Union leader trumpets 'real strike'

WHAT GOES UP... — Workmen had the task of demolishing the former James United Steel building on Grandes Fourches Street in Sherbrooke. Speculation continues as to the ultimate form of what will take its place. Certainly another part of Sherbrooke's past is being lost.

PQ issues manifesto

MONTREAL (CP) — Rene Levesque and his Parti Quebecois executive have come out with their new manifesto at a fascinating moment in view of the federal election expected later this year.

Mr. Levesque has already reported that his separatist party will take part in the campaign in the sense that it will attack federalism at every opportunity, though not fielding candidates and not supporting any other party.

The draft manifesto—entitled "Next Step—When We Will Be Truly At Home"—is moderate, at least in tone, compared with the super-heated rhetoric absorbed by Quebecers in the last couple of years.

As an aside, it is interesting to note the manifesto, released Friday, establishes at the outset that Quebec's economy is not really underdeveloped. A few years ago it was fashionable for some young activists to talk as if Quebec were another Algeria or Cuba.

The thoughts outlined by Mr. Levesque, economist Jacques Parizeau and the Parti Quebecois executive regarding local economic control in Quebec are at times somewhat similar to those of economic nationalists in the broader Canadian context.

OTTAWA MODEL APPROVED

In the case of banking, in fact, the PQ would pluck Canada's existing legislation virtually intact from Ottawa and transplant it to an independent Quebec.

The Levesque plan for redistribution of wealth and greater individual participation in Quebec's economic and political life holds obvious appeal for ordinary citizens, however debatable the underlying economic forces may be seen by authorities.

There have been recurrent suggestions that the co-operative and credit-union movements, in which Quebec has been a pioneer, must somehow participate more fully in the province's economic drive.

The manifesto will likely become material for the hustings, receiving attention on platforms provided by the federal campaign.

MONTREAL (CP) — As 210,000 provincial public service employees prepare to walk off their jobs today, the Quebec government has announced it will take whatever steps are needed to ensure that injunctions to maintain essential services are respected.

The leaders of a common front of unions representing the employees said workers have been asked not to respect the injunctions, obtained by the government in Superior Court last month only hours before the public service employees walked off their jobs for 24 hours.

Today's strike "is not for 24 hours or 48 hours—it's a real strike," Louis Laberge, president of the Quebec Federation of Labor and one of the leaders of the common front of unions, said Monday.

The strike will affect Quebec hospitals, courts, schools, liquor outlets, Hydro-Quebec operations and civil service offices.

In Quebec City, Jean-Paul L'Allier, public service minister, said as far as the government is concerned the injunctions ordering workers to remain on the job in psychiatric, chronic-care and a few general hospitals and also affecting workers in essential services at Hydro-Quebec are still in force.

He did not say what steps will be taken to ensure that the injunctions are respected, but said that if they are ignored by the unions the government will consider it "a matter of grave irresponsibility."

MANDATE TO STRIKE

Yvon Charbonneau, president of the Quebec Teachers' Corp., said the strike was called by the common front's strategy committee after union leaders "were given an unequivocal mandate" over the weekend.

Mr. Charbonneau, Mr. Laberge and Marcel Pepin, president of the Confederation of National Trade Unions, the third common front federation, toured the province for four days meeting with union officials in 10 Quebec cities.

Mr. Charbonneau said the strike will end "as soon as the government is truly ready to negotiate."

Mr. Laberge said all essential service would be maintained during the strike. Asked to define essential services, he said "anything that endangers the lives of citizens."

The unions suspended negotiations with the government at the common front bargaining table last Wednesday after Mr. L'Allier refused to attend negotiation sessions.

Meanwhile, hospitals have begun emergency procedures for the strike, some discharging patients and accepting only emergency cases.

Maisonneuve Hospital in Montreal discharged 40 of its 320 patients and a spokesman said it plans to be down to 250 by today. The Montreal General Hospital said all patients who can be discharged will be sent home.

HOSPITALS HALF-EMPTY

The social affairs department reported Monday the province's general hospitals are already half-empty. Occupancy at psychiatric and chronic-care hospitals is at 90 per cent.

Claude Castonguay, social affairs minister, urged all hospitals to reduce occupancy to a "strict minimum" and admit only emergency cases.

Non-medical hospital employees form part of the common front of public service employees.

Norbert Rodrigue, president of the Federation of National Services, told hospital employees not to obey the injunctions, which remain in effect against certain hospital employees until June 9.

Mr. Laberge said the unions "have been advised by our legal advisers that these injunctions are illegal."

He said the common front has filed a request for an appeal against the injunctions in Quebec Superior Court.

Jean-Claude Dion, chief negotiator for the 9,000 members of the common front at Hydro-Quebec, said Hydro employees have been ordered to strike. He said the decision to defy the injunctions was taken after "consultation" with union officials.

The unions have described the government's revised salary offers as a "publicity stunt."

The government said it has increased its offer to workers on the lower end of the government salary scale from 4.8 per cent to between 4.9-5.5 per cent annually for three years.

The unions are demanding minimum weekly salaries of $100 for all workers in three years, and annual increases of 8.1 per cent over three years.

Government ready

QUEBEC (CP) — The Quebec government will take whatever steps need to be taken to ensure that injunctions to maintain essential public services are respected in a strike starting today.

Jean-Paul L'Allier, public service minister, said Monday night.

The minister was speaking at a news conference after unions representing 210,000 civil servants called a strike, saying they would not respect the injunctions.

Mr. L'Allier did not say what steps will be taken to ensure that the injunctions are respected, but he said that so far as the government is concerned the injunctions, taken out before a 24-hour public service strike March 28, are still in force.

The injunctions order workers to remain on the job in psychiatric, chronic-care and a few general hospitals. They also affect workers in essential services at Hydro-Quebec.

Mr. L'Allier said, however, the government has no intention of removing civil servants' right to strike.

"We must live with the strike right in the public sector," he said.

"The strike right exists and we intend to respect it."

But the minister said he hopes union leaders "are sufficiently conscious of the public interest to ensure essential services."

"If injunctions are not respected when they correspond to the basic safety of the population and public health, this is a matter of grave irresponsibility," he said.

Nixon arrival previewed

WASHINGTON (CP) — President Nixon flies to Ottawa Thursday for a state visit expected to emphasize American goodwill while largely avoiding the abrasive trade and economic issues that have clouded Canada-U.S. relations.

Nixon himself added to somewhat limited American expectations about the visit by asserting recently: "We will find that we have some very basic disagreements, probably, after the meeting as before."

Both American and Canadian sources here have suggested from the outset it would be wrong to expect that the relatively short meeting could resolve the more visible disagreements.

An American official emphasized that it is not in the nature of such formal state visits for the two principals to let themselves become embroiled in detailed negotiations.

No agenda of topics has been announced, but Commerce Secretary Peter Peterson has said no trade negotiations are planned. And Canadian Energy Minister Donald Macdonald said on a visit here last month he doubted the Alaska pipeline issue would arise.

BOTH RESTRICTED

Aside from the largely ceremonial atmosphere of a formal visit, observers feel the two leaders also are somewhat restricted by the impending elections in the U.S. and Canada.

Both sides will be exceedingly wary of saying anything that could be interpreted as giving aid and comfort to any political party in the other country.

As one administration source said: "The president hopes the visit will underscore our concern in strengthening relations with Canada."

Since it is understood here no communique will be issued following the talks, the best clue to Nixon's current approach to Canada-U.S. affairs presumably will be when he addresses a joint parliamentary session Friday.

Otherwise, the highlight of the visit is expected to be the signing of the new bilateral agreement to clean up the Great Lakes in a ceremony Saturday before Nixon flies home.

The president and Mrs. Nixon will be guests of honor at a state banquet Thursday night and guests of the prime minister and Mrs. Trudeau at a gala performance at the National Arts Centre Friday night.

Nixon and Trudeau will meet for private talks Friday.

TV hockey okay

TORONTO (CP) — The CTV network will televise nationally the fifth game of the Montreal-New York National Hockey League quarter-final series at 8 p.m. EST tonight.

The network also will make the fifth Toronto-Boston Stanley Cup game available in Toronto and Kitchener, Ont., beginning at 7:30 p.m. The broadcasts will originate from New York and Boston.

A spokesman for the publicly-owned CBC said Monday its affiliated stations have been released from agreements concerning telecast of the games. The affiliates are free to negotiate privately with MacLaren Advertising Co. Ltd. and the privately-owned CTV network to carry the games through a hookup with CTV.

Members of the National Association of Broadcast Employees and Technicians refused to agree with a CBC management request for a 24-hour warning of interruption of French-language coverage of the quarter-final series. As a result, the network will not schedule French-language coverage of the games. The refusal came during talks held Monday in Montreal.

NABET members have been engaged in rotating strikes against the CBC since Jan. 22.

Stanfield issues call

TORONTO (CP) — Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield called Monday night for a spring federal election.

"I want an election as soon as possible, not because I am afraid of an election in October or for that matter next year," he said. "The Progressive Conservative party will be ready whenever it comes."

"I want an election now, this spring, because it is high time that the Canadian people have the opportunity to opt for new directions on the part of the government of this country."

Mr. Stanfield was addressing a nominating convention in the Toronto-area constituency of St. Paul's. The riding now is represented by Ian G. Wahn, a Liberal.

Excerpts of Mr. Stanfield's remarks were released in advance.

The Conservative leader said the only possible reason for the Liberal government to delay an election is because it hopes to shore up its position politically during the next few months.

He said such a decision would be irresponsible and unacceptable to the Canadian people.

PMSAYS 'SLOW DOWN'

Prime Minister Trudeau said recently that a June election is unlikely. He said he has told the Liberal associations, "For goodness sake slow down the machine."

Mr. Stanfield said the Trudeau government had four years to show what it was capable of. It had shown "a good deal of capacity" for creating unemployment and dissipating confidence.

