Cash receipts up from 1960 Steers up; lambs, hogs down in bidding at Winter Fair sale

Total cash receipts of $29,527 at the Thursday fat stock sale of the Sherbrooke Winter Fair were $79 more than the comparative figures for 1960, Fair officials announced last night.

The general trend in the bidding by about 25 buyers for both large and small companies attending the sale was higher for steers, but down sharply for lambs and hogs.

The top-price steer sold for $1.40 a pound, or a total of $1,358 to the T. Eaton Company of Montreal. The grand champion steer was consigned by Sandy Moffat, of Star Acres Farm, Sweetsburg.

The highest priced lamb, the grand champion wether lamb, consigned by Garret Chapman of Lennoxville was purchased by the T. Eaton Company at $2.55 a pound or a total of $196.35.

A pen of three hogs owned and raised by O. E. Fowler of Kingsbury, the first prize winners, brought down 75 cents a pound from La Belle Ferriere of Montreal.

Top prices paid for 1961 as compared with 1960 are as follows: steers: 1960 $1.25, 1961 $1.40; lambs: 1960 $3.25, 1961 $2.55; hogs: 1961 $1.20, 1960 $0.75.

Average prices were: Steers 1960, 31 1/4 cents per pound, 1961 33 1/4 cents per pound; lambs: 1960, 48 cents per pound, 1961, 35 cents per pound; hogs: 1960, 58 cents per pound, 1961, 34 1/2 cents per pound.

The officials of the Sherbrooke Winter Fair said they consider the 1961 Sherbrooke Winter Fair a huge success. They said they were very pleased with the fine specimens of animals displayed, and said that many animals displayed in Sherbrooke could hold their own with the best in the country, if taken to the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto.

Charges UN preparing a new Katanga attack

By GERALD RATZIN
ELISABETHVILLE — (Reuters)—President Moise Tshombe of Katanga accused the United Nations Thursday night of using the two-week-long cease-fire in the breakaway province to "prepare to renew the attack on Katanga."

He said "the United Nations is doing everything to aid the Congolese National Army to invade Katanga."

Speaking at a press conference in his residence here, Tshombe accused the UN of carrying out further troop movements around the Elisabethville post office and said this was "a violation of the cease-fire."

Tshombe said the UN is obstructing supplies of food being sent to Albertville in North Katanga and reiterated his determination to defend the secessionist province against any attack.

He said the cease-fire submission is making progress and has visited Jadotville, the mining town 80 miles north of Elisabethville where 150 Irish UN soldiers are detained.

Meanwhile, the Elisabethville newspaper Essor du Katanga printed an interview with Katanga's foreign minister, Evardiste Kimba, in which he claimed the UN wants control of its own technicians in the post office, control press and radio and disarmament of all civilians.

Kimba said the views of the UN and Katanga were widely divergent but not irreconcilable.

He said Tshombe was prepared to go to Leopoldville for talks with the central government if there were sufficient guarantees for his security.

UN Representative Mahmoud Khari of Tunisia arrived in the Congolese capital Thursday with a message from Tshombe offering to send two Katanga ministers to Leopoldville on a peace mission.

Khari complained the Katanga regime was refusing to let the cease-fire commission investigate reports that arms and foreign mercenaries were being smuggled into Katanga from Northern Rhodesia.

Strong protest lodged against East German shooting incidents

BERLIN (AP)—The three Western allies today sharply protested to the Russians against two shooting incidents involving Communist East German police in Berlin's French sector.

British commandant Sir Rohan Delacombe called on his Soviet counterpart Col. Andre I. Solovoy to deliver the protest personally on behalf of all three Western commandants, an Allied spokesman announced.

Delacombe told Solovoy that the incidents resulted from "dangerous and irresponsible action" by the East Berlin Communist police.

Gen. Lucius D. Clay, President Kennedy's personal representative in Berlin, this morning made an on-the-spot inspection of the dangerously tense sector—the Bernauer Strasse.

The street, divided by the Communist-built wall now cutting through Berlin, has been the scene of two shooting incidents in the last two days.

The state department in Washington has called on Soviet authorities to avoid shooting incidents on the Berlin border.

Max Maron, the East German Communist interior minister, sent sharply worded protests to West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt and the French commandant, Gen. Jean Lacomme, over the shooting. He said any more such incidents will be "a threat to peace."

Clay had discussed the explosive situation with Brandt Thursday before the mayor flew off on a three-day visit to New York.

Today, Clay drove to Bernauer Strasse. With an aide, he walked the one-mile length of the street occasionally going right up to the wall erected by the Communists, which measures from eight to 10 feet in height.

He also talked to West Berlin police officers to receive eyewitness accounts of the incidents which have sharpened tension in this tension-ridden, divided city.

Thursday East German police fired warning shots at a West Berlin policeman and at a workman laying a cable who stepped across the forbidden line into the Eastern Sector. East Berlin police also engaged in a rock fight with jeering West Berliners.

Communist police Thursday night shot dead two East Germans trying to swim the Spree River near Oberbaumbruecke bridge, which forms the border between the U.S. and Soviet Sectors. West Berlin police said. One refugee was killed only a yard from safety.

The East German police swept the river with rifle and machinegun fire in the glare of searchlights apparently after hearing splashing in the water.

Police said a total of 14 East Berliners and East Germans including one policeman, fled to the West during the night.

Mayor Willy Brandt of West Berlin asked the Western Powers for authority to increase his 15,000-man police force as tension increased along the barricades dividing the city.

The latest flareups began when a Communist policeman was wounded Wednesday night. West Berlin police said they opened fire when shots fired by East German police at fleeing refugees whizzed by them.

East Germany sent a protest to Brandt and to French authorities in Berlin. The shooting occurred in the French Sector.

Crowds surged up to the border and began hurling rocks at East German police. The East Germans threw rocks back at the crowd. West Berlin police tried to herd the crowds into side streets.

When a Western policeman went to the wall and demanded the Communist police "stop that nonsense" of bombarding the crowd with rocks, an East German policeman fired a pistol into West Berlin. No one was hit.

Russia explodes 18th bomb

PARIS — (Reuters) — Russia today exploded the 18th and most powerful atomic bomb in its present series of tests, the French atomic energy commission reported.

Officials of the commission reported that the biggest explosion so far detached took place today at 6 a.m. GMT (2 a.m. EDT) in the Soviet Union.

The official said the device was 1 1/2 to two times more powerful than the 17th, which occurred two days ago. The Wednesday blast was of the order of several megatons — equivalent to several million tons of TNT.

French seismographs indicated the explosion took place near Novaya Zemlya, in the Arctic, where several tests already have been carried out.

Observers believe the current Soviet tests are designed to develop the 100-megaton bomb of which Soviet Premier Khrushchev has boasted.

RESUMED TESTS

The Soviet Union dramatically announced that it was resuming nuclear testing Aug. 30 and exploded the first bomb Sept. 1.

The United States said Sept. 5 that in view of the Soviet move it would resume testing but only underground to avoid fallout. The U.S. then announced two underground tests.

US bill protests lead, zinc

WASHINGTON (CP) — President Kennedy has signed a new subsidy bill which increases Canada's concern over the U.S. market for Canadian lead and zinc.

The bill, effective Jan. 1, provides a federal subsidy for some 400 small American lead and zinc mines to help them compete against big domestic producers and against imports from Canada and other countries.

Canadian worry flows from a fear that the subsidy likely will increase American production and tend to upset the market.

India atom pact is signed

VIENNA (Reuters) — Russia signed a far-reaching agreement on the peaceful uses of atomic energy with India today as its delegation prepared to stage a walkout from the conference of the international atomic energy agency.

Chief Soviet delegate Vasilii Emelyanov Thursday night said Russia may withdraw from the agency because of "lack of co-operation from the major Western powers."

He said he and his delegation would walk out of the conference session before Dr. Sigvard Eklund of Sweden is sworn in as the agency's secretary-general this morning.

This morning Emelyanov signed a far-reaching agreement on the peaceful uses of atomic energy with India today as its delegation prepared to stage a walkout from the conference of the international atomic energy commission.

Observers said the signing of the agreement during the conference represented a clear demonstration against the agency.

In a reference to East-West differences at the conference, Emelyanov said "there is no mention of any control (inspection) provisions in this agreement, which is based on sincere co-operation and full equality."

The agreement provides for co-operation in the establishment of nuclear reactors, the use of plutonium, thorium and Uranium 235, the training of scientists and other fields.

If requested Russia will provide technical assistance in mining uranium ores by sending Russian specialists to India. Emelyanov made his walkout promise Thursday after complaining that the West had "rammed through Eklund's election as secretary-general of the agency."

He said he would definitely resign as head of the Soviet delegation, but a decision on withdrawal was up to the Soviet government.

However, most Western delegates believed the Soviet Union was not seriously considering leaving the agency because the Soviet Union many advantages it could not easily renounce.

(The Associated Press said U.S. diplomats interpreted the Soviet threat as part of the Kremlin scheme to paralyze the United Nations. It quoted one Western diplomat as saying the Russians "seem to be out after Eklund as they were after Dag Hammarskjold.")

Emelyanov called for a reconstruction of the agency "from top to bottom" Thursday and said its single administration should be replaced by a troika giving equal representation to the West, the Communists and neutrals.

Russia prepares conference walkout

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy meets Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko today, seeking to learn if there has been any significant change in the Russian position on Berlin.

But U.S. officials did not expect the meeting, set for late afternoon at the White House, to provide any dramatic start towards a peaceful settlement of the German dispute.

Another matter that may come up in their conversation is the United Nations. The Soviet Union and the United States were reported Thursday night to be in agreement on a candidate for temporary UN secretary-general, a successor for the late Dag Hammarskjold.

The candidate reported by informed diplomats to be acceptable by both Moscow and Washington is U. Thant of Burma.

Gromyko said Thursday he might bring up the whole subject of UN leadership when he calls at the White House.

Kennedy plans only a single session with Gromyko. The president's schedule allowed for a meeting of about two hours before he was due at a state dinner being given by visiting President Ferik Ibrahim Abboud of Sudan.

State secretary Dean Rusk will sit in at the conference. It follows three exploratory talks Rusk held with Gromyko in New York.

By DAVID TODD (Record Staff Reporter)

Two armed, hooded bandits this morning held up a Sherbrooke clothing plant bank messenger, slugged him on the head and shoulder with guns, and escaped with a $5,000 payroll.

