Marler Will Run Again In July Provincial Contest

Following the signing of a general proclamation dissolving the twenty-second legislature of the Province of Quebec on Wednesday afternoon, Premier Maurice Duplesis announced that general provincial elections are to be held on Wednesday, July 28th.

George C. Marler, M.L.A. for Westmount-St. George, plans to run for office again. In an exclusive interview, yesterday morning, he declared, "I shall be a candidate in the forthcoming provincial election. I wish to express to the electors of Westmount-St. George my appreciation for the confidence which they have shown in me since I was first elected in 1942. I hope that I will receive from them, in the forthcoming election, the same generous support as they have given me in the past."

The forthcoming elections are expected to be crucial ones for the National Union, which will face a reorganized Liberal Party with the full backing of the Federal Liberals. Opinions have been expressed that Marler will become Treasurer of the provincial party if returned to office in the coming election.

Nominations are set for July 21st in most electoral districts in the province and voting on July 28th will be from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. D.S.T.

Canadian Aluminum Co. Story Related to Rotary

Aluminum is one of the "youngest" of the metals to be utilized by man, declared Fraser W. Bruce, vice-president and general sales manager of the Aluminum Company of Canada, in an address to the Rotary Club of Westmount on the Canadian Aluminum Industry at this week's luncheon.

The pure metal was first produced in small quantity in 1825 by chemical process, he continued, and at that time it was valued at approximately $500 per pound. Through continual experimentation in the years that followed, a method was devised whereby the metal could be produced by a much more efficient electrolytic process, the production method universally used in modern times and today's efficient, high quantity production has brought the price of the metal down to approximately two dollars a pound. The early smelters were able to produce the metal at a rate of about 50 pounds a day. At present the Aluminum Company of Canada can produce about 2,000,000 pounds per day.

Since two of the outstanding characteristics of aluminum are lightness and high heat conduction, in seeking an outlet for the increased production of the metal, it was logical that it be used for the production of cooking utensils. The first such were teakettles of cast aluminum, said Mr. Bruce, but their reception by wholesalers and retailers was poor, and so ALCAN commenced a program of selling its own consumer products from door to door. Aluminum as a metal for cooking utensils was subjected to propaganda claims of being inimical to health, but these were disproved and the obvious advantages of the aluminum utensils led to their increasing use. Thus the "Wearever" line of aluminum cooking utensils was developed.

Another use for large quantities of aluminum proved to be in the electrical industry as conductors of current. Initial opposition by adherents to copper wire line conductors was overcome chiefly by the difference in the price of the materials and aluminum came into its own for usage in transmission lines in the period following 1929. To produce such materials, the company built its own rolling mills and processing plants.

Greene Avenue Will Have New Lighting System

Replacement of the present lighting system of Greene avenue, between St. Catherine and Sherbrooke streets, with modern lighting units similar to those installed on Sherbrooke St., W., last year, was authorized at a meeting of the Municipal Council at the City Hall on Tuesday evening. It is estimated that there will be a delay of six months on delivery of the necessary materials.

The reason given for replacement of present lamps on Greene avenue by newer units is that replacements for older lamps throughout the city have to be bought at present. By removing the present lamps, a pool of replacement parts will be formed to service other lamps of the same type in the city. Consequently, funds which would otherwise be used for maintenance of the old lamps can be applied to the purchase of new equipment.

AMATEUR RADIO SHOW TOMORROW AND SUNDAY

Permission has been granted to the Montreal Amateur Radio Club to hold an international competion for portable amateur radio stations at Westmount Mountain on Saturday and Sunday. Automobiles will not be allowed.

Duncan McMillan Receives W.H.S. Award Of Honour

The coveted Old Boys' Trophy, presented annually by the Westmount High School Old Boys' Association to the boy in graduating class who, in the opinion of his classmates, has rendered the greatest service to the school by best combining the qualities of sportsmanship and scholarship, was recently awarded to Duncan MacMillan, of 4330 Sherbrooke street west.

The award was made at an assembly held in the Senior High School gymnasium on Friday afternoon, prior to which time awards were made to the boys and girls who had participated in school sports.

Following these awards, the girls of the graduating class retired from the gym and elected, as the girl who had done most for her school in the graduating year, Ann Trueland, of 331 Redfern Avenue.

The award of the Old Boys' Trophy was made to Duncan MacMillan by members of the executive committee of the Old Boys' Association, following a secret ballot by the boys of the graduating class, after which the ballots were burned with traditional ceremony in an iron receptacle resembling the headpiece of a mediaeval suit of armour. Announcement of the results of the ballot was received by the student body with enthusiastic cheers.

Following presentation of the award, MacMillan was congratulated by the Old Boys, after which he was borne out on the shoulders of his classmates, tossed into a clothes basket mounted on a handcart, and paraded through Westmount in the annual Procession of Triumph. Leaving the school about 3 p.m., the big parade of cheering students, escorted by three police motorcycles, moved down Kensington Avenue, thence along Western Avenue to Greene Avenue, up Greene to Sherbrooke street and back to the school.

This was followed by a tea dance in the school gymnasium which lasted until about 6.30 p.m. The dance was arranged by the newly elected Friday Nite Club Executive, which has charge of such functions during the school year.

Duncan MacMillan, an outstanding student, in the past school year played with the inter-school Senior "A" hockey and football teams and participated in all class sports.

Popular Ann Trueland was president of the Girls' Hi-Y during the past school year, and took a prominent part in sports.

Two Arrested As Result On "Tip" By Local Citizen

As a result of information the Westmount Police Department received recently from a local citizen which concerned two men living in a local rooming house, Sgt.-Det. Belec and Sgt. Lines made an investigation resulting in the arrest of the two men.

They were handed over to the Montreal Police Department, where 21 charges were laid against them of obtaining money under false pretenses. One was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary; sentence for the other is still pending.

Improved Rotary Carnival To Aid Philanthropic Works

"We have great hopes that this year's Westmount Rotary Carnival will be the most successful yet, both from a financial and an entertainment point of view" said W. F. Close, president of the Rotary Club of Westmount when being interviewed about the forthcoming 17th Annual Carnival which will open this coming Tuesday evening June 15, in Westmount Park. "During the past few years public and financial response has always been far beyond our expectations, but we were limited by wartime restrictions. This year the prizes we intend to give away and the entertainment we are now in a position to offer will be well worth a visit to the Carnival."

Mr. Close then proceeded to describe some of the activities which the Rotary Club of Westmount were able to carry through from the proceeds of last year's carnival.

These included the construction and equipment of the Old Boys' Hut and canoe shelter at the Weredale Camp for Boys at Lake L'Achigan. Funds for medical supplies and recreational equipment for the Montreal Children's Hospital as well as for the Julius Richardson Convalescent Home at Chateauguay were also raised.

Unity Club Project

The major project of the Rotary Club of Westmount, however, is the Unity Boys' Club, which is planned to provide recreational facilities for teen-age boys and girls resident within the limits of the City of Westmount. The greater portion of the proceeds of the Westmount Rotary Carnival are devoted to furthering the activities of this important project.

During the past year it has been possible to make a large contribution to the building fund which the Rotary Club of Westmount is raising to provide a permanent club house for this organization. It is hoped that this year will increase the fund enough to bring this great project within the bounds of near-realization.

It also has been possible to greatly increase the activities of the Unity Boys' Club and engage more trained supervisors because of the increase in the fund. The co-operation of such institutions as the Montreal Boys' Association, the Westmount Parks and Playgrounds, the Westmount Y.M.C.A. and various Westmount churches, by the generous provision of recreational facilities, has proved of invaluable aid in carrying on the work.

Rotary Scholarship Awarded

Two scholarships have been founded for annual award and will again be offered for competition this year. One is for students at the Westmount High School, the other for students at St. Leo's Academy. A number of young

Youngster Gravely Injured When Taxi Hits Bicycle

Struck by a taxi at the intersection of Belmont avenue and Edgehill Road, shortly after 3 p.m. on Monday, 10-year-old Derek Caron, of 77 Sunnyside avenue, was gravely injured and the bicycle he was riding was practically demolished.

Napoleon Cloutier, 5454 Waverly street, Montreal, reported to police that he was driving west on Edgehill road, when he suddenly noticed the lad, who had come from Upper Belmont avenue, in front of him, and that he was unable to avoid the accident.

Knocked to the street, the boy received first aid at the hands of passers-by, and was taken to the Western Division of the General Hospital. Suffering severe internal injuries, his condition was found to be so grave, that he was rushed to the Montreal General Hospital, where, at last report, he was making satisfactory progress.

The bicycle, owned by Blake Beamer, of 731 Upper Belmont avenue, had front and rear wheels broken, front and rear forks twisted, handlebars bent and the kick stand broken. The grill of the car, and the top of the bonnet were dented.

Four Youngsters Help In Capture Of House Thieves

Four alert youngsters of Westmount, two boys and two girls, greatly aided the Westmount Police Department in the recovery of loot, stolen from a home on Grosvenor avenue, following a break-in on Monday.

The youngsters reported to the Police Department that they saw suspicious-looking men carrying cartons from the house to a car parked in front of the house, and then drive away. As a result of their descriptions, investigations were made which resulted in the arrests of two men in Montreal, and the recovery of some of the stolen goods, which were identified by their owners.

Charges of breaking and entering and theft were laid in Montreal against the two accused, who appeared in court on Wednesday morning and pleaded not guilty. They were remanded without bail until June 16th.

This case is an example of how intelligent co-operation on the part of local residents can greatly help the police in their service to the community.

Anti-Smoke Order To Relieve Area Of Railway Smoke

The regions of lower Westmount, St. Henri and Pte. St. Charles will soon be freed of the plague of smoke caused by locomotives in the railway yards, according to recent information.

The City of Montreal Law Department has received formal notification of the adoption by the Federal Board of Transport of an anti-smoke order, which provides that all locomotives, roundhouses and other equipment producing smoke must be fitted with proper smoke-abatement apparatus. The order also provides a fine of $25 for each violation of the above order.

EXAM — — YMCA WORLD SERVICE IN ACTION — EGYPT ..

Y.M.C.A.

World Service In Action

EGYPT

The meeting of the staff in Cairo was about to start. The room was full and the clock on the mantle showed just two minutes left for the usual exchange of greetings .Conversation flowed. One man sat at the table reading a newspaper. "Hey" he said suddenly. "Here's a surprise. Listen to this". The others stopped talking as he read aloud in Arabic: "The YMCA at Nag-Hamadi celebrated its opening today with a big crowd present. The opening address was given by Abdel Bey, the District Govenor. After refreshments, guests inspected the sports field, the library, and the music and social room." He stopped reading and the air filled with excited comments. Later, when the meeting began, the agenda carried an additional item What to do about the new Y.M.C.A. so unexpectedly disclosed in far off Nag-Hamadi.

Scenes like this have occurred more than once in Cairo. Five times in the last two years new associations were set unofficially in provincial towns by college graduates. Having known the Y during their university days in Cairo, Alexandria, Minia, or Assiut, they have gone back home and set up Y. M. C. A.'s of their own. Associations have appeared in Sohag, Abu Kerkas, Fayoum, Samalut, and Nag-Hamadi. All pose the problems of training leaders and making programs meet national standards.

Egypt today seethes with clashing ideologies, the ambitions of foreign powers, and the constant war against poverty, ignorance and disease. In the midst of these tensions and struggles, educated young people—students and young professional men—are emerging as the most influential force in the country. The Y. M. C. A. has captured the hearts of these young people as no other organization has. They find in the Y a respect for principle, a passion for social service, training in citizenship and democracy, and the basic truths of Christian ethics.

Many leaders in many fields have had their lives changed by the Y. M. C. A.—young doctors who chose careers in poverty stricken rural areas instead of comfortable practices in Cairo, young social workers in the slums of great cities, young teachers who are giving their students much more than formal education, young men in business, in the professions, and in government work—all these, standing for integrity against easy compromise, for service rather than gain, for the values of spirit in an age gone mad over material things.

The Y serves these educated youth in many ways. Lectures and forums attract thousands. "Family Evenings" provide opportunities for young couples to discuss questions of the home and children. The annual All-Egypt Students' Convention this year drew 320 delegates. The Men's Division with 1,033 members held a series of debates, book reviews, and study meetings which drew outstanding representatives of the professional, political and business life of Cairo. The library had a bang-up season, too, with 200 as a gift of the U. S. De-1,500 new books being added: 1,-partment of State, and 300 bought.

Some of the things Egyptian youth like about the Y are these: The welcome mat is out to men and boys of every race and creed, and more than 25 nationalities are represented. Moslems, Christians, and Jews participate, not as separate groups, but in a grand mixture of brotherhood that draws no creedal distinctions. Programs are run in Arabic, English, Greek and French. Membership is now up to 6,000.

