ALLIES START NEW OFFENSIVE IN KOREA

World News In Brief

Canberra, Oct. 4—(Reuters)—Prime Minister Robert Menzies announced today Australia has decided to provide an additional infantry battalion for United Nations forces in Korea.

* * *

Norfolk, Vt., Oct. 4—(AP)—The United States freighter Marore ran aground in stormy seas three miles southeast of Cape Henry today but freed herself shortly afterward and anchored in deep water.

The coast guard recalled a cutter it had sent to the freighter's assistance.

The Marore, a 8,500-ton vessel, normally operates between Baltimore and Cuba in the ore trade.

London, Oct. 4—(Reuters)—British forces in Korea are to get tax-free gratuities "in recognition of special services rendered," defence minister Emanuel Shinwell announced yesterday.

Amounts will depend on rank and length of service of three months or more. A private with three months service will get £10. For each additional month he will get £1. A sergeant will get £11 for three months. A lieutenant gets £17 3s. For three months and a lieutenant-general £27. Corresponding ranks of the navy and air force will get the same amounts.

New York, Oct. 4—(CP)—If you walked up to the front desk of the Hotel Edison here today you would be asked an unusual question: Do you support the Yankees or Giants in the world series. Then, you'd be assigned a room on a floor with fellow rooters. "Avoids trouble," explained manager John Pringle.

Communist Counter-Attacks Slow Down Advance After U.N. Troops Gain 4 Miles

Princess Patricias Touch Off New U.N. Offensive

Western Front, Korea, Oct. 4—(CP)—The Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry yesterday touched off a fierce new United Nation's assault which today had troops of nine countries smashing at communist resistance along a 40-mile front in western Korea.

Reports from United States Eighth Army headquarters said today the Canadians, part of the Canadian 25th brigade forming up for an attack with the Commonwealth division, unwittingly touched off the big battle.

Chinese troops opposite the Patricia's had launched a probing attack at 1:10 a.m. Wednesday and ran smack into the Canadians.

The report said the Patricia's shot the force to pieces and blasted the remnants with artillery. The Reds scattered.

An hour later, headquarters said, the Allied artillery barrage was roaring along 32 miles of the western front.

Other reports, delayed by censor yesterday, said tank-supported infantrymen of the Commonwealth division jumped off before daybreak Wednesday from positions north of the Imjin river.

By nightfall the infantrymen dug in to prepare for fresh assaults after their first rapid advances met little or no opposition and later ones encountered fierce resistance in hand-to-hand fighting.

Spectacular hill climbing by giant British Centurion tanks into fire-support positions helped the foot soldiers drive into defences on the high hill dominating the division's front.

This sector was inside the giant "U" north and west of the winding Imjin river and east of the Samichon river.

The first Commonwealth offensive as a full division was fought over rugged, thickly-wooded hills in an almost trackless area unmarked by any sizable town or landmark. Probably the most amazing exploit of the day was the climbing by the 57-ton tanks of the Hussars regiment to hill-top positions from where they hurled 20-pound shells in support of their comrades.

The sluggers also received thundering support from heavy artillery and from Naplam (jellied-gasoline) bombing planes in three air strikes.

Infantrymen bagged six Chinese prisoners in their first day's assault on an estimated Chinese division of 6,000 men facing them.

Maj.-Gen Jim Cassels, division commander, expressed satisfaction over the first phase of the offensive, and said his men were "off to a very good start."

The 44-year-old Cassels spent much of the day driving his own jeep across the front. This morning he personally directed supporting artillery fire.

Cassels' troops and tanks for 36 hours before the offensive began to move deceptively into attack positions by crossing fields and hills and staying off the few roads under Chinese observation. A heavy fog provided unexpected cover for the jump-off at 5 a.m., and for more than an hour after-

Infantrymen From Nine United Nations Take Part In Battle.

By NATE POLOWETZKY

U.S. Eighth Army Headquarters, Korea, Oct. 4.—(AP)—Fierce Red counter-attacks slowed a sweeping allied offensive on the western front today.

But infantrymen of nine United Nations attacking along a 40-mile front stretched the advance in their two-day offensive to four miles in some places.

The longest gains — two miles Wednesday and two more Thursday — were made by Canadians.

But American and Greek troops, fighting over ridges west of Yonchon in the centre of the offensive, were forced to make small withdrawals Thursday along a 10-mile sector.

A hundred U.N. planes roared down on strongly dug-in Chinese troops.

The Reds fought stubbornly against the big U.N. offensive. Five attacking allied divisions were supported by British 57-ton tanks and tipped by flame-throwing infantrymen.

The longest gains on both days of the attack were made by the Commonwealth division, in operation for the first time as a unit. Most of the British advance Thursday was made by the Canadian 25th Brigade, some against relatively-light opposition.

West of Yonchon the Canadians were engaged with two communist companies early in the day, but they finally pushed the Chinese back.

The Reds left about 30 men behind in a rear-guard action. The Canadians disposed of them in 20 minutes of bloody hand-to-hand fighting.

As a result, Commonwealth forces have pushed out four miles above their main lines since the offensive got underway at dawn Wednesday.

The U.S. 1st Cavalry Division met stubborn resistance as they tried to advance northwest of Yonchon. The Americans made limited gains against heavy Red mortar and artillery fire.

An Eighth Army briefing officer said the Chinese "threw a number of counter-attacks against the cavalrymen, "forcing slight withdrawals in one area."

Another cavalry regiment north of Yonchon ran into stiff communist resistance.

Soldiers of the U.S. 3rd Division were hit by two counter-attacks west of Chorwon Thursday. Foot troops were forced to pull back from some hill positions.

Puerto Rican troops of the 3rd Division ground out limited gains in the area north and west of Chorwon.

A pooled dispatch from the eastern front said heavy Red mortar and artillery fire forced an allied tank-infantry patrol to pull back Thursday after it probed up a valley east of Heartbreak Ridge.

French and American troops reported strong Red resistance from

Former Nazi Is Snubbed By Canadian

Jakarta, Indonesia, Oct. 4—(Reuters)—A high Canadian official of the United Nations refused to shake hands with Hjalmar Schacht, Hitler's financial "wizard," at a reception last night.

Guests quoted the official, Dr. Hugh Keenleyside, director-general of the U.N. assistance administration, as saying: "I know your black record. I shall have nothing to do with you."

Later, according to a statement issued by the administration's Jakarta office, Keenleyside called Schacht "a disgrace to the human race" and "an unprincipled turncoat and a despicable scoundrel." Schacht is here to advise the Indonesian government on financial reforms.

The statement said: "at a buffet reception given by Sir Mirza Ismail (resident representative of the technical assistance administration in Indonesia) the host presented to Dr. Keenleyside Mr. and Mrs. Schacht.

"Dr. Keenleyside shook hands politely with Mrs. Schacht but withdrew his hand at once when Mr. Schacht offered to shake.

"Dr. Keenleyside said: 'I share the opinion of all decent people who know Schacht's history, and I cannot shake hands with a man having such a record.'"

Schacht was president of Hitler's reichsbank and later finance minister. He was cleared of war crimes at the Nurnenburg trials.

Dr. Keenleyside is known to friends and associates in Ottawa and throughout the diplomatic service as forthright in his beliefs and actions but strictly formal and restrained in his personal relations.

He has served as ambassador to Mexico and as deputy minister of mines and resources, the position he left a year ago to head the U.N. technical assistance commission.

Previously he had held high office in Canadian missions aboard including the wartime Canadian embassy in Tokyo. He was one of the chief aides to Prime Minister Mackenzie King in escorting the King and Queen through Canada in 1939.

Recently Dr. Keenleyside distinguished himself in another field when he won first prize as a pie maker at an Ottawa district fair.

Iranian Dispute Hot Issue As U.K. Commons Convenes

London, Oct. 4.—(AP)—A tense House of Commons gathers today to wind up its affairs, angry over the loss of the oil refinery at Abadan and shocked by the nose-dive of Britain's gold and dollar assets.

Members were scheduled to hear a proclamation from the King dissolving parliament and clearing the way for the Oct. 25 elections.

Both the loss of Iranian oil and the country's financial plight were expected to be hot issues.

There were signs of such bitterness among the members over the government's abandonment of the huge Abadan plant that the impartial Speaker of the House was prepared to halt any effort to discuss it in order to preserve traditional decorum.

While Britain was staggering at the loss of Abadan — its greatest single foreign investment — the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Hugh Gaitskell, came out with more bad news.

He told the country last night that gold and dollar reserves of the British-banked sterling area had shrunk by $598,000,000 in the last three months and now were only $3,269,060,000. Members of the sterling bloc are Burma, Iraq, Iceland and all members of the Commonwealth except Canada.

This is the worst economic position Britain has been in since the crisis of 1949 forced devaluation of the pound from $4.03 to $2.80.

What the gap actually means is that these countries bought $598,000,000 more worth of things which must be paid for in gold or dollars than they sold for those currencies.

The Conservative Daily Telegraph indicates the opposition keynote in an editorial today: "What Gaitskell did not explain was why steps were not taken by the government long ago to strengthen the country's finances so that they would be better able to meet the difficulties that plainly lay ahead."

The Times soberly calls it "indeed a dramatic reversal of fortune."

Britain owes the United States $4,350,000,000 for lend-lease and for loans arranged in 1946. Gaitskell disclosed that the first instalment of capital will be paid Dec. 31, but the government has made no decision on paying the U.S. $87,000,000 interest.

Loss of Iranian oil means that a large part of the fuel for the sterling area now must be bought in dollar regions, thus adding to the difficulties.

Raymond Blackburn, an independent Member of Parliament, has served notice that he will ask Prime Minister Attlee "what action he is taking to redeem his failure to honor his word, in that he did not fulfill his promise that this House should be recalled if His Majesty's government accepted complete exacuation of Abadan?"

Attlee pledged in July that a rear-guard of Britons would be retained in Abadan.

Many believed his statement implied it would be done by force if necessary.

Political quarters indicated there was little chance Attlee would volunteer a statement on the issue.

If Attlee does not initiate a discussion, the Speaker may prevent the question from reaching the floor merely by ruling it out of order.

Conservative charges that Attlee broke his word by pulling out of Abadan were parried yesterday by Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison in a speech to the Labor party congress at Scarborough.

He defied Conservative leader Winston Churchill to "say whether in his judgment we should have gone to war with Persia (Iran)." He insisted that Attlee "did not say he would use force."

The present House of Commons has been sitting since the last general election in February, 1950. That polling gave the Labor party a razor-thin majority of six to 10 votes in the 625-seat chamber. Under major political pressure from the Tory opposition, the Labor government has lived precariously through some of the toughest economic and political situations in post-war history.

First-Hand Check

Bradley Back, Says There Is Chance To Win Military Decision In Korea

Washington, Oct. 4—(AP)—Gen. Omar Bradley came back from the Korean war zone today with word that "there is a chance of winning a military decision in Korea."

The chairman of the joint chiefs of staff arrived by military plane after a week of conferences with military leaders in the Far East. He was accompanied by Mrs. Bradley and State Department counsellor Charles Bohlen, an expert on Russia.

Neither the General nor Bohlen would discuss the stalemated cease-fire negotiations.

Bradley declined to comment on the purpose of the Eighth Army drive that started yesterday on the western end of the line.

"When you see the morale of the Eighth Army," Bradley added, "you feel that they can do most anything and take anything the enemy might throw against them."

Bradley made a two-day tour of the battle front and conferred secretly in Tokyo with Gen. Matthew Ridgway.

At the time of his departure last Wednesday, there had been speculation that he was carrying to Ridgway plans for new and larger military operations.

Tokyo, Oct. 4—(AP)—In an abrupt exchange of messages today, communist and allied commanders each proposed that Korean truce talks be resumed immediately—but disagreed on a site.

Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway injected a new note into the situation by telling the Reds to pick a new site—as long as it was in no-man's-land. If it looks good to him, he said, armistice negotiations can resume at once.

Earlier communist commanders proposed immediate reopening of talks at the original site, Red-controlled Kaesong.

The Reds started today's exchange by breaking a week-long silence. As a new allied offensive roared within earshot of Kaesong, they answered a message Ridgway sent them last Thursday.

The Reds rejected Ridgway's suggestion that talks start anew near Songhyon, a no-man's-land village six miles southeast of Kaesong. They said the suggestion was "devoid of reason".

The communists said it would provide no new assurance that neutrality agreements would be observed. Instead they suggested:

"Both sides immediately resume the conference at Kaesong. At the first meeting . . . appropriate

Evacuation Of Abadan Is Completed

Abadan, Iran, Oct. 4—(AP)—British oilmen wound up their evacuation of the Abadan oil refinery area today with even the Royal Navy withdrawn.

A British source said that in a last-minute change of plans the final British destroyer had departed.

Earlier plans, it was reported, had been to keep two destroyers anchored off the refinery area after the cruiser Mauritius took away 280 employees.

Maj. C. F. Capper, British consul-general, planned to leave this afternoon for Basra, Iraq, in a consulate launch. Iran has ordered him out of the country. Consul L. G. Pinhey already is here to take his place.

Ten top Anglo-Iranian Oil Company executives left by automobile for Basra this morning. They and Capper were expected to leave on the last evacuation plane from Basra for London.

Tehran, Iran, Oct. 4—(AP)—Premier Mohammed Mossadegh wept today as he told the Majlis (parliament) that the British government had no right to bring the Iranian oil dispute before the United Nations Security Council.

Calling the oil-nationalization problem an internal dispute with the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company, Mossadegh told the deputies he will leave Sunday to argue Iran's case in New York.

Mossadegh wiped away tears as he said "I am sure that on this trip I will enjoy the prayers and support of the Iranian people, and I am sure that almighty God will help me and the nation."

The Premier will head the delegation which includes four members of the parliamentary oil board.

The security council met last Monday at the urging of Britain. Over Russian and Yugoslav objection, it voted to consider Britain's complaint that Iran's expulsion of British technicians after the nationalization threatened world peace.

The Iranian delegate obtained a postponement until Oct. 11 to allow the Premier to reach New York.

King George May Preside At Meeting

London, Oct. 4.—(Reuters)—The King, who underwent a major lung operation just 11 days ago, tomorrow may hold a sick-room meeting of his Privy Council to dissolve Parliament.

This was disclosed today following a Buckingham Palace medical bulletin saying the Monarch continued to make steady progress in his convalescence.

The King himself appoints the Privy Council — composed of statesmen and others — to advise him on high constitutional affairs. It is normally summoned before a royal proclamation ends the life of a Parliament.

But should the King not feel well enough to take part in tomorrow's ceremony he can delegate authority to sign the proclamation to the Queen.

Lady Violet Will Enliven U.K. Campaign

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, Oct. 4.—(CP)—Clement Richard Attlee says that Lady Violet Bonham Carter is a dead fly.

Lady Violet Bonham Carter says that Clement Richard Attlee is a political refrigerator.

That's the first round in one of the surprise battles of the general election—between the genteel, mild-mannered Labor Prime Minister Attlee, who seldom calls anybody a bad name, and peppery, 64-year-old Lady Violet, one of the Liberal party's star speakers.

Bred in the blue as far as politics are concerned—her father was Rt. Hon. H. H. Asquith, first Earl of Oxford and Asquith and one-time Prime Minister—Lady Violet is back on the hustings after a long absence.

She was adopted Tuesday night as Liberal candidate for Colne Valley. Attlee, who passed that was last Saturday, had the temperity to refer to her as a Conservative and a "dead fly."

Replied Lady Violet:

"Am I a dead fly? I can only say I don't feel like one. I mean to do some flying and some buzzing and even, possibly, some stinging in the next few weeks."

Then, in a reference to former Cabinet Minister Aneurin Bevan, she added:

"Is Mr. Attlee Bevanite? If not how can he welcome Bevanite support without breaking every tradition of political honesty and integrity?

"Well Mr. Attlee tell me—is he a dead fly in Mr. Bevan's web or is it vice versa?"

Lady Violet said it was no reflection on Attlee to say that his speech last Saturday was neither hot nor strong. The Prime Minister was a political refrigerator. He had an uncanny gift, almost to genius, for lowering the political temperature of any situation he took part in.

Lady Violet was not a candidate in the last election. This time, she has a straight fight against Labor — and Conservative support. But she said emphatically this does not mean she is anything but a Liberal.

