ARBITRATION PROCEEDINGS.

Inquiry into the Sherbrooke Water System Is Resumed.

The arbitration proceedings to determine the value of the Sherbrooke water system were resumed yesterday afternoon, after an eight days' adjournment.

Chief Davidson, as witness, stated that he had conferred with Mr. Sangster, in regard to rock excavation in the city. The following figures had been agreed upon by them.

Earth excavation, 43,200 ft.
Rock, 10,840 "

Boxes, 54,100 ft.

The boxes refer to places, where the pipes cross bridges and the like where there is no excavation. Dr. F. J. Austin, the next witness, produced a report, signed by himself and the late Dr. Pare, dated 1890, in reference to some improvement which they recommended to be done at the reservoir. Witness stated that the suggestions contained therein had, with one exception, been carried out.

Mr. Brown read a letter signed by Dr. Austin about the purity of water taken from the hydrants in a test made in 1890. The letter said that at this best the water from the hydrants was, in a few places, tinged with rust for a few seconds, when being drawn, as was natural, but then became clear; and in other places, after the rusty water had flowed from the hydrants in considerable quantities. Dr. Austin said that the letter was one written by himself. He did not think that the water from those hydrants at that time was fit to drink, but he understood that the defect had since been remedied, and he had not from that date heard any complaint about the water.

Mr. Andrew Sangster, superintendent of the Gas & Water Co., gave evidence with regard to rock and earth excavation, and to the general construction of the reservoir. At 4.15 o'clock, although Mr. Sangster's evidence was not wholly taken, the sitting adjourned until 8 p. m., to give the arbitrators time to view the reservoir which has been emptied.

SHEFFORD PATRONS' PETITION.

They Ask the Government to Equalize Taxation.

The patrons and representative farmers of Shefford have largely signed a petition to Dr. DeGrosbois, M. P. P. for Shefford, praying for legislation equalizing taxation for municipal and school purposes. The petition contains, among others, the following clauses:

"The undersigned Executive Board of the Patrons of Industry of Shefford County, and other representative farmers and rate-payers desire to address you, and through you our representative, the Legislature of this Province, upon the question of taxation. We think that the present system of municipal taxation is a very unjust one and not in keeping with the present progressive stage of civilization.

"Being levied in the main upon land, the burden falls too heavily upon the farmer and especially upon the farmer struggling under a mortgage who often owns but a small interest in his farm and yet must pay the taxes as well as interest while the mortgage goes free.

"As the country grows older, its wealth is becoming continually more and more unevenly divided and largely in the hands of men who pay comparatively no taxes under the present antiquated system of taxation.

"It is an ever increasing injustice. It discourages permanent improvements and the better equipment of farms, as every visible improvement in buildings, fences, walls, clearing of fields, etc., is followed by an increase in taxation, though the earning power of the farm may not be increased.

"Our complaint is that taxation is not fairly imposed, not that too much is collected. We desire to see progress and improvement in our country.

"We contend that no property of value or person who possesses property as income, and who is protected by the state, should be exempt from taxation, and that taxes should be imposed according to the net income of each individual, be that income from salary, real estate or profits accruing from money loaned or invested in trade, stock or bonds; and that the ratio of tax to income should be as small as possible, so that the source of revenue may increase.

We therefore humbly yet firmly ask that a measure equalizing taxation be carried through this Legislature which will practically vindicate the boasted principles of British fair play to all the subjects of Our Gracious Queen throughout our beautiful Province of Quebec.

DEPOSITORY: UNITED STATES NATIONAL BANK, NEW YORK.

MR. LADUE WAS THE PIONEER OF THE KLONDYKE.

