NO RELIEF SIGHTED AS FIRE DAMAGE INCREASES

World News In Brief

Lausanne, Switzerland, Aug. 24.—(Reuters)—The United States yesterday proposed an international economic survey on the Middle East with a view to speeding settlement of the Arab refugee problem. Paul A. Porter, American commissioner at the United Nations Palestine conciliation talks here, made the proposal to his French and Turkish colleagues.

Prague, Aug. 24.—(AP)—The Czech cabinet yesterday named Foreign Minister Vladimir Clementis to head the country's delegation to the General Assembly of the United Nations scheduled to open in New York Sept. 20th.

Bonn, Germany, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Dr. Konrad Adenauer, chairman of the Christian Democratic party, said last night he will become chancellor (premier) of the new West German republic. He told a press conference his party will form a coalition government determined to maintain a free economy—without socialism. He said the exact makeup of the coalition cabinet had not been decided.

Liverpool, England, Aug. 24.—(AP)—The Bishop of Liverpool said yesterday Negro and oriental students arriving in Britain are being met at the docks by communist glad-handers. As a result, the Bishop said, many of them are "well on the way to becoming communist missionaries" when they start home to Africa, India and China.

Paris, Aug. 24.—(AP)—President Vincent Auriol was reported today to be ill with a feverish condition and kidney complications at La Pyla Surmer, where he is vacationing. A communique received at Elysee Palace said his condition was the result of prolonged over-exertion. It said Auriol required absolute rest in bed for some days.

Ipswich, Mass., Aug. 24.—(AP)—A 700-pound tuna, almost too big for their 15-foot outboard motorboat, was landed yesterday by two boys using a borrowed line and 15 cents worth of mackerel bait. The fish, hooked by Peter Viter, 15, and Ellis Hodgkins, 14, both of Ipswich, was the largest taken here this season. An adult fisherman helped to get the whopper ashore.

Hong Kong, Aug. 24.—(Reuters)—The national central news agency claimed today that nationalist aircraft sank two large river steamers—the Tean and the Minhsing—in operations yesterday over the Yangtze between Yeyang and Hankow.

Three other vessels were seriously damaged by bombs, the agency said.

Historic Atlantic Alliance Will Go Into Effect Today

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Washington, Aug. 24.—(AP)—The historic Atlantic treaty, allying 12 countries in defence of the west, goes into effect today at a White House ceremony.

The ceremony is scheduled for 12:30 p.m. From this hour onward the 12 countries, having formed their alliance under the threat of Russian aggression, will be formally pledged to strike back in case of an attack against any one of them.

Formal notice by the French government that it had ratified the treaty provided the occasion for the White House gathering. Invited to attend were top ranking United States officials and representatives of the 11 other countries which signed the treaty here last April 4.

Already representatives of these 12 countries are at work at the state department planning for the first meeting of the council of the Atlantic alliance. That meeting probably will be convened in Washington about the middle of next month.

3,000 Acres Of Bushland Are Swept By Blaze North Of Main Montreal Highway

Fires Take Heavy Toll In Lotbiniere Farmland Area

Quebec, Aug. 24.—(AP)—The rich farmland county of Lotbiniere on the south shore of the St. Lawrence river today continued to battle what appeared to be a series of isolated forest fires extending over a distance of 20 miles. Already 13 houses, two saw-mills, a school and two bridges have gone up in flames. Several villages were dangerously close to the fires which were being fanned by a stiff west wind.

Unofficial estimates placed the damage at more than $100,000. The saw-mills alone were valued at $30,000.

The fires in Lotbiniere county were located around the villages of Joly, Villeroi, Val-Alain, Dosquet, Notre Dame de Lourdes and Lyster.

Two houses were destroyed at Joly, three at Villeroi, two at Notre Dame de Lourdes and three or four at Lyster. A school was reported burned at Dosquet.

In addition a saw-mill at Villeroi and another near Notre Dame de Lourdes were reduced to ashes. It was not known how many farm buildings had been destroyed.

Arsonists Suspected In France

Two Hundred Fire-Fighters Keep Flames From Spreading To Houses North Of Little Lake Magog.

Paris, Aug. 24.—(Reuters)—Weary and dazed, after a three-day non-stop battle against the flames, villagers in the devastated pine forests near Bordeaux are gripped by "fire psychosis" and see an arsonist in every unknown person, Paris evening papers said today.

Armed peasants on guard against arson in the forests are "trigger happy" and one scared villager shot his best friend by mistake, it was reported. There were also attempted lynchings.

Firefighters and troops are hunched smouldering ashes and smoking tree stumps today to prevent a new fire-up of the disastrous fires which are known to have taken more than 80 lives.

Headquarters of Col. Jean-Marie Maruelle, commanding the fire-fighting forces in southwest France, announced that all fires in the Gironde department now were under control.

France went into official mourning today for the fire victims.

By government order, theatres, nightclubs and dance halls remained closed all day throughout the country.

Flags on public buildings were at half mast.

The 23 soldiers who died fighting the fire will be buried today. Tomorrow at Cestas, in the devastated forest land, the civilian victims will be given a national funeral.

The death toll has been put at 80 though more bodies are being found hourly in the smoke-blackened wilderness left by the flames. More than 100 people are missing, and one report assessed damage so far at 4,000,000,000 francs ($14,000,000).

Chief Telephone Lavoie, of Magog, who has been fighting fires for the better part of two weeks, is directing the battle against this blaze and so far has prevented it from reaching any of the farm houses scattered throughout the district.

U.K. Cabinet To Discuss Dollar Crisis

Victims Of Crash To Be Flown Out

London, Aug. 24.—(Reuters)—The Cabinet meets Monday to give Sir Stafford Cripps, Chancellor of the Exchequer, and Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin a final briefing on the crucial Washington dollar talks next month, but responsible quarters here expect no permanent solution to the problem.

These sources are certain, however, that Cripps and Bevin will not merely lay the sterling area's economic problem in the United States' lap, but will put forward positive ideas to solve the crisis.

The series of important Anglo-American meetings taking place in London this week is being linked by observers with the three-power dollar talks which open in Washington Sept. 7.

Lewis W. Douglas, United States ambassador to Britain, yesterday saw Bevin, who next week will accompany Cripps to Washington.

Paul G. Hoffman, economic co-operation administrator, arrived last night from Brussels after his fact-finding tour of Marshall-aid countries.

U.K.'s Social Security Program Keeps Taxes At A High Level

(Editor's note: Security is the keynote of Labor policy in Britain. The following article discusses some of its effects.)

By STUART UNDERHILL
Canadian Press Staff Writer
London, Aug. 24.—(AP)—A social security program that can sustain every citizen from infancy to death is the proudest monument erected by the Labor administration.

Many hands from other parties mixed the ingredients during the wartime coalition government, but the final pouring was done by Labor. Whatever their private views, Conservatives are pledged to accept the result should another election place them in office.

West Coast Fears Quakes

Terrebonne Heights Fire Controlled; 151 Fires Are Burning In Ontario

Vancouver, Aug. 24.—(AP)—A "quake fever" gripped the Queen Charlotte Islands today and elsewhere along the coast, people wondered: "Is there a bigger one coming?"

At 1:31 p.m. EDT yesterday British Columbia survived its second earthquake within 40 hours. Seismographs at Ottawa, Victoria, Seattle, Berkeley and Pasadena recorded it as "large."

The damage to property was too slight to mention. Like Sunday night's coastlength tremors—Canada's worst—the fury of the quake was somewhere out in the Pacific, far below the surface.

But the second quake had other effects: It scared people into a silent worry. Sunday night at Prince George, and other centres from Alaska to Oregon, people fled into the streets in near panic, shouting "Quake, quake."

Yesterday's new and weaker shocks caused no excitement. Instead, frightened farmers moved their cattle into the cities. The animals had felt the earth's shuddering, and were becoming nervous, unruly, and hard to handle.

Smoke Over The Townships

Bush fires north of the Montreal highway between Little Lake Magog and St. Elie d'Orford are casting a pall of smoke over most of the southern section of the Eastern Townships. The top picture shows a general view of the smoke rising from the tinder-dry bush north of the main highway while the lower picture shows some of the fire-fighters, almost hidden in smoke, trying to keep back the flames from the road-side home of Alvide Gaudreau. Terrebonne Heights Fire Controlled; 151 Fires Are Burning In Ontario

Terrebonne Heights, Que., Aug. 24.—(AP)—A sea of smouldering black earth girdled this town on three sides today but residents were wisely unpacking household effects and moving back into the homes they almost lost in a disastrous bush fire.

Until last night it was touch and go whether Terrebonne Heights and neighboring Pinecourt would be swept away by the flames that roared in from the west Monday morning.

Hundreds of army men and civilians battled for 36 hours before it was announced proudly late last night that the fire was under control.

Then the fire fighters—except for a handful of watchers keeping check of the embers—slept. No one was injured, although a number of houses and a garage in Terrebonne Heights were destroyed.

The fire started Saturday night near Ste. Therese, 10 miles to the west, in an army proving ground. After exploding thousands of "dud" shells Sunday, the fire drove eastward Monday and licked to the fringes of Pinecourt, a hamlet of 300, and Terrebonne Heights, a village of 1,500.

Soldiers were rushed in from Montreal, 35 miles to the south, and heavy equipment threw up earthen banks and cut down dangerous pine trees which might have spanned the guard road.

On Monday night, the fire leaped south of Terrebonne Heights and threatened the town from the rear. Although this fire was checked near town, yesterday it started to blaze toward Mascouche, a village three miles northeast, proposing a new threat.

Last night, this final danger was brought under control.