It had no right to ask for an extension of the "normal maximum time allotted to governments by Canadian tradition."

The Trudeau government will have been in office four years in June.

"AGAINST POLLUTION" — This young miss is reason enough to support measures aimed at combating pollution in Quebec. Quebec minister Victor Goldbloom is intimately involved in the battle and is seen frequently in all parts of the province addressing himself to the problem of water pollution.

Fonda, Hackman Oscars

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Jane Fonda, the stylish, wily call girl of Kluge, and Gene Hackman, the relentless narcotics cop of The French Connection, won top acting honors at the 44th movie Academy Awards Monday night.

The French Connection, a hard-hitting fast-paced tale of crime detection in New York City, was selected best motion picture of 1971.

Produced by Philip d'Antoni, the film was the major victor with five awards.

Supporting acting awards went to a pair of performers in The Last Picture Show—Cloris Leachman, the lonely passionate wife of the high school football coach, and Ben Johnson, the hero figure of a dying Texas town.

William Friedkin was hailed best director of the year for The French Connection.

Writing Awards were won by Ernest Tidyman for his adaptation of The French Connection and Paddy Chayefsky for his original script, The Hospital.

SHAFT BEST SONG

The best song award went to Isaac Hayes for his Theme from Shaft, which comprised the most dynamic production number of the TV program. Hayes thanked his grandmother for "keeping me on the paths of righteousness" and said that the Oscar was an 80th birthday present for her.

Miss Fonda, 34, won Hollywood's biggest prize despite her controversial political views. She played it cool in her acceptance speech remarking: "There's a great deal to say and I'm not going to say it tonight."

She is the daughter of Henry Fonda, who has never won an Oscar during his long distinguished acting career.

Hackman, 41, was more voluble. He thanked his first acting coach, his producer and his director, Friedkin, "who really brought me through this." Hackman has admitted that he wanted to quit The French Connection after two days of shooting but stuck it out.

Johnson, 53-year-old film veteran from Pawhuska, Okla., was a popular winner with the industry audience. He grinned admiringly at the Oscar, said "ain't that purty" and kidded viewers into believing he was going to say something controversial. What he said was: "This couldn't have happened to a nicer feller."

POPULAR WINNER

Miss Leachman, Iowa-born mother of five, was another popular winner. She said glowingly: "I'm having an amazing life and it isn't over yet."

As tears filled her eyes, she exclaimed: "I've fought all my life against cliches and look at me—I'm a helpless cliché."

To prove it, she went on to thank her Des Moines piano teacher, her dancing teacher, her mother and her father, "who paid the bills."

Expect more forms

OTTAWA (CP) — As many as 4.1 million taxpayers who have not already done so have to file 1971 income tax forms within the next three weeks.

The national revenue department reported Monday that it has so far received 5.4 million returns. It expects total returns to be filed this spring to run between nine and 9.5 million.

Deadline for filing returns is April 30, but since that date falls this year on a Sunday, the department will accept returns postmarked May 1 without charging a late-filing penalty, five per cent of the tax still unpaid on that date.

The 5.4 million returns so far received this spring compares with 4.8 million filed by the same date last year.

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB

Common gallbladder problems

Dear Dr. Lamb—I would like your comment on the gallbladder. I am told from X rays that I have small stones and gravel. What about the common duct that doesn't empty out as it should? I am on a gallbladder diet. It seems I have a full feeling at the base of my right ribs most of the time, especially if I am a little nervous, and sometimes I hurt in my back. Can these ever be dissolved? Would you advise more than one doctor's opinion before any operation?

Dear Reader—Gallbladder disease is a very common problem. An old medical aphorism says that it is found in people who are "fair, fat, forty and four," referring to middle-aged women with four children. This isn't always true, since it also occurs in men and can occur at almost any age. Gallstones are made of cholesterol manufactured by the bile and bile pigment that gives bile its color. There are several combinations of these that can make different kinds of gallstones. Bile is found in the liver cells and collected in thousands of tiny tubules that actually begin within the cell. These connect to form larger tubes and finally the large bile tube (duct) that comes out of the liver. The bile duct gives off a side duct which leads to the small, round gallbladder. The main bile duct from the liver with the side duct to the gallbladder forms a "Y" fork. Bile, manufactured by the liver, comes down one fork of the "Y" and goes up the other fork into the gallbladder. Both forks of the "Y" join together into a common duct, the stem of the "Y," which empties directly into the small intestine.

Bile can flow down one fork of the "Y" duct and through the common duct directly into the intestine, or the bile which has been stored in the gallbladder can be ejected by the contraction of the bladder and pass down its fork of the "Y" entering the common duct and into the intestine. Thus, the gallbladder is really a storage reservoir and that is all. A stone can lodge in the duct coming directly from the gallbladder and just block off the gallbladder itself or a stone can pass down to the common duct and actually block off the drainage from the liver and the gallbladder both. This can cause severe pain and even jaundice.

hence, people with gallbladder disease often have intolerance to fatty foods. This forms gas and pain and results in indigestion. Thus, there are good reasons for the types of symptoms you are complaining of.

Occasionally, small stones will pass on their own and relieve the problem, but more often than not there are a large number of small stones and the problem isn't solved that simply. They are not readily dissolved and probably the best course for gallstones is surgical removal, providing the patient's health otherwise will permit it. There are some recent studies suggesting that some stones can be dissolved; however, this work is still too early to recommend its general use as yet.

It is a good idea to have the opinions of two doctors before an operation. You should have a family physician and, if you have a problem that requires surgery, let him refer you to a surgeon. The two of them can decide whether surgery is justified in a given case.

The bile enters the intestine and aids digestion, particularly of fatty foods. When there is inadequate bile flow into the intestine, it is more difficult to digest fatty foods.

In an expert partnership, West will have no problem with his lead at trick three. East will have dropped the jack of diamonds at trick one. West will know that his partner isn't showing diamond strength. He will also know that he isn't giving a count.

All East can be doing with that jack play is giving a suit preference signal to say "Partner, if you do get in, lead hearts, the higher ranking suit."

As a matter of fact, a very expert partnership might set the hand two tricks. West would lead his fourth best heart, the three. East would know that under these circumstances West would not lead fourth best from a suit headed by nothing at all. Hence, West would be showing the king of hearts by his low lead. Hoggish expert East would win the first heart with the queen, give his partner a diamond ruff, get in again with the ace and give him a second ruff.

South's jump to four spades is one of those all purpose preempts. He doesn't know if he can make it but he knows it's a good gamble.

West leads the three of diamonds. South goes up with one of dummy's high diamonds and leads a trump. West wins with the ace and has to decide between a heart or a club lead.

If he leads a club, South will collect the rest of the tricks and make a slam. If he leads a heart, East will win and give West a ruff whereupon a second heart trick will set declarer at his game contract.

Foster Cosby Auxiliary

DERBY LINE — Miss Christine LeBlanc was the guest speaker at the March meeting of Foster Cosby Auxiliary meeting held at the home of Mrs. Robert Darby. Miss LeBlanc was the Auxiliary chosen Girl State Representative the summer of 1971. She gave a most interesting and enthusiastic account of her week there. Miss LeBlanc had run for Senator and was elected. Then "her town" had the honor of being chosen "Model Town" for the week. There were only a few of the highlights of a happy week. The eleven members at the meeting thanked Miss LeBlanc for her gracious report. The Auxiliary treasurer said scholarship loans continue to be paid. The members voted to send a girl to the 1972 Girl State and a sum of money was set aside for this. A donation of money was also voted to the cancer society campaign in April. A plant was purchased and sent to the bereaved family of a veteran. Easter remembrances were sent to Auxiliary shut-in members. The next meeting will be May 15 at the home of Mrs. James Stevens, Jr. in Derby Line. It was agreed not to sell poppies for Memorial Day, May 30, but a sum of money equal to the usual amount paid for the poppies is to be sent to the Veterans' fund. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Harold Bowen and Mrs. Joe Queenin.

Townships report

THE SHERBROOKE RECORD — TUES., APRIL 11, 1972

Consumer group foresees clinics

SHERBROOKE (LH) — The Eastern Townships chapter of the Canadian Consumers' Association met at the University of Sherbrooke last night and announced that the first of several "consumer clinics" will be held in mid-May, though definite dates have not yet been set.

Other plans include asking school boards to include consumer programs among their courses and finding new ways to raise funds for the group, the newly elected president, Mrs. Lorraine Charpentier, said last night.

The local branch of the Canadian Consumers' Association, founded seven years ago, received about 200 telephone calls to its complaints committee last year, said Mrs. Charpentier. Most calls

Society recalls local role in Hong Kong

LENNOXVILLE (LH) — More than 500 Canadians, most of them Eastern Townships residents, lost their lives in the 16-day non-stop Battle of Hong Kong, though many of those who survived "cannot officially claim they fought at the battle," Captain Lionel Hurd said last night.

Addressing some 54 members of the Lennoxville Historical Society in Lennoxville last night, Mr. Hurd explained that due to an oversight the 7th Hussars Regiment, made up mostly of Cookshire, Scotstown and Bury residents, and the 11th Hussars Regiment, made up primarily of Richmond, Danville and Windsor residents, were not amalgamated with the Queen's Rifles Regiment from Quebec when these three units were sent to Hong Kong in 1941. Though the official records may not show it, many Eastern Townships residents were among the 554 courageous Canadians who lost their lives in Hong Kong.

Mr. Hurd, "one of those least affected" by the trying ordeal, currently owns a farm in Sawyerville. Last night he related certain aspects of the Battle of Hong Kong and how bad prisoner-of-war conditions following the surrender of Hong Kong by the governor of the island left many men permanently disabled.

A survey taken in Canada after the war revealed that the men who fought in the battle of Hong Kong "had worse teeth, a lower average income and suffered from a greater lack of protein... than other comparative groups of Canadian war veterans.