For 15 years a resident of the upper Yukon, his experience enabled him to promptly acquire the choicest gold properties, to preempt the most available ground for a town site and to possess himself of those interests which are most largely and quickly profitable in new mining fields. His foresight has made him a controlling factor in the mineral and industrial development of the upper Yukon. With a business grown beyond the capacity of one man to handle, Mr. Ladue has organized this company to assist in developing his valuable mineral and other properties described as follows:

MR. LADUE TURNS OVER TO THIS COMPANY PROPERTIES HE DESCRIBES AS FOLLOWS:

- 1—Gold placer claims aggregating 1,000 feet in length located in the heart of the Gold Bottom Mining District of the Klondike. Development has proved the pay streak to be four feet thick and to carry 44 per cubic foot in coarse nugget gold. Estimating on the work already done, ten men with proper machinery should extract $30,000 per week from this property and its total yield should be $10,000,000. Mr. Kirkpatrick, resident superintendent, has been active all summer in acquiring other placer property for Mr. Ladue covering a mile of the richest Klondike gravels and which this company has a right to take over.
- 2—A quartz lode located on the ridge east of the Gold Bottom Creek, to which every geological and topographical condition points as the mother lode from which the millions of treasures in the Gold Bottom placers have been derived. The lode shows an enormous outcrop of ore the assays from which show $30.00 per ton and is free milling. Arrangements are being made to put a stamp mill on this property, and when completed this mine will be rich producer for many years.
- 3—A "Timber Berth" from the Canadian Government, conferring exclusive right to cut timber on both sides of the river for a distance of 15 miles from Dawson, thus giving the company a practical monopoly of the lumber business.
- 4—A large saw mill built by Mr. Ladue at Dawson City, which at the time of his departure was earning an average of $1,200 a day net—enough to pay a 3 per cent dividend on the capital stock of the company.
- 5—Eighty choice business lots, each 25 feet front, in the center of the city Dawson. Some of these lots will be sold. On others buildings will be erected which can be rented easily at a great profit.
- 6—A Canadian charter of great value which permits the company to engage in every variety of mining and industrial enterprise, to build and operate railways, steamboats, etc. This charter gives greater powers than any now obtainable and frees the company from many difficulties to be confronted by other foreign companies seeking to operate on the Klondike.

THE SUM OF $1,000,000 IN CASH will be set aside for the development of the placer and quartz claims and for the general operations of the company under its charter. Applications for shares, apply to MARCUS AUERBACH, 145 St. James St., Montreal, Canada. An application for shares should be accompanied by a check for one-half of the amount of the shares subscribed, drawn to the order of Mr. Elmer F. Botsford, Treasurer.

For official prospectus which alone contains the representations of the Company, and general information, apply to MARCUS AUERBACH, 145 St. James St., Montreal, Canada.

It should be borne in mind that this Company acquires from Mr. Ladue properties estimated capable of earning large dividends in its stock from its placer and lumber interests alone, and that these returns will be greatly increased from the output of its quartz mining and other contemplated enterprises under Mr. Ladue's vigorous management.

THE GLUTTON OSTRICH.

How the Greed of One of the Animals Was Punished.

For odd appetites the goat and the ostrich stand supreme, with the ostrich just a step ahead, and yet an ostrich finds trouble in swallowing a hot potato. A South African writer tells an amusing story of greed and how it was punished. He says: "These ostriches were a source of endless trouble to us. They grew rapidly and developed great kicking powers until they became sometimes positively dangerous, the dogs and the Kafirs coming in for most of their attentions. Their appetite was insatiable. We used to make large quantities of bitong, or sun dried meat, and there were usually dozens of strips of it hanging on reins slung from wagon to wagon, and these were always objects of attention on the part of the ostriches. It was most amusing to see one trying to swallow a strip a yard long and two inches thick, just as a chicken struggles with a worm that is a little too big for it. Once we had to drag a huge strip out of one of the birds' throats to save it from choking."

But it was the ordinary department that interested them most. They would always attack the Kafirs bringing the viands from the kitchen to the tent and sometimes were so pertinacious that the boy would get frightened and throw the dish away and bolt, and we would lose the best part of our dinner. They would even come into the tent and snatch things off the table, and we would take it out of them by smothering a dainty morsel with salt and cayenne pepper, but after awhile they seemed to flourish on it.

One day, however, we got the laugh on our side. Dinner was preparing, and one of the birds was investigating the pots around the fire. A great pot of huge potatoes took his fancy, and he incontinently seized and swallowed a red-hot tuber as big as a large pomegranate. He dined, he jumped, he kicked, he twisted his neck about almost into knots, he flapped his wings and waggled his tail, he ran amuck, knocking things down and banging himself up against the wagons and stone walls, and at last tore away into the veld at 20 miles an hour until he was out of sight and did not appear again for a couple of hours.

