MAYOR A. C. SKINNER OFFICIALLY TOOK OVER DUTIES LAST NIGHT

Inaugural Meeting Held Prior to Regular Session Last Evening—Ex-Mayor Tetreault Delivered Valedictory—Mayor Skinner Thanked His Predecessor for His Services to Sherbrooke—Brief Remarks Made by Members of Council.

HIS WORSHIP Mayor A. C. Skinner was officially sworn into office last evening as successor to ex-Mayor J. S. Tetreault and as forty-third Mayor of the City of Sherbrooke.

Mayor Skinner, who was elected by acclamation a little over a week ago, took his oath of office before a large gathering of citizens and the members of the City Council. The ceremony was held in the Council Chambers and preceded the regular Council meeting, over which Mayor Skinner presided. The presence of several ladies added grace and charm to the gathering.

The retiring Mayor, Notary J. S. Tetreault, called the meeting to order in the usual manner, after which he delivered his valedictory address.

During the course of his remarks the retiring Chief Magistrate offered congratulations to his successor and complimented him upon the mark of confidence which the citizens had shown in him.

Ex-Mayor Tetreault also congratulated the two aldermen returned by acclamation, Messrs. L. R. Langis and F. H. Bradley, and extended a cordial welcome to Alderman J. C. Merin, who was the successful candidate in the West Ward election.

Aldermen have big problems to consider and settle, the retiring Mayor said. "Much has been done in the past in the interests of the city, and much still remains to be done, but with the co-operation and support of everyone success is assured," Mr. Tetreault said.

Of the thirty years that he has been a resident of Sherbrooke, Notary Tetreault has devoted fifteen years of this time to the services of the city, and retiring from this active life he is satisfied that he has performed his duty to the satisfaction of himself and of the public.

Mr. Tetreault took advantage of the occasion to thank his former colleagues on the City Council and also the citizens for the honor they conferred upon him in electing him Mayor by acclamation.

Mr. Tetreault said that he was leaving the municipal affairs in very good shape and was confident that the present Council would continue to look after the city's good reputation and welfare, so that Sherbrooke may continue to be known as one of the most beautiful and best governed cities of the Province of Quebec.

In concluding his remarks Mr. Tetreault again assured Mayor Skinner of his best wishes in his new position, and turned towards the newly-elected Mayor, said: "I invite you to come forward and occupy the chair which the citizens of Sherbrooke have conferred on you."

"Permit me, first of all, to extend my sincere thanks to our worthy ex-Mayor for his very eloquent and kind remarks," Mayor Skinner said in making his first address as Mayor of the City. Continuing he said:

"To all of the citizens of Sherbrooke, I wish to express my appreciation for the great honor which you have conferred upon me by electing me Mayor of this fair city by acclamation. Tonight he has the greatest honor of all, that of retiring from this difficult and arduous position with the knowledge that the citizens in general approve of his administration. As his first act in office I intend to extend to him the grateful thanks and appreciation of the citizens of Sherbrooke."

"It is customary, I believe, for a new Mayor to announce his program at his first meeting. I see no need for any radical change at this time. Our municipal council has been most progressive. They have provided us with improved streets, sidewalks, sewers, given us better fire and police protection, more electric light and power, built a new civic hospital, two fine bridges and made many other improvements which I cannot at the moment recall, and all of this at a low rate of taxation."

"This, I think, shows that the citizens have been wise in their selection of men for the City Council, and that the aldermen have been diligent and businesslike in their administration. Great praise is also

THE POSSIBILITY OF ANOTHER TRANSNEPTUNIAN PLANET ANNOUNCED

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., April 23.—Possibilities of the existence of another hitherto unknown trans-Neptunian planet was announced today by Professor Harlow Shapley, director of the Harvard Observatory, following receipt of a telegram from the Dominion Observatory at Ottawa.

The possible proof of such a planet's existence has been hidden away on photographic plates taken at the Canadian Observatory six years ago.

PLANE USED BY PRINCE LAST WEEK CRASHED TODAY

Had Just Taken Off on Its Return Flight to Khartoum—All Occupants Were Killed.

CAIRO, Egypt, April 23.—The aeroplane in which the Prince of Wales travelled here from Khartoum last week crashed this morning at Heliopolis aerodrome shortly after taking off on its return flight to Khartoum. Its occupants were killed.

AUSTIN, Texas, April 23.—A flaming torch of oil today marked the site of No. 1 Simon's gusher, which caught fire last night, in the Chapman oil field as it blew in unexpectedly.

Twelve boilers, all available in the field, have been connected to the gusher, and the flames are shooting live steam into the hole in an effort to extinguish the fire.

MAY SELECT AUSTRALIAN AS NEXT GOVERNOR-GENERAL OF AUSTRALIA

Interest Shown in London Circles at Mention of Appointment of Sir Isaac Alfred Isaacs, Chief Justice of Australian High Court, as Successor to Lord Stonehaven—London Diplomatic Circles Have Long Looked for Such a Procedure.

LONDON, April 23.—A report from Australia last night that Sir Isaac Alfred Isaacs, Chief Justice of the Australian High Court, has been recommended to succeed Lord Stonehaven as Governor-General of Australia, was received in England with great interest.

No official intimation that Australia's next Governor-General would be an Australian has been received here, but the report was expected and was welcomed. Sir Isaac, it is understood, visited England once, some years ago.

London diplomatic circles have long been prepared for such a procedure, which was indeed foreshadowed in the deliberations of the Imperial Conference of 1926. Extreme Dutch Nationalists carried out some agitation during the past winter for appointment of a South African as Governor-General of the Union, but Premier J. B. Hertzog rejected the application on the grounds that a Governor-General from outside the Union would probably prove more impartial, as between the different South African parties and races.

Outside peoples who find it difficult to follow the complexities of the organization which is the British Commonwealth of Nations, may doubtless regard the news that an Australian has been recommended to succeed Lord Stonehaven as another sign of impending dissolution of the Empire, the Manchester Guardian remarks today.

"It is of course," the Guardian says, "another step in rounding of the self-governing powers of the dominions and if we except the governorship of the Irish Free State a new one, it is an experiment which others of the self-governing dominions may be expected to follow. It follows naturally upon other steps along the road to autonomy, such as the rights to diplomatic representation and membership in the League of Nations."

"The day when colonial appointments were regarded by the Home Government as a convenient method of disposing of a troublesome superior or an importunate friar are long past. So, too, is the time when the Governor-General was expected to preside like a benevolent kinsman over all the destinies of his country. Developments have tended to reduce the powers of the Governor-General

EXPECT RECORD TOURIST TOTAL THIS SUMMER

Eastern Townships Proving Very Popular—Preparations Being Made to Handle Traffic With Utmost Care.

QUEBEC, April 23.—Never before has the Department of Highways been invaded with such a number of requests of all kinds for information on summer resorts of the province, and in general on the advantages offered to visitors.

Compared to last year, according to the Provincial Tourist Bureau officials, queries have been pouring in much more numerous and from further points, some of them from Mexico and the South American countries.

While Montreal, Quebec and Sherbrooke are still retaining as the largest centres a great share of the attractions, it appears that information now sought would indicate that the tourists are planning to invade the Gaspé peninsula, the Lower St. Lawrence district, and the Laurentians, north of Montreal. The Eastern Townships are also proving very popular.

In the meantime the department is preparing to handle the traffic with utmost care, and a record season is forecast.

"Judging by the fact that within a week five persons have been killed at railway crossings," stated J. L. Boulanger, Deputy Minister of Roads, "it will be necessary to be stricter than ever. Our speed officers have been instructed to be very severe on speed infractions. Yesterday afternoon, following the report of the three deaths near Coleraine when an automobile was struck by a train, a further move was made on the Quebec-Sherbrooke highway, again to protect the motorists against themselves by enforcing the law, which obliges them to stop their cars completely at railway crossings."

"Unless the regulations are enforced to the limit the season would bring more accidents than two years ago, when so many lives were sacrificed through the neglect of the people to protect themselves."

PILOT LEAPED TO SAFETY AS PLANE CRASHED

Aerial Combat Was Being Staged for Benefit of Thousands of Spectators.

MATHER FIELD, Sacramento, Calif., April 23.—Lieutenant I. A. Woodring, pursuit squadron, Rockwell Field, San Diego, leaped to safety yesterday with his parachute when his plane crashed on Mather Field from a height of two thousand feet during a "dog fight" with his squadron leader, Captain H. Melndorf, who with Lieut. Woodring had withdrawn from the pursuit formation flying in review before Major General James E. Fecht, chief of the army air corps, to stage an aerial combat for the benefit of thousands of spectators.

Suddenly something was seen to fly off from Lieutenant Woodring's plane, and at the same instant the pilot leaped from the cockpit. His parachute opened immediately and he floated to the field unharmed. The plane crashed within two hundred feet of the spot where the pilot landed.

Lieutenant Woodring was pilot of the plane which, in the summer of 1927, was in fatal collision with that of Lieutenant Thad Johnson, as the latter missed his landing at Lindbergh Field, Ottawa, at the end of a flight as part of the escort to Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, who flew to the Canadian capital to take part in the celebration of the Diamond Jubilee of Confederation. Johnson jumped as Woodring's propeller smashed the tail assembly of his machine, but he was too close to the ground and his parachute failed to open.

ELECTRIFICATION OF RURAL MUNICIPALITIES

QUEBEC, April 23.—Further electrification of rural municipalities on the south shore of the St. Lawrence river, in the vicinity of Montreal, is heralded by the application of the Cedars Rapids Power Company for permission to build two overhead transmission lines across the river to the south shore counties.

SEVERAL PERSONS INJURED IN "COUNTER WITH POLICE"

CALCUTTA, Bengal, India, April 23.—Jatindranath Roy, in charge of the Feni police station, was shot in the abdomen last night while searching four men. Two constables also were shot. The culprits escaped.