Toronto, August 24.—(AP)—Fire-fighters today took up the weary battle against flames sweeping Ontario's woodlands without the hope of help from the elements.

Scattered showers promised for yesterday passed over the northlands and the north-central Haliburton region, where the province's largest outbreak still burns unchecked, with scant effect. The official forecaster said only fine weather was in sight for all the wide fire area.

A rash of new outbreaks yesterday brought the total of separate

Chiang Bids For Support Of Warlords In Szechwan

Canton, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Chiang Kai-Shek today flew to Chungking in an apparent attempt to foil any secret agreements between warlords of Szechwan and the communists.

Chiang's flight apparently was one of great urgency. He postponed a meeting of the Kuomintang party's emergency council to make it.

Reds Reported Thrown Out Of Lantien, 70 Miles Northwest Of Yuhshien

In central China the nationalists presented Chiang with reports of successes. Chiang named a new army chief during the day.

IN HOLLYWOOD

by Erskine Johnson
NEA Staff Correspondent

ALAN LADD FINDS AN ACTOR'S LIFE MEANS MANY PROBLEMS

By ALAN LADD
(For Erskine Johnson, who is on vacation.)

Hollywood—Every so often I'm asked questions which are difficult to explain to those who are unfamiliar with the workaday schedules and long-range economic problems of a motion picture player. For example, I'm asked why I bother to maintain a ranch. The truth is that when I'm finally turned out to pasture I want to have a pasture where I can go.

In other words, the ranch is a bona fide business proposition for the raising and breeding of thoroughbreds. It isn't a luxurious toy. I'm merely looking forward to the future as any salaried man does in any job. Some day he's off the payroll and he hopes to have a place to retire and still pick up a few bucks to pay the grocery bill. I love horses and I want to spend those years around them.

There are other questions. Why do you have to think about the future when you make so much money? What do you do with all your free time between pictures? Why does a motion picture player employ a business manager and a staff of workers? Etc. Etc.

I know other players get the same questions and I'm certain that the same general problems confront all of us. I think the current misconception started back in Hollywood's early days when the public got the idea that a movie star lived a lotus-eating life. That may have been true but this is another generation and we've seen too many old-time players now struggling in "extra" roles.

Actors Are Like People
Basically, our motives are the same as any other fellow who works for pay and dreams of security. However, there are specialized situations in our line of work just as there are in other lines. For one thing, the success span of an actor is usually shorter by several years than that of another profession where age is considered an asset instead of a liability. Personally, I hope to keep on acting for many more years but why kid yourself? Most players have to quit long before they're ready to cash in their chips.

So you invest your savings in other businesses which should continue throughout your lifetime and will thus protect yourself and your family. Personally, I believe in putting my money into something that I know about, and I like to own it myself so that I can see what happens to it, can make decisions, can either succeed or fail on my own without turning it completely over to others to run.

I always like to own something tangible for my money—not a piece of paper. I may have to hold my possessions some day. For that reason, I don't take flyers in the stock market, don't buy wildcat oil or diamond-mining stocks. I know some people have been very successful with these ventures but it just doesn't happen to be for me.

That is why I bought the ranch. That's why I invested money in a radio transcription company. I know something about those lines and they're small businesses, not huge corporations. Not that I don't make mistakes. A year or so ago I decided a citrus and avocado grove would make a profitable side-line at the ranch. We planted some 300 trees. Last winter the whole grove died—it snowed in California! I know it's a cliché but I still think that the shoe maker who was told to stick to his last received pretty good advice.

No Rest For The Weary
Then there's the matter of "free time" between pictures. That's vastly over-rated. Recently I officially finished my part in Paramount's "After Midnight" and had a few weeks' rest before starting "Postal Inspector."

Actually, I was called back to the studio for added scenes, for advertising and publicity still photos, for interviews concerned with "After Midnight." Almost simultaneously, I was making preparations for "Postal Inspector." There were story conferences, wardrobe discussions and fittings, many other details which have to be worked out before a camera starts turning.

At the same time, you spend days between pictures catching up on answering fan mail, autographing photos and such. I enjoy looking over my fan mail and I believe that anyone who is kind enough to write me a letter deserves an answer. Although the secretarial work is handled by experts in that line, I insist on dictating my own answers and signing my own name to both letters and photos.

Then there are other demands on your time—reading scripts, appearing on radio shows, studying ideas for my "Box 13" radio transcription series, benefit performances, attending semi-social business affairs, personal appearances, judging contests and many more plus trying to be a good parent. It keeps you pretty busy.

GREAT CAUTION NEEDED IN WOODS

The forest and brush fires which are sweeping large areas of the Eastern Townships, in common with other parts of Eastern Canada, once again serve to stress the need for the greatest possible caution in the woods during the drought season. Some of these fires are inevitable, starting from natural causes, but the greatest portion of them result from the carelessness of man. A non-extinguished cigarette, a still-burning match, thrown away by a person in the woods may well start a fire which soon rages out of control and destroys wide areas of timberland and often threatening or actually destroying residential and other property.

Careful handling of fire in the woods is essential at all times, but the menace cannot be over-stressed in years like the present when rainfall is far below normal and the few showers which do come fail to provide any deterrent to the great ravager. The responsibility is a direct one for each and every person who travels in the bush and each must make sure that he, personally, takes every precaution.

The current outbreaks in this section of the country for the most part are in fairly settled areas with the result that the damage is likely to extend beyond the actual woods themselves and cause the loss of crops and farm-buildings and in one or two cases good-sized suburban developments. This makes it doubly important to bring these blazes under control.

Unfortunately, no concerted effort appears operating to bring about this control and the fire-fighting efforts are left largely to the individual upon whose land a particular outbreak has occurred. This non-co-operative attitude is rather difficult to fathom in view of the extended damage which may be caused by the spread of the flames. Government mechanical equipment may serve to delay the spread of the blaze for a period, but the only effective means of fighting brush fires yet developed is by the massing of manpower in the threatened areas.

FACING THE ECONOMIC CRISIS

Within the next few days, two senior members of the British Cabinet, Sir Stafford Cripps and Ernest Bevin, will open talks with high-ranking United States officials in an effort to iron out a situation which almost everyone agrees is unhealthy, delicate and even dangerous. As a result, all eyes are turned towards Washington.

There is danger of a serious rift or a dislocation between the United States and the United Kingdom. The danger of political repercussions to the economic difficulties is the reason for the presence of Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin, Cripps being charged with taking care of the economic and financial side of the picture.

A dislocation between the U. S. A. and U. K. would be a great victory for the Soviet Union. They are praying for that in Moscow. At the present time, the sterling bloc is the greatest trading area in the world. But South Africa wants to sell its gold direct to the United States, and New Zealand and Australia are showing signs of breaking away and going it alone.

The British government's commitment to socialism is a nut to be cracked. That they intend to stay committed to the hilt is taken from a speech by Lord Pakenham in the House of Lords, as official. He said:

"I can assure the House and the country that whatever discussions are embarked upon with our friends overseas and wherever they take place we shall on no account abandon fundamental principles which alone make it certain that our national effort will be the greatest of which our people and our resources are capable."

Thus Labor government leaders believe with all their hearts that socialism is best for the country, even if it drags Britain down to bankruptcy with the rest of the world. And that attitude won't rectify the huge imbalance of world trade, as reflected by dollars and pounds sterling.

FRENCH RAILWAYS RECOVER

One of the features of French life which appears to have most impressed travellers to that country this year is the efficiency of the railway system, not only as regards the restoration of tracks, bridges and depots, but the regularity of service. Canadians can take a share of the pride in this work, for locomotives built in this country just after the war are playing an important part in the moving of freight and passenger traffic over the French railways.

The commendation must be gratifying to the French Government when one considers the terrible destruction which the railway networks suffered between 1940 and 1944. At the time of the liberation, the German devastation, the air bombardments, the sabotage valiantly carried out by the railway workers to support the offensive of the Allies and the Free French Forces, had turned stations, tracks and equipment into a heap of ruins. The French country was split by the destruction of all the bridges over the Loire downstream from Roanne. The workable lines, 10,000 miles — as against 40,000 in 1939 — were reduced to a few isolated fragments.

But a few months later, electric transport was re-established. On May 1, 1946, almost the entire network had been brought into service again. On July 1, 1948, 2,491 bridges and viaducts of the 2,604 destroyed had been rebuilt. In the same period of time, the National Railway Society had cleared 67 of the 70 blocked tunnels and rebuilt 4,200 of the 4,500 miles of track destroyed and brought back into service 12,622 switch gears out of 14,040 demolished or removed by the enemy.

At the same time it had to reconstitute its rolling stock depot which had been so badly damaged, repair as quickly as possible all damaged equipment, recover what was being retained abroad and undertake once more on a big scale, the periodic work of maintenance which had been interrupted. And also at the same time, the freedom, the safety and the comfort of the traveller have reappeared once more.

French railroads carry very heavy passenger and freight traffic, and one Frenchman in 20 is employed in the service.

PRESS COMMENTS

COOKED MACKEREL

Saint John Telegraph-Journal
New Brunswick's coastal waters teem with mackerel, but this fish presents a problem. When it comes fresh from the sea it's one of the most tasty of all salt water delicacies, but it deteriorates rapidly. Its sparkling jewel-like colors turn dull, its flesh becomes unappetizing. Nothing is staler than a stale mackerel.

On top of this, fast-freezing doesn't preserve the eating qualities of mackerel the way it preserves those of most species, even though large quantities of mackerel are fast-frozen. Nor is canned mackerel very popular, at least on the domestic market, and very few of the fish have been canned this year.

