Jackson Dodds Outlines Scout Three-Year Plan

The Boy Scout Association has launched a three-year plan for the further development of Canadian Scouting.

Jackson Dodds of 58 Belvedere Road, Westmount, Deputy Chief Scout for Canada in making the announcement on Monday, outlined the program, to be known as "Plan Achievement."

It calls for active participation by the 115,000 members of the association in Canada and requires every Cub pack, Scout troop and Rover crew to set targets of accomplishment for themselves. It is a challenge to the boys and leaders to "help themselves" to make progress in scouting.

The association headquarters in Ottawa has distributed a 16-page booklet on the program to all members of the association in which it points out a number of targets for Cubs, Rovers and Scouts.

The booklet urges Cubs to have at least 25 per cent of their packs two star Cubs with a similar percentage of their meetings to be held out of doors.

Scouts are asked to set 25 per cent of their troop first class scouts as their target with every Scout to complete the minimum of 14 days camping and hiking standard each year.

Westmount "Y" Secretary Speaks at Church Rally

Norman Millington, secretary of Westmount Y.M.C.A. speaking to 1,800 United Church Sunday school scholars at their annual New Year's Day rally in St. James United Church, stressed the necessity for children to possess healthy bodies, keen minds and the ability to use the teachings of Jesus as guide posts in learning how to play and work together.

The title of Mr. Millington's address was "The Four Square Life."

Mr. Millington spoke of the Christian life as being composed of four "treasures" — body, mind, social contact and the spiritual life. As he called for each of the treasures to be found, a Sunday school pupil brought a box from some part of the church to the platform. Each box represented one of the treasures and all were put together to form a larger square to represent the "four-square life."

At the conclusion of his speech, Mr. Millington added:

"If we never learn to exercise our spirit by practising the rules of Christian living, such as regular attendance, going to church, praying, living as we know God wants us to live, then our spirit becomes a small runty sort of thing and we never become the kind of boys and girls we are today."

Velma Stockton read The King's reply to the New Year greeting sent from the rally last year, and young Billy Ford, of St. Andrew's Church, St. Laurent, read the 1951 rally's message to the royal family, Dawn Gascoigne, of Longueuil, led the responsive Psalm reading. The children who "found the treasures" were Helen Scafe, Kenneth Labut, Sandra Keers, and Brian Hayman.

The rally was presided over by George Logan.

He was 51 yesterday. Burial will be in Mount Royal Cemetery.

Son of the late Ira L. Cross and the late Frances Wilson, of Farnham, where he was born, he was educated at Farnham High School and worked several years with the Canadian Bank of Commerce in Winnipeg and at St. Pierre-Miquelon. He served the Sun Life for more than 20 years.

Father's Interest in Son's Sports Important - O'Brien

"Most fathers do not take the time to delve into their son's sports problems," Andy O'Brien, sports editor of the Montreal Standard, told members of the Westmount Rotary Club at its luncheon meeting, Wednesday.

Speaking frankly on sports, Mr. O'Brien said that the father is a combination Joe Louis, Maurice Richard and Babe Ruth in the eyes of a young son, and that because of this, he should make sure he takes a definite interest in his son's interests on sports.

"Too many fathers leave it up to the school sports director," he said, pointing out that if the boy fails to make an impression in some of the robust sports, the father simply writes him off.

The speaker, who was introduced by Frank Carlin claimed that not all youngsters could take an active part in the robust games and suggested that the father in this case, should try to belittle these sports in place of the less strenuous games such as swimming, golf and tennis or badminton.

Mr. O'Brien did discourage the idea of boxing and track however, claiming that too many organizations are sponsoring the former and too many suffer overstrain in the latter.

Picking the sports which were the best for a youngster, Mr. O'Brien claimed that football was his choice over any other team sport. He discredited baseball because of the lack of climate and hockey because there was still a great deal of stress on individual play.

Enlarging on his choice, the speaker said that it gave the youth most, physically, mentally and socially, and that in the last 50 years, only two fatalities have been reported in Canada.

He said that the pay-off on spirit extends far beyond the post school civilian and peacetime field, and claimed that a Westmount wing commander during the war said that football tactics were most applicable to airforce duties and combat.