Every morning soon after sunrise these birds would indulge in a dance. They would rush away into the veld for about a mile and then suddenly stop and commence waltzing round and round in the most ridiculous fashion, often till they dropped. I never could understand the meaning of this performance. It might be mere gambling, but if so it must be nearly the only case of young birds playing, as so many young animals do.

STORY FROM A MUSEUM.

Punching Bags Were Made and Used Many Centuries Ago.

In a Roman museum is a toilet case in which some fair lady kept her combs, brushes and paint pots about 2,800 years ago, as near as the savants can guess. This cista, as it is called, was dug up in Palestine, the ancient Pheenest, and is beautifully engraved with pictures representing the adventures of the argonauts.

These argonauts sailed to the land of the Bebrukes and arrived very thirsty, but were prevented from drinking at the spring until one of them, Pollux, had knocked out King Myceus in a boxing match without gloves. So are argonauts resolved to keep in practice. This Pheenest cista represents one of them banging away at a punching bag hung from a tree limb while fat old Silenus mimics him.

This bag, by its shape and appearance, was presumably filled with grain, and was not so well adapted for developing quickness as the modern wind bag, but it was pretty good for 2,800 years ago, after all. Perhaps some scientist will yet dig up a pneumatic tread bicycle or repeating rifle. George Washington's false teeth were among the first ever used in America after the rediscovery of the art of making them by some Frenchman, but they were not exactly a novelty in one sense. At any rate, there has been dug up in Cornet, Italy, a set of very commodious false teeth which must have been built before the beginning of the Christian era.

As for safety pins, needles and suchlike small Yankee notions, the troglodytes had them long before there was any such thing as history invented. It's hard to prove with certainty that any novelty is really new. Exchange.

An absentminded gentleman, who was a landlord, went one day to call on a tenant who chanced to be in great distress over the death of a valuable cow. The man gurgulously detailed the circumstances of the death. "Nothing ailed her. She just choked like."

"Ha, mum!" responded the absent-minded man, thinking all the while of something else. "She had been eating turnips," went on the tenant, "and when it was all over and we looked in her mouth there was a turnip sticking in her throat, whole."

"Oh, then," said the absent-minded man, rousing with a great show of lively interest, "you got your turnip, after all!" "Pearson's Weekly."

An improved asphalt for paving roads, roofing, etc., is prepared by adding almondina, or potato gum, with a small quantity of grease, oil or fat, to hot pitch, and then incorporating with it broken limestone, river sand, spar, shale, gravel, granite, or the like. The asphalt may be cast in blocks for transport and remelted with bitumen of fat, oil, etc., as a flux. A mixture of rubber, gutta percha, rosin and oil may take the place of the almondina.

An Unfortunate. "So you've got married while I was away? I congratulate you, old man, on having now got rid of that sea dragon of a housekeeper." "But it's she I've married!"—London Judy.

The arbitrators and counsels re-assembled at 8 p. m. Mr. G. G. Bryant testified that he had made an estimate of the cost to the Gas & Water Co. of boxing their pipes across the different bridges in the city. He gave his figures at about $950.00. Mr. Sangster was again recalled as witness and Mr. Brown took up in detail the items found on the statement given by the Gas & Water Co.

Some lengths of pipe which had been taken up from Depot and Brooks streets for the purpose of allowing the arbitrators to examine them were brought into the room. The pipes had been laid in 1882, and were apparently in good condition there being but a slight sediment collected inside them and witness stated that this sediment or rust did not waste away the material of which the pipe was composed. Asked by Mr. Brown about what length of time pipes such as those produced would last, witness said jokingly that he did not expect to live long enough to answer that question himself, but he related the opinions of various men connected with the water works business and their verdict was that pipe in many places, placed in the ground 60 years ago, was in perfectly good condition now, and in some cases, even, pipe placed in the ground 150 years ago, was doing service at this date. Asked by Mr. Brown the reason for the blackness in the water, as stated in Dr. Austin's report, witness said stagnancy was the cause.

This closed the evidence for the Gas & Water Co. and Mr. D. Hall, road overseer, was the first witness called by the city. Witness had kept a record of the cost of excavating for the laying of pipes in the streets of the city, and gave his figure for digging a 5 or 6 feet deep trench, laying the pipes, making the joints and refilling the trench at 12 cents per lineal foot.

