GROMYKO ASKS SPECIAL UN SESSION ON ARMS

Sauvé Appointment As Finance Minister Rumored In Quebec

MONTREAL (CP) — The Gazette says in a Quebec City dispatch it has learned "from reliable sources" that Hon. Paul Sauvé, Quebec minister of youth and social welfare, will be appointed provincial finance minister within the next few weeks.

The newspaper says it also has learned that the present finance minister, Hon. Onesime Gagnon, is being mentioned as a possible successor to Lieutenant-Governor Gaspard Fauteux.

Mr. Sauvé, a member of the legislature for 27 years, has held the youth and social welfare portfolio since the ministry was created in 1946. He is Union Nationale member for Two Mountains.

The newspaper says "most often mentioned" to succeed Mr. Sauvé are Daniel Johnson, deputy-speaker of the legislative assembly, and Jean Jacques Bertrand, parliamentary assistant to Hon. J. S. Bourque, provincial lands and forests minister.

NATO Proposal Rejected

MOSCOW (AP) — Russia's Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko called today for a special session of the United Nations or an international conference to discuss disarmament.

This could pave the way for an East-West summit conference, Gromyko told Russia's parliament.

He apparently rejected a foreign ministers' meeting on disarmament proposed Thursday by the 15 NATO powers. Gromyko said the West has consistently blocked all disarmament efforts in the UN and "you can judge for yourselves what sort of result can be expected from a meeting of foreign ministers under these conditions."

But the disarmament issue should not remain stalemated, Gromyko said.

He did not specify which countries would be invited to the international conference he proposed. In the recent session of the UN General Assembly Russia insisted that all 82 UN members should take part in disarmament talks.

WANT RED CHINA IN
Gromyko's speech before the Supreme Soviet also indicated that Russia would renew its efforts to have Red China admitted to disarmament discussions. The United States refuses to hold such talks with Red China.

"Ten years of discussions in the United Nations which have now terminated have brought no results," Gromyko told the concluding meeting of the three-day parliamentary session.

KHRUSHCHEV AGREES
Communist party chief Nikita Khrushchev followed Gromyko to the rostrum and said he fully agreed with the Soviet foreign minister's report.

Khrushchev then launched into a long recitation of Communist accomplishments which he said signified "a triumph of internationalism."

The party boss appeared to be leading up to a new proposal for a summit conference on disarmament and other East-West issues.

Russia has suggested an East-West summit conference several times since the last one in Geneva in August, 1955, but has been rebuffed by some Western leaders, who consider such talks fruitless.

On Thursday the closing communique of the NATO meeting called for discussions with Russia on the foreign ministers' level.

BLASTS WEST
Gromyko said in a 40-minute address:

"Our main partners (in UN disarmament talks), the United States, Britain, and France which is working with them, do not want to tie themselves down with restrictions on production of armaments and stockpiling of nuclear weapons."

UK Veto No Bar To A-Arms

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican and Democratic Senate leaders said today that veto power by Britain or any other ally would not impede speedy use of United States ballistic missiles if it should ever become necessary to fire them from overseas bases.

Senators Bourke Hickenlooper (Rep. Iowa) and Mike Mansfield (Dem. Mont.) agreed in separate interviews that prior negotiations will have settled questions of how and when missiles would have to be fired.

The House of Commons in London Friday night approved decisions reached at this week's North Atlantic alliance conference and agreed to installation of U.S. nuclear missile bases in Britain.

Prime Minister Macmillan told the body before the vote that Britain would use "a complete veto" over use of any missiles based in this country.

Senator A. S. Monroney (Dem. Okla.) said Britain "certainly should retain the right to reserve controls over firing since the outbreak of a missile war could certainly devastate their homeland."

PRAISES IKE
Mansfield, assistant Senate Democratic leader, said President Eisenhower "deserves a lot of credit for the Paris NATO meeting because he laid his prestige on the line."

But he added that demands for additional talks with Soviet leaders and reluctance of some allies to accept the missiles "shows we did not do our advance groundwork and so have been caught by surprise."

Senator Hubert Humphrey (Dem. Minn.) said the relatively close British vote (289 to 251) showed that "American foreign policy has become a domestic political issue in England, our greatest ally."

In Oslo, a highly placed military source said Friday that Norwegian authorities are studying the possibility of equipping the country's armed forces with short-range atomic missiles.

Dulles Saw It Coming — Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — Diplomatic sources here said that State Secretary Dulles had doubts, in the light of past experiences with the Russians, that new East-West disarmament talks would ever be held—even before Foreign Minister Gromyko made his turnaround announcement today.

Dulles was reported to feel in advance that the Russians were likely to find some reason to quibble over setting up the talks, making it impossible to make arrangements.

Officials here also said it was not certain the United States would have participated even if the discussions had taken place.

Dulles was said to feel that changing the list of disarmament conferees might break the stalemate. For years, four Western powers—the United States, Britain, France and Canada—have carried the load, negotiating with Russia as members of the United Nations disarmament subcommittee.

Dulles devoted Friday to talks in Spain, and was due back today, a day after President Eisenhower got home. The two will make a joint report to the American people over all major radio-television networks Monday night.

At the Atlantic pact summit conference, Eisenhower and Dulles argued for creating bases in West Europe for U.S.-made missiles which won't be ready for about 18 months. The idea was adopted in principle, but the U.S. had to compromise by agreeing to the new East-West talks on the foreign ministers' level.

Red Scientist Says Have Long Way To Go
MOSCOW (Reuters)—A leading Soviet scientist said Friday that Russia still has a long way to go to "beat the United States on all scientific fronts" and asked for more money to do the job.

Dr. Alexander Nesmeyanov, president of the Soviet Academy of Sciences, startled members of the lower house of the Soviet parliament with his list of complaints and demands.

There is duplication in the work of Russian scientists, he said, and better equipment and more money are needed. The amount allotted for research was "less than in the United States" and industry had failed to "produce what the scientists want."

Nesmeyanov told the hushed session of the Soviet Council of the Union that "it would be harmful to overestimate our scientific achievements."

GREAT EFFORTS NEEDED
"Great efforts are still needed to beat the United States on all scientific fronts," he said.

But he said the launching of two Russian earth satellites pointed out the superiority of Soviet rocket techniques. Great progress also had been made "in the realm of mechanics, mathematics, chemistry, radio techniques and automation."

West Germany had produced an electronic microscope which was better than Soviet electronic microscopes by as wide a margin as the latest Soviet jet airliner was better than aircraft of the 1930s.

HAVE MORE SCIENTISTS
Russia had 240,000 scientists—"more than any other country"—but still needed more "to extract the maximum from our research."

Nesmeyanov stressed that although Soviet investment in science will be increased in 1958 by 10 per cent to 18,200,000,000 rubles — $4,550,000,000 at the official exchange rate—still more money is needed.

"Investment in science must be increased at a rate faster than other investment in the national economy," he said.

Thieves Abandon Pal

MONTREAL (CP)—Police today were questioning a 45-year-old man believed to be the gunman whose two ungrateful companions left him behind after they botched a holdup attempt at the unfinished Queen Elizabeth Hotel.

Police said the two-gun bandit's shots cracked the windshield of a chase-car and gave his accomplices time to get away.

They did—without him and with a bag of worthless pay slips instead of the $8,700 construction company payroll they had intended to snatch.

Three bandits broke through a pay lineup of workers building the hotel and grabbed the briefcase they thought held the payroll. They fled in a car.

Two workers—Denis Leduc and Andre Legendre—were picked up by motorist John Guindron, 34, and gave chase. Guindron drove across the exit to a narrow alley to cut off the bandit's car, but one man got out of it and started shooting, a revolver in each hand.

Two bullets smashed into Guindron's windshield. Leduc was cut by flying glass.

As the pursuers ducked, witnesses said, the bandits started up their car, climbed the sidewalk and sped past Guindron's car.

News Of The Week In Review
Most Important NATO Delegate Wasn't There

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NATO held its summit conference, and one of the most important delegates was the fellow who wasn't there.

Russia, of course, wasn't represented at the NATO Paris talks, but the propaganda-popping pair of party Secretary Khrushchev and Premier Bulganin were much in the act just the same.

Khrushchev called again for an East-West summit conference, following up an earlier letter-writing propaganda broadside by Bulganin.

In a windup communique, the 15 nations of the Atlantic pact offered to meet the Russians at the foreign minister level to discuss disarmament, an issue now deadlocked in the United Nations.

The heads of government agreed to build up NATO's arsenal with American intermediate ballistic missiles and nuclear weapon stockpiles.

