CONTRACTS FOR FUEL WOOD FOR THE YEAR 1831.

NOTICE is hereby given, that the Commissary General will receive Tenders on MONDAY, the 2d August, 1830, to which answers will be given on the following Monday, for the supply of FUEL WOOD to the Garrison of Quebec, to commence on the 29th April, 1831.

The use of the Government Fuel Yard, will be given up to the Contractor, who is to make the issues in detail to the Troops, upon orders signed by the Officer of the Commissariat, which orders will be paid monthly. The individual receiving the wood is to be at the expense of its conveyance from the yard. The Tender must state the price per Cord, which is to be English, and not French or Canadian measurement. The English Cord is eight feet long, four feet high, by four feet broad, or 128 cubic feet, English; and all issues must be made according to this measurement. As an encouragement to competition, Tenders will be admitted for One or Three Years, so as to offer more certainty to the employment of capital, and to suit the convenience of competitors. The Contractor will be bound to maintain constantly, a dépôt of four months' supply in advance, and every previous information will be afforded to him on application to the Commissariat Office of the nature and extent of the demands. Part of the Fuel Yard will be given over to him to lay in his supply at a convenient season. The dépôt, as to quantity and quality, is to be subject to the inspection and approval of the Commissary General, or proper Officer of the Commissariat, who may be appointed to that duty. The wood is to consist of equal proportions of Maple and black Birch. The payment will be made in British Silver Money, or in Bills at thirty days sight, on His Majesty's Treasury, at the rate of £100 sterling, for every £101 10s sterling, due upon the contract.

Two sureties will be required for the due performance of the Contract, whose real signatures must be affixed to the Tenders.

THE KING'S HEALTH.

WINDSOR, 12 o'clock, Monday night.

Within the last few hours there has been so great a change in the state of the King's health, that the most serious apprehensions are entertained of his almost immediate dissolution. After the physicians had issued the bulletin this morning, his Majesty fell asleep, and continued apparently in sound repose for several hours. About one o'clock, the Duchess of Gloucester and the Princess Augusta arrived at the Castle, and were in conversation with his Majesty for nearly three hours; and having taken refreshment, they departed, and the King again sank into repose. Some time afterwards, the physicians entered the Royal Bedchamber, and found his Majesty reposing in his usual position, but with his hands placed together—seemingly in the attitude of prayer; and they immediately retired. In a short time they again entered the room, and immediately perceived that the King was materially worse, and they submitted to his Majesty the propriety of issuing another bulletin. To this, his Majesty signified a strong objection; and his physicians immediately despatched one of the King's private Messengers to the Duke of Wellington. Between seven and eight o'clock, his Grace arrived at the Castle; and left about half past ten on his return to town. What took place on his arrival, I am not yet able to inform you; nor can I yet inform you whether there is any alteration in the state of the King; but should any thing material occur before the morning, you shall hear of it.

This is a deplorable and most unexpected change. Not five weeks ago, by his Majesty's order, the number of workmen were doubled at the Royal Lodge, in order that the new dining room, in which his Majesty proposed to entertain a large party during the races, might be completed; and it was only in the afternoon of Monday last, that his Majesty, in the course of a long conversation with Lord Maryborough, said, "I hope yet to be at Ascot before the last day of the races!" At that interview, the King desired Lord Maryborough to let every thing connected with the races be conducted precisely the same as though he himself were present; and so little did his Lordship anticipate the very alarming change which has taken place, that he came to the Castle this afternoon, from his seat at Fern Hill, in the expectation of receiving some further instructions from the King, on the subject of his stud.—Morning Herald, 6th June.

We are informed, upon what we consider authority, that the King, not more than three or four days ago, gave directions to his gardener relative to some alterations which he wished to be made in the grounds about the Royal Lodge in the Great Park. Upon this occasion, his Majesty not only conversed cheerfully with the people about him, but actually drew with a pencil a sketch of the alterations he wished to be made. Indeed, his Majesty appears at no time to have entertained any serious apprehensions on the subject of his illness, but he has all along looked forward to a speedy recovery. We have too much reason, however, to believe, that his complaint has, within the last twenty-four hours, taken a decided turn for the worse, and that his medical attendants have no hope of his living many days.—ib.

(COURT CIRCULAR.)

His Majesty received visits yesterday from his sisters, the Princess Augusta and the Duchess of Gloucester, who remained upwards of two hours at the Palace, and then took their departure, about three o'clock, on their return to town.

About half past 12 o'clock, a confidential despatch was sent from the Palace to the Duke of Wellington. About half past six o'clock last evening, his Grace arrived at the Palace, from London, his Grace having left town directly after receiving the despatch.

Sir Henry Hallford and Sir Matthew Tierney were both in attendance on his Majesty during the day, the state of the King being such as to render their presence necessary.

Mr. Brodie left the Palace yesterday morning, and was expected to return in the evening.—ib.

Steam Navigation.—An extraordinary proof of the advantage of steam navigation, is the fact of the arrival of dispatches from Bombay, which were conveyed down the Red Sea by a steamer to Suez, in Egypt. These despatches are dated some back as the 20th of March, in Bombay. This being only a first attempt, its success cannot be so great as will be that of those, when arrangements, suitable to the importance of the voyage, are made. Still 70 days between London and Malabar is rather a short way of transmitting intelligence. Only seven weeks, however, will be the time necessary for the remission of the next despatches by the same route.—(Courier.)

The following are the Commissioners appointed by His Majesty for affixing his signature:—The right Hon. Charles Farnborough, General Sir Wm. Keppel, and Major General Sir Andrew Francis Baring.