The proceedings were adjourned at 9.45 p. m. At 10.15 this morning, Mr. Hallett's cross-examination was taken up. Mr. E. F. Waterhouse then again took the stand. Witness produced a copy of the deed of sale, dated October, 1880, from the British American Land Co., to A. O. Granger & Co., of the ground where the reservoir is now situated. The block of land contained 16 lots, sold at $20 a lot, or $320.

Mr. F. J. Griffith, assistant-secretary-treasurer of the city was the next witness called. He gave the value, as per the valuation roll, of the 16 lots which form the reservoir as $1600. He gave the value as per the valuation roll of the lot on which the pump house is situated, the building, machinery and pipes in connection there with and the water works throughout the city, exclusive of the reservoir, as $79,500. The adjournment was made at 12 o'clock.

This evening, Mr. Nichols gives his illustrated lecture on "Darkest New York."

COATICOOK.

September 30.—Prof. O. S. Taylor, who has been giving successful concerts in Cookshire and Sawyerville, intends to give one here during the middle of October. Rehearsals will commence on the 11th.

Arrangements for the C. E. Convention are almost completed. It is expected that about one hundred Endeavorers will be present. The bulleting of so many delegates is taxing the strength of the committee having this part of the work in hand, but everything is now in line so that those attending will be comfortably housed. The meetings will take place in the Methodist church, and special singing will be given by the choirs of the Methodist and Baptist churches.

Harvest thanksgiving services were held at St. Stephen's church, last Wednesday evening. The church was appropriately decorated for the occasion. Rev. Mr. Murray, of Dixville, preached an eloquent and impressive sermon. Mr. L. M. Thomas, one of the popular young men of this town, was on Wednesday morning, united in marriage to Miss Freda Fraser, daughter of Mr. Jno. Fraser. The affair was a very quiet one, only the immediate relatives being present. Rev. John Foster tied the nuptial knot, after which the young couple took the train for Boston, New York, etc.

WEDDING IN HATLEY.

North Hatley, Sept. 30.—(Special) A very pretty event took place in this neighborhood on Wednesday evening, the occasion being the marriage of Mr. A. H. Ham and Miss Bertha Bean. The ceremony took place at the home of the bride's father, and was witnessed by a large number of relatives and friends. Miss Jennie Bean acted as bridesmaid, and Mr. Vellad Can as groomsmen.

The presents were many and useful, testifying to the popularity of the young couple. Mr. and Mrs. Ham took the 9.30 train for Fall River, Lawrence, Boston and other points, followed by the best wishes of their many friends.

NEXT STAMP ISSUE.

The Design Approved by Postmaster-General.

Ottawa, Sept. 30.—The design for a new Canadian postage stamp has been approved by the Postmaster-General. There is a portrait of Her Majesty as she appeared at the coronation, except that a coronet is substituted for a crown. The portrait has been engraved from a photo procured during the Jubilee ceremonies, upon which was the Queen's own autograph, so that it is authentic. The corners of the stamp will be decorated with maple leaves, which were pulled from maple trees on Parliament Hill and engraved directly from them. Everything is to be correct and up to date, and the new issue is expected to reflect credit on Mr. Mulock's good taste. The engravers are instructed to take care to make this permanent and ordinary issue a tribute to their skill. The present stock of stamps it will take some months to exhaust, and not till they are done will the new stamps be issued. It may be about December of this year.

A NEW LAW FIRM.

Sweetsburg, Sept. 30.—Mr. Rainville, of Arthabaska, advocate, has entered into partnership here with the Hon. Mr. Duffy, Commissioner of Public Works in Mr. Marchand's Cabinet.

PRO-BRITISH TARIFF.

London, September 30.—The Times Ottawa correspondent says "on the highest authority," that after the expiration in July, 1898, of the commercial treaties now in force, Canada will adopt a tariff that will be essentially a pro-British one.

Those answering advertisements in this paper will serve the interests of all concerned by mentioning that they saw the same in the HERBROOKE DAILY RECORD.

ENGINE BOILER EXPLODED

The Train Was Running at Full Speed.

(Special to the Record.)