One of the saltiest platform speakers in British politicals, Lady Violet has been warming up for the present campaign. In a recent speech, she unburdened herself of these sallies:

Labor manifesto — "One of the dreariest documents it has ever been my lot to plow through. If

Russia Explodes 2nd A-Bomb Continues To Make Weapons

By ELTON C. FAY

Washington, Oct. 4—(AP)—Russia has exploded a second atomic bomb and is pushing ahead with production of nuclear weapons, the White House announced yesterday.

The announcement, coming just two years and two weeks after President Truman disclosed the first atomic explosion in Russia, gave no further details.

But the announcement raised anew the question whether atomic warfare might flare in Korea.

There communist troops and United Nations' forces are in stalemated battle. Is resort to atomic arms contemplated? There are these facts:

1. The announcement that "another atomic bomb has recently been exploded within the Soviet Union" and that Russia, despite pretensions that her atomic energy program is only for peaceful purposes, "is continuing to make atomic weapons."

2. An assertion by Senator Bourke Hickenlooper (Rep. Iowa), former chairman of the Senate-House atomic committee, that powerful new atomic weapons are available for use in Korea.

3. The claim by Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, while on a Far-East trip, that U.N. forces can fight the war to a successful "military conclusion" if truce talks fail finally. The General did not make any explanation of how this would be done against a numerically superior enemy.

The brief White House statement stressed "again the necessity for that effective, enforceable international control of atomic energy which the United States and a large majority of the members of the U.N. support."

Apparently evidence of the Russian release of atomic energy was fortified by an actual record of the explosive shock. A Congressional source said a seismographic record showed the explosion was "very successful."

It appeared to have occurred within the last few days.

And it was of the nuclear fission type, not a hydrogen bomb explosion, it was explained in other quarters.

There was also some evidence that the Russians had failed in another atomic explosive test before the successful one.

United Nations, N.Y., Oct. 4—(AP)—Some United Nations diplomats speculated today that Russia touched off its latest reported atomic explosion as a demonstration of force to back up Moscow's bargaining in critical world discussions.

They said Russian atom-bomb reports have catapulted the atomic problem back into a high-priority rating on the Assembly calendar when it meets in Paris Nov. 6.

There was some speculation that Moscow may also have designed its demonstration to back up Russian bargaining if Moscow gets agreement on holding a big-four conference.

The atomic question has been dormant in the U. N. since the White House announced in September 1949 that the Russians had the atomic secret. Demands followed for U.N. decision on plans for atomic control. But the problem dragged along between unyielding U. S. and Soviet proposals.

President Truman suggested last year that the U.N. atomic energy commission could be merged with the U.N. commission for conventional armaments, set up in 1946 to plan for disarmament.

A committee of 12 at the last General Assembly approved the merger plan several weeks ago. It calls for a single commission of 12 members responsible for the Security Council.

This plan will come up for final approval in the Paris Assembly.

The Russians opposed the merger plan because it includes a sentence endorsing once more the majority plan for control of atomic energy.

That plan calls for control of atomic energy by an international commission and effective safeguards against evasion of the atomic code.

The Russians call for immediate prohibition of the atomic bomb, and periodic inspection of such facilities as each country declares it owns.

JACOBY ON CANASTA

USE DISCRETION IN CANASTA GAME

"Just how wrong was I?" asks a San Francisco correspondent. "My partner and I had 3200 points and the opponents had 4500 points. This was the last hand (in all probability) of the last game for the evening.

"Before my partner or I had a chance to make our initial meld, the opponents had a red trey, their initial meld of 120, several other melds, a mixed canasta, and about six cards apiece in their hands.

"We finally made our initial meld and got up to a six-card meld. My partner then asked for permission to go out. I refused, knowing that we would surely lose the game if the hand ended then and there.

"As a result, the hand went on. The opponents tried to meld out, but couldn't quite manage. Meanwhile, my partner and I developed several sixcard melds, of which three were made up of natural cards only.

"Just as I was beginning to hope, the opponents went out. The final score showed that they had beaten us by 1600 points.

"I was then scolded (not only by the opponents but also by my partner) for "dragging the game out." I insisted that I was going to play to win as long as there was a spark of life.

"Just how wrong was I?"

The answer depends on why you play cards. In addition, you must consider the feelings of the other players and the lateness of the hour.

If it is just a family game and the hour is already late, the friendly policy is to resign cheerfully. Otherwise people will be reluctant to start a game with you if there is any chance that it will run past the time that they like to go to sleep.

If you're playing in a club or in a tournament, you don't owe that sort of consideration to the other players. If you want to fight tooth and nail, the other players must let you have your way and they have no right to beef about it.

In a tournament, your attitude would be 100 per cent correct. You keep fighting as long as there is the slightest chance to pull the game out of the fire. You never quit, and you have a right to expect your partner will be equally unyielding.

"Darling," she said, "I'm so sorry about the overdraft. Guess I went haywire. It went to my head being able to do the things I'd always wanted to." The tears swam in her eyes, or had a trick of the light deceived him? "There was no holding it in after the success of the little red bicycle."

"The little red bicycle?"

"Hm—hm!" She sat on the sofa cross-legged like a small child, looking at him guiltily from under her thick dark eyelashes. "The day I went out to see your mother, I saw little Susie next door. So sad, so alone. Limping around like I did when I was a kid and hurt my ankle. I remembered what I'd wanted and never got. So I drove along to the hardware store and I found one." Nora laughed a little. "The hardest part was persuading her mother it was all right to let her keep it."

Harry's heart began to thud against his ribs and his throat felt like a lump was in it. "Get your check stubs," he said thickly, "I'll go through them with you."

"Don't be angry," she pleaded going to the desk. "It's only this once. You don't know any of these people."

It was as he guessed, and dared not hope for. Every one of the checks was for something wonderful for relative or friend, something as she explained they had

DATE SET FOR LOU COSTELLO'S LAWSUIT AGAINT DEAN MARTIN

Hollywood—Exclusively Yours: Dean Martin may roll on the floor laughing about it, but Bud Abbott wants to give him some competition for the title of Hollywood's best-looking straight man.

Bud — steady yourself — has sprouted a mustache.

And—hold on—"He looks like Errol Flynn," Lou Costello whispered.

"In fact," said Lou, "he's a better actor because of that mustache. It's pepped him up. We'll probably have him get the girl in our next picture."

Bud sprouted the mustache for the first Abbott and Costello color film, "Jack and the Beanstalk," which Lou claims is their funniest yet. "It's a live Disney," he enthused. "I'm a jerk but the giant is jerkier. It's a howl."

Will it ever be "Abbott and Costello Meet Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis?"

Never on the screen, Lou indicated, but:

"I'm going to meet Dean Martin Oct. 15 in New York."

That's the date for a hearing on Lou's lawsuit against Dean, claiming he discovered him, paid for a nose bobbing operation, fed him, got his salary up to $600 a week and that Dean now owes him 25 per cent of everything he's earned.

"The guy," wailed Lou, "has never paid me a dime."

Hollywood Gets Even

Hollywood turned Techni-color blue when television put movietown on the hot plate in its telebiography of D. W. Griffith but now it's TV's turn to boil. A running gag in "Rhubarb" is blurred, jumpy and always-out-of-focus television sets. But even the TV fans, I predict, will howl at this comedy of a cat that inherits $30,000,000 and a baseball team. It's the cat's meow.

Columbia's publicity department and the Stanley Kramer press agents huddled on whether to drum up the fact that Rex Harrison, who will co-star with Lilli Palmer in "Four Poster," has had a change of heart about Hollywood. They decided to let Rex make his own peace with his movietown enemies.

Whoppin' Fish Story

Bill Demarest lost his nine-year presidency of Hollywood's "No-Catch-Marlin-Club" by landing a 143-pounder off Balboa. The fish, he wails, cost him exactly $18,000—nine summer vacations at $2000 each.

The censors finally okayed Gig Young's monumental alcoholic binge in "Come Fill the Cup." It's never empty for Gig in the film.

Hollywood's cycle of anatomical movie titles—"Song in My HEART," "Belles on Their TOES," "About FACE," and "The World in his ARMS"—seems to be getting out of hand. The day Fox winds up "Five FINGERS," Stanley Kramer will start shooting "The 5000 FINGERS of Dr. T."

SHORT TAKES: Walt Disney will re-issue his 1937 hit, "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," early next year . . . Red Skelton shed 15 pounds for his TV debut. Kirk Douglas' role in "Champion" has earned him $100,000 to date. His deal for the film was $15,000 in cash, $35,000 deferred, and 5 per cent of the profits.

Party Welcomes Teaching Staff At North Hatley

North Hatley, Oct. 4. — A party, to welcome the teaching staff of the North Hatley Consolidated School, which has become an annual feature, was held in the Community Hall under the sponsorship of the North Hatley Home and School Association, and the North Hatley Women's Institute. The teachers were introduced to the assembled parents and friends in the community, by Mr. Gordon Samson, principal of the school. Mrs. Nelson Pike, teacher of grades one and two; Miss Muriel Riley, grade three; Miss Davidson, grade five; Mrs. Little, grade six and seven, Mr. Samson, principal, and Mr. Scott, assistant principal, teaching grades eight, nine, ten and eleven. Following the introduction of the teachers, a social hour of games was enjoyed, beginning with a Grand March, and concluding with a sing-song. Mrs. Kenneth Bryce, president of the Women's Institue, directed the Grand March and the games. Mrs. G. E. Bennett played the piano. Mrs. Maurice Bowen was chairman of the committee in charge of the refreshments, and Mrs. Frank Woodward, of the Home and School Association was the chairman of the committee which arranged the program.

"always yearned for, but never hoped for."

"So that's the score," he said, quiet with a deep shame when they came to the end and not a dollar had gone on anything for herself.

"Guess I overdid it," she said anxiously, "but you said it was my money." She hurried on, "and besides it brings you luck. I mean I always meant to use my first check on a little red bicycle for somebody."

Harry put the bunch of stubs into his pocket to put away later as a family treasure. "Don't apologize Nora, it's just me that's slow of understanding."

She put her arms around his neck. "But it's simple to understand. I had you, so what more could I need? They had nothing; I had everything——"

He had thought he had been happy, but he knew now he had not known what happiness was till now. What could a plain guy like me do to deserve it, he thought, as he turned within the circle of her arms and kissed her.

Harvest Service At Bishopton

Bishopton, Oct. 4.—The annual Harvest service was held at the church of the Good Shepherd recently. The church which was decorated with autumn flowers and vegetables proclaimed the "glory of the harvest season." A large congregation gathered to hear the impressive sermon preached by Canon Belford, of Marbleton, special music was sung with Mrs. Leslie Shore, of Kenogami, at the organ.

Following the service the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. William Lancaster was baptized, receiving the names Mack Nelson. The godparents were Mr. and Mrs. William Lancaster.

Q—What fruits are considered most nutritious?

A—All fruit is classified as a protective food for the body. Each group has its own protective qualities.

Miscellaneous Shower Given At Eustis

Eustis, Oct. 4.—A miscellaneous shower was given at the home of Mrs. Lunderborg, of Eustis, in honor of the approaching marriage of Miss Beryl Humphrey.

The guest of honor was escorted by Mrs. Lundeborg to a chair, gaily decorated in pink and white and a table was piled with daintily wrapped gifts for the bride-to-be from the thirty or more guests present when unwrapped by the bride-to-be they were found to contain beautiful articles of glass, china, linen and kitchen ware for which Miss Humphrey thanked her friends sincerely.

Refreshments followed, served by the hostess and other friends.

Beside those from Eustis, there were ladies present from Hatley, North Hatley, and Sherbrooke.

First Day Of Red Cross Clinic Is Great Success With 420 Donors

What thought occurs to people when they hear the slogan:

"Be a Red Cross Blood Donor?" Or do they stop to think at all?

These are the questions a weary doctor asked last night as the last of 420 donors left the clinic. The doctor had just completed ten hours on his feet working with donors and still he had the time and concern to worry why more people do not turn up to donate their blood. The doctor was Cecil Harris, director of the Quebec Red Cross Blood Transfusion Service.

In reply to the above questions, Dr. Harris suggested that perhaps the people do not realize that this blood transfusion service is a community blood bank, organized by the Red Cross, not for the Red Cross but for the people themselves. When you give blood, you are insuring the lives of not only thousands of people, but perhaps one day, your very own life.

Dr. Harris went on to say that the response from the people in Sherbrooke at this clinic, so far, was splendid. The 420 bottles of blood donated at yesterday's clinic exceeded all records of blood previously donated by civilians in one day.

However, he said, according to the census of population it is absolutely necessary that one in every twenty persons be a blood donor. The importance of blood transfusions has increased tremendously.

Modern surgery has a demand for blood that, in the past, has, relatively speaking, been negligible. Virtually, blood transfusions are necessary for every kind of major operation today. So often people are confused by the idea that transfusions are essential only in severe accident cases but this is a fallacy that is easily disproved by the fact that patients suffering from shock and loss of blood must have that blood restored and their strength built up; this is made possible only by giving a transfusion.

Dr. Harris said that of all the blood used in Montreal hospitals, 60 per cent was used in routine surgery and only 40 per cent in acute emergency cases.

A very good example of paramount significance at the present time is the lung operation undergone by the King, when, it is estimated, close to six bottles of blood would have been required.

The three major instances where transfusions are invariably needed are brain surgery, heart surgery, and lung surgery. A lung, or part of a lung removal, necessitates at least one blood transfusion, and could not be done without blood, enabling any reasonable chance of success.

Also to be considered are blood transfusions with regards to civil defence and warfare emergencies. To illustrate the former the Winnipeg flood can be mentioned. At that time it would have been very difficult to run donor clinics in the city and as a result blood was flown to that vicinity from Vancouver, Calgary, Edmonton and

Y's Men's Club Celebrates 27th Year Of Founding

Highlight of last month's meeting of the Y's Men's Club was the cutting of a birthday cake to celebrate the 27th anniversary of the founding of the local Club.

Peter Taylor, newest member, blew out the 27 candles and Ed. Loomis, oldest member in length of membership, did the honors with the knife.

The local Y's Men's Club is one of the first six clubs to be started up in Y's Men's international which was born with the Toledo, Ohio, club only 29 years ago.

The Sherbrooke club is third oldest Y's Men's aggregation in Canada, only behind Sydney, N.S., and Vancouver. Y'sdom now embraces 411 active clubs all over the world with a total membership of approximately 11,000.

President Jeff Wilson was in the chair for the meeting and read a letter congratulating the Sherbrooke Y's Men on their anniversary from Robert Waite, regional director.

Seated at the head table with the president were: Mac Bradshaw, Mr. Taylor, Ken Strew and Dick Crotty.

Mr. Crotty introduced a guest, Dave Gillett.

Mr. Taylor read and distributed the club's financial statement, which had been audited by himself and Ross Hunting.

Mel Porter asked for a vote on the darts and the club decided not to enter the E.T. Darts League as a separate team, this year.

So-Ed Presents Mrs. C. B. Howard And Pupils In Interesting Program

Members of So-Ed and the general public, who were admitted to this special function of So-Ed, were treated to an interesting lecture on song by Mrs. C. B. Howard at the Y.W.C.A. last night. To add to the great enjoyment of the large audience, Mrs. Howard presented several of her pupils in vocal illustrations of the types of song about which she spoke.

Mrs. John Dorrian, member of the So-Ed committee, introduced Mrs. Howard who was thanked by Morris C. Austin. Mr. Austin aptly summed up the feeling of the audience towards the lecture and the songs when he said that: "It was exemplified in your pupils tonight, Mrs. Howard, that the purest music is vocal."

The vocalists assisting in the lecture were: Jean Scarth, Yolande Champoux, Kenneth Halpenny, Luce Trigganne and Camille Gagnon. Mrs. Howard, Mrs. Halpenny and Lorette Codere shared the piano accompanists.

"The song was late in the evolution of music," Mrs. Howard said as she traced the origins of music from the rhythm of the dance which inspired use of primitive instruments, such as reeds and flutes, the forerunners of present-day woodwinds.

She spoke of the development of song which, at first, took on a religious character like ejaculations and moans at funerals or shouts at weddings—chanting, intoning—syllables but not words.

She told of the development by Pope Gregory in the sixth century of church chants, intoned songs which were sung by choruses without solos—the Gregorian chants.