The famous Pont Limoun Club for underprivileged boys, with 500 members, overflowed the one vacant lot on which it started and now has: 1 rented lot, 1 owned lot, 2 buildings with 10 club rooms, a hobby shop, and an outdoor basketball court. This year 20 girls were allowed to join. General attendance at the club last year was 32,448. Participation in meetings, lectures, socials, excursions, classes, movie shows, and indoor and outdoor games totalled 49,446. Medical treatments were 3,879 and baths taken 9,628. The club is still run by one paid secretary on an annual budget of $6,000.

men studying at Canadian universities and technical schools are even now being aided by past awards of these Westmount Rotary Scholarships.

"We were very proud this year that the Rotary Club of Westmount was awarded the Governor's Citation," said Mr. Close. "This was for furthering international understanding and goodwill for the 170th District. The citation was made at a dinner at which the representatives of 26 foreign countries and various other dignitaries of international standing were present."

What's What In The Parks

The Westmount Municipal Putting Greens are once more proving themselves popular to the residents of Westmount. Unfortunately the weekly handicap tournament was rained out last Friday night. Another tournament will be run off this evening at Westmount Park. Games begin at 7 p.m., but entries will be accepted till 8 p.m. Entry fee is ten cents.

Shuffleboard and outside checkers are also being well patronized. It is hoped to run a shuffleboard tournament each Thursday evening. Entry fee will be ten cents, and engraved spoons awarded as prizes. Tennis enthusiasts are making good use of the various courts, and now that the warming up period is over it is time to get down to more serious business. A mixed doubles tournament will commence on June 23rd. Entry sheets are posted at the different courts and should be signed up as soon as possible. Entry fee is twenty-five cents per player.

Softball

Softball enthusiasts can see some good ball games in Westmount Park on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings.

BEHIND DARK GLASSES

Sun glasses should be used only during periods of exposure to bright sunlight unless a more continuous use is recommended on the basis of a careful eye examination. The color of the lenses is largely a matter of choice, but sun glasses should not alter the hues of natural scenery. Physicians say that indiscriminate use of sun glasses may tend to lower the tolerance of the eyes to light. They are meant for daytime use only and in night driving are a hazard rather than a help.

Can. Aluminum

The aluminum industry came to Canada in 1898, stated Mr. Bruce and its heavy demand for electric power led to a great increase in Canadian hydro-electric development at Sh. winigan Falls, the Saguenay area, etc. The recently developed and immense Shipshaw power project proved to be of inestimable value during the course of the recent war, he added.

An important fact to remember, he continued, is that the production of aluminum, as now carried on, squanders none of our country's natural resources. Hydroelectric power which is practically inexhaustable and Canadian labour, are the chief Canadian resources used. The aluminum ore, bauxite, comes from British Guiana, cryolite from Greenland and coal and petroleum from the U.S.

The Aluminum Company of Canada has grown as a large combine of affiliated firms which has strengthened Canadian industry. It gives employment to more than 12,000 people, with a combined payroll of more than $2,000,000.

Mr. Bruce concluded by saying that the modern town of Arvida, Quebec, established by the Aluminum Company's growth up the Saguenay, has been called the healthiest community in Canada.

Scouts & Cubs

BY REG GROOME

A meeting was held Monday of Trinity Memorial Wolf Cub Pack despite the fact that it was a school holiday (King's Birthday) and, as a result, only twelve cubs were present. Sixer Norman Bedford of the Blue Six led the Grand Howl, following which Jim Shaw (after a long absence due to illness) was presented with Teamplayer's Badge (hockey) and Second Teddy Roberts was presented with Toymaker Badge for a very well made birdhouse. Inspection followed.

Two games, instruction period, two more relays and a good sing-song and the pack formed the council circle for announcements. The meeting closed with Cub Silence, Lord's Prayer and the Grand Howl.

Akela announced to the pack regarding Peanut Day activities this Saturday. First of all, it is highly important that all Cubs be present. If you can be at the church for seven, so much the better; otherwise at eight and certainly not later than nine. The important thing, however, is to be there. REMEMBER, CUBS, PEANUT DAY, THIS SATURDAY. A doctor will be present at next monday's meeting for the medical examination which is necessary for all cubs attending Camp. Therefore, for the twenty Cubs expecting to attend, next Monday is a must. Also, it is probable that, except for those boys attending Camp, next Monday, the 14th, will be the last meeting of the Pack for this season. Due to the very few cubs present, there were no bites awarded for six competition at this meeting.

Your reporter, along with Dave Corneil and Jim Forsythe of Wesley Troop, Ross Cole of St. Matthews Troop and Howard Jackson of Montreal West Sea Scouts, journeyed down to Schuyler Falls, New York, in the Adirondack Mountains, U.S.A., last weekend, to attend an American Boy Scout Camporee. To say that an enjoyable time was had by all would be putting it mildly, although there were many stiff backs, arms and legs when the trip was over, with no exceptions. There were over six hundred American Scouts and leaders camping for the weekend, which started Friday afternoon. Other Canadian visitors included some members of the Hampstead Troop who came down by bus Saturday noon. The weekend weather was very favourable, if slightly chilly at night, but everyone weathered it O.K. We camped with Troop 54, Ausable Forks, N. Y., under Scoutmaster Gilbert Wells and ASM Cliff Bola, undoubtedly one of the best troops at the camporee.

BANANAS GROWING HERE . . .

R. Eaglesham, gardner at the Westmount Conservatory, in the above recently-taken photograph, is showing a bunch of bananas growing on a variety of Musa Cavendish in the conservatory. Supposed to have been introduced into the New World from South China in 1827, this type of plant is grown extensively along the coast of the southern states and in the West Indies. After the fruits are ripe, the plant is cut to the ground, and new offshoots come from the root below the cut. One is allowed to grow, and will bear fruit in about 12 months' time. The banana is one of the useful plants of the world. From the fruit, man obtains food as fresh fruit and meal, and banana oil; the leaves are used for thatching in the tropics, and alcohol can be distilled from the pulp of the stem.

Fire In Bedroom Apparently Due To Bed Warmer

Fire which apparently was caused by a defective electric bed warmer in the home of Mrs. J. K. Biggers, 330 Victoria Avenue, late Wednesday afternoon, caused quite a lot of excitement before it was brought under control by the fire department.

On her return home to the empty house about 4.45 p.m. Mrs. Biggers' daughter Irene found the house full of heavy smoke. The fire department was called and on their arrival, they found the fire in an upstairs front bedroom.

The smoke was so dense that they had to break the window to clear the air. The fire had not spread to the woodwork; only the paintwork was scorched, but the mattress and bedding on the bed, curtains and clothes gathered for storage, and the carpet proved to be a complete loss, Mrs. Biggers stated. She said that it was the first time the house had been left alone for a long time.

H. A. Simons has been appointed assistant to manager of the sleeping and dining car department, C.N.R., Montreal.

There was a large turnout of members who seemed happy to turn away from their more serious pursuits for one night. A number of members, including a Junior representative, were called to the microphone and given an opportunity to win cash prizes.

This programme is reckoned to have a rating of two million listeners; so the work of the Westmount Stamp Club will be carried over a wide area. Those taking part in the recording were: J. Pickering, Mrs. E. Hoare; Peter Smith, V. Hellier, and J. Rouleau.

The live broadcast will go on the air on Tuesday, August 10th, at 7.20 p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Rouleau were guests of the club during this occasion. Mr. Rouleau is president of the Montreal French Philatelic Club.

Final Meeting Last Night

The club wound up its programme with a social evening in Victoria Hall last night. Refreshments were served and a number of colour films were shown. Thus the 1948 season was suspended for the summer. The club will re-open again in September.

Boy Falls From Bicycle Sustains Fractured Leg

Eleven-year-old Richard Grant, of 357 Prince Albert avenue, lost his balance and fell from his bicycle while turning up Grosvenor avenue from Cote St. Antoine Road, on Friday morning. He was taken to his home, and later to the Homoeopathic Hospital, by taxi, and was found to have sustained a fractured leg.

Two Detained On Suspicion Prove Burglars

Two men arrested in Westmount on Sunday were found to possess burglar's tools, and one of them was found to be carrying a fully loaded automatic pistol.

Becoming suspicious of the two men, who were loitering near the intersection of Atwater avenue and Sherbrooke street, Lt. Baker detained them for questioning. When taken to the police station, the burglar's tools and pistol were found on their persons. They were also in possession of a portable sewing machine and a considerable amount of jewellery, which proved to have been stolen from a house on Durocher street, in Montreal.

Charged with being in possession of burglar's tools and a firearm, they pleaded guilty. They are being sentenced this morning, after which they will be turned over to the Montreal Police Department for arraignment on burglary charges.

The mammoth Air Show at St. Hubert on Saturday, sponsored by the R.C.A.F. and the Montreal Board of Trade to mark Air Force Day will be of particular interest to all residents of Greater Montreal and thousands will attend the free show. Close-up views of the new jet Vampire aircraft in action will give a thrill long to be remembered, taking off, stunting and landing at high speeds.

The Air Show Committee is made up of many names familiar in this area including Lt. Col. Kurt Swinton, Chairman; A. Bachand, H. J. Canvin, F. Coates ,W. G. Conrad, J. Crandall, T. C. Davis J. Hogenkemp, M. S. Layton, J. Middleton, D. E. Pope, C. T. Russell, J. L. Scholefield, George Sellars, J. H. Bowen, Robert Forster, W. DuCap, G. H. Dixon, Gorman Kennedy, Monty Berger, Wing Commander Phillips, D. J. Herring, and Wing Commander J. A. B. E. Richer, D.F.C.

Actual aerial display starts at 2 p.m. but the Air Station will be open to the general public from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. and thousands of visitors are anticipated to make pilgrimage to St. Hubert with picnic lunches. Refreshments will also be available on the Station.

Special trains are being run by the C.N.R. and place has been set aside to handle parking needs of thousands of automobiles. Full details of the programme includes Band programmes by Cadet Bands from No. 4 Chomedy de Maisonneuve and No. 69 Verdun Squadron; the aerial display, inspection of the station in conducted tours morning and evening; flight of a Constellation of the Airport; 401 and 438 Fighter Squadrons in simulated bombing attacks and wing formation flights; precision drill and march past by Cadets; and a race from Montreal to Ottawa return by jet Vampire planes.

There will also be a display of aerobatics and fast runs, while hundreds of interesting exhibits will round out a day of real thrills to all air-minded Montrealers.

Valuable attendance awards have been donated by many firms and the Air Show and support of Canadian Flying is one event that should not be missed. A day at St. Hubert Airport on Saturday will be an experience not soon repeated and will be a show all Canadians will be appreciative to see. The programme is being rounded out to a nicety that will provide an attraction that will draw repeat requests and the Air Show will be an event outstanding in that it will make Montrealers air-conscious and look to the skies above as well as to the ground and water transportation with which they are so familiar.

Veterans to Perform

As pilots and airmen of Montreal's Auxiliary Wing of the R.C.A.F. prepare for their parts in the mammoth Air Show to mark Air Force Day at St. Hubert on Saturday, many of them will be thinking of their part in operations overseas just four years ago this week.

At that time some of the ground staffs had already landed in Normandy—within 24 hours of the first assault troop—while the remainder of two complete Canadian Spitfire wings were being readied as the first air force units to be based in Normandy.

During these early days after D-Day, 401 Squadron, now a squadron in the Montreal Wing, with headquarters in Westmount, built up its score to take the lead over all other Spitfire squadrons in the European theatre. The Squadron, and the Wing of which it was a part, both ended the European campaign as top scorers in their groups.

It was on June 12 four years ago, D-Day Plus 6, that Canada's 126 Wing opened the first air strip in Normandy for regular business with squadrons waiting at readiness for emergency calls.

The first visitors to actually use the base at Ver-sur-Mer, a mile from the sea, had dropped in unexpectedly two days earlier. An R. A. F. Typhoon pilot, his aircraft shot up with flak, had made an emergency landing at 6.20 a.m. on June 10 to be the first to use the first Allied field in France. And two hours later, Dal Russel, DFC and Bar, of Montreal, was the first Canadian to land on the strip. Commanding another Canadian squadron, he was soon to come to 126 Wing again as Wing Commander Flying. Dal Russel, a member of 401 Squadron today, is scheduled to be flying in the Air Show on Saturday.

Over the invasion period four years ago, Canada's top-scoring Spitfires of 126 Wing were led in the air by youthful Wing Commander George Keefer, DFC and Bar, formerly of Charlottetown, P.E.I., and now of Montreal. He too, is a member of 401 Squadron and will be flying on Saturday.