The messenger, Jack Reid, 47, 28 Warren Street, Lennoxville, was accosted in front of the

JACK REID Slugged on head

Tricotex Co. Ltd. plant, 2765 Prague Street, in Sherbrooke's West Ward.

He had just driven back from the bank with the company's payroll in a briefcase.

He was not seriously injured, and was able to return to work following the holdup.

He said there was a third bandit waiting in a car in which the thugs made their escape.

Mr. Reid, an employee of the company for the past seven years told The Record that he left the plant for the bank as soon as he got in for work at 8.30 this morning.

He said he regularly drives to the bank and post office every morning for the company, and every Friday morning for the past five years, has picked up the company payroll.

"I got back to the plant this morning about 9.15 Just as I was getting out of the car, two men came running around the corner, and jumped me.

"One man was wearing a green cloth sack over his head with eye slits cut in it. The other had a white cloth bag over his head. One carried a revolver, and the other a shotgun.

"They didn't say a word," Mr. Reid said, "they just started hitting me over the head and shoulder with their guns.

"At first I thought it was a joke.

"I was knocked down, but didn't lose consciousness. As I fell, they grabbed the briefcase out of my hand, and ran back around the corner."

The briefcase contained the payroll and unemployment insurance stamps worth about $100.

"I got up, went to the corner, and looked up the street," Mr. Reid said.

"I saw a maroon-colored car with three people in it drive off. There must have been a third robber waiting in the car.

"I could only catch the first three numbers of the licence plate — 350.

"Then I went into the office and told them what had happened. It only took about a minute for everything to happen."

Sherbrooke police were despatched to the scene, and are investigating the robbery.

At 1 p.m. today, police authorities said they had turned up no clues as to the whereabouts of the bandits.

US, Russia settle on Burmese

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—The United States and Russia were reported agreed today on U Thant of Burma as temporary UN secretary-general, but many problems remain.

Informed diplomats said the chief of Burma's UN delegation is acceptable to both countries. There was no confirmation from either the U.S. or Soviet delegation.

A U.S. spokesman said, however, that Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson conferred Thursday with U Thant.

If the agreement is affirmed, still to be worked out are the two basic questions of how the interim official is to be elected and what his powers will be.

The late Dag Hammarskjold ran the executive branch of the world peace body. But the Russians, who fought to unseat the Swedish diplomat up to the hour of his death in an African plane crash, want to surround the temporary official with advisers.

If Ambassador U Thant gets the post, this probably would result in an executive composed of a Communist and two neutrals with only one representative from the West.

External Affairs Minister Howard Green of Canada has said U Thant would be an excellent choice.

Warns of US crime influence

By KEN SMITH

MONTREAL (CP)—The drive against organized crime in the United States means "we will have to keep our eyes open" in Canada, Justice Minister Davie Fulton said Wednesday night.

"The more difficult it becomes for a mafioso to make a crooked dollar in one country, the more likely is he to seek opportunity in another country," he told 1,800 delegates at the 68th annual conference of the International Association of Chiefs of Police.

This is not the kind of American investment Canada has always welcomed, he added.

Mr. Fulton said there are a number of organized crime syndicates operating in Canada but there is not "Mr. Big" overlord all the criminal operations.

Magog mayor vexed
Quits session as Council engages outside expert

MAGOG — (Special) — Mayor Maurice Theroux walked out on the Magog City Council meeting held Thursday evening, protesting a motion which he claimed suggested lack of confidence in him.

The motion was one put forth by Ald. Armand Gagne, chairman of the municipal finance committee, asking that a consultant be hired to represent the city in the forthcoming negotiations between the Council and city employees and policemen. Ald. Gagne's motion named Arthur Matteau, consultant in industrial relations, and director of industrial relations for many municipalities in the Province of Quebec.

Following Mayor Theroux' angry departure, Ald. Reginald M. Urwick, alderman for Ward 2, took charges of the meeting which resumed for approximately another half-hour. Only one other member of the council showed agreement with Mayor Theroux. Ald. Ovide Hamel, Ward 2 representative, after giving consideration to the mayor's charges that hiring a consultant would be a waste of funds, also left the councilroom.

A very heated discussion followed Ald. Gagne's suggestion, in which the mayor expressed confidence that he could cope with any problems that might arise between city employees and the council.

Ald. Gagne said it was apparent that the city employees are preparing themselves for a battle, and it was time the council did the same with experienced persons to offer advice. After the mayor's departure, hiring of Mr. Matteau was approved.

The balance of the meeting was devoted to routine matters, the payment of bills and handling of correspondence.

Health camp planned in Sherbrooke

"The organization of a health camp for the needy children of our city is under study, and provided our campaign closes successfully we shall get to work as soon as possible," the Diocesan Charity Campaign executive committee announced Thursday afternoon.

The committee also announced the formation of an Assistance Service for the handicapped people.

"Sherbrooke is the only important city in the province which does not have a health camp. This has been missing for the past 10 years since the St. Philippe camp was closed down," added the committee.

"Even though, to date we reached only 25 per cent of our objective, which represents approximately $30,000, the result are encouraging as compared to last year. We depend on the generosity of our citizens in order to fill this urgent need," the committee concluded.

Parent company bids for minority stock interest

Ingersoll-Rand Co. is prepared to pay $6,403,560 to become sole owner of Canadian Ingersoll-Rand Co. Ltd. whose main plant is in Sherbrooke.

The U.S. company holds 81.9 per cent of Canadian Ingersoll's outstanding 591,474 common shares. It has offered to pay $60 Canadian funds per share for the remaining 106,726 shares of publicly-held stock.

Canadian Ingersoll manufactures a wide variety of compressors and a broad range of machinery and equipment for use by industries such as mining, quarrying, pulp and paper, refining, oil and gas.

The offer of $60 a share compares with the most recent sale price on the Canadian Stock Exchange of $36. The stock is an infrequent trader and currently is $58½ bid.

The company was incorporated in 1912 with a Dominion charter for the purpose of merging the Canadian Rand mines with the Canadian Rand Mines, Drill Company, established in 1889 at Sherbrooke, Que., and the Ingersoll-Sergeant Company of Canada, originally formed in 1882.

In 1940, Canadian Ingersoll acquired Sherbrooke Pneumatic Tool Co. Ltd. This subsidiary is not operating at present.

A former wholly-owned subsidiary, Circo Employees' Securities Corp., formed to acquire company's shares for sale to employees, surrendered its charter in 1944.

For the year ended Dec 31, 1960, Canadian Ingersoll's net profit was $2,092,863 — up from $1,212,935 for the preceding 12-month period. Earnings per share increased to $3.54 from $2.05.

The company's working capital at the end of 1960 was $13,547,479 — up from a year ago figure of $12,424,493. Cash increased to $1,433,776 from $763,063 and short term investments to $5,353,474 from $3,910,817.

Laughter rocks Sessions Court as neighborhood row re-enacted

A neighbours' quarrel, kept Sherbrooke Court of Sessions in an uproar Thursday.

The main witness, unfortunately, was unable to speak, being a wooden mop.

During the course of the trial, the Court stenographer gave up on his notes, the defendant produced a number of small rocks, all labelled, maintaining that they were thrown at him on the date and hour inscribed, one party testified that she suffered severe injuries after having been struck by a mop on the stomach, and finally, both parties proceeded to enumerate a litany of curses allegedly spoken by the adversary.

The case in point involved a 62-year-old man, Alfred Garneau, of Sherbrooke, who was charged with assault against Mrs. Georges Dugre, 31-year-old Sherbrooke housewife. The latter testified that on June 26 last, the defendant struck her with a mop while she was seven months pregnant. The force of the blow apparently left blue and black marks on her stomach, but this part of her testimony was not corroborated by any other witness, as she admitted she had not shown the marks to a third party.

Mr. Garneau however alleged that Mrs. Dugre's 13-year-old child, Bertrand, tried to run him down with his tricycle on the sidewalk in front of his home. It seems that the young lad would have told Mr. Garneau: "I'll get you yet you (. . . censored . . .)".

Mr. Garneau then told the Court that while evading the tricycle, the young lad fell on the sidewalk, apparently slightly injuring himself. He then rushed home, got the mop, and tried to hit the hexagenarian. End of act I.

Act 2. Mrs. Dugre, hearing the commotion, rushed out, and while trying to stave the blows, testified that Mr. Garneau hit her with the mop. The latter however testified, and his testimony was corroborated by his wife and Mrs. Eugene Beau-doin, that Mrs. Demers was struck while tugging with her son to retrieve her mop. The son apparently let go, and the wooden end hit Mrs. Demers in the stomach. Mr. Garneau, while testifying, gave a detailed account of the proceedings, acting brilliantly the part played by Mrs. Dugre. He even raised the tone of his voice when he said that Mrs. Dugre, after having been struck, yelled: OUCH.

Mr. Garneau, at the end of his testimony, asked the Court stenographer to place his finger on his leg where he apparently was injured by some of the rocks thrown at him by young Bertrand.

"I don't like putting my finger there, said the Court stenographer."

"But I insist, replied Mr. Garneau. "But I refuse," said the Court stenographer.

Mr. Garneau finally left the witness box.

Bail refused
Facing variety of charges, pair ordered to remain in custody

Two men in their early twenties were refused bail Thursday by Judge Joseph Marier in connection with a series of thefts they allegedly committed in the district.

Jocelyn Frappier, of East Angus, and Guy Royer, of Montreal and formerly of Sherbrooke, were remanded in Court of Sessions to October 12, pro forma. They elected to be tried by a judge and jury and their case will most likely proceed on November 2.

During their first arraignment, it was revealed that the two men had recently been released from the penitentiary, and it was charged that in less than a week they had committed a series of thefts involving several hundred dollars worth of goods.

Counsel for the defendants asked that his clients be released on bail pending their trial, but Judge Marier refused following the Crown's objections. Crown Attorney Benoit Turmel told the Court that the accused both faced similar charges in other criminal jurisdictions, and that their presence was imperative.

The preliminary hearing was tentatively set for November 2 as both accused will be appearing in New Carlisle on October 26 for their preliminary inquest in connection with a $30,000 theft.

Alida Paquette, of Sherbrooke, was sentenced Thursday to the time already spent in jail after he changed his not guilty plea to one of guilty. The 36-year-old man, who had been incarcerated eight days ago, was charged with gross indecency.