How, then, can mackerel be marketed with the best return to producers? A possible clue lies in what is being done by some firms in Louisiana, where certain fish, highly perishable like mackerel, are being filleted, cooked for the table, and then fast-frozen. The fact that they are cooked before they are frozen has two advantages—first, this method of processing retains the flavor, and second, it lightens the work of the housewife and does away with any odor of fish being cooked in the house.

All the housewife has to do is thaw the pre-cooked frozen fish out and warm it up in a frying pan or oven. The elimination of the smell usually associated with the cooking of fish is important from a sales standpoint, particularly in this day of small houses and smaller apartments.

STRAITJACKET FOR CUPID

Ottawa Citizen
More intrepid than wise, the government of Czechoslovakia apparently intends to essay the impractical task of extending state regulations to affairs of the heart.

Newspaper advertisements whose principals seek marriage are under a cloud. Matrimonial agencies, where marriages are arranged through a judicious selection of photographs, can count their days as numbered. Rude Pravo, a Communist newspaper published in Prague, charges that such methods of obtaining a mate make of marriage "a capitalist business transaction." The practice, Rude Pravo assures its readers, will be eliminated.

Most men and women are in a better position than any government bureaucrat to decide how they should seek a mate. One lad may marry the girl next door, a maiden the boy she met in the dramatic club at college. Another may choose a "million-dollar baby in a five-and-ten cent store." Some think it wise to advertise. Affairs of the heart are unpredictable. For a government, or even an editor, to interfere in these matters demonstrates a reckless disregard for human nature. A government might be able to force down the throats of a sullen populace a law which determines how couples shall court each other. But in doing so, a state would store up trouble for itself.

At the same time, the reference to making marriage "a capitalist business transaction" is wholly irrelevant. In western countries a majority of young men go calling on girls with the words "I can't give you anything but love" on their lips. With marriages continuing at a normal rate, it is obvious that this unmaterialistic proposal often proves acceptable.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

And in mercy shall the throne be established: and he shall sit upon it in truth in the tabernacle of David, judging, and seeking judgment, and hasting righteousness.—Isaiah 16:5.

We may imitate the Deity in all His attributes; but mercy is the only one in which we can pretend to equal Him. We cannot, indeed, give like God; but surely we may forgive like Him.—Sterne.

Brave heart! Through all the years of strain
Your courage never faltered — flowed
Deep and strong like rhythm of a river
Whose depths are clean and strangely bright . . .
Flowed on and on.

In great distress to you I went
As wounded child unto its mother.
What wondrous words of love you spoke!
"This is what families are for."
Oh, Mary dear!

For you the host of friends; their warmth —
But when on lonely walks I hear
The soothing pines upon the hill;
Look up and up to latched leaves,
I've thoughts of you.

McKENNY ON BRIDGE

CALAMITY CONTRACT DOWN SIX TRICKS

There are some rubber bridge players who go along picking up a trick here and there, never making an unsound bid, never taking a chance. This type will win in the long run, but you will never find their game very exciting. It is a known fact to good rubber bridge players that penalties do pay off big.

H. S. Dinkelspiel, Jr., who used to be one of the outstanding players of New York, but gave up bridge for a good many years, gave me today's calamity hand. He told me he was going to do a little brushing up and come back into tournament competition.

When Dinkelspiel gave me this hand he said, "Mac, look the West hand over. South bid a heart and West bid one trump, and he took only one trick. Doesn't that seem unbelievable?" I said no, remembering the hand I wrote up several weeks ago where I held four aces and took only one trick. Here is how the play went on today's hand. Dinkelspiel won North's opening lead of the ten of diamonds with the ace. He returned the ten of hearts, West played the jack, North won with the king, and returned the five of hearts. Dinkelspiel played the nine-spot which was allowed to hold the trick. He continued with

Abundant Blueberry Crop Is Welcomed In Northern Quebec

By WILLIAM STEWART
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Quebec, Aug. 24.—(C)—An abundant blueberry crop is bringing a welcome jingle to the pants-pockets of unemployed in mining and lumbering districts of northern Quebec this year.

The harvest now in full swing, will probably produce more than 10,000,000 pounds of blueberries currently selling for about 16 cents a pound in the United States.

Some northwestern Quebec miners who have lost their regular jobs and northeastern Quebec lumberjacks, hard up for work, have taken to the berry patches for the $5 to $10 a day they can make there in the six-week season.

The blueberry season usually starts early in August, lasting until the first frost in September. This year the berries were ripe early, the last week in July, and a much better crop than last year's 9,286,077 pounds is expected.

The employment market in the blueberry zones spread from Abitibi along the St. Lawrence north shore as far as Sept Iles, 300 miles below Quebec, is affecting the picking population.

Two or three years ago, hundreds of family groups closed up their homes and moved into the blueberry country in trucks and carts for a profitable picking holiday.

This year more of the people in the tents and shacks set up in the berry patches are men without other jobs.

In Abitibi they get about $1.25 for a 17-pound basket they're able to fill three or four times a day. In Lake St. John the price is about $2.00 for a 22-pound box.

Pickers equipped with "combs," a mechanical picking device, work about twice as fast as people picking by hand. They fill five or six 22-pound boxes a day.

A week ago Quebec berries shipped to the United States by freight car were selling for about 22 cents a pound. The price for fresh berries is down by six cents a pound though Newfoundland frozen blueberries are still priced at 22 cents a pound.

Newfoundland is a bigger blueberry-producer than Quebec and ships all its berries frozen, sorted and packed in tidy paper-lined containers. Quebec province ships about 75 per cent of its crop by freight car to the United States where the bulk of it goes to canners and pie-makers.

There's no definite count of the number of pickers in Quebec. The lands and forests department issues permits to pickers who work on lands where there's a forest fire hazard. The department has issued more than 20,000 of these permits this year.

The Record Short Story

Air Conditioned

By CHRISTOPHER KING

Sergt. Gilman, the Bloodhound, led the two prisoners into the small room in the Rogers Park Police Station. I managed to bring up the rear in spite of the terrible heat, and in spite of the fact that I had spent all day taking care of the kids. Helen had sprained her ankle in the morning, and I became the hired girl, giving baths, cooking a hot supper in a 120-degree kitchen, running up to the attic that was hotter, to shut the windows for the 15-minute shower that only made things more humid.

Inside the room, Bloodhound shut the door, then closed and locked the window. The window had bars on it, there was no need for all this security. I moved over to turn on the fan, but Bloodhound waved me aside.

"I've heard you can go to hell only once," I said, "and I've been through it today. Why no fan?" "I like it this way," Gilman said, the sweat running down his face.

I sat down across from Sam and Louie, the prisoners, knowing that someday the heat wave would end, but wondering if I would be around when it did. As far as I was concerned, I didn't care if Bloodhound got a confession or not from one of them for the killing of Big Sam.

Big Sam ran the best Italian spaghetti parlor in Rogers Park. His two nephews, Sam and Louie, worked in the place, and the three of them gave us more trouble in the way of fights than any other joint in the district. They were always fighting.

On four different occasions, we carried one or two of them off to the hospital to be patched up. It was Sunday evening, Big Sam had been knifed sometime before five o'clock in the kitchen of the restaurant. The waitress coming on duty at five found him. There were no customers in the place.

Outside of a few unwashed spaghetti plates, no clues of any kind. The waitress called the station, and the boys picked up Sam and Louie, they were the only two people in the city who wanted Big Sam dead. Both had alibis, Sam said he was at a movie, and Louie said he was out fishing in Waukegan.

The boys tried to check the alibis. Sam was able to tell them the whole story of the picture, but when they invited the ticket seller and the ushers over to identify him, no one could remember seeing him. Louie said he had been fishing with some friend called Harry. He didn't know Harry's last name, and forgot where he lived. Swell alibis!

Bloodhound was called in, and he picked me up on the way to the station. If I had known he was going to question the men in a hot box, I would have sprained my ankle, too, and let the kids run wild.

Bloodhound started on Louie first. "Have a good day fishing?" "Yes." "How many did you catch? What kind?"

"Caught about fifty perch, me and Harry. Harry can tell you I was fishing." "Where'd you stop to eat?" "We didn't stop. Ate a mess of perch for lunch, and some more about six o'clock." "Where's Harry? Come back with you?"

"He'll be here. Soon he finds I got picked up. He drove me home." "You were never in Big Sam's place today?" "No. How about opening that window?" "Yeah," Sam chimed in, "it stinks. Open the window."

I could agree with Sam and Louie, but Bloodhound ignored the window business. How he could do it, I don't know. The back of his shirt was wringing wet. It was almost midnight, and I wondered if of the gases that it ejects. It is the reaction or "kick," as these gases are shot out, that drives the rocket ahead, so it would work better in a vacuum, like that in interplanetary space, than in the air, where there is some friction.

House, Barn Are Burned At Fitch Bay

A fire late yesterday afternoon destroyed the house and barn on the farm of Joseph Lavoy, of Fitch Bay. Cause of the blaze has not yet been determined. The Rock Island Fire Department answered the alarm and drew water from a nearby pond to fight the flames. Lavoy's two children were in the house alone when the fire broke out but both escaped uninjured. Nothing was saved from the house, but some farm equipment was recovered from the barn.