The speaker was thanked by Hal Gilles of the Westmount Rotary Club. Frank Kenwood presided.

H. Patterson Ends Service with YMCA

Members of the Westmount Y.M.C.A. will note with regret that Herbert C. Patterson, a former physical director of Westmount branch has retired as executive secretary of the Lachine Branch Y.M.C.A., terminating 42 years service to "Y" members in metropolitan Montreal.

A pioneer of physical education in the Canadian Y.M.C.A., Mr. Patterson attended Springfield College from 1911 to 1915, graduating as Bachelor of Physical Education.

During his term of office in Montreal, Mr. Patterson has held the position of physical director at both Central and Westmount branches.

In World War 1 he was selected by the National Council of Y.M.C.A.'s for war service overseas. He served for three years in training camps in England and in France with the Second Canadian Division.

A HAPPY NEW YEAR?

Yes, With Faith and Courage
We Can Make It So

The New Year opens before us and with the invincible optimism of the human soul we welcome it with the belief that it will be a good year in spite of the fears and apprehensions which all of us feel. By "good" we mean the fulfilling of large hopes and the realizing of high ideals.

The businessman talks prosperity, the social reformer talks progress, the politician talks peace, the preacher talks of spiritual development. It is natural, fortunately, for the human mind to anticipate the future with confidence. That is what the poet meant when he wrote: "Hope springs eternal in the human breast."

It is well that it is so, otherwise who would have the courage to go forward? The night may be behind us, but the dawn is in front. Yesterday may have been dark with storms, but the morn is always bright. Our house has been wrecked in the night of catastrophe but with the morning's light we shall with renewed strength clear away the ruins that we may build afresh.

LIKE TO SLEEP IN?

That Doesn't Mean That
You Are Lazy

A writer in a British publication defends late morning risers.

"Why", he asked, "should we call a man lazy for being in bed at 11 o'clock in the morning and yet never dream of calling a man lazy who is in bed at 11 o'clock at night?"

He wondered why anyone, except a sluggish person with a deficiency of will power, should want to give up to petty drowsiness.

"The morning sluggard is probably a person who, since childhood, has rebelled against wasting any part of his life in the idleness of sleep. He would, if he could, keep awake through all the 24 hours, so as not to miss a moment of his too brief span of life on earth."

Stanley Presbyterian

It has been the custom of recent years for the ministers of Westmount churches to exchange pulpits for the first Sunday of the year. This morning service of worship will be conducted by the Rev. Harvey G. Campbell of Westmount Park-Emmanuel Church. The evening service will be conducted by the Rev. J. D. Wilkie.

Sunday school meets at 11 a.m. and Bible class at 2.30 p.m.

The Women's Association will hold their first meeting of the year Jan. 9, at 2.30 p.m.

Ladies' Prayer meeting is held each Friday at 10.30 a.m.

Movies for the children of the Sunday School and community are shown each Friday evening at 7.45.

The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be dispensed at both morning and evening services of worship January 21. On the Friday preceding, the Preparatory Service for the reception of new Communicants will be held at 8.15 p.m.

Next Sunday at 7.30 p.m., another religious film, "Dust and Destiny," will be shown. This film, which is in technicolor, has been produced by the Moody Bible Inst., and presents, in a most convincing way, the fact of God's existence.

Christian Science

"God" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon to be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, January 7, 1951.

The Golden Text is from I Timothy 1:17. "Now unto the King eternal, immortal, invisible, the only wise God, be honour and glory for ever and ever."

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible:—"And God spake all these words, saying, I am the Lord thy God, which have brought thee out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of bondage. Thou shalt have no other gods before me." (Exodus 20: 1 to 3.)

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook "Science & Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy:—"The First Commandment is my favorite text. It demonstrates Christian Science. It inculcates the tri-unity of God, Spirit, Mind; it signifies that man shall have no other spirit or mind but God, eternal good, and that all men shall have one Mind. The divine Principle of the First Commandment bases the Science of being, by which man demonstrates health, holiness, and life eternal. We acknowledge and adore one supreme and infinite God." (Pages 340 and 497.)

Woe to the crown of pride, to the runkards of Ephraim, whose glorious beauty is a fading flower, which are on the head of the fat valleys of them that are overcome with wine!—Isaiah 28:1.

