EASTERN TOWNSHIPS SNOWBOUND BY BLIZZARD

World News In Brief

Rome, Feb. 10.—(Reuters)—Brig. R. W. M. de Winton, commanding the British 13th Infantry Brigade at Pola, was shot and killed there today by a woman, it was officially announced.

Brig. de Winton, who held the D.S.O., was 39.

Pola lies at the southernmost tip of the Adriatic Peninsula and is in Allied occupation zone of the Venezia Giulia. With the signature of the Italian peace treaty in Paris today the city, once the main seaport of the Austro-Hungarian empire, becomes part of Yugoslavia.

Early in January three persons were killed and 16 injured in disturbances over the evacuation of an industrial establishment.

Philadelphia, Feb. 10.—(AP)—Ten per cent of all persons in the United States will be dead "five years from today" because of Russian-made atomic bombs, George H. Earle, former Governor of Pennsylvania and an ex-State Department official, predicts. Earle, in an article copyrighted by the Philadelphia Inquirer, wrote yesterday that America must "exert every effort to produce the deadliest weapons possible, hide them away underground, and let the Bolsheviks know that with the first atomic bomb dropped on America, we will wipe out every city, town and village in Russia."

Jerusalem, Feb. 10.—(Reuters)—Four Jewish youths found with rawhide whips when British troops were searching Palestine for the terrorists who fled a British officer and three non-commissioned officers refused to plead when they faced a military court today. They were charged with being in possession of weapons.

Accused were Dov Rosenbaum, 24; Hsi Gorovsky, who is under 18; Eliahu Kashi, 23; and Mordechai Alkoshi, 21.

They were arrested on the night of Dec. 29 after British parachute troops opened fire to halt a taxi which crashed through a road block between Lydda and Tel Aviv.

When troops approached the car, it was alleged, Rosenbaum got out armed with a tommygun. Gorovsky threw a revolver at them and resisted arrest.

Rational Thinking Urged By Crerar

Ottawa, Feb. 10.—(AP)—Calling for rational objective thinking in international affairs, Gen. H. D. G. Crerar, former commander of the Canadian Army Overseas, Saturday night expressed approval of Canada's policy of consolidating its three armed services and urged a peacetime program of compulsory universal military training.

In an address prepared for delivery at the annual dinner of the Canadian Military Association, Gen. Crerar said compulsory military training was the only way Canada "will ever possess the practical potential in armed forces which would be required should war be suddenly thrust upon us."

Rail And Highway Traffic Disrupted By Severe Storm

Some Communities Completely Cut Off by Wind-Driven Snow Which Held Up Trains for Several Hours and Tied Up Automobile Traffic.

The big storm that punched and pummeled the country from the Rockies eastward, bringing swirling winds and record snow drifts to the Prairies and all of Ontario, hit the Eastern Townships on the week-end to disrupt both rail and highway communication and isolate certain communities.

It was the winter's worst blizzard by far and the high wind piled the snow up in drifts which quickly closed highways and interfered with train schedules.

The Montreal-Boston Express, the Alouette, was snowed in between St. Johns and Farnham and reached Cowansville five hours behind schedule. Some 150 skiers aboard the train bound for Sweet'sburg arrived late in the afternoon, just in time to take the train back to Montreal. At Sweet'sburg, where drifts ranged from five to eight feet, Anglican church services were cancelled. A horse-driven sleigh took two hours to cover two and a half miles.

Record Only Four Deaths On Week-End

By The Canadian Press

Deaths of two persons in traffic accidents Saturday in Ontario and another two accidental deaths—one in Montreal and one in Nova Scotia—combined for one of the lowest accident tolls ever shown in a survey of Eastern Canada's week-end fatalities compiled by The Canadian Press.

An Oshawa, Ont., taxi-driver, 19-year-old Ronald Carmichael, was killed Saturday when his cab was struck by a train at a crossing near the city limits.

John Takko, 44, of Blenheim, Ont., died of injuries shortly after he was hit by a car near the edge of the town.

Elias Tupper, 59-year-old lumberman of Lake George, N.S., died Sunday without regaining consciousness since he was found on the highway between Lake George and Aylesford. He is believed to have been thrown from his horse.

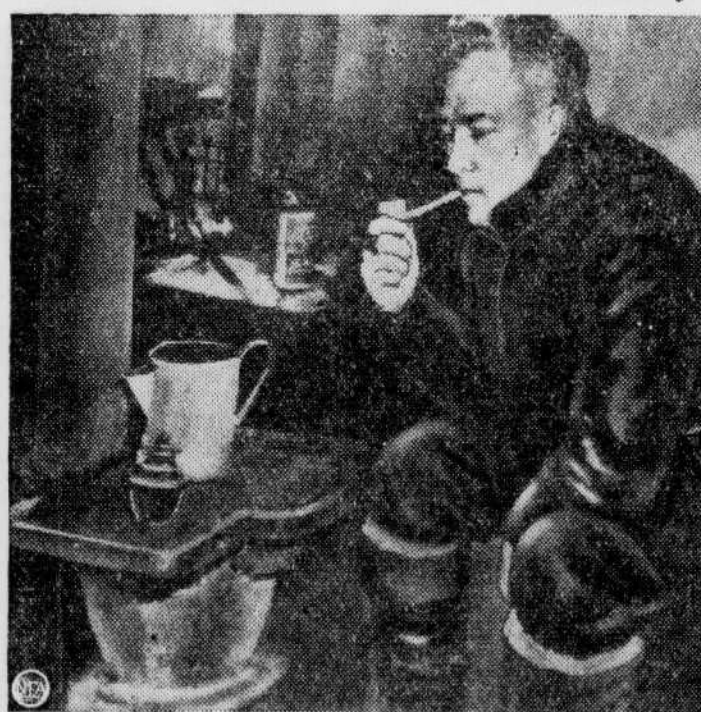

Edmond Daoust, 37, while passing by a rotary snowplow in Montreal Sunday night, offered to assist city employees to free a truck stuck in snow near the plow. He was caught in whirling blades of the rotary plow and he was managed to die.

$35,000 Damage Caused By Fire

Montreal, Feb. 10.—(AP)—Damage estimated at $35,000 was caused to a three storey Pointe aux Trembles building in East Montreal last night as fire fanned by a 35 miles an hour wind and snow storm gutted a dry goods store and left four persons homeless.

Families from six flats in the building were forced to vacate the premises as the firemen poured 10 streams of water on the blaze which is believed to have originated through faulty wiring. One family living directly above the gutted store were unable to return to their home after the blaze was extinguished owing to the charred condition of their flat.

Byrd Thaws Out A Memory

The pipeful of tobacco—and the corncob pipe, too—Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd is puffing here is mellow with memories. He left it behind at the time of his second Antarctic expedition in 1935, found it made a good smoke when he picked it up again in his hut at the site of the original Little America.

80-Day-Old Strike Ends At Noranda

Union Accepts Company's Latest Offer of 13 Cents More Per Hour—Strikers Had Asked 16 Cents.

Noranda, Que., Feb. 10.—(AP)—A back-to-the-mine order was awaited today by the 1,147 employees of Noranda Mines Limited after the 80-day-old strike ended in a compromise on wage demands and a union defeat on the dues checkoff issue.

No date for resumption of operations at Canada's largest gold and copper producer had been set when siren and whistle atop the mine plant screamed out the strike end sharp at midnight, 15 minutes after company and union representatives had signed an agreement terminating the 11-week shutdown.

The union accepted the company's last offer of 13 cents more an hour—against the 16 cents demanded by the strikers—and agreed to a company proposal that in lieu of a checkoff union representatives should have facilities to interview new employees when they report to the plant dispensary for physical examination.

When the siren sounded at midnight, the park-clad picket line which had marched in front of the mine gate since Nov. 22 was told its long trek was ended. While a fierce blizzard swept the twin mining communities of Noranda and Rouyn, the picketers went home to the warmth of their hearths.

After the signing ceremony, James Y. Murdoch of Toronto, company president, shook hands with T. F. McGuire, district coordinator of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (C.I.O.), and H. L. Roscoe, vice-president and general agent.

The Canadian National Railway passenger train from Montreal, due in Sherbrooke about noon yesterday, was reported four hours late in arriving here because of an enforced delay in the metropolis, while freight trains also were running behind schedule. Today, however, schedules were being maintained, it was stated.

A Canadian Pacific Railway spokesman reported the company's trains to be running about 15 minutes behind schedule today, while yesterday trains were arriving three to four hours late.

Many rural communities were completely isolated by the storm and had not dug themselves out today. Fortunately power facilities were not hampered, except in a few minor cases, and no great hardship was experienced.

A number of Montrealers visiting their country homes in the Knowlton area were cut off and could not return to the city as planned. Among these was John Bassett, Sr., president of the Sherbrooke Record.

Likewise many motorists who had ventured away from home found themselves marooned. Ivan Saunders, business manager of the Sherbrooke Record, and Mrs. Saunders visited friends near Drummondville on the week-end. This morning, Mr. Saunders left.

Says He May Have Killed Black Dahlia

Several Discrepancies in Statements Signed by Cpl. Joseph Dumais Being Checked by U.S. Army Authorities.

CPL. JOSEPH DUMAIS

Fort Dix, N.J., Feb. 10.—(AP)—United States Army authorities sought today to clear up what they said were "several discrepancies" in statements signed Saturday by Cpl. Joseph Dumais who, they said, told them it was "possible" he was the "Black Dahlia" slayer.

Elizabeth Short, known as the "Black Dahlia" because of her fondness for black lingerie, was found dead, her body mutilated and severed at the waist, on a Los Angeles vacant lot Jan. 15. No formal charge has been filed against Dumais.

In Los Angeles, Capt. Jack Donahoe of the police homicide department declined to comment on Dumais' statements, and said he was awaiting Dumais' replies to questions forwarded to Fort Dix by Los Angeles police.

Maj. Cornelius T. Morris, Fort Dix public relations officer, said that Dumais related that he had had a date on the west coast with Miss Short on Jan. 10 but "blanked out" while drinking with her and remembered nothing until he was in New York City some time later.

Army records show Dumais was at Fort Dix on Jan. 10, 12, and 13 and again on Jan. 17, but the intervening four days are not accounted for, Morris said.

Los Angeles officers commented that Dumais would "have done some awful fast flying" to have been on the west coast the dates mentioned in his statements.

Dumais was taken into custody a week ago on the complaint of another soldier regarding money he had entrusted to Dumais for safekeeping. Morris said that Dumais himself intruded discussion of the "Black Dahlia" slaying into the routine questioning.

Italy Pays For Crimes Of Mussolini And Fascism As Peace Treaty Sadly Signed

By JOSEPH E. DYNAN

Paris, Feb. 10.—(AP)—Italy signed sady and silently today a peace treaty deducing her to a third-rate power, stripped of colonies, indebted by reparations, her homeland reduced and her army and navy cut to a relative shadow.

Yugoslavia, which will obtain a slice of the coveted Venezia Giulia but not the port of Trieste which will become a free city, reversed herself and signed the treaty after protesting the boundary agreement.

Italy, paying for the crimes of Mussolini and Fascism, was the first of five Axis countries to sign treaties which, when ratified, will end the Second World War for all the world except Germany, Japan, Austria and Korea.

Following Italy, the schedule called Romania, Bulgaria, Hungary and Finland to the mourner's bench, as it were, to ink treaties with up to 20 Allied states.

Italy observed a 10-minute period of silence at the hour of the signing of her treaty, which the Italian Constituent Assembly and the major allied powers still must ratify.