The decision was a compromise between the tough program advocated by the United States and Western Europe's hopes for fresh, top-level negotiations with Russia.

ECONOMIC PROJECT
Prime Minister Diefenbaker, appearing for the first time in NATO councils, placed emphasis on the need for greater economic and scientific co-operation.

A delegation representing the peoples of Latvia, Estonia and Lithuania visited Diefenbaker during the conference, and a paragraph of the plight of the "captive" populations was later inserted in the communique at the request of the prime minister.

It said: "Already in these countries there is evidence of a growing desire for intellectual and economic freedom. If the free nations are steadfast, the totalitarian menace that confronts them will eventually be freed."

FROM MOSCOW
While the NATO sessions were in progress, Nikita Khrushchev in a magazine article raised the spectre of nuclear destruction for any West European country allowing American atomic bases on its territory.

Khrushchev returned to the theme that there must be a meeting at the summit between East and West. This would be to "discuss methods of coexistence."

The Communist boss said that countries accepting American atomic bases would face "shattering retaliatory attacks" in the event of war.

ATLAS ALOFT
The U.S., which has been fumbling on the threshold of the space age as compared with Russia, at last managed to launch an Atlas intercontinental ballistic missile that did what it was supposed to do.

The feat took added importance in view of the fact that NATO talks were in progress when the 100-ton rocket blasted off its base in Florida and followed the planned path to its target at sea.

Actually, the Atlas went only about one-third of its possible range. The U.S. thus matched the claims of the Russians, who say they are able to put missiles of more than 5,000-mile range on target.

Two Cities Will Meet On Highway

Members of the Sherbrooke and Granby city councils will meet here next Saturday morning to study a superhighway between Sherbrooke and Montreal.

The announcement was made in Sherbrooke Friday by Mayor Nadeau. The highway has been in the discussion stages for several months now and it is expected that some sort of decision about its future will take effect at the meeting.

Montreal Wants Auxiliary Police

MONTREAL (CP)—The civic administration decided Friday to ask the Quebec legislature for authority to establish an auxiliary police force to the city's 2,500-man police department.

The main duties of the auxiliary force would be to enforce parking regulations and police street intersections near schools and parks.

UK's Bank Rate Tribunal Raises Some Baffling Questions

By KEN METHERAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Britain's bank rate tribunal appears to have lost its political sting but is raising some baffling questions on the complexities of high finance.

The tribunal showed few signs of justifying the political rumpus that preceded its formation to inquire into allegations of a "leak" of the government's decision to increase the bank rate to seven per cent from five per cent last September. Its evidence is unlikely to provide electioneering ammunition for or against the government.

But whatever its eventual findings on leaks, the inquiry presided over by Lord Justice Parker is already focusing attention on what a number of thoughtful British journals describe as an "issue of importance"—the ambivalent position of both the nationalized Bank of England and the businessmen who help direct its affairs.

TWO WORLDS
The Observer says Britain has been trying to have "the best of both worlds" since the bank was nationalized a decade ago. She has tried to create a central banking system, officially subordinate to the country's economic policy, and at the same time having ready access to the experience and ability of private business.

It is evident from testimony before the tribunal that this somebody in the Commons but the government seems happy about the administration's farm price supports bill.

Agriculture Minister Douglas Harkness Friday announced major changes in the supports bill. These, he said, "will make it clear that the farmer's cost of production is the most important factor."

But his changes, apparently due in part at least to criticisms from within his own Progressive Conservative party, provoked not compliments but a fresh outpouring of opposition objections.

Both the CCF and Social Credit groups demanded that the bill include a formula to ensure farmers parity prices—a formula that would tie farm price supports to the prices of other commodities. While supporting the bill—and thereby discounting the possibility of a government defeat over it—the Liberals had nothing good to say about it except that it was only a poor imitation of the price supports plan they established in 1944.

DEFEAT MOTION
CCF spokesman E. G. McCullough presented a motion which would kill the bill this session and turn the whole issue over to the Commons agriculture committee. Debate on the bill consumed most of the day. The CCF motion did not come to a vote. Debate will resume after Jan. 3 when the Commons returns from its Christmas recess. Members start their Christmas holiday after today's sitting which will concern itself with health department spending estimates.

Key amendment to the bill introduced last Saturday would set price supports levels with "regard to the estimated average cost of production of the commodity, and such other factors as the governor-in-council (cabinet) considers to be relevant."

Another change would shift the basis of price supports to a 10-year average. Originally, the bill would have made the basis the average price during the immediately-preceding three years.

DEFENDS ACTION
Mr. Harkness denied that the measure repudiates Conservative election promises. He said a system of rigid parity price supports could work only through strict production controls. Few, if any, Canadian farmers would accept such regulating of their crop yields.

The measure would empower the government to set a price support early each year on any farm commodity. It would be for 12 months and be determined as a percentage of the average price for that particular commodity during the preceding 10 years.

The bill would in effect establish a mandatory minimum floor of 80 per cent of the 10-year average base price for nine key products: cattle, hogs, sheep, butter, cheese, eggs and non-what unusual marriage of socialism and free enterprise creates a serious dilemma for businessmen who serve both private financial interests in the City and the nationalized bank.

The New Statesman says it is doubtful whether the Labor party expected that the bank rate would be an important instrument of economic policy when it nationalized the bank in 1945. It suggests the Socialists envisaged the main business of the bank being carried out by the full-time officials such as the governor and deputy governor, while part-time directors simply passed a long government policy to the city.

BASIC CONFLICT
Instead the bank retains much of its old traditions and corporate life. In many cases the bank is more of a means of impressing the views of financial interests upon the government than the reverse.

A number of Socialists feel the businessmen-directors throw the influence of the bank on the side of orthodox monetary policy without regard for larger economic and social problems.

One of the fascinations of the tribunal hearings has been the way in which this basic conflict of ideas has been thrown into focus. As a result, the main political development arising from the hearings may well be that when the Socialists next take power one of their first acts will be to revise statutes governing the Old Lady of Threadneedle Street.

Show Business

By BOB THOMAS
 HOLLYWOOD (AP) — They're getting television western heroes from all over. Here's one who used to be a painter in Paris. He's Adam Kennedy, the tall, blonde hero of the Californians. You'd never guess from the way he handles a gun on the Tuesday night show that he once pursued an art career in gay Paree. He might be there yet if he had caught what he was pursuing. Adam was an Indiana boy who decided he would do what he wanted most when he got out of the army: Be an artist. And what better place than Paris. DID WELL TOO

 "I was doing quite well, too," he recalled. "I had a one-man show and got very good notices. But I discovered a hard fact: That critical success and monetary reward do not necessarily go hand-in-hand."
 Being six foot three with a hearty appetite, he had to seek some other means of earning a living. Friends convinced him he could get jobs from European film makers, who were seeking young American types. So he gave it a try and did well enough, working from French and Swedish companies as well as in the Kirk Douglas film, Act of Love. He returned to the United States to determine if he could make a living as an actor. To his surprise, he could. He had fair success in New York TV, and while he was in Hollywood for a Crossroads show, he had an interview with the makers of the proposed Californians. They liked his looks and manner and he was signed for the series. NO BOHEMIAN HE Though he has to let his locks grow for the period western, Adam is no longhair. And even in Paris he refused to sport a beard.

 "I was determined I wouldn't be typed as one of those Bohemians who sit around and talk about art but never get anywhere," he said. "The only time I've had a beard was when I came back here and had to wear one for a role."
 Has art suffered with his TV success?
 "I haven't been able to paint because I don't have the time," he said. "Besides, I determined that I would stick to one line of work and devote all my energies to it. But just to keep my hand in, I have designed 50 greeting cards of the modern type which my own company will distribute."

The fearful wrath of Moses as he comes upon the evil worship of the Golden Calf is seen above as re-acted in Cecil B. "Ten Commandments" Opening At Granada Theatre This Week-end

Cecil B. DeMille's production, "The Ten Commandments", acclaimed by the continent's press, advance audiences and ministers of all faiths as an overwhelming motion picture experience and the all-time pinnacle of movie-making will begin its local engagement at the Granada Theatre tomorrow.
 Ten years in the planning, three years in research, three years in the writing and more than a year in the actual shooting, the masterwork of the screen's master showman is by far the biggest production in film history. Utilizing the talents of a massive cast of top stars and the best technicians the industry has to offer, the Paramount picture backgrounds an eternally dramatic and meaningful story with spectacle that has been called colossal in its scope.