"Pollyanna" Will Be Presentation At Victoria Hall

Dorothy Davis and Violet Walters, directors of the Children's Theatre, will present "Pollyanna" — The Glad Girl — at Victoria Hall on Saturday afternoons, January 13th and 20th. Pollyanna is one of the happiest and most adorable characters in

J. M. Hay, J. H. Brace, vice-president of the Bell Company, was in the chair.

Mr. Haskell, who has played an active role in the Telephone Pioneers of America for many years, recently completed a two-year term as vice-president for Canada on the international executive. In 1934 he was appointed secretary-treasurer of the Charles Fleetford Sise chapter, a post he held until 1941. He was re-appointed to the post in 1944, and held it until a few weeks ago.

A graduate of McGill University, Mr. Haskell joined the Bell Company's general traffic department in 1910. In 1914 he was placed in charge of the company's long distance telephone circuit plans.

The same year, he went overseas as a gunner with the 2nd Brigade of the C.F.A., won his commission in the field two years later and was transferred to the 9th Brigade, C.F.A.

In the historic Hill 70 battle in August, 1917, he was severely wounded and decorated with the Military Cross. He rejoined the company in 1919 as long distance circuit engineer and took up study of the dial system. He was appointed supervisor of traffic results in June, 1922, and a year later became educational superintendent for the company. He has held the position of assistant vice-president since November 16, 1925. For his work in first aid activities for Bell employees, Mr. Haskell was invested as an officer of the Order of St. John of Jerusalem by Viscount Alexander.

all literature to present before children. The play depicts her vividly as a delightful and personable little girl who is full of fun, but whose influence and charm is wholesome and good. Her scenes with Jimmy Bean and Mr. Pendleton make an eloquent appeal to every heart.

The play follows the book very closely, retaining all the well loved episodes that keep this story eternally alive in the minds of children. When the little orphan girl is sent to live with her aunt, she brings with her all the love and sunshine in her heart, but when she finds she is not really wanted, she still tries to find something to be glad about, and eventually succeeds in not only filling everyone's heart with gladness.

The role of "Pollyanna" will be played by two different young players for the performances on January 13th and 20th. For the first show, Denyse Leroux portrays the role, and the following week, Helen Liberman. The balance of the excellent cast is as follows: Beth Kraminer, Ruth Roskies, Keith Ballantyne, David Luck, Walter Wakefield, Jack Ainsworth, Gerda Rother, Sally Rayner, Diana Johnson, Eileen Lerner, Sally Schneckenburger, Barbara Hamill and Jessica Gelber.

C. A. C. Reports

... On Happy Hunting at January White Sales

With the Christmas and New Year celebrations over for another year, most homemakers are settling down to the serious business of clearing up after the holiday and trying to get the family back to a normal routine. The Canadian Association of Consumers in Quebec greets its members and readers and wishes to one all a year from which the black clouds of trouble and war will have rolled away.

And of the Consumer Front, of course, January is the month of Sales. It is the month when (the budget permitting) we all replenish the linen cupboard. So here is some information on how to shop for sheets, from Miss Jessie Roberts, Chairman of the Textile Standards Committee of C.A.C.

As most of us know, sheeting is of two main types, percale and muslin. The percale is very fine for it is made of very thin cotton fibres which must go through a special combing in the spinning mill. This process removes irregular fibres and leaves the others all smoothed out and very even. Of course this means higher production costs and eventually a higher price. From this very fine yarn, is woven a cloth of high thread count—by thread count being meant the number of separate strands in warp and weft per inch. The warp and weft are the terms used to describe the fibres running in each respective direction in the cloth. Percaloes generally have more than 100 yarns per inch each way. This makes very attractive looking sheeting which is smooth and light in weight. This light weight in sheets is an advantage if you pay for laundry by the pound, and also makes the sheets easier to handle if washed at home, but percale does have one disadvantage, it is harder to iron, if you want a smoothly ironed sheet. And lastly of course, percale comes in many different qualities.

Muslin comes in about three weights, heavy, medium and light. The thread count each way ranges roughly from 60-80 threads per inch.