Italian troops were strengthened at the American and British embassies in Rome and stood armed with machine-guns and rifles. Traffic was diverted.

Contrasted to the silent demeanor of the Italian signatory in Paris, the Yugoslav Foreign Minister, Stanoje Simic, declared

U.K. Protests Intervention In Execution Of Guerillas

Lake Success, N.Y., Feb. 10.—(AP)—Great Britain was expected to support a Greek protest today against United Nations intervention in the execution of 11 alleged Greek guerillas.

Meeting behind closed doors, the U.N. Security Council was called into session to decide whether its commission, sent to the Balkans to investigate border incidents, has a right to request postponement of executions of Greek guerillas.

Such a step was taken informally by commission members in Athens last week, and the Greek Government countered with a protest that the group was interfering in the internal affairs of Greece.

This was followed with an unusual move by Secretary-General Trygve Lie, who requested the Athens Government to delay the executions until the Security Council could act on a commission appeal for guidance.

There was a feeling in British delegation quarters here that the Balkan Commission has no right to interfere in the executions. One British source declared there was nothing in the commission's written instructions from the Security Council to give it power to halt executions.

The Greek protest, contained in a four-page letter to Lie from Greek Ambassador and U.N. Representative Vassili Dendramis, charged that the commission's action violated the U.N. charter and the Security Council resolution under which the commission was set up.

Dendramis identified the leftists scheduled for execution only as "bandits" and asserted that intervention by the commission "amounts in point of fact to the tendering of impunity to criminals of common law."

The trouble began Feb. 2 when the commission became interested in the executions through a number of petitions on behalf of the condemned men. The commission said the men might have value as witnesses in the inquiry into the chaotic political situation in Northern Greece.

U.N. officials expressed the opinion that because of the unusual circumstances, which involve a near civil war in Greece, that Lie was empowered to intervene and request a postponement of the executions until the Security Council had decided on the case.

Study discord between Greece and her Balkan neighbors, has been compounded with petitions demanding intervention on behalf of persons sentenced to death for anti-government activity.

may think it is no longer necessary to train leaders. Nothing is further from the truth.

"You and I know that the best way to prevent war is to be prepared for it. We also know that if war does come we won't win unless our leadership is sound."

West Point, N.Y., Feb. 10.—(AP)—Viscount Alexander, Governor-General of Canada, today told the cadets of the United States Military Academy here that "the best way to prevent war is to be prepared for it."

The Governor-General and party motored 40 miles north from New York City where tonight they will end a four-day visit to the United States and return to Ottawa.

His Excellency spent the day inspecting the academy and its training system as guest of an old New York friend and comrade of the Mediterranean campaigns, Gen. Max Taylor, superintendent of the academy.

"We all know," His Excellency said in a prepared address, "that the best staff work and the perfect plan can only put the fighting men onto the battlefield under the most favorable conditions for success.

"But in the end it is the G.I. led by their young officers who decide the issue once the shooting starts.

"Now that the war is over some

Shortage Of Electricity Hits England

Cold Weather and Lack of Coal Cause Crisis in Britain—Many "Non-Essential" Industries Deprived of Current.

London, Feb. 10.—(AP)—The Cabinet was meeting this morning to discuss Britain's fuel crisis while "non-essential" industry throughout a large part of Britain was deprived of electricity and householders were "on their honor" not to use current for five hours daily.

Meantime, the thaw was reported spreading which may extricate the United Kingdom—and the Government—from a predicament into which they were thrust by a lengthy severe cold spell and what opposition spokesmen call unparalleled mismanagement of coal distribution.

The weatherman, however, was hesitant to prophesy whether the milder weather, creeping northward, would last. The weather bureau said the cold might return within two days.

A top speedy thaw might prove a mixed blessing, merely substituting floods for snowdrifts and doing little to alleviate immediately the transportation dislocations which plagued Britain the last three weeks of the worst winter in fifty years.

Prime Minister Attlee is expected to make a statement later today on the electricity cuts following the Cabinet's evaluation of the effectiveness of the first day's power shutdown. There was also a possibility he would go on the radio to explain the Government's problem to the people.

Confusion still existed among many small businessmen as to whether their was essential work.

Fuel Minister Shinwell spent Sunday at his test.

Unofficial estimates of those unemployed by the cut are running as high as 6,000,000 while the home routine of about 22,000,000 Britons were disrupted. The Fuel Ministry warned that present restrictions left little margin for safety and only the co-operation of the whole country would enable essential service to be maintained.

In some centres municipal officials had not cut off the current to non-essential industries as the original plan had called for. The officials maintained the fuel ministry plan was impracticable. Instead, they merely warned non-essential consumers against using current.

Despite rising temperatures in the south, snow still was falling in parts of Scotland today and heavy snowfalls were reported in Eire. Northern Ireland, not in the cut-off zone, may experience current cuts later.

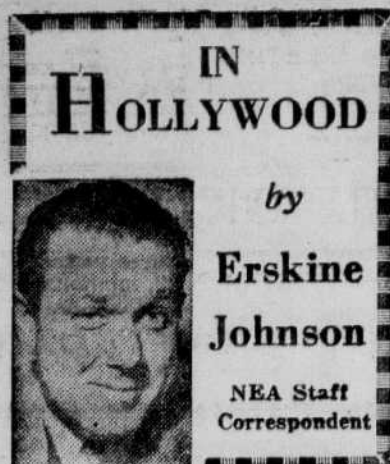

Londonderry officials, with only enough coal on hand to last to Friday, said "something drastic" might prove necessary to avert "major disaster."

Virtually every newspaper in country denounced the Cabinet for not acting before winter aggravated the coal shortage and threatened to shut down power generating plants. Four London papers advocated Shinwell's ouster.

THE BOX OFFICE IS THE PAY-OFF

Hollywood, Feb. 10.—The skeletons in the Hollywood closets may be ashamed of the people in the house.

Hollywood may be the place where the bride keeps the bouquet and throws away the groom.

Hollywood may need, as Edward Arnold says, "A defense lawyer to say, 'You have heard the scandal about this witness, now listen to the good.'"

But the front-page covetings of movie stars have never hurt them. They have only increased the stars' box-office value.

RKO studio will release Laraine Day's latest picture, "The Locket," ahead of schedule, to cash in on the front-page publicity given her two divorces from Ray Henricks and her alleged "diagnosis of the laws of California" by marrying Leo Durocher, all within 24 hours.

"It should increase the picture's box-office take by $200,000," one RKO executive told us.

There's even talk of going back to the film's original title, "What Nancy Wanted."

What she wanted was Leo Durocher.

IT'S GOOD BUSINESS

Laraine's business advisers aren't worried. Neither is Laraine. A couple of years back she wasn't doing so well in Hollywood or at the box-office. Producers and fans regarded her as a "cold personality." Now even she's looking at the sudden notoriety with a business eye.

After her return to Hollywood as Mrs. Leo Durocher, she lifted a saucy eyebrow, smiled and asked us: "Do you think people still will say 'I'm cold'?"

In a conference with Laraine and Leo, Los Angeles Superior Court Judge George A. Dockweiler, who blew his judicial post after her Mexican divorce and re-marriage, admitted receiving "scores" of telephone calls from irate people who scolded him for "picking on nice Laraine Day."

During Errol Flynn's trials on girl charges, we received many letters from women who said they were mothers, coming to Errol's defense.

A movie star apparently can do no wrong in the eyes of worshipping fans. People who cannot be called fans sit back and we feel pretty sure, thoroughly enjoy the front-page antics of the film great, on the theory, no doubt, that given half a chance they wouldn't mind a little fling themselves.

The Van Johnson-Evie Wynn-Keenan Wynn triangle was hot front-page reading for weeks. Neither Van nor Keenan has suffered any setbacks at the box-office.

EXPOSÉS NEVER HURT

Lana Turner has been bouncing onto the front pages ever since she slid off a sofa-fountain stool into stardom. She's one of Hollywood's top stars.

UNUSUAL TRIP

A crippled gull once swam the Atlantic ocean, from the North Sea to Newfoundland. It trailed behind a partly disabled Norwegian sailing vessel, eating food tossed overboard to it by the sailors during the trip of more than three months.

REV. R. BANDAS SPOKE TO CLUB AT MELBOURNE

Richmond, Feb. 8.—The Misses Bernice and Dora Blanchette received the Junior C.W.L. Study Club at their home in Melbourne with the following members present: Mrs. Ross Alexander, Mrs. Walter Parkes, Mrs. Phil Warden, Mrs. Charles Frazer, Mrs. Guelph Huske and the Misses A. Linahen, and Maureen McCabe.

The study taken up was the family and the education of children, by the Rev. R. G. Bandas. The club and right to educate children belongs in the first place to parents and not to the state as the Russian Communists and the Nazis claim, he said. In ancient times, married life was undermined in a threefold manner: first by attacks on the dignity of the woman, second, attacks on the dignity of the child, and thirdly on the marriage bond itself.

After a very educational and interesting study period, Rev. Cross work was taken up and this was followed by a delicious lunch, served by the hostesses.

Mrs. Guelph Huske extended an invitation to the Group, to meet at her home on Monday evening the 10th.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

by Billy Rose

I once got five thousand dollars for a song that wasn't worth five.

Before I tell you how it happened, I have to tell you about the late Myron Selznick. Myron was the king of the Hollywood agents. During his reign, he represented the greatest renege of stars who ever paid commission to one office in the history of the picture business. He was a tough guy to get on the phone unless your name appeared on the screen before the title of the picture. His take-home money generally came to about a million a year.

Myron delighted in making producers give up their bridgework for the services of his clients. It had to do with an old friend. I father had pioneered in the movie business back in the days when cameramen wore their caps backwards and movievies was a barn in Fort Lee, N.J. I once heard that Myron's pop was cold-colored out of his rightful spot in the film industry. I figure that every time Myron made a studio pay a star 150 G's for six weeks' work, he was getting him for his old man.

Next to fighting for money, Myron liked to fight for fun. After a tough day at the office, he would go out looking for an interesting brawl, like other people go bowling. He wasn't much bigger than Cagney, but I don't think he ever realized it. John Barrymore talked out of turn one night at a Hollywood party. Myron dumped him on his distinguished derrière, and it took a dozen strong men to dislodge the little agent from remodeling the world's most famous profile.

Some years ago, I was week-end at Ben Hecht's house in Nyack. We were fooling around in the little gym Ben had rigged up in his cellar. From the way Hollywood's top money writer concerned himself with his muscles, you might have figured he was writing for Bernard MacFadden instead of Ingrid Bergman.

An agent I'll call, Bill Grimm came in. He had driven out from New York to talk business to Ben. I didn't cotton to Mr. Grimm, and I think the feeling was likewise. He made some snide crack about the way I was punching the light bag, and offered to show me how. He took off his coat and began pounding the bag until it sounded like Gene Krupa getting off on "Tiger Rag." He finished with a paraded and a double-time riff and then asked me to feel his muscle. I reached up and felt him behind the ears.

Grimm got a little mad. He started bragging about how many girls he had licked. I was a little miffed myself. I told him there was an agent on the Coast who could belt his brains out.—Myron Selznick. Grimm said he could lick Myron with one hand and tie a bow tie with the other.

We ended up betting five bucks on it. Ben Hecht held the stakes. Silly, I suppose, for men around the forty mark. Perhaps a throwback to "my father can lick your father."

