Bill Moxley Tells Rotarians How To Grow Old Successfully

"The Challenge of Age or Fifty Plus — So What?" was the subject of an interesting address delivered at the Rotary Club Luncheon this week by Rotarian Bill Moxley.

"The Question is, how can we grow old successfully and usefully?" he stated in opening his address, adding that there are two groups of men, those who fight retirement and those who look forward to it.

Our purpose, when we pass the 50 year mark, should be not to outwit old age but to utilize it — it may not be glamourous and exciting, but it can be rewarding.

Most men meet the problems of old age suddenly as time approaches retirement, and when they do retire, too many of them find that no job was ever so hard as that of "just hanging around," declared Mr. Moxley. What every older individual needs in order to be physically and mentally healthy is to be active, and activity is best when it is an interest pursued systematically and seriously. No genuine peace of mind can be gained through escape.

The present growth of pension plans is allowing more and more people to retire with financial security than were able heretofore, but having enough money to retire on is not sufficient to bring happiness and contentment. Everyone should have a hobby. The hobby of travel is a fascinating one, but before settling down in warmer climes, the speaker warned that the losing of ones friends by such a move should be seriously considered. Friendship with alert-minded others in his own age group will give mental stimulation to the older person, and keeping up with the events of the times adds interest to one's life.

It is very important, declared the speaker, to refrain from talking about aches and pains and illnesses. This makes the individual troublesome to himself and others.

"Our life can be likened to a series of short stories, each with its own adventures and consummations. Struggle and rest are phases of our lives at every stage . . . This is true of intellectual and spiritual growth, of practical and artistic achievements."

Mr. Moxley concluded his address with a number of suggestions which included the cultivation of some hobby or the setting a goal for oneself; check up on health with regular examinations; start now to think and make plans for the leisure hours ahead.

Speaker Urges Youth To Develop Political Wariness

In an address on Tuesday night to the Westmount Boys' Hi-Y Club, Robert E. Sproule, treasurer of the Westmount Young Liberals Association charged that the average Canadian Youth was not taking enough interest in politics. He emphasized that there were political factions in force today who sought to gain one's vote by unwarranted deviation from the truth.

"Learn to evaluate", he said. "Learn to distinguish between fact and fiction, so that you will not be biased by cleverly worded lies".

He also observed that most young people did not want to read long volumes of political dogma, adding that a fund of information can be gained from reading the editorial pages of newspapers and various magazines dealing with current events.

"A few minutes a day of careful reading can prove well worth while in attempting to interpret

City Receives Ship's Bell From HMCS "Westmount"

The ship's bell of H.M.C.S. Westmount, accompanied by an illuminated scroll, signed by Hon. Brooke Claxton, Minister of National Defence, attesting to the fine record in the Royal Canadian Navy of this gallant vessel which bore our city's name during the war, were formally presented to the City of Westmount in a significant ceremony at Westmount City Hall on Monday evening.

The presentation was made on behalf of the Department of National Defence by Capt. R. B. Warwick, R.C.N. (R), Officer Commanding H.M.C.S. Donnacona, who was accompanied by Lt.-Cmdr. F. G. Hutchings, R.C.N. (R) (retired), who formerly commanded the vessel.

Mayor R. P. Adams, in accepting the bell and scroll, said, in part, "It is a great pleasure and honour for me, on behalf of the City of Westmount, to receive this bell, which was attached to H.M.C.S. Westmount . . . I feel sure that my colleagues agree with me that it adds to the dignity of the City Hall . . . We will cherish the bell as a memento of the ship."

The scroll is worded as follows:

H.M.C.S. "WESTMOUNT"

Named for the City of Westmount, this minesweeper was launched on the 14th day of March, 1942, at Toronto, Ontario. She was commissioned on the 15th day of September, 1942, and paid off on the 13th day of October, 1945.

During her period of service in the Royal Canadian Navy, H.M.C.S. "Westmount" was sponsored by the City of Westmount, P.Q., through which generous contributions were made to the comfort and welfare of those who served on this gallant ship.

The record of H.M.C.S. "Westmount" is a proud one, and her bell is presented as a memento and as a token of gratitude to those who gave so willingly of their time and substance for the benefit of the Ship's Company. May they share with them the satisfaction of a task well done.

Health, Socialism, Credit Discussed At Joint Meet

Three speakers, each allotted 15 minutes for brief addresses, stimulated a lively question and discussion period following at a joint meeting of the Notre Dame de Grace and Westmount C.C.F. Clubs, held in the Oak Room at Victoria Hall recently.

The three to speak were Miss Ida Rooks, Gordon Galbraith and Nelson Elliott. Miss Rooks, an exchange teacher from England, former member of the County Council for Malden and Coombes, one of the London Boroughs, spoke on "Some Social Security Measures In Britain." She explained in detail the vast improvements of the new unemployment and social benefits and gave a full account of the National Health Bill, introduced and enacted by the Labour Government.

She asserted that this scheme makes Britain a leader in health legislation, every person in Britain being entitled to free medical care from doctors of their own choice, and the care includes every possible branch of medicine, drugs, nursing care and domestic held if required.

Questioned as to the opposition of some of the medical profession, she assured the audience that though there was some opposition most of the younger doctors were 100% behind the scheme and that the advances in scientific knowledge and equipment, which were at the service of the British people would soon break down what prejudice there was against the plan.

Gordon Galbraith, former President of the St. Lawrence-St. George C.C.F. Club, spoke on the "Philosophy of Socialism" relating growth and development of the socialistic movement and stressed the difference between Marxist Socialism and the Socialism of the British Commonwealth.

National Director of Credit Unions for Quebec, Nelson Elliott told of the "Power of Fifty Cents", informing the audience how any group, either in the community or in their place of employment, might set about forming a credit union.

He illustrated his point by showing how such a group with each member contributing 50 cents a week would, in a short time, be able to lend to the members at a low rate of interest and extended payments with the added advantage of a rebate of the interest because each member shares equally in the annual distribution of profits on a co-operative basis.

Weredale House Said Inadequate In Annual Report

Need for additional accommodation for both boys and staff, due to changing conditions in the handling of boys at Weredale House was revealed by Norman Holland, president, at the 77th annual meeting of officers of that organization, held on Tuesday evening.

With a daily average of more than 140 boys in residence, the Weredale House boys' home of Montreal gave a total of 51,582 days' care to young boys during the past year. Average age of the boys was 12 to 14 years.

The need for additional accommodation was stressed by Mr. Holland, who revealed that proposed improvements would cost at least $75,000. As one of the organizations receiving maintenance support from the Welfare Federation's Red Feather campaign, Mr. Holland said, Weredale had to rely on special donations for any capital outlay of this kind. He said application for permission to raise the funds had already been made to the Federation.

In his report on the varied activities of Weredale House, Vernon F. McAdam, secretary-manager, pointed out that the closing of two child-caring institutions had greatly increased the need for care of younger boys. After giving a detailed description of the activities of the home, which include spiritual, educational and vocational training, physical care and organized sports and social events, Mr. McAdam said one of the main difficulties faced by the institution was the spiralling cost of living.

During the past year, he said, the daily per capita cost per boy was $1.63 as compared with $1.36 the previous year. Despite this situation, however, Weredale House had succeeded in showing a surplus of $100 at the end of the year as a result of increased funds.

Officers for Weredale House re-elected for the coming year were: President, Norman Holland; vice-presidents, Eliot S. Frosst, C. F. Ritchie; honorary treasurer, D. Binny Robertson; honorary secretary, G. S. Bain, and the complete board of governors. Arthur H. Campbell was named honorary president, and election of life governors included Kenneth J. Barwick, E. Campbell Budge, A. Wesley Mason and F. E. Newman.

February, 1948 Is Novel Month

By H. Murray Wilson

Old Man Sun and his Solar System are putting on a real good performance this year. The production is to be staged all through February. This type of a show is very rare because it can only be produced three times every century. The name of the phenomena is "February Has Five Sundays". No one needs tickets and nearly every living person is going to witness it. (It is possible to escape if you jump back and forth over the International Date Line.)

Yes, for the first time since 1920, February will have five Sundays. This means that you will have an extra morning to sleep in this month. It also means, however, that you will have to read Junior the comics five times instead of the usual four.

The next time that this month has five Sundays won't be until 1976. The next Leap Year will be 1952, when February will have five Fridays.

Many people have wondered why this month usually has only twenty-eight days while all the rest have either thirty or thirty-one. Well it all started a long, long time ago. When they were dividing the days among the various months Augustus Caesar (after whom August was named) and his uncle, Julius Caesar (after whom July was named) got into an argument. July had been given thirty-one days while August had received only thirty. Augustus felt hurt and he demanded one more, which was taken from February. Thus we see how this poor month came to have only twenty-eight days. But to help make up for this misfortune, King Sol has arranged that once every four years February will be given an extra day.

the complicated purports of national and international politics," he said.

The large number of questions posed after the talk can be taken as an indication that the club is already starting its political analysis and the speaker expressed hopes that it will continue.

Mr. Sproule was introduced by Bliss Cartmel, president of the club and thanked by Crawford Johnson.

SEEK HELP FROM CANADIANS

From the pockets of Canadians $10 million is being sought by the Canadian Appeal for Children to assist children whose lives have been blighted by war in Europe and Asia. The Appeal seeks to purchase articles of food and clothing, along with medical supplies to assist these boys and girls on the road to health. Nor is education being neglected. A considerable amount will be spent on books and school supplies while libraries, too, will be assisted. The Canadian Appeal for Children will commence Feb. 9. Similar appeals will be conducted simultaneously in 26 other countries.

Price Controls Asking Trouble?

The return of price controls stores up extra trouble for all of us for the future, states The Financial Post editorially. It is merely an attempt to postpone the inevitable. Sometime we have to sweat this fever of price maladjustment out of our system and the longer we try to put it off, the more painful the business will eventually be.