Professor Vijaykumar, Swami, vice-president of the Howrah municipality, and twenty-nine other persons were arrested today while plotting shops, most of them owned by Moslems in the Howrah market.

Nationalist volunteers attempted to break the police cordon and in the ensuing melee several were injured. While the arrested persons were being taken to court the crowd attacked the prison van but was dispersed by the police.

Pandit Madan Mohan Malaviya arrived in Calcutta to meet the Marwari merchants regarding boycott of foreign cloth.

Sherbrooke's New Mayor

HIS WORSHIP MAYOR ALBERT CARLOS SKINNER

Mr. Albert Carlos Skinner, who was officially sworn in as Sherbrooke's forty-third Mayor last evening, as successor to ex-Mayor J. S. Tetreault, is a citizen who is thoroughly qualified to carry out with ability and dignity the duties which accompany such a high office.

First of all there is his municipal career which reflects upon him the highest credit in every respect. For many years he represented the North Ward before resigning owing to increasing personal business. When Mr. Skinner vacated his seat on the Council he left behind him a record which it is the privilege of few men to claim. His business ability being realized by his conferees in the City Council, he was selected to head several important committees, and was at various times chairman of the market, health and water committees.

Another interesting chapter of Mayor Skinner's career is that dealing with his business life. He is today head of one of the largest and most widely known jewellery firms of the Eastern Townships, the firm being that of A. C. Skinner, Limited, of which he is president. This is one of the oldest firms of its kind in the Province of Quebec, having been established here over seventy years ago by the late Carlos Skinner, father of Sherbrooke's new Mayor.

As a private citizen, Mr. Skinner enjoys the popularity and respect of a wide circle of business and personal friends, while the numerous social and fraternal organizations of which he is a member brings him into contact with all classes of citizens.

Mayor A. C. Skinner is a citizen who is in every way deserving of the honor which the citizens have extended to him.

HON. R. LEMIEUX MAY GO TO SENATE, IT IS ANNOUNCED

Speaker of House of Commons May Succeed Late Senator Desaulles.

QUEBEC, April 23.—Much credence is given here to the report published in L'Evenement yesterday to the effect that Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, Speaker of the House of Commons, would go to the Senate, succeeding the late Senator Desaulles. It is also generally conceded that in such event Mr. Georges Parent, M.P. for Quebec West, would succeed him as First Commoner. Mr. Parent has practically relinquished his connection with Le Soleil, of which he was president, and it is said that he would accept the appointment.

SEVERAL ONTARIO BROKERS ALLOWED TO SELL STOCKS ON MARGIN BASIS AGAIN

TORONTO, April 23.—Announcement has been made two local brokerage houses have been allowed to resume trading on a marginal basis. One other firm granted permission to accept margin business, declined to avail itself of the offer.

Resumption in margin trading suspended when heads of the "Big Five" were arrested following investigation in the local brokerage situation by the Ontario Government last January, was decided upon following a meeting of the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange executive.

BRITISH SOLDIER KILLED DURING TODAY'S DISTURBANCES IN INDIA

Trouble Occurred Over Arrest of a Number of Civil Disobedience Campaigners on Charges of Infringing Salt Monopoly—Disorders Accompanied by Cessation of Work.

PESHAWAR, India, April 23.—A British soldier was killed today during a disturbance over the arrest of a number of civil disobedience campaigners here on charges of infringing the salt monopoly. The disorders were accompanied by a halt or cessation of work.

Nationalist volunteers attempted to break the police cordon and in the ensuing melee several were injured. While the arrested persons were being taken to court the crowd attacked the prison van but was dispersed by the police.

Pandit Madan Mohan Malaviya arrived in Calcutta to meet the Marwari merchants regarding boycott of foreign cloth.

VERDICT GIVEN IN AUTO CRASH AT BLACK LAKE

Fatal Level Crossing Accident at Sharpe's Crossing Investigated—Railway Company Freed of All Blame.

(Special to the Record)

THETFORD MINES, April 23.—A verdict of accidental death was returned here last night at an inquest called by District Coroner Dube to investigate the facts surrounding the level crossing accident at Sharpe's Crossing yesterday morning which claimed the lives of Mr. and Mrs. A. Cote and Oscar Cyr, all of Coleraine. The members of the crew of the Quebec Central Railway southbound express, which struck the car in which the three persons were riding, were exonerated of all responsibility in connection with the accident.

According to evidence produced at the inquest by the engineer of the train, the car containing the party could be seen some distance away. Thinking that it would be brought to a stop before reaching the crossing, he did not slacken speed any more than his running regulations called for. When within a few feet of the crossing, however, the engineer noticed that the car was not stopping, and he applied the emergency brakes. The distance was too short to bring the heavy train to a stop in the few remaining feet, and the engine struck the car with terrific force. Mr. and Mrs. A. Cote, who were in the front seat, were instantly killed, while Cyr, who was removed to the St. Joseph Hospital at Thetford Mines, died two hours later.

It is thought that the occupants of the car did not realize their close proximity to the crossing until too late.

Montreal Man Ordered to Pay $200 and Costs for Bringing Cigarettes into Canada Without Payment of Customs Duties.

(Special to the Record)

SWEETSBURG, April 23.—E. A. Mondor, of Montreal, was fined $200 and costs by Judge J. H. Lemay in the Magistrate's Court here yesterday for bringing cigarettes into Canada without paying the customs duties.

Mondor, who was a conductor on the pullman operating between Springfield, Mass., and Quebec, was arrested by Roland Verdon, district preventive officer, following the seizure of $600 worth of cigarettes which were contained in two large grips the pullman conductor had in his possession.

A short time ago Verdon, who had been assigned to check up on complaints that cigarettes were being smuggled into Canada through the Montreal-Quebec Pullman Pacific passenger train which Mondor had taken on leaving his train at Sherbrooke.

BANQUET GIVEN TO BUSINESS AND PROFESSIONAL MEN AT STANSTEAD

Representative Citizens of "Three Villages" Spent Pleasant Evening Together—Rev. Dr. Moody, of Stanstead Wesleyan College, Extended Greetings and Welcome—Mr. Alfred Wood, President and Editor of Sherbrooke Daily Record, Chief Speaker of Evening.

STANSTEAD, April 23.—The banquet tendered last evening to the Business and Professional men of the Three Villages: Stanstead, Rock Island and Beebe, by Dr. T. B. Moody and the members of the Stanstead Wesleyan College faculty, was a distinct success. It developed the latent pride of the Eastern Townships and the Border Towns in the college and in its wonderful influence in the community. The feast of reason and flow of soul showed also that the business men on both sides of the line held dear in their hearts the success of this fine old institution. Though not always articulate in expression as a public body of men, there ever existed a fondness for the institution and for its hallowed traditions.

Another pleasing atmosphere was evidenced in the friendly spirit of co-operation voiced by the International Board of Trade, wherein the leading men of Derby Line, just across the imaginary line, gave evidence of their cordial regard for their Canadian neighbors.

With the long tables in the college dining room laden with good things to eat, and with music and song from talented local artists, the guests of the college were deeply stirred by the kindly welcome of Dr. "Tom" and his staff.

Rev. Mr. Carson ably seconded Dr. Moody's welcome. Professor Harlow Shapley, the much-loved master of music, who presides over the Eastern Townships College of Music, also joined in the vocal preludes, as did Prof. J. D. McFadyen, head of the Bugbee Business College.

All of these gentlemen stressed the harmony which existed between the college and the Four Towns on the border line, and voiced the friendly spirit of co-operation which had long continued, and which was more evident then ever between the Three Towns and the College.

Speakers of the evening were: Messrs. A. L. Fuller, A. C. Cowles, of the National Bank, of Derby Line; Edward Struthers and Herbert Rice, of the Canadian and United States Customs, the latter gentleman being president of the International Chamber of Commerce; F. J. Montle, of Sherbrooke, chairman of the Library extension of the John Colby Memorial Library; John McDonald, the well-known mining engineer; John Holland, editor of the Stanstead Journal; J. L. Converse and Frank Heale, of the Stanstead Granite Company.

It was a representative gathering of the leading citizens of the Three Villages and President Moody as chief host was in his usual happy vein, with his worthy helpmate, Mrs. Moody, in the background to see that the feast of reason and flow of soul should be smooth and pleasant.

Mr. Alfred Wood, president and editor of the Sherbrooke Record, who had been announced as the speaker of the evening, says that this is the speech he intended to make, with apologies to his hearers for his boring them.

"I felt honored when I was so kindly invited by President Moody to attend a meeting which the friends of this historic old institution, Stanstead College, with its hallowed traditions, and its many distinguished graduates."

"I first heard of Stanstead College when I was a young collegian in a fine old Quaker school at Pickering, where, my father taught reading, arithmetic and learning to a hundred young Quakers like myself."

"As one of the elder boys in a small family of eleven children I quit school of my own volition at 12 years of age, first enjoying a month in a saw mill and then becoming the printers' devil in a country newspaper office. My first paper, the Pickering News, lives and thrives yet, which I ascribe to the fact that when thirteen years of age I was the editor of the paper."

"When Dr. Moody asked me to speak on the general theme of education I had the feeling of the man who was asked to stretch beyond his reach."

"My knowledge of school education, after passing an examination for a school teacher's certificate at twelve years of age, ended there. I entered the 'University of Journalism' which is akin to the School of Hardknocks."

"As a boy, as a very small boy, with an early assumption of responsibility, I was impressed with the fact that the educationalist was not fairly rewarded for his learning or for his skill in imparting to others that which was an axiom to him. The school teacher and the professor in a school or college does not served for scientific study."

MORE PEOPLE RIDE ON GOODYEAR TIRES THAN ON ANY OTHER KIND!

GOOD YEAR TIRES

I'LL GIVE YOU MORE FOR YOUR TIRE MONEY

I'm in the happy position of having been chosen to sell... in your community... The World's Greatest Tires.

