

Says prison makes youngsters criminals; pleads for a rehabilitation centre

REYNALD FRECHETTE

A Sherbrooke lawyer charged in Sherbrooke Magistrate's Court here yesterday that the lack of a regional rehabilitation centre for young lawbreakers is causing first offenders to turn into habitual criminals.

Mr. Frechette said "the predicament of this 18-year-old best exemplifies the dire need we have of a youth rehabilitation centre in this district."

if we had a rehabilitation centre in this district, this could be attempted." The youth, Andre Despres, was sentenced to two years in St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary by Judge Jean Louis Peloquin, but the judge added a recommendation that the youth be sent to the Laval Rehabilitation centre.

of the Immaculate Conception on Boulevard Alexandre with the intent to commit theft; the next night he broke into the St. Patrick's Church rectory with the same intent.

passed sentence, Mr. Frechette said: "Our Criminology Society (Mr. Frechette is the president) made an appeal to the authorities for such a centre here in Sherbrooke, as did many other associations in Sherbrooke but so far nothing has been done about it."

"I think that there is sufficient need in this district as the number of young criminal offenders has greatly increased."

"With such a centre we could receive boys and girls from Drummondville, Cowansville, Arthabaska and elsewhere and help channel them onto the right path."

Goldwater nomination seen tonight

SAN FRANCISCO (CP) — A tidal wave of Conservative strength crushed all hopes of the moderates led by Governor William Scranton to reform the Republican platform, setting the convention stage tonight for the nomination of Senator Barry Goldwater as the party's 1964 presidential candidate.

Every appeal by moderates to have the Republican national convention strengthen the civil rights plank in the Goldwater-flavored platform, denounce political extremist by name and ensure that the president of the United States retains control over all nuclear weapons was shouted down in an uproarious, cat-calling, foot-stomping session that wound up early today.

The voting indicated strongly that the conservatives or rightwing of the party had taken firm control of the convention and that Goldwater would get a hefty first-ballot victory over Scranton, the Pennsylvania governor, in the balloting tonight.

A minimum of 655 of the 1,308 delegate nominating votes are required for victory and Goldwater claimed more than 800 vote pledges with more rolling in.

An Associated Press survey showed that Goldwater headed into nomination day with 805 votes while Scranton had 169.

ALL VOTES NOT COMMITTED Goldwater's total included 118 votes committed by primary elections, 257 by convention instructions, and 60 by personal pledges. The other 370 favored him but were not committed. None of Scranton's votes were pledged or bound.

Besides Scranton, Goldwater would have a number of other formal opponents. These would include Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, Senator Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, Senator Hiram Fong of Hawaii, former representative Walter H. Judd of Minnesota, former governor Harold Stassen of Minnesota and Michigan Governor George Romney.

But pre-voting surveys indicated these would get just a fraction of the votes. The bulk would go to Goldwater, now the firmly-entrenched master of the Republican machine.

Scranton's forces admitted the platform - mending defeat showed there is virtually nothing the moderates can do to stop Goldwater.

The convention uproar Tuesday night was so great that at one time police were forced to restrain photographers and reporters from the floor, clearing the aisles in fear that tensions would spark clashes.

The spirit that lagged at the convention opening Monday had taken fire Tuesday as the showdown between moderates and conservatives neared.

PICKETS PARADE Outside the Cow Palace, where the convention goes into its third day today, demonstrators for and against Goldwater circled in front of the entrance while a 50-man police force watched.

This was the beginning of "civil disobedience" by members of the Congress of Racial Equality in protest against the "weak and vague" plank on civil rights.

A number of Negro delegates and alternates still toyed with the idea of walking out of the convention if Goldwater captures the nomination. Others said they were against a walk-out but they wouldn't work for the Goldwater team in the November election campaign.

Republican Jackie Robinson, former Negro baseball star, said he would switch his vote to President Lyndon J. Johnson.

Most significant of the actions taken on the platform was the 897-to-409 vote by which the delegates rejected a Scranton-backed proposal to amend a plank, which promised implementation and execution of the Civil Rights Act.

Senator Hugh Scott (Rep. Pa.), who engineered the losing platform fight, said there would be "no turning back" as far as Scranton is concerned. He predicted the governor will go down to the balloting wire, despite the obvious odds against him.

PROPOSED SUBSTITUTE Scott proposed a substitute which would have added a pledge for enforcement of the new law—against which Goldwater voted—by an increased

USSR says platform is call to warfare

LONDON (Reuters) — Pravda, the Russian Communist party newspaper, says today that the Republican platform of Senator Barry Goldwater "in fact calls for war with the Soviet Union."

The program called for "open intervention in Cuba, stepping up the war in Viet Nam and the granting to NATO commanders of the right to use nuclear weapons on their own initiative," the newspaper comments.

It was not surprising, the newspaper adds, that the platform had "frightened even those who previously thought of Goldwater as a noisy but generally harmless fellow."

Pravda and other Moscow newspapers quote an American press comment that "if his philosophy were put into practice it would be a catastrophe for the country and for the whole world."

The Youth newspaper Komsomolskaya Pravda says it was hard to find words to describe the Goldwater platform, which contained "the most harmful dreams of the Birchites of a 'decisive victory over communism.'"

Yugoslavia compares the platform with Nazi policies and declared Goldwater's "appetites" were "greater than Hitler's."

This comment by the official Yugoslav newspaper Borba is one of the sharpest attacks on the Republicans and the Arizona senator voiced in Europe on the day Goldwater is expected to capture the Republican nomination at San Francisco.

In likening sections of the party platform to the policies of Nazi Germany, Borba's editorial cites a section which it says pledged the Republicans to follow the road toward "final liberation of the nations of East Europe, Asia and Latin America."

Borba comments that the peoples of those areas had survived worse experiences "but seldom worse insults."

No strike meetings scheduled

TORONTO (CP)—The strike by printers against the three Toronto daily newspapers entered its seventh day today, with no new meetings scheduled, although talks with a conciliator are to resume Thursday.

Louis Fine, Ontario labor department's chief conciliator held separate, private talks with each side Tuesday to explore their stands in an effort to end the dispute. The meeting was called by Labor Minister Leslie Rowntree when his efforts to head-off the walkout failed last week.

All three papers have continued to publish since 680 printers walked off their jobs last Thursday. They called it a lock-out when the publishers introduced new work rules and pay scales not embodied in a contract but agreed upon in earlier negotiations with the International Typographical Union (ITU).

Only issue remaining at that time was jurisdiction over multi-use computers. The ITU had demanded jurisdiction when the computers were used for any composing room work.

Canadian militia role in civil defence pared down

OTTAWA (CP) — The trend away from nuclear weapons on a nuclear attack on this country, and revert to its former task of providing field support for Canada became more pronounced here Tuesday.

Associate Defence Minister Cardin announced that the militia will all but abandon its national survival role, predicated on a nuclear attack on this country, and revert to its former task of providing field support for the regular army.

He said the militia's main job again will be to form three brigades comprising some 18,000 men to train a citizen army in event of emergency.

No such policy had even been hinted at here in a decade because it was felt that only regular forces would have time to get into action in a nuclear emergency.

The implication of Mr. Cardin's statement is that the government considers the possibility of nuclear war as remote and a conventional role for the armed forces as more likely.

Other indications of this trend: —External Affairs Minister Martin said last week the number of United Nations peacekeeping jobs for Canada is bound to increase.

—Defence department officials said the RCAF could use a cheap ground support plane like the Second World War Mustang or Typhoon, but that nobody was making anything like this any more.

—Informants said Canada will tell NATO in 1966 that it wants to get out of the nuclear bombing role in Europe, even though the RCAF CF-104 low-level jet bomber could still be used for another five years.

—Conventional armament now being considered for the CF-104 includes a 20-millimetre cannon, with which Spitfires, Mosquitos and other RCAF planes were armed during the Second World War.

—Selection of conventional army weapons and equipment has been given No. 1 priority by the new combined defence staff.

19 are killed

TOKYO (Reuters) — A fire that started when about 1,500 drums of cellulose nitrate exploded and then spread to 10 warehouses Tuesday night killed 19 firemen and injured 33 persons, fire department officials said today.

The officials said the death toll was the largest ever suffered by Japanese firemen at a single fire.

LONDON (AP)—A man who said he was a member of the British fascist party rushed at Prime Minister Jomo Kenyatta of Kenya today as he left his hotel.

A police constable intervened and all three men landed in a heap against the automobile waiting to take Kenyatta to a session of the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference.

Red president

MOSCOW (AP)—On the recommendation of Premier Khrushchev, Leonid I. Brezhnev was relieved today, of his post as Soviet President and Anastas I. Mikoyan was elected to succeed him.

Khrushchev explained to a meeting of the Supreme Soviet (parliament) that Brezhnev is needed for full-time work in the Communist party.

At council meeting Fist fight erupts

LAFLECHE, Que. (CP) — Opponents in the widening controversy surrounding the Lafleche police department finally came to blows Tuesday night.

In a fist-swinging melee at the police station in this community across the St. Lawrence River from Montreal, one alderman was injured slightly.

Ald. Laurentzon Carbonneau wound up bleeding from blows that rained on him during the brawl which saw him and three other town councilors thrown out of the police station.

Police Chief George Beaulne got his head banged against a wall several times.

"I hereby suspend you as chief of police." An argument ensued among the aldermen, the mayor and Chief Beaulne.

Then policemen began showing everyone out of the little station. Then the fists started swinging.

After provincial police were called in to sort things out, the council meeting resumed.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

CLUB SUIT IS DANGER POINT
By OSWALD JACOBY

The East-West cards aren't shown because it is up to you — as South — to plan your whole campaign at three no-trump before you play from dummy.

You count eight easy tricks and at least four more if you can finesse successfully for the king of diamonds. Therefore, you have a fair play for a slam, but your contract is three no-the rest of the tricks.

Card Sense

Q — The bidding has been:

North East South West
1 Clb. Pass 1 Hrt. Pass
2 Dias. Pass 3 N.T. Pass
4 Hrts. Pass ?

You, South, hold: Spades, K-J-6-5; Hearts, Q-J-6-5; Diamonds, 3-2; Clubs, A-5-4.

What do you do?

A — Pass. Your hand is not of slam type and your partner has taken the responsibility of getting you from one to four hearts.

Today's Question

Instead of bidding four hearts, your partner goes to four no-trump over your three no-trump. What do you do now?

Actor E. G. Marshall writes of the joys of nature and solitude at his New England home which he built with his own hands in this column for vacationing Cynthia Lowry.

By E. G. MARSHALL

NEW YORK (AP) — Among the basic needs of civilized man are companionship of one's fellows and the stimulation of contrasting temperaments, interests and tastes. And solitude! The opportunity for solitude is everywhere around us, but most of us are not receptive to it.

We have the radio playing while we eat or even while we bathe. People clutch transistor radios as they ride the bus.

People seem afraid of silence and their thoughts. To be absolutely alone in the midst of nature, with only the sounds of nature, is perhaps the greatest refreshment one can know.

Henry David Thoreau said: "We need to witness our own limits transgressed."