These pilots, with the efforts of their supporting ground crew, did yeoman service in protecting the thin lines of the advancing Allied soldiers, culminating in a phenomenal air victory two weeks later, on June 28.

On that day the handful of squadrons based in Normandy were the only Allied aircraft able to fly, weather in England grounding all others. The Huns knew this and started to strafe and bomb Allied front-line troops unmercifully. The Normandy-based squadrons, all Canadian Spitfire units, warded enemy aircraft off completely by flying unceasingly all day. At the same time, they destroyed 25 enemy aircraft, 13 of the kills being scored by the squadron of 126 Wing. Authorities at the time estimated that the three Canadian wings paid dividends in that one day for the complete cost of their formation and training.

Drove First Jeep Ashore

Many Montrealers sprinkled the ranks of 126 Wing in those days. Group Captain Gordon R. McGregor, now president of Trans Canada Airlines and the first Canadian to win the DFC in the Battle of Britain, took over as its Commanding Officer in July while Chief Technical Officer of the Wing was Squadron Leader Rolfe Doehler and Medical Officer of 401 Squadron was F/Lt. Arnold Jones. Senior Intelligence Officer of the Wing throughout the European campaign was F/Lt. Monty Berger, also a member of 401 Squadron today. He drove the first RCAF jeep ashore in Normandy on D-Day Plus One.

Key technical sergeant of 401 Squadron fours years ago, as he is today, was Sgt. "Whizzer" White who officially received a Mention in Dispatches during last Sunday's Wings Parade at St. Hubert for outstanding performance with 401 Squadron overseas.

Final Tribute Paid J. E. McLurg

Many friends, relatives and former business associates gathered at a funeral service held at St. Andrew's Church, Westmount, on Wednesday afternoon, to accord final tribute to J. Ernest McLurg, well-known Montreal business man, who died at his late residence, 543 Victoria avenue, on Monday. He was in his 73rd year.

Born in Prospect Hill, Ont., Mr. McLurg was the son of the late Dr. James McLurg, of Sault St. Marie. As a young man, he joined the staff of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, and later became manager of the Lake Superior Corporation. He subsequently joined the rail division of the Algoma Steel Corporation as sales manager.

During the First World War, he went overseas as a lieutenant with the 2nd Battalion, C.E.F., and was wounded and taken prisoner at the Second Battle of Ypres.

Returning to Canada in 1919, he became manager of the Halifax Shipyards, Ltd., and held that post until 1924 when he joined the Dominion Steel Corporation, of which he became vice-president and general manager. In 1932, he joined McArthur-Irwin Limited, Montreal, of which he became vice-president and managing director. He retired in 1943.

Mr. McLurg was a director of the Paint and Varnish Association of Canada, a member of the Engineers' Club, the Beaconsfield Golf Club, the Rotary Club of Montreal and a member of the board of managers of St. Andrew's Church.

He is survived by his wife, the former Annie Allan Corry of Sault St. Marie; a daughter, Mrs. R. O. McGee, of Ottawa, and a son, Flt.-Lt. John E. McLurg, D.F.C., at present with the R.C.A.F. in England.

Interment took place in Mount Royal Cemetery.

Final Tribute Paid Sydney Ellis Coan

Many friends, business associates and relatives gathered at the chapel of Tees & Co., on Wednesday of last week, to accord final tribute to Sidney Ellis Coan, of 1305 Greene Avenue, who died suddenly at the Western Division of the Montreal General Hospital on the preceding Monday, in his 60th year.

Associated with the Main Office Branch of the Bank of Montreal in Westmount for the past 28 years, Mr. Coan became well-known to many citizens of the community.

In 1914, he came to Canada in the employ of Sir Frederick and Lady Williams Taylor. Through Sir Frederick, at that time General Manager of the Bank of Montreal, Mr. Coan obtained a position with the Bank. During the First World War, he served overseas with the 5th Pioneer Railway Troops, later the Canadian Railway Troops. After the war, he returned to Canada and joined the staff of the Westmount Branch -of the Bank of Montreal, with whom he served until the time of his death.

He is survived by his widow, the former Edith M. Baile of London, England; two daughters, Diana Mary Coan, and Mrs. Norman McLellan of Three Rivers, Que.; and one grandson, Norman Sidney.

Rev. W. E. Jackson of St. James the Apostle Church, officiated at the funeral service. Interment took place in Mount Royal Cemetery.

Mackay Institute Begins Campaign To Promote Funds

The Mackay Institute for Protestant Deaf Mutes, 3544 Decarie Blvd., this week started a campaign for funds, so that they may continue their work in the field of aiding these handicapped children.

The Mackay Institute was formed in 1877, as a school for boys and girls, whose hearing deficiencies prevent their enrolment in normal schools. This year, the Institute is caring for 76 children, a great majority of whom are resident pupils, that is, who live their whole lives at the Decarie Blvd. establishment.

Thus, the Mackay Institute not only teaches these children, but also feeds them, and provides them with recreation, lodging, and health service. Recreational facilities include hockey rinks, baseball diamonds, a football field, a volleyball court, and an outdoor basketball ground. The health and lodging facilities are also excellent.

Besides the subjects taught at normal schools, such other classes as lip-reading are held. Such special subjects as cooking are also taught to the children at the Institute, by specialized teachers, highly trained in their respective fields.

Financing Difficult

The Mackay Institute is making its appeal because to keep pace with the ever-changing and improving methods of education, and to give the children a satisfactory adjustment to the demands of after-school life, cannot be done without financial aid. Each year the rising costs of instruction and maintenance become greater and greater, and consequently the financing becomes more and more of a problem.

Mrs. Robert Loring, President of the Mackay Institution is in charge of the fund-raising campaign, which it is hoped, will enable the Institute to carry on its work as extensively in the future as in the past.

"THOROUGHLY REALISTIC BUDGET"

"Canadians this month got an unadulterated taste of budgetary policy applied to achieve broad economic ends rather than to meet immediate fiscal requirements." This is the opening comment of the Bank of Montreal's Business Review for May which, issued this week, concerns itself mainly with an analysis of the latest federal budget.

Although the budget reported an unprecedented surplus in the year just past and anticipated a further substantial surplus in the current fiscal year, it provided "only minor and piecemeal tax relief, placing almost complete emphasis on reduction of debt," the review states. "In brief, the budget is explicitly designed as a force to counteract the excesses of continued boom conditions accompanied by strong inflationary pressures."

By way of comparison with the estimated net debt reduction totalling $1,533 millions for 1947, 1948 and 1949, the bank finds that in only 15 of the preceding 79 fiscal periods since Confederation was net debt reduced. the reduction in these 15 periods, if added together, amounted to only $319 millions.

The new budget, the review says, assumes that "clamant and conflicting demands" for consumer and capital goods, both domestic and imported, will still characterize the Canadian scene over the next year, and will continue "to strain productive resources and to prolong the problem of U.S. dollar deficiency."

The report terms "extremely significant" the Minister of Finance's warning that "we must anticipate large budgets in future, and we cannot lightly reduce taxation in any field."

Observing that in a democratic society it is the right of the citizens to determine what services shall be provided by government, the review points out that, while a high level of social responsibility carries with it a demand for adequate measures for the advancement of public welfare, "it cannot be denied that the trend of the times has been toward expansion of the peace-time activities of government while under-emphasizing the implications in terms of cost."

Thus, the B of M review notes that the annual current expenditures of the Federal authority are at present equivalent to about one-fifth of the national income, a proportion which it suggests is likely to increase in the event of less prosperous conditions. "These outlays, however desirable they may be, represent demands on the basic productive resources of the community," the bank says, "and there is therefore no magical process by which they can be provided without cost." The present budget, the statement asserts, points up "this inescapable fact in thoroughly realistic terms."

NO BASIC OIL SHORTAGE

The present difficulties in meeting Canada's greatly increased demand for petroleum products are temporary and there is no basic shortage of oil, according to Imperial Oil Limited. More produts are being provided than ever before but even with supply reaching new levels demand continues to exceed it.

The company gives figures in the current issue of its Review, for the crude oil processed by Canadian refineries in 1947. Quebec and the Maritimes largely depend on water-borne crude of which 70 per cent is from South America and 30 per cent from the U.S. Gulf area. Tankers deliver the oil to east coast ports. In addition, the Montreal-Portland pipe line shortens the long tanker haul around the Atlantic coast by transporting crude oil from the tankers at Portland, Maine, through the pipe to Montreal. Last year the Maritimes and Quebec area refined 24,292,647 barrels from South America and 4,158,107 barrels from the United States.

Canada produces less than 10 per cent of the crude petroleum used by Canadians and the rest must be imported from the United States and South America. About half of Canada's crude comes from U.S., although this is only 2.92 per cent of U.S. production. South America is our other main source, supplying about three-eights of our needs.

Because Canada is largely dependent upon foreign sources of oil, the solution to her supply problem is closely tied up with the world oil situation.

"The problem everywhere remains one of sharply increased demands aggravated by lack of steel and equipment," the Review states. However, both in Canada and throughout the world the industry is endeavoring to throw off the physical limitations which shackle it and it is engaged in the greatest expansion program in its history. New refineries, new pipe lines, new ships and other facilities are being added. Investments throughout the world for new development in 1947 and 1948 will total over five billion dollars.

Far more than current earnings are being turned back into efforts to enlarge supplies. So far as Canada is concerned, we are engaged in a struggle against material shortages and increasing demand, but it is being won.

Increasing assistance is expected from the Middle East, which has the world's greatest oil reserves. This will be particularly helpful when it replaces shipments now being made to Europe from U.S., the Caribbean and Venezuela — thus making more oil available in U.S. and Canada.

THE VALUE OF ADVERTISING

One of the outstanding examples of sucessful advertising is that carried out by the life insurance companies operating in Canada over an unbroken period of twenty-seven years. During that time, the growth of the life insurance business has been phenominal.

The amount of life insurance protection in force has grown by nearly six times. The figures are astronomical. In 1919 the amount of life insurance protection in force was just over $2,000,000,000. At the close of 1947, this had grown to approximately $12,000,000,000.

It has become an accepted axiom that every individual who has any responsibility to others should carry insurance on his life. It is looked upon as almost a duty.

To such an extent has this developed that in 1947 there was approximately $900 of life insurance for every man, woman and child in Canada as against only approximately $250 in 1919.

There can be no doubt that the well thought out advertising carried on by the Canadian Life Insurance Officers Association through the newspapers of Canada has been a large factor in bringing about this condition and attitude of public opinion. It is worthy of note also that this advertising campaign, as far as the weekly press is concerned, appears in a carefully selected group of which The EXAMINER is one.

FREEDOM OF PRESS THREATENED

Radio and press play an important part in political elections. The greater of these two forces is the press. The thoughtful voter seeks his guidance in the press because he can check and double check the claims of the contestants. On the other hand, radio wields considerable influence with the less thoughtful citizen because it makes a quick and often emotional appeal.

This concern has grown in Canada with the increasing power of CBC, which body although set up in good faith to regulate radio, has become too great a temptation for whatever political party secures power in Ottawa. The present government has largely resisted this temptation. Some future government might be less likely to resist. The temptation should be removed immediately, and CBC freed as much as possible from control by the government-of-the-day.

It has been argued that this matter is not serious as long as the press remains free, because the newspapers are the greater influence. The argument overlooks the coming of facsimile — broadcasting of the printed word by Hertzian waves. When facsimile comes — and it is on the way — newspapers will be subject to the same rules and regulations as radio broadcasting. When that takes place, whatever government-of-the-day sits in Ottawa will have the power to use these two powerful media to perpetuate its rule.

Obviously such a situation requires correction, and all who are interested in the freedom of press and radio should demand it.

Cripps Agrees With Churchill That Socialism Won't Work

By LEWIS MILLIGAN

"There are two systems that work. One is Communism and the other is Capitalism. I hate Communism, but I recognize its efficiency as well as its tyranny. Socialism has never worked and never will." So said Mr. Winston Churchill in a recent interview as reported by Beverley Baxter in Maclean's Magazine. Mr. Churchill has the rare gife of verbal condensation. He is able to sum up a world situation in a few words, as when he said of the air battle of London, "Never in the field of human conflict was so much owed by so many to so few."

cise and luminous statement lies in Mr. Churchill's wide grasp of current world affairs and events in the light of history and his penetrating insight into the motives and designs of men. In practical politics he is a staunch Conservative with Liberal sympathies, for he was once a member of the Liberal Party. But he sees the necessity of conserving the established principles of democracy at a time when those principles are being challenged and undermined. He gives full credit to Communism as a workable and efficient system, but he points out that it requires the total suppression of freedom.