An opinion prevails that the death of the Sovereign necessarily brings about an immediate dissolution of the Parliament. The annexed extract from Blackstone, explains the law, as it now stands, on the subject:—"A parliament may be dissolved by the demise of the Crown. This dissolution formerly happened immediately upon the death of the reigning sovereign; for he being considered in law as the head of the parliament, (caput, principium et fons) that failing, the whole body was held to be extinct. But the calling a new parliament immediately on the inauguration of the successor being found inconvenient, and dangers being apprehended from having no parliament in being, in case of a disputed succession, it was enacted by the statutes, 7 and 8 W. III. c. 15, and 6 Ann. c. 7, that the parliament in being shall continue six months after the death of any king or queen, unless sooner prorogued or dissolved by the successor; that if the parliament be, at the time of the king's death, separated by adjournment or prorogation, it shall, notwithstanding, assemble immediately; and that if no parliament is then in being, the members of the last parliament shall assemble, and be a parliament."—(London Times.)

Emigration.—In a former number we stated that emigration to America from this port had exceeded the expectation of the ship agents, and that the bulk of the passengers were Protestants; we could at this time have asserted without fear of contradiction, that nine-tenths of them were. Since that period other ships have sailed with their full complement of passengers. The ship Asia, Captain Ward, for Philadelphia, of which Mr. George Buchanan was agent, was almost exclusively Protestant, and we never witnessed more respectable emigrants; they were most from the neighbourhood of Omagh and Newtown-Stewart. St. John's, New Brunswick, was the place to which the labouring class (principally Roman Catholics) were heretofore anxious to proceed. It is remarkable that very few now go there, although the passage can be procured for 30s. We will shortly turn our attention to this matter, and show the public the effect which the "healing measure" has had upon the Protestants of Ulster.—Derry Sentinel.

An Emigration Committee has been formed in Bicester, (England) for the purpose of enabling the poor of Bicester Market End to emigrate to North America. A meeting was held in the vestry room of the church, on Saturday last, to receive applications from such poor persons as might be desirous of going. Married men were ordered to take their wives with them, in order that the Committee might have the consent of both parties. The following are the terms offered by the Committee in their printed notice:—"The sum of £14 will be given to a man, his wife and six children; and the same proportion for a greater or lesser number; to a single man £3; to a widower, having children, the same as a man, his wife and family. The money will be paid as soon as the parties get on board at Liverpool, and every expense of conveyance and provisions paid by the Committee, from the time of their leaving Bicester until they shall be landed at New York. Those who choose to emigrate must leave Bicester for Liverpool on Monday, May 24."

Since Tuesday, three vessels, the Jane, Enterprise, and Andrew Nugent, cleared out this port with emigrants for America. Notwithstanding the advanced period of the season, hundreds are waiting in Sligo the sailing of other vessels which are fitting up....—(Sligo Journal.)

UNIVERSITIES.

BERLIN.—This school of science and letters has started into manhood with a celerity unprecedented in the annals of education. The cause of its having so rapidly attained a degree of prosperity far exceeding that of its German contemporaries, may be traced to an aggregation of auspicious circumstances; but its primary source has been the liberal and munificent patronage with which it has been cherished by an enlightened government; and next to this, I should be inclined to refer to the advantages it has derived from being located in one of the most considerable and busiest capitals of Germany, where literary and scientific establishments, and a dense population, offer an extensive field for the development of theory by practice. Berlin ranks with the four youngest of our universities; it was founded in the year 1810; and was probably indebted for its institution, to the happy idea of interposing a seat of learning in the wide interval which separates Halle from Konigsberg. There is, I believe, no academical seat in Europe more abundantly endowed with intellectual means in every department of human knowledge; and referring you to the subjoined detail, as a criterion, I shall enable you to judge of its physical endowments (if I may be permitted the expression) by a glance at its leading institutions. Of its libraries, the Royal contains about 170,000 volumes and 7000 MSS.; the University, 75,000; and that of the Academy of Sciences, 50,000. The former is constantly open for the use of students. The Anatomical Museum is the finest in Germany, and has prospered so greatly under Rudolph's active administration, that in the department of animal skeletons alone, it contains above six hundred specimens. The rich collections and perfect arrangement of the Zoological Museum place it among the finest establishments of its class; nor can less be said of the Mineralogical Cabinet. We possess, besides, an Obstetric Institution, with a noble collection of instruments and subjects; a Royal Clinico-surgical Institute, a Medio-clinical Establishment, a Charitable Hospital, a Botanical Garden, a Cabinet of Surgical Instruments, a Theological and Philological Seminary; and, not to weary with a profusion of detail, I shall confine myself to adding, the Royal Academy of Sciences, founded by the celebrated Leibnitz, in 1711, and six learned societies for Natural History, Medicine and Surgery, Pharmacy, Philomatics, Horticulture, and National Industry.

The precise number of students I have not had an opportunity of ascertaining; but I believe it exceeds 1400,* and the majority of them are engaged in the study of medicine and jurisprudence.

The official enumeration of the courses of lectures delivered at the present moment at this university gives the subsequent results:

By 11 professors, 24 courses are giving in theology, by Drs. Neander, Gerlach, Rheinwald, &c.; by 15 professors, 24 in jurisprudence, by Savigny, Gans, Homeyer, Phillips, &c.; by 33 professors, 85 in medicine, by Hufeland, Rudolph, Wolfart, &c.; by 10 professors, 15 in philosophy, by H. Ritter, Hegel, Benecke, &c.; by 7 professors, 13 in the mathematical sciences, by Ohm, Encke, Dirksen, &c.; by 13 professors, 29 in the natural sciences, by King, Lichtenstein, Weiss, Hermbstadt, Mitscherlich, &c.; by 9 professors, 17 in statistics, &c. by Raumer, Stein, Hoffmann, Hermbstadt, &c.; by 8 professors, 11 in history and geography, by Wilken, Raumer, C. Ritter, Stuhl, &c.; by 2 professors, 5 in the history of the arts, by Tolken, Hirts, &c.; by 22 professors, 38 in philology and languages, Zumpt, Boeck, Wilken, Bopp, &c.

So that within the precincts of one single university, and that a university which is comparatively in its infancy, a series of two hundred and sixty one courses of public lectures are provided for the edification of its seventeen hundred pupils.

