. In the present instance it is impossible to calculate the degree or extent of the harm that he has done. The people of Ontario will naturally consider him to speak with authority because he lived for some two years in this Province, while French-Canadians will believe that he voices local Anglo-Canadian sentiment for the same reason whereas, in point of fact, both inferences are equally false.

The re-appearance of Dr. Spencer is on a par with his disappearance, for it will not be forgotten how, almost in the hour of leaving the city, he launched a bitter and gratuitous attack in the press against the Board of Directors of the High School of Quebec. These gentlemen replied to his charges and there was not another word from the man who had timed his blow so conveniently; therefore we have little hope that he will show greater courage now.

Dr. Spencer first entered the lists as the advocate of a system of National Schools and we took the liberty of reminding him that the British North America Act stood in the way. There the matter rested until, from the safe distance of Ontario, he demanded the amendment of the B. N. A. in accordance with his desires. It is easy for him to do this because it will not be he but the men whom he inflames that will have to enforce the amendment should English Canada lower itself to dishonor scraps of paper. Dr. Spencer boasts himself an authority on constitutional law and must therefore know that the Act in question embodies a contract between the several Provinces of the Dominion. Amendment to it is therefore possible only by mutual consent or by superior force and even he must recognize that Quebec will never willingly consent to his proposals. What he asks in effect is then that English-Canada should take advantage of its numbers and supposed influence with the Mother Country to forcibly violate the Canadian constitution.

Let us suppose that the Doctor entered into a contract with eight other gentlemen to form a Club in which each should have certain stated rights and privileges. After ten years or so, these other gentlemen discovered that his rights and privileges inconvenienced them whereupon they called a meeting and by a vote of eight to one altered the contract so that his rights and privileges were removed. What would Dr. Spencer do? We think that he would appeal to the protection of the law and, if there were no law courts available to Quebec, she would be fully justified in protecting herself against such an outrage.

Canada is a big country and each Province has room in plenty for individual development. Dr. Spencer has only to pick and choose from the others if Quebec is so retrograde; but if he will either stick to his pulpit or confine his reforms to his own people, there will be less racial enmity engendered and the Dominion will progress with greater rapidity.

PRESS COMMENT

(Kingston Whig)

The Soldier Land Settlement Bill, as introduced into the House of Commons by Hon. Arthur Meighen, is one of the most drastic land measures ever brought up in Canada. In addition to providing for loans to the soldiers of sums up to $4,500 for the purchase of land and $1,000 for permanent improvements, and for loans for the purchase of stock up to $2,000, the bill makes some startling provisions for the acquiring of the land necessary for the settling of the soldiers on suitable ground near to the railroads. It makes provision for the expropriation of land where the owners refuse to sell, or where no agreement can be reached. Two arbiters are to be appointed to decide a fair price for any land which the Board decides to expropriate, if the owner refuses to sell at a fair price. If he refuses to sell at all, the arbiters pro-

"I Am So Weak and do Not Seem to Gain Any Strength"

"It takes time you know." "Yes, but I am getting tired of having people trying to encourage me that way." "You are too impatient." "Perhaps so, but when will I ever get strong if I do not gain a little every day?" "Have you tried Dr. Chase's Nerve Food?" "No, I have not, but so many have told me about it that I have a notion to give it a trial." "I certainly would try it if I were you, for it certainly helped me wonderfully when I was so weak and nervous last spring. And, besides, I could tell you of a dozen women who have used it when they were like you are, and soon got strong and well." "Nurse was reading me a letter published in the paper from a Mrs. Conrad Smith of Milverton, Ont., and she also told me of other cases she has known about."

She says she never ran across anything which helps women so much to gain strength after child-birth. This is Mrs. Smith's letter: "Two years ago last spring I was run down, had nervous prostration, and was in a terribly nervous condition. I could not sleep or eat, could scarcely count the nights that I passed without sleep, and if I did eat, had sick headaches and vomiting spells. My limbs would swell so badly that it hurt me to walk. I would jump up in bed, awakened by bad dreams. In fact, I was so bad, I thought I could not live, and started to use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food without much hope. It was not long before I began to improve under this treatment, and I can truthfully say it has done me a world of good. It took some time to get the nervous system restored, but I kept right on using the Nerve Food regularly, and gradually gained in health and strength. I have a fine baby now. He weighed 22 pounds at birth, and, though my friends were anxious over the condition I was in, I got over the time, and now weigh 120 pounds. Before using the Nerve Food I was a mere skeleton." For your protection the portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M.D., the famous Receipt Book author, are on every box of the genuine Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. 50c a box, 6 for $2.75, all dealers, or Edman-son, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto.

vide for the sheriff to take possession within thirty days. This legislation is far better than the most sanguine of the returned soldier bodies hoped for. It provides an admirable means of compelling owners of idle land to either cultivate or sell to those who will. The great fear of the returned soldier settler was that he would be forced to pay an exorbitant price for the land he wished to take up. Under the bill, he will not have to pay a cent more than the land is worth, and he will be well safeguarded in all his dealings. This is one of the most satisfactory bills for the repatriation of the returned soldier that has yet been devised.

GREAT ENTHUSIASM AS EMPRESS DOCKS

CHEERING OF TROOPS COULD BE HEARD IN UPPER TOWN—2851 RETURN.

The C. P. O. S. Empress of Britain with a total of 2,851 troops on board, reached this port at 10:20 o'clock last evening and docked at the Breakwater.

A large gathering of citizens was on hand as the big liner swung into her moorings quarters, and the enthusiasm of the troops reached a high pitch as they lined the rail of every deck and leaned out of port holes to give vent to their joyous feelings at reaching Canadian soil again. Cheer after cheer rent the air and could be plainly heard on Dufferin Terrace and other parts of the Upper Town. Citizens lined the dock and joined in the enthusiasm, throwing cigarettes, chocolates and other dainties to the men.