A year later, on the prowl for a little scratch, I bought myself a ticket for Hollywood. I figured I might piddle a song or two to some tone-deaf producer. I got an inspiration for a ditty as we rattled across Ohio, dummed out the lyric in Indiana, finished it in Illinois. In Colorado, I decided it was terrible, crumpled it up and pitched it in a corner. A mile out of Los Angeles, I thought I had better keep it. It was a horrible example, smoothed out the paper, and stuck it in my pocket.

I hadn't been in my Hollywood hotel room more than ten minutes when the phone rang. It was Myron Selznick's secretary. "Mr. Selznick wants to see you," she said. "It's important. Could you come right over?"

I was plenty excited. I knew Selznick didn't send for you unless the deal involved big round numbers. I put on my other shirt, and hurried over to his office. The girl at the reception desk greeted me as if I were Louis B. Mayer. She ushered me in with everything but trumpets. Selznick jumped up from behind a two-thousand-dollar desk and threw his arms around me.

"Hello, Billy," he said. "I've always wanted to meet you. How long are you going to be in town?" I told him I wasn't sure. It depended on what came up. He paid no attention to the hint. "I've told my girl to put a car and chauffeur at your disposal," he said. "This is a tough town to get around in. How about having dinner at my place tonight?"

Dinner consisted mainly of Martinis and olives. I ate the olives. I kept wondering when Myron would start talking business. At ten o'clock, he stood up, tested his knuckles against his palm, and said, "Let's go and Bill Grimm."

"Bill who?" I asked.

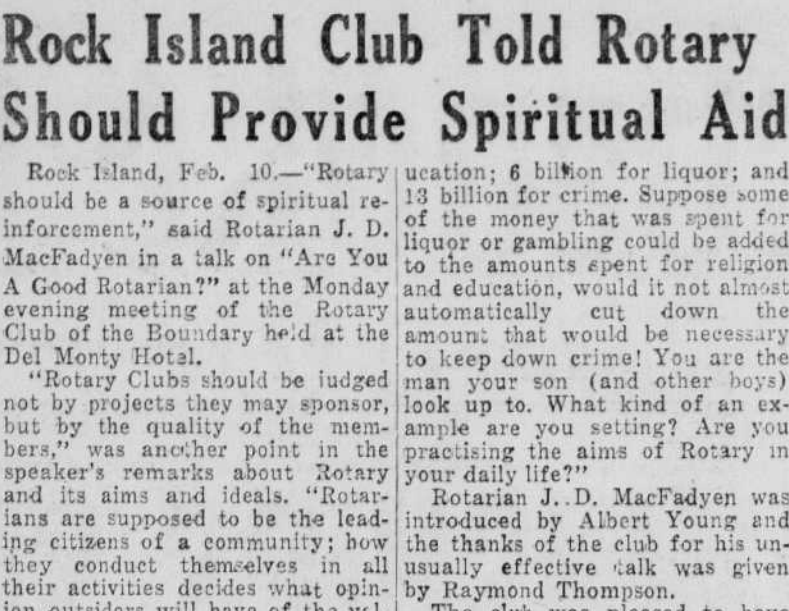

"Bill Grimm," he repeated. "The fellow you made that bet with. Hecht told me about it. I'm going to knock Grimm through a wall tonight—just for you."

During the next five hours we visited half a hundred spots—Grimm's house, Grimm's girl's house, restaurants, drive-ins, bars, night clubs, any place an agent might be.

At three a.m., Selznick got Grimm's mother out of bed. She told us her son had flown to New York that morning. Myron took it pretty hard. "Yellow so-and-so," he kept muttering.

He dropped me off at my hotel. By this time, I knew the big deal Hollywood's number-one agent had for me was to hold his coat while he took Grimm apart. "So long, Billy," he said. "Sorry to have disappointed you. By the way, I understand you write songs. Can I do anything for you while you're out here?"

As I said 21 paragraphs ago, I once got five thousand dollars from a movie company for a song that wasn't worth five.

Rock Island Club Told Rotary Should Provide Spiritual Aid

Rock Island, Feb. 10.—"Rotary should be a source of spiritual reinforcement," said Rotarian J. D. MacFadyen in a talk on "Are You A Good Rotarian?" at the Monday evening meeting of the Rotary Club of the Boundary held at the Del Monty Hotel.

"Rotary Clubs should be judged not by projects they may sponsor, but by the quality of the members," was another point in the speaker's remarks about "Rotary and its aims and ideals." Rotarians are supposed to be the leading citizens of a community; how they conduct themselves in all their activities decides what opinion outsiders will have of the value of Rotary. The aims of Rotary are character building, community building and world building, and nowhere is there as great an opportunity of helping do these things as there is through the youth of each community. Each Rotarian, as an individual, as well as each club, should do everything possible to develop the youth of today. A boy is the most important article in the world. As a father, what would you take for your boy? A million? A billion? No sum of money could buy your son, but what are you doing to try and better the conditions that face that boy as he grows up to take his place in the world? What kind of an example are you setting for him?"

"About one billion dollars a year is spent for religion in the United States; 2 1/2 billion for education; 6 billion for liquor; and 13 billion for crime. Suppose some of the money that was spent for liquor or gambling could be added to the amounts spent for religion and education, would it not almost automatically cut down the amount that would be necessary to keep down crime? You are the man your son (and other boys) look up to. What kind of an example are you setting? Are you practicing the aims of Rotary in your daily life?"

Rotarian J. D. MacFadyen was introduced by Albert Young and the thanks of the club for his unusually effective talk was given by Raymond Thompson.

The club was pleased to have Payson Davis of the Newport club present at the meeting. Visitors were Frank Stanton, of Stanstead College, and Mrs. Amy Taylor who acted as pianist.

Suitable notice was taken of the death of the founder of Rotary, Paul Harris, a few facts about his life being mentioned by the president of the club, C. R. MacLean.

Ernest Hills, of Rock Island, was welcomed into membership in the club by Rotarian Gordon Petrie.

At the meeting next Monday evening at the Del Monty, Rotarian Jerry Laughrea is bringing some of his own moving pictures as the feature attraction, the following Monday, Feb. 17th, will feature the annual public speaking contest with representatives from Stanstead College.

Witness Testifies To Beatings Of Canadians At POW Camp

Evidence of the maltreatment of Canadian Prisoners of War at Japanese prison camps which included men of the Royal Rifles of Canada Regiment comprising many E.I. residents, was given at the trial of Katsuyasu Sato, one of the four Jap Camp No. 5b, personnel charged with brutal beatings of camp inmates and forcing them to work barefooted during cold and wet weather in a coal mine.

Sato is alleged to have given the order for POW's to remove their shoes and work barefooted in the Rinko Coal Camp Dock.

Tadashi Kondo, 35, a former guard at the Rinko Coal Dock, took the stand.

"You know Sato gave the order to remove footwear," testified Kondo, who was sworn in as a witness. "Sato is charged with depriving the prisoners of their boots, forcing them to work barefooted during very cold and wet weather." Further questioned, "do you know of beatings administered by Sato or by anyone of the camp staff against Prisoners of War?" The witness again answered in the negative, "I have no recollection at present except two cases by Sato," he stated. (In specification 6 it is alleged that Sato beat Sgt. James Martin of 188 Fraser Street, Quebec, Canada, punching him, stamping on his bare feet with hob nailed boots and then kicking him into insensibility, forcing him to return to work, thus contributing to his death.)

FOUR SKIING ACCIDENTS IN THIS DISTRICT

Three serious accidents marred an otherwise good skiing week-end in this district on the week-end. Despite the blustery weather and blizzard, skiers were out in large numbers and found going good although the snow was deep where the trails had not been packed.

Miss Yvette Precourt, manager of Chez Yvette, broke her right leg while skiing on the Lower Standard at Hillcrest yesterday afternoon. Under the care of Dr. Lionel Groleau, she is confined at the St. Vincent de Paul Hospital.

Miss Henriette Veronneau, 44 Melbourne Street, is also confined at the St. Vincent de Paul Hospital. Her accident occurred as she was skiing yesterday afternoon at Hillcrest's Ski School, Braut's Farm, Brompton Road. She is under the care of Dr. Armand Ledoux.

Cyrille Faucher, 34a Brooks Street, suffered a broken ankle as a result of a skiing accident on the hills at Hillcrest. Under the care of Dr. Groleau, he is at the St. Vincent de Paul Hospital.

There was another accident at Hillcrest yesterday afternoon to keep the Ski Patrol, under Albert Lusignan, and St. John Ambulance Brigade No. 163 busy.

Henri Daigle, 3rd Avenue, suffered a strained ligament as he fell on the Sunnyside Trail. He was released from the Sherbrooke Hospital after an X-ray showed no fracture.

Touring the United States and Canada, the group have played before guest audiences in New England and Montreal. After a two-week performance in Ottawa, they plan to move on to Grand Rapids, Mich., and Richmond, Va. The original cast of the drama currently is playing in the United Kingdom.

PLANE USED IN EFFORT TO GET MOVIE FILMS

If the aircraft from the Sherbrooke Airways Ltd., dispatched to meet the snowbound C.P.R. train from Montreal had been five minutes earlier yesterday afternoon, patrons of the local film houses would have seen scheduled bills.

As it was, theatres here had to show old films yesterday afternoon.

Films for the regular Sunday change of bill were shipped from Montreal on the train which was snowbound six miles north of Farnham.

The Fleet Canuck from the Eddy Blouin airline left Little Lake Magog at three o'clock yesterday afternoon, with Alime Lenoux at the controls. Flying at about two hundred feet he followed the track, discovering the train at 4:30 p. m. He landed at Versailles, three miles from Farnham, just as the train began to move off. Visibility being bad, the pilot was unable to land again; he returned to the base and the films continued on their way on the delayed train.

Will Appeal Judgment In Portal Suit

Multi-Million Dollar Portal Pay Dispute Appears Headed to Congress and Supreme Court for Final Decision.

Detroit, Feb. 10.—(P)—With the blessings of Federal District Judge Frank A. Picard, the multi-million dollar portal pay dispute appeared destined today to return to the United States Congress and Supreme Court for final settlement.

Labor lawyers planned to carry Judge Picard's decision dismissing the Mt. Clemens Pottery Company case to the Supreme Court and maintained it would have little or no bearing on hundreds of other portal suits on file in other districts.

Spokesmen for American industries, from which some $4,800,000,000 is sought in portal claims, generally commended the ruling. Many felt, however, that revision of the fair labor standards (wage-hour) act still was "urgent."

As for Picard himself, he has expressed on numerous occasions a wish that the case would be appealed once again to the Supreme Court, which injected the portal theory in the original dispute over alleged unpaid overtime.

The Judge emphasized he did not rule that any time spent walking or in other work preliminaries up to "20 or 25 minutes" was "de minimis" or too trifling to be compensable.

Prior to his decision, he said, the Supreme Court and the wage-hour administration always had ruled such time "de minimis." In the Mt. Clemens case, he added, the walking time going to work—the only "portal" time recognized by the Supreme Court—was never more than eight minutes.

It was on this basis that several labor leaders criticized the decision, he said, adding that most of the comment he has received on his ruling has been favorable.

August Scholle, president of the Michigan C.I.O. Council, contended that "if 25 minutes is insignificant, it is insignificant when an employee is 25 minutes late (for work) and he should not be docked."

Maurice Sugar, general counsel for the United Auto Workers (C.I.O.) said the decision "would necessarily apply to other cases."

Many Die In Berlin Dance Hall Blaze

Eighty-One Bodies Recovered from Ruins in Disaster Likened to Cocoanut Grove Blaze in Boston.