Two hoses poured water into the burning bush and kept the fire a few feet away from the back wall of the house. The Montreal highway for a two-mile stretch was shrouded in dense, acrid smoke and even in mid-afternoon passing vehicles had to switch on lights. This morning the situation was a little less tense, but with no relief sighted from the dry, hot weather, it was expected that the flames would spring up again during the afternoon. In Ontario woodlands, where more than 150 fires are burning, the weather also has been dry but a few light showers in northern regions gave promise of better fire-fighting conditions. Quebec's most active and merciless forest fire was in Lotbiniere county, 40 miles south of Quebec below the St. Lawrence where three villages are threatened. Late last night the fire was reported burning out of control, and spreading at a rate of about 10 miles an hour. At least 12 houses were destroyed, a school, two saw mills, and thousands of dollars worth in agricultural crops. A fire in resinous forests at St. Donat, Que., about 60 miles north of Montreal, forced two camps for girls and 15 cottages to be evacuated. Firefighters reported however, that the blaze was under control. In the area around Terrebonne Heights, 35 miles north of Montreal, the situation was reported "completely under" by army officers directing fire fighters. A fire spreading eastwards from Terrebonne Heights towards Mascouche was checked, the village of Pincoirt to the north was said to be out of danger. In the St. Maurice valley north of Three Rivers fire threatened to stamp out the small village of Lac a Tortue 10 miles south of Sherbrooke.

The spruce and fir blaze spread towards Almainville, four miles to the south. Summer cottages at nearby Lac Loranger were threatened until firefighters checked the tide.

(Catania, Sicily, Aug. 24.—(Reuters)—Sicily was shaken by an earthquake yesterday but no damage or casualties were reported. The epicentre was approximately 60 miles off Catania.

Police Have Inspected 652 Vehicles

Municipal police, since Saturday noon, have inspected 652 vehicles in connection with inspection week which is being held prior to "Accident Prevention Week." On Saturday police inspected 62 vehicles, Sunday 124, Monday 248 and yesterday 218. One hundred and fifty-two vehicles have failed to meet the standards but out of this number 30 have had their vehicles repaired and passed on their second test. Today on St. Francis Street, between Clemenceau and Hebert Streets, police will continue the inspection. Tomorrow they will inspect vehicles on Drummond while on Friday they will inspect on Victoria Street between Portland and Walton.

Cyclists are urged to ride carefully. Riding on the cross bar is strictly forbidden while riding a bike without holding on to the handle bars may look smart but it is very dangerous," the Chief added. Police ask that motorists, cyclists and pedestrians adhere to the traffic rules during accident prevention week and throughout the year.

Financial quarters in London today took it for granted that Sir Stafford would resist general devaluation of European currencies, including sterling, at the Washington talks. He would also resist unilateral devaluation of sterling, these quarters added.

There might be little difference between the two things. It has long been accepted that if sterling were ever devalued, nearly all European and sterling area currencies would promptly follow suit, through perhaps in varying degrees.

London financial quarters, however, said the pressure for devaluation might become irresistible. This pressure would be a result of the continued serious losses of Britain's gold reserves, rather than pressure from countries such as Belgium, Italy or the United States.

Significantly, there has been no denial in London of an American report that Britain's gold losses during this quarter have been at even higher rate than in the last quarter, or of the deduction by the same American source, that this might produce irresistible pressure for devaluation of sterling.

The two other major specifications of the treaty call for "self-help and mutual aid" and for the establishment of a council composed of representatives of all 12 countries which shall in turn set up a "defence committee."

Upon this defence committee and the military leaders working under its general direction will rest responsibility for developing a grand strategic plan for the defence of the western countries against Russia.

The defensive ranges from the plan must cover areas which the western tip of Alaska and the western coast of North America to the eastern borders of Norway in the north and to Italy in the south of Europe.

Toronto, Aug. 24.—A mid-air collision killed two pilots practising formation flying to thrill Canadian National Exhibition crowds but the navy planned today to go on with the aerial show.

Lt.-Cmdr. C. C. (Clunk) Watson, 27, one of the Royal Canadian Navy's top pilots, and Lieut. Charles Elton, 24, died late yesterday practising one of the stunts that the precision fliers will stage daily when the exhibition opens Friday.

Their single-engine Seafires, part of the exhibition squadron from the naval air station at Dartmouth, N.S., collided 1,200 feet over suburban Malton airport. The two wartime pilots, both from Toronto, plummeted to death in the wreckage. A navy spokesman announced several hours later that the squadron intended to go on with the show. Lt.-Cmdr. William Munro, 27, of Dunnville, Ont., the second in command, was appointed squadron commander to succeed Lt.-Cmdr. Watson, whose widow lives in Halifax. "The morale of the other boys is high despite the personal loss each feels," the spokesman said. "They are convinced the others would want them to carry on."

No Award Is Made Yet On Bond Issues

Technical difficulties continue to prevent the awarding of the bond issues totalling $1,000,000 for which tenders have been received by the City of Sherbrooke. Municipal officials and representatives of the Quebec Municipal Commission are still working to determine which of the eight bids received would prove most advantageous from the city's point of view and it is hoped that a decision will be reached by this evening.

The chief problem is provided by the fact that different groups used varying interest rates in making their bids. Short term maturities carried a lower interest rate than the long-term issues but the tenders disagreed among themselves as to what constituted short and long-term issues with the result that some were prepared to accept the lower rate for longer periods than were others.

Canon Gervais Dies At Sacred Heart Home

The death occurred this morning in the Sacred Heart Old Folks Home, of Very Rev. Canon Stanislas Gervais. His sudden passing was due to an attack of angina, from which he had been suffering for some time.

Father Gervais, who had acted as chaplain of the Sacred Heart Home from 1932 to 1942, was born in Saint Charles, Richelieu, the son of Noah Gervais and Malvina Dumais. He will be buried on Saturday, the day he was to have celebrated his seventy-seventh birthday.

A funeral mass will be offered for Canon Gervais at the Home on Thursday morning, at nine o'clock and tomorrow evening at 7:30 his body will be brought to Saint Michael's Cathedral, where on Saturday morning at 9:30, another solemn Requiem Mass will be celebrated. The interment will take place in the crypt at the Seminary of Saint Hyacinthe.

Canon Gervais, who pursued his studies at Saint Charles Seminary, was ordained a priest in 1897 by the late Most Rev. Paul Larocque. He was a professor and subsequently director of students at the Sherbrooke Seminary until 1910, when he was appointed parish priest at Racine. He left the latter place in 1925, when he was named parish priest of Weedon. From 1932 to 1942 he was chaplain at the Sacred Heart Home.

Canon Gervais was a most generous benefactor of the latter institution and in 1923 organized a campaign in aid of the Home. A few years later, in his own initiative, he started a campaign among the clergy and his personal friends, which he called "Croquettes de Sucre" for the old folks and children of the institution and always took an active part in the annual charities campaign.

Canon Gervais is one of the oldest members of the chapter of canons of the Shrine of Sherbrooke. Father Gervais is mourned by many nephews and nieces and personal friends in the parishes which he so well served and especially in Sherbrooke where many of his pupils remain to testify to superior qualities, and his priestly life.

Canon Gervais will remain an outstanding personality in the history of Saint Charles Seminary, and members of which institution are deeply grieved at his passing.

cluded, however, to let the delegate conference of the federation make a final decision Sept. 4. Observers predicted that the action might split the Finnish trade union movement wide open.

The unions exalted were the transport workers, the union of forestry workers and log floaters, the food industry workers and the building construction workers. Their combined membership was estimated by a government source at about 80,000.

A fifth striking union, the wood industry workers, was not included in the expulsion edict. A federation spokesman said they had not received the federation ultimatum to stop their walkout by Tuesday, but were given an Aug. 27 deadline to go back to work.

The executive committee also refused to sanction a strike scheduled by the bricklayers union for Aug. 27. As a result of the expulsions, social democratic workers are expected to form new unions. This cleavage may cost the federation some 40,000 members.

Prime Minister Karl August Fagerholm said today he regretted what had occurred but said the federation had shown patience as long as possible with the communist-dominated unions. Meanwhile, observers said they feared the communist would try to extend their strike offensive to the metal industry. This would endanger Finland's war reparations to Russia. It would affect shipbuilding yards in Turku and Helsinki which are delivering new ships to Russia. No one seemed certain how many workers still are out on strike. Estimates ranged from 13,000 to more than 30,000. At the peak of the six-day offensive, an estimated 45,000 were out.

Receipts Of Livestock Are Light Today

Montreal, Aug. 24.—(C)—Receipts were light on the two Montreal livestock markets today with 118 cattle, 114 sheep and lambs, 154 hogs and 112 calves being offered for sale. The late arrivals and the carry over from the first days of the week consisted mostly of cows and bulls plus a few light steers and heifers.

Prices in the cattle market were about steady yesterday with good cows bringing from $14 to $15, medium $12 to $13, common $10 to $11 and canners and cutters $8 to $9. Good bulls were sold from $14.50 to $15.50 and common $10 to $13.

Calves attracted no attention and there were no early sales registered. Hogs were also unsettled and there were no early sales registered.

at Bishop's College School, he held the rank of Lieutenant in the Cadet Services of Canada. In 1945 he retired from this post because of ill health. The high regard which Mr. Fisher held in the eyes of all with whom he came in contact is expressed in the following tribute by Crawford Grier, headmaster of Bishop's College School. "As cadet corps, gymnasium and boxing instructor, Mr. Fisher has carved a permanent niche for himself in our affections. I have never known so good a cadet corps instructor and I have known a great many."

An Old Boy of the School wrote: "I have been meaning to write to Bill Fisher because I was terribly sorry to hear of his illness, but I want to express something which I feel, and which I know is felt by many Old Boys. The Sergeant was to many of us, the first real soldier we had ever met, and the impression he created in our minds has been a vivid and lasting one."

Taking into consideration the number of B.C.S. Old Boys who are now officers or N.C.O.'s in the services, I can't help feeling that a great many people in Canada's armed forces owe, directly or indirectly, a tremendous debt to this splendid and unique soldier."