The troops were kept on board last night and will only be landed this morning. The gangway was put up and a number of stretcher cases were taken off. Officials were permitted to go on board, and a number of civilians also enjoyed the privilege, but the press was excluded. Capt. Elliott, superintendent of the C.P.O.S., standing by the gangway, waved aside a representative of The Chronicle, and brusquely informed him that he could not board the vessel until tomorrow morning.

The troops on board included 143 officers and 2,706 other ranks, and among them was the 44th Battalion, and details for St. John, N.B., and 1 officer and 6 other ranks.

Corsican Docks.

The C.P.O.S. Corsican also docked here last night at 9:15 o'clock, with cabin passengers, the Newfoundland contingent which sailed on her from England landed at St. John's, Nfld.

CHAIN OF STORES TO LOCATE HERE

"WALK UPSTAIRS AND SAVE TEN" IS ROBINSON'S SLOGAN

The original "Walk Upstairs and Save Ten" will shortly make its appearance in Quebec and the slogan which has become a byword in all the larger cities of Canada will soon adorn one of our largest and most prominent buildings on St. John St. The Robinson people it is understood have secured the entire first floor of the Auditorium Building and after its renovation will open a branch second to none in their "coast to coast" chain.

The Robinson business which extends from Vancouver to Halifax has been built on the policy of giving values $10 cheaper than downstairs clothing. This is possible through the extensive buying, and the low upstairs operating cost of the Robinson chain. The Robinson stores have lived up to their slogan of "Walk Upstairs and Save Ten". No more striking examples of this can be had than the verdict given them by a judge of the supreme court in Winnipeg when the down stairs clothes alleged Robinson had made false statements in his advertising. This verdict not only substantiated Robinson's claim, but went even further and gave a far larger margin than $10.00 of extra value to be had in a Robinson suit or overcoat. This verdict which is the pride of the Robinson institution has been the standard under which they have operated, and Robinson suits or overcoats will always be $10. less than down stairs prices.

Every opening of a Robinson store has been an exhibition well worth seeing—the largest variety of models and patterns ever brought together in one store will be shown in Quebec on opening day—the extreme fashion as well as the most conservative cut will be exhibited, and a full description of the manufacturing details exclusive to the Robinson garment.

PLOT SUSPECTED IN LEVIS EXPLOSION

ONE MAN KILLED AND ANOTHER GRIEVOUSLY INJURED—POLICE ON CASE

It is now suspected that the explosion which occurred at the Davie Shipbuilding Yards at Levis yesterday in which one man was killed and another was grievously injured was not an accident, but a plot to blow up the plant.

One of the steam pipes was found to be blocked and it was while the workmen were endeavoring to unblock the pipe that the explosion occurred. It is said that the pipe was blocked with cordite and other explosives which had obviously been placed there with the object of destroying the plant.

Robert Henley, a foreman, was instantly killed, while Xavier Levesque was gravely injured and was removed to the Hotel Dieu Hospital at Levis where his condition is considered critical.

The police are working on the case.

DUNLOP RUBBER CO. REDUCE TIRE PRICES

NEW PRICE LIST ON AUTOMOBILE TIRES FOLLOWS EASIER CONDITIONS IN MARKET FOR CRUDE RUBBER.

There was a popular belief that the rate of exchange between Canada and the United States would settle to more equal terms upon the conclusion of the war, but since it is still maintained at an abnormally high figure attention has been drawn to the volume of imports from the United States as being a considerable factor in maintaining the present adverse balance. Therefore, the "made in Canada" slogan has taken on a new feature of significance. With the rate of exchange at par, and Canadian money passing current, dollar for dollar, with American money, the "made in Canada" appeal was patriotic. Now, however, its consideration has become a matter of economics.

Dunlop all Canadian.

The manufacturers of automobile tires are now advertising their "made in Canada" claims more insistently than at any time during the past five years—the Dunlop Rubber Company, in particular, making the point that it is a Canadian organization through and through, both the wages of its employees and the dividends of its shareholders going to Canadians or British subjects. The Dunlop Company of Canada was originally organized from the ground up in Canada, and it has maintained its separate identity, although co-operating with the English Dunlop Company in the department of efficiency of operation and scientific research for the perfecting of processes of production.

A National Product.

The rubber industry has no home. Every nation has its own large organizations that manufacture rubber products for their national markets. Conditions are impossible for the manufacture of finished rubber products at, or near, the source of supply for the raw material. The various grades of gum rubber are native in tropical regions only, and Canada is, therefore, on equal footing, as regards raw materials, with every other country where the rubber industry has reached a high stage of development. A foreign-made tire does not contain any different materials from the home-made article, nor has any country a monopoly of skill in making tires; such is the argument advanced by every Canadian manufacturer of automobile tires.

Considering the Consumer.

The Dunlop Tire and Rubber Goods Company announced substantial reductions in its prices for automobile tires, effective June 2nd. The improvement in conditions for ocean traffic and the release of vessels for freight carrying, is mainly responsible for this readjustment. The reductions apply also to the Dunlop "cord" automobile tire, which after exhaustive experimentation was announced to the public several months ago.

The Dunlop new list on tires is an intimation from a large manufacturing concern that when the cost of production is lowered in any department a proportionate reduction will be extended to the consumer.

PLEASING ORGAN RECITAL

Mr. Joseph Bonnet Delights Large Audience at Basilica Last Night.

Mr. Joseph Bonnet, the eminent French organist delighted a very large and fashionable audience at the Basilica last night in his organ recital which was a rare treat.

Mr. Bonnet, who is organist of the Church of St. Enstache, Paris, and a pupil of the late Jules Guilmant, was especially pleasing in the rendition of Cesar Franck's "Pastorale", Widor's "Toccata", Clerambault's "Prelude" and Binnet's "Angelus". Among the audience were Sir Charles and Lady Fitzpatrick, Sir Lomer and Lady Gouin and many other prominent citizens.