Vancouver, B. C. October 1.—The boiler of the engine, hauling a freight train, east bound exploded, at noon yesterday, near White Creek bridge, twelve miles west of North Bend, while the train was running at full speed. The brakeman, Geo. Elson, was thrown over an embankment and killed almost instantly. The engineer and fireman were scalded, but escaped death. The engine was partly destroyed. The cause of the explosion is unknown.

NO WINE SUPPLIED.

Laurier Banquet in Toronto Will Be Run on Temperance Principles.

(Special to Record.)

Toronto, Oct. 1.—At the meeting of the reception committee of the City Council for the Laurier banquet, last evening, the question whether wine be served at the banquet, created a hot discussion. Ald. Spence, who is also an high official in Dominion Alliance, strongly opposed the proposal on ground that temperance people of the city would be contributing towards the purchase of the wine. Ald. Leslie, on the other hand, was for having wine for appearance's sake. A wineless banquet would be a picnic affair. The price of tickets being $3.50, a large number of which are already sold, not being high enough to cover cost of wine it was finally agreed that no wine would be furnished.

Plenty of Food at Dawson City.

(Special to Record.)

Victoria, B. C., Oct. 1.—Wm. Ogilvie, Government Surveyor on the Yukon, arrived in Victoria yesterday. He says there is provision enough at Dawson for 4000 people for the winter. When he left Dawson on July 15, there were 3000 people there, but, as reported, many have left since, then the situation will not be as bad as feared.

He says there is no use trying to take in food with dog trains. Mr. Ogilvie will probably sail for Skagway with Hon. Mr. Sifton, Minister of the Interior, who leaves here on the Str. Quadra.

The Term Opened this Morning, Hon. Justice Curran Presiding.

The Court of Queen's Bench opened this morning, with the Hon. Justice Curran presiding. G. L. DeLozville, Esq., for the first time occupied the position of the Clerk of the Crown, and Messrs. J. S. Broderick and J. E. Genest appeared as joint Crown prosecutors.

Mr. Broderick moved that the grand jurors be called.

They were called and sworn as follows: Geo. H. Bradford, Francis Gagnon, L. A. Bayley, Joseph Boute, J. P. Boudreau, George A. Bedard, George Barlow, Bonaventure Robert, George Connolly, Damase Gauthier, A. D. Dupin, T. D. Lascelle, Theophile Bourque, Thomas Cowan, Anguste Colere, R. W. Moore, Andre Leclere, Joseph Dragon, Wm. Jamieson, David Galbraith, E. Gallup.

The Hon. Mr. Justice Curran then addressed the Grand Jury. His address will appear in full in to-morrow's issue of the RECORD.

After listening to the words of learned Judge, the Grand Jurors retired to their room.

L. C. Belanger, Esq., then made an application on behalf of James Tracy, Esq., to have a bill preferred before the Grand Jury against N. G. Bray for aggravated assault and that it be held for a day or so as Mr. Tracy was dangerously ill.

John Leonard, Esq., appeared on behalf of C. W. Cate, counsel for Mr. Bray.

The learned judge reserve judgment until to-morrow morning.

The panel of Petty Jurors was then called.

Mr. Broderick, made an application that the Petty Jurors be allowed to withdraw until 10 o'clock on Monday morning, as there were no cases left over from last term and there were nineteen indictments before the Grand Jury.

The learned judge then ordered the Petty Jurors to withdraw until ten o'clock sharp Monday.

The accused who are out on bail were then called as follows: P. D. Authier, Jas. E. Woodward, Emery M. Deigle, Henry Burns, A. Turcotte, James Hudson, Louis Gauthier, L. D. The Court then adjourned till four o'clock by which time it is expected the Grand Jury will bring in some bills.

WHOLESALE DISMISSALS.

P. O. Inspector and Assistants Discharged.

The Sherbrooke post office inspector's department is now a thing of the past. The inspectors from Montreal and Quebec were in the city yesterday, and took over the work here, transferring everything to these two places.

By the division the counties of Beauce, Megantic, Wolfe and Richmond, east of St. Francis River, are added to the Quebec division, the balance of the Townships going to Montreal. The order-in-council, doing away with Sherbrooke division, was passed September 22, and notice sent to employees here that their services would not be required after October 1st. Those dismissed are the inspector, Mr. Frank Thompson, assistant inspector, Mr. E. Winn, Farwell, and Mr. Lean Le Proux, one of the clerks. The other clerk, Mr. Brooks, is away on a leave of absence, which may be extended indefinitely.