Like it or not, the inevitable is that the Canadian price level will stabilize at a substantially higher level than it was V-E or V-J day.

Wages have been pushed constanlty upward. The real cost of living at war's end was camouflaged by assorted subsidies, so that some of the price increase is now merely a payment where it should be ((as on a quart of milk) rather than as it was in a hidden form through taxation.

Here's one fact about prices that Canadians have to face up to. The Canadian and the American economies are so closely linked that price levels in the two countries can't long remain far out of line.

Chorus and Band Unite for Concert

Two local organizations have united to present an unusual programme for hospitalized veterans at the Queen Mary Military Hospital. On Tuesday the Navy Band of H.M.C.S. Donnacona and the St. Genesius Chorus will give a joint Concert which will be notable for its range and the introduction of two works to local audiences.

Three conductors, a piano soloist, four trumpeters and three singers, a 30-piece band and a mixed chorus of 50 is the imposing array of forces assembled for the occasion.

Lieut. N. G. Mouland and Frank Coleman are the conductors of the two groups, and Assistant Bandmaster C. P. O. Harry Long will direct the Canadian premiere of David Bennett's "Repartee" for piano and band, with Robert Loiselle as soloist.

History Book To Scrap Book

— Facts Collected by M. V. Trayers —

Of genuine interest are the following facts reprinted from the Lachute, Que., Watchman:—

A loaf of bread cost fifteen sols at Quebec in 1645. In the same year a cord of wood cost ten sols. A sol was equal to a cent.

The first white child of French descent to be born in Canada was named Eustache and was the son of Abraham Martin, who was owner of the historic Plains of Abraham, site of the famous battle between the armies of Wolfe and Montcalm. The date was October 24, 1621.

The first white child born at Montreal was Barbe Meusnier, on November 24, 1648.

Distance was measured by the French-Canadian in olden days, not in miles or acres, but in how far one could walk while smoking a pipeful of tobacco. This averaged about three-quarters of a mile.

The first school established in Canada was at Three Rivers, Quebec, with a Franciscan brother, Pacifique Duplessis, as the principal.

The astrolabe lost by Champlain in 1613 during his journey up the Ottawa River was recovered on a farm in Renfrew County in 1867, and is now in possession of the New York State Historical Society.

The first paper mill erected in Canada was in Argenteuil (presumably St. Andrews East) in the year 1803. Forty-one years later the first cotton mill was erected at Sherbrooke.

Duncan McClellan Funeral Held

Many friends and associates assembled at a funeral service held at St. Andrew's Church, yesterday afternoon, to pay final tribute to Duncan McLellan, one of the outstanding members of the Masonic Order in Quebec, who died at his residence, 345 Roslyn Avenue, on Tuesday after a brief illness in his 78th year.

Vice-president of the Dominion Furniture Manufacturing Company, Mr. McLellan was born in Farewell, Ont., and came to Montreal in 1901, where he became associated with his brother in the operation of the company, whose plant is at St. Therese.

He joined the Mount Royal Lodge 32 A.F. and A.M. in 1905, where he served as Worshipful Master in 1913. He was elected Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Quebec in 1938. In 1906 he joined the Carnarvon Chapter and became First Principal in 1917 and Grand First Principal of the Grand Chapter of Quebec in 1932.

Mr. McLellan was a member of the Royal and Select Masons and a 32nd Degree Scottish Rite Mason, and a member of the Royal Order of Scotland and of the Knights Templar. He was Presiding Preceptor of Richard Coeur de Lion Preceptory in 1918 and was Provincial Prior of the Sovereign Great Priory in 1924. He was a member of Karnak Temple of the Mystic Shrine, at the time of his death.

He was a former member and past president of the Westmount Bowling Club and a member of St. Andrew's United Church.

Mr. McLellan is survived by his wife the former Mary Gibson, of Ottawa, three brothers, Charles G. McLellan, president of the Dominion Furniture Manufacturing Campany, Outremont, John J. and William G. McLellan of Mount Forest, Ont.; and a sister, Miss Katie McLellan, of Toronto. A large number of nephews and nieces also survive.

Rev. D. M. Grant, minister of St. Andrew's Church, officiated at the funeral service. Interment took place in Mount Royal Cemetery.

Putters' Social Club Holds "Games Night"

The usual Monday meeting of the above Club, held at the Victoria Hall on Monday evening took the form of a games night with a Shuffleboard Tournament as the highlight of the evening. After some hectic play Mrs. Kent and Mr. H. Smith emerged worthy winners and were presented with inscribed Silver Spoons as a reward for their efforts.

Next Monday evening there will be a card evening and a good turn out of members is requested.

One hundred and first Annual Report

Montreal, February 9th, 1948.

To the Shareholders.

Gentlemen,

Your Directors have pleasure in presenting the One Hundred and First Annual Report of the affairs of the Bank, with the result of its operations for the year ending December 31, 1947.

The net profits for the year were $462,825.61, and the balance brought forward from last year's Undivided Profits Account was $261,627.46, making a total of $724,453.07. From this amount, the usual quarterly dividends, have been paid to the Shareholders and—apart from the sum of $9,875.00, interest on the Charity Donation Fund, which was allotted as usual—the Bank distributed $17,300.00 to various charitable and philanthropic institutions; $250,000.00 has been transferred to the Reserve Fund, bringing the latter to $4,000,000.00, leaving a balance at the credit of Undivided Profits Account of $177,153.07.

To meet the needs of our steadily increasing clientele, your Directors deemed it advisable, during the year, to open two new branches: one at the corner of Verdun and Woodland Avenues, in the city of Verdun, and the other at the corner of Bélanger and Christopher-Columbus Streets. The results already obtaining fully justify the undertaking.

As usual, a frequent and thorough inspection of the books and assets of the Bank has been made during the year.

The report of the Auditors and the Balance Sheet are herewith submitted.

HELP EUROPE'S DESTITUTE CHILDREN

THE CANADIAN APPEAL FOR CHILDREN is Canada's answer to a universal call for help. A campaign to raise $10,000,000 will commence on Monday. With the funds raised, help will be provided to the destitute children of Europe and Asia. The money will be used to purchase food, clothing and other supplies in Canada for shipment overseas.

THE CANADIAN APPEAL FOR CHILDREN includes representatives of the Canadian Council for Reconstruction through the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) and the United Nations Appeal for Children (UNAC).

The Canadian Council for Reconstruction through UNESCO has as its objective the providing of facilities for education in war-ravaged countries—school supplies, teachers, scientists and technicians and the provision of scholarships and refresher courses for teachers, doctors and scientists to come from Europe and Asia to study in Canada. UNAC, which operates the International Children's Emergency Fund, is primarily concerned with child survival. Its aim is to get food supplies to the neediest children. It has not sufficient money or supplies to begin to alleviate the miseries of the children in countries laid waste by war.

All the monies will be spent in Canada and food and clothing will be distributed wherever possible to workers already in the field.

From all European workers comes the cry for more dried and powdered milk — by the thousands of tons.

WHO ARE THE BIG SIX?

ONE OF THE PROBLEMS of modern government is that civil servants tend to initiate policy and to consider political implications of what they propose. Traditionally their job is to administer, not to make.

In any group of men there always will be some who get too big for their boots. In the present era, with government deciding even the colors of fabrics, civil servants have been granted, and greatly enjoy, power in blotches as irritating as chicken pox, but more serious and probably more durable a disease on the body politic.

In the Fall sittings of Parliament one member of the Commons had some comments on the Big Six who are reputed to be the principal denizens of the ivory tower where the fate of Canadians is decided before it is formalized in cabinet council. The Big Six, it was implied, were high-sticking and otherwise breaking the rules which for generations have obtained for the protection of the citizen and maintenance of his liberties.

This member even went so far as to suggest that the Big Six be called to appear before the House of Commons and explain their doings and the whys and wherefores. Mr. Abbott for once couldn't joke. He was shocked. The suggestion, it seemed, was as unseemly as if the Speaker had been directed to enter the House in khaki shorts and sweatshirt and walking on stilts. Mr. Abbott said he hoped there would be no more of such talk. His tone was that which might have been employed by the Rev. Mr. Hansell, M.P., in rebuking a member who tried to get away with an improper story.

The Big Six won't be brought before the House, but they are on occasion called to testify before committees. It will be interesting to observe the trend of questioning in the near future.

If, as many believe, a small group of men who are not elected representatives are an invisible government, it certainly is the duty of parliament to try to smoke them out. If, as is often charged, the boys on salary and mere appointees, are the people's bosses, they have by that fact lost their right to immunity from parliamentary and public comment and criticism.

Of course if they thought that the Liberals would soon be defeated at the polls, the tune might be changed. They are politically astute, and the fact that they worry little about the Opposition is but another evidence that they expect the present cabinet to continue to maintain their sacrosanctity and that they may ignore the rude comments of the folks across the gangway. — The Printed World.

Scouts & Cubs

BY REG GROOME

Sixer Norman Bedford of the Blue Six led the opening Grand Howl at Monday's meeting of Trinity Memorial Wolf Cub Pack, following which Gordon Merritt, Michael Schell and Bruce MacLean were awarded their First Stars and Jimmie Shaw received his Collector's Badge for a very good stamp collection. Games were played and then came instruction. More games followed and the Pack formed their council circle for announcements, prayers, and the Grand Howl. Red six won the six competition for the evening and Maitland Hannaford, Sixer, received the Honour Pennant.

Next Monday night will be Parents' Night at Trinity. The following Cubs have indicated that they will help out on the paper drive on Saturday morning (report at the church at 8.45 a.m.) and any unable to make it, please call Akela Arthur Armstrong, John Ancrum, Norman Bedford, Maitland Hannaford (our old regulars) Earl Bisson, Harry Flynn, Allan Brown, Gregory Walker, David Dorrance, Bill Cane, Gordon Smith and Graham Martin.