MRS. EUGENE BROCHU HAS PASSED AWAY

A very sad death occurred last night when Mrs. Eugene Brochu, nee Mary Carmel (May) Cotter, passed away at the premature age of thirty-eight years. The deceased underwent an operation about three months ago and never rallied sinking slowly until she entered into rest peacefully last night surrounded by the members of her family. General regret will be felt at the death of Mrs. Brochu who enjoyed the esteem and affection of a large circle of friends, and her passing away is all the more pathetic in view of the fact that she leaves five young children. Mrs. Brochu was a member of St. Patrick's congregation, and being an accomplished musician and the possessor of a rich soprano voice she was for years one of the leading soloists of the choir and also contributed to the success of many parish concerts. Besides her husband and five children, she is survived by her mother, Mrs. P. M. Cotter; three sisters, Mrs. J. P. Coveney, and Miss Lauretta Cotter, of this city, and Mrs. Darts Baker, of Philadelphia; one brother, Mr. D. P. Cotter, of Montreal, and an aunt, Miss Carey, of this city. The sincere sympathy of a large circle of friends will be extended to the family in their hour of sorrow.

DIED.

BROCHU—On Wednesday, the 4th instant, at her mother's residence, Aberdeen st., Mary Carmel (May) Cotter, dearly beloved daughter of the late P. M. Cotter, and wife of Eugene Brochu, in her 38th year. Notice of interment later.

London, Jan. 4—Grand Parade won the Derby at Epsom Downs today. Buchan was second and Paper Money third. Thirteen horses ran.

tion Commission, and ask them for the balance of the Sundays in the month of October. The League season finishes on Oct. 5th, so that there will be three extra Sundays in which to play postponed matches or to play off for the championship, in the event of two or more teams being tied.

It was decided that the first game on Sundays will go the full nine innings, as it pleases the public more, especially when there is only a difference of a run or two between the teams.

The next meeting of the League will be held some time during the week following June 15th, when the different teams will have to cut down player limit.

Protest Decided. The Arbitration Board, composed of Messrs. J. Brunau, R. Lepine, and Jos. Bussieres set after the league meeting to hear the protest made by the C. B. team against S. Pats, and after discussing the matter, sustained the protest made by the C. B.'s. The Saints lose game, which is awarded to the C. B. team, while in addition, St. Pats. are fined the sum of $3.00.

The Board found that the umpires were not strict enough, as there was a delay of forty minutes between the time the game should have started, and the time that it actually commenced.

At a regular meeting of the Quebec City Baseball League held in the Victoria Hotel last night, a letter was read from the Exhibition Commission stating that they would take June 15th, for horse races, and would also take Sept. 7th for the Labor Day people in the event of it raining on Labor Day. The League accepted their request, but the Secretary is instructed to write the Exhibi-

JESS WILLARD HAS STARTED TRAINING

HEAVYWEIGHT CHAMPION LOOKS TO BE IN VERY PINK OF CONDITION.

Toledo, Ohio, June 4—Jess Willard increased his boxing to four rounds today, knocked out a sparring partner and after the incident attempted to explain to newspaper experts that the victim slipped, striking his head on the floor of the ring.

Walter Monahan, who is in Willard's camp on a furlough from the army, boxed with the champion for the first time in several months, and hit the canvas in a dizzy condition after boxing two minutes. Monahan, although out of condition, set a furious pace for Willard and Jess shot out a left jab and missed. He followed it with a short straight right hand punch to the peak of his chin and Monahan tumbled into a heap.

Jack Hempel, who boxed the first two rounds with Willard, Ray O. Archer, business manager of the champion and others scambled into the ring, picked Monahan up, bathed his head in water and allowed him to take a long rest before going another easy round with the title holder. It was a lean knockout despite Willard's explanations.

Willard opened his work out by pulling his weights loose with some powerful tugs and then boxed four rounds and finished with some shadow boxing and wrestling. He left the canvas-enclosed arena with his skin glowing with perspiration. Admission was charged to watch the champion go through his paces today, and a capacity crowd was in attendance.

Jack Dempsey, the challenger, spent another idle day. He came into the city this morning for a rubdown at the hands of an expert and in the afternoon swam and romped around his camp.

Willard went out for his first run on the roads this morning, covering about three miles. He plans to increase his distance tomorrow.

Toledo, Ohio, June 3—Jess Willard began four weeks of intensive training today for his heavyweight championship contest with Jack Dempsey here on July 4, and the five hundred persons who watched him in his first public workout since leaving California, left his canvas enclosed ring in astonishment over the apparent excellent condition of the champion.

There was little if any, extra weight on his huge frame, his wind was good, and his skin glowed with health. He settled down to his training grind good naturedly, which indicates according to experts, that he had been constantly training for several weeks. When Willard appeared in the ring attired in light gymnasium suit, it was noted that the rolls of fat packed some months ago had been completely wiped out by hard exercise.

After tugging at the weights and doing some shadow boxing the giant boxed three rounds with Jack Lavin, a veteran lightweight from Cleveland. Willard snapped over a left hook in the second round that sent Lavin reeling through the ropes. After the workout, Lavin, who also had boxed

Sporting Notes

The many devotees of Soccer will be pleased to learn that Major Frank Warner returned yesterday to Quebec from Siberia, where he had been with the Expeditionary Force.

Frank, who is looking very fit, was surprised to learn that his favorite game was not being carried on this year, and states that he will be taking up his residence here next week, when he will at once set to work and endeavor to revive interest in football. It is well known that when Frank makes up his mind to do anything it will be done, and those followers of the game who are anxious to see it continued in the Ancient Capital, will be glad to know that the energetic and genial Frank has decided to keep the old flag flying.

St. Pats. had a fine workout on the Esplanade last night, a large number of players being present.

It is possible that a score board with Dempsey, said he was stung by the punch, although Willard "pulled" most of them.

Willard boxed with surprising skill and speed, blocking punches to his mid-section with his elbow and fore arms and slipping his head away from dangerous blows to his chin.

Segreant Walter Monahan, who trained Willard for his championship match with Jack Johnson at Havana, arrived in camp tonight, and with Jack Hempel, the coast heavyweight, will work with the champion tomorrow.

may be erected at the Exhibition Grounds in the near future. It is needed badly enough.