Counsel for the defendant, Raynald Frechette, of Sherbrooke, asked the Court's leniency. He said that Paquette was a married man with no criminal record.

The accused was arrested early last week when he was seen in his car committing indecent acts with a 46-year-old man.

Crown Attorney Benoit Turmel didn't object to the sentence, stating that Paquette apparently was induced by the other man to commit the gross indecencies.

Judge Joseph Marier ordered the accused to appear in Court next week however, as he will testify for the Crown against the other man involved in the case, Georges Lambert, also of Sherbrooke.

Another Sherbrooke man, Philippe Veilleux, elected in Court of Sessions Thursday to be tried by a judge and jury in connection with several charges of gross indecency. He was remanded to October 12, pro forma, when a date will most likely be set for his preliminary hearing and voluntary statement.

Veilleux was arrested early this week following several complaints registered with the office of the Crown Prosecutor by the parents of a 12-year-old boy and the parents of a 15-year-old boy.

The accused is charged with committing the gross indecencies during the summer months, in Compton. Defense counsel Yvon Roberge, of Sherbrooke, asked the Court that an order be issued ordering the Crown Attorney to furnish the defendant the details of the charges laid against him, i.e., the exact dates when the offences were allegedly committed. The Court told him that he would certainly know at the preliminary hearing, following which Crown Prosecutor Turmel, told Mr. Roberge that he had in his possession a statement signed by the accused.

Mrs. S. Vineberg
Funeral of local lady held today

Funeral Service was held Friday afternoon from the R. L. Bishop Funeral Chapel, 300 Queen Blvd. North, for Mrs. Samuel A. Vineberg, formerly Ruth Miller, of Sherbrooke. Mrs. Vineberg died at the Sherbrooke Hospital on Thursday. She was in her 62nd year. Born in Salt Lake City, Utah, Mrs. Vineberg moved to Montreal with her parents at an early age.

In 1919 she married Samuel A. Vineberg in Montreal. She and her husband moved to Sherbrooke 30 years ago.

Mrs. Vineberg was a member of the Sherbrooke Chapter of Hadassah since it was founded here over 15 years ago.

Mrs. Vineberg is survived by her husband, two sons, Mortimer and Ralph, both of Sherbrooke, and one daughter, Mrs. Morton Math, (Anne), also of Sherbrooke.

The funeral service was conducted by Rabbi Leberman. Burial was in the Agudath Achim Cemetery.

To demonstrate methods of fire-fighting

The use of various types of extinguishers and instruments in fighting different types of fires will be demonstrated by the Sherbrooke Fire Dept. on Saturday afternoon at the municipal store grounds, Galt Terrace when a gas and oil soaked shack especially built for the occasion will be set on fire. This event will mark the opening of the Fire Prevention week, Oct. 8-15.

The purpose of this demonstration is to acquaint the owners, industries and the public with specific types of extinguishers and nozzles used in specific cases. Lt. Inspector Harton will comment on the methods on the spot.

Chiefs of the Asbestos, Lennoxville, Bromptonville, Coaticook, Victoriaville, East Angus, Magog, Danville and Richmond fire departments are invited.

Missisquoi penal institution

The proposed construction of a medium security detention institution in Missisquoi County at a place yet to be determined between Cowansville and Farnham is a welcome step forward in the federal government's program of penal reform, which is just beginning to bear fruit.

The institution, as Heward Grafftey, MP for Brome-Missisquoi pointed out, is not a penitentiary in the ordinary sense of the word.

It will house minor offenders, probably made up largely of comparatively young people, for whom crime has not yet become a way of life, and for whom there are good chances of rehabilitation once they are out of prison.

All indications are that in the proposed institution, nothing will be spared to this end. To cost $4,500,000, it will house a total of about 900 prisoners and employ a staff of about 200.

Justice Minister Fulton has said the program at the institution will centre around industrial type training to provide prisoners with on-the-job experience in manufacturing and shop work.

The main purpose of the institution, and one similar to it to be built near St. Hyacinthe is to reduce the number of prisoners being held in overcrowded St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary near Montreal.

The desirability of this is not only a matter of making conditions less crowded; it is also a matter of eliminating the evils that arise when young, first offenders are thrown into the company of hardened criminals at too close quarters.

At the new institution, reform will replace punishment as a goal, and it will be pursued in an appropriate setting.

Another institution passing

Another of those institutions which have outlived their usefulness appears on its way out, the latest victim of changing conditions being the Post Office Savings Bank.

Reestablished in the first year of Confederation, the post office savings bank played an important part in the early days of the Dominion, providing as it did a safe and somewhat flexible system for the individual to invest spare funds. In the days before the Canadian banking system attained its present stature, when the commercial banks were small and very often financially weak, the Post Office Savings Bank handled an estimated ten per cent of the total savings deposits in Canada.

But as the chartered banks expanded their field of operations and as their solvency became more and more assured, the role of the Post Office bank declined, until today it has only 302,000 accounts involving $28,000,000 in deposits spread through 1,500 offices.

While the Post Office Savings Bank has proved a money loser for the government in recent years and its abolition has been recommended by efficiency experts, word of its early disappearance will be regretted by tens of thousands who formerly looked upon the little grey passbook as a symbol of financial solvency.

Tony's new title

A rose by any other name may smell as sweet, to misquote Shakespeare, but give a Briton a title, and his whole character changes.

That would appear to be the conclusion to be drawn from reaction in Britain to Tony Armstrong-Jones' new monicker, the Earl of Snowdon.

The English press has been almost unanimous in its condemnation of Tony's new name. Their comments can only be construed on this side of the ocean as implying that a startling metamorphosis has taken place, and that the man known as Princess Margaret's husband is gone forever, to be replaced by a faceless form moving like a forgotten ghost in the rarefied atmosphere of the Upper, Upper Classes.

Perhaps Canadians shouldn't be too amused at all this.

After all, if Tony was living in this country, he wouldn't need a title to place him a bit apart from the common crowd.

That double-barreled last name by itself would probably do it.

Accomplishments featured

Long session a fruitful one

By PETER DEMPSON
 OTTAWA — (TNS) — Accomplishments with a capital A marked the session of Parliament just completed.

It was not only the longest in Canada's parliamentary history — 174 days, surpassing by 19 the previous record of 155 days in 1903. It was also one of the most fruitful.

Even the government agrees it was a talkathon at times, that much needless debate took place. In a democracy, however, this is inevitable.

But overshadowing every thing was the government's performances, based on pro-legislation with a capital M.

Much important legislation became the law of the land. The government encountered some setbacks. It fumbled the handling of the Cuyne affair. Its refusal to get together with the Liberal-dominated senate, to try and resolve the differences over the controversial Customs Tariff Bill, showed lack of foresight.

Despite these, the government scored heavily. And the Canadian people are the beneficiaries of much new and good legislation. Among the major accomplishments:

- Terms of CMHC mortgage lending improved to provide another $655,000,000 for direct loans to home owners, to universities for students' residences, and for housing research.
- Passed an act to guarantee bank loans for small business expansion, and improved the lending authority of the Industrial Development Bank and the Export Credits Insurance Corporation.
- Gave authority for accelerated capital cost allowances for new industries in areas of acute unemployment.
- Repealed the 7½ percent Excise Tax on automobiles to spur increased production and employment in the industry.
- Signed a treaty with the United States for power development of the Columbia River basin in British Columbia.
- Cleared the way for construction of new CNR Railway lines to Great Slave Lake, in the north West Territories, and to the mining area near Mattagami Lake, Quebec.
- Instituted new Federal-Provincial fiscal arrangements to enable all provinces to collect their own Income Tax next year; rearranged equalization payments and boosted the Atlantic provinces adjustments grants from $25,000,000 to $35,000,000 a year.
- Federal assistance in the field of municipal winter works was expanded.
- Amendments passed to the Criminal Code to provide life imprisonment for convictions in non-capital murder cases.
- Enacted legislation to provide an annual $5,000,000 for promotion of amateur sport and physical fitness.

The Government took other important steps to improve Canada's military defenses, and

Canadian press comments

Common Market reaction varied

By THE CANADIAN PRESS
 The federal government's outspoken opposition to Britain joining the European Common Market has brought a variety of reactions from Canada's newspapers.

A survey of editorial opinion in all 10 provinces shows that few newspapers see any possibility Britain will change her mind about joining.

Some call the Canadian government's attitude on the question obstructive and negative and urge that it turn its energy to the problem of living with the new conditions that will arise.

"Canada is not in a position to change or significantly influence the tide of events in Europe," says the Vancouver Province (Ind.). "Its option is to adjust to the new force and take advantage of the opportunities it will bring."

Several papers share the government's concern that Common Market membership for Britain will mean a fundamental change in the Commonwealth.

A number of French-language newspapers also foresee this change but Montreal Le Nouveau Journal (Ind.) says that if it is to mean the end of the Commonwealth, "why should we be more concerned about it than England herself?"

Some English-language papers express belief that a Commonwealth which has already adjusted to changing conditions will survive this latest challenge as well.

One idea that turns up in various editorials is that an economically strong Western Europe, including Britain, could be a potentially major market for Canadian goods, possibly big enough in time to make up for the loss of United Kingdom tariff preferences.

Many papers discuss the statements made by Trade Minister Hees and Finance Minister Fleming at the Commonwealth finance ministers' conference in Accra, Ghana.

Mr. Hees said: "If the great mass of the people who make up the Commonwealth believe that the leading member, the United Kingdom, has taken action which—though beneficial to itself—has adversely affected their standard of living, there will be a proportionate weakening of the ties which hold the Commonwealth together. If this feeling were strong it could decrease the effectiveness of the Commonwealth to a point where it exists in name only."

Mr. Fleming declared: "If we are to look at the possibilities of negotiation with any degree of realism, we cannot fail to associate member, if possible."

A more favorable view of the government's stand at Accra is taken by the Ottawa Journal (Ind. Con.) which describes the Common Market as "to an extraordinary extent, a political and social union, clearly restrictive of the sovereignty of its member states."

It says the strong Canadian objections may seem strange to some: "strange that Canada should be challenging a British course which Britain may consider vital for her economic life."

But it adds, it would seem less strange to Canadians who have looked more closely into what the Common Market means.

"If Britain wants membership in the European community so badly that she is willing to pay for it with much of her sovereignty, plus her Commonwealth preferences (and there seems small likelihood that Common Market membership and Commonwealth preferences can be had at the same time), then many will be asking, as some already are, about the changing world circumstances."