EXTRA — A real good game of hockey was played by Trinity and St. Luke's Pack. The score—9 to 1 in favour of Trinity. Congratulations are due to Roy Smith for starting the scoring off, and to Dick Christensen who scored three goals, and Harry Flynn for scoring five goals. The boys surely went to town today, and everybody played very well. Victor Kugelman scored for St. Luke's.

St. Matthias Pack welcomes three new members — Richard Bolton, Billy Ross and Dane Wray, all of whom passed their tenderpad and were invested last week. The floorball season got away to a good start Friday, with the Red Six under Sixer Sean Mack downing the White Six led by Senior Sixer Christopher Carr, by a score of 1-0. The Pack is planning to hold a joint Church Parade with the Troop on February 22nd, a Sunday, in honour of the birthday of the founder of Scouting, Lord Baden-Powell.

Mr. William Smith, late Group Scoutmaster of the 17th Buxton Group, Derbyshire, England, has been awarded posthumously a Letter of Commendation by the Chief Scout. His son, Mr. Frank Smith, Cubmaster of the same Group, receives the Bronze Cross. William Smith was drowned whilst attempting to rescue his son, who in turn had gone to the aid of a friend being swept out to sea in a rubber dinghy.

The tragedy occurred at Treen, Cornwall, last June. Frank Smith endeavoured to reach his friend, Phillip Hewitson, who was being swept out to sea in a rubber dinghy, but found he was unable to make up the distance and was forced to come ashore. Father and son then clambered along the cliff face in an attempt to catch the dinghy at the next cove. Frank missed his foothold and fell 40 feet into the sea. His father plunged in after him, but soon got into difficulties in the rough sea. The son managed to swim to the dinghy, bring it to where his father was, and keep him afloat with one hand.

Meanwhile an onlooker had fetched a lifebuoy which was thrown to the dinghy and the three men gradually pulled towards the shore. As they neared the rocky coast large breakers battered them against the rocks and they were forced to let go of the drowning man, by this time unconscious, and he was swept out of reach round the rocks. Frank Smith and Phillip Hewitson reached shore safely.

CAN WE BREED A SUPER RACE?

By LEWIS MILLIGAN

We hear little about Eugenics in these days. Prior to the First World War it was quite a craze in high-brow society circles. Many books were written on the subject, and lecturers travelled across the country preaching the new gospel of the creation of a super-race by means of selective mating of superior persons and the upbringing of their offspring in refined environment. The people who attended these lectures — they were mostly well-dressed ladies — no doubt regarded themselves as superior persons, although most of them were the offspring of very lowly parents who had old-fashioned ideas about selective mating.

I recall attending one of these lectures as a reporter in the early part of 1914. The world at that time was at peace, although there were distant rumblings and "ancestral voices prophesying war". But all was calm and serene in that lecture room, and the lecturer, an American woman, dressed in a long white gown, spoke in soft, aesthetic accents. She painted a verbal picture of two selected and kindred souls coming together in a love match at sunset by a lake. They stood in silence watching the sun go down, and as the orb of day sank beyond the horizon and a star — presumably Venus — appeared, the young lady muttered softly:

Starlight, star bright,
First star I've seen tonight.

I forgot what happened after that, but I gathered that the result of that eugenic experiment was the advent of a sublime poet into the world. I don't recall whether the lecturer gave other examples of selective mating for the production of super-artists, musicians, politicians, mechanics or farmers.

Unfortunately this eugenic dream was broken on August 4, 1914, when the Germans, who had a eugenic system of their own, released their supermen upon the world. They did not, however, prove themselves very super. Something went wrong with the mating. Hitler and his Nazi scientists discovered that the trouble lay in the mixture of Jewish and Aryan blood, and they took drastic measures to eliminate the former. An intensive eugenic system of breeding and education was organized for the production of a pure Aryan race that would rule the world for a thousand years . . . Hitler and his superplanners are dead, and their pure Aryans are unable to rule themselves.

"Can a man by taking thought add one cubit to his stature?" The Germans believed he could, and they also believed that by means of applied biological and political science they could plan the future. Science has contributed much to the physical betterment of mankind in time of peace, but it has the lack of sufficient "pressure of natural selection to force it upward." He suggested that the State or Society should undertake the task of speeding up the process of human evolution by birth control and the sterilization of feeble-minded and diseased persons. He said we had not only to face the fact that the world would soon be "full up with people", but that "the effective fertility of unskilled laborers is nearly twice as great as the professional classes".

But the world needs more laborers than professionals. Moreover, a large percentage of the professionals and some of the brightest geniuses have risen from the so-called lower classes — notably, Shakespeare, Burns, and Keats. It was probably the remembrance of his lowly origin that prompted Shakespeare to write, "Lowliness is young ambition's ladder, whereto the climber upward turns his face". It is one of the laws of human nature that there is a constant circulation from the lower to the upper classes in a free society — and vice versa. There is an old Lancashire saying: "Three generations — from clogs to clogs".

Human beings cannot be bred and raised like prize cattle on a stud-farm. Even prize cattle are liable to "breed back" and deteriorate, and there is probably a greater proportion of degenerates among the upper classes than the lower.

also made war more horrible and destructive, and it has rendered the future more uncertain than ever. Modern man has acquired a great deal of knowledge about the laws of nature, but in applying that knowledge he is overlooking the laws of human nature.

In a previous article I quoted a statement by Julian Huxley in which he said: "The general run of human nature and human capacity has remained the some for thousands of years". Mr. Huxley claimed that this lack of improvement in human nature had been due to

The process of evolution has been going on long before the eugenists and the Marxists arrived on the scene, and their attempts to force the pace of progress by artificial means are largely responsible for the mess the world is in today. There is a higher Intelligence and Government than that of man behind this universe, and the existence of diversities in the human race is no accident. There is a story of how Bulstrode Whitelocke, Cromwell's minister at the Hague, was tossing sleeplessly on his bed. His servant who slept in the same room, said: "Sir, may I ask you a question?"

"Yes".

"Do you believe that God governed the world well before you came into it?"

"Yes".

"And that He will govern the world well when you are out of it?"

"Yes".

"Then, sir, cannot you trust Him to do so while you are in it?"

There is a passage in the Book of Common Prayer referring to the People, which runs: "Govern them and lift them up for ever".

TOYING WITH FOOD

Parents! Mealtime should not be playtime, for the children. Medical authorities advise against getting anxious, too, about a baby's feeding.

At around the age of one year, when the appetite may not be so urgent, a child is apt to toy with his food. He will drop things and seem indifferent to what is placed before him. Under such circumstances, say the experts, "Remove the food, without comment or show of impatience. The child may not need it, just then. Simply assume that he has had enough."

Westmount Baptist

"The Thrill of a Lifetime" — Unconventional! Adventuresome! Successful! This Sermon is based upon one of the Stories of Jesus, which has survived the centuries and are as up to date as the Daily Press.

"The Challenge of a Lifetime" — Demand. Debate. Decision. This will be the Subject of the Evening Address. The incident which warrants the message was a very critical one. The throngs who wanted a "Loaves and Fishes Christ" were disappointed and melted away like snow before a Chinook wind. It was then that Jesus issued the challenge that searched the very souls of his disciples. The same Christ confronts us to-day.

On Saturday, the Younger Married Couples of "Westmount" will be the guests of a Sponsoring Committee at a Valentine Reception - Supper. The Reception takes place at 6 p.m. The Buffet Supper follows at 6.30 and the Programme of Recreation follows until about 9 o'clock. The Sponsoring Committee is composed of Mr. and Mrs. George Adam, Major General and Mrs. A. E. Walford, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Smith, Prof. and Mrs. G. H. T. Kimble, Dr. and Mrs. W. S. Weaver, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Bulmer and Dr. and Mrs. J. A Johnston.

'Westmount" is to have interesting visitors in the near future On Sunday, February 22nd, Prof. R. F. Aldwinckle, successor to Prof. R. J. McCracken, who is now the Minister of Riverside Church, New York, will conduct the Services, morning and evening. Dr. Johnston will be in Toronto over that week-end for a series of important addresses. On Sunday, the 29th of February, Dr. J. B. McLaurin, General Secretary of the Canadian Baptist Foreign Mission Board, and Rev. H. S. Hillyer, distinguished Missionary from Bolivia, will both address the morning and evening congregations. This is part of a great Missionary Week-end. On the preceding Friday a programme, portraying the work at the Christian Youth Centre, will be presented.

Christian Science

"Soul" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon to be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday.

The Golden Text is from Leviticus 26: 11, 12. "I will set my tabernacle among you: and my soul shall not abhor you. And I will walk among you, and will be your God, and ye shall be my people."

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible:—

"Now therefore hearken, O Israel, unto the statutes and unto the judgments, which I teach you, for to do them, that ye may live, and go in and possess the land which the Lord God of your Fathers giveth you. Behold, I have taught you statutes and judgments, even as the Lord my God commanded me, that ye should do so in the land whither ye go to posses it." (Deuteronomy 4: 1, 5).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook "Science & Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy

"Question — What are the demands of the Science of Soul? Answer — The first demand of this Science is, "Thou shalt have no other gods before me." The second is like unto it, "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." It should be thoroughly understood that all men have one Mind, one God and Father, one Life, Truth and Love. Mankind will become perfect in proportion as this fact becomes apparent, war will cease and the true brotherhood of man will be established." (Page 467).

Spirited As A Young Colt

The makers of the ADMIRAL RADIO-PHONOGRAPHS feel as spirited as a young colt, when extolling their remarkable new electronic invention, and this year they intend to make further improvements on their sets, while still maintaining the sensationally low prices. Not until you have heard an ADMIRAL could you possibly believe that such an improvement could be made in the tone over any of the older makes of radios. I am very keen on the table model with its gleaming mahogany plastic cabinet, so compact that it can be placed anywhere and yet blend with its surroundings. Today more than ever people are buying records of their favorite artists and want to have the type of music they like when they like it, but to be able to enjoy this treat to the full, one should have a perfect reproduction, no scratchy tones to mar a brilliant high C or a rich low basso note. Think of being able to play twelve of your best ten-inch dance records and not have to bother about changing records or needles. And then when your favorite radio show starts, just by a turn of the dial, presto . . . the same rich mellow tones will radiate to enchanted listeners, and in fact at times one would almost think that the entertainers or musicians were actually in the room. This ADMIRAL combination Radio-Phonograph has so much to offer that I find myself wishing that everyone having an antiquated set would donate it to some charity, and invest in AN ADMIRAL.