"Folk tunes, based on the Gregorian chants," she said, "spread throughout Europe in the 11th century and became particularly deep-rooted in France, where they were sung by troubadours and became popular in England where they were spread by minstrels and in Germany by maestersingers. Later, travelling singers went on the Crusades and returned home with songs they heard in the East."

Towards the end of the 16th and in the 17th century began the "real published songs" with the early operas built around the singer to show off the solo voice. Richard Wagner was the first of the great rebels against this idea. He thought that music could express drama.

Mrs. Howard traced the complete development of song to the present-day "atonal" school, of which Debussy was forerunner. She considers this school of song as a parallel to nihilism in government—the composer creates the atmosphere but doesn't follow through. He doesn't follow the classic form to get the atmosphere.

Miss Scarth sang three 17th century songs, Gluck's O Del Mio Dolce Ardor, Legrenzi's Che Fiero Costune, and an English piece, Nobody Saw, by Loewe, as well as three modern English songs, Lullaby by Coulter, Sigh No More (Shakespeare-Aikin), and Rachmaninoff's Harvest Song.

Miss Champoux sang Chanson de Marie Antoinette, Jardin d'Amour, an anonymous ballad, and an aria from Richard Coeur de Lion by Gretry, in illustrating old French songs.

Mr. Halpenny sang three English ballads, Mary of Allendale by Hook, My Lovely Celia by Munro, and Wilson's Sailor's Life.

Giving examples of German songs, Miss Trgianne rendered Der Liendenbaum and Die Post by Schubert, and two modern songs, both by Richard Strauss, Traum durch die Dammerung and Zuergnung.

To illustrate the impressionistic tendency in song, Miss Gagnon sang three of Debussy's works, Beau Soir, Mandoline and Air de Lia from L'Enfant Prodigue.

The lecture and concert were preceded by the regular meeting of the So-Ed activities' groups. Registration rose by 10 persons to 64 at this second meeting of the new season. The class in painting is now leader among the groups. A total of 15 would-be artists were present to do still life of a Chinese lantern in a blue jug. "They show quite a bit of promise," said Mrs. S. C. Knox, who, with Mrs. H. Moffatt, instructs this group.

Under the guidance of Leo Sepp and Mrs. Laine Oim, 14 persons are now working on purses and wallets in the advanced leathercraft course. Alice Campbell's class in conversational French is getting along famously and her students, whom she describes as good ones, are currently being taught how to do practical things in French, such as shopping.

After the opening night of "pick-up dots and getting outlines," the class in smocking, directed by Mrs. John Allen and Mrs. Maitland Soles, is learning the different designs in English smocking.

Kenneth Leigh-Smith's group in public speaking is working on short talks, introductions and thanks to mythical speakers and will shortly move on to long speeches and finally impromptu talks.

The class in music appreciation, directed by Morris C. Austin, are learning that listening to music involves listening through the mind, rather than the ear, and listening not only for the melody but what the composer has done with the melody.

Lessons in bridge by Mrs. W. K. Laflamme need three more persons to make a third table. Stamp collecting was not held last night.

Refreshments were served after the concert.

Woman Is Burned As Floor Wax Fires Her Dress

A local charwoman received severe burns to her knees, back and abdomen yesterday afternoon when a quantity of floor wax ignited as she was applying it to a top floor of a two-tenement dwelling located at 151 Queen Street North.

The 55-year-old woman, her dress in flames, ran screaming down the stairs where the woman of the bottom flat, Mrs. Theodore Dion, threw a carpet about the charwoman, extinguishing the flames.

Firemen from number one station responded to the alarm from fire box 75 at 3.43 p.m. and gave the woman first aid. Dr. Roland Cote was summoned and advised removing the woman to a hospital. An H. N. Brien ambulance took her to St. Vincent de Paul.

Authorities at the Hospital said her burns were not too serious although they covered almost her entire body.

Only light damage was caused the floor of the room in which the woman was working at the time of the fire. A bucket of water was all that was necessary to put out the blaze.

Fire Director Donahue, Lieut. L. P. Harton, and firemen Bernardin Provencal and Raymound Fournier attended to the woman's burns and the fire.

"Floor wax can ignite quite easily," Director Donahue warns, "rubbing it too vigorously can cause a fire."

Burns Fatal To Resident Of Coaticook

Mrs. Frank Bagley, 77-year-old resident of Coaticook, died in Hotel Dieu Hospital here today.

Mrs. Bagley died as the result of burns received in an explosion which occurred in her home on Sept. 29th.

The victim was alone in her home at the time of the blast—believed to have been an explosion in the stove. She was rushed to hospital here with severe burns to the body.

First Community Chest Returns Show Total Of $3,500 Subscribed

"While the canvassers have been very busy making calls, many of them have been holding their reports until they have completed their jobs," Walter S. Sutherland, general chairman of the Red Feather Community Chest Campaign, said today.

"However, early returns are very encouraging, and the Captains and Canvassers report a very favorable reception. If we are to be able to report reaching our objective of $25,000 by the week-end, canvassers are going to have to make their returns to their Captains or to the Campaign Office before Friday night."

The first tabulation of contributions shows returns of approximately $3,500 at the end of the second day of the Campaign. This is excellent, but it is only 14% of the objective.

"We appeal to all citizens to make as liberal contributions as possible in order that the Organizations participating may be enabled to continue their effective service," continued Mr. Sutherland, "and to any who have not been called on by Thursday night, we would suggest leaving their contributions at the office in the Bank of Commerce, Dufferin Ave., or phoning 2-7524."

Proceeds From Sale Of Steer To School Fund

A new form of donation will be made to the Lennoxville High School Building fund at the Arena, where the Sherbrooke Winter Fair is continuing this afternoon.

The auction sale of market livestock is one of the features at the Fair today, and Howard and Wesley Nichol, co-owners of John Nichol and Sons Registered, of Lennoxville, have placed a 1,000-pound steer on sale—proceeds to the High School building fund.

How much this will fetch won't be known until later today but it should be a substantial amount with meat selling between 50 cents and $1 per pound.

Firemen Advise Heating Cold Furnace Slowly

Another timely tip from the Fire Department as Fire Prevention Week begins this Sunday.

Don't start a furnace, which has been idle most of spring and all summer, by filling the thing to the top and then tossing in a match.

A family living on Bowen North yesterday discovered that this wasn't the right thing to do.

Local firemen were called yesterday morning when smoke billowed through the furnace into the rooms of the house when one of the occupants fired the full furnace.

The fire, of course, was confined to the furnace itself but the smoke was a decided nuisance besides causing a substantial cleaning bill.

Fire a cold furnace slowly, the Fire Department advises. Don't fill it up at the start.

Steer Exhibited By H. G. Norman, Magog, Is Declared Grand Champion

The champion steer at the E.T.A.A.-sponsored Winter Fair being held this week in the Arena was exhibited by H. G. Norman, of Magog, and the Reserve Champion by Howard Lockwood, of Danville.

Awards were made last night and marked the first time there has been night judging of cattle at a local Fair.

J. A. Ste. Marie, president of the E.T.A.A. and W. G. McDougall, general chairman of the livestock, both stated that this year's Fair brought out the biggest and best exhibit of Shorthorns ever shown locally. This also seemed to be the unanimous opinion of the cattle men who watched the judging.

Exhibitors and prospective buyers attended a banquet prior to the cattle parade which was led by the Calf Club calves, followed by the breeding and market cattle. In the parade, leading his own prize bull, was the Honorable C. D. French, Minister of Mines. The judge was C. E. Devlin, a familiar figure at Sherbrooke Winter Fairs.

Announcement was made last night of the appointment of W. G. McDougall as vice-president of the E.T.A.A., following the resignation of John Peters. E. W. Gilbey, of Lennoxville, has been made a director.

A number of special prizes were awarded as follows: Three awards from Canada Packers — Champion Steer, H. G. Norman; Market Lamb — Slack Brothers; Best group of three bacon hogs — George Ricard.

Purity Flour Mills — prize for the 5 best hogs went to the Jesuit Fathers, Villa St. Alphonse, Pointe aux Trembles;

Quaker Oats Company — two prizes to Howard Lockwood, who exhibited the Reserve Champion, and one to Greenhills Farm (Wesley Nichol) Lennoxville.

The Quebec Beef Cattle Association prize for the Calf Club was won by Origene Courneyer, of St. Eldwidge who exhibited the Grand Champion.

A number of $100 grants were also presented to Gaston Marcoux, to further the work of the Calf Clubs.

D. J. MacMillan acted as announcer last night, and when the judging was completed, all those present were invited to attend a dance which was held in the Arena.

The annual Fat Stock Sale got under way this afternoon at 1.30.

Youths Hurt In Accident

Two youths were injured last night when a motorcycle on which they were riding collided with a car on King Street East.

Injured were: Francois Beauregard, 19, 180 King Street East, the driver of the motorcycle, who suffered a fractured leg, and Andre Croteau, 18, 230 King Street, who is suffering from shock. Both are patients in the St. Vincent de Paul Hospital here this morning.

The driver of the car, Nazaire Letourneau, 24, 37 Eighth Avenue, was not injured. Both vehicles were damaged.

CITY WATER SUPPLY

It is to be hoped that the latest action taken by the Sherbrooke city council regarding the city's water supply produces some results.

Sherbrooke's water has been a matter of concern for many years. While tests have proved that it is not actually harmful, the grime (and blood-suckers) that work their way into it are certainly not an asset to this city.

The council this week adopted a resolution calling for the appointment of a committee to study the question of improving the quality of the water.

This is a step forward but unless some concrete action follows the study, Sherbrooke will still be where it has always been every time the water question has been raised — drinking dirty water.

The committee that will make the proposed survey is an impressive one, including the mayor, the chairman of the waterworks committee, the presidents of the Chamber of Commerce, the junior Chamber of Commerce, the Sherbrooke branch of the Canadian Manufacturers Association, the Proprietors' League and the Union des Locataires.

This is the most representative group that has yet gone into the question. We hope that this time something will come of their investigation.

NEW CHAMBER PRESIDENT

Election of Mr. J. A. Archambault to the office of president of the Quebec province Chamber of Commerce is an honor not only to Mr. Archambault but to the Sherbrooke Chamber which he has served so well for the last 10 years.

Mr. Archambault is ideally qualified for his important new office.

He has been actively associated with the Sherbrooke Chamber since it was reorganized in 1941, has served as a member of the Board of Directors, as vice-president and as president.

He was the first regional administrator appointed when the Sherbrooke Chamber was recognized as an autonomous region and before that he was regional administrator for the Upper St. Francis Chamber of Commerce.

While serving the local Chamber, Mr. Archambault has also found time to work for the provincial body and was elected a director of the Quebec Chamber in 1947. Subsequently he served as third, second and first vice-president until his election this week to the presidency.

AID TO CHURCHES

Churchwardens, stewards, boards of finance and other bodies responsible for keeping churches solvent have a difficult task at any time, but perhaps their difficulty is greater in good times than in bad. This is because "good" times, in the material sense, are times when prices are rising. It costs more to heat the church, to pay the sexton, to feed and clothe the parson and his family.

Loyal members of churches too often have a blind spot when they look at their givings. They may not decrease the regular amounts they have agreed to put into their duplex envelopes, but when they look at the rising monthly bills for all their other expenses, they may reasonably decide that this is no time to be giving more to a church.

Naturally, when times are bad, church members decide that they cannot increase their church givings, because their own incomes are on the downgrade. This is not quite so bad for the church, as long as givings are not actually decreased, because maintenance costs go down too.

Fiscal guardians of the churches might well take a lead from the labor unioneers and endeavor to get their members to gear their contributions to the cost of living. If families generally increased their givings in the same proportion as the c.-of-l. index has risen, most church collections would be quiet instead of jingling. Zealous church financiers may favor a Rand formula for contributions, on the same principle, that church adherents benefit from the churches' works, whether they attend church or not. The difficulty about the Rand formula for churches is one of enforcement. Practical difficulties also preclude the institution of a compulsory check-off system for church dues. Nevertheless, if churchgoers would voluntarily agree to contribute as much to a church of their choice as they do to their union or to a club, some of the financial problems of the wardens might approach a solution.

PACIFIC SITUATION CHANGED BY JAPANESE PACT

Toronto Telegram

When the Soviet launched war on South Korea through its North Korean puppet its ultimate goal was Japan. With Korea in its hands and Communist China as an ally it would be in a position to threaten the Japanese islands and might hope, by playing on fear of invasion and dislike of American occupation, to swing a large portion of the people to Communism. Possession of Formosa, if it had been obtained, would have strengthened the Communist front and have threatened the U.S. defense system.

Since the war began the Communists have suffered a series of serious setbacks. They have failed to conquer Korea, have sustained enormous losses and are now farther from their goal than ever. They have shown their hand so plainly that no nation is willing to trust them and their hope of Formosa is gone. They have forced the western nations to rearm in a way that would have not been possible if the danger had not been clearly revealed. Finally, they have seen Japan emerge as a sovereign state, entitled to rearm for her won defense and apparently bound to the western world by tie of friendship.

If the friendship holds the Japanese treaty may prove to be one of the greatest achievements for good the world has seen. A strong Japan, backed by the West, would be an invaluable addition to the forces of peace in the Pacific, an opponent that the Soviet and China might hesitate to challenge If Premier Yoshida can speak for his people the friendship has a solid foundation. In a message to General MacArthur after the signing of the treaty, he said "The hearts of all Japanese turn to you in boundless gratitude . . ."

There is a fear that rearming of Japan may lead to a revival of Japanese militarism. That is a risk that has to be taken, as in the case of Germany, but, as in the case of Germany, there is no certainty that the Japanese are eager for arms. Premier Yoshida has declared he will refuse to rearm his country and it is possible that he will resign.

OUR LIONS CAN'T BE BEARDED

Hamilton Spectator

We can't reasonably question Ottawa's taste in covering up that historic picture of the Fathers of Confederation in preparation for the meeting of our partners in the North Atlantic Pact. Because what will be over it (in the railway committee room of all places) is a fine painting of "Canada's Answer," showing the ocean crossing of our first contingent of troops for the battlefields of France in the First Great War. This may be even more subtle in intent than we can immediately trace; our only thought is that one of the most regrettable evolutions in public life has been the decline and disappearance of the beard.

The Fathers of Confederation who have symbolized a nostalgic breath of reverence in our history books and on our postage stamps, retained a whiskered dignity that is disastrously missing today. Those fine Dundrearies and massive beards spelled authority, in such a way that even an angry taxpayer might have felt that after all they knew best (which they certainly don't feel now). An Ottawa newspaper has suggested that there are enough beards as it is around the committee room, but we can't agree. We feel that one giant beard at the meeting of N.A.T.O., even if its bearer knew little about statistics or logistics, would bring things to a more satisfactory and speedy conclusion. It is hard to argue with a beard.

Those distinguished men who troop into the N.A.T.O. parley will —superficially anyway — be as undistinguished in appearance as a row of billiard balls. Hirsute foliage, no less than clothes, used to make the man and when a man looks like a man he has a big start. Billiard balls invite endless argument; whiskers have a way of shutting it off. Maybe this theory is difficult to justify (as is the contention that women seized the initiative in running everything from men when the beard fell victim to a universal razor) but we suspect that it is linked up with the collapse of male authority in the home and in railway committee rooms.

MADAME PANDIT INTERPRETS ATTITUDE OF INDIA

Toronto Telegram

Madame Pandit, India's ambassador to the United States, reports that on a recent visit to her own country she found widespread appreciation of Canada's help, and that a new link has been forged in the chain of friendship between the two countries. Interpreting her Government's attitude on international questions, the ambassador states that India believes in democracy, that she is a firm supporter of the United Nations, that to emphasize her disagreements with the western democracies promotes misunderstanding, since in the General Assembly she voted with them 38 times, abstained 11, and disagreed with them only twice. "India," Mme. Pandit says, "is not neutral. While standing for peace, she will exert her full strength to resist aggression upon her freedom and liberty from within and without her borders."

This is admirable as far as it goes, but if the western democracies went no farther than to resist attacks on their own freedom and liberty, there would be no hope of freedom and liberty for India. It is because they have resisted aggression in Korea and are prepared to resist it elsewhere that India can take an independent attitude, knowing they will help her if she is attacked. If readiness to defend itself proved a country not neutral, Norway, Holland and Denmark were not neutral in the early months of the last war.