HALLE.—In respect to this university, a correspondent furnishes us with a similar return. During the present session (1829-30), the following prelections are in course of delivery, viz: 29 in divinity; 19 in jurisprudence; 25 in medicine; 17 in philosophy and pedagogy; 8 in mathematics; 11 in the natural sciences; 15 in philology; 8 in the oriental languages; 5 in modern languages; 4 on the fine arts; and 11 in historical sciences, &c.; forming a total of one hundred and fifty two courses. The number of students during the summer session was 1129."

* During the summer term 1829, it was 1706; of whom 566 studied theology, and 638 jurisprudence.

UNITED STATES.

The Gold Region of Tennessee.—The Nashville Banner contains a letter from Dr. Frost, Professor of Chemistry and Mineralogy in the University of that place, descriptive of the mineralogy of a part of East Tennessee, and of the gold region of that country. This Tennesseean Ophir the Professor believes contains more gold than the African Ophir. It is ten or twelve miles south of the Tellico plains, near the Unika mountains in the Cherokee Indian settlement. The gold occurs in small grains, generally called gold dust, and is obtained by the washing of a stratum of ten or twelve inches of soil. It does not appear to be brought from a distance, but to be produced by the disintegration of the rock of which those mountains are composed, as it is not only found in the small rivulets or brooks, but also on the declivities of the mountains, and on their very summits. These rocks belong to the series of transition or rather to the clay slate formation. The slate has been filled with small tubes of iron pyrites, which are now nearly all in a state of decomposition, leaving these cavities filled with yellow iron ochre. The pyrites are often auriferous, and the gold not being susceptible of decomposition remains unaltered and is disseminated through the soil by the disintegration of the rock, the higher particles of which are carried away by the rains, &c. leaving the heavier ones still remaining among other gravel. This district, therefore, may prove the source of inexhaustible wealth, even to the farmers of the vicinity, as produce has risen in East Tennessee since the working of the North Carolina gold mines. The locality of the present explored gold region is not well calculated for the operation of washing on a large scale, water not being sufficiently abundant. The search for gold is likely to lead to the discovery of other valuable metals or minerals. In every part of the world, the transition formation which appears here, abounds in rich mines of various descriptions. The Professor says:—

"The celebrated mines of the Hartz and Hanover, which produce annually more than fifteen thousand tons of lead and a large quantity of silver, the greater part of those of Hesse, Nassau, and the Ardennes, are situated in a slaty gray wacke. The same is the case with the mines of Lead Hill, and of Wanlockhead. The gold mines of Vorespatak in Transylvania, the lead mines, rich in silver, of Brittany in France, particularly those of Poullaouen and of Auelgou, are in similar rocks.

"Several of the rich veins of Mexico, even the richest of all, la vete medra, at Guanaxoa, is in the same slaty rock, at first considered by Baron de Humboldt as primitive, but at present as belonging to the transition formation. It is also in similar rocks that the celebrated silver mines of Potosi are situated. The gray wacke in those parts of America contain most of the rich veins of silver. Those of Zacateca one of the richest districts of Mexico, are found in this kind of rock. The rich metallic formation I found to commence about Sparta, and to continue beyond the limits of our State. Of its richness in metal, evident traces are here and there to be seen, as for example, on the place of Mr. Meredith, in Roane county, and near the habitation of Dr. Moore, near Danbridge, Jefferson county. Fine iron ore abounds on the plantation of Judge J. Peck, and oxide manganese of a good quality on the plantation of his brother, in the same county, and I have no doubt that several other metals will also be found in the same localities. I would therefore advise the inhabitants to continue their search for gold, and not be too much dejected should they have the misfortune instead of finding a vein of gold, to find one of silver, for this metal will also serve many very good and useful purposes."

For a like reason, many beautiful marbles will be found in East Tennessee. The professor mentions the fine marbles found in other countries, in similar formations, such as that of the Hartz mountains, celebrated by the Italians by the name of rosso coratino corallino; those of the Pyrenees, and those of Namur and Deriant. This same district is equally interesting in other branches of natural history. No where in the United States is there a finer variety of plants, or more beautiful flowers.—Balt. Amer.

From the Baltimore Republican.

In confirmation of our remarks made a few days since in relation to the opening of the trade of the Black Sea, to American Shipping, and the success of the negotiations of Mr. Rhind, we have the gratification of presenting the following letter from Smyrna, with which we have been politely favoured by a friend. We are assured that it can be implicitly relied on.

SMYRNA, April 20, 1830.

"I know you will be gratified to learn that Mr. Charles Rhind's mission to Constantinople has been crowned with complete success. On the 13th inst. he succeeded in concluding a treaty with Turkey, which places our country on the footing of the most favoured nations. Mr. D. A. Offley would leave Constantinople on the 16th, by land with a firman, or permission for Commodore Biddle to proceed in the corvette Lexington, to Constantinople.—Mr. Offley, the Consul, will leave here for Constantinople, by land, immediately after his son's arrival here. When they all unite there, the treaty will be signed by three—Mr. O., Mr. R., and the Commodore. The Java frigate, and Lexington corvette have been at Vourla since the 3d inst. and their stay there so long has given rise to many reports among the good people of Smyrna. A messenger will no doubt be despatched to the U. S. with the treaty, soon after the arrival of the Commodore and Mr. O. there.

The Java will probably wait at Vourla, to take the treaty to Gibraltar.

A letter from Mahon of the 14th May, states that an American frigate had just arrived there from Algiers, with the families of the American, Spanish and Danish Consuls on board. The Dey had detained the Consuls themselves.

COLONIAL.

KING'S COLLEGE, Fredericton.

Among the many blessings we enjoy in this rising Colony, perhaps there is none which we should view with more sincere gratification and thankfulness than our Collegiate Establishment, an institution which although so lately put into active operation, has already become essentially useful and promises to be of permanent benefit to the Province.