Who Doesn't Want An English Purse?

C.S.L Gift Shop

If you have a yen for something totally different in glassware, then by all means see the novel collections of varied types of drinking glasses, odd shaped decanters, ash trays and nut dishes made by Erickson, the well known glass maker. They are smoked colored glass with ball shaped bases, and where are they to be found? At the well known C.S.L. Gift Shop, 1480 Sherbrooke St. W., a stone's throw from Guy. Those of you who saw "The Shop's" window last week must have been, like myself, green with envy of the purchasers of the different articles displayed, for this window was for the benefit of the folks going to the sunny South. One side of the window had the various sizes of English leather travelling bags, while the centre held English golf bags, with the smartest leather golf mittens. The bags are $21.75, all lovely and light, with zippers and handily placed pockets. The other side of the window had a full back grey coat, and, by the way, there are a few of such coats left from the Fall sale that are still wonderful buys, even if one is not going South, as Spring will soon be here. I know that if some of you ladies could see the assortment of purses that are on sale, and especially make note of the prices, you would all make a dash for "The Shop" and buy several for gifts. Do you know that I treated myself to a perfectly lovely black English purse, a large square type, that had been marked down from $36.00 to $10.00. There are others also in black and brown, and all drastically reduced. Those of you who are missing this chance will never have an opportunity to buy these articles at such prices again, and who doesn't want an English purse?

Hundreds Acclaim Rondeau's Medicine

I realize that the above words seem fantastic, until one learns about the marvelous results of the wonderful healing qualities of this versatile medicine. Whenever I visit Dr. G. Martin Rondeau's office I invariably meet somebody who has benefited from this miraculous 'cure all". Yesterday I met a Mr. Thomas R. Blanchard, of 1490 Closse St., who had suffered long from gastric ulcers and gall bladder trouble which had been so bad for weeks at a time he was confined to bed. After having tried every kind of prescribed treatment he became very discouraged. Finally, however, he heard of Dr. Rondeau's medicine, and even then was a bit skeptical as to whether an old Indian remedy could benefit his condition, but as a last resort he consented to try out this remedy. After having taken this tonic for a short time he noticed a remarkable improvement, and before finishing the second bottle he felt as if a near miracle had taken place. Now, completely free of every trace of pain, he regained his normal appetite and sleep, and, as he said, "now I am completely a new man." Surely a case like this speaks for itself, and his one wish is that others who may have had similar trouble should try "RONDEAU'S MEDICINE". In taking Rondeau's Medicine you are absorbing a mixture of vitamins A and D plus several well known herbs that have a wonderful healing effect for Eczema, infections of the respiratory tract, and even colds. If your local drug store has not received its supply, by 'phoning WE. 2002, Antibitol Co. Ltd., 4211 St. Catherine St. W., Montreal 6, it will be delivered, also all out of town C.O.D. mail orders filled. The 40 oz. bottle retails for $9.00 including tax.

Dining In the Corinthian Room

Are you afflicted with mid winter ennui and feel that a change of environment would be welcome? Then I have the right antidote for this condition. Last week I dined in The CORINTHIAN ROOM, at The Mount Royal Hotel, and under the spell of congenial surroundings and a delicious repast I came out an hour later feeling as though the winter blues had been chased away. The Corinthian Room has the former location of La Salle Dorée. However, all this has been changed and replaced by one of the most restful and charming dining salons in Montreal. The color scheme is a blend of cream, light green and maroon. At both ends of this room tiers have been built up, so that one can look down into the centre of the room. The food is à la Mount Royal as per usual, so delicious and appetizing. To complement this restful atmosphere is the soft music of Dorothy Perron, who plays the Hammond organ. Miss Perron is a young, charming and gifted Montreal musician, who seems to sense the pulse of the guests and can enter into the spirit of camaraderie present. Those of you who follow the N.H.L. games at the Forum are entertained in between periods, by this gifted lady. She strikes a major chord when Les Canadiens score a goal and a minor one when they don't.

Choosing Your Canary

In case you're thinking of buying a canary, you might like to know something about the different kinds to help you pick one out. But no matter which kind of canary you get, make sure you buy him from a reputable dealer — and keep him in top spirits by feeding BROCK'S BIRD SEED. The two most popular kinds of canaries are the "rollers" and the "choppers". The roller is known as the "opera singer", because he sings from his throat, with his beak almost closed. His tones are soft and low-pitched, with a sequence of rolls and trills. The chopper is known as the "jazz singer" because his voice is loud and strong and he sings with his beak open. The rollers are most popular with breeders who train them and enter them in the different competitions held each year by the various Roller Canary Societies in Canada. The choppers have a large following among most people who want a merry little companion in their home and like their lusty singing. Your bird should be kept away from draughts and bright sunshine. Too much heat will cause his plumage to fade and dry out and may even kill him. The ideal food for canaries is BROCK'S BIRD SEED with the BIRD TREAT. They contain all the rare seeds and other substances that wild birds thrive on, and, in addition, BIRD TREAT has yeast to supply the Vitamin B your songster needs. Have lots of fresh drinking water and BROCK'S BIRD GRAVEL in the cage at all times to keep your pet in condition and you'll enjoy him more than ever.

Spaciousness, Quiet Comfort Feature TCA's Newest "Star"

In an effort to keep up with the times and all that is newest and interesting in air travel, about twenty of the press girls of the city, including the woman's editor of The Monitor, jumped at the chance when an invitation was extended to them to visit Dorval on Saturday afternoon and see the latest addition to TCA's fleet of North Stars for Atlantic travel. It proved to be a most interesting experience. First of all, TCA officials conducted the group through various offices, giving information about the teletype machines and radios which keep Dorval officials in touch with pilots from the moment they take off till they land again. Also, the meteorological experts showed maps and roughly sketched how the cold and warm fronts are charted.

Fly Over City

The press women then boarded a DC3 and flew over the city for an hour. Visibility wasn't excellent by any means, but it was still good enough to afford a fine view from above of the serried ranks of windows in the skyscrapers we're used to seeing from the street. Verdun was spread out clearly below, and St. Lambert, Longueuil, bridges, gasometers, woods, Nun's Island and St. Helen's swept past below. St. Mary's current was a black gash in the snow-covered ice of the St. Lawrence. Coffee in the plane rounded off the flight nicely.

The New North Star

To finish up the Dorval afternoon, the press women were privileged to board the very newest North Star (still in its hangar), which will carry 45 passengers on the Atlantic run. This newest TCA airliner is a modified DC4, with longer fuselage (145 feet overall length) and has four Rolls-Royce Merlin engines faired into the great expanse of gleaming wings.

The seating accommodation is in two sections, divided by the last word in compact up-to-date kitchen where hot meals are fixed. The fore cabin is the larger, and in the nose, of course, is the pilots' "office", where Helen Murphy of the Herald climbed into one of the pilot's seats and seemed all set to take off for Prestwick! A TCA engineer answered questions regarding the many dials that register R.P.M.'s, air pressure, radio, gas in tanks — and almost everything you'd want to know about what goes on in the plane during flight except what will be served for breakfast. And of course the girls clamored to see "George", the automatic pilot!

After luring Helen from her perch in the pilot's seat, we tried out the luxurious chairs in the cabins and paraded in the roomy aisles. The powder room at the rear of the aft cabin is fitted with indirect lighting and beautifully appointed, and so roomy that it will be a delight to mothers caring for kiddies on the ocean flight. The walls of the cabins and powder room are covered with a fine English gabardine in soft grey, seat upholstery is in restful green, and draperies, with the TCA insignia, are in beige and old rose. There is abundant head room and plenty of space for bridge tables, etc.

Miss M. M. Brown, R.N., was our delightful plane hostess throughout the afternoon. H.S.

HINTS ON Fashions

There's a different look to this year's beach wear and it's all to the good, according to reports from the winter resorts that act as a proving ground for summer's fashions. This new outfit consists of a blouse and pert cott n shorts. The jacket is of brilliant royal blue cotton and has a plunging neckline, cuffed sleeves and a surplice closing. Red, blue and white plaided cotton is the color combination of the shorts made with a twisted waistband and one hip pocket.

Woman News Analyst Lisa Sergio, To Speak At The Little Forum

On Thursday evening, February 19th, at 8.30 p.m., the Little Forum of the Inter-Racial Committee for Democratic Action brings to its platform another renowned lecturer, Mme. Lisa Sergio. This meeting will take place in the York Room of the Windsor Hotel, and the provocative title of Mme. Sergio's address is, "A World's-Eye View of Our Prejudiced Selves."

Daughter of an Italian nobleman and an American mother, Lisa Sergio was brought up in Florence and Rome. In 1933 she accepted the post of first radio commentator in Europe, giving shortwave broadcasts from Rome. However, the true nature of Mussolini's regime soon became apparent to her, and she disregarded personal danger to tamper the scripts given her. She escaped to America in 1937 only a few days before her arrest was ordered.

At seventeen she became associate editor of the Italian Mail, a literary weekly. Her next venture was into the field of archeology, and she wrote an English guide to Pompeii which was used by American GI's in Italy.

In the New York area she is now heard presenting and analyzing the news nightly over Station WOV Monday through Friday, at 6.15 p.m.

This is Mme. Sergio's first appearance in this country.

Earl Of Bessborough Chapter I.O.D.E. Holds Annual Meeting

The 17th Annual Meeting of the Earl of Bessborough Chapter I.O.D.E took place last Thursday evening at the home of the Honorary Regent Mrs. A. W. Myers. The Treasurer's Report showed total funds raised during the year as $463.04. Outstanding achievement has been the completion of the Chapter's quota for the I.O.D.E. Second War Memorial Scholarships, this being $500 of which $300 was paid during 1946 and $200 during 1947.