Price generally is governed by the weight. The heavy weight often sold as hospital sheeting, is, as would be expected, the strongest and hardest wearing. There is such variation with muslin sheetings that is almost impossible to give advice on their purchase, except to say that they should be firm but not stiff, the thread count should be well balanced, they should be smooth and compact and not heavily sized. Size is the term used for dressing, and it is too much of this in a cotton fabric which makes it stiff.

When you have chosen your sheets or bought your sheeting, don't forget to give a thought to the length and width which is best and most economical in use. Three yards (108 inches) torn length will allow for shrinkage and for hems, with enough still left over to fold under our deep modern mattresses and still leave a nice turn-over to cover the tops of the blankets. If you skimp on length you will find your sheets will wear out more quickly as the sleepers will be constantly tugging at them. The width chosen should allow 24 inches to cover the sides of the mattress, so it is a good idea to measure the width of your beds before you go shopping for sheets. Incidentally if you make your own, don't forget that little idea of making the top and bottom hems the same size—you may then reverse them for longer wear.

We would like to make the suggestion that our C.A.C. shoppers and readers ask for factual information on their sheets when they buy them. Most of the time the clerks may not know the answers, but if you start asking questions about thread count, weight per square yard, etc., the clerks will pass these requests along to department managers, and we shall soon lose the reputation we have of not caring what quality or size is handed out to us. At the present time many storekeepers claim that women are not interested in these things.

Well Happy Hunting in the January Sales, and watch for C.A.C. Reports in this paper next week. M.F.G.

Report Fewer Women Now Die of Cancer

Doctor Jonathan C. Meakins, emeritus professor of medicine at McGill University and President of the Canadian Cancer Society has commented upon the article, "Fewer Women Die of Cancer," appearing in the current January issue of the Ladies' Home Journal. In this article, Dr. Louis Dublin, statistician of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company states that, according to the very complete records of his company, the death rate from cancer in women has been steadily declining since 1932, by over ten percent in the last ten years alone. In the same period deaths from cancer of the uterus have declined by one quarter.

Dr. Meakins states that these figures are most encouraging and are an expression of what can be accomplished in cancer control. The Metropolitan has through its sponsorship of a health programme which stresses the importance of the early diagnosis and treatment of disease, helped to reduce materially the death rate from cancer among its policy holders.

The same goal can be achieved among our Canadian people, states Dr. Meakins, if continuing and even more generous support is given by the public to the work of the Canadian Cancer Society which, through its lay educational programme is stressing the importance of the early diagnosis and treatment of cancer and is lending every support to the improvement of facilities for the care of cancer patients.

Edith Head's Fashion Letter From Hollywood

City slicker or country cousin, the ingenious young modern doesn't confine fashion glamour to her after-dark wardrobe. Wise damsel that she is, she adds excitement to her day-time outfits via "glamour gimmicks."

Latest "glamour gimmick" to make its way into Hollywood wardrobes is the "stomacher". Nineteenth century glamour girls used to dazzle their men-folk with these costume accessories — which, in case you don't know, could consist of a mammoth ornamental buckle, a bejeweled metal girdle or a wide gold or silver belt. According to bygone customs, the "stomacher" continues to be worn at the front-center of the waist. However, the 1950 version of this fashion is neither as bulky nor as fabulous as the nineteenth century "charmers".

CORINNE CALVET, the French actress who sets a half-dozen new styles in Hal Wallis' "My Friend Irma Goes West", sparks a simple white linen sport dress with glamour by means of a "stomacher". Her choice is a natural straw creation which features a lavish design in all the bold and brilliant color tones of the rainbow. With the dress, Corinne wears a natural straw picture hat and a pair of natural straw sandals.

For afternoon and teatime wear, GAIL RUSSELL, star of the forthcoming picture "The Lawless", selects a frock of black chiffon — cool as an iced julep and new as tomorrow's headlines. The dress is styled along classic shirtmaker lines, with bare sleeves and fullest of skirts. To the frock, Gail adds a "stomacher" of black which is encrusted with pale pink pearls. She repeats the "pearl pink" shade in her "shortie" gloves.