Chief mourners were his wife, the former Agnes Hope Wallace, of Lennoxville, and a son, Herbert Fisher who is now serving with the British Royal Army Corps. Pall bearers were Lt.-Col. F. A. Baldwin, a representative of the Old Boys, Lt.-Cmdr. H. Dehony and J. G. Patriquin, representing the school, P. D. Mathias, T. Jones, and J. Povey.

Among those attending the funeral were Mr. Justice William Mitchell, representing the School's board of directors, Stuart Saunders, N. Hemming, A. Loughheed, of Sherbrooke, L. F. Jenne, J. Snodgrass, P. Maclean, P. Pattison, F. D. Corbill, L. M. Watson, W. H. Bown, T. Bozer, J. Dewhurst, J. Lawrence, J. Winder.

forest fires burning in Ontario to 151. More than 1,800 men are fighting them. To protect the vast Algonquin forest reserve, Lands Minister Scott, of Ontario, clamped a ban on bush travel through the reserve. Main roads were left open. In the Haliburton vacationland 150 miles northeast of Toronto, Ironlake and other small communities remain cut off by the fire raging over 4,000 acres of mostly scrub timber. The fire was blamed for contributing to the heart-attack death of Roy Hanna, 60-year-old editor of Haliburton's Highland News believed to have over-exerted himself on a news-gathering tour of the fire area.

Two Toronto newspaper men reported being trapped nearly an hour yesterday on the 10-mile road between Ironlake and Minden. Telegram reporter Howard Somerville and photographer Albert Van reported that they drove along the road through "a tunnel of flame" after firefighters helped beat out flames around their car.

New northland fires were reported yesterday from North Bay to Timmins to Port Arthur. A crew of 400 fought 18 bush fires in 1,200 acres of timber around Sudbury.

Small wonder that professional men complain that they are bearing the financial burden of social reform. With an eye on this dissatisfaction, Henryang. The victories put the nationalists in a better position in Hunan than at any time since they lost the provincial capital of Changsha early this month. The good news arrived a day after Chiang flew into this refugee capital from Formosa.

Chiang's departure for Chungking on the first leg of an interior inspection trip was unexpected. He originally had set a meeting of the nationalist emergency council for today.

The lull continued on the Kiangsi-Kwangtung front northeast of Canton where the communists have come as close as 170 miles to this uneasy capital. The future of Canton depends largely upon the course of battle in that area where both sides are massing forces. The Reds are preparing an invasion of Kwangtung, Canton's province. The nationalists are setting up a counter-offensive.

In the far northwest, the Kansu provincial capital of Lanchow was reported still in government hands. The ministry of national defence said communist attacks were continuing but their losses were heavy.

DISCOVERY OF VACCINATION HAS PREVENTED MILLIONS OF DEATHS

By Edwin P. Jordan, M.D.
Smallpox now is fortunately rare in civilized countries. The fight against this horrible disease took a new turn in 1718 when Lady Mary Wortley Montagu introduced it to England and the practice of inoculation.

This was simply taking material from a pock or pustule of a person suffering with the disease and scratching it on the skin of a person (usually a child) who had never had smallpox.

This produced the disease in the inoculated person, but it was usually less severe and caused less scarring than if the disease had been caught in the usual way.

Jenner's Experiment
The greatest discovery came about 1796 when Edward Jenner, a country practitioner and son of a clergyman, in Gloucestershire, England, made his famous experiments on a boy, James Phipps.

Jenner noticed that the milkmaids did not seem to get smallpox even when almost all others in the community came down with the disease. He observed that most of the milkmaids had small scars on their hands as a result of a milk disease present on the udders of cows, called cowpox.

With pus taken from a pustule on the hand of a cowpox-infected milkmaid, Jenner inoculated James Phipps. This boy developed the usual changes of the skin which is characteristic of what we now call vaccination. Six weeks later Jenner inoculated young James with pus from a patient with smallpox and sat down to wait. The vaccination had "taken" and the boy proved resistant to smallpox. It was in this way that modern vaccination was born.

Since Jenner's classic experiment vaccination has proved its worth thousands of times and has prevented millions of deaths. Even today if a community has too many persons in it who have not been vaccinated recently, there is danger of outbreaks of this terrible disease of smallpox.

Q—My 80-year-old mother has had trouble with aching and stiffness in the muscles and joints since she had the flu last January. She does not seem to be getting better.

A—It sounds as if this were some form of "rheumatism" which had been brought on by the acute bout with influenza. Such things are quite common. There is a good chance that she will get over this difficulty although it may take longer than for a younger person.

Mr. Wedge, Mr. and Mrs. Reginald George and other members of their family were in Sherbrooke, on Saturday, to call on Mrs. D. H. Taylor, who is a patient in the Sherbrooke Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Bloomfield were in North Troy, Vt.

Mrs. Bloomfield is collecting for the Bible Society. The annual meeting of which will be held on August 30, in the Town-Hall, at Bolton Centre, where a sound picture will be shown, as electricity has been installed recently in the hall. Rev. Mr. Booth will conduct the meeting, and a good crowd is desired.

The children of Bolton Centre School, who have been attending the Mission classes conducted by Miss Bremmer, of Ontario, put on a fine program of Bible stories, songs and texts, with her help, and a good crowd of parents and friends were in attendance.

Mrs. Jankowski, of Potton, has entertained several of her Polish friends, of Montreal, for their holidays this summer. Those recently there included Mrs. Mary Graybala and son, George, Mrs. Podzamecki, Mr. and Mrs. J. Lech and family, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Sivick and family. History is repeating itself, as this house was used years ago by Mrs. Jersey for boarders and roomers.

Her Majesty In Regal Gown

The beautiful gown of white satin worn by Queen Elizabeth to the Senate during the Royal Tour will be on display at the C. N. E. It will be shown alongside the presentation of four centuries of Canadian fashions featuring costumes from the time of the early North American Indian women to the fashionable clothes of today. This exquisite gown with its pearls, its silver sequins and golden tissue will be displayed in the Women's Building. It will be on loan from the Public Archives through the Royal Ontario Museum. By bringing this beautiful gown to the Exhibition, it can be viewed at close range by hundreds of thousands of Canadians who might otherwise never see it.

Mr. and Mrs. George T. Little have returned to their home in Lower Ireland, after having spent some time with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. George, Conley Street, Lennoxville.

Mrs. F. S. Rugg, Quebec Street, with her house guest, Mrs. A. F. Byers, of Montreal, and Mrs. S. P. MacLagan, Victoria Street, attended the annual meeting of the Historical Society, held in Stantead, on Saturday.

Mrs. Jack Nutter and her daughter, Miss Mary Nutter, of Toronto, Ont., are guests of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Hovey, Vimy Street.

Master Stephen Steele, Melbourne Street, returned home on Monday, after having spent two weeks at Camp Kinkora, the Laurantians.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Davey, Walton Avenue, are leaving tomorrow on a motor trip to Jamestown, North Dakota, where they will spend a few weeks with their son-in-law and daughter, Dr. and Mrs. R. L. McFadden and family. Mr. and Mrs. Davey will visit other points of interest on their return journey.

Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Bauer, of Wilmington, Del., who have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jan Pick, at their summer cottage, North Hatley, returned home yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kittlisen, of Rock Island, Ill., who motored to Sherbrooke and spent a week at the homes of their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Wiggitt, Victoria Street, left Monday.

Mrs. L. E. Chamberlain, Monument National Apartments, returned home Sunday evening, after having spent two weeks in Outremont, the guests of Mrs. H. Blair and other friends in Montreal.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Hobbs, King Street, West, spent the week-end visiting their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Alex MacLachlan, at Beauharnois, on Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Hobbs, together with Mr. and Mrs. MacLachlan, motored to Hamilton's Island, near Cornwall, Ont., where they were guests of Mr. MacLachlan's brother-in-law and sister, Dr. and Mrs. L. A. Caldwell, and family, at their cottage, Pine Point.

Mrs. Catherine Nelson and daughter, Isabel, Stanley Avenue, have returned from a week's stay in Montreal, where they were guests of relatives and friends. While in the city they visited Mrs. Nelson's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. MacDonald, Clemenceau Avenue, Crawford Park, Verdun.

Friends of Master Bobby Brown, Brompton Road, will be pleased to know he is recovering satisfactorily following an appendectomy in the Sherbrooke Hospital.

Miss Doreen Cook was hostess at a shower recently held at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Cook, Island Street, in honor of Miss Audrey Spanswick, a bride-to-be of the month. On her arrival, the guest of honor was conducted to a chair decorated in pink and white and later a game of bingo was organized by the hostess, with attractive prizes for the winners. Miss Spanswick was then given a paper streamer and instructed to wind it as she went. The route followed brought her to a cache where an umbrella, filled with various gifts of lingerie, was waiting. The bride-to-be graciously thanked her hostess and her assembled friends for the delightful party and shower. Refreshments were served by the hostess, when the bride's mother, Mrs. Walter Spanswick, presided at the tea table, covered with a lace cloth and lighted with white tapers in silver holders.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Bennett and family, Durham Street, and Mr. Bill Matthews, Wellington Street, spent the week-end visiting Mrs. Bennett's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lowry, of Kinnear's Mills, and other relatives in Thetford Mines and surrounding district.

Mr. and Mrs. Evans C. Joslin, Howard Avenue, have returned from a motor trip to Lake Simcoe, where they visited Mrs. C. D. Falls, Master Warren Joslin, who had spent three weeks, at the same home, the guest of his aunt, returned with his parents, Mrs. C. A. Joslin, joined the party at Toronto, and returned to Sherbrooke with her family.