The Chapter made contributions to the Endowment Fund Provincial Chapter Scholarships, Homoeopathic Hospital and the Boy Scout Association (Western Headquarters). Under the heading of Family Welfare needy families were assisted, Xmas baskets provided and food parcels sent to England. Visits were paid to the Military Hospitals, Queen Mary Road, Ste Annes and Ste Hyacinthe, and at all of these, candies, cigarettes, cards and books were given to the patients.

The Kilvie Myers Memorial Scholarship awarded in West Hill High School was again presented to an 11th year student proceeding to 12th year. In addition, three book prizes were also given and these were all presented at the Graduation Exercises of the School, which was attended by the Honorary Regent and the Regent, Mrs. A. E. Watts, who made the presentations. During the Music Festival held last Fall, pupils from High Schools in the New England States were provided with meals and accommodation by the members. A total of $43.80 was spent for this purpose.

At a meeting held in May 1947, a Life Membership in the Order was bestowed upon Mrs. A. W. Myers, retiring Regent who had held office for 11 years. Every member of the Chapter was present on this occasion to do honour to Mrs. Myers for her many years of work in the I.O.D.E. At another meeting a personal presentation was made to Mrs. Gordon Hale, a member of the Chapter, who was leaving the city to take up residence in Ontario.

The Secretary's Report reviewed the entire year's activities and expressed thanks to the Press for the publicity they provided. The slate of officers for 1948 was then announced as follows: Honorary Regent, Mrs. A. W. Myers, 1st Vice Regent, Mrs. A. Wallace, 2nd Vice Regent, Mrs. H. M. Thomas, Treasurer, Mrs. R. H. Grant, Secretary, Mrs. C. T. Groome, Educational Secretary, Mrs. A. W. Myers, Echoes Secretary, Miss Mavis Porteous, Standard Bearer, Miss Andre Gelinas.

A new wrinkle, started as an economy measure in Scotland, is now setting a fashion. An oval is cut from a scarf near one corner, large enough to frame the face. The scarf is worn ov the hair and tied under the chin like a Balacalava helmet. On cold evenings this is snug and warm and keeps the hair tidy.

Happy Feet Help Child To Walk Well

Send your child off to school well shod, if you want him to make satisfactory progress and return home good-natured.

That's a maxim every parent should heed, for young or old, there's nothing that affects the fell-being of a person so swiftly or devastatingly as ill-fitting shoes or shoes that are unsuited to the purpose for which they are being worn.

Day in and day out feet take a lot of punishment. They can serve you well only in proportion to the care and attention you give them.

Up to about the age of seven, experts say a child outgrows more shoes than it outwears. Also, they tell us, 70 per cent. of the children in the higher school grades have feet requiring attention.

Did you know that the foot of a ten-year-old child may grow as much as three sizes larger in three months? This is a rather extreme example, but it does warn that a child's foot should be measured each time new shoes are bought.

Stockings and socks must be watched, too. A short stocking cramps the foot just as much as a short shoe, and may injure the foot permanently.

Oxfords with pliable uppers, flexible leather soles and at leaset four eyelets high are recommended for school wear. If they are wide enough to allow the leather to be pinched together between the fingers, long enough to provide three-quarters of an inch between the big toe and the tip of the shoe, they fit correctly.

Transparency of Lace

Robert Piquet favors the vogue for transparency in an ankle-length dance frock with a tightfitted corsage of black lace mounted on wasp-yellow Ottoman silk. The skirt of this dress is in fine black wool crepe gathered round the hips. There is a little fringed kerchief to match which is knotted round the shoulders.

Revue And Parade 'CGIT Week' Events

This week from Sunday, February 8th, until Sunday, the 15th, over thirty thousand teen-aged girls known as Canadian Girls in Training are celebrating "C.G.I.T. Week" from Halifax to Vancouver. These girls meet in groups once a week during the winter months in local church halls to work on handicraft articles, to study together about teen-agers of other countries, to learn the singing and dancing culture of the Old World and to plan ways of being of service to their community as young citizens.

During the summer months over 8,000 of these girls attend C.G.I.T. camps. Those in Quebec Province attend the Cedar Lodge Camp for C.G.I.T. on Lake Memphremagog. There are close to 500 C.G.I.T. in the city of Montreal who, this evening, will present a "C.G.I.T. In Revue" in the Montreal High School Auditorium. The girls will hold a Province Wide Camp Re-Union all day tomorrow and finish up with a Church Parade Sunday morning in St. James United Church.

The C.G.I.T. movement is sponsored by the Girls' Work Board of the Religious Education Council of the Province of Quebec.

WOMEN WITH IDEAS
MADAME IRENE

By HELEN B. SANDWELL

"There is always something to learn in cooking, no matter how long you have been doing it," said Madame Irene when we met her on Monday afternoon. You see, she is very modest, this artist in the preparation of food who is interested in the simplest recipes as well as versed in concocting rare and extravagant dishes found in many lands; and who has a first class diploma from the Cordon Bleu in Paris. Incidentally, some months ago in the great city of New York we believe only two people had that rare parchment, and Madame Irene was one of them. She is fun to talk to. Full of sparkle and good humor, her blue eyes very bright under the grey hair framing her face. She chatters on in very good English, really, but with an accent, and at great speed. There is an elusive continental air about her — and why shouldn't there be when she speaks six languages and has first class diplomas from Spain, Italy and Germany.

Madame Irene spends her time mostly now between Montreal, New York and Philadelphia, giving special three-month cookery courses (only a few pupils to a class), that are adapted for beginners, brides, bachelors, professional cooks and women who have a natural gift for the preparation of fine dishes, think of cooking as an ART and wish to perfect their skill. At present she is living at 5166 Cote St. Antoine Road, and conducts her classes in both French and English at Melbourne Avenue, near Westmount Park.

She drafted roughly her lesson course on soups, entrées, meat, fish and poultry and went on to sweets, at which she displays special mastery and took first prize in a class of 265 for sweets and cheese dishes at the Cordon Bleu in Paris. In case you're interested the Cordon Bleu was founded by King George VI of Sweden for a Society of Gourmets.

Proof of the Pudding

Her class of beginners begin at the beginning. "Some of my girls who have been brought up in wealthy homes, don't know how to cook a cabbage," she said. "My pupil has to write down the recipe, then work right along with me in the preparation and cooking of the dish, and then she has to EAT it." Madame Irene also likes to invent, and has a wonderful dessert which she calls her atomic bombe, which is delicately contrived for its color effect as well as its unique flavor.

To hear Madame Irene talk is like dreaming of roses in an igloo — she speaks of days that just aren't here any more. She is horrified at the price of food today, and knows very well that hunger, not luxury, is abroad in Europe, but even as an artist must paint, so must she cook. L'ART de la cuisine" must not be allowed to die. The torch must be carried till better times are here again. And so she teaches and talks of nut soup, onion soup made with champagne (her expressive hands unfold, her eyes roll and she exclaims 'Wonderful!'); chicken with white grapes (the hands open again and she breathes "Wonderful!"); crepe suzettes ('A'h, wonderful!"); baba au rum, "which mus' not be soaked — just soak a little and then the rum lit!" (And this time I said "Wonderful!")

Bachelors Learn

She doesn't think so very much of American and Canadian omelets. They're not quite perfect on the outside and not tender enough on the inside. She is not even sure that we have the artistic touch with good old scrambled eggs. She told us about a couple of bachelors who come to her private class and who are being initiated into the mysteries of omelet making, how to make a good simple soup, cook vegetables and roast a chicken. They are smart boys, she says, with the pots and pans. Good humor bubbles throughout her rapid fire chatter like the champagne bubbles in her onion soup.

"'Ave you been on the continent? You know how the food used to be?" she enquired. We intimated that our overseas memories went little further than of porridge in Scotland, and at this a beatific smile lit her face. "Some time I show you," she said. "I show you my famous cheese leaves, when we get the right kind of cheese; and my chocolate truffles, and my colored roses in icing."

But, between ourselves, dear reader, I still think I'd rather have the onion soup made with champagne — when we get the right kind of champagne!

Tour after tour followed, during which time she became known to countless audiences in the United States and Canada, the British Isles, Switzerland, Belgium, Germany, Holland, France, Mexico, Italy and Cuba. She is staff soloist with the Canadian Broadcasting Company, the National Broadcasting Co. the British Broadcasting Company and Radio Normandy. Her book, "Continental Review", won the Governor General's award.

The world's largest raw cotton produced, the United States, imports less than two per cent of its total cotton requirements but it is dependent on foreign countries for most of its needs of the two extremes, very short cotton and very long cotton.

Elegance With Irish Linen

A rose-patterned white Irish linen damask tablecloth, rose patterned china and sweetheart roses made up into sentimental nosegays make a light-hearted table setting for an early spring luncheon. A unique feature of the decoration is the placing of flowers instead of candles in the stair-step crystal candelabra.

Rose-Patterned Irish Linen Sentimental Theme Setting

Sentimental occasions like St. Valentine's Day, an announcement luncheon or a birthday party for a teen-age daughter call for a feminine appeal in the table setting and a light-hearted touch in the decoration.

Choosing roses as the theme, you'll be able to carry the motif straight through from the tablecloth to the decorations on the cake that will be served for dessert. Begin with an Irish linen tablecloth in a damask pattern that features roses. There are a number of new rose designs coming over from Ireland now that are very modern in feeling and make a perfect background for the popular silver and china patterns.

Some beautiful rose designs in china are now being shown — tiny moss roses scattered over the shoulder of plates and bread and butters, larger roses making a garland around the plate or one perfect rose placed in the center. It's amazing what an effect of abundance you can get with just one dozen roses if you arrange them in a low boat-shaped glass dish. Cut the stems in graduated lengths placing the longest ones at the two ends almost parallel to the table top. Working toward the center, use shorter and shorter stems until the roses meet in a low flat arc.