It will be noticed that Mr. Churchill makes a distinction between Communism and Socialism. Some of us cannot see any difference between those two, except in degree and promotional methods. But there are sincere Socialists who believe they can go half-way to Communism and stop there. Mr. Attlee and his colleagues in the Labor Government started out with this belief when they came to power, but there are already definite signs of disillusionment in their recent policies. Last year a measure was passed giving the government power to conscript all persons not engaged in essential work and to transfer men from one industry to another. That is forced labor and a long stride towards Communism. But the Government found that the British people would not stand for such distatorship and the measure has not been put into full force.

A striking example of disillusionment and change of mind is contained in a recent address by Sir Stafford Cripps at Bristol, in which he declared: "The only form of government that can comply with our Christian beliefs is a democratic form which gives the fullest play to the free will of every adult human being .... whereas the other (Communism) insists upon the superior power of the State, regardless of the individual's consent." Yet his Government proposed to regiment people without their consent. Later in his address, referring to what he called "the Christ plan", he made this significant admission: "It is because today we are so woefully failing to carry it out that we find ourselves puzzled, bemused and frustrated in our attempts to cope with our material difficulties."

Sir Stafford concluded his address in these words: "Surely we have learnt from history and from our bitter experience that salvation cannot come by man alone. Let us then seek His power and help so that we may fit ourselves to live such lives of Christian power as to enable us to overcome the world's difficulties, which can be overcome in no other way." All of which is very different from Sir Stafford's call for a "violent infection of Christianity" in his book, "Towards Christian Democracy." In that book he declared: "It is no use to either our personal or social salvation merely to profess our Christianity and democracy. We must employ them ruthlessly to create a physical environment of justice and decency, in which they themselves will be able to survive, and become powerful factors for controlling the future of the world." After three years of political power, Sir Stafford has discovered that Socialism, even when it si inspired by Christianity, cannot ruthlessly create a utopian society, much less control the future of the world. As he said in another part of his address: "Christ does not promise us a speedy solution of all our material problems."

Annual Meeting Of First Church Of Christ, Scientist, In Boston

Boston, Mass., Declaring that democratic government is the instrument through which an irrestible, spiritual force is being channeled into the affairs of men, The Christian Science Board of Directors this week urged Christian Scientists, in annual meeting, here, to work strongly and actively for the defense of free governments throughout the world.

Rightly conceived, the Directors told the Annual Meeting of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts, democratic government is something more than an aggregation of legislative acts and legalized rules of conduct.

Thousands of Christian Scientists from many parts of the world heard the Directors issue a distinct challenge to the proud, boastful "Goliaths of today, as they go to and fro in the earth. Denying God, they are denying their own life, for God is the only life of man," they stated.

The Directors'statement highlighted a series of papers and reports made to the Annual Meeting. Set against the background of the great Mother Church dome and the Church park resplendent with mid-Spring blooms, the reports stressed the renaissance of religious activities throughout the postwar world, and re-emphasized the privileges of free assembly and freedom of worship as the human symbols of "spiritual freedom."

With the warnings of serious dangers to democratic government, the Directors also gave assurance that the antagonists of free government, like the Goliaths of old, were merely "inviting their own doom."

To the standard bearers of Christian Science gathered in The Mother Church, the Directors gave this admonition: "The celestial light given in the Sermon on the Mount fills the world with its irrestible power and presence. No godless boasting, no ideology, no atomic force, no iron curtain can stay its power."

The incoming President, Harry C. Browne, whose only official duty is to preside at the Annual Meeting, declared that the success of any organization, institution or government depends upon the spiritual efficacy of the governing or controlling instrument.

Other reports from the Treasurer and Clerk of The Mother Church, the Christian Science Board of Lectureship, Trustees of The Christian Science Publishing Society, Committee on Publication and Trustees under the Will of Mary Baker Eddy stressed the world-wide progress of the Christian Science movement during the last year.

New high advertising peaks for The Christian Science Monitor were reported. A new air-mail plan in keeping with the trend of world-wide news distribution was described under which subscribers inLondon, Los Angeles and San Francisco can obtain speedier deliveries.

More than 6,000,000 people listen to the weekly Monitor broadcast of "The Christian Science Monitor Views the News", it was disclosed by the Trustees of the Publishing Society.

The retiring President of the Mother Church, Mrs. Helen Chaffee Elwell, of East Hebron, N. H., and Boston, reiterated the need for zealously guarding the democratic privileges of free assembly and freedom of worship, which Christian Scientists, she said, were exercising today in annual meeting.

Incoming President

Harry C. Browne was born in North Adams, Massachusetts, where he received his education in the public schools. After leaving high school, he began the study of law, which was interrupted by the Spanish-American War, in which he saw active service. During the winter following the war, Mr. Browne lectured on his experiences. In 1900 he became interested in the theater, and for 25 years he toured the United States and Canada as an actor, being associated with many of the foremost producers and managers.

Mr. Browne became interested in Christion Science in 1910 following the healing of his wife. He joined the Mother Church in1916, later uniting in membership with First Church of Christ, Scientist, Flushing, New York, which he has served as a member of its board of trustees.

During a period of retirement from this work for study and practice, Mr. Browne was appointed official speaker for radio programs to be broadcast in person and by transcription for the Mother Church, in which activity he is still engaged.

Christian Science

"God The Preserver of Man" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon to be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday.

The Golden Text is from Numbers 6: 24-26 "The Lord bless thee and keep thee: the Lord make his face shine upon thee, and be gracious unto thee: the Lord lift up his countenance upon thee and give thee peace."

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible, —

"Thou, even thou, art Lord alone; thou hast made heaven, the heaven of heavens, with all their host, the earth and all things that are therein, the seas, and all that is therein, and thou preservest them all; And didst see the affliction of our fathers in Egypt, and heardest their cry by the Red Sea; Moreover thou leddest them in the day by a coludy pillar; and in the night by a pillar of fire, to give them light in the way wherein they should go." (Nehemiah 9: 6, 9, 12).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook "Science & Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy.

"In Egypt, it was Mind which saved the Israelites from belief in the plagues. In the wilderness, streams flowed from the rock, and manna fell from the sky. As the children of Israel were guided triumphantly through the Red Sea, the dark ebbing and flowing tides of human fear, — as they were led through the wilderness, walking wearily through the great desert of human hopes, and anticipating the promised joy, — so shall the spiritual idea guide all right desires in their passage from sense to Soul, from a material sense of existence to the spiritual, up to the glory prepared for them who love God." (Pages 133 and 566).

Park-Emmanuel

An event of deep significance will take place in the newly formed Westmount Park-Emmanuel Church on Sunday at 11 a.m. The congregation of Emmanuel Church will join with Westmount Park congregation for Holy Communion. The Session of both congregations will assist the two ministers—Dr. Harvey Campbell and Rev. George Goth—in the service.

Many people in Montreal have been watching this merger of the two congregations with interest. The service on Sunday will be a memorable one and will be the consummation of negotiations and plans which have occupied the two congregations for some time.

Dr. Harvey Campbell, the new minister of Westmount Park-Emmanuel, has had a unique experience in Montreal. Westmount Park-Emmanuel will be the fourth congregation which has called Dr. Campbell to its pulpit. He has had previous pastorates in Rosemount, Chalmers, Verdun and Emmanuel.

Dominion Douglas

On Sunday morning the Rev. A. Lloyd Smith will preach in Dominion-Douglas Church on the subject: "Kept from Stumbling" and the choir under the direction of Mr. Robb will sing "To Thee O Lord"—Rachmaninoff and the solo "Lord God of Abraham" from the Elijah, Mendelssohn, the soloist being Mr. H. L. Brown.

On Wednesday at 8 p.m. in Leslie Hall, there will be a church family sociable for the purpose of saying farewell to the Rev. and Mrs. Graham Barr, who are leaving at the end of June to assume to the pastorate at First United Church, St. Catharines.

Westmount Baptist

"Toward the Sun Rising". This will be the Title of the Morning Sermon in Westmount Baptist Church. Too many people live lives amid deepening gloom, leaden skies and gathering darkness. The great message of the Bible is that we may be brought out of darkness into light and travel from midnight blackness to morning glory. "Unto you that fear my name shall the Son of Righteousness arise with healing in his wings". Discouraged, depressed and troubled people will find this meditation a real elixir, and those whose lives have been a bit gloomy will find release and renewal in the radiance of the sunlight.

"The Power that Sees Us Through." This will be the Theme of Dr. J. A. Johnston's Evening Address. The wonderful thing about Christ's coming it to life is that depression yields place to exhilaration, frustration to achievement and moral defeat to decisive victory. After Christ's Baptism and Temptation the New Testament says that "Jesus returned into Power of the Spirit of Galilee." Your Galilee is the place where you live and in that Galilee you may live in the power of the same spirit.

The Services continue morning and evening throughout the Summer, without interruption. The Mid-week Fellowship too is maintained every Wednesday Evening without a break.

Antartica Home Small, Windblown

Happiest member of the crew of 22 who sailed to Antartica with Commander Finn Ronne is Mrs. Edith Ronne, his wife

"I'm glad I went along," she told reporters in New York when the ship docked there recently on its return from the South Polar regions. "It's one of those adventures you wouldn't miss for a million dollars and you wouldn't do again for less than a million."

Mrs. Ronne was one of two women expedition members — the first of their sex ever to step ashore in Antartica and set up housekeeping there. Since March, 1947, when the expedition ship Port of Beaumont arrived in Marguerite Bay, she and Mrs. Jennie Darlington, wife of one of the Army pilots, lived in a 12-foot shack on Stonington Island, not far from where the British Expedition was encamped.

During the time they were there, the ship was completely immobilized — allowed to freeze into the ice while the researchers went ashore and established a base on land.

"About all we had in that 12-foot shack down-under," she said, "was a bunk, a table, and a temperamental stove. The old wind howled constantly and maintained an average of about 87 miles an hour for days on end. I wrote articles, went skiing, traveled considerably by dog sled and visited the penguin rookeries. I had loads of time to relax and think. You don't have the same values on a trip like this. Civilization seems something made of dream stuff — distant, part of another life".

There's nothing gained when you bury the hatchet but keep the hammer out.

Last Saturday night was the opening dinner and dance of the Summerlea Golf Club, one of the largest gatherings ever held, and a good time was had by all. Met Elmer Lach and his charming blonde wife, who told me that Elmer spends all his time playing golf, "at least when he is playing hockey, I know where he is," said Kay. Elmer had a 1,000 pictures printed for the kiddies, while Kay passed them on to the children waiting outside the apartment.

In fact, there is an Elegant shoe cleaner, for about every shade of shoe, as for example; the paste cleaner for light or dark brown, oxblood, neutral or green. These cleaners are all made from the Carnauba tree wax, which comes from Brazil. With a foundation of Carnauba wax they will provide a more lasting shine than any other type of cleaner, so that the young man of the house need not spend hours shining up the family's shoes. If you have not already tried the ELEGANT FLOOR POLISH for your tile floor, then, call your grocer today, and I know after you have used this wonderful wax once you will never want any other kind. As you know, tile floors are very fussy about what type of wax are used on them, as a paste wax will eat into Tile and cause it to chip, so insist on Elegant for the shine that indicates whether you are a good housekeeper or not. If you have linoleum on the cottage floors, here is your answer for less work this summer.

It Beats The Sun

Every year after having received a good scorching sunburn I make a resolution that next year I will have an ample supply of sunburn cream for the first day in the sun. This year having received a generous supply of DUOLANE, and SUNOLANE I went out and played nine holes of golf our first real warm day. Remembering my experiences of other years, I first applied a generous coating of SUNOLANE over my face, arms and neck, and sallied forth to challenge old Man Sun, with the result that at no time during the morning did I feel the slightest prick, except to notice the beginning of an even non blistering tan. The next day I played another 18 holes, again applying SUNOLANE over my arms and face before meeting old Man SOL, and as the result I am now quite proud of my pre-summer tan. Both these products are a delight to use, with their creamy softness and non oily effect, as the cream in penetrating the pores dries up immediately. You will be delighted with SUNOLANE which comes in a handy size tube that it can be kept in one's locker. This cream forms a water-insuluble film, which is not removed by swimming, making it unnecessary to re-apply between swims. DUOLANE is also a double purpose lotion, besides preventing sunburn, it provides excellent protection against mosquitoes in the evening, and has not the usual offensive scent. All drug stores and cosmetic counters carry DUOLANE AND SUNOLANE.