Berlin, Feb. 10.—(P)—Rescuers, working in near-zero temperatures, today had recovered 81 bodies from the ruins of the Karl-Lust dance hall, razed by fire at the height of a Saturday night costume ball. Another 39 persons were in hospitals.

Capt. Frank Walten, British fire chief, said he did not expect the death toll to climb much higher.

A check of British rosters showed seven soldiers missing, the British Provost Marshal's office said. Four British soldiers were sent to hospital with burns.

German authorities were attempting to identify the bodies. Only three of the 81 have so far been identified, they said.

Various causes were advanced for the holocaust—likened to the disastrous Cocoanut Grove blaze in Boston four years ago, which claimed 49 deaths. A British Fire Control Officer blamed overheated stoves, while a German civilian familiar with the structure, said a short circuit caused the fire.

An army announcement said three British soldiers were found among the charred bodies, many of them unrecognizable. Other British Army personnel were treated for burns.

Eyewitnesses told of a macabre scene with milling crowds trying to force their way out of the flaming ballroom and hopelessly jamming the exits, of others who needlessly sacrificed their lives by returning to look for their coats.

MANY MATTERS ARE DISCUSSED BY SR. C.W.L.

The monthly meeting of the Sherbrooke Senior Sub-Division C.W.L. was held in St. Patrick's Church Hall with Mrs. L. W. St. Louis presiding.

The minutes of the previous general meeting were adopted as read by Mrs. Romeo Therrien, recording secretary.

The treasurer's report presented by Miss Blanche Roy showed a satisfactory bank balance.

The letters read by Mrs. A. J. Whelan, corresponding secretary, included principally letters of acknowledgment from invalids who had received flowers while in hospital—and of particular interest was a letter from the Rotary Club enclosing a donation of $100 for the purpose of outfitting underprivileged children with footwear.

Miss M. E. Bradley, magazine convener, urged the members to renew their subscription to the "Canadian League" making at the same time an appeal for new subscribers. Miss Bradley also announced that she had recently forwarded the Missions 12 pounds of cancelled stamps and also that she would welcome all donations, great or small, of these.

The names of two new members were proposed by Mrs. F. O. Beatty and acceptance was unanimous.

It was reported by Mrs. John Murphy that she had attended with Mrs. L. W. St. Louis a session of the monthly "Quiz" sponsored by the "Old Boys" Association for the students of St. Patrick's Academy. It was proposed that a prize be donated for the next "Quiz" and the sum of $2.50 was accordingly voted.

Mrs. R. C. Winslade, social service convener, stated that seven orders of groceries had been provided since the last meeting and that a number of children had been outfitted with new shoes and rubbers. A special appeal was made for warm clothing required by a needy mother and her four-year-old daughter.

The sleigh drive sponsored on Saturday afternoon, February 1, by the Catholic Women's League and St. Patrick's Parish Society, proved a joyful occasion. Six sleighs, each with an adult supervisor, were filled with happy youngsters who on their return to St. Patrick's Church Hall enjoyed a hearty supper and a sing-song which was under the direction of Rev. Brother Joseph. Those volunteering as supervisors on the drive were Rev. Brother Joseph, Messrs. E. E. O'Byrne, Allan Murray, H. J. Enright, L. E. Hayes and Henry Crocheteire. The distribution of tickets for this event was in charge of Mrs. A. J. Winslow. Appreciation was expressed to all who had in any way whatsoever contributed in making a success of this undertaking.

Before adjournment the sum of twenty dollars was voted for The Canadian National Institute for the Blind and ten dollars for St. John Ambulance.

At the close of the business session the members had as guest speaker, Miss Hattie Empey, address on the work of the V.O.N. was much enjoyed. Miss Empey was introduced by Mrs. R. C. Winslade and thanked by Mrs. John Murphy.

Foster, Feb. 10.—The two-story frame residence of Maurice Williams was badly damaged in a fire discovered at six o'clock here last evening.

Believed to have been caused by an overheated stovepipe, the fire started between the floors and had gained considerable headway before it was discovered by the family and their guests as they sat down to dinner.

Help was summoned by phone and through the efficient voluntary assistance of a large number of men and women of the village, the eight-room house was saved from complete destruction.

Ceilings were broken through that fire extinguishers and hoses might reach the source of the fire.

At eleven o'clock the fire was under control after breaking out in several rooms throughout the house. Some furniture was saved.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Williams and Mr. and Mrs. Baxter Williams, occupants, have been given shelter at the home of Bert Kiehard.

The entire inside of the house was gutted. Damage is partially covered by insurance.

SATURDAY NIGHT CLUB

Record night was held at the Saturday Night Club's activities when each couple present donated a recording of their favorite number to be placed with the others in a library for the club's use. With the recent addition of a radio-phonograph the evening's highlights were enjoyed by upwards of ten couples.

Don and Elaine Barfield were the lucky recipients of the novelty dance prize with the former also carrying off the tag dance.

A new innovation in the way of games between dances proved very popular.

Prior to the dancing a short business meeting was held. Unanimous approval was given to the purchase of records during this meeting.

THE INFORMATION SERVICE CHANGED

One fact which Prime Minister Mackenzie King failed to mention in his announcement that the Canadian Information Service would be transferred to the Department of External Affairs and merged with the Information Division of that Department concerns the number of employees to be retained. He declared that the personnel of the Information Service would be absorbed into the Information Division and that the new organization will be concerned exclusively with supplying information about Canada to Canadian Government offices in other countries and will not be concerned with disseminating information within Canada.

The Prime Minister does not definitely say so, but the assumption is that the entire personnel of the Information Service will be taken over by the Information Division, thus materially increasing the payroll of the latter organization. Thus it appears that an already top-heavy employment list will be used for a much-restricted service, as an important part of the duties of the Information Service was the distribution of Government propaganda within the Dominion. With these duties removed, it would seem that the payroll could be cut substantially but from surface indications the taxpayer can expect no relief from this source.

In fact there is every possibility that the burden will be increased for it is unlikely that the Government will surrender the privilege it has enjoyed in using public servants for the spread of its own praises, rather than subject the party machine to this expenditure. True, no new organization may be established, but if this is not done, the publicity services of existing departments may be expanded to fill this need, with the final result that the taxpayer will be called upon to meet a double burden.

The latest announcement is but another illustration of the absolute inability of the present Government to make any effective effort to reduce administrative costs. Instead of seeking to abolish war-swollen temporary organizations, it is seeking to perpetuate them and in many cases expand their employment lists by taking on more permanent employees.

AS USUAL

With its much-heralded "free hospitalization" plan in operation just a few months, the Saskatchewan Government is finding that like most other socialist enterprises, the costs are far in excess of expectations. When the compulsory scheme was first inaugurated, the sponsors estimated the annual cost at $4,500,000 to $5,000,000 per year, of which $3,500,000 to $4,000,000 was to be raised by contributions from the beneficiaries and the balance was to come from the Provincial exchequer. However, according to Premier Douglas, preliminary indications are that the cost for the initial year will be in excess of $6,000,000 which means that the contributions must be raised or the difference of $2,000,000 met from the general funds of the government.

No matter which policy is pursued, the people will have to meet the bill in either event, for in spite of the glorious picture painted of life under a socialist administration, no government has funds of its own, everything it spends being raised directly or indirectly by taxes which are ultimately paid by the individual.

Thus the people of Saskatchewan are learning by bitter experience that a hospitalization scheme operating under a socialist agency can be no more free than one of the many plans being offered by private companies or co-operative groups. In either case, no more can be paid out of the pool than is paid in, either by the beneficiaries or the taxpayers. And the government plan has one decided disadvantage. It is compulsory upon every citizen of the Province to contribute under the pain of severe penalties. Thus a citizen finds himself mulcted five dollars per year for an insurance plan that may fail to meet his individual needs or desires, whereas under the co-operative and private company plans many options are provided, a combination of which generally fits the requirements of each subscriber.

WHAT IS PROFIT?

Food for considerable thought is contained in a recent advertisement of a Cleveland, Ohio, firm of machine tool makers, Warner and Swasey, which digresses from the usual run of advertising. The purpose of the advertisement is to explain the essentiality of profits in industry, the lack of which causes paralysis everywhere. This thought provoking article proceeds:

"The communists want you to believe that a corporation which makes a profit is doing wrong. If a farmer plants one potato and harvests 20, is that wrong? (You — and the communists — wouldn't eat it if he didn't.)

"Without modern potato-raising machinery, the farmer would get only six or seven potatoes from his one. That would mean more farm jobs to raise the nation's potato crop... or would it? No — potatoes would be so expensive, few could afford them, and they would provide few jobs. With modern machinery, the farmer gets 20 to 1, and you and I can afford potatoes. Is that wrong? But some of the 20 have to go to pay for the machinery. Some go to the farmer for his labor. Some go to pay for keeping the machinery in repair. Some go to build up a fund to provide new machinery when the old is worn out. One or two go to the farmer in profit. And if he doesn't get that one or two, he will stop raising potatoes, there will be a shortage and high prices and we all suffer. It is exactly the same in every factory.

"Samuel Gompers, the labor leader, understood that when he said, 'The worst crime against the working people is a company which fails to operate at a profit.' Workmen would be better off if more of the present-day labor leaders studied Gompers and farming, instead of communism and Karl Marx."

IT'S STILL A HUNGRY WORLD

Most well-fed people in the United States are not conscious of it, but the battle to feed the rest of the world's hungry millions still goes on. Rationing is still enforced throughout Europe. In Asia the shortages are worse than in wartime.

In the words of D. A. Fitzgerald, formerly of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, now executive chairman of the International Emergency Food Council, the world food picture does look a little better than it did a year ago. But he amplifies this by saying it's like a farm which last year was under five feet of water but is in better condition today because it's now under only three feet of water.

UNRRA is rapidly closing up shop. It has shipped 20 million tons—$2.3 billion worth of relief and rehabilitation.

The 18-nation-backed International Children's Organization, with $550,000 of UNRRA money, is just getting started. It will need $450 million in voluntary contributions to feed 20 million children—five million more than were fed after World War I.

The United Nations IRO—International Refugee Organization—has had its charter and a $150 million budget approved at Lake Success. But the charter has not been ratified by the member nations, and IRO has no money. Therefore, it doesn't exist. It hopes to meet in Paris or Geneva this spring and take over where UNRRA leaves off June 30.

IEFC CARRIES THE LOAD

Aside from private charitable organizations, the one going, inter-governmental concern at work in the fight against hunger is IEFC—the International Emergency Food Council which took over from the wartime Combined Food Board last May. Most people have forgotten it exists, if they ever knew.

IEFC is holding its third session in Washington this week to hear reports and survey the situation that lies ahead. As a voluntary organization, all it can do is recommend how surpluses from the countries that have more than they need can be divided most fairly among the nations which do not have enough.

IEFC is not a charity organization like UNRRA. IEFC has no money to spend. It buys nothing and sells nothing. That is left to the individual nations, to arrange for cash or credit.

Representatives of 30 nations sit in the Food Council. They are the principal food-exporting and importing countries of the world—excepting Soviet Russia and the Argentine. Both were invited, but did not choose to join.

In a quick and over-simplified survey, the world food situation facing IEFC in the coming year looks something like this:

Meat—North and South America, Australia and the other meat-exporting countries are now producing more than they ever did. But they are also consuming more, which cuts down supply.

Compared with a pre-war world export supply of 12.5 million tons, this year there will be only 7.5 million tons. Because of the demand for grain for human consumption, feed grains are simply not available to build up livestock herds—a two- or three-year process.

Rice—Available supplies for distribution in the crop year ending in July are 2.9 million tons, compared to a normal world supply of 7.8 million tons.