The dramatization of the Book of Exodus stars Charlton Heston as Moses, Yul Brynner as his implacable enemy, Rameses II, Anne Baxter, Edward G. Robinson, Yvonne de Carlo, Debra Paget and John Derek.
 Starring also are Sir Cedric Hardwicke, Nina Foch, Martha Scott, Judith Anderson and Vincent Price, with even the "supporting" roles played by a long list of stars. Extras number upwards of 25,000 and were hired for the Egyptian location shooting by the tribe.
 Running three hours and 39 minutes, the VistaVision, Technicolor film is the account of the life of Moses from the time his mother set him afloat in the Nile, through his years as a mighty general in the Pharaoh's army, to his betrayal and exile to the desert, and finally his deliverance of the Israelites and his receipt of God's commandments. Many scenes were made on Mount Sinai itself, on the shores of the Red Sea and on the very

Study Group Hold Meeting At Cookshire

COOKSHIRE — The Weekly Prayer and Bible Study Fellowship meeting was held in the Trinity United Church Hall, with a fine turnout of people from Cookshire and Island Brook. Carols were sung in keeping with the Christmas season; after which, the pastor, Rev. E. Breen, read from the Scriptures, and led in prayer.
 A question on Hebrews 2, verses 38-40 was answered, which evoked considerable discussion.
 After a period of prayer, in which several took part, the Bible Study followed on "The Inter Testament Period", between the books of Malachi and Matthew, a period of some 400 years, when the religion of Judaism was forbidden, and the use of the Temple desecrated and abused.
 The pastor spoke of the "Spurious Gospels", or the Apocrypha, which arose during this period, and traced the successive invasions of Greek, Persian and Roman influence upon Judaism up until the time of the "Birth of Christ".
 During the study, a map was used to illustrate more fully the position of Israel and Judah at the time of Christ's birth.

Louis Charles Will Appear Later Today

Twenty-six year old Louis Charles, of Sherbrooke, was formally charged with the $13,000 armed robbery of the Provincial Bank of Windsor Mills Wednesday when he appeared before Justice of the Peace Jean-Marie Gregoire yesterday.

Charles, who was on bail in connection with a theft at a Magog store, is slated to appear before Judge Joseph Marier later today.

Police have recovered about $10,500 of the haul but are still searching for a missing $3,000.

Charles was the object of an intensive search by Municipal and Provincial police Thursday after descriptions given by several people tallied with his photographs on file.

According to police, Charles walked into the Provincial Bank just before closing time and waited until the doors were shut at 3 p.m. He donned a mask, pulled a gun and herded the staff and a customer down to the basement where he locked them in.

Apparently unable to open the vault he returned downstairs, marched the group to the main floor and back down again after making employees open the vault. He then rifled the vault and a teller's box.

He is believed to have walked to a nearby church and have stayed there until about 11 p.m. when he took a taxicab to a hotel in Sherbrooke.

Three men and one woman were taken into custody by Police Thursday afternoon for questioning in connection with the robbery. The quartet were apprehended at 164 Laurier St. where they lived in an apartment with Charles. Police found that the four were preparing to leave and had suitcases packed.

Two of the men and the woman were taken into Montreal while the third man was detained in Sherbrooke for further questioning. He was also on bail in connection with the Magog theft.

Charles was arrested in an apartment at 1014 Courdelette St. around 11:30 Thursday evening. Charles, police said, resisted arrest but was quickly subdued by three officers and taken to Provincial Police offices.

Battling Tropical Fish Proves Old Story For North Hatley Journalist - Adventurer

By NICK POWELL
Sharks, barracuda, stingrays, spearfishing in the shark-infested waters of Port Royal, facing death fathoms below the surface of the sea are all old hat to a tall half-French, half-Dutch journalist-lecturer, Cornel Lumiere, now living at North Hatley.

Lumiere's vast experience underwater is described in his two books, "Underwater Wonderland" and "Beneath the Seven Seas."

Skindiving and spearfishing, are, of necessity, only really possible in the warm waters of the tropics — in the South Pacific and the turquoise waters of the Caribbean Sea. These are the settings for Lumiere's exhilarating adventures with speargun, flippers and goggles.

However, Lumiere has not always been in a position to travel through the romantic tropics in pursuit of his idyllic pastime. His three and a half years in Japanese prison camps and "hell ships" as he calls them, through Burma and Sumatra — the hottest and wettest part of the world — have provided him with a vivid memory of indescribable hardships and suffering.

In spite of all this, Lumiere has found himself in the enviable position of calling such places as Sumatra, Java, Bali, the Caribbean, Corsica, Queensland, New Caledonia, California, Siam, Ceylon, Hawaii and the French Riviera his home.

On the subject of sharks, Lumiere is deprecating if not a little UNDERWATER EXPLORER — Cornel Lumiere, internationally known lecturer and explorer is shown above at his winter home in North Hatley. He is expecting to travel to the Caribbean some time next year to continue his undersea exploration.

condescending. He describes them as "ill-behaved critters, scavengers and thoroughly greedy." However he does admit this much: "If a shark has something you want, give it to him. Unless, of course, it happens to have been attached to you since birth, in which case you have the older rights."

Sharks are on the whole shy, he says, and backs it up with experiences of tickling them or grabbing their tails for a quick ride.

Probably the most fascinating part about skindiving, for the uninitiated, is the fear of some horrible creature, the fear of the unknown. But as familiarity breeds contempt, Lumiere tends to treat these creatures as one would treat the neighbour's pooch.

Turning to what is the ugliest appearing creature either above or below the surface of the water, Lumiere described the Manta Ray or Devil Fish. These enormous rays may reach the length of 60 feet and weigh as much as 5,000 pounds.

These monsters are incredibly powerful, but, according to the adventurer, do not have a mean streak. He maintains that one may even touch a ray if one feels so inclined.

We declined, with thanks. As for the infamous barracuda, Lumiere thinks little more of them than scarecrows. They are first class targets for the spearman and may be shot without fear.

Although Lumiere cautions anyone would-be skin divers not to swim or fish alone he once ignored this rule himself while on "location" when filming "Underwater Wonderland." A hotel manager at Ocho Rios in Jamaica bet him that neither Lumiere nor any member of his crew could shoot a fish (few fish were to be found in that district. The wager was a bottle of champagne against one glass of champagne per pound of fish landed. The bet was accepted.

Lumiere, swimming off in one direction by himself, spotted what he thought was a fern about 25 feet down. On closer inspection it turned out to be a 10-foot shark. He swam down to get behind it and looked under a ledge to see where it was.

He found himself face to face—about eight inches away—with the shark! It had turned around to meet him!

Lumiere acted first and shot the beast right above the eye. It turned around so sharply it broke the spear and Lumiere shot to the surface for air.

While he was trying to reload, the shark turned and headed for him. But as Lumiere says, "He must have been hit very close to the brain and got his rudder-wires crossed. He just kept bumping along the coral getting further and further away."

It wasn't until then that he remembered the bet with the hotel manager.

Lumiere laughed as he admitted that he lost the bet but practically ruined the manager's pleasure by reminding him that he had nearly had to cough up for 350-400 lbs. of fish.

Apart from his skindiving, Lumiere has completed a book incorporating his wartime experiences, entitled "Eric and the Emperor."

Previews of the book live up to the best tradition of the Hollywood thriller. In fact it is now being prepared for a movie to be produced by the Hecht, Hill and Lancaster Studio of Hollywood. Lumiere himself thinks that the part of Eric would be ideally suited to Burt Lancaster himself.

Sent To Assizes In Connection With Break-In

Gaston Soucy 26, was released on bail after a preliminary hearing Friday in Court of Sessions on charges of breaking and entering.

He was arrested early Tuesday morning on the premises of W. H. Adam Ltd.

Police had noticed a vehicle cruising slowly along the street. Shortly after they saw the car parked a few feet from the curb in front of the Adam building with snow prints leading inside.

The men at first refused to come out then agreed after a warning shot was fired by one of the constables.

Raymond Denault, 18, of Sherbrooke, was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary Thursday by Judge Redmond Hayes when he pleaded guilty to the Adam break-in.

Soucy's bail was set at $1,000 cash or $2,000 property.

Will Present Sacred Play At Trinity Church

On Sunday night at 7:30, Trinity Church will present a sacred play with a modern touch entitled "Carols or Cannons," which sets forth that for all man's progress the second half of the 20th century finds his record the darkest in his long career. The grace of God has made scientific discoveries possible by which man could bring untold happiness to countless millions but man is preparing to use these for his own destruction, and Christmas 1957 shows civilization standing on the brink of annihilation. The choice is "Carols or Cannons." The cast is as follows:

United Nations' executive: S. Barnes, L. Curtis, E. Fuller, C. Rublee, J. Armstrong, N. Bennett and F. Doyle.