Jan August At Seville Theatre On January 11

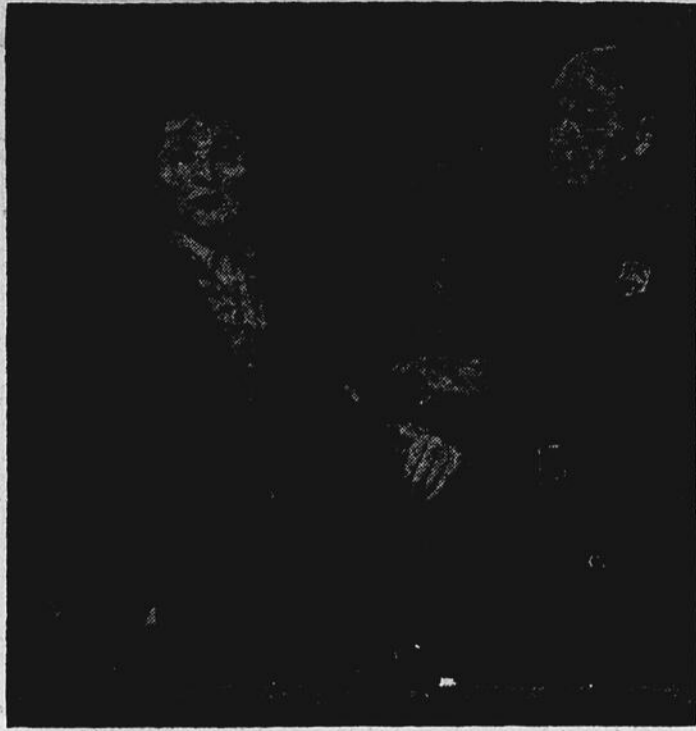

Offering musical interpretations that mark him as a truly distinctive pianist, Jan August will appear at the Seville Theatre January 11. With only one piano and ten lightning-quick fingers, Jan is able to produce effects so baffling that he is constantly bombarded with letters from listeners who want to be let in on the "secret".

Jan August is a self-taught musician. Born in Brooklyn, he manifested an intense interest in music while he was still very young. He loved to sing and pick out melodies on the piano wherever possible. His parents were amazed at his ability and encouraged him to pursue his obviously innate talents further, although they were unable to pay for his formal musical education. This period of self-instruction proved to be invaluable to Jan's musical training, inasmuch as it disciplined him to listen carefully enough to detect the shades, qualities and effects of rhythmic interpretations. Even the more complex harmonies that Jan later developed resulted simply from listening to and watching other pianists. Not until he was eighteen did he take any formal music lessons—five in all—and then only out of sheer necessity. He was offered a job with an orchestra, and had to learn how to read music!

FILMED IN MID-WEST

Paramount's "United States Mail", starring Alan Ladd and Phyllis Calvert, was filmed mostly in Gary, Indiana, the locale of this action drama.

"Blossoms In The Dust"

Greer Garson in one of the dramatic moments of "Blossoms in the Dust," M-G-M masterpiece reprint which starts Sunday at the Westmount Theatre. Unfolding one of the greatest love stories of the decade, this is the picture which first co-starred Miss Garson with Walter Pidgeon and is the first in which the lovely, red-headed actress appeared in Technicolor.

"Blossoms In The Dust" Starts at Westmount Sunday

Among motion pictures which can be seen again and again with renewed enjoyment is "Blossoms in the Dust," M-G-M's magnificent Technicolor love story, co-starring Greer Garson and Walter Pidgeon, opens Sunday at the Westmount theatre.

"Blossoms in the Dust" was the first picture to co-star Miss Garson and Pidgeon and, after watching their work together as husband and wife in this stirring story of an impetuous Texan who sweeps a society belle off her feet, it is easy to see why these stars have become so popular together in such of their subsequent hits as "Mrs. Miniver," "Mrs. Parkington," "Julia Misbehaves" and the more recent "That Forsythe Woman."

"Blossoms in the Dust" revolves about Edna Kahley (Miss Garson), a belle of the Gibson Girl era. Her meeting with the dashing Texan, Sam Gladney (Pidgeon), their whirlwind courtship and marriage and their mutual efforts to establish a haven for homeless waifs make for a story which never wavers in its interest and is filled with dramatic and romantic highlights.