BIG JOB AHEAD

Cereals — To make up for the shortages of meats and grains, pulses—the trade name for peas, beans, lentils and other protein vegetables—must be substituted. The demand for grains for distribution is estimated at 38 million tons this year. That's four million up from last year. But the supply is put at only 25.5 million tons, a full million tons below last year's supply.

Fats and oils—World shipments this year will probably be only 3.3 million tons. This is about half of pre-war trade. Tropical production is still off. India used to export fats and oils but this year must hold them because her rice and grain supply is low.

Sugar — This is the one major food item on which there is prospect for a slightly better supply than last year. But because of increased demands, there may be 10 per cent less than requirements.

These are the broad outlines of the world food picture for 1947. The job ahead of IEFC is to divide up what there is on an equitable basis as possible, to provide at least minimum diets.

But as the world returns gradually to normal trade channels, freed of wartime controls over shipping, exports and imports, this problem in itself becomes more difficult. U. S. controls under the war power acts, for instance, expire March 31 and June 30.

TAXES AND PAYER

By FRANCES RODMAN, in New York Times Magazine. There went out a decree from Caesar Augustus that all the world should be taxed.—Luke II.

To tax and to please, no more than to love and to save his money. A politician is another guy who, were it not for the first, would have to do the same.—Anon.

The art of taxation consists in so plucking the goose as to obtain the largest amount of feathers with the least possible amount of hissing.—Attributed to J. B. Colbert, French Minister of Finance.

In constitutional states liberty is compensation for the heavy taxation; in despotic states the equivalent of liberty is light taxes.—C. L. de Montesquieu.

The taxpayer is, of all human beings, the most incurably selfish. If he hears that a new tax has been imposed, the only thing in which he is interested is its effect on himself.—Robert Lynd.

When there is an income tax, the just man will pay more and the unjust less on the same amount of income.—Plato.

The schoolboy whips his taxed top; the bearded youth manages his taxed horse with a taxed bridle on a taxed road; and the dying Englishman, pouring his medicine, which has paid 7 per cent, into a spoon that has paid 15 per cent, finds himself back upon his chintz bed which has paid 22 per cent, and expires in the arms of an apothecary who has paid a license of a hundred pounds for the privilege of putting him to death.—Sydney Smith.

Everything seems to be coming down except taxes.—Philadelphia Public Ledger (1852).

Of all debts, men are least willing to pay the taxes. What a satire is this on Government!

Everywhere they think they get their money's worth, except for these.—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

I thought that the grasp of tax gatherers stopped at the edge of grave; that when we passed to another land it was to a world "where the wicked cease from troubling, and the weary are at rest." But they pursue a man even beyond the tomb. Notwithstanding that they have taxed the shroud in which the corpse is clad, they now tax the grave stone that is erected over him. I trust that in the great hereafter, when we stand before the judgment seat of God, we shall at least find that salvation is free.—Asher G. Caruth.

Income taxes could be much worse. Suppose we had to pay on the basis of what we think we're worth!—Anon.

We are taxed twice as much by our idleness, three times as much by our pride and four times as much by our folly.—Poor Richard's Almanac.

The thing generally raised on city land is taxes.—Charles Dudley Warner.

When you swear at last year's taxes, remember that some of them went to pay for a war which was fought before your grandfather saw daylight.—Donald F. Rose.

... Cursed war and racking tax have left us scarcely raiment to our backs.—Sir Walter Scott.

POLITICS DETERMINED THE COURSE

Globe and Mail. Monday, Prime Minister King attempted to defend his manipulation of the Dominion-Provincial financial negotiations against the criticism of Opposition Leader John Bracken. It was quite a political performance. Historically, it was one of the best efforts of his lengthening years. He was indignant, scornful, hurt and angry; he was pious of purpose and serenely charitable (to some provinces) in turn. But he was convincing only to those who for party solidarity wanted desperately to be convinced.

Indignation or injured pride were no substitute for sincerity and historical honesty. At base it was Author King and not Actor King which failed. The dialogue was thin, significant only for its evasions. For once words could not be twisted in the contradiction of recorded fact. Every argument which the Prime Minister offered in defense of his Government's conduct was stripped naked by the record of its actions.

What were his claims? What are the facts?

The general Conference had failed last May because, as with the failure of 1941, the Premiers had talked out.

It was not the Dominion's failure; it was not the failure of some of the Provinces.

While it is true that Premier Duplessis went home last May, he did so only after what Premier Manning of Alberta described as "the uncompromising rigidity on the part of the Dominion Government" had made further negotiation impossible. For this reason the Conference adjourned on Ottawa's undertaking to consider new proposals. It was not re-assembled because the Federal Government refused to make concessions on those matters and instead, delivered an ultimatum to the Provinces through the Budget.

Monday, the Prime Minister found it convenient to sidestep these facts and Mr. Bracken's suggestion that "had they (the Dominion) done more of the things they have done later (in private deals) the Conference could have been saved."

If there were Provinces which did not wish to accept it (the Federal offer) they could just take what course they wished themselves (Mr. King said). Every one of the Provinces is free to go ahead and attend to its own affairs in any way...

Mr. King knows this to be untrue and his knowledge determined his hole-in-the-corner methods. Ontario, Quebec and British Columbia are the only Provinces which honestly may be said to enjoy any freedom in the matter.

What freedom of choice was there for the others? The Federal Government had commandeered as a war emergency virtually all fields of direct taxation. It still holds them and through them is imposing the heaviest taxation the nation has ever known. Yet Mr. King has the audacity to suggest that Provinces whose revenues have long been inadequate for their needs, were free to reject his proposals and alternatively levy new taxes in competition with the Dominion.

Then there is the matter of centralization. (Said Mr. King). Where is the centralization?

If concentration of all direct taxation in Federal hands under this form of pressure is not centralization, how is it to be described? Here, certainly, is the power to destroy, by slow strangulation, the autonomy of the Provinces. What is there in the record of Mr. King to sustain any one's faith that it will not be so used?

I do say (Mr. King declared) that we have been able to make agreements that are satisfactory.

Satisfactory to whom? To Premier Manning who, under the inescapable pressure of financial need has been forced to compromise principles and sign? To Premiers Douglas, Garson and McNair, who having been burned once, now learn that because of the enlarged grants Federal proposals for social security and public investment measures have been withdrawn?

Finally there was the Prime Minister's attempt to put the blame for his refusal to call a general conference on Premiers Drew and Duplessis for statements they were reported to have made — "Attitude is a pretty important thing in life." Forgetting his months-old refusals to reassemble the conference, Mr. King quoted from a news despatch of December 17 which recorded Premier Drew as referring to "an incompetent Government, at Ottawa."

He read another, dated December 18, quoting Premier Duplessis as saying "I have no confidence in Ottawa."

Why, Mr. King demanded, should he "rush up with arms open and ask them to come to a conference to try to settle anything? Human nature is human nature!"

The Prime Minister has his pride, but his memory is faulty. These offenses occurred in mid-December. Prime Minister King wrote Premier Drew on January 27 and Premier Duplessis on January 30, inviting them to a conference with him and his colleagues — but separately. Now if Mr. King's pride will allow him to talk with the Premiers in private, why not at a general conference? If they are now without his "confidence," "respect" and "regard," it would not be the part of wisdom to meet them only at a general conference, in the presence of reliable witnesses?

It is not pride, but politics which determined Mr. King on the course he has followed.

The crate in which Linaberg's "Spirit of St. Louis" was returned to America, after the famous non-stop flight over the Atlantic, now serves as a summer cottage at Contoocook, N.H.

RECORD SALES REPORTED BY MONARCH LIFE

The annual meeting of the Monarch Life was held on January 28th, 1947, with J. E. Woods, vice-president, presiding. He reported that the first full postwar year had been one in which the sales of life insurance had reached record breaking levels and that the company's business in force was more than $112,000,000, assets of the company now amounted to $26,600,000, having increased from $24,111,000 since the previous year. Thirty-five per cent of all assets were in Dominion Government Bonds, although these do not constitute as high a proportion of total assets as they did when the national effort required the strongest support of institutions of this kind. Company holdings in mortgages and real estate substantially declined over the last year.

The increase in assets is reflected in greater holdings of corporation bonds and preferred stocks. These two classes of securities indicate most clearly the effect of prevailing low interest rates. Of Company holdings of these securities, at the beginning of 1946, approximately one-half in value were called during the year either for payment or refunding at substantially lower rates of interest. This enforced reinvestment together with the placing of new funds at low rates bore down on the average interest rate, which for the year, was 4.71 per cent. While this rate was highly satisfactory, it, unfortunately, could not be maintained because even an unexpected change in the general trend could not prevent a further decline.

The total investment in bonds and stocks was approximately $23,600,000 and their market value exceeds the book value shown in the statement by more than $2,000,000. Net earnings were substantially lower than in the previous year because of lower interest yields and because profit on securities sold or redeemed was substantially less. New sales of insurance, so much in excess of those in previous years, absorbed a substantially larger part of the current earnings of old business.

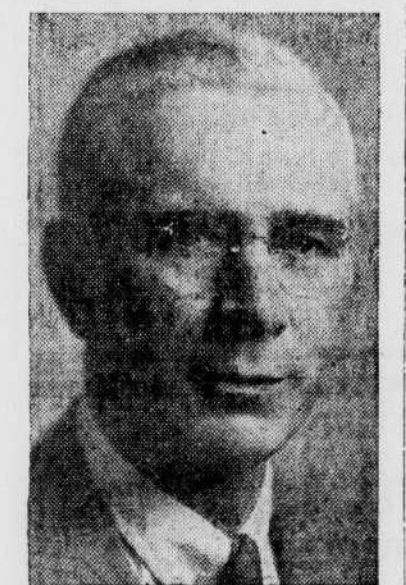

The actuarial reserves with respect to business written since 1942 have been calculated on the assumption of three per cent interest earning return. In addition the provision for strengthening actuarial reserves against business written prior to January 1st, 1943, was increased to $925,000. Full provision was made as usual for accrued profits to policyholders and all other reserves were fully maintained. Free surplus after providing for all reserves increased from $925,000 to $1,043,000.

G. C. Cumming, General Manager, commenting on operations pointed out that new business placed at risk during the year amounted to $22,205,000 exclusive of single premium immediate annuities. This represented a gain of over 60 per cent. Business in force gained $15,881,245 to $112,725,763, an increase of 16.4 per cent for the year. The mortality experience continued satisfactorily and was somewhat better than in the past few years, partially because of the termination of the war. Cost ratios advanced moderately but were satisfactory.

The meeting elected John A. Flanders, R. J. Gourley, Peter Lowe, W. L. Parrish, G. E. Sharpe, C. Gordon Smith, George H. Stewart, E. J. Tarr and J. Elmer Woods to be directors of the Company.

The directors, at a meeting following the annual meeting, elected E. J. Tarr, K.C., president, and J. Elmer Woods, vice-president.

B.C.S. WINS OLD BOYS' CUP, 3 SKI AWARDS

Skiing and hockey honors were won by boys of Bishop's College School over the week-end when the senior hockey team trimmed Ashbury College, Ottawa, 12-2 to win the coveted Ashbury College Old Boys Association Cup, and three ski awards at North Hatley. Saturday wins at North Hatley were the Sylvester Trophy for the Eastern Townships Zone Junior Championship, to Donald Campbell, and the Senior team in the Inter-school loop for the tenth year in succession. On Sunday the school led the field in a ten mile cross country relay to win the J. P. Perreault Trophy.