The Winnipeg Free Press (Ind.), commenting on the Accra statements, said: "Seldom has the Diefenbaker government's complete bankruptcy of trade and economic policies been revealed in greater clarity. The Canadian delegation contributed nothing by selfish, carping criticism."

Edmonton Journal (Ind.): "The cries of calamity raised at the Accra conference by the Canadian ministers of trade and finance will not benefit Canada; nor will they halt the movement of Great Britain toward some form of association with the European Common Market... our government... should regard the development of ECM as a challenging opportunity, rather than a threat to Canadian trade, and seriously consider Canadian entry into ECM as an and production, Arthur T. Speid of Lennoxville.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO
 October 6th, 1946 fell on a Sunday.

FIVE YEARS AGO
 (From the Record of Saturday, October 6th, 1956)
 An enjoyable social gathering was held at the Legion Memorial Home, Coaticook, by members of the Legion Branch 26 and Auxiliary. The meeting was presided over by Cde. Ronnie Charlan, assisted by Cde. Ivor Whitehouse and Cde. Jack Brown, in the absence of the president, Cde. James Smith. The Meritorious Service Medal was presented to Cde. Ivor Whitehouse, the Past President's Medal to Cde. Herva Caron and the Past President's Medal of the Auxiliary to Mrs. James Smith. Present, in addition to the members and wives, were several invited guests, including Mr. and Mrs. Denis Gerin, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Marcoux and F. Riendeau.

The meeting of the group committee of the First Coaticook Troop of Boy Scouts was held at the office of Roland Racicot, presided over by the chairman, S. Beerworth. Present were Rev. N. Tucker, Rev. F. Cant, Scoutmaster Wilfrid Lepitre, assistants Ralph Hayes, and Cecil Mayhew, secretary, George Engelhardt, treasurer, Bob McAlpine, James Barron and David Green, Provincial Field Commissioner, of Sherbrooke.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

MAYBE WRONG CARD PLAYED
 South's four heart contract is one of those contracts that really should go down, but both South players got there and both Wests opened the ace of spades. One West continued the suit whereupon South had no trouble making his contract because the hearts broke favorably for him.

The other West came up with a really fine defensive play. I will not call it brilliant because it was merely the result of a very logical thought, but it is probable that not one player in a hundred would have thought of it.

He shifted to the eight of diamonds at trick two!

South had to let this ride around to his hand. He won the trick with the jack; entered dummy with a club and led a low heart. East rose with the ace and led a diamond back to his partner. South played low and the nine forced dummy's ace.

Now, South cashed his king of hearts and tried to get a diamond discard on dummy's clubs, but West was unable to trump the third club and collect the setting trick with the king of diamonds.

All very simple when you see how it was done, but on looking the hand over, I am going to change a previous statement and say that not one player in a thousand would have thought of that diamond shift.

Commonwealth's future — or about a lot of its future."

The Gazette quotes Premier Menzies of Australia as saying "we shall of course battle for the best possible arrangements for the protection of our traditional and legitimate interests," and adds: "That would seem quite close to the Canadian government's position."

Montreal Le Devoir (Ind.) says "the progress of the European federation will weaken the sovereignty of the member countries little by little and the national governments, including that in London, will have less freedom in their decisions on questions that interest the group and will retreat slowly toward a sort of provincial jurisdiction..."

It adds that before this process goes very far, "the Commonwealth will be only a memory, unless federated Europe deems it useful to maintain an economic association with the group as well as with Africa."

The Red Deer Advocate (Ind.) says that if "Britain does, indeed, join the European group, she will be required to carry out the most delicate of public relations tasks to restore the ruffled feathers of the Commonwealth."

The Sault Ste. Marie Star (Ind.) takes an optimistic view of the Commonwealth's future, saying "After all, its existence today is due to the ability it has shown to adapt to radically changing world circumstances."

Charlottevont Patriot (Lib.): "... we are reluctant to believe... that there is not something more permanent in the 'we shall of course battle for the best possible arrangements for the protection of our traditional and legitimate interests,' and adds: 'That would seem quite close to the Canadian government's position.'"

The British market is too valuable to lose. But as an economically immature country, proud of her independence, we can hardly demand that Britain impoverish herself to maintain us in the manner to which we have become accustomed."

Calgary Herald (Ind.): "Canada has no right to urge Great Britain to refrain from entering the European Common Market on grounds that this will result in an injury to Canadian trade. Britain's first duty is to herself."

London Free Press (Ind.): "Our preferences would mean nothing if there is a Britain unable to buy."

Winnipeg Tribune (Ind.): "It is quite possible that, with Canada's understanding and help, Britain at this time may be able to negotiate a better deal for Commonwealth agriculture than will be the case later on... But this implies Canadian cooperation with Britain in the negotiations that lie ahead. A policy of continued obstruction will not be helpful either to the United Kingdom or Canada."

All Play and No Work

There's a time for work and a time for play. That's why thousands of sportsmen are turning to boating for fun and relaxation. They begrudge long hours of work keeping their boats shipshape. More and more they are turning to fiber glass runabouts, cruisers and sailboats that need little maintenance within five years 90 per cent of all craft under 20 feet—and many larger ones, too—will be molded from fiber glass-reinforced plastic. Johns-Manville is providing increasing quantities of the basic fiber glass materials used in boat construction. End result—freedom from tiresome maintenance and more time for real boating pleasure.

The Boat Building Industry is only one of the many fields in which Johns-Manville research scientists, production specialists and sales representatives serve you. Their specialized performances help many industries in making our standard of living safer, more enjoyable and efficient.

WATERLOO. (Special) — The Thankoffering meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society of St. Paul's United Church was held in the Church Hall on Tuesday, October 3. There were eight members and one visitor present.

Grew more slowly

In each of the four cases the city proper grew more slowly, and the city of Toronto's population actually declined to 637,452 from 657,706. Population of incorporated Metropolitan Toronto — not the same thing as the census area — rose to 1,595,809 from 1,358,028.

WMS continues as president

MONTREAL. (CP) — Donald Gordon, president and board chairman of the Canadian National Railways since 1950, will continue to hold his $75,000-a-year post as Canada's highest-paid civil servant for an indefinite period.

Be your own best friend...

A sportsman with a loaded shotgun or rifle in his hands has got to be his own best friend. He must leave nothing to chance. Never, not for an instant, can he allow anything to endanger the safety of himself or his fellow hunters.

Only when the day's shooting is done, only when the gun is empty and back in the rack... only then is it time to enjoy the pleasures of social relaxation.

For many years The House of Seagram has published messages advocating Moderation in all things, including the use of whisky. At this time, in the interest of safer hunting we say once again: "Drinking and Hunting Do Not Mix".

BIRCH — We would like to thank our neighbours, who came so hastily, the friends and relatives who came from near and far, the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Denton, the Waterville Fire Department and all volunteer firemen, who worked so desperately to save our home, those who sent in cooking, or helped in any way during the fire, which destroyed our barn. Your services were indeed appreciated. Thank you one and all. THE BIRCH FAMILY.

Burbank

I wish to express my sincere thanks to all my friends and relatives who sent cards, flowers, fruit and candy, and to all those who called on me during my stay at the Montreal Neurological Institute. I would also like to thank Dr. Blundell and Cosgrove, as well as the nurses and attendants on the 3rd floor. I especially wish to thank Mr. Roger McKergow and Mr. and Mrs. Claude Johnson for their many acts of kindness to my family. WATERLOO, QUE.

Gordon continues as president

MONTREAL. (CP) — Donald Gordon, president and board chairman of the Canadian National Railways since 1950, will continue to hold his $75,000-a-year post as Canada's highest-paid civil servant for an indefinite period.
At its first meeting Thursday, the newly-appointed CNR board of directors extended his term as president and "unanimously expressed pleasure that Mr. Donald Gordon had been reappointed a director and chairman of the board."
Transport Minister Leon Balcer announced last Wednesday Mr. Gordon's reappointment for a three-year term as director and board chairman.
The reappointment, effective Sept. 30, 1960, came just two days short of a full year after the 60-year-old Scot's term of office as director expired.
The board of directors has the duty of selecting a president subject to cabinet approval. But since Mr. Gordon has never ceased to be chairman of the board, the board was not called upon to reappoint him.

Housekeeping goes to college

This year, many young coeds will get their first real taste of housekeeping away from mom's helpful hand and watching eye. Dormitories filled to capacity and shortages of expensive maintenance service mean students must share responsibilities for many domestic duties.

School-supervised apartments and houses will be home for many juniors and seniors, and meals as well as upkeep will be a communal effort.

Under such circumstances, talents for sewing, cooking, stretching home furnishings dollars and cheerful sharing of grubby tasks are as highly prized as an "A" in science. Packed into back-to-school luggage will be a basic cookbook, the portable sewing machine (or at least a hand-sewing kit), and similar home-like contributions.

One mother I know nearly fainted when her giddy daughter wrote, pleading for an old carpet sweeper to speed the cleaning of a school apartment.

Institutional rooms can be cheerless places to live. The basic furniture is there in all its nicked and scratched glory. Peppy accessories, long on color or cleverness and short on cost, soften the bleakness and raise the spirits.

A spot check with campus coeds turned up these ideas: college pennants stitched to toss pillows or glued to window valances; bright-colored felt or corduroy-covered bulletin boards hung on wall or easel; big travel posters, world maps, bird prints or wallpaper squares stuck on the wall with new gummed tacks (tiny circles of adhesive which won't mar surfaces).

And more: big blotter pads banded in bright colors to hide scratched desk tops and tiny, white-painted flower pots for pencils, stamp rolls, paper clips and stuff; wood or colored plastic bowls for balls of yarn and current knitting; pole lights which stretch from floor to ceiling.

It doesn't take a home economics major to appreciate the desirability of choosing fabrics for curtains, cushions or bedspreads that will be durable, easy to care for and attractive. Ready-made bedspreads which could shift from dormitory bed to studio couch or day bed later are a practical choice. There are several "throws" this fall that will resist wrinkles and hard wear, are washable and come in strong colors as well as quiet shades. Some bedspreads have matching draperies but many do not. At any rate, matching draperies may run the cost too high.