The Standards are practicing on the Exhibition Grounds tomorrow evening. The team held a fine workout last night at the Victoria Park. About fifteen players were present.

Reports from Toledo say that Jess Willard looks to be in good condition, and has hardly angust on him at all.

For three years Alexander had the record of winning thirty or more games a season. Now he's tearing after a new record of losing that many. Add one more strictly to "cest la guerre."

Speaking of trench warfare, Connie Mack dug himself in around 1916 and no one has been able to dislodge him yet. It begins to look as if nothing but a blasting will ever dislocate the Athletic Stelling.

Frontenac

The delicious, sparkling, satisfying, creamy beer could not have been produced without the incomparable equipment of the FRONTENAC BREWERY.

FRONTENAC BEER, the identical type of the most popular European and American beers, requires the very same organization, for its production, that is found in America's greatest breweries.

A few days ago we explained and illustrated the methods of fermentation used in the production of FRONTENAC BEER—today we are showing how this famous beer is stored and aged.

The illustration shows the large cement cellars where FRONTENAC BEER is stored in a series of steel glass lined tanks, each having a capacity of 8,900 gallons.

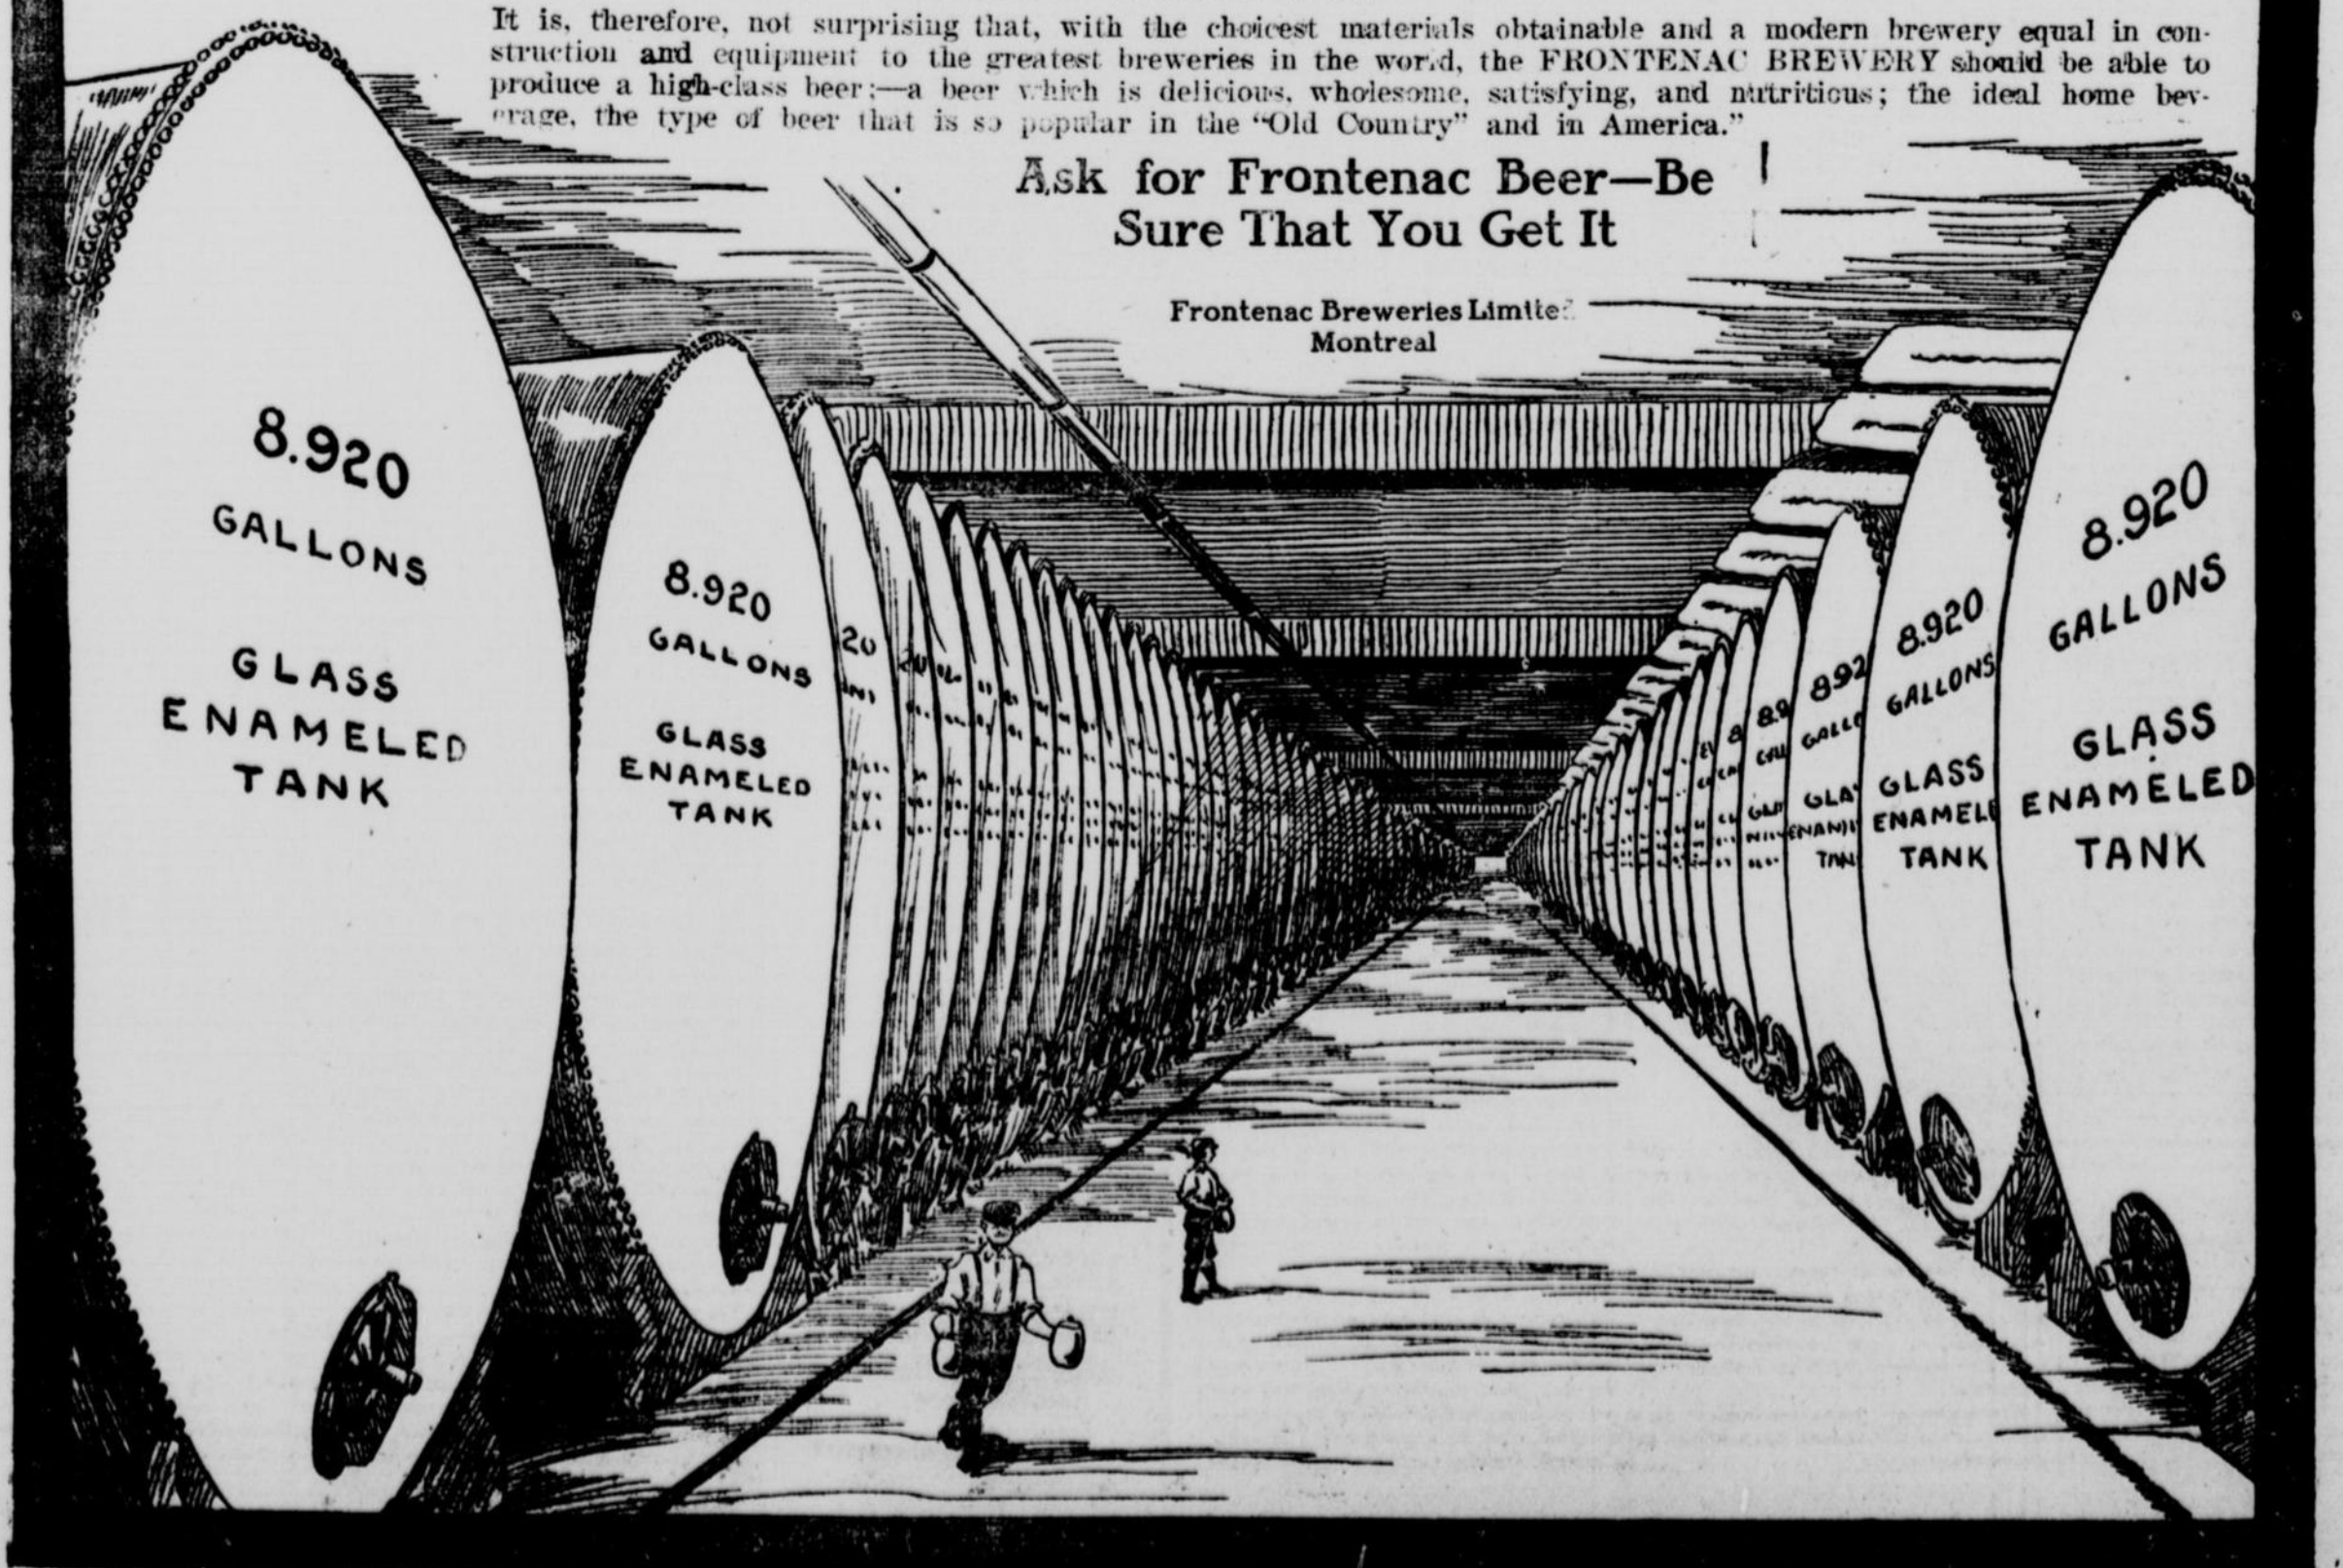

Here, in these bright, clean, reservoirs, the only ones of their kind in Canada, FRONTENAC BEER acquires, with age, its clearness, its delightful aroma, and its winey and unvarying taste so prized by lovers of good beer.

Compare it with the beer matured in the old-fashioned way; in wooden tanks which are often exposed to the action of germs and which impart to the beer that resinous and mouldy taste so common in inferior beers.

It is, therefore, not surprising that, with the choicest materials obtainable and a modern brewery equal in construction and equipment to the greatest breweries in the world, the FRONTENAC BREWERY should be able to produce a high-class beer;—a beer which is delicious, wholesome, satisfying, and nutritious; the ideal home beverage, the type of beer that is so popular in the "Old Country" and in America.

PLACING SERVICE MEN IN POSITIONS

Bureau in Boston Said to Be Actually Accomplishing Task That is Every where felt to Be of Great Importance.