The permanent weakness caused by a lack of protein in the diets of the Hong Kong prisoners-of-war "made manual work almost impossible," an especially difficult problem for those returning to Eastern Townships farms. The survey also showed that Hong Kong veterans had more domestic problems because many veterans found "their nerves were shot" after the war, said Mr. Hurd.

What Mr. Hurd found especially puzzling was the attitude shown by the Japanese toward the prisoners-of-war.

"They kept asking us 'why aren't you happy here?'" said Mr. Hurd.

indicating the Japanese would not attack proved to be false. A British officer who decoded a message saying the Japanese would attack the day before the actual attack took place Dec. 16, 1941, was not believed, said Mr. Hurd.

"Many of us couldn't understand why anyone had sent us there at all," he said.

Earlier in the evening, Nelson Andrews reported that the cemetery committee is planning to study 20 more graveyards over the summer.

W. Laberee gave a short history of the Crosbie family, and Miss Atto presented historical papers of local interest to the Society.

Miss Joan Halls was the secretary at the meeting.

Sparring councils want lower costs

STANSTEAD (IH) — Friday evening, April 7, Mayor Edouard Girard of Rock Island and five of his aldermen and Mayor E. J. Struthers of Stanstead and four of his councillors gathered at the Stanstead Registry Building for a joint meeting to discuss the joint police force dispute.

Although nothing was decided, it was unanimously agreed upon by both councils that costs are too high for policing. Last year it cost in the vicinity of $20,000. This year a new car will be needed.

Pros and cons were discussed and argued. Mr. Struthers, elected to chair the meeting, asked each councillor to speak. Two were in favor of separation. Fernand MacLure said he would like to see the matter studied further to see if costs can be cut down.

Albert Simmoneau said January and February, 1972, costs were down from the same two months in 1971 by $400.

Four said they would like to see the present joint system continue, and two others said the same but with only a one-man police force.

Suggestions were made to have two full-time policemen working shifts, doing away with spares and cutting down on patrolling.

It was finally agreed that Mayor Girard and Gerard Surprenant of Rock Island and Mayor Struthers and Arthur Gaulin, who make up the two council police committees, meet and study the situation, taking their recommendations to their respective councils. Possibly after this another joint meeting will be called to make the final decision.

contradicted by a Stanstead man who said he was quoting the Beebe Mayor and secretary.

From then on Rock Island and Stanstead carried on jointly, "but there have been many problems through the years, all of which have been solved satisfactorily," said Mr. Struthers.

He added, "I hope the present wrangle will be too."

Report issued

QUEBEC — The department of natural resources has announced the publication of a preliminary report by G. Simard on the hydrogeology of the East Angus area, in the municipal county of Compton.

Field work consisted of a seismic survey, reconnaissance drilling, installation of observation wells and pumping tests. Results indicate that glacial-contact sand and gravel constitute an excellent aquifer well-suited to screened wells.

Copies of the report, HGP-5, may be obtained, for 50 cents each, from the Quebec office of the department.

The report is available in French only.

Playhouse asks council's help

NORTH HATLEY (RM) — The regular meeting of the town council was held on Monday, April 3, with Mayor H. Krichew presiding and all councillors present except G. A. St. Pierre. The minutes were approved and payment of bills.

Miss Emily LeBaron spoke to council on behalf of the Piggery Playhouse and requested the council's cooperation in urging their friends to purchase tickets, as the playhouse is going to run a legitimate theatre and needs all possible support. There are also plans in the making for Saturday entertainment for children, such as puppet shows, magician shows and drama school.

It was decided to clean the streets as soon as possible as a number of complaints were made last year about dust and dirt, as well as to proceed with the installation of sewer pipes at Jackson Heights, which could not be completed last fall.

A donation was authorized for Ayer's Cliff minor hockey, on which championship midget team were several North Hatley boys of whom the council was proud.

A Canadian Red Cross flag is to be flown at the post office May 8, the birthday of Henri Dunant, founder of the International Red Cross, and the week of June 25 - July 2 was proclaimed as Canada Week.

The engineers were authorized to prepare necessary figures and data to be presented to Quebec government officials to obtain a grant to proceed with sewer lines and a sewage disposal plant. The decision was made to attempt the work in a four-year period if possible. An appointment would be made in May to visit the officials in Quebec and attempt to get help in the project.

A report on the recent county council meeting was given by the pro-mayor, W. M. Sharman, and it was noted that a new secretary-treasurer, Jean-Paul Asselin, had been hired to replace Robert Breault, who was ill.

A decision concerning the Registry Office was held up for the time being.

Committee reports were given and the authorization was issued to hire a dog catcher. Inasmuch as notices had been posted on numerous occasions, he could proceed at once.

Cabinet tourism

The cold glare of publicity has put a firm end to the commercially-touted meeting once scheduled between the federal cabinet and a galaxy of international business men. Good.

Canada needs a tourist industry, to be true, but flogging the highest council in the land as a visiting point for $600 a head has to be a little much.

The visitors were to be leading executives of foreign-controlled corporations which do business in Canada. As such, they would presumably be affected by the long-awaited federal policy statement on foreign ownership.

Presumably with the full concurrence of the relevant authorities in Ottawa, the chore fell to an outfit called Business International Executive Services of New York which sought to round up guests at $600 each with a form letter.

This document, among other things, predicted the sure victory of the Trudeau Liberals in the next election, by way of underlying the importance of the tourist attraction.

It seems clear that the idea was dropped, not because the government belatedly discovered it to be a bad one, but because it got caught doing an end run around its own people and its own Parliament.

Although the concept is not known to have been exploited previously for private profit, extra-territorial at that, this government has shown past tendencies towards cooking up its policy initiatives in consultation with the special interest groups concerned.

For instance, all sorts of private seminars were held prior to the issuance of the rather pallid White Paper on External Affairs a while back. More recently, secret seminars were held between business men and the department of consumer and corporate affairs concerning the draft Competition Act. At least in that case, though, the Act was on the table for public consumption.

Perhaps this latest less-than-glorious episode will induce Mr. Trudeau to return to the practice of transacting public business in public. Under some systems of government, such as that in the United States, it is relatively easy to enter into informal dialogue with vested interests before taking legislative action.

That is not the case in Canada where the parliamentary system dictates that public measures be placed first before the Legislature. Then the thing to do is to invite opinion, either informally or in the form of special committee hearings.

The latter is the path that should be followed in the foreign ownership situation. Private meetings held to the exclusion of the public should be eschewed once and for all.

Postponing the day of judgment

By Lubor J. Zink

OTTAWA — Although Prime Minister Trudeau hasn't ruled out a June vote, his aides are now dropping hints of growing probability of postponement of the campaign for six months, perhaps even a year. Opposition leader Robert Stanfield still believes the march to the polls is imminent. He thinks the Prime Minister is merely trying to get his opponents off the track for a coffee break and then blow the whistle.

The fact is that the pace of election preparations, which has been gathering momentum since January, isn't slackening. Both Trudeau and Stanfield are maintaining heavy schedules of public appearances across the country and their parties are mustering troops and resources for an early battle. Both the material and psychological momentum of the preparations may have already reached the point where a slowdown poses more problems than completion of the run.

Mr. Trudeau has less than a month for weighing the relative risks of putting on the brakes or pressing the gas pedal right down. The deadline for dissolution of parliament for polling day in the last week of June is the end of April.

Unlike his easily swayed predecessor, Lester Pearson, Pierre Trudeau is not a committee man. He suspects any consensus of opinion of intellectual mediocrity and obsolescence. So whatever his advisors may recommend, his ultimate decision will depend on his own reading of the political and economic factors.

Right now neither the political mood of the country nor the performance of the economy are favorable to the government.

All the official and unofficial public opinion polls indicate strong disenchantment with the Trudeau regime and the economy reflects lack of confidence in the policies and intentions of the administration.

The latest survey on the mood of the electorate by the Canadian Institute of Public Opinion shows a 10 per cent drop in popular support of the government since an identical pre-election poll was taken in 1968. While the major opposition group, the Progressive Conservative party, also registered a drop, it lost only two per cent.

More ominous for the government than the narrowing of the pre-election gap between the two major parties is an enormous increase of the undecided vote. It jumped from 20 per cent in 1968 to 43 per cent.

While this reflects general uneasiness, and perhaps confusion, of the electorate, it seems to offer a greater chance of gains to the opposition than to the government.

The reason for this projection is the simultaneous sharp drop — 22 per cent — in Mr. Trudeau's personal popularity. Since Trudeau's charismatic pull was the decisive factor in the 1968 election, the absence of "Trudeaumania" in the next contest is likely to have a considerable effect on the outcome. It would be illogical for people who are disenchanted with Trudeau to vote for grit candidates, because Trudeau has transformed the Liberal Party into his personal instrument of autocratic rules.

Assuming that the swelling of the undecided vote is largely due to the big drop in Trudeau's personal following, the temporary fence-sitters who may find it difficult to declare their intentions will probably come down in the polling booth on the side of Trudeau's opponents. If so, the bulk of the huge undecided vote is likely to go to the Tories, for the two other opposition parties have no chance to form a government.

This may look like a good reason for Trudeau's decision to postpone the election, but it isn't. The obvious and growing decline of the Prime Minister's personal following has already resulted in prominent desertions from the government side of the House and within the Liberal party hierarchy. Postponement of the election would increase the probability of more such spotlighted flights.

These political risks in election delay are compounded by bad news from the economic front. With the exception of the United States market, exports are dropping sharply, unemployment remains around six per cent, cost-price inflation is escalating and the investment outlook is bleak. Recently published figures show that the increase in capital investment is likely to fall from 11 per cent last year to five per cent. That means stagnation of the productive base of the economy. The reason for it is the Trudeau regime's anti-business thrust which is scaring off potential investors and pushing the country into a chronic state of economic uncertainty.

Postponement of the election would aggravate this sorry state of affairs and hasten the erosion of Trudeau's political position.

On the right

with William F. Buckley Jr.