The first Eucænia or annual commemoration of the foundation of the University was celebrated on Thursday the 24th ultimo, according to the directions of the Statutes.

On Sunday morning the 20th ult. in the Parish church Fredericton, a most excellent and appropriate commemorative sermon was preached by the Professor of Divinity, the Rev. Dr. SOMERVILLE, in which were eminently displayed both the learning and deep research of the scholar and the true fervid piety of the christian Divine.

The annual meeting of the College Council convened for the Tuesday following, was agreeably to a provision in the Statutes adjourned to the 6th July, that being the day preceding the end of Trinity Term, when the examination of the Students will take place.

On Wednesday the Collegiate School was examined in the College Library in the presence of the Chancellor and Members of the Council. The progress made by the several classes in both departments of the School, (the Classical under the Rev. Mr. COWELL, and the English under Mr. HOLLAND,) was carefully investigated, and the result pronounced highly satisfactory.

At the beginning of the examination it was announced that prizes of Books would be awarded to the two best scholars in each of the three highest classes of both Departments, but the apparently equal merits of three other scholars induced the Council to extend the grant.

On Thursday, the day appointed by the Statutes for holding the Public Act, the Chapel was crowded with a numerous assemblage of Ladies and Gentlemen, desirous of witnessing the interesting ceremonies. At the hour appointed, the Convocation appeared in their full Academical robes and advanced in regular procession through the Great Hall of the College to their places in the Chapel.—The Members being duly seated His Honor the CHANCELLOR rose and opened the proceedings of the day. The Rev. Dr. JACOB, in the capacity of Professor of History, then delivered an elegant Oration in praise of the founders and benefactors of the University; a composition marked by a judicious avoidance of anything like adulation or fulsome flattery, and yet paying a just tribute of praise to those by whose exertions the Province has been so much benefitted in the establishment of the College.

The encomiums on Sir HOWARD DOUGLAS and our late Venerable and much loved Rector Archdeacon BEST, all present must have felt were most deservedly bestowed; indeed, it is to the active exertions of the former, that we are in a great measure indebted for his Majesty's liberal patronage of the institution.

After the oration the following Degrees were conferred. TIMOTHY ROBERT WETMORE, Esq. A. B. was admitted Bachelor in Civil Law, and the Rev. FREDERICK WILLIAM GRAY, A. M., JOHN BLACK, Esq. A. M. and Mr. JOHN JAMES MILLIDGE, A. B. of the University of King's College, Windsor; were incorporated of this University.

The Chancellor then announced "King Alfred" as the subject of an English Essay for the first Douglas Medal, and dissolved the Convocation.

The business of the day being concluded, the Chancellor and Members of the Convocation together with the Company present adjourned to the apartments of the Vice-President and partook of an elegant and substantial Collation, which the hospitality of himself and his lady had provided for the occasion.—Royal Gazette, New Brunswick.

PROVINCIAL.

UPPER CANADA.

We learn with much pleasure, that some of the inhabitants of this place have in contemplation to form a Steam Navigation Forwarding Company, between Kingston and Montreal, via the Rideau Canal. Our good town has not hitherto been remarkable for the enterprise of its inhabitants; and we, therefore, hail with pleasure any indication of the dawning of a new day upon us in this respect. The canal will be completed in the course of next summer, and no doubt is entertained but the greater portion of travelling and transmission of goods will be by this route.—Kingston Chronicle, 17th July.

The crops throughout the Province look remarkably well; and we sincerely hope the weather will continue favorable to the ripening, especially of the wheat crops, which are at present unusually promising.—Id.

DUNDAS, Head of Lake Ontario, 28th June.

Two hundred persons arrived here last week from Europe, and Mr. Paterson (son to a merchant of York) is building a large brewery, 100 feet by 40, of brick and stone. There is a greater stir in Dundas at present than I have ever seen before.—Colonial Advocate.

MONREAL, July 21.

MURDER.—On Friday a private of the 66th Regiment, of the name of Kelly, at present quartered here, was committed to the Jail of this district, charged with the murder of Sergeant O'Neil, of the same Regiment. The unfortunate occurrence took place whilst Sergeant O'Neil was in the act of conveying Kelly to the Guard House for some alleged breach of discipline: actuated by passion he seized a bayonet and stabbed O'Neil in the body, who only survived the injury a few hours. Both O'Neil and the unfortunate man who now stands charged with the murder, were persons of good character and much esteemed in the regiment. It is said that Kelly had never been confined; he has a wife and family of six children, who are well brought up, for their situation in life.

The Gazette of Monday last says, that counterfeit half dollars are in circulation in this city. They are represented as being made of lead, and very clumsily executed.

Melancholy Accident.—On the afternoon of Sunday last, the house of doctor Fortin on the laGuerie river near St. Regis was struck with lightning. At the time of the accident a Mr. McBain accompanied by his wife and some of his children were on a visit to Mr. Fortin and were seated in a parlour with Mrs. F. when the fatal fluid descended on the house. So violent was the shock that when Dr. F. entered the apartment he found all prostrated on the floor in a state of insensibility. Immediate means were used to restore animation which succeeded with all except Mr. McBain, who we regret to say was killed instantaneously. Mr. McBain resided in Dundee settlement, was highly esteemed by all his acquaintances as a man of respectability, integrity and honesty, and has left a wife and several children to deplore this visitation of Divine Providence.—Mr. McBain's sudden death affords a very striking instance of the uncertainty of human life; on Friday last, he was in this city purchasing his stock of Goods, and in less than 48 hours after he was removed to a World of Spirits.

QUEBEC:

THURSDAY, JULY 29, 1830.

A vessel arrived here on Monday from SLIGO having sailed so late as the 20th ulto. Unfortunately, the Captain did not think it necessary to provide himself with the last SLIGO paper, which must have furnished news several days more recent than was received by the Salem, to the 9th June.