Shop the basement budget floors of top-notch stores and you'll find ready-made curtains which are both inexpensive and pretty. If you're handy with a needle, make curtains of plain white sheeting sewed into panels and trimmed with fringe or braid. Crisply starched, these curtains keep a neat appearance for a long time. ST. PAUL'S W.A.
 The opening meeting of St. Paul's W.A. was held recently at the home of Mrs. M. Dillon, Cambrai St. Mrs. D. Flanders presided and conducted the business meeting.

Several letters of correspondence were read, including thank you letters from the sick who had been remembered during the summer.

Plans were made for the forthcoming annual Little Helpers Party, to be held in the church hall, and October 14 set as a tentative date. All members of the W.A. were asked to help at this party.

Members were reminded of the Deacons, to be held at St. George's Church in Lennoxville, on Wed. October 25.

A meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. D. Flanders, as soon as the Church Calendars are available, to arrange for distribution.

The meeting closed with the Grace and refreshments were served by the hostess.

3RD SHERBROOKE GIRL GUIDE AND BROWNIE MOTHERS' AUXILIARY

A meeting of the Mothers' Auxiliary of Guides and Brownies 3rd Sherbrooke Troop was held at St. Patrick's Church Hall.

The meeting was opened with a prayer by Mrs. G. Daniels. The minutes were read by Mrs. Frechette and the treasurer gave her report.

Mrs. McVeigh agreed to act as treasurer to replace Mrs. Girard, who has left Sherbrooke.

Mrs. Daniels welcomed two new members. The Guides and Brownies collected $126.30 on Cookie Day.

A mass was sent in honor of a deceased relative of a member.

Miss M. Gallagher, Brown Owl, mentioned the Rally being held in Montreal on Oct. 21 on the occasion of the visit of Lady Baden Powell.

Miss Belanger, Guide Captain, asked for volunteers to act as testers for the Guides, passing badges. Miss Gallagher offered to act as one, for Interpreter's Badge.

Mr. Garand again offered his services as First Aid Instructor and furthermore will give training in Map Reading and the art of self-defence. Finally he proposed taking the Brownies on a hike in conjunction with passing their Camp Fire Making tests.

The meeting was adjourned and coffee was served by Mrs. R. Henry and Mrs. J. Leclaire.

ST. MARGARET'S GUILD CHURCH OF THE ADVENT

The October meeting of St. Margaret's Guild was held at the home of Mrs. S. H. Bachelder, Victoria St. Owing to the absence of the president, Mrs. R. M. Loughheed, the meeting was chaired by Mrs. F. G. Saunders, 1st vice-president.

Routine business was disposed of and plans made to hold a Food Sale, in connection with the Chicken Patty Tea, sponsored by St. Agnes' Guild on October 28 in the church hall.

Money was brought in from the Harvest Thanksgiving collection.

The members were sorry to hear of the illness of Mrs. T. Crossley, their honorary president.

The next meeting will be held with Mrs. F. J. Saunders, on Nov. 7.

Refreshments were served by the hostess.

HUNTINGVILLE WOMEN'S CHRISTIAN TEMPERANCE UNION

Huntingville Women's Christian Temperance Union held their opening meeting for the fall sessions at the home of Mrs. Frank Ingham, Stanstead Highway, recently, with Mrs. Ingham, president, in the chair, who opened the meeting with the pledge and devotions.

The clip sheet, Freedom of Liberty? was read and discussed and it was shown that as long as there were alcoholics no one had real freedom.

Mrs. Robert S. Lipsey, secretary, was absent. Mrs. George M. Sutherland, treasurer, gave the financial standing and much discussion followed as to ways of adding to the finances and as to work that could be undertaken by so few members.

It was decided to interview the Sunday schools which had formerly written the Temperance essays to see how many were interested in writing this fall.

Mrs. Archie Fairbrother reported for Sunshine and the Little White Ribboners and read letters of thanks for gifts and remembrances to mothers of new babies and convalescents.

Notice was received with pleasure of a visit from Mrs. Watson, National president slated for early October.

The meeting closed with the Mizpah and the hostess served refreshments.

Weddings Of The Season

WILSON — REAKES

OTTAWA — The marriage of Audrey Joyce Reakes, Fort Erie, Ontario; formerly of Asbestos, Quebec; daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Noel Reakes, Fort Erie; to John (Jack) Douglas Wilson, son of Mrs. John Cameron Wilson and the late Dr. Wilson took place September 23, 1961 in the South Minister United church, Ottawa, Ontario. Rev. Lloyd A. Shorten officiating. White mums and gladioli were used for decorations. Mr. Milne was the organist. Miss Joyce Kirby the soloist.

The bride who was given in marriage by her father was gowned in a dress of white peau de soie with long sleeves, the bodice having a scooped neckline, delicately applied with guipure of Point of Calais lace and reembroidered with seed pearls and sequins, the bouffant skirt featured a pouf bustle effect and ended in a chapel train. Her four tier veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a tiara of pearls and crystals. She carried a cascade bouquet of pale yellow roses and ivy.

MR. and Mrs. LAURENT POULIN, photographed following their marriage which took place September 9, in St. Patrick's church. Msgr. Rosario Moisan officiating. Mrs. Poulin was the former Miss Sheila Taylor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold S. Taylor, North Hatley, Quebec and Mr. Poulin is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Albert Poulin, of Waterville, Quebec. New name for technique of managing a husband

Having trouble communicating with your husband? A new book called, "The Human Side of Successful Communications," offers a three-point technique for improving the husband-wife communication system.

The second point is "Communicate with him in terms of his own interests." Well, let's see how you might make that one work.

Instead of nagging about how badly the living room needs a coat of paint and just when does he think he is going to get around to the job, you might just mention that you've got a painter's estimate on what the job will cost. When he hears the estimate he may hurry to get the job done before you call in the painter.

Instead of complaining that you have cabin fever from staying at home night after night, you might just mention casually that there's a Bardot movie in town.

Instead of trying to get him to buy the house you want by talking about how convenient the kitchen is, it might be better to point out that he could have a workshop in the garage.

Instead of trying to promote a vacation trip by telling him how tired you are, start remarking on how tired he looks.

Before telling him what you paid for the dress you simply couldn't resist, tell him what the one cost that you decided was entirely too expensive.

Before mentioning that you would like to have him baby sit one night a week while you play bridge with the girls, encourage him to get up a weekly poker game with the boys.

See how it works. It is called "communicating with him in terms of his own interests," but it is exactly what great-grandma referred to as "knowing how to manage a man."

Later the couple left for a trip to the Eastern United States, the bride travelling in a loden green suit with beige and coffee brown accessories and a corsage of yellow carnations.

Out of town guests were from London, Toronto, Kingston, Cornwall and Belleville Ontario; Asbestos, St. Lambert, Verdun, Lachine, Granby and Montreal, etc.

The couple will reside in Ottawa, Ontario.

OCTOBER BIRTHSTONE UNIQUE

The liquid fire of the fascinating opal, October's birthstone, is considered by many to make this stone the most beautiful and desirable of all gems, says Mr. Paul Nadeau, of Skinner & Nadeau, Jewelers here in Sherbrooke. "The Romans called it cupid pederers", he said, "a term meaning child beautiful as love."

Mr. Nadeau, who is one of the few jewelers nationally holding the title of Certified Gemologist in the American Gem Society, repeated this ancient rhyme: "October's child is born for woe, and life's vicissitudes must know: But lay an opal on her breast, and hope will lull those woes to rest."

In speaking of the other legends surrounding the opal, Mr. Nadeau completely discounted the story about the opal bringing bad luck to those wearing it. "On the other hand", he said, "the opal has always been a symbol of hope and purity, a gem giving foresight and good fortune to those wearing it." He said that the superstitions were of comparatively recent origin, the result of a rather weird novel of Sir Walter Scott's Anne of Gierstein. Mr. Nadeau said that Queen Victoria did much to counteract this unfortunate story by gifting her five daughters with beautiful specimens of opal at the time of their marriages. Sarah Bernhardt, the famed French actress, was another who considered the opal a lucky talisman.

"Opals", Mr. Nadeau said, "are seen most often by the layman in a milky white, or iridescent bluish-green. Smokey-black opals are still somewhat rare, and command as much as $200.00 per carat; the average, pale opal selling for around $50.00 per carat. He cautioned opal owners and wearers to guard against hitting their precious opal gems, and to protect them against extremes of heat. The constantly changing, fiery colors which distinguish the opal from any other jewel (keeping it from being successfully imitated) are caused by light reflections passing over various layers of crystallization within the body of the stone, Mr. Nadeau revealed.

Try frozen pumpkin ribbon pie

SERVE DELICIOUS Pumpkin Ribbon Pie for Thanksgiving. It's frozen and can be made as long as a month before the big day. The crumb crust is made of bite-size shredded rice biscuits flavored with brown sugar and ginger.

18-ounce can of pumpkin and will have one cup left over, so why don't you just make two pies at the same time and freeze them. It will be very convenient to have one in the freezer during the busy days to come.

PUMPKIN RIBBON PIE Crumb Crust
 4 1/2 cups bite-size shredded rice biscuits crushed to 1 1/2 cups, 1/4 cup brown sugar, firmly packed, 1/4 teaspoon ginger, 1/2 cup butter or margarine, melted.

Heat oven to slow (300 degrees). Butter a 10-inch pie plate. Combine cereal crumbs, sugar and ginger. Pour butter over crumbs. Mix thoroughly. Evenly and firmly pack onto bottom and sides of pie plate, not on rim. Bake 10 minutes. Cool thoroughly.

FILLING
 1 cup canned pumpkin, 1 1/4

cup sugar, 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon, 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon ginger, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 cup heavy cream, whipped, 1 pint vanilla ice cream, slightly softened.