Mrs. A. M. Sangster, Quebec Street, returned Monday night from Fredericton, N. B., where she spent a few weeks visiting her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Whitehead, and family, and with them journeyed to Brackley Beach, P.E.I., for a week. Mr. and Mrs. Whitehead and their family returned to Sherbrooke, with Mrs. Sangster, and are her guests at her summer home, Shore Acres, for two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Spencer, of Seneca Falls, N. Y., who spent the week-end visiting the Misses Nellie and Ruby Bailey, Winter Street, left yesterday morning for Quebec City.

Miss Vera Hall, Bowen Avenue, returned on Sunday from Saint Catharines, Ont., where she was the guest of her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Hall. Miss Hall also visited Toronto and Niagara Falls, and spent a few days in Montreal, where she was a guest at the Laurentine Hotel.

Mr. B. N. Holtham, K. C., who has been secretary-treasurer for the Eastern Townships Golf Association for twenty-five years and still is, was honored by his friends and members of the association, on Sunday evening at the Country Club, following the annual tournament.

Prior to the distribution of prizes by the president, Mr. G. Miltimore, Mr. D. J. Salls, first president, made the presentation of a beautiful gold watch and a leather bound booklet, to Mr. Holtham, accompanied by expressions of appreciation of the members for valuable service rendered the association by him, during the past quarter of a century. The booklet contains testimonials to Mr. Holtham, and letters from all the past presidents, nine of whom were present.

A bouquet of red roses was presented to Mr. Holtham, by little Miss Annette Gagnon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Gagnon. Mr. Holtham, though quite overcome by the ovation, was equal to the occasion in responding to the speech made by Mr. Salls and in voicing the thanks of his wife and himself to the association for their thoughtful gesture.

Photographs were taken of Mr. and Mrs. Holtham with the past presidents.

Mr. F. E. Holtham, of Waterville, father of Mr. B. N. Holtham, was a guest at the event.

Miss Patricia Slattery, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick J. Slattery, Sherbrooke Street, attained her sixteenth birthday, on Sunday, August 14, and in consequence the guest of honor at a delightful birthday party, arranged by her mother, and held on the following Monday.

Fourteen little boys and girls, ranging in ages from five to seven, were invited by Mrs. Slattery and Patty, who presented the girls with flowers for their hair and the boys bells for a boutonniere. This immediately gave a festive air and a ring to the occasion.

The afternoon was all too short for the fun planned. The unwrapping of the lovely gifts, brought by Patty's little friends, took time also, and among them were fancy pencils in decorated boxes and pretty school accessories, as the news that Patty was to start school, in September, had got around the neighborhood. The house was trimmed with summer flowers and balloons, a cluster of the latter being suspended over the long tea table arranged for the older children, while the smaller tots were made comfortable at lower tables with matching decorations. The piece de resistance was the birthday cake, done in pink and white and provided by Patty's aunt, Mrs. H. J. Placey. A novel feature of the party was tiny individual birthday cakes centered with a pink candle at each plate. All the youngsters teamed up in the blowing with Patty, who with one vigorous blow extinguished the six candles on her cake and lights all around were out.

The young visitors were given the balloons for souvenirs of Patty's sixth birthday and as a consolation -- for the party was all over. Mrs. Placey assisted Mrs. Slattery in serving and amusing the children and Margaret Ann, Patty's little sister, was most helpful.

Miss Peggy Workman, of Montreal, a Sempron's bride-to-be, was the guest of honor at a kitchen shower given by her cousin, Miss Lucille Laberge, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Laberge, Queen Street, on Saturday evening.

The house was decorated with summer flowers, one corner of the living room being particularly bright by the arrangement of a table of white boxes, each adorned with a red rose, awaiting the

Silent Treatment Wrecks Marriage Smart Wife Develops Personal Resources To Combat Boredom

Dear Miss Dix: What can a woman do who is married to a man who bores her to death? My husband has no more conversation than a store dummy. Fortunately his occupation takes him away from home four years out of every five, but in the year that he is at home and we are thrown into each other's company for 12 long, weary months, it is well-nigh unupportable. I threatened to leave him the last time he was at home on account of his silence and dullness and he promised to try to be a little bit more entertaining, but after a feeble attempt lasting about a couple of days, he once more passed out into the silence. In what way can I save myself?

DOROTHY DIX

Answer: Well, Winnie, I should think that if you only had one year of boredom out of five that you could stand it for the sake of the cakes and ale you get out of matrimony. Enduring a husband who is short on conversation is a pretty easy way to pay for these. Nothing like as hard as working for them yourself would be. So I think that you would be regret if you divorced him for no other reason than that he was not a spellbinder. Especially as your sufferings are intermittent and you get a four-year respite from them.

I am not denying that to be married to a bore is a hard tribulation to bear. No woman's idea of a happy evening is to pass it with a man who has retired behind the evening paper and who only grunts when she asks him a question, and who by no device can be drawn into a real human conversation. Unfortunately, many women and many men are married to perfectly good husbands and wives who are models of all the virtues, but who are dull and tiresome and tedious. Perhaps their sufferings are greater than that of those who are married to entertaining villains.

All that is left the unfortunates who are married to bores is just to find some interest outside of their own homes. For the evenings they must spend at their own firesides, reading is an ever-present resource. And you can always turn on the radio. That will fill the gaps of silence.

But in marriage the ounce of prevention is always worth the pound of cure, and I urge all youths and maidens contemplating matrimony to put more stress on the companionable qualities of those they are picking out to spend the remainder of their lives with.

If I were a man going a-courting, the first thing I would notice would be the fine of conversation the girl carried. If she couldn't start topics herself; if she didn't read and think, and didn't know what was going on in the world and have lively opinions of her own; if she couldn't catch a joke on the fly and didn't get the subtle points of a story, why, it would be good night for me, and she would never see me more.

And if I were a girl and had to work like a coal-heaver to entertain a boy; if I had to pry him out of silences, and if he didn't have any interest in anything but the sports page and the comic strip, I would gently waft him into the outer air.

For I would know that I would yawn myself to death if I married him, and being bored to death is such a long and lingering and painful way to die.

Dear Miss Dix: I am a girl of 24. Mother and I have been discussing the problem of love. She claims that most girls would not marry if they knew all the obligations that the marriage entails. Why, then, do they marry? Most women do not marry, for children. They do not need to marry for companionship because they can enjoy the society of many interesting men without being married to them. Is it then, that they marry for a meal ticket or to avoid being classed as spinsters? I am to be married in a few months and my reason for marrying is that I love a man more than anything else in the world and want to belong to him. Am I so different from other girls?

WONDERING.

Answer: No, I think your reasons for marrying is the one that actuates 75 per cent of the girls who enter into the holy estate. It is the desire to be one with some particular man, to "belong to him," as you say, to work for him, to share his anxieties and to comfort and cherish him in sickness and in health, as the stately old words of the marriage ceremony put it.

No girl in this sophisticated age goes into marriage without knowing all that it entails. The modern girl is wise. Nevertheless, when some lad with a way with him comes whistling down her alley, she gets up and follows him to the altar.

I think very few girls get married nowadays for a meal ticket and still fewer for fear of being called old maids. Most girls can earn as good a living for themselves as the average man can offer and at work they like better than housework and baby-tending. And the bachelor girl is oftener looked upon with envy than with pity.

The Record will be pleased to receive any letters to this Dorothy Dix column. These will be forwarded to Miss Dix who will answer them as quickly as possible.

These disclosed an attractive assortment of kitchen utensils and modern gadgets for the new home. Miss Workman, a former resident of Sherbrooke, was overjoyed at meeting so many of her friends and voiced her thanks for their beautiful gifts.

Refreshments were served later from the dining-room, where the tea table, covered with an exquisite lace cloth, was centered with multicolored gladioli and bachelor buttons, flanked with pink tapers in silver holders.

The guests included: Mrs. Austin Workman, mother of the bride-elect, the Misses Isabelle and Shirley Workman, her sisters, Mrs. G. O. Prefontaine, Miss Gertrude Workman, Mrs. W. F. Steele, Mrs. Alfred Fontaine, Mrs. Rene Dionne, Miss Margaret Steele, Mrs. F. E. S. Shelley, Mrs. O. Dionne, of Magog; Mrs. Norrey Price, Mrs. Paul Talbot, of Waterloo; Miss D. Labrosse, Mrs. Frank Conway, Mrs. R. G. Keeler and Miss Evelyn Dionne.

ROCK ISLAND

When the Border Community vacation school was held at Derby Line in July, one class of boys and their leaders, Rev. M. Cobb, Rev. McKinley Rose and Mrs. A. Aldrich, devoted one week at the Holmes Memorial Park, at Rock Island, and a 12 x 12 sand box was built and with the help of three volunteer men they built two swings. These activities aroused the interest of the village and men of the community have volunteered and have been working late afternoons and evenings, after their day's labor is finished and have built an additional two swings and four teeter boards. Employees of the Municipality of R. I., under the able direction of their chief, Mr. A. Bliss, have made considerable improvement by cutting down the brush and burning stumps. They have also been filling in the swampy section of the land. The town is planning to paint the two skating rink buildings, the rink boards, and to build a fence around the river, the latter for the protection of the children who play in the Park. The volunteer men are at present busy digging a ditch at the end and along the side of the standard size skating rink to serve for drainage purposes, as last winter there were times when hockey games had to be postponed due to water on the ice. This four acre piece of land was donated to the Municipality a year ago by Mr. W. Holmes, of Stanstead, to be used as a play ground and recreation centre. The materials for the sand box, swings, and teeter boards were donated by local business firms. The town has many plans in mind for the future of this park, when finances permit.

Miss Helen Haselton, R.N., of Ste. Agathe, spent a day with her sister, Mrs. T. W. Tyson, and Rev. Mr. Tyson.