More help will be needed at Montreal and Quebec, to do the work, but it is not expected any transfers will be made from here.

The offices in the Art Building are leased until January 1, 1900.

ASSAULTED BY THREE MEN.

JUDGE CURRAN'S ADDRESS.

Hon. Mr. Justice Curran's address to the Grand Jury, this morning, was of special interest. He made a feeling reference to the late judge of the Superior Court in this district, Hon. E. T. Brooks and the late Judge Rioux. He also referred in complimentary terms to the present Judge, Hon. Wm. White. The address will be produced in full in tomorrow's issue of the RECORD.

VATER ON THE SPINE

ONE SECRET OF HEALTH FOR WOMEN WHO TAKE EXERCISE.

The Hot Bath to Blame For Pale Cheeks and Bloodless Lips Difference in the Proper Manner of Taking Hot and Cold Baths.

There were three of them. They all belonged to a health culture club, and they thought what they didn't know about the human frame hadn't been discovered.

"I don't understand it at all," remarked the tall, slender woman with the pale cheeks and lips. "After exercise in the gymnasium, or from a bicycle ride and taking my warm bath I almost collapse. My arms and feet are like the rest of the body, and I feel as languid as a constitutionally lazy person does in spring."

"The same here," responded the stout woman. "Now I always take a cold shower in moderation. If I'm in the gym I never work more than an hour. If I go bicycling, I never ride more than ten miles, and when I walk I never take anything to excess. For my part, I follow many a woman in this school, if there is such a place, from belonging to too many church societies and attending service too frequently. My doctor told me that if I would only exercise in moderation and take a warm bath afterward I would feel exhilarated the balance of the day and that I would have no more ailments, but somehow it hasn't worked."

"And as for me," said the third woman, a brunette who would have been pretty had it not been for her thick lips, "I feel like the last rose of summer about the time I finish my bath after exercising."

"No wonder you feel like a limp lunatic after exercising if you take a hot bath afterward," said an elderly man joining the group. "Do you mean to say, all of you women, that you have no better sense than to take a hot or a warm bath after violent exercise?"

"Well, you surely would not advise a cold shower," said my lady pale lips, with a shudder at the mere thought.

"That would be as much of an extreme as a hot bath," answered the man. "I've studied this question of baths for athletes for many years, both here and in other countries, and it is astonishing how many physicians give incorrect and harmful advice on this subject."

"I couldn't give up my hot baths for anybody," interrupted the tall woman.

"You'll always have those pale cheeks and lips that are the bane of your life," insisted the man, "and, another thing, you'll never know the real joy of living physically. By that I mean you'll never have a full, free flow of rich blood distributed equally throughout every part of your body. Why? Well, to begin at the beginning, if heat in any form is applied to the spine, it tends to arrest circulation, and prostration in various parts of the body is sure to follow. Did any of you women ever apply a hot water bag between the shoulders?"

"Oh, yes," emphatically from the trio.

"I thought so," said the man, with a smile. "I know that nearly all of you sex are slaves to the hot water bag. Very well, if you've put a hot water bag between your shoulders and kept it there for half an hour, you know how hot and clammy your hands and feet grow."

"That's so," admitted the stout woman candidly. "It may relieve the sharp pain in the shoulders or back, but the corpse-like feeling of the feet and hands that follows is almost as disagreeable as the real pain."

"The direct injury," continued the man, "is to the spinal nervous system. When we talk about the backbone of a country, we mean that thing which holds it up—which keeps it together. So it is with the human body. The backbone, the spine, with all its wonderful machinery, is what keeps these bodies of ours up. Heat applied to the back stimulates the great sympathetic nerve and this causes the vaso-motors—the little terminal nerves surrounding the blood vessels—to contract the blood's vessels and impede circulation. You can readily see how much free circulation is after exercising, and so the checking of it by a hot bath causes a tremendous relaxation. This is a simple statement of the case. The subject is too profound to go into detail."

"What effect has cold on the spine?" asked the brunette.

"Cold on the spine," answered the man, "causes an active circulation and invigorates one. If you come in from a bicycle ride and after cooling off will take a large sponge dipped in cold water and rub it vigorously up and down the spine, instead of retarding circulation it will increase it. The blood will go flying through those blood vessels connected with the spine and reach every part of your body. One can take a warm bath without injury, and even with benefit at times, provided the spine is not immersed."