Treasures To Be Found

This is the time of year when the end of housecleaning is approaching, and so often we come upon the odd piece of silver, crystal, or sets of china, which though priceless, yet do not fit into our particular establishment. These articles would be most welcomed to others who are looking for such pieces, so, instead of dusting them again to be put away until next year's Spring cleaning, why not 'phone HA. 0251 and a representative will call to inspect the articles, and if acceptable will place them on sale in the MORGAN TRUST GALLERIES. Now for those who are looking for the hard to find gifts, I hope to be of some help in making your selections, but, as I have said before, it is most difficult to decide on what to tell you, since there are SO many beautiful articles here that I know many people would rush down to purchase IF they knew about them. There is a Sheffield sauce Tureen, Georgian design for $22.50; this is in perfect condition. Compare this price elsewhere and see if THIS is not a buy. A Jade cigarette box with ivory inlay for $8.00, the tray to match for $6.00, an exquisitely designed piece. There is an endless array of real old china cups and saucers, in beautiful designs; these are pieces that are always so acceptable to the bride. There is a large glass inkwell with a sterling silver top, for $12.00 a thought for a graduation present. There is a Crown Derby vase, that would make a beautiful lamp base, this is something unusual, for $65.00. You will also find an endless line of tables, all below the usual prices. If you have not visited Morgan's Trust Galleries, City Councillor St., below Sherbrooke, you will be amazed when you see what can be bought here.

"Now Is The Hour"

After the warm days of last week it seems silly to be talking of fur coats, and I know by this time all you wise ladies have sent your "PET" to join the clan at L.P. Lazares cool fur storage. BUT, as the saying goes, "a stitch in time saves nine," and if you want to save 10% on the work, NOW is the TIME to visit Lazare's and have the furrier explain to you what is to be done on your coat, so that their expert craftsmen can commence the repairs and later hang your coat away for the summer, safe from heat and moths. OR if you are one of the lucky ladies to be able to treat yourself to a new coat, then here is where you will find the latest in styles combined with the minimum in price. LAZARE'S are perfectionists in the making of coats to order, in that the coat is made for you, plus a guarantee that combines assurance and confidence. A Lazare coat carries free repairs for a year. If by any chance you have neglected to send your coat for summer storage, do you know that we have now approached the dangerous time for unguarded furs, as at this time of year one MOTH can overnight eat a hole as large as a nickel in your precious coat, which will mean an expensive repair job. Then DO NOT DELAY, call L. P. LAZARE'S & Co., 1454 Peel St., MA. 1255, and have your coat placed in storage today. The storage charges are 2% for Summer season, 2½% for Year-Round, World-Wide Insurance, based on your fair evaluation of your coat.

C.S.L. Gift Shop

From now on 1480 Sherbrooke St. W., a few steps from Guy, will be about the busiest spot on Sherbrooke St., because all those lucky people who are taking the Canada Steamship Lines cruises will be buying their tickets at the C.S.L. Gift Shop, thus giving them the opportunity of visiting The SHOP as well. Dorothy Costigan, the passenger agent was telling me yesterday that many of the girls coming in are so amazed over the so many inexpensive articles that can be bought here, even though I have been telling you all this fact for the last three years. Do you want to buy a gift for a little baby boy? Yes! Well you come in and look over the wine colored hand braided shoes with pale blue pom poms, for $1.50. June 20th., being Father's Day, I have scouted round the shop for suggestions for all ages of the male gender, and I hope that some of my choices will be of help to you. Entering THE SHOP you will find a table with numerous articles such as a china figure of Mr. and Mrs. Fox, arm in arm, the former in black trousers, and the latter in a gay gingham dress, ingeniously done for $8.00. The English Worsted dressing gowns with pastel stripes, reduced to $22.50, the blue Lansea pullovers go for $11.75, and a pair of brown leather Mules are yours for $3.75. Here is a gift that DAD will like, especially for those fishing trips when it is rather cold, but as the fish are biting he hates to leave. A Chrome plated shaker having a screw top, four chrome cups that fit into each other, and a leather covering for the set, all of which when folded up, could be slipped into his pocket, the price? Only $10.00. I must not forget the hand woven ties that DAD always likes, for $1.50, any of these will be gladly gift wrapped by the girls, for DAD.

1st Anniversary Celebrated By Scripture Foundation

When the Scripture Foundation held its first anniversary banquet recently, Pro-Mayor W. R. Bullock brought greetings from His Worship, Mayor Camilien Houde. Mrs. Margaret Scripture introduced the head table guests, and there followed a toast to the King, Mr. Louis E. Curran, K.C., Honorary Legal Advisor for the Foundation, acting as toastmaster. Miss Martha Martin gave some of her own poems which were well received and dedicated to the Foundation her poems entitled "Give".

Mrs. Robert S. Smith, Hon. Secretary-Treasurer, gave a resume of the aims and purposes of the Scripture Foundation. Mrs Smith told the audience that the Foundation was the "brain child" of two sisters, who had, and still are, contributing along with their interested friends, comforts to the Sheltering Home, Old Peoples' Home, Women's Jail, Veteran Hospitals and the Old Brewery Mission through the medium of concerts and entertainments, as well as taking baskets of fruit, candies, reading material, etc., to the sick and shut-ins.

With regard to the art, literature, music, etc., Mrs. Smith stated that it is the aim of the Foundation to go about this city and help the underprivileged. If a child shows talent for music, art, or has a flair for writing poems, or short stories, but for some reason or other has not had the advantage of being able to develop further in these lines, the matter is not only discussed with the child but its parents as well. Composing or pianoforte is under the capable direction of Mrs. A. M. Vineberg, Sr.; for art, there is Mrs. Mercia Winter, Elsie Parsons, or Marie Dupre, the noted French Canadian artist, and for writing, Alwyn Coristine or some other members of the Foundation gifted in these various fields. If a parent wishes in some small way to contribute to the child's lesson, no matter what the donation may be, it is gratefully accepted and placed in a sinking fund in order that the Foundation might be in a position to secure a building to house wayward girls, rather than have them serve a sentence.

Mrs. Gordon Phillips, wife of Rev. Gordon Phillips, Chaplain of the Protestant Jail, was introduced to the guests and informed them that she and her husband for the past five years had taken such people into their homes and helped them to re-establish themselves; some of them had been placed into good homes as servants, others in stores and so on, and out of the fifty girls they had housed from time to time all had reacted favourably. Although they lived in a five room apartment, they had at different intervals housed as many as five at one time, even to the extent of giving up their own beds and sleeping on the floor in order that these women would fully realize that there were still people in this vast city ready to lend a helping hand to a wayward girl in order that she may again take her place in society.

Mrs. Mildred Scripture Shannon was called upon the present Mr. W. R. Bullock, with a scroll which brought greetings from Mayor Thomas Leith of Brighton, Mich. U.S.A. to Mayor Camilien Houde, and in his absence Mr. Bullock read the greetings.

A cornet solo was then rendered by James Peppie, which was followed by the magic artist, Randoll Swinge. Soprano Solos and duets were rendered by Margaret Scripture and Mildred Shannon, and J. C. McKean and G. Nicol rendered Baritone and Tenor Solos. Mrs. Margaret McKean gave a reading, and Mme Roy Villandre, rendered Indian Folk-lore songs in native costume.

A small fashion show was then given by Mrs. Mildred Shannon. They modelled hats, packets and boots of the gay '90's' and the history of each article was related by Mrs. Shannon.

Mrs. Margaret Scripture sang the Lord's Prayer, which was followed by all the guests singing Blest Be The Tie That Binds,, Auld Lang Syne and God Save The King.

The hard blow in the midwest has nothing to do with this being the year of the big winds.

Plants That Make Gay Showing In Boxes

Lantanas, dwarf marigolds, dwarf zinnias, annual phlox, calendula, verbena, sweet alyssum — all these are attractive in window boxes. Pansies are gay early in the season but are likely to get leggy later on and need to be replaced by something else. It is generally best not to have too many different kinds of flowers in one box. Something higher for the sides or back, something lower for the front, and something that trails down for graciousness and to cover the box in the scheme—perhaps four or five kinds in all and in a formal box only two or three.

HOME EDUCATION

ALWAYS READY TO LISTEN

Janette Stevenson Murray

"That new boy who has come to live next door certainly can play ball," remarked Ned Barton to his mother, during a longer-than-usual pause as he followed her back and forth from kitchen to pantry. Mrs. Barton was assembling the ingredients for a salad.

Ned then plunged into a lively description of the afternoon ball game, becoming quite enthusiastic when he spoke of the home run made by the "new boy."

"You're in my way, Ned," interrupted Mrs. Barton. "Why don't you go out and wait for your dad?"

"But I want to tell you about the new boy."

"What new boy?"

"Mother! That's always the way! Why can't you listen?"

"I'm so busy. Tell me once more—I'll listen this time."

Ned went over the home run again.

"Who was it made the home run?" his mother asked absent-mindedly as she finished cutting the celery. "Oh yes, the boy next door—of course. Now go on." And she began dicing apples.

But Ned, with an expression of exasperation, shrugged his shoulders resignedly and slipped out of the kitchen.

The next afternoon, Mrs. Barton, while attending a tea at the home of a neighbor, listened to a discussion regarding boys and girls of high school age. Every mother who spoke felt that it was most desirable for her to have an assured place in the confidence of each of her own children. One said that the day after a party her daughter, Barbara, was always eager to talk to her of the interesting things that had happened — her partners and what the different ones had said, the dresses the other girls had worn, and what her group had done after the dance.

"Oh, isn't that just as it should be!" exclaimed another woman. "My daughter attends the high-school affairs with the same crowd, but she never tells me anything. How do you get Barbara to talk? Do you question her?"

"No, I've found it best to wait until she wants to tell me. Naturally, I'm eager to hear about all that concerns her nowadays; although, I confess, when she was younger her descriptions and stories often bored me. I believe this disposition to take little part in the interests of our six to fourteen-year-old children is an almost universal failing among parents. Yet, unless we do listen to our young children, we seldom are given a chance to listen to these same children when they are adolescents.

"When they are in their teens we are anxious for their confidences. There may come a fear that they are growing away from us—perhaps even that they are losing faith. In any case, the knowledge that they are becoming daily less dependent upon us makes them increasingly dear. I had to learn this from experience.

"As I said when Barbara was a little girl I wearied of her constant chatter and, while she prattled, I would often try to go on reading, mentally designing a new dress, or planning the meals; but the minute I began answering her in an absent-minded manner, she would stop talking and slip away. It came to me one day that I was treating her in a very discourteous manner and, of course, teaching her to be discourteous, too."

"That's exactly the way I treated Ned last night, when he tried to tell me about the ball game," thought Mrs. Barton. And when he realized that I had not listened, even when he was repeating the story, he stopped talking and disappeared—I don't blame him. I wonder—yes, I think he will be more likely to tell me about his affairs when he is sixteen if I listen willingly to his boyish concerns during the next five years.'

And then the voice of Barbara's mother broke in upon her musings. "You see, when we pay a price we usually receive our due returns. The price we must pay for our child's confidences is a willingness to listen attentively whenever that child wants to talk."

In kindergarten a child makes a definite beginning in adjusting himself socially to thirty or more other five-year-old boys and girls. This is a very important accomplishment.

Montreal W. M. S. In Presentation To Two Co-Workers

The Montreal W.M.S. Presbyterial of the United Church of Canada held a tea on Thursday afternoon, June 4, at the home of Mrs. F. N. Stephen, Presbyterial President, in honor of Miss C. McDougall, who has been working with the Protestant Italians in Montreal, and is going on furlough, and Miss Milicent Howse, missionary for Church of All Nation, who is leaving for Sydney, Nova Scotia, to carry on duties connected with W.M.S. work.

In addition to the Presbyterial executive and other special guests, a number of city missionaries were also present.

During the afternoon, Mrs. Stephen presented Miss McDougall with a black hand bag, and Miss Howse with several pieces of china.

Miss McDougall gave interesting reminiscenses in connection with her work during the years past.

Grandma's Parasol

Be as romantic as you like and add a parasol to your accessories. On the left is a plaid cotton in soft blue and dark red with dark red handle. A tiny ruffle trims the base and the handle. Shown open at right is a real silk in white with black polka dot. It has an ebony handle with gold tip. This is a practical investment, too, for it is water repellent.

Missionary Group Sponsors Shower

On the afternoon of Tuesday, June 15, at three o'clock, in the ladies' parlor of St. Luke's United Church, the ladies of the Women's Missionary Society are sponsoring a camp shower for the Mothers and children of St. Columba House who will be attending Macaulay Camp.

This program, under the direction of Mrs. Batchelor's group, will also include an address by Miss Winnifred McBride of St. Columba House and solos by Miss Jean Harper, accompanied by Mrs. F. Osborn.