Misses Joan and Joyce French, are spending the month of August with their grandmother, Mrs. E. French, at South Barnston.

There Is Fun For Everybody At The Ayer's Cliff Fair

Horse Show By Sherbrooke Riding And Driving Club Will Be Feature Of First Night At Ayer's Cliff Fair

Something new and compelling has been added to the feature presentations at the Ayer's Cliff Fair this year, that of an exciting and complete eleven-class horse show to be presented by the Sherbrooke Riding and Driving Club opening night, Thursday, before the grandstand.

The local touch will be noted in this show which will boast the performance of some of the top mounts in the country—mounts trained in show and winner of countless prizes throughout the province, King Peavine, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Roland Dugre, will be on hand, with trainer Aime Choquette up, to take part in tomorrow's performance.

The saddle classes are expected to be filled with a high-standing selection of entries competing for ribbons.

The hunter classes will find R. L. Bishop riding his winner Hi-Boy across the border to bring back to the Townships many victories.

The show will get underway at 7:30 p.m. and will cover the many aspects of show entertainment, with jumping classes and hunter classes, highsteppers, harnesses, children's pony classes and saddle classes.

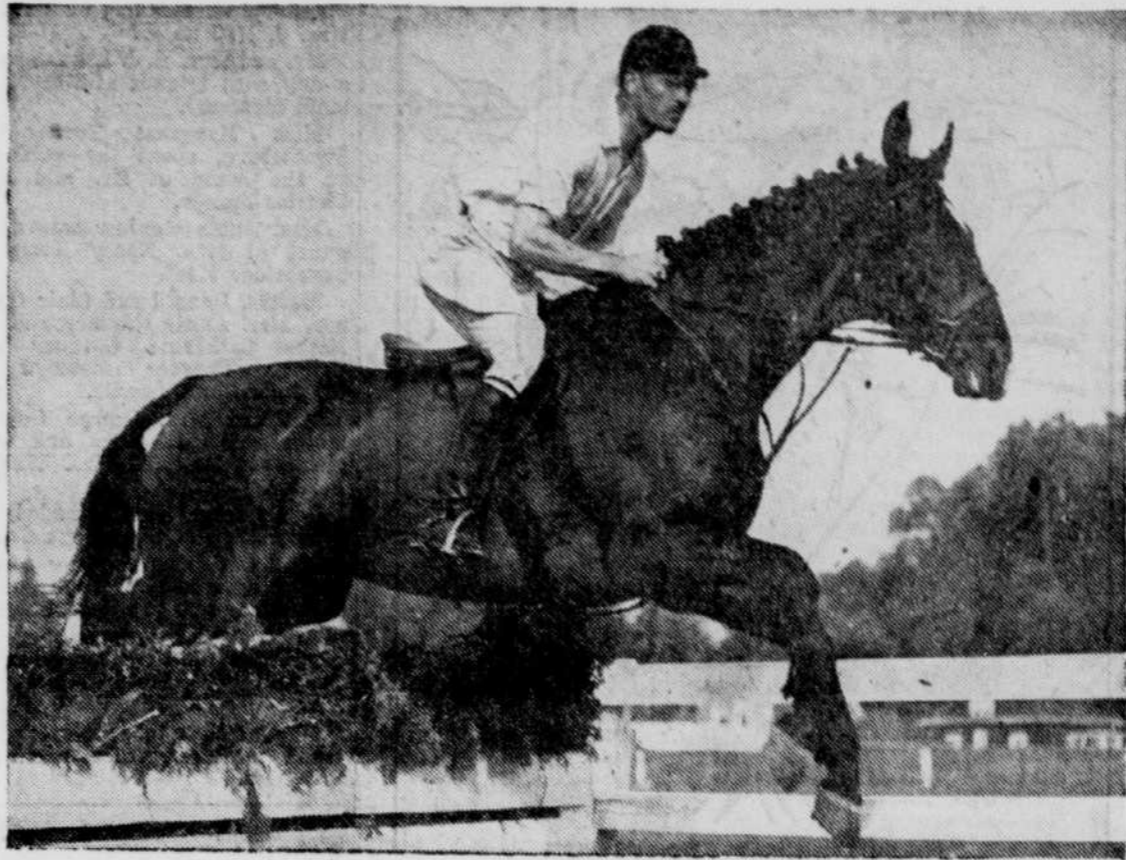

Three gaited saddle champion of the recent Barton, Vermont, Horse show and winner of countless prizes throughout the province, King Peavine, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Roland Dugre, will be on hand, with trainer Aime Choquette up, to take part in tomorrow's performance.

To Appear At Ayer's Cliff

Hi-Boy, R. L. Bishop's big bay hunter, is pictured above clearing a hunt course hedge, owner up. This outstanding local mount will take part in the Ayer's Cliff Fair Horse Show Thursday evening. Already winner of many hunt classes; top hunter in the recent Fairplay Show, having taken firsts in both hunt classes; and, teamed with a Montreal entry, top Fair Hunter winner of the Hudson Heights Horse Show, Hi-Boy will offer stiff competition to all hunter entries.

Swimming Project At Lake Salem, Derby, Is Now In Its Final Week

Derby Line, Aug. 24.—This is the second week for the boys and girls of Derby and Derby Line at the Frontier Swimming Project at Lake Salem, Derby, and the final week for the summer. Thanks to very hot weather, the first weeks were highly successful; last week a very much smaller group turned out, owing to the change in weather.

This will be the last opportunity for this year for the local young people to get their training in swimming and water safety until next summer, and it is hoped that there will be a good crowd at the Public Beach every day. Miss Gwenn MacHarg, Mrs. Ann Aldrich, Fred Holland and David Wood will be on hand to give the children their lessons and tests, and to award the certificates to those who pass the examination.

The sudden change to cold weather last week kept many youngsters away from the beach; but with more reasonable weather this should turn out to be a much more successful week. With a number of boys and girls already to take the various tests, there should be many there to finish their training for the summer.

The treasurer, Gordon Petrie, has been away on vacation, but the returns have been coming in very slowly, and there is no where nearly enough cash on hand to defray the expenses. Those who have not already donated, are asked to send their contributions as soon as possible to Gordon Petrie, Royal Bank of Canada, Rock Island, Quebec.

of music and recitations were presented. Mrs. George Parsons, of Bury, gave an inspiring talk on the theme "Mother's Influence." Mrs. Parsons was thanked by Mrs. William McLeod. Rev. A. E. Godwin was present and made a few appropriate remarks. The program was closed by the singing of "God Save the King."

Mrs. Lindsay Groom has returned home from Napanee, Ont. Mr. Wallace Coates entered the Sherbrooke Hospital, where he was accompanied by Mr. Lindsay Groom.

HOW IT'S DONE

If no presidential candidate receives a majority of the electoral votes, or if there is a tie, the House of Representatives chooses a President from among the three candidates who have stood highest in the electoral vote. Each state has one vote.

RAMBLING ROUND THE BORDER

The recent accident at Derby, in which four cars were badly damaged, and two persons seriously injured, makes an added point to the remarks in this column last week about safe driving. It might well be added that the recent covering of the road from Derby Line to Derby was at least partly responsible for the accident. The combination of tar and gravel is such that the road is slippery even when dry, and just about a skating rink when it is wet. Actually it is an unusually dangerous highway, and unless something is done about it very soon, it will be the scene of many more accidents before next spring. The writer hates to think what this road will be like after a freezing rain or sleet! It will be almost impassable, if left in its present condition.

While at the scene of the accident last Thursday afternoon the writer saw four cars taking completely unnecessary chances on this slippery highway. In all cases, they passed another car on the top of a hill. It was also noticeable that many drivers paid little attention to the people who were attempting to slow them down so that they could pass the accident without being involved themselves. One of the officers was nearly run over more than once! It is odd that so few drivers realize what a potentially murderous weapon they have in an automobile. It is a tribute to the manufacturer that cars can be so badly smashed up and the passengers escape with their lives in so many accidents. The slogan: "Drive Carefully, the life you save may be your own," is still good common sense, and it is still true that you must drive for the other fellow as well as for yourself.

Percy Proctor, of Babylon, N.Y., gave a different and fascinating talk about the problems of the deaf child at the meeting of the Rotary Club of the Boundary last Monday at the Del Monty Hotel. Telling the story of his granddaughter, he told of the work and effort needed to make it possible for a deaf child to lead a normal life. Thanks to a clinic in Los Angeles, founded and maintained by Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Tracy, it is possible to get advice and help on this problem, and Mr. Proctor said that the help was really fine.

The deaf child can be taught to read lips, to speak, and to understand, but it is a long hard job, that tries the patience of both the teacher and the child. Progress can be made, however, and the resultant rewards make the effort more than worth while.

Mr. Proctor was introduced by David Goodell, and thanked for his talk by William Daily. Announcement was made that the club was planning to attend the 25th Anniversary meeting of the Newport, Vt., club on August 29th.

Notes: Leland Wood has returned to his duties at the U.S. Customs after a vacation. R. A. MacLeod is having a vacation from the U.S. Customs this week and next. Mr. and Mrs. Earl Heath, children Donald, Marilyn and Carolyn, accompanied by Mrs. Heath's sister, Mrs. Harry Jipner and her son, Gary, are spending a few days at Hampton Beach, N.H. Mr. and Mrs. Giles Wilson, of West Lebanon, N.H., were visiting relatives in Derby Line last Sunday.

Ayer's Cliff Fair this week; Sherbrooke Fair next week; Labor Day almost here; the Boundary Rotary Fair just a few weeks away—Fall is upon us, and wintry winds will be chilling our ears before we know it! Anyhow, we had a hot summer.