Boston, Massachusetts.—"We are actually placing service men in jobs," declared W. Stanwood Field, manager of the Employment Bureau for Returning Soldiers and Sailors located on Boston Common. In making this emphatic statement Mr. Field expressed himself not as making answer to criticism or doubt, but as heralding the actual daily accomplishment of a task that is everywhere felt to be of vast importance in the world-wide rearmament. And Mr. Field with equal stress pointed out that the one big reason for the success of the work was in its being a centralized agency—that all organizations specially interested have combined into one central bureau for the bringing together of the returning service men and the jobs.

The undertaking facing this central agency called for a very businesslike organization. It is a market place for the services of the but-yesterday soldiers and sailors, services that range through almost every possible degree and kind of ability and desire. In order that the transactions may take place smoothly and quickly both the services and the jobs must be carefully classified. The bureau's personnel must be competent, the equipment and accommodations need to be adequate. And Mr. Field showed how this had been effected.

Functions of Each Division

Two charts indicating the simple plan of organization which, according to the manager, the cooperating agencies found necessary were prepared. The functions of each division and each section were depicted. The registration division located in another building near by is but another name for a committee under city auspices, appointed by the Mayor, the Boston Committee for the Reception of Returning Soldiers, Sailors and Marines. Here leading business men meet and advise with the service man, rendering many forms of assistance, including entertainment, food, lodging and money.

The publicity division, acquainting the public, numerous special parties and employers with the work, keeping the jobs flowing; the general interviews branch, connecting the service man with his former job where possible, and the special interviews branch, where the man and the job are brought into actual contact are vital parts of the whole.

Those in charge of the special interviews sections have, in the majority of cases, had experience as employment managers. Some of the men in the organization coming recently from the committee on classification of personnel for the army.

The bureau is quartered in a temporary building on the Common. The various divisions occupy different rooms systematically arranged. The large room for the social interviews branch, is partitioned into convenient booths, one for each section. A separate booth is provided for the employer who wishes to meet the applicant.

Facilities to Promote Work