The story is the first in which the lovely, red-headed Miss Garson was photographed in Technicolor and she looks breathtakingly beautiful in the color medium. Apparent here also is the sympathetic appeal and dramatic fire which has made Greer Garson one of the foremost figures in the motion picture world. Pidgeon gives a forthright honesty and ruggedness to the role of the Texan, and other fine work is contributed by Felix Bressart as a kindly doctor, Marsha Hunt as Miss Garson's girlhood chum who meets tragedy, and Fay Rolden and Samuel S. Hinds as Miss Garson's parents.

Added Attraction

"A Lady Without Passport" added attraction at the Westmount theatre brings Hedy Lamarr and John Hodiak in a story of love, adventure and pulsating action which starts in New York City, shifts to Havana, Cuba, and culminates in an electrifying chase climax in the depths of the Florida Everglades.

Taking as its fictional premise the drama behind the smuggling into the United States of illegal immigrants, the story presents Miss Lamarr as the lovely European Marianne Lorress desperately trying to gain entry into this country from Cuba, with Hodiak cast as Pete Karczag, the immigration inspector who first pursues the girl in line of duty, then becomes entangled for more personal reasons. Their first encounter at the Giffstream Cafe in Havana, headquarters of the smuggling ring, Pete's wily impersonation of a Hungarian refugee, his subsequent exposure and gun fight with the nefarious Palinov, leader of the racketeers, leading up to the tensely gripping chase climax, which takes place in the depth of the Florida Everglades, makes for a romantic adventure drama of unflagging interest.

Overnight Rise to Stardom Is Story of Eileen Barton

Eileen Barton's story is not the usual story of sudden overnight success after a long and bitter struggle. Her's is the story of a gal who's been practically a star even since childhood, but without that magic something happening that makes the world aware of you. She made her stage debut on a Kansas City stage at the age of two and a half—and at the ripe old age of four was starred at the old Palace with Ted Healy in a comedy act. When she was an old lady of eight she had her own on until she hit the age of eleven and found herself a has-been.

But Eileen made a comeback at fifteen and went on to such things as working on the Frank Sinatra show, playing the Paramount three times and the Copacabana in New York and again her own radio show. Success she had—but without stardom.

Records were something that Eileen never gave much thought to.

A couple of years ago she made two records and that was that. Eileen's career came to a dead halt—so she decided to forget her singing career and become an actress—and she landed a job in "Angel in the Wings." But her heart was still in her vocal chords—so when she was approached to make a recording of a novelty tune "If I Knew You Were Coming I'd 've Baked A Cake" she jumped to it—little dreaming that the one session in the recording studio would put her right on the road to the stardom she's had her eye on for more than a decade.

The rest is record history—in less than six short weeks the record jumped to the number one spot in the recording field—and Eileen suddenly became the most sought after artist in the country, with Hollywood, Television, Radio and the stage all beckoning to her.

Miss Barton will appear at the Seville Theatre, commencing Thursday, January 11.

Seville Theatre Commences New Entertainment Policy

The Seville Theatre, located on St. Catherine Street east of Atwater Avenue, inaugurates a new policy in entertainment next Thursday, January 11, when it will feature a top stage show attraction in addition to a first-run motion picture.

Commencing on January 11, the stage artists at the Seville Theatre will be Jan August, the Mercury Records piano stylist, who has made several short movie subjects, and Eileen Barton, Mercury and National recording star, whose top record today has been "If I Knew You Were Coming, I'd 've Baked A Cake."

Supporting Mr. August and Miss Barton will be Mage and Karr, tap dancers extraordinary, Bobby Sargeant, a riot as a comedian, and the Three Dees, a trapeze and novelty act.

The stage presentation will be emceed by Lee Hamilton, popular Montreal radioman, and will feature the music of Len Howard and his orchestra.

The film to be shown with this stage show will be a first-run thriller, "Double Confession," starring Peter Lorre, Derek Farr and Joan Hopkins.

Following the first presentation, such stars as Billy Farrell, scheduled to start on January 18, and Mel Torme, scheduled to commence on January 25, will appear at the Seville Theatre.