The news now is that Congressman Paul McCloskey will throw his weight behind the presidential candidacy of Mayor John Lindsay.

The datum is interesting beyond its impact on the handicappers. McCloskey, remember, until a few weeks ago was asking the voters of New Hampshire to consider his credentials as a Republican to be superior to those of Richard Nixon. The voters gave him a good-natured 20 per cent of the vote on the assumption, one guesses, that McCloskey was genuinely a Republican voice. Now, a week or two later, he reveals himself to be not only something other than Republican, but a Democrat of far-left disposition.

One can understand the left-Republican who fidgets leftward and suddenly finds himself sitting on, say, Scoop Jackson's lap. But to go from Republicanism on Monday to Lindsayism on Tuesday is, at the very least, to invite the suggestion that on Monday you were an imposter.

What makes the whole exercise particularly piquant is that McCloskey, during the closing days of the New Hampshire campaign, left without Vietnam as a real fighting campaign issue, turning to the question of Nixon's hypocrisy. I suppose there will be those who backed McCloskey who will wonder which is the hypocrite: Nixon, or Nixon's critic who, while posing as a Republican, emerges as a backer of John Lindsay.

For those who do not know who John Lindsay is, he is the mayor of New York City, a depressed area just south of New England which was bought from the Indians for twenty-four dollars and will probably be worth something less than that by the time Lindsay is through with it — the same Lindsay who won election in 1965 by posing as a member of the Republican Party, from which he disaffiliated with great fanfare last summer. Among the congoescenti, Lindsay's announcement was as if Zsa Zsa Gabor had called a press conference to announce that she had renounced virginity.

The recent news involved Mr. Ogden Reid, the Republican Congressman from Westchester. He announced that he had become a Democrat.

Once again, it stuck in the memory that Mr. Reid was a voice of progressive Republicanism in New York state for many years. For one thing, he inherited control of the New York Herald Tribune, which was considered the voice of New York state Republicanism for years before it failed, substantially ante-dating the anticipated decline of the party whose voice it was, which meanwhile was getting a considerable transfusion from the Conservative Party of New York.

Mr. Reid, having served as editor of the Herald Tribune and then as ambassador to Israel for President Eisenhower, ran for the House of Representatives, won, and announced that the future of the Republican Party lay in the progressive ideas of such as his old friend John Lindsay. One can only imagine his surprise when, after a while, John Lindsay found himself losing, in 1969, a Republican primary to a Republican, Mr. John Marchi.

Then Mr. Lindsay, by leaving the Republican Party, confused those Republicans who had from the beginning insisted that Lindsay was the true voice of Republican moderation, because Mr. Reid and others had been stoutly insisting that Lindsay was the representative of real Republicanism. This became particularly embarrassing as Mr. Nixon moved ever steadily leftward, so that, as he did so, he forced Lindsay and his epigoni to make complaints against Nixon which began to sound particularly contrived. Now Mr. Reid has left us, and one can assume that if his assessment of his hero Mr. Lindsay is the same as Congressman McCloskey's, Reid will soon come out for Lindsay as President of the United States.

What is remarkable is that the keepers of the Republican tablets neither comment on the defections nor defer to those who anticipated the defections. Governor Nelson Rockefeller, poor dear, for years talked about the John Lindsays as exemplars of the new Republicanism. Now, when their name comes up, he looks the other way. But not, alas, gratefully, towards those who, during those same years, endeavored to tell him that Lindsay et al were interested in quite different ideals from those that properly occupy the Republican Party.

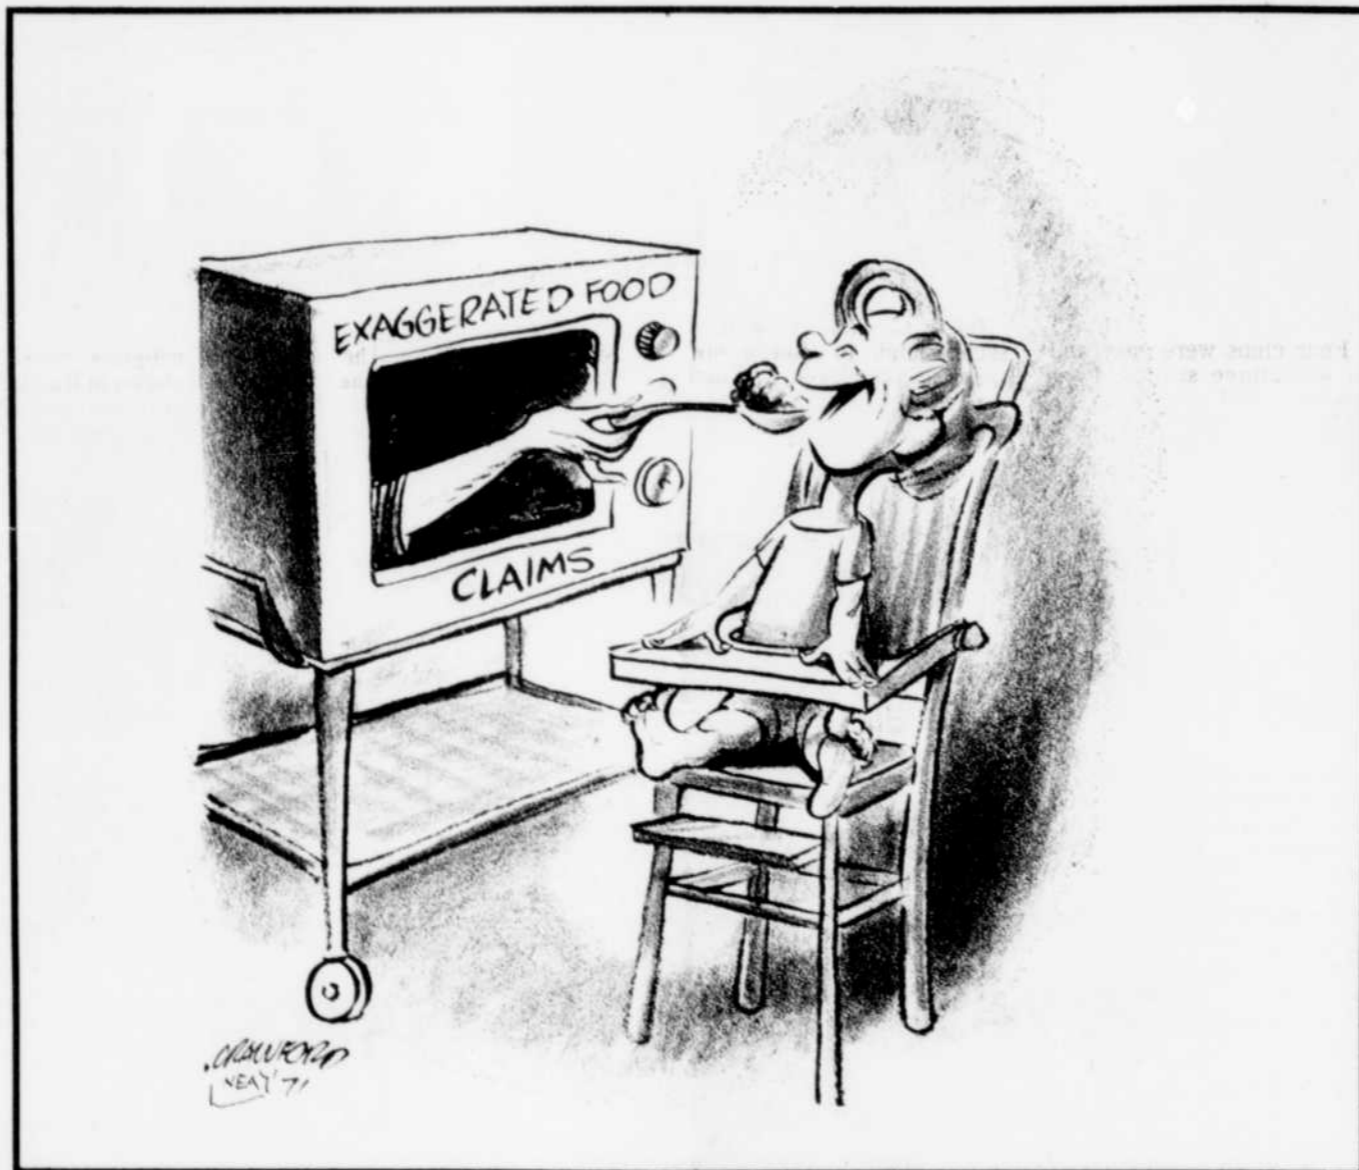

All of which is not merely to say: I told you so, but to caution against automatically assuming that anomalous spokesmen for your party belong in that party. Herbert Brownell, Lindsay's earliest sponsor in the Republican Party, is unconvincing in the role of Little Red Riding Hood, discovering so belatedly what a great big Democratic gleam lay in the eyes of Grandmother Lindsay.

Rumors of capitalism

By Ray Cromley

WASHINGTON — A Chinese friend who fled the mainland when Mao Tse-tung came to power has received word the property he left in Shanghai 22 years ago is still drawing profits.

These profits, or at least part of them, he understands, have been banked in his name. My friend, who has been denounced by Peking as a counter-revolutionary, does not dare go back to claim the money. Nor is he willing to send back an agent to negotiate for him. He is certain any agent he sends will be in for trouble because of his own anti-Communist activities.

It should be noted that this particular friend has been an active anti-Communist guerrilla in Southeast Asia. The property in question consisted of 200 houses in Shanghai which Mao's government, he said, took over by decree. But so far as my friend can determine, he is still "part owner" — or at least is being credited with income from the rentals.

China watchers here note that Peking of late has been seeking better relations with overseas Chinese for purposes that are not yet clear. But they doubt any former capitalists or landlords still "own" property, even half or quarter interests. It is more likely that Peking valued the confiscated houses at some deflated level and now pays interest on that sum.