Try Shoulder Roast and Save

A shoulder roast of lamb is as flavorsome, tender and juicy as a leg of lamb, yet a somewhat more economical buy. When serving a shoulder lamb roast, garnish with apricot halves stuffed with cream cheese and topped with sprigs of crisp watercress.

Low temperature cooking is an important in roasting lamb as in cooking all other kinds of meat. For roasting, wipe meat with a damp cloth, then sprinkle well with salt and pepper and place on a rack in an open pan, preferably one just a little larger than the roast. For an accurate guide to doneness, use a meat thermometer. Insert the thermometer in the thickest, meatiest part of the roast. Be sure not to let the bulb of thermometer touch fat, bone or gristle. Place roast in a moderately low oven (325 degrees F.) for 35 minutes per pound or until the meat thermometer registers an internal temperature of 182 degrees F. It is not necessary to baste the roast while cooking.

Sachet Is Good Budget Perfume

Does your budget say "no" to good perfume?

Settle for sachet. Our grandmothers found this perfumed powder to be most satisfactory as "come-hither" during their day. Now sachet is a modern perfuming aid, as popular as it was during the turn-of-the century. It bows back to a modern encore along with 1900 revival fashions.

Sachet concentrates are actually satellites of fine perfumes and duplicate their fragrance with the same kind of essential oils. Small bags of sachet tucked into chests and bureau drawers sweeten bed linens and clothes and make up for sunshine so often denied them when drying on winter's wash-line.

Sachet may be dusted into gloves, linings of hand bags, and shoes to pinch-hit for perfume. This highly scented powder is nice to use on furs. Dusted into the lining of a coat or muff, the fragrance lingers and doesn't need frequent renewal.

Sachet dusted into muff lining leaves a lingering fragrance.

Cook Roast Veal Longer Than Beef

Veal does not seem to be so popular as other meats but if well cooked and nicely seasoned it would win a place on both special and everyday menus.

The chief reason why veal is not enjoyed more often lies in the cooking. Veal requires longer cooking than beef and is always served well done so that the person who loves his rare roast beef makes an unfair comparison.

Veal lacks fat in the tissues so a generous coating of fat over the roast gives it colour and flavour as well as keeping it juicy. Low temperature is best for roasting. 325 degrees F., for 30 to 35 minutes per pound is recommended. Leg, loin, rib and shoulder cuts make good roasts.

Veal is mild and therefore may be pointed up with a variety of seasonings. Whatever seasoning is used it should be added with a light hand so that the veal flavour is still discernible. A few grains of nutmeg, celery salt, mace and paprika may be added along with salt and pepper. Herbs such as thyme, parsley, rosemary or savoury go well with veal. Chopped apple, tomatoes, lemon juice or garlic also bring out the flavour when added to stews or casserole dishes.

Tell Nature Of Stains To Aid Dry Cleaner

The next time you send anything to the dry cleaner's, try identifying those various spots and blotches and stains. The dry cleaner, who is a busy man, will thank you, says a writer in the C I L Oval.

If, for instance, that spreading splash on Junior's best pants is milk, pin up a note beside it and mark it: milk. Of if it was coffee that someone accidentally spilled over your new spring suit at that party, mark it "coffee". Or "beer" if that's the same telltale stain on Pop's new cravat. Whatever the stain, own up to it. If it's blood, of course, you can let the cleaner call the police.

There's a reason for meeting the dry cleaner halfway. And it's a simple one if you know the dry cleaning business. To get rid of those spots and splashes, the cleaner must use chemical solvents, or spotting agents as they are known in the industry, and the solvent that does the trick on a milk spot is not the right one to be used on a rum punch splash. The cleaner, with his solvents to choose from, must know his spots.

Cold roast beef is good any way; that we know. But it's something special if you marinate the thin slices for several hours in your favorite salad oil and vinegar combination. (Use about 1/2 cup of French dressing for enough roast beef to serve 8 people.) When ready to serve, drain the slices well and tuck them around the edge of the salad bowl with a few sprigs of parsley to set off their rosy good looks. This is a tasty trick for any cold meat.

Team White and Gold For Summer Occasions

As it was a hundred years ago, gold is for the young. It's a gay fashion, to be worn with either very casual clothes or very grand costumes. Young girls and smart young matrons like it because they can buy a pair of gold kid sandals and a bag of crushed gilt kidskin and wear them right through an important week end —for lounging on the terrace, for the cocktail hour or for starlight dancing.

White and gold are affinities, and nothing enhances the snowy white of your summer clothes as beautifully as gold accessories.

The small shoulder bag or the tiny pouch teamed to narrow belt and graceful sandals are the perfect teammates for your daintiest spring and summer afternoon costumes. For evening there's a small feedbag of crushed gold kidskin to swing from your wrist.

"Maplewood Inn" Now Is Officially Opened

History was made in Arundel, Que., on Saturday, June 2nd, when the modern and up-to-date "Maplewood Inn" officially opened its doors to the public.

A telegram from the Honorable George Heon, M.P., expressing his regrets at not being able to officiate at the opening as he had planned, and wishing the new venture all good wishes and success, was received.

Telegrams received from the Mayor and Municipal Council of Arundel, the Arundel Women's Institute, and flowers and plants from the residents of the community, all tended to make a very successful launching of the new venture.

The dining room, the color scheme of which is peach and green ,was a delightful room to have tea in after touring the rest of the building.

Refreshments were served from two to five and from eight to eleven o'clock. Mrs. Jack Moncriff, Mrs. Hugh Cooke and Mrs. Val Swail presided at the tea table, and the Misses Inez Swail, Nora Smith, Joyce Graham, Stella Cooke, and Florence Laraway served.

During the afternoon Mr. Herman Graham took movies and stills, of the ever changing throng that attended the opening.

A constant stream of visitors from the community, outlying districts, and out of town, continued from early afternoon to late at night, testifying to the esteem in which the two proprietors, Mr. Sid and Gerry Bennett, are held.

The first guests to register for the weekend were Mr. and Mrs. Jarvis Moore and Mr. and Mrs. J. Steggles of Montreal

As it would be impossible to publish a full list of the names of all who attended the function, some of the out of town friends who came to tender their good wishes are listed.

J. R. Nicol, Winniueg; Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong, Sherbrooke, Que.; Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Martin, Owen Martin, Miss L .Hart, of St. Lambert, Que.; Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Roof Is Tragic Source Of Fire

Sparks falling on roofs are a main cause of fire in the home and the chief cause of conflagrations, according to the U. S. National Safety Council.

Home-owners and people who are considering building their own homes should therefore have an intelligent working knowledge of building construction to protect their investment against possible hazards and unnecessary expense as a result of unconscious neglect, the Council points out.

Home-builders should make sure that their roofs are covered with fire-resistant materials, which today are in plentiful supply. The changing appearance of many towns and villages in Canada, which are becoming more and more actively conscious of the need for fire prevention.

Summer Camp Operates Its Fifty-Fourth Season

Kamp Kanawana, Y.M.C.A. Camp for boys in the Laurentians, is operating this summer for the fifty-fourth season. The camp is situated fifty-eight miles from Montreal, four miles from the village of St. Sauveur, and consists of a large piece of land, including three lakes.

Canoe trips are of special interest to the boys at Kanawana. The trips start down the North River and take the old Indian route up and down the Ottawa River. One trip last year went to Kingston via the Rideau Lake district. The boys travel in nine man canoes, especially adopted to river tripping,

Swimming instructions and instruction in lifesaving are important features at camp. Every effort is made to have every camper become a swimmer.

Old campers will be glad to know that "Ma" Cameron, the camp chef and camp mother for the last five years, will be returning again this season.

Roy Locke, Director

Roy D. Locke will be returning again as Director of the camp. Mr. Locke is Executive Secretary of the Eastern Communities Y.M.C.A., and has had considerable experience in camping, both in Quebec and Ontario, and was formerly Boy's Work Secretary, N.D.G. 'Y'.

Former staff members returning this summer include Messrs. Fred Wolthauser, Bruce Campbell, Johnnie Reid and Ernie Taylor. Red Syrett, a graduate in Physical Education at McGill University, will assume the position of Waterfront Director.

Camp dates are from June 26th to August 21st.

AT THE SEVILLE SATURDAY!

Gregory Peck assists Dorothy McGuire with her coat in this scene from the Academy Award winning film "Gentleman's Agreement," which starts Saturday at the Seville Theatre.

"Captain From Castile" Rousing Saga Of Gold And Glory

"Captain from Castile" opens Sunday at the Westmount Theatre and the doings of Tyrone Power, who plays the starring role of Pedro de Vargas in the filmization of Samuel Shellabarger's best-selling novel,. will set men pining for those "days of old, when knights were bold." And the women, too.

"Captain from Castile" is a saga of gold, empire, vengeance and glory, told for the first part against the rich tapestry of Spain in the days of the Inquisition and then moving with Cortez in his historic invasion of Mexico. The story centers around the character of Pedro de Vargas, son of an aristocratic Spanish family, who is forced by the Inquisition to flee his native land with vengeance in his heart for those who destroyed his loved ones, and a passionate determination to restore his family name to its former glory.

This is the story of Pedro de Vargas — a battle that catapults him into the ranks of history's boldest adventurers as, under the banner of Cortez, they storm the shores of Mexico in search of gold and empire. And woven into the fabric of this saga is the love story of a spirited peasant girl who followed the Cavalier de Vargas through the dangers and hardships of the New World in search of a romance she didn't dare dream could ever come true.

On the screen, the story emerges in scenes of breathtaking sweep and excitement. The horrors of the Inquisition; the pulsating excitement of Cortez' call to arms and glory; Pedro's indecision and his final plunge into a blind adventure; the intrigues within the army's ranks, and Pedro's desperate encounter with the plotters; the invasion of the fabulously rich land of the Aztecs and the undercurrent of resentment that is to flare into fierce battle; the fiery romance of Pedro and Catana — these and tens of other facets of the always absorbing story are brought to vivid never-to-be-forgotten screen life against richly detailed and panoramic settings of breathtaking splendor and beauty.

Tyrone Power gives what may be considered the finest portrayal of his career as the moody and sensitive, yet fiercely spirited Pedro de Vargas. The role is tailor-made for him and he does it full and gratifying justice. Jean Peters makes her screen debut in the role of Catana and is an exciting event all in herself. Her wonderfully refreshing personality and fine acting talent bodes well for a brilliant future on the screen.

Cesar Romero is grand as the wild and swashbuckling Herman Cortez, as are John Sutton in the role of the arrogant, brutal Diego de Silva and Lee J. Cobb who plays Juan Garcia, Pedro's always dependable friend.

The notorious Lone Wolf, popular rascal of fiction and screen fame, turns the spotlight on a one-woman crime wave in "The Lone Wolf in London" which will be the added attraction, and finds that he has two strikes against him when he mixes sex and sleuthing.

Gerald Mohr portrays the ex-jewel thief once more, with a featured cast which includes Nancy Saunders, lovely decoy who leads the Lone Wolf into his most exciting adventure; Eric Blore, his faithful valet Jamison; Evelyn Ankers, musical comedy queen and Richard Fraser, Miss Saunders' suspicious fiance.

Seventeen-year-old Joy Lyle, concert violinist for the California Junior Symphony Orchestra, makes her screen debut in Paramount's "The Emperor Waltz" as —now brace yourself—a concert violinist.

New British Film At Snowdon Saturday!

The latest film import from England will have its Montreal Premiere at the Air Conditioned Snowdon Theatre starting Saturday. It is the true story about social implications of the Irish tenants' fight for just rentals in the 19th century and is blended with strong elements of humor and romance. When a land agent forces the tenants to "pay the rent, or be evicted" he arouses the wrath of a young Irish farmer who leads his men in rebellion. As a result the agent and his bailiff cannot get supplies or labour locally. Nevertheless, they continue the evictions and in one farm thus obtained, install a man and his young attractive daughter. The land agent takes up the challenge of the farmers and obtains military protection for volunteer farm workers. But the crops these volunteers gather sell for very little and when he reaceives an account for a large sum of money for billeting the military, the scheming land agent faces bankrupcy. Desperate by now, he evicts the young farmer from his place and takes over his thoroughbred horse. Then, in an attempt to regain his lost fortune, he backs himself heavily to win a local horse race, riding the thoroughbred. He is prevented from winning by rioting crowds and just escapes from the district with his life. Action is provided in the mob scenes, chases and an exciting racing sequence. Stewart Granger plays the role of the young Irish Farmer and Kathleen Ryan as the young girl who eventually falls in love with Granger.