I specialize on this make—Goodyear—because they have proven themselves best in the only three possible tests of tire quality: 1. In the laboratory, 2. On test fleets for millions of miles, 3. For the many millions of miles of all-weather all-road driving on users' cars.

I recommend them to you because they are the only tires with the famous All-Weather Tread—the tread with traction in the center, where it belongs—and because they are the only tires made with Supertwist, the extra-elastic patented Goodyear cord which springs and recovers instead of breaking when your tire strikes a bump or a rough road.

Because I specialize I can carry a full stock which turns rapidly. Thus you save time; you get fresher stock, better value and low cost.

I'm in your community... my signs and my local advertising identify me. See me first when you need new tires.

The Supertwist Cord in Goodyear Tires is made in the Province of Quebec.

ADDRESS GIVEN ON CHEMISTRY LAST EVENING

Prof. Kuehner, of Bishop's University, Speaker at Rotary Club—Nominating Committee Appointed.

The wonders of modern chemistry as applied in medical research were reviewed last evening at the regular weekly meeting of the Rotary Club at the New Sherbrooke House by Professor A. L. Kuehner, of Bishop's University.

Professor Kuehner told of the discovery of synthetic drugs and the manner in which they are assisting the cure of diseases which a few years ago were thought to be fatal. Anaesthetics were also touched upon by the speaker, who explained that chemists had found new ways of making anaesthetics that did their work effectively without any danger to humans.

The vote of thanks was given by Rotarian E. H. Bradley. Past Presidents R. E. Richardson, Henry Welsh, D. J. Salls and D. A. McManamy were appointed a nomination committee to select a slate of officers for the coming year.

During the evening a new member, Rotarian Eddie O'Brien, with the classification of "Chartered Accountant," was introduced to the members.

ASCOT W.L. MEETING HELD

The April meeting of the Ascot Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. A. McMillen, Lennoxville, on Thursday, April 17th. There was a good attendance of members and an unusual number of visitors. The roll call was "French folk lore and verse." A roll call contest is to be held again this year, the leaders being Mrs. Cox and Mrs. Lippsey. The question box was in charge of Mrs. Billings. The practical idea was given by Mrs. Gilbey. The annual reports and programmes were distributed.

Mrs. Woodside was appointed official delegate to provincial convention at Macdonald College in June. The following delegates were appointed to attend the annual convention meeting in Lennoxville on May 6th, Mrs. C. J. Woodward, Mrs. Dunn and Miss Barry.

As the treasurer's report showed that funds were low at present, there was much discussion on ways and means of replenishing the same. A committee was named for this purpose consisting of Mrs. Ashe, Mrs. Woodside and Mrs. Cox.

MONTREAL ROAD ROUGH IN SPOTS TO LITTLE LAKE

Motorists Complain that "Blow Holes" Caused by Frost Are Menace to Motorists Using Highway Between This City and Little Lake.

Several complaints have been heard during the past few weeks regarding the condition of the Montreal-Sherbrooke highway between this city and Lake Park.

The highway, which was newly paved last fall, is in rather poor condition, the frost having worked its way through and caused "blow holes" of considerable area along different sections of the highway. In some spots the holes are of considerable depth and are a danger to the motoring public. In others there are ridges in the pavement about a foot high, two feet wide and ten feet and more in length. There are two such ridges on the hills leading to Lake Park near Crawford's corner, about a mile and a half from the city limits. No apparent effort has as yet been made to repair the damage or to mark the danger spots in the highway along this stretch. In the day time these places can be spotted, but after nightfall the lights of a motor car often fail to show up the damaged section with the result that there is considerable danger of an accident.

No plausible explanation has been given to account for the damage caused by the frost. Naturally, even the best roads of this type buckle to a certain extent in the spring, but seldom do they break up completely as is the case of the pavement between this city and Little Lake. From Little Lake on the highway is reported to be in good condition, there being no blow holes of any description. Those who have experience in work of this kind, however, have advanced the opinion that the construction was either carried out too late in the fall or that the last few miles between Sherbrooke and Magog were built hurriedly and without sufficient precaution being taken to see that the proper type of foundation was built to support the pavement.

toric Quebec" was given by Mrs. R. Lippsey. One new member joined, Miss Drummond.

Following the adjournment, ice cream and other refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. McLeod, Mrs. A. F. Browne and Mrs. A. McMullen. They were assisted in serving by the Misses M. Marlin, U. Clarke and L. Dewhurst. The May meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Swinden.

SAINT GEORGE'S DAY

Today the thoughts of all Englishmen, in whatever part of the world they may have taken them, turn to the seagirt island that is forever the Homeland, for April 23rd is the day of England's patron saint, Saint George's Day.

Saint George's Day is truly an occasion for rejoicing and for proper national pride, a pride in which those sons of England who have sought homes beyond the seas share with those who have remained on English soil.

Apart from being Saint George's Day, April 23rd is also the birthday of England's greatest poet, William Shakespeare.

The day also recalls the glorious deed of the officers and men of H. M. S. Vindictive at Zeebrugge, which stopped the submarine menace and so literally prepared the way for world peace.

A day of such glorious memories cannot but enliven all loyal British subjects the greatest sparks of patriotism and Empire pride.

April 23rd could easily be termed a day of British thanksgiving, gratitude that the British flag flies in Canada, as throughout the Empire, at the greatest symbol of freedom, honor and justice.

COMPULSORY LAWS UNWISE.

In a recent letter to Canadians, C. S. McLean, of Louisville, Kentucky, who says he is of Canadian extraction discusses the humiliation he feels at the action of the Canadian Parliament, and his amazement thereat, in the passing of a law to help the United States enforce their laws. He considers it a marked departure from the Canadian people's well-fixed habit of minding their own business and expecting other people to do likewise.

The manufacture of liquors has the full force of Dominion authority behind it, and it does seem to him that the Canadian Government should recognize the sovereign right of all its people to export their wares to any market in the world. "It is nothing short of a compromise of sovereignty to deny this," he says. "If the situation were reversed the United States Government certainly would not extend such consideration to Canada."

If the Canadian people should decide that the use of cigarettes was inimical to the national welfare, and would pass a law prohibiting the use of cigarettes, do you think that the United States would for one minute consider the passing of a measure denying their tobacco trust the right of exporting their wares into Canada? They would not!

Mr. McLean further points out that the United States sales to Canada are more than double their purchases from Canada, and that in forbidding the export of liquor to the United States, if the law can be enforced, will reduce sales still more, thus rendering Canada's balance of trade still more unfavorable.

Shall a numerically smaller, comparatively struggling country like Canada compromise its sovereignty simply because an organized minority group in the larger country ask the Canadian people to help them retain a law on the statute books which the majority do not want? This he asks.

Would the British Government do it? He further asserts that vicious scandals, and hypocritical happenings in Government circles, serious oil steals, and other sordid schemes of the looters of the Public Treasury have been hidden by the clamor of the war between the wets and the dries.

In conclusion, Mr. McLean says: "A change of conditions in the United States is nearer at hand than most people believe. If ever the American people get the opportunity to express themselves on the wet and dry proposition, to the exclusion of all other propositions, the verdict will be unmistakable. To date, they have never had that opportunity. Our dry status was literally railroaded over on us during the war hysteria, was ratified by State Legislatures, and called the law of the land. Never yet have the people at large been accorded the opportunity of expressing the public will. In such localities where referendums have been held since that time, the sentiment has been overwhelmingly wet. Wisconsin repealed her enforcement laws, New York her's, two States never enacted any at all, and as a climax to the whole affair, the unofficial poll of The Literary Digest, shows unmistakably that when the people express their views on this proposition, free of all pressure, they reject the whole scheme of affairs.

"You can never make a national law-making body the custodian of the people's honesty and boast of a nation of character. "Let me express the hope that this radical departure will be reconsidered by the responsible, intelligent people of Canada and that the Dominion will assert its fine prerogative of sovereignty and independence over other nations, which is the heritage of every component part of the mighty and ancient British Empire. I renew my expression of faith and esteem in the Canadian people, among whom I have many kinsmen."

Mr. MacLean may be "all wet," but he does express the oft-repeated belief of the editor that compulsory laws for the one-way thinking of the few are quite unwise, and only cause a revolution of feeling.

HIGH PAY AND HIGH PROTECTION.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier was a protectionist who believed in the defence of his country's industries. Canada thrived under this great Liberal's administration.

The Hon. W. S. Fielding was a free trader in theory who became a high protectionist in practice when he studied the problem of Canada's trade and commerce.

Michael Clark, an English gentleman, came to Canada and owned a ranch in Alberta. He was a free trader by conviction because that was what they all believed back 'ome. But Michael made no impression upon Sir Wilfrid, who promptly met his theories by the British preferential. Michael's theories did convince the American farmers in Alberta and Saskatchewan for they had predilections for their native country and were accustomed to think that what was made in the United States must be better than what was made in Canada.

So that Michael made some easy converts, and when a few thousand of them journeyed to Ottawa a few years ago they frightened a timid Liberal party which has long been walking the tight rope which a minority Government must walk.

There are two things which the King administration fears—the Progressive Free Traders and the Washington Government. Together, they have Mackenzie King in a constant state of fright.

High pay for labor and for farm produce comes from protection of our industries.

The doctrine of Free Trade whilst every country has declared war upon us is like unto the preaching of a pacifist whilst our country is being invaded. The only difference is that in the first case our markets are invaded and attacked in business war, and in the other our loyalty and our love of country is attacked in real war.

Low tariff and low prices bring about a Business Depression.

SCHOOL DAYS LONG ENOUGH.

Our correspondent from Brigham asks for an opinion on a longer school term and on compulsory education.

The only compulsory laws I favor are those in the Ten Commandments.