WORD LEAKS OUT
 One way or another, my friend has heard about the present status of the property of about 40 of his wealthy friends of pre-Mao days. Some owned banks, some department stores, factories and real estate.

He believes the bankers were wiped out, though some escaped with their liquid assets and are now doing quite well in Brazil and other lands. As for the others, the Communists took over each man's property and set up companies to operate these investments.

In each case my friend investigated, his former associates receive some income from the property. In some cases, the former owner has stayed on as a manager or technical advisor. His brother is still in China. Before Mao's victory, he owned several factories. Today he receives some returns from these and is a director or manager of sorts.

These once-wealthy friends apparently have no way of investing their incomes. They cannot send funds out of the country. If they live abroad, the money cannot be changed into foreign currency and sent to them.

There is, therefore, not much they can spend their profits on. Most items are rationed. But they can live a little better than the average.

PRICES INFLATED
 My informant's old friends and relatives use their money to buy scarce foods on the black market, at four, six or eight or ten times the normal prices — usually fats, oil or meat. Or they buy clothing or other luxuries when they can find them. Some are able to drive cars.

The wealthy cannot live alone in large houses, for there is a strict limit on the amount of room each person can have. If his family is small and the house large, a part of the space must be rented to others, under government management.

My friend also understands that children are able to inherit capital holdings from their parents. China watchers doubt this, but are not certain. The sons and daughters of a friend who died in Hong Kong have apparently been allowed to acquire the father's income from a group of rental houses or so my informant has been told.

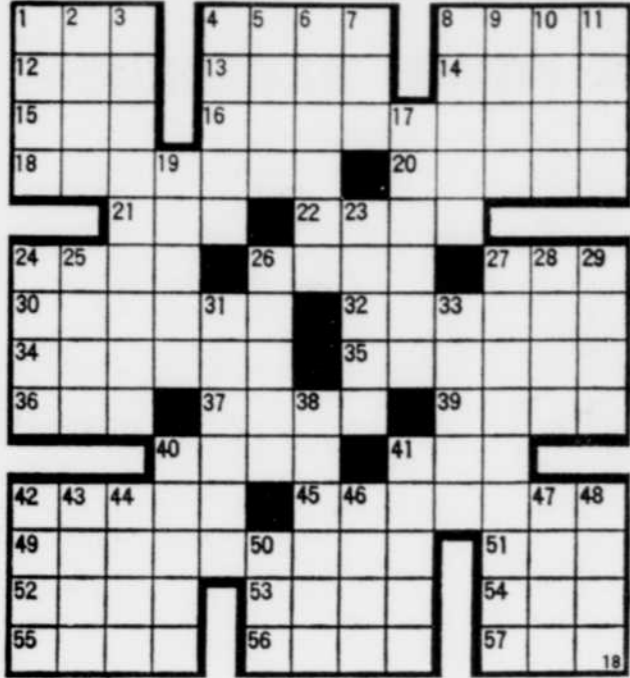

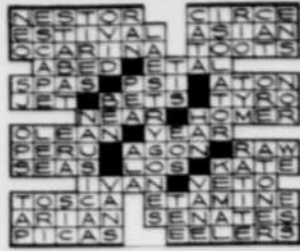

His old friends are, from time to time, he hears, the subject of a great deal of personal abuse. During the Cultural Revolution some were badly beaten. One had his arms broken. But if these men and women stay on the mainland and manage to endure these personal torments, they seem to fare better than the average mainland Chinese financially.

Wednesday, April 12
The Day Under Your Sign

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20): Many distractions, but you'll just have to keep plugging away as there's much to be done today.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): You should be full of energy and ready to tackle anything that comes up. Outlook excellent.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21): Be alert to information that could lead to job improvement with subsequent financial gains.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): A pleasant enough day, but not very exciting. The evening, however, may be somewhat different.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 21): Guard against tripping and falling. Health under somewhat negative rays for most of the day.

LIBRA (Sept. 22 to Oct. 22): Someone you know may be in a gloomy mood and you're just the one to cheer them up with a funny anecdote.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Don't waste time and energy on trivial fussing over details or bickering with co-workers.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Although usually cooperative, you may feel somewhat contrary today as people tend to "bug" you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Some undercurrents in Capricorn charts suggest advisability of being extra alert for hidden meanings today.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Forgive and forget instead of holding old grudges. Rays accent getting a fresh start. Outlook optimistic.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Plan to save a portion of your income so you'll have a reserve on hand in case of need.

with one spade and almost surely had five or six for the bid.

Could West actually hold the singleton jack? Possible, but unlikely. Was there any other way to score four spade tricks? An end play? Wouldn't work. There was no way to get to the end of the hand without letting the diamonds parade home.

Finally, South saw there was a way to make his contract. If West's singleton spade were the eight or nine he could handle East's case. South was going to look idiotic if West's singleton were the jack but South didn't care about his charisma, just his bid.

South led a club to dummy and played dummy's 10 of spades. East covered with the jack. West dropped the eight and now South was in clover.

Back to dummy with a second club to lead a low spade. East played low and South put in the seven-spot. It held and he had his four spade tricks.

If you are concerned about the future of our children, here is your chance to say so.

During the past weeks we have been telling you about the issues at stake in our negotiations with the Government. And about the way these issues directly affect our children.

We told you about class size — and of our concern that, under present conditions, it is very often impossible for students to receive the individual attention they deserve. Ask your child how many children are in his or her class, and how much time the teacher is able to spend with each individual — you will begin to see our concern.

We told you, too, about the issue of 'classification', which determines the salary a teacher receives. The Government unilaterally introduced a new system which would lower the 'classification' of many of our teachers — resulting in lower salaries. Is this fair to teachers who entered the profession in good faith under a different system?

We also told you that a long overdue salary increase proposed by the Government actually results — after deductions — in a net loss of take-home pay. And about the fact that many teachers are at a substantially lower salary level when compared to civil service employees with equivalent schooling.

These are only some of the issues which have dragged on since last summer in our negotiations with the Government. So, you can appreciate the situation is serious and our concern genuine. We don't want to strike, but because these issues resolved it appears we may have no alternative.

Whatever the situation, your support can be invaluable to us in our negotiations. Your name on the letter below is an effective way of showing your support. Do take a few moments to consider the situation and, if you agree with our position, please forward the letter to us.

Should you want to discuss the situation further, we would be very happy to do so. You see, we care about your kids. Help us, by your involvement, to keep on caring.

THE PRESIDENT,
PROVINCIAL ASSOCIATION OF PROTESTANT TEACHERS,
245 HYMUS BLVD., POINTE CLAIRE, QUEBEC

Dear Mr. President,

I am concerned with the future of education in Quebec and wish to support the Teachers' request for an acceptable contract.

ADDRESS _____

On the right, Mrs. Howard Picard, Birchton UCW president, about to open the April meeting, with the secretary, Mrs. John Brazel. (Photo: Mrs. J. Murray)

Birchton UCW April meeting

BIRCHTON (JM)—The April meeting of the Birchton UCW was held at the home of Mrs. Howard Picard on April 5 with a very good attendance. The president opened the meeting by asking the members to repeat the "Purpose" in unison.

Mrs. Gilbert Nutbrown conducted the Worship Period entitled "Easter Sunday." Everyone joined in singing the hymn "Christ the Lord is Risen Today." The scripture reading was taken from John 20: 1-14.

The minutes of the last meeting were adopted as read by the President and the work committees reports submitted.

The bus trip will be to Prince Edward Island leaving June 10 and returning June 15th.

A new Maintenance Committee is to be appointed for the hall and inquiries made on purchasing new chairs for the hall. On motions, it was resolved that we have a new panel installed in the hall and purchase an oil heater for the Sunday School Room.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Arthur Rogers. The program consisted of a series of quizzes conducted by Mrs. Nick Turcyn. The President declared the meeting closed and asked Mrs. Ray Coates and Mrs. Charles Robinson to judge the Apron Contest. First prize went to Mrs. J. A. Murray and second prize to Mrs. Basil Prescott.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Howard Picard assisted by Mrs. J. A. Murray.

Lennoxville ladies organize help and hope for retarded

The number of active members in the Lennoxville Auxiliary to the Sherbrooke Association for the Mentally Retarded has risen to 46 this year and a record attendance was noted at its meeting on March 28 in the Ladies' Parlor at the United Church. There are 18 new members, several of whom are young and a real asset to our organization. We also have 64 associate members who help with our projects but do not attend meetings — a total membership of 110.

The president, Mrs. Helen Ross, chaired an informative meeting featuring interested participation by everyone. The minutes of the secretary, Mrs. H. Dale, were approved as read and were followed by those of an executive meeting whose general policy suggestions re meetings, hostesses, associate members, donors, and roll call were accepted en bloc. The three executive recommendations were discussed and approved separately — the first being that we discontinue raffles until further notice. Also, that a Donations Committee of three members, namely, Mrs. R. Forbes, Mrs. L. MacLeod and Mrs. J. Noble, be set up to investigate where and how we should place our money to the best advantage, thus avoiding snap judgment at meetings. And lastly, that we accept the offer of Mr. Raymond Guilbault, field worker of the Quebec Association for the Mentally Retarded in Montreal to speak for us. The date of his coming has been confirmed for April 25.

The kind invitation of Mr. John Visser for an escorted tour of the Dixville Home and the new Bishop Mountain Home was gratefully accepted as was the generous offer of Mr. Art Lessard for transportation there. If a sufficient number of associate members are desirous for a similar trip, efforts will be made to organize one for them later in May.

The "In Memoriam" fund has been reactivated and a bank account started in which to keep all donations. Any money received for this fund will be set aside for some specific purpose. A sample acknowledgement card was on display and this angle of our work is to be boosted, hopefully with good results.

The treasurer, Mrs. D. Bennett, reported that the recent financial campaign was extremely successful, with results amounting to nearly 2½ times those of last year. The auxiliary is indebted to its 97 donors whose kind generosity greatly helps to carry out many projects.