These remain fine-sounding words and sentiments until the day when in the raw middle of winter, you are pulling a toboggan across a meadow with thigh-deep snow. On the toboggan there is a five-gallon can of kerosene, a 100-pound sack of coal and provisions enough to last three or four days.

You climb a steep logging road, pulling the toboggan behind you step by painful step. You reach the crest, every muscle protesting.

The rest of the way goes quicker and easier. You notice the whispering of the snow as it falls on hemlock, spruce and pine.

Then you see, at long last, the roof peak of your place in the wild. If you had the breath to sing you would.

Sitting before the hearth, the first flames licking the frozen logs into warm life, a cup of hot tea doing the same for you—a sudden joy lifts your spirits, you feel a new health and solace.

Sherbrooke's industrial might depicted at Howardene exhibit

Amidst the Victorian splendour of Howardene, an exhibit depicting the industrial might of the City of Sherbrooke is slowly nearing completion.

The brainchild of Howardene superintendent Leo Cadorette, the exhibit, once officially open, will remain a permanent fixture in the smaller of two residences once the property of the late Senator Charles B. Howard.

Some 45 exhibitors will eventually install displays in booths, the majority of which have been built by the city.

They are constructed in such a manner as to allow for the restoration of the home to its original appearance if the civic administration ever decides to end the exhibit. No alterations have been made on the walls or floors; the booth-displays have been "fitted" into the corners of the two-storey mansion.

Food, textile and heavy industry displays are just some of the themes dealt with in the exhibition. They are presented by each company which rented space from the city.

An eight-foot-high ceramic mural is the administration's contribution to the exhibit, providing the focal unifying point for the diverse displays. Designed by Mr. Cadorette, it was executed by a Sherbrooke tile company.

Although all space in the building has been sold out for some time, about 15 exhibitors have not yet completed work on their booths. It is expected that they will all be ready for an August opening date.

Still, Mr. Cadorette told the Record that large numbers of people have been streaming in to the building to see the existing booths. They include both tourists and Sunday afternoon strollers in the lush Howardene grounds.

"I let them in because they are interested" he said, "and

Gave bogus $20 man fled hotel, caught on street

A 23-year-old Sherbrooke man pleaded guilty in Court of Sessions late yesterday afternoon to a charge of passing a counterfeit $20 bill in a Sherbrooke hotel in the early hours of Sunday morning. He is to return for sentencing next Monday.

The man was arrested by a municipal police constable as he ran from the Union Hotel on King Street.

This is the first arrest made in Sherbrooke in connection with the passing of counterfeit bills in this area. A total of six counterfeit 20's have turned up in Sherbrooke to date.

The $20 bill which led to the arrest Sunday was one of a new series being passed in large numbers in the Montreal area since a list of recent serial numbers was published in the Record last week.

After handing the bogus bill to a waiter in the hotel the man must have noticed the suspicion on the waiter's face for he turned and ran. A constable happened to be just outside on the sidewalk and he was immediately apprehended, said Sgt. Maurice Locas of the R.C.M.P.

"We were very pleased with the co-operation given us by the municipal police, otherwise a long search might have been necessary as no real description was taken by the waiter," said Sgt. Locas.

JMC has first student concert at camp Sat.

Man accused of shooting his neighbor's three cows

ST. MATHIAS — (Staff) — A 39-year-old St. Mathias man was arrested yesterday by The Cookshire Provincial police and was accused of killing two and wounding another of his neighbor's cattle in this farming community, about four miles from Sawyerville.

The man was arraigned late yesterday afternoon before Justice of the Peace Jean-Marie Gogreire and was ordered to appear for his hearing before the Court of Sessions tomorrow.

The victim of the incident, a neighbor of the accused, Rosaire Goyette, also 39 years of age, depended on the cattle almost completely for a meagre subsistence, police said.

Mr. Goyette is the father of 16 children, the oldest of which is not quite 17.

The cattle were shot with a 22 calibre rifle and were found dead in the neighbor's pasture, said Cpl. Gilles Dube of the Cookshire QPP.

Two of his cattle were killed and a third was wounded, police said.

This was not the first time that the cattle had been attacked. Mr. Goyette had noticed once or twice before that his cows had returned to the barn feverish at milking time, police said.

In a recent Sherbrooke Superior Court Judgment Mr. Justice Gaston Desmarais rejected an action for damages for $700 taken by a Wotton man against the Municipality of Wotton School Commission.

The action was taken by Jean-Paul Pinard, a merchant, following a school playground accident in which his son Jean-Luc was injured.

Jean-Luc, when playing with a companion, fractured a leg on November 19, 1960, on the grounds of the St. Jean School, one of the associated schools of Les Commissaires D'Ecole La Municipalite De Wotton.

In making his decision the judge declared: "This accident was not the result of faulty supervision and no fault was made by the gym instructor, Aime Vaillancourt, a reliable person, who had in her gym classes shown the pupils how such things were done and had told Jean-Luc in particular, that he should not commit an error in a given exercise."

"In this case however the accident occurred when the boy and a friend were sent out doors to play, after they had finished their lunch. Mrs. Vaillancourt could not possibly have prevented the accident as it was proven that it had resulted from a spontaneous action which it was impossible to foresee. She did not in any way contribute to the accident," said Judge Desmarais.

The plaintiff's allegations had been proven false and his action was badly founded and is thereby rejected with costs, said the Judge.

Sues school for son's injury, action rejected

Jean-Luc's friend, Fernand Legeault, it was proven, had invited him to play horseback and young Pinard had accepted, he was 9 at the time. After mounting several steps Legeault jumped onto the back of his friend. Young Pinard could not support his weight and he collapsed breaking his leg.

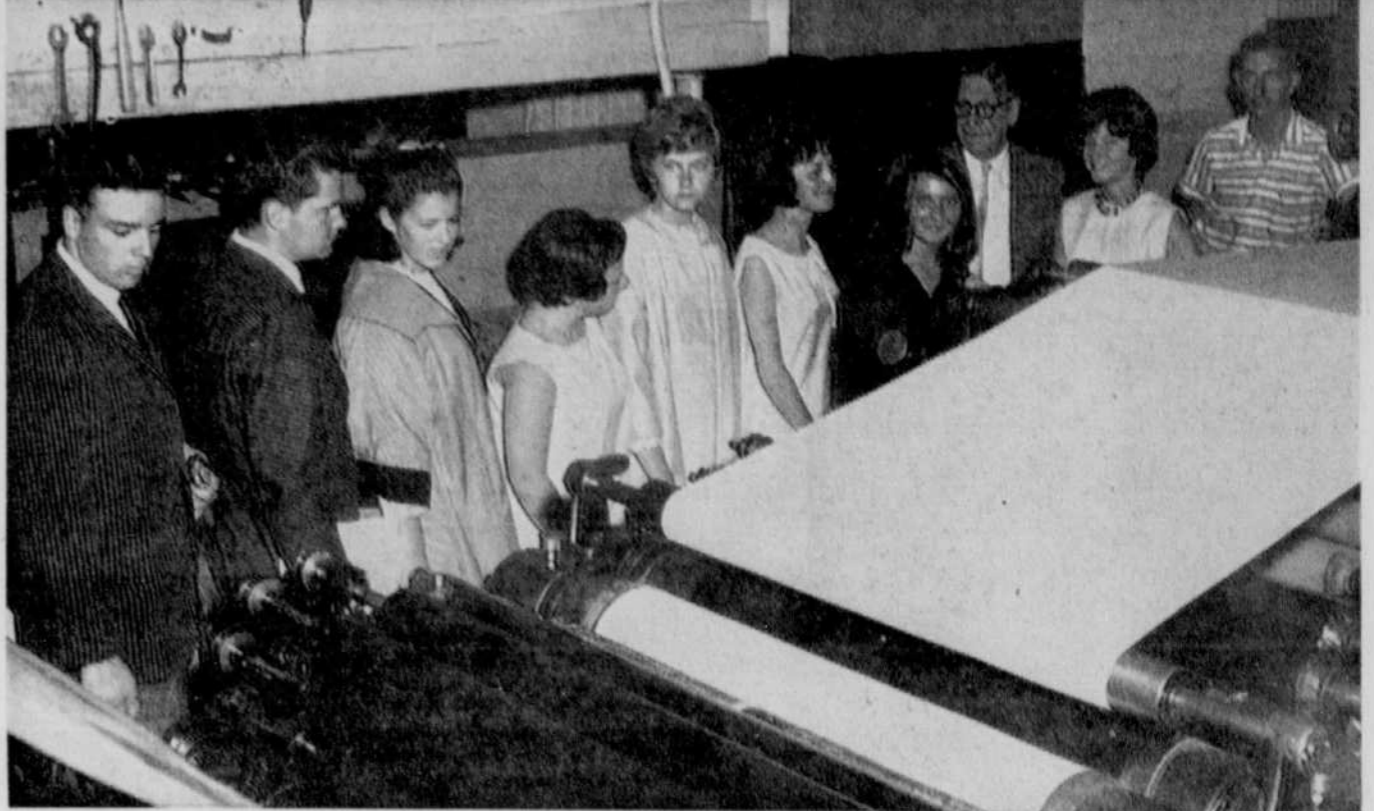

The boy's father, Jean-Luc Pinard alleged that the accident arose as a result of negligence and absence of surveillance on the part of the instructor. He also claimed that his son had been injured not while playing out-of-doors but while participating in a regularly scheduled gym exercises.

Sherbrooke Rotary told: CN expansion hindered by cries of invasion

A Canadian National Railway manager said yesterday that the CNR is hindered in "broadening its base" by the cry of invasion from the private enterprise domain.

The manager of the CN's Champlain area which includes Sherbrooke, Jean H. Richer, told members of the Sherbrooke Rotary Club that the ultimate aim of the CN is to provide the customer with the best transportation possible at the cheapest cost.

But, he said, it is still prevented from achieving this goal by a number of external restrictions and regulations having to do with service and rates.

As far as any internal obstacles are concerned, it is working diligently to reach its objectives, he said.

"Everytime the CN tries to broaden its base by attempting to gain greater flexibility and a better balance of transportation, like the use of the truck for example, the cry of invasion of the private enterprise domain is raised" he said.

He stressed that all large multi-million dollars organizations have thousands of shareholders, and that their administrators and managers are paid to run the affairs of the company to the best advantages and profit of the shareholders.

"We do not believe that because we have a broader ownership base than privately owned large companies, that for this reason, we should be less aggressive and dynamic in furthering the interests of our shareholders and by extension of the country as a whole."

Historically, the speaker said, CN has been saddled with a huge burden of debt and it is now asking not to eliminate its indebtedness, but to rather, rationalize it so that management may be held truly responsible.

CN, he said, is now preoccupied with a grand design which combines rail technological advantages with the benefits of other transportation techniques of road, air, water, pipe line or belt conveyor.

The true advantages of the steel wheel running over street rails, as exemplified in trains, can only be realized when they are combined with the marvelous flexibility of the truck, Mr. Richer said.

The trouble is that, too often, the railway companies and the trucking industry are shown as competing for the same traffic, whereas they should combine forces in hauling a specific traffic for part of its overall journey, he said.