Nine months of school going are long enough for any growing child, and eight months should be ample if we have any regard for the health and happiness of our children. The other four months are necessary, for they give the pupil the intermission required to digest the teaching and the lessons.

Just ask the children, for with school they learn reason and gain some idea of discipline.

Compulsory laws are bad when they apply to civil or social life. We have too many laws, by-laws and restrictive measures on the statute books. Why should we be asked to apply criminal laws to the child or its parents. The latter alone are responsible for the upbringing of their offspring. An interfering policeman or truant officer does not make for happiness in the family. To be happy, to love and to be loved—what more do we need?

The discussion closes right here.

MILLIONS LOST TO CANADA.

Again we have imported from other countries within the fiscal year $129,162,852 more than we sold to other countries. Canada's resources are thus depleted to that amount in one single year.

If a private company had such a report of sales and purchases laid before them the shareholders would call for the resignation of the President and Directors, in order that the company should not go into the hands of a receiver.

The loss of a hundred and a quarter millions to Canada helps build a few skyscrapers in New York, helps build up a few new towns in the United States, and relieves us of having half a million more people who would consume the wheat and vegetables our farmers raise.

EDITOR'S NOTE BOOK.

High Pay and High Protection are boon Companions.

Low Price and Low Tariff mean deep Depression.

Every one admits that Canada could hold its own with free trade in every commodity. The cost of Government could be cut in half if the world followed the principles of free trade and no tariff. But when every country in the world puts up a high tariff wall against Canada and against the British Dominions, then must we in self-defense, meet the tariff brick-by-brick. That is an economic axiom.

The new tariffs about to be enunciated by the present Government must ditch the Progressives who have been aggressive in preaching the prehistoric doctrines of free trade. No other gesture will convince the agricultural and industrial industries that the Government is sincerely in earnest in meeting the causes of our present trade depression. We have the greatest natural resources, the greatest wealth per capita of any country in the world, but the slick Americans have been milking our cows, taking our cream, and leaving us the skim milk.

MANY WRECKS IN MONTH OF APRIL, IT IS REPORTED

Atlantic, Daniel Steinmann and Titanic Among Victims of April Weather on North Atlantic.

HALIFAX, N.S., April 22.—April has proven to be an unfortunate month for shipping in the North Atlantic. The comparatively recent Titanic disaster is still vivid, but details of two previous, outstanding shipwrecks are less generally known. They are of particular interest to this section of Nova Scotia, both having occurred on the coast of Halifax County and not far from this City.

The White Star Liner Atlantic was wrecked at Prospect shortly after 3 o'clock on the morning of April 1st, 1873. When the steamer left England for the United States, she carried 953 persons. Of this number, the lives of 546, mostly taken from the 730 steerage passengers, were lost. The bodies of many women and children were among those removed to the grassy knoll or "Hill of Death" on Ryan's Island.

The greatest disaster on this coast since the wreck of the Atlantic occurred between nine and ten o'clock on the night of April 3rd, 1884, when the steamer del Steinmann, thirteen and a half days from Antwerp, piled up on the rocks at Sambro Island. Ninety passengers and thirty-three of the crew were drowned, three passengers and six of the crew surviving.

The Atlantic ran short of fuel, and at one o'clock p.m. the day before the tragedy the ship was turned toward Halifax for coal. At the time of the wreck, the weather was cloudy but not thick. According to John William Firth, chief officer, the intended course was five miles east of Sambro Light. The point where the steamer struck was seven miles west of the Light. A possible strong, unknown current to the north and west was the only cause to which Firth could ascribe the disaster.

Fishermen thought the Atlantic first struck on Grampus Reef and ran half a mile east along the reefs until she crashed against the fatal rock that severed the hull as cleanly and completely as machinery might have done. Less than ten minutes after striking, the ship keeled over. Water rushed down into the steerage and hold, drowning hundreds and washing away many lifeboats. The rigging became crowded with all the passengers and crew who could secure places. Among this number was only one woman, whom Chief Officer Firth tied for security.

Stricken by exposure and swept by heavy seas, scores were washed away to death. One steerage passenger, unable to reach deck, was torn from several precarious grips on upper bunks and strangled, swinging nearly two hours with the motion of the water, while hundreds of passengers were drowning around him. Sometimes the floating bodies would roll into a heap under his feet and provide a temporary rest. At daylight thirty-two persons, including the woman, remained in the rigging. Chief Officer Firth, who was rescued by a boat's crew at two o'clock in the afternoon was the last man to leave the wreck alive.

Boys extending to the rock and shore saved a number of lives, but many perished in attempting to reach these lines. Most of the ship's boats had been smashed or washed away. Other boats, however, put out from shore and did heroic work against the heavy surf. About thirty square feet of the rock into which the Atlantic crashed, were above water in the morning. More than two hundred persons stood upon this surface for two or three hours until rescued by boats from the mainland.

The sea continued rough for several days, preventing approach to the reef. Outside the danger zone grappling for bodies and objects floated from the wreck was carried on. Then the waves were still, and divers and wreckers had a solemn duty. Holes were blown in the ship to facilitate the recovery of bodies and cargo. In one of the steerage passages the bodies were piled in heaps. As divers removed them, they were taken to Ryan's Island where, mer. constructed rough board boxes in preparation for burial at Upper and Lower Prospect. Row boat came ashore carrying as many as twenty bodies at a time.

Newspaper condemned those responsible for sending the liner to sea with a short supply of coal. The Atlantic began her first trans-Atlantic voyage on June 26th, 1871, reaching her destination in ten days. She was 3,700 tons burden and 440 ft. long. Capable of accommodating 1,200 passengers, she also fitted for general trade. The steamer was built at Belfast.

The Daniel Steinmann was doomed when the fixed light of Sambro was mistaken in the fog and rain for the light at Chebucto Head. The helm was put hard a port too late to prevent the steamer striking. Before the boats could be lowered, every person standing on deck was washed overboard by a terrific sea. The ship then went down. Captain Schoonhoven, who succeeded in catching the top rail yards, was later joined by a passenger. The next morning they were rescued by men from Sambro Island, which possessed neither lifeboat nor rocket apparatus. The other survivors had reached land through the surf.

The island is a mass of granite, the lighthouse standing sixty feet above the sea, on an almost perpendicular cliff. Huge cliffs surround the shores, and the basin is studded with rocks. The wreck was south of the light and three hundred yards from the base of the island.

On an examination paper was the line: "Give for any one year the number of bales of cotton exported from America."

The answer of one applicant was: "1492, None."

The Quebec Temperance Law VS The Scott Act

The electors of the County of Compton will be called upon to vote, April 28th, against the Scott Act, in order to try out the Quebec Commission Law, which has proven successful in 95% of the towns and villages of the Province of Quebec.

The issue is squarely up to the people of the Municipal County of Compton.

Every person who knows the present conditions in certain villages of the County of Compton, will admit that they are intolerable, as a consequence of the Scott Act, which is not and cannot be enforced.

Those of us who are fathers and mothers, and those who have charge of souls in the county, are convinced that the time has come when we ought to place ourselves in good standing with the rest of the Province, and to see whether we want law and order to prevail in the County of Compton.

The County of Compton being the only one in the Province of Quebec still under the Scott Act, it is a well admitted fact that certain villages, specially those situated on the International boundaries, have been chosen by the bootleggers of the Province as their home.

If the Scott Law is abolished, the Provincial Law will then be in force in the whole County of Compton, with local option as to permits, and the preventive service will be fully in charge of the Quebec Commission detectives.

If the electors of Compton wish to change this situation, they will act accordingly and go to the polls on Monday, April 28th, vote against the Scott Act, and mark their ballot as below FOR THE REVOCATION.

BRITISH PRESS GIVES OPINION ON CONFERENCE

Friendship of Incalculable Importance to World Peace Has Been Established by Disappearance of Competition in Naval Armaments Between Britain and U. S.

LONDON, April 23.—Comparison with the Geneva Conference of 1927 and removal of Anglo-American shipbuilding rivalry are the points most stressed in today's editorial comment on conclusion of the naval conference.

The Telegraph, after commenting on the ill effects of the Geneva failure, today said: "With the disappearance of competition in naval armaments between Great Britain and the United States a friendship of incalculable importance to the world's peace has been set up on a new and durable basis."

The Times said: "It seems more than any other single factor that the success of the conference has been due to the improvement in Anglo-American relations."

The Daily Herald, Labor organ, said: "It seems fantastic and yet it is a cold fact that only twelve months ago possibilities of an Anglo-American war were being discussed seriously."

due to the heads of the various departments, their assistants and staffs. They have done their work faithfully and well, and deserve great praise.

"I most heartily approve of the propositions now under way to build an incinerator and a modern filtration plant. Health matters should come first, and in this connection I trust that the Council will, within two years, secure additional land for public parks, so that the children may have ample playground facilities."

"And so, ladies and gentlemen, it seems to me that my task is not to promote new projects which might entail large expenditures of money, but simply to co-operate with the aldermen in a sound business administration, along the lines followed for several years."

"As an industrial city, seeing still more industries, we must, of course, provide ample power facilities well in advance of our requirements, and this I feel sure we will be able to do on the same mutually profitable basis that we have so successfully done in the past."

"Other requirements of prospective industries must be studied, and a determined effort made to secure our share of those desiring to settle in Southern Quebec."

"I trust that the citizens will be considerate in their demands for special grants during the next two years. It is extremely difficult to meet our growing financial requirements with the present rate of taxation. Not being magicians we cannot get more money unless we get more money from you."

"In particular I extend to the business and professional men who compose the Board of Trade my appreciation for the good work they have done for the city. This work is most important, and I am sure that they will receive the hearty co-operation of the council.

"We have a wonderful little city, a most desirable place in which to live. Those who have lived elsewhere or travelled extensively perhaps realize this better than most of us do."