With great pleasure we understood, from verbal accounts brought by this vessel, that HIS MAJESTY'S health had taken a favorable turn—that he was not only not dead as the papers by the Salem led us to expect, but was considered something better. This happy change may be attributed to the strength of his constitution, which illness does not seem very easily to undermine. Although we fear from the communications to the EDITOR OF THE ALBION, by Dr. BRODIE, who attended HIS MAJESTY when the legs were punctured, that his ultimate recovery is not to be expected, we cannot but rejoice at this unexpected improvement in his immediate condition.

The SLIGO vessel having brought no paper, and there being nothing later from EUROPE by the UNITED STATES, we have made some further extracts from the papers to the 9th June, notwithstanding they describe the KING'S health despondingly, as they doubtless thought they had good reason to do, at that period.

England.—The Liverpool Courier says, the expected demise of the King, has given rise to many speculations as to changes of Ministry, the probability of a Regency, and the consequent combinations of parties. It is certain, that Prince Leopold has fallen under the wrath of Ministers, who have not been over courteous in expressing it, nor over nice in teaching the papers under their influence to express it. It will follow from this, that all who disapprove of the foreign policy of the Duke of Wellington, will rally round Prince Leopold, and, provided he and the Duke of Clarence keep on good terms, the nucleus of a more powerful and systematic opposition, of which the Whigs will probably be the leaders, will be formed, and the political parties which have of late been so singularly mingled up, will subside into larger and more distinct masses. The Duke of Wellington and the Duke of Cumberland party are said to be coquetting with each other, as a counterpoise. But however these things may turn out, the refusal of Leopold to accept Greece cannot immediately fail to strengthen the side of those, partly Whig, partly Tory, and partly the friends of the late Mr. Canning, who object to the foreign policy which has been pursued by the present Cabinet. This is the true reason why so many phials of abuse have been poured upon the head of this Prince.—For ourselves, we think him deserving of great commendation for his decision, and the letter in which he communicates it, in our judgment, does him great honour. To have accepted a crown under the circumstances which that letter points out, and to be at war with his own subjects, as the instrument of an illiberal policy, which would compel them to give up almost all which made their independence valuable, would have displayed both want of foresight and the absence of right feeling. Even if he erred in judgment, the principle was honorable to him; and let Ministers take the credit or discredit of their own acts without seeking their own justification by illiberal attacks upon him. They have lost a fine opportunity to obtain influence over Greece. This is mortifying; but we see none to blame but themselves, and, perhaps, the result will be that the Greeks will now court Russian protection. They will spurn England as a half treacherous friend, and they will find in Russian friendship the guarantee of an hatred of the Turk, the common enemy, equal to their own. This, however, is not the work of Leopold, nor of the Greeks. They would gladly have received him, and he would have become their sovereign, and thus brought them immediately under the influence of England, had they been treated with any thing like liberality.

In the House of Lords on the 7th, the Earl of Carlisle said, that as the papers laid on the table of the house relative to Greece did not give sufficient information relative to the boundaries of Greece, he wished to move for certain papers containing the remonstrance of the Porte to an extension of the said boundaries. The Earl of Aberdeen could not say that there existed an official statement which afforded the information required by the noble earl; if it did, it should be furnished as soon as possible. The Marquess of Lansdowne read to the house the instructions given to the Ambassadors, or the means they should adopt to procure the sentiments of the Greek people on the subject of the boundaries of the territory; none of the papers on the table afforded such information. The Earl of Aberdeen assured the noble marquess that the protocols on the table contained the desired information. Lord Londonderry asked if any communication existed which could justify, in his mind, the terms made use of by the noble Earl in reference to Prince Leopold. That noble Earl had stated that the illustrious prince had adhered with pertinacity to pecuniary matters relative to the administration of the affairs of that country of which he was chosen to be the future Sovereign. The Earl of Aberdeen said he really did not know what answer to give.—(A laugh.) If the noble marquess would give notice of his intention to discuss his (Earl Aberdeen's) conduct, he should be most glad to meet such discussion.—The papers were then agreed to.

A bill is about to be brought into Parliament to authorize overseers to grant the use of land to paupers, in lieu of parochial relief.

Sir Robert Peel has left £15,000 a year to the present baronet, and £400,000 in money; £230,000 to each of his sons; and 52,000 to each of his daughters.

HIS MAJESTY'S lamented indisposition leaves the intended episcopal arrangements in this anomalous situation, that the Bishop of St. Asaph is said to be a bishop and a half; the Bishop of Exeter only half a bishop; and the intended Bishop of Gloucester no bishop at all!—Standard.

We understand that Lord Castlereagh has been dismissed from the Admiralty Board, with little ceremony, on account of some insubordination on the part of his father, the Marquess of Londonderry.

FRANCE.—The struggle of parties in the elections is drawing on, and government and its agents are as active as the bold position in which they have placed themselves demands. Royal proclamation, the exertions of the prefects, threats, promises, the zeal of the expectants or possessors of place, and the influence of the priesthood, are all put in motion, or are about to be resorted to, in order to carry the point of a subservient majority in the new Chamber, who shall join the Court in destroying the Charter. In the mean time, a strange scene has been acting in Brittany and Normandy. Numerous burnings of houses, cottages, and other property have been systematically perpetrated for several weeks, whilst the police has made no discovery of the incendiaries, and the magistracy has taken little pains, it would seem, to make examples. The liberal press charges these atrocities upon the agents of government, who are said to do them or wink at them, in order to excite terror, whilst the government papers endeavour to throw the odium upon the liberals. Unfortunately, however, for the credit of the latter statement, the persons whose property has been destroyed have been generally of the liberal party; and the police, whose indifference is so strongly marked would scarcely have remained inactive had these violences been in reality suspected to have originated with the friends of the Charter.