Gabriel, Bob Stevenson; Mary, Barbara Brault; Joseph, Bill Lyon; King Belazar, Harvey Lothrop; King Melchior, Gary Clark; King James, Monty Barnes; Miriam, Doreen Dolloff; 1st shepherd, Denis Major; 2nd shepherd, Gordon Pride; 3rd shepherd, T. Stevenson; Roman officer, Carvell Loomis; Roman guard, Walter Einslin; Temple Priest, Gerry Fuller and Temple attendant, Brenda McLeod.

Junior shepherds: Harry Matthews, William Matthews, Robert Cadman, Robert Turgeon, Wolfgang Mueller, Judy Sinclair, Barbara Barnes, Carol Cathcart, Vicki Cathcart, Diane Johnston.

The stage and lighting will be under Bruce Patton, and the P.A. system under Fred Palmer. The music for the sacred play will be sung by the Senior, Intermediate and Junior choirs under the direction of the Trinity organist, Mrs. Bertha Bell, and the Grand Finale will be the nations gathering round the Cross to sing the "Hallelujah Chorus" from Handel's Messiah.

Perspective

"We are inclined to be too jittery," said the Hon. Lester B. Pearson, former Secretary for External Affairs, before he received the 1957 Nobel Peace Prize at Oslo.

"We are too exhilarated when things go well," continued Mr. Pearson, "and too panicky when they seem to go badly . . . We magnify the oscillations."

Thus Mr. Pearson, who has a knack of getting to the core of things, put his finger on a great New World weakness, the tendency of mass suggestion to exaggerate.

If President Eisenhower has a heart attack or a slight stroke the stock market loses billions in quoted values. The putting of a Sputnik into orbit has the same effect; so, to a lesser degree, has a whisper from the Middle East.

Many people have, apparently, lost the ability to stand back and see things in perspective. They had grown to think until recently, that the New World had almost a monopoly in scientific advance so proof of Russia's missile development, her building of jet air liners and an atomic powered ice-breaker came as a shock.

But, on the whole, the science of the West is still ahead of Russia. The authority for this last statement is no less than Dr. E. W. R. Steacie, president of the National Research Council, a man who should know and one who is not given to speaking without the support of facts.

Long-range missile control is important — and dangerous — insofar as it points to the potential devastation of strategic bases and the devastation of cities. It is important, too, as reflecting Soviet educational strides and ability to concentrate thought and resources along one line. The rocket advance is in the most sensational realm, that in which many Americans are peculiarly susceptible to impression from their earliest acquaintance with the supermen of the comic strips. But it still remains an advance in only one scientific phase.

Americans might counter that they have sent a human higher into the stratosphere and have dug deeper into the earth than any other people. (Capt. J. W. Kittinger was the man and his ascent in a mental capsule, attached to a plastic balloon last summer was 96,000 feet, or 18 miles. The hole, 4 1/2 miles deep, was drilled by oil men in Wyoming.) They could also claim 'firsts' which were far more important and significant, a good part of them flowing from the brain of Edison. But none was invested with the glamor-appeal of a Sputnik.

The Sputniks constitute a warning, a threat, a challenge but still, as Dr. Steacie implied and as Mr. Pearson would agree, they are only one part, though a disturbing part, of the general picture.

Illiberal Liberals

Though sometimes neither group likes to admit it, there is a need in any free land for both conservatives and liberals in political affairs.

Both philosophies seem to have their weaknesses, and perhaps that is why both exist. In Canada the Liberals have sometimes been more conservative than the Conservatives and vice-versa.

In some measure, indeed, the two tendencies appear to reside in each of us as individuals. When the mixture is quite even, we are true middle-roads. When it is not, then our attitudes point more or less sharply in one direction or the other.

At the extreme end of the conservative spectrum, attitudes are so rigid that even the smallest change in the patterns of government and the economy is resisted.

Not only liberals but moderate conservatives usually assail such thinking as hopelessly "pat."

But the odd thing is that liberals themselves frequently exhibit this same characteristic. They can be absolutely inflexible in pursuit of what they regard as proper human objectives in society.

The liberal thinks of himself as thoroughly dedicated to human goals. But some members of this category allow their "dedication" to become fixed upon a particular course of action to the exclusion of all others.

When this happens, the liberal practitioner strikes out at his opposition with great vigor. Not just conservatives but other liberals are assaulted. Individuals are excoriated for their personal failures.

In such an attitude one misses the tolerance of other viewpoints which must surely be part of the essence of humanity in a free world.

They will not permit their opponents any of those frailties which they say they are attuned to in the mass of people. A man who shares their view of a particular legislative proposal may be forgiven gross error in other fields.

When anyone believes that he and he alone knows the proper path for men to follow, then he is close to being a totalitarian in his thinking. In that attitude there is danger for him and for all free men.

Letter To The Editor

The Editor, Sherbrooke Daily Record.

Dear Sir: As a mother of teenagers and a pre-school child, I am very much interested in the subject of our schools. I agree wholeheartedly with a letter written recently by "Grumbler."

I believe the course of study should be improved. Below the ninth grade, there is far too much homework. If all this homework is necessary to complete the work as outlined in the course of study, then I think it should be cut down. When a child spends all day in school, they have reason to complain when they have to spend all their evenings on homework. A typical home work list for my child consists of upwards of fifty examples in arithmetic, a composition to write, besides reading over his other lessons. What time does a child have for fun and play? Surely they need that as well.

In reference to arithmetic, I have not felt that exam papers are marked quite fairly. If the answer is wrong, they get no marks for that example, even though their method is correct and it must be apparent to the teacher that the pupil knows how to do it. I would think they should get half marks for it.

Another point is the question of sports. Everyone, I am sure, will agree that active sports in some form or other is essential for every child. They would benefit much more from sports than all these English books and memory work. In order to have sports, time has to be found out side of school hours. The children that have to travel by bus are unable to enter into these sports. Why not have a special time allotted on the course of study for sports in place of some other subject. (Friday afternoon, for example). For those unable to enter into sports, there could be debates, weekly review of current events, Red Cross work, etc.

Here's hoping something can be done to make the school days for our children easier. Happier children will emerge and there will be fewer gray hairs for the parents! I'm sure, too, they will be equally good citizens.

A MOTHER. (Name Withheld) East Angus.

A PROFESSOR'S JOKE (London Spectator)

Professor Denis Broad's harmless joke during a broadcast in the United States to the effect that America should help towards the upkeep of the Royal Family on the grounds that, while the British taxpayer pays for it, "much of the entertainment value is picked up by other people," seems to have been taken in dead-from-the-heck-up earnest by some people in this country.

I suppose it can hardly be denied that the monarchy is a dollar earner and a tourist attraction already, but the tone of the Daily Mirror—of all papers—would lead any reader to suppose we were still in the age when any flippancy on this topic was a crime.

"Who will respect the British if we go grovelling around the world, cap in hand, with miserable ideas like that?" demands the Mirror. That'll teach professors to make jokes on radio programs.

locating the stuck driver and freeing his car, the truck driver announced that his charge was six dollars. The driver paid, but under protest.

Then, to his acute embarrassment, the tow truck battery suddenly died and the serviceman was obliged to ask the car owner for a push. The car managed to shove the truck a few feet, the truck started up and the car owner promptly confronted the truck driver. "That'll be six dollars, please," he announced.

Mumbling, the serviceman returned the motorist's still-warm bills.

Outshines Them All

The Hope

By REV. B. S. MURRAY, M.A.

If you were asked to suggest a symbol for HOPE, would it be Springtime? A Rainbow? ... An Anchor? Watt's Immortal picture? ... What?

At this time of the year when we are preparing our hearts for the Festival of Christmas, my answer, were I asked, would be in the words of that old hymn we sang back in ye old Sunday School: "Just a little baby, Jesus is his name, Bringing joy and gladness when from Heaven He came, Angels brought the message of the Babe's birth. Said he was the Saviour sent to all the earth."

God's symbol of Hope then WAS -- Is -- a Child! In the Great City of London, England, a home for the fallen has for its symbol, a child blowing a dying ember with the motto: "Perhaps there remains a spark." So when all was sin and shame, God arranged that to the fight and rescue should come from Heaven above His Son manifested in the flesh as the Babe of Bethlehem. Surely only a wise, infallible God could conceive, and execute such a plan unique.

FROM MAN TO CHILD Now this plan the prophets across the centuries anticipated with an amazing accuracy. And when hearts were gripped with fears, dark and sombre, and Hope yielded to despair, the prophet looking into the dim future, took heart at the thought of the One to come, the Child who would be born, who would be the hope of the Ages. (Isa.9: 2-7.)