Mme. Pandit's brother, Prime Minister Nehru, holds that it is proper and necessary for other nations to resist aggression. Saying that if aggression were allowed the United Nations would collapse and a major war would result, he stated that the Security Council had no alternative but to declare North Korea the aggressor, and "call upon the members to meet this armed attack and restore international peace." When India refused to heed the call which he considered necessary, he said that to send her army abroad would "interfere with her outlook," and deplored the fact that the U-N, "an instrument for peace," was "meeting aggression by armed force." It is these inconsistencies, and this refusal to aid the organization of which India is a "firm supporter," that puzzle the people of the western democracies.

A GARDEN AT LAKE MASSAWIPPI

Forget-me nots of misty blue
'Midst golden discs with dull red hue,
Tall Chinese lilies blooming here,
And trees from Persia standing near—

But, see the beauty of the rose
Whose glory now the garden shows!
The tints and fire of sunset sky
All in this bed of roses lie—
Each shaded tone — and artist's care,
Who knows "the gods see everywhere!"

The hills so near, and lake at ease,
Will guard with pride such flowers as these!

Red Italian Port Again Will Become Supply Base For U.S.

By STAN SWINTON

Leghorn, Italy, Oct. 3. — Bomb-blasted Leghorn is resuming its second world war role of a major United States supply base.

Through the still-scarred port, liberated by American soldiers in 1945, flow the supplies of the U.S. occupation army in Austria.

Within a few months, 110 officers, 650 soldiers and 2,000 Italian civilian employees will be operating this end of the supply lifeline running a rail through the famed Brenner Pass in the Alps.

It's a ticklish job. Leghorn's city government is communist. The port union and the stevedore's association are bossed by the Reds. So far, however, there have been no incidents involving Italians and U.S. personnel.

In charge of the new base, granted to the United States by Italy over furious communist protests, is Col. Norman H. Vissering of Lake Wales, Fla.

Vissering has leased a 25-acre dock area north of Leghorn in the same location as the huge wartime dumps of Gen. Mark Clark's Fifth Army. A bombed-out 15-acre steel works was taken over for warehouse space.

A temporary headquarters has been set up in a former gambling casino at Tirrenia, six miles north of Leghorn.

Five floors of a half-completed new office building will be the permanent headquarters.

The troops are living in a former resort hotel where they eat off white table cloths and have a spic-and-span new post exchange. An American school for dependents opened Sept. 10.

Little post-war reconstruction has been done in Leghorn. Italian capital avoided the city because the communists pulled strike after political strike in the factories.

As a result there is a housing shortage. When news broke of the new U.S. base, a major Red propaganda claim was that the Americans would make the housing situa- the afternon and evening bridge.

Colonel Vissering trumped that propaganda ace. He persuaded private Italian capital to build a housing development especially for the Americans. Married soldiers will pay about $60 a month for a home. That's far below the average rent here.

The major task of the new base is to provide a safe, short supply route to Austria.

The former route ran from the German port of Bremen across Germany to Austria. That could be quickly cut if the Russians attack across Germany.

Informed sources say if the Russians struck at Austria, allied armies would fall back on the easily defended Alps around the Brenner Pass. Leghorn could keep ammunition and guns rapidly moving up to forces fighting there.

One indirect result of the U.S. base may be that Leghorn will abandon communism. The city has 14,000 unemployed, according to best estimates. The Americans will lower this by 2,000 and also stimulate indirect employment.

American soldiers in the command are in a peculiar position. Modern Italy never before has permitted foreign garrisons within her borders in peacetime.

One tricky political problem still has to be solved. The Americans are unwilling to hire dock laborers from the communist-controlled stevedores association.

Five hundred of the 1,300 stevedores in the association are non-communist. They are bitter that they have been bypassed for jobs.

Leghorn's non-communists fear bitter labor strife may begin between the association stevedores and the non-union men working the docks for the Americans. They are hopeful a compromise will be arranged in which the U.S. authorities will hire non-communist members of the stevedores' association under a special arrangement guaranteeing they would not abide by any political strike call.

PLAY IS LOGICAL, BUT EASILY MISSED

"South made his contract in this hand," writes a Montreal correspondent, "but he could have been beaten. I don't say that he should have been beaten, because that's really what I'm writing to you about.

"West opened the ace of diamonds, and dummy played the queen. West thought this over for a second or two and then laid down the ace of clubs, continuing with the eight of clubs. He hoped that East would produce the king of clubs or a trump, but he was disappointed on both counts.

"South took the king of clubs and led a trump at once. West could take his ace of hearts, but nothing else.

"When the play of the hand had ended, West confessed that he could have defeated the contract. He could have led the queen of clubs (instead of the ace) at the second trick, forcing out South's king. South would lead a trump, and West would hop up with the ace to lead the six of clubs. This would put East in with the seven of clubs to return a diamond.

"Would a real expert make this play, or is it strictly a pipe dream?"

It's a hard question to answer. The play is very logical, but difficult to see. I can think of a few experts who might find the play in a very important match, but they'd probably overlook the play in a casual game.

West can see that he needs a diamond ruff to beat the contract. He can give the lead to his partner only with a high club or a club ruff.

When he leads the queen of clubs, West is asking East to overtake with the king if he can. After that play loses to South's king, West leads the six of clubs to allow East to win if he has the seven or if he can ruff.

What if East has a singleton club and a singleton trump? That is impossible. East would have six or more cards in either spades or diamonds and would bid his long suit over the double of one club.

What if South has a singleton king of clubs or the doubleton king-seven? That would be hard luck for West—but in either of those cases the situation would be hopeless unless East had a trump trick. That would be far too much to hope for.

1 Diamond	Pass	?

You, South, hold: Spades A-J-9-4, Hearts K-Q-9, Diamonds J-3-2, Clubs A-K-10. What do you do?

A—Bid two spades. The jump response shows a hand that contains high cards in excess of a minimum opening no-trump bid—or good distribution to make up for lesser strength in high cards. This hand is too good for a response of three no-trump.

PERSONAL ACCOUNT

By OLGA L. ROSMANITH

Harry Towne thought of himself as a very ordinary guy and he had never really expected a girl so pretty and endearing as his new wife, Nora, to fall in love with him. When he found she had — or, as he now realized, appeared to have — fallen truly and enchantingly in love with him, he had been so happy he could hardly believe it possible. Now he found it wasn't.

He was so stricken he had forgotten he was sitting there with the telephone in his hand, the bank manager waiting on the other end. "Mr. Towne!" Click—click—click.

"Yes, I'm still here. I was thinking. Transfer a hundred dollars from my current account to my wife's. That will take care of it, won't it?"

He hung up, and sat staring through the door glass at the new secretary in Nora's place in a kind of trance. Well, of all things! Of all things! Then he picked up the wife.

"Hello, darling—how lovely to call me," came her warm, charming voice.

"This isn't lovely, Nora. The bank manager just called me you overdrew your new account. Only a few dollars. But how come you could get rid of five hundred dollars in two weeks?"

"Oh, darling, did I? I thought I'd added up so carefully, are you sure the bank didn't make the mistake?"

Harry Towne laughed wryly. "You probably didn't allow for the charges. But the point is, all that money in two weeks——"

"Gee, I'm sorry. I thought you meant—well, I can explain—it was exceptional, I mean it wouldn't ever happen again. I can tell you better when you come home."

She waited for him to tell her what time he would be home for dinner. He thought of her lovely fly-away light red hair, her dark blue eyes wide and excited, her face flushed with having fun in the kitchen cooking for him. All new. The life she'd always wanted she'd told him.

"I'll be home later," he said heavily. "Mother isn't well. I'll drop in and see her and eat with her before I come home."

"Don't be too late," she begged him. "I'm lonesome for you."

The secretary brought him the letters to sign. What did it matter whether they brought new business or not? He stamped them "dictated but not read," initialed them and left. He thought the whole thing over from the beginning. He had plenty of time in the slow rush hour traffic out to Long Island to see his mother. He drove automatically with the relaxed patience of long experience.

Harry Towne was just 31 years old. He had a thriving little door hardware manufacturing business which supported his mother and left him a comfortable income over. He had made up his mind, at least 11 years ago, to marry only when he could support a wife in comfort and have fun besides. He had been in a position to do it the last two, but he had lost his early facility for being impressed by a girl until he met Nora.

She came from a business college without experience to work in his office, and her charm, her looks, her spontaneous blithe good nature, her warm rich voice and her soft laughter added up to such a sum of lovable personality that he had chosen her for promotion to wife before he had even thought about it with reason.

He was in love with a deep, strong feeling he had never known in his life, and Nora Glover had acted as if she reciprocated the same deep indestructible feeling.

She had seemed truly astonished when he had asked her.

"It was too good to be true," she said. And would anyone like him want her if he knew all about her. All there was to know was she came from a very plain family, one to whom you might apply the cliche, "from the wrong side of the tracks."

He had opened her first checking account after their marriage. The day after, in fact. "This is your personal allowance," he told her. "Not for housekeeping. For you. You've written checks in the office check book. You know how to keep accounts, or don't you?"

She had signed the bank sample signatures with a shaky hand and he saw that her lips trembled and her face looked white. Her eyes looked wide and strange too when they went out of the bank with the check book in her purse. "Five hundred dollars!" she had said in the car. "Is that really all for me? Can I do anything I like with it? Anything at all?"

He recalled now he had been faintly disturbed at her emotion at the time, but had forgotten it afterwards. "Of course you can. And remember, there's more where that came from. After all, all I have is yours, darling. That's love."

"That's love!" she had repeated in an incredulous way. "That's love."

He had laughed, feeling happy that he could do something to please her. "Don't use it up too soon. We're not even related to millionaires."

He recalled now she had not even heard him. Her sapphire blue eyes had been wide and humid, gazing through the windshield at something far beyond the humdrum traffic of the street. He knew now what it was. She was looking through the golden gates into the fairyland of easy money. He had stopped talking to her.

A traffic cop came over to the car and reminded Harry to move on and step on it. He stepped on it. And kept on moving. It gave him comfort now to think of his mother, the one woman he could be sure loved him for himself. And who was he anyway, plain little guy that he was, to expect some gorgeous girl to even look at him except for money. Even his profession was hum-drum and utilitarian. Nothing glamorous or attractive about him and never had been.

His mother welcomed him with reassuring enthusiasm. She asked no disconcerting questions. She gave him a good dinner without fuss and brought out their coffee to their old evening resting place on the back porch and sat in the rocker beside him.

In the yard next door a red-haired little girl flew round and round on a little red bicycle. This reminded Harry of something that teased him and he paid little attention to his mother's amiable and low-toned local gossip.

He grew almost dizzy watching the child. "Why doesn't she turn the other way and unwind herself?"

His mother chuckled. "She's only had it a few days. She was still limping after polio. Now she's beginning to run with the other children."

Now it came to him. Nora had told him that when she was a child she longed for a little red bicycle—and never got it. She was still full of childish longings. That was the clue for her. Or he hoped it was. He got up abruptly and kissed his mother good night.

Nora was lying on the sofa in the living room when he got home. She was relaxed and beautiful in Chinese gold-embroidered white satin pajamas he had bought her on their week-end honeymoon. Unaware he had found her out, she came to him and kissed him as he hadn't dreamed before that wives kissed their husbands. He kissed her back, grateful for even the lovely pretence of happiness.

Premier Meighen opened his Maritime tour at Amherst, N.S., yesterday with an appeal for protective tarriff and by accusing Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King of duplicity. Speaking at Digby, N.S., King countered by saying that the tariff should be for revenue purposes and not in aid of special interests. The real issue in the coming elections, he said, was whether to continue autocratic government or return to real democracy.

Y. M. C. A. Work Is Outlined To Kiwanians

J. Edward Shortt, general secretary of the Y.M.C.A., gave a talk to members of the Kiwanis club at their regular meeting last night, describing the organization and operation of the Association, as well as its aims and purposes.

He pointed out that next month will mark the 100th anniversary of the founding of the Y, in North America. Since that date it has grown and expanded until today it is active in 78 different countries, has over 96,000 individual associations and in the neighborhood of 5,000,000 members.

"The Y is a non-sectarian organization, which strives to give effective leadership in matters concerned with the social betterment of the people. A pioneer type of institution, it tries to find the needs of the particular community and endeavours to look after those needs inasmuch as possible."

Mr. Shortt pointed out that the Y is the first organization to foster adult education. A strictly democratic association, a board of directors is elected each year which in turn elects officers and employs a staff.

It is an autonomous unit, controlled from its own membership, he said, and it devises the type of program which can best serve a particular community.

There is a national council made up of men who represent all the various local associations, and this council concerns itself with matters of policy which can be handled on a national level.

The speaker said the Y.M.C.A. can best be described as "a world-wide fellowship of men and boys united by common loyalty to Jesus Christ for the purpose of building Christian personality and a Christian society."

Mr. Shortt was introduced by Jack Dunfield and thanked by Past President Len Keeler.

Dr. T. Cadman urged the members to support the Red Cross Blood Donor campaign, reminding them that the blood is used locally and there is an urgent need for donors.

President Guy Blanchette welcomed two visiting Kiwanians, Conrad Douville and Duke Astbury, both of Thetford Mines, and the following guests: Jack Torrey, Belleville, Ont., C. Skinner, J. A. Paquin, and Claude Remy, Montreal.

A brief report on National Kids' Day was given by vice-president Les Memory who said he believed that this year's was the best in the history of the club.

It was announced that Ladies' Night will be held Wednesday, October 10, at Hillcrest and that the local club will be joined by Magog.

At the head table with the speaker and the president were Past President Keeler, Dr. Cecil Delaney, Vice-President Memory, Henri Goulet and Jack Dunfield.

Kindergarten Has Opened At St. Patrick's

The Kindergarten School for children of St. Patrick's parish of four and five years opened in the church hall on Monday morning, with an enrollment of 23 boys and girls and a list of 10 prospectives. Father J. R. Moisan and Father Julian Clark were there to greet the children, some of whom were slightly bewildered at the new surroundings and strange faces.

But, we understand, on Tuesday morning, the juveniles arrived, peeled off their street clothes and buckled down to piecing puzzles and making designs on their small tables and got busy with bulldozers, and building.

The school is fortunate in having secured, for its directress, Mrs. John Meagher who is experienced in kindergarten work. She will be assisted by Miss Barbara Sharpe, a recent graduate of Mont Notre Dame. Another asset to the school, is the service of Mrs. Andrea Leveque, who will be in charge of the music.

Much of the equipment is that of Maria Montessori, the famous Italian educator, who started kindergarten and nursery schools years ago, in Italy. Her whole principle is that "through play," and given the proper equipment to play with, children can be shown (without any suggestion of teaching) to do useful things for themselves, thus playing games worked out with frames, buttons, laces, hooks and eyes and zippers, children will learn to dress themselves and enjoy it.

Baby dolls and girl dolls, dressed by Mrs. F. Steben, will have removable clothes, and the dolls will have their own furniture. The large sandbox, will be for all, and trucks, bulldozers and building blocks will interest the boys.

Quite some time will be devoted to music, under the direction of Mrs. Leveque, who will play for the marching games and songs. An impromptu ten minutes will intervene, when the children will be invited to ask questions about music, and may request the playing of certain familiar tunes.

During the course of the fornoon, milk and crackers will be served.

The program mapped out by Mrs. Meagher should fill the hours from nine to twelve with delightful interest to the children.

machinery should be established to stipulate a strict agreement concerning the neutralization of Kaesong."

Two hours after announcing the communist communication, Ridgway replied. He told North Korean Premier Kim Il Sung and Chinese Gen. Peng Teh-Huai:

"I have already made clear to you my views regarding the unsuitability of Kaesong as a conference site . . . Satisfactory conditions for the resumption of the armistice talks can only be insured by moving the conference site to an area where it is not under the exclusive control of either side.

"Since you reject my suggestion to meet at Songhyon, I propose that our delegations meet at a site selected by you and acceptable to me, approximately midway between our respective front lines, where the armistice discussions can be promptly resumed."

Ridgway has been unwilling to return to Kaesong because of the long list of Red complaints of neutrality violations. He denied all but two of them—and said both of those were accidental.

North Korean Reds still in control of Heartbreak.