"It is rather ridiculous to oppose the steel wheel and the rubber tire as competitors," he stated. "Each has distinct advantages and disadvantages for carrying traffic, depending on the nature of such traffic and the distance it has to go."

The Rotary Club Tuesday was host to a group of students from western Ontario and the western provinces along with their French-speaking hosts as part of an exchange program designed to encourage biculturalism.

Seated at head table were, Mrs. Lionel Lapierre, exchange program convener; Tom Leonard, Frank Edwards, Harold Mooney, President Bill Richardson, Roger McManus, the speaker; Walter Lefebvre and Henri-Paul Felteau.

Church vandalism trial is today

Two suspects who were arrested Monday night in Sherbrooke in connection with vandalism in the St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church last Saturday had their case postponed until today when they were to appear before Judge Roger Bouchard in Social Welfare Court.

Two Sherbrooke boys aged 10 and 14 are accused of entering the church and damaging light fixtures, a communion table and prayer books, and littering the church proper with the debris.

Hippopotamuses taste like pork

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters) — Members of South Africa's Kruger National Park staff sat down to a meat course recently—hippopotamus.

"Very delicious, somewhat like pork," they agreed.

White and African members of the park service dined on the rare meat which few people have tasted because the animal is protected in South Africa. The meat became available when the National Parks Board in Pretoria decided to kill a number of hippopotamuses as part of a research control program.

A board official explained it was to be expected that the meat should have a pork flavor because "the hippopotamus is of the same family as the pig."

He added that occasionally people in the northern Transvaal apply for a licence to shoot a hippopotamus for meat. They turn it into biltong, the traditional South African food, usually made from game and consisting of long strips of meat dried in the sun.

Schools to offer TV, study, talk

EDMONTON (CP) — A University of Alberta educationist says the student of the future may spend 40 per cent of his time in group seminars' 40 per cent in individual study and 20 per cent watching television.

Dr. John Fritz, co-ordinator for the education faculty's audio-visual centre, says this will have to be the formula if Canada is to meet the problem of a teacher shortage amid a growing student population.

In the school of tomorrow, 500 students will sit in a classroom watching television, supervised by several teachers. In another classroom, teachers will be conducting seminars with small groups of students. Elsewhere, students will be reading, writing essays and thinking, Dr. Fritz says.

Under this system, the individual student-teacher relationship—already fast fading because teachers are expected to teach larger and larger classes—will be retained.

"The seminars will enable a student to really understand a subject and express his doubts and opinions. The teacher will get to know the student and how well he knows the subject."

Address given by WI official at Way's Mills

WAY'S MILLS — The July meeting of the Women's Institute would soon be time for the inspection of pupils' gardens. Thanks were expressed to Mrs. Knight for her informative talk.

Mrs. C. Pederson who had been in charge of the birthday box for the past year, was authorized to open it, the contents revealing over $5.

The president again reminded the members to have articles for the sales table for the Ayer's Cliff Fair ready to hand in at the August meeting.

A card of sympathy, signed by the members was sent to Mrs. K. D. Cooper, in the loss of her sister, Mrs. E. Drew.

It was also noted that after two years, the Potato Resolution, sent in by this county had been adopted and approved at the Provincial Convention and that copies had already been sent to the Potato Grower's Association and to the Farmer's Association.

Refreshments were then served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. C. Mayhew, Mrs. Douglas MacKinnon and Miss G. Pope.

The August meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Gordon Cass, the time to be announced at a later date.

Granby district adult school to open Sept. 16

GRANBY — The Granby District Community School held its second meeting recently, under the chairmanship of Gilbert Clarke, and has decided that the list of courses will be announced at a later date. After a meeting, to be held in August, it will give the list of teachers.

It was stated that the 10-week session will begin on Sept. 16, at 8 p.m. A cordial welcome is extended to all adults who are interested to attend these courses. Previous schools have proved successful and interesting.

A writer's notes

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Oysters grow on trees in swampy areas of Florida. . . . The busy bivalves attach themselves to submerged mangrove roots, and thrive there.

One of the best places to sleep in the afternoon is Greece. . . . The siesta habit there is so widespread that even the radio stations shut down between 2 and 5 p.m.

If man were as speedy in comparison to his size as the ordinary ant, he'd be able to travel 60,000 miles an hour—and without benefit of jet engines.

Here's something to ponder: The Greek philosopher Socrates used to hang around street corners passing out good advice to passersby. . . . His reward: A cup of poison.

Quotable notables: "Middle age is the time when you'll do anything to feel better, except give up what is hurting you." —Robert Quillen.

A note of truth: Lore Noto, producer of The Fantasticks, says that "with the public getting tired of rock 'n' roll, a lot of song publishers may be forced into going back into the music business."

RAIN SOON?

Folklore: When you see a cat or dog eating grass, you can expect rain soon. . . . Dream of clear water and you'll have good luck; dream of muddy water and you're in for trouble. . . . A girl who cuts slices of bread extra thick will turn out to be a good stepmother. . . . Smart people have the largest part of their head in front of their ears; if most of your head is behind your ears you are a candidate for a dunce cap.

Items to believe or doubt: Women talk louder on the telephone than men. . . . A cornered or wounded ostrich is more likely to try to kick you to death than to hide its head in the ground. . . . Given a choice, most people would rather live in a medium-sized city than a farm, a small town or a metropolis. . . . A husband who has a hobby is less likely to cheat on his wife than other husbands — unless his hobby happens to be girls.

Old Mexican talk makes comeback

MEXICO CITY (Reuters)—An Indian language spoken in Mexico before the Spanish arrived is making a strong comeback, even though many had regarded it as a dead language.

Some Mexicans are urging the adoption of Nautal as Mexico's official language in place of Spanish.

Nautal was one of the major languages spoken by Mexicans for many centuries. Its defenders recently met here at the first congress of the Nautal language.

Evidence that the ancient tongue is not dead was seen in the congress, where speeches were made in both Nautal and Spanish. Some delegates went as far as to refuse to use Spanish.

Here and there groups were seen chatting and joking in the old mother tongue.

In fact, children who have learned Spanish as a "native tongue" were also heard chatting in Nautal, which they have mastered with a new textbook for teaching Nautal in state schools.

It was this book which led to a heated debate after the announcement by the education department of plans to offer Nautal as an optional subject in secondary school curricula.

India wants her scientists back

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—India is trying to attract back those of her scientists who are working in foreign countries, to help fill the nation's needs for experienced technical manpower.

An estimated 4,500 Indian scientists now are in foreign countries, mainly in the United States, Canada and Europe.

Almost all went for advanced studies, and while many are still undergoing training, hundreds have chosen to stay on and work there because of higher salaries and better facilities for advanced research.

"They now are being told: 'Come back home, your country needs you.'"

To allay fears of unemployment in India, the returning scientists have been offered a series of incentives, including an assured, though modest, monthly income, regardless of whether they find a job immediately or not.

They also are to have full freedom and facilities for research in the field of their choice and adequate recognition of outstanding merit through rapid promotion.

India needs these scientists desperately in her ambitious attempt to catch up with the more advanced countries of the West in scientific knowledge.

In recent years, senior scientists have expressed dissatisfaction over the progress of scientific research in the country.

When the first five-year plan was launched 14 years ago, India had a definite edge over other Asian countries, except perhaps Japan, in scientific knowledge and manpower.

Today, the position is different. Communist China, with whom India is engaged in a race for economic development, today spends five times more than India on scientific research.

French Canadian students visit

MONTREAL (CP) — French-speaking high school students from Montreal will visit six Canadian cities for a week this summer as part of a federal-provincial student exchange program.

Six groups of 24 students each—12 boys and 12 girls—accompanied by a teacher will visit Saskatoon, Vancouver, Corner Brook, Nfld., Red Deer, Alta., and Winnipeg. Two groups will go to Winnipeg.

Each of the French-speaking students, aged 15 to 18, will also play host to English-speaking students from Corner Brook, Winnipeg, Saskatoon, Prince Rupert, B.C., Borden, P.E.I., and Peace River, Alta.

The exchange program is sponsored by the Confederation Centenary Commission which hopes to increase the number of participants during the summers up to 1967.

How to get the man to do the job

A company man earning $346.15 a week, before taxes, spent several of these highly paid weeks holding up all business while he argued about where he would sit.

Then he spent months either arguing about trivia, notably the company's trade mark, or not coming in to work at all.

Then, with the avowed intention of making it possible for him to take a summer holiday, he disposed of multi-millions of dollars of company business in a last minute rush.

Of course, the company is running at a fantastic loss, but this man hasn't been fired. Neither is he the boss's son-in-law.

In fact, he and 264 men like him, are duly elected by millions of shareholders in the company. They call him a Member of Parliament.

Of course, a government cannot be run on the same principles as a commercial enterprise. There are, however, certain principles that govern all forms of human endeavor, whether running a business, a country, a home, or taking a walk along the street.

One of these involves the setting of goals. The businessman's job is to make money. The housewife's job is a complicated one involving housekeeping and the raising to maturity of healthy, happy children. A man walking along the street decides where he is going and how to get there. The elected Member of Parliament is charged with attending to all the nation's business, and with getting it done.

If the businessman didn't take the steps necessary in making money, he wouldn't be a good businessman. If the housewife neglected for months at a time the many jobs involved in housekeeping and child-rearing, she would be declared an unfit mother. If a man walking along the street failed to go in the direction he had decided upon, and instead walked around and around in circles, he would be doing a poor job of walking along the street. The politician who takes up months satisfying his vanity on the floor of the Commons while the country's business goes undone, is not a good Member of Parliament.

But we don't fire the incompetent MP. In fact, how many of us make efforts to get to know our man before we vote for him? How can we know whether he is an idiot or a great man until we see him in the aggregate in the House of Commons, busily hindering the progress of the country?

Why don't we invite him, at times when the Commons is not in session, to meetings of our clubs, societies, associations and church groups so that we can judge him? If we find him lacking, we can vote for his political opponent (having met and judged him as well) or if they both appear to be useless, we can convey our opinions to the political associations who sponsor the candidates, demanding better ones in return for our votes.

When the shoe fits why do so many women take it off and pick a smaller size?

Seeing the world on our tax money

Canada Council funds for scholarships and fellowships are not unlimited. And the demand for them grows every year. In 1963, for example, there were 754 applications for 228 awards available in one category.

In an effort to make its funds go further, the Council has announced that this year studying abroad on Council awards will be cut down. The council wants to cut from nearly 80 per cent to 50 per cent the number of recipients going outside Canada in its pre-doctoral competition.

In addition to making its money go further, the council gives these reasons for the move:

To help development of Canadian graduate schools by keeping at home more of the country's better students;

Because in many areas of study, appropriate facilities are available in Canada.

These are all good and valid reasons for the new Council policy. And we don't suppose the Council could come right out publicly and say it is going to stop free-loading.

But it is a fact that in far too many cases, Canada Council awards to study outside the country have been nothing but free pleasure trips abroad. The Canadian taxpayer has paid dearly for the privilege of sending young people to Paris, or Rome or Bangkok to see the sights.