Despite these revelations the ordinary folks kept looking for a King "to slay their foes and lift them high" They had from the beginning grown accustomed to a way of life which had at its centre a full - grown man, generally a general, sometimes a king, occasionally a scholar and frequently a saint yet life was hopeless, unprogressive, unhappy.

THE HOPE CAME At long last the time most favourable to effect a change arrived and God in the words of St. Paul (Galatians 4: 4) "In the fulness of time sent forth by a special divine action, His dearly beloved Son, who one with God, was manifested in the flesh and dwelt among us. (John 1:14)

With this Babe - The Babe of Bethlehem - at the centre, humanity began to originate itself in unprecedented ways and to move forward along original lines. It began to sing a new song. The world for ages had been despondent and hopeless and no potentate or miracle - worker had, however mighty, been able to lift it out of its darkness. But when God took a child and set Him in the midst, then was the world's mouth filled with laughter and all things became new. The Hope had come.

WHAT A DECISIVE BABE To His manger, the simple shepherds after hearing the herald angels announce His coming, hastened, and, with awe and wonder, worshipped Him. Angels, shepherds, sages, saints, were unanimous in their declaration. This is the One of whom the prophet spoke; "Behold a Virgin shall conceive and bear a Son and shall call His name Immanuel (Isa. 7:14) Jesus, our Hope! Our Heart's Desire.

His Him they worshipped, so must we, for it is the only salutation that befits Him, Who with a heart so large it takes the world in, effected the more excellent way with a shift of emphasis from earth to heaven, from selfishness to self-sacrifice, from sinfulness to holiness, from war to peace. Christ changes the date of the world's history beginning a new reckoning of years. "B.C." and "A.D." have the pre-eminence over "In the beginning". This Babe has put His stamp upon history, poetry, art, literature, reforms and civilizations for all the years of time and the cycles of eternity.

WHAT A BABE! Yea, verily what a DECISIVE Babe He was, with the Name Jesus designating His mission as that of saving His people from their sins (Matt 1:21). Neither ancient or modern--but both--neither of the Orient (East) or the Occident (West) --but both --this great little One Whose all embracing birth lifts earth to heaven and stoops heaven to earth is the ONE? The Only One who has -- who is -- THE KEY to all our problems. And to solve my peculiar problems He must be born within my heart. My heart must accordingly be a child-heart so that it may become a Christ-heart -- a heart that wonders, trusts and loves.

A CHILD - HEART -- THE CHRIST - HEART Now such a heart has, as its mainspring, hope. That's why Tomorrow with its Golden Age of which poets and prophets dreamt belongs to those hearts which are full of Hope.

Canada with a Youth whose cloudland is tinged with the glory that tells of the might of the sun." Why not become first to make the child thy determining factor? This allies the three basic institutions, the home the school, the church. Such an adventure, an adventure tremendous, will necessitate a break with the grim realism which envelops us and a determined effort to recapture that spirit of mystery and wonder so unmistakably associated with the original Christmas. With such an important ingredient even Hitler could not doubt the Christmas story. Ad therein lies its profound significance.

Then, too, no one can read the entrancing story of the Nativity of the Christ Child, the sweetest story ever told, timeless in its setting universal in its implications and haunting in its beauty without a fresh impetus to trust and obey the Author who conceived it in love, HIS Love. In a word God. Now to imitate and absorb the principles of That Life most holy will require that rare combination of simplicity and imagination, of humility and teachableness which comprise the child-heart. For only that kind of heart can spiritually cradle the Christ-child -- a cradle which with the passage of time, develops into a throne where He reigns as King of Love and Prince of Peace.

Is this your dream, your hope? Ask the Christ-child to grant you the conviction that God is with you and you are with God. Then will your life be happy and fruitful, pure and holy. And Christmas Day will be a truly blessed day with service undefiled.

Your commemoration of that day on which THE HOPE was born will, I hope begin with a visit to your Bethlehem the House of Bread, the Church of God in your community where in sacrament and prayer, in carol and Biblical meditation, you will greet the Christ-child Who is God veiled in flesh pleased as Man with man to dwell, Jesus our Immanuel (Matt 1:23).

CHRIST "THE" HOPE Rejoice then because the Divine Emigrant chose to lay His glory by. Born that man no more may die. Born to raise the sons of earth. Born to give them second birth. "Rejoice because God didst give Jesus Christ His only Son to be born as at this time for us; who, by the operation of the Holy Ghost, was made very man of the substance of the Virgin Mary, His Mother, that this joy remains

There would still be a double dummy way to make three no-trump which you may figure out if you wish.

South never bothered with that. He simply counted that two spade tricks plus one heart plus two diamonds plus four clubs made a total of nine. He played the king of spades from dummy and continued with the ace and queen of clubs.

Another club play was necessary at this point. South overtook the queen of clubs with the king. Now the ten of clubs knocked out the ace of spades for an entry and the contract was home.

75,000 Auto Workers Face Holiday Layoffs

By BEN PHLEGAR
DETROIT (AP) — Temporary layoffs are in prospect this holiday season for almost 75,000 auto workers in the United States because too many 1958 model cars are in dealers' showrooms instead of under Christmas trees.

Chrysler Friday announced shutdowns for up to two weeks of all its Detroit plant operations. Ford said it plans to furlough about 21,000 hourly workers for all of Christmas week. Some 10,000 of these will be in the Detroit area.

General Motors said no week-long shutdowns are planned. But GM plant managers have the option locally of adjusting work schedules.

THOUSANDS AFFECTED
The Chrysler shutdowns in Detroit will affect at least 50,000 hourly employees. Chrysler, Detroit's largest single employer, has some 100,000 employees in the hourly rated and salaried ranks. The company declined to give an exact figure on the number to be made idle.

In Detroit Chrysler is closing its Dodge plants from the end of work Monday until Jan. 7, its DeSoto production from Monday until Jan. 6; its Chrysler division plants from Monday until Jan. 2 and its Plymouth plants from Tuesday noon until Jan. 2.

Among the smaller makers, American Motors said it will work full time through the holidays with the exception of Christmas and New Year's Day.

Studebaker Packard, already producing at only about one third the rate of a year ago, plans to work two days next week—Thursday and Friday. A spokesman said the same schedule probably will apply for New Year's week.

LONGER THAN USUAL
The Chrysler and Ford shutdowns are longer than usual at Christmas. In past years many of the big three plants have been working overtime in December.

All of the shutdowns are attributed to inventory adjustments. In simple language this means the car makers have built cars faster than the dealers have sold them.

Two agencies which specialize in tabulating car sales and production disagree on how many unsold cars there are. But they agree there are a lot.

Automotive News says the dealer inventory on Dec. 1 was 510,505 cars. Ward's Automotive Reports says it was 700,000 cars. The agencies agree that this year's total is about 50 per cent more than the same date a year ago.

The biggest unsold inventory ever reported was on March 1, 1956, when dealers had 904,000 new, unsold cars on their hands.

Slightly more than 6,000,000 cars will be built this year.

16 European Nations Create Power Agency

PARIS (AP)—Representatives of 16 Western European countries Friday signed a convention creating a European nuclear energy agency to promote technical co-operation in peaceful atomic development.

The countries that formally ratified an agreement reached several months ago included all of those in the Organization for European Economic Co-operation except Ireland. Ireland did not sign because of a technicality but was expected to join later.

Six are united in an effort to develop nuclear power. In the organization called Euratom are France, West Germany, Italy, The Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg.

Twelve of the OEEC countries also signed an agreement setting up the first industrial enterprise in Europe to be jointly exploited by governments. This is the Eurochemic Corporation, which will run a plutonium factory in Belgium.

Besides the Euratom six and Ireland, other OEEC countries are Britain, Norway, Denmark, Iceland, Sweden, Portugal, Greece, Turkey, Austria and Switzerland.

Poor Gus Scores Two—For Enemy

SUBURBY, Ont. (CP) — Pity the plight of defenceman Gus Gustavsen.

Back with Sudbury Wolves after a three-month spell with Windsor Bulldogs, Gustavsen Friday night scored two goals—for the opposing Chatham Maroons.

He was trying to break up enemy attacks when he twice bungled the puck into his own goal.

And Maroons, with the aid of Gustavsen and another Sudbury defenceman, Norm Guimond, who also slipped one into his own net, won the Ontario Senior A Series game 11-5.

claim to be seeking a solution to the problem of disarmament but in reality they are only exerting their efforts to force their partners in NATO to increase more and more the cost of armaments and the size of their military forces."