The sweeping U.N. offensive in the west gained up to two miles Wednesday, its initial day.

A series of Chinese counter-attacks slowed the advance. Censorship delayed details and reports of progress.

The offensive smashed to within earshot of Kaesong, site of disrupted truce negotiations.

A roaring artillery barrage Wednesday opened the attack — the largest launched on the Korean front in three months.

The allies — British, Canadian, Australian, New Zealand, American, Greek, Turkish, Filipino and South Korean troops — fought shoulder to shoulder.

Fifty-seven-ton British Centurion tanks rolled forward with them as the foot soldiers seared Chinese out of the hills with flame throwers.

Front-line dispatches reported the Reds were well entrenched in bunkers lining strategic hill masses.

One dispatch said resistance west of Chorwon suddenly evaporated in the night on the northern end of a ridge line. The communists gave up their positions under cover of darkness and let the allies take over without firing a shot.

The attack was spearheaded by Britain's King's Own Scottish Borders, the King's Shropshire Light Infantry, and Royal Australian Rifles. The Scotsmen ran into the toughest opposition while the Aussies drove to their initial objective almost unopposed.

(Other Canadian units in the 25th brigade were not mentioned. But it is customary for a large force to attack in depth, with some units in reserve.)

Band Concert To Be Given This Evening

In conjunction with the Red Cross Blood Donor Campaign being held this week, a musical program will be presented this evening in the Belvidere Street Armoury, by l'Harmonie de Sherbrooke, with Harry Long conducting. The concert is scheduled for 7.30.

Following is the program: My Hero, from the Chocolate Soldier (Oscar Strauss); Roses from the South, waltzes, (Johann Strauss); Trombone Solo "Friendship (Harris) Harry Tinker, soloist; Tropical (Morton Gould); Excerpts from "Show Boat" (Jerome Kern); Triumphal March (Dmitri Shostakovich); Festive Processional (Bruce Peech); Excerpts from "South Pacific" (Richard Rodgers); Carnival Day in New Orleans, (John Morrissey).

Walter Nutt Passes Away At Age Of 90

A resident of Sherbrooke since 1902, Walter Nutt passed away yesterday at the Sunny Rest Home, Dixville. He was in his 91st year. His physical condition had deteriorated since he suffered a fall towards the latter part of April.

Mr. Nutt was for many years well known to residents of the Eastern Townships in his career as a commercial traveller with the Hovey Packing Company and lastly with the McGarry Company of Montreal.

Born in Hull, England, son of the late Richard Nutt and his wife Elizabeth Newell, Mr. Nutt came to Brooklyn, N.Y., while still in his early teens and shortly afterwards took up residence at Island Brook.

For a number of years he operated a general store at Eaton Corner.

He married the former Orra Ward at Cookshire on November 22, 1881. Mrs. Nutt predeceased him in 1936.

Mr. Nutt was prominent in Masonic circles in this province and was for 68 years a member of Friendship Lodge No. 66, of Cookshire, A.F. and A.M., and a member of Friendship Chapter, No. 13, of the Royal Arch Masons.

He retired from active life 15 years ago and since then had continued his residence at 77 Montreal street.

He is survived by a son Hassall, of St. Catharines, Ont., a daughter, Mrs. Gordon Wilson (Orra), of North Weymouth, Mass., six grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren. His eldest son, Walter passed away in 1905.

He is resting at the Johnston Funeral Home, 21 Melbourne street, where a Masonic service will be held Friday evening at nine o'clock. The church service will be held at St. Peter's on Saturday at two o'clock in the afternoon, Rev. Canon Russel F. Brown officiating.

Interment will be in Elmwood Cemetery.

Taxi Driver Victim Of Armed Thugs

Provincial Police are hot on the trail of two bandits who held up and robbed a local taxi driver, at gunpoint, last night on St. Henri street, just outside the east city limits. The men seized $35.

The driver was able to furnish the police with good description of the men and an arrest is expected to be made shortly.

The two men hailed the taxi near an East Sherbrooke taxi stand last night and told the driver to drive east. When the cab arrived in the St. Henri district, they ordered the driver to halt and give them his money. One of the men drew a revolver.

They then ordered the cabbie to "scram" and the men disappeared in the bushes just outside the city limits of East Sherbrooke.

Provincial Police arrived five minutes after the robbery took place and thoroughly searched the area but the men had vanished.

Sgt.-detective Stenio Brasseur, head of the local Provincial Police detachment, and Sgt.-detective Roland Gaboriault, of the Municipal Police, are conducting the investigation.

Montreal, Oct. 4.—(CP)—The American dollar today opened at 5 7/16 per cent premium to the Canadian dollar, unchanged from Wednesday's close. That is, it took $1.05 7/16 Canadian to buy $1 American. The pound sterling was $2.95¼, also unchanged.

Auto, Truck Are Damaged In Collision

Light damage was caused a truck and car after nine o'clock this morning in a collision on the Stoke road.

Nelson Wheeler, 23, driving the car of his father, Ben Wheeler, R.R. No. four, Sherbrooke, collided with the truck driven by Rene Paquette.

Both men escaped njury.

McGILL REUNION

Montreal, Oct. 4.—(CP)—Eight graduates of McGill University's medical class of 1900 will be reunited here Friday night under the chairmanship of Dr. R. H. Stevenson of Danville, Que.

Dr. Stevenson, recently elected mayor of Danville, retired from active practice last year. He brought into the world a large number of Danville residents and to mark his retirement, 2,000 of his "babies" staged a monster parade last year.

Hamilton, thus creating a deficit in the blood banks of those cities mentioned. Why was there a shortage? Simply because people did not have sufficient foresight to see the importance of donating their blood in case of emergency.

Concerning plasma (which is extracted from whole blood) needed in warfare, an example hardly need be given; however, it must be pointed out that Quebec is the only province that has not contributed toward this need in Korea.

The aim of the Red Cross is to establish the blood transfusion service from coast to coast in order that in the event of an emergency, blood may be flown from one city to another and if need be, from Vancouver to Halifax. Without this system and community service, the use of blood in civil defense will be impossible. Furthermore, in this way, every individual will be able to receive a free transfusion no matter where he is in the country.

At the present time it is estimated that only 1,000 of Sherbrooke's residents are blood donors. This is not good enough; the figure should be 2,000 donors.

The drive for blood is going on right here in Sherbrooke. The clinic today is being held at the Belvidere street armoury, from 11 a.m. until two p.m., and from four o'clock in the afternoon until nine o'clock in the evening.

Schooner Burns

after the smouldering hulk of the Alfred and Emily was located today—said the crew members landed at Bellburns last night.

Bellburns is about 18 miles south of the spot where the Halifax tug Foundation Lillian found the burning schooner—her jibs still fluttering in the breeze—early today.

The 197-ton cratt, owned by A. W. Payne, of Curling, Nfld., was burning fore and aft with only one of her masts still standing when spotted by the Lillian.

The message received at Corner Brook said the crew members—numbering about seven—landed at 10 o'clock last night but gave no further details.

It was presumed, however, that the crew had abandoned ship after trying to control the fire. There was no immediate explanation as to the cause of the blaze.

The Lillian searched the water around the smouldering hulk for several hours without finding a trace of the crew members and for a time fate of the men was in doubt.

The Halifax salvage tug was off Riche Point when her lookout noticed a flash in the sky—similar to an explosion — and altered course to investigate.

She stood by the burning vessel until daylight and then began a search for the crew. After several hours she reported "still no sign of crew" and continued her voyage.

OBITUARIES

MR. ALBERT MCGEOCH, OF WEST BOLTON

West Bolton, Oct. 4—Mr. Albert McGeoch passed away suddenly on Wednesday, September 26, at the home of Mr. D. Thompson.

Mr. McGeoch, formerly a resident of West Bolton, lived in Waterloo, before his death.

The funeral was held in Knowlton, with interment in the Duboyce Cemetery.

MR. A. W. WALLACE, GRANBY.

Granby, Oct. 4.—There passed away on Tuesday, September 19, at his late residence on Main street Mr. Arthur William Wallace, who was in his 73rd year. He was born at Canaan, and lived nearly all his life in Granby at his home on Elgin street. He was a sufferer from arthritis and for the last 14 years of his life was confined to his room.

In 1927 he was married to Miss Anne Elizabeth Wallace and one daughter, Miss Gertrude Wallace, survives.

He was a member of the former Methodist Church, later the United Church of Granby.

The funeral took place at the Granby Funeral Home on Dufferin street on Sept. 21 and the interment was in Pinewood Cemetery.

SO NEAT

Smooth, gleaming waves catch the light and set off the color in this simple hairdo. Center-parted, it streams from the brow and temples and breaks into little crests behind the ears. Her hair color; Miss Clairol's Meongold.

Huntingville W. C. T. U. Holds Meeting

Huntingville, Oct. 4.—A postponed meeting of the Huntingville W. C.T.U. was held at the home of the president, Mrs. W. A. Henderson, Park street, Lennoxville.

The meeting opened with a short devotional period and questions and answers from the W.C.T.U. clip sheet were used in the program.

Mrs. F. Ingham read an article from the Missionary Monthly entitled: "The W.M.S. women can talk the liquor traffic to death."

It was decided to hold a rummage sale at the earliest possible date, and Mrs. W. A. Henderson and Mrs. J. Stafford were named to make a number of comfort bags.

The October meeting will be for the Little White Ribboners and will be held at the home of Mrs. Lennox Bower in Huntingville.

General Notes

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Hunting, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Harrison, Mr. W. Harrison and Mr. Gordon Harrison attended the funeral of their cousin, Mr. Howard Simons, at Bury.

Guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Carr were Mr. and Mrs. Edwin George, of Lennoxville, Mrs. Gordon McCullock, of Brandon, Man., and Miss Anne Christie, R.N., of Sherbrooke.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Hunting have returned from their honeymoon and will reside in Huntingville.

COMPTON

The Harvest-Thanksgiving service was held in St. James Church, Compton.

The church was attractively decorated with Autumn leaves, fruit and vegetables by King's Hall pupils.

The guest speaker was Rev. Mr. Rowe, of St. Stephens Church, Coaticook.

Mrs. A. Todd, Mrs. M. St. Laurent and Mrs. C. G. Hyatt, Mrs. F. Green and Rosemary and Nelson attended the shower at Mrs. Allison's, in honor of Miss E. Hughes, a bride-to-be.

Mr. Fred Green attended the Rotary Club supper at Lennoxville, in the Gertrude Scott Hall. He also attended the Farm Forum council meeting, in Sherbrooke.

Mr. A. Todd was in Coaticook, attending the funeral of Mr. Lowell.

MARRIAGES

BALDWIN—ROSS

Kinnear's Mills, Oct. 4. — The marriage of Erline Jane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Ross, of Kinnear's Mills, to Mr. Elvyn Mead Baldwin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold F. Baldwin, of Baldwin's Mills, took place on Saturday afternoon, September 8, at three o'clock in St. Mark's Anglican Church, Kinnear's Mills, the Rev. M. H W. Seeley, of Thetford Mines, officiating. Mrs. Forest Millar, of Melbourne, played the wedding music and standards of autumn flowers and potted plants decorated the church.

The bride, who was given away by her father, was in a gown of white nylon tulle over taffeta, fashioned with a fitted lace bodice fastened down the front with tiny covered buttons, a high neckline, and long sleeves ending in points over the hands and a full skirt falling in a train. Her shoulder-length veil of tulle illusion was held in place with a matching lace headdress and she carried a spray of American Beauty roses.

Miss Glenna Ross, as matron of honor for her sister, was in a gown of rainbow-shaded nylon over taffeta, with a fitted bodice buttoned down the back with tiny buttons and a full skirt. She wore a headdress of pink nylon marquisette and carried a bouquet of pink and white gladioli.

Little Miss Shirley Donaghy, niece of the bride, as flower girl, wore a floor-length dress of blue taffeta, the fitted bodice having puffed sleeves, a bandeau of blue blossoms in her hair and she carried a basket decorated with pink and blue roses.

Mr. Roy Davis acted as best man for Mr. Baldwin, and the ushers were Mr. Douglas MacKinnon and Mr. Charles Ross, brother of the bride.

Mrs. Ross, the bride's mother, in a street-length dress of turquoise blue crepe with black hat and accessories, wore a corsage bouquet of yellow roses.

Mrs. Baldwin, the bridegroom's mother, wore a street-length navy blue dress with wine accessories and a corsage bouquet of white roses.

A reception followed in the United Church Hall, which was decorated with standards of autumn flowers and pink and white streamers held together with white bells. The bride's table was centred with the three-tier wedding cake and flanked by tall silver candelabra with pink candles.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Baldwin left by motor for Gaspe and the Maritimes, the bride travelling in a dark green wool gabardine suit, brown accessories and a corsage bouquet of yellow roses. They will reside in Baldwin's Mills.

Guests from a distance included Mr. and Mrs. Harold Baldwin, Mr. Lester Baldwin, Miss Rose May, Mr. Julian May, Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Gandolfo, Tommy and Margaret, Miss Ruth Lazenby, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil May, Mrs. Mildred May, Mr. Wilson May, of Baldwin's Mills, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh S. Rose and three children, Margaret Eleanor and Leona, Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Ross, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Ross, Mr. and Mrs. Keith Baldwin and son, Billy, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Ross and Lorna, Mrs. Lillie Ross and Willard, Mrs. Howand Glendillen, Miss Jean McIntyre, Miss Viola Nugent, Mr. Ronold Nugent, Sherbrooke, Mr. and Mrs. Forest Millar, Melbourne, Miss Eunice Baldwin, Mr. and Mrs. Roland Racicot and son, Peter, Mr. Richard Baldwin, Mrs. Clara Cooke, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Munro, Mrs. Ella Jacobson, Montreal, Mr. and Mrs. John May, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Drew and Ruth, Coaticook, Mr. and Mrs. Avery Davis, Heathton, Mr. Douglas MacKinnon, Barnston, Mr. Roy Daxis, Newport, Vt., Mr. and Mrs. Amos Savage, Lennoxville.

HARDY—EARNSHAW

In St. Peter's Anglican Church, on Saturday afternoon, September 15, at three o'clock, the marriage took place of Hilda Earnshaw, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Earnshaw, of Sherbrooke, to Philip Strickland Hardy, of Deep River, Ont., son of Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Hardy, of Charlottetown, P.E.I., the Rev. Canon Russel F. Brown officiating. Mr. Morris Austin, organist, played the wedding music, and directed the choir, of which the bride had been a member for many years, in the singing of the hymn, "O Perfect Love," and the anthem, "Love One Another." Standards of multi-colored gladioli adorned either side of the chancel steps, and vases of gladioli decorated the altar. Sweet peas tied with white satin ribbon marked the pews reserved for the guests.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a strapless gown of white tulle over taffeta with a white satin jacket fastened up the front with tiny satin buttons, having a roll collar and long sleeves pointed over the hands. Her veil of net, appliqued with white satin, was held in place with a band of pleated satin, and she carried a bouquet of Orange Delight roses, sweet peas and baby's breath. Her only ornament was a triple strand of pearls, the gift of the groom.

Mrs. Gordon Largy, as matron of honor for her sister, was in a strapless gown of midnight blue taffeta, with a matching cape and crownless hat, and she carried a bouquet of yellow gladioli.

Miss Dorothy Earnshaw was her sister's bridesmaid, and was gowned identically to the matron of honor.

The little flower girls, the Misses Jean and Susan Wootten, nieces of the bride, were in long frocks of lemon yellow taffeta, having Peter Pan collars and puffed sleeves. They wore blue ribbon bows on their hair and carried nosegays of multi-colored sweet peas.

Mr. Gordon Largy, brother-in-law of the bride, was best man, and the ushers were Mr. Paul Cordeau and Mr. Vincent Dawson.

Mrs. Earnshaw, mother of the bride, was gowned in sandstone tissue faille with which she wore a matching hat with feather trim and a corsage of yellow roses.

Mrs. Hardy, the groom's mother, was in silver grey embroidered satin with touches of black, a black velvet hat and bag, and a corsage of pink roses.

The reception was held at "Rockcliffe," where the bride's table was decorated with Orange Delight roses and centered with the three-tier wedding cake. The toast to the bride was proposed by Canon Brown, and responded to by the groom. Telegrams, including one from the bride's sister, Mrs. Arthur Hobbs, in England, were read by the best man.