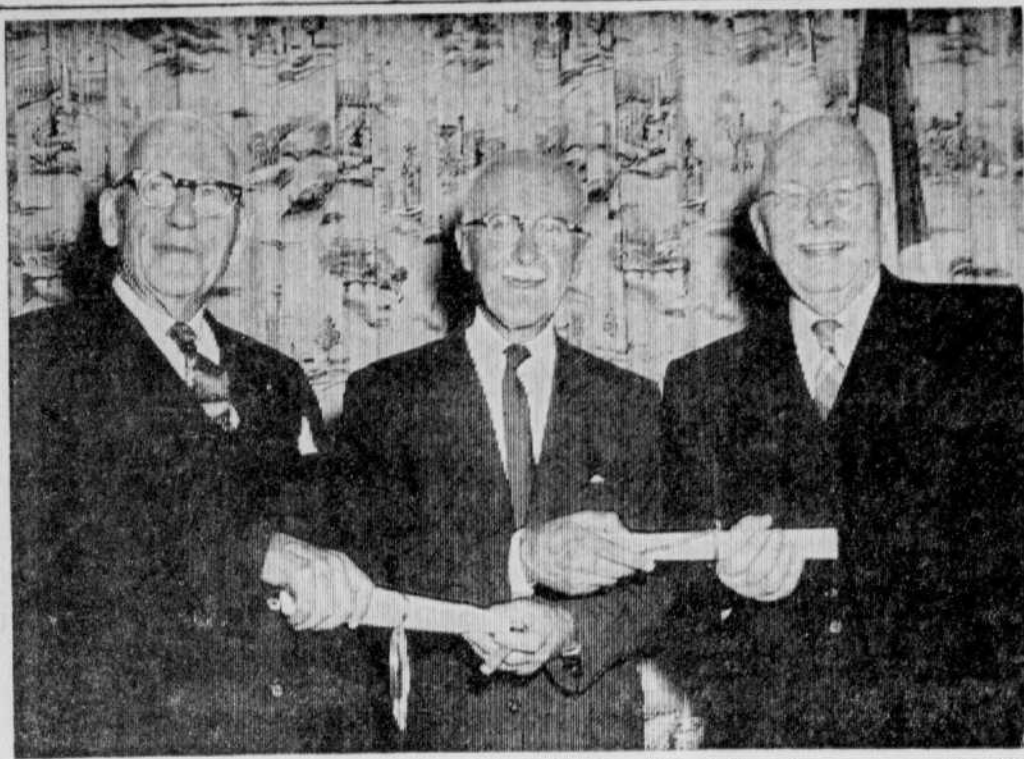

Combine pumpkin, sugar, spices, salt and vanilla. Fold in whipped cream. Spread ice cream in bottom of cooled pie shell. Spoon on pumpkin filling. Cover and freeze 6 hours or overnight. Yield: 1 10-inch pie.

Elio Chacon And John Edwards Play Hero's Role As Reds Take Second To Knot Series, Steals On His Own

NEW YORK (AP)—Elio Chacon and John Edwards—brash young substitutes who didn't expect to play—answered Cincinnati Reds' hero's roll call yesterday along with pitcher Joey Jay. The Redlegs evened the world series at a game each with New York Yankees 6-2 Thursday and it was husky rookie Edwards who caught Jay's four - hitter and drove in two of the runs. Chacon flashed home with the deciding run in the fifth inning on a passed ball. He also singled, walked, narrowly missed a home run on a long fly to left and contributed three great fielding efforts, two of which triggered clutch double plays. Chacon was a last-second replacement for second baseman Don Blasingame, who had a bad finger. Neither Chacon nor Edwards knew they would play until they were on the field taking warm-ups.

BLOOPS SINGLE
Chacon blooped a single into short centre in the fifth and went to third on Eddie Kasko's hit through the box. The score was tied 2-2 and Yankee starter Ralph Terry was pitching to Vada Pinson when the passed ball got away from Elston Howard. "I go because I think I have a chance," said the beaming native of Caracas, Venezuela. "He told me to stop," Chacon added, pointing to third base coach Reggie Otero. "But what could I do? I was already gone. No, I do it on my own. Nobody give me signal." Cornered by reporters, Chacon put up his arms as if pleading for help with his uncertain English. "The pitcher no cover the plate," he started again. "But I would go anyway. I thought the ball, she had gone away far enough. Yes, I slide under the catcher. It worked pretty good, no?" Told by one questioner he played like a man inspired, Chacon looked puzzled for a second, then beamed. "I feel emotional—how you say, happy." Edwards, with a .386 batting average and 14 runs batted in for the regular season, smiled when the discussion got around to his hitting.

Red Wings Dump Leafs 5-2 While Canadiens Edge Hull-Ottawa 3-1

Detroit Red Wings tangled with big - league opposition Thursday night and won with a bigger margin than Montreal Canadiens did over their minor league farm club. The Wings defeated Toronto Maple Leafs, the team they beat 4-1 in games in the Stanley Cup semi-final last season, 5-2. Canadiens beat Hull-Ottawa 3-1.

Dave Keon broke Bassen's shutout, but his goal and another by George Armstrong weren't enough to hold up under a three - goal attack by Wings in the final period, Gordie Howe, Al Johnson and Ab McDonald scoring. At Winnipeg, Montreal took a 1-0 lead in the second period on a goal by Claude Provost. Willie O'Ree tied it up and by the end of the period Canadiens led 2-1 on a goal by Don Marshall. Maniago was pulled and Montreal's Gilles Tremblay hit the empty net with 35 seconds to go. In an AHL exhibition game at Niagara Falls, Ont., Thursday night, Pittsburgh Hornets and Rochester Americans fought to a 2-2 tie.

Series Odds
LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—New York Yankees dropped to 2-to-1 favorites to take the world series following their 6-2 loss Thursday to Cincinnati Reds after taking the opener 2-0. The American League champs were 4-to-1 Wednesday. Las Vegas oddsmakers favor Yankees 7-to-5 to win the third game in the best-of-seven series at Cincinnati Saturday. Copenhagen—Roy Jacobs, Nigeria, stopped Sander Bonde, Denmark, 4, Lightweights.

REDS
By HAROLD HARRISON
NEW YORK (AP)—Elio Chacon was running "on his own" Thursday when he scored from third base on a passed ball and gave Cincinnati Reds a lead they maintained as they squared the 1961 world series at one game each with a 6-2 victory over New York Yankees. New York won the opener 2-0. Chacon, filling in at second base for the ailing Don Blasingame, had singled in the fifth and gone to third on a single by Eddie Kasko. Then, when one of Ralph Terry's pitches got away from Yank catcher Elston Howard, Chacon barreled in to score and give Reds a 3-2 lead. Chacon, who speaks only broken English, said: "I go because I think I have chance. I see the ball roll away." Manager Fred Hutchinson confirmed that Chacon didn't wait for any "go command" from third - base coach Reggie Otero before making his dash for the plate.

Hutchinson called it perhaps the key play of the game. Joey Jay, who set Yankees pitch with four hits, said the pitch Berra hit for a home run, "was not a good pitch." "I'm not taking anything away from Berra," he said. "Because he might have hit it anyhow but the pitch didn't go where I wanted it to." Over in another corner Coleman talked of his homer. The Platoon first-baseman said the blast was the biggest thrill of his career. "But I must admit," he laughed, "that I was looking for the pitch Terry threw. It was way out and outside and I was waiting. As soon as I hit it, I knew it was going for extra bases. 'I didn't see it go into the stands. I was running like mad toward second and I saw the outfielder (Roger Maris) turn away from the stands. Then I knew it was in.'" As to the success of Cincinnati pitchers against Maris, Hutchinson said: "There isn't any particular explanation. He's just been facing a couple of pretty good pitchers." Maris hasn't had a hit in the first two games.

SERIES BRIEFS

NEW YORK (AP)—Roger Maris of New York Yankees has 12 official world series at bats without a hit—five in the final game of 1960 and seven this year. He hasn't hit a ball out of the infield in 10 tries. Cincinnati Reds' victory Thursday left them under .500 in series competition. They have won 10 games and lost 11 in three classics. The Yankees' record is 89-54 with one tie. Gordon Coleman's fourth - inning home run was only the third for Cincinnati players. Pitcher Bucky Walters and outfielder Jimmy Riddle had others in 1940. The Reds hit none in 1919 and 1939, the only other series in which they have appeared. Cincinnati has reeled off three double plays to New York's none. In the regular season, the Yanks had 58 more with 181 to the Reds' 123, the lowest in the major leagues. Los Angeles — Paulie Armstead, 132¹/₂, Los Angeles, out-pitched Alfredo Escobar, 132, Los Angeles, 32.

Tosses Four-Hitter As Underdogs Come Up With Upset, Elio Chacon Steals Show, Coleman Hits Homer

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—The world series flares anew Saturday after a change of scenery and a change of prospects for the lightly-regarded Cincinnati Reds in their post-season championship duel with New York Yankees. The Reds, seemingly well outclassed in losing Wednesday's opener, came back to life in New York Thursday with a 6-2 decision over the Yankees. While the Yankees were playing Alphonse and Gaston among themselves as the two - game New York phase of the series concluded, the Reds uncorked the same type of performance that confounded experts while they ran off with the National League pennant. Strapping Joey Jay was the pitcher against the Yanks his regular season 21-9 record stamped him to be. Additionally, Cincinnati's cast of unknowns produced a couple of sidishow whizzes in Venezuelan second baseman Elio Chacon and reserve catcher John Edwards.

When the series third game is played at Crosley Field Saturday at 2 p.m. EDT, the Yankees will find themselves hampered down to 2-to-1 series favorites from a 4¹/₂-to-1 choice before Thursday's loose frolic before 63,083 in Yankee Stadium. As for the third game—in which Cincinnati's knuckleballer, Bob Purkey (16 - 12), faces New York's Bill Stafford (14-9)—the Yankees are a 7-to-5 pick to triumph in the cozy confines of Crosley Park. The forecast for Saturday is fair and pleasant. In the three games that now must be played in Cincinnati in the best - of - seven series, the Yankees are expected to be bolstered by the return of Mickey Mantle who sat out the two New York games with an infected hip. Certainly Mantle's long-bat power is needed to offset a terrific swoon thus far by Roger Maris, the man who set an all-time season home run record with 61. Maris, still hitless in seven series official at - bats, has struck out three times, twice being whiffed Thursday by Joey Jay. Roger hasn't hit a ball out of the infield in the series. Although he allowed only four hits, Jay kept walking himself into and pitching himself out of trouble, no small thanks to the five foot nine inch 163-pound Chacon from Caracas, Venezuela. Chacon, substituting for regular Don Blasingame who had a bad finger, started two crackling double plays.

Chacon's big feat was an explosive bit of base-running on a short passed ball for an unearned but decisive tally in the fifth off Yankee loser Ralph Terry which put the Reds ahead 3-2. Although the Yankees committed three other errors, the big miscue was when Terry pitched a slider which eluded catcher Elston Howard in the fifth with Vada Pinson at bat and Chacon on third and Eddie Kasko on first. Berra, who slammed a two-run homer in the fourth to gain New York a 2-2 tie, let Post's drive whistle between his legs for a three-base error, setting up the second Red run of the inning. Berra seemed to have the ball caught for the third out, but it sank rapidly and streaked past him to the wall. But Berra's two hits hoisted his record series total to 70 in 70 series games and his other continuing marks for the post-season classic now include 38 RBIs, 40 runs scored and 116 total bases.