At the Ashbury hockey match the school consolidated their decisive 7-2 win over Lower Canada College last week by a score which amply demonstrated the team spirit of the school. Eight players tallied the twelve goals, with Gray leading with four and Pitfield, the team captain, two. Glassford, Rider, Bignell, Sterns, D. McMaster and Jones scored one goal each.

The line up was as follows: Goal, T. Price; defence, Bignell, Sterns; centre, Rider, forwards, Glassford, Pitfield, Jones, Gray and D. McMaster comprised the second line with Hartt and Williams, subs.

Saturday's Eastern Townships Inter-school meet, at which Sherbrooke, Stanstead and North Hatley participated, witnessed fast skiing by Donald Campbell, who won the Junior Zone Championship and the coveted Sylvester Trophy, while in the same league, the senior team, for the tenth year in succession held their title to the 35th Battery Trophy. The team, captained by Victor Bennett, was comprised of the following: D. Faerman, D. Vass, A. Corlett and M. Ballantyne.

On Sunday the ten mile cross country relay race from Sherbrooke to the North Hatley Hillcrest Ski Club won by another school team consisting of V. Bennett, D. Creighton, P. Brown and H. Burland. This fourth week-end win brought in the Jean Paul Perreault Trophy and represented a victory over the second and third place teams from Bishop's University and the Hillcrest Ski Club respectively.

RECORD YEAR REPORTED BY MUTUAL LIFE

A record year of $105,000,000 in new business written in 1946, and excellent opportunities for 1947 were reported by Louis L. Lang, President, and W. H. Somerville, Vice-President and General Manager at the annual meeting of the Mutual Life Assurance Company of Canada, early in February.

The present second year of reconstruction would present many opportunities for increased security and happiness for Canadians, despite some serious errors made in 1946, said Mr. Lang. He pointed out that Canada had permitted repeated interruptions and reductions in production, at a time when the whole civilized world was crying out for her manufactured goods. At the same time, an inflation of prices had given an artificial semblance of rising prosperity.

Despite continued world unrest, the great majority of Canadians continued to believe in the political and economic systems represented by the British Empire and the United States of America were the best in the history of mankind, said Mr. Lang. Inseparable from these systems was the principle of the freedom of individual enterprise, the continuance of which Mr. Lang considered essential to Canadian prosperity.

Mr. Lang condemned alike the exertion of financial strength and the manipulation of the labor of human beings, when aimed to achieve benefit for a few at the expense of the public.

The President also referred to the Company's large Victory Loan purchases, refunding issues of municipalities and corporations; the possibility of further reductions in the Company's average interest rate; and the need to re-examine all available outlets for investment.

Mr. Lang referred to the substantial progress made by Housing Enterprises of Canada Limited—the co-operative organization formed by Canadian Life Insurance companies—and he closed his address with an expression of faith in the continuance of prosperity in Canada through free enterprise, and of confidence and pride in the role of his Company in that object.

98 PER CENT VOTE IN SOVIET ELECTION

Moscow, Feb. 10.—(AP)—First returns from yesterday's elections indicated that more than 98 per cent of the electorate voted for Supreme-Soviet (parliament) deputies in seven of Russia's union republics and in 16 autonomous republics. Some predicted that a full count would show a 98.5 per cent vote.

Prime Minister Stalin, candidate in all seven union republics, and Foreign Minister Molotov were shown casting their ballots in front-page photographs in the Soviet press.

Millions of other Russians braved the winter's coldest weather to vote. Newspapers told how ballot boxes were taken even into delivery homes so that mothers who had just given birth to children might vote.

5 Prisoners Crash Out, 2 Recaptured

Philadelphia, Feb. 10.—(AP)—Using a small knife and a wooden gun to overpower a guard, five dangerous, long-term convicts fled from the Holmesburg State Prison early today—but two were recaptured less than three hours after the break.

Warden Robert J. Beveridge said the prisoners surprised the guard, William Skelton, as he was making a routine pre-dawn check of the cell blocks.

"They knocked Skelton down and one stabbed him slightly on the hand," Beveridge told a reporter. "Then they took his keys from him and unlocked a prison basement where ladders were stored."

Beveridge said guards on the lower shot at the escapees as they sped up a ladder and over the wall "but none apparently were hit."

It was the second mass escape for the convicts in less than two years. They had tunneled their way out of Eastern Penitentiary on April 3, 1945, with four other men.

"Following their capture then," Beveridge said, "they were transferred to this prison."

Already back in their Holmesburg cells were David Aikin, 51, and Clarence Klindert, 40. Still at large were Willie Sutton, 46; Spencer Waldren, 40, and Frederick Tenuto, 37.

Rail and Highway

his wife and car behind, borrowed a pair of skis and started out on a three-mile trek towards the railway station.

Sherbrooke streets were kept comparatively clear through the efforts of 300 workers and 35 trucks—all available snow removal machinery—working in eight-hour shifts through the week-end.

Telephone and telegraph communications in this area were reported unaffected by the heavy snowfall, spokesman for the Bell Telephone Company and the local offices of the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National telegraphs stating this morning that their facilities had not suffered from the storm.

Montreal, Feb. 10.—(AP)—The winter's worst blizzard was moderating throughout Quebec Province after week-end snowfall churned by winds ranging from 25 to 30 miles an hour in velocity piled snow drifts as high as 10 feet.

No major accidents were reported in the Montreal metropolitan area or elsewhere in the province. In Montreal cars stalled by the snow, particularly in hilly sections of the city, but street car service was maintained with moderate delays.

Both major railroads reported delays in train schedules as high as five hours. Most airline flights were cancelled although Colonial Airways reported its service between Montreal and New York was continued.

In Quebec City electric power went off twice during Saturday night. Shawinigan Falls reported 15 inches of snow, with several minor automobile accidents in the area. From Three Rivers ferry service was maintained with Ste. Angèle de Laval on the south shore, but all highways in the area were reported blocked.

The blizzard played havoc with sports schedules. Provincial Hockey Association games were postponed.

MEDICAL CONQUESTS LENGTHEN LIFE SPAN

By William A. O'Brien, M.D.

Because countless children have been spared death from preventable disease, there has been a marked increase in the average length of life. Consequently, more deaths now occur from complications which develop in middle and late life.

In the 16th century, the average length of life in western Europe is said to have been 19 years.
In 1942, in the United States, life expectancy at birth was 64 years for white males and 69 years for white females.

In 1900, the leading causes of death were tuberculosis, pneumonia, and diarrhea and enteritis.
Today, they are heart disease, cancer and apoplexy.

Age Average Grows

As we continue to save the lives of more young people, the number of older people increases.
It is estimated that by 1980, 40 per cent of our people will be more than 45 years of age and 14 per cent more than 65. That means that of the 150 million people the United States will contain in 1980, 60 million will be more than 45 years old 21 million more than 65 years of age.

Question: Does Meniere's Disease always require an operation?

Answer: No. Most Meniere's Disease patients do fairly well on medical treatment. An operation is reserved for the severe cases which cannot be relieved in any other way.

CHAPTER XVIII.

It was hot for May and little Ellen was cross. Cassie and Mama had been trying to do the spring cleaning.

"For Pete's sake, Cassie!" Parker said, coming home to find her with her head tied up in a white cloth and her hands immersed in a bucket of suds in the hall. "Why can't you hire a woman to come in and do all that heavy work—like scrubbing?"

"But Parker—I don't mind!" "But I do! Do you think I like to come home to find my wife crawling around on the floor like a charwoman?"

"It's so hard to get someone, and it's terrible the prices they charge when you do get someone!"

"We can surely afford something like that!" he said. He strode off toward the kitchen. And she heard him arguing with Mama about it.

She knew Parker hated to see her doing those things. But they had to be done, and Mama wasn't much help. It was easier to do things oneself than to have to keep prodding her.

The plumbing bills for the two new bathrooms and the fine new electric range in the kitchen had used up all the reserve in the bank. But it seemed beyond Parker's comprehension that you couldn't spend money if you didn't have it. He couldn't somehow realize that their financial resources were now practically nothing.

One thing, the allowance to Sid wouldn't have to be paid out after this month because Sid was coming home.

Parker, Cassie soon realized, was not satisfied with the job at the Fair store either. The first few days he had talked of it with a great show of enthusiasm, but after a while they heard nothing more about it.

To Cassie's casual inquiries as to how it was coming his answers, abrupt and noncommittal, had been tinged with resentment.

The farm was beautiful now. The big maple outside the kitchen door was leafed, and farther away, past the barn and bird-dog kennels, remains of a small orchard of apple and plum trees were in full blossom.

Parker, taking the dogs for a run one Sunday morning, asked Cassie to go with him along the river.

The sandy loam along the river banks was thick with violets and, on the hill-sides redoubt and white dogwood mingled in lovely profusion.

The dogs ran ahead of them, wild with freedom, chasing over driftwood piles and through the underbrush.

Parker in old corduroys, with a worn suede jacket, hatless, his fine brown hair tossed by the wind, had a more cheerful expression on his face than Cassie had seen there for a long time.

Cassie felt happy too. The air was good and fresh and clear. They stood still for an instant, by the bend of the river, watching the muddy water swirl around a log that had floated down with the early spring flood and was caught half against the bank.

"You know, Parker," Cassie said thoughtfully, "if you're not satisfied with this job either, maybe we could make something of the farm."

"Who said I wasn't satisfied?" "Why must he always look at her in that distrustful way?"

"I meant—if it wasn't exactly to your liking. I thought you might like farming better. There's that old orchard, that could be fixed up, with pruning and a few new trees, and spray and stuff. And we could have some cows, and get a little garden. Maybe you could raise some dogs, or even have a commercial kennel. And—"

She was frightened at the expression on his face. He kicked at a stump and was silent for a moment.

"So you think I'll get kicked out at the Fair store, too? Well, I wouldn't be surprised, either. You don't think much of me without my money, do you, Cassie? I'm not much good without the push to back me, am I?"

"I didn't mean—"

"If worst comes to worst we can eke out an existence here on our little pig and cows. Maybe we could even go back to Carson street!"

"Oh Parker!" Her heart went down like a runaway elevator. "I didn't mean it the way you took it. I meant that it's a wonderful place to be, on the farm here. You said you used to spend a lot of time out here, when your father was alive. I remember—"

"Yeah. It was fine, when father was alive to handle the money and see that more good coming in all the time. I did a good job of loafing around out here, fishing and running the dogs. Now you want to make a farmer out of me, on the strength of it, so we won't starve to death!"

"Oh what's the matter, Parker? The money didn't mean anything to me really. I mean—nothing should be any different between us—money or not."

"So it didn't mean much to you?" he asked, his voice threaded with mockery. "That was the only reason you married me, wasn't it?"

"Parker, don't say such things to me." Her throat felt hot and dry and yet she had a shaken chill feeling all over.

"Too bad you didn't go ahead and marry Mike Carrill, the way things turned out after all, isn't it?"

"Please, let's not quarrel. You're so childish, Parker."

He strode off suddenly, back toward the house, leaving her standing there alone.

Marital Doom

Marrying Out of Own Class Chief Cause of Divorce

The thing that leads to divorce oftener than anything else is for men and women to marry out of their own class. It seems ridiculous to assert that for a husband and wife to have been brought up with the same background, to have been fed on the same baby formula, and to have been told the same bedtime stories, will do more to secure them a safe and happy marriage than for them to possess all of the major and minor virtues. But it is the truth nevertheless.

No matter how high we climb in the world, we never really get out of the cradle. The things that we learned at our mothers' knees are always the dominating influence in our lives. They have been bred into our very bones and in every emergency we always revert to type and do things the way Mother taught us to do when we were kids.