It is high time the Council adopted a more selective policy in its awarding of travelling fellowships and scholarships.

Lots of things may become a woman, but a little girl is bound to.

Other papers say:

Between Canada-US neighbours

The latest in the recent crop of studies of Canadian-American relations is a wise little report of the American Assembly, an institute established at Columbia University by Gen. Eisenhower to bring authorities together in study of issues of the day.

The section Canadianism might best note this: "... the United States both in its international negotiations and its internal democratic processes is stretched on the rack of global responsibilities as no nation has ever been before. In consequence those who are closest to us are apt to get less consideration than they might receive under other circumstances. Any less attention by the United States to the seemingly unlimited demands of the rest of the world for attention and action could produce results which Canada would regret more than she now deplores lapses in American solicitude for her interests and sensibilities."

This also might be added: The United States is probably more attentive and solicitous to Canada now than at any time in the history of the two nations. Canadians have less reason than ever before, despite their neighbor's global preoccupations, to feel they are taken for granted.

The sentences of most moment to Americans might be: "We urge a heightened and sustained awareness on the part of all American business and labor organizations that Americans involved in Canada neither be nor seem irresponsible toward the Canadian national interest. We believe it would be inappropriate for American-owned corporations in Canadian to be used as instruments of American foreign policy. These, of course, are abstract principles. On the working, practical level the answers do not come so easily; high principles can be muddled by self-interest and the irrevocable facts of geography. The report, for example, speaks of the fear in Canada of 'being engulfed by American influences through magazines, television, radio, newspapers, books and motion pictures, and the shoddy. But that is our worry, not the Americans'—and it will take more than a few conferences to supply the answers.

(The Ottawa Journal)

Of course there is no American answer. The Americans can't turn themselves off, can't prevent Canadians who have eyes and ears from being influenced by a vigorous, vital society. The answer, if there is one at all, must be a Canadian answer. Canadians somehow must learn to choose the best of American culture—and that is plenty worth having—and reject the unworthy, the crass and the shoddy.

To study Hall report Federal-provincial health talk may be step to national medicare

By PETER DEMPSON

OTTAWA—(TNS)—Preparations have already started for the holding of a federal-provincial health conference here which may be the stepping stone to a national medicare program. The conference, to consider recommendations of the Hall Commission on Health Services, will likely be held in early December or in January.

Prime Minister Pearson has already announced that the provinces will be invited to Ottawa within six to eight months to discuss the commission's report. Premier Robarts said Wednesday he doubted that the entire program proposed by the commission could be accepted in its present form. But it would form the basis of important discussions, he added.

Will Set Date

Mr. Pearson recently proposed, in letters to the premiers, that the conference be held in Ottawa before the end of the year if at all possible. He will set a specific date once he has heard from all of them.

The main recommendation in the report calls for a $466,000,000 medicare program to be run by the provinces, with costs shared 50-50 with Ottawa. When fully developed—at a pace to be set by the provinces—it would provide a full range of services including medical, dental, drugs, optical for children and welfare cases, artificial limbs and home care.

The per capita cost would be $20. By 1971, the present system of health services provided Canadians will cost about $178 per person.

Doctor Shortage

The Hall Commission set no target date for the medicare program, but pointed out that not enough doctors, dentists and nurses could be trained before 1971 to operate such a scheme.

Initial steps toward implementation of some of the recommendations probably will be taken at the first conference. The Government likely will trot out medicare as the major issue in the next general election campaign, provided the Pearson administration isn't toppled in the near future over the flag question.

The recommendations will tend to speed up the Government's social welfare plans, outlined by Mr. Pearson in the 1962 and 1963 campaigns. One of these—the Canada pension plan—will be introduced in its nationwide concept after the summer recess. The white paper outlining the program will be presented to MPs before the end of July.

Target date for passing the pension plan is before Christmas, so collections could start late next year and the first benefits to be paid on Jan. 1, 1966.

Towns erect statues India honors memory of Nehru

By RUKMINI DEVI

BOMBAY (CP)—As Indians slowly recover from the shock of Jawaharlal Nehru's death, there is a spontaneous movement all over the country to honor the prime minister's memory.

Though Nehru considered himself an agnostic, "Jawahar mandirs" (Jawahar temples) have been set up in many Indian villages. In one village in central India, villagers have made a clay idol of the former prime minister and installed it in the local Hindu temple beside the idol of Lord Krishna, the Hindu god.

At least 1,000 newborn Indian babies have been given the name Jawahar. In a New Delhi maternity home, all seven women who became mothers the day Nehru died have named their children after him. The village of Jaran in Gujarat state has been renamed Jawahar-nagar (abode of Jawahar). Its 1,600 residents have decided not to hold any festivities for a year. This has meant the cancellation of two dozen weddings. Fifty school and college boys in Poona, near Bombay, have shaved off their hair in accordance with an ancient Hindu mourning custom.

WOMAN SHAVES HEAD

Mrs. Sivakami Ammal, the 82-year-old mother of the chairman of the ruling Congress party, has shaved off her hair as a mark of affection for Nehru, whom she described as "my second son."

The former prime minister's residence in New Delhi is to be turned into a national monument. Besides relics of Nehru's personal life, the monument will house a science museum, a child welfare centre and a permanent exhibition on Indian economic progress.

naturally to a distinguished world citizen with a record of service to the cause of peaceful co-existence among nations.

An institute of social democracy is also to be set up in the Indian capital. It will train young Indians in the ideals of democratic socialism and Gandhian service which were the keystones of Nehru's long political life.

Almost every sizable Indian town is preparing to erect a statue of Nehru in its public square. Paradoxically enough, when he lived Nehru ridiculed the idea of erecting statues, calling it "a useless preoccupation."

Although the job discrimination section of the new bill won't become effective for another year, lawyers are already worrying over the legal aspects—since, here also,

Overriding the thorny legal question is the fear that "pressure demonstrations" by Negroes to test the public accommodations section immediately could lead to violence.

Comments one civil rights lawyer: "I'd hate to think what could happen if—now that the Civil Rights Bill is signed—a whole busload of Negroes pulls up to a plush motel in Shreveport and they all jump in the swimming pool."

Comments one civil rights lawyer: "I'd hate to think what could happen if—now that the Civil Rights Bill is signed—a whole busload of Negroes pulls up to a plush motel in Shreveport and they all jump in the swimming pool."

Reaction varies

Civil rights gets the test

By TOM NOLAN

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—In Jackson, Miss., once considered a bastion of racial segregation, a blonde restaurant waitress steps to a table and asks politely, "May I help you?" Her customers are Negro.

In St. Augustine, Fla., passers-by watch curiously as a band of men wearing pointed hats and carrying Confederate flags stride down the street. They are members of the Ku Klux Klan, bound for a segregation rally in the Old Slave Market.

Thus did white citizens of two different Deep South communities greet the Civil Rights Law.

Despite the scattered and sometimes violent opposition to the new law, there are now indications that voluntary compliance will be wide spread. In the first days of the law restaurants and hotels in some 50 Southern cities desegregated, to the relief of the Justice Department workers charged with carrying out enforcement.

This enforcement of the law—which backers of the legislation agree will barely affect living conditions of the Negro in the North—could be a lengthy, tortuous process in many parts of the South.

Despite the fact that the Johnson administration is making every possible effort to sweeten the pot for those Southerners willing to comply voluntarily with the bill's provisions, many officials fear that enforcement in several states will be by outright compulsion alone.

Justice Department officials are girding themselves for a considerable number of court actions. One aide expects the department will double its present staff of 55 civil rights lawyers within a year.

And several civil rights groups have indicated they will try for early court tests of the legislation.

"It's going to take court actions to get enforcement in the deep South," says one congressman. "They've been fighting this thing since the Civil War. They're not about to tear down their fences because Congress passed a law."

Court actions will involve prosecutors in some pretty knotty legal problems—particularly in the public accommodations and job discrimination fields, which break completely new legal ground on the federal level.

Before the government can win a public accommodations lawsuit, it must show that the alleged discrimination is part of a broad "pattern or practice" of racial bias. Merely defining these words could take years in court, one lawyer fears.

It is not yet certain whether a court can enjoin an entire town to stop racial discrimination. Barring this, individual hotel owners, merchants and businessmen would have to be prosecuted singly, an almost impossible task.

Overriding the thorny legal question is the fear that "pressure demonstrations" by Negroes to test the public accommodations section immediately could lead to violence.

Comments one civil rights lawyer: "I'd hate to think what could happen if—now that the Civil Rights Bill is signed—a whole busload of Negroes pulls up to a plush motel in Shreveport and they all jump in the swimming pool."

Although the job discrimination section of the new bill won't become effective for another year, lawyers are already worrying over the legal aspects—since, here also,

Overriding the thorny legal question is the fear that "pressure demonstrations" by Negroes to test the public accommodations section immediately could lead to violence.

TODAY IN HISTORY

By THE CANADIAN PRESS July 15, 1964. Cheques for some $20,000,000 were mailed out as the Canadian government made its first family allowance payments to mothers—19 years ago today—in 1945. The total then registered called for a payment of $252,560,000 annually to be spent towards the maintenance, care, training, education and advancement of children. All families with dependent children up to 16 years of age are eligible to receive the payments.

The PRAYER

FOR TODAY FROM The Upper Room. God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble. (Psalm 46: 1). PRAYER: Our heavenly Father, we thank Thee for Thy steadfast love and compassion. Help us to adjust ourselves to these changing conditions of today. Help us to know Thy presence in a real way. Grant us the indwelling of the Holy Spirit in these critical days in which we live. We ask in the name of Jesus, who taught us to pray, "Our Father who art in heaven . . . Amen."

Four men appear before judge on exposure charge

SWEETSBURG WARD — similar charges laid against four young men from Farnham appeared before Judge Redmond Hayes here Tuesday on charges of undressing in public and in front of children.

The first, Arsene Legace has been accused of doing this several times during the last four years.

The court attorney asked that the sentence be brought down on September 21, 1964 in order that the rest of the accusations against Legace may be brought before the court. Until that time, Legace will remain in jail.

The second man accused on the same charge was Emile Legace, who undressed in front of a 15-year-old and has several similar charges laid against him over the past three years.

The third man, Serge Gauthier was accused on the same charges and will appear in court July 20. The fourth person accused was not named because he is a juvenile and judgment will take place in Judges Chambers.

ONE YEAR IN JAIL

Edmond Lamarche, 20 years old, of Farnham was sentenced to one year in jail for stealing hubcaps. He will serve his time in the Sweetsburg jail.

An unnamed young man from St. Etienne de Bolton accused of stealing a horse from Andre Cyr will appear in court on August 17.

Marcel Charbonneau of Granby, accused of disturbing the peace will have to pay damages to the Royal Hotel, Granby, for breaking a window in a door and also will have to pay $25 for hitting a girl the same night. He will also have to post a bond for $300 on the promise that he will keep the peace for one year.

Two young men from Granby will appear in court July 30 on charges of attempting to steal a car. They are Marcel Lagace and Michel Forget. The attempt was made in West Shefford on the night of July 8. The car belonged to Rosaire Corriveau of St. Leonard, Nicolet.