Sweetheart or Pinocchio roses are lovely arranged like an old fashioned bouquet in a cone of fluted lace paper. Or smaller nosegays can be used in the small dishes of a beautiful epergne. Much the same effect can be achieved by using a pair of crystal candelabra as a container and placing one dainty nosegay in each candle holder.

HOME EDUCATION

Suffering Parents

BY JANETTE STEVENSON MURRAY

Mrs. Richards lingered after the recital to arrange for a committee meeting. Soon six-year-old Tommy began pulling her hand, teasing to go home. It was awkward. She weakly remonstrated, but the tugging continued. In a helpless sort of way she ignored it and tried to go on with the conversation.

Grandmother joined the group. Tommy straightened up; he knew that she would not countenance his badgering.

On the way home the boy ran ahead; Grandmother was waiting for this. "You should not let Tommy treat you so disrespectfully, she said.

"I wouldn't have a scene," her daughter replied.

"No, but if Tommy understood that you would not tolerate any such behavior, he would not attempt it. When you reach home he should be punished. If you allow him to be so troublesome, people will dislike him. But tell me, had you explained to Tommy that the delay was necessary"? Then, as the boy's mother shook her head, "You see," Grandmother continued, "he was tired and really needed to go home. If you had been more courteous to him perhaps he would have been more courteous to you. In any event don't allow him to be rude."

"He'll soon know better than to be rude to me," said Mrs. Richards.

"I am afraid it doesn't always work that way. I know of a case where disrespect to parents has increased as the child has grown older. About two years ago, a good friend who has a garden brought me some vegetables. Her eight-year-old Jack came with her. We were chatting for a minute at the kitchen door, when this big boy began pushing his mother. Although supposedly in fun, it was very embarrassing. We tried to turn it off as a joke, but nothing stopped the boy's ill-mannered actions, and my friend had to hurry away. Since that day Jack has seemed less attractive. Previously I had liked him and had watched his development with interest. He has a fine mind, but he is badly spoiled. Neither can I feel quite the same toward his mother since that display of annoying conduct, for, of course, adults are really to blame for children's misbehavior."

"While waiting in the back of the church last Sunday during the anthem I saw Jack again. He was sitting between his father and mother in the rear pew, and he was gripping the nape of his father's neck and with upraised forefinger was prodding the back of his head. Red with embarrassment and discomfort, his father seemed to be protesting, but the prodding went on regularly. Then his mother began whispering to him out of the corner of her mouth, but still he paid no attention. I could scarcely believe my eyes. People in the rear seat behind, the ushers, and those standing in the aisles were all watching."

"Yes, those parents were to blame more than their son!" exclaimed Mrs. Richards. "They should have corrected Jack when, as a very little boy, he first began treating them disrespectifully."

"I suppose such behavior really begins with a desire to show off," and Grandmother looked thoughtful. "We forget sometimes when meeting friends to introduce our children properly. They feel unnoticed and begin pestering us in order to attract attention."

"I hadn't thought of that. I'll be more careful after this to introduce Tommy. But since I've been negligent, he may need some correcting also."

That afternoon the Richards had callers. Tommy was introduced and greeted in a friendly way; but as soon as the elder people were absorbed in conversation, he began teasing his mother, trying to sit on her lap. She put him off and suggested that he cut the airplanes from a magazine supplement; but Tommy was not interested and soon tried to climb on her lap again.

Excusing herself, Mrs. Richards led the boy resolutely upstairs and told him to stay in his room until the guests were gone. Tommy felt a new firmness in his mother's attitude and knew this was no time to disobey. He looked puzzled, however, when she said, "I shall not allow you to annoy me any more! You are going to be the kind of boy people will like!"

Star Backs Appeal For Needy Children

Since arriving recently in America from Europe Madeleine Carroll has became one of 59 prominent men and women members of the United States Committee for the United Nations Appeal for Children. This Committee is sponsoring a nation-wide campaign to begin this month for voluntary contributions to aid the underprivileged children of the world. Unless the $60,000,000 goal is reached such schools as The Children's Republic in Sevres, France, in which Miss Carroll and her husband take a practicial interest, will be closed for want of financial support.

Speaking for both herself and her husband, Madame Lavorel expressed her desire to "help all children of the world impartially. After our war experiences, we both felt we could not go back to what we had been before, but had to go on to the work of aiding these children."

PROBLEMS FOR CROWNS

With hair piled up into a chignon on top, hats demand special treatment. To accommodate this rather geishalike style, crowns must be either very high or non-existent. The latter British women are finding, is the easier way out, both for the hair and the hatter.

Fleece Largely Used For New Travel Coats

Fleece, by Stroock, in special dyes, makes good travel coats of various types. Recent models on display in New York include a topper of polished cedar worn over a homespun-patterned brown tweed coat-dress. A hooded great coat of pink mauve fleece over pink-and-black checked worsted suit makes a pleasant combination, while a flared-back coat for travel and general resort wear in beige doubles and redoubles as a general all-around coat.

Redingotes in light wools over gay prints are flexible and easily adaptable for the spring wardrobe. A cape, too, is exceedingly useful in a travel wardrobe whether it be a wrist-length double-breasted affair in navy tweed worn over a plaid wool suit, or a more dramatic version in a sweeping white fleece cape cut to the full length of the skirt of a white gabardine spectator sports suit, a cape which ably serves for both daytime and evening wear.

THE WORLD'S FUTURE IS BEING DECIDED NOW

OUR TOMORROWS depend on what happens to the world's children TODAY. In ruined lands around the globe there are millions of them in misery — scrambling for shreds of food on garbage dumps, shivering in rags. On the continent of Europe, half the children born since the war are already dead of malnutrition. Those who survive — there and elsewhere — are desperately in need of food and clothing. They need schooling, too, for their neglected minds grow as sick as their withered bodies.

They are the future . . .
if they are not saved, our world is lost!

Canadian Appeal for Children is now conducting its campaign to meet the challenge of these desperate and immediate needs. This is a campaign by the people of Canada, with a minimum objective of $10,000,000 to provide food, clothing and school supplies for the children—safeguard the health of expectant and nursing mothers — in devastated lands around the world.

Wherever possible, all donations will be used for the purchase of Canadian goods, and the distribution of goods will be under the direction of responsible United Nations operating agencies.

Your help is needed now. You sympathise. You want to give. But goodwill and good wishes are not enough. Since you may not be canvassed, don't let failure to act be on your conscience. Any BANK will accept your donation. Turn your sympathy and good wishes into a tangible contribution — go to your bank now and give.

Governor-General To Attend Mtl. Boys' Boxing Show

His Excellency Viscount Alexander has extended his patronage to and will be present at the third annual boxing show of The Montreal Boys' Association, which is being sponsored jointly by the 17th Hussars Recce. Cadet Corps and the 79th Battery Cadet Corps, it was announced recently. The event, which will be held in the 17th Duke of York Royal Canadian Hussars Armory on March 9, is being held with the kind permission of Lt.-Col. E. R. Allen, officer commanding the 7th Canadian Reconnaissance Regiment (17th D.Y.R.C.H.)

This is further indication of the interest that His Excellency is showing in boys' work. Recently he granted his patronage to the Boys' Clubs of Canada, of which The Montreal Boys' Association is a member unit. Proceeds from the boxing show will be used to further Boys' Work through the purchase of sports equipment for both cadet corps and for The Montreal Boys' Association.

Honorary Chairmen

Honorary chairmen for this event are Lt.-Col. J. J. Harold, M.B.E., M.C., representing the 17th Hussars Recce. Cadet Corps, Lt.-Col. J. F. Plow, E.D., representing the 79th Battery Cadet Corps, and L. S. Marsh, president of The Montreal Boys' Association.

The 17th Hussars Recce. Cadet Corps was formed in 1941 under the sponsorship of the 7th (Reserve) Reconnaissance Regiment, and during the war years trained many cadets who later took their place in the Active and Reserve units of the Regiment. Now in peace time, military training is continued, including drill and command, musketry, map reading and woodcraft, and in addition, there is a program of sports that includes boxing, basketball, softball and other organized games.

The 79th Battery Cadet Corps was formed in 1945, and was sponsored by The Montreal Boys' Association to offer a program of military training and sports to the boys in the Point St. Charles area. It is affiliated with the 51st Heavy Anti-Aircraft Regiment of the Royal Canadian Artillery.

Red Feather Service

The Montreal Boys' Association, a Red Feather Service of Welfare Federation, has been serving the boys of Montreal since 1923, and annually reaches more than 5,000 of the youth of the city and district through its affiliated Boys' Clubs and Camp Lewis. Its program consists of supervised crafts and sports, designed to prepare its membership for citizenship.

In the West End, the M.B.A. operates the Lions Boys' Club in Notre Dame de Grace, and assists in the supervision of the Unity Boys' Club in Westmount.

SPORTIVELY SPEAKING

JOTTINGS

It's now well into February and still there is no definite news emanating from the Snowdon Senior Fastball League front. The big story that was due to break before the end of January — or so I was informed by usually reliable sources — is still unbroken. The question of the week is: When is the annual meeting going to be held? . . . That's the get-together at which plans for the forthcoming season are discussed, applications of clubs to get into the league are considered, and the boys are usually on very friendly terms, a condition which lasts until the battle for players starts in earnest. Then the terms of endearment change to barbed epithets — most of which are unprintable.

George Smith, retired Westmount High physical director, a fairly regular attender at the Sunday afternoon puck shows at the House of Selke . . . Ken McKenzie's Hockey News getting better every issue. It's worth every hockey fan's dime . . .