The UN disarmament talks collapsed after Russia refused to accept a Western plan which would have provided safeguards that both East and West would comply. Disarmament plans offered by Russia are viewed in the West as unacceptable because they give no guarantee that the Soviet Union would respect them.

Gromyko said the arms race was "never so dangerous as now, when the destructive powers of armaments are incomparably greater than in World War II." He accused the West—as Soviet spokesmen have done in the past—of linking disarmament with other questions such as German reunification which he said "had nothing to do with disarmament."

Farm Forum Activities

COATICOOK VALLEY
The Coaticook Valley Farm Forum met on Monday night, December 16, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Nicholson with a fair attendance.

"The Rural Community" was the subject of interest for the evening. After listening to the radio program, Ronnie Drew acted as chairman and three groups were formed to discuss and report. The following opinions were recorded:

1. How big is your community? In square miles? Approximately 100 square miles. In number of families? Because this is mostly a French speaking district, the English families are greatly scattered. Our forum comes from both rural and urban areas, a consolidated school where children come from several small villages and country, therefore making it difficult to estimate the number in our community.

2. What things make the difference in having a good community? All agreed that good schools, churches, good Sunday School attendance make a difference in a community. We also thought a good Forum with an experienced leader, good neighborliness, borrowing and returning help; and one needs good roads, electricity, communications, community centers with competent leaders.

3. Does your community fill the needs of the young people in it? No, as we are too scattered. We have good schools, churches and roads but lack of money on the farm makes it difficult to provide the young people with their wants in this present day.

Some thought that there are too many different organizations in our community and that one organization for little children and one for the young people would be sufficient. Another problem today is because of the small size of the modern house, it is too small to have social gatherings of any size in the home, especially in the urban area.

The minutes were read, also the Greenleaf, and a letter from the Forum secretary asking Fred Green to act on a credit committee concerning the farm credit proposal.

A report was given on the Forum Christmas food sale with very satisfactory results. The proceeds amounted to $35 after all expenses were paid.

The meeting adjourned followed by a lunch and a period of friendly conversation.

A Forum Christmas party was planned to be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Drew on December 23.

The Doctor Says
Edwin P. Jordan, M.D.

POOR CIRCULATION MAY CAUSE LEG CRAMPS AT NIGHT IN OLDER PERSON

An exceedingly annoying problem is presented in today's first inquiry.
Q—Please tell me what causes cramps in the legs at night and what can be done for them. I am 81.—E.D.
A—It is probable that at the age of 81 the cause of leg cramps at night is poor circulation in the blood vessels, probably as the result of some hardening of the arteries. In younger people, who also frequently suffer from such cramps, the cause may be different. Some appear to get relief when they get these cramps at night by walking around a bit. Others get the cramps only under the heat of the bed clothes so that there appear to be a number of factors involved. Sometimes relief is obtained by small amounts of quinine (but please do not take this unless a doctor tells you to), or by other measures. Each problem has to be considered independently, and often a certain amount of experimentation has to be undertaken before relief can be obtained.

most readers know, is the result of a test of the electrical impulses passing through the heart. "Abnormal wave pattern" alone does not mean much unless it is associated with some specific diagnosis, such as heart block or sign of coronary heart disease.

Q—I have been told that it is best for a woman to stay out of the sun when she is going through the menopause. What do you think?—V.R.
A—Over-exposure to the sun is never advisable, but I do not know of any different at the menopause than during other times of life.
Q—About six or eight months ago a relative in her late sixties began to act a little peculiar. She lives by herself and began telling us that she was afraid in the house, and that there were spirits in her room talking and laughing at her. Sometimes she gets quite depressed. What could happen to her?—Mrs. S.
A—It is unfortunate that this elderly lady is showing these signs of mental deterioration. The most probable cause is hardening of the blood vessels of the brain. In all probability this will continue to worsen with periods of improvement and clarity of thought, during which time she may laugh at her fears. Probably this elderly lady should not live alone but needs someone to look after her.

Observe Safety Practices In Decorating Tree

No sane man would lug a drumful of gasoline into his front room to serve as the focal point of a weekend long celebration. But many of us do something nearly as dangerous each year; we put up a Christmas tree.
Your beautiful tree, its wood and foliage loaded with pitch and resin, is one of the most combustible objects you can bring into a home. Care in its handling and decoration should be mandatory for all of your holiday decorating activities.
So cautions the National Safety Council and the National Fire Protection Assn. whose safety engineers each year must read reports of flame-filled horror during what should be the happiest of holiday seasons.
TO PROTECT your family, here are some things that you can do:
Buy from a dealer you know, who'll give you fresh stock. In many areas there's not much you can do about tree freshness; trees are cut ahead of time, and shipped in.
Buy a small tree; the smaller the better. Until you're ready to set it up, keep tree in a cold place, such as in an unheated garage. Be sure that it's kept standing in water.
Saw off an inch or two of trunk above original cut, before placing tree in stand. The fresh cut removes the sap-sealed trunk end and permits the tree to draw water from reservoir in stand.
NEVER use a stand that doesn't have a water reservoir.

How NOT to decorate your tree is suggested, above. Tree is spiked to crossed boards; no water is supplied. Tree is placed right in way of traffic through arch. Tree is located too near radiator. Light strings have bare wires, worn insulation. Lights are plugged into an overloaded circuit. The unhandy man trimming the tree is smoking, something that he should never do near anything so combustible as a Christmas tree.

Some handy men report that addition of one of the water-soluble plant foods to water in reservoir helps to preserve tree's freshness.
CHECK LIGHT STRINGS, now, for worn, cracked or brittle insulation, cracked sockets, loose socket lead-in wires and damaged plugs.
Unless you're very sure of what you're about, skip repairs to insulation or plugs. Throw string away and replace with new equipment. USE TESTED, LABORATORY APPROVED LIGHTING EQUIPMENT ONLY.
When you set up the tree, keep it away from doorways and other traffic areas in the home. Never set it up near a radiator or other source of heat.
Never use lighted candles on trees or with other evergreen decorations. So place your light strings that bulbs do not touch needles or branches. Check frequently to see that warping of branches does not twist bulbs against any foliage.

Don't overload any one house circuit with too many light strings.
Some cord sets are equipped with fuses; so, much better. If yours are less elaborate strings, be sure that the house circuit carrying your strings is fused with no more than a 15-ampere fuse.
Be absolutely certain to turn tree lights off at bedtime, or if you're away from home.
NEVER LEAVE small children unattended in the room where the Christmas tree is displayed. A resin-fed fire can go out of control in seconds and youngsters will most certainly become confused in seeking an exit.
Just as soon as needles turn brown, become brittle, or start to shed, take that tree down.
Never smoke near the tree.
Water-type extinguishers, buckets of water or a hose that's connected to a water source should be near at hand. However, don't be a hero. Get everyone out of the house and call the fire department before you tackle a fire.
YOUR BEST BET in handling the tree situation is, of course, to set a tree up outside the house, and use either a very small live tree or an artificial tree indoors.
Today's decorative lighting equipment offers so many possibilities that there need be no lack of glowing hospitality in the home if you dispense with a large, combustible indoor decoration.

MANNERS MAKE FRIENDS

No matter how much you think of your cat, if your visitor seems to draw away whenever the cat comes near, put the cat out of the room. Some persons have a dislike or fear of cats that makes them miserable if a cat happens to brush up against them.
So don't take a chance on making a guest uncomfortable in order to pamper a pet.

Homemaking

One way to save money when shopping for groceries is to check supplies on hand and plan for future eating needs. Then a housewife can take advantage of store specials and seasonal price reductions on items for later use.
Put kitchen wrap to use when packing for a trip. It keeps clothes clean and easy to find. Shoes wrapped in it can go next to white blouses. And it is easier to find hairpins, stockings or toilet articles when they are wrapped this way.

Yuletide Party For Richmond Scouts And Cubs

RICHMOND — The Richmond Cubs and Scouts held a joint meeting and Christmas party, in the St. Francis High School gymnasium.

The packs were called to order and formed a horseshoe. There was flag break and a prayer by Rev. H. L. Apps. The various packs put on skits and short plays which were constructive and amusing, the props and costumes adding to the mood.

The pack was again called to order and B. Templeman, District Commissioner, made a presentation of the Gold Cord to Bryan Armstrong, Calum Christmas, president of the District Council, thanked the leaders for the fine work they were doing in teaching the boys the various arts of Scouting. Henry Arsenault, Assistant District Commissioner was also present. A distribution of Christmas presents took place around the trees. Then the pack formed a circle and the evening closed with a prayer.

The next meetings will be: Gold Pack, January 6; Blue Pack, January 7; and the Troop on January 8.