Post mistress carries on tradition

COWANSVILLE — (Special) Miss Suzanne St. Martin, of Sweetsburg was appointed assistant post master of Cowansville on July 2.

Miss St. Martin is hardly new to the business. She ran the Sweetsburg office with her mother, Mrs. A. St. Martin for eight years. Her father had been post master, there, for 25 years and when he died she and her mother carried on.

Miss St. Martin said that her mother was continuing the work in Sweetsburg, even though it is commonly thought of as a man's world. There are several women employed by the postal offices across Canada, she says.

Family relations specialist says

Houses designed for family living should have specialized areas

WINNIPEG (CP) — A family relations specialist said Tuesday that houses designed for family living should have specialized areas.

Dr. Evelyn M. Duvall of Chicago, chairman of the international liaison committee of the National Council on Family Relations, told the Canadian Home Economics Association convention the modern kitchen is an example of non-functional housing.

The kitchen should be a "work centre for the family in action," a place to carry on household activities in "pleasant, comfortable space," she said. Several panel members later commented that kitchens are too small.

Dr. Duvall also said houses should be designed to "grow as the family grows, adapting themselves to new tasks in a family life cycle."

LOOK GOOD ON PAPER

Mrs. Carl Ingalls of Thompson, Man., a homemaker and teacher, said some townsites "look perfectly beautiful on paper," but have inadequate shopping facilities and play areas for children. In her own town, because of the lack of transportation, "a mother of small children has a grim task to buy a loaf of bread."

Earl Simpson, director of Winnipeg's housing and urban renewal branch, and George Gordon, a Winnipeg architect and planner, said there is a lack of esthetic and emotional flair, as well as individualism in modern housing design.

Elizabeth Lord, a Winnipeg architect and homemaker said new houses do not have enough space for each individual. "It does something to you inside when there is no privacy," she said.

Earlier in the day, Magistrate Isaac Rice attacked social welfare agencies as "forgetting that the people they are talking about are humans and are not all alike."

The agencies "spend too much time on administration and the preparation of statistics and other useless data," Magistrate Rice said. He noted that welfare recipients appear frequently in court.

Today's recipe - - - Jumbo Dutch treat

Let's have a "Dutch Treat" barbecue.

Each member of the family can be asked to add a contribution for this week's outdoor meal.

Mother takes care of the main course — Hot Dutch Tuna Buns. These are made with tuna and have sweet relish added which gives an appetizing zing. Wrapped in foil, the buns are heated on the barbecue grill, tended by Dad, the chief cook.

The day before the event, Sis should try her hand at the dessert, easy-to-make Jumbo Jems cookies. A combination of ketchup, a find food made with sugar and spices, and miniature gum-drops gives these cookies their unusually tasty appeal.

The boys are the runners, setting up the tables and chairs, adding condiments and preparing the beverage for the meal.

It's a "Jumbo Dutch Treat", HOT DUTCH TUNA BUNS

- 1 can (7 ounces) tuna, drained, flaked,
- 2 cups chopped cabbage,
- 1/2 cup sweet relish,
- 1/4 cup mayonnaise or salad dressing,

6-8 hard rolls.

Lightly mix first 4 ingredients. With sharp knife cut around tops of rolls leaving 1/2 inch wide crust; reserve tops; hollow out centers. Fill with tuna mixture; replace tops. Wrap each roll securely in aluminum foil, tucking in ends. Heat on grill, 3-4 inches from hot coals, for 10-12 minutes; turn and heat additional 10-12 minutes or until heated through. Makes 6-8 sandwiches (approximately 3 cups filling).

Variations: Heat oven to 400°F. Bake sandwiches 20-25 minutes or until hot. Mixture may be served chilled with ketchup. Fold in gum-drops. Using scant 1/4 cup measure for each cookie, drop dough 2 inches apart on greased baking sheet. Bake 15-17 minutes or until golden brown. Makes 24 jumbo cookies.

Bride elect honored

Miss Diana Bellam, an August bride-to-be was guest of honor at a cup and saucer shower given by Mrs. Annie Ruddy and the aunt of the bride elect, Mrs. Lillie McKenzie.

Upon entering the room, the guest of honor was presented with a corsage, Mrs. James Bellam, mother of the bride-to-be, and the prospective groom's mother, Mrs. Francis Williams, were also presented with corals.

For the occasion the room was decorated with white streamers and seasonal flowers. After the gifts had been opened and duly admired the guest of honor graciously expressed her thanks to all present.

Later a lunch was served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Lewis McHarg.

Men talk—women win

Scientific studies on man-woman relationships are always coming up with conclusions that any female, feminine dame could have told the scientists in the first place.

For instance, a sociology professor has been testing husband-and-wife teams to find who has the most influence on family decisions—husband or wife—and why.

The thing he discovered that any smart, influence-wielding wife could have told him was that a wife can let her husband do most of the talking about a decision that is to be made, and still get her way in the end.

As a matter of fact, the easiest way in the world for a wife to influence a decision is to let her husband talk on and on, and agreeing with him until he gives her an opening for putting in just the right few words to start him thinking the way she wants him to.

Since she is so willing to listen to his ideas, so quick to agree with him, so ready to

DEAR POLLY — Hold baking pans upside down under hot running water before greasing them. The shortening will spread more easily and evenly and less shortening will be required.

If you need an extra wide piece of waxed paper, seal two pieces together with a hot iron.

DEAR POLLY — We enjoy taking overnight camping trips but my husband never gives me more than an hour's notice. I used to forget many things we needed. Now I pack AFTER a camping trip and can be ready to leave in 15 minutes. One shelf in our freezer contains all the food needed for one of these trips — bread, butter, meats and so on. The frozen items also serve as "ice" in the ice chest while we are traveling and there is less chance of food spoilage. By the time camp is set up and I am ready to cook, everything is thawed. I also fill milk cartons with water and keep them in the freezer so we do not have to make a stop at the ice house. Bed rolls, camping gear, clothing for the children and first aid items are already stored in the car trunk and ready to go when we are.

GIRLS — I know Mrs. L. E.'s letter will receive a rousing cheer from those husbands who like to do things on the spur of the moment and will appreciate this wife who plans so well that she can take off at anytime.

DEAR POLLY — When putting trading stamps in books, pictures in albums and odds and ends in scrapbooks, put pieces of waxed paper cut the same size as the pages between the pages until the glue or paste is thoroughly dry. No damage then occurs to the items added to such books and the waxed paper can be used over and over.

Romance plays a part, too. All nurses and teachers are trained in St. John's and during their time here they often meet boyfriends from whom they don't want to be separated.

Bringing Up Baby

Sudden rebellion in the ranks? Even the best-behaved baby feels the need to rebel from time to time. And why not? A baby is a human being, entitled to a few human quirks. (Besides, this show of spirit means he's growing up). So when your baby occasionally refuses to go along with his regular mealtime or naptime schedule, try to relax and let him relax before you feed or bed him down. If you don't force the issue, it will be easier to get baby back on schedule the next time around.

Baby will relish regular mealtimes, if they're kept "looking-forward-to" times. The needed ingredients? A smiling atmosphere. A goodly variety of Gerber Strained Foods. There are more than enough to keep baby's mealtimes zestful.

Variety review with a delicious point of view, Gerber Strained Foods offer plenty of range for menu change. 15 luscious fruits, 9 garden-good vegetables, 3

Four tips to tame a rock-a-bye rebel. (1) Nothing quite so relaxing as a rocking chair session. (2) A lullaby, sweet and low, still "bath charms to soothe." (3) A favourite cuddle toy somehow makes a crib seem cozier. (4) Grandmother offered a spot of warm milk to encourage drowsiness. Works today, too.

Specialties of the house. Don't forget these special foods for your baby: Gerber's Strained Eggs Yolks—delicate in flavour, custard-y in texture, provide baby with iron and vitamin A, too. Gerber Teething Biscuits are great helps in the soothing department. They're extra hard and waffle-surfaced to provide the biting satisfaction your baby wants and needs. Scalloped edges make for easy grasping. Gerber Baby Foods, Niagara Falls, Canada.

OBITUARIES

MISS ELLEN FRENCH, OF COOKSHIRE
 COOKSHIRE — On June 25, 1964, Miss Ellen Bailey French died in the Sherbrooke Hospital, after a brief illness.
 Miss French, the second daughter of Charles W. B. French and Maria Augusta Bailey, was born May 19, 1878, in Scotstown, where she spent her early years.
 Following her father's death in 1905, she came to live in Cookshire, where she graduated from the Academy and then attended Normal School in Montreal. After teaching for a few years, she returned to Cookshire to live with her aunts, the Misses Abbie and Ann Bailey and her invalid sister, Bertie. After their deaths, she remained in Cookshire.
 She was a faithful member of St. Peter's Church, was active in the Guild and a supporter of all worthy causes.
 Left to mourn are two brothers,

John, of Cookshire, and Horace, of Wetaskiwin, Alta.; and two sisters, Lottie, Mrs. M. K. MacKenzie, of Montreal West and Annie, Mrs. J. F. Wickenden, of Three Rivers, and many other relatives.
 On June 30, prayers were conducted at her home by Rev. Morley Thomas, followed by the funeral service in St. Peter's Church, with Mr. Thomas officiating. The choir, with Mrs. George Gill as organist, led in the singing of two favorite hymns, Unto the Hills and Abide with Me.
 The bearers were John McDonald, Malcolm Fraser, Darrell Bellam, Everiste Rousseau, Malcolm McVeity and Lionel Pope. Interment was in Cookshire Cemetery.
 Mourners included Mr. and Mrs. John French, Mr. and Mrs. M. K. MacKenzie, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Wickenden, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. C. Don French, Mrs. Sterling Whiteway, Mrs. Bruce

Ferguson, Miss Jean Wickenden, Mrs. J. C. McKellar, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Wickenden, Jr., Mrs. R. J. Stevenson and Mrs. E. A. Bailey.
 Numerous friends from Scotstown, Bury, Sherbrooke and the surrounding district attended.
CARL WALTER ROBBINS, OF DERBY LINE, VT.
 DERBY LINE, VT. — The funeral of Carl W. Robbins took place at Converse Funeral Home on June 23, at three o'clock in the presence of the family and a host of friends from all walks of life.
 Rev. Gale Bascombe, of the Universalist Church, officiated and spoke in tribute to Mr. Robbins. Favorite recorded sacred music was played.
 The bearers were William Herbert, Lloyd O. Selby, C. R. MacLean, Daniel Buck, Fred Batchelor and Stuart Edgar. Interment took place in Derby Line cemetery.
 Mr. Robbins died suddenly on June 20 in the Orleans County Memorial Hospital, where he had been a patient since suffering a coronary attack on June 14.
 He was born on January 9, 1889, at North Chesterville, Me., a son of Charles W. and Bertha (Vaughn) Robbins. He was a graduate of Wilton Academy, Maine, Lowell Institute of Engineering, Lowell, Mass., also a school for industrial foremen in Boston, Mass., and was an electrical and mechanical engineer.
 August 3, 1919, he married Rachel Stowe in Wilton. Following their marriage they resided in Torrington, Conn., where Mr. Robbins taught in a trade school a short time before going to work as an assistant superintendent at the Wireless Speciality Apparatus Company during World War I, in Boston.
 Later he went to Athol, Mass., where he was employed by the Union Twist Drill Co., and in 1920 came to the U.T.D. plant at The Boundary, where he was chief draftsman until he retired in 1956.
 Mr. Robbins was a member of Wilton Masonic Lodge, F. and A.M., and only a few months ago received his 50-year jewel. He was also a member of Ancient Tall Cedars, No. 156, A.F. and A.M., a member of the Butterfield Quarter Century Club, a member and director of the Stanstead County Fish and Game Club, director of the International Water Company and Derby Line Cemetery Association. He had served as a juror of the Superior Court at Newport several times and was a member of the present jury at the time of his death.
 Mr. Robbins was an ardent sportsman and a fly fisherman and only a few days before his illness he had been in Northern Quebec on a fishing trip. He was also an artist and had painted many beautiful pictures in oils.
 Mr. Robbins is survived by his wife, and their daughters, Eleanor, Mrs. Donald Earle and Blandine, Mrs. Frederick Molyneux, four grandchildren, and a sister, Mrs. Jay Ash, of Daytona Beach, Florida.