The Westmount Junior Basketball Club rolling along in undefeated style. They have quite a team there . . . And speaking of things Westmount, their football club threw a dance at Victoria Hall last Friday evening to raise funds for the organization of an intermediate team . . . A picture of Marty Barry, in his Boston Bruins garb, now hanging in the basement of Snyder's emporium . . . Bill Dryden, the renowned Junior footballer, reported burning up the Westmount Intermediate Hockey League . . . Jack Dudley one of the mainstays of the above-mentioned suburb city cage crew.

Fire Department In Third Place

The Westmount Fire Department is represented in the Montreal Fire Department Bowling League by one team consisting of six men. The sextet are currently in third place in the league standings.

The league consists of 12 teams, all of six men, and the Westmount team on number two shift is only six points behind the leading team. All players on that team are sure to get in the finals and promise to put up a real battle for the championship trophy.

The players' averages are as follows: Babeu, 104; Clarke, 100; Keys, 117; Forget, 107; Barth, 117; and Fitzgerald, 111.

St. Leo's Down MWHS Pucksters

St. Leo's powerful Senior B hockey crew kept their undefeated and untied record intact out at the Lachine Arena last Saturday morning when they downed a hard-fighting Montreal West sextet 3-2.

Speedy Al Losito emerged as the hero of the fray. With the score knotted at 2-all in the third period, Losito broke into the clear and rifled the disc into the cage for the winning tally. It was his second score of the game.

Both teams went scoreless in the first period but shook loose in the middle frame for two goals apiece. Vince Haney got the other goal for Andy McGillis's outfit while Montreal West's counters were notched by Champion and Petty.

In a Junior tilt between the same two schools, Montreal West got revenge with a 7-5 triumph. Holmes was the big gun for the Blue and Gold with four markers while the other MWHS markers came from the sticks of French, who blinked the red light twice, and Sawers. Scorers for the losers were Fagan, St. James, McVey, Losito and Murray.

CANADA WINS TWO BIGGEST EVENTS

Well, in spite of mild weather, bickering, and Avery Brundage the 1948 Winter Olympics have been completed with a Scandanavian country winning this first part of the Olympics, as was expected. This Olympic's winner in Sweden, with Switzerland and the United States close behind, and the rest of the field well spread out and trailing.

Despite the fact Canada scored only 24½ points in the competioion, and placed over 50 points back of the leading Swedes, we can feel proud of our team. Canadian representatives won the two most important, or at least the two most widely publicized championships, the highly-rated Barbara Ann Scott again proving her superiority despite difficult ice conditions to gain her first Olympic skating championship, and the underdog R.C.A.F. Flyers, rated by Canadian experts who saw them training as only a good intermediate squad, proving again that nowhere in the world is hockey played as well as in Canada by winning the nine-team Olympic hockey tournament with seven wins and only one tie to blemish their great record.

HOCKEY TITLE COMES HOME AGAIN

These two championships gave Canada 20 of her total points, the others being gained on a sixth-place tie by Frank Stack in a speed-skating event, and a third-place in the mixed doubles figure skating by that excellent twosome of Wally Distelmeyer and Suzanne Morrow of Toronto.

Of course, the surprise story of the 1948 Olympics is the rapid of the world. Impressing no one with their performances on this side of the Atlantic, the team seemed to perk up when they obtained the services of Wally Halder, George Mara,, and Murray Dowey, probably the best three players in the entire tournament, just before they embarked for Europe. Their success in exhibition games on the other side was an improvement although they tied in England and lost to a Paris team. Then came the tournament and the rest is history.

This Canadian team ran through their Olympicc opposition like wildfire, registering five shutouts and scoring 69 goals with but 5 against. Only the Americans could score more than one goal on Dowey, and they got only three. Incidentally that game against the States was probably the turning point of the entire tournament as the Canucks whipped the Americans, earlier conquerors of Toronto Varsity, 12-3, with Halder and Mars accounting for 10 of the Flyer goals.

THIS DOWEY MUST BE GOOD

In the final analysis it was Dowey's execptionnal goaling that won for the Canadians as their superior goal average won over the Czechs, who had compiled a point record the equal to that of the Canadians. And yet, in the original plans, Dowey was a second string goaler, for the strategy called for ex-Varsityite Dick Ball to guard the Canadian cordage. But in the final medical exam, Ball was found to have a lung infection, which prevented him from making the trip.

Between the pair of them, Halder and Mara averaged around five goals a game. We bet that the Europeans hadn't seen hockey like that since the Trail Smoke Eaters toured the continent in 1938.

We know that there will be a great reception here for both the Flyers and for Miss Scott, but we wonder slightly about the receptbelow the border for the afore-mentined Mr. Brundage. Mr. Brundage may very easily have cost the Americans the Winter Championships, with his constant declarations and threats to press. He seems to have unnerved a good American hockey team, and the same team that thoroughly licked Varsity, 7-4, the same Varsity team that beat McGill by eight goals here last Friday night. And McGill whipped our Olympic representatives 7-0, in the Flyers first game. That, however, was before the Flyers got Halder and Mara, and before they had time to acquire any affective team-play. There certainly was no doubt of their superiority over the Americans at St. Moritz. The Flyers are a lot better than the Sports writers thought. Canada is proud of them.

"MUSIC HATH"

When Wilf Field of the Buffalo Bisons of the American Hockey League was a member of the New York Americans the song "Deep in the Heart of Texas" was very popular. The organist played it during every pre-game practice, and Field usually tapped his stick on the ice at the proper time in accompaniment.

VERSATILE TERRY

Terry Sawchuk, sensational rookie goaltender of the Omaha Knights of the U.S.H.L., was a member of the Winnipeg Junior baseball team which won the championship of the Province of Manitoba last summer. On his performance to date Terry is a candidate for the League's outstanding rookie award.

"RABBIT" YARN

There have been many humorous anecdotes told by and about "Rabbit" McVeigh, senior member of the American Hockey League refereeing staff. One of Rabbit's favorite stories concerns the night years ago while playing for the New York Americans, he was assigned to guard the immortal Howie Morenz, star of Montreal Canadiens. After the "Stratford Streak" had piled up six scoring points in the game, Rabbit told his teammates that Morenz skated past him so fast the breeze he created gave McVeigh a case of pneumonia.

DISAGREES—RESIGNS

Disagreeing with the policy of Owner Eddie Shore, who telephoned daily instructions from his headquarters in Massachusetts to Berkeley ice rink, Jim Heaverside, promotion man and virtual business manager of the Oakland Oaks ice hockey team, resigned of his own volition. Heaverside had served seven weeks.

One of the most serious mistakes of mankind is being too serious.

a Bank

THE VEIN proves rich, a shaft is sunk, and a new mining town springs into life. The main street takes form. Commercial buildings rise.

When such a development occurs, the services of a bank are needed — to handle payrolls, to keep savings accounts and, as the town grows, to furnish bank credit for the needs of the community.

This is a basic pattern in Canada's development. And part of it is the local bank manager, providing those financial services which help Canadian men and women to win the rewards of modern enterprise and modern living.

"Juno And The Paycock" MRT's Next Production

The MRT is presenting the well-known Sean O'Casey play "Juno and the Paycock." This play, a favorite of the Abbey Theatre Players, whose productions introduced fine plays to the world, has been classed as one of the great modern dramas.

The play vacillates between hilarious comedy and grim tragedy. Juno, the mother, is a noble character. She believes she is fulfilling her destiny by going out to work by the day while behind her back her son becomes a traitor to his cause, her daughter is betrayed by a snob, and her husband "Captain" Jack Boyle, "the paycock" deceives her and leads a life of profligation with his buddy Joxer. Although "the paycock" is an out and out rotter, his manner of speech, his mode of behaviour, and his sublime ignorance make him one of the great comedy parts of all times. The action of the play takes place in the home of the Boyles —a two-roomed flat in a tenement dwelling in the slums of Dublin, during the year 1922.

At that period in her history Ireland was going through troubled times. The Irish Free State had come into existence, but the dissatisfaction often brought about bloodshed. A state of uneasiness existed in every household, more so in the home of the Boyles as the son was an 'irregular' while the mother adhered to the Free State.

The father, on the other hand, considered the whole world to be in a state of chaos and was unconcerned about such affairs providing he was not obliged to do any work. Into the household comes a stranger with the news that "Captain" Boyle has inherited a considerable sum of money. Then the fun begins. Before anyone even sees a penny of the fortune each member of the family has purchased what he deems important to the comfort of the home. And so the trouble starts.

"Juno and the Paycock" will be run at MRT Playhouse from February 26th to March 6th.

AT THE WESTMOUNT SUNDAY!

Joan Leslie seems somewhat startled as Richard Basehart, new screen discovery, points his gun at an intruder. To-gether with Louis Hayward, they have top starring roles in the romantic drama, "REPEAT PERFORMANCE" which will be shown at the WESTMOUNT Theatre for one week starting SUNDAY!

"Repeat Performance" At Westmount Sunday

What would you do if you won the chance to re-live the most exciting year of your life? That's the idea of "Repeat Performance," an absorbing drama which starts at the Westmount Theatre Sunday for one week.

The story begins on New Year's Eve when glamorous Sheila Page, successful Broadway stage star, murders her drunken husband. Destroyed by the events leading up to the fatal killing, Sheila wishes she had a chance to re-live the past year so that she can undo her mistakes. Miraculously, Sheila gets the opportunity she wanted and time moves backward to the preceding New Year's Eve. Inexorably, destiny follows its pattern — but the climactic denouement will surprise and intrigue film-goers.

Even without its unusual story, "Repeat Performance" would have made Hollywood history. Three pieces of surprise casting will delight film audiences — as two Hollywood veterans, and one newcomer, demonstrate their dramatic versatility. Louis Hayward, hero of numerous adventure films, has always played leading men without the hint of a blemish on their characters. As Barney Page, the drunken and dissolute husband, Hayward turns in a vivid performance in his characterization of a man for whom life proves too much.

Almost always cast before as a sweet young ingenue, Joan Leslie proves a real standout as she demonstrates outstanding acting ability. For her role as Sheila Page, a glamorous Broadway stage star, Miss Leslie seems to have grown in dramatic stature and leaves no doubt that she possesses physical and emotional maturity.