Small Pupils Present Concert At Cowansville

COWANSVILLE — The Kindergarten pupils of Mrs. Dorothy McKell entertained their mothers at a delightful Christmas concert. Clad in gay red crepe paper capes, trimmed in gold, and wearing gold crowns the tots performed with charm and confidence.

Their Rhythm Band, of which they are all members, presented a trio of seasonable selections, Silent Night, Rudolph the Red Nosed Reindeer, and Away in a Manger. There were solo parts in the first mentioned, and each child also had a chance to choose an instrument, play it individually and sing to his own accompaniment. The favourite seemed to be the round brass cymbals, and the tiny players, all under six years of age, acquitted themselves very well indeed.

Gifts were distributed from the tree, and refreshments were served.

FELT COMPANY PARTY
The Christmas party of the Albany Felt Company, a gay and well-attended dance, was held at the Legion Hall. Decorations were in keeping with the Yuletide season and featured two huge lighted trees.

The genial M.C. was Harry Redmile who presented the prizes for special dances, spot, elimination etc. These and the popular Paul Jones helped the relaxed friendly atmosphere which prevailed. The orchestra chose popular music in a good variety. Light refreshments were served. Special out-of-town guests well-known in Cowansville included Mr. and Mrs. Z. J. Chagnon and Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Corcoran.

The Granby-Abbotsford branch of the Canadian Red Cross reports that the clinic held in Granby recently was a success. There were 396 donors at the city hall, which was lower than average, but this decrease is believed owing to influenza.

MASSAWIPPI LEAGUE STAGING QUITE A RACE The Massawippi Valley Hockey League race has turned into quite a battle judging from the recent results.

We are of the opinion that the admission of Drummondville and Victoriaville should go a long way towards making it quite a success.

The Rockets came in at the last moment and had a little trouble in finding a club but after combing the countryside have come up with a fair club.

At present the big problem is the question of ice. Magog and Richmond are the only two rinks without artificial ice but it is hoped that the Braves will have it shortly.

So far 14,619 fans have paid admissions into the various games and this in itself speaks very well for the league.

The Beavers and the Meteors clash tonight in their first encounter of the season. At present these two teams have been setting the pace in the loop but the past week they both suffered setbacks.

The local defeats can be attributed to lack of co-operation on the part of some of the players who once they get out in front seem happy to take things easy.

See where Judge Allan Fraser, Big Four Commissioner, has resigned from his post. Reason, lack of power to do anything. Just a farce, he says.

Judge Fraser said he had been widely criticized for not acting on the Ralph Tooby case but his powers didn't give him any right so the league voted on the protest instead of letting the Commissioner hand down a judgment on the incident.

President George Marshall of Washington Redskins suggests that the National Football League should delay its annual draft of college players until after last bowl games.

He claims that it would help to create good feeling for the game and counter criticism of the pro draft from Congress and other fronts.

They say that harness racing and the runners can't mix and we honestly believe it. When one comes in the other goes out.

See where the Blue Bonnets Raceway was sold for $5,500,000 to the Trans Canada Corporation. President J. Louis Levesque claims that they will hold 100 days of racing next year and in 1959 they will try to revive flat racing.

It will be interesting to see how Mr. Levesque and company intend to make it work. At the same time it will conflict with Montreal's other big track out at the east end.

not elaborate on what he meant "by existing circumstances," but said in an interview: "I'll let you speculate what they might be."

Presumably, he meant the narrow limits of his powers as commissioner which left him open to criticisms from many quarters, including a Toronto report that the league, of its own accord, would not renew his appointment for next year.

He said he made up his mind to resign some time ago. His mind kilometres an hour are figured to three decimal points, which resulted in a higher amount.

Regas hit his 200 on one run through the measured kilometre. His return run was much slower and he was credited with an average of 194.329 miles an hour and asked that it be recognized as a world mark.

The new computation also raises this to 195.329 miles an hour which, Joy said, will be the record for propeller craft. The old mark, set earlier in the year at Picton, Ont., by Miss Supper-test, was 184.489.

Wings, hockey's most prolific traders in recent years, were Nick Mickoski, Bob Bailey and Heck Lalonde.

Earl (Dutch) Reibel, Bill Dineen, Billy Dea and Lorne Ferguson were the players who went in the opposite direction.

At least a split in the places is a must for the last - game Hawks, five points behind Detroit. Wings are two behind fourth-place Toronto.

In other games tonight, New York Rangers play Montreal Canadiens and Boston Bruins play Toronto. The league-leading Canadiens, with a six-point edge over New York, have managed only one victory in six games the Wings, who this week traded eight players between them, get a fast chance to show which team is the more skillful trader.

The teams play a home-and-home series in the National Hockey League's six-game week-end schedule, in Chicago this afternoon and Detroit Sunday.

Wings have played one game since the trade, Thursday against Toronto Maple Leafs, and Jack McIntyre, one of the four players who came from Chicago, scored two goals to pace Detroit's 3-2 victory. They were his first of the season.

Victoriaville At Drummondville And Meteors At Magog; Coach Gilles Dube And Squad Looking For Win Tonight

Three games are on tap in the Massawippi Hockey League this weekend. This evening the Sherbrooke Beavers will tangle with the Meteors of Asbestos while tomorrow afternoon Victoriaville travels to Drummondville and the Magog Aces are slated to entertain Asbestos in the evening, weather permitting.

The Sherbrooke-Richmond duel slated for Sunday afternoon has been postponed as the Braves have no ice. The executive has been working hard the past week trying to get things in order but the warm weather put an end to their hopes and their home opening has been put off to another day.

The Meteors will be out to try and extend their lead over the Beavers this evening while the Dube squad will be out to try and break their losing string.

The Beavers had dropped their last two outings against the Canadiens and the Braves.

Asbestos holds a two-point lead over the Beavers but the local squad has a game in hand over the leaders. It will be the first meeting this year between the teams. The game was originally scheduled for Thursday, Dec. 26th, but through mutual consent it was moved forward to this evening.

At Drummondville the Rockets will be out to maintain their home slate clean and will be seeking their second straight victory on home ice. In the first tilt they stopped the Asbestos Meteors 4-3 in a hard-fought battle and are slight favorites to win tomorrow's affair.

Albert Moore Of Asbestos Is Still Top Scorer In Massawippi League; Gilles Dube Leads In Play-Making

Albert Moore of the Asbestos Beavers is still the leading marksman in the Massawippi Valley Hockey League according to the latest figures released by Jean Chartier, league statistician, last night.

Moore has collected 11 goals with seven assists for a total of 18 points, two more than the runner-up Richard Champagne, also of Asbestos. Maurice Vachon of Asbestos completes the top three of the standing with 15 points.

Three players are deadlocked in fourth position with 13 points each. They are Ray St. Cyr, and Gilles Dube of Sherbrooke along with Leo Allard of Asbestos. Bob Bedard follows with 12 points and is tied with Vachon for the second highest number of goals.

Playing coach Dube has collected the highest number of assists, nine, one more than Coach Glaude of the Meteors. Maurice Parr and Glaude each have nine points apiece.

Rainville Dubois of the Beavers has the best average for goals for 3.00 while Ronald Hamel of the Victoriaville Canadiens follows with 3.16. Hamel, Dubois and Bernard each have a shutout to their credit.

Victoriaville is the most penalized club in the circuit with 120 minutes while Asbestos has 88.

Lloyd Swindell Named Coach Of Empire Squad VANCOUVER, (CP) — The coach of Vancouver Olympic club, whose athletes have set 77 Canadian records in the last two years, has been nominated as coach of Canada's 1958 British Empire games track and field team.

Lloyd Swindell's name was put before the National Track and Field Association by the British Columbia Track and Field Association and the provincial branch of the Amateur Athletic Union.

Swindell said he "would like the chance to put Canada back on track and field picture as strongly as we were 20 years ago."

ROOKIE HAT TRICKS As an example of the fine rookie crop in the American Hockey League this season, three out of the first five three goal "hat tricks" were scored by rookies.

Don Hogan of Cleveland, Len Haley of Hershey and Bill Sweeney of Providence, were the multiple goal scorers among the first year group of players.

against the Rangers. SCORING DUEL The game will also feature the individual goal - scoring duel between New York's Camille Henry, the leader with 17, and Montreal's Henri (Pocket Rocket) Richard, second with 15.

Toronto, a point back of third-place Boston, has beaten the Bruins the last two times out.

Sunday's other games have Montreal at Boston and Toronto at New York.