The expedition has sailed. The military part of the question will be determined by chances, which lie beyond conjecture; but the political bearings of it are connected with results which must excite discussion. If it fail, of course this will die away; but if a successful lodgment be made in the Algerine territory, the toils of diplomacy, we suspect, will have but to commence. A paper has been put forth in a foreign journal, under an official pretension, which gives a somewhat new view to the case, and one which, if it could be depended upon, would bear a less hostile aspect upon the probable peace of Europe. It states that the object of the expedition is entirely to destroy Algiers, and to leave the whole state unoccupied. Then that Tripoli and Tunis are to be put under the power of the Pacha of Egypt, who is to hold them under the sovereignty of the Porte, and pay a regular tribute, by which it is hoped that Turkey will be compensated for the exactions upon her treasury by Russia. That the Pacha is to bring those countries under civilized habits; render them obligatory to the law of nations; suppress piracy for ever; and provide for the protection of all foreigners who may be there in pursuit of lawful objects.—A great object no doubt would be thus attained. Piracy would be destroyed; commerce encouraged with Northern Africa; the Porte nominally compensated for the loss of Greece; and the balance of power less violently intermeddled with by any party. But we take the whole to be a gloss cast upon ulterior designs. If it were carried into effect, the result would be to render the Pacha of Egypt, in a few years independent of Turkey, and thus to break down that empire into two separate portions; but we have no idea that this is the true project, because we cannot expect that France should be so disinterested as to expend so much money upon her expedition in order to suppress piracy for the public benefit of all commercial states, and to heal the wounds of Turkey. Will she leave Algiers a desert, without regret? Or, if she does, what is to be done with Morocco? There is still a mystery over the true objects of this expedition, which future events must explain. If in reality it has been concerted with other great powers, then we shall by-and-by know the plan; if not it must force on some great changes, should it prove in any good degree successful. Those who now look on must, in that case, interfere in some mode.—Liv. Courier.

In the year 1820, the number of power-looms in Great Britain was 14,000—they are now 55,000, equal to the power of 165,000 hand looms.

We are sorry to announce the failure of an old and respectable manufacturing and mercantile house in the woollen line in this town. The engagements of the firm are said to exceed a hundred thousand pounds, and several of the woolstaplers and dyers of Leeds are heavy sufferers. For the present we avoid stating any further particulars.—Leeds Intell.

It appears that there are employed in manufactures in the parish of Leeds, 233 steam engines, of 3,933 horse power in the aggregate. The quantity of coal annually consumed within the same circle, for manufacturing purposes, is estimated at 15,000 tons; for domestic purposes, 200,000 tons—total 350,000.

The Gazette de France makes the circulation of royalist journals 27,886 per day, and that of the opposition 32,929; the National asserts that the Constitutionnel, Journal des Debats, Courier Francais, and Journal du Commerce sell 32,000. The National gives 53,494 for the sale of the opposition journals, and 19,461 for the royalist.

At the sitting of the Paris Academy of Sciences on the 29th ult, a figure was exhibited, by means of which every part of the human frame may be examined anatomically, without the necessity of having the real object. This figure is intended to be sent to Egypt, for the medical school founded by the Pacha of Cairo, for the use of the younger students.

The King of Bavaria has given orders for the establishment of a Catholic Society, and a Protestant Society, for the dissemination of moral and religious books among the people.

CHEAP FLOUR.—An account appears in the Moniteur, of the discovery by chance, of the means of making flour from wheat straw. This being chopped small and passed through the mill stones, yield a flour, coarse in appearance, but agreeable to the taste and also nutritious. Made into a wash for pigs, or mixed with oats for a horse, is said to be an excellent article of food. The bread which is made from it is superior to much of the common bread eaten by the lower orders on the Continent.

In a letter published in the Moniteur of the 4th of May, M. Collie professes to refute all the doubts expressed in the Quarterly Review with respect to the authenticity and correctness of his journey to Timbuctoo. The French traveller takes the objections one by one, replies to them by long details upon the disputed points, and thus concludes his letter:—"A rival nation entertains a little jealousy at the unexpected success of an undertaking, in the prosecution of which it has expended considerable sums, and lost so many distinguished men. Poor, without support, without science, I have accomplished this task. I am come to tell Europe what Timbuctoo is. Truth constitutes the whole merit of my narrative."

TRINIDAD.

We have been politely favored with TRINIDAD papers to the 23d June last. This Island it appears has at least three newspapers, two of them semi-weekly, the other, the Trinidad Guardian, daily, and both in English and French.

The EDITORIAL article of the Trinidad Guardian of the 22d June is an exceedingly indignant one, commenting in severe terms on the supposed influence of the ANTI-SLAVERY Society in LONDON, over the advisers of the CROWN. We should rather be inclined to doubt that any such influence exists. Sir GEORGE MURRAY has in no part of his COLONIAL management shown a disposition to overlook the vested rights of the SLAVE PROPRIETORS; and we are persuaded he will never violate any principle of justice in his dealings with the SLAVERY question. That great excitement should prevail in the WEST INDIES at the exaggerations and calumnies of those who profess themselves the friends of the Black population is very natural; but the fears of the TRINIDAD Editor can have no other foundation than in a heated and overexcited temperament. Speaking of the ANTI-SLAVERY Society on LONDON, he says: "It is most lamentable to see the pernicious ascendancy which this implacable faction manages to maintain over the advisers of the CROWN, in the face of justice, truth, and every honorable and constitutional principle—but we must bide our time—the day of retribution will assuredly one day come, and whenever it does come, we will take ample vengeance for all our injuries and long sufferings."

The Trinidad Guardian also mentions, that the St. Vincent's Gazette by Authority is principally occupied with a report of, and observations on a Court Martial instituted by Assistant Commissary General ROBERTSON, against Deputy Assistant Commissary General BISHOP, upon charges which have amused the people of ST. VINCENT for 13 or 14 days. The EDITOR says the charges were vexatious, and remarks the great expence it must necessarily put the Government to, even if proved. Major BOZON, 93d Regt. was President of the Court.