"Let us believe in ourselves, and in our city. Let us always pull together, for in union there is strength, and make our city a still better place in every way."

"This, ladies and gentlemen, is my great desire, so that two years from tonight those who meet together here may feel that real progress has been made and that we have all done our bit to make Sherbrooke a bigger and a better place in which to live."

Following the remarks of the Mayor, Alderman S. R. Newton and L. R. Langis spoke briefly in English and French, each extending thanks to ex-Mayor J. S. Tetreault for the faithful services which he rendered to the city and welcoming the new Mayor.

They were followed by the other members of the Council, Aldermen Forest and Edwards voicing the pleasure of the Council at having the ladies present.

The inaugural meeting lasted until about nine o'clock, and at its conclusion the Council proceeded with the business of the regular meeting.

The actual meeting was not a specially important one, although it did serve as a means of clearing up a number of items.

There was a slight discussion regarding the filtration plant. It was finally decided that before any final action is taken a delegation, comprising the Mayor and Aldermen Bradley, Lorranger, Langis and the City Engineer, will visit several localities where filtration systems are in operation find out more information concerning such plants.

There was nothing of a very important nature in the correspondence. The Notre Dame Baseball Club asked that Dufresne Park, in get for his work more than a quarter of that which he is worth to his school and to his country. I refer particularly to the man teacher who makes education his life work, and who may be eminently fitted for that work."

"Speaking of fitness, 'May I just recall an incident which happened on a pitch dark night some 16 years ago while I was journeying across the continent. I was stopping in Regina, and had run down to get a letter to the only girl in the world. As I stepped out of the post office I heard a voice which sounded familiar. I delved into memories of the past, recalled a voice I had not heard in thirty years."

"Pardon me Sir, 'Are you Colin Fraser?' I asked. 'Yes, sir,' he replied."

"Well, Mr. Fraser I have come to the conclusion that a Scotchman cannot teach an Englishman how to talk French."

"What do you mean, sir?" was the somewhat indignant query.

"Thirty years ago, a gentleman named Fraser gave me a two-year-old child as a present. I have lived in Montreal for ten years, and I cannot speak French yet," was my reply.

"Is your name Wood?"

"Yes, sir."

"And we reminisced until midnight, for he had been my French language teacher at Pickering College thirty years before, I had not seen him, heard from him in all that interval."

"My day the school teacher with a family of six children received the munificent salary of $600 a year, not as much as the village blacksmith made in six months. Small wonder that he had to move on every few years to a better school with a higher salary or whenever there was a new accession to the family. My father moved eleven times in 20 years."

"Fifteen years ago I met an old boyhood friend who was teaching in Stanstead College, Maynard Hart, whose father was a Chinese Missionary, and whose brothers were also in the Methodist Ministry. He confided to me that he, too, must move on to other fields because the college could not pay him a salary sufficient for his family upkeep."

"This is a matter which we business men, we fathers of families, should rectify by quick monetary recognition of a noble profession."

"Furthermore I have maintained during my busy lifetime that we should have more men teachers if we would bring our boys up as manly men, as young men who meet their adult years with self-confidence."

"Winston Churchill, the English statesman, who as a young man rushed to the Boer War in South Africa, and who is chuck full of energy and pluck, was once confronted by his master at his English public school."

"You are weak in your history," said the master. "You have no head for dates or for the famous episodes in British history."

"Winston cheerfully admitted the fact."

"Well, what would you suggest doing about it?" asked the Don.

"I would recommend having a new master," was the confident reply.

"I have as much admiration for the girl who is intensely feminine and truly womanly, as any man, and it is right that our girls should be taught by other bright girls. But for the boys there is required the master who can imbue them with that fine spirit of manliness, without which male influence in school the West Ward, be fixed up so that it could be used as a baseball park, while the Consolidated Theatres asked for permission to open His Majesty's Theatre for two local performances to be given by local talent during the month of May. This permission was requested as the theatre owners have not renewed their licence for this theatre. Both of these requests were referred to committees for report.

The work which is to be done on the Webster Property, which has been secured as a parking ground by the city, has been handed over to the chairman of the Parks and Real Estate Committee.

Alderman E. Fortier came to the rescue of the press last evening and secured a little favor for the representatives of the two daily papers. In future the press will be allowed to sit within the space reserved for the Mayor and Aldermen, instead of at a small table in the public part of the hall. Alderman Fortier also included in his motion, which was seconded by Alderman J. C. Morin, that in future the press be given copies of the reports of the various committees before the meetings of the Council so that they may more easily follow the events of the meeting and the matters under discussion. This motion of Alderman Fortier was unanimously adopted by the Council.

Alderman J. K. Edwards expressed dissatisfaction at having the weekly market day observed on Good Friday which, he said, was a very solemn religious occasion.

His view, however, was not shared by all members of the Council, as it was pointed out that all places of business are open on the afternoon and evening of Good Friday, while so far as the market is concerned there is no trading of any importance much before noon. The matter was left over and will likely come up for discussion at a later meeting.

An important decision was reached by the Council last evening. That was that all underground work in connection with the road, water, sewer, parks and health committees be executed under the supervision of Mr. Martel, superintendent of roads.

Alderman Dr. F. H. Bradley, chairman of the Health Committee, announced that "Clean-Up Week" would be observed in Sherbrooke this year from May 12th to 17th, and asked that all citizens give this matter the proper consideration which it deserves.

days they can only gain later in the Y.M.C.A. or in their first encounter with real life. I confess that I ran away from the two schools where I was taught by women, nor did I ever go back. So that perhaps this conviction was born in me."

"My own real education came to me through the printing office, where I was fortunate enough to have masters and colleagues who were ever ready to teach. From the printing I graduated to the reporter's desk, but only after two years of education through walking home each night of the year in company with the chief editor of the Toronto Mail. From 1885 to 1887 I enjoyed this nightly stroll with Edward Farrar, an outstanding journalist of his day. No doubt he taught me without my knowing I was being taught, just as my father did, in my earlier years at home, where we had mental arithmetic for breakfast, geography for dinner and history stories for supper."

"Whilst acting as reporter and serving as Editor of another daily newspaper in the city of Peterborough my mind was directed to advertising as a profession. After a year's study I grasped the idea that a journalistic experience would help in making business news as interesting as court news or sporting news. It was whilst pursuing this idea, on my return to the Toronto Mail in 1891, that I had my first view of Stanstead and of Stanstead College. I have never forgotten the kindly reception accorded me in every office and at every manufacturing concern in Canada whilst on my first mission in selling advertising through the Dominion. I was surprisingly successful. These were my best years of education. For I learned about my own country whilst I was still in my teens and still receptive of the fact that I knew so little and there was so much to learn. I gained in understanding."

"I repeat the work of the teacher is an arduous task. He does his best to impart knowledge but his pupil may be backward because of a lack of comprehension. Or, in the pupil's home there may not be the environment which invites application and study. Then the educationalist finds himself confronted with the problem which the great Dr. Johnston, the famous lexicographer, was confronted by when he met a doubtful doubter in this fashion: 'I do not understand you, Doctor. I do not agree with you!' said his interlocutor."

"I give you the facts, I do not give you understanding. Only God Almighty can give you understanding."

"It was only when I became in 1894 the advertising manager of the then best daily newspaper in Toronto that I appreciated the education which one absorbs whilst travelling and meeting prominent people."

"College life has ever had a strong appeal to me. To live in a good school gives a boy the advantage of being a citizen of a small kingdom, where the Principal is the Prime Minister and his assistants form his Cabinet. We young gaffers are the citizens who must be harried and made behave. We must obey. Incidentally our parents are the poor down-trodden taxpayers who also pay our school dues. It's a lovely life. Just listen to your high-browed Uncle Stalky, and gloat! As Kipling's young school hero would say."

"Education begins in the school and is matured in after life. The dunces in school may often be only a deep thinker who lacks the gift of articulation, or expression. Though we too often mistake the loquacity of the vacant mind for intellect and ability, and we may send the noisy chap to misrepresent us in legislative halls. The constructive mind unless it be generally expressive, is ignored."

"Should I ever have sought to do with the composition of a Cabinet?"

"For Minister of Finance I would have a Master of Finance."

"For Minister of Education I would have a College Principal."

"For Minister of Agriculture, I would select a farmer, preferably one who had shown skill in an Agricultural College, or on an Experimental Farm."

"For Minister of Customs, I would select an outstanding business man."

"For Minister of Marine and Fisheries, I would have a man who had served on ships, or had been in the fishing business."

"For Minister of Railways, I would have a president or a vice-president of a Railway Company."

"For Minister of National Revenue, I would select a hard-hearted money lender."

"The Minister of Justice would be the only lawyer in the Cabinet."

"The Postmaster-General would be a journalist who knew how hard it was to get his subscriptions paid by postal note."

"In other words, I would make the punishment fit the crime, or select the man whose life-work fitted the job."

"Education is not just book learning. As a young lad, I lived for several years with young lawyers. Helped by two years of court reporting, I may have been to them a congenial young chap. I slept for one year with a lawyer who is now a judge. Possibly I absorbed law in my sleep."

"My thought is that a man's real education begins when he tackles real life in his days of adolescence, and you all know that success comes to him only by concentration, observation and deduction."

"Gentlemen, it has been a pleasure for me to exchange these few thoughts with you in return for your kindly welcome to one who hopes you will no longer think of as a stranger."

"Stanstead College, gentlemen, is your own home institution. It has given to the Town of Stanstead and to the Three Villages a name which is known throughout Canada from coast to coast. Upon the college rests the foundation of your progress and prosperity. Graduates of Stanstead College have

RETURNED MEN PAY HONOR TO FALLEN HEROES

Sir Arthur Currie Was Speaker at Banquet Which Commemorated Second Battle of Ypres.