For her wedding trip to Boston and Cape Cod, Mass., the bride wore a two-piece wool suit with white blouse, navy blue accessories, and she carried a shortie coat of natural wool.

Mr. and Mrs. Hardy will reside at Deep River, Ont.

Out-of-town guests were Miss Louise McLaughtin, Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Woodward, Gail and John McNaughton, North Hatley; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Strickland, Boston, Mass.; Mrs. Lynn McDougall, Ayers' Cliff; Mr. and Mrs. N. L Hardy, of Charlottetown, P.E.I.

Mr. Hardy is a McGill graduate in Science, class '50, and is employed by the National Research Council at Chalk River, Ont.

Margaret Haight, Mrs. M. Denison, Miss E. Morrison, Miss A. Riley, Mr. L. Lander, Mrs. I. Howes, Mrs. B. McCourt, Miss F. Wallace, Miss J. Mariasine, Mrs. L. Matheson, Mrs. B. Bellam, Miss C. Flint, Miss Lois Elgee, Mrs. M. Clark and Mrs. Herbert Sampson.

Salmon And Peppers Fine Combination

Salmon Peppers Pacific is going to be one of your favorite recipes once you have tried it. It's so flavorfull and nutritious, and takes up such a small part of that penny-wise budget of yours! Made from that wonderfully versatile sea-food, canned salmon, which, you will find, combines with nearly every staple food to give you palate-tempting dishes. And what a time-saver! Fixed in a jiffy, your family will rave about its tangy goodness.

Recipe:

SALMON PEPPERS PACIFIC

4 tbsps. butter
4 tbsps. flour
1½ cups milk
½ cup sharp American cheese
1 tsp salt.
¼ tsp. pepper
Dash onion or garlic salt
1-1 lb. can pink salmon
2 cups whole kernel corn
6 large green peppers

Blend butter and flour and cook lightly in a saucepan. Add milk and stir until thick and smooth. Add cheese cut into small pieces and stir until melted. Season, then add flaked salmon and corn which have been drained. Cut tops from peppers, remove seeds and parboil for three minutes. Drain and place in baking dish. Fill with salmon mixture and bake in hot oven (400 degrees F.) about 20 minutes.

Ladies' Guild Held Meeting At East Hereford

East Hereford, Oct. 4 — The Ladies' Guild met with Mrs. Guy Ashman. After the plans for the annual chicken-pie supper were completed and other business finished, the hostess served lunch to those present.

A "bee" was held at All Saints' Church, on September 22, when the church grounds and cemetery were mowed and other repairs made. On September 23, the Harvest Thanksgiving Service was held. Rev. Mr. Hatch, of Lancaster, was the minister in charge. The church was beautiful with many flowers, also fruit and vegetables.

Tests Prove New Kind of Nylons Best Possible Buy

"Wear Longer, Look Much Better . . ." Says a U.S. Testing Bureau

The simple twist of a nylon thread now makes all the difference between just plain nylons and a completely new kind of stocking. Instead of knitting their nylons from old-fashioned wiry-straight nylon thread, the makers of Chatelaine hosiery use a completely new kind of nylon thread that's twisted before it's knitted.

What does this mean to you, the woman who wears the nylons?

Well, here's the story. A U.S. Testing Bureau went to work and put nylons knitted this brand-new way through their paces. They came up with charts, figures and statistics . . . plus some real advantages that we think you'll find pretty interesting.

We've listed them below in non-technical talk.

Frankly we think that after reading about the new Chatelaine Nylo-twist* Nylons, you'll agree that these stockings are well worth trying.

FAR GREATER SNAG RESISTANCE

The simple twist of the nylon thread in Chatelaine Nylotwist* Nylons cuts down on the risk of costly snags.

STOCKINGS LOOK DULLER, SMOKIER

Prove it! Try a Chatelaine Nylo-twist* Nylon on one leg, an old-fashioned nylon on the other. Ask anyone which stocking looks mistier, softer. They'll pick the high-twist nylon stocking every time . . . as did over 100 women in an actual test.

MUCH MORE STRETCH, SNUGGER FIT

Ever have trouble finding a pair of nylons that fitted your legs all over, from tops to toes?

Well, search no more, my lady!

New Chatelaine Nylotwist* Nylons actually 'live'. They 'give' just enough to cling neatly all your leg over, even at such hard-to-fit places as your knee and ankle. Tests have shown that new Chatelaine Nylo-twist* Nylons stretch and snap back fully an inch and a half more than ordinary stockings!

NO MORE WRINKLES AT THE ANKLE

Beautifully sheer Chatelaine Nylo-twist* Nylons will never, never wrinkle the way other nylons do. It's that marvellous twisted nylon thread again, keeping your Chatelaine hosiery trim-fitting, even after countless washings.

Club Members Address Lions At Cowansville

Cowansville, Oct. 4 — Despite bad weather conditions, the Lions turned out in goodly numbers at the Ottawa Hotel recently for their regular bi-monthly meeting, and doubtless with a special feature in mind since the club secretary, G. K. LeChasseur, in his bulletin put strong emphasis on Lions Bill Stowe, and Ben Phelps, whose joint graphic story on their recent motor trip to Alaska proved to be one of the most interesting, and successful addresses in some time.

The meeting was opened by the president, Charles Basham, with the singing of the National Anthem. President Charles, then introduced two new members in the club, Lions Louis Bonnette, and Garth Dean, from whom, more should be heard later. It was also pleasing to note the presence of Mr. R. A. Hooper, of Realmont Ltd., who attended the meeting as a guest of the club.

Since this meeting marked the 6th birthday of Lionism in Cowansville, it was appropriate that speakers were taken from the club members. At first, unwilling to undertake the job, both men warmed to their subject quickly with Lion Ben Phelps speaking first. He stated that since Lion Bill was in possession of a first class diary of the trip, he would leave it to him to go into detail. His impression of the Alcan Highway was that it was "Just 1500 miles of gravel road built simply to get from one place to another." But, he stated that if one is interested in the natural resources of the country, and a good geography lesson, one could not do better as they saw every thing from pulp wood and mining, to oil fields, wheat and cattle.

Lion Bill Stowe's diary was complete in every detail and was well explained to the audience. Leaving Cowansville, the morning of June 11th, and until their return, July 8th, they covered 9000 miles. He stated that the hardest part was in convincing Mrs. Stowe and Mrs. Phelps that they should undertake such a trip, but with the prospect of visiting such western cities as Edmonton, Reginia, Saskatoon and Winnipeg, and world renowned Banff, with some fine fishing and golfing en route, they became sold on the idea. Returning East, they crossed into the State of Montana, and visited northern Michigan, which they enjoyed immensely. However, returning to their home, July 8th, all in the party agreed that with all, they had seen, and done, there was no place quite as good as the Eastern Townships in the good old Province of Quebec.

The meeting was conducted by president Charles Basham, who was accompanied at the head table by past president Howard Hastings, presented the speakers and vice-president, Al Webster, whose words of thanks were well chosen.

The sectional meeting of the W.M.S. was held in Emmanuel United Church, recently with Mrs. Grey, of Knowlton, in the chair. The devotional period opened the meeting and was conducted by Mrs. W. D. Smith and Mrs. K. Winser.

Mrs. Mae Millan, president of the Quebec Presbyteria, and Miss King, of Westmount, gave interesting talks; the latter told about her work and meeting the ships as they came in.

Mrs. Arnot, of Waterloo, and Mrs. M. Shover, of Cowansville, gave splendid reports of their experience at camp for leaders, in August.

Lunch was served by the W.M.S. ladies, at the close of the meeting.

A profusion of asters and gladioli decorated the United Church recently, when "Rally Day" for the Sunday Schools across Canada, was celebrated. There was a large congregation and the junior boys' choir well trained by Mrs. G. Cousens, assisted the senior girls' in the singing. Mrs. Fred Southey, of Hamilton, Ont., was the guest singer and sang, "The Lost Chord" and "The Holy City."

Rev. Mr. Fee gave a very interesting talk on Sunday School work in Africa.

The primary and junior departments of Emmanuel United Church Sunday School, held a Rally Day party, at the home of Mrs. Merlin Lewis, with five teachers, fifty children and several visitors present.

Rev. Mr. Fee was in charge of the races, which resulted as follows:

Girls: 9-11: 1 Wanda Williams; 2 Eunice Hitchcock; 3 Helen Mason.

Boys, 9-11: 1 Walter Shufelt; 2 Fred Mahannah; 3 Billy Stowe.

Girls, 8-9: 1 Eleanor Thompson; 2 Susan Hitchcock; 3 Lyla Corey.

Boys, 8-9: Craig Taylor; 2 Wesley Mason; 3 Arthur Williams.

Girls, 6-7: 1 Diana Stowe; 2 Sandra Forster; 3 Ann Allnut.

Boys, 6-7: 1 John Sharp; 2 Peter Shufelt; 3 Kenneth Garber.

Boys and Girls, 4-5: Linda Patch; 2 Martin Forster.

Wheelbarrow, Boys: 1 Billy Stowe; 2 Fred Mahannah.

Crab Race, Girls: 1 Helen Mason; 2 Eleanor Thompson.

Chicken Race: 1 Walter Shufelt; 2 Beverley Stowe.

Backwards Race: 1 Eleanor Thompson; 2 Sandra Forster.

A picnic lunch was served at the close of the afternoon.

The Women's Auxiliary of Trinity Church met with Mrs. Bruce Miner recently.

Rev. P. Rollit opened the meeting with prayer, after which, the president, Mrs. H. Wintle, took chair and conducted the meet- the chair and conducted the meeting.

Letters were ordered to be sent to sick and shut-in members. Also a letter of thanks to one who recently donated to the W.A.

Plans were made for a rummage sale, the date of which, is to be decided later. Mrs. Miner served refreshments at the close of the meeting, assisted by her daughter, Mrs. Jordon and Mrs. Reginald Miner.

Among those who attended the semi-annual meeting of the Women's Institute, in Dunham, were Mrs. R. Jarvis, Mrs. G. Shufelt, Mrs. B. Miner, Mrs. W. D. Smith, Mrs. Gordon Brown and Mrs. C. Hamilton.

Mrs. E. Goyette entertained the first meeting of the "Friendly" one evening, when plans were made for their rummage sale on October 27.

Mr. and Mrs. Southey, of Hamilton, Ont., spent a week with their aunt, Mrs. Childs, and cousin, Mrs. O. Dominique.

Mrs. LeBrun spent a week in Montreal with her daughter, Mrs. McAuley, Mr. McAuley and family.

Bride-To-Be Of St. Armand Is Given Shower

St. Armand, Oct. 4 — Miss Irene Luke, whose marriage takes place shortly, was the guest of honor at a charmingly arranged shower, given in the United Church Hall, Philipsburg.

The event was a complete surprise to Miss Luke, who had just arrived from Montreal and was brought to the Hall by her brother, Mr. Edward Luke, on pretence of an errand. On her arrival, she was met at the door by Mrs. G. L. Kidd, and to the strains of the Wedding March, played by Mrs. E. Bombard, entered the hall to find over forty of her friends waiting for her. She went to her chair decorated in pink and white, with a large basket of gladioli forming a background, and surrounded by streamers suspended from the ceiling with white bells. The hall was attractively decorated for the occasion with a profusion of flowers, bells and streamers. The lace covered table, arrayed with silver candlesticks and silver flower baskets was very prettily done in pink and white.

A very lovely coffee table, with China tea cups and saucers and a cake plate, was carried in by Mrs. T. G. Shepard and Miss Nora Dagesse and placed in front of her chair. Mrs. G. S. Wade, on behalf of her many friends, presented her with these gifts accompanied by good wishes for future happiness and a corsage was then presented to her. Miss Luke very graciously thanked the ladies for their lovely gift and good wishes and expressed the hope that they would all visit her in her home, in Montreal.

Following the presentation, Mrs. G. Kidd mentioned the fact that the bride's grandmother, Mrs. B. L. Gardner, who was present, was that day celebrating her fifty-ninth wedding anniversary, and on behalf of the ladies, extended congratulations and good wishes to Mrs. Gardner and then asked Miss Luke to present her grandmother with a corsage in honor of the occasion.

Delicious refreshments were then served. The young ladies assisting being Mrs. G. S. Wade, Mrs. G. Cadham, Mrs. G. G. Shepard, Mrs. K. Robinson, Mrs. H. Symington and Misses Nora Dagesse, Patsy Grevatt, Marjorie Solomon and Gloria Elliott.

Later, they were joined by a number of the gentlemen among them the bride-elect's grandfather, Mr. B. L. Gardner.

At the guests dearted for their homes, they all wished the guest of honor every happiness in her married life, and her grandparents many more happy anniversaries.

Sept. Meeting Of Ladies' Aid At Fordyce

Fordyce, Oct. 4 — The Fordyce Ladies' Aid held the Sepember meeting at the home of Miss Guila Jones with a fine attendance and several visitors.

The president, Mrs. Lewis, read from Psalm 10: 3, and everyone repeated the Lord's Prayer. In the absence of the secretary, Mrs. E. Dryden, the vice-president, Mrs. J. Moore, read the minutes of the previous meeting.

The work convener, Mrs. Stevenson, had a new donation of remnants. Plans were made to hold a hot dish suppr in the United Church basement in Cowansville, on October 26, from 6:30 to 8.

After adjournment, Mrs. Moore conducted a Biblical contest, with Mrs. Longeway winning.

Miss Jones, assisted by several ladies, served a delicious tea. The October meeting will meet with Mrs. E. Dryden.

Missisquoi sime-annual meeting of the W.I. met with Dunham branch.

The semi-annual meeting of the Missisquoi oCunty W.I. was entertained by the Dunham branch, with a fair attendance.

The County president, Mrs. Gordon Brown, of Cowansville, was in the chair. Everyone repeated the Colect and "Salute to the Flag." The secretary, Mrs. Rhicard, of Stanbridge East, read the minutes of the annual meeting, held last spring in Cowansville.

Mrs. Harvey, of Stanbridge East, in her address of welcome, gave a very interesting description of her trip to the meeting, held at the Chateau Laurier on the National Council of Women, when everyone was pleased to welcome the president of the W.I. in South Africa. The provincial semi-annual meeting is to be held in Montreal on February 1 and 2.

Mrs. Bradley, of St. Armand in her pleasing manner, gave a humorous reading entitled, "The Hired Girl."

Mrs. Miner, of Cowansville, introduced the guest speaker, Miss Taylor, director of the Cancer Society in Montreal, who gave everyone a wider view of the work done by that society. She stated that a year ago, there were fifty-one patients; now over two hundred. Miss Taylor urges everyone to save all white cottons, not necessarily linen, as long as it is white and usable. The meeting closed with the Dunham ladies serving a delicious tea.

ONE-MINUTE NEWS FROM JOHNS-MANVILLE

PRICES Vs. WAGES

The average small car cost $1,000 back in 1938. Today, the same car costs twice as much.

But how about wages? Back in 1938, the average hourly earnings in manufacturing industry were less than 42 cents. Last year, they were over a dollar, or nearly two and a half times as much.

What does this prove? It certainly proves that the dollar will buy only half as much as it would before the war, but it also proves that the average man is earning two and a half times as many "cut price" dollars as he was before the war. If the average fellow could afford to buy that $1,000 car in 1938, he can certainly buy the $2,000 car now and still be ahead of the game.

It Costs Money Not to Lime

Recently a prominent agricultural experiment station published some figures that opened our eyes.

Based on 26 years of experimental results, it was stated that a 160-acre farm which used lime and clover had an average annual income of $950 more than the same farm would have made without lime and clover. Here are the figures, based on 40 acres per crop:

	FARM A No Treatment	FARM B Lime and Clover
CORN	1440 bu.	2320 bu.
OATS	1560 bu.	2000 bu.
WHEAT	800 bu.	1120 bu.
HAY	60 tons	72 tons
Total value of crops	$2826	$3876
Difference		$1050
Annual cost of lime		100

Annual cost to Farmer A $ 950 f[illegible] not using lime

If you are Farmer A, let us help you become Farmer B. If you are Farmer B, we want to keep on furnishing limestone as you require it.