When you're away on holidays, your daily newspaper is busy keeping you up to date on regional and world news . . .
 When an advertiser wishes to reach his customers, he doesn't have to worry about the daily newspaper being out on vacation . . .

AND YOU, THE NEWSPAPER READER APPRECIATE the day in, day out consistency of your daily newspaper's service.

 There's no "off season" with daily newspaper readers. Wherever, they are, they're pretty hard to distract from their daily habit of daily newspaper reading.
 An analysis of daily newspaper circulation over a three-year period showed no month varied more than 4% from the peak period. Contrast this with other media which falls off during vacation months (television, for example, slumps anywhere from 30% to 50%), and you can see why it makes good sense to lean heavily on daily newspapers as the medium to give you fullest coverage during summer months. Of course, you can rely on daily newspapers to give you sharper market penetration of your advertising any time of year. Of the 9 out of 10 Canadian adults who read newspapers, 80% read a newspaper on all five weekdays, and about three quarters read a newspaper on weekends.
 When you want all-season, on-the-job advertising, use daily newspapers — the medium that puts your advertising where your audience is. Canadian Daily Newspaper Publishers Association.

Dealing with condemned murderers

Mercy evolves as a federal policy

OTTAWA (CP)—Federal government procedures in dealing with condemned murderers have evolved in the last decade into a highly complex system resulting in every possible benefit of the doubt going in favor of the convicted slayer.

As the royal prerogative of mercy now is exercised, cabinet ministers and officials involved in making the final review of capital cases before the hangman's trap is sprung are convinced there are few if any refinements that can be made.

These views were obtained in a series of interviews with solicitors-general, past and present, and others whose duty it is to prepare for the final review by cabinet.

J. Watson Macnaught, solicitor-general in the present government, said much more than the transcripts of court proceedings in each case is studied.

"It has been my desire to get as complete factual reports on the life history of a man as it is possible to get," he said.

When someone accused of capital murder is found guilty, regardless of whether there is a recommendation of mercy from the jury, machinery is set in motion for a careful review of the case.

It is the presiding judge's obligation to sentence the accused to death by hanging, and to notify the justice department immediately. The review of the case starts then, whether or not the conviction is appealed and the conviction upset or a new trial ordered.

STUDY POLICE REPORTS
In addition to the transcript of the evidence, the case file includes confidential police reports on the accused, the victim and the witnesses. Character studies are compiled and psychiatrists are assigned not only to the convict but to review all the evidence and confidential reports.

These reports frequently contain material which could not be introduced in the trial, such as a statement made by the accused to police at the time of arrest which may have been ruled inadmissible on some technical ground.

Leon Balcer (PC—Trois Rivières), solicitor-general for more than two years in the former Conservative government, said: "We always made a very thorough examination. We surveyed every piece of evidence and information, and matters that could not be brought into court."

The review is made personally by the solicitor-general, assisted by officials of the justice department who are expert in criminal law. All the facts and extenuating circumstances, if any, are included in a report circulated by the solicitor-general to his cabinet colleagues several days before the case reaches a cabinet meeting for its final decision.

A capital case is always the first on the cabinet's agenda for the day. In recent years, discussion has been both general and detailed, with such pictures as the scene of the crime and related objects or persons circulated.

JUSTICE PREVAILS
Mr. Balcer said he believes the system ensures that justice prevails. Any extenuating circumstances such as a seriously troubled upbringing or inflamed passion which might provoke a person to violent homicide is carefully considered.

"Very often, I think the justice of the case prevails in the cabinet's final judgment over the legal exactness which might prevail in a court of law," Mr. Balcer said.

Another cabinet minister recalled that 20 years or so ago cabinet decisions were often taken quickly and simply on the oral report of the solicitor-general of the day.

In fact, there is a well-known story on Parliament Hill of one particularly taciturn minister who objected to cabinet being troubled and having to spend its time on such cases. Whenever one arose, it was his custom to demonstrate his feelings by gathering up his papers, declaring "hang the bastard," and stomping from the cabinet room.

Solicitors-general find the capital cases of excruciating burden—deciding finally whether a man or woman should hang. One with lengthy experience in the portfolio, which has few if any other duties, said he is certain all solicitors-general ultimately come to believe in total abolition of capital punishment.

Their solace is in knowing that every possible course is taken to ensure both through the courts and through the personal review of cabinet colleagues, when broader considerations than the letter of the law prevail, that a person convicted of murder is guilty beyond any possible doubt, before he is hanged.

News flashes from around the world

NEW YORK (AP)—A federal Grand Jury indicted nine men Tuesday in the alleged theft and sale abroad of multimillion-dollar U.S. drug-making secrets.

The case involves wonder drugs and the U.S. firms' fight against Italian antibiotics coming into the U.S. market.

The indictment broadens charges contained in an earlier bill returned in October 1962 and adds more defendants.

WASHINGTON (AP)—United States military manpower in South Viet Nam will be increased by about 600 men during the next few months to restore part of a cutback which was started last year. Of the 600 men, about 200 to 300 will be additional special forces experts to bring the total of those forces up to about 1,000 and the over-all U.S. strength to about 16,000.

MARACAIBO, Venezuela (AP)—Luis Aparicio's grandmother celebrated her 105th birthday Tuesday with a party in her home. She said she hopes to reach 110 and see her star grandson still playing in the major leagues. The 30-year-old Aparicio is the shortest of the first place Baltimore Orioles in the American League.

STRATFORD (CP)—William Teron, an Ottawa builder, told the Stratford seminar on civic design Tuesday that Canada will be "some sort of architectural zoo" if present schemes are the extent of planning for centenary year. He said the federal government must launch a campaign to get Canada's 20,000,000 population personally involved. If not, he added, there would be no real true centenary.

THE HAGUE (Reuters)—Four men were reported missing Tuesday night after a British fishing vessel sank following a collision with a Polish fishing boat off the east coast of Scotland. Radio reports picked up here said the British vessel Sirius, 43 tons, collided with the Polish government-owned Zieba, a 185-ton ship. The Zieba picked up three of the Sirius' crew.

GOLDWATER

justice department staff. It also proposed invoking the 14th amendment to reduce congressional representation of states which disenfranchise some citizens to vote.

The vote by which delegates batted down this proposal seemed to indicate that when they get around to choosing their nominee tonight Goldwater might exceed the necessary 655 count before the first call of the states even was completed.

At one point Tuesday, Scranton said: "It isn't so much a question of whether we win as that we demonstrate to all America that there are persons in our party who do feel this way."

Goldwater, commenting through an aide on the developments, said: "The Republican convention is reflecting the conservative majority in the Republican party."

As matters stood, it was the consensus of his associates that Goldwater would pick Representative William E. Miller of New York, the Republican national chairman, as his vice-presidential running mate. Miller has strong support from New England, Illinois, North Carolina, Arkansas and Mississippi delegates.

AMENDMENTS REJECTED
In a session lasting past midnight, the convention rejected a total of five proposals to amend the platform and delegates shouted their approval of the 9,000-word draft without any change.

Two amendments dealt with what their sponsors called political extremism, two were in the field of civil rights and a fifth was aimed at Goldwater's suggestion that the NATO commander be given more supervision over the use of small nuclear weapons to repel attack.

Former state secretary Christian A. Herter urged adoption of the nuclear amendment and Senator Jacob K. Javits of New York was booed when he spoke for it.

Evidence that Goldwater's conservatives were in charge came early in the day. Richard M. Nixon, the 1960 presidential candidate, held a press conference and toned down his previous criticism of Goldwater, suggesting that European descriptions of Goldwater as being a "nut" and a "jerk" were inaccurate. He said he would campaign for the senator.

Alouettes take nose dive as Canadiens win 12-1

Strong defensive team stops Als, Huntingdon connects for five hits; More changes made by Coach Roy

Jacques Codere, a lone parachutist who dropped nearly 4,000 feet to his destination on the mound, wasn't the only one to take a dive at the local stadium last night. Sherbrooke Alouettes plummeted to an embarrassing 12-1 defeat under Coaticook Canadiens, as more than 2,500 fans watched.

Jacques Codere, from Sherbrooke, offered his services to the local ball club and to the committee for the Summer Festival as a spectacular start to last night's tilt. He circled the field a number of times and finally dropped, landing about eight feet off the mound.

ALS LOSE

Although Andy Bessette had no trouble with the first three men at the plate, the visiting squad had plenty of mischief on their bats in the second as they connected for three hits to send five runs home. Two errors helped the Canadiens stack the score, while Huntingdon, Steinhour and Rousé got the hits.

The first nine men were put out in order by the strong defensive Canadiens, who wouldn't let anything get past them on the field. In the fourth it was still 5-0 with Steinhour having a no-hitter going. Robichaud broke this hope, as he connected for a single, but was later put out on a ground ball, to second.

Three runs were added to the column in the fifth on hits by Huntingdon, Parker, Roy and Michaud, as Coaticook surged ahead of the helpless Als. It was certainly their had a thing until the seventh when Fern Dube drove St. Vincent across for the lone run.

Two more runs in the top of the seventh and ninth innings completed Coaticook's damage in the game to finish at the long end of a 12-1 count. It was pathetic to see the Als drop one by one to the Canadiens, then return to the field for awhile, trying to stop their opponents' attacks.

STARS

Great star for Coaticook was George Huntingdon as he got five hits in six official times. Four singles and a double contributed greatly to the damage. Jim Steinhour pitched a very good game for Coaticook, preventing the Als from getting a hit until the fourth. He was later replaced by Bourque, to give this pitcher a little experience. The Als had no exceptional player on the team, but Gilles Robichaud gave a better performance than the others.

MANY CHANGES MADE

A reason for the sudden drop in the Alouettes club could be due to the fact that they are minus a few better players. Jean-Guy Dion decided that it was better for him to retire from the club after his head injury. The fact that a marriage is on the agenda may also have played a part. Jean-Pierre Roy has given Claude Prud'Homme the thumbs. Coach Roy feels that his attitude toward the club could be done without.