The Same Old Story

The five-year pact between the Pacific Coast Conference and the Western Conference (Big Ten), whereby each of these football leagues supplied one of the teams for the annual Rose Bowl classic, ended on Monday with Michigan's rather surprising 14-6 victory over the previously undefeated California Golden Bears. This was the fifth win in five tries at Pasadena for the Big Ten, which is considerably better than the par for any course. The scores have been as follows:

- 1947 — Illinois 45 U.C.L.A. 14
- 1948 — Michigan 49 Southern Cal 0
- 1949 — Northwestern 20 California 14
- 1950 — Ohio State 17 California 14
- 1951 — Michigan 14 California 6

Most football expert feel that the Big Ten's repeated humiliation of the Pacific Coast Conference's champion in Pasadena on New Year's Day has wiped away any chance that the pact will be renewed. The P.C.C., which annually fills one of the spots in the Rose Bowl, is tired of taking it on the chin from the representative of the toughest league in the nation. The pact has been one of the most one-sided documents of its kind ever, for it allowed a Big Ten team to compete at Pasadena only once every three years, while the P.C.C. was honored to present its champion for slaughter each New Year's Day.

Those in the know maintain that the Coast teams do not mind getting trounced by the best team in the Big Ten, but they definitely resent having to play their champion against a third-place Western Conference team, as was the case in 1949 when California met Northwestern. The Wildcats from Evanston, Illinois finished behind Michigan and Illinois in the Big Ten race, but under the rules of the pact, neither of the latter could make the trip to the Rose Bowl. Northwestern went, and won.

A similar case existed last year, when many felt that Michigan would have been a more suitable representative than Ohio State, despite the fact that the Buckeyes and the Wolverines had tied for the championship of their conference. Michigan was admittedly a better team, but Ohio State managed to beat California, 17-14, in the Bowl game.

Then, this season, Michigan went west, probably the worst team to represent the Big Ten in the five years. This Michigan team, which was beaten by Illinois and tied by Minnesota in its own conference and also lost to Army and Michigan State, still beat the Coast champion California eleven. And yet, the Coast wanted Ohio State again, for despite the fact that the Buckeyes lost to Michigan, 9-3, in the snow, they were still one of the great, high-scoring teams of the country.

So, in summary, we can see that the only two years that the Western Conference sent its best team to the Coast, in 1947 and 1948, these two teams, Illinois and Michigan, overwhelmed the Coast opposition. Second-rate teams from the Big Ten had enough to beat the best in the P.C.C. the other three times. California has lost only three games in the past three seasons, all in the Rose Bowl, to teams which were not ranked as the best in the conference which sent them to Pasadena.

Is it any wonder then that the Pacific Coast Conference is tiring of this situation? The P.C.C. incidentally, is like the man who was caught between the devil and the deep blue sea. They originally signed the pact with the Big Ten for a twofold reason: (a) to attract the popular midwestern teams to the Rose Bowl, and (b) to freeze out the southern schools which had been making a monotonous habit of whipping the Coast representatives in the New Year's Day shindig.

And what did the Coast teams accomplish with this new pact? Well, they bit off a little more than they could chew in the Big Ten, as the record shows, and they froze the southern teams right into the Sugar Bowl, which has now surpassed the Rose Bowl, not in tradition or pageantry, but in the quality of the game played each New Year's Day. The Rose Bowl hasn't been the same since that pact was signed. The first two years, great midwestern teams ran away from the best on the Coast, and in the past three seasons, inferior teams from Big Ten showed the poor caliber of the play in the P.C.C. by licking its undefeated champion, California, each time.

The first thing that the P.C.C. should do to bring the Rose Bowl back to top stature is to improve the brand of football in its own backyard and forget for a while about signing pacts to ensure "a suitable opponent" for its champion in the Rose Bowl. There are twenty teams in the country this year that could have beaten California by more than Michigan did on Monday.

There is a considerable element in the Far West which is exerting pressure against the re-signing of the pact with the Big Ten. They reason that rather than keep the Rose Bowl between one or two sections of the country, it should be open to teams the length and breadth of the United States.

And they probably figure that they may find a team that the Coast champion can beat if they get away from the Western Conference.

And finding a team with any sort of a record that the Coast champion can beat might be quite a problem.