It has been the aim to have every facility that would in any way promote the work in hand within quick and easy reach. It is intended to keep delays, long waits, uncertainties and misconnections down to the minimum, so that the service man may find his application for and his obtaining of a job to be a process of real pleasure.

Since it is quite generally conceded that the reemployment of the returning forces is one of the most vital phases of reconstruction, no little attention is being paid by other quarters of the country to this Boston bureau which seems to have found a way of doing the thing necessary and with unique efficiency. Mr. Field had much to say regarding the cooperation of employers in this district. Boston employers, with only one or two exceptions, appear to be taking special pride in giving employment to all the men who were with them at the time of entering the army or navy, jobs at least as good as those which they formerly held, and more than that with the same wages or salary, often plus wartime advances. The employers are said to look upon this as not only the unquestioned right thing to do, but as at least a slight show of appreciation for what the boys did, and further, to be prepared for probable increase of business in the near future when jobs may have become scarce.

Many Organizations Participate

The Employment Bureau for Returning Soldiers and Sailors is organized, controlled and financed by representatives of all the local business and welfare organizations that are devoted to finding employment for service men, like the Boston Chamber of Commerce and the Young Men's Christian Association, and including United States Employment Service and the city of Boston. Instead of each one of the some 14

BRITAIN'S NATIONAL UNITY MOVEMENT

ORGANIZE ALL CLASSES IN COMBATING ANY FORCES THREATENING SOCIAL LIFE OF STATE.

London, Eng.—By permission of Lady Llangatock, a meeting was recently held in her house, South Lodge, Knightsbridge, with Lord Sydenham in the chair, in aid of "The National Unity Movement," which has recently been formed with temporary officers at 28, Piccadilly. The object of the league, as set forth in its prospectus, is to organize the membership of all classes, so that a permanent link may be formed between employer and employed, enabling them to co-operate in securing social and national stability. It is desired to form a membership roll, non-political and non-sectarian, of those who will "pledge themselves to combat any movement that threatens the social life of the State; to do everything in their power to clear the unions or societies of false teaching, and to endeavor to instill a spirit of justice and loyalty toward the industries they represent."