DE WOLFE AT DE DOOR

Displaying a flash of originality, screen comic Billy De Wolfe has placed the door number on his home with an iron cutout of a wolf. The decoration was given him by Veronica Lake, with whom he co-stars in Paramount's "Isn't It Romantic?"

AT THE SNOWDON SATURDAY!

Stewart Granger, who portrays the role of a young Irish farmer, will not be unprepared if a clash occurs between the tenants and their agent. Here, in a scene from the new British production "Captain Boycott," he appears in the loft of his farmhouse where he loads his revolver awaiting action. This excellent first run film will be shown at the air-conditioned Snowdon Theatre starting Saturday.

END OF AN ERA

HOLLYWOOD, June 10 — "Oklahoma!" that great musical which thrilled Montrealers not so long ago, ended its Broadway run ten days ago after 2,202 performances. Had it run just 28 more days the hit would have surpassed the world's record established in 1916 by London's "Chu-Chin-Chow". However, sudden sag in business convinced the Theater Guild it was time to vacate St. James Theater and move out on the road.

The National Company of "Oklahoma!", the same group you may have seen at His Majesty's Theater, is now paying a second visit to Los Angeles. Last night after the show Director Reuben Mamoulian and Press Agent Peggy Phillips joined me at coffee for an hour of reminiscence.

After spending a winter and spring in Oklahoma at a Navy experimental air base during the war, I left the state with few regrets. Even duty aboard a mine sweep could be little worse than sub zero weather for four months followed immediately by four months during which the thermometer never tumbled lower than 110 degrees. Dust storms, state prohibition and sub-standard housing did little to improve the situation.

So I couldn't quite see what Richard Rodgers and Oscar Hammerstein II had found to sing about in Oklahoma. Then Mamoulian invited me to its Los Angeles premiere two years ago, and I felt ashamed. For Rodgers and Hammerstein, together with Lynn Riggs, had sung about the people, the simplicity of their existence, the charm of their old fashioned living. The composers discovered music in the wind sweeping across the plains.

Today, after five years and some months, the show's tunes are still popular favorites. "People Will Say We're In Love" will be as fresh 50 years hence as it is now. Time cannot detract from the charm of "The Surrey With The Fringe On Top".

"Oklahoma!" won a Pulitzer Prize in 1944 and has played to almost 5,000,000 people in New York alone. The National company has played to an equal number, and a USO troupe took the show to almost 2,000,000 men in the fighting services.

Miss Phillips, who spends a month each year skiing in the Laurentians, tells me there have been 36 marriages among members of the New York company, and six couple married within the cast without looking elsewhere. Graduates of the Manhattan company include Alfred Drake, Mary Hatcher, Marc Platt —the sensational dancer — and Canada's Iva Withers. Shelley Winters, who scored impressively as Ronald Colman's murder victim in "A Double Life", is also an alumnus.

The "Oklahoma!" albums put out by Decca Records have sold over 500,000 copies, probably the largest sale for any album in platter history. Sheet music sales surpass the two million mark, another record. The touring company recently broke an all-time record for any road show, grossing $119,118 for one week in Oklahoma City.

If there's a lesson to be learned from this it is simply that Canadian writers and composers are crazy looking elsewhere for inspiration when their homeland offers so much. Oklahoma is dry and dull and dusty. Canada is broad and fertile, with virtually every conceivable climate and topography from plains to rocky summits.

Wouldn't it be pleasant if all this might serve as impetus for a musical with hit potential equal to "Oklahoma!" The country could ask for no finer publicity or tourist bait, and at long last Canadian music might find its nook in the world scheme.

Double Header At Belmont Park

A double-header is scheduled for presentation as the Free Outdoor Attractions at Belmont Park on Sunday afternoon and evening.

Con Colleano, internationally famous circus star who has been thrilling park patrons these past two weeks with his wizardy on the Tight Wire and who is the only man in the world to do a forward somersault in mid-air during the act, concludes his engagement on Sunday evening. The second half of the twin bill will feature Les Kamris, sensational French aerial gymnastic star whose act is one of the most spectacular and dangerous ever seen locally. They work on an aerial contraption towering above ground, without any protection executing hazardous and breath-taking stunts that place them in the foremost ranks of outdoor aerial attractions. Les Kimris will stay over next week.

Picnics will be held tomorrow, Friday by the Chatelain Business Colleges; the Guardian Assurance Co.; the Canadian International Paper Co.; the Guardian Insurance Co. and the Marconi Athletic Club and on Saturday by the Imperial Tobacco Co. of Canada Ltd. (factory); the Canadian National Recreation Association; the Montreal Junior Orange Lodge. Saturday will also mark the inauguration of the Steinberg's "Money Saving Days" for young and old alike. Tickets for these days can now be had at your nearest Steinberg dealer.

Dance music is supplied nightly by Ellis McLintock and his all-Canadian orchestra.

AT THE WESTMOUNT SUNDAY!

Tyrone Power is being aided by exotic screen newcomer, Jean Peters, and by Lee J. Cobb in this scene from the Technicolor adventure film "Captain From Castile," which starts Sunday at the Westmount Theatre.

"Body And Soul"-"Lucky Gagin" At Monkland, Saturday

"Body and Soul," the fourth all-star film the relatively new Enterprise Studios has produced, opens Saturday at the Monkland Theatre. Co-starring John Garfield as Charley Davis, middleweight champion of the world, and Lilli Palmer as Peg Born, the picture introduces to movie audiences the meteoric Hazel Brooks whose only cinema appearance to date was the "face" that haunted Ravic in Enterprise's forthcoming "Arch of Triumph."

The picture, a hard-hitting account of the story behind the pugilist's championship and retirement, is based on an original screenplay by Abraham Polonsky, directed by Robert Rossen and produced for Enterprise by Bob Roberts.

The top-drawer cast includes Anne Revere, Academy Award winner for her supporting role in "National Velvet," as Garfield's mother, Art Smith as his father, Joseph Pevney as Shorty, his boyhood pal, Canada Lee as the fighter from whom he wins the crown, William Conrad, Lloyd Goff and Virginia Gregg, all of whom made their names on the stage and radio before venturing westward.

John Indrisano, famed welterweight contender, acted as coach for Garfield and Lee in the fight sequences, and doubled in brass as referee in the ringside scenes.

Newcomer Hazel Brooks, a torrid coppery-haired beauty from the modelling field, is cast as Alice, the "other woman," a nightclub warbler whose influence, though impermanent, abets Garfield in his ruthless path. Her face and figure, not to mention her irrepressible personality, has the film colony agog and Miss Brooks bids fair to become an important cog in casting wheels.

Enterprise persuaded one of the original Gold-diggers, Ethelreda Leopold, once hailed as Hollywood's most beautiful chorine, to return to the cameras to do a specialty number—dancing on a drum in a nightclub sequence. And James Wong Howe, ace cinematographer, supervised the photography.

"Body and Soul" is a United Artists release.

Second Feature

'Lucky Gagin' a staccato melodrama from the Dorothy B. Hughes best-selling novel, with Robert Montgomery as star.

The Universal - International film presents Montgomery as a tough, embittered war veteran who comes to a small New Mexico town at fiesta time bent on collecting vengeance and blackmail from a master criminal.

Hardly in town 24 hours, Montgomery is knifed and slugged by the villain's henchmen. Up to a smashing climax, he is hunted and harried and saved from death only by the devotion of two newly-made friends. Thomas of the fiesta's ancient merry-go-round, and Wanda Hendrix, in Gomez, a philosophical proprietor the role of a wistful Indian girl who attaches herself to him with doglike but hopeless devotion.

The picture is a bold experiment in unorthodox endings. Montgomery does not get the girl but his relationship with her endows her with a heightened social standing as important to her and probably as satisfying as love.

Outstanding Recital Given By Goltman Pupils Tuesday

Frances Goltman, one of this city's best known teachers, again presented her pupils in their annual pianoforte recital in Tudor Hall to a capacity audience with standees. These yearly events show the progress of many pupils and interest was demonstrated by heavy applause throughout the concert. Some of the pupils possess an unusual technique and interpretative ability for their years and each pupil showed rhythmical training that was remarkable. All stages of piano literature were presented on the interesting programme and each student performed from memory.

Many clever young children were heard at the beginning who showed good tone as well as excellent time in short numbers. They were Pamela Ayers, Morris Macklin, Grace Aronoff, Winifred Hopkins, Barry Shiller, Barbara Winterson, Carol Gardner, Arthur Levine, Laura Macauley, Howard Cohen, Linda Lewin, Anne McGrath and Leslie Ranger.

Dorothy Ginsberg received much applause for "Ponies" by Rebe and Gerald Portner showed ability in a number by Rolfe. Three talented youngsters Naomi Anderson, who played a Tarantella, Jacqueline Tafler, a Piece by Ketterer and Harold Lawrence in a Jenkins number showed much pianistic skill. Margery Klein rendered "Warrior's Song" with fine tone and Eleanor Cairns showed good rhythm in "Wood Nymph's Frolic"; Donald Morrell and Garnet Parr both played well in a Hungarian Dance and a March respectively.

Judith Beamish proved herself a clever child in a delightful Waltz by Ketterer; Shirley Macdonald in "Cossacks" by Rebe and Queenie Singer in "Avalanche" by Heller both showed excellent technique as well as fine rhythm. Barbara Bronsdon played "Shadow March" in excellent time; a Clementi work rendered by Miriam Wilkinson showed technical facility and Roslyn Mandelcorn performed a Diabelli "Rondo" with spirited interpretation and received much applause. Good playing of Bach's "Solfeggietto" was done by Martin Hoffer; Riana Strong showed nimble fingers in an "Elfin Frolic" by Lemont and Audrey Smith a firm touch in a "Russian Dance".

Enid Breslow was recalled for her splendid performance of "Flight of the Bumble Bee' by Rimsky-Korsakoff; Maureen Donohue showed a good touch in her playing of a Burgumeller number and Betty Rusk was heard in a tuneful Spanish Dance. Kenny Wilkinson pleased the audience highly with a fine rendition of "The Donkey's Serenade" by Friml. Schumann's "Traumerei and Romance" was played by Wendy Child; Vita Horovitch gave a good interpretation of a Chopin Waltz; Margaret Cregan showed talent in a brillian performance of a "Tarantella" by Pieczonka and was recalled for an encore. Mary Xenos showed expression in a Scharwenka "Barcarolle"; Raymonde Grant displayed a splendid technique in a difficult Prestissimo from a Beethovan Sonata; Isabel Hashim and Mary Werleman, two gifted pianists each had to respond with encores after receiving great applause for their renditions of "Malaguena" by Lecuona and Etude in C minor by Chopin respectively.

There were two duets performed by four talented players which deserve special mention for their absolute unity and fine interpretation, "Jolly Darkies" by Bechter was rendered by Jacqueline Tafler and Shirley MacDonald Schubert's "Marche Militaire" played by Enid Breslow and Miriam Wilkinson. Both duets were enthusiastically received.

As a finale to this successful recital, the pupils assembled on the platform and Miss Goltman spoke briefly, thanking the audience for their keen attention and applause throughout the concert and added that there was no short cut to success in music. She was then presented with many bouquets and a beautiful basket of flowers from her pupils in appreciation of her efforts on their behalf. The concert ended with the singing of the National Anthem.

"Dear Octopus" Produced by MRT

The MRT School of the Theatre will produce Dodie Smith's play "Dear Octopus" at the MRT Playhouse on Guy Street at 8.45 p.m. today.

Those appearing in the cast are: Henry Hockridge, Gwyn Williams, Ann Cleather, Joan Huestis, Yvette Brind'amour, Albert Mann, Eric Donkin, Enid French, Jackie Cornett, Doreen Silver, Marie Clark, Ruth Risebrow, Barbara Henshaw, Richard Gilbert, Esther Ostor, Reina Aron, Betty Beaman.

The action of the play takes place at the Randolph's country house in North Essex, during a week-end in late autumn during recent times.

AT THE MONKLAND THEATRE SATURDAY

John Garfield, star of Enterprise Studios' "Body and Soul," starting Saturday at the Monkland Theatre through United Artists release. The film, Garfield's first independent venture, also stars Lilli Palmer and introduces Hazel Brooks, the sensational coppery-haired siren who has Hollywood all agog. Added big feature: Robert Montgomery, starring in the film "Lucky Gagin," Wanda Hendrix and Thomas Gomez play the top roles in Universal-International's exciting, tense melodrama, based on the novel by Dorothy B. Hughes.

Two Special Re-Issues At Avenue Starting Saturday

Down to earth humanness combined with music so catchy that you just naturally hum it as you leave the theatre is a movie formula guaranteed to please.

And it more than pleases in the Bing Crosby-Joan Blondell picture "East Side of Heaven", which starts Saturday until Tuesday at the Avenue Theatre.