The annual Food Sale is being held on April 21, at the local IGA store, starting at one o'clock, with food to be in before that time, if possible. The convenors are Mesdames C. Groenewold, R. Forbes, L. MacLeod, H. Ross, with Mrs. D. Bennett as treasurer. Eight ladies volunteered to phone the associate members, requesting food donations, and the regular telephone committee will contact the active members.

October 19 is the date of the Bazaar and a report of the Handicrafts section's convenor, Mrs. S. Aird, was presented for four classifications of work were outlined — sewing, knitting, decorations, and miscellaneous — and everyone's enthusiastic response to them was most encouraging. Associate members are going to be invited to participate in them, if they so desire. It is hoped that, by early and careful organization and continued interest, a really worthwhile Bazaar will be the result — something of which we can truly be proud.

Several of our members took on a child, at the Dixville Home, whose name was submitted by Mr. Visser and who had no special correspondent, thereby assuring a personal relationship. Many of our members already had a special interest child and have enjoyed the association.

Adjournment was followed by refreshments served by Mrs. D. Rick, Mrs. H. Blachford, and Mrs. C. Groenewold. The next meeting will be held on April 25, at the United Church, with three members of the Quebec Association in attendance and Mesdames K. Baker, B. Crawford and R. Forbes as hostesses.

Davis, Clark vows exchanged

MANSONVILLE — The marriage of Audrey Marie, youngest daughter of the late Mrs. Amy Davis and Mr. Clifton Davis to Garth William Clark, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Clark, took place on Saturday, March 18, 1972, at 7:30 p.m. in the Mansonville United Church. Reverend Carl Gustafson officiated at the double ring ceremony and the wedding music was played by Mrs. Mary Bailey, church organist.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother Donald, wore a floor length A-line gown of mauve polyester knit with hood and long sleeves. She made the wedding gown herself. She carried a large single red rose.

Miss Joan Lacroix, niece of the bride, as maid of honor, wore a turquoise blue dress similar to the bride's, which she made. She carried a smaller single pink rose. In her hair, she wore matching pink ribbon.

Mr. John Porter, brother-in-law of the groom, acted as best man.

Mrs. Clark, mother of the groom, wore a pale blue and grey jacquard dress of polyester knit. Her corsage was of pink carnations.

Following the ceremony, a small reception was held in the United Church Hall, where the guests enjoyed a cold buffet lunch, served by the United Church ladies.

Friends and relatives came from Mansonville; Waterloo; St. Etienne de Bolton; Montreal; Alliston, Ontario; and Toronto, Ontario.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark are residing in Mansonville.

Smith, Hill marriage feted

HAMILTON, Ont. — A marriage of local interest was solemnized in St. Timothy's Anglican Church, Hamilton, Ont. March 11 when Melanie Sandra Hill, daughter of Mrs. Joan Hill and the late William Hill, was married to Charles Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hyliard Smith of Gaspé, Que. The bride is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Peak of Hamilton, Ont., formerly of Sherbrooke, Que. The double-ring ceremony service was used, the Rev. Robert Snelling officiating.

The bride was given in marriage by her grandfather, Mr. Wm. Peak, and was attended by her sister, Miss Deborah-Jo Hill, and Miss Joan Reynolds. Mr. Isaac Smith was best man for his brother. The ushers were Messrs. Gerald and Rodney Hill, brothers of the bride.

The bride's gown was of white 'Twinkle' satin with heavy lace panels front and back and a circular train, lace edged. Her veil was of tulle illusion and she carried a bridal bouquet of pink rosebuds and white carnations. Her attendants wore Empire style gowns of velvet in soft violet shade with short puffed sleeves of matching chiffon. Heavy white lace edged the round necks and short sleeves and they wore white slippers. Their flowers were colonial bouquets of mauve carnations and pink daisies and they wore daisies in their hair.

The bride's mother, Mrs. Hill, wore a street-length dress of rose-pink lace with matching hem-length jacket. She wore a head-band of purple velvet violets with tulle and a corsage of pink carnations.

A good boss is also a gentleman

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: You often have pointers in your column on how to be a better wife, husband, mother-in-law, neighbor, or friend. I have never seen any helpful hints on how to be a better boss. I've never been a boss, but I have been a secretary for 18 years and I'd like to make a few suggestions.

(1) It costs nothing to say "good morning" when you come in and "good evening" when you leave. Just acknowledging your secretary's existence will help her feel she is something more than a walking typewriter.

(2) When your secretary tells you she cannot read your handwriting, try not to make any cracks about her eyesight. Next time she might not ask what you meant. She'll just put it down the way it looks — and you'll be sorry.

(3) You married your wife, your secretary didn't marry her. It's a wife's duty to shop for family gifts, write party invitations and thank-you notes.

(4) If your secretary makes a mistake, wait until you can inform her privately. Don't correct or castigate her in the presence of other executives or worse yet, in front of other secretaries. A good boss is also a gentleman. Sign me — Chicago

Dear Chi: Here's your letter. As a boss who employs 11 secretaries I took a good, hard look at your suggestions and I see one I might learn from. Thank you.

Dear Ann Landers: I am writing in response to Wife Number Two who objected to her husband's children removing their deceased mother's fine china, silver and paintings from their father's home.

I am a woman who has collected some exquisite objects of art through the years and when I am gone I want my daughter — not a second wife — to enjoy them. I can't imagine my husband marrying a woman who did not have some nice things of her own to fill the empty spaces and cover the holes in the wall where my lovely paintings once hung.

I have instructed my daughter to remove my treasures immediately after my death and take them to her home. It is my wish that she enjoy them and pass them on to her children. I hope other mothers will do the same. — Looking Ahead in Racine

Dear Looking: "Instructions" won't hold up in court if there is a dispute. What is needed is a will. Call a lawyer and make it legal.

Dear Ann Landers: I notice a lot of people write to you about things that aren't really problems. They just need to know how to handle a clumsy situation. Maybe you can help me as you've helped others.

I work in a parking lot. Part of my duties include cashiering. I always count the customer's change out loud when I hand it back — and then I say a cheerful "Thank you!" Some of my customers reply, "You're welcome!" Others say, "Thank YOU..." in a higher voice than mine, with the emphasis on YOU — as if to say, "You are the one who should be thanked."

My parking lot is self-serve and self-lock. The customer does everything. All I do is take the money. I feel I should not be thanked for enjoying their business. I should thank THEM. If someone says "Thank YOU" should I respond with, "No — THANK YOU" — Pittsburgh Ron

Dear P.R.: If a customer wants to thank you — let him. Three thank-you's in the space of three seconds is one too many.

"We make a penny do more for you." APRIL 13th to 22nd

Firm sponsors student tests

WINDSOR — Canada's foremost competition for student auto mechanics, the Chrysler Trouble Shooting Contest, will again be held on a national basis in 1972. Ron W. Todgham, president of Chrysler Canada Ltd., announced recently.

The contest, sponsored by Chrysler dealers across Canada, began with 14 competing schools in 1970. It was held nationally for the first time last year and drew representatives from 175 Canadian vocational and secondary schools. This year, 263 schools have entered the competition.

"The tremendous response to the contest by educators and students alike is very gratifying," Mr. Todgham said. Purpose of the Chrysler Trouble Shooting Contest is to encourage technically-minded students to complete their education and choose a career in automotive service.

"There is a great need for automotive service technicians in Canada and we at Chrysler Canada are trying to encourage these students to seek a future in this industry," Mr. Todgham said.

The nationwide competition begins with 19 regional contests at 16 different sites across the country in April and May. Each participating school selects two students as its Trouble Shooting entry in their regional contest. Each regional contest entry is sponsored by a Dodge or Plymouth dealer.

The contest consists of a written examination which counts for 30 per cent of a team's final score and a practical test which counts for 70 per cent.

Winners of each regional contest advance to the National Finals which are scheduled for Montreal's Autostade June 12-13.

Contestants at the finals will be competing for $6,000 in college scholarships.

The overall prize list for the 1972 Chrysler Trouble Shooting Contest totals more than $40,000 in scholarships, trophies, automobile components such as transmissions, for classroom training and complete classroom tool sets.

Bible Society aims to hit one in five

TORONTO — Most households have a copy of the Bible, but for many it is still a closed book. The Canadian Bible Society is attempting an ambitious program this year to re-acquaint people with the scriptures.

One of every five homes in this country will receive a copy of one of the gospels during 1972 if the Million Gospel Campaign For Canada realizes its objective. The intensive drive was announced this month by Dr. Kenneth G. McMillan, general secretary of the Canadian Bible Society.

In expressing optimism about the outcome of the drive, Dr. McMillan cites the popularity and phenomenal distribution of Good News for Modern Man, which, in the six years since its publication has become the all time best-selling paperback. More than 30 million copies of the contemporary translation of the New Testament have been sold.

In addition, he points to the renewal of interest in religion seen in the growth of the Jesus movement, increasing enrollment in religion courses in universities and reports of religious revival in Western Canada.

Richard says Canadiens have been down before

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Canadiens left for New York Monday night for what could be the final trip of the season for the defending Stanley Cup champions.

But Henri Richard, veteran centre and captain of the Canadiens, says don't count on it.

New York Rangers hold a 3-1 lead in their best-of-seven quarter-final Stanley Cup series going into tonight's game, following Sunday night's 6-4 victory here against Montreal.

The Rangers also won the first two games in New York last Wednesday and Thursday, before bowing 2-1 to the Canadiens here Saturday night.

This club's been down two games before and come back, Richard, 36, and a veteran of 16 previous National Hockey League seasons, said.

A few seasons ago we were down 2-0 to the (Detroit) Red Wings in the final and we still won the Cup.

HE SCORED GOAL
Richard didn't mention that it was his overtime goal in the sixth game that clinched that victory, May 5, 1966.