Two indefinite suspensions were also dealt to Kim's Hurbise and Marcel Caron. They didn't present themselves for week-end practice and were met with their suspensions upon their return Monday.

Roger Breard and Allie Bryant, Jr., will join the forces of the Als for Thursday's game with Coaticook. Coach Roy secured them in Montreal on the weekend when he was scouting new talent.

Breard played for Drummondville in earlier years, while Bryant may be remembered as the son of Allie Bryant, former Provincial League player with the Quebec squad. J. P. Roy feels that these new men will certainly help them out of the present slump.

Tony Lema, despite his acting, man to beat

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Tony Lema puffed away nonchalantly on a cigarette, held at a rakish angle in a long white holder.

"A little gift from the Duke of Windsor in Paris," he said condescendingly, flicking ashes from his dark blazer.

Ken Venturi, the United States Open champion, came into the locker room at the Columbus Country Club and tossed his shoes into a nearby stall.

"Oh, you must be the fellow who won that American tournament," Lema said, affecting a British accent.

"Venturi, who grew up with Lema in the Golden Gate area around San Francisco, blinked a locker room attendant came up to ask if Lema would like to have his shoes shined. "He's worn them once," chimed in Vic Ghezzi. "You can throw them away now." "Indeed," repeated Lema, with an impish grin. "Put them into discard."

This is golf's new glamor boy, sensational winner of the British Open last weekend, the most colorful figure to flash across the fairways since the incomparable Walter Hagen of the Golden Twenties.

The Haig was flashy and flamboyant. His sweaters were the fleeciest, the crease in his knickers the sharpest and his garb the most radiant on the tour.

WAS BRASH AND COCKY
 He drove a chauffeured Limousine to the front of staid British clubs and had a footman open the door. He reported to the first tee in a tuxedo after a wild, all-night party. He shook up his rivals with disarming brashness and cockiness.

A somewhat similar affluence and glass are the trademarks of Tony Lema, the poor widows son who escaped juvenile delinquency on the docks of the West Coast, and came out of obscurity to attain a prominent niche in golf.

When he wins a tournament—and he's won four of his last six—he springs for champagne in the press room.

He uses a fancy cigarette holder, actually given him by the sometime King Edward of England last weekend. He talks fancy and puts on a big show, but it's all an act.

Actually, Lema is a handsome, modest young man, 30 years old, deep-set blue eyes, dark curly hair and a slim figure. He broke a thousand teenage hearts less than a year ago when he married airline hostess Betty Cline.

Emerson and Newcombe to face pair of southpaws as Canada opens bid against Aussies in Davis Cup round

MONTREAL (CP)—Roy Emerson and John Newcombe of Australia will face a pair of tennis southpaws Friday in the opening singles matches of the Davis Cup tie with Canada.

Left-handed net competitors aren't that rare, but no one connected with the first round of the North American zone elimination can remember the last time that four of the eight players held their rackets in the "wrong" hand.

Not even Aussie captain Harry Hopman, who has as much seniority as the trophy itself.

Both Francois Godbout and Keith Carpenter, expected to get the starting assignments against Emerson and Newcombe, are lefties. And the two Aussie reserves, Owen Davidson and Tony Roche, are also southpaws.

"It's not a problem for the Aussies," Canadian captain Ellis Tarshis said Tuesday. "But it is rare. Sometimes it affects a righthander's shot placement, but it doesn't bother players with calibre of the Aussies."

Despite this, Hopman has been drilling Newcombe in serves aimed at lefties. He spent the afternoon serving to Emerson's right forehand—in effect, the same as service to a leftie's backhand.

This was the tipoff that Newcombe had been given the nod over Roche for Friday's opening singles, although Hopman wouldn't spoil his image of a foxy tactician by admitting it.

"I will say this, however," he conceded. "I'm giving Newcombe exercises and today I'll start to ease off and work him less so as not to tire him. Then I hope he is fighting fit for Friday."

YESTERDAY'S STARS

Batting—Bob Johnson, Orioles, set an American League record by stroking his sixth consecutive pinch hit and gave Baltimore a 3-2 tie before the Orioles went on to lose to New York Yankees 4-3.

Pitching—Al Downing, Yankees, survived ninth inning jam and wound up with six-hit, 4-3 victory over Orioles that moved second-place New York to within one-half game of American League leading Baltimore.

The Eastern Townships Golf championship will be held this year on the weekend of Aug. 12-13, stated Aime Bergeron, club captain, at a press conference held yesterday afternoon at the Sherbrooke Country Club.

This will be the 15th to take place as last year the club was unable to find a sponsor for the event. Lucien Lavigne, local representative for Pepsi-Cola, has agreed to sponsor the tournament and the sum of $1,500 will be at stake for the professionals.

As in past years the top prize for the pros will be $400 with the rest of the money divided among the top fifteen players. As for the amateurs the sum of $750 will divide into prizes for all three classes.

The tourney will open on Saturday when class B and C players will compete for their prizes while on Sunday class A will tee off to start the field with the pros following in the afternoon.

Jack Bessiger of Val Morin, who won the title back in 1962, will be on hand to defend his laurels. He fired a four-under par 67 to win the last tourney and he has agreed to be on hand unless something unforeseen should happen.

The tournament, one of the most popular ones in the Province, has in past years drawn all the top professionals and amateurs in the game. In 1962 fifty-one pros and 376 amateurs took part in the two-day tournament and it is expected that as many if not more will file their entries to compete again.

Captain Bergeron pointed out that no entries will be accepted over the telephone, all must be sent in. The main reason for this is to try and prevent any mixup. In 1962 several calls were misplaced and this added confusion to the organizers.

In '62 Armand Dussault, vice-president, and Lucien Lavigne, sponsor of the tournament,

Cards down Dodgers, Braves upset Giants

Ron Perranoski, dike-plugger of the year in 1963, apparently has run out of fingers.

The defending world champion Los Angeles Dodgers were beaten Tuesday night on a two-run pinch-hit single by Bob Skinner that capped a four-run ninth inning uprising and gave St. Louis Cardinals an 8-7 victory.

Perranoski, 27, who last year at this time was en route to a 16-3 record, put down one up-rising in the eighth, but failed and was removed in the decisive ninth.

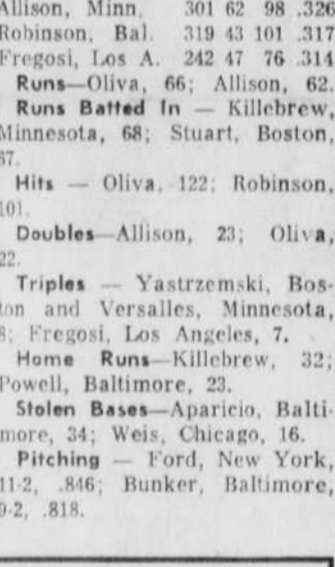

Walks to Curt Flood and Dick Groat and a single by Ken Boyer gave the Cardinals a run and when Perranoski ran the count on Bill White to 3-0, out he came. Bob Miller completed the walk, Mike Shannon bounced out as a run scored and then Skinner slapped his game-winning hit.

The loss was charged to Perranoski, who has made 36 appearances this season and been in 24 losing games while compiling a 4-5 record with a mediocre 3.32 earned run average.

The Cardinals climbed to within 7½ games of front-running San Francisco Giants. RETAIN THEIR LEAD

Montreal's Billy Wayne grabs wildly for the ball as Don Stephenson of Calgary charges after him in a Canadian Football League exhibition game at Montreal Tuesday night. The Stampeders crushed the Alouettes 35-7.

That was his best performance of the game to give rookies, including several local juniors, plenty of chances to show their wares.

Quarterback Eagle Day passed to Mary Luster in the second quarter as his first as an Alouette, Gino Berretta, who averaged 41.5 yards on eight punts, converted.

Bork ignored the long pass and remained cool under fire although he was subject to only a moderate blitz.

One of his passes, intended for Hugh Rohrschneider, receiver at Northern Illinois University, was intercepted.

Yanks down Orioles 7-3 as leaders belt Twins 16-3 to extend lead, two games on agenda here tonight

In the Sher-Lenn Little League games last evening Yankees came up with 7-3 win over Orioles and the league leading Red Sox dumped Twins by a 16-3 count.

David Garard went all the way for the Yankees in their win and Yvan Poirier came up with the decision in the Red Sox victory. Errors did not help the Twins' cause as they committed seven miscues in the game.

Two games are on tap for this evening and the results could make quite a change in the league standing. Tigers go against the Indians and a win for either team would put them in second spot. In the other game White Sox could make it tough for the Senators.

Yankees showing improvement in their fielding stood up well against the Orioles and were worthy winners. David Garard held the Orioles hitless until the fourth inning.

Yanks got away to a 5-0 lead at the end of two innings, 4 hits from Art Chamberlain, Jeffery Harte, David Garard and Steve Mitchell did the damage. Tour of the fourth the visitors eventually got to Garard for four hits that produced three runs. Felix Boisvert, Raymond Houle, R. Gosselin and Real LeTourneau all hitting safely. Yankees, on a long single by Peter Ives in the bottom of the third, added one more run to increase their lead.

Yankees got one run in the last of the fourth, Steve Mitchell sending in the tally. This was all the scoring Yankees taking the game 7-3. Both teams showed lots of improvement in this one. Orioles though beaten gave a good account of themselves. Garard, Mitchell and Harte stood out for the Yankees.

Red Sox, assisted by loose play by the Twins' infield, coasted to an easy 16-3 win.

Yankees edge Orioles 4-3 in race for league lead; White Sox stop Red Sox while Senators nip Twins

The trouble with Baltimore Orioles is they can't win those one-run ball games.

They dropped a 4-3 decision to New York Tuesday night in the opener of a vital three-game set and saw their American League lead dwindle to one-half game over the onrushing Yankees.

The Orioles suddenly have lost their touch in pressure games after reeling off 21 victories in their first 23 one-run contests.

They were beaten twice by Detroit Tigers, each time by a 4-3 score in 10 innings, before Mickey Mantle, Tom Tresh and Al Downing collaborated for Tuesday night's Yankee victory before a New York crowd of 38,162.

Stu Miller, the wily junkman of the Baltimore bullpen, was the victim of eighth inning hits by Mantle and Tresh that broke a 3-3 tie and gave the Yankees their fifth straight triumph. Downing weathered a ninth inning storm and won his fourth in a row with a six-hitter.

Elsewhere in the AL, Juan Pizarro became the league's first 13-game winner as Chicago White Sox topped Boston Red Sox 4-2; Washington Senators nipped Minnesota Twins 4-3; Detroit Tigers beat Los Angeles Angels by the same score and Cleveland Indians outlasted Kansas City Athletics 9-7.

Mantle lined a single off Miller, making his 38th appearance in relief, with one out in the eighth. Mickey moved to second on a ground out and tallied the deciding run on Tresh's bloop hit to right.

Baltimore had tied the score in the seventh on two walks and Bob Johnson's record-breaking pinch hit single. The hit was Johnson's sixth straight as a pinch swinger, topping the AL mark previously shared by Johnny Mize, Vic Wertz and Bob Hale.