President Campbell Of NHL Claims Hawks And Wings Picked Up Help, All-Star Game Slated Tomorrow

MONTREAL (CP)—President Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League says two of the league's six teams—Chicago Black Hawks and Detroit Red Wings—have made "very definite additions" to their playing personnel for the 1961-62 season starting next week. "Very definite additions—that is if the players they have secured live up to their potential," he said in an interview. Campbell, who professes to be entirely neutral because of his position, said the Black Hawks filled a gap at centre by getting Bronco Horvath from Boston Bruins and added defensive strength by acquiring Bob Turner from Montreal Canadiens. Horvath was obtained in the NHL draft while Turner came to the Hawks via the trade route. Detroit, meanwhile strengthened by picking up Eddie Litzenger in a trade with Chicago. "It is not in my province to know why the Bruins parted with this player (Horvath), beaten out for the league scoring title two years back by a single point," Campbell said. "I presume that Phil Watson, the Bruins' new coach, doesn't like him... however, that's not my business. Horvath will fill a centre-ice gap at Chicago, and he's just sufficiently money-minded to put on a great battle there." Campbell said Turner "will do the Hawks some good." He was a defence player the Canadiens didn't need "because they already were well supplied." The NHL president had this to say about Litzenger:

Mantle Not Sure He Can Play In Tilt Tomorrow

NEW YORK (AP)—Mickey Mantle, hobbled by an infection and a clinging cold, has no idea whether he'll be able to play Saturday, Sunday or in any game of the world series. The switch-hitting New York slugger was glum and it was not only because Cincinnati Reds had beaten New York 6-2 to even the series at one game apiece. "I can't do anything right now," Mantle grumbled. "It feels just like it did yesterday and the day before. I don't know how long I'll be out." The Yankee centre - fielder was standing in front of his locker, naked except for a six-inch-by-six inch patch on his backside protecting the wound left by an operation for removal of an abscess. "Right now I can't swing left-handed. I can hit right-handed, but I can't throw and I can't run." Directly across the Yankee club house, Roger Maris was silently getting into his street clothes. Singularly, only a handful of reporters approached him. The reason was soon evident. "I've got nothing to say," he grumbled. "Just say I was lousy." The other half of the M and M boys, who slammed a record 61 home runs during the regular season, didn't hit a ball out of the infield for the second straight day. He went hitless in three official times at bat and now is 0 for 7 in the series.

YANKS
By TED SMITS
NEW YORK (AP)—The deciding run of the second game of the 1961 world series, enabling Cincinnati to go on to a 6-2 victory over New York Yankees, came in the fifth inning on a mixed-up sort of play that won grudging praise from Yankee manager Ralph Houk for Elio Chacon. "Chacon broke... it worked... you see lots of plays like that during the season, but in the series..." and Houk shrugged philosophically. Here was the setting. The score was tied 2-2. With two out Chacon singled to centre, and went to third on Eddie Kasko's single, also to centre. With Vada Pinson at the plate, catcher Elston Howard let one of pitcher Ralph Terry's sliders get away from him for a passed ball. The ball dribbled back about 10 or 15 feet, and Howard scamped for it, as Terry came towards the plate. Terry hung back instead of covering the plate, and Howard first looked to see if Kasko was heading for second before making a futile dive at Chacon racing home. As it turned out, that was the ball game, but Edwards, catching in place of ailing Darrell Johnson, still was to taste some world series glory. A .182 hitter during the season, Edwards was scorned in the sixth inning—following Wally Post's double—by both Yankee manager Ralph Houk and Terry. Houk ordered right-handed hitting Gene Freese walked intentionally in order to get at left-handed batting Edwards. Right - hander Terry, after spinning around two strikes for an 0-2 count, let a fat pitch fly and Edwards singled into right field, scoring Post for a 4-2 Cincinnati lead. Again, in a weird eighth inning, Freese was walked intentionally and Edwards uncorked a bloop double to score the sixth and final Red run. The Redleg eighth, in which lefty Luis Arroyo proved anything except the ace reliever he is supposed to be, found veteran Yogi Berra flitting from a hero to goat role. Berra, who slammed a two-run homer in the fourth to gain New York a 2-2 tie, let Post's drive whistle between his legs for a three-base error, setting up the second Red run of the inning. Berra seemed to have the ball caught for the third out, but it sank rapidly and streaked past him to the wall. But Berra's two hits hoisted his record series total to 70 in 70 series games and his other continuing marks for the post-season classic now include 38 RBIs, 40 runs scored and 116 total bases.

Jay's Breaking Stuff Hurt Us, Says Yogi Berra, Expects Mantle Back, Chacon Came Up With Big One

This is another in a series of exclusive world series stories written for The Associated Press by Yogi Berra of New York Yankees. By YOGI BERRA
CINCINNATI (AP)—Now I can see why the Yankees have had so many left fielders. Sometimes you gotta play it by ear out there in Yankee Stadium. But today in Crosley Field, where we work out, I'll be practising under game - time conditions. I hear you must learn how the balls carom off their left field wall. I'll be practising all the angles. Their park is nothing like ours. It's much smaller and maybe our hitters will get going if Bob Purkey, Saturday's pitcher, is the fine fellow everyone says he is. Of course, we missed Mickey Mantle Thursday when Joey Jay beat us with a lot of breaking stuff to even the series. Everybody has been wanting to know about how I played Wally Post's line drive out into a triple. It wasn't easy. I saw the ball all the way until it got right in front of me. Then it sank, tipped the end of my glove and went right through my legs. I felt nothin'. It never touched my pants. And I could see it clearly without flippin' down my sun glasses. CAME LIKE CANNON The toughest ball to catch is the one hit right at you and Post's shot came out like a cannon. At first I didn't think I could get it and I started in. Then when I was all set I gave it the nonchalant and it sank. It had overspin or topspin, like a topped golf shot. If the series goes back to New York, I wish I can take my old catcher's chest protector into left field. But, you know, there was only one ball Thursday that I didn't see. That was the high foul Clete Boyer caught against the box seats in the ninth. When those balls get up in that smoke and haze coming from the stands, you just can't see them. You can't even see high flies in left center. I used to grin when Joe Dimaggio said that. I thought he was kiddin'. But he wasn't. Felias asked me about Joey Jay. "He beat us," I told them. But thinking it over, even though I hit a homer and a single, I saw what he was doing to the others. He was moving that ball around and giving them a nothing much good to hit at until late in the game when he had a four-run lead. He knows how to pitch. But the pitch he gave me was right down the gut, belt high. It was a fast ball. If Joey says "it was low" I want more of 'em. I think it was the only ball pulled against Joey. It was pretty but it means nothing now—only another series homer in a losing game. The fact that Post's "out" meant three bases and their last run, it had no bearing on the game. That means nothing to me. I don't care what the fellas write. They all know I give it my best. The Reds showed us something else Thursday. They know how to play for the double play. This Elio Chacon is fast, and he caught one ball in back of him going away and with fine help by Eddie Kasko turned it into a DP. That was the turning point for us. We were trailing only 4-2 then and that big play took Jay off the hook. Jay was the master after that play. Glad I never said we'd win four straight. I can't go for that kinda stuff. Pitchers control a world series and you need runs. The two I drove in Thursday weren't enough. Saturday may be different. Roger Maris is due and maybe Mickey will be back.

Alouettes Meet Argos In "Must" Tilt Saturday, Trail By Four Points, Ticats And Riders Clash

Montreal Alouettes meet Toronto Argonauts Saturday, a team they have to beat out for third and last playoff spot in the Eastern Football Conference. He said the "soft touch" last Saturday, when Ottawa defeated Hamilton 47-21, might leave his team "ready to take things for granted." Halfback Ernie White, out for three games with a knee injury, will be ready for action and it's possible he'll replace Tom Rodgers. Ron Koes' bad knee will keep him on the bench. Milt Graham has an ailing left shoulder but, barring complications, he'll be ready by Monday. Don Miller will take the place of Patterson, who has a badly bruised shoulder. Coach Jim Trimble also plans to use linebacker Don Caraway, acquired recently from Argonauts, but how he'll fit in wasn't definite.

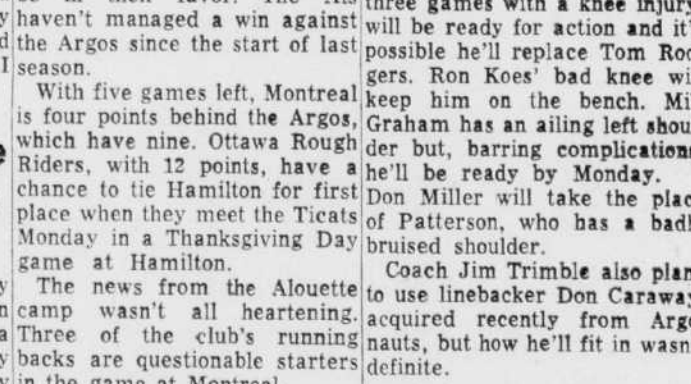

St. Pat's Split With B.C.S. As SHS Wins In Soccer

St. Pat's Juniors and Seniors split their games with Bishop's College School in regular games of the St. Francis Valley Interscholastic Association Senior and Junior Soccer Leagues. St. Pat's Juniors came up with a 3-0 win while their big brothers took a 4-1 drubbing from the B.C.S. Seniors. Yesterday afternoon the Sherbrooke High Seniors and B.C.S. Seniors met and after a fast and close game Sherbrooke High on goals by Jeff Mills and Denis Kirby emerged winners by a 2-0 result. Mills Kirby and Hill showed up well for the winners. Buzzell and Anido were the B.C.S. stars. Sherbrooke High: Schmidt, Cadman, Pariseau, Coates, Leckie, Henderson, Emond, Kirby, Mills, Dinning and Hill. B.C.S.: Abdalla, Pooock, Buzzell, Anido, Marchant, MacDonald, Lesky, Kingston, Collican, Sartig and MacPherson.