Irvin Cobb once said that the Civil War was not fought over an issue of slavery, but over hot bread versus cold bread. And in millions of households, where Southern and Northern men and women have married, the battle still goes on over how much seasoning should be put in the food.

COMPATIBILITY VITAL

The only people who never get upon our nerves are the ones who like to do the same things we like to do; who read the same books; who laugh at the same stories; who have been cut to the same pattern that we have by their environment and their teaching. Nobody enjoys the society of a person who challenges their every statement; who starts an argument over every topic that is brought up, and who never wants to play anybody else's game.

Three marriages out of five now go on the rocks. This is not because the husbands and wives are villains, or viragoes, or drunkards, or philanderers, but just because they were so uncompanionable that they fought their way to the divorce courts. And the reason they couldn't get along together was because they married out of their class.

John, who had been brought up by a mother who was a meticulous housekeeper and a crackjack cook, could not stand a sloppy wife, who never even combed her hair unless she was stepping out, and whose cooking was enough to give a wooden Indian stomach ulcers. Angelina couldn't keep from snooting Tom's family, who lived on the wrong side of the tracks, and that started a family feud that ended at Reno.

Of course, the men and women who marry outside of their class do it in the fond belief that they will be able to make over their wives and husbands according to their hearts' desire, but they are seldom able to accomplish the task. The habits and tastes of a lifetime are not to be changed in a minute. The man who thinks he can turn a clothes-mad girl into a thrifty wife, who will wear basement bargains, finds that she regards him as nothing but a tightwad, and despises him accordingly. The wife who criticizes her husband's table manners and corrects his grammar discovers that she has only driven him to some woman who tells him how wonderful he is.

Like unto like is the only safe rule in marriage.

The Record will be pleased to receive any letters to this Dorothy Dix column. These will be forwarded to Miss Dix who will answer them as quickly as possible.

Startling Innovations Seize Style Spotlight

Noteworthy focal points of fashion interest in dresses and suits for spring are sketched above. Jet-trimmed silk shantung swag, center, crosses one shoulder, ends in huge pannier pocket. Top to bottom, left, are a blouse boldly emblazoned with Sun King motif; gold-bede embroidered elbows on a suit; and a detachable bow-tied sash. Upper right, suit lapels faced with white silk "dictionary print" written in French and English are ensembled with matching blouse. Daringly slashed hemline, lower right, is dramatized by ripples ruffle.

Fresh focal points of interest on dresses and suits, played up by designers for drama, appreciative whistles or gasps of "What will they think of next," seize the spotlight this spring.
Apt to be the No. 1 gasp-getter is a "dictionary print" script-written in French and English on white scarf silk, which Anna Miller uses to face the lapels of a black faille suit. Properly ensembled is a blouse calculated also to inspire onlookers to brush up on their French.
Gold bead embroidery whimsically confined to the elbows of a suit is another "well-I-never" touch which Anna Miller launches. Used as embroidered shield motifs, these sparklers shine in solitary splendor on the elbows of a suit of black and beige striped crepe.

UNITED CHURCH REVIEWS YEAR OF ACTIVITY

Drummondville, Feb. 10.—The reports given at the annual meeting of Drummondville United Church show that the church is steadily growing. With a net increase of twenty families, the congregation now includes about 100 families; a net increase of seven members brings the present membership to one hundred forty-eight.

The congregation started 1946 with the mortgage of $1,000 newly wiped out. During the year they have become entirely self-supporting and have raised for all purposes the sum of $6,086. Of this total they gave $388 for missionary and other interests outside the congregation, thus meeting all their allocations. The Women's Association raised $683 in the year and the Women's Missionary Society organizations $163.

The Trustees Board is preparing to spend this summer around $2,000 in making improvements on the present building such as new heating system and better insulation of the walls. It is expected that this sum will be all in hand by the end of 1947. In the summer of 1946 the Trustees Board changed the lighting in the church, which made a vast improvement. The congregation owns a large site in the heart of the new part of the city, on which the church is situated, and it is hoped that in the early future the site will sustain a church, a hall and a manse.

The elections at the annual meeting resulted in adding a new elder to the Session, Stanley J. Hinton, adding four new stewards, J. A. Hill, R. N. Ferguson, R. W. Conner, and G. E. Connor, and adding two new trustees, R. Weaver and W. Prentice.

The minister, Rev. Roy P. Stafford, presided and E. A. W. Boyce was the secretary.

The many guests were received by His Worship Mayor and Mrs. Guy Bryant and Mr. and Mrs. Everett Bailey, who stood before a backdrop of dark blue velvet adorned with baskets of golden daffodils. Mrs. Bryant wore a graceful blue lame gown which had a midnight blue velvet jacket. Mrs. Bailey was gowned in an off-the-shoulder creation of tulle over pale blue taffeta. Les Beaulieu and his orchestra provided the music. The progress letter regarding the Second War Memorial Campaign, now almost a year old from Mrs. Norman Holland, provincial convener, of the Second War Memorial, was read by Mrs. Hannibal Sheltus, educational secretary, to inform the Chapter of the general progress of the campaign. Excerpts from the letter follow: The total subscribed from all provinces, since the inauguration of the campaign on Founders Day, last February, stands at $250,583.97, or just over fifty per cent of the $500,000 national objective.

In Quebec the quota is $97,000 the total amount of money raised up to January 15, 1947 is $35,505.83.

"All of the three Municipal Chapters have been very active. The Municipal Chapter of Quebec and Chapters under its jurisdiction have already subscribed fifty per cent of their quota of $13,625, while the Municipal Chapter of Sherbrooke has sent in $2,616.90 of its apportionment of $7,850. In Montreal, where some disbursements occurred after the states that plans are being considered to meet the difficulty thereby created. A total of $16,094.86 has been received from the Municipal Chapter towards its objective of $39,500.

"Nine Montreal chapters have attained their objectives, including Wolfe and Montclair; Mount Royal; Kitchener; Fred Fisher, V.C.; Margaret Polson Murray, S. S. Royal William; Lieut. George Hyde; Wing-Commander Bader, H.M.C.S. Victory. "This living Memorial, which in providing higher education for the children of the fallen and permanently wounded in the war now embodied both the patriotic and educational aspects of the Order's policy, is a fitting climax to the outstanding war efforts of the Order."

A new member was added to the membership of the Chapter, Mrs. John Lawrence.

Following the routine business of the meeting, the annual meeting took place with Mrs. F. N. Williams presiding. The minutes of the annual meeting of 1946 were read by Mrs. Taylor. The report of the treasurer, Mrs. Eric Kemp, showed that the Chapter had completed a most successful year, $820.29 having been raised during the year, the sources of revenue included the sale of tickets on the hope chest; a violet tag day at Easter; and the sale of poppies on Remembrance Day; a food sale; and a tea and sale, the proceeds of which were devoted to the Chapter's quota for the Second War Memorial of the Order. A balance of $293 remains on hand. Included in disbursements were donations to the Salvation Army; the Anti-Tubercular Fund; Seamen's Amenities; Second World War Memorial; material for post war work, educational and child and family welfare work.

The report of the educational secretary, Mrs. Hannibal Sheltus, showed that $141 had been spent by the Chapter on educational work. Twenty-five calendars were purchased, of which a number were distributed to the following schools: St. Joseph's Convent, St. Damien's College, Bedford High School, Stanbridge East Consolidated School, Frelighsburg Intermediate School and Phillipsburg Intermediate School. Prizes were given to the pupils obtaining the highest marks in history in the June examinations in Grades V to XI at the Bedford School, where in the same grades the Gertrude Chadsey Memorial prizes were awarded for language improvement. The Frances Corey Memorial prize was given in Grade XI for English. The prizes for history were also awarded to the Phillipsburg School, St. Joseph's Convent and St. Damien's College, where the prize winners were: Denis Messier, Jean Maurice, Pierre Fortin, Guy Lussier and Laurence Larocque; and at St. Joseph's Convent: Isobel Pare, Marie Paule Brault, Rachel Dery, Claire Maurice and Rejeanne Benoit; Phillipsburg School: Harriet Andrews and Patsy Grevatt; Bedford High School: Gertrude Chadsey Memorial Prizes for Language Improvement: Foster Whightman, Rejeanne Gady, Stanley Abdallah, Marguerite Whightman, Leslie Derrick, Betty Deline, Lawrence Yates, and Edna Lapointe; Frances Corey Memorial Prize for Literature, Hazen Thompson, History Prizes: Mustapha Mady, Elizabeth Bradshaw, Isobel Wanzor, Ruth McElroy, Dorothy Van Horn, June Holland, James Piche, Connie Carter. The sum of $100 was sent in to the Second War Memorial Fund. The School Board has been approached with regard to getting books for school prizes for another year. It is suggested that these prizes be awarded to scholars showing the most improvement in the year's work.

A donation was sent to the Gilbert Memorial Fund, Bishop's, for Bishop's University. The members observed Remembrance Day, the program for the ceremony at the soldiers' monument, this year was in the hands of the Town Council. There were no calls for outside assistance along educational lines this year.

Seven members had been subscribers, out of the Chapter's membership of thirty-two. Notes had been sent regarding chapter activities. This year Mrs. Cornell stated that in keeping with a motion passed at the last National meeting each chapter is to subscribe to "Echoes," the price of the magazine to be paid by the members in addition to the chapter fee.

The report of the Child and Family Welfare convener, Mrs. W. B. Bradshaw, showed that $102.51 had been spent along social service lines, including the supplying of milk for a family of eight; straws for milk for the pupils at the High School; providing funds for transportation to and from hospital; and a donation towards the purchasing of a hearing aid for a child.

Posture Correctives Defeat Sway-Back; Exercise Eliminates Unlovely Curves

When you correct a "sway back"—that overly-scooped stretch of spine—you straighten out two figure faults which owe their unlovely plight to this wayward curve. One is a spotlighted tummy. The other is a bounding hipline.

To correct a sway, straighten out your posture, says Charlotte Hess, Fifth Avenue salon exercise instructor. A sway-back girl who goes to her classes is taught realignment of posture and given exercises that help to keep curves in their proper places.

Is this your problem? Want to correct it? Well, here's Miss Hess ready with the routine and telling you first to back up to a wall.

With feet a few inches forward lean back against it. Extend arms overhead and touch the wall with elbows and the back of your hands. Press entire spine against the wall from shoulder to hips.

That's your correct stance. Hold back straightening exercises for which you hold a tightly rolled newspaper at its extreme ends.

For the first exercise, sit down with legs outstretched, knees bent. With the newspaper in your hands, extend arms overhead to make them touch the wall, and press your back flat against it. Hold this position for a few seconds and lean your body forward, completely relaxed. Repeat for 10 to 20 times!

For the second exercise, and still holding your newspaper, lie flat on your back on the floor, arms up and knees drawn to your chest. The newspaper serves as a hurdle over and under which you thrust your legs alternately in a bicycle motion. As one leg goes up and over the roll and returns to position, the other springs from your chest to go down and under. While

JIM FULLER'S RINK WINS RECORD TROPHY IN GRANITE BONSPIEL

Adj. Cote Notches Three Markers As Locals Swamp Verdun Eagles 7-1

Sherbrooke St. Francis Hockey Club swamped Verdun Eagles 7-1 Saturday evening at the local arena in one of their scheduled games for the week-end. Sunday's fixture with the Saints of St. Hyacinthe was postponed until later in the month owing to the unpassable condition of the roads.