Countering Syndicalism.

The founders of the league believe that the success in propaganda which has been achieved by revolutionary Socialist and Syndicalist movements in the country in due to their efficient organizations and the large sums at their disposal, and it is their object to set up a counter movement to undo the harm which is being done. The work of this counter movement will be carried on by a company of speakers who shall address indoor and outdoor meetings; by postal propaganda; by the distribution of leaflets, and by co-operation with existing societies on these lines.

Lord Sydenham, in opening the meeting, observed that the subject they had come together to discuss was a highly important and serious one. The war had broken up the normal, natural life of the people; trade, commerce, industry had become disorganized, and the only thing which could bring about permanent order and contentment was unity. There was, he declared, "a wild impatience" abroad; organized labor was making immense demands upon a government which had its hands full in all directions and more especially in the work of the Peace Conference. He was convinced that no reasonable demand would be refused, but reorganization must take time; the government could not pledge itself blindly, and there had developed of late in the industrial world a habit of threats which was wholly mischievous. He believed that the heart of labor was sound, but the people were not awake to the danger of revolution nor to the effect it would have upon the country.

There was, he stated, an organized revolutionary party at work, steadily disseminating the teaching of Robespierre and so-called Marxian doctrines among the children not less than among their parents, teaching them that the capitalists and the employer were their real enemies and that their only deliverance would be through class war. The revolutionaries had ample funds, and their doctrines were spread freely and widely. Their object was to bring a revolution about by the stoppage of food. A general strike would effect this in three days. He pointed to Russia, where the doctrines of socialism had been put into practice on a large scale. What had been the result? The answer was, the perishing of civilization. A determined effort was being made to exterminate those who could build up a new Russia, and to destroy every element of construction wherever it might appear. These people, whether they called themselves Bolsheviks in Russia or Spartacists in Germany, were attempting to wrench from Europe her civilization. With the people of Great Britain, then, lay the insistent duty to appeal to all that was best and noblest in the traditions of their race, so that disaster might be averted. Destroying Religion.

Mr. Brianchaninoff spoke next. He is a Russian who has been an eyewitness of the Bolshevik reign in Russia, being in Moscow during a period which could only be described as a reign of terror. In analyzing Russian bolshevism to discover whether it was a socialism peculiar to the country, the speaker stated that he had come to the conclusion that it had nothing original in it; it was the socialism of their disposal, and it is their object to set up a counter movement to undo the harm which is being done. The work of this counter movement will be carried on by a company of speakers who shall address indoor and outdoor meetings; by postal propaganda; by the distribution of leaflets, and by co-operation with existing societies on these lines.

Lord Sydenham, in opening the meeting, observed that the subject they had come together to discuss was a highly important and serious one. The war had broken up the normal, natural life of the people; trade, commerce, industry had become disorganized, and the only thing which could bring about permanent order and contentment was unity. There was, he declared, "a wild impatience" abroad; organized labor was making immense demands upon a government which had its hands full in all directions and more especially in the work of the Peace Conference. He was convinced that no reasonable demand would be refused, but reorganization must take time; the government could not pledge itself blindly, and there had developed of late in the industrial world a habit of threats which was wholly mischievous. He believed that the heart of labor was sound, but the people were not awake to the danger of revolution nor to the effect it would have upon the country.

There was, he stated, an organized revolutionary party at work, steadily disseminating the teaching of Robespierre and so-called Marxian doctrines among the children not less than among their parents, teaching them that the capitalists and the employer were their real enemies and that their only deliverance would be through class war. The revolutionaries had ample funds, and their doctrines were spread freely and widely. Their object was to bring a revolution about by the stoppage of food. A general strike would effect this in three days. He pointed to Russia, where the doctrines of socialism had been put into practice on a large scale. What had been the result? The answer was, the perishing of civilization. A determined effort was being made to exterminate those who could build up a new Russia, and to destroy every element of construction wherever it might appear. These people, whether they called themselves Bolsheviks in Russia or Spartacists in Germany, were attempting to wrench from Europe her civilization. With the people of Great Britain, then, lay the insistent duty to appeal to all that was best and noblest in the traditions of their race, so that disaster might be averted. the French Revolution and of Karl Marx which was actually summed up in class hatred. To him the primary result of bolshevism had been the destruction of religion. The center of the movement was anti-Christian. From this there had followed the ruin of the whole structure of civilization in Russia. Her churches were deserted, religion was forbidden to be taught. Holy Russia, with all that she stood for to the people, who during the first three years of war had been willing to sacrifice everything for her, had disappeared.

Mr. Herbert Garrison, F.R.G.S., belonging to the Empire Lectures Association, spoke with appreciation of the great work accomplished by Russia in the early years of the war. He had recognized in the industrial world before the outbreak of war that storms were gathering; they had abated during these years, but they were now gathering once more. He held that upon the teachings of

CLOSING LETTERS BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

(By Canadian Press) New York, June 4—The money market situation which was largely responsible for the day's liquidation on the stock exchange, readjusted itself today, the call rate for loans receding to the customary six per cent and prices generally took an upturn in a session less congested and excited. This development was regarded with surprise in some quarters, where the feeling had been that the decline was to be resumed.

Special adverse influences today affected certain stocks, such as Lehigh Valley and Gulf States steel, which declined respectively three and ten and a half points after the former company had reduced its dividend basis from 10 to seven percent, and the steel company has passed its quarterly disbursement. Gulf States steel later recovered about one third of its loss.

With money more abundant, speculative interests, purchased extensively, and motors, oils, rails, steels, sugars and most of the specialties benefited with advances ranging up to about six points. This upward tendency was halted momentarily after announcement of the unfavorable dividend actions and prices receded sharply in some instances but the advance was later resumed with considerable vigor. Reading was a striking figure in the final advance, gaining four points in connection with its favorable annual report. Wilson Packing also improved to a material extent and various other popular specialties again made rapid progress. The average rise in specialties was from two to five points.