Casey Stengel Returns To Former Haunts

NEW YORK (AP)—A former Yankee of note—Casey Stengel—got back into the world series picture Thursday just before the second game between New York and Cincinnati Reds. Stengel, who managed American league champions between 1949 and 1960, went to the batting cage while the Yankees were taking batting practice and chatted with many of his old players. Stengel was signed last Friday as manager of New York Mets in the National League next season.

The Record's Farm Report

Most striking feature of the September 1 hog survey released by DBS this week was the changes in plans for fall farrowings. Apparently fears of the drought and high feed prices led farmers to cut back June-August farrowings from the 17 per cent increase over 1960 that was expected on the June 1 survey to an actual three per cent increase as reported September 1.

But September - November farrowings are now expected to make up for this cutback. Perhaps because feed supplies are now found more ample, farmers plan to increase September-October farrowings from the 18 per cent expected in June to 20 per cent as reported in September.

ARDA PROGRAM
Questions are being raised about why action on the agricultural rehabilitation and development act (ARDA) has been delayed so long. Agriculture minister Hamilton now expects to answer them with action soon. His key problem has been to get a director appointed who can give special attention to the ARDA program. He expected the civil service commission to solve this for him this weekend, by selecting a director from among several candidates.

It might have been possible to make shift to start ARDA while awaiting an appointment. But apparently some conflicts within the Agriculture department made this inadvisable. Some PFRA officials, for example, have made it clear they regard ARDA simply as an extension of PFRA to the Maritimes. Others in the department look on ARDA as only an expansion of existing farm programs.

BID FOR LAMBS
Agriculture supplementary estimates include an additional $380,000 for lamb carcass grading premiums and $1.5 million to Prairie provinces to pay one half the costs in those provinces for transport of fodder, haying equipment and movements of cattle to feed, effective June 26, 1961 to March 31, 1962. A grant of $125,000 is provided also to pay P.E.I. farmers up to $300 each for losses on their 1960 potato crop due to fusarium rot.

Lilacs fit in well

By MARGARET E. DOVE

Lilacs are unsurpassed for hardiness, long life, and ease of culture. They are also attractive in foliage and form after their comparatively long-flowering period has passed.

READILY MOVED

The shrubs readily lend themselves to transplanting and may be moved in early spring or in the fall. Since they are spring-blooming shrubs, fall moving seems the better in that it interferes much less with flowering and often fall-moved plants will recover sufficiently to continue blooming without interruption, during the first year.

Size is not too important when selecting lilac plants. Usually strong three to four-foot plants are used; smaller ones take longer to begin blooming and larger ones are a bit harder to handle.

Be sure to insist on "own root" plants when purchasing lilacs. Those grafted on understock may be somewhat cheaper but they never produce such satisfactory plants.

The prepared hole in which the lilac is to be placed should be large enough to accommodate all the roots without bending or breaking. The plant is set with the crown four to six inches below the surface, the soil worked well in around the roots, leaving no air-pockets, then the remainder added and well firmed.

NEED WATER

A slight hollow should be left to aid in holding moisture the first season. As with all newly set plants, sufficient water should be given for several weeks.

To prepare the planting hole, dig to desired size, then partially fill with a good top-soil to which about one-third old, well-rotted manure has been added. A cup or two of bone meal worked into every bushel of soil before planting helps produce good, sturdy growth. When manure is not available peat moss or leafmold and a cup of complete fertilizer may be substituted.

Where soil is inclined to be acid, lime should be added to bring it to neutral, and applications made from time to time to keep it so. Any agricultural station will test the soil free of charge and recommend the required amount.

Frayed cords present a real menace

THOU SHALT:

—NOT tack electrical cord into place

—NOT use light cord as utility extension

—NOT run cord under rug

By MR. FIX

Lamp cords, perhaps because they have no moving parts, are too often taken for granted. Take a look right now at lamp cords or extensions that are more than a few years old and you are likely to find some that need repair or replacement.

Check the plug end first. You may find that the insulation is broken right back of the plug, the point at which the wire remains bent all the time.

Repairing Plug
Cut the cord at this point and reconnect the plug farther back. Strip the wires for a half inch or more and separate the two wires for about six inches. With rubber covered lamp cord you can do this by just pulling the wires apart with your fingers.

When you strip the insulation cut with the knife blade at an angle to avoid cutting the fine stranded wire underneath. Slip the wire through the ting will break the insulation. The strands of wire have a way of coming apart and breaking when you wrap them around and hook them under the screws in the plug. This is done in a clockwise direction, by the way. You can prevent unraveling by twisting the strands and tinning them with a small amount of solder.

Lamp Cords
Lamp cords that are frayed or broken in several spots, or at points other than the end, should be replaced entirely. Do not attempt to splice lamp cord, or any cord that is moved about or pulled on. Buy new cord with the Underwriters seal.

This, pliable rubber covered wire that is sold for lamp cord should be used for nothing else.

Appliances of the non-heating type require a heavier cord. For vacuum sweepers, mixers, sewing machines and similar items use the type that has extra insulation covered by a heavy rubber cover.

Toasters, irons and other heating appliances require wire that is heavy, and insulated with asbestos as well.

Caution
If an electrical item requires a certain type of cord, the same type is required for any extension cord you might want to use with it. Do not use a lamp cord extension for a toaster.

The lighter wire may heat up. If nothing else happens the appliance will still work less effectively due to the power drop through the lighter wire.

Do not tack lamp cords, appliance cords or extensions to the woodwork. Never run a wire under a rug. Keep cords in the design they work on the principle of having the prongs pierce the insulation by way of sharp burrs or points on the sides of the prongs. Wire need not be separated or stripped. Since the entire wire, insulation and all, is inserted into the plug this type will work only with thin lamp cord.

HOUSE PLAN OF THE WEEK

NEW HOUSE DESIGN — A feature of this solid-masonry house, designed by architects Polson and Munro of Don Mills, Ontario, is the large window area at the front which ensures a well-lighted interior. Inside, a capacious feeling is imparted by an open stairway leading up to the dining and living rooms.

By raising the main floor of their three-bedroom bungalow, the architects have allowed more headroom and window space in the basement, an arrangement that permits better use of this area for recreational and living facilities. The design is sometimes called a "split-level entrance" house.

The floor area of the house is 1,050 square feet and the exterior dimensions 42 feet by 25 feet. Known as Design 2304, minimum cost.

Coaticook takes part in Fire Prevention Week, Oct. 8-14

Fire department serves towns

COATICOOK — The Coaticook fire department has a fine record of service to the community and continues to work hard to maintain its reputation.

G. GROLEAU
Coaticook Fire Chief

The fire and police chief is G. Groleau and there are 17 other members of the force. Fifteen of them work on a voluntary basis. This means that they can be called out at any hour of the day or night any time during the week. Often they risk their lives doing work which they volunteer for and for which they receive no pay.

The Coaticook fire department is also responsible for the municipality of Barford. Other areas which the Coaticook Fire Department serves if it is called upon for help are, Barnston, Dixville, St. Hermenegilde, Compton, and Stanhope.

Each year during fire prevention week, held this year from October 8 to 14, the Coaticook Fire Department reminds the communities it serves that most fires can and should be prevented. However, efficient a fire department is, it can not always prevent the damage and loss of life which fires cause.

Fire victims suffocate

THREE-QUARTERS of home fire victims die upstairs, untouched by the flames from below. The oxygen vital to life has been replaced by the superheated killer gases, including carbon monoxide. Such is the "chemistry" of fire and death by fire. The equation of fire: Fuel plus air plus heat equals fire.

The story is tragically familiar to our fire fighters, who almost daily, report it under the headline: suffocation by fire. The Coconut Grove night club fire of 1942 in Boston is a well-known example. But even more striking were those of two fires in northern Canada within the last half century. Their stories need to be better known.

The first of these was the Porcupine conflagration in 1911, just after the fabulous gold discoveries.

Trapped Below
At the bottom of an 80-foot mine shaft, the bodies of 34 persons were found—life (and oxygen) devoured by the searing heat overhead, from which they had sought escape.

1000 homes burn a week

Every week fire strikes at more than one thousand Canadian homes.

In terms of dollars that means a yearly loss of above $30,000,000, although the typical house fire averages under $500 in damage.

But the ghastly truth is that three-quarters of all our fire deaths occur in those Matheson fire, some of the 223 victims were found peacefully at rest under culverts in root houses and ravines, unburned.

A few lived through the ordeal by constantly drenching their heads under water soaked blankets and sacks from which they could extract the barest amounts of oxygen.

Let their experience be your guide, if ever you have to face the terrible personal fact of fire. Use your head.

Chop A Hole
Without oxygen in your lungs, you are dead, probably in the time it takes to read this sentence.

Now you know why the fire fighter heads for the roof of a house to chop open a hole.

It is to let out the superheated gases, the scorching breath of fire.

homes. And not only death, for hundreds of Canadians are horribly burned and often permanently scarred in these fires.

Fires rarely just "happen"! Nine out of every ten fires are the result of sheer carelessness and thoughtless neglect of simple precautions.

Regardless of the cause, experienced fire fighters say, many of the human tragedies are needless. Not knowing what to do, victims are often trapped by their own ignorance. They might have gotten out if they had known how.

They didn't know how. So they died. Or they survived, scarred and maimed.

Every Canadian in every home can profit by learning the simple lessons of fire prevention and fire safety.

Such is the basis of the fire services' appeal for the cold weather — hot fire months ahead. It is an appeal for every man, woman and child. And it is a special appeal for the sake of the children, who make up nearly half the victims.

Baby sitting short course

Here for parent and for the sitter, are standard rules for the work:

1. The sitter should have a sense of responsibility and should like the children and preferably live in the neighborhood.

2. Instructions should be given in writing as well as orally—Where you are going and telephone number or the name and number of someone to call in an emergency. Your telephone number and location of telephone.

Emergency telephone numbers for FIRE, POLICE, DOCTOR.

How to call the fire department.

Location of exits.

How to control the furnace or stove.

Leave a flashlight in case of power failure.

Guide to the sitter in emergency.

Get the children safely out.

Even if it's cold, don't wait to dress them. Wrap them in a blanket.

Even the smell of smoke or gas is enough warning to call the fire department, or summon help. Be sure to say exactly where you are.

If you can, turn on the front lights, to attract attention. Don't re-enter the house.

Smoke or gas from a very small fire may be fatal. If you are trapped inside, remember that the air near the floor is usually better in smoke-filled room.

Inside, don't turn on or off any electric switches. This may create a spark, ignite gas vapors, and cause explosion.