Assistant Commissary General ROBERTSON is ordered from ST. VINCENT to MALTA, and is succeeded by Assistant Commissary General JENNINGS.

An undescribed species of the Sword fish, Xepheas, has been met with in JAMAICA. The fish measures, eleven feet ten inches in length, and its sword-like snout was three feet and a half long.

HIS MAJESTY'S ships Arachne and Victor, of 18 guns each, arrived at VERA CRUZ on the 21st of March.

The Winchester, 52, Barham, 50, and Grasshopper 19, were at HAVANA on the 13th April.

CHARLES MACKENZIE, Esquire, Commissioner for the adjudication of slave questions, was expected to arrive at JAMAICA in H. M. S. North Star, Capt. Lord WILLIAM PAGET, M. P.

The Port of Spain Chronicle of the 23d June contains a well written article on the subject of Emigration to TRINIDAD. The number of slaves are said to be gradually decreasing, and ruin is prognosticated to the COLONY, unless the gangs of slaves can be recruited either by new importations, or unless a race of free laborers could be gradually established, sufficiently numerous to lower the price of wages. It is stated that the land is every way worthy of cultivation, that it has been the practice to give away the waste lands to any one who asked for them, and it is suggested to turn these lands to account by selling them, and to pay the expence of the transport of settlers and emigrants from the BRITISH dominions, out of the proceeds. The settlers are then to become free laborers. As far as we can see into the scheme, however plausible the article is written, it appears to us altogether impracticable.

We are sorry to see by these papers that the weather in TRINIDAD and GRENADA had been so extremely unpropitious, that great fears existed of the total loss of the harvest in these islands. The situation of some of the Planters is likely to be deplorable.

Sir GEORGE HILL Bart. the new Governor of St. VINCENT, was not expected in that Island before October next.

Lady and Miss BRISBANE, the widow and daughter of the late Governor, Sir CHARLES, embarked for ENGLAND on the 10th June, under salutes from the Colonial Artillery.

CURE FOR HYDROPHOBIA.

The real existence of such an antidote, a plant indigenous in the new world, is said to have been ascertained by Sir ROBERT KER PORTER in the CARACCAS. This gentleman, in June 1828, transmitted to the Horticultural Society at CHISWICK, and to his brother Dr. PORTER, a packet of seeds for the experiment, together with an authentic detail of their uses and virtues. The Plant is called the GUACO, by the South Americans, and is said, confidently, to be a specific against the bite of venomous animals, snakes, scorpions, and such like. What will be of vastly more importance in countries where these animals are infrequent, it effectually prevents hydrophobia after the bite of a mad dog, on being applied externally to the wound, and continued for forty days.

It is singular also that about the end of November 1828 General DAVID STEWART of GARTH, transmitted from St. LUCIA, of which Island he was Governor, to the Medicobotanical Society of GREAT BRITAIN, his knowledge of a West Indian Plant of a similar important character, it having been found there a complete antidote to the bite of venomous serpents, and he promised to furnish specimens of it.

We trust we shall have further of these valuable discoveries, and of the experiments made upon them in the BRITISH Botanical Gardens.

The following paragraphs are extracted from the Boston Daily Advertiser, one of the best Journals published in the UNITED STATES. They are from the "Notes of a Mail Traveller to the CANADAS." To such travellers as these we are sure our fellow subjects of all classes in the PROVINCES will always be happy to give information, and to offer any courtesies in their power:—

"Quebec is classic ground, and all readers are aware of its interesting objects: the sublime works of nature, the wonderful works of art in the impregnable fortifications, and the imperishable fame attached to the place by the heroic deeds of Wolfe, Montcalm and Montgomery. But in addition to these, the truly Attic elegance and grandeur of the new stone obelisk lately erected, and the chivalrous generosity and discriminating ingenuity in the dedication of it to the immortal memory of both of those heroes, Wolfe and Montcalm, deserved the grateful commemoration and hearty commendation of every one. The respectable societies for literature, sciences and arts, and a museum of natural history, which is lately patronized by the provincial government, deserve all praise, and illustrate that spirit of improvement which is abroad in this land. The immense military works erected and erecting at Quebec are the objects of the highest consideration, and will make it the Gibraltar of America. Eighty thousand pounds sterling a year Great Britain has long been expending to render it impregnable, and the immense strong walls of the French they are now with great difficulty demolishing with gunpowder, to replace them with others still stronger and more conformable to the modern rules of defence. The work is nearly finished round the citadel, a fortification not inferior probably to any one of the day; the casemates afford very excellent barracks. But the great protection on the land side is from the entire deficiency of the thin stratum of soil for an enemy to cover his approaches. A new line of steam boats is soon to run between this place and Halifax; the stock for this purpose is already taken up.

"And now we may be asked, where is the phantom, the rawhead and bloody bones of rebellion, insurrection, and civil war, which stalked abroad so formidably here the last year, if we believe the newspapers? Where is it indeed? We plied this question continually while there, and all the time with sixty or seventy persons in the hotel or steam boat, in vain; not the slightest trace of this Monstrum horrendum, not the shadow of a shade could be found. The fact is, the British Minister declared his readiness to set them off, as soon as they supposed themselves that they were capable of maintaining their independence, and they are dreadfully alarmed lest he take them at their word.—The manners of all classes here are exceedingly polite and obliging; we should be happy if we could extend the compliment to all of our own countrymen we met on the route; but Professor Silliman has published his strictures on this subject, and we admire his honesty and independence.—

Bonaparte has cautioned us to be sure "not to wash our dirty linen before the public," but the ablation in this case must be public as the stain is, unless indeed our numerous clergy will condescend from metaphysics to the minor morals of the people, in imitation of our Saviour and Saint Paul, who have enjoined us not to take the highest seat in the synagogue, but in honor to prefer one another."

The HALIFAX Mail arrived in due course on Monday. The ENGLISH June Mail was not received.