Baltimore loaded the bases with two out in the ninth on two passes and Luis Aparicio's infield hit but Downing got Norm Siebern on a fly to Mantle for the final out.

Pizarro held the Red Sox to five hits, including Dick Stuart's 18th homer, for eight innings and ran his record to 13-4 with last-inning help from knuckleballer Hoyt Wilhelm.

Run-scoring hits by Ron Hansen and Gerry McNertney gave the White Sox a 2-0 bulge in the second inning and they added a pair of unearned runs in the third.

The Senators snapped a 3-3 tie in the fifth on Ed Brinkman's single, a two-base throwing error by Minnesota pitcher Jim Kaat and an infield out. Claude Osteen survived Harmon Killebrew's 32nd homer, a two-run shot, and picked up his seventh victory.

Detroit won its 12th game in 15 July starts, scoring the deciding run in the eighth on Gates Brown's double and Don Demeter's single. Demeter also homered and Bill Freehan collected three of 10 Tiger hits.

Home runs by Leon Wagner, Tito Francona and Woodie Held pushed Cleveland to a 7-3 lead over Kansas City but the A's fought back to tie in the eighth when Dick Green and Rocky Colavito homered and Ken Hershon hit his second circuit of the game.

What does it mean—right shoulder should go down and under, not around?

Since the right hand grips the club lower than the left, the right shoulder must be lower in order to square the clubface to the ball. On the downswing the right shoulder must go down and under—returning to the same relative position it was at address.

INCORRECT DOWNSWING
Right shoulder is turning laterally. Clubface cannot square itself to ball.

CORRECT DOWNSWING

Hundreds of farms abandoned every year; costs climb rapidly

Agriculture: an efficient but troubled industry

By ARCH MacKENZIE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

"God blessed our labors and gave us wheat, rye, barley, oats, peas, beans, hemp, turnips and garden herbs . . . The rye was as tall as the tallest man that may be seen."

Thus a settler assessed the first farming venture of New France, in 1605 at Port Royal in what now is western Nova Scotia.

With a few alterations the statement could be used to describe Canada's huge agricultural complex 3 1/2 centuries later.

Agriculture today is Canada's most important primary industry, its most efficient. But, in contrast to the early days when good crops meant automatic prosperity, it is beset by complications that also make it perhaps Canada's most troubled.

Its land, buildings and livestock represent invested capital of $13,300,000,000 against $1,790,000,000 in 1901.

It accounts in one way or another for about 40 per cent of consumer spending.

Canada has 125,000 farms producing goods worth less than $1,200 annually. Hundreds are abandoned each year. And even efficient farms struggle with rising costs. It all adds up to a revolution in Canadian agriculture. The changing face of Canada's primary industry is examined in this story.

Canada's annual consumer food bill is $6,000,000,000. A steadily dwindling group of farmers — 481,000 on 172,551,000 acres — helps support an expanding industrial complex ranging from food processor and supermarket to distilling and auto and tractor making.

COSTS RISE FASTER
Farm cash income in 1963 was $3,200,000,000 but 40 per cent of the farm population accounted for 80 per cent of this amount.

At the same time costs continued to climb as fast as, or faster than, revenue to an estimated $2,200,000,000.

Technological advances triggered by Second World War demand continues to hone Canadian farming into more ruthlessly efficient shape, with hundreds of farms being abandoned annually.

In addition, about 125,000 of the 481,000 farms could be classified as subsistence level, producing goods worth less than $1,200 annually. The majority of these lie in the Atlantic provinces, Quebec and parts of Ontario — farms too depressed by bad land or obsolete methods ever to catch up again. For many farmers in these areas the only salvation will be joining the ranks of city workers or awaiting special federal-provincial assistance.

"NATIONAL DISGRACE"
"It is becoming clear that we are concerned with two broad groupings," says Agriculture Minister Harry Hays. "On the one hand we have a viable, progressive farming economy made up basically of efficient farms operating on good agricultural lands. On the other hand we have a segment with serious under-employment, low standard of living and marginal

This idyllic farming scene masks an industry beset by internal problems operations. This segment unfortunately does not benefit greatly from the type of policies helpful to the more fortunate section.

The situation is described more bluntly by former agriculture minister Alvin Hamilton who says there are "more than 100,000 farm families in Canada living under conditions which are a national disgrace."

"If these slums existed in our big cities the entire resources of our nation would be brought to bear to eliminate or improve them."

Ironically, many problems facing farming today are self-inflicted, a result of better methods, costlier equipment, more specialization and education and greater productivity.

Twenty years ago a farm worker turned out enough food for himself and 10 others. Today he produces enough for 31 others, a record that few Canadian industries can match, and the productivity rate rises steadily.

H. H. Hannam, president of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, wrote not long before his death in 1963:

"So rapidly is the farming industry changing that in future it may be possible to look back and find that agriculture was transformed as radically by this revolution as the industrial world was transformed by the industrial revolution of the late 18th century."

In this revolution the farmer is getting older. His sons leave the farm or lack funds to start on their own. His farm is tending to become bigger or more costly to operate, or both. It is increasingly specialized.

The 1961 total of 481,000 farms compared with 511,000 in 1931 and the record of 733,000 in 1941.

The farm population in 1931 was 3,289,140 or more than 30 per cent of the population of Canada. In 1941 it was 3,152,449 or 27 per cent of a population of 11,506,655. Today there are about 2,128,000 people on Canadian farms or 11 per cent of the 19,180,000 population.

"In a country such as Canada, industry seems to pass from infancy to adolescence about the time that its agriculture becomes mature," says Dr. Robert Glen, assistant deputy minister of agriculture in charge of research.

"That's about the stage we are in today — a maturing agriculture helping to pave the way for budding secondary industries."

FEWER FARM WORKERS

This tremendous shift is illustrated by the decline in the farm labor force from 1,375,000 in 1939 to about 650,000 today — or a mere 10 per cent of the total labor force. Despite this, farm-produce volume has more than doubled in the same period.

"Essentially this advance in Western agricultural and food practices has served to free more than half our total manpower for other pursuits such as engineering, medicine, law, education, commerce, labor and the various arts and sciences," said a key work paper at last year's world food congress in Washington.

While this may be described as progress, the problem is that many individuals are hurt by the march to efficiency. And in some ways this problem can be attributed to the early settlers.

Farming progress was slow in Canada from the time in 1535 when Jacques Cartier spotted Indians at the foot of Mount Royal engaged in primitive cultivation of pumpkins, beans and peas.

A census of Acadian agronomy in 1671 showed that Port Royal in 65 years had expanded to a venture comprising only 441 Acadians on 360 acres with 407 sheep, 866 cattle and 36 goats.

And while farming took root a what now is Quebec City only a few months after the beginnings at Port Royal, it wasn't until 1671 that Frontenac planted the first Ontario farm colony at what today is Kingston.

BARREN EARTH
From about 1750 there was steady but restrained growth in Upper and Lower Canada. After Confederation in 1867, development spread to the west and particularly the Prairies. By 1900 this was causing substantial readjustment in central and eastern Canada.

Dr. Glen suggests one real water mark was in 1886 when the first federal experimental stations were established and the base laid for a scientific assault on farm problems.

But too often early settlers took root on land better suited for timber or other marginal uses. And this is reflected in the 1961 figures for small farms — those units comprising at least an acre and producing annually at least $50 but not more than $1,200 worth of goods. Bracketed are so-called commercial farms by provinces, those beyond the $1,200 level.

Newfoundland 1,296 (456), Prince Edward Island 2,805 (4,530), Nova Scotia 7,579 (4,939), New Brunswick 6,670 (4,116), Quebec 33,280 (62,497), Ontario 30,988 (90,345), Manitoba 9,748 (33,322), Saskatchewan 11,639 (82,285), Alberta 14,514 (56,698), British Columbia 9,032 (10,902).

PLAN INVENTORY
One basic effort to get at this problem involves Canada's first real land inventory which, at a cost of $5,000,000, is expected in the next four to five years to catalogue acre by acre the best potential use for cultivated land.

It will also grade land's best alternative uses — recreation, woodlots, urban developments or others.

Meanwhile, only rough categories exist for the Canadian land mass of 2,272,000,000 acres or for the 172,500,000 acres of farmland — cultivated, unimproved or woodlot area.

There is no doubt that this available land could be sharply improved for various crops.

There remain a few additional frontier areas, notably 4,000,000 arable acres in the Northwest Territories near the Alberta border.

As well, about 40 per cent of the existing farmland so classified is really unimproved or uncultivated and only about 13 per cent of the land in the 10 provinces is used for agriculture today, making Canada a substantially under-developed nation as far as farming potential goes.

PRAIRIES LEAD

The Prairies form the dominant farming area, with about 75 per cent of the developed land, three-fifths of the physical output and half the dollar value.

One of the three predominant land zones on the Prairies — some 42,500,000 acres of black soil — is the best land in Canada, suitable for diversified output although limited by climate and rainfall in comparison with the Fraser Valley of B.C., stretches of southwestern Ontario or some of the St. Lawrence River lowlands.

There is also the "forest fringe" ranging from the Peace River country of Alberta and British Columbia to Nova Scotia. This is a narrow and extremely irregular strip close to or mixed in with the forest — tending to poor soil, small populations and a label as a rural slum.

There are also the river valley regions, and finally the city-centred region, menaced by urban sprawl. Some of Canada's best land, in the Niagara Peninsula or in Quebec's St. Lawrence Lowlands, faces this threat.

Playground at Coaticook open in old location

COATICOOK — The O.T.J. Playground Program, opened on July 6, at 9:30 a.m. at the former location, off Cutting Street on the bank of the Coaticook River.

It had been hoped that the youngsters would be using new quarters in the Municipal Park, near the swimming pool, by now, but the pressing need to level other portions of the park for the Centennial events delayed plans and the committee of the O.T.J. decided to start activities at the previous site. An official opening will be held later.

In the meantime supervised sports, games, swimming, group singing, hand work and other educational events are being planned. Twelve to 14 supervisors are in charge of the various age groups, under the general charge of Carol Lapointe, Jacques Bilodeau and Denise Trudel.

Daily autobus service to the park site will be available for those having to come from a distance.

As soon as the Municipal Park area is ready, swings and the other equipment will be transferred.

Playground at Coaticook open in old location

COATICOOK — The O.T.J. Playground Program, opened on July 6, at 9:30 a.m. at the former location, off Cutting Street on the bank of the Coaticook River.

It had been hoped that the youngsters would be using new quarters in the Municipal Park near the swimming pool, by now, but the pressing need to level other portions of the park for the Centennial events delayed plans and the committee of the O.T.J. decided to start activities at the previous site. An official opening will be held later.

In the meantime supervised sports, games, swimming, group singing, hand work and other educational events are being planned. Twelve to 14 supervisors are in charge of the various age groups, under the general charge of Carol Lapointe, Jacques Bilodeau and Denise Trudel.

Daily autobus service to the park site will be available for those having to come from a distance.

As soon as the Municipal Park area is ready, swings and the other equipment will be transferred.