Richard admits it has been a frustrating season for him. In 78 regular-season games he counted 12 goals and assisted on 32 others.

"The goals don't seem to come," he said, noting he has one assist in the four games against New York. "But I still feel good and I seem to be skating well and I've only been on the ice for two goals and they were into the empty net."

Richard pointed out that the Rangers and Canadiens both play the same style of hardkating, free-wheeling hockey, a fact he feels can turn the series around.

He says New York centre Walt Tkaczuk and right winger Bill Fairbairn add a lot more spark to the New York attack than both are given credit for.

TOOK UP SLACK
Tkaczuk is big and strong and a fine hockey player, Richard said, noting how Tkaczuk appeared to take up a lot of the slack in the New York offence after all-star centre Jean Ratelle suffered a broken ankle late in the season. "And Fairbairn's always there." "But I'm confident," he said.

Meanwhile, defenceman Jacques Laperrriere, who missed Sunday night's game because of a bruised knee, took treatment Monday. But his status for tonight still remained doubtful. All other team members were reported healthy and ready for the fifth game.

Montreal newspapers carried pictures Monday showing an incident which escaped officials Sunday night.

The photographs showed Montreal winger Rejean Houle being pursued by stick-swinging Ed Giacomin, the New York goalie.

Giacomin chased Houle almost to the New York blue line after the Montrealer had bumped the goalie as he whizzed through the goal crease.

Fortunately, Giacomin's swipe with his goal stick missed the retreating Montrealer.

The officials had moved down the ice with the play and no penalty was called.

Blues, Stars to break series tie

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — St. Louis Blues, relative youngsters in playoff experience, attempt tonight to wrestle the home ice advantage away from Minnesota North Stars in their National Hockey League quarterfinal playoff.

The best-of-seven series is tied 2-2. The North Stars, if the series stretches to the limit, also would play host for the seventh game this weekend.

Further, St. Louis entertains Minnesota Thursday night in the sixth game.

The Blues, whose players had 37 years of previous playoff experience compared with Minnesota's 73, dropped the first two games 3-0 and 6-5 last week at Metropolitan Sports Centre but stormed back Saturday night and Sunday afternoon in St. Louis for 2-1 and 3-2 decisions.

"We're still in there," said Minnesota coach Jack Gordon. "It's not like we're down 3-1 in the game. We're 2-2. We've got as good a chance as they do—in fact a little better if it goes seven."

Gordon, who admitted that his club was still fuming about a disallowed goal in Sunday's game, said defenceman Doug Mohns is in hospital with a back injury and will not play tonight. However, he may see action Thursday night in St. Louis.

TWO OTHERS HURTING
Two other Minnesota blueliners are hurting: Barry Gibbs, wrenched knee, missed the Sunday game, and Dennis O'Brien, ankle bruise, returned from a two-game absence to set up a goal in the fourth game. Both probably will play, Gordon says.

The Blues' comeback has been led by goalie Jacques Caron, a rookie, and Phil Roberto, a left winger who has only one previous year of playoff experience.

Roberto leads the Blues' playoff scoring with four goals and three assists. Caron has played brilliantly the last two games, and coach Al Arbour is expected to come back again with him against Gump Worsley of the North Stars.

The controversial play came in the third period Sunday when it appeared J. P. Parise had scored a goal as Caron carried the puck into the net. But referee John Ashley ruled that he had whistled the play dead, and the goal judge didn't turn on the scoring light.

Stemmer cautious

NEW YORK (AP) — "Stemmer's something," Rangers coach Emile Francis crowed.

He smells out those big goals. He's a money player.

Stemmer is Pete Stemmer, whose lightning-like goal in Montreal Sunday night propelled New York to a 6-4 victory over the Canadiens.

"There's nothing to celebrate yet," Stemmer said cautiously. "You can't count them out as dead. Not yet—not until they've lost four games."

The Canadiens, the National Hockey League's Stanley Cup champions, now have lost three and stand on the brink of elimination in the best-of-seven quarter-final playoff series.

New York hopes to push them over the edge in tonight's fifth game at Madison Square Garden.

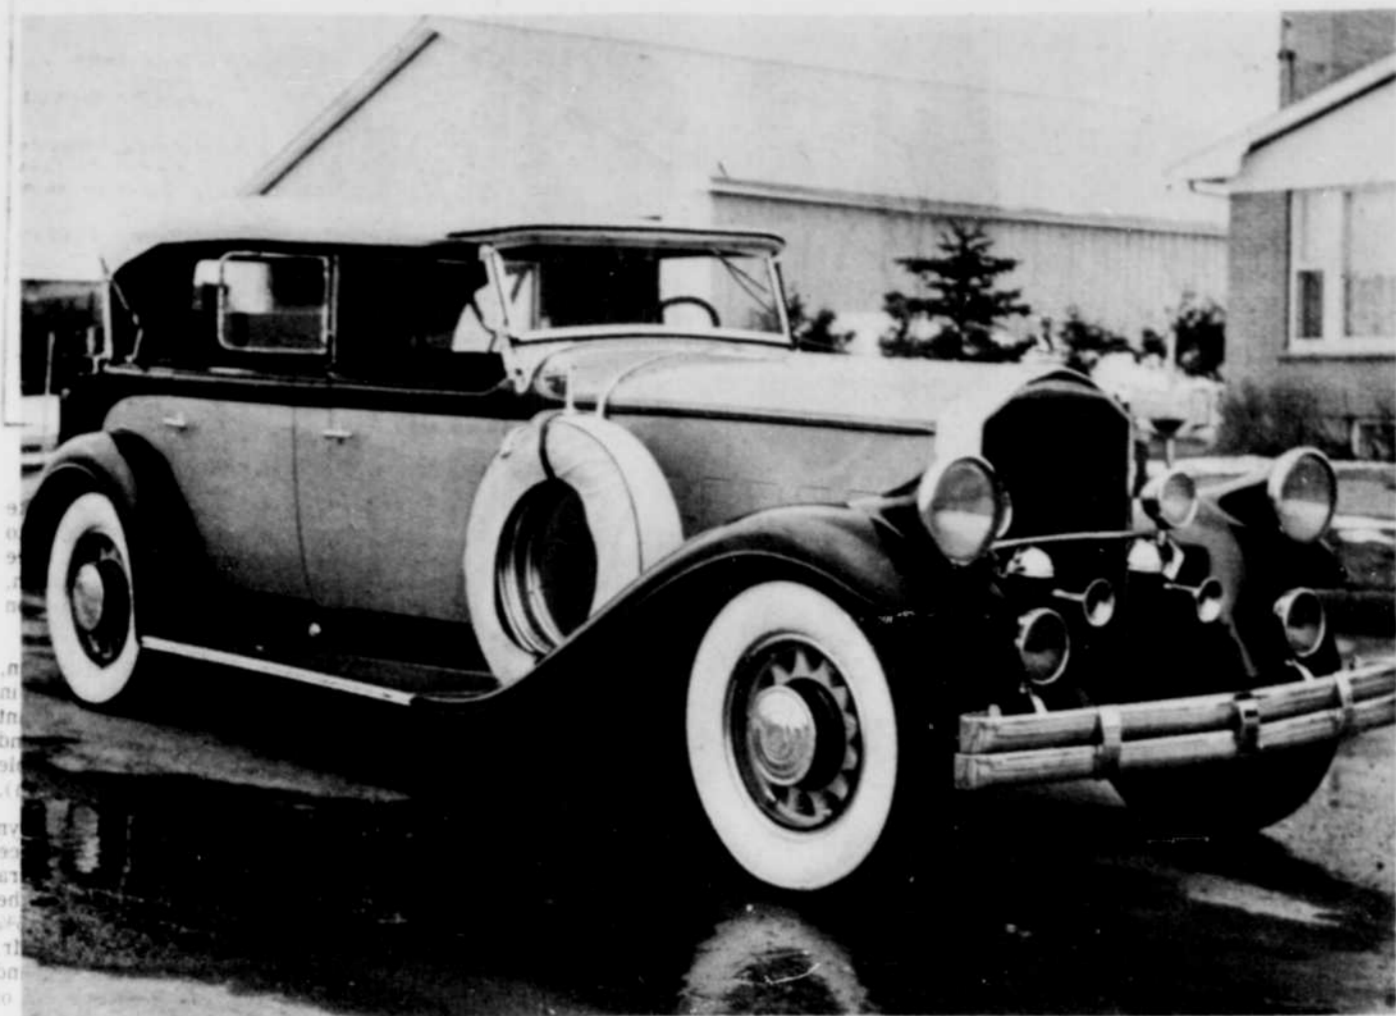

"I won't count them out until we have a safe lead with 30 seconds showing on the clock," Stemmer said.

He had put the Rangers ahead with 5:05 showing on the clock in the third period Sunday, before Ted Irvine, who had scored an empty-net goal in an earlier game, did it again to assure New York of the victory.

The Rangers seemed to have things well in hand at the start of the game, striking for four first-period goals, two by Bobby Rousseau.

But the Canadiens scored two of their own in the first period, then one apiece in the second and third to gain a tie.

But suddenly, there was Stemmer.

A CLASSIC — At Auto-Expo '72 April 21-23, visitors will see this vintage 1931 Pierce-Arrow automobile. This car is in excellent condition and is owned by Donat Chartier Jr. of Lennoxville.

Car show sees success

SHERBROOKE — After tremendous successes for the last two years, Les Productions Contemporaines Enr. will be presenting the 1972 edition of their car show Auto-Expo '72 in Sherbrooke on the weekend of April 21-23.

After registering over 26,000 visitors last year, it is expected that, with a wider variety of automobiles at this year's show, close to 30,000 people may visit Auto-Expo '72 at Sherbrooke's Sports Palace.

The organizers decided this year to put the emphasis on the many facets of the automobile. There will therefore be a wide array of automobiles of all types.