The Proclamation for further proroguing the PROVINCIAL PARLIAMENT to the fifth of October appears in the OFFICIAL part.

The accounts from the UNITED STATES represent the weather to have been exceedingly warm there; but the Thermometer did not indicate a degree of heat at all equal to what was experienced here.

Lately the weather has been cool, and the sky cloudy and overcast. Yesterday and last night very heavy rain fell.

THE RACES.

The subscription list having been liberally filled up, it is naturally expected that the sport at the next meeting will be good. We have heard that three horses will certainly start for the Merchants' Purse, one of whom will of course be the QUEBEC horse, Filho. Rumours are in circulation that Mr. GIBB of MONTREAL is so much occupied with making the course there, that he will not be able to find time to visit our RACES with his two Horses. After so much writing in the papers, and such apparent eagerness to meet Filho, we regret that the lovers of sport should be disappointed of such a Race as might be anticipated, had Brilliant and Timoleon made their appearance.

Several horses, however, will be entered, and we are assured by one of the knowing ones that far better sport than last year's may certainly be anticipated.

We hope there will be an ORDINARY for Subscribers, and regret that the want of proper accommodation will prevent the much wished RACE BALL.

THE CIRCUS.

The amusements of the CIRCUS, under the management of Mr. PAGE assisted by Mr. WEST, commenced last week. Every exertion was made to please, and we understand the house has been very well attended. Master LESLIE is a bold and clever rider, and the rope dancing was well executed.

Last night we are sorry to say, an attempt was made to imitate the late riots in MONTREAL. Billy Button having been announced, as it was expressed in the bills, by desire, a party of oppositionists seemed to have assembled for the purpose of putting down the performance. Mr. WEST as Billy Button was received with hisses and more dangerous marks of disapprobation, so as to compel him precipitately to retire. He shortly afterwards returned, and addressed the audience complaining that he had been hit with a stone in the side. Mr. PAGE then addressed a few sensible words to the opposition, but it seems a row was intended, and it was soon commenced. Sticks were soon procured, and a disgraceful scene occurred, in which severe injury must have been inflicted. The performances were entirely suspended, and the house soon cleared.

The majority of the audience were inclined to support the performance of Billy Button, and certainly the opposition was unjustifiable; but since the feeling exists, we think the Manager had better abstain from playing the piece again.

We understand that but two Constables were in the house. Several Magistrates were in the Boxes, but it was clear that their interference could do no good, and might have resulted in the loss of life or limb.

We trust no more of this will be suffered to disgrace the hitherto peaceful character of Quebec; and that the performances at the Circus will be such as may be witnessed by children without danger, as they certainly ought to be. It is satisfactory to know that every precaution has been taken by the Civil Authority to prevent the renewal of this vulgar rioting, should it be attempted.

The worthy Proprietor of the ALBION, BRITISH paper in New-York, announces his intention of adding to his valuable matter a Price Current and Shipping List, adapted to the Colonies. No additional charge will be made.

Dr. BARTLETT also mentions that he has further improvements in contemplation. He has our best wishes for increased success, although his publication appears to give the most complete satisfaction at present, both for excellence of matter and selections, for the loyalty and ENGLISH tone of feeling it displays, its gentlemanly spirit and talented Editorial paragraphs.

On Saturday morning arrived the Britomart Transport, No. 6, Lieut. W. J. Woodman, Agent, with six officers and 125 N. C. officers and privates of the 32d Regt. The following are the names of the officers Capt. A. S. Reoch, Lieuts. Gardiner, and Wilson, Ensigns Baines and Grogan, and Asst. Surgeon Griffin. The Perseus freight ship in which another Division of the Regiment is to embark, arrived at Kingstown on the day the Britomart sailed—the 2d June.—The Hebe which is to convey the Head Quarters of the Regt. had sailed from Liverpool, but had not then got round.

CRICKET.—We are happy to see this manly old English game getting into vogue in this country—on Friday last a match was played on the field near the No. 3 Tower, between ten of the Garrison Club, and ten gentlemen of the town, which was decided in favour of the latter.

The late hot weather—A Thermometer in the shade in a fair situation near Palace Gate, indicated, at noon, on Wednesday week 98 1/2 of Fahrenheit.

In the Lower-Town the Thermometer indicated, at noon on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday week, 95, 96, and 102.

The Thermometer, kept at the Military Hospital, in St. Louis Street, placed in a sheltered situation with an eastern aspect, but shaded by the Cliff of Mont Carmel, which is close to the east side of the Hospital, has not, any day this year, risen above 88 degrees of Fahrenheit.

An enormous brown muzzled bear was shot on Tuesday in an oat field near Beauport, two balls were fired at him both of which took effect and he was quickly despatched; the carcass was brought in and exposed on the market.

A circumstance has lately occurred which is so intimately connected with the public health as to deserve particular notice:

The ship Jane, from Belfast, Capt. Warnock, having arrived in the harbour on the 10th inst., with emigrants, was immediately boarded by the Harbour Master, who in conformity with the law passed at the last Session for preventing the introduction of contagious diseases, required of the Captain to state whether there was any person sick on board;

It turned out, however, that there were six of the children affected with the small pox, five of whom were put on board some of the Montreal Steamboats, which took them up the river that evening. The other was found the next day on one of the wharves, and immediately sent to the Fever Hospital at Pointe Lévi.

Shipwreck and loss of Lives.—The Schr. Neptune, Boudreault, which arrived on Monday in eleven days from Gaspé, has brought intelligence of the total loss of the Triton from Dublin on Thursday the 8th instant, during a gale from E. S. E., on Cape Rozier.

Sixty of the surviving passengers are on their way to Quebec, in the —, Capt. Bernier; the remainder having spread themselves about in the country adjoining where the wreck took place.

Capt. Boudreault also informs us that a shallop of about 40 tons, belonging to Capt. Abier, loaded with salt, was driven ashore at the same time, and the Captain (Dennis) and the crew drowned.—Old Gazette.