Drummondville Man Is Killed In Accident

Drummondville, Oct. 4. — Mr. Benoit Diotte, aged 27 years, of Charles-Garnier Street, St. Simon, was fatally injured recently while taking part in stock car races being run on the race track at Victoriaville. The fatality occurred when the car in which he was driving, overturned pinning the young man underneath. He was immediately rushed to the Arthabaska Hospital but passed away the same day. Hospital authorities revealed that Mr. Diotte had suffered internal injuries to both lungs.

He is survived by his widow, nee Blondine Levesque, two children, Bernard, aged two, and Bibiane, 12 months, his mother, Mrs. Francois Diotte, of St. Alexis de Matapedia, his brothers, Emile and Louis, of St. Simon, Wilfrid and Arthur, of Alexis de Matapedia, along with six sisters, one of whom is a resident here, and Mrs. Guy Roy of Drummondville.

Funeral services were held with interment at St. Alexis. Our deepest sympathy is expressed to his sorrowing family in their sad bereavement.

Lamothe and Fortin Building Contractors, have been awarded the contract for the construction of a new Catholic School, which will be erected on Mercure Blvd. The blue prints of which, were drawn up by architect L. N. Audet, of Drummondville, and when completed the new school will contain twelve class rooms at a cost of $187,000.

The Catholic School trustees are travelling to Quebec City this week to discuss the project with the Provincial Department of Education in helping to finance the project, so that work can begin as soon as possible.

The new Catholic Church also of this municipality, which is at present under construction is rapidly nearing completion, with the exterior expected to be completed around November 1.

Mrs. R. J. Brady, president of the Catholic Women's League, accompanied by Mrs. William Barry, and Mrs. R. A. Galaise, R.N., attended the fourth Provincial Convention of the C.W.L. of Canada which was held at Granby.

At this meeting Miss Isabel Hutton, of Ottawa, and the Provincial president, Miss Muriel Buck, of St. Jouns, Que., were also present, along with the Most Rev. Lawrence Whelan, auxiliary bishop of Montreal, Rev. Father Ambrose of St. Augustine's Catholic Church, Montreal, and many other distinguished guests.

The delegates were received at the city hall by His Worship Mayor Horace Boivin, who very graciously presented the keys of the city to Miss Isabel Hutton, and made her an honorary citizen of Granby. His Worship also attended the luncheon tendered the visiting guests and spoke in glowing terms of the wonderful work being accomplished in his city by the members of the C.W.L. following which the visitors were introduced by Miss Maureen Quinn, diocesan president of St. Hyacinthe.

Police Constable J. Louis Godbout is again back here in Drummondville after attending a three weeks' course on Civil Defence at Connaught Range, Ottawa.

The purpose of these courses explained Mr. Godbout, is to fully train instructors in their city's or towns to teach citizens of each centre to save disaster in time of war, and avoid panic by fire, storms or otherwise, with the main point in teaching the population how to keep fatalities down to a minimum, to protect property as much as possible and avoid panics in case of bombing or national disasters, which is the main purpose of these courses organized by the federal government in close cooperation with the Provincial Governments and local authorities in each community.

The instructors are also taught the use of the gas mask and the precautions to take in the case of such an attack, and in turn are asked to give courses in their municipalities to teach as large a proportion of the population as possible the lessons they learned at Connaught Range.

Eight Provinces were represented in the group or forty-three delegates who attended the same course as Constable Godbout.

Ever since the St. Francis Anglers and Hunters Association came into being a reality of its main objective was to improve greater hunting and fishing in this district. These steps now have taken shape with the replenishing of 20,000 small trout in the local streams and brooks, and also increasing the width of the channel at the mouth of the St. Francis River in order to allow more fish up stream in order to improve fishing. For hunting 600 pheasants have been raised and released by the Club. To really achieve good hunting there must be the means of introducing more game and the best way of accomplishing this is to establish a game sanctuary for throughout North America it has been proven time and time again that the best hunting is to be found on the outside areas which have been protected and at the same time have been the means of producing more game. Therefore the aim of the Association is to try and establish such a sanctuary which would benefit all and at the same time not interfere too much with local hunting. Such an opportunity has now been realized with some 3,628 acres of land having been set aside for this purpose. The immediate co-operation of the public in this matter will therefore prove to be beneficial to Drummondville and outlying districts if these security measures are carried out in effect.

Andre Laflamme, aged 12 years, of St. Joseph, suffered severe head injuries when struck by a car driven by Mr. Roch Gregoire of Drummondville. The accident occurred on the corner of St. Michael and St. Maurice Streets. The young victim was immediately removed to the St. Croix Hospital for medical treatment, where his present condition still remains critical.

On Friday morning Gilles Fontaine, aged three years, suffered minor injuries when he was struck by an automobile driven by Mr. Guy Leblanc directly in front of St. Joseph's public market.

M-mmm! Love the way those new detergents make my dishes sparkle! And I never worry about how dry they make my hands because I'm a regular user of wonderful JERGENS LOTION. Yes, after every watery job, I just smoo-th Jergens on my hands and they're soft in a jiffy. You see, because Jergens Lotion is liquid, it quickly supplies the softening moisture that dry, thirsty skin needs. And you'll find that when you use Jergens after housecleaning chores, your hands will look like they'd never done a scrap of work ... soft, petal-smooth, lady-of-leisure hands for you! All reasons why it's a good idea to keep Jergens Lotion handy in both kitchen and bathroom—just 15c, 37c, 65c and $1.15.

Remember? — In August I began a new way of serving HEINZ SOUPS to my family ... by choosing a different favourite every month. Well, my "Heinz Soup of the Month" for October is hearty, heart-warming "Heinz Condensed Vegetable Soup". You wouldn't believe all the ways there are to enjoy this delicious, vegetable-packed soup! Of course, we like it as a first course ... piping hot and m-mmm — so flavourful. And for a real taste thrill, I suggest you try it in Shepherd's Pie. Or in Meat Pie with Biscuit Topping. Truth is, you can't make a mistake when you cook with Heinz Vegetable Soup ... makes all good things taste even better! Ask your grocer for it today — you know it's good because it's Heinz!

"Want To Wash Or Dry?" . . . Everyone wants to wash the dishes when they see that grand C-I-L SPONGE that makes dishwashing so much easier! C-I-L Cellulose Sponges are soft as velvet when wet — kind to your hands and your finest china. Their square shape makes it easy to clean the inside bottoms of glasses, pots 'n' pans. They float, too ... no fumbling around in the bottom of the dish-pan. What's more, C-I-L Sponges can be cleaned in a jiffy under the tap. Squeezed dry, they're ideal for wiping off the kitchen refrigerator and sink. You'll find C-I-L Sponges — a handy size for every purpose — at grocery, department, variety, drug and hardware stores. Look for the C-I-L label — it's your assurance of quality!

Vancouver Holds Whip Hand Over Peterborough In Mann Cup Final

Vancouver, Oct. 4—(CP)—Vancouver Combines, a great second-half club, today held the whip hand over Peterborough Petes in the Canadian Senior Lacrosse Final.

Combines picked up speed like a freight train on a grade last night to ram Petes 15-10 and take a 3-2 lead in the best-of-seven series for the Mann Cup.

Sixth game will be played tomorrow and a seventh, if necessary, here Saturday.

The game was almost a goal-for-goal repeat of Vancouver victories in the second and third games. They were three goals down after the first quarter. Then they started to run. They ran and ran and at the end had the Petes draped over the boards with their tongues hanging out.

Together with their speed, they threw vicious checking at Peterborough, rattling them so badly in the second half their shooting was wild and their sticks coated with butter.

Combines actually won it in the second quarter. They sprinted, wheeled and spun and sprinted again. At the half they were behind 7-6 but the pace had taken its toll of the heavier Petes. They were unable to reply to three Vancouver goals in the third quarter and only managed to stay two behind until the dying minutes.

With nine minutes left, Combines led 12-10. Then, as in the third game, Peterborough ruined their last hope with penalties.

Nip O'Hearn slashed helmented Gogie Stewart across the face for the second time in the period. Jim Swanson sliced at O'Hearn with his stick. Denny Peterson of Petes and Alex MacKay of Combines jumped in. All four were chased.

Seconds later, Ross Powless tripped Roy Cavallin and Petes were three men short. Vancouver played cat-and-mouse with the helpless Moon Wootton for the last two minutes. The Peterborough goalie could just wave futilely as Combines danced around the crease and popped in three more at their leisure.

Stocky Jim Swanson and slender Harry Buchanan carried the Vancouver scoring lead. Swanson shot four, two of them as he was falling full-length to the floor. Buchanan scored none but set up five beauties, drawing off the Peterborough defence until a teammate was left an unobstructed road to the net.

Cavallin, who, at 37, still doesn't know when to quit, Stewart and Bert Ticehurst each fired two. The others went to Rene Leatherbarrow, Ernie Smith, Ken Webb, Jim Kinna and Bus Byford.

Merv McKenzie, a chunk of granite on defence, showed best for Peterborough going both ways and scored two. Russ Slater and Don McPhail also netted a brace and Curly Mason, O'Hearn, Peterson and Bob Thorpe got the other four.

Charles And Layne Both Looking For Knockout In Heavyweight Scrap

Pittsburgh, Oct. 4.— (AP) —Just in case former heavyweight champion Ezzard Charles has any ideas of a quick knockout in his comeback fight with Rey Layne—the feeling is mutual.

Layne, fourth ranking heavyweight, meets the Cincinnati belter in a 12-round bout Oct. 10 in the same ring where Charles lost the crown to Jersey Joe Walcott less than three months ago.

The bout originally was scheduled for Forbes Field next Monday but was postponed until Wednesday.

Several reasons entered into the postponement, particularly the World Series and a last minute $25,000 television melon the promoters picked up from a brewing company.

If Layne gets by Charles, he wants a shot at the heavyweight title. After all, he's already beaten Walcott. Layne decisioned Jersey Joe in a 10-round bout Nov. 23 at Madison Square Garden.

Layne, blessed with the physical assets of a Jack Dempsey, says he's in the best shape of his ring career which shows 34 triumphs in 37 fights.

In Cincinnati Charles has been training three weeks in his own gym. He expects to weigh 187 or a little more by fight time.

"I intend to win," says Charles. "My wind is good. I'm getting my punches the way I want them. I'm sharp enough."

Jack McGinley, co-promoter with the International Boxing Club, estimates a crowd of 15,000 with a gross gate of $100,000, including television and radio rights.

Charles' cut will be 35 per cent, Layne's 25.

Silent Waters Cops $15,178 Filly Stake

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 4 —(AP)— Copping the first heat in season's record time for two-year-old fillies, Silent Waters last night won a convincing victory in the featured $15,178 Hanover Shoe Filly Stake for juvenile pacers at the Lexington Trots.

The filly, owned by Walter T. Candler of Decature, Ga., took the first heat in 2:03.

Raced in elimination heats, the second group was defeated by True Karen, owned by Zettlemeyer and Couden of Cleveland.

Arden Homestead Stable's Florican scored a split-heat decision in the 13-class Sheppard Memorial Trot for a purse of $3,000. Miss Excellency captured the opener when Florican was away on a break.

Sydney Charges Pros Of Player Piracy

Sydney, N.S., Oct. 4.—(CP)—Dr. Sandy MacDonald, official of the Sydney Millionaires hockey club, last night renewed charges of player piracy in the Maritime Major Hockey League.

Dr. MacDonald, past president of Mills and now player committee chairman, re-iterated charges by club president Roy Duchemin that Buffalo Bisons are trying to deal both goalie Nick Pidsodny and winger Dune Macintyre to Halifax St. Mary's.

He told a meeting of club shareholders the St. Mary's management is determined to beat Mills, even if it meant taking players from Sydney.

Such raiding would not only ruin one club but would eventually wipe out the entire circuit, he said.

The fate of Pidsodny and MacIntyre has been in doubt during the last week. Wilf Fields, Halifax coach now working out his squad at Montreal, and the Sydney officials both claim the players, who worked with Millionaires last year.

Indians Sign Al Lopez To Two-Year Contract

New York, Oct. 4.—(AP)—Cleveland Indians last night announced a salary raise and a new two-year managerial contract for Al Lopez.

The 43-year-old senor from Tampa, Fla., in his first year as manager of the Tribe, piloted them to second place in the American League, five games behind the winning New York Yankees.

There was no mention of the terms, but there was speculation that the annual salary jumped from $30,000 to $40,000.

Did Thompson's Homer Cost Dressen His Job?

New York, Oct. 4— (AP) —Did Bobby Thomson's dramatic ninth-inning home run which propelled the Giants into the World Series also strike a knell for Charlie Dressen's job as manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers?

Some baseball men insisted today that it did, but the only man who could say for sure, Brooklyn president Walter O'Malley, hinted broadly the peppery little pilot would be back in 1952.

"When all the furore of the baseball races and World Series has died down we'll make an announcement," O'Malley said.

Asked if the Dodgers' collapse in the final weeks, during which Brooklyn lost a 13½-game lead to the fast-finishing Giants, might militate against Dressen's re-employment chances, O'Malley replied:

"We made up our minds on this matter before we started losing ground. I'll say this and you may draw your own conclusions. We don't feel the Dodgers collapsed. We have to give some credit to the Giants' near-.900 ball the last two months.

"Also, a manager can't hit and can't pitch for his players."

If there is any coolness between the manager and his bosses it certainly hasn't been evident. O'Malley left the field with his arm around Dressen Tuesday when the Dodgers won 10-0. When the Dodgers lost yesterday's heart-breaker, O'Malley was just as demonstrative in accompanying his manager to the dressing room.

LEO DUROCHER'S MIRACLE MEN CLINCH N.L. PENNANT

Milwaukee Brewers Blank Royals 6-0 To Take 3-2 Game Lead In Little World Series; Meet Tonight

Milwaukee, Oct. 4 —(AP)— Milwaukee Brewers will be out to win the Little World Series championship tonight, after gaining a 3-2 edge in games over Montreal with a 6-0 victory last night.

The shutout gave the American Association champions their first bulge in the best-of-seven battle. The Brewers came here from Montreal trailing the International League champs, 2 to 1.

Milwaukee manager Charley Grimm has named righthander Sid Schacht to hurl tonight against the Royals' southpaw Mal Mallett.

Ernie Johnson, best pitcher in the Association, employed a side-arm delivery most of the time last night and set Montreal down with only four hits. George Shuba and Maurice Atwell got two of them in the fourth, both singles, but Bert Haas hits into a double play to end the threat. Only other Royal hits were a single by losing pitcher Hamp Coleman in the third and a double by Hector Rodriguez in the fifth.

Four straight Brewer blows, three for extra bases, met Coleman in the seventh inning after he had held Milwaukee to a pair of singles and two runs in the first six frames.

Coleman stayed through the slaughter, but Dan Bankhead took over in the eighth and retired three straight batters.

The series will be concluded in Milwaukee.

Top E. T. Basketball Aggregation, Sponsorless, Starts Ticket Sale

Citizens of Sherbrooke are being given an opportunity to save basketball in this city and the Townships.

Due to lack of a sponsor the boys who took the colors of the Sherbrooke Regiment to the Provincial Intermediate Basketball finals last season are forced to raise a sufficient sum in advance to financially-propel them through the forthcoming E.T. campaign.

The boys now call themselves the Sherbrooke Spartans and they have launched a drive to sell season tickets to all their home games.

The home games, including several exhibitions which they hope to line up against American teams, should number at least eight and tickets for these contests are now being sold by team members who hope that a number of local stores will help out by advertizing and selling tickets too.

A meeting of the local cage fraternity will be held in the near future when invitations will be sent out to various towns in this district asking them to form teams for competition.

Invitations will go out probably to Drummondville, Granby, Thetford Mines, Stanstead College, Knowlton, Magog, and the local Y.M.C.A. There is a desire among those in high places of the league to include a French team in the league this league.

The Spartans, at a recent meeting, elected Am Ashton as general manager and Bill Cohoon as coach.

The expense of buying uniforms, other basketball equipment and paying transport for out-of-town games is a staggering one at today's prices but the boys hope that there are sufficient basketball fans in this city to help them in their drive to become Provincial contenders again.

Playoff Notes

New York, Oct. 4— (AP) —The pennant assured the Giants of a permanent place in the record books for it was their 16th, tying Chicago Cubs for the National League high.

They won two in the 1890's to go with 14 since 1900. But they've been in only 12 previous World Series. In 1940 the Giants refused to play the upstarts from the American League.