MONTREAL, April 23.—A group of some sixty men who, as officers in the Canadian Expeditionary Forces faced the first poison gas attack at the Second Battle of Ypres on April 2nd, 1915, and with their comrades, in the words of Sir John French "saved the day," met at a banquet last night to celebrate the anniversary of that victory. The chief speaker was General Sir Arthur Currie, former Commander-in-Chief of the Canadian overseas forces.

In paying tribute to those who fell at Ypres, Sir Arthur said in part: "Those memorable days bring many thoughts to our minds. I know that in many homes in Canada tonight there are proud but sad memories. But we must bear in mind that while the prospect of death awaits every man, only a few are fortunate enough to make it a means of service and regeneration. These are the happy warriors we remember tonight."

"War is in many ways a stupendous calamity, but out of it come brave and high-minded men, who gave their all in youth and strength, these afford the chief proof that man and his works are worth fighting for."

"With our memories of those splendid days at Ypres we can renew our hope and dedicate ourselves anew to the services of our country. Across the space of fifteen years their clear voices call to us, telling us to be not afraid of life. It is only by listening to these golden voices that we can worthily commemorate the anniversary of Ypres."

UNIVERSITY TO FULFILL THREE GREAT OBJECTS

Cornerstone of Emmanuel College in Victoria University Will Be Devoted to Worship of God, Teaching of Christian Faith and Training of Ministers.

TORONTO, Ont., April 23.—Sir James W. Wood, conducting the ceremony of laying the cornerstone of Emmanuel College in Victoria University, yesterday declared it "well and truly laid." He added that the building, which is in process of being erected, would be devoted to "the worship of Almighty God, the teaching of the Christian faith and the training of ministers, missionaries and other Christian workers under the direction of the United Church of Canada."

Included in the distinguished audience were: Right Hon. Lord Eustace Percy, former Secretary of Education in Great Britain; Hon. W. D. Ross, Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario; Premier G. H. Howard Ferguson and university officials. Hon. N. W. Rowell, K.C., chairman of the board of regents, presided.

Right Hon. Lord Eustace Percy, in his address, stressed the value of religious training in university life. He advocated increased development in exchange of post-graduate work among the universities of the Empire.

Premier Ferguson presented the greetings of the Provincial Government and expressed admiration for the location of the building and in a lighter vein, suggested Emmanuel College, through its proximity to Parliament buildings, might exercise a good influence on the Government.

PORTLAND, Ore., April 23.—Another easy victim was on the knockout record of Primo Carnera today. Sam Baker, Los Angeles negro, lasted only two minutes of the first round against the giant Italian here last night.

Carnera floored Baker six times with crushing right hand punches before the negro was counted out. The weights were, Carnera 273½, Baker 248.
The knockout was Carnera's sixteenth straight victory on his United States tour. The fifteenth win, a technical knockout over Leon Chevalier, negro, at Oakland, California, recently resulted in his being barred from California rings.

MILLER'S HOME RUN WON GAME FOR ATHLETICS

Champions Nosed Out Yankees in Ninth Inning—Cardinals Handled a Setback to Cubs.

NEW YORK, April 23.—The Chicago Cubs may be champions of the National League and a generally dangerous team, but they are just another ball club where Bill Hallahan, of St. Louis, is concerned. Hallahan, a left-handed pitcher, who failed to live up to expectations last season, already has beaten the Cubs twice this season and is in a way to become a permanent jinx if he can continue his pace.

In two games, the Cubs have scored just four runs off Hallahan's delivery, three of them coming from a homer by Hack Wilson yesterday as the Cardinals scored an eight to three triumph, and they made only seven hits.

In 1929 Hallahan pitched ninety-four innings in twenty games and allowed ninety-four hits while striking out fifty-two opposing batters. But he gained the well earned nickname of "Wild Bill" by handing out sixty bases on balls. Against the Cubs this year Bill is still wild, but somewhat more successful. Yesterday he gave seven walks and fanned nine. In his previous two-hit triumph he added two to each total.

The Cards and the Cubs supplied just half of yesterday's National League schedule, as New York and Boston were rained out, while Pittsburgh and Cincinnati were not scheduled.

In the other game, the Phillies beat out the Brooklyn Robins by six to five, as Chuck Klein and Barney Friberg did the most effective part of Philadelphia's heavy hitting. They each got a homer in the first inning to gain a three to nothing lead, and Klein added a double and singles in four times at bat.

The champion Philadelphia Athletics continued to set the pace for the American League by demonstrating to a New York crowd of 60,000, the largest turnout so far this season, just how to beat the Yankees. A home run in the ninth inning by Bing Miller gave the Athletics a seven to six victory after the teams had started out with a wild slugger's spree for three frames that drove Lefty Grove from the mound and nearly did the same to Roy Sherid, young Yankee hurler.

The Chicago White Sox moved into second place in the standing by defeating the Cleveland Indians by four to three, for their third victory in four games. The pitching of Al Thomas turned the trick.

Washington continued its smart playing to nose out the surprising Boston Red Sox by four to three, in a twelve inning duel between Charley Ruffing, of Boston, and three Senators moundsmen. Ruffing struck out eight, but made a few mistakes, and the Senators took advantage of every opportunity to get a run or two.

The St. Louis Browns had to go thirteen innings to gain a five to four victory over Detroit after the Tigers had scored twice in the ninth to tie the score. Ted Gullie, rookie outfielder from the Ozark Mountains, drove in the winning run with his third hit of the game.

LADIES PLAN ANNUAL INTERNATIONAL COMPETITION

NEW YORK, April 23.—Definite plans for international competition annually between teams of women golfers were made known as Glenna Collett and sixteen other leading players prepared to sail on the Berengaria to oppose English and French combination in informal contests. "Miss Margaret Curtis, of Boston, former National champion, has presented a cup to be competed for by British, French, Canadian and American teams," said Mrs. Stewart Hanley, of Detroit, team manager.

"Plans have been made and arrangements are now in the hands of the chairman of a sub-committee of the women's committee of the United States Golf Association, Mrs. Charles J. Fraser, of New Rochelle.

KIPLING NAMED AS ENGLAND'S POET LAUREATE

No Official Announcement Likely Until After Funeral of Dr. Bridges, Who Was Poet Laureate Since 1913.

LONDON, April 23.—Rudyard Kipling, one of the most widely known and read English writers alive today, was mentioned last night for the post of poet laureate of England, vacant since the death of Robert Bridges yesterday.

Poets laureate are chosen by Prime Ministers, and so far Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald has made no announcement. He will probably make none until after the funeral of Mr. Bridges, who has been poet laureate since before the war. The London press indulged in much speculation about Mr. Bridges' successor. In addition to Mr. Kipling, Alfred Noyes, Walter de la Mare, Sir William Watson and Sir Henry Newbolt were considered possibilities.

SEOUL, Korea, April 23.—Admiral Viscount Muroto Saile, Governor-General of Korea, who was Japan's chief delegate at the Geneva naval conference of 1927, in an interview today differed strongly from other naval officers in his opinion of the London treaty signed yesterday.

"The result of the conference," he said, "is a great success for Japan. Unyielding insistence upon a seven per cent ratio would have been the height of folly. The next conference in 1935 will find Japan in an advantageous position."

SIR I. ISAACS MAY HEAD AUSTRALIA, RUMORS SAY
Australian-Born Chief Justice of High Court Recommended to Succeed Lord Stonehaven.

MELBOURNE, Australia, April 23.—An Australian may become the next Governor-General of Australia, succeeding Lord Stonehaven, whose term is expiring. It was authoritatively learned yesterday that Sir Isaac Isaacs, Chief Justice of the High Court, has been recommended to succeed Lord Stonehaven. If the appointment is carried out, Sir Isaac would be the first Australian to hold the post.

He was Solicitor-General and Attorney-General in this state from 1893 to 1901, and was a member of the convention which framed the Commonwealth constitution, later becoming a member of the first House of Representatives. His last political post was Attorney-General in the Australian government, 1905-06, when he was elevated to the High Court Bench.

RAPID TRANSIT BY GLIDER NOT POSSIBLE NOW

Various Performances Achieved by Soaring Planes Prove Their Value as a Sport Where Courage Is Required.

LONDON, April 23.—Gliding, so far as it is understood at present, cannot be used as a rapid means of transit from one point to another was shown in a paper read recently by Dr. Georgii of Darmstadt before the members of the Royal Aeronautical Society.

Describing the flight of the airman Nehrung round the Hildesheim, Dr. Georgii said he first soared over the south slope of the Wasserkuppe until he had gained a height of 150 meters above the starting point. He then flew parallel to the ridge and at right angles to the prevailing wind to Munkopf, where he used the strong up-current to reach his maximum elevation of 280 meters, about 850 feet, which was sufficient to enable him to reach the Hildesheim and return to the starting point.

Describing another flight, he said that the glider started from the west slope of the Wasserkuppe, one of Germany's best-known gliding grounds, and maintained himself until he had gained 400 meters in height, and then carried out his cross-country flight to the immediate neighborhood of Schweinberg without serious difficulty. On the return flight he found that he had lost height badly and was 200 meters below his starting point. He was twice forced to turn back and soar over valleys with up-winds in order to regain the western slope, over which he cruised until he was high enough to land on the plateau of the Wasserkuppe at the prescribed point.

In these two examples, Dr. Georgii said, it is seen that the pilot leaves the original region and seeks new areas of rising wind, leaving nothing to chance, but laying his course beforehand according to the wind prevailing and to the lie of the land. It is characteristic of such flights that the best course is not the general shortest distance, but may involve long detours in reaching up-wind areas and lengthy soaring over a particular point in gaining sufficient height.

Briefly, the pilot must fly on sound topographical and meteorological information if he is to reach his goal. Cross-country flights will be achieved over wide regions by flying from slope to slope, from hill to hill, and finally from range to range. The satisfaction of skillfully adapting soaring flight to the configuration of wind currents and landscape is enhanced, if need be, by the sporting excitement and by the real value to flying.