Sales amounted to 1,600,000 shares. Liberty bonds were higher with the victory 3 3/4's rising to 100.10. Total sales (par value) aggregated $9,150,000. Old United States bonds were unchanged on call.

DAILY GOSSIP ON THE LEADING STOCKS

More liquidation is reported to be pending in Motor and Oil groups on account of further loan calling in the banking campaign to curb market excesses.

Lehigh Valley has declared a quarterly dividend of 1 3/4 per cent. on common; this has formerly been 2 1/2 per cent.

A New York despatch states that members of the Exchange seem to be very much mixed as to what the market should do in the next few days. It is felt that the tremendous buying wave for securities throughout the last three months, helped on by master manipulation, has finally resulted in the market going altogether too fast in such stocks as Motors and other specialties and that it has been carried to a point where it has got off its feet. There is much difference of opinion as to whether or not the market should decline further and there is a feeling that this would settle matters in stocks like Studebaker; others that have gone up 5 points or so in the last two or three weeks have declined some 12 to 14 points and a further decline should not hurt them.

Reading earned $5.71 on common in 1918 against $4.98 in 1917.

Call money in the United States is at 11 per cent. for the third time since the Federal Reserve system has been operating.

A shipment of six million dollars' worth of gold has been made from Canada to New York for British account, the first since 1917.

The average price of twenty Railroads yesterday was 89.41, off 1.37 per cent; that of twenty Industrials was 103.83, off 3.09 per cent.

The Liverpool Cotton Market opened irregular yesterday morning, 41 to 60 points higher; the 12:30 market was steady at 34 to 49 lower.

Porphyry Directors will meet next week and the continuation of current dividends depends on the Copper market and outlook; the report for the first quarter showed a big loss in operations.

The steel mills report an increasing demand and are operating at 65 to 75 per cent. of their capacity.

April returns indicate a smaller railroad deficit.

A rise in Central Leather has met with slow recognition; there is an apparent lack of appreciation of the scarcity of material everywhere with a persistent demand.

Josephthal & Co. continue to advise caution and contend that commitments should be made in the Steel, Copper, Rails, Food, Chemical and Electric issues.

Spencer Trask & Co. observe that, on the whole, the several factors now operating to create so much bullish enthusiasm all over the country, have a better basis than is usual in such cases. In saying this they do not wish to appear as believing that the market has reached its highest levels, but they do feel that the time has come when prudence cannot be cast to the winds.

S. M. Weld & Co. suggest buying cotton on sharp set-backs, while Carpenter & Co. say: "Remember that this is only a reaction, though a severe one." J. W. Jay & Co. consider that yesterday's decline has placed the cotton market in a better technical position but assert their belief that there is some more liquidation to come.

Chicago advices report that we shall see lower grain markets today but that there is no apparent cause, however, for a substantial decline.

"Such a reaction as came yesterday cannot but have a stabilizing effect, it clean up stop-orders and serves as a warning to those who believed that a perpendicular rise could continue indefinitely."—Wall Street Journal.

CLOSING LETTERS BY THE LOCAL BROKERS

(By Bruneau & Dupuis) New York, N. Y. June 4—The market after yesterday's jolt has been down today but became strong in the afternoon, despite the passing of the dividend of gulf states steel and the reduction of the Lehigh Valley payment. There has been no particular news except these two instances. The feeling prevalent here is that the market will not again be allowed to go into the high pyrotechnics indulged in the past week or so. We would be inclined to sell stocks on rallies for the time. Total Sales $1,607,000.

(By Breen & Gourdeau) New York, June 4—Although opening prices were at a somewhat improved price level from the previous day's close, the stock market displayed a rather nervous tone and clearly reflected the confused state of sentiment that existed in speculative circles. Prices continue to fluctuate nervously and with considerable irregularity well past mid-day when the market gradually assumed a more settled condition which lasted practically to the close of business. The easier tone in call money, the rate of which had dropped to six per cent, was materially helpful in effecting such improvement in sentiment as took place and this, in turn, had a favorable influence on prices. On the whole, the market was a specialty affair. However, a number of factors of doubtful outcome are expected to keep sentiment much confused, and until some improvement may be noted in this respect, we rather look for price changes to hold within trading limits. Sales: Stocks, 1,566,890; Bonds, $9,087,000.

New Invention.
A bridge has lately been erected over Onion River, about two and a half miles below the State house in Montpelier, on a new and simple model, of which Mr. Naphthali Bishop is patentee. The bridge is described as being composed of sixty nine strong pieces, thirty feet in length, and ten inches by eleven and a half in size; together with twelve thwart, or cross pieces, twenty-two feet long, seven inches by fourteen; forming one entire arch one hundred and eighty feet long and twenty broad; with not a single mortice, tenon, bolt or hand about it. The whole expense of which does not exceed two hundred dollars. It rests on the abutments, and requires no pier in the stream for support; it will consequently be in little or no danger from floods.

New Book.

Montreal—A work has appeared in London, published by Mr. Harding, St. James Street, entitled "Facts and Observations relating to Canada," showing the superiority of British North America Colonies over the United States, for commerce. This volume is from the pen of Mr. C. F. Green, farmer at Long Point, in this neighborhood, and from his extensive acquaintance with the rural economy in this country, we consider him well qualified to write on such subject.

Lawn Tennis Club.

At the meeting of the Lawn Tennis Club yesterday, R. R. Dobeck, Esq., was elected President and Lieut.-Col. Montzambert, R.C.A., Vice-President. A Progressive Tennis Party will be organized this year. It is proposed to have a Bowling Green and this movement should meet with success. There is no finer amusement, and the recreation which it will afford our hard-working business men, after the cares of the day are over, cannot be over-estimated. We wish the project all success.

Montmorency Falls.

Owing to the recent rains the amount of water now falling over Montmorency Falls is much larger than usual and forms a most magnificent spectacle.

Appointment.

Mr. Felix Carbray, M.P.P., has been named by the Lieut.-Governor-in-Council Roman Catholic School-Commissioner for the City of Quebec, to replace the late Hon. John Hearn.