Among these, Auto-Expo visitors will see specially built show cars, racing cars of all types, a few antique models, exotic imported cars and the latest models of major manufacturers. No fewer than 12 major manufacturers will be represented at the show by their local dealers: General Motors, Ford, Chrysler, BLMH, Volvo, Toyota, Datsun, Mazda, Renault, Alfa-Romeo, Ferrari and Lamborghini.

Four vehicles that will surely attract a lot of attention at Auto-Expo will be the ones exhibited by California Show Cars of Hollywood, Calif., specialists in the construction of special show cars. These four vehicles will be the Barber Car, a 100 mph mobile barber shop; the Boothill Express, an 1859 horse-drawn hearse powered by a 900 hp engine; the Sand Draggin, the dune-buggy of the future; and Batman's own Batcycle.

There will also be on hand many displays of automobile accessories. Visitors will also be entertained by a fast-moving spring and summer fashion show scheduled frequently during the weekend. Player's Cinema-Auto will offer movies on major racing events held in America last year.

Major league baseball owners have added $400,000 to their offer to striking players, their chief negotiator said Monday, but, because of a condition, it was received unfavorably by the players' top representative.

John Gaherin, speaking for the owners, said that, after meeting in Washington earlier in the day with Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Baseball Players Association, and chief federal mediator J. Curtis Counts, he and Miller returned to New York where the new offer was made—and all but rejected.

Gaherin said the owners "adjusted our proposal of yesterday

(Sunday) upward conditionally."

"We offered to agree to using $400,000 of the gains in the pension plan for additional pension benefits in addition to our commitment to a health program of $490,000."

Before this year, the owners provided $5.4 million yearly for the pension plan. The players demanded a 17-per-cent increase in pension payments and went on strike when the owners refused. Estimates show that the annual interest on the pension plan comes to $660,000. The owners now have offered $400,000 of that to the players for reallocation to pension increases.

But the condition, covering back pay for games or dates already lost in the 10-day strike, apparently will bring a rejection of the offer by the players, Gaherin suggested.

Under that condition, Gaherin said:

"The players will not be paid for the days they were scheduled to play this far this season and didn't play because of the strike."

Further, the major league clubs will make every effort to make up the lost games to complete a schedule of 162 games. The players will be expected to play this schedule within the framework of the basic agreement.

The problem here is that the players want to be paid for the full season if all 162 games are played. But the owners base a full season on 182 days, not 162 games, and thus would deduct from each player's salary the pay which would have gone to him for each day of the strike, even if games already lost are made up later.

"Our contention," Gaherin said, "is that the schedule calls for 162 games and we pay the players a season salary. We have the right to schedule those games as we see fit."

Lions take silver

LENNOXVILLE — Lennoxville Lions, Eastern Townships Mosquito C champions, left by bus for Quebec City Thursday to participate in the provincial playoffs.

Hockey enthusiasts met at the Town Hall to wish the boys well.

The boys were billeted with families in Quebec, which was a great experience as this was the first time for most of the boys being away from home.

The first game was against the Lake St. Louis region, which Lennoxville won 6-0.

On Saturday they won 6-2 over a team from Saguenay.

The third game was against a strong team from Gaspé, and it proved to be the best game of the series. Lennoxville won 4-3 in a game that saw two penalty shots called and a double minor to Lennoxville with less than three minutes remaining.

The championship game on Sunday morning matched St. Romuald of Quebec and Lennoxville at the Quebec Arena.

Although the Lennoxville team controlled play during most of the game, they were unable to score against an outstanding St. Romuald goalie and were defeated 3-0.

The players were presented with silver medals and crests at the end of the game.

The boys displayed great sportsmanship throughout the series. Wayne Crack, the Lions coach, did a dedicated, outstanding job for the provincial Mosquito silver medalists in 1971-72.

Doubts surround Bruins

BOSTON (CP) — Boston Bruins, acclaimed by many as the most talented team in National Hockey League history, may be earmarked for an early demise from Stanley Cup playoffs unless they can put their game together.

That's not to say the Bruins won't advance past Toronto Maple Leafs, whom they are on the verge of eliminating in tonight's fifth game of their quarter-final. The Bruins built a commanding 3-1 edge in the best-of-seven series by sweeping two games in Toronto, 2-0 and 5-4.

But the talent-laden Bruins are a team of inconsistency, an opinion shared by several team members.

"That's the first period of hockey we've put together in this series," said Phil Esposito, the NHL's leading scorer during the last two seasons. He scored 133 points this year.

He made the statement after the team returned Monday from its 5-4 triumph in Toronto, a game featured by the Bruins' four-goal third period that snatched victory from impending defeat.

"The Bruins aren't as good as they think they are," claims Leaf coach King Clancy.

"They get lucky."

LEAFS CARRY PLAY

Boston, despite its depth in scorers, has allowed the star-hungry Leafs to carry the play in the first four games of this series.

"You know things haven't been the way we'd like them to be," said Ken Hodge at Boston Garden where several players skated through a light workout Monday.

"Very few times this year has everything gone the way we wanted it to go."

"Ideally, we'd like every line to be going good every game. We'd want the goaltending to be perfect every game. We'd want our offence and defence to be balanced."

The Bruins, winners of the Prince of Wales Trophy as the leading East Division team for the second consecutive season, and the most prolific scoring machine in NHL history, know from experience that scoring isn't the end-all of hockey.

The 1970-71 playoffs still haunt them. Last year, after a 78-game schedule in which they rewrote NHL offensive records for a season, the Bruins ran into Montreal in the opening playoff round and the Canadiens, skating two ways, eliminated the heavily-favored division champions in seven games.

PLAY IMPROVES

"But I think we're getting to the point," Hodge said. "The last 10 minutes of Sunday's game showed that."

"Now, it's just a matter of keeping it going. I think that's no problem."

Coulter coaching runner-up

OTTAWA (CP) — Jim Donlevy of Alberta Golden Bears has been named 1971 Canadian Intercollegiate Football Coach of the Year.

His selection was announced Monday by Carleton University's Old Crow Society, an organization of football alumni which conducts a poll with Canadian college football reporters.

Donlevy won in a close vote over Frank Cosentino of the Western Ontario Mustangs. Cosentino's Mustangs edged the Golden Bears 14-13 in the Canadian championship game.

Donlevy guided Alberta to a first-place finish in the Western Conference with a 6-2 record in his first year.

Other finalists in the balloting were Bruce Coulter of Bishops in Quebec and Al Keith of St. Mary's in Halifax. The award will be presented at a dinner at Carleton April 15.

Previous award winners were Cosentino in 1970 and Henry Janzen of Manitoba in 1969.

Seek players

SHERBROOKE — The following is the text of a letter received from Gar Grainger, publicity director of the new Eastern Townships Touch Football League.

Dear Sir,
I represent the newly formed Eastern Townships Touch Football League, and am director of public relations.

This league was organized this winter and is now in the process of setting up rules and schedules, etc. We have already drafted a constitution and are having the league incorporated.

This league was organized by a group of people who have been playing unorganized touch football on a weekend basis and have now decided that it would be much more satisfying to combine these isolated groups into a well organized league.

The league is set up for people who cannot, or prefer not, to play tackle football, but who are still very much interested in playing touch. There is no physical contact in this game; that is to say, no blocking of any kind.

Anyone may play, providing he is 18 years or over before the first scheduled league game, and not a member of any other football team.

There are seven men per side, with a maximum of 20 players per team. There are presently four teams in the league, one from Richmond, one from Windsor and two from Asbestos. Also, it seems likely that there will be four teams in the Thetford Mines area which will comprise another division of this league.

Anyone who is interested in playing or forming a team should contact either the president, Mike Chabot, Box 41, Melbourne, telephone 826-2897, or myself, Gar Grainger, 116 Coulston Avenue, Asbestos, telephone 879-2634.

The season will commence in the middle of August and continue to November. With the four teams we will be playing 12 games in addition to playoffs.

Yours truly,
Gar Grainger,
Director of Public Relations

Fashion in the year 2000

PARIS (Reuter) — Fashion for the year 2000—when a girl's dress may be equipped with an electric beam to ward off men or entrance them—was presented here Wednesday in a science-fiction-style show put on by the French ready-to-wear clothing syndicate.

The exhibition, in the museum of decorative arts, stretches back in time to the Greek and Roman eras and forward to the 21st century. But styles for the future capture most attention.

Well-known couture and ready-to-wear designers, including Andre Courreges, Paco Rabanne, Emanuelle Khanh, Jacques Delahaye, Michelle Rosier, and Karl Lagerfeld, visualize fashions for the 21st century in terms of practicality rather than aesthetic styles.

These creators believe unisex fashions will prevail with built-in heating and air-conditioning systems enabling everyone to wear the same type of clothing regardless of climate or season.

The prototype designed by Michelle Rosier is a transparent one-piece jumpsuit equipped with insulated coils to control the body temperature.

LITTLE UNDERNEATH
The phosphorescent garment, worn over nothing but a pair of flesh-toned bikini pants, is designed with a transistor radio and telephone incorporated in the headgear.

Helmet will replace hair—every one will be bald due to insufficient nourishment—and women will conceal their "eggheads" with futuristic wigs made of raffia or wood-shavings after dark.

Christianne Bailly launches another science-fiction costume for women equipped with an electric beam centred over the navel intended to ward off prospective male assailants.

The ray can also be switched to an alternative current destined to attract an ardent suitor if a woman is in the mood for love.

SPRING FASHIONS

FASHION'S BIG SPIN-OFF — Cotton woven into neat black and white checks creates a travel-minded costume for spring fashion mileage. Maid of Cotton, Debbie Wright chooses the Bill Blass design for her all-cotton wardrobe to wear in this country and overseas on her travels for the cotton industry. Set off by a white schoolgirl collar and cuffs, the abbreviated jacket tops a short-sleeved dress with wrap skirt and button interest. (Background: At the textile mill, cotton is drawn out to final size on spinning frames and twisted into yarn before being woven into cloth.)