Third surprise of "Repeat Performance" is the introduction of a former Broadway actor who becomes a star with his first film. Acclaimed by New York drama critics for his performance as Scotty in "The Hasty Heart," Richard Basehart turns out to be a virile young man with light brown hair and a strong chin who scores in his debut role as a Greenwich Village poet, who becomes involved in the lives of the Pages.

An all-star supporting cast matches the leading trio with a set of performances that enhances the film. Tom Conway is strong and resolute as a family friend of the Pages, torn by his divided loyalties. Virginia Field, as the British authoress - menace, is tempting and vicious in her characterization.

Benay Venuta, Broadway musical comedy star, is the second player to make her debut in "Repeat Performance." Her vivacity and loud good spirits establish her immediately with the audience.

The added attraction is the bright new comedy of marital mix-up which involves Franchot Tone, one year out of the Army and making a success of his architectural career, who is about to marry Frances Rafferty, the boss' daughter. That is, they are going to get married until an English girl with twins appears in Franchot's life and announces that she is his wife and that the twins are his children. It seems that when Franchot was in the Army he was stationed in England for a while and as a result of an accident he suffered from amnesia for six weeks. Everybody wants to know if Franchot got married and if the children are his.

Tone's unenviable situation is complicated by several feigned amnesia attacks and also some doubt about whether or not he wants to marry Frances now that

AT THE AVENUE THEATRE

Merle Oberon, accompanied by two escorts, tries the gay and glittering life of Monte Carlo after she becomes one of the world's richest girls as the ultra smart heroine of "OVER THE MOON" the Technicolor comedy romance which opens SATURDAY at the AVENUE Theatre.

"Over The Moon" Technicolor Comedy at Avenue Starting Sat.

Merle Oberon romps through the merriest adventures in "Over The Moon", Alexander Korda's technicolor comedy romance, which begins a four-day engagement at the Avenue Theatre on Saturday. The story casts Merle as Jane Benson, a Yorkshire lass who overnight becomes the richest girl in the world and decides to find out all about glitter and glamour.

Rex Harrison, playing the role of serious-minded Dr. Freddie Jarvis, is Merle's leading man, and other important parts in the production are handled by Ursula Jeans, Louis Borell, Robert Douglas, Zena Dare and Cecil Ramage. As the story opens Jane Benson has become engaged to Dr. Jarvis, a country doctor who decides to sell his practice so that he can take his wife-to-be on a glorious honeymoon in the gay resorts of Southern France.

Complications arise when Jane inherits a vast fortune and urges Freddie to accompany her on a mad round of pleasures. Freddie gets as far as London and then decides to bow out because he becomes disgusted with Jane's new friends and their parasitic way of life. Jane pretends that she doesn't care and begins a life of gayety in Paris and Monte Carlo. All the men she meets offer extravagant love. For a while she gets a kick out of whirling from champagne party to champagne party, but when she meets a young man who is even richer than she, she breaks down and confesses her unhappiness. Then and there, she decides to recapture the man she loves. Her next stop is Switzerland, wither Freddie has gone to work in a fashionable clinic.

AT CLOVER CLUB

Joseph Lemay is the Hammond organist at the Clover Club, providing music for lunch and dinner.

The comedy reaches an unexpected climax when the couple go to Italy to test their love and to find it again.

The companion feature attraction is entitled "Carnival", adapted from Compton Mackenzie's famous Edwardian romance, tells the tragic story of the lovely young dancer, Jenny Pearl.

Sally Gray plays the stellar role as Jenny Pearl, young, self-confident and heart-whole until she meets the young artist, Maurice Avery, who deserts her after a few months. Completely disillusioned, Jenny marries a dour Cornish farmer, years her senior, and leaves London for the depths of Cornwall where she meets her tragic death, again through the selfishness of Maurice. A natural golden blonde, with tawny eyes and an attractive throaty voice, Sally Gray makes the ideal Jenny, infusing into the part just the right mixture of light Cockney gaiety and underlying sincerity.

Michael Wilding will be seen for the first time in a straight characterization as Maurice Avery, the selfish- self-centred young artist who is the cause of Jenny's tragedy.

Franchot Tone contributes another of his suave and smooth performances as a man-about-town who wishes he didn't get about so much. Ann Richards stars as the English girl and is completely charming in her role.

Lewis Carroll's Famous "Alice" Story Is Staged

This coming Saturday, at 2.30 p.m., the Canadian Art Theatre will present its high-light program of the year, "Alice in Wonderland", at Victoria Hall.

Adapted from Lewis Carroll's famous book by Joy Thomson, the production will be staged entirely in masks — with one exception only, that of Alice. These masks, some forty in all, have been designed and created by Joy Thomson, with the lavish costumes that accompany them, being created under the supervision of Mary Beetle.

Certainly all children, and most adults, are familiar with the story. Realizing this, the production has been carefully planned so that an absolute minimum of the fabulous Carroll characters will be omitted. The children will delight in the fact that all of the animals, birds and fish, to say nothing of cards, will be present — from the Frog-footman to the King and Queen of Hearts.

The cast is composed of actors and actresses both from within and without the CAT. Helen Fyfer portrays the famous Alice, while the principal supporting players are Griffith Brewer, Silvio Narizzano, Bernice Robinson, Arthur Voronka, Frank Ottiwell, Neil Madden and John Martyn-Baxter. Lighting will be by William Springford.

The entire production, running for several weeks at Victoria Hall, as well as for two "adult" evenings on the 26th and 27th of February, is staged, directed and designed by Joy Thomson.

"Repeat Performance", Starting Saturday At Snowdon, Tells Powerful, Dramatic Story!

What would you do if you won the chance to re-live the most exciting year of your life? That's the intriguing story idea of "Repeat Performance," an absorbing drama that opens at the Snowdon on Saturday.

Benay Venuta, Broadway musical comedy star, is the second player to make her debut in "Repeat Performance." Her vivacity and loud good spirits establish her immediately with the audience.

The added attraction, "Lost Honeymoon", hilarious comedy, is bound to delight everyone.

Picture the plight of Franchot Tone, who, on the eve of his marriage to the boss' daughter, is confronted with an English war bride and a pair of twins—all said to be his. While stationed in England, Tone suffered from amnesia for six weeks—apparently long enough to have got married and become the father of a pair of twins. His English war bride died six months after the birth of the children and Ann Richards, devoted friend of the children's mother decides to come to America to find the youngsters' father.

Tone figures that if he had amnesia once perhaps he could have it again and then remember all about his G. I. experiences in England. Tone resorts to drastic means to gring back his former condition much to the irritation of his fiancée, her father, the English girl posing as his wife, and his doctor friend — who is quite willing to accept Tone's new wife if Tone won't.

Cast in the pivotal role of the father with the newly-acquired family is Franchot Tone who once again proves his talents for playing high comedy. Ann Richards as the "Mother" is charming in her "two-faced" role. Tom Conway, in his first film away from the "Falcon" series is handsome and helpful as Tone's doctor friend.

"Abie's Irish Rose" Starts Saturday At Monkland

"Abie's Irish Rose," comedy classic of the stage and radio, starts its uproarious screen debut at the Monkland Theatre Saturday.

Streamlined for the screen by Bing Crosby Producers Inc., this gem has lost none of the heart-warming hilarity which made Anne Nichols' masterpiece a beloved favorite of American audiences.

"Abie's Irish Rose," which as a stage play enjoyed one of the longest runs on Broadway, is the delightful story of Abie Levy (Richard Norris), who while overseas with the Armed Forces, falls in love with a spirited colleen, Rosemary Murphy (Jeanne Dru), a USO entertainer. After a whirlwind courtship the couple are married by an Army chaplain and return to the United States where they remain in the home of Abie's widower father, Solomon Levy (Michael Chekhov). To satisfy Solomon's life-long desire that his son marry a girl of his own faith, Rosemary temporarily poses as "Miss Rosie Murphiski," and keeps secret their marriage. So delighted is Solomon with Abie's "girl" that he has Rabbi Samuels (Art Baker) perform a second ceremony.

Complications arise when Rosemary's father, Patrick, (J. M. Kerrigan) planes East from California with Father Whelan (Emory Parnell) to attend the wedding of his daughter to Abie, who he thinks is named Michael McGee. An amusing but turbulent situation ensues when Solomon discovers that his daughter-in-law is in reality a miss from the Emerald Isle, and when Patrick learns of Abie's descent. Both fathers rashly denounce their children and set about quarrelling among themselves, a situation which lends itself for some unusual frolicking.

Welcomed newcomers to the screen are lovely Joanne Dru—Mrs. Dick Haymes in real life—the most enchanting "find" of the year, and Richard Norris, who seems headed for certain stardom. Fans of Michael Chekhov (sensation as the psychiatrist in "Spellbound") will revel in his whimsical interpretation of Solomon Levy.

Comic Opera "The Mikado" Opened Last Nite

The long-anticipated production of the popular Gilbert and Sullivan comic opera, "The Mikado", opened last evening at Victoria Hall after weeks of careful preparation. It is being produced by the Lyric Opera Society Incorporated and sponsored by the Community Council of N.D.G. in order to raise funds to finance its community projects, one of the chief of which is the maintenance and further development of the bi-lingual N.D.G. Library for Boys and Girls.

Directing the Lyric Opera Society in this, its 19th production, is Harry Norris, formerly of the D'Oyley Carte Company, assisted by his wife, who is also stage director. George Newington is accompanist. Music for the play is being provided by the West End Amateur Community Orchestra.

Supporting J. C. Scott in the title role is a strong cast, all of whom have had wide experience in light opera and are well qualified to give this opera its full interpretation as conceived by its original writer and composer.

"The Mikado" will be repeated this evening, but there will be no performance tomorrow. It will resume again on Monday evening, and continue on Tuesday and Wednesday nights. All performances start at 8.15 p.m.