The various performances which have been achieved by gliders and soaring planes, concluded Dr. Georgii, show that flying without engine power, by using the energy of rising currents in the air is already established. It cannot be expected to meet the requirements of air transport, but its value as a sport cannot be questioned, and as such is on a high level in its demand for physical fitness, skill, quick decision and courage, and in addition a more study of the scientific and technical problems involved.

WINTER CAUSED HEAVY DAMAGE TO HIGHWAYS

In Announcing Opening of All
Highways Except One, Deputy Minister of Roads Warns Motorists to Use Judgment, as Majority of Roads Have Been Badly Damaged by Weather and Several Accidents Have Already Occurred.

QUEBEC, April 23.—All highways leading from and to the United States have now opened to traffic except the Riviere du Loup-Edmundston highway, it was announced last evening by J. L. Boulanger, Deputy Minister of Roads. The Montreal-Quebec highway is in good condition, but much more damage than had been expected was caused to the majority of the highways, it was stated by the Deputy Minister. It will take a fortnight or so before the engineers' report on the extent of the damage caused by the weather, are available. However, judging by the survey made up to now, indications are that the damage will run rather high.

A request was made again by Mr. Boulanger to motorists to be very careful in handling their automobiles at this time of year. "There have already been accidents over the first week-end of road traffic on the highways, which could have been prevented," he stated. "Autoists should remember that this is a dangerous period on account of the condition of the roads, and also due to the fact that many motorists are more or less out of practice in operating automobiles after the winter months."

"Children, who have been accustomed to run around the highways when there was no traffic, should be told to be very careful. The department is doing all it can to enforce the regulations, which have been made to assure safe driving, but only the full co-operation of the drivers themselves can deal with the situation with success."

TWELVE HUNDRED-YEAR-OLD STRUCTURE IS ENDANGERED

Death Watch Beetle Ravaging
Ancient Parish Church at Grin-stead, Essex, Which Is Probably World's Oldest Parish Church.

LONDON, April 23.—The ancient parish church at Grinstead, Essex, more than one thousand two hundred years old, is suffering from the ravages of the death watch beetle. The Rev. R. W. Doyle, the rector, said that continuous worship had been conducted there longer than in any other church in the country, and that it was probably the world's oldest parish church.

The walls of the church are of split oak hewn from a virgin forest twelve centuries or more ago. They stand as firm today as then," said the rector, "but what war, man and the element have failed to do the death watch beetle is beginning to accomplish."

It was in this church almost one thousand one hundred years ago that the body of King Edmund, of East Angles, who was killed by the Danes because he would not abandon Christianity, was found in the sanctuary.

KANSAS POLICE DISCOVER THAT COURTESY PAYS

Visiting Motorists Unfamiliar
With Traffic Regulations Given
Draft of Regulations and Map of City.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Apr. 23.—Courtesy is doing more to solve the traffic problem in Kansas City, caused by the presence of out-of-town motorists, than any other factor, according to Capt. N. V. Reynolds, chief of traffic police.

Visitors, unfamiliar with Kansas City's regulations, may unwittingly break the rules, yet the police cannot afford to ignore such violations merely because the cars bear the license plates of other states. So the courtesy method was introduced.

The offending driver is escorted to a police station—or if the car is parked, a tag directing him there is left on the steering wheel. When he arrives he is asked where he lives and is required to prove his identity. Then comes the shock to motorists who have come in contact with old-fashioned police methods. There is no fine. There is no lecture delivered by an irate desk sergeant on the trouble that visitors cause the local police.

Instead, the motorist is given a draft of the Kansas City traffic regulations and a patrolman passes a "courtesy sticker" on the windshield of the car, the sticker being good for 10 days. Then the police give their "prisoner" a map of the city, with points of interest to strangers designated and directions for reaching them by automobile listed. They hope that he will enjoy his stay in their community. They are models of politeness.

Does the system work? Lieut. Benjamin Harburg, who is in charge of the traffic bureau at the Nineteenth Street station, where all downtown traffic violators are taken, says that only six of 5000 motorists from other cities have ever been brought back to his station as second offenders. He declares that he has found the politeness method a great help in traffic administration. The courtesy system applies to all visiting motorists except residents of near-by Kansas communities. Persons living in these cities come here often enough to learn the traffic laws, the police reason.

Says Men Want Pals, Not Patients!

SHE was engaged! She was the happiest girl in the world. A round of teas and parties, a whirl of pleasure, and she began to wonder what was the matter. Too tired to go out—and he—was he becoming tired of her?

It was at this point that Miss Margaret Belden of Los Angeles woke up to the fact that something had to be done about it. "Men want pals, not patients," she writes. "I went right to my doctor. Do you know what he said? Rest—and Nujol!"

"With a prayer in my heart and Nujol in my medicine cabinet I began to fight back to being the healthy, robust, happy girl I had been before. Two months passed. No more tears—no more worrying, no more bad dreams. Today I beat him on the tennis court, and although he can out-swim me, I make him work doing it. It's good to be happy. It's good to be free, physically, and be able to share, any time, in sports or dancing or anything else with the one you love!"

NINETEEN-YEAR MAKES FORTUNE BY INVENTIONS

Henry Falt Appears to Possess
Natural Ability of an Edison —Has Completed Two Devices in Daily Use Everywhere.

SPRINGFIELD, April 23.—If Falt, 19, student at Technical High School, has achieved a success as an inventor usually reserved for more experienced men.

Two years ago he patented and sold his first invention; today he has a second invention in daily use and three more under development. His income from royalties and direct sales of patents is more than sufficient to supply his every need for years to come, but he remains modest and ever thoughtful of still further achievements.

One of his inventions, a shock eliminator, is standard equipment on the 1930 Buick models. Another is a new type of castor in use on a washing machine made by the Savage Arms Company.

Unlike many inventors, he uses no models and has no workshop. When his ideas crystallize, he says he sits down at his drawing table and expresses them with pencil and paper. Besides developing his inventions, he has carried on negotiations for their sale, personally visiting the General Motors Company executives and convincing them of the practical value of his eliminator. Seasoned engineers give him every respect.

He explains that this shock eliminator came from his own desire for riding ease. Neither of the two automobiles he owns gave him the comfort he wished so he set to work on a fixture that would prevent road vibrations being transferred to the steering wheel. Instead of tinkering around to make a model, he took his plan to a machine shop where he had a trial eliminator turned out. In automobile circles it is known as a floating front spring shackle. It worked and the deal with General Motors soon materialized. Duesenberg Motor Car Company is now developing it from his designs as a special wheel that will eliminate adverse wind currents.

As a boy of 10 he showed mechanical genius in adding accessories to toys. His first device to yield a financial return was the faster for washing machines, on which he receives steady royalties.

In school he is absorbed in mechanical subjects but not so enthusiastic about English and history. Mechanical drawing is a favorite subject. His drawing board is his only workshop and his instruments his only tools. He is determined to win his diploma, although school work interferes with his inventive efforts and when he goes to college he will be one of the few college students in the country to have an independent income derived from his own previous efforts.

He is a full-fledged airplane pilot, winning his wings last summer at the Aviation Institute in Washington, where he later had a plane for his private use. He plans to buy another plane this summer. He drives two automobiles which are equipped with ingenious contrivances he has designed.

Easter services were celebrated in all the churches, with unusual distinction on Sunday. Special music was rendered at St. Luke's Church, where Maunders' Communion Service was sung, also the anthem, "Christ Is Risen," by Rossi. The service throughout was choral.

At St. Patrick's Church a choir had prepared a mass in second tone, which was very commendably rendered. At the United Church special music was executed, including several oratorio numbers, for the rendition of which this choir has become quite renowned.

The Hermitage Country Club has opened and is now entertaining a large number of guests.

Hon. Pascal, at seventy-eight, is the dean of the Senate in service. He was opposed by Sir John Macdonald forty-five years ago, and is the last living Senator appointed by Canada's first Premier.

Senator Desaulles' death, which occurred last Saturday, leaves five vacancies in the Upper House, four from Quebec and one from Prince Edward Island.

FRENCH REGIME DESCRIBED BY NOTED WRITER

Colorful Account of French in America, Both in Canada and United States, Completed by Illinois Professor.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 23.—A thriller has come out of Belleville, Illinois. Strange to say, the thriller is a history of the French in America, done by an American savant, Dr. J. H. Schlarman, who ransacked libraries in two continents for source material, and who made a sure thing of his book by trying it out on a variety of intellects, before he published it.

"From Quebec to New Orleans" is the title of the book. Its first thrill is its cover, giving a colorful and geographically correct picture of the French dispersion, showing that Belleville is almost in the centre of the one-time French domain in America. Maps in the book are unique, in that they give the reader of today an adequate sense of French occupation, the location of all the French forts in the Mississippi and Ohio river valleys, the valley of the St. Lawrence and about the Great Lakes. This Dr. Schlarman assures the reader, has never been done before.

Martyrdom of French missionaries, death struggles of settlers and savages, portraits of great Frenchmen who contributed so much to this country's historic background are pictured in the book, on fifty full pages of illustration.

Doctor Schlarman has endeavored, he says, and manifestly has succeeded in making history read like a novel. Its 593 pages each hold the maximum of interest, that romantic history of Dr. Schlarman's method could put into them. After the material was put into shape Dr. Schlarman said he had various friends read the manuscript. Twenty-five of them in Texas, New York, Quebec and Belleville read it. He had them point out passages they would like to read more about, or passages difficult for them to understand. After repeated changes, Dr. Schlarman said, he believed he had a book with a maximum of interest for the greatest number of readers.

One reader expressed his opinion of the book after spending almost an entire night reading it. "It's not a novel," he said, "because it is history, and it's not history because history is not written that way." His footnotes indicate the extent to which he had delved into the archives of Europe and America, searching out long hidden facts of history. Where controversy has perpetuated two versions, Dr. Schlarman has spent most time, enlisting the aid of eminent French historians and librarians, in France and particularly in the Province of Quebec.