Maurice "The Rocket" Richard Is Chosen Canada's Outstanding Athlete Of 1957 By Sport Editors And Writers

By JACK SULLIVAN TORONTO (CP) — Maurice Richard, the most prolific scorer hockey has known, is Canada's outstanding athlete of 1957.

The Rocket, who thrilled sports fans by scoring the 500th National Hockey League goal of his bombastic career with the colorful Montreal Canadiens in October, was chosen over golfer Al Balding of Toronto by the country's sport editors and sportscasters in the 23rd annual Canadian Press year-end sports poll. It was a battle all the way.

Richard, now in his 37th year, suffered a badly-cut Achilles tendon on Nov. 13 and has been sidelined since, but the selectors didn't forget him in the CP poll.

TOP THREE Based on a scale of three points for first choice, two for second and one for third, he earned 153 points. Balding got 102 points and Gerry James of Winnipeg Blue Bombers, the outstanding Canadian player in professional football this year, was third with 75 points.

The voters were asked to name in order the three outstanding Canadian athletes and a total of 21 were suggested, representing hockey, football, track and field, golf, tennis, paddling, curling and boxing.

As returns came in, it developed into a fight between Richard and Balding for the No. 1 spot with James and Yvon Durelle, the bull - shouldered batter from Baie Ste. Anne, N. B., and a ranking contender for the world light-heavyweight title held by Archie Moore, battling for third choice. A late surge of votes for James settled the issue, 75 to 44.

NOT IN PICTURE The other candidates, including Jean Beliveau, Canada's outstanding athlete in 1956, never were in the picture. Beliveau, brilliant Montreal Canadiens centre who drew more than half the first-choice votes a year ago for a 193-point total, slumped to a measly six points this time—one first-choice ballot and three third choices.

The voters paid Richard a big tribute. Still a sensation in his 16th NHL campaign, he started the season with Canadiens needing only seven goals to reach 500 and just about every hockey fan pulling for him to hit the magic number.

He made it on Oct. 19, was sailing along like a sopher on the top of the scoring list when he was accidentally cut down by defenceman Marc Reaume's skate in a game at Toronto on Nov. 13. It was a tough blow for the fiercely competitive Richard and fans openly wondered whether the greatest scorer of all time had reached the end of the trail.

That question won't be answered until near the end of January when the casts come off. But don't bet that he won't be around for the finish of the 1957-58 NHL season. Since he hit the big time he has suffered fractures of both legs and one arm plus other assorted injuries and has gone on to become one of the greatest players the game has seen.

More than 80 of his goals have been game - winners. He could still have a few clutch goals in his system before he calls it quits.

JUST BEGINNING While the Rocket is his career for the home stretch of his career, Balding at 34 is coming into his own in a sport where timing, accuracy and self-control are prime requisites. It took him a little while but the painstaking path to perfection now is paying off.

The Toronto golfer, who hit the tough and rough American pro circuit three years ago and was just another starter, now is

Gale Kerwin Earns Win Over Archer

NEW YORK (AP)—Gale Kerwin may go far or he may fizzle out. But one thing sure, his light out won't be hidden under a bushel.

The likeable boxer from Ottawa, who now lives in Valley Stream, N.Y., was outspoken in his own behalf Friday night after he won a 10-round decision over Jimmy Archer at Madison Square Garden.

"I'm a hell of a puncher and I know it," said Kerwin. "Only trouble I was too polite."

Kerwin's punch was enough to earn an official knockdown over the New Yorker who used to work on the docks. He sent Archer half - way through the ropes in the seventh with a solid right.

He won three tournaments, finished second in five, was in the money in 23 events in Canada, the United States and Cuba and is winding up the year with prize money of more than $30,000, the 10th leading money - winner of 1957 and the most a Canadian has ever earned in competition with the top American pros.

WALLOPING HALFBACK James, 23 - year - old halfback with the Blue Bombers, hit Western Canada football with a big wallop this year after deserting the sport for a two - year hitch with the junior Toronto Marlboros and Toronto Maple Leafs of the NHL.

He won the Western Interprovincial Football Union scoring title with a record 131 points, including 19 touch-downs, was named to C.U.'s W.U.F.A. all - star team, was voted the best native-born player in Canada and was a cog in Winnipeg's march to the Grey Cup final.

James was a disappointment in the cup final against Hamilton Tiger - Cats by fumbling four times but it was revealed after the game—which Tiger-Cats won 32-7—that he suffered two broken knuckles on his right hand in the first quarter.

NO. 2 BOXER Durelle hit the sports - page headlines by fighting highly-rated Tony Anthony to a draw last June. That performance earned him the No. 2 spot in the National Boxing Association's ratings of world contenders. During the year he added the British Empire title to his Canadian championship when he knocked out Gordon Wallace of Brantford, Ont.

Fifth place in the CP poll went to Jackie Parker, triple - threat backfield star with Edmonton Eskimos who earlier this year was named the outstanding player in the country. The Mississippi speedster was No. 4 choice in the 1956 CP poll after leading the Eskimos to three straight Grey Cup victories over Montreal Alouettes.

Parker's point - total this year was 36, far in front of the remaining candidates.

For Next April OTTAWA (CP)—The 1958 army boxing finals will be held in Vancouver April 8, 9 and 11 in conjunction with the centennial celebrations of British Columbia, a r.m.y. headquarters announced Friday.

For the first time there will be a one-day break between preliminary bouts and finals. This was done because in other years the draw forced some boxers to fight with 10 little rest between bouts.

Thetford Mines Joins Quebec Minor Hockey

Thetford Mines has joined the Quebec Minor Hockey Association this year and for the first time in its history will form part of the Eastern Townships section of which Maurice Parsons is the Vice-President.

Nine clubs from the De La Salle College and nine from the Saint-Gabriel Academy have already opened activities and the other schools will open their operations within the next few days. It is expected that thirty to thirty-five clubs will be affiliated with the Eastern Townships section for the following season.

Thetford is following in the footsteps of Granby, Drummondville and Richmond by forming their minor hockey yet-up for the first time and by joining organized hockey. At the end of the season their winners will proceed in the elimination series for the Eastern Townships championships.

Word has been received from the Stanstead County Hockey League that they will again operate this year and may have a slight increase over last year. Sixteen clubs operated in the minors last season and outlooks were not bright for this year but the obstacles have been ironed out and plans are under way for another banner year in that section.

Juvenile League Opens Tomorrow At Windsor Mills

The official opening of the Eastern Townships Juvenile Hockey league will be held on Sunday afternoon, December 22nd, when Windsor Mills, last year's champions, will receive the visit of the Sherbrooke Optimist.

Windsor under the direction of George Guilbault and Optimist, coached by Eric Sharp, have lost a few players from last year's squads who have passed the age limit, but have signed many new faces and expect to ice strong clubs.

They should be evenly matched and spectators should witness a well disputed game. The two other clubs forming the league, East Angus and Sherbrooke St. Therese, will have their opening during the course of next week. The schedule will be published within the next few days.

What have the designers ever done for the automobile, except make it fatter and lower and slap more chrome on it!

You often hear this kind of discussion, in various forms, so let's have a look at some of the more important changes in car design, changes which I think have been more than just flights of stylish fancy.

The steady change in car design in the past 25 years has been the pushing forward of the passenger section — it's moved two feet since 1927 — and the people in the back seat no longer sit high over the rear wheels.

In moving forward, other things got cramped. Flywheels had to be smaller to fit in. And what happened? There were immediate improvements in the automobile's smoothness and acceleration.

The designers made the body wider than the wheel treads and got rid of the running boards without exposing the sides of the car to stones thrown up by the front wheels. (And, as a second advantage this eliminated the newsboy of 20 years ago who jumped on your running board at every intersection.)

And on long-straight highways it is rather necessary to know whether a far-away car is going, or coming at you. The chrome tells you.

Ronald Gibbs Of Danville Receives Legion Bursaries

DANVILLE. — Two bursaries were presented to Ronald Gibbs, a student at Bishop's University and a resident of Danville, at a district meeting held by the Canadian Legion in the Legion Hut. The two cheques to the amount of $100 were given by the Dominion and Provincial Command and the Legion Branch 41 of Danville.

Malcolm McGinnis, president, welcomed those present, going on to say, "We, the Legion members, all know the aims and objects of the Canadian Legion looking after the welfare of veterans and their dependents, the social and community work being done by the local branches, and yet all too often, the publicity we get does not reflect the major interests and vocation of the Canadian Legion.

"Today we are going to witness still another event which is becoming a major rung in the Legion ladder of peacetime public service, the presentation of bursaries to assist those deserving young people to advance their education beyond High School standards. I can only hope that only this branch but that other branches in the district may find more and more occasions to make similar presentations in the years to come."