Bing is a cruising troubadour, or, to put it more plainly, a singing taxi driver. Joan, his sweetheart, is a hotel telephone operator. Mischa Auer is Bing's unemployed roommate.

There is your background for the story. And all three players do a successful job of making you like them because you know them so well. You have known them for years — the girl down the block, the boy in that cheap fourth - floor room and that other likeable fellow who will go to no end of trouble to keep away from work.

This trio would be quite sufficient in any picture. But in "East Side of Heaven" they are aided, and very materially, by "Sandy," the cutest infant ever to face a movie camera.

"Sandy" is "deposited" with Crosby by Irene Hervy, who takes this means of keeping her baby from her weathy and hard-fisted father-in-law, portrayed by C. Aubrey Smith. That's when the fun really starts, fun such as you have rarely seen until you watch Bing, Joan and Misha try to take care of the youngster.

Second Feature

One of the finest dramatic films ever produced will be the companion feature. Fannie Hurst's best-selling novel, "Imitation of Life" is the film that established Miss Colbert as one of the top dramatic stars of the screen. In it she portrays a woman who, after the death of the husband she never really loved, determines to make a success of her life by building herself into financial independence.

By the time she accomplishes this, her daughter is fully grown. Then romance enters her life and an unusual triangle situation develops which makes her realize that success and fame do not constitute real living, that it has all been an imitation of life until love came.

The story displays Fannie Hurst's keen insight into the mind and the heart of a woman and it is in the brilliant characterization of that woman that Claudette Colbert rises to great heights of dramatic artistry.

COLLECTS PHOTOS

Gail Russell, starred in Paramount's "Night Has a Thousand Eyes," keeps autographed photos of all the leading men with whom she has appeared. Her only others are signed pictures of Bing Crosby and Bob Hope, two of her top favorites.

ASCENSION EDGE ST. MALACHY'S 6-5

Now Share Snowdon Loop Cellar With Hampton Food

By GEORGE COCHRANE

By splitting a pair of sabbath day regular Snowdon Senior Fastball League fixtures, Ascension kept the fastball circuit leaders within overhauling distance. The sad thing about it all is that the Westmounters are still occupying the league cellar. Now, however, they have company in the person of Ernie Mundey's Hampton Food nine.

A brilliant eight-hit pitching job on the part of Gerard Lecavalier warmed the cockles of Ascension supporters' hearts up at N.D.G. Park last Sunday evening. Inspired by Lecavalier's masterful hurling chore, which was featured by 17 strikeouts, the locals went right out and downed Jay Killoran's strong St. Malachy's nine 6-5.

Brennan Scores Winner

A daring bit of base running by speedster Tommy Brennan in the last half of the tenth inning gave Kev Kennedy's Krew the verdict. With one gone, Brennan lashed a single to centre. He tried to steal second but found Jay Killoran, armed with the horsehide, barring his way. There was only one thing left for Tommy to do. He crashed into Killoran, sending the ginger-haired infielder sprawling The ball slipped from Killoran's hands and Tommy rounded second and streaked for third.

Killoran threw the ball hurriedly. It was in the dirt and bounded past third sacked Johnny Lambert to enable T. B. to trot home with the winner.

It was a thriller all-the way.

Lecavalier Beaned

Lecavalier's great pitching was made all the more remarkable by the fact that in the fourth inning he was struck on the head by one of George Scully's lightning fast deliveries. He fell to the ground, out cold. It took several minutes to revive him. When he finally came to he was fully revived — as the Malachy batsmen learned.

The Malachy Men ran up a 2-0 lead in the top half of the first inning and ran the count up to 4-0 in the third when Buddy Atcheson homered with one on. The locals got back into the game by pushing a singleton across the plate in the third and two more in the fourth to make the score 4-3.

The Saints made it 5-3 in their half of the fifth but the Westmounters came fighting back to knock the count in the seventh. With Noel Romney resting on second, result of a beautifully laid bunt and a passed ball, and two out, large Emmett Jones leaned into one of Scully's more inviting deliveries and sent the spheroid out of the park for a homer.

Then the stage was set for Tommy Brennan's display in the tenth.

Sunday afternoon at Macdonald Park the Ascensionites were edged 11-10 by Steinberg's get out in the Saturday afternoon sunshine.

Tonight is baseball night again in King George's Park. Last week we had a small group who had a lot of fun and arranged a game with Calvary United Church for tonight. You don't need to be an expert; come out and let's have some fun. Some girls are urgently needed.

Monday is bridge night again. The gang is growing, so is everything that goes with it, there's a place for you.

Tuesday, June 15, is horseback riding night. We will all meet at Sunnyside Stables, Hutchison St. The charge is $2.00 for 2 hours of real riding. Book your horse immediately. Our program secretary will have the weather in hand for next Tuesday — We Hope! All cycling was done inside.

All swimmers take notice. Wednesday is mixed swimming night from 9 to 10. Yes, all the shy girls can swim alone on Monday and Thursday from 7.30 to 8.30 p.m. All wolverines from 9 to 10 on Wednesday and Thursday.

On Thursday the Splash Party dance will follow the swim.

Don't forget the Young Adult Conference at Camp Otereke on June 26 and 27. A bus will leave Montreal at 6 p.m. June 25. The total cost is $12. We expect a good turn-out from the Westmount 'Y'. Enquire at the "Y" desk.

It depends on whether you're walking or driving which you hate—pedestrians or autoists.

SOCCER TEAM LOSES

Westmount's entry in the City National Soccer League suffered a heartbreaking 1-0 defeat at the hands of Scottish last week. The locals were slated to tangle with Hungaria at Fletcher's Field on Wednesday night of this week but the game was washed out.

Arrangements have been made to have reports on all of the Westmount soccer team's games appear each week in The Examiner.

Woman Mural Painter Enjoys Transforming Drab Houses

Mrs. Carlson, a tall, slender blond who says she is neither decorator nor artist, but just plain painter of flowers and designs and murals, is called in by both individuals and decorators in Kansas City to brighten things up" when rooms seem to need a gay touch.

"Both my parents encouraged me to develop my talent," Mrs. Carlson said. "They didn't just say, 'keep at it,' they did concrete things. In my early teens I painted a picture of two sailboats. My parents didn't just say it was good—they had it framed and hung it on the living room wall for all our friends to see. That really made me work at my painting."

Training Was Brief

When she finished high school, Mrs. Carlson, then Margaret Holmlund, was given a scholarship to the Kansas City Art Institute, where she studied for several months before leaving school to marry Conwell Carlson, a member of the staff of the Kansas City Star. That is all the formal art education she ever had.

Mrs. Carlson paints anything that a home owner desires from full-sized murals to a flower design picked up from a room's draperies and repeated on the wall.

Rejuvenates Old Houses

"Old homes that are being transformed from drabness to color and brightness seem to be my principal job right now," said Mrs. Carlson.

"I am called on often to solve problems presented by some particular detail in a house," she added. "Recently it was a pair of old-fashioned folding doors that gave a drab note to the hall when they were closed across the dining-room entrance. I painted them gray and stenciled designs in gold on them, (Mrs. Carlson cuts her own stencils for this work) and now they form a note of color to the hall."

Old-fashioned pineapple up the stairway and over dadoes brightened the white walls in another house. A kitchen done in Dutch scenes with tulips, quotations and designs carried out in calico colors, satisfied another home owner.

READ THE LABEL

Whole grain breakfast cereals should not be neglected just because the weather is warm, nutritionists warn. Rolled oats or cracked wheat will probably not be desired as in the winter but there are whole grain prepared cereals. Cereals coming under the classification of whole grain must contain a certain concentration of the B vitamins. Check the cereal box for nutritive value. Read the label on the box to see that you are getting a whole cereal.

THE MAN TO BEAT

Bobby Locke, shown here receiving the Seagram Gold Cup from J. Frowde Seagram after his victory in the Canadian Open last year, is regarded as No. 1 contender in this year's Open at Vancouver.

South Africa's Bobby Locke Looms As Man To Beat For Title

Last Year's Winner Will Compete In 1948 Canadian Open Tourney At Vancouver In Sept.

The Canadian Open, Canada's top golfing spectacle, comes late in the season this year but already South Africa's Bobby Locke is looming up as a man who is going to be hard to beat when he defends his title in the classic at Vancouver.

Locke, whose 16 below par win at Toronto Scarboro last year made him the first man to take the Seagram Gold Cup outside North America, has been playing his usual excellent golf throughout a winter of campaigning in the United States. He's a definite entry to defend his Canadian title and the Gold Cup over the Shaughnessy Heights course at Vancouver Sept. 22-25.

During the winter season, up to May 3, Locke had collected more than $9,000 in prize money in the States, after shooting 43 tournament rounds for an average score of 69.8. At that time, he was running second to Lloyd Mangrum — Seagram Gold Cup winner of two years ago — in winter earnings.

The Experts Speak

On the face of it, that second-place business would seem to indicate that Locke had fallen off the terrific pace he set in his first invasion of North America, but the experts say that isn't so. They point out that the big South African last year did much better during the summer season than during the winter when the weather was none too warm and the grass none too green and soft. They look at him to improve his 1948 showing from now on.

Before defending his Canadian title at Vancouver, Locke will tour Western Canada on an exhibition series with Vancouver's Stan Leonard — generally regarded as Canada's No. 1 hope to cop the Gold Cup and the lion's share of the $10,000 prize money put up by its donors. That tour plus a number of other exhibition engagements, to say nothing of all the tournaments included on the U.S. pro circuit, will assure Locke of plenty of work prior to the Canadian Open.
come September.

Vegetable Seeds Help to Win Peace

The basic idea of the Marshall Plan is to help our friendly world neighbors help themselves by sending them food and tools and supplies. But of all the things we will send them, from locomotives to food, few things will pay off in multipled results like one small item—seeds. One ounce of cabbage seed will return 22,000 times its weight in food.

Two ounces of tomato seed, one acre of sunshine, and some cultivation equal 10 tons of tomatoes. A pound of carrot seed offers a 20,000 per cent return in pounds of food.

The Marshall Plan strategists are well aware of nature's arithmetic of seeds and are calculating accordingly in terms of both seeds and farm machinery. And they have plenty of precedent on hand from World War II, wherein the "logistics" of seeds played a vital role. Under ERP it will buy millions of pounds of seeds as "peace material."

Food is still a weapon and the Communists are finding that empty promises don't stack up against the victuals in a Friendship Train or a two-pound seed kit that pays off in five tons of something to eat.

Triple Play Helps Moncton Firemen

A radioed distress call made a non-scheduled, three-stop circuit around North America in eight minutes flat recently to bring firemen from Moncton, N.B., twenty-five miles away, bearing down on the seaside village of Shediac, N.B., as a $200,000 fire destroyed five buildings.

Telephone lines were knocked out soon after flames broke out in a five-family apartment building and spread in a high wind that fanned the fire furiously. Eugene Fougere cranked up his home-made radio transmitter and sent out a call for the Moncton fire department.

Eight minutes later the department received the message, and two minutes after that Fougere was off the air because his power was disrupted.

The message went first to Florida, where a second "ham" operator picked it up and relayed it; from there the words "Shediac, New Brunswick is on fire; need help from Moncton," flashed to Alaska into the receiving set of yet another "ham". He relayed it and it was heard by Station WINX in Boston.

The Boston station telephoned the Monction fire department, and its sirens screamed a few seconds later.

LOUD AND CLEAR

The hawker had almost effected a sale of a parrot. "Are you sure." the maiden lady enquired, "it doesn't swear much?"

"Certainly 'e doesn't swear much, ma'am. But wot bit 'e does swear 'e swears extremely loud an' clear."

THANKLESS

A wealthy man had a tenant owing $10 which he was too poor to pay at the time. Being a kindly man, he sought her minister, to whom he gave the $10, asking him to pass it on, so that when he called she would be able to pay.

"So you have found the rent?" remarked the landlord.

"Yes, indeed, but no thanks to you, you old wretch," said the tenant.

Northwest Territories Not Safe For Tourists

Commissioner S. T. Wood of the R.C.M.P., a member of the council said persons who visit the Territories without proper "know-how" and equipment usually have to be looked after by the R.C.M.P.

The council decided it will see what can be done to discourage persons entering the Territories except on actual business.

Commissioner Hugh Keenleyside said "welfare teachers" to give special leadership in community activities, are being introduced into the Territories' education system.

Marion Cowie of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., at present on the staff of Kingston General Hospital, is the first appointee and will start work at Yellowknife School this Fall.

Besides giving community leadership, welfare teachers will carry on regular school duties, Mr. Keenleyside said.