"The tub should contain plenty of warm water and the bather should get into it on his hands and knees with his back out of the water. In other words, keep your back up when you indulge in a hot bath and it can't injure you. Then you will get the good without the depressing effect. All around us we see women suffering with colds in very moderate weather. The trouble generally arises from the warm bath habit. Various ailments from which women suffer are also results of a constant use of hot water, and pallid lips, which are a pretty sure sign of a lack of vitality, are still another."

"While the main good of a cold bath can be obtained with only two or three inches of water in the tub, just enough to immerse the spine, a complete immersion is more valuable, especially for bicycle riders and other athletes. Cold water not only invigorates the skin and fortifies it against the changes of temperature, but to a limited extent it absorbs an excess of heat. Its greatest good, however, is in its effect on the spine. It depresses the sympathetic nerves and through them the vaso-motors. Thus the arteries are relieved from excessive restraint and the circulation becomes free and vigorous. Thorough circulation is thorough nutrition, and nutrition is health and strength. In my travels I've noticed that those women living in hot countries who frequently plunge into a river or some stream for a few minutes don't know what a backbone is, and as for nerves, why, they never heard of 'em. The nation given over to cold baths are the strongest nations physically. No creature lives who would not be better for taking cold water on his back, no matter how weak or diseased he might be. Take my word for it, if you take a cold bath take it on your spine. If you take a warm or a hot bath, keep the heat away from your spine, and I promise you that you won't feel like your old languid self. Every woman who goes in for athletics should follow these two rules, and so should every man."—New York Sun.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE.

How It is Alleged to Work in New Zealand.

Toronto, Sept. 30.—According to R. M. Macdonald, of Christ Church, New Zealand who is here on his way from England, the introduction of woman's suffrage in New Zealand has been a failure, none of the great things expected of it having been realized. The women, as a rule, says Mr. Macdonald, vote with their husbands and brothers and, therefore, the old proportion of ballots on nearly all questions is maintained. Only on the prohibition do they strike out for themselves. The majority of the women however, though they cast their votes, would like to get rid of the franchise privilege, and return to their old state.

THE ARROW AND THE SONG

I shot an arrow into the air. It fell to earth, I knew not where. For so swiftly it flew, the sight could not follow it in its flight.

Long, long afterward in an oak I found the arrow still unbroken. And the song, from beginning to end, I found again in the heart of a friend.

A BROTHER'S KEEPER. When a man who is yet young arrives at the conclusion that life holds nothing more for him and that he can only devote himself to the good of others, there is plenty of keen wretchedness in store for him.

The jar that came to Osborne was a hard one. The girl to whom he was engaged told him that her parents were forcing her to marry a certain rich man. Now parents in these days do not force one to marry anybody, but Osborne would have believed whatever the girl had chosen to tell him.

Alexander lived on a ranch, as Osborne had done. He was 17 years old. At 16 Osborne had been the support of a widowed mother and two children. He had had no boyhood in particular. It had all been work making the ranch pay.

Alexander should go to school. But when he went to school Osborne saw the truth. "Alex, the account of you is very bad. You've barely scratched through on two things, and you've failed on mathematics altogether."

He had a full highland costume as far as his waist. Above were a white shirt and swallow tailed coat, and the entire edifice was crowned with a chimney pot hat, upon which he sat down without noticing it.

VELEXIOUS.

What wondrous days indeed are these. When science shows a light. On any pathway that you please. That you may turn aright!

REVIVED MEMORY. When We Grow Old, We Recall the Things of Long Ago.

About 75 years ago, upon a rainy day, a small boy who had reached the mature age of 6 was sitting with his mamma and bemoaning the state of the weather and accompanying absence of novel entertainment.

The years went on. The gentle young mother went out into the great unknown to find the light of her life that shone in "papa's eyes," and the century and the boy having been young together grew old in company too.

Up on investigation the ring was brought from its long hiding place, which was the exact spot the old man had described.

He had a full highland costume as far as his waist. Above were a white shirt and swallow tailed coat, and the entire edifice was crowned with a chimney pot hat, upon which he sat down without noticing it.