WATERLOO

The death of Miss Mary Wallace Brooks occurred at the home of her sister, Miss Margaret Brooks, Eastern Avenue, Waterloo, on Tuesday, August 16th. The deceased was the granddaughter of the late Honorable Samuel Brooks, Conservative member of parliament for Sherbrooke, and a great niece of the late Judge Brooks, member of parliament for Sherbrooke. Miss Brooks was an authoress, poetess and playwright, who won national prize and fame for her poetry and one act plays. She was on the executive committee of the Montreal Branch of the Canadian Author's Association. The burial will take place from Tees' Montreal and interment will be in the Mount Royal Cemetery, Montreal.

With the pensioning of the present post master, Mr. Ovilla Jolin, the position has been filled with the naming of Mr. Bernard Ledoux, to this office. Mr. Ledoux, an R.C.A.F. veteran of the last war, is a life-long resident of Waterloo, and is a young and ambitious young man. He had many friends, who congratulate him on being selected to this important position.

The Canadian Legion B.E.S.L., Branch No. 77, has lost one of its most ardent supporters in the death of Frank Melaenen, in the Queen Mary Veterans' Hospital, on Sunday, August 14. Mr. Melaenen worked for the good of the Legion, and no job was too difficult or too tiresome for him to tackle. His needle-point work, which received acclaim from far and near, was always a great attraction as door prizes and special awards. The deceased was buried on Wednesday afternoon from St. Luke's Church, Waterloo, with Rev. Harry Andrews officiating. Many veteran friends and comrades were out in silent tribute to a soldier, who worked for other soldiers as best he could.

A'S SPLIT TWIN-BILL WITH GRANBY; SAINTS HERE TOMORROW

Johnny Rabe Homers To Give Locals Ten-Inning 3-2 Win; Bases On Balls Proves Howitz's Downfall In Second

Sherbrooke Athletics split their doubleheader with Granby Red Sox last night, winning a ten-inning decision 3-2 and dropping the second 4-3, and ruining a wonderful chance of closing on their opponents for second position. The split left the locals two and a half games behind Granby and seven and a half behind the league leading Drummondville team.

In the other games the Braves of St. Johns took the count of Stan Breard's pace-setters by the tune of 9-6 while Farnham and St. Hyacinthe battled through ten innings before the Black Sox managed to shove across four runs in the final frame to cop the tilt by the score of 7-3.

ST. HYACINTHE HERE TOMORROW NIGHT

The Saints will move into town tomorrow evening to tangle with the Athletics at 8:00 at the local ball stadium. This evening all teams will switch places and engage in again. The locals move to Granby, Drummondville goes to St. Johns and Farnham will pay a visit to St. Hyacinthe.

Last night John Rabe, the Athletics' chunky outfielder, proved the big gun in the first tilt when he lifted one of Duke Duperron's pitches over the fence in the tenth to break up a 2-2 stalemate and give Bill Brandt a well earned victory.

The first game was scheduled as a seven-inning battle but when the teams were knotted at 2-2, at the end of the seventh, it was forced into extra frames to decide the winner and the second was played as a seven-inning game.

Brandt worked the distance for the A's and gave up only six blows but he issued five free passes to first and retired three men. For the Red Sox Duke Duperron was tabbed with the loss. He gave up eleven safeties, whiffed four and presented three passes to the initial sack.

Sherbrooke moved out in front in the second frame when they bunched three hits, coupled with a base on balls, to tally a run. The A's muffed a wonderful opportunity to increase their lead but Johnny Stevens went down swinging to end the short-lived rally.

In the following frame Eddie Thomas banged out a lusty double to start proceedings. Was moved to third when Claro Dunay flied out to right field, and came racing home after Garcia went out in the same manner as his countryman, Duany.

In the fifth Granby came to life and Jako, the Red Sox centre fielder, banged out a round-tripper to put Gene Olivier's men back into the picture. In the seventh they added another when Jako singled, and went to second when Garcia's throw got away at first. He moved to third on Dube's passed ball and came home, when Rosato flied out, to knot the count 2-2.

In the sixth the locals muffed a good chance of winning the tilt when they had men on third and second with only one away, but Taillefer and Brandt went out, third to first to end the frame. In the seventh they had another opportunity but passed it up. In the first extra frame Granby looked as though they were going to come through but Brandt kept things under control and held the Red Sox away from the plate.

Johnny Rabe homers in the eighth and ninth the locals moved into the picture again. Duperron held on and kept them away from home plate. In the tenth Garcia went out short to first and then Johnny Rabe stepped up and banged out the first pitch over left field fence to give Brandt and company a hard earned victory and break up the 2-2 stalemate.

After a twenty minute delay the second tilt opened with Bill Howitz on the mound for the locals and Stan Paul Tetreault working for Granby.

Howitz started off by giving his first two opponents free lifts to first. Olivier flied out to centre field, but Kims was given a walk to fill the sacks. Joe Montero banged out a single and in came two runs for an early lead. Howitz then issued another walk to Huber, but Rosato went out at first to end the inning.

In the third the visitors picked up another hit and another in the fourth. In the sixth they nicked Howitz for two, but all this time the locals came through with some nice fielding to keep them off the score sheet.

In the third the A's tied up the game when Dussault singled. Stevens then drew a walk and Thomas sacrificed them both along. Duany drove in the first run, and when Garcia banged out a double Ste-

"Sport Shots and Pot Shots" BY LEN O'DONNELL

Don Doe, the boy from Granby with the grooved swing, once again proved that he is tops in the local club-swinging circles when he came through to win the Eastern Townships golfing crown for the second consecutive time.

Don moved out in front Saturday afternoon when he posted a 72 to pace the 104 entrants, a record for the tourney, and was never headed from then to the finish. On Sunday he shot two 71's to maintain his early established lead. Gerry Huot edged out Willis Kirby, both had 237 for his 54-holes.

On Saturday the boys had to face a stiff breeze, which at times gave the players more trouble than you can shoot a stick at, and some of the low handicap players were working hard to break a 100. In fact some were very close to the century mark.

Talking to some of the golfers after the tournament they claimed that they never had played under such conditions and were completely baffled. They found the green hard to figure and some of the up-hill and sloping lies on the fairways were pretty tough to fathom and got them into plenty of trouble. One player who has competed in Montreal on all their courses rated the local course one of the hardest to play under those conditions.

On Sunday the boys had a easier time, with wind out of the way, and some of them turned in some very good scores but Don Doe was too far out in front for anybody to catch him. Don finished with the same total as last year, when he edged out Roland Brault by three strokes.

After watching Don in action over the week-end it would seem to me that it will be a few years before anybody comes along to knock him off the top perch. There is no question in my mind regarding his ability on the links.

Sunday morning he started off with a 7 on the first hole but from there he went on to finish his nine with a 37, two over par. He has the knack of applying the pressure when he has to and every shot is well studied before he makes a move, and that is what counts.

There should be no doubt in anybody's mind that Don Doe is a worthy champion of the Eastern Townships and is a perfect gentleman, on and off the links. So Don on behalf of the golfing fans of the district congratulations for your recent achievement. You are a champion of whom your club should be well proud.

If we can judge from the actions Monday evening at the Parade Grounds following the games of the Sherbrooke Industrial Softball League I would say that they are past the boiling point and are due to explode anytime.

Why some players take it upon themselves to lay down the law in their own fashion is beyond me. I understand that everybody is on edge, but just the same that is no excuse for players going around "rabbing the officials and pushing them about. These tactics have a tendency to ruin the league and in my opinion the players should be punished accordingly. Imagine what would happen in the different leagues throughout the country if everybody took it upon themselves to deal with the umpires. It would end up with only players and no officials. If any league is to be successful then there must be strict discipline throughout and the league officials should see that it is maintained, and in my position as chief umpire of the league I am going to see that it is done. In my opinion I see no reason for such actions.

Royals Split Twin-Bill With Inter-City Rivals

Pitching records sometimes are no criterion of the value of a hurler.

Take the case of Mike Schultz. Schultz had a 2-8 record for Syracuse Chiefs, gained mostly in relief roles with the pennant-contending Rochester Red Wings who purchased him some time ago.

However, manager Johnny Keane liked the way the southpaw worked against his Red Wings and planned to use Schultz as his No. 1 relief pitcher but it looks as if Mike's bull pen days are over.

Schultz started and beat Jersey City last week and last night, in his second start, he turned back the pace-setting Buffalo Bisons 7-2 on a neat six-hitter. The victory enabled the second-place Red Wings to pull to within 3½ games of the Bisons.

Rochester has found the Bisons easy pickings. The victory was their 12th in 17 meetings with Paul Richards' entry.

Catcher Johnny Bucha and shortstop Al Stringer paced Rochester's 14-hit attack against Alex Carrasac and three relief tossers. Bucha strangled a pair of homers and Stringer clouted four doubles to set a modern International League scoring record.

Syracuse pounded out a 16-9 triumph over the third-place Jersey City Giants. The Chiefs concentrated their scoring in two innings, the sixth when they tallied six runs and the eighth, when they scored 10. Frankie Drews and Ray Lamanno with three blows each led the drive.

Toronto Maple Leafs maintained their one-game, fourth-place edge over Montreal Royals by dividing a twin bill with their Canadian rivals. The Leafs won the opener 8-5 with a six-run, seventh-inning rally but lost the finale 7-3.

Bill Glynn featured the Toronto triumph with a grand slam homer off Johnny Van Cuyk. Clarence Podbielan checked the Leafs on eight hits in the wind-up.

Baltimore Orioles came from behind and nipped the tail-end Newark Bears 8-5. Homers by Butch Woyt, Ken Wood and Jeep Handley wiped out a 5-0 Newark lead.