Against the Yanks they're 2-3. The first all-New York series in 1921 and 1922 went to the Giants. In 1923 the Yanks discovered the secret. They walloped the Giants and did it again in 1936 and 1937.

With Don Mueller out of action because of a sprained ankle, Leo Durocher will break up his winning combination for today's Series opener. Against righthander Allie Reynolds he will play Hank Thompson in right field.

Thompson started the year at third base for the Giants but gave way to Bobby Thomson when Durocher decided to move him in from the outfield in late July.

Bobby Thomson's dramatic ninth-inning homer, besides giving the Giants the National League pennant, also saved him from the role of goat.

Thomson had singled in the second inning, sending Al Dark to second, but was caught when he ran head down toward second. It broke the back of a possible Giant rally.

All this was forgotten, however, when he won the game in the ninth. "I knew I hit the ball hard," he said afterward. "But it started sinking fast and I didn't think it would get in the stands."

N.H.L. To Discard New Faceoff Circle

St. Catharines, Ont., Oct. 4.—(CP) —Toronto Maple Leafs were informed last night that the National Hockey League has discarded a proposed innovation calling for a large face-off circle directly in front of each goal.

The league will return to the system of having two face-off circles on each side of the ice at both ends of the rink. But the circles will be 30 feet in diameter and will be situated 15 feet out from the goal line. Last year, the face-off spots in the end zone were 10 feet out from the goal and were 20 feet in diameter.

There will also be a 30-foot face-off circle at centre ice.

The experiment of having one face-off circle at each end was introduced in exhibition games this fall. The Maple Leafs, who objected to it, said it was unfair that goalkeepers should be in a direct line of fire.

Irwin And Anderson Sign With Canadiens

Montreal, Oct. 4.—(CP)—Montreal Canadiens yesterday announced the signing of rookie Doug Anderson and Ivan Irwin and ticketed them for farm clubs.

Anderson, a centre who played with Edmonton Senior Flyers last season in the Western Canada League, goes to Victoria of the Pacific Coast League.

Irwin, a defenceman who last year was with Cincinnati of the American Hockey League, returns on loan to that club.

Canadiens also singned three players who will be turned over to Montreal Royals of the Quebec Senior League. They are right-winger Jacques Locas, with Royals last year; and Gerry Plamondon, left wing, and Tod Campeau, centre, both of whom were Canadien property with Cincinnati last season.

Stage Story Book Finish To Cop Final Tilt 5-4; Bobby Thomson Slams Three-Run Homer In Ninth

By JACK HAND

New York, Oct. 4.—(AP)—The incredible New York Giants Miracle Men of '51 charge into the World Series today in the familiar but becoming role of 8-to-5 underdogs to the seasoned New York Yankees.

Floating on a pink cloud in a world all their own after the greatest comeback in baseball history, the Giants face the stern reality of Allie (double no-hit) Reynolds (17-8) in the Yankee Stadium opener.

To meet this challenge, Manager Leo DOurocher has named Dave Koslo (10-9), a journeyman southpaw who hasn't started in two weeks. It's another gamble by take-a-chance-Leo in a series of inspired managerial moves.

Noting that lefthanders gave the Yanks fits all season—and Yogi Berra in particular—Leo reached for the only lefty starter on his arm-weary staff. Koslo spends at least half his time in the bullpen.

No matter what Leo does, the Yanks who watched the Giants snatch yesterday's dramatic 5-4 clincher from Brooklyn will not take his club lightly. The record books show the Giants often are down—but never out.

Bobby Thomson's three-run homer into the lower left-field seats in the ninth inning was one of the most dramatic blows ever struck. It rescued the Giants from the brink of disaster and wrenched a pennant from the grip of the desperate Dodgers. In dollars and cents it probably meant about $200,000 to the winning athletes in World-Series dough.

To appreciate the full drama of the occasion you must know the background: How the Giants flopped in a miserable 11-game losing streak in April; how they were given up for dead Aug. 11, trailing Brooklyn by 13½ games; how they clawed back, game by game, until they tied Brooklyn and forced the second National League playoff.

Winning the first playoff game, 3-1, losing the second, 10-0, they were backed up against the wall in the ninth inning of the final game.

After pulling up to tie in the seventh, they saw their hard work go down the drain in the eighth when Sal Maglie wild-pitched one run home and the Dodgers hammered home two more.

Trailing 4-1 in the ninth with Big Don Newcombe firing a four-hitter, Al Dark stirred a faint hope with a single off Gil Hodges' glove. When Don Mueller singled, the Polo Grounds settlement of 34,320 began to stir. But Monte Irvin fouled out to Hodges for out No. 1.

Whitey Lockman set the joint jumping with a double off the left-field wall to score Dark, narrowing the gap to 4-2. Sliding into third on the hit, Mueller twisted his ankle and was carried from the field. On the way he passed Ralph Branca, striding in to replace the weary Newcombe.

Thomson, the goat on some bone-head base running and inadequate fielding, looked at a called strike from Big Ralphie. The next pitch was a high fast ball and the Scot from Staten Island slammed a sinking liner that just cleared the high green wall in front of the lower left-field seats.

A hoarse roar echoed off Coogan's Bluff as Thomson rounded the bases with a wide grin. Wild-eyed Giants pounded Thomson's back and climbed on his shoulders.

The old Polo Grounds, which saw the great John McGraw's teams of years ago, never saw any wilder victory celebration than it did yesterday. Thousands grouped on the centre-field grass and raised volleys of cheers towards their Giants in the clubhouse windows.

They yelled for Thomson, for Durocher, for anybody. It didn't make any difference. No pennant had flown from the Polo Grounds flagpole since 1937 and they were making the most of it.

The series is something else. The facts of the matter show Casey Stengel's Yanks with a rested pitching trio of Reynolds, Vic Raschi and Eddie Lopat. Durocher must piece together his staff after the terrific strain of the last seven weeks.

Since 1923 the Yanks have beaten the Giants in three World Series in a row.

They lost their first two series to the Giants in 1921 and 1922 in the fabled era of McGraw. Miller Huggins and Babe Ruth.

Because the Yanks have more pitching depth, a steadier infield, better catching and at least an even break in the outfield, the pick here is the American Leaguers in six. But then you never can figure inspiration on paper.

Conn Smythe Expects His Maple Leafs To Finish Fourth In N. H. L. Race

St. Catharines, Ont., Oct. 4—(CP) —Conn Smythe looks for a fourth-place finish for his Toronto Maple Leafs in the 1951-52 National Hockey League campaign.

That may seem a pessimistic viewpoint for the managing director of a team which wound up second in the six-team league last season and then captured the post-schedule Stanley Cup championship.

But Smythe finds his reason in the loss of depth through the tragic disappearance of Bill Barilko on an aerial fishing trip and Howie Meeker's election to parliament as Progressive Conservative member for Waterloo South.

Here in training camp at St. Catharines, another reason is obvious—the players are displaying lethargy unusual for a Leaf team in preparations for the 70-game schedule they open against Chicago Black Hawks at Toronto Oct. 13. Unless they acquire a tougher competitive spirit they may even miss fourth spot—last playoff position in the league.

Barilko's loss was a big one. "He was the bounce boy of our team," said Smythe. "He had the spirit and he passed it along."

The club has posted a $10,000 reward for the person who finds Barilko, dead or alive, in the Ontario northland where he disappeared Aug. 26 on an airplane fishing trip with Dr. Henry Hudson of Timmins. Only the faintest hope remains that the swashbuckling defenceman who fired the winning overtime goal in last season's Stanley Cup final will be found alive.

Meeker's case is different. The dependable right wing goes to Ottawa next week to attend the fall session of parliament. It may continue until mid-December. Then he'll be available until the 1952 session opens early in the new year.

The Leafs don't expect the cut in the number of players they can dress for each game will be much help in making up for the two absentees. This season each team can dress 16 men, including the goalie—last season it was 18. But the club will have to keep an extra man or so handy to use in case of injuries.

Hugh Bolton, a Toronto native, appears a likely choice for the defence spot left vacant by Barilko's disappearance. Two other candidates — Tim Horton and Frank Mathers — are expected to play with Pittsburgh Hornets, Toronto's farm club in the American Hockey League.

Al Rollins, last season's Vezina Trophy winner, will probably do most of the goalkeeping. But Turk Broda, now 36, will see some action. Last season the fabulous fat man from Brandon played in 31 games, allowed 68 goals and posted six shutouts to help Rollins win his Vezina Trophy.

"We'll have to keep the Turk going until he's 50", Smythe remarked with a laugh.

Ted Kennedy, at 25 starting his ninth N.H.L. season, heads the most formidable forward line. He and his linemates—left wing Sid Smith and right wing Tod Sloan—scored 79 of the Leafs' 212 goals last season and had 89 assists.

In training camp, a new line of Danny Lewicki, Ray Timgren and Joe Klukay is showing attacking promise. A left wing in his rookie season, the 20-year-old Lewicki has been shifted to centre where he has more room for his free-wheeling style. Klukay, a left hand shot who plays right wing, has been the top payoff man of this combination.

Fleming Mackell, another leftie on the right side, is working into Meeker's spot with Cal Gardner and Harry Watson.

Centre Max Bentley is due in at camp tomorrow. The stickhandling master was given time off from training camp to look after harvest work at his farm near Delisle, Sask.

A rookie centre from Fort William, 22-year-old Rudy Migay has shown great promise in the training sessions. But the feeling is he will spend the season with the Hornets. It is his tough luck to be trying to make a team which has four centres, counting Lewicki. Up to Tuesday, Migay was the top training camp point-getter with four goals and eight assists.

Clubhouse Remarks

New York, Oct. 4.—(AP)—Pertinent clubhouse remarks heard yesterday after New York Giants beat out Brooklyn Dodgers for the National League pennant with a thrilling 5-4 victory.

Bobby Thomson: "The good Lord was on my side."

Mel Ott (former Giant manager): "I've never seen anything like it anywhere, any place or any time. By far, the greatest thing that ever happened in baseball."

Alvin Dark: "The World Series? Oh, yeah. But that doesn't start until tomorrow. Right now all I want to do is go to sleep."

Eddie Stanky: "Okay. Tomorrow is a new day. We play at 1 o'clock."

Lou Jorda (plate umpire): "It was the greatest thrill I ever got."

Fred Fitzsimmons (coach): "This is a greater club than any I played on." (Was with '33-36-37 Giants, '41 Dodgers and '48 Braves).

Sal Maglie: "I did my best. It almost wasn't enough. But those fellows never let me down."

Mont Irvin: "I'm numb. Tell me, what happened."

Whitey Lockman: "Say, how about that double I hit? Don't anybody remember that?"

Preacher Roe (Dodger pitcher): "It may not be the best but it is the spunkiest club I ever played against."

Jackie Robinson (Dodgers second baseman): "One minute we're the champions, the next we're in the outhouse."

Charles Feeney (Giant vice-president): "Why all the furore? We could have made it more thrilling. Thomson could have hit his homer with two out instead of one."

Aces Down Providence 6-3 In Exhibition Tilt

Quebec, Oct. 4.— (CP) —Quebec Aces of the Quebec Senior Hockey League last night defeated Providence Reds of the American Hockey League 6-3, in an exhibition game.

Jean Beliveau and veteran Herbie Carnegie each scored two goals for the winners, with singletons going to newcomers Yogi Kraiger and Bruce Giesebrecht.

Pete Kapusta, George Scherza and Ray Powell scored the Providence goals.

Canadiens Edge Braves 3-1 At Valleyfield

Valleyfield, Que., Oct. 4.—(CP)—Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League last night defeated Valleyfield Braves of the Quebec Senior Hockey League 3-1 in an exhibtion game.

Canadiens went ahead 2-0 in the first period on goals by Ken Mosdell and Maurice Richard. Valleyfield's lone counter was scored at the opening of the second frame when Andre Corriseauv slipped Jean-Paul Bisaillon's pass behind netminder Gerry McNeil. Later in the frame, Paul Masnick banged in a Floyd Currie pass for Canadiens.

Fans Started Lining Up For World Series

New York, Oct. 4.—(AP)—Baseball fans, still talking about the Giants' dramatic victory over Brooklyn, began lining up outside the bleacher entrance at the Yankee Stadium last night for today's first game of the World Series between the Yankees and the Giants.

All carried blankets and had provided themselves with sandwiches and thermos bottles filled with hot coffee.

There were 30 persons in line at 9:15 p.m. EST but police expected hundreds more to be in line by the time the bleachers tickets go on sale at 9 a.m.

British Referees To Be Allowed In Boxing Ring

London, Oct. 4 —(AP)— Amateur boxing referees are going to be allowed to come inside the ropes in British rings for the first time in 70 years

The switch from a peculiar British-only code to the rules of the international amateur boxing federation has been given tentative approval by the Amateur Boxing Association of Great Britain.

Sands Gains Verdict Over Carl 'Bobo' Olson

Chicago, Oct. 4.—(AP)—Australia's Dave Sands, shopping for a shot at middleweight champion Sugar Ray Robinson's title, made his American debut with a unanimous, but dull, 10-round win over Hawaii's Carl (Bobo) Olson before a derisive Chicago Stadium crowd last night.

Sands weighed 164½, Olson 163½.

Sands, British Empire middleweight champion, got arm-weary from his ineffective punching of Olson. In the closing seconds he was clutching onto the foe he beat in a 12-rounder last year in Australia.

Referee Norm McGaridi and Judge Dr. S. Allen Frankel saw it for Sands, 55 to 45, under the Illinois scoring system. Judge Ed Klein voted in favor of Sands, 53 to 42.

Carl Hubbell, Giants' Pitching Immortal, Tells His Reaction To Famous Ninth Inning Win Over Dodgers

New York, Oct. 4—(AP)—I just don't believe it. I can't believe that we really won.

It is by far the greatest thrill I ever had in baseball—beyond any question of doubt.

Naturally I got a tremendous kick out of the no-hitter I pitched against Pittsburgh back in 1929.

I had a lot of thrills in baseball. Perhaps more than the average player. I'll never forget the World Series opener I won. That was against the Yankees in 1936.

But this one today beats them all. This is the greatest day in baseball. Have you ever seen one greater? If a scenario writer had written such a finish, he'd have been tabbed as crazy.

But that's the kind of a club this Giant team is. It is a bunch of opportunists. The greatest of scrappers you ever saw. They don't know the meaning of the word 'quit.'

It is a different club from the clubs that played on the championship teams of 1933-36-37. We had methodical teams. We planned our strategy beforehand and played it according to the book. Nothing sensational about the way we went about our business.

But this club is a bunch of opportunists that don't know what they're going to do next. They always come up with the unexpected. They may look bad one day, but they bounce right back and look sensational the next.

I think my old teams had more punch, but this club has greater pitching and certainly more speed. That's its strongest point. It also has pretty good defence.

We had a pretty good pitching staff of our own, you might remember. In '33, we had Hal Schumacher, Freddy Fitzsimmons, Roy Parmelee and good old Adolf Luque. In '36 and '37 we had Big Cliff Melton and Clyde Castelman besides Hal, Fitz and myself.

But I don't think either of those pitching staffs was a strong as the one we got today. Maglie-Jansen-Hearn-Koslo-Jones and those young kids like Corwin and Spencer comprise a great staff. That's the backbone of this ball club—the pitching.

But let's not forget such fellows as Thomson, Irvin, Dark, Stanky, Mays, Lockman and the rest. Right now Thomson is the best third baseman in baseball. I wouldn't trade him even up for anybody. What experience he may lack at third base, he makes up with his big bat.

And don't forget in my day we had some pretty fair country hitters on the Giants. There were Bill Terry, the manager and the greatest first baseman I ever saw; Mel Ott, Travis Jackson, Joe Moore, Hank Leiber and Harry (The Horse) Danning.

The wonderful part of this club is that it is a young club. It can stay on top for years.

Maybe this isn't the greatest team that ever played baseball, but it certainly is the spunkiest.

Jimmy Carter To Meet Art Aragon Next Month

Los Angeles, Oct. 4.—(AP)—World lightweight champion Jimmy Carter of New York and challenger Art Aragon of Los Angeles will fight at 15-rounds for the title here on Saturday afternoon, Nov. 10.

Promoter Cal Eaton, announcing the date of the already signed match, said it would be staged at Wrigley Field.