Adjutor Cote performed the hat trick for the locals when he notched up three of the local's tallies. Herb Carnegie, Manny McIntyre, Ossie Carnegie, Len McDougall completed the scoring for the locals. Jerry Gagnon got the Eagles' lone marker.

Ross Ritchie, Eagles' twine keeper, saved the visitors time after time when the locals were applying the pressure and smothered many sure goals.

Cote started the locals on their scoring spree when he beat Ritchie from just inside the blue line after being set up by Bill Heindl and Mush Morehouse. He got his second a few minutes later when

BAREFOOT COTE

Noel Tremblay, Eagles rearguard, was sitting out a tripping penalty, he was assisted by Herb Carnegie and Manny McIntyre. The locals got two more in the first frame when McIntyre and McDougall beat Ritchie from gangling plays.

In the second stanza Sherbrooke outscored the visitors two to one. The locals started to carry the play right from the opening faceoff and after keeping the puck hemmed in the Eagles' zone, H. Carnegie banged in the first frame when McIntyre and McDougall beat Ritchie from gangling plays. The Eagles lost a golden opportunity to get on the score sheet when the locals received two penalties in a row but Barefoot with the help of Heindl, Bastien and H. Carnegie kept the visitors at bay until Dugre and Lauzon returned. They had no sooner returned to the fray when McIntyre got the nod and left the locals short-handed.

Bill Cowley's Record Tying Feat Highlights N.H.L. Week-End Play

A 34-year-old National Hockey League centre from Bristol, Que., stomped into the Boston Bruins dressing room Sunday after Bruins lost 6-4 to the cellar-dwelling Chicago Black Hawks was the object of good healthy handshakes and pats on the back because he had earned two assists.

Those two assists, usually given a passing glance, gave smiling Bill Cowley the right to rank with Syd Howe, former Detroit Red Wing star now with Ottawa Senators of the Quebec Senior Hockey League, as all time highest scorer of the National Hockey League.

Cowley's two assists brought him up to Howe's total of 572 points.

The Brittle-boned centre's two points overshadowed other week-end doings which saw in Saturday night's contests the league-leading Montreal Canadiens eke out a slim 4-3 victory over a fighting fifth place Detroit Red Wings team before a Montreal crowd 5-2 before 13,804 fans at Toronto.

Sunday, Bruins' loss and New York Rangers 5-2 loss to Detroit left the two teams tied for fourth birth.

At Montreal, it was old Hard Rock Murph Chamberlain's tally on a pass from Ken Mosdell that spelt victory.

Wings jumped into a 3-0 lead before the game was 15 minutes and 10 seconds old on markers from Jimmy Conacher, Gordie Howe and Pat Lundy.

Before the period was over, defencemen Kenny Reardon scored to stop Detroit's rampaging permanently.

Bobby Fillion and Mosdell scored in the second to tie the game up and Chamberlain's goal sent the fans home happy.

In Toronto, it was rookie's night as six of seven goals scored were earned by newcomers.

Leafs jumped into a first period lead on tallies by veteran Syl Apps and rookie Howie Meeker who tallied again in the second along with Boston's Mark Messersmith to make the score 3-1. During the last 20 minutes, Bruins came a goal of tying it when Fernie Plamon nicked his initial N.H.L. goal but Meeker took the role of playmaker and set up newcomers Syd Smith and Bill Bariklo to sew the game up.

Starting off in the same fashion they did at Montreal, Wings jumped up a 3-0 lead in the first period as Billy Taylor, Ted Lindsay and Jim Conacher dented the New York twine. Roy Conacher added another in middle session while Church Russell and Bill Moe beat goalie Harry Lumley to make the score 4-2. Jerry Couture's tally after minutes of play ended the scoring.

Black Hawks proved to rookie goalie Emile (The Cat) Francis from Regina that they are a fighting team with a lot of power left. Trailing 2-1 at the end of the first stanza as Bobby Bauer and Pat Egan spoke for Bruins and Wee Billy Mosienko for the home-towners, Black Hawks fired five successive goals before Bruins' Reardon and Milt Schmidt for the plied with markers from Terry last two of the game.

High-stepping Max Bentley started the Chicago rush off followed by Red Hamill, who notched two. Adam Brown and Max finished off the cycle he started.

AUREL JOLIAT LOSSES VALUED SOUVENIRS

Montreal, Feb. 10.—(P)—Leo Dandurand, prominent Montreal sportsman, has received a letter from Aurel Joliat telling of the loss by theft from Joliat's home in Ottawa of many treasured souvenirs of his years with Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League.

The mementoes stolen, Joliat said, including a watch belt, two sets of cuff links, two watches, a scrap book, a diamond stick pin and a gold puffed presented to the little winger when he played his 500th N.H.L. game.

Some time ago Mrs. George Pray, widow of Howie Morenz, Joliat's great line-mate, reported that a clock presented to Howie by Stratford, Ont., admirers, was stolen from her home here. A scrap book kept by Morenz's son, Howie, also disappeared but was recovered.

Good Matches Displayed in Granite Bonspiel Before Winners Declared

J. N. Fuller skipped his rink to victory over V. E. Lyon, Victoria Curling Club Quebec City in the finals for the Sherbrooke Record Trophy in the Granite Bonspiel Saturday evening at the Sherbrooke Curling Club.

Fuller's rink eked out a close 13-11 decision over Lyon's close. The local foursome was on the short end of a 11-6 score at the finish of the seventh end, but in the eighth end they collected five points when they out-skipped the visitors to tie the game. Fuller's rink picked up one more in the ninth with another in the tenth to emerge the winners 13-11. The visitors led the match 11-6 with seven ends finished and three left to play which seemed a sure enough lead but Fuller's squad came through with a hard earned five end to change the outlook on the game and then went on to win the match.

In the Mitchell Trophy final saw W. W. Nichol's rink of Lennoxville and W. S. Roy's quartet, skipped by Oscar Stenson Sherbrooke, fighting it out for the cup.

Stenson's foursome outlasted Nichol's squad to emerge with the victory 13-3. The Lennoxville boys did not show up as well as in their previous starts, especially when they downed one of the picked rinks in the house, Beaudry's of Quebec City, 8-5. Stenson's crew curled a good steady game and the points started piling up.

Stenson did the skipping in the absence of W. S. Roy, who had been sidelined after the second day of the competition through an injury. Ken Bryce replaced him on the team, playing second.

In the Winter Sports competition saw two outside rinks in the finals, J. E. Isabelle's of Granby and D. Clark's of Lennoxville, skipped by Bob McMurray, fighting it out for the silverware. Isabelle's rink was playing their fourth game of the day when they hooked up with Clark's squad, who had taken part in two previous matches. The Lennoxville crew did not nipping away at the start but they themselves a good lead which the Granby crew found hard to overtake and conceded the match at the end of the ninth end 11-3.

Dean Bishop, president of the Sherbrooke Curling Club, made the presentation to the winning rinks at the conclusion of the tournament. He spoke briefly thanking the visiting rinks for participating in the local Bonspiel and helping towards its success.

The Bonspiel dinner was held Saturday noon which was attended by a large number of curlers. Hon. President D. J. Salls made a presentation of a plaque, on behalf of the directors and members of the club, to J. S. Mooney and H. Johnston for their untiring efforts and cooperation to the club. J. S. Mooney and H. Johnston responded and thanked the club for the special honor.

Mayor Guy Bryant welcomed the visiting curlers to the City on behalf of the City Fathers.

Among those seated at the head table were, His Worship Mayor Bryant, President Bishop, Hon. President D. J. Salls, vice-president E. G. Bascom, H. Johnston, J. S. Mooney, B. M. D. Miller, S. Mrs. Jean Ferguson, retained the Eastern Townships Ladies' championship by winning the combined honors at Hillcrest yesterday, placing first in downhill and third in slalom.

Mrs. Ferguson, who has won the title two years in succession was closely followed by last year's Hillcrest club champion Margaret Murchie.

Aurette Duchesne, another member of the Hillcrest Club, weaved her way through the slalom with the grace of a bird to win top honors and along with a third in the downhill she placed third in the combined.

The Hillcrest Club did all in its power to attract a larger field of contestants but the only other club represented in the meet, was the young, but game, Magog aggregation, coached by Dr. E. Adams, their skiing mayor.

After the race, supper was served in the "Auberge" with prizes distributed to the winners.

By Georges Sylvestre, president of the zone, Osmondette, President of the Hillcrest Club, Dr. M. E. Adams, of Magog, honorary president of the zone, Mayor T. Reed of North Hatley and various other members of the zone including Bob Graham secretary of the zone.

Following are the results of the meet.

Bishop's College School won the senior team championship in the intercollegiate section with a total of 990.8 points while Stanstead placed second with 922.6 points.

North Hatley captured the junior intercollegiate team championship closely followed by Stanstead.

The intercollegiate senior individual title and the coveted W. L. McGannon Trophy went to Gordon Harmer of Sherbrooke High. Harmer also won the intercollegiate slalom championship. Dennis Kazar, of Stanstead, placed second in the combined while Gordon Bennett, of B.C.S., won the downhill honors. Richard York, skiing under Sherbrooke High colors, topped the cross-country title.

In the junior section of the intercollegiate meet R. Courvoisier of Stanstead, placed first in slalom and fourth in cross-country to win the junior combined title and the J. P. Wells Memorial Cup that goes with it.

The Georges Sylvestre Trophy, awarded to the E.T. junior champion, was captured by Don Campbell of B.C.S. Doug Creighton won the junior cross-country and placed a close second in the downhill. However, Doug was disqualified in the slalom which sent his combined total haywire.

The hard-working members of the North Hatley club rate a round of applause for the efficient manner in which they handled Saturday's affairs, in which close to 75 students participated.

The prizes and trophies were handed out by Dr. Adams, the skiing mayor of Magog, at the conclusion of the meet.

Independents came from behind in an eventful last half to top Y.M.C.A. 58-41 in an exhibition basketball game at the "Y" Saturday night.

The "Y" team went into the tilt with three non-regular men on its side. They were Mac Cathcart, Charlie Budning, and Gordie McFarlane.

The yellow and blue "Y" squad was several points ahead of Independents in the first half before the latter scored. The "Y" led 26-21 at the end of the first twenty minutes of play.

The teams played two twenty-minute halves.

It was a different story in the last half. Independents not only lost no time taking over the lead from the "Y", they also surged ahead in a typical volley of field and foul goals. Before the half was five minutes old, Amble Wootton missed an opening in the "Y" cage with a foul shot, came right back to put the ball through the hoop and send Independents ahead for the first time in the game. That field goal made the score 27-26. The "Y" had not scored yet in this half, and Independents went to town. While the latter's drive was in full swing, the yellow and blue put shots through the basket, too, but it was apparent from the way Independents were going that they would win. They did, 58-41.

Ball of Independents, was by far the best of the players in the tilt, at least in the matter of goals scored, with eighteen points. The nearest to him was Barfield, also of Independents, who bagged eleven points.

Dave Turnbull was the leading "Y" player with ten points. He was also third among the tilt's scorers.

The teams are as follows: Independents: Ball, 8-10; Barfield, 4-7; Drew, 1-0; Fuller, 2-6; Hammond, 2-2; Scott, 0-6; Wootton, 0-2; Kandalaft, 2-0; Linds, 2-4.

Y.M.C.A.: Martin, Cathcart, 5-0; Olson, 2-0; Turnbull, 6-4; Hunting, 4-2; Budning, 0-2; Ross, 5-3; Potts, 0-2; Sutton; MacFarlane, 4-2.

Referee: Clint Stocks, Ken Jackson.