Beginning with the coming of Jacques Cartier to the site of Quebec in 1535, the story follows the French up the St. Lawrence, across the Great Lakes and down the Mississippi and Ohio valleys to Fort de Chartres, which is one of Illinois' most historic spots, and New Orleans.

It depicts the conflicting interests of the British and French colonists, the wars with the savages, labors of the missionaries, the epics of explorers, the eventual clash between the British and French, the collapse of French power in America, the gradual development of the psychology of separation and independence of the English colonies, and closes with the exploits of George Rogers Clark, which put an end to British domination in the Mid West.

Dr. Schlarman tells what happened, as it happened, he says, and in many instances in the words of men who saw it happen, making extensive use of contemporary letters and memoirs, most of which are unfamiliar to English readers.

What Do People Say... when they pass by YOUR house?

This—

"That place of Bill's would be one of the best-looking houses on the street instead of one of the ugliest if the roof wasn't so out of keeping with the rest of it."

"He could buy a new roof and be money in pocket, if he only stopped to think. My guess is that he has spent more dollars patching that worn out roof than he would have paid for one of those everlasting, colourful roofs the Johns-Manville people are making."

A J-M Shingle Enthusiast

"My confidence in the known quality of Johns-Manville Products played a great part in my decision to buy a Johns-Manville roof," Mr. S. Thompson, 44 Duggan Avenue, Toronto, told us. "The job," he writes, "is all that could be desired. The materials and workmanship are all that they should be to ensure the truth of your statement that when you roof with J-M Rigid Asbestos Shingles you 'roof for the last time.'"

Mr. Thompson bought a Johns-Manville Rigid Asbestos Shingle Roof because it gave him good value for his money and assured him a roof covering for his house that was as permanent as the foundation.

YOU wouldn't think of wearing a dingy, thread-bare hat. Neither should you live under a roof that spoils the appearance of your house—for it is these outward evidences that reflect your good taste and your judgment. Give your home the unusual loveliness and protection of a new roof of Johns-Manville Shingles. Do not dismiss the idea as being too great an expense. Talk to a roofer and get him to compare for you the cost of buying a completely new Johns-Manville roof with the never ending cost of repairing ordinary, plain roofs. You will discover that roof-patching is only an extravagant way of postponing the purchase of a new roof for a few months, or a year or two at the best.

Johns-Manville Rigid Asbestos Shingles are the last word in roofing in a double sense. They are modern in line and beauty, and they are actually everlasting. But these superior qualities do not mean that they are expensive. On the contrary, a roof of J-M Asbestos Shingles forms the most economical roof you can have. It will never have to be replaced. Its first cost is the last cost. You are assured of protection against fire and weather forever.

The advantages of many years of protection against fire and roof repairs combined with beauty are also available in J-M Asphalt Shingles. These shingles are lower in cost. And the fact that they bear the Johns-Manville name means dollar value for every dollar spent—for Johns-Manville has been a recognized roofing authority for years.

SPLIT IN CASE NEAR

NEW YORK, April 23.—The Wall Street Mirror says today: The ease with which the market snapped back from its low points on Tuesday showed that it is not one to be short of. Furthermore it shows that orders should be placed for stocks at or near the resistance points encountered on Tuesday.

There are numerous issues, such as the railroad equipments, the copiers and several of the specialties which have shown special weakness which should be held severely alone.

Do not get too bullish on the market and also temper your bullish inclinations. By no means be tempted to bid up for stock.

The split-up in Case Threshing Machine is very close at hand. The stock has now advanced from a low of 120 in the November market and will sell materially higher.

Earnings are still reported as running extremely high. Fairbanks Morse is scheduled to sell higher. The company since 1922 has shown average earnings of $5.45 a share in 1929.

A share was shown in investment trust buying has been seen in the stock.

The objective of the group in Corn Products Refining, called to your attention on Tuesday is 120. Further advance will be seen in Fox.

A price of around 70 is heard for the stock coupled with reports of dividend resumption. Advance in Fox will probably carry along General Theatres Equipment.

In this connection a point advance in General Theatres Equipment means two points for the new bonds.

LAIDLAW'S LETTER

NEW YORK, April 23.—Laidlaw and So. says: The market reacted further during the early part of the session yesterday. No great amount of liquidation seemed to develop, however, and the recovery carried the industrial and utility averages up for the day.

Radio and Case were strong features throughout the day.

The groups on which probably the greatest emphasis has been placed in these letters have been the farm implement and cigarette stocks and, beginning some weeks ago, the oils. Without attempting to forecast short terms in the market, as its indications, though encouraging, have not been very decisive, we feel these groups continue to be relatively attractive.

Deere and International Harvester, American Tobacco and Liggett and Myers, Standard of New Jersey, Humble, Gulf, Continental and Independent Oil and Gas are those in these groups which appear well situated.

MARKET COMMENT

CHANGED

NEW YORK, April 23.—The New York Advisory Service says: The turn-about from Tuesday's morning's carry-over selling was accomplished with great dexterity and ease, that we feel the rally can very well carry further. This does not mean a new phase of general advance, but there appears to have been adjustment effected in a brief space of time as to make it possible to follow special stock moves to advantage.

There was considerable professional selling on Monday and again at various times yesterday. The quick turn-about gave the "shorts" very little opportunity to cover stocks advanced easily and it is quite probable that this added short interest will be exploited as much as possible to force additional rallies.

Electric Power and Light, despite its sharp afternoon bulge, discloses a technical position favorable to further radical advance, subject only to brief intervals of hesitation and consolidation of its gains.

American and Foreign Power is not apt to be dominant while Electric Power is performing. We would use a 95-97 range to pick up some American and Foreign Power for a satisfactory trading run.

Loews Inc. is another stock that discloses a favorable technical position. On its earnings status and outlook, this stock could logically extend its upward trend through par.

Pan-American B. has swung out of its trading area during a period of market irregularity and has been inclined to pick up some of this stock below the 60 mark, and more on crossing the latter level.

United Carbon has shown better resistance than usual. Would chance buying some at this level, adding to holdings promptly upon its crossing the 80 mark.

Corn Products Refining has worked into a position favorable to

NERVOUSNESS DEVELOPED OVER HOLIDAY
MONTREAL, April 23.—The Montreal Financial Service says: Local traders developed considerable nervousness over the prolonged holiday and when the market opened yesterday were anxious to dispose of holdings, with the result that good setback resulted.

Practically all of the leaders suffered, Brazilian Traction, International Harvester, Dominion Bridge and the Famous Players issue being the ones in which most interest was centered.

Good buying made its appearance on the local board on the decline yesterday and this resulted in a checking reaction to a considerable extent.

The February earnings statement of Brazilian Traction should make its appearance within the next few days and according to reports will show an appreciable increase in earnings over February 1929. This issue has acted extremely well and with the local market closed on Monday, sold up to a new record high for the year on the New York curb.

The avalanche of selling yesterday, however, wiped away this gain and the market closed at a level that gained much headway yesterday was to the effect that American and Foreign Power will make a cash offer of $50 a share for control of Brazilian Traction. This, of course, could not be confirmed but the general impression in the street was that a price of $50 a share would tempt either directors or shareholders to sell control of the company. It will be remembered that last year, a price of $50 a share was mooted in this connection.

The offer made by the Montreal Famous Players for control of the Canadian Corporation, resulted in little surprise as the news had been generally known last week. It was interesting to note, however, that for the first time, the voting trust shareholders have received 83.60 in annual dividends per share as against $2 currently being paid.

The directors of Montreal Power met at 12 noon today. The ticker is endeavoring to tell some tale and some are confident that a constructive announcement will be forthcoming after the meeting, as it is out that with civic elections out of the way, the management can now decide upon a definite policy with regard to either a customer ownership campaign or a split-up in the shares without fear of either action being used as a political football.

BROKERS' OPINIONS
Hornblower and Weeks—We would continue to postpone investment purchases, feeling that more attractive levels may very well be obtained, but we are even more insistent on not pushing the market on the downside, and we continue to recommend against taking short positions in the leading industrial stocks.

J. S. Bache and Co.—We suggest that pivotal stocks be carefully watched for a clue that a turn in the general list is imminent. It is assumed that as such issues show evidence of receiving strong support, more confident buying operations will develop in other sections of the list, bringing about a general recovery in prices.

TRADING FORECASTS AND FACTORS
Completion of technical correction should be reflected in irregularity today, while the leader stocks are likely to show firm resistance to any further selling pressure.

STOCKS SHOWED STRONGER TONE AT MONTREAL

Brazilian More Than Recovered Its Loss of Yesterday—Several Other Stocks Recorded Gains.

MONTREAL, April 23.—A stronger tone was in evidence at the opening today of the Montreal Stock Exchange. Brazilian Traction more than recovered its loss of yesterday to sell at 54 1/2, up 1 1/4.

International Hydro-Electric gained 1 1/4 a 51 1/4 and Power Corporation 1 1/4 a 31 1/2. Smaller gains were shown by Canada Cement, Famous Players voting trust, Dominion Bridge and one or two other issues. Asbestos common dropped to 2 1/4, a quarter. Nickel and Montreal Power were off small fractions.

HOUSEWIVES now order their Bon Ami several packages at a time. In the old days, when Bon Ami came only in cakes and was used only for windows and mirrors, a cake at a time was all right. But now that this magic cleanser is made in powder form, too, and women have discovered so many uses for both Powder and Cake, they like to keep a reserve supply always on hand.

Bon Ami speeds up housework. The way it blots up dirt and impurities is really magical. There's nothing like it for cleaning bathtubs and tiling, painted woodwork, windows, mirrors, fine kitchen utensils and dozens of other things. And it never reddens the hands.
